DEATH OF AN OLD SOLDIER.

Lewis L. Conk, for 32 Years a Resident of Chelsea, Passed Away Friday.

A well known figure in Chelsea has passed away in the person of Lewis L. Conk, who died suddenly Friday, July 1, at his home on West Summit street, of apoplexy, with which he was seized the day previous, aged 66 years, 5 months and 23 days. For many years Mr. Conk had been totally blind and it was a familiar sight up to a short time ago to see him feeling his way down town from his residence with the aid of his cane, and he was so expert at it that he very rarely got out of the path.

Mr. Conk was born in Toms River, Ocean county, N. J., Jan. 8, 1838. He enlisted in the 29th New Jersey Volunteers in 1862 and served with them during part of the war. He was a married man at that time and at the close of his term of service he returned to his home. Thirty-two years ago, with his family, he came to Chelsea and took up his residence. The following year he united with the Baptist church, of which he has since then been a faithful member. His devoted wife, three daughters and one son survive him.

The funeral services were held at his late residence Sunday afternoon, Rev. P. M. McKay officiating. Interment was in Oak Grove cemetery.

FOURTH OF JULY BASEBALL.

Junior Stars and Plymouth Juniors Broke Even, Each Winning a Game.

The long expected games between the Junior Stars and the Plymouth Juniors were played here Monday, each team winning one game. The Plymouth boys won the morning game by a score of 7 to 2, and, although the score would indicate the game was rather one-sided, it was not. Jones, for Chelsea, pitched a game that ought to win, but errors on the part of the other Stars, kept him from winning. The Plymouth boys were good ball players and won a great deal of applause from the crowd present. Score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Plymouth.....	0	1	0	0	2	0	0	0	3	7	5	8

Batteries—Wasmund and Reichel; Jones and Reynolds.

The afternoon game was a fine contest lasting ten innings and in the end the Chelsea team were the winners. The game was a hard fought one and showed just about the relative playing strength of the two teams. McCain was at his best and pitched a fine game, clearly out-pitching his rival, Wood, this being the second time this year he has done the same thing. Reynolds, Chelsea's new catcher, was a star, as he allowed only one man to steal second. He put up a great game at the bat, and scored the winning run in the tenth inning. The other features were Miller's work at first and the good playing of the Stars in general. The score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Junior Stars....	0	0	0	1	0	1	1	0	0	4	10	6
Plymouth.....	0	2	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	4	8	5

Batteries—McCain and Reynolds; Wood and Baker.

Have Made a Combination.

The Ann Arbor Argus of Tuesday had the following item in relation to the electric railroad systems passing through Chelsea:

"Negotiations have been closed and papers signed for the joint operation of the Detroit, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor & Jackson line with the Jackson city lines and the branches to Wolf Lake and Grass Lake. This will obviate the building of a second line between Jackson and Detroit by the New York interests owning the Jackson Consolidated Traction Co. and bring about harmonious relations and economical management for the two systems, which will not lose their corporate identity, the arrangement being a pool, or community of interest scheme, instead of a consolidation."

ENTHUSIASTIC CELEBRATION

Of the Golden Jubilee of the Republican Party at Jackson.

The celebration of the 50th anniversary of the birth of the Republican party held "Under the Oaks" at Jackson yesterday was an enthusiastic one. The daily papers variously estimate the attendance at from 5,000 to 30,000 people, which goes to show that a person's estimate of a crowd is not worth much. But, no matter how many people were there, enthusiasm was great. The gray haired Fremont voters were present in such large numbers that they overflowed the seats reserved for them. Jackson was in holiday garb and the streets were handsomely decorated.

During the day speeches were made by Secretary of State John Hay, Senator Fairbanks, candidate for vice president, Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, Senators Burrows and Alger, Hon. Chas. A. Blair, and others. Wm. W. Todd, the Democratic mayor of Jackson, delivered the welcoming address, which was responded to by Governor Bliss, Hon. James O'Donnell presided at the morning meeting and Senator Burrows at the afternoon gathering. It was a thoroughly representative gathering of the great Republican party and one which the projectors of the celebration have every reason to be proud of.

TENDENCY IS TOWARD UNION.

Three Great Denominations to Unite in Assembly at Frankfort, Mich.

The Congregational Summer Assembly meets this year in its third annual session but its first at its permanent home at Frankfort, Mich., and promises to be a notable event.

The Congregational, United Brethren and Methodist Protestant denominations will unite in making this a great rallying point for these denominations and to promote the union of these bodies which promises practical results in the near future, and to stand as a rallying point for the other denominations disposed to union. The date for this year's session is August 6-21 inclusive. The program is about completed, and promises to be a feast of good things.

There will be special days given to the consideration of Church Union, the C. E. Society, the S. S., and Home and Foreign Missions.

A one fare rate has been secured in the Central Passenger Association and the same rate is expected in the Western Passenger Association and a universal tourist's rate of one and one-third, going at any time during the summer, returning till Oct. 1st.

The Assembly has secured 125 acres of land between Lake Michigan and Crystal Lake, and bordering on both, two miles from Frankfort, as its permanent home. Considered from any point of view it is an ideal location for an assembly, beautiful, healthful and surrounded by everything to make one comfortable during the hot season.

Frankfort promises to become the place especially where the sober and conservative elements of the church and society may find a place to spend their vacations.

The session for this season will be held in the town of Frankfort, where ample accommodations in the best rooms, restaurants and hotels have been secured.

Notice.

BETROTHED

The early joy of a young man and maid,
Who stand upon the threshold of life's
morn
Hand linked in hand, while all for them
is fair
With rosy promise of a day to be;
Who know how each to each is all in all.
So each to each is of the other sure,
Come weal or woe, the sunshine or the rain.
This thing is good. For even tho' it be that the full promise of dawn is unfulfilled
And winds arise the landscape fair to mar
By mists and shadows no man may foresee.
The perfect vision of the opening day
Remains for them a blessed memory
Thro' all the day, until all light is gone.
Closed by the last chime of the curfew,
Yet
To have known that glory of dawn still makes the day
More beautiful than tho' it had not been.
Most happy they for whom this time shall prove
The first sweet moments of an ample
day!
To those for whom, until the morning
came
Life had been but a twilight-time where-
in
Each had moved solitary amid the crowd,
Lonely in spirit, lonely in heart and mind.
The coming of this dawn makes all things new.
For them the world is as another world;
They are themselves, yet not their former selves,
And half-forgotten of all former hours,
With Love arisen they live alone no
more.
—C. M. Paine.

THE RED CHIMNEYS

By MRS. STEPHEN CRANE

Copyright, 1901, by Daily Story Publishing Company.

When the wind came there was a rain of maple leaves, weary and withered souls swept from the grayed
branches, falling to swift currents
near the ground where they swirled
in yellow hosts, raising upon the air a long sound of crackling cries, a curious interminable noise of dismay at
death, of fear of this implacable sweeping force that came from the red
western sky which flared like an army
with lurid banners.

A girl came slowly down the path
that led through the maples. She walked in a dreamy way, following unconsciously the mere indication of a road, that summer path that had been swallowed in the merciless hall
of the dead leaves. Finally, a man stepped from the shadows. He was smiling as he put forth his hand.

"Hello," he said.
When their hands clasped, she began to look at the dark distance of the landscape, turning her face from him.
"Well," he said at last, studying the
immobile face, still holding her hand,
"are you glad to see me? I just returned yesterday on the New York.
Very breezy trip. I thought I had better—" then suddenly he threw away all that and spoke quickly: "And
your husband?"

