FINE GRADUATION RECITAL

Miss Helene L. Steinbach Made a Great Impression on a Large Audience.

The following account of the ex-Helene Louise Steinbach at University hall, Ann Arbor, Wednesday after-Ann Arbor Daily Times of May 5. source it is the more creditable to her from a critical standpoint:

Louise Steinbach of Chelsea took place in University hall yesterday afternoon, and the manner in which the young graduate handled the great Columbian organ was evidence of her proficiency.

The large audience assembled to enjoy Miss Steinbach's work was mainly com posed of Chelseaites, including relatives and a host of friends of the young lady from that place. That her work was well appreciated the hearty applause which greeted every number testified.

The first part of the program consisted of works from Bach and Guilmant and in each Miss Steinbach displayed sympathetic and artistic interpretation. Her opening number, the "Fantasie and Fugue in G minor," by Bach, was well executed, as was also the Guilmant "Pastorale." The third number was the "Sonate No. 1 in D minor" from Guilmant in three movements. The second and third movements were especially beautiful, abounding in fine climatic effects. The "Adagio in A flat," from Volckmar and the Faulkes "Marche Nuptiale" completed the fine program. The last number was probably Miss Steinent of some very pretty floral gifts.

Miss Steinbach is an organist of fine abil ity and at present is the organist of the Methodist church in Chelsea.

OHAPTER H .- Continued. natching up her slackened rein with one hand, his rider managed to secure her teaping cap with the other; and after the first bounce she caught the jerky gait instinctively and swayed ber body into its uneven swing. Bus her heart was all at once a-throb in a wild panic. Was this what a boy must expect? "If these other mer behave so It is in my mind to tel them that I am a woman," she decid ed. "Since they are my own people no evil can come of their knowing and I delike the other feeling."

The recollection that she had at ways this escape open gave her a new lease of boldness. When a sentinel stopped ber near the top, she face. him with a fairly firm front.

"I have war news for King Canute," she told him haughtily; and he let her pass with no more than a grin.

She had come in by the back door, but now she had begun to reach the better quarters. Her nose reported socrer than her eyes that a meal was in making; and a glow of anticipation braced her famished body. There, a dozen yards to the left, the meal was nearly over; between the gnarled trunks the fire shone like a red eye; and bursts of merriment and snatches of boisterous song marked the beginning of the drinking.

Sometimes a woman's lighter laughter would mingle with the peal. Sometimes, through the swaying branches, Randolin caught sight of the flower-fair face of an English girl bending between the shaggy yellow heads of the captors. Once she came-upon a brawny Viking employing his huge fingers to twine a golden chain around a white throat. The ght's face was dimpling bewitchingly as she held aside her shining hair. Randalin had an impulse of triumph.

her breath, he had raised the tentflap, pushed her bodily through the entrance, and dropped the linea door behind her.

CHAPTER III.

When Royal Blood Is Young Blood Three richly dressed warriors, clinking golden goblets across a table-so much Randalin caught in her first glance. On the spot where the sentinel had released her she stopped, stock-still, and with eyes bent on the ground tremblingly awaited the royal attention.

Her first thought was that a king's tent was very like a trader's booth. Spears and banners and gold-bossed shields decorated the walls, while the reed-strewn ground was littered with furs and armor, with jeweled altarcloths and embroidered palls and wonderful gold-laced garments. The rude temporary benches were spread with splendid covers of purple and green, upon which silver lilies and gold-eyed peacocks had been wrought with exquisite skill. Randalin's gaze lingered, dazzled, then slowly rose to examine the master of all this wealth.

