HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI

Banqueted and Had a Good Time.—Bright
Toasts and Fine Songs and Music.

The annual banquet of the alumni association of the Chelsea high school was held last Monday evening at the Methodist church. Although the night was very stormy and prevented many from attending, yet a goodly number gathered to meet and banquet with their fellow alumni.
After a brief reception in the daintily decorated parlors, cosily arranged with rugs, easy chairs and furniture for the comfort of those present, punch was served from a booth in one corner of the room, and then the following officers for the ensuing year were elected:

President—Oren Thatcher.

Vice President—Miss Zoe BeGole.

Secretary—Carl Mensing.

Treasurer—Miss Eva Luick.

At 9:30 o'clock the company adjourned to the dining room below, where a bountiful spread awaited them. While the orchestra furnished sweet strains of music and the attendants brought on refreshments, the guests did the rest.

When their desire for eating began to wane, the regular program of toasts and music was carried out as contained in the very neat souvenir programs which had been laid at each plate. In the absence of E. G. Hoag, the president, Faye Palmer, acted as toastmaster.

Oren Thatcher welcomed the class of
'03 to membership in the association, which is fast approaching the 200 mark.

Miss Lillie Blach in behalf of the class of '03 responded to the toast, "Hitch your chariot to a star," in which she made some bright allusions to young ladies who are seeking Holmes among the Stars, how the Cole proposition must be settled at the very first base in order to avoid the strike, and how the pitcher and the Stars sang together "I've Got a Mine-a."

James S. Gorman in response to a toast described the Chelsea schools as they existed 34 years ago. His advice to the young people, who seemed much interested in his sketch of one who had paddled up the stream of life, will doubtless be heeded by others.

Karl Vogel kept everyone in laughter by his witty response to "Cyclones, the alumni association, and one thing and another."

Miss Frances Noyes very ably responded to the class of '00 in the toast "Wise and otherwise."

Miss Lillian Gerard closed this part of the program by giving a glimpse into the future business career of several of the members present.

The orchestra, consisting of five pieces, furnished excellent music during the supper, while Miss Helen Burg and Master Garrett Conway each rendered fine vocal selections, aiding materially in the successful carrying out of the program.

The decorations were very neat and tasty, and much credit is due to the committee for their success in this line. The dining room was very artistically decorated with yellow and white bunting, the alumni colors, draped from the corners of the room and around the clusters of lights.

At the conclusion of the program the company dispersed, all feeling that it had been good to be there, and went forth to mingle with the world for another year, then to meet again.

GAVE HIM A HOT BRICK.

A Farmers' Club Man Who Couldn't Eat
Ice Cream Without One—He Got It.

The Western Washtenaw Farmers' Club met with Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Freer, June 18. Although not an ideal June day, a goodly number were in attendance and all seemed in high glee, especially as the heaped up dishes of ice cream were passed, and hot bricks demanded, which were furnished one member who seemed to feel inadequate to the task before him.

The June meeting is always given up to the children, and they gave a very nice entertainment consisting of recitations, singing and instrumental music. The little folks are entitled to a great deal of praise.

The question, "Resolved, that a farmer's education should be more general than a business man's," was presented by O. C.
Burkhart, but as the children had spoken first the older ones did not seem to feel inclined to say much, so the question was not very thoroughly discussed.

The club will now take a vacation through the summer months and meet again with Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Lowry, Oct. 18.

"Force," a ready-to-serve, ready-to-digest, delightful food, brings the independent strength that comes of health.

DEATH OF CURRAN WHITE.

He Was Directly Descended From One of the Pilgrim Fathers.

After an illness of only a few days Curran White one of Chelsea's oldest residents, died at his residence on East Middle street, Thursday morning, June 18, at half past nine, aged 89 years, 6 months and 9 days. When Mr. White came to Chelsea there was only a small village of 200 inhabitants. He was a descendant of Wm. White who came over to America in the Mayflower in 1620, and who was the father of the first white child born in New England.

Curran White was born Jan. 9, 1814.
He first came to Michigan in the spring of 1833, making the journey from Detroit with an ox team and was five days reaching his destination. In the fall of 1833 he bought a farm in Hillsdale county but did not settle on it, holding it merely as a speculation. After returning to New York in 1835 he sold his Michigan farm and remained two years in the Empire state. In the spring of 1837 he came back to Michigan and worked as a sawyer for Shaw & Arnold, of Lima Center.
Nov. 25, 1839, Mr. White married Jane S.
Keyes, of Lima, and a year later settled on the homestead in Lima. This he sold in 1855 and located in Chelsea, where the White home was always a social center.

Mr. White was the father of two children, Alton, who was a member of Company E, 4th Mich. Cavalry, and who died at Nashville, Tenn., and Ballina, who became the wife of E. L. Negus, of this place.

Mr. White was a genial, kindly man, of thoughtful turn of mind, fond of books and study. During the last few years of his life he has written much. His journal with a carefully written story of the early pioneer days is especially interesting.

The funeral services were held at the residence on East Middle street Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock and were largely attended by his old friends and neighbors.
The services were in charge of John C.
Higgins, of Detroit, who was assisted by Rev. C. S. Jones, of the Congregational church.

FORMALLY OPENED.

Traffic on the New Electric Line From Jackson to Battle Creek Inaugurated.

The formal opening of the Jackson and Battle Creek electric line took place yesterday, a trial trip being made from Albion to Jackson and back to Battle Creek for dinner. The trip was made in two of the finest cars in the service and part of the run was made at the rate of a mile a minute. The party, which included the officers of the company and about 50 prominent citizens and newspaper men from Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Marshall, Albion and Jackson, took dinner at the Post Tavern, Battle Creek. After dinner brief responses to toasts were made by some of the gentlemen present.

A Pretty June Wedding.

One of the nicest and prettiest of June weddings took place last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Brooks on West Middle street, when their daughter Miss Mabel Brooks was married to Mr.
Thos. S. Hughes. The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. C. S. Jones, took place in the parlor, under a bower of roses, from the center of which hung a wedding bell of roses. The bride was gowned in white and was attended by her parents.
A large company of the relatives and friends of the young couple were present.
A dainty wedding supper was served in the dining room, which, together with the rest of the house was prettily decorated.
The presents were numerous and in good taste. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes left on the 9:15 train for Detroit, from where they will take a lake trip before returning home.

