A PRETTY JUNE WEDDING.

Snyder the Contracting Parties-

An event which has been one of more than ordinary interest to the many friends Pioneer Society was held at the Presbyof the happy participants, was the wedding Tuesday evening of Miss Clara Vee was largely attended although there were Snyder, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. not more than a dozen present from this R. A. Snyder, to Mr. Otto Henry Hans, section. It was a delightful day for such editor and manager of the Washtenaw Daily Times, Ann Arbor. The happy event took place at the home of the bride's parents on McKinley street, Tues day afternoon at 5:80 o'clock, and was witnessed by a company of over 100 of

It being Miss Snyder's 21st birthday anniversary, the desorations throughout were pink and white. The bower in which the ceremony took place was formed of ferns and pink and white carnations, and the dining room and table was elaborately trimmed with smilax and American Beauty roses, a large jardiniere full of these beautiful smelling flowers being placed in the center of the table.

The bride was dressed in an elegant gown of white silk trimmed with Duchbridal roses. She was attended by Miss Edith Keegan, of Grand Rapids, whose dress was of pink crepe du chene trimman was Mr. Raymond Hornung, of Grand Rapids. The ushers were Mr. Harold S. Campbell, of Napoleon, Ohio, and Mr. Ralph S. Holmes, of Chelsea.

room to the strains of the Wedding March from Lohengrin, played by Prof. bon girls, Miss Vesta Welch, and Miss Marjorie Freeman, who were dressed in white, following whom came the Rev. E. E. Caster; next came the groom upon the arm of his groomsman; the maid of honor, Miss Edith Keegan, of Grand Rapids. The bride entered last alone, and proceeded to the bower, where a simple but impressive ring service was performed by Dr. Caster. The service was closed with the Mendelssohn Nuptial March played by Mr. Renwick.

After the ceremony an elegant wedding supper was served in the dining room. During the evening Floyd Ward sang Beloved It Is Morn."

The wedding presents were numerous, elegant, useful and costly. They embraced cut glass, hand painted china, a beautiful clock, an oil cook stove, handsome linens, etc. One of the prettiest being a beautiful collection of spoons from the members of the Methodist church choir, of which Mrs. Hans has been the organist. The groom's gift to his bride was a ring of pearls and diamonds.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans have gone on a two weeks' wedding trip to New York, Washington and other eastern points. They very cleverly evaded the intentions of their young friends to give them a great send-off at the train, by giving out their intention of leaving Chelsea by the train that goes east at 9:10 p. m. Instead of doing this they sent their traveling cases forward in the morning and just about the time they should have left for the depot they got into A. R. Welch's automobile and were spirited away to Ann Arbor. There they again evaded a party of their solicitous friends by taking the midnight train for their trip.

The best wishes of a host of friends accompany Mr. and Mrs. Hans in their future journey through life.

Ypsilanti Yesterday.

The annual meeting of the Washtenaw terian church, Ypsilanti, yesterday. It a gathering and everybody seemed pleased to be out and meet with their old friends once again.

The morning session was opened with scripture reading and prayer by Rev. R. K. Wharton. President Graves made a the relatives and intimate friends of the few welcoming remarks and then the society got down to business. Secretary Campbell read his annual report. Treasurer O. C. Burkhart reported an expenditure of $1.50 for the year and a balance of $54.73 on hand. W. H. Lay, the necrologist, read his report which was somewhat incomplete owing to his having been ill. It showed 132 deaths of pioneers during the year, 71 men and 61 women. Some excellent music was rendered during the session.

At noon an elegant dinner was served by the ladies of the Presbyterian church, esse lace and carried a bouquet of white to which over 200 sat down and did full justice.

The afternoon session was occupied with a paper on the life of Judge J. Wilmed with cream lace. She carried a lard Babbitt, of Ypsilanti, by Judge Harshower boquet of sweet peas. The best riman, of Ann Arbor; "Some Recollections of Early Sharon," Rev. C. T. Allen, of Ypsilanti; an address from Dr. Daniel Putnam, and short speeches from several of the members. Selections of vocal and The wedding party passed into the instrumental music were also given, and particular mention should be made of the the excellent singing of the Normal male L. L. Renwick, of the University School quartet, Prof. Jas. L. Sage, of Ann Arbor, of Music. It comprised the two little rib- and Frank Clark, of Saline, and the fine playing of Mrs Riley.

The nominating committee named Sa ine as the place for next year's meeting. For officers the following: President, E. W. Hunt, Saline; secretary, Robert Campbell, Ann Arbor; treasurer, O. C. Burkhart, Chelsea; necrologist, W. H. Lay, Ypsilanti. The committee also named a full board of vice presidents and an executive committee.