She made a gesture towards where three brick chimneys appeared in the distance, looming above a rim of tree tops. They both steadily regarded these as if they were three person-
ages, three facts, emblematic exactly of a certain situation. He, with his cigarette now in his mouth, his hat
still tilted, clasping his hands, said:
"The infernal idiot!"

She looked at him with a swift, resentful glance, but he answered at once, making a gesture of irritation
which was a sort of defiant outburst.
"Oh, I am tired of treating him with magnificent respect, when, as a matter of truth, he is to me the most
stupid and dense beast in the universe
for not being dead."

She was lifting her chin in a battle-
ful way and waving her fingers toward his mouth. "But he is my—"
"The devil," interrupted the young man, violently. "Do you think that I am not aware of it?" He glared at her with sullen rage.

Upon her face as she looked at him
there was a vague, indescribable smile
and in her eyes there were two faint
points of mellow light. "Yes, you do know it," she said.

He answered her attitude, the light
in her eyes. "You love me," he cried

Looming Above a Rim of Treestops.
In discontented muttering, "and yet
you spend all your time in guarding
the peace of that duffer"—indicating
the three red chimneys with a contemptuous wave of his hand—"as if he were a sacred white elephant of Siam;
and, as for me, I am to be held off with spears for fear I might kiss the tip of your little finger. And yet you love me. You are incomprehensible. I could kill him. And yet you—why won't you run away with me?"

When she replied her voice had a subtle quality of monotony in it as if she were speaking a lesson, uttering
some sentiment in which she had resolutely schooled herself. "Ah, the sin.
You would never be happy with a bad
woman."

It seemed to make him furious. He gazed at her blackly. "A bad woman!
What rot! You—"

Then she suddenly acknowledged the falsity of her speech. "No—no—no, I didn't mean that, I didn't mean it, I meant that I—I could never be happy

One Long Kiss.

if I were a bad woman. I would be afraid"—she raised her finger and pointed it mournfully at him—"I would be afraid of you."

He laughed savagely. "You are as wise as seven owls. It cannot be argued. It is to be demonstrated. A renewal of my protestations of love
would not be convincing." He burst out passionately, as if he could no longer endure the weight of his hopes,
his fears, his wrongs. "But why not make an attempt for happiness? You love me. I love you. What is there in this infernal environment that should make us value it? What is there to suffice us if we have not each other. Nothing, I tell you, nothing."

"Wait," she said. "God forgive us—
it cannot be long to wait now."

"Wait, wait. My soul is weary of this waiting," he answered. "He will never die; he is too selfish; he will see us both in our graves, I tell you.
Is all our youth to be worn threadbare
waiting for this selfish brute to shuffle off?" He looked at her steadily for a moment, then continued: "Do you know that I believe that in spite of the life he has led you, you love him,
now, more than you do me."

She was very white and the pain
in her eyes should have warned him.
"No," he said, "four years is long enough to wait; long enough for you to make up your mind. Do you know that you have played fast and loose
with me for four years? Four—long—years? Now you must decide. Will you come with me, dear heart, will you come with me? Say—speak—will you come to the shelter of my love or do you send me away forever? I will wait no longer; I am determined;
choose—him— and he shook his
closed hands at the red chimneys—
"or happiness with me!"

The girl shivered and drew her cape closely about her shoulders. As she moved a faint perfume of lavender came to the man. He took hold of both her hands with his and drew her
to him, eagerly, gazing at her face, so
close to his own, noting every feature,
the small straight nose, the forehead
low and broad, crowned with masses
of dark waving hair, the small round
chin beneath the sweet trembling
mouth! And her eyes—her eyes, now dark with the pain of this passion
which she felt was mastering her.
She could feel his warm breath upon her cheeks! Her hands crept up his arms and about his neck; she threw

her head back and as she did—their lips met in one long kiss.

The following morning the man
awakened with a song upon the lips
that she had kissed. As he dressed
he strutted as a self-satisfied cock
might strut while he plumed himself
in the barnyard. They were to leave that night. Of course nothing could prevent her going, now—"nothing but death," she had said. All the morning
he was busy arranging his affairs for a long absence.

At noon came a messenger with a note. It was from her. How well he knew the gray paper and the dainty writing! He caressed the envelope before he opened it. "Why, I am getting
as sentimental as a woman," he said aloud, laughing. Then he tore the note open and this is what it said:

"Forgive, forgive me, my beloved. I have chosen death. I could not leave him and after yesterday there is no
peace for me but in death. Forgive me, for I have loved you more than life."

The woman killed herself on October the 9th. Her husband died of a long, lingering illness on October 10th.

Under the maples the man walked
and the little leaves of brown and yellow and those with the crimson blots danced about him. The man had grown old in two days, frost had touched his temples and his face was gray and drawn. He looked at the red chimneys above the tree tops; he held out his arms towards them, yearningly, with a half-stifled moan. The little leaves danced and flew in clouds
before his eyes, they beat him upon
the face; they seemed to run and
jump before his sight, blinding him,
stinging him, as he held his arms towards the red chimneys.

WEALTHY MEN OF OLD.

Their Fortunes Make Even Rockefeller's Millions Seem Small.

A writer in a Jewish magazine has been looking into the Agadic history
of the Talmud, and believes that there were richer men before the Christian era than there are now. We know that Croesus was rich, and that there were huge Roman fortunes in the times of the empire. The Talmud stories go back further still. The great corner in corn that Joseph managed was fabulously profitable. Tradition says that Joseph, acting for Pharaoh, got his hands on pretty much all the ready money there was in his day, and buried three enormous treasures, one of which was found by Korah, whose fortune estimated according to the modern standards of value, is rated by the magazine at three billion dollars. Solomon's stable, with its horses, chariots
and horsemen, is said to have represented a sum the modern equivalent of which would be three or four hundred millions, and he spent two hundred and fifty millions on his temple.
Herod's temple cost more still. In Jerusalem in Roman times there were three Jews, who between them, felt able to face an expenditure of a hundred millions a year for twenty-one years. They offered to feed the million inhabitants of Jerusalem for that length of time rather than surrender
the city. One of these Jews, Niko-demon, gave his daughter a dowry of $425,000,000. There were other Jews
of whose enormous wealth the Agadic
history makes record.—Harper's Weekly.

Juggling With Accounts.

John D. Rockefeller, at a directors' meeting in New York, was describing certain methods of juggling with accounts—certain deceptive ledger and journal entries that firms make when they are about to fail dishonestly.

"The other day," said Mr. Rockefeller, "I heard of a woman who would have made an excellent account jug-
ler. This woman's husband always left in her possession a number of blank signed checks. She was free to use these checks, but he required
from her a full explanation of the expenditure that had been made with each of them.

"He was looking over the stubs one
day.

"You say here," he said, "that check
No. 272, for $25, went for church expenses. What church expenses were these?"

"A new Easter bonnet," the woman
answered."

Maranda.

A crescent moon lingers to greet the
morn.
The star of beauty smiling in its rays;
The birds sing low—as wooing their own
lays.
The young May-blossoms freshened
zephyrs warn,
Lest closer touching win, not bud, but
thorn;
The air breathes lover's breath on
fainting haze;
While Silence, eloquent with voiceless
praise,
Guards well the stillness—and the day is born.
The poet's soul saw type of this fair
hour
In sacred recess of a living heart:
Its peerless melody, its bloom, its flower,
Its beauty, and its mystery are part
Of hymnic music, telling of sunrise
In the soft shadows of a maiden's eyes.
—Mary M. Adams, from "The Song at Midnight."

Church Pews as Investments.

