WHEELER-FOSTER.

Two Well Known Chelsea Young People Married Tuesday.

The marriage of Mr. William F. Wheeler to Miss Amy T. Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Foster, was solemnized at the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart Tuesday morning, in the presence of a large congregation, showing the high esteem in which the young people are held by their friends as no invitations were issued. Rev. W. P. Considine celebrated the nuptial mass and made some excellent and appropriate remarks at its close. The special music was furnished by Mr. Louis Burg, who sang as solos "O, Promise Me," the "Ave Maria," and at the communion, "O, Lord, I am not worthy."

The bride was attired in a dress of white silk mull trimmed with Duchesse lace and carried a white prayer book and rosary. She was attended by her sister Miss Cornelia C. Foster, who was also gowned in white. The groom's best man was his brother Thomas Wheeler.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents to the members of the immediate families of the couple. The wedding presents were numerous, useful and valuable, embracing furniture, silver and china ware, dishes, several presents of money, etc.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler went on a wedding trip to places in western Michigan and will return home the latter part of this week. They will go to housekeeping at once in Mrs. Sherry's house on West Middle street.

A Runaway Accident.

A. C. Johnson's spirited team of bay horses got beyond their owner's control on South street Tuesday morning and ran away. At the crossing on Main street the wagon swerved to one side and Mr. Johnson was thrown out, the wheel passing over his leg, and as the wagon was heavily loaded with ladders, etc., it was badly bruised. Charles Stevens, who was also in the wagon hung to the lines, but the horses ran into the telephone pole opposite Munson Burkhardt's house, one going each side of it. The wagon was about reduced to kindling wood. Mr. Stevens was thrown out and had his back hurt, and one of the horses had an iron hook, on which the rope that raises and lowers the electric light is fastened, run into its shoulder. This horse ran along Main street and was caught opposite John Farrell's. The other ran east on Park street, then in and out several people's yards and thence out on Madison street. It was finally captured.

Some Ancient Documents.

In looking over the abstracts of title for the strip of land in Ann Arbor soon to be sold to the government for a post office site by J. P. Beal, Asst. U. S. Atty. Willcox has run across a number of antique documents of considerable interest. Among them is a copy of the original patent from the government to John Allen, dated Oct. 11, 1824. The original was signed by President James Monroe and George Graham, commissioner of the general land office.

It was also ascertained that the first probate court transaction in Washtenaw county occurred in July, 1828, at which James Noyes was appointed administrator for the estate of Geo. W. Noyes, with Hon. B. Ferrand sitting as judge and Cyrus Beckwith, register.

The Cyrus Beckwith mentioned above was the first settler in Sylvan township, coming here Oct. 18, 1830.

A Love Letter

Would not interest you if you're looking for a guaranteed salve for sores, burns or piles. Otto Dodd, of Ponder, Mo., writes: "I suffered with an ugly sore for a year, but a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured me. It's the best salve on earth. 25¢ at Glazier & Stimson's drug store."

CLAIM THEY WERE DEFRAUDED.

The Heirs of Mrs. Margaret Hinckley, Who Are of Age, Are Suing Their Father Geo. Hinckley.

Elsie, Agnes and Bert Hinckley, all of age, have entered suit in the circuit court against their father George Hinckley to recover the 80-acre farm in Dexter township which their mother Margaret Hinckley left.

The estate was not probated and the three children claim that their father obtained their signatures to a paper, which he represented was to take the place of one their mother burned, and which he has since told them was a quit-claim deed of the farm to them. They claim that no consideration passed and want the deed canceled.

There is one other child Floyd Hinckley, now 19 years old.

Fr. Considine at Grass Lake.

The Jackson Patriot of Friday contained the following words of commendation for one of Chelsea's best known clergymen:

Rev. William P. Considine, the excellent pastor of St. Mary's church, Chelsea, conducted divine services at the home of Timothy Merrinane in this village (Grass Lake), on Tuesday morning last. The reverend father delivered a most earnest and feeling exhortation to his people. He appealed to them to lead pure and upright lives that they might be ever ready for the great change which comes to old and young alike. He pointed out, in well chosen words, that only by keeping the Sabbath day holy, by attending the sacrifice of the mass and prayerful devotions at home, by chaste thought and temperate lives, could they hope to please God and win everlasting felicity. It was urged that the children should be taught to love and revere the blessed Lord and honor the Holy Church, which has been divinely established for the good of immortal souls. To this end the catechism should be placed in their hands and explained to them, and they should also accompany their parents to the house of worship that they might be led in paths of virtue and holiness. The good father said if any were not taking church papers and periodicals they should subscribe for and read them in order to keep in touch with the progress and welfare of Catholicism and its interests. The address abounded in just such advice and sweet thought as might be expected to emanate from the lips of this pious priest.

AFTER A BIG ESTATE.

Sir George Compton Reade, Will Bring Suit to Recover His Ancestral Domains in England.

Sir George Compton Reade, of Dexter township, has just returned from a trip to England, where he went to press his claim to the baronetcy and estates of his ancestors at Shipton Court.

He found the property in possession of the heirs of Joseph Wakefield, who in 1673 was bootblack and later footman to Sir John Chandos Reade, seventh baronet. He obtained evidence that the estate was deeded to Wakefield by Sir John because of knowledge which Wakefield had of the murder by Sir John of Samuel Linden, his butler. He will go back to England and bring suit for the estate on the ground that undue influence was exercised by Wakefield on Sir John.

Much testimony about Wakefield is still preserved in England. All the servants knew of the murder and blackmail, but pride in the family kept them quiet.

Sir George was born in Canada and came with his parents to Dexter, where he has lived all his life.

A Very Dangerous Practice.

The small boys around Sylvan Center are working up a good chance for some of them to land in the reform school or jail if they do not quit their misdeeds on the Bolland line right of ways.

They are in the habit of putting large stones on the rails in order to throw the handcars off the track as the men ride forward and back to work. Friday afternoon they placed a large stone on the rail just west of Sylvan Center and when the handcar with its load of men and tools came swiftly along it struck the stone and was derailed. Men and tools were thrown violently off the car and the men were all more or less bruised up. Leigh Palmer, who was one of the gang, was thrown off head first and struck with his hip on a tie and his head on the rail, bruising him up badly. Had they been running as fast as they do sometimes they would some of them have been killed.

These same boys also throw stones at the men as they pass by and otherwise misconduct themselves. If they are wise they will stop these reprehensible practices before more serious results happen to themselves and others. The company officers have the names of all these boys and are considering the advisability of prosecuting them.

The 20th Mich. Infantry.

Thursday, Oct. 15, the 20th Michigan Infantry will hold its 30th reunion in Jackson, when it is expected 100 surviving members of the regiment will be in attendance. It is not thought that of the 1,000 men who went south with the regiment that over 200 now live. This regiment was the first of any service regiment to hold a reunion, having held one the first year after the close of the war in Jackson. A history of the regiment has been compiled, containing a complete account of incidents and encounters from the first to the last day of its service. A complete roster of the regiment by companies is given.

An Enjoyable Reception.

A very largely attended reception took place in the parlors of the Methodist church last evening, which was participated in by the people of the village generally. It was of a dual nature in that it was a welcome back to Rev. E. E. Caster, who will fill the pastorate of the church for another year, and a farewell to Mr. E. Wilbur Caster, his son, who leaves this week to take up his first charge at Medina, Lenawee county.

