CHELSEA WON FIELD DAY.

A Good Lot of Sports Pulled Off in Very Raw Weather.

Very unpropitious weather greeted the two days track meet and field day of the Tri-County High School Athletic Association held at Chelsea Friday and Saturday last, May 13 and 14. So rainy was it on Friday afternoon that the baseball game between the Junior Stars and the Jackson High School had to be called off. The weather did not look very promising for the track meet Saturday, but in spite of it visitors from Wayne, Plymouth and other points were numerous and the Chelsea people turned out in force, so there was a good gathering of spectators both morning and afternoon.

The Chelsea team won the meet with 62 points to its credit, Plymouth second with 42 points, and Wayne bringing up the rear with 27. For Chelsea Clayton Schenk did the best work and showed himself to be a clever all round athlete, winning four first places and three seconds, a total of 29 points. The other points for Chelsea were made by Herbert Schenk 11, Wirt McLaren 9, Arthur Raftery 6, Homer Lighthall 4, Russell McGuinness 3. Chelsea had a walkaway in the 100 yards dash, 220 yards low hurdles and 220 yards dash. In the first two named they secured first and second places, and in the last named they got first, second and third places.

The 136 feet hammer throw of Durfee, of Wayne, was better than was made at the Inter-Scholastic meet at Ann Arbor. The events and their winners were as follows:

100 yards dash—1st preliminary heat—1, H. Schenk, Chelsea; 2, Morrison, Wayne; 3, W. McLaren, Chelsea; 2d preliminary heat—1, C. Schenk, Chelsea; 2, J. McLaren, Plymouth; 3, Bentley, Plymouth; final heat—1, C. Schenk; 2, H. Schenk; 3, J. McLaren; 4, Morrison.

Shot put—1, Durfee, Wayne; 2, C. Schenk, Chelsea; 3, Armstrong, Plymouth; 4, Morrison, Wayne. 39 ft. 3 in.

440 yards dash—1, Armstrong, Plymouth; 2, A. Raftery, Chelsea; 3, W. McLaren, Chelsea; 4, English, Wayne.

Pole vault—1, G. McLaren, Plymouth; 2, R. McGuinness, Chelsea; 3, Warner and Spicer, Plymouth, tied. Height 8 ft. 6 in. The winner, who is only 15 years old, afterward gave an exhibition pole vault in which he cleared 9 ft. 6 in.

High jump—1, C. Schenk, Chelsea; 2, Ditch, Wayne; 3, H. Brown, Plymouth; 4, H. Lighthall, Chelsea. Height 4 ft. 10 in.

220 yards dash—1, H. Schenk, Chelsea; 2, A. Raftery, Chelsea; 3, W. McLaren, Chelsea; 4, Bentley, Plymouth.

Hammer throw—1, Durfee, Wayne; 2, C. Schenk, Chelsea; 3, Wood and Cortie, Plymouth, tied. 136 feet.

Half mile run—1, Armstrong, Plymouth; 2, H. Schenk, Chelsea; 3, R. Jolliffe, Plymouth; 4, Chambers, Wayne.

220 yards low hurdles—1, W. McLaren, Chelsea; 2, C. Schenk, Chelsea; 3, Bunting, Wayne; 4, Bentley, Plymouth.

Discus throw—1, C. Schenk, Chelsea; 2, Durfee, Wayne; 3, Morrison, Wayne; 4, R. Brown, Plymouth. 94 ft.

Broad jump—1, C. Schenk, Chelsea; 2, Armstrong, Plymouth; 3, Bentley, Plymouth. 18 ft. 11 in.

Mile run—1, Jolliffe, Plymouth; 2, H. Lighthall, Chelsea; 3, Frank, Wayne; 4, English, Wayne.

In the evening a reception was tendered to the teams and visitors by the Chelsea high school girls in the Woodmen hall, at which time the prizes of medals and ribbons were awarded to the winners by Prof. Mealley, of Plymouth, each medal and ribbon being pinned on the recipient by a different Chelsea young lady. Following this came a program of vocal and instrumental music.

Piano Solo..... Leone Gieske
Vocal Solo..... Hazel Speer
Piano Duet.. Ruth Barch, Jennie Geddes
Vocal Solo..... Mildred Atkinson
Guitar and Mandolin Duet.....

Josephine and Florence Heselchwerdt
Selection.....Boys' Orchestra
Dainty refreshments of ice cream and wafers were served during the evening, and every effort was made to entertain and amuse the numerous guests. The day's amusements were wound up with a dance at the Foresters' hall.

Chelsea has every reason to feel gratified at the success of the meet, particularly as the honors of it went to their home team.

HAS TWO LINES OUT.

If Mr. Glazier Does Not Land State Treasurer Nomination Will Try to Be Renominated for State Senator.

A Jackson dispatch to the Detroit Evening News, dated May 17, says that Frank P. Glazier, senator for the Jackson-Washtenaw district, has two lines out—one for state treasurer and the other for a second term as senator. He is planning to have the senatorial convention put off until the state nominating convention has been held. If nominated for state treasurer he will not be a candidate for another term as senator. But if he loses in the state he will go after the consolation stake at the senatorial convention.

The district is not a safe one from a Republican standpoint. The chairman of the Jackson county committee says the senatorial convention probably will not be held before October.

Base Ball Notes.

The Junior Stars and the Ann Arbor High School team will clash in the first game in which the two teams have ever met, next Saturday afternoon, May 21, at 3 o'clock, at the McLaren-Begole park. This should be one of the best games of the year as both teams will try hard to win. LaMont Begole, a member of last year's Junior Stars, plays left field for the visitors, and Rathbun in center field and Taft at first base have played with the locals at various times. McCain who will be in the box for the Stars, was formerly the Ann Arbor team's star pitcher, so he will try hard to beat his old team mates. Jones, a left hander, and Whittington will be the battery for the Ann Arbor boys. Although the game will be one of the best of the year, and it costs a great deal to get this team here, the prices will be the same: Gents 15c, ladies 10c.

The Detroit Crescents will be here for a double header Monday, May 30. The morning game will be called at 10 o'clock and time of the afternoon game will be 3:30 o'clock. The Crescents are a fine team and played her a number of times last year, each time putting up good games. Chandler Rogers, last year's star pitcher for the Stars, will occupy the box in the morning and McCain in the afternoon.

The Cleary Business College team, who have defeated a number of strong teams this season, will be here for a game June 4. The Stars won from them last year by a score of 3 to 1 and lost by a score of 4 to 3.

Obituary.

Westfall, of Oregon, J. L. Stewart, of Mt. Pleasant, Mrs. C. B. Hovey, of Washington, and Mrs. W. I. Wood, of Chelsea. ### Point in Dispute.

It is said that the amount of the national "consolidation fund" was last year over $30,000 in excess of the fund of the year previous. This indicates either that the public conscience is growing tenacious or that the thefts are growing larger, a point which the pessimists and the optimists may comfortably fight out between them.

CHAPTER IV.

Before the King.

When the curtain had fallen behind his advisers, the young king threw himself back upon his rude high seat and rested motionless among his cushions, his head hanging heavily upon his breast.

Crouching on her bench near the door, Randalin watched him as a fly caught in a web watches the approaching spider. Her eyes followed his roving glance from spear to banner, from floor to ceiling, in terrible anticipation. It approached her; it turned aside; it passed above her, hesitated, sank, touched her! Ashen white, she staggered to her feet and faced him.

"In the Troll's name, who are you?" he ejaculated. "How came you here?" The pale lips moved, but no sound came from them.

