he D., Y., A. A. & J. and Jackson Consolidated Traction Co. Will Now Be Worked Under One Management.

A dispatch from New York says that the long-talked of consolidation of the properties of the Detroit, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor & Jackson Co. and the Jackson Consolidated Traction Co. was effected Saturday.

According to the dispatch both roads will be hereafter conducted as one system. J. P. Clark, formerly the manager of the Consolidated Traction Co., which includes the Jackson city lines and the so-called Boland properties between Jackson and Detriot, will manage the merged roads, and the properties will be under the general direction of the fol lowing managing committee: Walter C. Kerr, of New York, George C. Smith, of Pittsburg, L. H. Hole, of New York, W. N. Coler, jr., of New York, J. D. Hawks, of Detroit, S. F. Angus, of Detroit, and W. A. Boland, of Jackson.

Detroit is the eastern terminus and Jackson the western terminus of the system, which has a total mileage of 125 miles. The line passes through Detroit, Dearborn, Wayne, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor, Saline, Chelsea, Grass Lake, Jackson, and several villages representing a total population of 372,965. The system connects at Jackson on the west with the Jackson & Battle Creek Traction Co., which operates a third rail system through Albion and Marshall to Battle Creek, where it connects with the Michigan Traction Co., which operates the city systems of Battle Creek and Kalamazoo and an interurban line connecting the two cities. This gives a continuous electric railway system from Detroit to Kalamazoo, a distance of about 200 miles.

A Kalamazoo doctor admits that perfectly normal condition.

Death of Mrs. Arthur M. Hunter. Mrs. Phena Hunter, wife of Arthur M. Hunter, died Tuesday morning, July 19, at 1 o'clock, at the family home on Madison street after a lingering illness, for the last nine months of which she had been confined to her bed, aged 40 years. Mrs. Hunter's illness dates back 13 years when an attack of the grip left her with a bronchial cough which never left her. Ten years ago she had an attack of pneumonia, both lungs being affected, and she had not been really well since that time though able up to a year ago to attend to her household duties and care for her family, to whom she was devotedly attached. Philipena Schenk was born in Freedom May 8, 1864. She was married to Arthur M. Hunter in 1885, since which time she has always lived in Chelsea. Besides her husband and four daughters, who range in age from 17 to 6 years old, she leaves five sisters and two brothers to mourn her loss.

The funeral services were held at Bread, Cakes, Pies, the house this morning at 10 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. C. S. Jones. The remains were laid to rest beside those of her mother in Maccaroons and Lady Fingers. Oak Grove cemetery.

It was Sebert who brought the dragging pace finally to a halt, throwing himself upon a stone bench to hold his head in his hands. "We cannot drive them off; that needs no further proof. And I do not see how we can hold out till the time that chance entices them away, when but one meal stands between us and starvation, and already we are as weak as rabbits. Naught can profit us save craft."

"I think I could manage it for you lord. They think me your unwilling captive: you remember what the messenger said about freeing me? If I should go to Rothgar-" his voice broke and his eyes sought his friend's eyes as though they were wine-cups from which he could drink courage-"if I should go to Rothgar, lord, I could declare myself escaped, and he would be likely to believe any story I told him."

Sebert leaped up and caught the lad by the shoulders, then hesitated. weighing it in his mind, half fearing to believe. "But are you sure that your tongue will not trip you? Or your face, poor mouse?"

The boy seemed to gather strength from the caressing hands, as Thor from the touch of his magic belt. "As to that, I think he is not wise enough to guess the truth. I will tell him that you have thought it revengeful toward him to starve your Danish captive."

Pulling the soft curls with a suggestion of his old lightheardtedness, the Etheling laughed with him. "You bantling! Who would have dreamed you to that degree artful? I would not have you suffer their anger. Are you capable of so much feigning?"

CHAPTER XII,

How Fridtjof Cheated the Jotun "I trust my sword; I trust my steed; But most I trust myself at need," the fair-haired scald sang exultingly to the Danishmen sprawled around the camp-fire. It was to no graceful lovesong that his harp lent its swelling chords, but to a stern chant of mighty deeds, whose ringing notes sped through the forest like the bearers of war-arrows, knocking at the door of each sleeping echo until it awoke and carried on the summons.

Echoes awoke as well in the breasts of those who listened. When the minstrel laid aside his harp for his cup, Snorri Scar-Cheek brought his fist down in a mighty blow upon the earth. "To hear such words and know one's self doomed to wallow in mast!"

A dozen shaggy heads wagged surly acquiescence. But from the figure outstretched upon the splendid bearskin a harsh voice sounded. "Now I see that because you lie in mast you have a swine's wit," it said. "Do you want the thrall to stand forth and prove for the hundredth time that their bins must needs be as empty as your head?"

