1904 COMMENCEMENT.

Eight Graduates Go Forth from the Chelsea Schools This Year.

Another commencement has come and gone in the history of the Chelsea school and five young men and three young ladies have ended their school days in our midst and will soon go out either to pursue a higher course of study or make their several ways in the battle of life.

The names of the graduates in the several courses are as follows:

Latin Course—Josephine Bacon, Lella Geddes.

Scientific Course—Clayton J. Schenk, Rollin J. Schenk.

English Course—Jennie M. Winslow, Carl M. Kalmbach, Herbert W. Schenk, Harry W. Stedman.

The stage of the opera house was very tastefully decorated for the commencement exercises. On Thursday evening when the class day exercises were held the hall was filled with an attentive audience who listened with pleasure to the following program, the numbers of which were well delivered and were above the average in their general character:

March.....Miss Mabel Bacon

Invocation.....Rev. E. E. Caster

Song—"The Daisies".....Primary Girls

Address.....Clayton J. Schenk

Poem.....Jennie M. Winslow

Vocal Solo—(a) Sing Me to Sleep.....

(b) Down on the Farm.....

Miss Pearl Donnelly.

Russian-Japanese War.....Harry W. Stedman

History.....Rollin J. Schenk

Cello Solo—Mazurka.....Thome

Mr. K. Otto Steinbach.

"Possibilities of the Panama Canal".....

Herbert W. Schenk

Prophecy.....Josephine Bacon

Vocal Solo—The Heavenly Song.....

Mildred Atkinson

A True American.....Carl M. Kalmbach

Valedictory.....Lella Geddes

Vocal Solo—The Border Ballad.....

Floyd Ward

Benediction.

The attendance at the commencement exercises Friday night was not nearly so large as on the night previous, but the threatening weather kept numbers at home who would otherwise have been present. The following is the program of the exercises:

Piano Solo—(a) To Spring.....Grieg

(b) Child's Smile.....Elling

(c) Serenade.....Ole Oleson

(d) Czardas.....Joseffy

Miss Minnie M. Davis.

Invocation.....Rev. P. M. McKay

Vocal Solo—A Son of the Desert.....Phillips

Mr. Harlan P. Briggs.

Address—The Defender of Humanity.....

Rev. Carl Sumner Jones.

Piano Solo—(a) Romance.....Moszkowski

(b) Waltz.....Chopin

Miss Minnie M. Davis.

Presentation of Diplomas.....

Vocal Solo—The Fog Bell.....Poutet

Mr. Harlan P. Briggs.

Benediction.....Rev. A. Schoen

Miss Davis' piano solos were beautifully executed and encores were demanded, to which she bowed her acknowledgement. Mr. Briggs has always been a favorite in Chelsea and his two numbers were sung in a faultless manner. He responded to an encore.

Rev. C. S. Jones' address on "The Defender of Humanity" was, without flattering him a particle, one of the best, if not the best, we have ever heard him deliver. We should like to give a synopsis of it, but the brief space at our disposal prevents giving one that would do justice to his vivid and forceful description of the life of Charles Sumner, whose great speech opened the way for President Lincoln's Emancipation proclamation. His closing words to the class of 1904 were these:

"Class of 1904: Stay always in the presence of the best. (1) The best books; (2) The best society; (3) The best men and women. Endeavor to so touch, influence and mould one life, that closing from the contact with your soul it shall be capable of large service; to so silently and un-noticed, without self-commendation or praise, unselfishly labor for the good of others in your community that the public morals shall be elevated and the tone of life be higher because of your efforts; to so guide men without ostentation, pride, self-conceit or self-righteousness, that sensitive to your noble purposes and aim of life they shall consciously or unconsciously be brought sincerely to do the will of God; this is the highest, purest and noblest success in life."

After Prof. Wilcox had made the presentation of the diplomas he said that he had one thing further to speak of, and that was something that he believed none but one or two besides himself knew anything about. During the year he had received notice from Olivet College of two scholarships that were to be awarded to two members of the class of 1904 whose average markings for the year were the highest. He then presented the scholarships to Miss Lella Geddes and Carl Kalmbach.

THE ALUMNI BANQUET.

Chelsea High School Boys and Girls Met and Had a Pleasant Evening Together.

The annual banquet of the Alumni Association of the Chelsea high school was held at the Congregational church, Monday evening. About 65 members were present. An informal reception was held in the church parlor which was tastefully decorated with ferns. Following the reception the business meeting was held, and officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

President—A. W. Wilkinson.

Vice President—Mrs. Lila Campbell.

Secretary—Carl Vogel.

Treasurer—Paul Schaible.

After the business meeting the guests proceeded to the dining room, where a five course supper was served by the Women's Guild of the church. Music was furnished during the supper hour by the Chelsea Orchestra.

Oren A. Thatcher acted as toast-master and introduced the various speakers with apt and witty remarks. Mrs. Thomas Thomson, of Torrington, Conn., gave the address of welcome to the class of '04, which was replied to by Miss Lella Geddes. Numerous toasts were given and were responded to by the Misses Nellie Congdon, Flora Kempf and Lillian Gerard, Messrs. B. B. Turnbull and A. W. Wilkinson. Miss Ethel Bacon and Floyd Ward gave vocal solos in excellent style, and the latter had to respond to an encore.

The merry banqueters broke up shortly before the midnight hour "Happy to meet, sorry to part, but hoping to meet again."

SIXTY-EIGHT SUCCESSFUL

Candidates at the Recent Teachers' Examinations, of Whom Chelsea Claims a Good Share.

The county teachers' examination which was held June 14-17, was taken by 62 teachers, who wrote for third grade and 25 who wrote for second. Of this number 50 were successful in passing for third and 18 for second grade. Chelsea young ladies came to the front in the second grade examinations, 10 out of the 18 who received certificates being from this locality. Following are the names of those resident in this vicinity who received certificates:

CHAPTER VIII—Continued.

"I have brought the boy home by reason of the King's command that he be held in safety—and because it was my pleasure to succor him. I desire your love will, as is becoming, receive him kindly and charitably."

He raised his hand as the perstest of the maids would have answered him, and there followed an uncomfortable pause. Then seven gowns swept the reed-strewn floor as seven courtesies fell, and the young master walked quietly to the door.

Homesick and heartsick, the wail in the page's dress was left facing the unfriendly glances. Even in her bravest days, she had never known what it was to be disliked, and now—! Suddenly she limped after her friend and caught at his cloak.

"Let me go with you," she cried. "I beseech it of you! I want not their service."

After a moment, the Etheling threw his arm protectingly around the boyish figure.

"I do not blame you, poor youngling," he said. "I was wrong to treat you as a child when you were bred up as a man. You shall have a bed in the closet of my chamber, and they shall not enter except as you will it. And you shall eat of my plate and drink from my cup. Come!"

The Foreign Page.

It was August, when Mother Earth had nearly completed her task of providing for her children, and the excitement of a mighty work drawing to its close was in the air; when the sun-warmed stillness was a quiver with the pulse of growing things coming to their strength, and every cloudless day held in its golden heart a song of exultation. A groom lounged ter's fagon. It was naught but a swallow. My lord would be the last to grudge a harmless body—

"Harmless?" the page said sternly. "Did I not hear him tell you the same as that he was an English spy?"

The girl abandoned the last shred of her dignity, to come and stand before him, nervously fingering her apron. "For the dear saints' sake, let no one hear you say that, good Fridtjof! Alas, how you have got it twisted! He is an Englishman who bent his head for food in the evil days. And now they that bought him will not set him loose, so he has cast off their yoke and fled to the Danes to get freedom and fortune. Say that you will hold your tongue, sweet lad, and I will make boot with anything you like."