At Kirkham (Eng.) Parish church
the greater portion of the pew rents,
instead of swelling the exchequer of the church, go into the pockets of private individuals, who, for the most part, do not attend the church or even reside in the district. The peculiar situation originated in 1823, when, to meet the expenses of rebuilding the church, about forty pews and a few
organ seats were put up for auction
and realized amounts varying from $175 to $500. The church wardens are endeavoring to come to an arrangement with the pew owners with a view to securing a larger share of the rents for the benefit of the church.

IRELAND'S BEAUTIFUL SCENERY

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE)

On the occasion of his visit to Galway last fall I heard King Edward say that "in his whole empire there was no scenery to equal, certainly none to surpass, in beauty and picturesqueness" what he had seen along the southwestern coast of Ireland. Those who have visited, as the writer did,
that magnificent stretch of coast from Glengariff to Westport by coach will agree with the king's estimate of this charming region.

The natural beauty of this western lake land is greatly enhanced by the historical associations, especially of a religious character, that still haunt its rugged shores and ruined castles. But there are two of these ruins which the earnest attention of every visitor who loves the ancient glories of Ireland—

The saint set out with a few of his disciples and made his way to Ome-
y from Westport, I think, where he at once proceeded to build his little church and a few cells for himself and his disciples. The church is still there, nearly covered at times with the blown sand. But it was hard work to build it, for the natives received the saint and his monks badly,
and during the night they used to steal their few tools and throw them into the sea-lake close at hand. But God did not forget his own, for angels
brought back the tools in the morning. Then the islanders would give them no food, so that Felchin and his monks were nearly all starved—two
of them, it is said, perished of want,
but were restored to life at the prayers of the saint. Then Guair, Knight

In Their Own Doorway.

I mean the Abbey of Cong, on Lough
Corrib, and the Abbey of Inismaine
on Lough Mask.

It is not to be wondered at that a land so rich in nature's choicest
gifts should have been the battleground
of warring races and the choicest prize of conquering kings. And such
it was in very truth from the morning
prime of Ireland's story almost down to our own times. The undulating
plain between the lakes is dotted over
with the burial mounds and monumental pillar stones of the warriors
who fell in the first great battle between hostile races recorded in Irish history; that is, the famous battle of Moytura.

There is one grand monument still remaining in "proud defiance of all-conquering time"—Carn Eochy, which is undoubtedly the grave mound of the Belgic King Eochy, who was slain
on the third day of the fight. It overlooks Lough Mask and Inismaine and is one of the finest monuments of its kind to be found anywhere in Ireland.
It was raised over the dead warrior
by his devoted followers more than 3,000 years ago and it is likely to last at least 3,000 years more. Every other work of human hands around
has either totally disappeared or is a shapeless ruin, but the grand old
monument of the Firbolgic king
seems to be as enduring as the lakes
and mountains of the west.

Let me return to the two famous abbeys. The primitive Monastery of Inismaine was founded about one hundred years before the great Monastery of Cong. This latter was begun about the year 627. It came about in this way: There was a very famous saint called Felchin, a native of Ley-ney, in the County Sligo, who flourished during the first sixty years of the

of Connaught, hearing of their sorrow, sent them food for their needs,
and a silver cup with other good things to the saint himself which,
says the writer of the Life of St. Fel-
chin, is preserved to the present day,
and is called Guach Felchin, Felchin's Goblet. But true zeal always conquers, and in the end the islanders
were all converted and baptized; their little church became the parish church of the large parish of Ome-
y, which has ever since fondly cherished
the memory of its patron saint.

These two abbeys, even in their ruins, proclaim the excellence of Irish art in the Middle Ages. There is nothing in stone to surpass the cloister of Cong, with all its pure and graceful lines, and the infinite variety
and delicacy of its ornamentation.
And no less admirable are the windows
and doorways of Inismaine, and also the foliated sculptures of the capitals
of its noble chancel arch now, alas,
in great part overthrown. But I would say to the traveler in Ireland, visit
these places, examine them not hurriedly, but leisurely and carefully.
Let the eye and the mind drink in their beauty by thoughtful, patient observation. Take in the whole scene
and its surroundings; in the present
and, if you can, in the past, when kings and prelates and monks and
scholars trod these silent cloisters;
when royal maidens touched their harps in tones responsive to their own sweet Gaelic songs; when the vesper bell woke the echoes around
those pleasant waters; when the voice
of prayer and praise rose seven
times a day from the lips and hearts
of holy men behind those chancel
arches; when the hospice was ever
open to the poor and the stranger;
when many a sinful soul came to find

Part of Inismaine Ruins.

seventh century. He founded several monasteries in his native district of which the most celebrated was the Monastery of Ballisodare, four miles south of Sligo. While Felchin was sojourning with his monks an angel
came in sleep to tell him that it was God's will that he should journey to a certain island of the ocean, situated in the extreme west of Connaught,
called Iniald, now Ome-ey, to preach
to the half-pagan natives.

pardon and peace among the blessed Brotherhood of God.

Oldest Settler at Exposition.

Frederick Saugrain, the oldest living native of the Louisiana purchase territory, is attending the meetings of the American Surgical society in St.
Louis. He is the only surviving child of Dr. Antoine Francois Saugrain, who was known as "the first scientist of the Mississippi valley."

Roast Monkey.

The savage tribes in the interior
of Brazil are exceedingly fond of roast monkey. Humboldt estimated that one small tribe of 200 Indians consumed over 1,200 monkeys during a year. It is said that until recently monkey meat was for sale in the butcher shops of Rio Janeiro. Mr.
Wallace, when in the Amazon region, had a monkey cut up and fried for breakfast. The flesh somewhat resembled rabbit in flavor, and had no unpleasant or peculiar taste.

To Improve Fire Horses.

Eloquent of the state of affairs in London's fire department is this notice
issued by the fire chief: "I have noticed that, when turning out at many stations, the movements of the horses are very slow. Instructions are to be given that the horses are to be trained
so as to come up to the appliances smartly. I desire that later on the horses shall go to the machines without being led."

Not Always Religiously Inclined.

Dr. John Kerr, in his new book of "Memoirs," recalls a number of humorous Scotch stories. Among them is a story of the "argumentatively tipsy"
Scot, who, calling on the minister and being told to go home and return the next day when he was sober, replied:
"Man, minister, when I'm sober I danna
care a d—n for religious conversation."

Courtship by Handkerchief.

Whenever a single woman, among
a powerful tribe in the Persian mountains, wishes to get married, she simply sends a servant to pin a handkerchief on the hat of the man of her choice. He is obliged by tribal laws
to marry her, unless he can prove himself too poor to pay the "compensation" her father requires.

Took Both Pictures.

It is told of the late Clarence King
that he met John Ruskin in a picture
shop and his comments were so delightfully phrased that Ruskin took him to his heart, inviting him to Constition and offering him one of his two greatest water-colors by Turner. "One good Turner," said King, "deserves
another," and took both.

Iceland's First Railway.

The first railway in Iceland probably will be begun soon by an English company recently formed for the purpose of working the sulphur mines
at Thelstareykir, in the north of Iceland. The mines are about seventeen miles from Huavik, the nearest harbor, to which the proposed railway
will run.

Russian Teacher's Pitiful Pay.

The condition of the village school-
master in Russia is not to be envied.
The case is reported of a master who has been in one school for thirteen years, a married man of thirty-five,
with five children. His annual salary
is 200 roubles, or about $100.

Famous Crown Jewels.

The Saxon crown jewels rank
among the finest in Europe, and more especially the pearls. Many of the ancient Polish crown jewels are among the treasures at Dresden, and
there is a fine collection of diamonds
as well as of emeralds.

