HONOR THE COUNTRY'S DEAD

R. P. Carpenter Post Has Perfected Arrangements for Decoration Day.

Although the old soldiers in and around Chelsea are but few in number and that few are gradually getting fewer by reason of the deaths that occur in their ranks, they never miss the observance of Decoration Day in a proper and fitting manner. This year is no exception to their rule, and all the arrangements for the observance of Memorial Sunday and Decoration Day have been made in accordance with the following program:

Sunday afternoon, May 29, at 3:00, the Post and W. R. C. will attend services at the Methodist church and listen to a sermon to be preached by Rev. E. E. Caster.

On Monday, the 30th, the Post and Corps will assemble at the town hall at 2:00 o'clock p. m., where the following order of exercises will be carried out.

Reading of Orders.
Vocal Music—Male Quartette.
Prayer—Rev. E. E. Caster.
Vocal Music—Quartette.
Address—Rev. C. S. Jones.
Vocal Music—Quartette.
Benediction.

A procession will then be formed on Middle street in the following order to march to the cemetery, where the graves of deceased soldiers will be decorated, and the Grand Army service performed at the soldiers' monument:

Marshal.
G. A. R. Post.
Speakers.
W. R. C.
Flower Wagon.
Carriages.

Donations of flowers will be gladly received at the town hall Monday morning, and those having flowers to donate are requested to leave them there before 10 o'clock.

All old soldiers and the citizens generally are invited to take part in all the exercises incident to the celebration of the day.

TELEPHONE EXTENSION.

Many New Connections Will Shortly Be Made to the Chelsea Telephone Co.'s Exchange.

T. J. Keech, of Ann Arbor, the district superintendent of the Michigan Telephone Co., was a pleasant caller at the Herald office Tuesday, and in the course of conversation gave out a few facts concerning the great progress that is being made in extending the telephone service between the rural districts in Sylvan and Lima and this place.

He says that within the past month 60 new subscribers have made contracts with his company through E. E. Leland its agent, and before they get through he expects that number to be increased to 100. The poles and material for constructing the lines have all been ordered, and the work will be gone on with at once as soon as it gets here.

These farmers' lines are constructed by the Michigan Telephone Co. and are connected with the Chelsea Telephone Co.'s office, the latter company being paid a percentage for taking care of the business. Wherever these lines have been introduced the subscribers are fully alive to the benefits and great convenience that accrue to them and would not now want to be without them.

The State Census.

The census enumerators will commence taking the state census next Wednesday, June 1, and will in the course of their rounds visit every house. Do not get annoyed at the questions they ask you. The government compels them to ask them, and the enumerators will not ask the questions for their private information, nor will they divulge to anyone what you tell them. Be patient, therefore, and courteous, so that the enumerator may have a good opinion of your intelligence. The enumerators are under oath to maintain secrecy as to the results of their labors and a fine of $100 may be imposed on them for any violation of the provisions of their oath.

PASSED PEACEFULLY AWAY.

Mrs. Jane B. Jewett Succumbed to the Infirmities of Old Age Yesterday Morning.

Mrs. Jane B. Jewett, relict of the late Thos. Jewett, passed away quite suddenly at her home in Lima Wednesday morning, May 25, about 6 o'clock, aged 92 years, 7 months and 13 days. Though suffering from the weakness due to her great age it was not thought that Mrs. Jewett's end so near, and it was only Friday last that the writer had a half hour's conversation with her at the meeting of the farmers' club and thought what a bright, smart talking, cheerful body she was for her age.

Mrs. Jewett was a woman universally liked by her friends and acquaintances. With her bright active mind, she was always a leading figure in a group of visitors and she endeared herself to all by her many kindly ways. She will be greatly missed by her family and by the large circle of friends which she had gathered during almost an entire lifetime spent in the same neighborhood.

Jane B. Clark was born in Claremont, N. H., Oct. 12, 1811. She was married to Thomas Jewett in 1842, and moved to Michigan in October, 1844, settling on the farm on which she had always lived. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Fletcher, of Chelsea, and Mrs. John F. Waltrous, of Lima, who has always lived at the old home.

The funeral services will be held at the house Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock Rev. C. S. Jones officiating. The remains will be laid to rest beside those of her husband in the Vermont cemetery.

TOOK CASE FROM JURY.

Judge Kinne Brought the Yahley-Times Damage Suit to a Sudden Termination.

Mortimer L. Yakley's $10,000 libel suit against the Ann Arbor Times, which was on trial in the circuit court from Thursday morning last, came to a sudden termination Tuesday morning. Both sides had rested Monday, and Judge Kinne, in response to a written request to charge, made by the counsel for the defense, instructed the jury that the article complained of was privileged, that the comments on the case in the article in question were justified by the facts, that no malice was proven, and that therefore a verdict must be rendered accordingly. The judge then dismissed the jury from further consideration of the case and discharged the defendant.

This ends a case that never should have been brought at all, and with it will doubtless end the suits entered against Dr. G. W. Palmer and Mr. Harrison.

Obituary.

Died, at the home of her aunt Mrs. Nancy May, in Lyndon, May 15, Mrs. Isabella M. Cherry. The deceased was born in Unadilla, Livingston County, Mich., Oct. 30, 1852. She then returned to Unadilla, where she remained until her marriage to W. D. Hartsuff in 1881, moving to Ft. Wayne, Ind., where Mr. Hartsuff died in 1891.

Recently her home has been in Jackson. She joined the M. E. church when quite young, always being an earnest worker for that church. The funeral services were held at the home of Mrs. May, Wednesday, May 18, Rev. Cope, of Pinckney, officiating, assisted by Revs. Sharp, of Jackson, Jones, of Detroit, Palmer, of Whitmore Lake, and Stone, of Unadilla. CHAPTER V.

The Training of Fridtjof the Page.
Who that has youth and a healthy body is not made a new being by a night of dreamless slumber? Wakened by the sun's caresses, to the morning song of blowing trees, Randallin faced her future as became the kine-woman of warriors.

The tent was empty, though scattered furs along the benches showed where sleepers might have rested. But from outside, a clatter of hurrying feet and excited voices broke suddenly upon her. Did it mean a battle? She set up, straining eye and ear. The jubilant voices shouted greetings that just missed being intelligible.

While she was trying to unravel it all, one pair of the hurrying feet halted before the entrance. After a muttered word with the sentinel, they came on and brought the son of Lodbrok into view.

The girl started up with a gasp of alarm, then made the strange discovery that she was no longer afraid of him. Though he showed against the linen wall as brawny and big of jaw as he had loomed up the night before, she found herself moved only to dislike. What had been the matter last night? Understanding nothing of the clairvoyant power of sharpened nerves, she set it down to cowardice, and put on an extra swagger now as her eye met his.

Rothgar surveyed the sprig of defiance with no more than a perfunctory interest.

"It seems that you are the son of Frode the Dane," he said in his heavy voice. "Frode was a mighty raven-leader; for his sake I am going to support you until you can go well on your legs. Have you had anything to eat?"