He was not so easy to pick out. Of the three men around the table, only one was a graybeard; and of the two striplings left, either might have been the son of Sven of Denmark. Both were finely formed; both were dressed with royal splendor, and the hair of each fell from under a jeweled circlet in uncut lengths of shining fairness. The hair of the shorter one, though, was finer; and no red tainted the purity of its gold. When one came to look at it, it was like a royal cloak. Perhaps he might be the king! Then she noticed that his shoulders lacked the breadth of his companion's by as much as a palm's width; and her

Another sentinel hailed her and she gave him absently her customary an- Their discussion had been growing swer. He pointed to a great striped tens of red and white linen, adorned man and the young Jotun rose sudwith futtering streamers and guarded by more sentries in shining mail; and she rede toward It in a daze.

More revelers sprawled under these trees, and she looked at them curicously. The women here did not seem to be amusing themselves so well. One was weeping; and one-a slip of a girt with a face like a rose—was trying vainly to rise from her place beside a drunken warrior, who held her hands and strove to pull her lips down to his wine stained mouth. In imagination Randalin felt again Norman's arm around her waist, and a wild pity was quickened in her. This will in this as in everything, King was worse than drudgery, worse than blows! For the credit of Danish warriors, it was well that Sister Wynfreda could not see this.

Again her own words raised a startling apparition. What had been the S'ster's last cry of warning?' "It is not their crucity I fear for you. Child, Tisten! It is not their blows-" Could it be possible that this was what-like a merciless answer came a scream from the girl-a short, piercis g cay of horror and loathing and exercized appeal as she was drawn down upon the leering face. At that cry, childhood's blind trust died forever in Randalin. As she rode past the pair, with clenched hands and mashing eyes, she knew without reasoning that tortures would not tear from her the secret of her disguise.

When the sentinel before the tent challenged her roughly, it was her tongue, not her brain, that answered

"I have war news for the King." In a twinkling he had dropped his spear, plucked her from her saddle, and was marching her toward the entrance by her collar.

"In the Troll's name, get in to the chief, and let nothing hinder you!" he bright eyes bent themselves upon him 23,000. The empress is expected to growled. "From your snail's pace I in his turn. The older man said in a tone of slowly gathering anger, "I told you to make the bargain, and I stand at the back of my counsels. Have you become like the wind, which tries every quarter of the sky because it knows not its own mind?"

While the young man warned in his heavy voice, "You will have your Canute, but I tell you that if you keep the bargain, you will act against my advice."

He raised from his hands now a face of boyish sullenness, and sat glaring over his clenched fists at his counsellors.

'Certainly it would become a great misfortune to me if I should act against the advice of Rothgar Lodbroksson" he made stinging answer. "It was he who gave me the advice, when the English broke faith, to vent my rage upon the hostages. Men have not yet ceased to lift their noses at me for the unkingliness of the deed." His eyes blazed at the memory. They were not pleasant eyes when he was angry; the blue seemed to fade from them until they were two shining colorless pools in his brown face.

The son of Lodbrok shrugged his huge shoulders in stolid resignation, but the wrinkled forehead of the older man became somewhat smoother. He said in his measured voice, "In that matter my opinion stands with Canute. When bloodshed is unecessary, it becomes a drawback." Over the brown fists the fierce in England and France, will cost over Get in and set your tongue wag- Tall speaks from experience. It stands During this time she will visit Bethin my memory how well craft served lehem, Gethsemane, Hebron, Jericho

"Slowly, old wolf!" he admonished 'Never snarl at the snapping of the cub yer have raised."

The King had not moved at the threa's ning gesture, and he did not move low, but he echoed the laugh bitterit.

A grort of impatience distended the nostri's of Thorkel the Tall. "At such times as these," he said, "are Frought to my mind the words of Ulf Itrl, that a man does not really star? well upon his legs until he has live! twenty-five winters."

Up came the King's yellow head. Ther was no question now about his temper. A spot of fiery red marked each cheek-bone, and his colorless eyes were points of blazing light.