Sound Arabian Belief.

A man's true wealth is the good he has done in the world. When he dies,
men will ask what property he has left behind him; but angels will inquire, "What good deeds hast thou sent before thee?"—From the Arabic

Written by a Young Man.

about the most docile thing in the world it would wax insurgent every day against the miscellaneous stuff
that is constantly chucked into it.—
Hartford Post.

Austrian Crown Jewels.

The Austrian and Hungarian crown
jewels are fine, and the late empress
of Austria possessed one of the largest private collections of jewels of any princess in Europe.

Peoples of the World.

Latest statistics place the population of the world at 1,539,600,000, and it is estimated that it's a case of being about half and half monotheists
and polytheists.

Fortified Monasteries.

Russia has a number of monasteries in Palestine. A recent traveler was surprised to find them strongly fortified and having loop holes for guns.

Peculiarity in Plant Life.

If a flower pot is laid on its side the stalk of the plant growing in it will gradually curve upwards until it assumes a vertical position.

When Loss of Height Begins.

Persons usually begin to lose height
at the age of fifty, and at the age of sixty have lost at least one and a half inches.

Coal Slack for Pigs.

A small heap of coal slack should be placed in every pigsty for the inhabitants to feed upon, says a trade
journal.

CHAPTER X.

When Might Made Right.

What difference that, somewhere beyond the hills, men were fighting and castles were burning? At Ivarsdale, in the shelter and cheer of the baron's great hall, the feast of the barley beer was at its height.

Where the glow lay rosiest, the young lord sat in the great raised chair, jesting with his Danish page who knelt on the step at his side. Now the boy's answering provoked him to laughter, and he put out a hand and tousled the thick curls in his favorite caress.

Like a quieting hand, the first of the mellow chords from the harp fell upon the noise of the revel. The servants bearing away the dishes began to tread the rushes on tiptoe, and a dozen frowns rebuked any clatter. Through the hush, the gleeman began to sing the "Romance of King Ofa," the king who married a wood nymph for dear love's sake. Lord and page, man and maid and self, strained eye and ear toward the harper's tattered figure. What matter that outside an autumn wind was howling through the forest and stripping the leaves through the vines? Within sound of the mellow harp music it was balmy springtime, as the castlefolk followed the gleeman over the hills and dales of a flowering dream-world.

For a space after he had finished, the silence remained unbroken, then gave way only to an outburst of applause.

Above the confusion rose the voice of the brawniest of the henchmen, passing his judgment on the ballad. "Now that is my own desire of songs," he declared. "That was worth possessing—the love of that lass. Drink to the wood maiden, comrades, bare feet and wild ways and all!" Swinging

His words were cut short by a horn-blast from the darkness, loud and clear above the whistling wind. Jest and laughter died on the lips that bore them, and with one accord the men turned in their seats to watch their master.

His face had sobered as he listened; before the first echo had died away he had spoken swiftly to the fellow at his side. "Celric, get you down to the guard at the gate and inquire into the meaning of that."

When the henchman had left, he began a sharp questioning of the sentinel, and the noise did not begin again. In the quiet, the tap of the man's feet upon the steps was audible long before he reached the waiting roomful. Every eye fastened itself upon the curtained doorway.

Swinging back, the arras disclosed a face full of amazement. "Lord," the man said, "it is Danes! None know how many or how they came there. And their chief has sent you a messenger."

"Danes!" For the first time in the history of Ivarsdale, the word was spoken with an accent of relief.

The page turned from the fire with a cry of bitter rejoicing: "If it is Canute, I will go to him!"

In the revulsion of his feelings, the Etheling laughed outright. "Since it is not Edmund, I care not if it be the Evil One himself; and it cannot be he, for Canute is in Mercia." Beckoning to Morcard, he began to consult him concerning the most effective arrangement of the sentinels; and there was a muffled clatter of weapons as men went to and fro with hasty steps.

When all was ready the messenger was brought in between guards. Wrapped in dirty sheepskins, he swaggered to the center of the room. Pitching his cloak higher on his shoulders, he fastened his eyes on a hole in the tapestry behind the Ethel-eyes. "By Peter, he is right! I do not need even that long," he cried. "Since the Wide-Father began the game, the Tower has been the prize of the strongest. For his answer, he reminded of his own Danish saying, that 'It is a strong bird that can take what an eagle has in his claws,' and let him get what comfort he can from that."

After his ringing tones, the unmoved voice of the messenger fell flat on the ear. "It has happened as we supposed, that you would answer unfavorably," he said as he turned. "It was seen in battle that you are a brave man. Otherwise the chief would not have thought it necessary to hew a path through the forest in order to take you by surprise." Saluting with some appearance of respect, he joined his conductors at the door and passed out of sight down the stair.

Like smoke in the wake of a firebrand, confusion rose behind him; a din of exclamations loosed on the air and the clangor of weapons caught down from the wall. Through it, the Etheling's voice sounded strongly.

"To the palisade, all of you! They may not wait till morning. To the forest side; and keep them from it as you would keep off death!" He bent and shook the crouching page. "My armor, boy! How! Would you have me read treason in your sluggishness? My armor!"

The page started up, but it was only to stare past him and fling out his hand toward a window, where a bright light had suddenly shot athwart the darkness: "Lord, they have set fire to something!"

The voice of old Morcard rose shrill: "To the storehouses! Save the grain!"

There was a wild rush for the door; but on the threshold they were met by shouts of watchmen hurrying from the parapets.

"Lord, the court is swarming with them!" "They have cut through the palisade on the forest side!" "They had brush laid ready!" "Waited only for him!" "Holy saints, what is the meaning of that?" "Something else has taken!"

In their midst the young lord stood in helpless fury; and the hand he had grasped around his sword-hilt gripped it so hard that blood started under each nail. But his page bent and kissed the clenched fist with a cry of fierce exulting.

"You will never get out to find your ill-fair lady. You will never have a lady wife, lord! We shall die together."

Will Carleton's Own Story.

Will Carleton, the poet and lecturer, was lecturing in a Western city several years ago, when, on leaving the platform he was accosted by a pleasant, shabby looking old woman. "Mr. Carleton," she said, "I want to ask you a great favor. Will you give me the handkerchief you carried while you lectured this evening?"

"Why, what on earth do you want that for?"

"I am very poor, Mr. Carleton," she said, "and if you give me that handkerchief I think I can live on it a year."

Mr. Carleton stared. "A year! You shall certainly have it," and the old woman retired with the handkerchief, profusely thanking him. Later Mr. Carleton learned that she had embroidered his name on it and "raffled" it so extensively that she did make several hundred dollars, enough to keep her for a year.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Honors Were Even.

Maxfield Parrish, the illustrator, has a picturesque house in Vermont, and from this pleasant home he often makes excursions into the wildest and most isolated parts of the State.

During a recent visit to New York Mr. Parrish said:

"I stopped overnight at a lonely Vermont farm last month. The house commanded a barren and desolate landscape. It was anything but gay."

"I remember the brief conversation I had with the farmer as he showed me to my bed."

"A very quiet place," I said.

"It is," said he.

"Does a newspaper ever find its way here?"

"Seldom."

"Then," I said, "you don't hear much of what is going on in New York, eh?"

"No," said the farmer, grimly, "but then, you see, they don't hear much in New York of what is going on here, either."

Took the Warning.

"Charles," said a sharp-voiced woman to her husband in a railway carriage, "do you know that you and I once had a romance in a railway carriage?"

"Never heard of it," replied Charles in a subdued tone.