The meeting adjourned after the pronouncing of the benediction.

Junior Stars at Stockbridge.

The Junior Stars won from Stockbridge High School at that place last Saturday by the score of 15 to 2. The game was a good one although very one sided as the score indicates. Only four Stockbridge boys saw third base and only two reached the home plate. Rogers, who pitched for the Stars, was in the finest kind of form and 18 Stockbridge men fanned. A double play by Cook at 2nd and L. Be Gole was well worthy of mention. The Stars put up a fast game in the field, there being only three errors, two of them being hard chances. At the bat the boys hit everything, only five striking out. Rogers struck out Hymes, of Stockbridge, five times, he only touching the ball once, when he made a foul. Following is the score by innings:

MICHGAN LEGISLATURE.

Primary reform was shunted to the ide track by the senate Thursday, and the so-called machine men won out. The question was whether the senate would accede to the request of the house that the Baird bill be returned to the house, the intention being to amend it by putting in members of the legislature and county officers. The house members had learned that the senators intended to appoint a conference committee, in accord with the request made last week, the senators expecting to let themselves out in this way, realizing that with the short time left in which to do business, no bill could be agreed upon. Accordingly the house withdrew its request for a new conference committee, baving before the senate the request that the Baird bill be returned. The long debate did not change a vote. On the roll call the matter was referred to the committee on elections by the following vote:

Binder twine will not be made in the Jackson prison as the bill to establish the plant was killed by the house on Thursday, so an appropriation of $400. 000 will not come into the tax levy at present. The bill evoked a warm debate. It was noticeable that nearly all the farmers were in favor of the bill, and Representative Shea declared, in a strong speech, that organized labor also favored it. The roll was called and the bill defeated 40 to 42. The nays were: C. S. Adams, Ashley, Austin, Bolton, Brown, Campbell, Colby. Delisic, Dennis, Ferry, Fisher, Greusel. Hallenbeck, Harley, Hemans, Higgins, Holmes, Hunt, William Kirk, John Lane, O. B. Lane, Lovell, McCarthy, Morrice, Newberry, Nottingham, Osborn, Paddock, Pettit, Gardner, Powell, Reynolds, Richards, L. C. Robinson, Rodgers, Sanderson, Sheldon, Siggins, Vandercook, Wade, Walker, and the speaker-42.

The Paddock bill to tax sleeping cars is laid to rest and a careful examination of it shows that it would really have accomplished little if anything had it been passed. The tax commissioners have estimated that if the sleeping car companies would pay taxes on their cars according to car mileage in Michigan, the amount of their annual tax would be about $40,-000. Since 1887 practically nothing has been paid to the state on this class of property, the legislature steadily refusing to put through any measure that would be effective. On the basis of computation given above, the amount that the state has lost in sixteen years since 1887 is about $640,000.

Representative Dunn's bill providing that liquor dealers on the St. Clair Flats might escape with a $250 license fee and be permitted to do business six months in the year, failed to pass in the house. Members figure that if any deviation from the regular $500 rule is made, it will create a precedent that may result in special legislation for liquor men all over the state who want to do business only part of Early in the session there was a conest of the seat of Representative Werline, the Menominee Democrat. It is customary in such cases for the legislature to order the expenses of the contestants paid. Werline did not put in his bill until recently, when he presented an account of $300. Representative Colby's committee on elections cut this down to $150, and at that amount it was allowed by the house.

Among the bills passed was the one providing for four additional oil inspectors, for which Inspector Judson has been lobbying, though it was introduced by Senator Glazier, and which was defeated a few days ago. Rodgers, of Muskegon, opposed it, saying, "It is an outrage that any state employe or head of department should lobby here for such a measure, and we ought not to permit it."

The bill to reduce the number of members of the pardon board and increase their pay has been passed by both houses, the houses having put it through on third reading this morning. Representative Morrice tried to have it amended so that the rate of pay for members would be $5 per day as at present, instead of $7 as provided in the bill, but the motion was defeated.

Some legal defects were found in the act relative to manufacturing and mercantile corporations passed and signed some time ago. These defects were remedied in the house committee on private corporations and the bill as amended was re-enacted on motion of Representative Denby. It is expected that the same action will be taken by the senate early next week.

The legislature will quit work next Wednesday, June 10, with final adjournment June 18. Such was the resolution adopted by the house Wednesday and concurred in by the senate Thursday.

The governor has signed the Nottingham medical bill, containing the amendment empowering the medical board of registration to revoke the license of any practitioner who inserts an obscene adversisement.

seized with panic at the thought of Margaret's reading his note immediately. The next instant he was striding away from the house, scattering bits of white paper to the June breezes.