"Inter is it to stand unsteadily upoi two legs than to go naturally upor four," he retorted. "If I also am a beast, at least there is a man's mind in the that tells me to loathe myself for being so. Even as I loathe youbein of you-and all your howling pack! Make me no arswer or, by the head of Odin, you shall feel my fangs. Oh, leave me, leave me, before I lose my human nature and go mad like a dog! Leave-You laugh!" As he caught sight of Rothgar, he interrupted him with a roar. His hand shot to his belt and plucking forth the jeweled knife that hung there, hurled it, a glittering streak, at the grinning face. If it had reached home, one of Rothgar's eyes would have gone out in darkness.

But the son of Lodbrok had known is royal foster-brother too long to be aken by surprise. Throwing up a wooden rlatter like a shield, he caught the quivering blade in its bottom, whence he drew it forth with good-hamored composure.

"If you wish to give a friend a present, King, you should not throw it at him so argrily," he suggested. "Had you given me the sheath, too, your gift would have been doubly dear."

Gradually the color flowed back to the young king's eyes and softened them; gradually his mouth relaxed from its fierce lines and drooped in bitter curves. When at last his fingers stopped their nervous beat, it was to unfasten the sheath of chased gold which was attached to his waist, and streich it out to Rothgar.

"Have it your own way," he said gravely. "It is right that I pay some fine; I have a troll's temper. Take the sheath. But do not make the mistake again of laughing at me because you cannot understand me. But one person may do that and live, and that person is a woman, and my wife. There is a strange feeling in my heart that we have begun to travel d'fferent paths, you and I-and that it is because we no longer walk on the same level of ground, that we no longer see any object in the same light. And my mind tells me that in time to come your path will lead you down. rto the valley and my road will take me up the mountain-side, until even our voices shall no longer reach across." He came out of his dreaming abruptl?. "It is not worth while to speak farther. Leave me, as I ordered you. There is no unfriendliness in my mind at this, but I can command myself no further. Go." Rothear said, with some approach to formal courtesy, "I ask you to pardon it that I have done what you dislike, for I wish that the least of all the world. And I give you thanks for your gift." Their hands clasped strongly as the trinket passed from grasp to grasp.

Then the sage and the soldier turned and strode past the cowering figure of Randalin and out of the linep doorway.

THE LOCUST PARTY FAILED.

Fly "Mixed In," and the Excitement Was Over.

The last years of Justice Dykman's life he delighted to sit in his yard and watch the insects and all the small life with which the summer teemed He was especially interested last year in the !ocusts, which would burst out of their old skin one by one, and one morning he invited a party of his neighbors over to watch a particularly fat locust break out of its old prison. As the shell slowly cracked the judge became more and more excited, until suddenly a big fly pounced on the lo cust and stung it through the crack on its fresh, new back. Of course, this killed the locust instantly, and there was no more squirming within the old shell. The judge was highly indignant, "The confounded rascal," he exclaimed, 'stung the locust, did he? The beastly fly! Isn't that too bad, now; isn't that too bad!" and then he apologized to his neighbors for the fly's bad behavior and the failure of his locust party.-New York Tribune.

AUTHORS GOT EVEN

eat Character of Some of the Re cently Published Fiction Made Plain -Some Facts Possibly Not Com monly Known.

Two aspiring authors in New York re salving the wounds the publishers ave dealt them by gleefully telling ae stories of their ill success.

One of them had a manuscript reected last spring by one of the leadng publishing houses in such a way hat the letter of rejection was a oothing lotion to wounded nope. It was a long personal letter, written by ne high in authority in the publishing ouse, and it bubbled over with comliments about the art, the charm and he value of the manuscript, and went on to say that they were returning it with much regret, as they feared it was too far above the heads of the public, and would not reach a comnercial success.

Recently this author met the person high in authority, who remembered the name and at once asked what had been done with the manuscript. The author replied that it had been laid away to see if its selling quality might not improve with age.