He made a petulant gesture toward the half-filled goblet. "Why do you stand there making mouths? Drink that and get a man's voice into your throat, if you have anything to say to me."

"A man's voice!" The girl stared at him. "A man's voice?" Then, like lightning of fresh air, it entered into her that she was not really the naked fledgling she felt herself. She was in the tolls, surely, but there was a shell around her. Glad to hide her face for a moment, she seized the goblet and drained it slowly to the last drop.

Leaning back in his seat, the king took frowning measure of his guest, from the toe of her spurred riding boot to the top of the green cap which she had forgotten to remove. With her last swallow, he repeated his challenge.

"Are you capable now of giving me any reason why I should not have you dogged from the camp? Is it your opinion that because I choose to a half-smile as he refilled his cup, motioning toward the other flagon. "Fill up, and we will drink a toast to their loyalty and to your beard; they appear to be equally in need of encouragement." Draining it off, he sat staring down into the dregs, twirling the stem thoughtfully between his fingers.

By the time she had shifted her weight twice for each foot, the petitioner ventured to recall him.

"It gives me some hope, to hear what you say about suspecting Edric Jarl," she said timidly; "for that makes it appear more likely that you will be willing to give me justice on his man."

"Justice?" The King's mind came back to her slowly, as from an immense distance. "By Thor, I had forgotten! Yes, certainly; I will be like once. Stand here before me, while I question you."

She caught her breath rather sharply as she stepped forward. Would she be able to tell a straight story? "Tell me first how you are called?" "I am called Fridtjof Frodeson."

"Frode of Avalcomb? Now I know where I have heard that name; my father spoke it often, and always with great respect. It will go hard with me if I must return an unfavorable answer to his son. Tell me how his death was brought about."

Randalin thrust the sobs back from her throat; the tears back from her eyes. She began slowly: "Leofwinsson set upon him last night, at the gate of the castle, and slew him. He had five-and-fifty men, and my father but twelve—besides me; he—we—had just come in from hunting. Then he rode over my father's body into the castle." She stopped uncertainly to glance at her listener.

"Go on and tell me the rest. How comes it that you escaped unharmed?"

rattle of crossing spears, without, had told her that her way was barred. Then she whirled back with a sharp cry.

"Let me go! I hate you! Let me go!"

He did not bid his guards kill her, as she half expected. Instead, he said patiently, "I foresaw that you would take it ill; there is the greatest excuse for you. In your place I should be equally unruly. I will grant you boon in time to come; so sure as I live, I will. And until then, since all your stock has been cut off, I will be your guardian and you shall be my ward, as though you were my own brother. Come, sit here, and I will tell you."

She repulsed him sharply. "No, no, you shall do nothing for me! I am going back. I ask you to let me go."

Leaning at his ease in the great chair, the young King regarded his ward thoughtfully.

"It is not possible that the son of Frode the Fearless should be a coward," he said at last; "but you are over-zealous, boy. Listen now to the truth of the matter. If you were a maiden, it would be easy for me to—Are you listening?" He paused, for the slim figure had suddenly become a statue-like that he suspected it of plotting another attack on the door.

The boy answered very low, "Yes, Lord King, I am listening."

Canute went on again: "I say that if you were a maiden—if you were your sister, to tell it shortly—I could easily dispose of you in marriage. I would wed you to my foster brother, Rothgar Lodbroksson, and thus bring good to both of—Are you finding fault with that also?"

But the lad stood before him like a stone. If a faint cry had come from him, it was not repeated; and there was nothing offensive about a hidden face and shaking limbs.

The King continued more gently: "But since you were so simple as to be born a boy, such good luck is not to be expected. It is the best that I can do to offer you to become my ward and follow me as my page, until the sword's game has decided between me and Edmund of England. What say you, Fridtjof the Bold?"

For a time it looked as if "Fridtjof the Bold" did not know what to say. Silence filled the tent, while from outside leaked in the noise of the revel. Then, through that noise or above it there became audible the notes of far-away horns. Edric Jarl was fulfilling his pledge. An exclamation broke from the King's lips, and he leaped up. At that moment, "Fridtjof the Bold" fell at his feet with clasped hands and supplicating eyes.

"Let me go, Lord King," he begged passionately. "Let me go, and I will ask nothing further of you. I will never trouble you again. Let me go—only let me go!"

Canute of Denmark is not to be blamed that he stamped with exasperated patience.

By the head of Odin, it would serve you well did I take you at your word! It would serve you right did I turn you out to starve. Were it not for your father's sake, and for the sake of my own honor, I vow I would! Now hearken to this. Bending, he picked the boy up by his collar and shook him. I shall not let you go, and you shall be my ward, whether you will or no. And if you answer me now or anger me further—but I will not say that, for it is your misfortune that makes you unruly, and you are weak-spirited from hunger. Take this bread now for your meal, and that bench yonder for your bed, and trouble me no more to-night. I must meet with the Jarl! Go! Do you heed my orders?"

Only one answer was possible. After a moment the page gave it in a low voice.

"Yes, Lord King," he whispered, and crept away to his corner.

HAS SIMPLE FIRE ESCAPE.

Englishman's Invention Seems to Fill Long-felt Want.

An Englishman has devised an ingenious traveling-bag fire escape. It can be made at any trunkmaker's for little more than an ordinary portmanteau of the same kind would cost. Moreover, the fire-escape part of it does not interfere to any extent with its capacity for holding your dress, boots, shirts or other things requisite for the traveler. In one small compartment will be found hundreds of feet of fine, light rope used by mountaineers in the Swiss Alps for roping themselves together while crossing glaciers and climbing precipitous ice slopes. There is also a particularly ingenious little brake arrangement and two pairs of steel snap hooks. If an alarm of fire is given in a hotel in the dead of night and the flames cut off every means of communication with the outside the possessor of this portmanteau simply slips out of bed, snaps one set of hooks round the bed leg or other substantial piece of furniture, and the other set to the sides of the portmanteau. This last he then throws out the window, gets into it himself, and then lowers himself as quickly or as slowly as he pleases by means of the brake.

Chile Rich in Mineral Wealth.

According to the United States consul at Callao, Peru, that country has many rich, large mineral deposits of gold, silver, copper, mercury, lead, sulphur, coal, salt and petroleum, not to name those of less importance. He further states that the only things necessary to develop these vast deposits are capital and labor, which would make the republic as renowned for its mineral wealth as California, Australia and South Africa.

THE STORY OF THE CROSS

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE

Palestine the land of Mohammedans, neglected by civilization and ignored by commerce, where Europeans only pass through on a speedy tour, with no desire to remain, is, notwithstanding, filled with charitable institutions, churches and convents, belonging to innumerable different sects. In behalf of the church and to propagate her creeds, men have willingly given up all that Europe and civilization offered them, and have gone on crusades and pilgrimages to guard their sacred places from the hands of the infidel.

Thus it comes about that most of said, laid in elaborate patterns made of innumerable stones. On each side of the aisles are large columns decorated with frescoes of saints in quaint attire and of peculiar perspective. The service is in Greek. The music is all vocal as the Greek Church never employs instruments for worship. The priests' voices are well trained, and their part-songs are beautifully harmonious. No seats are provided in the Greek Church; the worshippers must either stand or kneel on the marble floor.

the Europeans in the Holy Land are found within religious institutions, principally in convents and monasteries. In all villages of any importance there is a Christian church and a convent; sometimes there are two, belonging to different sects; indeed, it is not unusual to find a large church built over some great traditional site, and numerous chapels within, each representing a different Christian sect.