The evening was most pleasantly and sociably spent by all present. Refreshments were served and it was 11 o'clock before the final good-byes and hearty well wishes were exchanged with Mr. and Mrs. Caster and their family.

Showing What's Doing in All Sections of the State

Sutton Fined $2,000.

Two thousand dollars fine was the sentence pronounced by Judge West upon Eli R. Sutton for conspiring with Gens. Wm. White and Arthur Marshall and the Henderson-Ames Co., of Kalamazoo, to defraud the state out of $50,000 in the military clothing deal during the Spanish-American war. The fine was paid within half an hour to the clerk of the court with money that Sutton and his father-in-law's old friend, Prof. Curtis, brought from Sodus, N. Y., when they left that town Tuesday. An hour later Sutton was on his way to Detroit, where, at 11 o'clock Wednesday night, he took a Wabash sleeper, to join his wife and child, who are at the Sodus home. He will return to Lansing, temporarily, during the term of the Ingham circuit court, which begins next week, to testify for the prosecution at the trial of ex-State Senator John Holbrook. The specific charge against Holbrook is that he offered a talsman who had been summoned to serve on the Sutton jury $300 to acquit him on the charge to which he pleaded guilty, and which acquittal Sutton admitted in open court was fraudulent.

The Pardon of Adams.

Gov. Bliss has pardoned Albert Adams, who was serving a seven-year sentence in the state prison for the murder of an Indian boy near Sebawing last year. Adams has always claimed that he was attacked on a lonely road by a number of Indians, who had him down on the ground and were punishing him severely. One of his eyes was nearly gouged out and he was otherwise injured. In the melee he pulled his revolver and fired three shots while lying on his back, with the arm holding the revolver beneath him. The Indian boy was standing a short distance away and was killed. The Indians told conflicting stories of the encounter, one of them saying that Adams made an insulting remark to a squaw, which precipitated the row. The pardon board believed Adams gave a truthful account of the shooting.

"Queer" Money Makers.

Officers confiscated, near Koss, Mich., on the Wisconsin & Michigan railway, Saturday, one of the largest and most complete counterfeit money making outfits ever taken in the country. They also captured the leader and took him to Marquette, Mich., for trial in the United States court. The den of the counterfeiters was a small shanty on an isolated road, two miles from Koss. Their outfit was a most complete one, and consisted of dies for the manufacture of silver from 10 cents up to a dollar, and gold from $5 to $20. Further investigation, it is thought, will reveal a complete system for distributing the bogus money throughout the country. The coin was well made and hard to detect, both silver and gold being used in the composition.

Found in the River.

Grand Haven was greatly shocked Saturday by the discovery of the body of Dustin C. Oakes, cashier of the National bank of Grand Haven, floating in Grand river. Mr. Oakes had left his bank but a few minutes before his corpse was found. He had suffered lately from stomach and heart trouble. The supposition is that he walked to the docks to get fresh air, was attacked with dizziness and fell into the river, either from the dock or a fishing tug tied near by. Indications are that the body never sank. Mr. Oakes had been cashier of the National bank for three years. Before going to Grand Haven he had been in the banking business in Coopersville and Shelby. He was 50 years old, his birthplace being near Sturgis.

Rained the Assessment.

Owosso's assessment rolls have been returned from Lansing, having been subjected to the inspection, comparison and correction of the state tax commission. In common with all the assessing districts of the county, there has been a general increase in the valuation, both of real estate and personal property, the increase in the city amounting to 38 per cent on the general roll. The rate of increase throughout the county ranges from 10 to 70 per cent. Assessor Bigelow's valuation of the real estate of Owosso city was $2,612,230. The valuation placed by the commission is $3,617,255, an increase of $1,005,025. The personal property was raised $165,325.

Deputy Spafford's Pardon.

At a conference held in Grand Rapids Saturday it was decided that a pardon should be granted Deputy Game Warden Herbert Spafford, who was convicted of manslaughter at Frankfort. Those present at the conference were Gov. Bliss, also Deputy Harry A. Chase, State Game Warden Chapman, District Attorney Corvill, Mayor C. C. Dunham, of Cadillac; Prosecuting Attorney M. M. Lamouth, of Benzle county; Deputy Game Warden Brewster. Sentence has not yet been pronounced on Spafford.

The Holbrook Trial.

The trial of ex-Senator John Holbrook, who is charged with attempting to bribe a juror in the Eli Sutton case, will commence in the Ingham circuit court next week. Both sides announce themselves ready for trial. Judge Smith, chief counsel for Holbrook, expects that Judge West will not sit in the case, as he examined the witnesses, who gave the testimony upon which complaint was issued.

CONDENSED NEWS.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Gown.
Mrs. Stayneson Fish, wife of the president of the Illinois Central and leader of the "400" in New York, in an interview in St. Louis criticized Mrs. Roosevelt in a very unpleasant manner. Mrs. Fish was talking about gowns worn by American women.

"Mrs. Roosevelt," said the great society matron, "dresses on $300 a year, and she looks it."

RELIGIOUS COMMENT

Suspense.
Take them, O Death! and bear away
Whatever thou canst call thine own!
Thine image, stamped upon this clay,
Dost give thee that, but that alone.

Take them, O Grave! and let them lie
Rotted upon thy narrow shelves,
As garments by the soul laid by
And precious only to ourselves!

Take them, O great Eternity!
Our little life is but a guest,
That bends the branches of the tree,
And trails its blossoms in the dust.
—Henry W. Longfellow.

God With Us.
Emmanuel—God with us. Matthew 1.

The secret of joy and peace lies in the fact that we all believe in a present and not an absent God.

It is this which brings comfort to our hearts, which gives us security in the promise of eternal redemption and places before us the loving side of "our Father's" character.

By virtue of this declaration we can more fully realize God with and within the souls of men. Not with us merely in loving mercy, or care, or providence, or protection, but with us as one of us. The delight in thinking of what has been done for us in the ages past, for "even from everlasting to everlasting thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations," is enhanced by the thought of what God is now doing—that he still lives and rules and dwells among men, bringing all things to pass for the uplifting of his children to himself.

The thought of "Emmanuel" ought to make us brave. The abiding presence of God should give us courage, faith and hope—for if "God be for us," and with us, "who can be against us?" No temptation need be too strong to be conquered, no difficulty need be too hard to be surmounted, no sorrow need cause us to bury our hearts and lives in the graves of our loved ones, for it will eventually be with us as with them. "From grief and groan, with a golden crown, close by the throne of God." God in us will graduate our strength for every experience of life through which we shall pass, and omnipotent power will be under every care and burden. Thus we may bravely go into life's work as warriors to battle. Our Father, having taken our cause to his heart, ought to bring a similar action from us in his behalf. For there is a great battle on between righteousness and unrighteousness. The trumpet which musters the warriors soundeth loud and long, and the fight will be stern and desperate between truth and sin. We must take our post, every one, on one side or the other, for "If the Lord be with us, then follow him; but if Baal, then follow him." No touch or thought of compromise, no division of the living child, as in the days of Solomon, by a wicked woman; no acceptance of a particle of error, for "if God be for us, who can be against us?" Thus be brave in the word, "Emmanuel—God be with us."