As she shook her head, Randallin's heart rather softened toward him. But it hardened again when the

from a new direction. She leaped to meet it, and for the next minute was kept turning, twisting, dodging, till her breath began to come in gasps, and her exhausted hand to relax its hold. Her weapon was almost falling from it by the time the son of Lodbrok lowered his point. Imitating him, she stood leaning on her sword, making futile gasps after her lost breath.

A grin slowly wrinkled his face as he watched her.

"It appears that one who is no bigger around than a willow twig may be capable of a berserk rage," he said. "Do you not feel that you are wounded?"

Following his eyes down to her hand, she found blood trickling from her sleeve. Oh, and pain! Now that she had awakened to it—pain! pricking, stinging, stabbing. Dropping her sword, she caught at her wrist.

"How did it happen? I thought a pin had pricked me!"

Roaring with laughter, he caught her under the arms and tossed her in the air.

"A pin!" he shouted. "A pin! That is Frode himself! A beard on your chin, and you also will be a feeder of wolves! For that you shall have a share in the battle. I swear it by the hilt of the Hanger!"

For a moment the girl forgot her wound and hung limp in the great hands. "The battle?" she gasped. "I—I fight?"

Roaring afresh, the Jotun gave her another jubilant toss. "You blustering field-mouse! Showing your teeth already? Why know? If you meet a blind Englishman without a weapon, you may even kill him. Here," he tumbled her roughly to the ground, "tie up your pin scratch and then come after me. I must go up yonder to Canute, under the oak tree." Putting out one great hand, he patted her soft curls as though she were some shaggy Randallin rode in a dream. The son of Lodbrok was beside her, singing as he went, and tossing his great battle-axe in the air, to catch it again by the handle. In front of them rode Canute the King; in his hand his gleaming blade, whose thin edge he tried now and again on a lock of his floating hair, while he laughed with boyish delight.

On, till the bowmen's faces were plain before them; then suddenly it began to hail—"the hall of the string." Arrows! One hissed by the girl's ear, and one hit her cloak, to hang there quivering with impotent fury. The man on her right made a terrible gurgling sound and put up his hand to tear a shaft from his throat. Would they be slain before—Canute rose in his stirrups with a great shout. The horns echoed it; the trot became a gallop, and the gallop a run. On, on, into the very heart of the hall-cloud. How the stones rattled on the armor! And hissed! There! a man was death-doomed; he was falling.

To the side of the young leader, Thorkel the Tall was spurring, bending urgently from his saddle. "Craft, my King! Craft! Why spill so much good blood? Listen to Eddic the Gainer—"

Canute's furious curse cut him short. "To the troll with your craft! Swords shall make us, or swords shall mar us. Use your blade, or I will sheathe it in you."

Only the wind that took it from his lips heard the Tall One's answer; for at that moment his horse reared and sheered away before a spear-prick, and into the rift a handful of English rushed with shouts of triumph.

There were no more than half-a-dozen of them, and all were on foot, the two whose gold-hilted swords proclaimed their nobility of birth sharing the lot of their lesser comrades, according to the old Saxon war-custom; but it needed not the daring of the attack to mark them as the very flower of English chivalry. The young noble, who hovered around his chief much as Rothgar circled about Canute, would have been lordly in a serf's tunic; and the leader's royal bearing distinguished him even more than his mighty frame.

At the sight of him Rothgar uttered a great cry of "Edmund!" and moved forward, swinging his uplifted axe. But the Ironside caught it on his shield and delivered a sword-thrust in return that dropped the Dane's arm by his side. As it fell, Rothgar's left hand plucked forth his blade, but the English king had pressed him toward his master.

Canute's weapon had need to dart like a northern light. The noble and one of the soldiers had forced their way to the side from which Thorkel had been riven, and a third threatened him from the rear. Three blades stabbing at him as with one motion.

It was a strange thing that saved him—Randallin could explain it least of all. But in a lightning flash it was burnt into her mind that, while her king's sword was a match for the two in front of him, the one behind was going to deal him his death. And even as she thought it, she found that she had thrown herself across her horse's neck and thrust out her sword arm—out with the force and frenzy and down into the shoulder of the Englishman. In a kind of dazed wonder, she saw his blade fall from his grasp and his eyes roll up at her, as he staggered backward.

Canute laughed out, "Well done, Berserker!" and redoubled his play against those before him.

SACRED CACTUS OF INDIANS.

Plant Once Important Object to Indian Aborigines.

The chief Sabbath attraction in an uptown church recently was a pyramid cactus. It held the most conspicuous place on the altar, and scores of strangers visited the church to see it.

"It was given to our home missionary," said one of the members, "by an Indian convert in New Mexico. The cactus grows only in caverns, and is found in the Gaudalupe mountains. The beautiful vase-shaped maroon blooms develop to over two inches in diameter, and there are as many as 120 on a mature plant. In early times the faithful Indians used the caverns as churches, and beautiful places of worship they must have made, with majestic walls of variegated limestone wreathed in flowering juniper and mountain laurel. They marched over the mountain trails in spring chanting seasonal songs to their gods. When they reached the mouth of the cavern the chiefs were decorated with the pyramid cacti, and a dance was performed.

"Then chanting, dancing, and the sacrifice of animals took place in the cave. Often the redskins, worn out with their exertions, fell asleep and stayed through the day and night of devotion within the mysterious walls. To sleep near the sacred cactus plants was the same to the aborigines as a visit to Mecca is to the Mohammedan. The touching of its leaves was a purification in itself. From some mysterious part of the plant a liquid was extracted to serve for medicine, and the flower petals were placed upon a babe's forehead at christenings.—New York Times.

"And the first shall be last and the last shall be first," quoted the good parson, as his wife picked up the new book he had just brought home and opened it at the last page.

TIED, SUFFERING WOMEN.

Women run down and endure daily tortures through neglecting the kidneys. Kidney backache makes housework a burden; rest is impossible; sleep fitful; appetite gives out and you are tired all the time. Can't be well until the kidneys are well.

Use Dean's Kidney Pills, which have restored thousands of suffering women to health and vigor.

Mrs. William Wallace, of 18 Capitol St., Concord, N. H., says: "I was in the early stages of Bright's Disease, and were it not for Dean's Kidney Pills, I would not be living to-day. Pain in the back was so intense that at night I had to get out of bed until the paroxysm of pain passed away. I was languid and tired and hadn't the strength to lift a kettle of water. I could not work, but a few doses of Dean's Kidney Pills relieved me, and two boxes absolutely cured me."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Wallace will be mailed to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box.

Dunn's "Grand Stand" Act.

"Bob" Dunn, candidate for governor of Minnesota, a rough and ready sort of man, was telling the other day of a certain piece of political "grand stand work" which aroused his ire.

"When I heard about it," he said, "it reminded me of an incident years ago when father was building a foundation for a barn, and I couldn't help thinking that those fellows who feel as I did then, when I let myself down out of a tree on a rope that didn't reach the ground, and all of a sudden discovered that I was hanging free as a bird fifteen feet above a big mortar bed full of fresh mortar. All the other boys stood around with their tongues hanging out, admiring my nerve."