He did not see Margaret for a week, and during that time deep despair held him for its own. Then an urgent business affair led him to call on her father, who was suffering from a slight illness, and was unable to leave the

When the interview with Mr. Little was at an end, and John reached the front door he found Margaret sitting on the veranda. He thought to pass her with a formal greeting, but his intentions usually went astray where she was concerned, and he was soon seated near her in a wide-armed veranda chair.

"I am sorry I missed you when you called last week," said Margaret after her father's illness had been discussed. "I'm sorry, too," John replied, mentally condemning the memory of the maid, whom he hoped had forgotten the incident.

"The girl said something about you leaving a note," continued Margaret. "Yes-er-an invitation to a picnic," John said weakly, "but the affair was postponed."

Before you could write the note?" "No; I thought it would be postoned, so I changed my mind."

Margaret was looking demurely at rose bush. "It has been postponed before," she murmured softly, but her companion did not hear the remark. "John," she said, in a louder tone, "I suppose it is only in an invitation to a picnic that you would address me as your dearest Margaret."

John Kendall turned slowly, and regarded the object of his affections with bewilderment. He wondered if any of the torn bits of paper had been picked up and pieced together by Margaret, but he had scattered them so widely that that seemed impossible.

"There was a piece of carbon paper among the top sheets," she said, "and this was under it," and John read an exact copy of the effusion he had addressed to Margaret the week before.

For a moment he looked helplessly at the note, then he glanced shyly down at Margaret, and the expression he saw in her eyes was entirely unlike that with which she had regarded the editor.

It seemed to say, "Speak for yourself, John," and had the stolid typewriter which stood on the desk risen to the occasion it would have added another love scene to its long list.

YOUTHS WERE WELL TAUGHT

Destined to Govern, They Knew Need of Self-government.

A number of years ago Commodore Perry, speaking to the students of Antioch college, Ohio, told the following anecdote, illustrating the perfect discipline maintained among the naval cadets of his time:

"Some twenty-five years ago I was carelessly walking on the levee of a city of the Adriatic. A short distance of the office of the auditor for the been lost. During Sunday dead bodics from the shore lay a man-of-war at postoffice department. It has been al- were washed ashore here and there, anchor. I called an oarsman, and told him to return for me in an hour.

"I wandered over the beautiful ship, admiring its guns, its keeping, its admirable appointments and its excellent management, shown by its condition, At the end of my hour I began to look for my carsman. Just then I discovered a door on my right. I opened it. and in that room sat thirty-two boys. I had been there an hour and had not heard a stir enough to show that so much as a bird was alive on that boat.

"The youngest cadet came to the door and welcomed me with his cordial military salute. 'Boy, where is your teacher?' 'Gone ashore, sir.' 'Do you keep absolute order while he is gone?' 'Certainly, sir.'

"Then passing to the front, I said to one of the older boys: 'Young $20,000; Hill City, $30,000; Beloit, $30, man, why do you act so differently 000; Argentine, $2,000,000; Kansas from other boys? Are you afraid of City, Kas., and suburbs, $8,000,000. being punished?"

"The cadet rose to his feet. 'Sir,' said he, 'you see before you thirtytwo cadets. We all expect to govern others in our future work. The first element of a good governor is selfgovernment; sir, we are practicing that.' " The commodore added: "That was twenty-five years ago. In the providence of God none of these young men have been called to eternity. I will now read you their names." And the audience recognized in each man a name famous in the navy of Great Britain, Germany, France or America. -From "Washington: Its Sights and Insights."

Owl Saved Him.

King Robert the Bruce, according to the well-known story, once owed his safety to a spider. Among the Tartars of Central Asia there is a belief that one of their khans or chiefs was preserved, long years ago, by the great horned owl. He had hidden in a thicket to avoid capture by some enemies. By and by his pursuers came to this spot. The first thing they saw was an mean? It signified, in their eyes, that if any man were lying concealed close by. Therefore they argued that the khan could not be there, and so they hurried on to search for him elsewhere. At nightfall the khan made his way to the camp of his men and told them how he had been saved St. Louis, on Saturday were surroundfrom certain death. His story caused them ever afterward to look upon the owl with reverence and love. They wore its feathers in their caps as a pledge of victory.

Judge Siebecker's Unique Decision. Judge Siebecker of Wisconsin has displayed Solomon-like wisdom in some of his decisions. Two men appeared before him. One was a butcher, who claimed that the defendant owed him $10 for a meat bill. The defendant, a strikingly thin and gaunt figure, denied the bill. Statements and counter-statements followed each other with great rapidity. The lie was passed, but the constable intervened. "When was this meat purchased which you sold the defendant?" asked

Kansas has suffered as a result of the recent floods more than any other state. The damage done in the principal cities and towns is estimated as

No account has been taken of the smaller towns, although nearly 200 of there were affected by the floods.