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bentor-ville, Va., serves as example. He writes:
"I had bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited.
Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all lung and throat troubles, consumption, pneumonia and grip. Guaranteed by Glazier & Stimson, druggists. Trial bottles free, regular sizes 50c and $1.00.

Worst of all Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years" she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered." For liver, kidney, stomach and bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by Glazier & Stimson, druggists.

BLACK-DRAUGHT STOCK and POULTRY MEDICINE

Stock and poultry have few troubles which are not bowel and liver irregularities. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is a bowel and liver remedy for stock. It puts the organs of digestion in a perfect condition. Prominent American breeders and farmers keep their herds and flocks healthy by giving them an occasional dose of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine in their food. Any stock raiser may buy a 25-cent half-pound air-tight can of this medicine from his dealer and keep his stock in vigorous health for weeks. Dealers generally keep Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine. If yours does not, send 25 cents for a sample can to the manufacturers, The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

ROCHELLE, GA., Jan. 30, 1902. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is the best I ever tried. Our stock was looking bad when you sent me the medicine and now they are getting so fine. They are looking 20 per cent. better. S. P. BROCKINGTON.

The singing of the Conway quintette, Mr. Louis and Miss Pauline Burg, and Master Garrett Conway, and the recitation of Miss Margaret Eder, and the playing of Mrs. J. E. McKune in her duet with Miss Clark, were all features that added much to make the program a very enjoyable one.

THE LION'S WHELP

A Story of Cromwell's Time

BY AMELIA E. BARR

Author of "The Bow of Orange Ribbon," "I, Thou and the Other One," "The Maid of Maiden Lane," Etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by Dodd, Mead & Company. All rights reserved.)

CHAPTER XVI.—Continued.

For Matilda had concealed every bit and every unkindness by her prompt action in the matter of Lord Swaffham, and Jane had been loving and caring for it, until the sweetest of their first affection was between them. And Matilda enjoyed it; she liked the appreciation of her kind deed, and was not therefore disposed to make light or little of what she had done, or of its results.

"Slowly, life was nearly gone; and mind were at death's door; he can walk a little now, and in two or three weeks we are going away, far away,—we are going to my mother in the Massachusetts colony."

"You will come back?" "I think it is unlikely. Father feels change approaching. The Protector's health is failing rapidly; he is dying, Matilda."

"If he dies?" "Father will leave England as soon as Cromwell is in his grave. Cymlin will keep old Swaffham fair, for Cymlin will never leave England while you are in it."

"And you can bear to talk of leaving England in that calm way, without tears and without regrets, Jane, is shameful; it is really wicked."

"Dear Matilda, do not be angry at me because I had to do what I had to do. I was married to Cluny three days after he came home. We all thought he was going to die, and he asked me to be his wife. Now did I do right to marry him when and how, he wished?"

"Yes," she answered, but her face and voice showed her to be painfully affected. "Jane, I cannot bear to lose ous life was closing like a brilliant sun setting in a stormy sky."

The fifteenth of May had been set for his assassination. Cromwell knew all the secret plans of this conspiracy; knew every member of it; and on the afternoon when Jane Swaffham saw him passing up London streets, so stern and scornful, he had just ordered the arrest of one hundred of them.

Jane heard constantly of these events, but her heart had closer interests. The ship which was to carry Cluny and herself to America was lying at the wharf nearly ready for sea. There were to be no other passengers; Cluny and Jane alone were to find in its black-ribbed cabin their home for many weeks, perhaps months. A recent experience had proven the necessity for this exclusion of strange elements. Early in June, Israel had taken Cluny to bid farewell to his old General, and the meeting had tried both men severely. At its close Cromwell went to a desk and wrote a few lines to the officials of the Massachusetts Colony; in them, commending Lord Neville to their kindness and care. His hands trembled—those large, strong hands—trembled as he gave the letter to Cluny. Then he kissed him once more, and with a "Farewell" that was a blessing, he turned away, weeping.

"It is another friend gone," he said mournfully to his own heart; "lover and friend are put far from me and mine acquaintance into darkness."

Cluny was so much troubled and affected by this visit, that Israel thought it well to take him to see the ship which was to carry him to the solitudes of the great waters and the safety of the New World. He was impatient to be gone, but there were yet a number of small interests to be attended to; for they were to carry with them a great deal of material necessary to the building and furnishing of their future home. Every day revealed some new want not before thought of, so that it was nearing the end of June when at last all was declared finished and ready. Then Jane hastened home, resolving to see Matilda on the following day. But when she reached Sandy's House, Mrs. Swaffham met her with a letter in her hand—"Lady Jevery asks you to come to Matilda, who is in great trouble," she said.

So Jane went to her friend. With her, also, she found the grief death brings.

"Stephen is slain!" were her first words. She could hardly utter them. But Jane knew how to comfort Matilda; she could talk to her as she could not to the ladies of Cromwell's household. "How was Stephen slain?" she asked, "in a duel?"

"No, thank God! He fell, as he himself could have wished, fighting the enemies of his king. He was with Clonde and the Dukes of York and Gloucester before Dunkirk, and was killed while meeting the rush of those terrible Ironsides. Camoy wrote me that he said 'Mother!' joyfully, with his last breath."

"Poor Stephen!" "Oh, indeed 'tis very well to cry, 'poor Stephen,' when he is beyond your pity. You might have pitied him when he was alive, that would have been something to the purpose. All his short, unhappy life has been one constant battle with Puritans and poverty. Oh, how I hate those Stuarts! I am thankful to see you can weep for him, Jane. I think you ought. God knows he loved you well, and most thankfully. And he is the last, the last de Wick. Root and branch, the de Wick tree has perished. I wish I could die also."

"And Cymlin, Matilda?" "I shall marry Cymlin—at the proper time."

"You may have sons and daughters." "I hope not. I pray not. I have had sorrow enough. My father and his three sons are a good ending for the house. It was built with the sword, and it has been destroyed by the sword. No, Jane, the line of de Wick is finished. Cymlin and I will be the last Earl and Countess de Wick."

"And Prince Rupert?" "Is a dream from which I have awakened."

"But he may still be dreaming." "Rupert has many faults, but he is a man of honor. My marriage to Cymlin will be a barrier sacred to both of us. Our friendship can hold itself above endearments. You need not fear for Cymlin; Matilda de Wick will honor her husband, whether she obeys him or not. Cymlin is formed for power and splendor, and he will stand near the throne."