"But I don't see any special connection," his auditor observed.

"Well," drawled Mr. Dunn, "in about twenty seconds that darned rope broke!"—New York Herald.

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is simply "that tired feeling," a lassitude caused by a sluggish condition of the blood. The liver and bowels need a cleaning out in the spring and nothing is so effective and at the same time so pleasant to take as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Too many people make the skin do the work that the bowels and kidneys should do. A bilious, constipated condition means a yellow skin, lusterless eyes, foul breath, and a general worn out feeling. All this can be remedied by the use of Dr. Caldwell's (Luxative) Syrup Pepsin, which is sold by all druggists and dealers in medicine.

WHY JAPANESE IS STUDIED.

War Has Aroused Much Interest in That Country.

"I've opened this little stellar," said a pretty Japanese student, "just to sell Japanese dictionaries and teach the language."

"But do you find people enough to buy dictionaries?" was asked.

"Do?" She shrugged her narrow shoulders. "The only trouble is I haven't enough books."

"Are these pupils young or old, men or women?"

"All kinds. Some are learning Japanese for business purposes and others for culture. The war has aroused great interest in my country. Of course all those who come are not in earnest. I have some pretty girls who want just a few phrases at their tongues' end, like: Give my regards to them all, nina, san ni yoroshiku; good morning, ohayo; good-bye, sayonara; are they all well at home? ouchi de wa mina san gozaimasu yo gozaimasu ka? And how to count ten: One, hitotsu; two, futatsu; three, misu; four, yottsu; five, itsutsu; six, mutsu; seven, nanatsu; eight, yattsu; nine, kokonotsu, tan, to.

"One very funny but dainty little lady called to see me. She lives near by, at the Waldorf-Astoria."

"I'll give you $10," said she, "if you'll teach me how to call a Russian I know an old farmer."

"At first I didn't quite understand, then I said: 'Why, of course, just say: "Ano hito-wa hyakusho-de gozaimasu."'"—New York Times.

HUMAN TREE IN RUSSIA.

Hermit Who Has Planted Himself Through Patriotism.

Many peasants are setting out from all parts of north Russia to visit the remarkable hermit, Prokhor Selentich, otherwise known as the "Hairy Man of Archangel."

Selentich has long been known for his eccentric ways of proving his piety. Five years ago he cut off all the fingers of his left hand in a fit of religious frenzy.

On hearing that the Russians had suffered disaster in the far East he declared that this was the result of their sins, which could only be atoned for by a "sacrifice to mother earth." He professed at first not to know the meaning of this.

On St. John the Baptist's day, however, he had a revelation, ordering him to "plant himself in darkness in the first earth he trod on, there to remain until the infidels were beaten or until birch-leaves sprouted from his mutilated hand."

As Selentich's cabin had an earthen floor, he understood this to mean that he was to plant himself where he stood. He blocked up the windows, and had a double door fitted to his hut so as to exclude the light, and then dug a hole and planted himself in the earth up to his knees.

There he remains, attended only by a little granddaughter. He fares well, as the pilgrims who visit him fill his hut with offerings of food and drink.—London Mirror.

640-Acre Homesteads Free In Western Nebraska

An amendment to the national homestead law applying to certain of the public lands in the State of Nebraska, which becomes effective June 27, 1904, allows each actual settler to file upon 640 acres of land, instead of the usual 160 acres.

Nearly nine million acres are open to settlement under the new law—enough to furnish 640 acres (one section, or a square mile) to more than 14,000 persons. If you are of age, a citizen of the United States, and have never exercised your rights under the homestead law, you are entitled to one of these square miles of Nebraska land, by complying with the simple regulations and paying a small fee.

A Stock Raising and Dairying Country

This land is well adapted to stock raising or a combination of stock raising, dairying and mixed farming, but is not suited to general farming alone. Altogether, it is without question one of the greatest stock-raising and dairying regions on the face of the globe, and presents to-day greater opportunities for men of little capital than any other section of America.

The testimony of the thousands of men who have made money in this section proves the truth of these statements. But do not take their word for it—do not take our word for it—go and see with your own eyes the evidences of prosperity in this great country.

Half-price tickets will be on sale to points in Western Nebraska via the Burlington Route on June 7 and 21. It will cost but little to satisfy yourself whether you want a square mile of this free land.

A prominent club woman, Mrs. Danforth, of St. Joseph, Mich., tells how she was cured of falling of the womb and its accompanying pains and misery by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Life looks dark indeed when a woman feels that her strength is fading away and she has no hopes of ever being restored. Such was my feeling a few months ago when I was advised that my poor health was caused by prolapsus or falling of the womb. The words sounded like a knell to me, I felt that my sun had set; but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound came to me as an elixir of life; it restored the lost forces and built me up until my good health returned to me. For four months I took the medicine daily and each dose added health and strength. I am so thankful for the help I obtained through its use."—Mrs. FLORENCE DANFORTH, 2007 Miles Ave., St. Joseph, Mich.

A medicine that has restored so many women to health and can produce proof of the fact must be regarded with respect. This is the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which cannot be equalled by any other medicine the world has ever produced. Here is another case:—

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For years I was troubled with falling of the womb, irregular and painful menstruation, leucorrhoea, bearing-down pains, backache, headache, dizzy and fainting spells, and stomach trouble. "I doctored for about five years but did not seem to improve. I began the use of your medicine, and have taken seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, three of Blood Purifier, and also used the Sanative Wash and Liver Pills, and am now enjoying good health and have gained in flesh. I thank you very much for what you have done for me, and heartily recommend your medicine to all suffering women."—Miss EMMA SNYDER, 218 East Center St., Marion, Ohio.

"FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO WOMEN." Women would save time and much sickness if they would write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice as soon as any distressing symptoms appear. It is free, and has put thousands of women on the right road to recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence thus entrusted to her, and although she publishes thousands of testimonials from women who have been benefited by her advice and medicine, never in all her experience has she published such a letter without the full consent, and often by special request of the writer.

$5000 FORFEIT if any advertisement produces the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

THE MAN BEHIND THE GUN

Is our name for the patent Separating Grate and Check Plate in the famous RED RIVER SPECIAL THRESHER.

It has the Big Cylinder, with lots of concave and open grate surface.

It has the Man Behind the Gun, that does most of the separating right at the cylinder.

Besides these, it has all the separating capacity of other machines.

The average old-style small cylinder thrasher wastes enough grain and time to pay your thresh bill.

Why not save the grain ordinarily put into the straw stack? Why not save the time which the ordinary threshing outfit wastes for you?

This can be done by employing the RED RIVER SPECIAL.

It runs right along, saving your grain and saving time, regardless of conditions.

As the modern self-binder is ahead of the old reaper of forty years ago, so is the Big Cylinder and Man Behind the Gun ahead of the small cylinder old-style thrasher.