"It is a charming thing," said the publisher, with much conviction, "and . ought to be published." The other author took the manuscript of a rovel to a publishing house whose imprint is supposed to be a guarantee of the highest quality of literary work done in this country. A little later he was summoned to a conference with the head critic of the house, a man whose essays in literary criticism have established his reputation as among the best of the critical writers this country has produced. He was very complimentary about the manuscript.

"It is all right," he said, "but we must consider the audience. This is a capital story, but the matinee girl wouldn't understand it. She wouldn't know what it is all about. And she makes up so much of the audience tnat we have to consider her tastes."

Stayed One Week.

John Barrett, the new United States minister to the Argentine Republic, was received at Buenos Avres with great cordiality. An account of his enthusiastic reception was sent to the state department by Mr. Barrett. but it did not contain some of the most interesting details Bands played in celebration of Mr. Barrett's arrival, and he was greeted by prominent citizens, who escorted him to the best-known hotel in Buenos Ayres. Mr. Barrett was assigned to a suite of rooms and settled down to life in the Argentine city.

After his exciting experience as Oriental agent for the St. Louis exposition, the quieter life in Buenos Ayres was very acceptable to Mr. Barrett. One day it occurred to him that it might be well to ask the rate he was to pay for his rooms.

"Fifty-eight dollars a day," was the suave reply of the clerk.

Mr. Barrett enjoyed the hospitality of the hotel for only one week .-Washington Times.

Pity.

William H. Taft lectured recently in Philadelphia on the Philippines. Mr Taft remarked, at the end of his lecure, that there was too much sentimental pity in the world.

"People-the poorest and most wretched people-are happier than we think for, as a rule," he said. "To eat when one is hungry, to sleep well and comfortably, to warm oneself after a day's work in the cold-are not they who have these things often happy enough?

"No matter how wretched we are we hold that our lot is not a bad one and we pity someone worse off. In a storm at sea one night two sailors, their clothing frozen to their bodies, hung to a rope as the waves washed over them.

"'I say, Bill,' says one.

"Wot is it, mate?' says the other "Think o' the poor fellers caught at a picnic in such weather as this."

DWARF BANANA FINE FRUIT

Product of Bermuda of Which Little Is Exported.

The dwarf banana of Bermuda first came from the Canaries. The fruit is little larger than a man's finger, and is compact in texture and rich in flavor. The fruit grown in summer is applied to a land in which the mercury rarely registers as low as 50 degrees and in which frost is unknown. The single bunch that the tree bears would weigh, of this dwart sort, from twenty-five to sixty or seventy pounds. There is almost no expense required in maintaining the plantation after it is once established, and the gross anrual income should be from $400 to $500 per acre. The little bananas are consumed entirely by the local markets, for Bermuda is visited by tourists, it has a large garrison, and the resident people-some over 17,000 all tol -are fond of fruit.

Queer Little Church.

One of the queerest and most iso lated churches in England is a little gray edifice in the valley of Westdale Head, Cumberland. It is over four hundred years old, and has only two windows and eight pews. The pulpit is lighted by a slit of glass in the roof. A little bell hangs loosely in the open belfry, and on stormy nights drearily mingles its tones with the wind and thunder.

IN AN OLD TRUNK.

Baby Finds a Bottle of Carbelle Acid and Drinks It.

While the mother was unpacking an old trunk a little 18 months' old baby got hold of a bottle of carbolic acid while playing on the floor and his stomach was so badly burned it was feared he would not live for he could not eat ordinary foods. The mother says in telling of the case:

"It was all two doctors could do to save him as it burnt his throat and stomach so bad that for two months after he took the poison nothing would lay on his stomach. Finally 1 took him into the country and tried new milk and that was no better for him. His Grandma finally suggested Grape-Nuts and I am thankful I adopted the food for he commenced to get better right away and would not eat anything else. He commenced to get fleshy and his cheeks like red roses and now he is entirely well.

"I took him to Matamoras on a visit and every place we went to stay to eat he called for Grape-Nuts and I would have to explain how he came to call for it as it was his main food.