Into the den the daughter of Frode came on her difficult mission. It was the Scar-Cheek who offered the first welcome in a jovial shout. "The hawk escaped from the cage! Well done, champion! Did you batter a way out with your mighty fists?" A score of hands were stretched forth to draw the boy into the circle; a score of horns were held for his refreshment.

Rothgar sat up on the great skin with a gesture of some cordiality. 'Hail to you, Fridtjof Frodesson!" he said. "Your escape is a thing that gladdens me. I did not like the ness of the cheeks could not hide a | thought of starving you, and I hope sideration. At the end of the harvest, any English house would be fitted out for weeks of feasting. You came the t the larder was fullest; and they have only spent one meal a day since."

Rothgar got upon his feet and towered over her, his Jotun-frame appearing to swell with irritation. "Tell shortly what you think of their case; can they last one day more?"

Fridtjof the Bold took refuge in sullenness. "They can last two weeks as easily as one. How much longer are you going to keep me from food?"

She was free after that to do any think she liked, for their excitement was so great that they forgot her existence. Those whose fluency was not hampered by their feelings relieved their minds by cursing. And the few who were boldest turned and bearded the son of Lodbrok himself.

"How much longer must we endure this?" "Think of the game we are missing!" "There is little need to remind me. My naked fists could batter the stones from their places-' "In a week more, it is possible that England may be won!" "What do you care for their wretched land, chief?" "Chief, how much longer must we lie here?"

When that question was finally out, every man heaved a sigh of relief, straightening in his place like a dog that is pricking his ears, and there was a pause.

A fell look came into the Jotun's face as he gazed back at them; and for a time it seemed that he would either answer with his fist or not at all. But at length he began to speak in a voice as keen and hard as his

"You know my temper, and that I must have my will. Always I have thought it shame that my kinsman's odal should lie in English hands, and now I have made up my mind to put an end to it. You know that I am in no way greedy for property. When I obtain the victory, you shall have every acre and every stick on it to burn or plunder or keep, as best pleases you." He interrupted himself to bend forward, shading his eyes with his hands. "If I am not much mistaken," he said in quite another voice, "yonder is Brass Borgar at last! Yonder, near those oak-trees."

In an instant they had all turned to they were silent, the thud of hoofs became distinct. Shouting their welquestions.

When the man finally stood before over your head since I sent you out. You must do one of two things-either words."

It was here that Washington was received in 1789, and there are many historical associations clustering around the old hall, which is now used for lectures and recitations and contains several reference libraries.

Character Is Made and Shown. He was known to them in the breakof bread.-Luke, xxiv.,

There are many wonderful and dorious passages in the New Testament, but few more pathetic to my aporehension than that little story of the sak of Emmaus, the desciples not reognizing the Master, while yet their earts burned within them as they talked with Him by the way. And the story reaches its climax of beauty, unfolds the sweetest flower of its sigsificance where the disciples, rehearsing the details of the event, tell how Jesus "was known to them in the breaking of bread."

How interesting and suggestive that He was not known to them by any sign that marked Him as the Messiah or in any way pre-eminent, but by one of the simplest things He had ever done in their presence. One likes to think of their recalling something pleasant in His manner, some happy, grateful look upon His face, as if He were God's minister in answering the prayer. "Give us this day our daily bread" which He had taught them when they asked Him how to pray. Perhaps the time when He sat at table with them was the time when the conscious burden of His ministry was least oppressive and He unbent Himself in the most intimate and friendly manner.

It is very lovely to be thought of dead as doing kind and pleasant things. Among the thousands of exaggerated and pretentious epitaphs in Mount Auburn there is one which

She was so pleasant. I think it one of the most enviable. And there are many women and as many men who earn it perfectly. They do not strive nor cry, but wherever they go and whatever they do they diffuse an atmosphere of comfort and content. They make sick people well and sad people merry. They dispel the gloom from anxious hearts and the fevered pulse is quieted at the cool fountain of their unfailing cheer.

A great many persons are known to their families and friends in the same way as Jesus was known in the New Testament story-by their behavior at the morning, noonday, or evening meal. "Joy of the street," says the Provencal proverb, "curse of the home." It is proverb which fits many people like a glove. These are men who spend all their pleasantness and gayety on their companions in business and at the club and have only sour looks and cross words at home. There are women who can "smile and smile" at the afternoon reception and the evening party, and be anything but agreeable in the uneventful round of their domestic cares. But what men and women are in this uneventful round goes far not only to show their true character, but to make it what it is for better or worse. Francis Bacon said: "God hangs the greatest weight upon the smallest wires." That would be dangerous mechanics were not the wires so many that in their aggregate they are of as great strength as that of the cables on which our great suspension bridges swing in air. The atomic theory may be true or false in physics; it is certainly true upon the spiritual plane. All great actions, characters and events are prepared for in silence and obscurity by innumerable little seemingly unimportant actions, refusals, acceptance, disposition. The roots of a great character spread out like the roots of a great tree, ten thousand filaments drawing their virtue from the dark earths and secret springs, and rielding each its proper increment to that great strength with which the tree or character flings wide its branches and defies the storm. Men and women are best known as they are most surely fashioned by such little seemingly petty actions as the breaking of bread or the making of it, or the tasks necessary for the honest earning of it, because the whole character rushes into expression in every part, because every part reports the oundness or unsoundness of the whole to which it has contributed its due proortion of those elements which in heir aggregation and co-ordination Chadwick.