The old-style thrasher with its small cylinder and limited separating capacity, has stood for years without much improvement.

The RED RIVER SPECIAL is the crowning improvement in threshing machinery.

It is built for modern, up-to-date work; to thresh well; to thresh fast; to save time and grain and money for the thrasher and farmer. It does it. There are reasons why. Send for our new book on threshing, it gives them and it is free.

The RED RIVER SPECIAL is the only machine that has the Man Behind the Gun, and it will save enough extra grain and time to pay your thresh bill.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is medicine for your

It cures diseases of the internal organs, by giving tone to the nerves which make these organs work.

It is a novel theory—not of anatomy, but of treatment; first discovered by Dr. Miles, and since made use of by many wide-awake physicians, who appreciate its value in treating the sick.

If you are sick, we offer you a way to be made well—Dr. Miles' Nervine.

This medicine is a scientific cure for nervous disorders, such as Neuralgia, Headache, Loss of Memory, Sleeplessness, Spasms, Backache, St. Vitus' Dance, Epilepsy or Fits, Nervous Prostration, etc.

By toning up the nerves, Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine will also cure those diseases of the internal organs due to a disordered nervous system.

Some of these are: Indigestion, Bilious Headache, Kidney Trouble, Chronic Constipation, Dropsy, Catarrh, Rheumatism, etc.

DOESN'T LIKE THE METHODS

Used by Republican Machine Politicians to Control Delegates to the State Convention.

The following communication, which appeared in the columns of the Ann Arbor Daily Argus of Monday, is from the pen of a man who has been a Republican always, but who does not believe that the methods used by some Republicans who pose as leaders of the party are either right or proper. It furnishes some very pertinent facts for primary reform voters to ponder over. The letter was written in answer to an editorial article in the Washtenaw Post (Eugene Helber's German paper) of last week, which is also given below:

Senator Glazier, of Chelsea, did more to unite the Republican party of Washtenaw by his generous and courteous treatment of the large delegation that attended the state convention this week at Grand Rapids than any man has done for them in 20 years, and the entire delegation composed of 48 representative men and representing all factions were most liberal and unstating in their remarks concerning the wisdom and good policy of his course.—Mr.
Helber in Washtenaw Post.

Editor Argus:

It has just now come to light how the delegation was treated which gave rise to the above remarks by Mr. Helber.

Mr. Glazier approached certain men before the recent Republican county convention and asked them to go to Grand Rapids and stated that he would see to their expenses and that they were elected delegates. After they were elected, each received a notice to be at the Michigan Central station on a certain day and at a certain hour of the day. There they were met by Mr. Glazier with a special car and they were invited in. The delegates and others of the company in the special car numbered about 35. On their trip to Grand Rapids they saw no Michigan Central official and no conductor came into the car, or approached them. Nobody had to pay anything. The car was well supplied with cigars and liquors of all kinds. When they reached Grand Rapids they were all taken to one hotel and each was given a ticket which admitted him to all parts of the house. For this they did not pay. They came home in the same way and to the credit of the delegation it ought to be said that they did not drink all of the liquor, as a large amount was taken off at Chelsea.

A number of the delegates were known to be for primary election reform and so expressed themselves here in Ann Arbor after their election, but before they got to Grand Rapids some influence must have changed their minds, because, if we are correctly informed by the Detroit papers, 18 of the delegates voted against true primary reform and only 3 for it. It is a very interesting question which of these delegates had the temerity to vote for primary reform under such circumstances and I would like to have the Argus, if it can, inform the public what three men had the honesty to stand up for what they believed to be right under such circumstances. The very way in which these delegates changed their minds under the treatment accorded them furnishes the strongest kind of an argument for primary reform.

Mr. Helber may, in his simplicity, believe that Mr. Glazier furnished the private car for the use of the delegates and others of his friends to go to Grand Rapids.
But when we consider the recent history of machine politics in this state, we conclude that the Michigan Central furnished the car, possibly at Mr. Glazier's request.
Certainly, at the convention, the Michigan Central's attorney was made a member of the committee on resolutions from this district. The Michigan Central has no use for any candidate for nomination for any state or legislative office who is in favor of true primary reform. This is a fact too well established by the recent political history of this state.

It may be that the Republicans of Washtenaw can be united by such conduct as this on the part of Mr. Glazier, but the writer believes that self-respecting men will resent it as it should be at the proper time.

My first vote was cast for Abraham Lincoln in 1864 and I have been a consistent Republican from that time to this, but I shall never vote to approve of conduct of this sort.

I make this communication to the Argus, because we have really no Republican paper in this city to which I could offer it.

A HOT GAME.

But Chelsea's Battery Won Saturday's Game for the Stars.

What proved to be the most interesting base ball game that has as yet been played on our home grounds this season was played last Saturday afternoon between the Junior Stars and Ann Arbor High School, the home team winning out by a score of 5 to 4. The game was a close one and really Ann Arbor had the best of it in every department except the battery. Chelsea's new catcher Killifer was the all-round star, for besides catching a fine game, allowing only two Ann Arbor boys to pilfer bases, he scored three of Chelsea's runs, made a hit, and stole five bases.

It looked like a victory for Ann Arbor in the first inning as the locals were badly rattled, a thing which they must overcome, if they hope to win many games. Belknap started the scoring for Ann Arbor in the first inning by hitting a hot one over second, getting second on an error by E. Steinbach. Taft struck out.
Jones hit into left putting Belknap on third. Rathbun struck out while Whittington hit to second scoring Belknap, Jones going to third. Then McCain stopped further scoring by striking out BeGole, amidst great excitement.

Chelsea was blanked in the first inning but scored in the second by a base on balls to Killifer, who stole second, third and home, amidst wild cheering by the Chelsea's team's supporters. From then until the end of the game, it was a see-saw affair, the Chelsea team playing like a lot of 12-year-olds. Unless they improve rapidly they won't be able to beat a drum, without the umpire's help. The score:

123456789 R H E
Junior Stars... 010300001 5 6 6
A. A. H. S.... 101001001 4 11 5

Western Washtenaw Farmers' Club.

The Western Washtenaw Union
Farmers' Club met with Mr. and Mrs. John F. Waltrous at their home in Lima Friday. There was a good attendance of the ladies, but the men were so busy with their belated farm work that only about a dozen were able to attend. All were made heartily welcome and thoroughly at home by Mr. and Mrs. Waltrous and a very pleasant meeting resulted.

After the usual good dinner at noon a period of social visiting followed and then the club was called to order by the president George K.
Chapman. Prayer was offered by Rev. C. S. Jones. The minutes of the last meeting were next read and approved.

The next meeting of the club is known as children's day and on it being shown that as the schools would still be in session at that time it would be hard for the children to get away, the date for holding the meeting was changed to Saturday, June 18, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Chapman.

After a song by Mrs. Fannie Ward, the farm help problem was discussed by some of the gentlemen. The consensus of opinion seemed to be that farm help was hard to get and wages very high.

