PLEASANT HOME RECEPTION.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wood Entertained a Large Party in Honor of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Lincoln.

A very pleasant gathering met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wood, on Harrison street, Saturday evening. It consisted of about 40 of the employees in the bean house and a few other friends who had assembled on their invitation to bid welcome and offer congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. John B. Lincoln, who were married at Parshallville, Wednesday, April 27. Mrs. Lincoln, nee Miss Edythe White, has been forewoman for Mr. Wood all this season and will remain in that capacity until its close. She is very highly thought of by the large number of girls and women employed and this was shown by the number present and the very friendly feeling that was shown by all on this occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Wood, Mrs. Geo. P. Staffan and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schnaitman were untiring in their efforts to make the numerous company feel perfectly at home, and the evening was spent in visiting and the discussion of the bountiful supply of ice cream and cakes of various kinds, after which some excellent selections of instrumental and vocal music were given by Mrs. Geo. P. Staffan, the Misses Mildred Atkinson, Dora Schnaitman, Mrs. Fred Broesamle and others. The guests separated for home about 10 o'clock with hearty expressions of good will for their hospitable entertainers.

The School Art Exhibit.

The exhibition of work done in drawing and designing by the pupils of the public schools, in combination with the Horace K. Turner art exhibit, was opened to the public last evening in the Staffan block. The school exhibit is a very meritorious one and embraces drawing, clay modeling and paper folding by the first grade scholars; drawing, paper folding and designing by those of the second, third and fourth grades; china painting designs, book covers and menu cards by the fifth and sixth grades, to which the latter add decorative designs for wood and tile work. Drawing on pillow covers, which have been made up in pretty styles by the mothers of the children, and sketches in the black and white are shown by the seventh grade, some of which are excellent. The high school work is of the same general character but is more pretentious. The whole exhibit, is a great credit to the children, some of the designs showing much originality.

In addition to this is the Horace K. Turner exhibit consists of 150 pictures, in platinum and carbon prints, photogravures, etc., copies from some of the best painters. Orders are taken for copies of these pictures in almost any size desired.

The exhibit will be open this and tomorrow afternoons and evenings and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. The prices of admission are 10 cents for adults, 5 cents for children. The proceeds are to be used in buying pictures, statuary, etc., to adorn the walls of the school rooms.

The Democratic Caucus.

The Lehman - Staffan - Beckwith combination came out on top at the Democratic caucus held here last Saturday to elect 14 delegates to the county convention held at Ann Arbor yesterday. When J. S. Gorman chairman of the township committee called the caucus to order a motion was made and carried that Geo. W. Beckwith be its chairman. C. W. Maroney was chosen as secretary, and Daniel Shell and James Taylor as tellers. The caucus did not last 10 minutes in all and the following 14 delegates were chosen at one ballot: Wm. R. Lehman, Geo. W. Beckwith, Geo. P. Staffan, James Taylor, John P. Foster, Edward Weber, William Schatz, Daniel Shell, C. W. Maroney, James Bachman, James Beckwith, Edward Kensch, Leonard Beissel, Chauncey Staffan.

THE BEAN INDUSTRY.

$80,000 Paid Out by J. P. Wood & Co. for Beans and Labor in Seven Months.

There are but few people who ever give a thought to the volume of business, and the consequent employment of labor and distribution of the "dollars of daddies," that is done at the bean picking establishment of J. P. Wood & Co.

Ever since Oct. 1, 1903, this firm has had on its pay roll the names of 48 women and girls and three men. Forty of the former is the average number that are at work each day besides the forewoman, while the men are on duty all the time. From Oct. 1 to date there have been only 44 days of lost time, which includes three holidays.

A little over $5,000 has been paid out in wages. The pickers earn from $3 to $7.50 per week each, according to their skill and ability at picking. The average wages is about $18 per month.

Something over 45,000 bushels of beans have been hand picked since Oct. 1, and these with the quantity that have been shipped, screened only, make a total of 50,000 bushels of beans J. P. Wood & Co. have purchased from farmers in this neighborhood at an average price of $1.50 a bushel, a total of $75,000 in round numbers.

It is thus seen that this firm has distributed in purchases and for labor $80,000 in seven months, which is no inconsiderable amount in the sum total of the prosperity of Chelsea and vicinity. The firm still has from four to six weeks work left to finish up.

Washtenaw Baptist Association.

The Washtenaw Baptist Association is holding a two days session at the Baptist church here, which closes this evening. There are 11 ministers from the different churches in the county and about 40 delegates present. The sessions of yesterday were largely attended and full of interest, particularly last night when Dr. A. G. Slocum, of Kalamazoo, and Dr. C. H. Irving, of Detroit, made addresses. This afternoon Rev. C. W. Antisdel, from the Congo mission, Africa, spoke, and this evening Rev. Bennett, of Detroit, will speak to the young people. Other well known divines present are Dr. E. J. Jameson, of Detroit, and Dr. Boyden, of Kalamazoo.

Death of Michael McGuire.

Michael McGuire, the well known supervisor of Dexter township, died at his father's home Tuesday, May 3, after a painful illness, from cancer of the brain, aged 38 years. Mr. McGuire was born and brought up in Dexter and was a manly man and was very popular both politically and socially. He was supervisor of his town for several years and always looked well after its interests. His father, one brother and two sisters survive him. The funeral services were held at the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart this morning Rev. W. P. Considine officiating and the remains were interred in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Two Baseball Games.

The Milan High School were defeated here last Friday by the Junior Star to the tune of 18 to 0. McCain was the whole thing, and had the Milan players at his mercy all through the game.

The game, Saturday between the Detroit Banners and Junior Stars was as predicted one of the best of games. The Stars were the first to score and kept the Banners from scoring, in the first inning, and they scored their only run in second. McCain again pitched and aside from a little wildness was very good. The final score was 6 to 1.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND DON'T KNOW IT

To Prove what Swamp-Root, the Great Kidney Remedy, Will Do for YOU. Every Reader of this paper May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Free by Mail.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, therefore, when through neglect or other causes, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

The mild and immediate effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root will set your whole system right, and the best proof of this is a trial.

ST. COTTAGE ST., MELROSE, MASS., JAN. 11th, 1904.

Dear Sir: Ever since I was in the Army, I had more or less kidney trouble, and within the past year it became so severe and complicated that I suffered everything and was much alarmed—my strength and power was fast leaving me. I saw an advertisement of Swamp-Root, and wrote asking for advice. I began the use of the medicine and noted a decided improvement after taking Swamp-Root only a short time.

I continued its use and am thankful to say that I am entirely cured and strong. In order to be very sure about this, I had a doctor examine me of my water today and he pronounced it all right and in splendid condition.

I know that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable and does not contain any harmful drugs. Thanking you for my complete recovery and recommending Swamp-Root to all sufferers, I am, Very truly yours, I. C. RICHARDSON.

You may have a sample bottle of this famous kidney remedy, Swamp-Root, sent free by mail, postpaid, by which you may test its virtues for such disorders as kidney, bladder and uric acid diseases, poor digestion, being obliged to pass your water frequently night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, brickdust or sediment in the urine, headache, backache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, skin eruptions from bad blood, neuralgia, rheumatism, diabetes, bloating, irritability, wornout feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion, or Bright's disease.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is the great discovery of Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist. Hospitals use it with wonderful success in both slight and severe cases. Doctors recommend it to their patients and use it in their own families, because they recognize in Swamp-Root the greatest and most successful remedy.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is for sale at drug stores the world over in bottles of two sizes and two prices—fifty cents and one dollar. Remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Birmingham, N. Y., on every bottle.

COUPON.

Please write or fill in this coupon with your name and address and Dr. Kilmer & Co. will send you a Free Sample Bottle of Swamp-Root the Great Kidney Remedy.

STRATFORD BELLS.

One Sabbath eve betwixt green Avon's banks, In a dream-world, we hour by hour did float. The rustling swans moved by in stately ranks. With soft, sad eyes the cattle watched our boat. We, passionate pilgrims from a far-off land, Beyond the "vexed Bermoothes"—oh, how dear That strange, sweet picture, by the enchantment's wand Familiar to our spirits made, and near! Thrilled from the skies and waters; lo! the chiming Of Stratford rang and rang; the very ground Murmured, as with a deep-voiced poet's rhymes. While swift melodious tone on tone was hurled. 'Twas Shakespeare's music brimmed the trembling world.

—F. B. F.

Dr. Fosdick thrust his hands into his pockets, and stood looking down at the girl with an odd mixture of determination and entreaty in his expression.

For the first time in his life his tongue had bungled, and his words had but haltingly expressed the meaning he had intended. This had irritated him extremely, and he stood very straight and dignified, trying by magnificent outward calm to atone for his recent nervousness.

The girl's averted face was undeniably pretty, and just now a deep flush lent it additional charm. She had known for a long time that, sooner or later, this moment would come.

She had prepared herself for it; yet now that it was here she had suddenly weakened into irresolution. The doctor watched her keenly.

At length she turned in her chair, and her eyes met his squarely.

"There are many reasons, Bob," she said, softly, "why I should say 'yes.'"

The doctor permitted himself a smile of encouragement and satisfaction.

"And there are more, I think, why I should say 'no,'" she pursued.

"Katharine!" he was startled into exostulating.

"I'm going to be perfectly frank with you," she said.

"Do," he urged tersely.

"I shan't say that I don't care for you. It isn't that! Indeed, I scarcely know how to make you understand just what it is that makes me hesitate to marry you. I honor you and trust you, but I think there is too much in your makeup. If there were some foibles, some little weakness in you, you would be more—more human. You bend things to your will. I think I'm afraid of you."

The doctor's chin went up, and he laughed in evident relief.

"Don't, please," said the girl reproachfully. "It's serious."

"I know, dear; I know," said the doctor hastily, "but knowing countless weak points in myself as I do, it seems absurd. I'll develop some of these immediately."

"I should detect shams at once," she warned him.

"I can assure you, I'm not a tyrant," he said earnestly. "Mayn't I have my answer now?"

"I'll give you an answer in a month," said the girl, "but please—please don't be too hopeful."

The month was nearly up. Katharine Thorpe had gone over the matter countless times—something thoughtfully, sometimes wistfully, sometimes tearfully.