Among the most important and interesting convents in Palestine is the Convent of the Cross. This is one of the most valued possessions of the Greek Church. The story which is woven around this spot is very peculiar, linking together, as it does, biblical characters of all ages, in a strange legend which supposes them all to have had something to do with the tree which was planted in Abraham's day and finally became the cross of Christ.

The convent presents a very medieval appearance, being a large, gloomy, square building of stone. It is situated in the valley of Gihon, on the southwest of Jerusalem. The convent is built low down in the valley, which abounds in large olive trees. All around are the bare, stony hills which inclose the little vale. Rugged paths lead down to the monastery, which stands absolutely alone, distant from every village.

The chapel bell, ringing for matins and vespers, re-echoing over these hills, is heard only by the devout within the convent and perhaps by some stray peasant treading his way over the hills to Jerusalem, or a shepherd boy cheerfully playing his flute as he leads his sheep home. The convent was established by the Greek Patriarch of Jerusalem to form a boarding school for youths wishing to be trained for the priesthood. Some of the students are natives of Palestine, and others come from Greece. They all speak modern Greek. Fifty banishment from Eden, in this valley, which was then covered with beautiful white flowers. The story goes on to tell how Abraham and Lot, many years later, visited the spot, and Lot was commanded by an angel to plant a young tree in the valley. He did so, and brought water with which to refresh it all the way from the River Jordan.

Still seven hundred years later, King Solomon came here when contemplating the erection of his beautiful temple in Jerusalem. He ordered his workmen to cut down the best trees in the neighborhood. Then men, on coming to Lot's tree, hesitated. It was so beautiful they regretted having to cut it down. But they obeyed the king's command, and as they did so an exquisite odor like incense filled the air. As Solomon would have no noise in the Temple, all saving and hewing had to be done elsewhere, and this tree was prepared in the valley itself. But the beams they brought up to the temple were never of the right dimensions. There seemed to be a fatality about them, and the workmen angrily cast the beams aside, exclaiming "What an accursed tree!" The timber lay unnoticed for 1,100 years, when it was found and used for the crucifixion. After the crucifixion, no one knew what had become of the cross of Christ till Queen Helena, in 335, came to the Holy Land in search of it. She had a vision in which she saw the place where the cross was buried. She set men to dig for it, and they found it in the very spot of her dream. She immediately had a beautiful cathedral built over the site, and it stands there to this day, an interesting goal for Christian pilgrims—the Church of the Holy Sepulcher in Jerusalem.

To prove the veracity of the newly found cross, it was asserted that pieces of the wood, when worn, acted as charms for incurable diseases. To youths are admitted at once. There are ten professors, who instruct them in all branches of education as well as in theology. It is a seven years' course. The youths live very plainly, their board being of the simplest. Interested visitors are courteously shown around, and many visit the large refectory at supper time.

The chapel within the convent is not large, but it is richly decorated, as usual in Greek churches. At the eastern end of the chapel are some steps, above which is a high screen of carved wood and gilt inclosing a small chapel, where mass is celebrated. A stain across the altar marks the blood shed at the Persian massacre under Chosroes. The pavement is of mosaic, laid in elaborate patterns made of innumerable stones. On each side of the aisles are large columns decorated with frescoes of saints in quaint attire and of peculiar perspective. ### NOVEL METHOD OF SUICIDE.

English Jurist Had Himself Shot by His Gamekeepers.
Lord Chief Justice Hankford of England, who lived in a former century, notwithstanding his high position, became so tired of life that he determined to shuffle off this mortal coil. But he feared to commit suicide, because at the time a verdict of felo de se followed as a matter of course, and the body of the suicide was buried at four cross-roads with a stake thrust through it. Further, he had to avert the consequences to his relatives of forfeiture of his goods, which was also one of the penalties for self-destruction. He adopted a novel expedient. Several of his deer having been stolen, he gave orders to his keepers to shoot any person they met in or near the park at night who did not immediately stand when challenged. Then on a dark night he threw himself in the path of the keepers and, not answering the challenge, was shot dead on the spot. The stump of an old oak under which he fell still marks the scene of the tragedy and goes to this day by the name of Hankford's oak.

Gained Twenty Pounds.

Harford Mills, N. Y., May 16.—This neighborhood is aroused as never before by some wonderful cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills. These began with the case of Mrs. J. D. Wallace, who had been in very poor health for a long time and who had got so bad at last that she couldn't walk from her home to the village and back, a distance of about eighty rods, without being tired out and in pain all over.

She had only used a few of Dodd's Kidney Pills, when she noticed a change for the better and in a very short time she was able to walk any reasonable distance and do any kind of woman's work without feeling any bad effects.

She has gained twenty pounds in weight in three months and is now as well a woman as could be found. She declares the Dodd's Kidney Pills deserve all the credit for her wonderful restoration.

You can never take in a man's virtues so long as you will focus on his faults.

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband should be a woman's constant study. If she would be all that she may, she must guard well against the signs of ill health. Mrs. Brown tells her story for the benefit of all wives and mothers.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will make every mother well, strong, healthy and happy. I dragged through nine years of miserable existence, worn out with pain and weariness. I then noticed a statement of a woman troubled as I was, and the wonderful results she had had from your Vegetable Compound, and decided to try what it would do for me, and used it for three months. At the end of that time, I was a different woman, the neighbors remarked it, and my husband fell in love with me all over again. It seemed like a new existence. I had been suffering from inflammation and falling of the womb, but your medicine cured that, and built up my entire system. I am indeed like a new woman. Sincerely yours, Mrs. CHAS. F. BROWN, 31 Cedar Terrace, Hot Springs, Ark., Vice President Mothers Club.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced."

Stupendous Work.

Col. F. J. Hecker, who is home from Panama, says it will take about 10 years to finish the canal. One of the greatest difficulties to contend with is the Chagres river, which becomes enormously swollen in the rainy season. It once rose 45 feet in as many hours, and the railroad was six feet under water. In order to control these floods two artificial lakes will be made, one nine miles long and four miles wide, containing 45 square miles, and a smaller lake, with an area of 10 square miles.

The plans originally contemplated a canal 120 feet wide at its base, holding 26 feet of water. Under the new plans it will be 150 feet wide at the base, with 35 feet of water. Over 1,500,000 cubic yards of concrete will have to be laid, and other details are in the same colossal proportions. The government will probably employ from 12,000 to 15,000 men. At present only 700 are at work, mostly Jamaican negroes. The same class of labor will have to be used, but, as in the case of the Panama Railroad Co., men from the United States will be used for engineers, foremen and other responsible positions. It is still undecided whether locks or a sea level will be considered. There is a great difference in the tides, the average rise at Colon being only 18 to 20 inches, while at Panama the average is 20 to 22 feet.

Seventeen Killed.

Lieut. Winfield Harper and 59 men, of Co F, of the Seventeenth United States Infantry, were caught on May 8, in an ambush by several hundred Moros. Two American officers and 15 men were killed and five men were wounded. The ambush occurred at Simpitan, on the east shore of Lake Liguasan, island of Mindanao.

TO SAVE THE HORSES.

Why Hostess Took Theater Party to See Dull Play.

Bret Harte was once invited to a theater party, and was taken to a theater where a dismal failure was eliding out those dreadful days and nights which prelude the production of its successor. They all suffered.

They went back to supper, and their hostess said: "I daresay you are all wondering why I took you to so dull a play. Can you guess?"