"I thought you hadn't; but don't you remember it was that pair of slippers I presented to you the Christmas before we were married that led to our union? You remember how nicely they fitted, don't you? Well, Charles, one day when we were going to a picnic, you had your feet up on a seat, and when you weren't looking I took your measure. But for that pair of slippers I don't believe we'd ever been married."

A young unmarried man, sitting by, immediately took down his feet from a seat.—London Tit-Bits.

Famous Whip.

The last of the whip that Hank Monk, the famous stage driver of the early days of California and Nevada, used on the drive in which he took Horace Greeley over the Sierras "on time" is exhibited in the Nevada building at the world's fair.

MINER LAST YEAR'S TRIP.

Miner Had Good Reason for Not Being Spotless.

Sir William Butler, an English soldier of distinction, said recently in giving testimony before a British commission in regard to militia service: "Warwickshire men miners and that class of people, like to get to the sea for ten days if they can possibly afford it—they will spend their own money to do it. They all bathe. I have a very long sea-coast and we have a number of miners who really enjoy being out with their regiment of garrison artillery near the sea. They go to the sea because they fire over the sea and the bathing parade is as valuable, if not more so, than the drill; it freshens the men up and cleanses them. An officer told me last summer that when they were bathing there was one fellow with a very black skin, and he heard a man say to him 'Jack, you are pretty dirty.' 'Yes,' he said, 'I was not out at last year's training.'"

To Make Soap From Tree.

An enterprise in Algeria is to manufacture natural soap on a large scale from a tree known as "Sapindus utilis." This plant, which has long been known in Japan, China and India, bears a fruit of about the size of a horse chestnut, smooth and round. The color varies from a yellowish green to brown. The inner part is of a dark color and has an oily kernel. The tree bears fruit in its sixth year and yields from 55 to 220 pounds of fruit, which can easily be harvested.

Influence of Light and Darkness.

A biological laboratory was established in the catacombs, near Paris, in 1896, for the purpose of observing the influence of light and darkness upon different animals. In crustaceans the gray pigment gradually disappears, the eye is modified in its part, and the organs of smell, touch and taste increase until they are tripled in size. Fish in the dark lose their color and grow but half as large as they would in the light.

Something of a Bird.

The possibilities of the English language are never better shown than when some western musical critic lays himself out in judgment upon one of Mr. Conried's operatic stars. Mme. Sembrieh recently sang in San Francisco, and a newspaper critic of much distinction pronounced her "the peerless canary of colorature."—New York Tribune.

Children and Their Clothes.

If you have money, dress your children; but if you do not wish them to be regarded with dislike and contempt, teach them to forget that they are wearing fine clothes. Carefully impress on them that to make comparisons between their own garments and those of children less richly clad is to stamp themselves ill bred. Girls are worse than boys in this respect.

Ideas on Verse.

"Don't be afraid of making me angry by telling me your candid opinion of my verse, old fellow. Criticism doesn't make any difference with me." "I know that, my dear boy; but the trouble is that it doesn't make any difference with your verses, either."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Resignation a Jewel.

Impatience relieves no ill; on the contrary, it is a sharp additional pang added to all the rest. But resignation soothes and lightens all we suffer by showing the gain there is behind.—Fenelon.

TWO STEPS.

The Last One Helps the First.

A sick coffee drinker must take two steps to be rid of his troubles and get strong and well again.

The first step is to cut off coffee absolutely.

That removes the destroying element. The next step is to take liquid food (and that is Postum Food Coffee) that has in it the elements nature requires to change the blood corpuscles from pale pink or white to rich red, and good red blood builds good strong and healthy cells in place of the broken down cells destroyed by coffee. With well boiled Postum Food Coffee to shift to, both these steps are easy and pleasant. The experience of a Georgian proves how important both are.

"From 1872 to the year 1900 my wife and I had both been afflicted with sick or nervous headache and at times we suffered untold agony. We were coffee drinkers and did not know how to get away from it for the habit is hard to quit."

"But in 1900 I read of a case similar to ours, where Postum Coffee was used in place of the old coffee and a complete cure resulted, so I concluded to get some and try it."

"The result was, after three days' use of Postum in place of the coffee I never had a symptom of the old trouble and in five months I had gained from 145 pounds to 165 pounds."

"My friends asked me almost daily what wrought the change. My answer always is, leaving off coffee and drinking Postum in its place."

"We have many friends who have been benefited by Postum."

"As to whether or not I have stated the facts truthfully I refer you to the Bank of Carrollton or any business firm in that city where I have lived for many years and am well known." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason."

Last Step Was His Undoing.

Max von Pettenkofer, who has been called the founder of scientific hygiene, and, next to Humboldt, the most popular of all German naturalists, lost a fortune in umbrellas, seldom bringing back what he had taken away. Once, however, he made a trip as far as England, and was very proud of having actually succeeded in bringing back his umbrella to Germany. At Augsburg he stopped on business, but sent a telegram reading: "At 6 o'clock I return with my umbrella." He did return at 6 o'clock, but as he entered his house in Munich he saw to his dismay that he had no umbrella. He had left it at the telegraph station.

Scientific Rubber Production.

The production of rubber from the Ficus Elastica in Upper Burma, Assam, and the Netherlands, is being rapidly increased. The seed of the Ficus Elastica, when the tree grows naturally in the forest, germinates almost invariably in the forks of trees thirty to forty feet above the surface of the ground, and the young trees grow in consequence for some six to ten years as epiphytes, after which the aerial roots reach the ground, and increase in size until some of them reach a girth of from four to six feet. It frequently happens that the trees on which the rubber seedling first germinated is killed by the more vigorous growing Ficus Elastica.

Ate Chocolates While Condemned.

"During the trial the murderer Hogart preserved the greatest composure. While his lordship addressed him, he leaned back on the seat in a careless attitude, at the same time eating confections, and when called on to attend to the sentence, he stood erect and heard it unmoved. This misguided youth will afford a sad example of the want of education, as we learned from his declaration that he cannot write."—The Scotsman, June 7, 1821.

It Pays to Read Newspapers.

Cox, Wis., July 4.—Frank M. Russell of this place, had Kidney Disease so bad that he could not walk. He tried Doctors' treatment and many different remedies, but was getting worse. He was very low.

He read in a newspaper how Dodd's Kidney Pills were curing cases of Kidney Trouble, Bright's Disease, and Rheumatism, and thought he would try them. He took two boxes, and now he is quite well. He says:

"I can now work all day, and not feel tired. Before using Dodd's Kidney Pills, I couldn't walk across the floor."

Mr. Russell's is the most wonderful case ever known in Chippewa County. This new remedy—Dodd's Kidney Pills—is making some miraculous cures in Wisconsin.

Periods of Children's Growth.

Dr. Leslie Mackenzie says in regard to the growth of boys that the first acceleration of height after infancy comes near the end of the first seven years; the second, about the years of 9 to 10, and the third, from 13 to 15. With girls the rate of increase is somewhat more uniform. Growth begins to slow down at the age of 12, and by the age of 17 it has sunk to less than one inch a year.

Johnny Not Such a Fool.

"When I have occasion to punish my son," said the austere man, "I always tell him that it hurts me more than it does him." "I don't," replied the plain, practical citizen; "Johnny may be a little headstrong and disobedient, but he has too much sense to believe anything like that."—Washington Star.

Paxtine is in powder form to dissolve in water—non-poisonous and far superior to liquid antiseptics containing alcohol which irritates inflamed surfaces, and have no cleansing properties. The contents of every box makes more Antiseptic Solution—lasts longer—goes further—has more uses in the family and does more good than any antiseptic preparation you can buy.