But always her mind had been shaping itself toward the inevitable. She could never marry Bob Fosdick. Love him? She could not blind herself to the fact that she did; but with a feeling akin to acute terror she recognized that in his larger, stronger individuality her own would be crushed and helpless.

She was going to a matinee that

Stood looking down at the girl.

March afternoon with the Brewsters, and just a trifle downcast, she sat quite alone in the dim parlor of the Brewster house, while the two Brewster girls—always procrastinating—were upstairs arraying themselves.

The big folding doors between the front and back parlors were drawn together, and from behind them came a piping, childish voice and weak trembles of laughter. It was evident that little Ted Brewer, with his poor, twisted spine, was in there enjoying the afternoon sun.

Presently the doorbell jangled and some one was admitted—some one who walked with firm, swift steps down the hall to the back parlor. Katharine knew those steps, and her breath quickened.

She heard the door from the hall into the back parlor opened; heard little Ted's cheerful "Hello, Doc!" and leaned forward eagerly in her chair to listen.

"Hello, old chap!" she heard Bob Fosdick's voice say. "Sunning?"

"Sure," came Ted's piping voice. "What you got in the bag?"

"Lots of things," was the noncommittal reply.

"Any plaster of paris?"

"Why, yes," said Fosdick. "We've got to change the cast this afternoon, you know, laddie."

"No, sir-ee. Not this afternoon," said Ted, with a force that was ridiculous in the piping voice.

"O, I say, old chap," began Fosdick in conciliatory tones.

"Not to-day," said the small voice flatly.

Evidently the doctor went about his preparations, for presently the small voice advised:

"Better put 'em back in the bag, Doc. To-morrow you can string me up by the arms, if you want to, but not to-day."

"Why not to-day?" From the doctor's voice it was plain he was losing ground.

"Too nice lying in the sun here," Ted explained. "It may rain to-morrow."

"Suppose it doesn't?" the doctor suggested.

"We'll wait and see," said Ted.

A moment later the authoritative pipe of a voice commanded:

"You can't go yet, Doc. You've got to read to me."

"I'll ask your mother to read to you, old chap."

"You read," the child commanded.

"You see, I'm awfully busy this afternoon," Fosdick began.

"The bird book is on the table by the fireplace," said Ted.

The point was carried. Katharine heard Fosdick draw up a chair and begin to read aloud. Occasionally he paused, for what reason was quite evident, for with each break in the reading Ted's voice affirmed: "I'm awake all right. Go on, Doc."

"Katharine!" he said.

After a time the doctor paused and there was no response. Katharine heard him steal cautiously from the room. In the hall Mrs. Brewer accosted him.

"Is it over?" she asked, in low tones.

"We didn't change the cast to-day," said Fosdick, apologetically. "I've been reading to him ever since I came."

Mrs. Brewer laughed softly.

"If we can straighten that spine of his," the doctor went on, "I think the young man will have his share of success in the world. He rules me like a satrap, I'll admit."

Mrs. Brewer said something very low to the doctor, and in another moment he entered the parlor.

"I have heard it all," said Katharine, rising to greet him.

Something in her shining eyes set his pulse throbbing.

"Katharine!" he said. "Then—"

"I'm not afraid of you any more," she whispered.—Barney Preston in Boston Globe.

A Musician's Wife.

Dr. Elgar is one of those fortunate men whose wives are helpmates in a very liberal and practical sense, for it is said that we owe to Mrs. Elgar some of the most beautiful words—notably two charming songs—to which her husband's music has been wedded. There are several other notable men whose wives are thus able to share their work. To mention but a few, there are M. and Mme. Curie, who together have made the epoch-making discovery of radium; Sir Lawrence and Lady Tadmora ply the brush in adjacent studios and criticize and help each other's work; Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Webb study and write together on economic problems; Mr. and Mrs. Meynell ply equally busy pens, and so do Mr. and Mrs. Leighton, rivals and partners in fiction, and Mr. and Mrs. Coulson Kernahan.—Westminster Gazette.

Made Money From Free Meals.

One of the oldest institutions in the city of Melbourne, Australia, known as the "eight o'clock rush," is in danger of extinction. For half a century a philanthropic restaurant proprietor has been giving a free meal at 8 o'clock every evening to newly arrived immigrants or respectable persons who were temporarily "down on their luck." No professional loafers or chronically unemployed were encouraged. The attendance averaged about a hundred, and every Melbourne journalist considered it his duty to write a description of the scene at least once in his career. The proprietor of the restaurant is now retired from business. He is said to have received legacies from people whom he had thus befriended and who afterward prospered.

EXPENSIVE GAME OF GOLF.

New Yorker Willing to Pay for the Privilege of Profanity.

One of New York's prominent clergymen, who is an enthusiastic golfer, was playing over the Morristown links recently with a clubman whose language was not always suited to clerical ears. After a badly sliced drive the latter, from force of habit, let fall a word or two which required an apology to his reverend companion.

"Beg pardon, doctor," he exclaimed, "but it popped out before I knew it. If I make any more strokes like that, though, I won't vouch for what I may say. You'll have to forgive me. It's a bad habit I've got into."

"Mr. H—," said the clergyman, thinking to put an effectual quietus on this sort of thing, "suppose you agree to pay me a dollar for every oath, the money to be given to charity."

Mr. H. looked dubious.

"All right, I'll go on that," he said, finally.

All went smoothly for awhile until he "foozled" his drive, when out came the dollar bill, which the clergyman quickly pocketed. On the next hole he drove into the bunker and had to go down into his pockets again. This time out came a twenty-dollar bill.

"But I haven't the change," exclaimed the doctor.

"Then don't bother about it, doctor, for I intend to swear it out."

And he did, by the time he got out of that bunker.

THE MAGIC YELLOW METAL.

Struggle for Its Possession Is What Moves the World.

A doctor at Butte, Mont., indorses the assertion made by many miners thereabouts that a peculiar ore found in zinc blende and emitting a violet light possesses remarkable curative qualities when carried by them in their pockets. The new mineral, for want of a better name, is called "radiumite."

The Butte doctor has made an astonishing report to the Butte Medical society, confirming the stories of the miners in cases of rheumatism, stomach ailments, nervous and kindred disorders.

For ages the philosophers and alchemists sought for a general cure-all in a stone. Later science has laughed at them. From the stone to the ore is but a short step. But, when all is said, the thing in the pocket that cures the most ills is gold.

It is not the possession of gold, but the longing for it, that has filled the world with the sweet hum of industry; not the storing of it, but the striving for it that has brought to mankind the blessings of resolve, effort, health, content.

Hunting Gold in an Auto.

Two Denver men have set out in an automobile on a six months' trip to prospect for gold and other mineral deposits in their own state and in Arizona and New Mexico. They are B. F. Kelly and Smith McKay, both mining men. They and other Coloradoans have satisfied themselves by experience that autos are serviceable in the mountain districts, and they decided to introduce them in prospecting.

They carry a full camping outfit, mining tools, a repair kit, and provisions for one week. They think that with the auto they will always be within reach of a place where they can replenish their larder, so have given up to camp comforts part of the space they might have devoted to provisions.

Story Made Carnegie Smile.

One of the last stories told to Andrew Carnegie before his recent departure for Europe amused him greatly.

The fond father who told the story was trying to impress upon his young son the necessity of contributing to the support of the poor through the medium of the church contribution box, and the lad was objecting to parting with his pennies.

"Don't give unless you really feel you would enjoy doing so," said the father, "for you know the Lord loveth only the cheerful giver."

The boy was silent for a moment. Then he blurted out:

"Gee, he must be dead stuck on Andrew Carnegie!"—New York Times.

Literally and Figuratively.

James B. Dill, the corporation lawyer, has a modest way of attributing his own bon mots to others when first he springs them on his friends. The saying in point was started in this way, but there are those who recognized characteristics too familiar to admit of success for the attempted deception. Said Mr. Dill:

"A woman client of mine who has made variegated investments during the past three years asked me if I could give her a good description of Wall street. I couldn't and she said:

"Well, Mr. Dill, Wall street is short and crooked. It begins with a graveyard and ends in the river."—New York Times.

No Red-Headed Dolls.

"Dolls," said a dealer in such things, "are made in marvelous variety. And yet there are no red heads among them. All are either blondes or brunettes."

"You never thought of this before? Very likely not. But if you look through any stock of dolls, anywhere, you will find it to be true, that there are no red-headed dolls."

"They might be made that way, of course, if they were wanted, as easily as they could be made with blonde or with dark hair, but there is no demand for them."

MRS. KATE TAYLOR.

Mrs. Kate Taylor, a graduated nurse of prolapsus, gives her experience with Peruna in an open letter. Her position in society and professional standing combine to give special prominence to her utterances.

CHICAGO, ILL., 427 Monroe St.—"As far as I have observed Peruna is the finest tonic any man or woman can use who is weak from the after effects of any serious illness."

"I have seen it used in a number of convalescent cases, and have seen several other tonics used, but I found that those who used Peruna had the quickest relief."

"Peruna seems to restore vitality, increase bodily vigor and renew health and strength in a wonderfully short time."—MRS. KATE TAYLOR.

In view of the great multitude of women suffering from some form of female disease and yet unable to find any cure, Dr. Hartman, the renowned specialist on female catarrhal diseases, has announced his willingness to direct the treatment of as many cases as make application to him during the summer months, without charge. Save Your Thresh Bill

The ordinary old-style small cylinder wastes enough grain and time to pay your thresh bill.

Why not save the grain ordinarily put into the straw stack? Why not save the time which the ordinary threshing outfit wastes for you?

This can be done by employing the RED RIVER SPECIAL.

It has the Big Cylinder, with lots of concave and grate surface.

It has the Man Behind the Gun, that does most of the separating right at the cylinder.

Besides these, it has all the separating capacity of other machines.

It runs right along, saving your grain and saving time, regardless of conditions.

There has come improvements in threshing machinery the same as in everything else.