A select reading was given by Mrs.
N. H. Cook, in the absence of her husband, and then the question "Has the young man of today as much chance to get along as the young man of fifty years ago?" was opened by Rev. C. S. Jones in the absence of Truman Baldwin. He argued that the young man had just as good a chance to succeed as he ever had,
but he had to be differently equipped.
T. E. Wood, A. W. Chapman and others added their testimony along the same line.

After an excellent recitation by J.
F. Waltrous, the meeting closed by singing "America."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure.

Holds Up the Road.

Angry over a right of way, John Brown is holding up a Pere Marquette logging train on the Mahin branch near Kalkaska. Brown built a fence around 11 loaded cars to assert his rights to the property. An engine smashed through the fence, but was prevented from getting out by large trees which Brown had caused to be felled across the track immediately after the engine ran in. When the train crew started to remove the obstruction, Brown prevented them with a loaded rifle, and still maintains a blockade.

Suing the Soo.

The United States government has filed notice of a suit against the city of Sault Ste. Marie for $38,500 damages for the burning of Fort Brady barracks in January, 1903. Covell, of Grand Rapids, that he had a contract with the city to furnish water pressure of 85 to 90 pounds, but on the night of the fire there was no pressure, and the barracks burned to the ground.

Cold Blooded Murder.

William Stevens, a Chicago bandit, who came to Detroit from Cleveland on Thursday morning, is wanted by the Detroit police for the murder of bartender Ralph Calkins, in a saloon, on Gratiot avenue, last Thursday evening. Alma has building boom.

Fatally Injured.

Sunday afternoon, during a severe electrical storm, Miss Caddie King was standing in front of her parents' home in St. Johns under a large maple tree, talking with Mr. and Mrs. Perry Giger, who were sitting in a buggy, when she was struck by lightning and badly injured. The bolt struck the tree, splitting it, and then passed down the body of Miss King, tearing off one of her shoes and burning her badly. The Gigers were severely shocked, but will recover. The doctors attending Miss King do not think she can recover.

During a severe electric storm Sunday evening a bolt of lightning shot down the chimney and into the main living room of the farm residence of J. E. Williams, a mile and a half south of North Branch. Daniel Graves, a neighbor, aged about 80, was instantly killed and was still in a sitting posture in a chair when his fate was discovered. The house was considerably damaged and a dog in the room was killed. Aside from the aged visitor there were five persons in the room, but further than severe shocks no other injuries were sustained.

Injunction Granted.

Suit has been brought in the United States circuit court for the eastern district of Michigan by the American, Pacific and United States express companies, to prevent the state of Michigan from collecting the taxes levied on the express companies under the ad valorem tax laws of 1901 and 1903. The grounds are much the same as in the tax suits set up by the railroad companies, it being alleged that the law is unconstitutional and that the assessment and tax levy are unjust and excessive.

The three companies have filed separate suits, all asking for a temporary injunction to prevent Auditor-General Perry F. Powers from taking steps to enforce collection of the taxes. This has been granted by Judge Henry H. Swan, who has set June 6 as the date for the auditor-general to make answer.

Found Her Mother.

An Armenian nurse, Miss Elizabeth Bamboorgian, called by the Battle Creek police to act as interpreter for an aged sick woman, found her own mother, whom she had supposed to be dead for many years. The old woman was put off a Michigan Central train in the night and could not speak English. She was too sick to eat or sleep, and was taken to the women's department of the police station. The woman's family was partly assassinated in the raids of 1835 and 1836, but a number of the children fled to America. A son brought his mother to New York city recently, but he was detained there, and she started west. The meeting between mother and daughter was very affecting, and the old lady is now receiving the best of care.

THE NEWS OF THE WORLD

THE JAP-RUSSIAN WAR.

A Japanese Repulse Reported—English Army Men Doubt Story.

The Russian government on Saturday received news confirmatory of the rumors in circulation that Gen. Stoessel had made a successful sortie from Port Arthur, resulting in the defeat of the Japanese with the loss of over 1,000 killed or wounded. The Russians' losses were 110 killed or wounded.

The accuracy of the reports as to a Japanese defeat is doubted by army men in London. While it is not improbable, they say, that Gen. Stoessel may have made a sortie on some weak point on the Japanese investing line and inflicted considerable loss, the claim that the sortie was for the purpose of opening the way for a train load of munitions, and that this object was successfully accomplished, is taken with a large grain of salt when previous reports, tacitly acknowledged as correct by the Russians, have stated that the railroad certainly, as far north as Kaiping, was in the hands of the Japanese and that they had destroyed from fifty to sixty miles of the road.

It is not believed in London that there has been as yet any serious fighting at the front. Kuroki is evidently awaiting the disposition of his columns on the flanks and rear of the Russian position before making an advance all along the line. When this time comes the weight of expert opinion is that the Russians will be overwhelmed.

Japs Masters of Southern Manchuria.

Advices received by the general staff at St. Petersburg show that the Japanese are practically masters of all of the southern end of the Liao-Tung peninsula, save Port Arthur and the territory commanded by its guns.

A member of the general staff said that the removal of the guns from the fortifications erected at Kin-Chau and the destruction of Port Dalny were primarily for the purpose of concentrating the entire Russian force at Port Arthur.

The destruction of Dalny is complete, the breakwater and the buildings, as well as the piers and docks, having been blown up. This action was not the result of sudden determination, but was due to the probability that a force attempting to hold Dalny could be separated from Port Arthur and captured, thus inflicting further loss of prestige to the Russians, which could not be permitted at this time.

Two Japanese Ships Sunk.

Vice-Admiral Togo has reported as follows: "At 14 minutes past 1, in the afternoon of May 13, in a deep fog off Port Arthur, the cruiser Nagatsuki rammed the cruiser Koshino, sinking the latter in a few minutes. The same morning the battleship Hatsuse, while cruising off Port Arthur, covering the landing of the soldiers, struck a mine and sank southeast of the harbor entrance. She signaled for help and instantly sank another mine. She sank in half an hour. Three hundred of her crew were saved by torpedo boats."

The Japanese, numbering 20,000 men, came upon 32,000 Russians in a strong position on Monday, 60 miles west of Feng Wang Cheng. It being unwise to risk a battle the Japanese retreated in good order and with great rapidity. The Russians are jubilant over their reported victory and consider that it being on Emperor Nicholas' birthday the victory is "good medicine" for the Japanese. It is believed the Russians concentrated their forces and struck the enemy south of Liao Yang, driving the Japanese back. The reports say that the Japanese loss was heavy.

THE JAP-IN-THE-BOX.

A St. Petersburg Dispatch Says That the Japs Have Turned Up "At 814 Different New Places."

Over 600 Porto Rican school teachers are to visit the United States in July. Committees are at work in all the leading cities of the island obtaining subscriptions for the fund of $50,000 necessary. Cornell University has promised to take 200 of the young ladies and Harvard 400.