"The names of the physicians who attended the baby are Dr. Eddy of this town and Dr. Geo. Gale of Newport, O., and any one can write to me or to them and learn what Grape-Nuts food will do for children and grown-ups too." Name given by Look in each pkg. for the famous

AN ILLINOIS FARMER IN WEST. ERN CANADA. Nature's

A recent issue of the Shelbyrin Ulineis, Democrat contains a long and interesting letter from Mr. Bhas Kost formerly a prosperous farmer of that state, who recently emigrated to Western Canada, taking up a claim for himself and for each of his three sons. From Mr. Kost's letter, which was written Feb. 3, 1904, we publish the following, believing it will prove of great interest to those who have contemplated settling in the Canadian Northwest:

"I had in August, 1902, secured a claim for myself, and filed on three quarter sections for my sons. My claim is one-half mile south of the Edmonton and Lake St. Anne trail

"Coming so late in the season we had little opportunity to break and to prepare ground for a first year's crop, still we raised over 100 bushels of very fine potatoes, and sowed a few acres of barley, but the season was too far advanced for the barley. How. ever, we secured good feed from it. and on rented ground 18 miles east of us, raised a fine crop of oats, so that we will have plenty of feed for horses, We cut about 60 tons of hay and thus will have an abundance. We have, all told, about 240 acres of hay meadow. which would yield the past year over three tons to the acre, and in an or dinary season the meadow would furnish 600 tons of hay. The grass is very nutritious, and cattle on the ing fed a pound of grain.

"On the upland the grass grows from eight to ten inches tall. This is called range grass, and is suitable for stock at any time, even in the winter when the ground is not covered too deep with snow. Horses subsist on it alone, at all times, provided they are native stock. The grass in the hay meadows here is called red-top, and

"Our cattle have not cost us a cent since we came on our homestead, only the small outlay for salt and labor in putting up hay and shelter. All carde have been doing well this winter, and feeding up to the first of January was unnecessary, as there was good range up to that time.

"All the snows up to that date were followed by winds from the northwest that melts it very rapidly; these winds are called Chinook winds, and are always warm. In one night a Chinook wind may take away three or four inches of snow.

"We have built on our claim a comfortable house of hewn logs, 20x26 feet, one and one-half stories in height, with a good cellar. During the latter part of June we rafted logs down the Sturgeon to a sawmill, about eight miles away, and thus secured 5,000 feet of good lumber which was needed for the house. Later in the season a shingle mill located six miles away. To this we hauled logs and had shingles cut for the roof.

"We had an abundance of wild fruit the past season, consisting of goose berries, strawberries, raspberries, eye berries, blueberries, cherries and saskatoons. The latter are a fine looking of higher quality than that grown in berry, red, and quite pleasant to the winter-if the word winter can be taste, but not much to be desired in cookery. The strawberries are the same as those that grow wild in Illinois. Raspberries are red in color, large and equal to any of the tame varieties, and so are the gooseberries. The cranberries consist of the high and trailing varieties. The latter are most sought and contiguous to the swamps. The ground is literally covered with them as with a red carpet, but the best and most sought is the blueberry, so called by the Indians. This is the famous 'huckleberry' (whortleberry) of the Blue Ridge Mountains in Pennsylvania, and cannot be excelled for excellence by any fruit cultivated. It is found here both on the prairie and in the timber in immense quantities.