The letter of Miss Merkle, whose picture is printed above, proves beyond question that thousands of cases of inflammation of the ovaries and womb are annually cured by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Gradual loss of strength and nerve force told me something was radically wrong with me. I had severe shooting pains through the pelvic organs, cramps and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor said that I had ovarian trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation. I strongly objected to this and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon found that my judgment was correct, and that all the good things said about this medicine were true, and day by day I felt less pain and increased appetite. The ulceration soon healed, and the other complications disappeared, and in eleven weeks I was once more strong and vigorous and perfectly well. My heartiest thanks are sent to you for the great good you have done me." Sincerely yours, MISS MARGARET MERKLEY, 275 Third St., Milwaukee, Wis.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

JANETTE'S HAIR.
BY CHARLES G. HALPINE.
Oh, loosen the hood that you wear, Janette,
Let me tangle a hand in your hair, my pet,
For the world to me had no daintier sight
Than your brown hair veiling your shoulders white,
As I tangled a hand in your hair, my pet,
It was brown with a golden gloss, Janette,
It was finer than silk of the floss, my pet,
Twas a beautiful mist falling down your waist,
Twas a thing to be braided, and jeweled,
Twas the loveliest hair in the world, my pet,
My arm was the arm of a clown, Janette,
It was sinewy, bristled and brown, my pet,
But warmly and softly it loved to caress
Your round, white neck and your wealth of tress,
Your beautiful plenty of hair, my pet,
Your eyes had a swimming glory, Janette,
Revealing the old, dear story, my pet,
They were gray, with that chastened tinge
Of the sky,
When the trout leaps quickest to snap the fly,
And they match with your golden hair, my pet,
Your lips—but I have no words, Janette—
They were fresh as the twitter of the birds, my pet,
When the spring is young and the roses are wet,
With the dewdrops in each red bosom set,
And they suited your gold-brown hair, my pet,
Oh, you tangled my life in your hair, Janette,
Twas a silken and golden snare, my pet,
But, so gentle the bondage, my soul did imbore,
The right to continue your slave evermore,
With my fingers enmeshed in your hair, my pet,
Thus ever I dream what you were, Janette,
With your lips, and your eyes, and your hair, my pet;
In the darkness of desolate years I moan,
And my tears fall bitterly over the stone
That covers your golden hair, my pet.

A SKETCH.
HIS PRICE FOR HIS SOUL.
By F. M. Newland.

"MONEY, money, money!" hummed the electric wires overhead.
"Money, money, money!" sang the sleigh bells in the street.
As Stephen Bane trod heavily along the snowy pavement, his very footfall seemed to shout—"Good—hard—cash; Good—hard—cash!"
He gazed into the cold, night sky and saw what seemed to him a great shining, silver dollar, sailing serenely in the heavens.
As he paused a moment before a baker's shop, he saw the baker's boy in cap and apron placing a plate of something that looked to him like immense copper pennies, brown and tempting, in the window.
Turn whichever way he would, Stephen could see nothing but money, hear nothing but money, think or talk of nothing but money. His was a money-cursed life. And yet it was not the possession of money that had ruined him, for he was a poor man. Money had cursed him because he loved it, longed for it, dreamed of it by day and night, envied those who possessed it in abundance and despised those who did not.
"Money, money, money!" shouted a stranger standing on the street corner. "Money to sell, money to give away, money to throw away for the man who wants it! Money, money, money!"
Stephen stopped and gazed at the man in sheer amazement and then bounded forward, his heart beating wildly. In his fearful haste he knocked down women and children, nor paused to see what hurt he had done. He was not the only one in the hurrying crowd who hastened to the side of the strange magician who shouted the strange cry. But no sooner had Stephen reached him than the magician smiled as though he recognized him, and gazed into his eyes as if to read his inmost soul.
Stephen bore this scrutiny with the greatest impatience. Presently, a sleigh dashed by and the bells rang out—a perfect avalanche of silver! At this Stephen could restrain himself no longer and timidly reminded the magician of his lavish offers.
"Oh!" laughed he, "you want money, do you? How much do you want?" Stephen hesitated. Visions of great wealth danced before his eyes. A sudden ambition for unlimited possessions mounted large in his brain.
"I want all I can get," he finally gasped out. "I want hundreds of thousands—millions!"
"How earnestly do you desire it?" asked the magician.
"More than anything else in the world," replied Stephen, eagerly, his voice trembling with excitement.
The magician smiled and his voice was sweet as music when he spoke again:
"You can have your wish. You will find money everywhere. It will lie in your path as you walk along, yours for the taking. You can begin gathering it to-night and before you reach home you may have every pocket filled—all this on one condition."

"What is the condition?" demanded Stephen impatiently.
"I will only ask you for a little of your time. You must give me one year—a mere nothing to one so young and strong."

"A year of my life?" cried Stephen, shuddering.
"You may call it that if you like," replied the magician, "but others have willingly given much more and have received less than I have promised you." As he spoke he produced an account book which he opened, showing Stephen page after page. On each was the form of an agreement duly signed and sealed. Some of the names were familiar to him.
"Here's Judge Brines," said the magician. "He has signed five years away and receives fifty thousand."
"Yes, I know him well. He is an older man than I," murmured Stephen.
"Here is Bond, the broker," continued the magician. "He has signed away ten years and I have given him a million."
Stephen wanted to hear no more, but reached for the book with trembling fingers. "I am young and strong," he cried. "I have every prospect of a long life. My father is an old man. My grandfather lived a hundred years. I'll sign away one year, just one year." He wrote his name with fingers that shook with a wild joy mingled with a nameless dread.
"I will hold you to your part of the bargain," he began haughtily, looking up. But the sentence died on his lips, for the magician had disappeared. In his surprise and bewilderment he was tempted to imagine the experience of the last hour nothing but a dream. However, as he started he stumbled and reaching down he found his foot had struck a bag bursting with gold and silver coin.
Laughing with delight at this evidence of the magician's sincerity he quickly gathered up the treasure and hurried on. This was but the beginning of his good luck. Again and again on his way home he found money till his brain grew dizzy as he tried to calculate the wealth of that one night's gathering.
At last he stood on his own doorstep. "The last night in this miserable cottage," he said haughtily to himself. "To-morrow a palace! The last night of meanness and obscurity! To-morrow I will be known and envied as a rich man."

"The last night, indeed!" a sad but stern voice spoke out of the darkness. "Who are you?" demanded Stephen proudly.
"I am the Angel of Death. You must come with me."
"But I have signed only a year, only a year," cried Stephen, gazing into the darkness with horror-stricken eyes.
"It was the only year you had to live, though you knew it not. You must pay the price—a year of life for a handful of gold."—Ram's Horn.

Octopus Fishing.
The octopus is so repulsive a creature that one would hardly think of its being edible. Italians, however, have a liking for it, and with them octopus fishing is a considerable industry. In a report by a United States Consul on the trade in Southern Italy, there is an interesting account of the method of capturing the eight-armed monster.
At the end of a long bamboo pole is hung a line baited with a piece of red rag; and this, dangling in front of the rocky hiding places of the octopus, is sufficient to tempt him from his lair. In his efforts to get near the bait the creature is enticed toward the boat, in which the fisherman awaits him armed with a trident, and at the right moment the octopus is impaled in its spikes.
At night a bright light is used to attract the prey, and this in past times would take the form of an iron cradle full of resinous pine, which was carried at the head of the boat. Now science has stepped in, and the fishermen employ an acetylene lamp, which seems to be as attractive to the octopus as a red rag. Unusually large catches have been made since this form of light was adopted, and although its pioneers tried to keep it secret, they did not succeed in doing so, and now so many octopi are being caught that there is thought to be some danger that the coast will be overfished. That, however, is not likely to be the case, for the octopus comes of a very prolific race.

Full-Grown Owl as a Pet.
Perhaps one of the oddest pets in Albany is a full-grown owl owned by William Hill, of 37 Washington avenue. Mr. Hill has a farm in the vicinity of Greenbush Heights, and last fall while gathering the apples from his orchard he captured the owl and brought it home with him.
An owl, when captured after attaining its full growth, is considered one of the hardest birds in the world to keep alive in captivity. Yet Mr. Hill's owl has never shown any signs of pining. Its favorite roost is on the top of a large clock in Mr. Hill's place of business, where it perches for hours at a time, like Poe's raven on the marble bust of Pallas. On this account it has been christened "Owl Father Time." Three or four times during the day it will fly around the room.
Mr. Hill believes that owls can see much better in the daytime than most persons suppose, for his bird has no trouble in making the circuit of the room without colliding with anything. Moreover, when a piece of fish is left on a bench the owl promptly flies to it and devours it. At other times when hungry the owl will leave his perch on the clock, fly down to the foot and take his station within about two feet of his master, where he will cock his head first on one side and then on the other in the most comical manner. When he is given something to eat he promptly returns to his perch on the clock.—Albany (N. Y.) Press.

ONE DOLLAR WHEAT.

Western Canada's Wheat Fields Produce It—Magnificent Yields—Free Grants of Land to Settlers.
The returns of the Interior Department show that the movement of American farmers northward to Canada is each month affecting larger areas of the United States. Time was, says the Winnipeg Free Press, when the Dakotas, Minnesota and Iowa furnished the Dominion with the main bulk of its American contingent. Last year, however, forty-four states and districts were represented in the official statement as to the former residence of Americans who had homesteaded in Canada. The Dakotas still head the list, with 4,006 entries, Minnesota being a close second with 3,887, but with the exception of Alabama and Mississippi and Delaware every state in the Union supplied settlers who, in order to secure farms in the fertile prairie country of Canada, became citizens of and took the oath of allegiance to, the Dominion. Last year no less than 11,841 Americans entered for homestead lands in Canada.

From the Gulf to the Boundary, and from ocean to ocean, the trek to the Dominion goes on. Not only the wheatgrowers of the central Mississippi valley, but the ranchers of Texas and New Mexico, and the cultivators of the comparatively virgin soil of Oklahoma, are pouring towards the productive vacant lands of the Canadian Northwest. It is no tentative, half-hearted departure for an alien country that is manifested in this exodus; it has become almost a rush to secure possession of land which it is feared by those imperfectly acquainted with the vast area of Canada's vacant lands, may all be acquired before they arrive. There is no element of speculation or experiment in the migration. The settlers have full information respecting the soil, wealth, the farming methods, the laws, taxation and system of government of the country to which they are moving, and they realize that the opportunities offered in Canada are in every respect better and greater than those they have enjoyed in the land they are leaving.