Santa Claus, as presented to the children, was declared to encourage and train them to be deceitful, said Dr. De Ford, of St. Louis, in addressing the Baptists at Nashville, Mo. He protested against teaching children that there is such an entity as Santa Claus, as it was a myth and an abomination.

Japs Try to Cut Off Kuropatkin.

According to the telegram received from Tokio, two Japanese divisions have arrived near Mukden with the object of cutting Gen. Kuropatkin's line of retreat northward.

War Notes.

According to reports which have reached the Russian headquarters at Liao-Yang, from Chinese sources, the Japanese have made a land attack on Port Arthur, but have been repulsed with heavy loss. The truth of the reports is questioned in St. Petersburg.

The report that Rear-Admiral Tessen, finding it impossible to save the protected Russian cruiser Bogatyr, which went ashore recently in a for on the rocks off Vladivostok, caused her to be blown up, is confirmed.

A report has been received from Camp Overton, on the Island of Mindanao, dated May 15, stating that a massacre had taken place on the 12th inst. near Malabang, on the southern coast of Mindanao. Fifty-three Filipino men, women and children, the families of employees of the United States military government at Malabang, were surprised at midnight while asleep, by the Datto Alis and a band of Moros from the Rio Grande valley and slaughtered.

The Convention Tired Out.

The Illinois Republican state convention took its fifty-eighth ballot for a governor on Friday, resulting as follows: Yates, 483; Lowden, 324; Deneen, 335; Hamlin, 113; Sherman, 53; Sherman, 46; Pierce, 29.

Senator Gardner moved a recess to a week from Tuesday next, at the candidates having expressed themselves in favor of such a step. Roll call on the question resulted in the adoption of the resolution, and the convention took a recess until 2 p. m. May 31.

Many of the delegates had begun to show signs of breaking away, and there was evidence a disposition to leave the leaders, some of them left town and others declared they would not come back until some of the gubernatorial candidates got out of the race and made it possible to break the deadlock.

Seven Killed—Twenty Injured.

As a result of an explosion in two drying rooms of the Lake Shore Novelty company's plant in Findlay, O., Sunday, seven persons are known to be dead, five are so seriously hurt that recovery is believed to be impossible and 12 or 15 others are injured badly. From reports of the physicians 10 of the less seriously injured may die as a result of blood poisoning from the rot that was driven into their bodies.

Coal Trust Suits.

Federal action against the coal trust as represented by the carrying railroads has been arranged definitely. Attorney-General Knox will begin suit against the coal roads in the United States circuit court of appeals sitting in Philadelphia on June 20. A bill in equity charging the several coal roads with violation of the interstate commerce clause of the Sherman anti-trust law will be filed on that date.

Frank Paul, a prominent man of Cardiff, Pa., quarreled with an Italian named Savori Pellegrino Saturday night, and in the scuffle Savori left his hat behind. Paul's wife volunteered to return for it when Pellegrino shot her dead in her tracks, then barricaded himself in his room. Paul returned with a revolver and shotgun to avenge his wife's murder, and when Pellegrino poked his nose out to reconnoiter he fell dead, pierced by a bullet from Paul's gun.

MEMORIAL DAY, 1904—A MESSAGE OF PEACE

By REV. F. P. DUFFY, M. D.

Secretary of the American Church Bible Institute, Ravenswood, Chicago.

I have the exceptional privilege of addressing my readers on Memorial Day, and the honor of sending a message to the million addressees among which this article circulates—a privilege I greatly appreciate and an honor highly esteemed. A thousand thoughts leap forward, crowding each other for recognition: the valor of our men, the devotion of our heroes, the sanctity of our cause, the sacredness of our mission—the bravery of our foes, their misdeeds and false aspirations, their mistaken zeal in an unworthy cause—the nobility of our women, North and South, the beauty of their ideals, their almost divine sacrifices: mothers giving their sons, wives their husbands, daughters their fathers, sweethearts their lovers, to be sacrificed as a bloody holocaust on the horrid, reeking altar of war. But all these we must only take as adjuncts of a higher and nobler theme: The greatness of our country in the dispositions and gifts of Providence, and our own consequent responsibility in transmitting to added glory the inheritance given to us by the Fathers of the Republic, and preserved for us by the heroes, whose surrender of life in a holy cause we this day commemorate.

How, exactly, the observance of the day arose is involved in considerable obscurity, but no doubt more than one incident contributed to the celebration. One tradition has it that on the breaking out of the civil war a soldier of the German army came to America to join the Northern army, with whose cause he sympathized, and served through the war, coming out unscathed. At the close of the fratricidal strife grew into national importance and took root in the great heart of the people, it was felt that the word "Decoration" was of a too light and festive a nature, and that an expression more adequately to declare the solemnity of the occasion and the nation's depth of feeling, was required. Accordingly the word "Memorial" was selected as more fittingly expressive of the survivors' conception of what was due to the memory of the heroic dead. To this instinctive feeling of the saviors of the union the heart of the country throbbed a sympathetic response, and Memorial Day, with its grand service of a nation's sorrow, has been spontaneously substituted for the less significant "Decoration Day."

And it is well that this observance should be kept as a solemn high day. The army, it is true, was recruited from the average American citizen; but this was also the chivalry of the land. The best blood, the truest hearts, the noblest souls gathered 'round the flag. They planted the standard firmly, and said with a determination from which there was no swerving, "The Stars and Stripes shall float over a united country, or we die!" And they did, alas! many of them die, but the flag floated triumphantly in the free breeze of the united land of liberty.

It is wise as well as chivalrous, whilst honoring the patriotic dead, to meet the former foe with generous impulse, and, letting the "dead past bury its dead," to live henceforth for the uplifting of the downtrodden and the regeneration of humanity. Incidences of the great rebellion are you did nobly!" A light, spread over the pale face of the youth and a wondrous ray kindled his glazing eye, as he said, "General, didn't I lead them straight?" "My boy," said the general, with a gentle pressure of his hand, "you acted valiantly, you did all it was possible to do, you did your duty." A bright smile played around the dying youth's lips, his glazed eyeballs turned back from the threshold of death, and flashed "Thanks," his heart but once throbbed and forever grew still! Shall we not keep Memorial Day for such as he?

But besides the men who were the blue and marched under the flag there were other patriots. They were those whose fingers plied the needle, and whose hands moulded the dough, and whose pens indited loving words to boys who were nobody's sons, for they were orphans—the women of our country. These whole-souled women did not know anything of country or clime or language. They only knew a grand humanity, and that all were of one kin, for they were all children of one great and loving Father. And so they sent letters to young men who had no mothers, and exhorted them to be good and true and brave, and ever to do their duty.

And so we commemorate the men who did their duty and the women who taught them. Alas! that the ranks of the veterans are being thinned by an enemy none can conquer in this life—death. And of those who remain the once elastic step, and lithe limbs, and blue coat have changed. The elasticity is gone, the litheness has vanished, the blue has faded, but the courage is still there, and the patriot's heart throbs proudly as of yore.