> "Game is very plentiful so far as prairie chickens, pheasants, ducks of all kinds, and geese are concerned. We have taken nearly 500 chickens and pheasants, also a great many

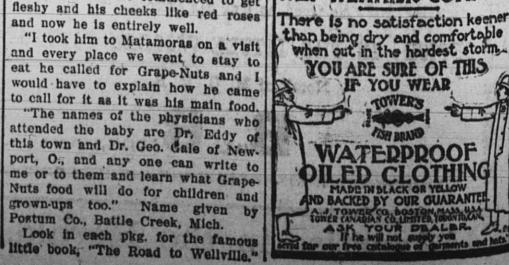

> "An occasional deer is seen, but are not plentiful, only one having been taken during the season in this settle-

"Fish are very plentiful at all seasons of the year. Fish wagons and sleds are passing almost daily along the trail with heavy loads of fish, destined for St. Albert and Edmonton. From the latter point they are shipped south on the Calgary and Edmonton railroad to points along the line, and also to Assiniboia, on the Canadian Pacific railroad."

lest of the Ailments Peculiar to the Female Sex are Due to Catarrh of the Pelvic Organs.

Rachael J. Kemball, M. D., 334 Virginia St., Buffalo, N. Y., is a graduate of the University of Buffalo, class 1884, and has been in the practice of medicine in that city since then. She writes as follows:

"My conviction, supported by experience, is that Peruna is a valuable preparation for all catarrhal affections. I have taken one bottle of Peruna myself and just feel fine. I shall continue to take it."-Rachael J. Kemball, M. D.

Peruna has cured thousands of cases of female weakness. As a rule, however, before Peruna is resorted to several other remedies have been tried in vain. Cure The Lung vic diseases have no idea that their trouble is due to catarrh. The majority of the people think that catarrh is a disease confined to the head alone.

This is not true. Catarrh is liable to attack any organ of the body; throat, bronchial tubes, lungs, stomach, kidneys and especially the pelvic organs.

Many a woman has made this discovery after a long siege of useless treatment. She has made the discovery that her disease is catarrh, and that Peruna can be relied upon to cure catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

INDIA'S MOST DEADLY SNAKE

Bite of the Daboia Is Almost Invariably Fatal.

A writer on India says: "The snakes that are most worthy of dread as inmates of Indian gardens are the terrible daboias, 'Viperia russelli.' They are truly superb reptiles, for, while the coloring of their armor is relatively quiet, it would be hard to find any finer harmony than that presented by its tints of ocherous brown, on which a series of shining black rings with lighter margins are disposed in triple rows from the neck to within a short distance from the end of the tail. Dabo as are sluggish and inert, and often lie coiled up and motionless on footpaths until they are actually touched or trodden on by passers-by, when they suddenly unfold like a released spring armed with terrible teeth. There is none of the warning and preparation here that there is where a cobra is about to strike; no sitting up and threatening, but an instantaneous and deadly assault. When they have laid hold, too, they hang on and worry in sickening fashion whilst they strive to inject as much as possible of their tenacious yellow venom."

Still Another Case.

Kirkland, Ill., May 9th .- Mr. Richard R. Greenhow, of this place, is another who has been cured of Rheumatism by Dodd's Kidney Pills. He

"I had the Rheumatism in my left leg so bad that I could not walk over ten or fifteen rods at a time, and that by the use of two canes, and I would have to sit or lie down on the ground. The sweat would run down my face with so much pain. I could not sleep at night for the pain. I was in a terrible condition.

"I tried different doctors' medicine but got worse till I saw an advertisement of Dodd's Kidney Pills and bought some. After I had used a few, the pain began to leave me, so I kept right on taking them and gradually getting better till I had used in all fourteen boxes and my Rheumatism was all gone, not a pain or ache left.

"I can truly say I haven't felt better in twenty-five years than I do today. Dodd's Kidney Pills have made a new man of me."

USE COSTLY PRAYER BOOKS.

Society is No Longer Content With Plain Covers. If one of the fishermen who early eccepted the Christian faith and besame one of the twelve Apostles could ome back to earth he would never guess that the elaborate prayer books so often seen nowadays were the manual of his lowly Master's teach-

Possibly the fad for using such costly prayer books became prevalent because of the expensive ones which were made for brides to carry in place of the conventional bouquet. At any rate, the plain leather book is out of late and seldom seen. Those of chased or etched silver or carved vory are the quiet ones for elderly ladies. Others are much more gorgeous. The covers are of curiously wrought gold, set with precious or semi-precious stones. One of the favorite designs shows the Annuncia tion, with the halo of the angel made of small diamonds and with lilles on the stalks of which are pearls.