Canada can well afford to welcome cordially every American farmer coming to the Dominion. There is no question but that these immigrants make the most desirable settlers obtainable for the development of the prairie portion of the Dominion. Full information can be had from any authorized Canadian government agent whose address will be found elsewhere in this paper.

Loafers and Soft Snap.
A policeman in Buda-Pest recently noticed a man opening the back door of an empty and disused theatre with a key, after which he disappeared. The officer, becoming suspicious, summoned reinforcements, and a cordon having been formed round the theatre, the police entered and found large numbers of thieves and loafers who had been missing from their usual haunts comfortably installed. The boxes had been fitted up with beds, and three or four men were sleeping in each. Quantities of house-breaking tools and a large amount of stolen property were also found.

Stunts for a Genealogist.
A Somerville genealogist received recently a letter from a lady who wants to join the Colonial Dames. It began: "I write to ask your assistance in looking up my posterity." Some time ago he received a letter from a lady out West, who wrote that she had been informed that she was descended "from Sir Walter Raleigh, who came over in the Mayflower," and asked him to trace the complete line of descent.—Somerville (Mass.) Journal.

"I Think I Know."
Salesville, Ohio, May 2nd.—There is a Civil War veteran in this place who is very positive in his way and when he makes a statement everyone knows he means it and that it is true. His name is Mr. N. J. Stephens, and he has written for publication the following letter:

"I have been a sufferer with Kidney Disease since the Civil War. Sometimes my back would hurt me so that I could not dress myself for weeks. I took a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and have found great relief. They have done me a great deal of good."

"My general health is much better since using Dodd's Kidney Pills. I can recommend this remedy to be the best thing for the Kidneys that is on the market. I have taken a heap of medicine for my back and Kidneys and I think I know what helps me."

"I am 63 years old and was through the Civil War as a soldier."

Mr. Stephens knows that Dodd's Kidney Pills helped him. They will cure any case of Backache.

The Big Fair Opened.

Representing a larger expenditure than any similar enterprise heretofore attempted on this continent, greater in its ambition and wider in its scope than any previous effort of its kind, the Louisiana Purchase exposition was formally opened Saturday afternoon. The inaugural exercises could hardly have been improved upon. They were simple and were carried through without a halt or delay of any description. The weather was simply perfect. The Michigan delegation, twenty-four strong, arrived in the morning and was met at the Wabash depot outside the grounds by President Francis and staff, and were escorted to the magnificent state building. President Francis set aside thirty reserved seats in the grand stand for the visitors and the entire delegation, including Gov. Bliss and staff, viewed the opening ceremonies. Gov. Bliss was introduced to the gathering by President Francis, and when his name was mentioned the vast multitude cheered long and loud.

Michigan was well represented in the parade of all nations, and President Francis again showed his friendship for the executive of the northern state by placing his party in the main division of the procession.

Gov. Bliss and party also attended the banquet tendered the governors and commissioners by President Francis. Gov. Bliss when called upon to speak declared that he felt sure in saying that the Louisiana Purchase exposition was without a doubt the greatest exhibition of its kind he has ever had the pleasure of attending.

Gov. Bliss and party will remain in St. Louis for one week. The party is housed at the Washington hotel, an entire floor having been reserved for them.

Thousands of applications for positions in the construction work of the Panama canal are being made to the commission. It is stated, however, that most of the work will probably be done by contract.

WOMEN'S WOES.

Much of women's daily woe is due to kidney trouble. Sick kidneys cause backache, languor, blindness, insomnia and urinary troubles. To cure yourself you must cure the kidneys. Profit by the experience of others who have been cured.
Mrs. William W. Brown, professional nurse, of 16 Jane St., Paterson, N. J., says: "I have not only seen much suffering and many deaths from kidney trouble, but I have suffered myself. At one time I thought I could not live. My back ached, there were frequent headaches and dizzy spells, and the kidney secretions were disordered. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me from the first, and soon relieved me entirely of all the distressing and painful symptoms."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Brown will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists; price 50 cents per box.

How to Keep House.

With all the luxuries and pleasures of this life, its big enjoyments and its smaller comforts, there is an offset or antithesis which we have to contend with in the form of aches and pains. In some way and by some means every one has a touch of them in some form at some time. Trifling as some of them may be, the risk is that they will grow to something greater and rack the system with constant torture. There is nothing, therefore, of this kind that we have a right to trifle with. Taken in time, the worst forms of pains and aches are easily subdued and cured by the free use of St. Jacobs Oil. No well regulated household ought to be without a bottle of this great remedy for pain. It is the specific virtue of penetration in St. Jacobs Oil that carries it right to the pain spot and effects a prompt cure even in the most painful cases of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Sciatica. You want it also in the house at all times for burns, cuts and wounds, and the house that always has it keeps up a sort of insurance against pain.

SARCASM OF ORCHARD OWNER.

German Asks Only That Thieves Spare Part of Product.
There is a tone of gentle irony in this advertisement from a German newspaper: "To those kind friends who during 1903 have shown such interest in the contents of my humble garden. Take notice that in future the keys can always be had on application, even during the night, and that to enter by the gate is much less dangerous than climbing over the wall. I shall be further deeply grateful if in future you would be so generous as to leave a little of the produce for my needs. The trees in the orchard, from present appearances, seem to promise a fine crop, but when gathering the fruit I should be obliged if in future you could do so without finding it necessary to pull the trees down. It would also insure you a larger selection in time to come. For the same reason I beg you to carry a lantern, so that you do not destroy the greater part of the vegetables in walking over the beds. Thanking you warmly in advance.—H. Spangler."

Christianity and Cooking.

The British public has humor, even though it be unconscious, as the following advertisement for a "cook lady," in a local paper, proves: Cook wanted; no objection to a Christian, provided she is also a good cook."

SOAKED IN COFFEE.

Until Too Stiff to Bend Over.
"When I drank coffee I often had sick headaches, nervousness and biliousness much of the time but about 2 years ago I went to visit a friend and got in the habit of drinking Postum."

"I have never touched coffee since and the result has been that I have been entirely cured of all my stomach and nervous trouble."

"My mother was just the same way, we all drink Postum now and have never had any other coffee in the house for two years and we are all well."

"A neighbor of mine, a great coffee drinker, was troubled with pains in her side for years and was an invalid. She was not able to do her work and could not even mend clothes or do anything at all where she would have to bend forward. If she tried to do a little hard work she would get such pains that she would have to lie down for the rest of the day."

"I persuaded her at last to stop drinking coffee and try Postum Food Coffee and she did so and she has used Postum ever since; the result has been that she can now do her work, can sit for a whole day and mend and can sew on the machine and she never feels the least bit of pain in her side, in fact she has got well and it shows coffee was the cause of the whole trouble."

"I could also tell you about several other neighbors who have been cured by quitting coffee and using Postum in its place." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Pain

From Inflammatory
Rheumatism

Would Have Killed
Our Son.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills
Saved Him.

"We began to use Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills six years ago. My wife had liver trouble and a neighbor gave her some of your liver pills to try, after which we bought a bottle of them and my wife used them until cured. Since then I have never used any pills that gave me the satisfaction these have. We also use Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills with greatest satisfaction. Three years ago our son Harry had inflammatory rheumatism. He had suffered so much that I believe if we had not given him Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills which relieved him almost instantly he would have died. I am always glad of the opportunity for praising Dr. Miles' Remedies."—James Everett, Alton, Ill.

"I was afflicted with neuralgia for years and never found any permanent relief till I began using Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They are a sure cure for headache and neuralgic pains. Only this morning I recommended them to a friend with a severe headache and in a half hour he came into the store smiling. The headache was gone. We use them in the family and find them excellent for the women folk. This high altitude makes them very nervous. Grandma says I should tell Dr. Miles she could not live here were it not for the Anti-Pain Pills that she takes occasionally."—L. B. Morris, Helena, Montana.

A traveling man was being shaved in an Ann Arbor barber shop one day recently and when hot cloths were applied to his face by the barber he showed up with a pronounced case of the measles. In speaking of it the Ann Arbor Argus says:

"The incident is a most excellent object lesson on the detention hospital question. If such an institution existed in the city the case would have been a very simple one, and a number of persons would have been spared exposure to a contagious disease."

Well, if Ann Arbor citizens want a detention hospital why don't they build one? There is no one in the rural districts will deny them the privilege, but they will decidedly object to helping pay for it, and just as emphatically in the future as they did at the recent election.

A little more than half the people of the state live in cities and villages. The annual report of the state bureau of labor shows that 86 chartered cities have an aggregate of 39 per cent of the total state population. The 329 incorporated villages have an aggregate of 13 per cent of the total state population. This makes a total of 52 per cent.

A Sure Thing.

It is said that nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure for all lung and throat troubles. Thousands can testify to that. Mrs. C. B. VanMetre of Shepherd town, W. Va., says "I had a severe case of bronchitis and for a year tried everything I heard of, but got no relief. One bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery then cured me absolutely." It's infallible for croup, whooping cough, grip, pneumonia and consumption. Try it. It's guaranteed by Glazier & Stimson, druggists. Trial bottles free. Regular sizes 50c, $1.00.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease—requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in their curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

Was Harmonious and Passed a Resolution in Favor of Primary Reform.

The Republican county convention held in Ann Arbor Tuesday to elect delegates to the congressional and state conventions and to choose a new county committee moved off as smoothly and harmoniously as if its wheels were well greased. W. W. Wedemeyer was its chairman, Carl Storm its secretary and C. W. Tubbs and W. M. Fowler the tellers. The chairman made a speech eulogistic of President Roosevelt, Congressman Townsend, Senator Alger, and spoke in warm terms of F. P. Glazier's candidacy for the office of state treasurer. He predicted a victory for the Republicans of Washtenaw this fall.