"If there be a throne." "Of that, who now doubts? Cromwell is falling sick, and you may feel 'God save the King' in the air. If you had married Stephen, he would have been alive to join in the cry. I could weep at your obstinacy, Jane."

"Let it pass, dear. I was suckled on Puritan milk. Stephen and I never could have been one. My fate was to go to the New World. Stephen has escaped this sorrowful world and—"

"Oh, then, I would be here! This sorrowful world with Stephen in it was a better world than it is without him. Jane, Jane, how he loved you!"

"And I loved him, as a companion, friend, brother, if you will. When you lay his body in de Wick, cast a tear and a flower on his coffin for me. God give him peace!"

At length their "farewell" came. The last words between them were soft and whispered, and only those sad, loving monosyllables which are more eloquent than the most fervid protestations. And so they parted, forever in this life.

The next afternoon Jane and Cluny rode through London streets for the last time. On the ship they found Jane's father, Doctor Verity and Sir Thomas Jevery. There were no tears at this parting; nor any signs of sorrow; every one seemed resolved to regard it as a happy and hopeful event. For, though not spoken of, there was a firm belief and promise of a meeting again in the future not very far off. Israel held his little daughter to his heart, and then laid her hand in Cluny's without a word; the charge was understood. When the last few minutes came, and the men were trooping to the anchor, Doctor Verity raised his hands, and the three or four in the dim, small cabin knelt around him, and so their farewell was a prayer and their parting a blessing.

Israel and Doctor Verity walked away together, and for a mile neither of them spoke a word. As they came near to Sandy's, however, Israel said:

"It is a short farewell, John. It will be my turn next."

"I shall go when you go."

"To the Massachusetts Colony?"

"Yes. I am ready to go when the time comes."

"It is not far off."

"A few months at the longest."

"He is very ill?"

"The foundations of his life are shaken, for he lives not in his power or his fame, or even in the work set him to do. No, no, Oliver lives in his feelings. They are at the bottom of his nature; all else is superstructure. And Fairfax, as well as Lambert and others, think they can fill great Oliver's place!—no man can."

"For that very reason, when he departs, I will away from England. I have no heart for another civil war. I will draw sword under no less a general than Oliver."

"Good night, John."

"Good night, Israel. Have you told Martha?"

"Not yet. She will fret every day till the change comes. Why should we have a hundred frets when a dozen may do?"

But when Israel went into Martha's presence something made him change his mind. The mother had been weeping, and began to weep afresh when she saw her husband. He anticipated her sorrowful questions, and with an assumption of cheerfulness, told her how happy and hopeful Jane and Cluny seemed to be. "It did not feel like a parting at all, Martha," he said, "and indeed there was no need for any such feeling. We are going ourselves very soon now."

The words were spoken and could not be recalled, and he stood, in a moment, ready to face the storm they might raise. Martha looked at her husband with speechless wonder and distress, and he was more moved by this attitude than by her usual garrulous anger. He sat down by her side and took her hand, saying:

NEWS OF THE WORLD

A Brief Chronicle of Matters of Importance.

Twenty-One Indicted.

Twenty-one men have thus far been indicted for participation in the crime of peonage in Alabama. Twenty of this number have been arrested and released on bail. District Attorney Reese has subdivided the indicted men according to the parts they played in connection with the enslaving of negroes. Five of them are land owners, who held the negroes in slavery. Four are justices of the peace, who sent their officers to the hideous business of faking court proceedings for the purpose of enabling the land owners to obtain slaves. Six are constables, who scoured the counties of Coosa and Tallapoosa for stray negroes. Every unfortunate black man and woman passing through the towns to which they are accredited would be seized upon by them, arrested and taken before one of the four justices of the peace named. They were the agents of the land owners. They had a perpetual commission to obtain peons for Pace, Turner and the Cosbys.

The remaining six indicted men are known in the records of District Attorney Reese's office as "guards" and "beaters," the latter appellation being given to them because they are the ones who generally wielded the gin strap or buggy trace on the backs of unfortunate slaves.

More of the Scandal.

The grand jury which has been investigating postal affairs on Monday returned an indictment against August W. Machen, Diller B. Groff, Samuel A. Groff, Geo. E. Lorenz and Martha J. Lorenz, the two latter being residents of Toledo, O. The specific charge is conspiracy to defraud the government. The indictment is based on sec. 544 of the revised statutes, which provides a penalty of $10,000 or two years' imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Postmaster-General Payne himself is under fire. The effort to drive him out of the cabinet is being renewed with redoubled energy. Many newspapers are in a hue and cry for Payne's head. They call on him to resign; they urge President Roosevelt to dismiss him. Evidently they have in mind the fate of Alger. It will be remembered that Alger was offered up in sacrifice by President McKinley to appease the newspapers which demanded a victim. At the present time President Roosevelt stands squarely behind his postmaster-general. He says he is all right and that it is absurd to talk of letting him go. Though not denying that Payne has made mistakes, he says they were trivial errors, of the head and not of the heart, and have no important bearing on the question at issue.

A New Policy Now.

President Roosevelt has inaugurated a new policy as to the manner of giving to the public the developments in the postoffice investigation. Hereafter nothing will be given to the newspapers by the officials conducting the investigation except when an arrest has actually been consummated, then the details as fully as they can be at the time will be made known. Mr. Roosevelt will, however, keep a close watch on the inquiry. He goes to Oyster Bay for the summer next Saturday, but before leaving Washington hopes to be in a position where he can issue a statement telling what has been accomplished, and what he aims to accomplish toward the cleansing of the postal service. He had this partly in view the other day when he instructed United States District Attorney Beach to expedite matters in his office relating to the postal frauds.

Must Make No Delay.

President Roosevelt spoke very plainly to District Attorney Beach and Assistant District Attorney Taggart Thursday concerning the leisurely manner in which the postoffice fraud cases now pending before them are being conducted. A private report from Pittsburgh says that Abner McKinley, brother of the late president, is being "sweated" by postoffice inspectors at his home at Somerset, Pa., near Pittsburgh. There is neither denial nor confirmation of the report in Washington. It is learned on unquestioned authority that the grand jury has voted to return indictments against August W. Machen, Diller B. Groff, Samuel A. Groff, George E. Lorenz and Mrs. Lorenz, the two latter being residents of Toledo, O. The specific charge, it is understood, will be conspiracy to defraud the government.

Another Let Out.