Your dress may be as soft and quie in tone as a "dim religious light," but fashion decrees that the one spot of grandeur and gorgeousness, the high note of your church costume should be the cover of your prayer

CHILD ACTORS OF JAPAN.

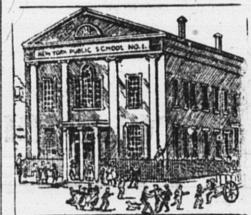

Intelligent Little Ones Who Work Hard to Amuse.

At one of the principal theaters o Tokio the plays are played entirely b children who are all, we are sure perfectly well-fitted for their arduou roles. All these little people are be tween the ages of eight and thirteer and they go through their parts, ofte of the most tragic character, with a intelligence and precision which i quite marvelous. A great deal of th bublic dancing is done by childre lso, who, at a very tender age, ar compelled to go through a mos evere training, including the per formances of gymnastics, for acquir ng suppleness and agility, while heir little fingers have to be arti cially hardened to enable them to pla he tambourine. They are allowe out little sleep, and have early to ge eccustomed to extremes of temper ure. Indeed, the lot of the Japanes child actor is not altogether an env able one, it is to be feared.

Thick Skinned Animals.

The whale may claim to have skin thicker than any other anima It has a skin nowhere less than sev eral inches in thickness. The distinct tion of being the thickest skinne quadruped belongs to the India rhinoceros, whose hide has a knott or granulated surface, and is so im penetrable as to resist the claws o the lion or tiger, and the sword o bullet from old-fashioned smooth-bor muskets. So stiff and hard is this skin that were it not divided by creases or folds the animal imprison ed in its armor could scarcely move The skin of the hippopotamus runs that of the rhinoceros very closely as regards thickness.

Miss M. Cartledge gives some helpful advice to young girls. Her letter is but one of thousands which prove that nothing is so helpful to young girls who are just arriving at the period of womanhood as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: - I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkam's Vegetable Compound too highly, for it is the only medicine I ever tried which cured me. I suffered much from my first menstrual period, I felt so weak and dizzy at times I could not pursue my studies with the usual interest. My thoughts became sluggish, I had headaches, backaches and sinking spells, also pains in the back and lower limbs. In fact, I was sick all over.

"Finally, after many other remedies had been tried, we were advised to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am pleased to say that after taking it only two weeks, a wonderful change for the better took place, and in a short time I was in perfect health. I felt buoyant, full of life, and found all work a pastime. I am indeed glad to tell my experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it made a different girl of me. Yours very truly, Miss M. Cartledge, 533 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga."

At such a time, the grandest aid to nature is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It prepares the young system for the necessary changes, and is the surest and most reliable cure for woman's ills of every nature. Mrs. Pinkham invites all young women who are ill to write her for free advice. Address, Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

Mrs. Estes, of New York City, says:

DEAR MRS. PINEHAM: - I write to you because I believe all young girls ought to know how much good your medicine will do them. I did dressmaking for years before I was married, and if it had not been for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I do not believe I could have stood the strain. There is no other work that is such a strain on the system. Oh, how my back used to ache from the bending over! I would feel as though I would have to scream out from the pain, and the sitting still made me so terribly tired and weak, and my head throbbed like an engine. I never could eat after work, I was so worn out. Then I was irregular, and had such frightful cramps every month they would simply double me up with pain, and I would have to give up working and lie down. But Lydia E. Pink-ham's Vegetable Compound changed me into a strong, well woman. Yours very truly, Mrs. MARTHA ESTES, 513 West 125th St., N. Y. City."

Hall's Catarrh stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Mrs. Stearns' Death.