When the convention reassembled after dinner, the reports of the several committees were read and adopted and then Geo. S. Vandawarker, of Ann Arbor, was elected chairman of the county committee. The balance of the committee named by the several townships and wards is as follows:

Ann Arbor town, Geo. N. Foster; Augusta, Phil Blinn; Dexter, E. W. Daniels; Freedom, W. H. Eiseaman; Lima, A. Guerin; Lodi, R. M. Wood; Lyndon, Charles Clark; Manchester, A. J. Waters; Northfield, J. G. Pray; Pittsfield, J. H. Webb; Salem, John Munn; Saline, Willis Fowler; Seio, C. W. Tubbs; Sharon, H. O'Neil; Superior, Perry Townsend; Sylvan, A. W. Wilkinson; Webster, F. H. Wheeler; York, Charles Gauntlett; Ypsilanti town, A. L. Kirkley; Ann Arbor City—1st ward, F. E. Jones; 2d ward, J. W. Harris; 3d ward, Ed. Hiscok; 4th ward, W. W. Wedemeyer; 5th ward, E. W. Hatch; 6th ward, H. G. Prettyman; 7th ward, A. J. Sawyer, jr.; Ypsilanti City—1st ward, Sumner Damon; 2d ward, Sumner Howe; 3d ward, James Fontaine; 4th ward, John W. Thompson; 5th ward, Paul Browner.

H. G. Prettyman was chosen delegate at large to the congressional convention and John F. Lawrence delegate at large to the state convention. The balance of the delegations are as follows:

Congressional Convention—Col. H. S. Dean, Wm. W. Wedemeyer, R. L. Warren, Charles Stannard, A. J. Sawyer, sr., George H. Pond, H. B. Dodge, Alington Guerin, Fred C. Wheeler, Epp Mattison, O. T. Hoover, C. C. Dow, G. L. Hoyt, Frank Newton, Wm. Lister, George Ward, Jas. Blackmar, Charles Gauntlett, George Burkhardt, Wm. Burtless.

State Convention—Capt. John Haarer, P. F. Townsend, O. W. Cushman, Dr. R. S. Copeland, Carl Storm, J. Henry Huehl, George Frey, Arthur S. Lyon, Geo. N. Foster, E. W. Daniels, Adam Eppler, Francis W. Smith, Andrew Campbell, E. P. Allen, Wm. Osband, Isaac Davis, John Lawson, Sherman Cook, F. W. Schoen, A. F. Freeman.

The resolutions adopted by the convention endorsed Theodore Roosevelt for president, Charles E. Townsend for congress, Frank P. Glazier for state treasurer and adopted the following primary reform resolution:

While recognizing that this convention is called for the purpose of selecting men to formulate a platform and choose a standard bearer upon the national issues only, yet as Republicans we deem it our privilege to express the hope and belief of the Republicans of this county that the coming state nominating convention will adopt a clear resolution favoring a primary election law.

Frank W. Creech was re-elected secretary of the county committee, and the convention closed with speeches by Rev. C. O. Reilly, A. J. Sawyer and E. P. Allen.

PEACE AND HARMONY

Also Prevailed in the Democratic County Convention Yesterday.

The Democratic county convention to elect delegates to the state convention was held at Ann Arbor yesterday. It was peaceful and harmonious and a confidence existed that whoever heads the ticket this fall his chances for success are most favorable.

The delegates elected were:

At Large—M. J. Cavanaugh, of Ann Arbor; J. E. McGregor, of Ypsilanti. First District—T. D. Kearney, S. W. Beakes, E. C. Whitaker, Walter Billie, D. W. Barry, E. R. Twist, H. J. Abbott, Eugene Osterlin. Second District—John P. Kirk, Arthur Coe, James Taylor, D. P. McLachlan, C. L. Yost, James Kelly, D. L. Seyler, Fred Halsey.

John P. Kirk was elected county chairman and the county committee was named in part as follows, several of the townships not selecting a representative:

Ann Arbor—1st ward, Ross Granger; 2d, S. W. Millard; 3d, W. H. McIntyre; 4th, J. R. Bach; 5th, E. P. Mason; 6th, E. B. Norris; 7th, H. P. Fennell; Ann Arbor town, C. G. Orman; Augusta, John Healy; Lima, E. G. Haist; Lodi, D. L. Seyler; Manchester, E. S. Eckerman; Northfield, Frank Taylor; Pittsfield, Charles Rose; Saline, J. R. Ball; Seio, Jacob Jedele; Superior, E. R. Twist; Sylvan, George W. Beckwith; Webster, Thomas Quick; York, E. P. Warner; Ypsilanti town, Charles Begole; Ypsilanti city—1st ward, J. E. McGregor; 2d, Charles O'Connor; 3d, T. L. Towner; 4th, F. E. Worden; 5th, Mat Max.

Do you need more blood, and more flesh, do you need more strength this spring? Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will bring them all. If it fails your money back. 35 cents. Tea or tablet form. Glazier & Stimson.

Manchester has a bright township board which purposes to cut down the beautiful oak trees in the cemetery in order to save the cost of raking up the leaves that fall. That board may be a good one for economy, but it is a poor one to beautify its surroundings.

A state convention of Fremont voters has been called to meet in Jackson Thursday, May 18, to once more declare the lofty principles that actuated them 48 years ago. It is estimated there are about 6,000 of these old heroes of ante-bellum days still alive. The names and addresses of 3,000 have already been collected.

James S. Cavanaugh, of Webster, whose barn and farm stock were destroyed by fire Thursday last, was in Chelsea Friday and bought four horses to replace those he lost. Three of them he purchased from Burkhart, Freeman & Corwin. He also bought a Jackson wagon and horse blankets from Holmes & Walker, and a set of double harness from W. J. Knapp. He knew where to come to get good stuff.

Stetson's Uncle Tom's Cabin did not prove to be such a drawing card as usual Friday evening and the attendance was but a slim one. The best feature of the performance was the singing of "Tell me, pretty maiden," from the opera "Florodora," by a double quartette of colored singers. There was also some good buck and wing dancing by the same parties.

The D., Y., A. A. & J. has increased its rate of fare to and from Grass Lake and Jackson to 5 cents each way instead of 5 cents for the round trip. The Grass Lake News says this raise in price is believed to be the beginning of the end of the low rates which have prevailed between Grass Lake and Jackson for the past two years. The new rate applies to all points between Grass Lake and Jackson.

A Startling Test.

To save a life, Dr. T. G. Merrit, of North Mehoopany, Pa., made a startling test resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes, "a patient was attacked with violent hemorrhages, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had often found Electric Bitters excellent for acute stomach and liver troubles so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first, and has not had an attack in 14 months." Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed for dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation and kidney troubles. Try them. Only 50c at Glazier & Stimson's.

THE MICHIGAN NEWS

Showing What's Doing In All Sections of the State

Michigan Building Dedicated.

The beautiful building on the great Exposition grounds in St. Louis, erected by Michigan, was dedicated on Monday. Gov. A. T. Bliss presided at the ceremonies and after Sousa's band had rendered "Michigan, My Michigan," the governor introduced Frederick B. Smith, of Detroit, president of the state commission, who made a brief address. He spoke of Michigan's efforts to construct a building in keeping with the statelyness of the other state buildings and said her portals were thrown wide open and her hospitality would be unbounded.

President D. R. Francis, of the Exposition, responded and welcomed Michigan in the name of the Exposition.

The keys of the building were then delivered by the contractor and accepted by Hal H. Smith, secretary of the state commission.

Other addresses followed by Hon. Chas. S. Osborn, of Sault Ste. Marie, and J. L. Hudson, president of the Detroit Board of Commerce. Mr. Osborn's address was replete with historical reference to fairs, even back to the palmy days of the Phoenicians and paid a glowing tribute to the state, "Michigan," he said, "keeps step with all of the states of our splendid sisterhood, just as she is in harmony with the national chorus and with all the earth; with nature; with God. * * * Michigan, with its fruit and its flowers, its farms and its gardens, its iron and its copper, its coal and its stone, its sugar and its salt, its timber and its cement, its leather and its cloth, its furniture and its glass, its sweet water and pure air, its working places and its resting places, its pelagian lakes and its pellucid streams, its iridescent skies and evanescent troubles, here greets its sisters and wishes them skool."

Andrews' Checks Are Good.

In an opinion filed Tuesday the supreme court held that the funds of the Detroit board of education, amounting to $464,000, and those of the library commission, amounting to $38,551.60, on deposit in the City Savings bank when it failed, cannot be considered special trust funds to be paid from any assets of the bank. The order of the circuit judge denying the petition of the school board and library commission, was affirmed.

The supreme court also rendered a decision in the famous case of the Union Trust Co., receiver of the City Savings bank of Detroit, against the Preston national bank. The plaintiff brought suit to recover a balance owing by the Preston National. The latter endeavored to offset its indebtedness by a check of Frank C. Andrews for $100,000, certified by the City Savings bank and accepted by the Preston National.

It was held in the court below that the check was invalid in the hands of a bona fide holder, but the supreme court reverses this decision and orders a new trial. The opinion is by Judge Carpenter, and is signed by other justices save Judge Grant, who did not sit.

Women Will Illustrate.

There is great interest in a street cleaning experiment undertaken by the women of the Kalamazoo Civic league, which began Monday morning, and continues for six weeks. The portion of the streets to be kept clean lies in the heart of the business district. Rev. Caroline Bartlett Crane, chairman of the public health committee of the Civic league, is in active charge of the work, and Mrs. Howard Murray Jones, wife of the pastor of the First Congregational church, president of the league, and Mrs. A. J. Mills, wife of Judge Mills, are honorary lieutenants. Mrs. Crane visited the merchants on Main street, Friday, and asked them to sweep off the walks in front of their business places at least once each day and to scrub off the walks with mops at least once each week. All agreed to do so.

Honor the Dead.

Department Commander D. B. K. Van Raalte, in his general orders for the observance of Memorial day, urges the comrades of the G. A. R., by their devotion to the memory of the soldier dead, to make it impossible for others to turn the day into a season of sport, pleasure or financial gain.

Posts are requested to attend church services Sunday, May 29, the day before Memorial day. It is suggested that the comrades appear in uniform with badges and colors, inviting the Woman's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans and kindred patriotic organizations to join in the service.

The post chaplains are directed to report the number of graves decorated to Department Chaplain Putnam.

An Insane Murderer.