The 26th of May is observed in the southern states as "Memorial Day," when the graves of Confederate soldiers and sailors are also decorated with flowers with imposing ceremonies. In recent years there has been a happy commingling of the men in blue and the men in gray on these solemn occasions. This is as it ought to be—this is as it shall be. When the causes of the fierce conflict and terrible slaughter, the wrecked homes and ruined lives, the weeping widows and waifing orphans, the broken-hearted mothers weeping for their sons because they are not, and strong men, fathers, with the joy-spring of life broken in their hearts, are realized, surely the olive branch of peace will bring concord and union beneath the weeping willow and drooping ash, and brothers meet brothers in peace, and a higher, nobler, holier patriotism will come forth like pure gold from the refiner's furnace.

Patriotism may not be the highest virtue of the human soul, but it has the most intimate relation to the cause we commemorate. And, then, patriotism in America is different in kind, not in degree only, from that of other countries. Patriotism, as it has prevailed in the old world, has been the curse of mankind. There patriotism meant to hate your neighbor on the other side of the river—to oppose, rob, and slaughter the men, women and children on the opposite side of the boundary line, for the aggrandizement of the ruling classes—to present the bodies of the "common people" as a target for the arrow, the sword, the spear, and the bullet—to bring mourning and sorrow and poverty into the cabin of the oppressed peasant, and the room of the toiling citizen for the honor, power and pelf of one man—to call the wholesale murder of men, made in the image of God, glory and the legalized murderers, who revelled in carnage, slaughter, rapine, and lust, patriots! But America has taught the world a patriotism of another kind—broad as humanity and co-extensive with the globe. It has let tyrants and oppressors know that the poor have rights and the rich duties, and that downtrodden peoples who have shown themselves worthy of independence shall not be exterminated, through relentless hate and cruel wrong, by fire, and sword, and famine, and the pestilence that follows in their train, in witness whereof let Cuba testify, that a strong nation, whose patriotism is humanity, can and will right the wrongs of the weak, though they may have a differently tinted skin.

This is the patriotism we celebrate to-day, that is symbolized in the flag that floats above us, is emblemized in the solemn functions of commemoration, when we strew garlands of flowers on the graves and encircle with a halo of fame our patriotic dead. This is patriotism, indeed, when at the call of duty two millions of the country's pride leap forward to preserve the Union or to die—this is the patriotism we wish to preserve and transmit—this is the patriotism we desire our sons to emulate—this is the God-given patriotism of humanity, which can never die! To preserve intact, whole, and undivided the constitution, nation, and country bequeathed by the Fathers of the Republic as a home of the free and a refuge for the oppressed—be this our single aim, our highest hope, our grandest ambition! HISTORY OF OLD HUNDRED.

Famous Psalm Tune Composed in the Sixteenth Century.
The history of this old psalm tune, which every one has been accustomed to hear ever since he can remember, is somewhat shrouded in mystery. Martin Luther has generally been considered the author, but it has been pretty satisfactorily shown that it was composed in the sixteenth century and certainly previous to 1546, by Guillaume le Fraire of Rouen.

In the course of time its arrangement has undergone repeated alterations, and it is said that as it originally appeared it was of a more lively character than at present. Many of these alterations have been preserved and may be seen by reference to Moore's Encyclopedia of Music.

In England it was first sung to the 100th psalm, and thus came to be called "Old Hundred."

Various Names of the "Hub."
Boston, Mass., is called the City of Notions from the amount of Yankee notions manufactured there. The city was first called the Hub of the Universe by Oliver Wendell Holmes, who wished to convey the idea that the world moved around that city. It is also called the Tri-mountain City, from the three hills upon which it was originally built.

An Ohio Notary.
Salineville, O., May 23.—Mr. John W. Manning, Notary Public for Columbiana County, and one of the most respected men of the state, has caused to be published the following letter:

"About one year ago I was suffering terribly from Kidney Trouble. I saw an advertisement of a medicine called Dodd's Kidney Pills and sent for two boxes.

"In the meantime, I suffered awfully and as soon as I got the Pills, I began taking them according to directions and got almost immediate relief and I have this further to say, that after using the two boxes, I have never been troubled with my Kidneys since.

"I have recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills to others who have tried them, and everyone who used them has been cured. I think they are a great remedy and all that is claimed for them."

Mr. Manning's letter is a strong recommendation for Dodd's Kidney Pills and is worth the attention of all who suffer with Kidney troubles.

Wagner Was Philosophic.
An English lecturer told some interesting anecdotes about the pet birds of musicians to the members of the London section of the Incorporated Society of Musicians recently. One of them was of a parrot belonging to Wagner, which kept up a terrible din while Wagner was being visited by a friend. The friend asked the master how he stood it and Wagner replied that though the bird did make a great noise sometimes he was compensated by having a wife who did not play the piano.

Has to Fight for Bride.
Among the Lolos of Western China it is customary for the bride on the wedding morning to perch herself on the highest branch of a large tree while the elder female members of her family cluster on the lower limbs armed with sticks. When all are duly stationed the bridegroom clambers up the tree, assailed on all sides by blows, and it is not until he has broken through their fence and captured the bride that he is allowed to carry her off.

WHAT THE KING EATS.

What's Fit for Him.
A Mass. lady who has been through the mill with the trials of the usual housekeeper and mother relates an interesting incident that occurred not long ago. She says:

"I can with all truthfulness say that Grape-Nuts is the most beneficial of all cereal foods in my family, young as well as old. It is food and medicine both to us. A few mornings ago at breakfast my little boy said:

"Mamma, does the King eat Grape-Nuts every morning?"

"I smiled and told him I did not know, but that I thought Grape-Nuts certainly made a delicious dish, fit for a King." (It's a fact that the King of England and the German Emperor both eat Grape-Nuts.)

"I find that by the constant use of Grape-Nuts not only as a morning cereal but also in puddings, salads, etc., made after the delicious recipes found in the little book in each package it is proving to be a great nerve food for me besides having completely cured a long standing case of indigestion." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There is no doubt Grape-Nuts is the most scientific food in the world. Ten days' trial of this proper food in place of improper food will show in steady, stronger nerves, sharper brain and the power to "go" longer and further and accomplish more. There's a reason.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Composed by Rev. F. P. Duffy.

Mr. Ryder is the author of the Fourth of July waltzes which appeared in the July number of the Ladies' Home Journal, "Hear Ye the Voices," "The Celestial City," etc.

"BILLY," THE BLOCKADE RUNNER.

It was close and sultry; no breath of air stirred the pines, and the mullein-stalks beside the roadway were drooped flat to earth.

Even Lieutenant Thomas Morley Gray, as he sat smoking very methodically—as he did all things—upon the top rider of a rickety rail fence beside the roadway, appeared as utterly ignorant that two great armies in blue and gray were doggedly facing each other in serried ranks not more than three miles away, notwithstanding that he himself wore a uniform whose color belied his name.