The formula of a noted Boston physician, and used with great success as a Vaginal Wash, for Leucorrhoea, Pelvic Catarrh, Nasal Catarrh, Sore Throat, Sore Eyes, Cuts, and all soreness of mucous membrane.

In local treatment of female ills Paxtine is invaluable. Used as a Vaginal Wash we challenge the world to produce its equal for thoroughness. It is a revelation in cleansing and healing power; it kills all germs which cause inflammation and discharges.

All leading druggists keep Paxtine; price, 50c. a box; if you do not send to us for it, Don't take a substitute—there is nothing like Paxtine. Write for the Free Box of Paxtine to-day.

Your Heart

May Be Weak. One Person in Four Has a Weak Heart.

One of the surest signs of a weak heart is shortness of breath after exercise. Your heart is not able to pump the blood fast enough to your lungs. Some of the other symptoms of Heart Trouble are: Pains in the Side, Back and Shoulder; Fainting or Weak Spells; Dry Cough; Swelling of Feet and Ankles; Cold Feet or Hands. No one can afford to allow a weak heart to go without medicine, because weak heart means poor circulation, and poor circulation means weak lungs, stomach, liver, kidneys, etc. If, therefore, you suspect heart trouble, begin taking Dr. Miller's New Heart Cure. The Heart Cure will do you good, as it is a splendid tonic for the blood and nerves, and will revitalize your entire system. Finally, remember, Dr. Miller's New Heart Cure is sold under a guarantee that the first bottle will do you good. If it doesn't—your money back. "I was afflicted with heart trouble for three years. I would be apparently all right, and without a moment's warning would fall as though shot. The attacks were frequent, and a terrible dread possessed me, as I never knew when or where, nor under what conditions I would be attacked, and whether I would survive them. I consulted and was treated by some of the most eminent physicians of the state. Not finding relief from this source, I began taking Dr. Miller's New Heart Cure, and began to improve at once. I used ten bottles, which entirely cured me, as I have not had an attack for five years."—MRS. JOHN DRESBACK, Leipsic, O.

THURSDAY, JULY 7, 1904.

To disprove the idea prevalent in so many farmers' minds that Montgomery Ward & Co., of Chicago, and other department stores in large cities sell goods at less prices than do the home dealers, a firm that advertises in the Stockbridge Sun has taken the trouble to make a comparison of its prices on furniture with those of the great Chicago firm. The prices are taken right from Montgomery Ward & Co.'s printed catalogue, the number and description of the article being given and the number of the page in the catalogue on which it is listed. Beside it is given the price at which the same goods are sold by the Stockbridge firm.

In nearly every case the Stockbridge firm sells the goods at a less price than the Chicago department store and there is no freight charge to pay either. In the cases where the prices are alike, or the Chicago firm has a little the advantage, the freight charges always make the difference in favor of the home firm, added to which the advantage is gained of spending the money at home where some of it at least is bound to return to the buyer in one way or another. The difference in prices range all the way from 3 cents up to $3 and the quality of the goods is in favor of the home firm every time.

It always pays to trade at home. It is the principle of protection that has made the United States the prosperous nation that it is. It is the principle of protection to home trade that likewise helps to make a community prosperous.

Brutally Tortured.

A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equaled. Joe Golobrick, of Colnasa, Calif., writes, "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I came across Electric Bitters and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it relieved and cured me." Just as good for liver and kidney troubles and general debility. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by Glazier & Stimson, druggists.

Southwest Sylvan.

B. Case, from Oklahoma, is visiting his aunt Mrs. John Wortley.

Willie Kolb, of Chelsea, is spending the week at Michael Merkel's.

Erhard Koch spent part of the past week visiting relatives in Detroit.

The ice cream social at A. L. Holden's Friday evening was well attended.

Mr. Kirchgessner, of Clinton, was the guest of John Weber the first of the week.

Mrs. Bert Kellogg, of Belleville, visited at Fred Lehman's the first of last week.

Henry and Alfred Lammers, with their wives and families spent Sunday at the home of Simon Weber.

Martin Merkel, Charles Hathaway and George Gage attended the Republican convention at Detroit last Thursday.

The Misses Elizabeth Kress, of Ann Arbor, and Genevieve Hummel, of Chelsea, spent Sunday at the home of Peter Merkel.

Milton Heeschwerdt, who has been attending the business college at Ypsilanti the past year, has accepted a position in the First National Bank at St. Ignace, Mich.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Manchester will celebrate Macca-bee day, Thursday, July 21.

North Lake.

Mr. Hudson, of White Oak, is visiting relatives hereabouts at present.

David Schultz, of Sylvan, was at the lake on business the last of the week.

Mrs. Agnes Schultz, of Sylvan, was a caller on her brother Floyd Hinkley Thursday last.

Summer girls and boys begin to arrive daily at the Grove house and other resorts around here.

About $50 went up in smoke and sparks at the grove and lake side on the Fourth. No accidents.

Who can tell me how to prevent the queen bee depositing brood in the supers for surplus honey?

Tuesday morning a good many of the boarders at the Grove house went back to their homes in and around Ann Arbor.

James Reilly took his son Daniel to Ann Arbor Sunday to see Dr. Thomas Cooley, the director of the Pasteur institute at the U. of M.

Mrs. John Webb stopped here Wednesday to have her sister accompany her to Chelsea to see her doctor. She is improving in health slowly.

O. C. Burkhart, of Chelsea, was here the other day looking over the damage done by the recent fire at Geo. Read's. The loss was insured for $200 in the Washtenaw Mutual.

On Thursday night about 10 o'clock George Read's barn burned with its contents. It is thought it caught from the electric storm that passed about an hour before the fire was discovered.

At the social at R. S. Whalian's there was a good company present, but the heavy storm coming just at the time of gathering kept many from attending. Elder and Mrs. Gordon and daughter were present.

I am frequently advised to sell out here and go to town to enjoy the balance of life. Why, I can't see, as people by the score come here from hundred of miles off and pay big money for the privilege of living here.

Piano Tuning and Repairing.

Send your orders to Root's Music House, Ann Arbor, for fine piano tuning and repairing. Organs also tuned and repaired. Most reasonable prices; first class work.

Darwin Boyd, of Scio, spent the first of the week with his mother Mrs. H. C. Boyd.

Miss Rosetta Norgard, of Detroit, visited her aunt Mrs. John Knoll the first of the week.

Clinton Frink and wife, of Detroit, spent the first of the week with John Knoll and family.

Small waists are no longer in style. It's the round plump waists that comes by taking Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea; that's all the go. 35 cents. Tea or tablet form. Glazier & Stimson.

Waterloo.

Rev. and Mrs. Griffin are entertaining her sister from Ohio.

Perry Palmer and wife visited at James Palmer's Monday.

John and Nellie Gordon spent the Fourth visiting relatives in Toledo.

There will be an ice cream social at Joseph Baldwin's Friday evening, July 8.

A good many of our people spent the Fourth fishing and visiting their relatives.

Our schoolhouse has been repainted and set in order for the fall term of school.

Rev. E. E. Caster, D.D., of Chelsea, preached in the M. E. church Sunday evening.

George Rentschler has the wall built and will put the carpenters at work at once on his new apple dryer.

Constipation, headache, backache, feel mean, no appetite, all run down. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will make you well and keep you well. Money back, if it fails. 35 cents. Tea or tablet form. Glazier & Stimson.

The residence of Fred Wolf in Sylvan caught fire from a defective chimney about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon and burned to the ground. Only a very few of the household goods were saved. The house was insured for $300 and the furniture for $200 in the German Farmers' Mutual.