A murderous assault made last Thursday night by George Montague, a patient of the Michigan asylum, on Dingnas Vanthoff, another patient, resulted in the death of the latter Monday night. The affair is being investigated. The assault occurred at the Brook farm, where the patients of the asylum supposed not to be dangerous are colonized. The patients in the colonies are usually afflicted with some mild delusion and are allowed greater freedom than is the case in some other departments of the asylum. This made possible the murder of Vanthoff.

The receipt by Auditor-General Powers of more than $1,200,000 from railroad companies in payment of taxes sent the balance in the state treasury at the close of April up to $4,557,349.58. A deep cut will be made in this balance on May 10, when the semi-annual distribution of primary school money will be made among the counties of the state. This apportionment will be on the basis of 60 cents per child of school age—between 5 and 20 years.

Marshall will have a "home coming week" August 15 to 20.

More Paroles Granted.

Gov. Bliss granted paroles in the following cases today: John W. Weaver, sent from St. Joseph county April 6, 1893, to Jackson prison for 20 years for murder, second degree.

John Henry, sent from St. Clair county Feb. 5, 1901, to Marquette prison for five years for larceny.

Irwin Mattison, sent from Kalamazoo Dec. 12, 1900, to Jackson prison for five years for horse stealing.

John Lynch, sent from Calhoun county May 12, 1902, to Jackson prison for three years for grand larceny.

Albert Cone, sent from Monroe June 8, 1901, to Jackson prison for five years.

A commutation of sentence was granted in the case of Frank Smith, sent from Ingham county in June, 1900, to Jackson prison for five years for stealing wool. His sentence would expire in July, but he will be released at once.

Shockingly Mangled.

John F. Wallace, a law student fell down an elevator shaft in the Hammond building, Detroit, Friday morning and was instantly killed. His face was smashed almost beyond recognition, and the left side of his head was shattered so that the skull seemed to be in several small pieces. Many bones in the victim's body were broken, and his hands and fingers were crushed and twisted. Wallace came to Detroit from Monroe several years ago and began the study of law. He was a well-known student at the Detroit College of Law, and would have graduated and been admitted to the bar in about another month. He was generally liked, and was a great favorite with his classmates.

Two Were Killed.

A dynamite explosion occurred in the house of Wm. Francis, near Cornum, Tuesday morning. He was terribly torn and bruised and will die. His baby is dead, and his wife and two other children are badly injured, but will recover. Francis had 25 pounds of dynamite for blowing out stumps, and placed a quantity in the oven to dry. The cause of the explosion was not known positively. The house, which was new, was completely wrecked. The explosion was heard two miles and attracted help at once.

NEWS OF THE WORLD

A Brief Chronicle of All Important Happenings

JAPS WIN FIRST LAND BATTLE.

The Japanese Storm Russian Position and Capture 88 Guns.

The first great battle in the Russo-Japanese war was fought at Chintien Cheng, which is a town on the Manchurian side of the river. For over five hours the ground was most bitterly contested. This strongly fortified outpost on the north bank of the Yalu was attacked on the 26th ult. when 16,000 Japanese troops drew from cover a force of 30,000 Russians, and a titanic conflict followed. Owing to their superior force, the advantage at first was with the Russians. At the critical stage, however, Japanese reinforcements suddenly appeared. Fresh troops constantly arriving to reinforce the Japanese were successfully thrown into the front of the fray, and finally in the face of a gallant charge by the soldiers of the mikado the Russian line broke and the czar's troops retreated in confusion. The movement is thought to have been clever strategy on the part of the Japanese commander to conceal his real strength and lead the Russians to believe that they had to deal only with an advance guard.

The Russians were forced to abandon Antung Sunday. They burned the town and retreated to Feng-Huan-Cheng. The Japs now control the estuary of the Yalu.

The Japs lost about 700 killed and wounded. The Russians lost 800 men. The Japs captured 28 quick-firing guns, 20 officers and many men. The Russians made two stands.

Russia Says "Keep Off."

In the most categorical terms Russia has officially notified the world that she will not accept mediation to terminate the war with Japan. The official notification is contained in a circular issued by the ministry of foreign affairs to the Russian representatives with foreign powers, which is gazetted in the Official Messenger. The circular denies the report that formal proposals have been made to the imperial government by any foreign power to use its good offices to restore peace, a denial which does not refer to the personal intimation addressed directly to the emperor by King Edward and King Christian, of Denmark.

Japs Meet Heavy Loss.

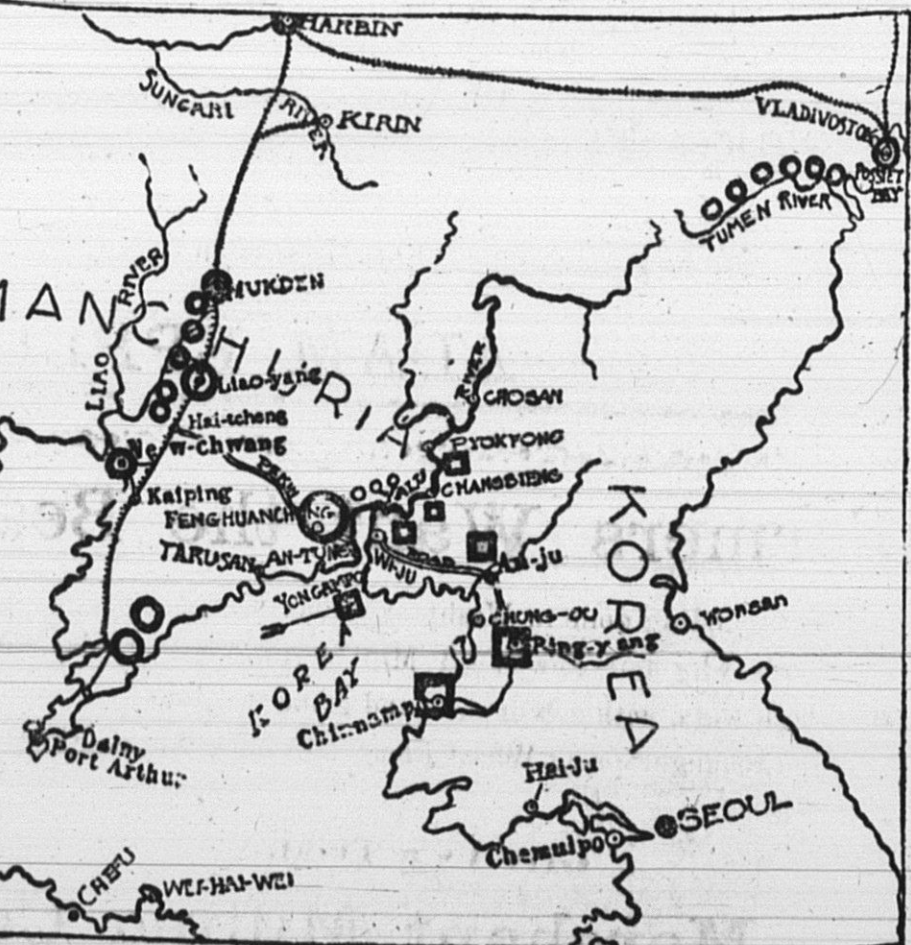

The general staff believes that one of the Japanese columns, while attempting to cross the Yalu river at Turenchen, sustained severe loss, owing to unexpected shelling by a Russian battery from the opposite bank, which destroyed the Japanese pontoons.

The Japanese, the general staff says, tried to cross the river at six or seven different points and succeeded only at one point. The staff has no further news.

The United States has paid the $40,000,000 stipulated to the Panama Canal Co., the archives and documents of the company have been turned over to the United States representatives in Paris, and the $10,000,000 payment to Panama republic will probably be made soon without any attempt to wait for the presentation of the old Colon fire claims by Colombia.

Queen Wilhelmina is in Naples in quest of health. She looks ill and haggard, and not a trace of her sweet beauty of a few years ago is discernible in the sorrow-faced, stooping woman, who has long forgotten to smile. "Henry the Bruin," her husband, lives in the same hotel with her to save appearances, but the queen's majordomo sees to it that he does not molest his wife.

Henrietta De Witt is charged with poisoning her 17-year-old daughter, "Idney, N. Y., to obtain $20,000 insurance on her life.

German insurance companies have decided to abandon American business as a result of the Baltimore and To outo conflagrations.

John Sheehy, said to have been a member of one of Sir Thomas Lippin's stores in Limerick, Ireland, was arrested in New York as he stepped from the Belgian steamer "Friesland" from Liverpool, charged with embezzling a considerable sum from the famous yachtman's establishment.

Officials of the health department report an alarming spread of measles, many cases have proved fatal, being followed by pneumonia.

The Michigan Central railroad has taken the lead in Chicago in the war against ticket scalping by asking an injunction. The other railroads will follow with suits also.

The conference agreement reached on the postoffice appropriation bill includes the adoption of the house provision relative to rural carriers which prohibits them from doing an express business or soliciting subscriptions from patrons along their routes.

The Ward of King Canute

A Romance of the Danish Conquest.

CHAPTER I—Continued.

"They were Fridtjof's," she spoke as she came very softly. "I found them hanging on the chamber wall. In the night the men began to entertain themselves with singing, and it could be heard that they were getting drunk. I waited till they were all still, and then I crept into the women's room, and found the bondmaids huddled in their beds. I got through the guard-room, where the Englishmen were snoring so loud that they would not have heard if I had stamped. In a niche in the wall outside I found Almdstein, the steward, hiding, full of fear. I made him follow me out of the postern and around to the gate where my father—and Fridtjof—were. Her voice broke, but she struggled on. The English dogs had left them there, and Fridtjof's sword was in his hand. There was a smile on his lips. I made Almdstein dig two graves. I kissed Fridtjof's mouth—and—and I laid my father's cloak—over—over his face."

It was useless trying to go on; a deep sob shut off her voice, and threatened to rend her when she tried to hold it back. Sister Wynfreda strove with gentle arms to draw her down upon her breast.

"Suffer the tears to come, my daughter," she urged her tenderly, "or sooner or later they must."

"They shall not!" Randallin cried brokenly. "They shall not! Am I a weak-minded English woman that I should shed tears because my kindred are murdered? I will shed blood to avenge them; that is befitting a Danish girl. I will not weep—as though there were shame to wash out! I will not weep."