In this world of sorrow there are some who know not the sweet peace of the adwelling presence of God. Their eyes have become blind by the glare of temporal things; their lives are filled with the husks of this world. Here in this wide world of sin-sick souls the God in us should go out to them. Our Father would dwell in their hearts and lives as in ours. He would have them be "sons of God." But do they see the revelation of God in us? Are our bodies, our commercial transactions, our social circle such that men see the dwelling place of the Most High, and covet the blessing in us? God shows himself in a multitude of ways and yet is always the selfsame Father. So will he manifest himself in the varied ways of men, through a wide range of activities, from the cup of cold water given "in his name," up to the accomplishment of larger things for men. God revealed in us "to will and do of his good pleasure" is to bring men back to their largest portion. This revelation is in earthly vessels "through whom God aforespoke" and speaks to-day. If the night, is dark our God's abiding light will enable us to scatter it. If the road be rough and dreary our God, who dwells in us, will assist us to make it smooth and plain. If sin has pressed our brother hard our God will provide a way of escape and eternal redemption.

So we need never say, Where is our God? for we live in the comforting assurance of the word, "Emmanuel—God with us."—Rev. Alfred W. H. Hodder.

Obedience.
We cannot foretell the working of the smallest event in our own lot; how can we presume to judge of things that are so much too high for us? There is nothing that becomes us, but entire submission, perfect resignation. As long as we set up our own will, and our own wisdom against God's, we make a wall between us and his love. But as soon as we lay ourselves entirely at his feet, we have enough light given us to guide our own steps; as the foot-soldier who hears nothing of the councils that determine the course of the great battle he is in, hears plainly enough the word of command, which he must himself obey. It is hard—the hardest thing of all perhaps—to flesh and blood. But carry that difficulty to the Savior, along with all your other sins and weakness, and ask him to pour into you a spirit of submission. He enters into your struggles; he has drunk the cup of our sufferings to the dregs; he knows the hard wrestling it costs us to say, "Not my will, but thine be done."—General Gordon.

Thoughtful Kindness.
The happiness of life depends far more on little things than on great, and it is a real tragedy that men and women who would gladly die for their own people, will not consult their humble preferences. You do not wish anybody to die for you. You do not wish anybody to make sacrifices for you. You do not like to use the tone of command in anything. Far better go without. But there are some small conveniences on which much of your peace depends, and you are unspeakably thankful to those who will help you to them. To do so would cost them practically nothing. A little attention, a little care would do everything.

There is much kindness in the world but there is very little thoughtful kindness, and for want of that life is vexed and marred. It is for want of lingering, ineffaceable regrets. It is because of that we have so often to say of the dead and say it with a very sore heart—

"You wanted little from us, and we gave you Less than little now, we sadly think."

Heartkeeping.
Heartkeeping is very much like housekeeping. There must be a continual sweeping out of dirt and clearing out of rubbish, a daily washing of dishes, and a perpetual battle with all sorts of vermin. If heart-cleaning could be done up once for all, then the Christian might discharge all his graces, and have an easy time of it. And just because the assaults of subtle temptations are so constant, and the uprisings of sinful passions are so frequent, and the task of keeping the inward man what it ought to be is so difficult, many a one who begins a religious life gets discouraged and makes a wretched failure. The question with every Christian is: Shall these accursed Amalekites of temptation burn up all my spiritual possessions, and overrun my soul? Shall outward assaults or inward weakness drive me to discouragement and disgrace me before my Master and before the world? Or shall they drive me to Jesus Christ, who will give me the victory?—Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D.

Character.
There is more cause for joy than for complaint in the hard and disagreeable circumstances of life. Browning said, "I count life just a stuff to try the soul's strength on." Spell the word "discipline" with a final "g"—"discipling." We are here to learn Time's lesson for Eternity's business. What does it signify if the circumstances about us are not of our choice, if by them we can be trained, learning the lessons of patience, fortitude, perseverance, self-denying service, acquiescence with God's will, and the hearty doing of it. God's will, and the hearty doing of it. Circumstances do not make character. The noblest character can emerge from the worst surroundings, and moral failures come out of the best. Just where you are, take the things of life as tools, and use them for God's glory; so you will help the kingdom come, and the Master will use the things of life in cutting and polishing you so that there shall some day be seen in you a soul conformed to his likeness.—Maltbie B. Babcock, D. D.

By His Grace.
Let our temper be under the rule of the love of Jesus. He can not alone curb it—he can make us gentle and patient. Let the vow that not an unkind word of others shall ever be heard from our lips, be laid trustfully at his feet. Let the gentleness that refuses to take offense, that is always ready to excuse, to think and hope the best, mark our intercourse with all. Let our life be one of self-sacrifice, always studying the welfare of others, finding our highest joy in blessing others. And let us, in studying the divine art of doing good, yield as obedient learners to the guidance of the Holy Spirit. By his grace the most commonplace life can be transfigured with the brightness of a heavenly beauty, as the infinite love of a divine nature shines out through our frail humanity.—Andrew Murray.

A Good World.
I find no words of querulous dissatisfaction upon Jesus' lips about the world he had come to. It was a good enough world to live a good life in, no doubt with pain, no doubt with violent collisions but yet with no impossibilities. There was nothing in it which the good man might not use for good. And always man was not to be improved by being put into a better world, the world was to be bettered by the occupation of a renewed and holy manhood.

EMPEROR GETS NEW FASHION.

Ruler of China Kissed a Small American Girl.
Mrs. Archibald Little in a recent magazine article says in describing the Chinese court, that the empress dowager is of "the type so well known in every land where society exists. Were she an English mother she would, one feels at once, marry all her daughters to eldest sons, irrespective of whether they were lunatics or confirmed dipsomaniacs." The emperor of China is of another disposition. At a party he repeatedly kissed a little American girl of 5 years. "How had the very idea of such a thing ever been suggested to him? No Chinese man throughout the whole length and breadth of the vast Chinese empire ever kissed wife or child unless he has been taught to do so by a foreigner. No Chinese mother even kisses her child. The nearest she gets to it is lifting her child's face up to hers and, as it were, smelling at it. Yet here was the emperor of China evidently versed in the practice, so that directly he saw this foreign little girl he took her up and kissed her as if it were the most natural thing in the world, whilst to the everyday Chinaman this would be a most unnatural and indeed repulsive process."

CAME EARLY FOR HIS MONEY.

Little Story Illustrates Thrifty Traits of New Englanders.
When Henry Harland was at Harvard he spent his vacations at Norwich, Conn. One Sunday he met an old friend of his to whom he owed a quarter. As he was leaving at 4:30 Monday morning for the long winter term, he called to the old gentleman and said:
"Deacon H., I owe you a quarter."
"Ah, my son, no business transactions on the Sabbath day."
Harland, hastily putting his money in his pocket, begged his pardon, and said as he was leaving very early the next morning, he had ventured to pay him on the Sabbath.
In the black dawn of a winter's morning as he put his head out of the window to say to the cabman that he would be down directly, and there beside the cab stood a dark, motionless figure.
"Who can be good enough to see me off at this time in the morning," thought Harland.
When he came down he found that the deacon had come for his quarter.