Someone suggested that the lady admired the manager's acting. No, she couldn't bear him on the stage or off!

Another suggestion was that their host was financially interested in the management. "Not while I can help it!" said the hostess. They gave it up.

"Well," she said, "my husband is very particular about his horses, and that theater is one where carriages can be quickly called up."

Intoxicated Wasps.

Wasps have a great fondness for overripe fruit, especially pears, plums and sweet apples. The sugar of these fruits has a tendency to pass into a kind of alcohol in the ordinary process of rotting, and after imbibing large quantities of this liquid the wasps become outrageously intoxicated. They crawl away in the grass in a semi-somnolent condition and remain till the effects have passed off when they will go at it again. It is while in this condition that they do their worst stinging. A person receiving a sting from one of these intoxicated wasps will suffer severely from nerve poisoning for days.

Simple Remedy for Severe Wounds.
Every little while we read that hand or foot or other portion of his body and lockjaw resulted therefrom and that the patient died. If every person was aware of a perfect remedy of such wounds and would apply it, then such reports would cease. The remedy is simple, always at hand, can be applied by anyone—what is better, is infallible. It is simply to smoke the wound or any wound that is bruised or inflamed, with a woollen cloth. Twenty minutes in the smoke will take the pain out of the worst case of inflammation arising from such a wound. People may sneer at this remedy as much as they please, but when they are afflicted with such wounds, let them try it.

Curious Custom.

A curious custom has just been celebrated at Klin, near Moscow. All the marriageable girls in the town lined up in the principal street, decked out in their simple finery, many of them also having with them the stock of linen, household and personal, which forms part of their dowry. The young men contemplating matrimony then beauty as they moved towards the church, and selected the girls of their choice. A formal visit to the parents to arrange details was then made in each case, and a date fixed for the ceremony.

BAD DREAMS.

Indicate Improper Diet, Usually Due to Coffee.

One of the common symptoms of coffee poisoning is the bad dreams that spoil what should be restful sleep. A man who found the reason says:

"Formerly I was a slave to coffee. I was like a morphine fiend, could not sleep at night, would roll and toss in my bed and when I did get to sleep blins, would wake up with headaches and feel bad all day, so nervous I could not attend to business. My writing looked like bird tracks; I had sour belchings from the stomach, indigestion, heartburn and palpitation of the heart, constipation, irregularity of the kidneys, etc.

"Indeed, I began to feel I had all the troubles that human flesh could suffer but when a friend advised me to leave off coffee I felt as if he had insulted me. I could not bear the idea, it had such a hold on me and I refused to believe it the cause.

"But it turned out that no advice was ever given at a more needed time for I finally consented to try Postum, and with the going of coffee and the coming of Postum all my troubles have gone and health has returned. I eat and sleep well now, nerves steadied down and I write a fair hand (as you can see), can attend to business again and rejoice that I am free from the monster Coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Ten days' trial of Postum in place of coffee will bring sound, restful, refreshing sleep. There's a reason.

I Have Every Reason to Praise Pe-ru-na.

WRITES MRS. KANE, OF CHICAGO.

GRACE, EDWARD, MYRTLE, GEORGE AND BEVELS KANE, 172 Sebor St., Chicago, Ill.

AUDREY HOBSON, Reading, N.H.

Mrs. K. Kane, 172 Sebor Street, Chicago, Ill., writes:

"Pe-ru-na has been used so long in our family that I do not know how I could get along without it. I have given it to all of my children at different times when they suffered with croup, colds and the many ailments that children are subject to, and am pleased to say that it has kept them in splendid health. I have also used it for a catarrh of difficulty of long standing and it cured me in a short time, so I have every reason to praise Pe-ru-na."—Mrs. K. Kane.

Pe-ru-na Protects the Entire Household Against Catarrhal Diseases.

One of the greatest foes with which every family has to contend is our changeable climate. To protect the family from colds and coughs is always a serious problem, and often impossible. Sooner or later it is the inevitable result of cold weather.

Mrs. A. Hobson, 225 Washington St., Lansing, Mich., writes:

"Pe-ru-na has been such a blessing to my only child, as well as myself, that I feel induced to give my testimonial. He has always suffered from catarrh of the head and throat, and I had to use extra precautions so as not to have him exposed to damp or cold weather. Last year he was taken with la grippe, and as it was a severe case, caused me much anxiety. No medicine helped him till he took Pe-ru-na. Enfolded in an improvement at once and in three weeks he was a different child, the grippe had been completely cured and I noticed that the cold weather had no effect on him."

avoiding exposure and catching cold. Nothing will protect from the frequency and perhaps the severity of colds, as well as with the greatest of precautions they will come. This is a settled fact of human experience. Everybody must expect to be caught somewhere or other somehow.

Perhaps it will be wet feet, or a draught, or damp clothes, or it may be one of a thousand other little mishaps, but at no one is shrewd enough to always avoid the inevitable catching cold.

There is no fact of medical science better known than that Peruna cures catarrh wherever located. Thousands of families in all parts of the United States are protected from catarrh by Peruna. One in the family Peruna always stays. No home can spare Peruna after the first trial of it.

"Taking a box of Peruna, I feel that I was entirely well. I now use it off and on for colds, cramps, indigestion or general indisposition, and find it superior to any doctors or medicine I ever tried. It keeps me as well as my child, in perfect health, and I gladly recommend it to mothers."—Mrs. A. Hobson.

We have over five million testimonials like the ones given above. We can only give our readers a slight glimpse of the vast array of unsolicited endorsements we are receiving every day. No physician in the world has received such volume of enthusiastic and glowing letters of thanks as Dr. Hartman for Peruna.

My Breath.

Shortness of Breath
Is One of the Commonest Signs of Heart Disease.

Notwithstanding what many physicians say, heart disease can be cured.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure has permanently restored to health many thousands who had found no relief in the medicines (allopathic or homoeopathic) of regular practicing physicians.

It has proved itself unique in the history of medicine, by being so uniformly successful in curing those diseases.

Nearly always, one of the first signs of trouble is shortness of breath. Whether it comes as a result of walking or running up stairs, or of other exercises, if the heart is unable to meet this extra demand upon its pumping powers—there is something wrong with it.

The very best thing you can do, is to take Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. It will go to the foundation of the trouble, and make a permanent cure by strengthening and renewing the nerves.

"I know that Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is a great remedy. For a number of years I suffered from shortness of breath, smothering spells, and pains in my left side. For months at a time I would be unable to lie on my left side, and if I lay flat on my back would nearly suffocate. A friend advised using Dr.
Miles' New Heart Cure, which I did with good results. I began to improve at once, and after taking several bottles of the Heart Cure the pains in my side and other symptoms vanished. I am now entirely well. All those dreadful smothering spells are a thing of the past."—F. P. DRAKE, Middletown, O.

FROM ALL OVER MICHIGAN

The Gaylord Fire.

The fire which started in Laur's photograph gallery in Gaylord Friday night was not gotten under control until an entire block of the business portion of the village had been burned, entailing a loss of $17,000. The fire is supposed to have started from a bonfire, which was fanned by a brisk wind from the west. It soon consumed the Laur gallery, inflicting a loss of $700; insurance $300, and reached to the buildings on each side of it. Steven Longdo lived in the first house south of the gallery, which was burned. His loss on household goods will be $150. The house was owned by Mr. Laughry, of Bay City; loss $800; no insurance. John V. Schuyler's restaurant and bowling alley was next in line, and the fire in it was soon beyond control. Mr. Schuyler's loss will reach $3,500, with insurance of $1,700. The fire department, seeing the place was doomed, immediately directed its attention to the Quay building, in which is located the opera house, which was crowded with spectators, who were watching the performance of the "Midnight Express."