As a result of alleged indiscretion in matters pertaining to the award of contracts for printing the money order forms of the government, James T. Metcalf, for many years superintendent of the money order system of the postoffice department, today was removed from office by the postmaster-general. A full investigation of the case will be made later.

C. Endicott Allen, a young Harvard graduate, has been asleep with brief intervals for four weeks at the Monmouth hospital, Long Branch. Even ammonia fails to awaken him. He is the victim of neurasthenia.

Herman C. Pitton, a member of this year's graduating class of the Stanton high school, made a record for himself by walking 10 miles a day to and from school and was neither absent nor tardy during the entire year.

Worse Than Slavery.

Following Judge Speer's presentment to the grand jury at Macon Thursday that peonage existed in the south revelations in Alabama tend to sustain his position. The law itself creates peonage. There is nothing like it on the pages of the statute books of any other state in the union. It is medieval in conception and its existence today in Alabama presents an anomaly that is difficult to understand. Every Alabama lawyer of standing will tell you frankly that the purpose of it is to enable the owners of plantations to retain the services of their negro hands who may be unfortunate enough to have committed a misdemeanor. Pace, the Cosbys, the Turners, the Dixons and others, who figure in the disclosures before the Montgomery grand jury, perverted the law by bribing justices and constables to get up false prosecutions and trials. It is more horrible because the slave drivers, relieved of a sense of responsibility for the well-being of human property, treat their victims with barbarous cruelty. They keep them confined in filthy stockades, work them in irons and, as in the case of Sarah Nealey, do not hesitate to beat them to death when they believe they are stubborn.

Cleaning Up Heppner.

Advices from the scene of destruction in Heppner, Oregon, state that three hundred bodies have been found and many believe the work is only half begun. Women take charge of the bodies as they are borne out of the wreckage by the men. Forms of women frequently come to light bereft of all clothing. The bodies are borne to Roberts hall to be washed and dressed by women, shrouded in coarse white clothes, and laid in rough wood boxes. There is no time for ceremony. The floors are covered with the half diluted mud that drips from the victims, but the living patter through it or sweep it out when it gets too deep. The rough boxes go to the cemeteries, many at a time, piled high on the wagons. Medicines are not needed here nor are physicians nor nurses. The town must be cleaned to escape pestilence. It must have more men, to help in cleaning and provisions to feed the workers. Many families are entirely destitute, all their worldly goods having been carried away.

The Czar's Danger.

The attempt to assassinate the czar of Russia, made known Saturday, revealed to all Europe the danger in which the ruler of Russia stands of sharing the fate of King Alexander of Serbia and of his own ancestor, Czar Paul, who was murdered more than a century ago. An effort was made to hush up the affair, because of the highly nervous condition of the czar since the Belgrade royal massacre. Nothing has yet been made public, however, as to the identity of the would-be assassin. The most amazing report yet received, however, is that the czarina shares in the general condemnation of her husband's weakness, and would view without great regret his assassination. The amiability of the czarina's character has long been known in Europe and the report is not generally credited. Apparently the attempt on the czar's life has been kept a profound secret from Nicholas himself.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The bodies of A. L. Carr and Clarence Benjamin, who were drowned in Muskegon lake on the evening of Memorial day with Dr. Benjamin, father of Clarence, and son-in-law of Mr. Carr, have been recovered as well as that of the doctor.

A honeymoon in the White House is the prospect of Sherman Bell, rough rider, personal friend of President Roosevelt and adjutant-general of Colorado, who married Miss Effie Carter at Colorado Springs. President Roosevelt in a telegram of congratulation sent a special invitation.

The Use of Arm.
Heart Trouble.

Could Not Eat, Sleep

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure
Cured Entirely.

"If it hadn't been for Dr. Miles' Remedies I would not be here to write this letter. Two years ago last June I lost the use of my left arm, could not use it and could only move it with the help of my right hand. My heart was so weak I could not sleep nights for smothering spells. I was out of sorts all over and could eat nothing. I grew so weak that I could not walk without staggering like a drunken man and my home doctor said he could do nothing for me. I was in so much pain I was almost wild. I could not take morphine nor opium as they made me worse. So I got to thinking about Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine and the more I thought about it the more I wanted to try them. I wrote to the Dr. Miles Medical Co. for advice which I followed to the letter. I can say today that I am glad I did as I am a well woman now; can work and can walk two or three miles and not mind it. I can also use my arm again as well as ever. You do not know how thankful I am for those grand medicines Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and Nervine. I think Dr. Miles' Remedies are the best in the world, and if I should get sick again I should take the same course. The remedies also helped my daughter Vida so wonderfully that I should have written you before to thank you, but I wanted to be sure that the cure was permanent, which I now know to be the case."—Mrs. Frank Loomis, Allen, Mich.

BALL PLAYING GALORE.

Several Good Games Pulled Off the Past Week in Spite of the Wet Weather.

The game last Saturday between the Stove works team and the North Lake Reds was a well played one, the former winning 4 to 3. Collins, of North Lake, had all kinds of curves and plenty of speed, and would have won his game had he been given good support. McLaren, Holmes and Cook of the Stars played with the North Lake team, who came short handed. Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Total

Batteries: Beissel and Steinbach; Collins, Gilbert and Heatley.

The Banners, of Detroit, upset the calculations of the Stars last Saturday and took them into camp to the tune of 7 to 5 "Rubber" Krapp, the Detroit's Indian pitcher, was in the finest of form, and had the Stars guessing throughout the game. The "brave" mixed his slow ones with his fast ones, and was master of the situation at all times. Rogers was on the firing line for the Stars, and pitched a good game, but the poor work of his team mates offset his good work. Rogers seems to be followed by a hoodoo, for in his losing games he has struck out 32 men in 23 innings, and lost after all his good work. The game was a good one, although when the Detroit boys got on bases they stole much too frequently to suit the "fans." Outside of Rogers, the whole team did poor work either at the bat or in the field. Cook played a very good second, Holmes scored the first run by good work and McLaren brought in two in the third inning by a good drive. The boys are anxious to play the Banners again and say that if they do they will win. Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Total
Detroit Banners,	0	2	0	1	2	0	0	1	1	7
Junior Stars,	1	0	3	0	0	1	0	0	0	5

Runs—Stars—McLaren 1, Holmes 1, Rogers 1, L. BeGole 1, Bacon 1; Detroit—Krapp 2, Burckner 1, Kees 2, Diedrick 1, Tottle 1. First base on balls—By Rogers 14, by Krapp 8. Stolen bases—Stars 3, Detroit 9. Wild pitches—Rogers 3, Krapp 2. Time of game 2 hours. Umpire, Frank Miller. Attendance 300.