Reached the Limit.
Homer Davenport tells of a Utica police court judge who formerly resided in Silverton, Oregon, where Davenport was born. Once an unfortunate man who was arrested for intoxication told the judge that he had played with Davenport in the Silverton cornet band. The judge discharged the prisoner.
The incident was published in the newspapers, and in the following year at least five other prisoners who were brought before the judge explained that they had played with Davenport in the Silverton cornet band. The other day the Utica judge telegraphed Mr. Davenport asking him of how many pieces the Silverton organization consisted. He concluded his message by saying:
"Hereafter no prisoners will be discharged on account of former membership in this band. The limit has been reached."—New York Times.

The Great Old World.
The cynics mock her,
The red storms rock her,
The earthquakes shock her,
But on she rolls!
Downcast, elated—
For ruin slated,
She still goes freighted
With human souls!

The great seas thunder
And rend asunder—
The white stars wonder,
As Time grows gray;
But—reaping, sowing,
Her way she's going,
To meet—unknown—
A Judgment Day.

But—joy go with her!
Nor slip his tether
When stormy weather
Makes grief and moan!
Tragedy—jest world—
Lost unto rest world—
Still—still the best world
We ever have known.
—Frank L. Stanton in Atlanta Constitution.

A Hero in His Day.
At this time of much airship talk, one rarely hears the name of Pilatre de Rozier, one of the first to test the feasibility of aerial navigation, and yet he was the hero of his day. A monument was erected in France on the spot where he made his last and fatal attempt. When the balloon was first invented he scorned the idea that criminals should be sent to make test ascents. "It would be an honor to lose one's life if need be, in such an enterprise," he said. He died some years after in trying to cross the English channel, and he is still the ideal of French aeronauts, because of his fearlessness, his enthusiasm and his love of the sport.

Deposits of Sulphur.
Vast deposits of pure flower sulphur superior to that from Sicily, have been explored in Mount McCutcheon, Alaska, by a Swedish expert employed by New Yorkers. This diminishes by one the short list of necessities the United States must buy in other countries.

Abused Tommy.
Tommy, aged 4, was teasing his mother for something to eat, but was told that he must wait until dinner was served. He was silent for a moment and then exclaimed: "Honestly, mamma I just believe you are my stepmother!"

FAMOUS IRISH CITY

Correspondent Writes of Cork

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE)

Approaching Ireland from the south one is guided into the harbor of Queenstown, so named in honor of Queen Victoria's visit in 1948, previously called The Cove. The ship rounds Roche's point. This is the point at which the steamship Chicago of the Inman line was wrecked in 1892. The promontory which attracts at entrance to the harbor is known as Kissall Head. It was upon this cape that the renowned Irish general Hugh O'Neill met his defeat by England under the governor general Carew, in the seventeenth century, and following the successes of a hundred battles. Let it be recalled that this defeat ed up. It has appropriated Massachusetts shoe factory patents and shoe factories spell their signs in gold to the eye of the visitor. It was just below Cork where William Penn was born at Blomen Castle—1482—ten years before Columbus discovered America, and two years before Luther. On the suburbs of Cork is Blarney, where is Blarney Castle—the key-stone of whose crest arch is the world-renowned Blarney stone, long since consecrated as the inspirer of love's phrases and flatterers' arts. The castle is square in dimensions, of Spanish architecture—though constructed by Danish workmen for Lord herein recounted followed as a result of Spanish treachery. The alliance previously entered into by O'Neill and O'Donnell with Spain was betrayed by Spanish officials, and the English forces were upon O'Neill before he could summon his forces to victory. This conquest by England was the real beginning of "England in Ireland." So potent had O'Neill become that Essex had advised Queen Elizabeth to come to terms with him. The queen died in 1603. King James followed. He was obdurate, refused all concession. Thus a hapless Ireland, full of trouble.

St. Floun Barr's Cathedral.

On the headlands jutting over the channel entering Queenstown the forts of Camden and Carlisle mottled with cannon confronts each other in grim moroseness. Around the former the Spanish armada slipped and became lost in its own convolutions; the night was dark and wrapped in mist. Drake with the English squadron followed and by freak of sudden changed winds was blown around the other headland as a train turned by a tongue switch to a diverging track. Both fleets concluded the other had escaped—and each went its way; both to meet six months following in a victory for Drake which six months before at Queenstown would have been reversed, had the fleets known each was in an arm's throw of each other, and the map of Europe changed for all mankind. "Drake's Pool" is the christening given the place to commemorate Drake's visit and confusion while Macarthy, who built it. The Blarney Stone is hooked to the top edge of the castle roof by bands of iron whose arms hug the stone—of shape of a carriage curbstone—with curved arms to prevent the rock from falling. The castle is fast succumbing to the inroads of time. The stone bears the legend that "he who kisses never misses being eloquent." The writer declined to visit his kisses on, so stony hearted a mistress. One must be let down head downward—held by the feet, and when the head is far enough down to reach the stone the suspended enthusiast must turn his head up as does a chicken held by the feet, and swinging forward kiss the under portion of the rock, now worn smooth by the million "lippings" that are forever lost to envious love.

Returning to Cork one is reminded as he approaches the miraculous spot of Sunday's Well; that it was here that Thackeray says, as an evidence of the education of Cork boys in the past, that he overheard two newsboys in a wrangle as to who was the greater man, Themistocles or Pericles. Speaking of Thackeray—he it was who said that beholding a Cork young man playing the violin he approached and said: "Young man, do you play by note?" "No, sir," said he. "Well, do you play by ear?" "No, sir," he again responded. "Well," said Thackeray, "how do you play?" "By main force, sir," he answered.

The King of England closed his visit to Ireland at Cork. He was in the world's fate was entangled in the net of Irish mists.

From Queenstown—the seaport of County Cork—one is rushed into Cork City. The city is near 100,000 people, grown 20,000 in twenty years. It is Ireland's Venice—built on spits of land and silts of water. The river Lee winds through the town and against its banks there hover vessels whose noses have sniffed the seas of every port and cargo is unladen from every sea of earth. Cork has wakenthe "enemy's country," yet he was given a cordial and sincere welcome. The Irish greeted him as their guest. Ireland can be disloyal to rulers, but inhospitable to guests—never! She can oppose a king because a king opposes her, but when he is in her house he is as the guest in the Arab's tent partaking of salt. She gives him a welcome to his coming and a speeding to his parting—because King Edward came as a visitor—and Irishmen know how to receive.

Rush of immigration into New York is very great. On Monday 34,000 persons arrived from Europe and on Tuesday 5,000 mostly of the better class—Germans and Poles, whose professions are interior points, mostly in the farming districts.

A heroic rescue by his wife, aged 70 years, was that of Owen Conlan from his burning home at Plainville, N. Y. Conlan was helpless and his wife dragged him to the window of their room, on the second floor, tied a rope about his body and safely lowered him to the ground. She was then rescued by the firemen. It was the first fire in Plainville in seven years and the house had rotted from age.

Doctor

Announced My Case Incurable, Said I Would Die Of Heart Disease.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Brought Good Health.