The very lowest estimate of the damage done to crops is $5,000,000. As a consequence, there will be a great deal of individual want and suffering among farmers upon whom the blow falls heaviest. It is estimated that the railroads running into Kansas City are losers to the extent of over $2,000,000.

It appears that on the has retired. arrival of the Bashi-Bazouks, Chakalaroff's band of insurgents withdrew to the mountains without sustaining any loss. The Turks bombarded the village, but as their fire was ineffective they set fire to the village on all sides and commenced a general massacre, slaughtering women, children and the aged. About 300 houses were burned and upward of 200 persons, mostly women and children, were killed. The women and girls were murdered while resisting outrage. Whole households were slain. One family of seven were slain and their bodies were beaped on owl sitting on a bush. What did this the hearth. Not a living soul was left in the village. The Conlogue levee, just south of East St. Louis, broke at midnight, and the 200 colored families who inhabit that district were driven from their homes. There was no loss of life. It is estimated that within a radius of 20 miles from St. Louis the flood has rendered 25,000 people homeless and submerged 200,000 acres of fertile farming lands. Martial law has been proclaimed in East St. Louis. Men with guns are patrolling the levees and have orders to shoot down thieves and levee breakers.

"I was a perfectly healthy young man up to February 1865. When my regiment was in Camp Randall I was taken sick with the measles and I did not enjoy good health up to the time I used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and Tonic in 1896. Doctors have told me it came from inactivity of the liver. I cannot say how many physicians did treat me but have had all kinds. Dieting has never helped me. Biliousness, attacks of headache, rheumatism, nasal catarh, hay fever, asthma, and chronic diarrhoca; have all taken their turn with me. Thanks to the Nervine and Tonic I am completely restored to health. I have also used br. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills with good results and I think that the Dr. Miles Remedies are perfect."—Rev.

"I want to say a few good words for Dr.
Miles' Restorative Nervine. I have been troubled very much with insomnia since I made the change to the new paper and on account of this have tried various remedies without relief. I was finally induced by a wholesale druggist, a personal friend of mine, to try Nervine. I can assure you it has done me a lot of good. I do not find it necessary to use it regularly now but occasionally when I find that I am excessively nervous and restless I again take it up as I always keep a supply on hand. It has never failed to give me the desired relief."—A. Huegin, Publisher "Daily Free-Press" Milwaukee, Wis.

Summer Closing Hours.

To the Editor of the Herald: In the issue of the Standard of May 28, there was a suggestion that the clerks and proprietors of the stores talk over with the farmers, the question of closing at 8:30 p. m. during the summer. The fact of the matter is it is not the farmers that should be interviewed on the subject, but the townspeople. It is an undeniable fact that 90 per cent of the customers after 8 p. m. live right here in Chelsen, and could do their trading earlier in the evening if they wished.

Why is it that these people who live in town force the proprietors and clerks to work after closing hours by waiting until the whistle blows and then rushing in to do their trading?

Why is it that people who are strong supporters of the golden rule will persist in forcing clerks who have been on their feet from 6:30 in the morning till 8:30 at night, putting in more hours than any laborer or factory-man, to work still a longer time, by waiting until late hours in the evening before doing their trading, thus forcing the proprietors and clerks to work until 10 and 11 o'clock to accommodate them?

The cities and many of the smaller towns have found it advisable to close their places of business at 6 and 7 p. m. and the proprietors of these places find that their clerks do more and better work in ten hours than they will in twelve or fifteen.

The necessity of long hours is a thing of the past and it only lies with the proprietors to get together and make satisfactory arrangements to close up at reasonable hours.

Yours truly.

CHAPTER XV.

The Fate of Lord Cluny Neville. On tides of glory England was borne the next three years, to a nacional honor and strength which had never before been dreamed of. Never in her whole history had the government been at once so thorough and so penetrated with a desire for honesty and capacity. For the first time, the sense of social duty to the state took the place of the old spirit of loyalty to the sovereign. For the first time and only time in the history of Europe, morality and religion were the qualifications insisted on by a court.

In the meantime Spain was helping Charles with money which was spent in plots to assassinate the Protector. The effect of this was several petitions and addresses offered a Parliament begging Cromwell to assume the ancient office of King, if only for the settlement of the nation. He was quite strong enough to have taken it, and there was nothing unmanly either in his desire for the crown or in his refusal of it. One thing he knew well, that the title of King would take all meaning out of the Puritan revolution, and he could not so break with his own past, with his own spiritual life, and with the godly men who had so faithfully followed and so fully trusted him.