Mrs. Paulina L. Stearns, wife of Hon, Justus S. Stearns, candidate for governor of Michigan, died Thursday evening after an illness of less than three weeks. The cause of death was an attack of acute kidney trouble, which the ablest physicians of Chicago were unable to conquer or allay.

Two weeks ago Mrs, Stearns returned from the south, going to Chicage for treatment of a supposed malarial disorder. Physicians there offered her no hope whatever, and she came home to die.

Mrs. Stearns was 54 years old, having been born Nov. 24, 1849, at Conthropist, endowed three colleges in neaut, O. She was married in 1868 to Justus S. Stearns and came to Ludington in 1876. UTICA HALF DESTROYED.

Fire Raged Seven Hours in the Ceuter of the Town Before Checked. Between 10 and 11 o'clock on Sanday forenoon fire was discovered in the Exchange hotel barn, in Utica. A strong wind drove the fire with such force that buildings were converted into ashes with forceful rapidity. Seventeen business places and ten dwelling houses were burned before a fire engine, which was telegraphed for, arrived from Detroit by special train. The entire heart of Utica is gone. The fire burned seven hours before it was checked. Forty-nine buildings, including the only bank, one church and some of the leading stores, the oldest and largest hotel, large storage houses fused to budge and that one of the employes of the place threw two buckets of water over the vagabond. "Only for a time, you know," Edward went on with an easy laugh. Just for a lark."

"Dear me," said Claudia, weakly, "and why?"

"Well," answered Edward, not without embarrassment, "that's where the great kindness comes in. I want you to agree to play this game with me without asking me reasons. I have a most important and sufficient reason, Claudia, but I am not at liberty to mention it. You would be doing me a great kindness. It would be a real help to me."

"How about Amy?" asked Claudia, who knew all the complications of Edward's affairs, and was aware that he was already secretly engaged to the girl called Amy.

"Amy doesn't mind. She understands a joke as well as anyone."

"It's a little confusing, you know, Edward. First, there's Amy, who is really engaged to you and pretends she isn't, and now there's me, who em not really engaged to you and pretend I am! It's so intricate."

"Then you will do it!" cried Edward joyfully, inferring success. "I must admit," said Claudia, "it all that. How they will gloat over us! It's such a suitable engagement, ch, Claudia? They'll say they always expected it." So hand in hand they stood, sheep-

SMALL PEOPLE ARE POPULAR. Observant Operatic Star Has Reasoned Matter Cut.

"I'm not very big, that's a fact, but if I remember 't is the little people that make the world go round."

Toby Claude said it. Toby is a little girl and she is proud of it.

"I'm not quite five feet tall in my my high-heeled shoes and hat," she added, "but I know how much better it is to be small that large. There are many advantages, especially to a woman who follows the musical comedy or operatic line. If you will look over the list of names of those who have won distinction in these lines you will see that I am right in sayirg that it is the 'little girl' who always forges to the front. For instance, there are Alice Nielsen, Edra Wallace Hopper, Madge Lessing, Della Fox, and Katie Barry. To go from the musical to the legit; mate lines, there is not a prominent actress playing to-day, with the possible exception of Mary Shaw, who is not a large woman. 'ake Julia Marlowe, Clara Bloodgood, Amelia Bingham, Alice Fisher, Maxine Elliott, and, entering the grand opera field, Melba, Nordica, and Calve. But there is one notable exception to this array-Mrs. Fiske.

Tickets guy a man who would appear on the have been formed in undrained depressions left by the glaciers in the ice age. When these depressions were freed of ice they were soon occupied by arctic plants which came down with the glaciers, and in many cases these plants have persisted to the present day.

> In many cases the lake which often filled the center of the depression made by the glaciers has been wholly filled by the growth of the bog plants. Subsequently this bog has been drained or burned over, and then new vegetation has come in, made not of arctic but of recent plants. The Chelsea bog where peat is soon to be made is one of the latter class.