He was very deliberate about it, the page, pursing his rosy mouth into any number of judicious puckers; but at last he conceded, "If I do promise, will you make a bargain to put an end to your silly behavior toward my lord? Will you undertake to deliver his dishes into my hands, and leave it for me to pass his cup?"

"Yes, in truth; by Father Ingulph's book!" the maid cried, wringing her hands.

The page made her a magnanimous gesture. "In that case I will not be so mean as to refuse you," he consented. And he sat smiling to himself in sly content after she had hurried away.

Followed by old Morcard and the fat monk, the Etheling descended from the doorway and stood on the broad step, shading his eyes from the glare of brilliant light while he looked about him with evident pleasure in the fairness of the day.

"If the question may be permitted me, whither do you betake yourself, my lord?" the old monk asked.

With the light wand he carried, the "Lord, is it your wish that I get the horses?"

"Yes; go bid them fetch the horses, and we will have another day of blithe wandering."

Blithe they were, in truth, as they cantered through shaded lanes and daisied meadows, nothing too small to be of interest or too slight to give them pleasure. By grassy commons and rolling meadows sweet with clustering haycocks, they came at last to the crest of the hill that guarded the eastern end of the dale. The whole round sweep of the horizon lay about them in an unbroken chain of rippling vineyards and rich timberland, of grain-fields and laden orchards; not one spot that did not make glorious pledges to the harvest time. Drinking its fairness with his eyes, the lord of the manor sighed in full content.

"When I see how fine a thing it is to cause lead to be where before was nothing, I cannot understand how I once thought to find my pleasure only in destroying," he said. "Next month, when the barley beer is brewed, we will have a harvest feast plentiful enough to flesh even your bones, you bodkin!"

The Danish page laughed as he dodged the plaguing wand. "It is true that you owe something to my race, lord. He had great good sense, the Wide-Fathomer, to stretch his strips of oxhide around this dale and turn it into an odal."

"Nay, now, it was Alfred who had sense to take it away from him," the Etheling teased.

But the boy shook back his long tresses in airy defiance. "Then will Canute be foremost in wisdom, for soon he will get it back, together with all England. Remember who got the victory last week at Brentford, lord."

In the midst of his exulting, a cloud came over the young Englishman's smile. "I would I knew the truth concerning that," he said slowly. "The man who passes to-day says one thing; whose comes to-morrow tells another story. Yet since Canute is once more free to beset London—"

He did not finish, and for a while it appeared as though he did not see the sunlit fields his eyes were resting on.

But suddenly the boy broke in upon him with a burst of stifled laughter. "Look, lord! In yonder field, behind the third haycock!"

The moment that he had complied, laughter banished the Etheling's meditations. Cozily ensconced in the soft side of a haycock was Father Ingulph, a couple of jovial harvesters sprawled beside him, a fat skin of ale in his hands on its way to his mouth.

"But I will make him squirm for that!" the Etheling vowed. "I will tell him that your paganism has made spells over me so that I cannot tell a holy relic from an ale-skin; and a bedridden woman looks to me like two strapping yemen. I will, I swear it!"

But presently Sebert's remarks began to take a new tone. "By Saint Swithin, lad, I think they have more sense than we, that linger a half-hour's ride from food with a noon-day sun standing in the sky! It is borne in upon me that I am starving."

Backing his horse out of the brush, he was putting him about in great haste, when the boy leaped in his stirrups and clapped his hands.

"Lord, we need not be a half-hour from food! Yonder, across the stubble, is a farmhouse. If you would consent that I might use your name, then would I ride thither and get their best, and serve it to you here in the elves' own feast-hall."

The answer was a slap on the green shoulders that nearly tumbled their owner from the saddle. "Now, I was right to call you elf, for you have more than human cleverness!" the Etheling cried gayly. "Do so, by all means, dear lad; and I promise in return that I will tell every puffed-up dolt at home that you are the blithest comrade who ever fitted himself to man's moods. There, if that contents you, give wings to your heels!"

WHERE THE ORATOR WAS.

Witty Stenographer's Graphic Description of Position.

J. S. Willison, a Canadian editor, in a recent speech told a story of the Hon. Edward Blake, now M. P. for Longford in the British House of Commons. Mr. Willison was of the press gallery force at Ottawa when the Canadian Pacific railroad construction was up for discussion. Mr. Blake was then leader of the Liberal party in Canada, and was opposing the building of the transcontinental railway in speeches that were notorious for their length. Mr. Blake was an orator who required little notice to make a telling speech, but at this time he had fallen into the habit of writing out his speeches and reading them off at a tremendous rate. He had been speaking for six hours when one stenographer, in relieving his fellow, asked: "Where is he now?"

Quick as a flash came the answer from the man who had been rushed to keep up with the orator:

"He's on the south bank of the Saskatchewan, on the down grade, and going like—"

—New York Times.

Easily Explained.

"What did you say was the trouble with my old man's stomach?" asked an old colored woman of the doctor who had been called in to prescribe for her husband.

"I said," replied the doctor, "that the most annoying symptom seems to be water brash or pyrosis, as we doctors call it. He must be more careful regarding the food he eats."

"Dat am just what am the maffah with him—pirosis," said she. "He's the biggest han' for pie you ever see. He eats most three pieces every meal. It surely am pirosis he am suffering with."

A Railroad Fight On.

The Michigan Central and Detroit & Mackinac railroads are having a hot right of way fight in Cheboygan, and through the efforts of the employees of the latter road, the sheriff of Cheboygan county, Judge Shepherd and 2,000 citizens, a blockade, which was maintained by the Michigan Central railroad for twenty-four hours, was removed from the D. & M. crossings and a mile and a half of track was laid by the latter road into the city, bringing the rails within fifty feet of the Michigan Central depot.

The trouble arose over a dispute as to the D. & M. right of way, and late Sunday night an injunction was secured forbidding the Michigan Central to interfere with the right of way of the D. & M. Until this time the former road had blocked with engines the crossing of the latter road with the Michigan Central's "tannery spur" track south of town.

The Michigan Central got around the injunction by removing this blockade, but established another at the paper mill spur inside the city.

Two thousand citizens, aided by the D. & M. employees, succeeded in fighting off the Michigan Central men guarding the obstruction, and cleared the track. The D. & M. men hastily laid their track and ran a train over it. During the melee at the blockade the sheriff of Cheboygan county arrested twelve Michigan Central employees, including the train crew, section crew and roadmaster, and they are held charged with violating Judge Shepherd's injunction. Chief Roadmaster Burns, of the Michigan Central, arrived in town to look over the situation. It is said that the Michigan Central will bring suit against the D. & M. for damages at the paper company spur. The men put in jail will bring suit against the D. & M. company for false imprisonment.

Washington was the hottest spot in the country Sunday, the thermometer registering 94. All the eastern cities suffered, and many prostrations were reported.

Adjt.-Gen. Brown has been advised by the secretary of war that a troop of cavalry and a platoon of artillery will be detailed from Fort Sheridan to attend the annual encampment of the Michigan National Guard. These details are in addition to four companies of infantry previously announced.

The reports of heavy fighting at Hai Cheng are denied by the Russian general staff. The Japanese are continuing their advance from Su Yen and there are continuous skirmishes between outposts, but no further advance of Gen. Oku's army has been reported.

The Russian losses at the battle of Vafangow are turning out to be heavier as the reports of the various regiments come in. They are now placed by a conservative official estimate at 4,000, but a usually well informed authority expects the total to be no less than 6,500.

TICKLE GRASS BY BYRON WILLIAMS

The Lost Charm.

My mind reverts with tingling joy To when, a dirty lad, I wore a patch upon my seat And had a stone-bruise bad!

Upon the bridge with pole and line I angled for the fish. Deep down within the pick'r's hole, I hooked 'em with a swish!