Why should he fret himself about a there word? All real power was in has hands; the army and the navy, the charches and the universities, the reform and administration of the law, and government of Scotland and of Breland. Abroad, the war with all its tetails, the alliance with Sweden, with France, with the Protestant princes of Germany, the Protestant Protectorate extending as far as Transylvania, the "planting" of the West Indies, the settlement of the American Colonies, and their defense against their rivals, the French-all these subjects were Cromwell's daily effort to consummate their long engagement was furiously indignant if she spoke of ending it. Then, also, she had fears connected with Cymlin, When very young he had begun to save money in order to make himself a possible suitor for Matilda's hand. In the Irish campaign he had been exceedingly fortunate; he had bought and sold estates, and exchanged prisoners for specie, and in other ways so manipulated his chances that in every case they had left behind a golden residuum. Jane had told Matilda two years previously that Cymlin was richer than his father, and she might have said more than this and been within the truth.

But in this rapid accumulation of wealth, Cymlin had developed the love of wealth. Matilda knew that if she would carry out her intention of making over de Wick house and land to Stephen, it must be done before she married Cymlin. Yet if she surrendered it to Stephen under present circumstances, everything would go, in some way or other, to the needy, beggarly Stuart Court.

She was fretfully thinking over this dilemma in its relation to a new plot against Cromwell's life, when Jane Swaffham visited her one morning in February of 1658. Jane's smiling serenity aggravated her restless temper. "Does nothing on earth ever give you an unhappy thought, Jane?' she asked. "You look as if you dwelt in Paradise."

"I only have to tell you there is another plot."

"I have nothing to do with it." "Some one you know may be in danger.'

"Stephen is at Cologne. If you are thinking of Stephen, thank you. I will write and tell him to keep good hope in his heart, that Jane Swaffham remembers him."

"Dear Matilda, do not make mock of my kindness. The Protector's patience is worn out with this foolish animosity. He is generous and merciful to no purpose. I myself think it "To be a King is not in my commission."

sion," he said to Doctor Verity. "It | is high time he ceased to warn, and squares not with my call or my conscience. I will not fadge with the question again; no, not for an hour."

These three years were full of glory and romance, and the poorest family in England lived through an epic of such national grandeur as few generations have witnessed. Yet, amid it all, the simple domestic lives of men and women went calmly on, and birth, marriage, and death made rich or barren their homes. Jane Swaffham had long been able to think of Clunynot as lying in a bloody grave, but as one of the Sons of God among the Hosts of Heaven. And this consolation accepted, she had begun to study Latin and mathematics with Doctor Verity and to give her love and her service to all.

Matiida's life during this interval had been cramped and saddened by the inheritance from her previous years. Really loving Cymlin, she could not disentangle the many threads binding her to the old unfortunate passion, for, having become wealthy, the Stuarts would not resign their claim upon her. Thus she was compelled, often against her will, to he aware of plots for the assassination of Cromwell-plots which shocke, and which gener-THET MOTAL S ally seemed to her intelligence exced-rugly foolish and usless. She loved Cymlin, but she feared to marry him. She feared the reproachbegin to punish."

"My dear sweet Jane, the Cromwells are in their kingdom now; I do not pretend to keep foot with Cluny returning to Paris to sell the them—and I have troubles of my own; pray God they be not too many for

It was evident Matilda was not in an amiable mood, and Jane having said the few words that brought her to Jerery House that morning, left her friend. She went away with a troubled look, and Matilda watched the change and smiled to herself at it. " am quite content to have her made a little unhappy," she thought. "On my honor! Jane looks younger and prettier than when Neville was alive and worrying her. Lovers die and husbands die, and 'tis a common calamity, and better people than Jane have endured it. I will go now to my aunt's parlor." She found there an acquaintance whom had had known in Paris, the Countess Gervais.

"I have but now sent a messenger for you, Matilda," said Lady Jevery; "the Countess desired greatly to see you." Then the conversation became reminiscent, and the new plot was not named, and' Matilda began to be bored. Suddenly, however, her interest was raised to the highest pitch, for the Countess, touching a bracelet which Lady Jevery wore, said:

"I must tell you a strange thing. I es of Rupert, who, though he made no of his Eminence, Cardinal Mazarin, sat at my side. And she wore a necklace and brooch and one bracelet precisely like the bracelet you are now wearing. I cannot help noticing the circumstance, because the jewelry is so exeedingly singular and beautiful."

"Yes," replied Lady Jevery. "And what you say is also very curious, for I once possessed a necklace, brooch and two bracelets like the one I am now wearing. All the pieces were lost excepting this bracelet."