"I have every reason to recommend the Dr. Miles' Heart Cure as the Heart Cure saved my life. I am a large man, considerably over six feet in height, weigh nearly three hundred pounds. Some years ago my heart was so seriously affected that I never expected to get well. Doctors pronounced my case incurable. I noticed your advertisement in some paper, and bought six bottles of the Heart Cure. I felt great relief and improved so I continued until I had taken twelve bottles. My trouble was organic and I never expected to be permanently cured, but thanks to Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, I have kept in good health and have been able to follow my profession, continuing since first taking the remedies eight years ago. I am a musician, teacher of instrumental and vocal music, musical conductor, etc. I have taught all over the state of Michigan and have recommended Dr. Miles' Heart Cure to thousands of persons in all parts of the state and have heard nothing but good reports of it. I have induced dozens of persons in my own county to take Dr. Miles' Heart Cure as my word is never doubted by those who know me."—C. H. Smith, Flint, Mich.

"I am a druggist and have sold and recommended Dr. Miles' Heart Cure for I know what it has done for me, and I wish I could state more clearly the splendid good health I am enjoying now. Your Restorative Nervine gives excellent satisfaction."—Dr. T. H. Watts, Druggist, Hot Springs, S. D.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1903.

The mistaken idea held by many people that congressmen have the say as to where free rural delivery routes shall be established and who shall be the carriers on them is rudely dispelled by the Livingston Democrat (a Democratic newspaper by the way). It says in speaking of an item found in an exchange to the effect that "the congressman was in town in the interest of free rural delivery," the following words:

"Bless you, brother, the congressman has no more to do with free rural delivery than Balfour, of England. It is the postoffice department that establishes, regulates and operates the free rural delivery."

If some people who feel disgruntled at their congressman for not getting them what they think they deserve from the postoffice department, would study this matter up a little and post themselves they would save themselves endless heart burnings and bitter thoughts against men who are willing to do all they can for their constituents, but whose hands are tied in matters relating to rural free delivery other than to present petition that are forwarded to them.

Some of Ann Arbor's business men are not much troubled with military enthusiasm or patriotism either. Co. I, M. N. G., left Ann Arbor yesterday to go to camp at West Point, Ky., and three of its members went with the positive knowledge that they would lose their jobs by so doing. The young men who belong to the state troops are as much obliged to go to camp when ordered as are regular soldiers, and are subject to arrest, trial, imprisonment and a dishonorable discharge if they do not go. These Ann Arbor business men, one of whom it is said is a great Grand Army man, have but a hollow idea of obedience to the law to act as they are doing.

Saves Two From Death.

"Our little daughter had an almost fatal attack of whooping cough and bronchitis," writes Mrs. W. K. Haviland, of Armonk, N. Y., "but, when all other remedies failed, we saved her life with Dr. King's New Discovery. Desperate throat and lung diseases yield to Dr. King's New Discovery as to no other medicine on earth. Infallible for coughs and colds. 50c and $1.00 bottles guaranteed by Glazier & Stimson. Trial bottles free.

HOW HE SHOWED JUDGMENT.

Successful Man Realized Inability to Make Accurate Forecast.

This from a man of success: "My business requires as much decision as picking winners on a racetrack or buying stocks in Wall street. I mean that judgment is required. I have to figure out in my own mind in my own way what to do in order to accomplish a certain purpose. Long ago I recognized fully that only 7 per cent of the human race is successful in following its own judgment. Just think: Out of 100 good men; of average brains, 93 go wrong in following their judgment and 7 go right. Well, I agreed with myself that I should be one of the 93, so, after diligently working out a plan of action and casting my vote one way, I always did the opposite. If I figure out to-day that steel is going down I buy some of it, coppering my judgment. In that way I have achieved success that to some may seem marvelous. I am complimented on my judgment, whereas in truth I am coppering myself every moment of my life." That's where he shows judgment.—New York Press.

Good Words for the Herald.

Ann Arbor Argus: The Chelsea Herald, published by T. W. Mingay, has enlarged to a six-column quarto. Larger type is used, which must be very restful to the eyes of its older readers, and Mr. Mingay has more needed room for his advertisers. Some of the readers who were young men when they first began reading the Herald must be comparatively well along in years now. Long may the Herald flourish.

The Pinnacle of Success

Has been reached in our superb collection of Fall and Winter apparel for men and boys. Are you aware that a great majority of the best dressed men in this part of the country have long been customers of ours? They have received the same satisfaction when buying clothes here ready-to-put-on that they formerly did when they patronized a custom tailor and paid him twice as much for each garment. It is a fact, and a practice that you would do well to emulate, if you have the slightest care for your personal appearance and where your dollars go to. In connection with this, and in full proof of our statement, we want to show you the Suits and Fall Top Coats that we have marked $12, $15 and $18.

A custom tailor would charge you at least double these prices for identically the same quality, yet give you no better style and no better fit; but he would make you a lot of trouble in trying on before you finally got your clothes.

The fine clothes made by Messrs. Michaels, Stern & Co., of Rochester, are splendid examples of perfect tailoring.

Boys' School Suits

Double Breasted Jacket Suits, sizes 7 to 16 years, $2.50 to $8.00

Single Breasted 3-Piece Suits, sizes 8 to 16 years, 3.00 to 10.00

Vestee and Sailor Blouse Suits, sizes 3 to 10 years, 3.00 to 10.00

And we have a splendid assortment of Reefers, Top Coats and Overcoats for the little fellows of every age.

CHOICE HABERDASHERY of every description is gathered here for your selection, and the prices are exceedingly reasonable.

A HAT equal in style and quality to any that you would pay $5.00 for, we can sell you for $3.00.

GLIMPSSES.

Some hearts there are which know not full fruition.
Of any hope, but oftentimes along
The dark there falls a beam, on loving mission;
Across the silence breaks a bar of song!
A golden day, perhaps, with one whose coming
To spend all days would swiftly dry all tears!
A silver night, when earth's discordant strumming
Is lost in music heard of spirit ears!
Glimpses—short-lived—but sureties of brightness
To follow fast this life of transient breath;
Some natures could not bear all sweet and lightness,
So God withhold this joy till after death.

THE WIPER'S STORY.

How McGrath Got an Engine.

PART

BY FRANK H. SPEARMAN.

In Three Parts

But the memorable morning for Aloysius came shortly thereafter. It was one of those keen October mornings that bite so in the hills. The construction train, Extra 240 West, had started at about 5 o'clock from the head of the pass with a load of steel for the track layers, and stopped for a bite of breakfast at Wind River. Above the round house there was a switchback. When the train pulled in the crew got off for some hot coffee. Johnnie Horgan was around playing the good fellow, and he climbed into the cab to run the train through the switchback while the crews were at the eating house. It was irregular to leave the engine, but they did, and as for Johnnie Horgan, he was regularly irregular. There were sixteen cars of steel in the string, besides a cabooseful of laborers. The backing up the leg of the wiper was easy. After the switch was set Johnnie pulled down the lower leg, and that, considering the whisks, was too easy.

When he pulled past the eating house on the down grade he was going so lively with his flats that he was away before the crew could get out of the lunchroom. In just one minute everybody in Wind River was in trouble; the crew because their train was disappearing down the canyon; the eating house man because nobody paid him for his coffee, and Johnnie Horgan because he found it impossible to stop. He had dumped the sand, he had applied the air, he had reversed the engine. By all the rules laid down in the instruction car she ought to stop. But she didn't stop, and this was the embarrassing feature—she was headed down a hill twenty miles long, with curves to weary a boa constrictor. Johnnie Horgan was wild over the drivers, looked back at the yelling crew, contemplated the load that was pushing him down the grade, and his head began to swim. There appeared but one thing to do; that was to make a noise, and as he neared the roundhouse he rattled like the wind. Aloysius McGrogh, at the alarm, darted out of the house like a fox. As he reached the door he saw the construction train coming and Johnnie Horgan in the gangway looking for a safe place to light.