Great suckers and the red-horse long I deftly did ensnare! Oh! what in this more modern day Can eke with that compare?

Ah, yes! I know I've lost the grip I had beside the brook! For now upon the business street No fish will bite my hook!

The Ignis Fatuus of Fame.

Somehow it seemed to James Gordon Benedict that he could write thus forever! How nimbly the fitting phrases tumbled from his typewriter keys. How pat they were! How subtle! How musical! In a vague sort of a way he realized that he was writing the most beautiful pictures of modern times, that he was inscribing the greatest thoughts since Shakepeare!

Ah! how the magazine editors crowded about him applauding, snatching up each leaf as it fell from his touch! And how they quarreled over the "great stuff" like a pack of hungry coyotes over a chicken wing.

"Ha!" He laughed exultantly. This! This was fame! How the critics fawned at his feet! How the papers printed his name in black display key lines. And the nosebags, the scented billet doux, the messages from rosebud lips that came to him unasked!

Was this not worth all the struggle, the denial, the hunger of past years?

And now he was great! Great! GREAT!

He felt of himself. Yes, it was himself. No bigger than before for all his greatness, but—

Somebody was extending a million dollars toward him on a bediamonded platter!

He reached forth his hand greedily! It came in contact with the wall. He awoke with a start! He looked about him, startled and confused! Yes, there was the soap box, the oil stove, the burlap rug, the—Oh, cruel fate, the rejected poem of yesterday! Then he got up sadly, cooked his bit of dog-meat, donned his celluloid collar and placing the poem tenderly in his breast pocket, went out once more into the cold and cruel mart to hawk his literary wares!

"Ah, if that dream would only come true," he muttered, sadly, "but I'll write just that kind of stuff some day! See if I don't!"

Moral—We all have 'em.

HOW JACK LONDON "ARRIVED"

Popular Author Struggled Hard for High Position He Holds.

Jack London, the fascinating short-story writer and brilliant war correspondent, now at the front, is but twenty-eight years old. Three years ago he was unheard of by the reading world. To-day he is read everywhere, is sought by publishers, and the pages of the magazines, from The Century down, are open to him.

The story of how he "arrived," how he first set foot upon the stepping-stone to success, he tells in The Editor, the New

No One But Yourself
if You Don't Get Well When Sick.

All we can do is give advice.
Of course that's easy.
But our advice is really worth a little more to you than most people's, for we offer to give you the first bottle of our medicine free, if it fails to help you.

We could not afford to do this unless our medicine was good. Such an offer, on the wrong kind of medicine, would put a merchant prince in the poor house.
Dr. Miles' Nervine, however, as years of experience have proved, is a medicine that cures the sick.

Those whom it cannot benefit—less than one in ten thousand—we prefer to refund their money.

All we ask of you is to try Dr. Miles'
Restorative Nervine for your complaint.
If you suffer from sleeplessness, nervous exhaustion, dizziness, headache, muscular twitchings, melancholy, loss of memory, weak stomach, poor blood, bilious troubles, epilepsy, St. Vitus' Dance, etc., we will guarantee to benefit you or refund your money.

You are the doctor.
"My son Bert, when in his 17th year,
became subject to attacks of epilepsy, so serious that we were compelled to take him out of school. After several physicians had failed to relieve him, we gave Dr. Miles' Nervine a trial. Ten months treatment with Nervine and Liver Pills restored our boy to perfect health."—MR. JOHN S. WILSON,

THURSDAY, JUNE 30, 1904.

Byron C. Whitaker, the well known ex-supervisor of Soto, has announced himself a candidate for the Democratic nomination for county clerk. Up to the present time he is the only candidate who has announced himself. A race for the clerkship between the old war horse and popular Jim Harkins would prove an exciting one.

Today the railroads of Michigan that are fighting against their tax assessments owe the state the enormous sum of $4,050,000, and $3,000-000 interest. If an ordinary citizen owed $10 for taxes as long as some of the railroads have owed hundreds of thousands he would have been sold up bag and baggage long ago.
There should not be any different laws governing corporations and individuals, but there is, and bribery and corruption is what does it.

The Livingston Democrat of June 22 gave a five column long account of the Livingston Republican county convention held in Howell June 15.
A perusal of this unbiased account shows that it was one of the rottenest of the many rotten Republican conventions that have been held and carried in the interest of Fred M.
Warner and the other machine candidates for state offices this year.
One of the delegates opposed to ring rule, reminded the ringsters that they were disfranchising the better part of the county, but that election day was coming. Livingston is not the only county where the voters know that election day is coming and we believe they will use that knowledge to good effect against the wirepullers and political shysters of the Republican party who at present are running things at their own sweet will.

Worst of All Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala., "For three years," she writes,
"I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered." For liver, kidney, stomach and bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by Glazier & Stimson, druggists.

COUNTY TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Will Be Very Thorough This Year—At Least 100 Teachers Will Attend.

The Washtenaw County Teachers' Institute will open July 18 in the Ann Arbor high school building and continue for three weeks. The conductor will be A. Hamlin Smith, of Lansing, and Supt. Evan Essery, of Manchester, and County Commissioner C. E. Foster will act as instructors. Mrs. Kate Wilson, of Ann Arbor, will have charge of the music and will also give instructions in primary busy work.

At least 100 will be in attendance.
A choice is given the teachers of attending the institute or taking the summer school work at the Ypsilanti Normal. The course on Teachers' Manual and Course of Study will be very thorough, and all teachers will be required to take this work. A new feature will be that several of the oldest and best teachers in the county will be in attendance and will give short talks. This is done to give the younger teachers the benefit of their elders' experience and to aid them over the stumbling blocks which are so plentiful in the way of the less experienced.

Piano Tuning and Repairing.

Send your orders to Root's Music House,
Ann Arbor, for fine piano tuning and repairing. Organs also tuned and repaired.
Most reasonable prices; first class work.

Into each life some ruins must fall,
Wise people don't sit down and bawl;
Only fools suicide or take to flight, Smart people take Rocky Mountain Tea at night. Glazier & Stimson.

ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST.

The finder of some business letters and invoices, which were lost yesterday, will be rewarded by leaving them with the firm whose name appears on them.

Editor E. J. Helber, of Ann Arbor, is suing Prof. E. A. Lyman, of the State Normal College, for $10-000, for the injuries he received when he ran his bicycle into the professor's automobile at Ann Arbor a few weeks ago.

Any man can take a newspaper.
It is the cheapest thing he can buy.
Every time a hen clucks and has laid an egg, his paper is paid for that week. It costs less than a postage stamp—less than to send or receive a letter. It comes to you every week rain or shine, calm or storm.

Mrs. Elizabeth Altenbernt, of Freedom, has filed her bill for a divorce from her husband Charles Altenbernt. They have been married 25 years and have eight children living. She charges cruelty and especially that on June 6 last he threw a heavy teacup at her, cutting her face so that she needed the service of a physician. She wants alimony and the custody of the minor children.

The Michigan Milling Co., of Ann Arbor, has 50 acres of waste land lying along the Huron river between that city and Delhi, which it will plant with catalpa, black walnut and butternut trees, under the direction of the department of forestry of the U. of M. There is a very large amount of similar land in the neighborhood, which, in the course of time, will be similarly treated, with the result of largely increasing the forest area, and at the same time adding to the forest wealth of this latitude.

Notice to Taxpayers.

the year 1904 are now due and can be paid to me at any time until Aug. 10, 1904, at Room 3 over Kempf Commercial & Savings Bank.

W. F. RIEMENSCHNEIDER, Village Treasurer.

A New Suit for a Large Sum Coming—Attorneys Are Content.