"But how?-let me inquire; where were they lost?"

"Somewhere near Paris. I had intrusted them to a friend who has never since been heard of."

"But the bracelet you are wearing? -this is so singular-you will please

"This bracelet," said Lady Jevery, 'was more fortunate. Some of the gems were loose and I sent it to my jeweler for repair, just before we left for Paris. He was to forward it to me if he found a safe messenger; luckily he kert it until I returned to London."

"But this is most strange-most strange-

"Most strange and most suspicious," said Matilda indignantly. "I should say it was evidence that Lord Neville was murdered, and that his Eminence bought jewelry for Hortense Mancini in some irregular way. If I were Lady Jevery, I would insist on knowing from whom."

"Oh, you do make one great mistake, I do assure you! Mademoiselle Mancini is impeccable. You must rest content that the jewels came into her possession in the most correct manner."

Barely listening to these words, Matilda curtsied and abruptly left the room. All now seemed plain to her intelligence. Rupert had lied to her. He had slain and robbed Neville, and the jewels had been sold to Mazarin.

A sudden passion of pity for the handsome young lord came over her. "It was too mean, too savagely cruel for anything!" she almost sobbed. "Men who can do such things are not fit to be loved by women. They are brutes. I will write to Rupert at once. I must know the truth of this matter. If such a crime has been committed, there is no king or prince or priest on earth to absolve it, and he could for me. He gave me up. A

She did not wait for any second or more prudent thoughts. She wrote Rupert that hour a letter, every word of which was flame and tears. When it was finished, she sent a man with it on the instant to catch the Dover mail packet, and all this was accomplished before she had any opportunity to talk over the affair with her uncle. When she did so, he regretted her precipitancy, and refused to move in the matter at all. "It would be the height of imprudence," he said. "The young man is dead and gone, and we cannot bring him back, though England went to war with France on that quarrel. The Protector is ill, worn out with sorrow and anxiety, and if one of his old attacks should seize him at this time, it would have the mastery. And when Cromwell dies, there is no question of what will happen. The nation will give Charles the Second a trial. Then Matilda, when Charles comes back, Prince Rupert comes with him. We may need the friendship of Prince Rupert to save ourselves. No one can tell how this reputedly good-natured Charles will act, when his hands are able to serve his will. I will not then make an enemy of so powerful a man as Prince Rupert is like to be."

It was rarely Sir Thomas spoke with such decision, and Matilda was much impressed by his words. They made her hesitate still more about her marriage with Cymlin.

During the first hours of her discovery, Matilda had wondered if she ought to tell Jane what proof of Cluny's death had come to them; for in her heart she scoffed at the idea of jewels. But Jane did not visit her for some time, and she was daily expecting an answer from Prince Rupert. This letter might be of great importance, one way or another, and she resolved to wait for it. It came more rapidly than she had anticipated, and its contents temporarily fanned to a feeble flame her dying illusions concerning her first lover. In this letter Rupert "on his honor" relterated his first statement. He declared that he left Neville in health and safety, having at the last moment urged upon him his own swift Barb, which offer seek mademoiselle's presence until he family requirements prevail.—Philasaw her wearing the jewels, and then make question concerning them; and it not satisfied, go at once to her Uncle Mazarin. He was sure it was now only a few weeks ere the truth would be discovered. These promises were blended with his usual protestations of undying devotion, and Matilda was pleased, though she was not satisfied. For to Rupert's letter there was a word which sent the blood to her

THE KING OF HARD DRINKS.

Effects of "Ron," a Native Beverage of Panama.

It is said that during the construction of the Panama railroad for every tie laid a human life was given up, but this is one of those romantic lies which everybody likes to read but few believe.

There were, indeed, a great many deaths; some caused by legitimate disease and some by careless living, and many by drinking a native beverage called ron. This latter liquor is made from sugar-cane, and it is such a drink that a Scotch highball is pink lemonade alongside of it.

Taken in small quantities, it prevents malaria, but taken in copius draughts, as some men use it, it produces life everlasting.—The National.

A Chance for the Thick Skinned. As skin-grafting on a large scale comes into more extensive use in surgery, it becomes more difficult to procure the best material for the purpose. In fact, a medical man well known in this city says the difficulty can only be met by treating the skin as an article of commerce and buying the amount required. He recently paid $5 for sufficient cuticle to put on the limb of a little boy who had been scalded, and the individual who "gave up" part of his bone covering declared he was "tickled to death" by the operation. He calls on the doctor every now and then to ask if "any more hide" is needed.

Saved His Life.