The older woman shrank a little. To ears attuned to the silence of the grave, such an outburst was little less than terrifying; she was at a loss how to soothe the girl. To gain a are dreams which you have dreamed in the safety of your father's arms. They among whom you are going are barbarians—yea, devils! It were even better had you married the son of Leofwine. Think you I know nothing of the Pagans, that you set my words at naught? Who, but Danishmen laid low these walls and slaughtered the holy nuns as lambs are torn by wild beasts? Have I not seen their horrid wickedness? You think a nun a coward? Know you how these scars came on my face? Three times, with my own hands, I pressed a red-hot iron there to destroy the beauty that allured—else had the Pagans dragged me with them. Was I a coward?

Randallin's eyes were very wide. "It seems to me that you were simple-minded," she breathed. "Why did you not thrust the iron in his face?" But Sister Wynfreda's expression changed so strangely that the girl foresaw an attack along another line, and hastened to forestall it. "It is not worth while to tell me further about the matter. Do you not see that it is by no means the same? I shall be a Danish woman among Danish men. I shall not be a captive, to be made a drudge of and beaten. I shall be with my own people, my own king. Let us end this talk. Give me the bread and let me go. The sun is getting high."

She glanced at it as she spoke, and found it so much higher than she realized that her haste increased.

Clutching at her belt, her arm, her cloak, the nun strove desperately to detain her. "Randallin! Listen! Alas! how you grieve me by talking after this manner! Wait, you do not understand. It is not their cruelty I fear for you, Child, listen! It is not their blows—"

But Randallin had wrenched herself free. "Oh, fear, fear, fear!" she cried impatiently. "Fear your enemies; her, shouting, did the words reach home.

"Look at the warrior, comrades!" "Hail, Berserker!" "Scamper, cub, or your nurse will catch you!" "The one of your hair on your chin, little one!"

As the sound of hoof-beats died away, and the nag settled back to his steady jog-trot, the girl unclenched her hands and drew a long breath.

"Though it seems a strange wonder that they should not know me for a woman, I think I need give myself no further uneasiness. It must be that I am very like Fridtjof in looks. It may be that it would not be unadvisable now for me to ask advice of the next person how I can come to the camp."

The asking had become a matter of necessity by the time she found any one capable of answering the question. Three foreign merchants whom she overtook near noon could give her no information, and she covered the next five miles without seeing a living creature; then it was only a beggar, who crawled out of the bushes to offer to sell the child beside him for a crust of bread. The petition brought back to Randallin her own famished condition so sharply that her answer was unnecessarily petulant, and the man disappeared before the question could even be put to him. Two miles more, and nothing was in front of her but a flock of ragged blackbirds circling over a trampled wheat-field. Already the sun's round chin rested on the crest of the furthest hill. In desperation, she turned aside and galloped after a mailed horseman who was trotting down a clover-sweet lane with a rattle and clank that frightened the robins from the hedges. He reined in with a guffaw when he saw what method of blade it was that had accosted him.

"Is it your intention to join the army?" he inquired. "Carute will consider himself in great luck."

"I am desirous of—to tell him something," Red Cloak faltered.

His grin vanishing, the man leaned forward eagerly. "It is war news? Of Edric Jarl's men?"

Before her tongue could move, Randallin's surprised face had answered. The warrior smote his thigh resoundingly.

"You will be able to tell us tidings we wish to know. Since the fight this morning we have been allowed to do no more than growl at the English dogs across the plain, because it was held inadvisable to make an onset until the Jarl's men should increase our strength. It is to be hoped that they are not far behind?"

"You make a mistake," Randallin began hesitatingly. "My news does not concern the doings of Edric Jarl, but the actions of his man Norman—"

A blow across her lips silenced her. "Hold your tongue until you come in to the Chief," the man admonished her, with good-humored severity.

"Have you not learned that babbling turns to ill, you sprouting twig? And waste no more time upon the road, either. Yonder is your shortest way—up that lane between the barley. When you come to a burned barn, do you turn to the left and ride straight toward the woods; it should happen that an old beech stock stands where you come out. Take then the path that winds up-hill, and it will bring you to the war booths before you can open your foolish mouth thrice. Trolis! what a cub to send a message by! But get along, now; you will suffer from their temper if they think it likely that you have kept them waiting!" He gave the horse a stinging slap upon the flank, that sent him forward like a shaft from a bow.

GOT EVEN ON CONSTABLE.

Mississippi Justice Bound to Have His Dignity Sustained.

"This attack on Gen. Bristow for the disclosures in the special postal report reminds me of a justice of the peace of Mississippi who was hearing a case tried by a lawyer named George Smith and another named Brown," said Congressman John Sharp Williams. "The justice had been looking on the corn liquor when it was white and he was in a sad state. Smith had the witness."

"What is your name?" demanded Smith.

"I object," said Brown. "It doesn't make any difference what his name is."

"Objection sustained," solemnly muttered the court.

"Where do you live?" asked Smith.

"I object!" shouted Brown. "It is immaterial where he lives."

"Sustained," said the justice. Smith blazed up, calling the justice a "drunken old fool" and adding several other compliments. By degrees the justice comprehended the force and drift of the remarks and then it was his time to get mad.

"Where's Frye?" he demanded. Frye, the constable, emerged from the crowd with a broad grin which enraged the squire still more.

"Stand up there!" he yelled to the constable. "I fine you $5 for letting George Smith insult me on the bench. Court's adjourned."—Boston Journal.

Overstayed His Dream.

"I had a great dream the other night. I dreamed I met a man who offered to cut me a pound slice of radium."

"Whew! It's worth more'n a million an ounce!"

"That's right. 'Want a slice?' he says to me. 'Yes,' I answered him. But I was too grasping."

"How was that?"

"I woke up just as I asked him to cut it thick."

GREAT ARTIST CALLS AMERICAN THE MOST LOVELY WOMAN

MRS. BENJAMIN D. WOODWARD.

"The most beautiful of created beings! Madam, I must paint your portrait! It shall make us famous forever!"

That was the unconventional response made by Thaddeus on being presented to Mrs. Benjamin D. Woodward, for painters, like poets, have license. But the object of the artist's outspoken admiration was unprepared for such a testimony to her loveliness. She is only 19 years old, and a bride of six months. She dropped rather than sat on a convenient chair, and stared at the appreciative painter in wide-eyed wonder. Then came explanations, a tentative consent, and now Mrs. Woodward, whose husband was Commissioner General to the Paris Exposition, is having her features reproduced on canvas.

The artist, H. J. Thaddeus, arrived in this country for his first visit in the middle of the winter, and has on exhibition at Knoedler's art gallery in New York portraits of the new Pope, of Cardinal Merry del Val, Sir H. Mortimer Durand, the British Ambassador to Washington, and of Mrs. Lorillard Ronalds and Mrs. Philip Lydig.

UNLIKE HIS GREAT FATHER.

Son of Cyrus Field Has Had a Checkered Career.

Edward M. Field, son of the late Cyrus Field of Atlantic cable fame, is in Bellevue hospital, New York, in the psychopathic ward, where an examination is being made into his mental condition. This is the first time Field has bobbed into public notice since he was arrested as a tramp in 1900. Before that time his career had been a sensational one. Edward M. Field was originally started in the business in the early '70's as a partner in a banking and brokerage firm. The firm made money and later the partnership became the house of Field, Lindley, Wiechers & Co. In November, 1901, the firm failed for $3,000,000, and practically no assets could be discovered. Field was charged with causing the failure.

HAS MADE INDIANS GOOD.

Excellent Work for Temperance Done by American.

Commissioner Hugh J. Lee, the newspaper man of Meriden, Mass., who two years ago went to Wales, Alaska, for the United States government to look after the reindeer and the natives there, has established a temperance camp there. In a year there has been but one case of drunkenness there. Before his arrival, he says, the natives were a lawless set, given to drinking, but in his first experience as a justice of the peace he sent one transgressor to the federal jail for three months and since that time law and order have prevailed.

Would Abandon Port Arthur.

Gen. Dragomiroff, one of the chief military authorities in Russia, is said to have been from the outset in favor of the abandonment of Port Arthur and to have declared after the first Japanese attack that it was untenable and that efforts to hold it would prove costly and finally ineffective. Dragomiroff would have had the fleet make for the open sea and fight there. This general was one of the principal figures in the Russo-Turkish war, commanded the advance guard in the passage of the Danube and was with Kuropatkin at Plevna. He is known as a tactician.

Traded Horses by Signs.

An unusual decision was rendered in Rutland county, Vt., court in the case of John Rodo, a Poleander vs. Isadore Trepania, a Frenchman. In the suit Rodo sought to recover damages from Trepania, who, it is claimed, sold him a balky horse. Neither understood the language of the other, causing a misunderstanding of the animal's condition. The court decided that the defendant must take back the horse and the plaintiff must pay him the damage done the animal while in his possession.

Secretary Cortelyou Makes Unexpected Visit to Ellis Island.

Secretary Cortelyou essayed the role of Haroun-al-Raschid last week. Late one evening he called up Commissioner General Sargent of the bureau of immigration by telephone and asked him to get ready at once for a trip to New York and be at the station in time for the midnight train. That was the first notice anyone had of the secretary's intention to visit Ellis island. He appeared at the immigration station the next morning bright and early and when he returned, three days later, it was with a lot of first-hand information, which he thinks will prove very useful in handling the Washington end of the service.

SENATOR LOST HIS TEMPER.

And the United States is Out One Handsome Cuspidor.

Senator Cockrell sat at his desk absorbed in a letter which he had just received from a constituent. In the middle of the letter he determined to consult a colleague on the other side of the chamber. He arose hastily and stumbled against a handsome cuspidor which stood by his desk. Recovering his balance, he immediately repeated the misstep. Then, with a blessing not loud, but deep, he swung the senatorial foot against the troublesome cuspidor, which was shattered into a dozen pieces by the blow. The senator looked rather foolish for a moment, but finally joined in the general smile and proceeded on his way.

Words of Anthem Unknown.

King Edward, while visiting at the residence of one of his subjects recently, saw proof that not many Englishmen know the words of their national anthem. He was waiting at the station for his train when a few of the ultra-loyal began to sing "God Save the King," but each in succession came to a sudden pause and lamentably broke down. A desperate flannel attempt failed most ignominiously, greatly to the amusement of his majesty, who vainly tried to conceal his smiles under cover of a parting chat with his noble and slightly embarrassed hostess.