The game last Thursday between the Stars and Dexter City team was a well played one, the Stars winning the game by a score of 13 to 7. The Stars presented their last year's pitcher, Dwight Miller, as the bait for the Dexter batters, but they did not take kindly to his offerings. He was succeeded by Holmes in the fifth, who pitched good ball. The work of Rafferty at third was worthy of special mention. Ryan, of Dexter, made a home run. Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Total
Junior Stars,	8	0	0	1	3	0	1	0	1	13
Dexter,	1	1	1	0	2	0	1	0	1	7

Batteries—Stars—Miller, Holmes, BeGole and Bacon; Dexter—Sackett and Ryan.

The coming of the Plymouth Juniors next Wednesday, July 1, will give the people of this place a chance to see the team they have all wanted to see in action. The Plymouth team and the Stars are the worst of enemies on the ball field, but the best of friends off the field. Both teams have the highest regard for the playing abilities of the other, and put up the best games of any two teams ever brought together. The Plymouth team has no stars, but all their players are good, consistent, and hard working players. Their battery, Wood and Riggs, is their mainstay, although Smith at second is a fine player. The Plymouth boys are larger than our boys, but all who go will be repaid. The record now is, Plymouth beat Chelsea in 1902 at that place, 10 to 4; the Stars won here 16 to 15. The Plymouth team defeated the Chelsea High School, May 1, 11 to 10.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

The Use of Arm. Heart Trouble.

Could Not Eat, Sleep or Walk.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Cured Entirely.

"If it hadn't been for Dr. Miles' Remedies I would not be here to write this letter. Two years ago last June I lost the use of my left arm, could not use it and could only move it with the help of my right hand. My heart was so weak I could not sleep nights for smothering spells. I was out of sorts all over and could eat nothing. I grew so weak that I could not walk without staggering like a drunken man and my home doctor said he could do nothing for me. I was in so much pain I was almost wild. I could not take morphine nor opium as they made me worse. So I got to thinking about Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine and the more I thought about it the more I wanted to try them. I wrote to the Dr. Miles Medical Co. for advice which I followed to the letter. I can say today that I am glad I did as I am a well woman now; can work and can walk two or three miles and not mind it. I can also use my arm again as well as ever. You do not know how thankful I am for those grand medicines Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and Nervine. I think Dr. Miles' Remedies are the best in the world, and if I should get sick again I should take the same course. The remedies also helped my daughter Vida so wonderfully that I should have written you before to thank you, but I wanted to be sure that the cure was permanent, which I now know to be the case."—Mrs. Frank Loomis, Allen, Mich.

BALL PLAYING GALORE.

Several Good Games Pulled Off the Past Week in Spite of the Wet Weather.

The game last Saturday between the Stove works team and the North Lake Reds was a well played one, the former winning 4 to 3. Collins, of North Lake, had all kinds of curves and plenty of speed, and would have won his game had he been given good support. McLaren, Holmes and Cook of the Stars played with the North Lake team, who came short handed. Score by innings:

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Stove Works, 0 3 0 0 1 0 4
North Lake, 0 0 3 0 0 0 0-3
Batteries, Beissel and Steinbaach; Collins, Gilbert and Heatley.

The Banners, of Detroit, upset the calculations of the Stars last Saturday and took them into camp to the tune of 7 to 5 "Rubber" Krapp, the Detroit's Indian pitcher, was in the finest of form, and had the Stars guessing throughout the game. The "brave" mixed his slow ones with his fast ones, and was master of the situation at all times. Rogers was on the firing line for the Stars, and pitched a good game, but the poor work of his team mates offset his good work. Rogers seems to be followed by a hoodoo, for in his losing games he has struck out 32 men in 29 innings, and lost after all his good work. The game was a good one, although when the Detroit boys got on bases they stole much too frequently to suit the "fans." Outside of Rogers, the whole team did poor work either at the bat or in the field. Cook played a very good second, Holmes scored the first run by good work and McLaren brought in two in the third inning by a good drive. The boys are anxious to play the Banners again and say that if they do they will win. Score by innings:

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Detroit Banners, 0 2 0 1 2 0 1 1-7
Junior Stars, 1 0 3 0 0 1 0 0-5
Runs—Stars—McLaren 1, Holmes 1, Rogers 1, L. BeGole 1, Bacon 1; Detroit—Krapp 2, Burkkersea 1, Kees 2, Diedrick 1, Tottle 1. First base on balls—By Rogers 13, by Krapp 8. Stolen bases—Stars 3, Detroit 9. Wild pitches—Rogers 3, Krapp 2. Time of game 2 hours. Umpire, Frank Miller. Attendance 300.

The game last Thursday between the Stars and Dexter City team was a well played one, the Stars winning the game by a score of 13 to 7. The Stars presented their last year's pitcher, Dwight Miller, as the bait for the Dexter batters, but they did not take kindly to lings. He was succeeded by Hoff, who pitched good ball. of Rafferty at third was worthy mention. Ryan, of Dexter, made a run. Score by innings:

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Junior Stars, 8 0 0 0 1 3
Dexter, 1 1 1 0 2 0
Batteries—Stars—Miller, Hoff
Gole and Bacon; Dexter—St. Ryan.

The coming of the Plymouth next Wednesday, July 1, will people of this place a chance team they have all wanted to see. The Plymouth team and the Stars worst of enemies on the ball field best of friends off the field. I have the highest regard for abilities of the other, and put u games of any two teams ever together. The Plymouth team h but all their players are good, and hard working players. The Wood and Biggs, is their although Smith at second is a f The Plymouth boys are larger boys, but all who go will be rep record now is, Plymouth beat 1902 at that place, 10 to 4; the here 16 to 15. The Plymouth defeated the Chelsea High School 11 to 10.

HOMICIDE AT MUNITH.

Hotelkeeper August Braun Killed His Ex-Bartender in Defence of Himself and Family.

August Braun, proprietor of the hotel at Munith, killed his bartender, William McCrow, by striking him on the head with an iron stake at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, in defense of himself, his wife and child.

McCrow's falling was protracted spree. On Thursday he returned to Munith on the verge of delirium tremens. He upbraided Braun for hiring a man in his place, but Braun explained the matter to him and the incident closed.