Whitehall, Ill., June 8th.-Mr. Lon Manley had Bright's Disease and after his home doctor had treated him for some time he finally told him that he could do nothing more for him and that he would surely die.

A friend who had heard of what Dodd's Kidney Pills had done in cases of Kidney Trouble, advised Mr. Manley to try a treatment of this remedy.

He did so and everyone was surprised and delighted to see an improvement in a very short time. This improvement gradually kept on as the treatment proceeded, till now Mr. Manley is well. He says: "The doctor said he had done all friend advised me to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, and in a few weeks I was nearly all right again.

"I am not dead, and can truthfully say that I feel better to-day than I have for years. Dodd's Kidney Pills are a wonderful remedy and I will always praise them and recommend them to everyone suffering as I did."

Mr. Manley's recovery has caused a profound sensation, as no one ever thought he would recover.

Could Not Retain Life. After having been pronounced dead by the local physician, a well-known lady, who with her family had long resided in the village of Woore, North Staffordshire, was recently laid ready for interment. All preparations for the funeral had been made and friends and relatives assembled to take a final farewell. As the mourners watched, the eyes of the lady were seen to open and her lips to move. Life had returned to the supposed corpse. The news of the strange event spread throughout the village and district and produced the greatest excitement. To the grief of all, however, there came a relapse, and life was declared to be definitely extinct.

Effect of a Craze. This breakfast food and coffee craze has got to stop. A man out in Atchison, Kan., has a wife who is a yictim of the sawdust habit and feeds him on all sorts of queer things. He wandered home from the lodge one night and found a box of something on the dining table and proceeded to eat it. It was a bit hard, but he thought it was some new breakfast food and finished it. The next morning he investigated the matter, as he felt a bit strange, and found he had

WESTERN CANADA'S IMMIGRATIO

Rapid Settlement of the Wheat Fir Lying North of the 49th Parallel (From the Chicago Record-Herald) "Canada has anticipated a heavy immigration this year, and now has figures to show that she actually getting it in a way to all her expectations. In the first for months of this year the doors of h Dominion opened to 40,672 person according to a report prepared by the committee on agriculture and o zation of the Canadian parliament This is almost twice as large as the immigration in the corresponding months last year, and fully three times as large as in 1901, the resp tive figures being 22,482 and 13,393.

"Most of these newcomers have been attracted by the wheat lands of the Northwest territories. They have moved direct to Winnipeg and the have turned that city into a great camp, in which they have been fitting themselves out for the last stage of their adventure for new homes.

"Of the immigration of this spring a little over a third has come from Great Britain, the figure being 16,457, This is three times as large as the British immigration of the corresponding months of the preceding year, and it is within 2,500 of the number of immigrants that the United States attracted from Great Britain and Ireland in the same period this spring As to the remainder of the immigration into Canaua 13,7'10 settlers came from the United States, a 50 per cent increase over the preceding year, and 10,445 from Continental Europe, a 40 per cent increase.

"These 40,672 immigrants into Capada may appear trifling in comparison with 297,070 persons who entered the United States in the same period, but they are proportionately more inportant to the country. Canada's population is one-fifteenth of ours, but her immigration is now two-fifteenths as large as ours. It is worth remembering also that Canada's immigrants are almost entirely Anglo-Saxon and Teutonic races, while our immigration is now two-thirds made up of Romance and Elav elements."

"Speculation is natural as to the future of Canada in her relations to the United States when her Northwest territories are filled up, but the one absolutely certain fact of the near future is that the United States is to have a great competitor in the grain markets of the world."

The above editorial article taken from the columns of the Chicago Record-Herald of May 26th, shows the condition of the Canadian immigration, which as pointed out, has had a constant growth-a marvellously increasing growth-for the past six or seven years, until this year, it is confidently assumed the increase to Canada's population, by way of immigration, will exceed 100,000. This is accounted for by the great agricultural resources which abound there. It is no fairy tale, but the mater-of-fact experience of the tens of thousands bear ample testimony to the wealth and riches in store for all who choose to accept of the opportunities of pirit of Harshness and Lordiness No Longer Tolerated.

There is one good result of "an overcrowded profession," and of the sharp competition that exists among' doctors in the rivalry for popular favor. This is the disappearance of the old-time spirit of harshness and lordliness, which sometimes degenerated into positive brutality. These characteristics were the natural products of an original boorishness, increased by success and a comparative monopoly of practice. It takes a gentlemanly mind not to be spoiled by the attitude of subservience on the part of patients, and the habit of ordering by the physician in charge.