The suit to be commenced by Attorney-General Blair against the Michigan Central Railroad Company to recover taxes which it is claimed should have been paid under the company's special charter is one of great importance. From 1854 until 1894 the Michigan Central company paid taxes under a provision of its special charter, the tax being based, not on the gross earnings of the company, but upon its stock and bonds. In his information to be filed in the Ingham circuit court in chancery it is doubtful if Attorney-General Blair will charge that the reports made by the Michigan Central company were false or fraudulent, but that they were erroneous and based on a misconception of the provisions of the charter of the company. The aggregate of the taxes which it is claimed should have been paid by this company is about $3,800,000.

It was not until the state put some of its experts to work on the books of the Michigan Central railway, in preparing its defense to the $3,800,000 damage suit, that the alleged discrepancies in the reports were discovered. It was found that the state could not offset its claim for the taxes claimed to be due against the claim for damages of the Michigan Central company, and it was therefore decided, at a recent conference in Detroit, to commence a new suit. At a conference held here on Wednesday the governor's consent to the commencement of the action was obtained, and the board of state auditors authorized the necessary expense.

In the matter of the cases now ready for trial one of the attorney's for the state said:

"We have the railroads beaten to a standstill. We feel very certain of winning out, especially in the case brought to set aside the railroad tax assessment, and the Michigan Central damage suit is not giving us any uneasiness."

General Hartsuff Dead.

Gen. William Hartsuff, one of Port Huron's leading citizens, and identified with her development for nearly half a century, is dead. He had been suffering with diabetes for some months, and lately his condition became aggravated by gangrene setting in as a result of an injury to one of his toes. Gen. William Hartsuff was a native of New York state, having been born January 16, 1835, and came to Michigan with his parents when he was 7 years of age. He was educated in the common schools of this state and at Leona college, which was later changed to Adrian college. He came to Port Huron in the spring of 1857 and engaged in teaching. On the breaking out of the civil war he resigned his position as teacher and raised a company of volunteers which was mustered in as Company E, Tenth Michigan Volunteer Infantry, with himself as captain. Capt. Hartsuff was at once sent to the front and was with Gen. Sherman during his campaign to Atlanta, and participated in battles of Franklin and Nashville. He was promoted to lieutenant-colonel and made inspector-general of the Twenty-third army corps; afterward promoted inspector-general of the Army of the Ohio. He remained in the service until the close of the war.

Crazy Lover's Crime.

Charles A. Swayze, a Detroit insurance solicitor, deliberately shot Miss Edie L. Alvord, of 31 Erskine street, three times in the head, after failing in an attempt to throw the young woman from the window of an office on the eleventh floor of the Chamber of Commerce, on Friday. He then dropped from the window ledge and was instantly killed by striking the street car tracks on State street nearly 200 feet below. Swayze and Miss Alvord were discharged from the house of correction, where they were employed, on account of their conduct together. Miss Alvord lived in Saginaw about ten years ago and it is said was engaged to be married to a young man there before her leaving. Her father, Vallette Alvord, and brother Frank live at Traverse City, one brother, William, lives at Midland where he is employed by the Midland Chemical company. Another brother, Gustin, lives at Sault Ste. Marie. No one here knows of her relations with Swayze or why he should have shot her. Swayze leaves a wife and two

Rev. E. P. Blackman, pastor at the Mason mission, and mail carrier, was seriously injured in trying to stop his runaway horse, being thrown to the ground, cut, trampled on and internally hurt.

Henry Barrett, aged 40, farmer of South Ceresco, was instantly killed during the rain and wind storm Saturday. He was watching the building of a new barn on the farm of O. W. Gleason, near his home when the barn blew over on him, crushing him to death. He leaves two small children.

M. B. Russell and Ray Dicker of Omer met a large black bear on the railroad track near that town. The bear disputed possession of the track with them and Russell and Dicker, not having any guns or other weapons with them, were preparing to take to the trees near by, when grain changed his mind and disappeared in the woods.

Mrs. C. Pitcher, of Charlotte, was knocked down and badly trampled by a horse which she was attempting to lead from a stall. Lockjaw has now developed and recovery is considered doubtful. She is an experienced driver and never feared horses.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The Cheers All for Roosevelt and Fairbanks

Prolonged and stentorian cheers for Theodore Roosevelt marked the opening of the Republican national convention in Chicago.

The announcement that Speaker Cannon had been selected for permanent chairman of the convention provoked enthusiastic applause. Mr. Cannon's address was a strong setting forth of the Republican party's achievements and claims for continuance in power. Mr. Cannon departed at times from the text of his prepared speech, but the departures were flashes of his keen sarcasm or rugged humor that never failed to arouse applause.

The platform, as read to the convention, contains these planks on the tariff and reciprocity:

The Tariff Plank.

Protection which guards and develops our industries is a cardinal policy of the Republican party. The measures of protection should always at least equal the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad. We insist upon the maintenance of the principles of protection and therefore rates of duty should be readjusted only when conditions have so changed that the public interest demands their alteration, but this work cannot safely be committed to any other hands than those of the Republican party. To insist to the Democratic party is to invite disaster. Whether, as in 1892, the Democratic party declared the protective tariff unconstitutional, or whether it demands tariff reform or tariff revision, its real object is always the destruction of the protective system. However, specious the name the purpose is ever the same. A Democratic tariff has always been followed by business adversity; a Republican tariff by business prosperity. To a Republican congress and a Republican president this great question can be safely entrusted. When the only free trade country among the great nations agitates a return to protection the chief protective country should not falter in maintaining it.

Reciprocity.

We have extended widely our foreign markets, and we believe in the adoption of all practicable methods for their further extension, including commercial reciprocity wherever reciprocal arrangements can be effected consistent with the principles of protection and without injury to American agriculture, American labor or any American industry.

Thursday's Session.

The convention was called to order by Chairman Cannon at half past ten Thursday morning.

Chairman Cannon at once announced that the next order of business would be a roll call of the states for the nomination for president of the United States.

The roll call began with Alabama and that state immediately yielded its place on the roll to New York.

Instantly the convention was in an uproar. The New York delegation was on its feet like one man, waving their flags and shouting wildly. Ex-Gov. Frank Black, of New York, who was to deliver the nominating speech in behalf of President Roosevelt, immediately started for the platform, amid the wildest enthusiasm on the part of the delegates.

As Gov. Black reached the desk of Chairman Cannon he was warmly greeted by that gentleman, and escorted down to the front of the platform. Here Chairman Cannon, standing by the side of Mr. Black, in a few words introduced him to the convention. There was a succession of shouts from the convention, a chorus of shrieks from the New York delegation, a paroxysm of tossing flags, then silence, and Mr. Black commenced his speech in behalf of President Roosevelt.

The Flag Waving.

Gov. Black pronounced the nominating words at just 11:06 o'clock. As he did so he retired quickly from the platform. But the words "Theodore Roosevelt" had not left his lips when there was a shout.

The convention was on its feet. Like the crash of thunder that follows lightning, the enthusiasm began. Flags were in the air, hats were thrown up, men jumped on to their chairs, women stood and shouted. The air was rent with one continuous, prolonged shout from thousands of throats. So mighty was the volume of sound that nothing definite in the way of articulate sound was distinguishable.

Senator Beveridge made a nominating speech of great power which again set the wild enthusiasm loose. Several strong seconding speeches followed and then came the roll call.

All For Roosevelt.

When Alabama responded with her entire vote for Roosevelt, there was a cheer. As the states followed in alphabetical order and each response ended with the words "Theodore Roosevelt," the cheer was repeated. Chairman Cannon announced at the conclusion of the roll call that Theodore Roosevelt had received the entire vote of the convention, 994, and it only remained for him to announce his nomination for the presidency by the Republican party.