Saturday evening McCrow retired to his old room at the hotel. In the middle of the night he started in to break the furniture and raise Cain generally. Some boarders awakened Braun and told him what was happening. He lost no time in getting his wife and babe out of the house and over to Con-table Geo. Frey muth's house. On the way there he picked up a heavy iron stake. Braun had not succeeded in getting his wife and child into the house when Mrs. Braun, who was carrying the baby, cried out in fright, "Here he is now." Turning, Braun saw McCrow and quickly stepped in between his wife and baby and McCrow. McCrow had both hands concealed behind him.

"What are you doing here?" Braun said to him.

"I am going to shoot you both," McCrow replied.

Quick as a flash Braun swung the iron stake. It struck McCrow on the head with full force, and he dropped. McCrow was taken back to the hotel, but he did not regain consciousness, and died not long after.

Mrs. Braun is a sister of Mrs. Charles Schaefer, of this town. Braun is not blamed at all for his action in the matter as it is generally believed that McCrow would have carried out his threat, it being known that he always had firearms in his room.

Fresh Air for City Children.

The Michigan Fresh Air Society, which for the past few years has been sending out poor children into country homes for a two or three weeks' vacation, is about to begin operations for this season. During the existence of the society, 1,400 children have been sent to such homes among respectable farmers as were offered them. The society here provides the children, and furnishes transportation to and from the homes, the only expense to the farmers being the keeping or boarding of the children, which many of them gladly offer to do. The children are mostly under 12 years of age, and of a class that other wise could have no vacation.

The society asks the Herald to publish this in the hope that some of our many readers may be willing to co-operate with them in this beautiful charity, which commends itself to everybody, by opening their homes to some of these children for a short stay during July or August. Further information may be secured from the secretary, Dr. James A. Post, 114 Bates street, Detroit, Mich.

Michigan Senate's Extravagance.

The Lansing Journal tells the following story of how the people's money was wasted by the extravagant, but now happily defunct, state senate. "The senate employe who probably got the biggest extra pay rake off," said a citizen of Lansing, "was a lady stenographer from the upper peninsula. She secured her position through the influence of Senator Moriarity and secured $120 mileage at the very start, an amount that might have been saved by hiring a stenographer right here in town. She received $3 per day for every day of the session. When it was over she was granted $326 extra compensation. Little time was lost in securing the money and she has now gone home."

OUT OF THE RACE.

One Page of the House is Thoroughly Up to Date.

A certain member of the house, who was defeated for re-election, had for four years as a favorite one of the little pages of the house. The member was constantly doing little things to please the boy, of whom he was very fond.

When the member returned this winter the page seemed to be unaware of his existence. He never visited him, and failed to take luncheon with him, as he had often done. The member, mystified, called him one day and inquired the reason for the breaking off of the friendship.

"Well, it's this way," replied the page, "You have been defeated, and I am only playing favorites, so, you see, I can't be bothered with you any more."

A Question for Teachers.

Who will tell me what is the plural of O? Is it "os" or "oes"? Tomatoes is the plural of tomato; stillets is said to be the plural of stiletto. Here are some examples of inconsistency: Potato, potatoes; negro, negroes; buffalo, buffaloes; hero, heroes; dado, dados; toe, toes; canto, cantos; alto, altos; volcano, volcanoes; no, noes; pro, pros; tyro, tyros; wo, woos; octavo, octavos; palmetto, palmettoes; grotto, grottoes; duello, duellos; cargo, cargoes; libretto, librettos, etc. You may have observed that our high and mighty dictionaries studiously avoid giving the plurals to these words, and others ending in o. The right of an educated author to spell as he pleases should never be questioned. A foolish consistency is the hobgoblin of petty minds.—New York Press.

A Compliment From Carnegie.

Robert C. Ogden related an incident a few days ago which occurred at a dinner over which he presided. Andrew Carnegie sat next to him. While the speaking was in progress, Mr. Carnegie reached over and whispered to Mr. Ogden: "I like you." "This was very gratifying," said Mr. Ogden, in telling the story, "and I wondered what was the reason for this fondness. I was not long in doubt, for Mr. Carnegie said: 'Most toastmasters say too much. I like you because you say so little.'"—New York Times.

"Not a sparrow falleth, but its God doth know.
Just as when His mandate lays a monarch low.
Not a leaflet wavereth, but its God doth see;
Think not then, oh, trembler, God forgetteth thee.

For more precious surely than the birds that fly
Is a Father's image to a Father's eye.
E'en thine hairs are numbered, trust Him full and free,
Cast thy care upon Him, and He'll care for thee.
For the God that planted in thy breast a Soul,
On His sacred tablets doth thy name enroll.
Cheer thine heart, then, trembler, never faithless be,
He that marks the sparrows will remember thee."

A Summer Millionaire

Jimmy Baker is a journeyman barber. Last July he "got on a good thing" at a racetrack and won $120. He immediately resigned his position and started to take a two weeks' vacation. He had heard some of the patrons of the downtown barber shop where he worked talking about Oconomowoc as being a "dead swell place," and he decided that it would just about suit him so long as his $120 held out.

He took a fine room at the "swell-est" hotel and started in to try to enjoy himself. But nobody at the hotel seemed to be anxious to make his acquaintance. Even the pretty young woman in blue and pink flowered shirt waist who acted as telegraph operator in the hotel lobby was exceedingly chilly. In the big hotel dining room the summer girls and their guardian mammas never even seemed to see Jimmy, though he never came in until everybody else was seated and was always careful to comb his hair into elaborate semi-circles on either side his forehead.

Four or five days had gone by in this way and Jimmy was almost ready to declare that society life was all a snare and a delusion.

Meanwhile the small blond young woman who sent and received messages had unconsciously twined herself tightly into the tendrils of Jimmy's helpless affection. Time after time Jimmy sauntered airily up to her desk and made some playful remark which was intended to be fascinating. But it was no use. Miss Maginn always looked up with a sober and businesslike air and inquired whether he was expecting a message.

That finally gave him an idea. He had never received but two messages by telegraph in his life, but there seemed to be no reason why he should not get a few. He sat down and wrote a long letter to one of the boys in the barber shop at Chicago.

That evening Jimmy spent in painfully watching a dance in the hotel dining room, watching with envious eyes a young man in a white yachting suit as he whirled the beautiful Miss Maginn round the long room in a waltz. And Miss Maginn never even glanced in his direction.