The wiper charted the situation in a mental second. The train was running away and Horgan was leaving it to its fate. From any point of view it was a tough proposition, but tough propositions come rarely to ambitious railroad men, and Aloysius was starving for any sort of a proposition that would help him out of the waste. The laborers in the caboose, already bewildered, were craning anxiously from the windows. Horgan, opposite the roundhouse, jumped in a sprawl; the engine shot past Aloysius; boarding was out of the question.

But on the siding stood a couple of flats, empty, and with his hair straight on centres the little wiper ran for them and mounted the nearest. The steel train was jumping. Aloysius bunched his muscle, ran the length of the two flats for a head, and from the far corner threw himself across the gap, like load of the runaway steel. Scrambling to his feet, he motioned and yelled to the hoboes, who were pouring frantic out on the hind flat of the string, to set brakes; then he made ahead for the engine.

It was a race with the odds all wrong, for with every yard Aloysius gained the train gained a dozen. By the time he reached the tender, breathless, and slid down the coal into the deserted cab, the train was heading into Little Horn gap, and every Italian aboard yelling for life. Aloysius pumped into the levers, poked his head through the window, and looked at the drivers. They were in the back motion, and in front of them the sand was streaming wide open. The first thing he did was to shut half of it off—the fight could not be won by wasting ammunition. Over and over again he jerked at the air. It was refusing its work. Where so many a hunted runner has turned for salvation there was none for Aloysius. He opened and closed, threw on and threw off; it was all one, and all useless. The situation was as simple as it was frightful. Even if they didn't leave the track, they were certain to smash into Number Sixteen, the up-passenger, which must meet them somewhere on the hill.

"What can I do?"

Aloysius' fingers closed slowly on the sand lever. There was nothing on earth for it but sand, merely sand; and even the wiper's sand was oozing with the steam that poured from the tank on the whiskered rails. He shut off a bit more, thinking of the terrific curves below, and mentally calculated—or tried to—how long his steam would last to reverse the drivers—how he could shovel coal and sand the curves at the same time—and how much slewing the Italians at the tail of the kite could stand without landing on the rocks.

The pace was giddy and worse. When his brain was whirling fastest a man put a hand on his shoulder. Aloysius started as if Davy Jones had tapped him, and between bounces looked, scared, around. He looked into a face he didn't know from Adam's, but there was sand in the eyes that met his.

"What can I do?" Aloysius saw the man's lips move, and, without taking his hands from the levers, bent his head to catch the words.

"What can I do?" shouted the man at his elbow.

"Give me steam—steam," cried the wiper, looking straight ahead.

It was the foreman of the steel gang from the caboose. Aloysius, through the backs of his eyes, saw him grab the shovel and make a pass at the tender. Doing so, he nearly took a header through the gangway, but he hung to the shovel and braced himself better.

With the next attempt he got a shovelful into the cab, but in the delivery passed it well up Aloysius' neck. There were neither words nor grins, but just another shovelful of coal a minute after, and the track-layer in spite of the dizzy lurching, shot it where it belonged—into the furnace. Feeling that if one shovelful could be landed, more could, Aloysius' own steam rose. As they headed madly around the Cinnamon bend the dial began to climb in spite of obstacles and the wiper, considering there were two and the steam and the sand to fight the thing out, opened his valve and dusted the whisksers on the curve with something more than a gleam of hope.

If there was confusion on the runaway train, there was terror and more below it. As the spectre flitted past Pringle station, five miles down the valley, the agent caught a glimpse of the yellow face of the wiper at the cab window and saw the drivers whirling backward. He rushed to his key and called the Medicine Bend dispatcher. With a tattoo like a drum-roll the dispatcher, in turn, called Soda Springs, ten miles below Pringle, where No. 16, the up passenger, was then due. He rattled on with his heart in his fingers, and the answer came on the instant. Then an order flashed into Soda Springs:

"To No. 16.
"Take Soda Springs siding quick. Extra 240 West lost control of the train. DR."

There never was such a bubbling at Soda Springs as that bubbling. The operator tore up the platform like a hawk in a chicken yard. Men never scattered so quick as when No. 16 began screaming and wheeling and backing for the clear. Above the town, Aloysius, eyes white to the sockets, shooting the curves like a meteor, watched his lessening stream of sand pour into the frost on the track. As they whipped over bridges and hills the caboose reeled like a dying top—fear froze every soul on board. To leave the track now meant a scatter that would break West End records.

RODE ON THE ENGINE.

Khedive of Egypt Astonishes His Attendants.

The khedive of Egypt visited Paris recently. The way of his return was unconventional and interesting. At Calais he expressed a wish to ride to Amiens on the engine. There was a moment's consternation, but every objection was soon overruled, and presently, swathed in a long gray overcoat, he climbed up into the engine's cab. The young ruler of Egypt insisted on "working his passage," and he was asked to shovel coal, which he did with a will, the engineer chaffing the "monsieur," of whose identity he had not the remotest notion. Into Amiens the great train rushed after a trip of 105 miles without a single stoppage, and in those 105 miles had been made up a good eight minutes of the delay in starting. Often the train ran at sixty miles an hour and over, or twice the speed of Egypt's fastest train. At the station a little group of officials in full evening dress had gathered opposite the door of the special state saloon provided for the khedive, and there was surprise when he could not be found there. Then down the platform a very dirty man in a long overcoat came hurrying. He wore no cap and his straight black hair was all disheveled, while the white teeth and the white-rimmed eyes, a little blood-shot, laughed out of the dirtiest face the khedive had ever worn. He shook hands with the gentlemen in evening dress and clambered into the state carriage, while the crowd, which had realized what the khedive had done, cheered lustily.

A Bottled Brother.

Dr. Gillespie, the present moderator of the Church of Scotland, tells how he was nonplussed the other day by a ragged urchin with whom he got into conversation. He said:

"My boy, who looks after you?"
"Naebuddy," was the quick reply.
"Where is your father?"
"He's deid."
"Have you a mother?"
"She's deid, too."
"Have you not a sister, then?"
"I niver had yin."
"But surely you have a brother?"
"Yes, but he's at Glasga College."
"Well, cannot he spare some time from his studies to look after you a bit?"
"Na, sir; for he was born wi' two neids, and they keep him in a bottle."

Sharpening Her Teeth.

Mrs. Samuel Sloane Chaucery, whose engagement to Lord Rosebery is rumored, was Miss Alice Carr of Louisville in her youth. Her sister, who was Miss Grace Carr, is married to Lord Newborough.

Lady Newborough sometimes tells a story about a Louisville maid servant employed by her family in her childhood. The maid, fresh from the old country, was very green. One day a guest of the family, a young woman, was late for dinner, yet she was in her room.

"Go to her room," someone said to the maid, "knock at her door, and find out why she doesn't come downstairs."

The maid departed, and in a little while returned. "The lady'll be down in a moment, ma'am. She's just sharpenin' her teeth," she said.