The Junior Stars met defeat at the hand of the Detroit O. K. Juniors here last Friday afternoon by a score of 12 to 6. The pitching of McCain was slightly off and he was hit for ten singles and two doubles. The game was featureless, except for a catch of a line drive by McLaren off the first ball pitched by McCain.

The Fourth in Chelsea was quietly observed Monday, with the exception of the noise made by the fire crackers and firearms. The stores were closed and nearly everybody took a rest from labor. The baseball games attracted a great many, while others went to the adjacent lakes or away to visit friends, but the major portion stayed quietly at home.

The sacrament of confirmation will be administered to a class of 50 boys and girls and five adults at the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart this evening at 7 o'clock by Rt. Rev. Bishop Foley. Several priests from neighboring parishes will assist in the service. Rev. M. J. Comerford, of Pinckney, will bring the class from St. Mary's church at that place to be confirmed at this time. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

A pleasant family gathering was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Wurster Monday, about 20 of their relatives being present. Among them being Mrs. Esther Crafts, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Showing What's Doing In All Sections of the State

BEET SUGAR.

A Merger of Companies With $6,250,000 Involved.

Eight beet sugar corporations are combined with a central board of control, for the purpose of more economically operating a number of plants which are all practically owned by the same interests.

A report from Saginaw that such organization had been perfected is confirmed in Detroit. The plants now working under the agreement made a few days ago at Saginaw are: The Alma Sugar Co., capital, $650,000; Saginaw Sugar Co., capital, $750,000; Valley Sugar Co., capital, $650,000; Bay City-Michigan Sugar Co., capital, $1,000,000; Tawas Sugar Co., capital, $750,000; Sebawaing Sugar Co., capital, $650,000; Sanilac Sugar Co., capital, $800,000; Peninsular Sugar Co., capital, $1,000,000; total capitalization, $6,250,000.

Under the agreement each of these companies elects one representative on the central board, which will control all the plants. The chairman and general counsel of the board is Charles B. Warren, of the legal firm of Shaw, Warren, Cady & Oakes, Detroit. Members of the board are: Gilbert W. Lee, Detroit, president of the Peninsular Sugar Co.; Wm. H. Wallace, Sebawaing; W. L. Churchill, Bay City; Chas. Bewick, Detroit; Thos. A. Harvey, Saginaw; Frank D. Ewen, Saginaw; Fred R. Hathaway, Alma; G. S. Stanton, Crowell, Mr. Hathaway was elected secretary and will be the officer directly carrying out the board's decisions and policies.

The representatives of the various plants are all men who have been connected with the beet sugar industry from the beginning and are thoroughly identified with it in their respective localities. They have become members of the central board to secure greater economies in operation and uniformity in management, and it is claimed that both the stockholders and the public at large will be benefited by harmonious action.

SEVEN MILLIONS.

The State's Suit Against the Michigan Central.

The suit of the state of Michigan against the Michigan Central railway to collect back taxes which the state claims are due because of the alleged false statements of the road for many years regarding its actual condition, capital, net earnings, etc., will be started in the Ingham county circuit court within a few days. Otto Kirchner and Thomas E. Barkworth, who are associated with Attorney General Blair in the case, are putting the finishing touches on the papers. The principal of the state's claim amounts to $4,050,000 and the interest will bring the amount up to $7,000,000. This is $1,000,000 more than the Michigan Central claims as damages against the state by reason of the repeal of its special charter.

It is said the only defense the railroad has is the statute of limitations and the state's answer to this is that the statute of limitations will not help a railroad which has wilfully withheld information. The reports of the company are alleged to be deceptions since 1854.

D. & M. Wins the Fight.

After the Michigan Central railroad had secured a further injunction against the D. & M. railroad restraining the latter from crossing the Michigan Central spur track from the main line to the Cheboygan Paper Co.'s plant, and from invading the street in front of the Michigan Central's property north of Court street, representatives of the interested parties held a conference at Detroit and settled all differences. Under the agreement the D. & M. is to be permitted to continue its tracks through the city. The D. & M. will run its first through train to Cheboygan next Sunday, and the event will be fittingly observed at this end of the route. Shippers expect the benefit of cut rates between the rival roads north of Bay City.

It Was Better So.

"I wish Effie was here" were the last words of Vilette Alvord, the aged father of Effie Alvord, the girl who was shot by Charles A. Swayze, before he leaped from the Chamber of Commerce in Detroit. Mr. Alvord died in Traverse City Monday in ignorance of the tragedy in which his daughter was a central figure. He was 79 years old and leaves five sons and two daughters. It was on the day of the Detroit affair that the old man called for Effie and then he went into a delirium from which he never recovered.

Four thousand men will soon be dropped by the Baldwin locomotive works in Philadelphia. Last week 1,000 were dropped. The works will continue with a force of 6,000. Dull business is the cause of the reduction.

SEVEN HUNDRED PERISH.

Steamer Norge Goes Down and Only Twenty-Seven Are Saved.

Over 700 Danish and Norwegian emigrants bound for New York are believed to have been drowned in the North Atlantic June 28. Out of nearly 800 souls on board the Danish steamer Norge, which left Copenhagen June 22, only twenty-seven are known to be alive and for the rest no hope is held out.

When last seen the Norge was sinking where she struck on the islet of Rockall, whose isolated peak rises itself from a deadly Atlantic reef some 290 miles off the west coast of Scotland.

Early on the morning of last Tuesday the Norge, which was out of her course in heavy weather, ran onto the Rockall reef, which in the distance looks like a ship under full sail. The Norge was quickly backed off, but the heavy seas poured in through a rent in her bows.

The emigrants who were awaiting breakfast below ran on deck. The hatchways were scarcely built for these hundreds of souls and became clogged.

The Norge quickly began to go down by the head. Eight boats were lowered and into these the women and children were hurriedly put. Six of these boats smashed against the side of the Norge and their helpless inmates were caught up by the heavy seas.

Two boatloads got safely away from the side of the sinking ship and many of the emigrants who were left on board, seizing life belts, threw themselves into the sea and were drowned. Capt. Gundel, so say the survivors, stood on the bridge of the doomed vessel until it could be seen no more.

The Norge foundered suddenly and some 600 terrified emigrants were thrown into the water or drawn down by the sinking ship. Those who could swim tried to reach the boats, but these were already too full and their occupants beat off the drowning wretches with oars.

The boats kept together for some hours. Practically all of their occupants were passengers and were not used to handling such craft. The boat occupied by the survivors landed at Grimsby was a lifeboat.

AN OPEN SWITCH.

Wreck of East Wabash Train at Litchfield, Mich.

The Chicago limited on the Wabash railroad due in St. Louis at 7 p. m., and half an hour late, was wrecked Saturday night inside the city limits of Litchfield, Ill. The train struck an open switch and was overturned and seven of the nine cars were burned. It is believed that twenty persons perished in the second and third coaches and that forty were injured.

Chas. Cornean, station agent at Litchfield, said that the wreck was the result of malicious mischief. He said the north track, as that siding is called, had not been used during the day and it is plain that the switch was tampered with. Not fifteen minutes before the accident the third section of passenger train No. 19, south bound, passed over it safely. But when No. 11 was derailed there the switch was turned and the lock lying on the ground beside it.

It is probable that the exact number of dead will not be known for several days, as the passengers hurt assert that bodies were cremated in the burning debris.

Japs Report More Success.

Gen. Kuroki's Headquarters in the Field, via Fusan, June 30 (delayed in transmission).—The Japanese occupied Mao Tien Pass today, unopposed. The Russians abandoned their strong lines of earthworks in the hills, commanding the entrance to the pass. The foreign military attaches accompanying the Japanese army express surprise that the Russians offered no resistance.