Roosevelt and Fairbanks.

After Roosevelt had been declared the unanimous nominee, Senator Fairbanks was nominated by Senator Dole, of Iowa. Seconding speeches were made by Senator Depew and others.

The formal notification of President Roosevelt of his nomination will be made on July 27 at Oyster Bay, Speaker Cannon will be chairman of the notification committee.

The notification of Senator Fairbanks will occur a week later at Indianapolis. Former Secretary Root will be chairman of the vice-presidential notification committee.

Convention Notes.

A Tennessee delegate had his pocket picked of $1,700.

Chamney, M. Depew was photographed 127 times.

An Arizona delegate paid $225 to get a copy of his home town news paper.

Saloon men said the delegates acted like a crowd of temperance lodge pickers.

The News of the World Told by the Telegraph

Items of Current Interest Gathered From All Parts of the New and the Old World

CRUSHING BLOW.

Reports That Japs Have Inflicted It On Russians.

Chinese runners into New Chwang bring news of hard fighting along the railroad and to the east between Ta Sche Kiao and Hai Cheng, in which the Russians have been beaten with heavy loss.

Others reports are that the Japs have inflicted another crushing defeat on Stakelberg's army, near Kai Chou, in which the Russian loss is not less than 10,000 men, many of them having been captured, with several batteries.

Refugees from the north say that the morale of the Russian force is suffering from the repeated successes of the Japanese. Discipline is relaxed and a feeling is gaining ground among both officers and men that it is useless to fight against the "yellow devils," as the soldiers call the Japanese.

Officers arriving at New Chwang from the front say that the battle fought on Thursday at Simenting, about forty miles east of Kalping, was the hardest blow the Russians have yet received. The Muscovites lost, according to these accounts, 16,000 in killed, wounded, missing and prisoners. That the Russian retreat did not turn into a rout was due to the dogged bravery of the men of the Ninth East Siberian Rifle Brigade under Gen. Kondratschik, who covered the flying troops, contesting every inch of the way.

The armies of Gen. Oku and Gen. Kuroki, aggregating at least six divisions are confronted by the huge force under Gen. Kuropatkin. The tension is most acute at the approach of the important battle of the war in which three times the number of troops engaged at Kou Lien Cheng, Kin Chan and Vafangow will take part. The proximity of the rainy season makes the battle unavoidable.

The Decisive Battle.

A great, decisive battle between the Russian and Japanese armies near Hai Cheng, Kuropatkin's headquarters, is impending.

A Russian victory will mean the driving back of the Japs to their present base at Kin Chou on the narrow neck of the peninsula above Port Arthur, while the defeat of the Russians means the ending of the first big campaign of the war with the Japanese in control of the entire Liao Tung peninsula.

As usual, the Japanese plans have been evolved to a nicety, and contemplate crushing Kuropatkin between two armies. On the south Gen. Oku marched into Kai Chou and continued toward Hai Cheng, drawing Kuropatkin and his big army out to give battle.

Gen. Kuroki, in the meantime, is marching toward Hai Cheng from the east, with the evident intention of cutting off Kuropatkin's retreat to the town.

Military critics regard the Japanese plan as dangerous, for if Kuropatkin reaches and crushes Oku, Kuroki will have small chance to escape the victorious Russians.

Bell's Latest Def.

Gen. Sherman M. Bell, who is governing Teller county, Colorado, under martial law, has issued another statement for publication, in which he says:

"There are 10,000 lies being written about me. I am acting under orders of the governor of the state of Colorado. He stands for peace and quiet and good government, and has instructed me to see to it that the Western Federation of Miners shall not directly or indirectly murder any more men, and they shall not. So far as placing Denver under martial law is concerned, that rests solely with the governor."

"Provided he should see fit to do so, I am his adjutant general commanding the militia forces of the state, and will see to it that hundreds of bad men are deported, and after martial law has finally been called off, if the citizens permit the cattle I intend to deport, to return, that will be their business."

"No man who wants to work will be molested, but the person who lives solely and only by his mouth, provided Gov. Peabody gives me the word, will have to emigrate. The time for talk in Colorado has passed. What we ought to do now is to act."

Ex-Congressman Sheldon Dead.

Ex-Congressman Carlos D. Sheldon of Houghton died Friday morning. He was born in Walworth, Wis., June 10, 1840, his father being Ransom Sheldon, a pioneer of the Michigan copper district. From 1858 to 1861 Carlos attended school in Ypsilanti, and on the outbreak of the civil war raised a company, which was mustered in as Co. I, Thirty-third Michigan infantry, of which he was elected captain.

On being mustered out in 1865, he went to Houghton and engaged in the drug business. In 1873 he became manager of the Portage Lake foundry, where he remained 18 years, then becoming superintendent of the Sheldon & Shafer Iron Co., at Crystal Falls. He became executor of his father's estate, which comprised thousands of acres of upper peninsula iron, copper and timber lands. In 1885 he married Miss Mary Skiff, who died in 1888, leaving one son, Hanson Skiff Sheldon. In 1888 Mr. Sheldon married a second time.—Mrs. Sallie Gardner being his wife.

His first political venture was in 1882, when he was elected a member of the state legislature. He was state senator from the thirty-second district in 1890, and was elected to congress in 1896, being re-elected in 1898 and 1900. He was a Knight Templar.

New Cabinet Officers.

President Roosevelt on Friday made the following announcement regarding changes in the cabinet:

William H. Moody, of Massachusetts, to be attorney-general.

Paul Morton, of Illinois, to be secretary of the navy.