A Strange Voice Calling.

The blackbird charmed me from my quiet chamber.
As in a dream I heard his sweet voice calling:
The garden plots were paved with pearl and amber,
And all about the walks white petals falling.

Close hid within the misty green-veiled thickets
That strange voice drew my heart beyond believing;
And as I leaned across the orchard wicket
I knew not was it glad or was it grieving.

But this I know—'twas to no earthly meadows
He called me hence from out his dim wood's hollow;
He bade me to the place of dreams and shadows,
And one day he will call and I shall follow.

Louise.
Louise is pretty.
Louise is fair:
Louise is witty.
And has sun-kissed hair
Louise is saucy.
A gay coquette;
Louise is dainty.
But I'll win her yet.
Louise is wary.
Her heart's a duress;
Louise, the fairy,
She will not confest
Louise, I'm gazing
Deep in your eyes—
See hope amazing
And a paradise.
Louise, you're blushing!
Louise, your cheek
With love is flushing
What your heart would speak!
Louise, caressing.

LOUISE.
I hold you tight:
Louise, I'm pressing
Upon your breast;
My heart is singing
And at love's behest!

A Boquet.

ON THE SUBURBAN TRAIN
Fair were the phlox and lilies
And pale "sweet-william" bloom
Wrought in the Master's image
Upon Dame Nature's loom.

Rich in their royal incense,
All wet with morning dew
Bade they, in flower language,
"Good morning!" on the "Q."

Brought by a bashful native
From fragrant dell and far,
Spoke they to hearts aware
Upon the crowded car.

Glowing in scented beauty,
They sang to dozens there,
Songs of the land out yonder
Where His own people are.

One from the peaceful country
Suppressed a wistful sigh—
She was a farmer's daughter
From bonny land and sky.

Flowers of home, she loved them,
Lily and phlox and rose—
Sore was her heart with aching,
Her soul was sick with woes.

Long, gazed the maid, in silence
Into the great bouquet;
Tears to her eyes came welling,
Despite her will at bay.

And once again she fastened
Her gaze upon the flow'rs—
Smiles wreathed her face serenely
As sunshine follows show'rs!

Fragrant and sweet, a message
Of tender hope they brought—
God, in the flowers' faces,
Had sent the Peace she sought!

What Did Katy Do?

Katydid, Katydid.
What did Katy do?
Every night now for a week
I have listened to your tweak:
"Katydid! Katydid! Katydid!"
Pray, what did Katy do?

Katydid, Katydid.
Are you sure she did?
May be Katy did not do
What you are alluding to!

"WHAT DID KATY DO?"
"Katydid! Katydid! Katydid!"
Please, what did Katy do?

Katydid, Katydid.
What did Katy do?
Further back than I can scan,
Ever since the birth of man,
You've insisted Katy did
Come, what did Katy do?

Katydid, Katydid.
What did Katy do?
Must have been an awful sin,
For three thousand years you've been
"Katydiding, Katydiding!"
What was this awful scandal,
To be worthy of the candle?
Oh, what did Katy do?

When pigs are handled in a proper way they prove profitable to the farmer. There are ways of handling and feeding that will make them unprofitable and there are ways of handling that will make them profitable. The variety to be kept will often determine the results. When there is little pasture for them the number kept should be small, as pigs fed a ration of grain only cannot generally yield a profit. It is possible to have so many pigs that they will be unprofitable; but the trouble is generally the other way. Not enough pigs are being raised on American farms. The farmers are all too generally depending on one crop of pigs a year to give them a profit. The high cost of winter feed has stimulated this movement, but the process should be reversed. We must have more fall pigs and use our wits in getting cheap feed for them.

The permanence of effect is one of the most valuable characteristics of farmyard manure, as, if once applied in a rotation, it benefits all the crops in the rotation.

No man can hope to be happily married unless he is a good listener.

LIVE STOCK.

Mixed Rations for Farm Horses.
Many horse-feeders regard oats as almost necessary, and it is doubtless true that in large regions of the United States the most common ration for horses consists of oats and hay, with an occasional bran mash. In the South and West corn seems to be the most common feed, especially in rural districts. Many experiments have been reported which support the theory that horses may be satisfactorily fed and reasonable combination of wholesome materials which supplies the required nutrients in due proportion. In other words, protein and energy are required by the animal body rather than any special feed. Believing that more horses should be raised and that an economic system of feeding would be an incentive to horse breeders, C. W. Burkett of the New Hampshire Station, recently studied the comparative value of a number of mixed rations with the station farm horses during a period of two years. The rations were so planned that an abundance of nutritive material was supplied by grain mixtures which were cheaper than oats. Throughout the greater part of the experimental period hay was fed with the grain. During a part of the time corn fodder was used. The comparative merits of the following five rations were studied in the first test: Hay 10 pounds, bran 2 pounds, corn 6 pounds, and gluten feed 6 pounds; hay 10, bran 2, corn 6, oats 8; hay 10, corn 8, and bran 7; hay 10, corn 8, linseed oil meal 4; and hay 10, cottonseed meal 1, bran 2 and corn 8. Each of the five horses included in the investigation received one of the rations for one month, the rations being rotated, so that during the five months of the test each horse was fed all the rations. The following were some of the conclusions arrived at:

Any food stuff or combination of food stuffs furnishing the desirable nutrient at least cost should be considered in preparing rations for horses. A mixture of bran and corn, half and half, is a good substitute for corn and oats for feeding work horses. Corn stover is a good substitute for timothy hay for winter feeding of horses because of its feeding value, the yield per acre and commercial value. A change from a grain mixture, consisting partially of linseed oil meal, slowly or abruptly, does not cause a decrease of weight in horses if a proper substitute ration is fed. The average total cost per year for actual food supply per horse was $74.32. The average cost for food per hour's work done during two years was 3.4 cents.

Care of Sheep.
A Canadian shepherd says: The lamb crop, like any other, to be successful, must be prepared for beforehand; therefore, as the breeding season approaches the ewes ought to be getting in good condition, and it cannot be done easier than by giving them the run of the stubble-fields after the grain is stacked. Before the breeding season is over the winter will have set in, and the flock will be in their winter quarters. No elaborate building is necessary. A hay rack running round the inside, with a small door in the center, just large enough for one sheep to go in and out when the big door is shut. It must be dry and entirely free from drafts for the sheep to do well; 30x60 feet will be ample accommodation for a hundred good-sized ewes, until lambing time. The winter feed should be wild hay, oat straw or oat sheaves. They may be allowed to run at the oat stack, if care is taken to remove the overhanging portions as they eat it away from under, to prevent the chaff from getting into their wool. The hay is fed in the rack inside, and only what they will eat up clean. Always clean out the racks before the next feeding. I have often heard it said that sheep won't drink water, but that is a mistake; they will drink large quantities of water at the right time and place. They won't drink out of a water hole on a cold day, but watered in their pens and in troughs, a hundred head will drink almost two barrels a day. I think good water is most important. Keep salt where they can get it at all times, summer and winter.