Dear me! What a change there was in the morning. When Jimmy came down into the lobby on his way to breakfast pretty Miss Maginn, looking as fresh as a daisy before the sun

"Beautiful morning," said Jimmy, had slipped the dew from its petals, looked up at him with a smile.
"Mr. Baker," she called to him, "I've a message here for you. I fancy it's an important one."

Jimmy took the yellow envelope with what he tried to make a bored expression. He leaned carelessly against the ornamental railing about Miss Maginn's desk, tore open the envelope, unfolded the message, and read it.

"James Baker, Oconomowoc, Wis.: Have offer of $200,000 spot cash for your State street frontage. Shall I accept?"
Z. S. Sullivan.

For just a wink of the eye Jimmy was knocked out. But he was game and quickly recovered himself. The boys in the barber shop at home were coming it pretty strong, but that was no reason why he should weaken and spoil the game.

Miss Maginn always looked up with a sober and businesslike air.

Carelessly he doubled up the bit of yellow paper and thrust it into his coat pocket. Pretty Miss Maginn was watching his every movement. She had discovered an unsuspected millionaire.

"Beautiful morning," said Jimmy, as if he had dismissed the telegram and its contents from his mind altogether.

"Charming," gurgled Miss Maginn. "I didn't see you at the dance last night, Mr. Baker."

O, the gay deceiver! Jimmy knew perfectly well the reason why she had not seen him. She had looked clear over his head. But he countered promptly. "I'm not a dancing man, Miss Maginn."

"You really ought to learn, Mr. Baker. Why, it's perfectly lovely. There's to be a dance over at the Merritt house this evening, and if you like I'll give you a lesson. I'm sure you'd learn quickly."

Ah! the power of a few feet of State street frontage!

"I'll be delighted," said Jimmy. "I'll call for you at 8 o'clock. Shall I dress?"

Jimmy started to walk away from the desk when Miss Maginn called him back. "That message came collect, Mr. Baker. Shall I put it on your room bill?"

"Why, yes," said Jimmy in a lordly way. "Or, wait a minute. I'll pay it now. I hate these extras on one's hotel bills."

He pulled out his diminishing roll of bills and put Miss Maginn to the trouble of changing the only twenty he had left. Then he left her in a most excited and delighted state of mind. On his way across the hotel lobby he pulled one hand out of his coat pocket. With it came the telegraph message and dropped unnoticed on the floor.

He was at the breakfast table when the mother of the three charming young women who sat at the next table came hurrying up.

"Is this Mr. Baker?"

"Yes? Well, I found a telegram of yours on the floor in the hotel lobby. I'm glad to be able to return it to you. It's too bad for you to sit over here all alone at this table when we have an extra place at ours. We'd be delighted to have you join us, Mr. Baker."

Jimmy decided as he accepted the pressing invitation to change his seat that the boys in the barber shop had builded better than they knew. After a pleasant breakfast with the three pretty girls Jimmy accepted an invitation to go out yachting with one of them in the afternoon and then strolled out into the hotel lobby again.

Miss Maginn looked up at him with a ravishing smile on her face.

"May I have a blank and a pencil?" he asked. "Thank you. I'll send an answer to that telegram."

This is what he wrote:
"Z. S. Sullivan, Chicago, Ill.: Use your own judgment about selling. Don't bother me about details. I am trying to rest."
James Baker.

"Send it paid, please," said Jimmy, as he laid half a dollar on the desk.

The look that grew in Miss Maginn's beautiful eyes as she read over the careless message in which Mr. Baker put away from him a mere matter of $200,000 might well have warmed the heart of a colder man than Jimmy.

"You won't forget our dancing lesson this evening, Mr. Baker?" she said with a caressing note in her voice.

Jimmy had a lovely time out on the lake that afternoon. He was all alone in the boat with the youngest of the old lady's three pretty daughters. When the boat keeled over under the wind Jimmy could hardly help sitting close to her indeed, but she didn't seem to mind it a bit. Once a sudden gust of wind almost capsized the little craft and after it had righted again the pretty skipper looked at Jimmy with an arch smile and said: "Well, that was a close shave, wasn't it?"

Jimmy blushed a rosy red and looked at her a second time. But he decided that she didn't mean it.

When they started out Jimmy had seen Miss Maginn watching them out of the hotel windows. Now, as they drew near the landing he saw her again, standing out on the end of the pier waving a handkerchief as if to beckon them in.

"O, Mr. Baker," she called before the boat had been tied up, "here's an important message for you. I think it wants an immediate answer."

Jimmy wondered what was coming now. He tore the envelope and read:

"James Baker, Oconomowoc, Wis.: Big bulge in wheat. Shall I let go half million bushels for a profit of sixty thousand?"
Z. S. Sullivan.

"Nothing important," said Jimmy. "I wish I could get the boys not to bother me about trifles when I'm on my vacation."

Then he helped his fair partner out of the boat and walked up to the hotel with one of the girls on each side of him.

Jimmy did not stay out the whole two weeks. At the end of the tenth day he discovered that he had just money enough left to pay his car fare back to Chicago after the hotel bill was settled. So he took his departure between dinner and breakfast. He left at least two girls behind him who had taken his proposal of marriage under consideration for a few days. Doubtless they are still wondering what ever became of him.—Chicago Tribune.

THEY DO NOT WANT RICHES.

One Owns a Silver Mine and the Other a Health-Giving Spring.

"I know two men in Colorado," said Col. Alexander, an officer in the army, "who may be ranked as peculiar characters. One of them owns the greatest silver mine in the state and does not develop it, and the other owns a hot springs which is a marvel in its curative properties and he does nothing to encourage people to come to it. The mine owner digs out some silver ore from time to time, puts it in a sack and carries it to Denver, where he sells it. In this manner he gets enough money to supply his necessities, but he will do nothing more. He might become a silver king if he would develop that mine and take out the wealth of silver. I can't say why he will not do so, but he won't, and that is all there is to it."

"The other fellow has a spring that is wonderful and those who could stand the treatment they received at his place have been cured of chronic ailments of a most serious nature. He has a few tumble-down cabins about, and with nothing in the way of luxuries or even comforts. If he would put up a good hotel and make his place attractive for sick people he would have great crowds there, but that is something he will not do."