Faithful to Old Master.

Richard Bullock Seawell, the oldest native-born resident of Raleigh, N. C., died a few days ago. The pallbearers at his funeral were six of his former slaves and among the principal mourners was Harry Boykin, who was for many years his slave and for whom Mr. Seawell called repeatedly during his last illness. Though Harry is more than 80 years old, is feeble and lives several miles from the Seawell home, he went there every day, and when his old master died stood weeping at the foot of the bed.

ACTOR FEARED A MIX-UP.

Japanese Valet and Russian Wolf-hound Not a Good Combination.

William H. Crane, the actor, has as many friends in Washington as an Ohio politician. The lawmakers have never forgotten his favorite play of some seasons ago, and he is always called "Senator." Mr. Crane recently played in Washington, and was royally received at the White House, the Capitol and the clubs. While at one of the latter a gentleman who had enjoyed the actor's performance remarked:

"Well, Crane, I want to make you a present. I'm going to give you a dog."

"What breed?" asked the actor.

"A Russian wolfhound," was the reply.

"Sorry," said Mr. Crane, "but I can't accept a Russian wolfhound."

"Why?" asked the friend in surprise.

"I have a Japanese valet," answered the actor, "and as for myself, I'm neutral."—New York Times.

Found Gold in a Hen Coop.

Two boys, W. O. and C. P. Danielson of Medford, Ore., in March, 1894, while cleaning out an old chicken house for a family by the name of Roberts, found buried under the surface $7,000 in coin. The Roberts family claimed the money and the boys turned it over to them. Afterwards the boys brought a suit in court to recover the money, on the ground that they had found it and were entitled to it, as against all the world, except the owner. The Roberts family claimed that one of their number had buried the money there, and that in fact the money was not lost. The case is now before the supreme court of Oregon as to who is entitled to the money. The interesting information was developed at the trial that the Roberts family gave to each of the boys five cents, and expressed the hope that the Lord would bless them.

An Illuminating Crab.

One of the marine curiosities fished some time ago from the bottom of the Indian ocean was a mammoth sea crab which continually emitted a bright white light, similar to that seen in the spasmodic flashes of phosphorescent luminosity emitted by the common glow-worm. The crab was captured in the daytime and placed in a large tank containing specimens of fish, nothing peculiar except its immense size being noticeable in the broad glare of the tropical sun. At night, however, when all was pitchy darkness, the crab lit up the tank so that the other creatures in it could be plainly seen.

Whole Alphabet Here.

In this ingenious monogram every letter of the alphabet can be made out.

Small Claims Paid by Government.

There have been several 1-cent claims against the United States government. One was by the Southern Pacific, which submitted a bill of $5.29 for hauling government freight. It was a bond-aided road, only part of its bills against the government being paid in cash, the rest going to the railroad's credit on the bonds. In this case its credit was $5.28 and its cash 1 cent. Another government obligation of a single cent was in favor of a chemical company, which, for some unexplained reason, agreed in a public competition to supply 16,892 pounds of ethyl ether for 1 cent. The offer was accepted. There were nine signatures, one that of a rear-admiral, on the paper, relating to the establishment of this claim and the warrant for payment had to be signed by several persons.

A Long Sleep.

An agricultural laborer in Russia is reported to have slept for seven months. He "dropped off" while at work in the fields, was carried home, and remained slumbering for the period mentioned, watched from time to time by physicians. Curiously enough, he lost so little flesh that no attempt was made to feed him. When he awoke he was as weak as an infant, but after a fortnight's nursing was strong enough to return to his work.

Depew's Dinner Invitation.

Chauncey M. Depew was accosted by a beggar who had "seen better days." The man wanted five cents. The senator shook his head and passed on. But the man followed him. "Please give me five cents; I've had no dinner," he persisted. "Neither have I," replied the senator shortly. "Very well, then," said the fellow, suddenly assuming an air of patronage, "make it ten, and we'll dine together."—New York Times.

Asthma Germ Discovered

And Every Case Can Be Speedily Cured.

Only recently has Asthma been considered a disease of germ origin.

Dr. Wilkinson, who has had a long experience in the treatment and cure of diseases of a nervous character, has discovered the true cause of Asthma, and what is of more importance to the unfortunate sufferers of that dreaded malady, he has also discovered the remedies that will effect a speedy and permanent cure in every case. The doctor has located the asthma germ in the alimentary canal, and the nerve irritation produced by the germ is reflected to the air passages, causing the spasmodic strictures, which constitute an attack of Asthma. During the past year Dr. Wilkinson has treated over 100 cases of Asthma, and he has effected a speedy and permanent cure in every case. A cure is guaranteed in every case.

Remember, every case is curable, and I cure every case I place on treatment.

176 Warren Avenue,
Chicago, Ill., Oct. 22, 1902.
For nearly four years I suffered from ovarian troubles. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation. My husband felt discouraged as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a disconsolate place at best. A friendly druggist advised him to get a bottle of Wine of Cardui for me to try, and he did so. I began to improve in a few days and my recovery was very rapid. Within eighteen weeks I was another being.

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST.

Mrs. Elizabeth Guinan, of Sylvan, has filed a petition in the probate court to have her husband, Luke Guinan, declared insane. She states in the petition that his hallucination is that he is the president of the United States.

The contract for the construction of the Toledo & Northwestern Traction Co.'s electric line from Toledo to Ann Arbor the coming summer has been let to the Patrick Heiseh Construction Co. Work is to be started at once.

The connection of Seward Cramer with the Ann Arbor Times as its local editor was severed last Saturday and his position as city editor will be filled by Fred F. Gibson, of Niles. Mr. Cramer had been with the Times about 12 years.

Thomas Howlett, of Manistich, died very suddenly Tuesday, April 26, aged 79 years. He was the last survivor of the original Howletts who came to this country from England half a century ago. He was buried in Waterloo cemetery last Thursday. His aged wife is his sole survivor.

According to the Dexter Leader the people of that village do not receive the proposal to build a spur line of the D., Y., A. & J. from Pacey's corners to Dexter with any great degree of enthusiasm. It further says what Dexter wants is a main line, and it won't hang up the "Welcome" sign for anything else.

Jacob Van Husen, who has been sick for a long time, died at his home on West Middle street Tuesday, May 3, aged 76 years. He had been a resident of Chelsea the greater part of his life. His wife and two sons Robert L., of Chelsea, and George, of Detroit, and one daughter, Mrs. J. D. Schnaitman, of Chelsea, survive him.

State Banking Commissioner Moore says that the recent reports from the state banks of Michigan showed them to be in a more prosperous condition than ever before. Their reserves are higher and their condition is in every way improved. The reports of the Chelsea banks certainly show such to be the case with them.

Mrs. Catherine Caspary, of Ann Arbor, wife of Wm. Caspary, Chelsea's baker, was brutally assaulted Tuesday evening by a tramp whom she declined to feed. He struck her over the head with his fist and knocked her down. He was subsequently arrested and pleaded guilty yesterday morning in Justice Doty's court to assault and battery.

President Ledyard's special train made a record breaking run between Niagara Falls and Chicago, Wednesday, April 27. The average speed excluding stops, for the entire run of 461.61 miles was 60.87 miles an hour, or including stops 55.31 miles an hour. The fastest time made was 3.73 miles from Crisman to Lake, Ind., when the train ran at the rate of 111.90 miles an hour.

The Moss Family, eight in number, who have played before the crowned heads of European nations, and who sing and play on different kinds of musical instruments, one of them playing two cornets at one and the same time, will be at the opera house, Saturday evening, May 14. The prices of the tickets are 25c. and 15c. They come under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church.

Joseph M. Golden, reciter and impersonator, will give an entertainment at the opera house, Tuesday evening, May 10, under the auspices of the Church of the Lady of the Sacred Heart. He gives a program of entertaining and amusing character sketches, monologues, pantomimes, stories and recitations, and is spoken of as an artist a great ability. Tickets, 25c. and 15c., are for sale at John Farrell's and the Miller Sisters.

In addition to an elaborate portrayal of current fashions and other matter of special interest to women, the Delineator for May contains literary and artistic features of the highest excellence. The story of Catherine Sevier, conspicuous in the early history of Tennessee, is the first of a series on Great Women of Pioneer Times. In addition there are engaging stories and pastimes for the little ones, and timely information for almost every department of the home.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES.

The date of Pinckney's "Old Home Days" is Aug. 3-4.

School closed in district No. 5, Freedom, last Friday.

Jacob Lehr's new house in Freedom is in the course of erection.

There will be over 40 subscribers to the Sharon telephone exchange.

Grange Notes.

A State Patrons' Cyclone Insurance Co. has just been formed by the State Grange.

Washtenaw Pomona Grange meets with Fraternity Grange at Willis next Tuesday, May 10.

The County Grange is constantly growing in attendance, also in the number who take part in the discussions.

Fraternity Grange, at Willis, is the oldest grange in the county with an unbroken record. It owns its own hall.

There are 379 traveling libraries in circulation in the state, valued at $19,500. About one-third of these are in circulation among the local granges in country neighborhoods.

Michigan granges have started a Bureau of Information, with headquarters at Lansing, which aims to put members having stock or produce to sell in communication with prospective buyers, and those wishing to buy with parties having it for sale. One party of the transaction only need be a member of the grange. One feature of the bureau that promises well is its effort to encourage those who cannot secure farm help at home to send to New York for immigrants.

Probate Order.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Washtenaw, ss. At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw, held at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, on the 15th day of April, in the year one thousand nine hundred and four.

Present, Willis L. Watkins, Judge of Probate in the matter of the Estate of Sarah T. Reed, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of William R. Reed, praying that administration of said estate may be granted to said self, or to some other suitable person.

Thereupon it is ordered that the 15th day of May next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs at law of said estate, and all other persons interested in said estate, be required to appear at a session of said Court then to be held at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, and show cause if any they be, why the prayer of the petitioner should be granted.

And it is further ordered, that said petition give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and of the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Chelsea Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county three successive weeks previous to said day hearing.