When an hour had passed—a long, dragging hour, during which he had alternately fanned himself with his hat and waged unequal combat with the mosquitoes, which, despite the smoke, had declared hostilities—Gray put on his hat with a determined air and slid down from the fence. As he did so he saw a cloud of dust moving along the roadway in his direction. Then out of the dust-cloud emerged a yellow dog, trotting along heavily with his tongue lolling from his mouth.

"Billy," said Gray, stooping to pat the panting beast, "good old Billy. What—what the—" he broke off suddenly in surprise, for tied to the dog's collar was a violet envelope of small dimensions and the superscription on it was his own name. Gray snatched the envelope and tore it open.

"Dear old Tommy," he read. "Humph," he interpolated. "I know these 'dear old Tommies'—trouble." He again turned to the note.

"I can't read Chaucer beneath the big pine tree with you this afternoon because I'm going out riding with Mr. Bennett. Excuse haste and brevity, but he is waiting for me now. I shall show Billy your gauntlets here and tell him to find you, which I'm sure he will do. Now don't be angry and make me call you 'Tommy Green-Eyes' again.

"Trusting Billy may find you soon," "HELEN."

Gray surveyed the cloudless sky for several tumultuous moments. "Now, wouldn't that—" he began. The sentence died in an inane gurgle, while Gray's face grew wrathfully red and great beads of perspiration stood on his forehead. Then he tore a leaf from his notebook, hastily scrawled a few words and tied it to Billy's collar, where the other note had reposed.

He arose, and, followed by the dog, stalked down the road. When they came to the fork Gray pointed down the left-hand road and said, sternly, "Home, Billy. Home, sir." After he had watched the dog trot off dejectedly into the dust he himself went slowly up the other road to sneak his way back to his company's bivouac.

Late that evening Billy scrambled into the hammock where his mistress lay. She saw the note and in the dim light from the window beside her read these words:

"My dear Helen: 'I trust you'll have a pleasant afternoon. Undoubtedly it will be much preferable to Chaucer beneath the pine. Billy reached me after I had waited several hours for you. The time passed very pleasantly, thanks to the villainous heat and swarms of famine-stricken mosquitoes. Being the soul of devotion, I shall be delighted any afternoon in the future to go through the Inquisition again for the sake of the reward of a similar note, telling me you are riding with this latest arrival in town.

"THOMAS M. GRAY."
The next afternoon, as Gray was getting his men in order for a threatened attack of the "rebs," Billy again came trotting up with the violet envelope attached to his collar. In the shade of some sumach bushes Gray snatched time to read the contents.

"Your latest outburst duly received, per Billy, Mr. Tommy Green-Eyes. Pray don't subject yourself to heat and mosquitoes on my account."

The note Billy carried back read as follows: "Thanks. I had no intention of doing so. T. M. G."

Then for a week there was silence between them. Gray in his anger cursed the Confederates for lying on their arms instead of making things so lively that he would have a chance to cool his rage on them in battle. But instead he was obliged to sit inactive in camp and daily watch Helen Dennison and Hammett, the topknot civilian, go trotting along the Confederate front on horseback. No wonder he fumed.

But one evening when the whole town was in a ferment over the well authenticated rumor of long impending battle to come on the morrow, Gray heard a mighty yelping and ki-yling in the road as he was skirting the camp on a final round of inspection. He turned back to find Billy and a brindle bull terrier hard at it. With judicious kicks he managed to get them apart, and then his heart came into his throat, for attached to Billy's collar was a bit of violet envelope. Gray snatched it eagerly. It had been sadly mutilated in the fray.

"I'm in terror over what might happen to-morrow. I was just trying to make you jealous," he read, and in another place he made out, "I'm lonesome for you, you foolish—"

Miss Helen Dennison, sitting on the broad veranda of the cottage, saw a strange outfit trotting sedately across the lawn. It was Billy—a wreath of oak leaves about his neck, and tied to his tail a small silk flag which fluttered bravely in the breeze. Prominent on the oak wreath was an envelope addressed to herself:

"My dear Helen," she read, and laughed softly. "I received but the merest fragments of your note, for Billy tried conclusions with a bull terrier with disastrous results. Nevertheless enough remained to give me considerable enlightenment. Billy's appearance when he reaches you—if he doesn't get into other difficulties on the way—is the result of my poor attempt to express my state of mind. We'd better make it as early as possible and spend our honeymoon before your 'rebs' get me."

And Lieut. Thomas Morley Gray, who strode up the gravel walk at that moment, beheld Billy struggling from the embrace of a young woman, who blushed furiously as she saw him standing there.—Barry Paine in San Francisco Call.

Soldiers' Graves in Arlington Cemetery Dedicated.

strife, in visiting with other survivors the graves of departed comrades in arms, he remarked that it was a custom in Germany to scatter flowers on the graves of soldiers once a year. The remark approved itself to surviving brothers in arms, friends and relatives of the heroic dead, and flowers were strewn on the graves as tokens of love's tenderness and friendship's esteem. We can readily understand that this was one of the incidents in which Decoration Day originated.

But, indeed, in all ages and all countries, flowers on the graves of loved ones have been the tributes of affection of the mourners by the narrow tomb. But what made Memorial Day so characteristic as a tribute to the dead was that a certain day was set apart for its observance, like the holy days of the church. Indeed, this is the way Saint's days originated. The anniversary of martyrdom or death was observed with certain rites and ceremonies, and so transmitted to posterity. And it is in no way derogatory to the crown of Christian martyrdom to say our heroic dead were a goodly company of martyrs for country, liberty, altar, hearth, and home of this land of the free, where no slave can live henceforward forever!

But not until 1868 was the day of commemoration definitely fixed. It appears that the idea originated with Adjutant General N. P. Chipman, who conferred with National Commander John A. Logan, of the Grand Army of the Republic, then in its infancy, the G. A. R. was organized at Springfield, Ill., by Dr. B. F. Stephenson early in 1867, suggesting that an organization should be formed for the purpose of spreading flowers upon the graves of the union soldiers in all the states, or some particular day throughout the year. The object appealed to General Logan, who appointed May 30 as a day to be set apart for decorating the graves. Then, on May 11, 1870, May 30 was fixed upon definitely for the annual observance of the custom initiated two years previously. At the inauguration, General Logan stated that the day was appointed "for the purpose of strewing with flowers, or otherwise decorating, the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion, and whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village or hamlet in the land."

The celebration was at first called Decoration Day, but as the observ-that by paying a few cents more a gallon you could get a paint that would last several years longer, would you not pay it? Considering that the cost of applying the paint is the same, whether it lasts one year or five years, you will see that it is no economy to save a few cents on the paint and go to the expense of renewing it every year or two.

IF YOU KNEW

ROGERS PAINT

is guaranteed to last five years. In most cases it will last as long again. We have known of cases where it lasted twenty years. Can you afford for a few cents difference to take chances on other brands when with ROGERS PAINT satisfaction is guaranteed? ROGERS PAINT is made by the Detroit White Lead Works in the finest paint and varnish plant in the world and has the experience of nearly half a century back of it.