"He says those who want the benefit of his spring must take what they find and be satisfied with what satisfies him. If they don't like it they needn't come, is the way he puts it, and he cannot be induced to make improvements or to allow others to do so."

Grain Ration for Steers.

In the heart of the corn belt, where feeding operations are conducted on a much larger scale than in this state, the steer is usually supplied corn ad libitum, says Professor W. A. Henry. Often this grain is thrown to him in such quantities that all of it is not even swallowed, some falling to the ground to be trampled under foot in the filth, possibly to be picked up by pigs running in the feed lot. In many of our middle western states from twenty to thirty pounds, in a few cases as much as thirty-five pounds, of corn are fed to the steer daily for weeks at a time. Then, too, there is little variety to the feed given. Sometimes corn constitutes the sole concentrate and straw, hay, or more often cornstalks, constitute the only roughage. It is true that as a rule we in Wisconsin do not place quite so much grain before our steers as do the feeders farther south, but still the allowance is heavy, and there is often no thought of attempting to reduce it in any way. When corn was cheap—only a few dollars a ton—it did not matter much whether the steer ate a few pounds more or less, especially in seasons when cattle sold well. The cost of corn, however, is steadily rising, and this increase is not altogether met by an equal rise in the price of fat cattle. The burning question, then, is, is it possible to fatten our steers on a smaller allowance of grain than has been customary in the past? In helping answer this question let me first call the attention to feeding operations in Great Britain. No one can say that the beeves of Scotland and England when sent to market are not well fattened. What is the practice of the English and Scotch farmer in regard to the amount of grain which he allows his bullocks? I have spent considerable time in going through the literature on the subject, and am surprised to find that the British feeder gives to his fattening beeves but a small grain allowance. Searching authentic sources of information, I find that the usual grain allowance for the fattening steer in England and Scotland ranges from six to eight pounds a head daily. In a few cases it reached ten pounds, and in only one case out of a score or more of reports have I found it stated that so much as twelve pounds of grain was fed to a steer in a single day, and this amount only at the close of the feeding period. The grains used in Britain consist usually of barley, cornmeal, cottonseed meal, and linseed meal. You all know that the turnip or rutabaga, as we call it, is extensively used in feeding operations in Great Britain. With the small grain ration is fed from 50 to 100 pounds of sliced turnips, four or five pounds of cut straw, and from five to ten pounds of hay, either cut or long. On this ration the steer in England and Scotland makes a gain of between one and three-quarters and two pounds daily, or say, from fifty to sixty pounds per month. There is no need of saying that the English stockman does not fatten his bullocks or that they are inferior to ours when they are sold for the block. The English stockman, as a rule, has good cattle, and he usually puts them on the market in a finished condition.

Cost of a Pound of Beef.

One who has followed carefully the feeding experiments cannot but be impressed with the great variation in the amount of feed required to produce a pound of beef, says Professor Frederick B. Mumford. I have given this somewhat careful study, and I have found that the number of pounds of grain required to produce a pound of gain at the different stations has varied from two pounds to fifteen pounds. Even when the same grain ration is used the variations in the amount of grain required to produce a pound of gain are very great. In one experiment at the Missouri experiment station, where corn was the principal grain ration, three pounds of corn were sufficient to produce one pound of gain, while at the Kansas station, where corn was the principal grain ration, it required fourteen pounds of corn to produce one pound of gain. Now, if the profit is largely dependent upon the amount of grain required to produce a pound of beef, then a knowledge of the conditions which make it possible to produce a pound of beef with one-half the quantity of grain will be of the greatest possible assistance in determining upon the methods employed in profitable cattle feeding.

The Argentine Corn Crop.

Broomhall.—The Argentine corn crop is officially estimated at 147,857,000 bushels, which compares with a crop a year ago of 84,000,000 bushels, 73,700,000 bushels in 1901, and 60,000 bushels in 1900. The exportable surplus of the new crop is officially estimated at 108,000,000 bushels, which compares with 43,000,000 bushels actually exported in 1902, and 39,800,000 bushels in 1901.

Why Conductor Thought Women Should Not Have Ballot.

How many-sided and how funny is the life lead in a city street car. Not long ago a woman gave the conductor of one a dollar bill. On receiving the change she counted and recounted it. "This is not right," she called after him. "Ain't, eh; there's 95 cents. Don't suppose yer wanten ride free." She made another mental calculation and blushing subsided. As the man reached the rear platform he was heard to grumble: "And them's the things as wants to vote."

New Way to Do Time.

Dr. Lillinksold, of Butte, Mont., is credited with having adapted hypnotism to a novel purpose. The doctor, having been placed under arrest, tried, fined and sentenced to jail for twenty days for some small infraction of the law, deliberately hypnotized himself, saying he would awaken from his trance at the expiration of twenty days. All efforts to awaken him were unsuccessful till the end of that period. As a mean of "doing" time, or of whiling away long intervals, Dr. Lillinksold's plan is probably unique.

A Cure for Dropsy.

Sedgwick, Ark., June 22d.—Mr. W. S. Taylor of this place says:

"My little boy had Dropsy. Two doctors—the best in this part of the country—told me he would never get better, and to have seen him anyone else would have said they were right. His feet and limbs were swollen so that he could not walk nor put on his shoes."

"When the doctors told me he would surely die, I stopped giving him their medicine and began giving him Dodd's Kidney Pills. I gave him three pills a day and at the end of eight days the swelling was all gone, but as I wanted to be sure, I kept on with the pills for some time, gradually reducing the quantity, till finally I stopped altogether."

"Dodd's Kidney Pills certainly saved my child's life. Before using them he was a helpless invalid in his mother's arms from morning till night. Now he is a healthy, happy child, running and dancing and singing. I can never express our gratitude."

"Dodd's Kidney Pills entirely cured our boy after everybody, doctors and all, had given him up to die."

An Ideal Woman's Medicine.

So says Mrs. Josie Irwin, of 325 So. College St., Nashville, Tenn., of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Never in the history of medicine has the demand for one particular remedy for female diseases equalled that attained by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and never during the lifetime of this wonderful medicine has the demand for it been so great as it is to-day.

From the Atlantic to the Pacific, and throughout the length and breadth of this great continent come the glad tidings of woman's sufferings relieved by it, and thousands upon thousands of letters are pouring in from grateful women saying that it will and positively does cure the worst forms of female complaints.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all women who are puzzled about their health to write her at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Such correspondence is seen by women only, and no charge is made.