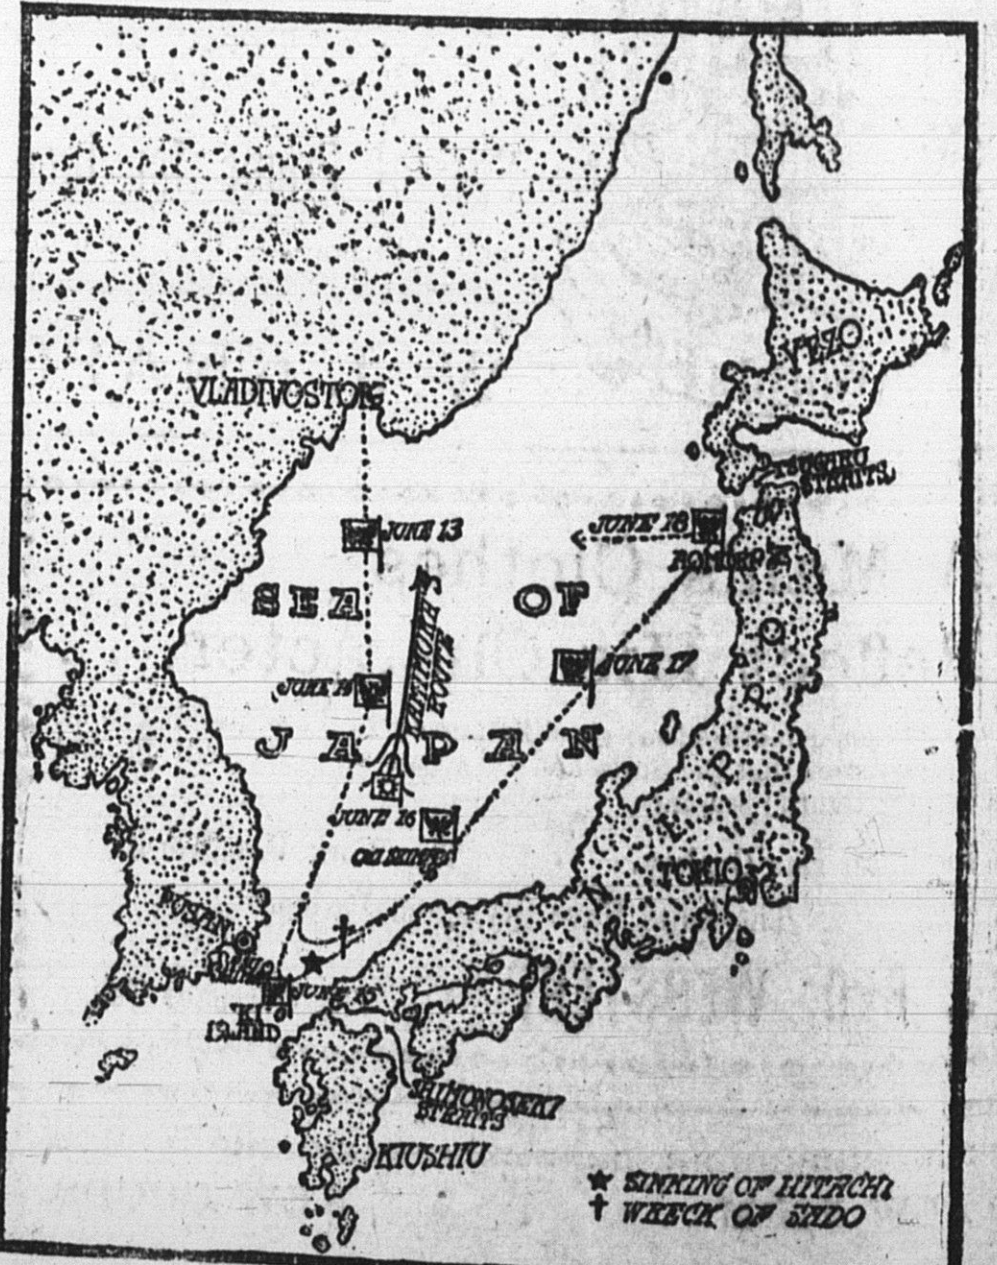

Victor H. Metcalf, of California, to be secretary of commerce and labor.

The resignations of Secretary Cullen and Attorney-General Knox have been received and accepted, to take effect July 1.

Paul Morton, the new secretary of the navy, is general manager of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad, is a son of J. Sterling Morton, former secretary of agriculture in Cleveland's cabinet, and a brother of Jay Morton, prominently identified with the salt industry.

He is an old friend of Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON AND THE AMERICAN FLAG

BY REV. F. P. DUFFY, M. D.
Secretary of the American Church Bible Institute
Copyright, 1904
By Rev. F. P. Duffy

It is universally admitted that as a patriot George Washington stands without a rival in the annals of the world. It is not, however, so generally allowed that as a military genius he transcends all others. Americans and his admirers the world over might well rest content with beholding their ideal citizen acclaimed with universal consent the unique figure in the annals of human weal, industry and peace. Yet I do not think it would be hard to show that even in military genius he is still without a peer.

But the arts of peace, not war, is our theme, and we shall therefore leave the question of military genius to a more convenient season and address ourselves to the subject in hand: Washington and the American flag. This naturally falls under the threefold head—Washington's Ancestry, the Evolution of the Flag, and the Symbolism of the Flag.

First Washington's Ancestry. As far as historical research has yet reached back, Washington's ancestry has been located in Durham, in the north of England. From Durham some of the Washingtons migrated to Lancashire. Then we find them settling in Northamptonshire, in the reign of Henry VII. From Northampton the great-grandfather of Washington emigrated to America in or about the year 1637. The pursuits followed by the Washingtons may be summed up under the church, the army, the law and the farm. It is around this last that the most interesting and romantic incidents of the family gather, and Northampton is the scene of the varying vicissitudes that culminated in the emigration of Lawrence Washington to Virginia.

For three generations the Washingtons lived in Northampton, taking rank with the gentry of the county, and there they made more than one alliance with the nobility. Lawrence appears to have been a family name among the Washingtons. The uncle of the first historical Lawrence was Sir Thomas Kitson, one of the great merchants who in the reigns of Henry VII and Henry VIII, developed the wool trade of England.

Althorp, in Brington parish, was the seat of the Spencers, and the Spencers were connected by marriage with the Kitsons, and therefore with the Washingtons. Lady Spencer of that day was a Kitson, a daughter of Washington's uncle, and therefore first cousin to Lawrence. But the rector of Brington, the Rev. Dr. Leyton became, through the Spencers a friend of Lawrence, and as Dr. Leyton was Cromwell's prime commissioner for the dissolution of the monasteries, he had it in his power to help his friends. And he did help Lawrence Washington by the grant of Sulgrave in Northampton, where the Washingtons lived for three generations. Lawrence was interested in civic matters as well as rural, and became for a time the mayor of Northampton. At the end of the third generation the Washingtons failed, so they sold Sulgrave and went to live in Brington. Here the eldest son married a half sister of George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham.

The Washingtons sided with the King (Charles I.) in the civil war, and one of them, Sir Henry, attained great distinction for his dash and bravery in his operations against the Cromwellians. He led the storming party at Bristol and it was he who so gallantly defended Worcester. His bravery was such that an expression of his became proverbial in the army. When any great difficulty arose it was customary to say, "Away with it! quoth Washington."

The emigrant, who was knighted by James I., spent his younger days in Brington. In the parish church there are two sepulchral stones of absorbing interest to every American. One with the date 1616 is over the grave of the emigrant's father. On it appears his arms "impaled" with those of his wife. The second covers the grave of an uncle, and has on a brass a simple family shield with the extraneous crescent appropriate to a younger son. But that which is of transcendent interest to every American citizen is that here on the tombstone of the dead are emblazoned emblems sacred to a great nation and which thrill the soul of a mighty people; the embryo of the National Flag—the Stars and Stripes. The stars on the shield have this peculiarity, they are five pointed, whereas six points are the general characteristic of heraldic stars. On the coat of arms are three stars and two horizontal bars or zones with "alternate gules and white"—gules being the word in heraldry for red—in a vertical position. Here we discover the nucleus, the fons et origo, of the American Flag.

Three years ago, when spending a lengthened vacation in England, I had charge of a parish not far from Brington. It was a source of never failing gratification to visit "God's Acre," to stand close to the ashes of the dead, to meditate upon the origin of the American Flag, to delight in the discovery of the hidden meaning of its symbolism, and oft to quote the opening lines of Cowper's hymn:

"God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform."

Second, The Evolution of the Flag. In colonial times each colony had its own peculiar ensign, and both army and navy of the United Colonies displayed various flags. Some were colored as providential. But then the alternate stripes were seven red and six white; and both numbers are sacred. Let us deal with the seven red stripes first. Look at your flag, and you will find that the long stripes are three in number and the short stripes four. Why are they so divided? Why not five and two? The answer is: Because three is a sacred number, and next to one is the most significant and four is a sacred number also. One represents the unity of the Godhead and three the Threefold personality of the Deity. Unity and Trinity, or 1 plus 3 equal 4, and four in symbolic numbers represents completion of perfection. Four is unique in its comprehensiveness. Thus we speak of the four quarters of the globe, the four cardinal points, the four seasons of the year, the four winds of heaven and in Biblical imagery the four Living Creatures, the four Judgments of God, etc. But three and four make seven, another sacred number. In the Book of Revelation we read of the Seven Candlesticks, the Seven Seals, the Seven Trumpets, the Seven Stars, the Seven Spirits of God, etc. Ther the six white stripes are doubly symbolic. First, six is a sacred number being a double triad, or Trinity twice repeated, the emphatic trine and second, white is a unity composed of seven, as white light is composed of the seven prismatic rays which consist of three primary and four secondary, a remarkable correspondence to the three long and the four short red stripes of the flag. But these two six and seven, make another sacred number, thirteen. The sacredness of thirteen is intensified by looking at it another way. Three and four multiplied together produce twelve, another sacred number, as the twelve tribes, the twelve Apostles, the twelve signs of the Zodiac, and such like

"The field is white bunting; on the middle is a green pine tree; and on the opposite side is the motto, 'Appeal to heaven.' The flag of the Culpepper men, who marched with Patrick Henry, had a rattlesnake, coiled ready to strike, with the words, 'Don't tread on me.'"