A man in the audience called fire, which set the house into a panic, and it looked for a time as though the crush would prove fatal to some of the audience. The building was saved, however, and the excitement soon died out.

On the north side of the photograph gallery was located the Herald printing office and the residence of H. C. McKinley, which was soon a mass of ruins. His loss will reach $5,000, with $2,700 insurance. Adjoining the Herald office was Carpenter's livery barn and a boarding house, which were destroyed. The loss reached $4,000, with insurance of $2,000.

THE LAKE TIE-UP.

Masters and Pilots Vote Down Latest Proposal.

The proposition of the Lake Carriers' association to pay masters and pilots last season's wage scale was overwhelmingly defeated by a referendum vote of the Masters and Pilots' association Wednesday. This decisive action means that the deadlock which has existed on the great lakes for several weeks will continue indefinitely and until it is removed there will be no resumption of general freight traffic. It is asserted that it was the vote of the mates and their influence upon the masters that killed the plan, although many of the former voted against it also. The mates outnumber the masters in the association two to one. It is stated that the mates are ready to withdraw and affiliate with the American Federation of Labor and paralyze not only the commerce of the lakes, but through their affiliation extend the tie-up to the mines and other industries upon which the tonnage of the lakes is dependent for business.

The masters, recognizing the seriousness of such a move on the part of the younger officers, are doing everything they can to keep them in line and away from affiliations which would mean such a disaster in the event of a general strike being declared. Thus it is explained why so many local harbors voted unanimously to decline the offer of the Lake Carriers.

Looks Like Firebugs.

Another fire of sufficiently mysterious origin to lead the sufferers to believe that it was started by the firebugs who are blamed for the series of dangerous and costly fires in Glenwood, destroyed two more dwellings shortly after midnight Tuesday and damaged two others, the total loss being between $4,000 and $5,000. Within six weeks fires have damaged the village $25,000 and are supposed to have been the work of a firebug. Some weeks ago, because the village is without fire or police protection, all of the prominent insurance companies ordered their agents to cancel all policies in the village. All of the mysterious string of fires have occurred after midnight.

Hotels vs. Clubs.

The clubs at the flats are up against the possible consequences of one of the local bills passed by the last legislature. The bill was introduced as a temperance measure to stop the sale of liquor at the flats, but it was considerably revised in the process of being made a law. As the bill now stands, it provides that intoxicating liquors shall be sold, given or furnished, in places of less than 500 inhabitants in St. Clair county, only by hotelkeepers. This, it is said, will mean that the private clubs will either have to quit handling liquor, or else open their doors to the public and become hotels.

It Was Chickweed.

At last the secret of the famous "poison testing class" of the homeopathic department of the University of Michigan is out. It was not cyanide of cadmium that was given them, but simply "steleria media," in plain English well chickweed. Twelve students of the Sigma Alpha homeopathic fraternity, and three young ladies of the senior class formed the poison testing class. The result of the investigation has been put into a twenty-page pamphlet for the benefit of the profession. The class has organized a drug proving society at the university, which is expected to be permanent.

The outlook for good crops this year is not any too good, if the figures issued by the secretary of state are to be relied on. The cold weather during April was unfavorable for planting, and growth of crops, and the condition of wheat declined perceptibly during that month. At present the outlook is for one of the poorest crops of wheat ever grown in the state. The prospects for fruit vary considerably throughout the state. The peach crop will be light outside of the fruit belt.

Battle Creek is first in the field with a case of heat prostration.

A Nice Legal Question.

In the Grand Rapids superior court Tuesday morning, on motion of Prosecutor Ward, sentence in the case of Lant K. Salsbury was further deferred until September. This means that Salsbury is going to be used as a witness in all of the remaining cases. A decision of an Illinois court, which has a bearing on the water cases, has aroused considerable interest. It is to the effect that prisoners convicted of a crime must be sentenced immediately unless some delay is secured by their attorneys. If immediate sentence is not passed, it is held, the trial judge loses his jurisdiction. It is claimed this applies directly to the Salsbury and other cases where aldermen have pleaded guilty, and that by postponing sentence from time to time, Judge Newnam has lost the right to sentence them. Some interesting developments are promised when the men are brought up for sentence.

A Sensational Trial.

The seventh murder trial that has been tried in Berrien circuit court in the past 18 months is now on in St. Joseph. Thomas Payne, who is the old prisoner ever confined in the county jail on a criminal charge, is held to answer for the murder of his wife, whom he is charged with killing near Three Oaks about five weeks ago. Twenty-five witnesses have been subpoenaed in behalf of the people and more than that many more will be heard for the defense. This will be the most sensational case ever tried in the city, from the fact that the aged prisoner persists that it was in self-defense the deed was committed.

Repented to Late.

John Burns, aged 52, living on a farm between Coldwater and Quincy, took poison, but stuck to his determination to die, when Dr. Baldwin, of Quincy, was summoned, and declared that it was all a mistake about his having attempted suicide, and Dr. Baldwin went away. Shortly after the poison began to work. Burns changed his mind about wanting to die, so great was the pain, but the doctor was no longer to be found, and the man died. Despondency over ill-health explains the deed. Two sons and the widow survive.

Climax Had Narrow Escape.

Sudden changing of the wind is all that saved the village of Climax from following the example of Utica Friday morning. It was an act of divine providence, for the villagers had almost given up hope of saving their main street. Climax, which is absolutely without fire protection, worked two hours with buckets and cut down the loss to $15,000 or $18,000, with a badly disfigured main street. The fire started in the Hotel Coe from an unknown cause, the roof being ablaze when discovered.

A Fatal Surprise.

The funeral of Miss Marion Gorham, the 18-year-old daughter of President C. E. Gorham of the First National bank, Marshall, occurred Tuesday. Miss Gorham has been attending school at Buffalo, N. Y., for the past two years. Saturday her mother went to Buffalo to visit her. She was so surprised on meeting her mother that she expired in her arms within a few minutes after they met.

Love and Suicide.

Charles Shearer, aged 20, committed suicide by the strychnine route, at his parents' home in California township. It is stated that he was deeply in love with a young lady in Fremont, Ind., and it was rumored that he was to have been married Tuesday. Owing to some reason not known the engagement was broken and for several days young Shearer seemed deeply depressed.

There is a possibility that Flint's new postoffice, for which the citizens have been waiting for many years, and which was thought would be a reality during the coming summer, will not be built this year at all.

The United States government authorities are investigating a number of complaints by Detroit business men relative to cleverly raised $1 bills. A number of $1 bills have been raised, so that they have been successfully passed as $10 bills.

Mrs. Frank Odell, of Detroit, who is visiting her daughter-in-law in Grand Rapids, became violently insane Saturday and is confined in the county jail. St. Joseph county has 33 saloons this year, against 34 last year. Constantine has one less than last year, Colon two less, and Centerville two more. The mercury Tuesday morning stood at 8 above freezing, and Wednesday morning it was 2 below freezing, with the biggest kind of frost, and cold north winds, as reported from Three Rivers. Nothing will save the hundreds of fruit trees that are in full blossom, also early strawberries, unless it may possibly be the slight fog that came down about 4 a. m.