It is regarded as probable that the Russians feared that their line of retreat would be blocked by other divisions of the Japanese army.

A belated report from Admiral Togo records a desperate and successful torpedo attack at the entrance of Port Arthur Monday night, June 27, in which a Russian guardship and a Russian torpedo boat destroyer were sunk.

The guardship is described as having two masts and three funnels. She was either a battleship or a cruiser, and she was torpedoed and destroyed. The torpedo boat destroyer was struck and then blew up and sank.

Admiral Togo reports the loss of one officer and thirteen men killed and one officer and two men wounded. He makes no mention of damage to his fleet.

Blames Officers for Disaster.

The inquiry conducted by Coroner Berry and a jury into the Gen. Slocum disaster has been concluded, and after nearly four hours' deliberation a verdict was rendered in which the directors of the Knickerbocker Steamboat Co., the captain of the Slocum, Capt. Pease, the commodore of the company's fleet, and others were held criminally responsible. Warrants were issued for their arrest. The charge in each case was manslaughter in the second degree. Bail was fixed by the coroner in amounts varying from $1,000 to $5,000.

Twenty-Two Russians Drowned.

While experimenting with a converted torpedo boat which was intended for a submarine, twenty-two sailors were drowned at the Baltic works.

Four officers and thirty men were on board when the signal was given to submerge the boat without first properly closing the manhole.

Republican State Convention.

FRED M. WARNER NOMINATED ON THE FIRST BALLOT.

The Primary Reform Resolution of the Grand Rapids Convention Reaffirmed.

The Republican state convention held in Detroit on Thursday was more than ordinarily attended; in fact, it was a sort of banner attendance. Congressman Hamilton was the temporary chairman, and made a powerful address from the party standpoint. The credentials committee labored on one contest, which was in the Wayne delegation, and it resulted in the seating of Gen. H. M. Duffield, the contestant.

At the afternoon session the real business was done. Under the guidance of Congressman S. Oliver Young of the twelfth district, the direct voting proposition was the first coming to battle of the two party factions.

By a vote of 10 to 2, the committee on resolutions refused to recommend the submission of the primary reform question to a vote of the people of Michigan at the next spring election.

The platform as adopted contains this reference to primary elections:

"We believe that the selection of candidates for public office should be protected from improper control and taint of corruption, and should be so conducted as the judgment and will of the people in their respective counties and election districts may demand and direct. To that end, we reaffirm the action of the Republican state convention at Grand Rapids, May 19, 1904, in favor of primary reform, where changes from the existing caucus and convention system are desired."

"We further believe it wise and desirable that all caucuses and primaries relating to the selection of delegates to state conventions should be held upon the same day. And recommend to the incoming legislature the adoption of such a law, with proper details for its satisfactory enforcement."

Hon. William Alden Smith and Senator Simons, of Detroit, opposed the plank, and offered the following substitute:

Resolved, that the voters of this state be given the right by legislative enactment to nominate their party candidates for governor by direct vote.

Both gentlemen advocated the amendment, which was strenuously opposed by the Hon. Perry A. Powers and others, and then overwhelmingly defeated. The oratory over the roll call settled it, then came the nominations, resulting in the selection of these candidates:

For governor—Fred M. Warner, of Oakland county.

For lieutenant-governor—Alex. Maitland, of Marquette county.

For state treasurer—Frank P. Glazier, of Washtenaw county.

For secretary of state—George A. Prescott, of Tawas city.

For auditor-general—Dr. J. B. Bradley, of Eaton county.

For attorney-general—Charles A. Blair, of Jackson.

For superintendent of public instruction—Patrick Kelley, of Wayne.

For land commissioner—W. H. Rose, of Clinton.

When Mr. Warner came upon the platform after the nomination was made, with Mr. Warren and Mr. Horton, the great audience received them with a salvo of applause that shook the roof, Mr. Warner, in accepting the nomination, said:

"Fellow Citizens—I am deeply grateful to you and the Republicans of Michigan for the high honor you have conferred on me today. I cannot but realize the great responsibility that will devolve on me if elected to the high office of governor of the state.

"In accepting the nomination I here pledge my fidelity to the best interests of the state and of the party. The principles of that party were taught me along with the alphabet by the best father a man ever had.

"I have always maintained that every man should have the right to express his views fairly and squarely on every question. This I have always done and always shall do. To my many friends who have always supported me in the past and to my new friends who have become interested with me in the cause of pure primaries I return my heartfelt thanks. I am truly grateful to them all.

"I thank, too, all the independent papers of the state for their loyal support and for the Republicans and the press of the state that have honestly differed with me I have only the highest respect and regard. As for the question of primary elections, after it has had a fair and candid consideration, the policy arrived at, I sincerely believe, will be right.

"Regarding the other candidates, all I can say is that if one of them had been selected instead of myself, he would have had my hearty and loyal support. We have a great campaign before us, and I shall make my fight on the principle of our devotion to the party of this state and to the national ticket headed by Mr. Roosevelt. If elected, my only endeavor will be to serve the whole state. In no other way can I show my appreciation of your kindness to me today than by doing my plain duty."

Homer Warren followed with a neat speech, full of wit and dry humor, which showed that so far as he was concerned, the situation was accepted with becoming grace.

"It is all right," said he, "Personally I can say that the best thing possible has happened to me, and I presume that you took this way of showing your interest in me. I am a Republican and promise the ticket my hearty support. I am somewhat of a fighter, but believe in fighting from the inside, and when it is all over I am still a member of the Republican party. I admit I have strong convictions. Many of you have. We respect each other for them. I intend to stick to mine."

Somebody called for a song, but Mr. Warren said that though during the last 20 years it had been his sad duty to sing at funerals many times, he drew the line at singing at his own.

Mr. Horton spoke briefly along harmony lines.

The only exception to the general harmony was the attitude of Justus S. Stearns. The Ludington man came to Detroit in the morning, but he did not appear at the convention, nor did he allow his name to be presented, though the sixty-five Kent county delegates voted for him just the same. Stearns left the city before the convention was over, so that his attitude as to the ticket could not be learned.

The ending of the convention seemed to end all the scraps, and general handshaking and hurrahs began.

PROHIBITION PARTY NOMINEES.

FOR PRESIDENT:
THE REV. SILAS C. SWALLOW
OF HARRISBURG, PENN.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT:
GEORGE W. CARROLL
OF BEAUMONT, TEXAS.

The Rev. Silas C. Swallow, nominated for president by the national prohibition convention in Indianapolis, is editor of the Pennsylvania Methodist and has three times run for state offices in Pennsylvania, for state treasurer in 1897 and for governor in 1898 and 1902. He received 118,000 votes for treasurer in 1897 and 132,000 votes for governor in 1898. George W. Carroll of Beaumont, Tex., the nominee for vice president, is the owner of large oil properties in Texas and is reputed a millionaire.

CONDENSED.

A project is on foot in Alexandria for restoring the Sphinx, near the Great Pyramid of Ghizeh, to its original condition. Thick layers of soil completely cover the head of the monument, while the lower parts are greatly obscured by accumulations of sand. It is proposed to clear all these accumulations away and to clean the head completely. When the work has been completed the Sphinx will once more appear, if not in its first freshness, at least in the grandeur of its original proportions.

She was very poorly at the time she began using your medicine. She had no blood, and suffered a great deal of pain with her menses, which was irregular. She has taken several bottles and we would gladly recommend Zoa Phora to any woman suffering in her condition, as she has been greatly benefited by using it."