In every large community there are still left specimens of medical Dr. Johnsons, who from a ruder age have carried down a cross and commanding well nights. In May, 1902, after using acerbity of manner that is now out of place and time. In one of our large American cities there is an example they had entirely relieved me of the known far and wide. His loss of papain in my back. I have since then | tients does not teach him any lesson, and seems rather to increase his churlishness. He seems to take a special delight in hurting the feelings of his patients by a perverse irascibility.

A patient who was shocked by this manner in the very beginning of the examination suddenly stopped, and in a quiet manner asked the amount of the customary fee, paid it, and without a word walked away. There are better reasons, of course, against unkindness and coarse egotism, but it certainly no longer "pays" for physicians to be ungentlemanly.—American Medicine.

WAS TOO FAR BACK.

One Occasion When Dr. Hall's Mcm ory Was at Fault.

Dr. John Hall, the late pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, was very proud of his memory for ames and faces. Strangers wondered it his readiness in calling by name the jumerous members of the Sunday Gchool connected with the church. But which they indulge in sentimental one of the elders of his church tells of practices. One of these occurred the occasion when the doctor showed Give Warning of Approach of More Serious Trouble.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness, alternating with extreme irritability, bordering upon hysteria? Are your spirits easily affected so that one minute you laugh, and the next fall into convulsive weeping?

Do you feel something like a ball rising in your throat and threatening to choke you; all the senses perverted, morbidly sensitive to light and sound; pain in the ovaries, and especially between the shoulders; sometimes loss of voice; nervous dyspepsia, and almost continually cross and snappy, with a tendency to cry at the least provocation?

If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition, and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Undoubtedly you do not know it, but in nine cases out of ten this is caused by some uterine disorder, and the nerves centering in and about the organs which make you a woman influence your entire nervous system. Something must be done at once to restore their natural condition or you will be prostrated for weeks and months perhaps, and suffer untold Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for this purpose than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; thousands and thousands of women have written us so.

How Mrs. Holland, of Philadelphia, suffered among the finest physicians in the country, none of whom could help her—finally cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham: - For over two years I was a constant sufferer from extreme nervousness, indigestion, and dizziness. Menstruation was irregular, had backache and a feeling of great lassitude and weakness. I was so bad that I was not able to do my own work or go far in the street. I could not sleep nights.

"I tried several splendid doctors, but they gave me no relief. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I soon began to feel better, and was able to go out and not feel as if I would fall at every step. I continued to take the medicine until cured.

"I cannot say enough in behalf of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine, fess that I have no recollection of ever and heartily recommend all suffering women to try it and find the relief I did." - Mrs. FLORENCE HOLLAND, 622 S. Clifton St., Philadelphia, Pa. (Jan. 6, 1902.)

> Another case of severe female trouble cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after the doctors had failed.

> "Dear Mrs. Pinkham: - I was in poor health for several years. I had female trouble and was not able to do my housework alone. I felt tired, very nervous, and could not sleep. I doctored with several doctors. They doctored me for my stomach, but did not relieve me. I read in your book about your medicine, and thought I would try it. I did so, and am now cured and able to do my work alone, and feel good. I was always very poor, but now weigh one hundred and fifty pounds.

> "I thank you for the relief I have obtained, and I hope that every woman troubled with female weakness will give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I have recommended it to many of my friends." — Mrs. Maria Bowers, Millersville, Ohio. (Aug. 15, 1901.)

> Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all of the virtues of this medicine?

How shall the fact that it will help them be made plain? Surely you cannot wish to remain weak, and sick, and discouraged, exhausted with each day's work. You have some derangement of the feminine organism, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you just as surely as it has others.

CUTICURA SOAP

The World's Greatest Skin Soap.

World's Sweetest Toilet Soap.

Sale Greater Than the World's Product of Other Skin Soaps.

Sold Wherever Civilization Has Penetrated.

Millions of the world's best people use Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings and changes, for annoying irritations, or too free or offensive perspiration, for ulcerative weaknesses, and many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, especially mothers, as well as for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery.

Cuticura Soap combines delicate emollient properties derived from Cuticura, the great skin cure, with the purest of cleansing ingredients and the most refreshing of flower odours. No other medicated soap ever compounded is to be compared with it for preserving, purifying and beautifying the akin, scalp, hair and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery. Thus it combines in one seep at one price the most effective skin an complexion soap, and the purest and sweetest toilet, bath and nursery some ever compounded.

"I am 33 years of age and married. When young I led a gay life. Early indiscretions and later excesses made trouble for me. I became weak and nervous. My kidneys became affected and I feared Bright's Disease. Married Life was unsatisfactory and my home unhappy. I tried everything—all failed till I took treatment from Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. Their New Method built me up mentally, physically and sexually. I feel and act skilful and responsible financially, so why patronize Quacks and Fakirs when you can be cured by reliable doctors."—W.