The first American flag having thirteen alternate red and white stripes upon it, there is good reason to believe was presented to the Philadelphia Light Horse by Captain Markoe, early in 1775. The earliest naval flag showed thirteen alternate red and white stripes with either a pine tree or rattlesnake, with the words "Don't tread on me." The union flag raised a Cambridge, Jan. 1, 1776, had thirteen alternate red and white stripes with the English union in one corner.

When the necessity for a national flag made itself felt the Congress of June 14, 1777 resolved: That the flag of the United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white, and that the union be thirteen stars, white on a blue field representing a new constellation." The first display of this flag at a military post was at Fort Schuyler, site of the present city of Rome, N. Y. Paul Jones claimed he was the first to show the stars and stripes on a naval vessel. The national flag first appeared over a foreign stronghold, Fort Nassau, New Providence, Bahama Islands, on its capture, June 23, 1778. Capt. Moors of the whaling ship Bedford, first flew the flag in Great Britain, Feb. 3, 1783. At length a committee was appointed to definitely fix the national standard. This committee called in Capt. Samuel C. Reid of the privateer Armstrong, to devise a new flag. He retained the original thirteen stripes and the blue ground of the union, but added a star for every state, and this has been the device of the flag ever since. On the admission of a territory as a new state, a new star is added to the field of the National flag. In 1901 there were forty-five stars.

Third, The Symbolism of the Flag. In the Bible there are certain numbers and emblems to which a sacred character is attached. These are significant in the Christian as they were in the Moslem and the Edenic dispensations. In the flag there are numbers and emblems apparently unconscious of a deity. It is remarkable that the numbers and emblems of the Bible and the flag are the same. Yet we cannot for a moment think that the designers of the flag consciously selected these numbers and emblems because of their sacred character; or knew that they were sacred at all, from which we are shut up to the conclusion that the choice was made under a controlling providence.

To begin with: The flag as a whole represents unity. In itself this is nothing extraordinary. But then unity, or One, is of a sacred nature. Thirteen is popularly considered to be an unlucky number. But the nation under this superstition, and the flag bears the same. The original United States were thirteen, and the original national flag had thirteen stripes and thirteen stars. This alone would stamp the flag

But twelve and one make thirteen. There is something more than remarkable in the sacred numbers of the flag that culminate in twelve. They are: 1+3+4+6+7+12=33, the exact number of years that Christ lived on the earth, and the exact average of human life upon the earth, and the exact number of years in luni-solar cycles of time. Is all this mere chance work?

But this is not all. The colors are sacred also. When God would give outward expression to the mystic symbolism of Religion He was careful to express the colors of His choice. "Blue and purple and scarlet and fine turned linen"—the colors of the American flag—red, white and blue. Red is the sign of redemption, blue of heaven, white of purity and peace. When the civilized world would symbolize mercy, it could only think of a red cross on a white ground—two of the flag's colors, and that sign will touch the hearts of enraged combatants, Christian and pagan, now engaged in deadliest strife, for where it flies there is "holy ground."

The Star, too, is a sacred figure. It is a scriptural sign, a prophetic symbol, an apocalyptic emblem. The Star sang creation's hymn the first Sabbath morn; spoke to the Father of the Faithful from the midnight sky, and heralded the Prince of Peace standing above the Bethlehem hills. Can a flag so instinct with heaven's emblems, and pulsating to every breath of breeze or blast of storm, with holy sign and sacred symbol, have come by chance? Believe it who may, an American can never!

WANTED TO BE TEMPTED

Elusive Individual Wore White Ribbon With a Purpose.

Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, candidate for the presidency of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, was talking one day about the white ribbon that is the sign of total abstinence.

"There are some persons," said Mrs. Burdette, "who don't wear the white ribbon with sincerity. They wear it, perhaps, about as hypocritically as it was worn by an employee of a certain brewer."

"This employee, after years of dissipation, appeared one day at the brewery with the white ribbon on his breast. Nothing was said to him, and he wore the ribbon for several months. Then, one day, the head of the firm, happening to notice the man's badge, approached him."

"Why, Frank," it is strange to see you, a brewer, wearing the white ribbon."

"It does look strange, sir," the man admitted.

"Well," said the brewer, "why do you do it?"

"It is like this," said the workman. "I wear the ribbon because it makes men like to tempt me, and when I'm tempted, I succumb, sir."

HIS LIFE FOR HIS FRIEND.

Sailor Nobly Surrendered Life Belt to His Captain.

Some time ago two fishing boats, or trawlers, came into collision off Start point, on the coast of Devonshire, England. They foundered, and the crew of one of the vessels was swept away while in the act of lowering the lifeboat.

While they were all struggling in the water the skipper was heard to exclaim:

"Whatever will my poor wife and children do if I am drowned?"

In a moment one of the crew, who had managed to seize a lifebelt, took it off his own body and pushed it toward his captain.

"Here, skipper," he said, "take this. I have no wife or child; no one will suffer if I am lost."

"It will keep us both up," answered the skipper, putting his arm around the buoy, and bidding the brave fellow do the same; "or if it does not we will share the same fate."

Both these men were saved, as happily another trawler came by while they were still able to keep above water; but none the less had John Kingford been nobly ready to lay down his life for his friend.

One Solution of It.

They had been engaged only fifteen years, but it seemed a long time to her, and she was growing restless.

"Darling," she said, in gentlest accents, "our betrothal has been very sweet, has it not?"

"It has, it has, indeed, my own."

"But it has been very long, don't you think?"

"Yes; it has been pretty middlin' long," he rejoined.

"I was thinking, dearest," she continued, playing with his watch and casting down her eyes, "that our betrothal is nearly old enough to go out and work for a living. Couldn't we have it learn a trade, or get it a clerkship, or put it out at interest, or do something with it so that we might realize something on it? It has been hanging about home so long, burning gas and coal, and now it is nearly grown. It seems like a shame to have it doing nothing so long."

"What would you suggest?"

"We might get married."

"That's so. I never thought of that."—New York Telegraph.

The Charm of Life.

"Love is the secret spring of life. From which all blessings flow; It is the thought that teaches us The joy of life to know."

It is the gift the angels left That by it we might climb Near to our Heavenly Father's heart, In blissful realms sublime.

It lifts the soul up far above The sorrowful thoughts of life, And teaches us to live above Life's useless care and strife. It fills the heart with sunshine bright And brings such sweet content We know it is the greatest gift God's angels ever sent.

Without it, man is but a brute; It is the spark divine That lights the human soul that it With wondrous light may shine. True love endures immortal is, And happiness will bring; We even hear God's voice of love In little birds that sing.

—Martha Shepard Lippincott, in Sunset Magazine.

Might Survive.

During the trying days of the civil war a young German, who had been trained in one of the famous "Cadeaux-schulen" (cadet or military schools) of his Fatherland, who had sought home and fortune in a new land, offered his services to President Lincoln. The latter, sorely in need of such men, gave the young foreigner a commission as captain and some good advice. As the interview was about ended, Herr von A. said: "And you must remember, Mr. President, my name is one of the oldest and most aristocratic in Germany."

The president looked at him a moment, then said:

"Well, if you are careful, it won't harm you any."

Her First Experience.