First fights one mile beneath the surface of the earth are not a very common occurrence, but it was on an assault and battery charge that Frank Rade had George Maerle, a fellow miner in the Tamarack mine, arrested. ## THE NEWS OF THE WORLD

Port Dally Dost eye!

Viceroy Alexieff has telegraphed to the czar announcing that the Japs have blown up the docks and piers at Port Dally, Liao-Tung peninsula, presumably to render more difficult a Japanese landing at that point.

Dally, known as the "Magic City" of the far east, is on Tallenwan bay, on the east coast of the Liao-Tung peninsula, and was intended by Russia to be the chief commercial center of its eastern dominions. An edict providing for its construction was issued by the Russian emperor July 30, 1899, and Port Dally, fully equipped with all modern improvements, docks, warehouses and railroad facilities, was opened to commerce in December, 1901. Tallenwan bay is one of the finest deep water harbors on the Pacific. It is free from ice in winter time and ships drawing 30 feet of water can enter at low tide and sail or steam alongside the immense docks and piers, and have their cargoes loaded into railroad cars for the 6,000 miles run to St. Petersburg.

Five large piers had been constructed, each with numerous railroad tracks and immense warehouses and elevators. A large breakwater was being constructed so that ships could lie at the piers and load and unload regardless of weather. Docks for foreign vessels, steam and sail, extended between the piers and along the shore for two miles. The town was built on model lines, and was to be the commercial port of Port Arthur, which was to be a strictly military city. Being practically without defenses Dally is almost at the mercy of the Japs in their movement on Port Arthur, and with its fine docks would have made a splendid place for landing troops. Over $6,000,000 had been expended on the harbor system and it was estimated that the cost of completing the works would be nearly $20,000,000. The total population of Dally has been estimated at about 60,000, mostly Chinese, Japanese, Koreans and Russians.

A report is out that the emperor is exceedingly anxious to go to the front, to follow the example of all the Romanoff dynasts during the last century and undergo his baptism of fire. To fight with the army is one of the traditions of his house. Alexander I. entered Paris with the allies after the battle of Waterloo. Nicholas I. died in a common soldiers' hotel in the Crimea and Alexander II. with the help apparent, was at the front during the Turkish war. Perhaps an additional reason why Emperor Nicholas desires to meet the enemy is that he carries on his body the mark of a wound inflicted by a fanatical Japanese policeman when he was attacked in a theater at Otsu during his visit to Japan in 1891, only being saved from death by the noble action of his cousin, Prince George of Greece. Should he finally conclude to go to the emperor would not assume active command of the troops, but would have an imperial headquarters, taking with him all the members of his military cabinet.

Disabled a Jap Ship.

The Russian fleet scored its first distinct naval success of the war on May 10 by the torpedoing and crippling, though not the sinking, of an armored Japanese cruiser in Tallenwan bay. The attacking force was not a regular torpedo boat, but was only a small naphtha launch in command of a young naval officer who had with him three jacksies. The launch mounted a small machine gun and carried three torpedoes. When darkness fell the launch crept out of Port Arthur, hugging the shore with no lights aboard and no glow from the engines to betray her presence. It was late when she gained the outer line of the Japanese fleet.

Japanese squadron, slipping through the torpedo boat netters, and selecting a big armored cruiser, she stole toward her and succeeded in exploding against her side a single torpedo. A deafening roar followed the explosion which enveloped the cruiser, which evidently was badly crippled. The crew of the cruiser was seen to be fighting the fire, which they at last succeeded in extinguishing. A sister ship took the damaged vessel in tow and disappeared to the southeast.

The launch escaped the hot fire directed against her by the Japanese ships, but being unable to return to Port Arthur or to get into Dally, she was beached not far from Dally.

THE KAISER'S HEALTH.

Alarming Reports Come From Berlin of the Emperor's Condition.

The people of Berlin are again beginning to be seriously worried about the health of the kaiser. Though a great improvement was noticed in his general appearance when he returned from his Mediterranean cruise, it was doubtfully has not done him great good. This improvement was by no means lasting and everybody who has seen the kaiser during the last week or two days has been struck with the rapid decline as indicated by his expression and whole bearing.

The coat of tan which the emperor had given to the kaiser's face and which gave him a rather rugged appearance has given place to a yellowish gray, most unhealthy complexion, and his eyes have lost their brightness. It is also noticed that he, when speaking, clears his throat continuously and again has taken up the habit of carrying his hand to his throat and whenever he does this an expression of sharp pain comes into his face. Besides this he is, if possible, even more nervous and excitable than before.

Revolution Now Threatened.

A secret report from St. Petersburg depicts the internal situation of Russia as becoming most serious as regards the preservation of the present institutions, the military failures in the far east having strengthened the opinion that the evils are due to the present organization of the country, in which a change is necessary.

The hope is expressed that the emperor himself, seeing the danger, will be induced to grant the country a constitution, in which event, it is asserted, the enthusiasm of the people will become so great as to render it possible to raise an army and collect the means necessary to defeat Japan.

Otherwise, the report says, it is believed all the efforts made at St. Petersburg will remain futile, as besides the war in the far east, Russia will be obliged to face a latent, if not an open, revolutionary movement at home, depriving her of the assistance of the most progressive elements of the empire, such as the Poles and Finns.

The managers of the American Bible society have decided to amend the constitution to permit the society to print the revised version of the Bible. Pauline Littlestone, of Braddock, Pa., broke her arm three times in less than 18 months, attempting to button her shirt waist up the back. Sunday she fractured her "funny bone," and now she has declared against buttons on the back.

The Cuban trade of the United States is shown by the government to have been largely increased by the recent treaty not into effect December, 1903. Imports from Cuba doubled for corresponding months before and after and exports show material gains.

THE LAST SNAG REMOVED.

English Cotton Mills Close.

The gambling of Daniel J. Sully, of the New York cotton exchange is still affecting England, or rather the great manufacturing towns of Great Britain where thousands of hands were busy under normal circumstances manufacturing cotton goods, which has always formed one of the principal articles of export from that country. This year it is different. Mills have closed down by the hundreds and thousands of factory hands unable to find work at any place are leaving their homes and emigrating to Canada at the rate of more than 2,000 a week.

Priestley, discovered the oxygen, who was his great-grandfather.

His friends' true hearts beat low, and their strong limbs were weary. Their hands grew chill in his, on their kind eyes death lay veils. On their faces carved cold, the noonday sun was dreary. "I will tell men this for their tears," said the pitiful teller of tales.

His hopes grew sear and faded, and his eyes were heavy with weeping. His was the hot shamed brow of the strong, brave man who falls. His were the hunger and toil while the faded world lay sleeping. "I will tell men this for their laughter," said the pitiful teller of tales.

His light little love grew weary, and ran to a newer lover. And left him the purple sorrow that creeps where the sunset poles. His heart's blood dripped its scarlet, and he smiled at its brimming over. "I will tell men this for their joyance," said the pitiful teller of tales.

But men at last beheld how he stripped his soul for their pleasure. And they brought him their gold and their laurels, and the loving that most avails. And he knew the taste of a hope fulfilled, and the joy no wizard may measure. "They shall have this, too, for their heartening," said the pitiful teller of tales.

BY LUCY MAYO WARNER

The train from the city, due at 5:35, was more than half an hour late when it finally drew up at Wayside Junction. As it jerked to a standstill an extremely pretty girl descended from the chair car, and, after dropping a heavy suit case upon the platform, walked rapidly toward the waiting-room.