Raise More Pigs.
When pigs are handled in a proper way they prove profitable to the farmer. There are ways of handling and feeding that will make them unprofitable and there are ways of handling that will make them profitable. The variety to be kept will often determine the results. When there is little pasture for them the number kept should be small, as pigs fed a ration of grain only cannot generally yield a profit. It is possible to have so many pigs that they will be unprofitable; but the trouble is generally the other way. Not enough pigs are being raised on American farms. The farmers are all too generally depending on one crop of pigs a year to give them a profit. The high cost of winter feed has stimulated this movement, but the process should be reversed. We must have more fall pigs and use our wits in getting cheap feed for them.

The permanence of effect is one of the most valuable characteristics of farmyard manure, as, if once applied in a rotation, it benefits all the crops in the rotation.

Only His Watch So Far.
There is an old negro living in Carrollton who was taken ill several days ago and called in a physician of his race to prescribe for him. But the old man did not seem to be getting any better and finally a white physician was called. Soon after arriving Dr. S. felt the darky's pulse for a moment and then examined his tongue. "Did your other doctor take your temperature?" he asked. "I don't know, sah," he answered feebly. "I hain't missed anything but my watch as yit, boss."

HAD LITTLE TO REGRET.
Good Story of the Boyhood of Senator Quay.
Friends of Senator Quay from Pennsylvania relate an incident of his younger days which, to a keen observer, might have predicted the originality and quickness in change of front which have characterized his political career and turned to dust and ashes so many expected triumphs of his enemies.
While attending school in Beaver county a friendship with a larger boy, his seatmate, was suddenly turned to rivalry by the appearance of a most captivating little newcomer on the girls' side of the room. At recess diplomatic affairs reached a crisis, speedily developing into an encounter as short as it was violent, and when the smoke of battle cleared the larger boy stalked away, leaving Mr. Quay very much muddled up and minus a front tooth.
A group of children gathered to commiserate upon the loss of the tooth and to speculate upon its probable effect on his masticating powers, but Quay scorned all attempts at sympathy, and, looking straight at the small cause of the battle, said: "Shucks! what if I can't chew no more in front; it'll be bully for whistlin'!"
A NOVEL MILITARY RIDE.
Condition of Horses to Count More Than Speed.
Sir Evelyn Wood has invented a military ride under new conditions, which are to be tested over Salisbury plain.
The conditions are twenty-five miles of distance to be covered, the riders steering by compass, and horses to be brought in in such good condition as to show no spur marks and be able to eat a feed of corn within half an hour of coming to the winning post.
Among the most important of the minor conditions attached to this ride is that which provides that the horse ridden shall have been the property of his rider for at least a fortnight, or if he be a government horse shall have been ridden regularly by the man who mounts him in the competition for a previous fortnight.
In order to give competitors no advantage from local knowledge, the ride is to be over a course that will be indicated to the riders by the markers posted at different places along its devious line, and each marker will indicate to the rider only so much of the course as will suffice to take him to the next of these living signal posts.—Country Life.
HOW HE'D TREAT AN ASSAILANT.
Law Student's Reply Was Natural, but Not Sanctioned by Blackstone.
James B. Dill, the noted lawyer, who has lately made an automobile journey from New Jersey to the Rangeley lakes, has always been an original character. A gentleman who was a fellow student at the New York university law school tells a story illustrating this fact as well as Dill's fearlessness of method, even in the days of his pupillage, and long before he had dreamed of the professional good fortune that has come to him a quarter of a century later. They were members of the class of '78. One day Prof. David R. Jaques, then the chief instructor, was quizzing and he came to Dill, to whom he put this question: "Mr. Dill, suppose you were walking along the road and a man stepped up and struck you with his fist. What legal conditions would arise? What remedies should be pursued? What, in short, would you do?"
"My first step, I think, professor," replied the young student, "would be to land him one on the jaw."
Quarrel Over Dog's Nose.
To the uninitiated the color of a dog's nose may seem a trifle, but to the breeder of dogs it may be a matter of extreme moment. A Berlin woman has recently found it so. At a woman's kennel show, held not long since, the judge of Italian greyhounds held that the nose of this breed of dog should be black. This particular exhibitor, the owner of several entries in the various Italian greyhound classes, being dissatisfied with the judging, appealed to a well-known breeder. He gave it as his opinion that it is permissible for the color of the nose to follow the color of the coat, and that it need not always be black. This statement gave great satisfaction to the exhibitor and high dudgeon to the dog show committee, which waxed wroth at what it considered the unsportsmanship of an appeal to an outside authority, and it expelled the woman. She has now brought an action against the committee for damages. "Tis a very pretty quarrel as it stands.
Arms and the Maid.
Two hundred years ago and more a doughty Dutchman reached our shore, And, save his own, no arms he bore. But blunderbuss and sword. Becoming something of a swell, Through shift and thrift it soon befell, He bought the grant his wealth could well afford.
As time went on the humble lot, His rich descendants quite forgot; Their 'scutcheons showed no stain or blot; Their pride no shadow left; With heads erect they went their way, Yet held their fruitful lands, where they In peace and plenty to this day Have dwelt.
And more, the fairest of her race— Blue-eyed Katrina—loved to trace The arms and find her proper place Upon the pedigree.

Goitre Cured.
R. F. D. No. 4, Jackson, Mich., September 3, 1903.
Dr. Wilkinson:
For the benefit of all persons afflicted with goitre, I wish to state that I had a goitre on both sides of my neck, each one larger than a hen's egg, for over two years. You said you could stop its growth and reduce its size, but would not promise to remove all the enlargement, but I am glad to state that you did more than you promised. The enlargement has entirely disappeared. It has now been over four months since I was cured and there are no signs of the growth returning.

LIVER TROUBLES
"I find Thedford's Black-Draught a good medicine for liver disease. It cured my son after he had spent $100 with doctors. It is all the medicine I take."—MR. C. A. SOLING, MARTIN, Parkersburg, W. Va.
If your liver does not act regularly go to your druggist and secure a package of Thedford's Black-Draught and take a dose tonight. This great family medicine frees the congested bowels, stirs up the torpid liver and causes a healthy secretion of bile.
Thedford's Black-Draught will cleanse the bowels of impurities and strengthen the kidneys. A torpid liver invites colds, biliousness, chills and fever and all manner of sickness and contagion. Weak kidneys result in Bright's disease which claims as many victims as consumption. A 25-cent package of Thedford's Black-Draught should always be kept in the house.
"I used Thedford's Black-Draught to treat my kidney complaints and found nothing to equal it."—WILLIAM COFFMAN, Marblehead, Ill.

BLOOD DISEASES CURED
If you ever had any Blood or Skin Diseases, you are never safe until the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. Don't be satisfied with a "patch up" by some family doctor. Our New Method is Guaranteed to Cure or No Pay. See the Names Used without Written Consent.

Cured When all Else Failed.
"Could I live my early life over, this testimonial would not be necessary, though I was no more sinful than thousands of other young men. Indigestion, excess and mental worry all helped to break down my system. When I commenced to realize my condition I was almost frantic. Doctor after doctor treated me but only gave me relief—not a cure. Hot Springs helped me, but did not cure me. The symptoms always returned. Mercury and Potash drove the poison into my system instead of driving it out. I bless the day your New Method Treatment was recommended to me. I investigated who you were first, and finding you had over 25 years' experience and responsible financially, I gave you my case under a guarantee. You cured me permanently, and in six years there has not been a sore, pain, ulcer or any other symptom of the disease."