A small boy, aged 5, had a stepmother who was young and nervous. She had never had experience with children, and the small boy's slightest ailment tortured her into a panic.

Croup threatened one day, and the doctor was sent for in wild haste. As the doctor entered the room, the child raised his head from his pillow and croaked hoarsely, in apology for the hasty summons:

"You must excuse her, doctor, this is the first time she's ever been a mother."—Lippincott's Magazine.

RAILROAD FROM CAPE TO CAIRO

Pot Project of the Late Cecil Rhodes Rapidly Nearing a Reality—Tourist Tickets on Line Now Being Issued

Writing in 1900 to Ewart S. Grogan, a plucky young traveler, who had just completed a journey from the Cape to Cairo, Cecil Rhodes said:

"Every one supposes that the railway is being built with the only object that a human being may be able to get in at Cairo and get out at Cape Town. That is, of course, ridiculous. The object is to cut Africa through the center, and the railway will pick up trade all along the route. The junctions to the East and West coasts which will occur in the future will be outlets for the traffic obtained along the route of the line as it passes through the center of Africa. At any rate, up to Bulawayo, where I am now, it has been a payable undertaking, and I still think it will continue to be so as we advance into the far interior. We propose now to go on and cross the Zambesi just below the Victoria Falls. I should like to have the spray of the water over the carriages."

If Cecil Rhodes were still alive he would see this last wish realized, for the railway from the south has been carried from Bulawayo through the Wankie coal fields to the edge of those wonderful falls, which are twice the height and more than double the width of the Falls of Niagara, while a bridge consisting of a single span of 600 feet is now being constructed over the gorge below the falls, and will be completed by the end of the year.

The bridge will have the distinction of being the highest in the world, the rail level being 420 feet above the ducement to choose the western route, and accordingly the line northward from Bulawayo was begun in May, 1901. Last year it reached Wankie, a distance of 200 miles, and the additional seventy-five miles to the falls have been constructed in less than a twelvemonth. Tourist tickets to the Victoria Falls are being issued and among the visitors next year will be 250 members of the British Association, who have accepted the invitation of the British South African company to pay a visit to Niagara's rival.

Starting from the south, the railway is now completed from Cape Town to Victoria Falls, a distance of 1,635 miles, and a further stretch of 250 miles in a northeasterly direction to Broken Hill Mine, 100 miles beyond the Kafue river, will be begun at an early date, the contract having already been let. This section, which is to be completed by the end of March, 1905, will tap a district rich in copper, lead and zinc deposits, beyond which is a region with vast supplies of rubber. There will then remain only a section of 450 miles to complete the connection with Kituta, at the southern end of Lake Tanganyika, where the Chartered Company's sway terminates. Survey work here is now in progress, and there is no doubt that within a few years this link will be made.

From this point onward, however, Rhodes' scheme has had to be modified as the nature of the country around the chain of lakes stretching from the Zambesi to the Nile came to be known. As Grogan pointed out, Lake Tanganyika is hemmed in by river, or fifty-five feet higher than the dome of St. Paul's. While the construction of the great span is in progress the rails for the extension northward will be conveyed across by aerial gear to avoid delay. It was originally intended to carry the line from Bulawayo due north through the Mafungabusi coal district, crossing the Zambesi at Kariba Gorge. It was found, however, that the country north of the Zambesi at this point offers immense difficulties for railway construction, and that the value of the coal deposits is not to be compared with that of the Wankie coal fields.

The certainty of a large tourist traffic if the line were carried to the Victoria Falls formed a further in-steep mountains offering well-nigh insurmountable difficulties to railway construction, but on the other hand, the lake itself offers a magnificent waterway of 400 miles on the direct line between the Cape and Cairo. It may be taken as granted, therefore, that this part of the journey will be made by water, and that passengers will be carried by steamboat from Kituta to Usambara, at the north end of the lake. From here to Lake Kivu is 90 miles, offering no serious obstacle to a railway beyond a rise in level of 2,000 feet. Lake Kivu is sixty miles in length, and this sheet of water also is surrounded by high and precipitous mountains, so that another break in the line will have to be made and the waterway utilized.

Once Famous Town in Decay.

Secretary Ganitt of the state of South Carolina has just finished reclaiming a considerable portion of the once famous town of Hamburg, S. C. Some few of the old houses still remain standing, having been patched up from time to time, but Hamburg is now principally a lot of little hovels occupied by negro laborers who work in Augusta.

The total business activity of the old town consists now in a little stand about 18x20 feet just at the foot of the bridge, and what pretends to be a grocery store, located where the center of the city used to be, the entire stock of goods of which could be packed into a dry goods box.—New York World.

Seal of Solomon's Son.

The German excavating expedition in Syria has discovered the seal used by King Solomon's son at a place called Tell El Muttissen. It has been taken to Beyrut and handed over to the Turkish pasha, Emin Effendi. The seal is the size of an ordinary saucer, is made of jasper and has a beautifully engraved lion on it with a wide-open mouth. The inscription in Hebrew, translated, reads:

"Li Schema, the son of King Solomon, the son of David."

Dr. Hartleben, the archaeologist, says it is the finest example of carving known dating from so remote antiquity.

Bribery.

Russell Sage was in early life an errand boy in a Troy grocery store.

At a certain directors' meeting, reverting to his boyhood days in Troy, Mr. Sage said:

"I remember well a frequent visitor to our Troy grocery, a rich young farmer from Schaghticoke. He had fallen in love with a New York girl who had spent the summer in Schaghticoke, and in the autumn he called on her in the city and proposed marriage.

The story goes that, as soon as she refused him, the young man put on his hat and stalked out of the house. Once outside, though, an idea struck him, and, returning, he said:

"Would the tower of Europe be any inducement?"

Crude Petroleum as Fuel.

A vessel using crude petroleum for fuel has made a successful voyage from California to New York. This craft has steamed nearly 15,000 miles smoothly and well in fifty-one days, keeping up a fair average of speed. The oil took up one-quarter less room than an equivalent quantity of coal would have taken, thus saving cargo space, and it was not necessary to stop at any point in order to renew the supply. In fact, upon her arrival at a Brooklyn pier this steamship, the Nebraska, had sufficient fuel in reserve for a passage across the Atlantic.

SEOUL A PICTURESQUE CITY.

Sights in the Korean Capital of Interest to Westerners.

Seoul is a picture place. Most of the houses are one story in height and are built in a style unfamiliar to Occidental eyes. The more wealthy residents usually build with very heavy timbers, and the greater part of the walls is of clay and mud. The roofs are often steep and picturesque. They are built over a lattice work filled in with clay and dirt. Clay tiles are laid over the roof.

Poorer residents have houses resembling those of the rich, except that the timbers are lighter and the roofs are thatched with rice straw instead of clay tiles.

Photography is an art which interests thousands of Koreans. Over ten years ago photographers were well patronized in even the smaller cities of the peninsula. In the larger towns the photographers were well advanced in their line.

A Curious Emerald.

An emerald of curiously interesting associations has recently been sold in Berlin. It originally belonged to Nicholas I. of Russia, and was by him presented to the famous explorer, Humboldt. The jewel is four inches in length, and is cut on four sides, the remainder of the gem being left in the rough. The setting, which is extremely artistic, is composed of silver, to represent rock, round which are several little gnomes busily hewing the rock with their axes. The emerald with its silver setting, rests on a pedestal of ebony and silver, of which the workmanship is equally artistic.

Exclusion Law is Rigid.

Australia's exclusion law against yellow immigrants was applied to English laborers who came under contract recently. For a time it looked as though the "six hatters' case" would become a famous precedent. The Sydney authorities, however, yielded at the last moment and allowed the men to land, but they will hold up future British immigrants till the Australian labor agitators are ready to let them in.