Among the other passengers who alighted was a young man, who, following immediately behind the girl, deposited his suit case likewise, and then disappeared in the direction of the news-stand.

The two suit cases were left standing side by side within a yard of each other. Both were almost new; both were constructed of a superior grade of leather, and both bore on one end, in neat, black lettering, "M. H."

A strident whistle signaled the approach of the way train for Compton Park. Miss Marion Holland emerged from the waiting room, picked up a suit case, and stood ready to enter the car as the train pulled in.

The young man was evidently fastidious in his choice of cigars, for he had barely time to appropriate the other suit case and scramble up the steps of the smoker.

Miss Holland was soon comfortably established with her suit case safely stowed away beside her. She was to attend the wedding of her dearest aunt that evening, and incidentally to countenance the occasion by appearing in the role of maid of honor.

And the dainty raiment upon which she had expended much time and thought in choosing was far too precious to be entrusted to the baggage car.

The journey from the Junction was not a long one, and on her arrival at Compton Park a carriage whirled her rapidly away to the Kneelands' country house, some distance out.

The young man also left the train at Compton Park. He was met by a fellow of his own age, and together the two tramped along the village street toward the hotel. The suit case with its label of "M. H." followed in their wake in the grasp of a porter.

"That was a stunning girl who came down in the train with me," observed the new arrival. "I noticed her before we left the city. Shouldn't wonder if she had some part to play to-night. Rather late for a woman to be arriving, though. She'll have to hustle to get dressed."

"Very likely it was Miss Holland," replied his companion. "She's Molly's most intimate friend, and is to be maid of honor. The others are all here, I believe, but she couldn't get through any earlier. Too bad you could not meet her before the show."

"I beg pardon, Miss Molly," she said, deferentially, "but Mr. Tom has sent a man from the hotel with this. He says they got mixed coming up on the train somehow, and Mr. Tom thought it might belong to some of the ladies here. If there's one to go back, the man will take it." Here she lifted into the room a suit case marked "M. H."

At precisely 8:20 the chorus from "Lohengrin" pealed forth and the bridal procession swept up the church aisle. The ushers were a set of fine young fellows, and the six bridesmaids as pretty girls as one could wish to see.

But none of all the party, not even excepting the shimmering white-robed bride, attracted more admiring attention than did the maid of honor, who was a radiant vision in rose-colored crepe.

Maurice Hoyt's eyes expressed the utmost admiration as he handed her into the carriage that was to take them back from the church. He lifted cautiously a fold of the rose cloud that swept against his knee.

"One can form very little idea of the effect of these creations until one sees them worn," he mused, as if to himself. "Really, I should never have guessed that this was half so lovely," he added, smiling shyly.

Several months later an immaculate cloud of gleaming, rose-colored stuff had burst upon his vision as he lifted the lid. Two high-heeled shoes elbowed one another saucily, and a pair of elaborately wrought silk stockings were close neighbors. Below them lay a froth of dainty lingerie, into whose mysteries Hoyt did not penetrate.

"Great Scott!" he exclaimed again. On her arrival at the Kneelands', Miss Holland was rapturously greeted by the bride-elect, and then hurried into the dining room to scratch a very hasty lunch. The bridesmaids were already dressing, and the maid of honor glanced anxiously at the clock as she, in her turn, unlocked a suit case marked "M. H."

"It's no use! I can't go!" A moment later Molly Kneeland was dragged from the hands of her maid and forced along the corridor to the maid of honor's room.

"It's no use! I can't go!"

"Look at that!" exclaimed that lady, tragically.

"That" was a precisely-folded dress coat, which, in company with all the other paraphernalia of a severely correct masculine evening garb, reposed contentedly in the interior of the suit case marked "M. H."

"Whatever shall I do?" moaned Miss Holland. "This is my case, I know, but how in the name of miracles did these things get inside? And it's after 7 o'clock, and I've nothing to put on! My walking suit is out of the question, and I certainly can't wear these!" She laughed hysterically. "It's no use—I can't go. You'll have to be married without me!"

"The question is, What became of your things?" said the bride, practically. "One might think it was a joke, but who would play it? But you must get a dress somehow. I should not feel properly married unless you saw me through. I'll go and see—"

A light knock interrupted her. Her maid was standing in the hall outside.

"I beg pardon, Miss Molly," she said, deferentially, "but Mr. Tom has sent a man from the hotel with this. He says they got mixed coming up on the train somehow, and Mr. Tom thought it might belong to some of the ladies here. If there's one to go back, the man will take it." As they sprang into the carriage hat awaited them a negro porter swung jauntily down the walk. He was grinning from ear to ear, and in each hand he bore a heavy leather suitcase. Both were marked "M. #### BALD SPOT CAUSED SUFFERING.

Girl Suffered Because Her Ideal Was So Disfigured.

"What I would like to do," she said, folding her hands above her head, "is to succor bald headed men! You never hear anything about a man's hair being his crowning glory, but it's a sad, sad thing to see it falling like leaves in November and not be able to lift a hand.

"Now, at our boarding house there is a man—rather a handsome man—who sits at a table in front of me. At the back of his god-like head is a place as large as a butter plate that I watch, day by day, with fascinated eyes, as the thatch becomes thinner and thinner.

"I wouldn't allow a work of art to be defaced if I could help it," she went on, warmly; "and I consider a human being, especially a good-looking male one, far more beautiful than any picture or statue. So, imagine my feelings as I see him supinely allowing himself to be defaced by time, or a derby hat, or whatever it is that does it!

"The worst of it is," she continued, hurried, as one of her companions made as if to speak, "that I know a remedy. What can I do? I can't go up to a strange man and say: 'Mr. So and So, for the love of beauty, apply warm castor oil to your scalp vigorously each night, and be saved!' So there I sit, meal after meal, and suffer vicariously! It's harrowing!"

"Why don't you write an anonymous letter to him?" inquired one of her listeners.

"I never thought of that," replied the girl. "That's a good idea."

BELIEVE MANY STRANGE THINGS

Innumerable Superstitions Prevalent Among the Sicilians.

People of Sicily are vastly superstitious. The Sicilian believes—to give a few examples—in the existence of a double-tailed lizard, which condescends to take in its mouth the winning numbers of the lottery. He believes it is unlucky to marry or begin a journey on a Tuesday or a Friday.

He believes in the power of maledictions and of the evil eye and attempts to defend himself against them by wearing amulets—such as the corn, a coral imitation of the horn of the goat—by spitting three times on the ground while pronouncing a "magic formula," or (in certain districts) by invoking the name of Virgil, who somehow acquired, during the middle ages, a bizarre reputation as a magician. He believes in sorcerers, of whom a goodly number practice professionally on his island, selling to him, among other wonder-working charms, grotesque colored images of St. Paul to be attached to barren fruit trees and barrels in which wine has soured. He believes that a person born on a Friday is able to predict the future, and that a person born on June 29 (the fete of St. Paul, who was unharned by the viper which encircled his hand) is able to do both these things and to charm serpents besides.

Senator Lunches on Pie. Senator Platt of Connecticut comes honestly by his devotion to pie. He was born in a section where pie is a favorite and has lived there most of his long life. When his lunch hour arrives he enters into no detailed explanations. The Connecticut senator calls his colored messenger.

"James," he says, "bring my lunch." A visitor happened in the room of the committee on Cuba when this daily message was delivered to James. In a few minutes the messenger returned from the restaurant, bearing two choice cuts of custard pie.

"Perhaps you think two pieces of pie are a big lunch for a man of almost four score years," said Mr. Platt in light conversation.

The visitor protested, but Mr. Platt added with calm philosophy: "Well, I have eaten as many as three pieces."

Case of Tempting Fate. Superstitions of actor folk generally have evidently no place in the mind of Julia Marlowe. Some one asked her recently if she believes in omens.

"That question reminds me," said the actress, "of an incident that occurred during rehearsals of 'When Knighthood Was in Flower.' One of the actors opened his umbrella on the stage.

"Oh, you mustn't do that!" said my stage manager. "I'd like to know why?" was the response.

"Simply because it's bad luck. The owner might see it and take it away from you!"

On being asked what they saw in the small wheels to make them so excited they replied that they thought it was so plucky of them to be able to keep up with the large ones."

Austrian Tobacco Monopoly.

The manufacture and sale of tobacco is a state monopoly in Austria which nets the national treasury over $27,000,000 a year. #### Sugar Beet Culture.

While it is true that in all sections sugar beets cannot be profitably grown on account of soil and climatic conditions, yet there is a wide belt running through the northern states, from New York to Minnesota, where it is a safe industry to consider. The proper selection of soil upon which the beets are to be grown is the first essential to successful beet culture. Not only is the top soil of importance, but the subsoil as well. A subsoil rich in lime, a clay or sandy loam, which will hold moisture well in a dry season, are the best, providing they are well drained. The top soil should be fertile, easily tillable and free from stones; very heavy clays as well as very light sands should be avoided. Fall plowing seems to be a favorable practice in the beet belt and if it has been plowed in the fall to a depth of six inches or over and has not settled too much, it need not be re-plowed in the spring, but harrowed as soon as soil conditions will permit, and a dust mulch established to preserve the winter moisture. If necessary to plow again in the spring, it should be done early and each half day's plowing should be harrowed and rolled, so that the chance of drying out will be reduced to the minimum.

While it is desirable to have rich soil, it should not be manured the same spring as planted, as this has a tendency due to the nitrogenous content, to cause the beets to make too rapid a growth without becoming sufficiently rich in sugar. Since the purpose in the growth of sugar beet is to obtain the largest total yield of sugar per acre, and inasmuch as the sugar content of the beet as well as the right growth and development is very largely influenced by the character of the fertilization, this matter becomes of a very considerable importance. The sugar beet draws heavily upon the soil for nitrogen and potash, a 20-ton per acre crop, removing 100 pounds of nitrogen, and 192 pounds of potash. Phosphoric acid is also needed especially during the early growth. As was stated, the rapid growth should not be encouraged too late in the season, therefore the nitrogen provided should be in quickly available forms such as nitrate or ammonia compounds and applied early. The potash should be in the form of sulphate and from 100 to 150 pounds per acre is a proper application. Good results follow the use of phosphoric acid derived from superphosphate. The mineral fertilizers are best applied the fall previous to planting or at any rate quite early in the spring, while the nitrogen may be used as a top dressing after the plants are up.

The time for planting will vary slightly with the season, usually about the beginning of May. The soil should be pulverized to a depth of four or five inches; then packed well. The best way to plant is across the last harrow marks, using a beet seeder drill. This drills four rows at a time, sixteen, eighteen or twenty inches apart. The seed should not be covered more than a half or one inch deep. Eighteen pounds of seed are required per acre if the rows are eighteen inches apart and twenty pounds if sixteen.

Cultivation is to begin as early as the plants are above the ground. After the third or fourth leaf has developed, bunching should begin—i. e., hoeing out the beets before thinning, leaving little bunches about two inches wide and six or seven inches apart. After another cultivation, the bunches are thinned. After thinning they should be cultivated from a week or ten days to keep out the weeds and preserve the moisture. The beets are "laid by" when the cultivator cannot be run without breaking off the leaves.—D. L. Duncan in Farmers' Review.

Plant Food.

The soil is full of plant food, but much of it is not available. The particles of rock that help make up the soil are composed in part of elements that become plant food when they have been set free from the imprisoned condition in which they first came into the soil. No matter how much plant food a soil contains, unless it is food is in the proper conditions and is surrounded by the proper conditions of moisture and heat it cannot be used by the plant and the soil remains infertile. If it is out of balance in the soil, the fertility cannot be taken up and used. As an example of this, we have some soils composed largely of vegetable matter and very rich in nitrogen. Such soils will not produce a thing. When the seed of any plant begins to grow it must have within easy reach prepared food of the right sort.

Plant food must depend to a considerable extent on the mechanical condition of the land. The air and the moisture in a small degree must combine to set it loose, and with most plants that we use for producing food or man a limited water supply only is necessary for proper conditions of growth. Every year vast quantities of manure are wasted on land that is poorly drained or poorly worked. What is the good of having a great quantity of plant food in the soil if it is not available? It cannot be available when the land lacks proper drainage and proper mechanical texture.

The first care of the farmer should be to maintain the fertility of his land.

222 South Peoria St., CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 7, 1902.
Eight months ago I was so ill that I was compelled to lie or sit down nearly all the time. My stomach was so weak and upset that I could keep nothing on it and I vomited frequently. I could not urinate without great pain and I coughed so much that my throat and lungs were raw and sore. The doctors pronounced it Bright's disease and others said it was consumption. It mattered little to me what they called it and I had no desire to live. A sister visited me from St. Louis and asked me if I had ever tried Wine of Cardui. I told her I had not and she bought a bottle. I believe that it saved my life. I believe many women could save much suffering if they but knew of its value.

Wine of Cardui
Don't you want freedom from pain? Take Wine of Cardui and make one supreme effort to be well. You do not need to be a weak, helpless sufferer. You can have a woman's health and do a woman's work in life. Why not secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today?

The last meeting of the County Grange was held with Fraternity Grange in Augusta township, May 10. Seventy members from various parts of the county were present.

"Feasible means of Co-operation among Farmers" called out great interest. The topic was presented by C. M. Fellows, of Ypsilanti, who outlined the method farmers in the west have of disposing of their products by storing in large warehouses, from which they ship as markets can be secured to their advantage. The speaker believes that similar plans will be developed in Michigan and that this county might devise means by which its farm products could be marketed to much better advantage than at present. It was suggested by another speaker that before this is possible farmers must learn to have faith in one another, to live up to their agreements and be willing to suffer temporary loss in the effort to secure permanent benefit.

After a spirited discussion of the relative merits of clover seed and commercial fertilizer, the result seemed summed up in the opinion that both are good, why dispense with either?

Potato blight was given considerable attention. Experienced growers recommended soaking the seed in a solution of two ounces of corrosive sublimate to 16 gallons of water for one hour before planting; after the plant appears spray with Bordeaux mixture and repeat spray several times during the season. This method tended to check both the rot on the tubers and the blight on the vines.

Fraternity Grange furnished the sort of entertainment and music for which it is so well known and helped fill the day with profit as well as enjoyment for those who left their work at this busy season to attend. An invitation to hold a special meeting June 14, with Miss Julia Ball, of Hamburg, was accepted.

A Sure Thing.
It is said that nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure for all lung and throat troubles. Thousands can testify to that. Mrs. C. B. VanMeyre of Shepherd-town, W. Va., says "I had a severe case of bronchitis and for a year tried everything I heard of, but got no relief. One bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery then cured me absolutely." It's infallible for croup, whooping cough, grip, pneumonia and consumption. Try it. It's guaranteed by Glazier & Stimson, druggists. Trial bottles free. Regular sizes 50c, $1.00.