Nothing among the so-called negative vices undermines character like instability. Nothing so stamps a man as useless to his church, to his community and to his Christ as inconstancy. On the other hand, nothing tends to build up a noble and exalted character so much as constancy and faithfulness; nothing will be more likely to raise a man's usefulness to his highest notch than these qualities. To be inconstant, unstable, that were of the earth, earthy; but to be uniformly true and steadfast, that were of Christ, Christlike.

Through Sorrow's Gate.

row's self, that come through sorrow's gate-gentleness, tact, sympathy, strength, becautiful traits of character, which seem to find no other mode of entrance into life. Long for unclouded joy as we may, it still remains true that few of us would choose for our most valued friend one who has never suffered. The eyes that have not known tears must needs lack something of tenderness. The heart that never has been torn with anguish and loss has never sounded its own depths, and cannot measure those of another. The soul grows strong through storm and conflict, if it ever grows strong at all, and, however sweet a nature may be, we find it incomplete and unsatisfying if it has never known the softening, hallowing touch of grief. There are dark pages in our lives where we would gladly have when alive and remembered when changed the story if we could. There would be willing to give up all that sickness." . . it brought and taught us-to be just what we were before it touched us. There are some precious gains that come through sorrow's gate.

Rejoicing in Tribulation.

This is contrary to the flesh, but in shun what is disagreeable and irksome. To endure tribulation with joy, it must be of a kind which has not come upon us by our own folly and sin. If we bring trouble and hardship upon ourselves by our own wrong doing, we should mourn and repent, rather than rejoice. But if for fidelity to truth and devotion to Christ we suffer, then we can rejoice that we are accounted worthy to enter into the fellowship of his sufferings. To such Christ speaks: "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of 'life."

Such as bear trial for Jesus patient ly and joyfully, thereby give a good and effectual testimony of the reality and beauty and helpfulness of the Christian religion. The world has respect and reverence for a Christian who is himself a living example of the faith he professes. But the undegenerate despise hypocrisy in religion and take a discriminating view of practical Christianity as they read it in the life of professed followers of Christ.

God Hears.

Prayer must be addressed to the Father. As soon as we utter that sa cred name the divine nature responds and, to put it vividly, is on the alert to hear what we desire. A little child cannot utter a sigh however slight, a sob however smothered, without awakening the quick attention of its mother; and at the first whisper of our Father's name He is at hand to hear and bless. Alas, we have too often grieved His Holy Spirit by a string of selfish petitions or a number of formal platitudes. To the wonderment of angels we thus fritter away the most precious and sacred opportunities. Be still, then, before you pray to consider what to ask. Order your prayers for presentation and be sure to begin the blessed interview with words of sincere and loving appreciation and devotion.-Rev. F. B. Meyer.

Human Life.

It is the salvation of a noble nature to have some task of self-denial, some motive for self-sacrifice left, when all that made the daily burden of life enhake up a human life.—Jown White durable has passed away. Chinaman Has at Least One Cause for Congratulation.

The impassivity of John Chinaman's countenance is now at least partially explained. He has no nerves in his teeth. This interesting bit of information comes 'way from Oregon, where the dentists have been having a state meeting. One of the speakers, dentistry," said he had tinkered with the teeth of many Chinamen, and never once had known of them to whimper. The only thing in regard is to "secure any teeth they have or send back to China in order that are reincarnated." A Chinaman would

German Love of Sauerkraut.

Here is an imaginative story to illustrate the estimate that some German citizens place on sauerkraut as a food staple. A German was speaking about the high price of cabbage. "I tell you, dose kebbages is awful high dis year," he said; "me und me vife puts up six, seven, eight barrels of sauerkraut every year-but ve can't dis year. BACK LICK Settled the Case With Her.

Many great discoveries have been made by accident and things better than gold mines have been found in this way, for example when even the accidental discovery that coffee is the real cause of one's sickness proves of most tremendous value because it locates the cause and the person has then a chance to get well.

"For over 25 years," says a Missouri woman, "I suffered untold agonies in my stomach and even the best physicians disagreed as to the cause without giving me any permanent help. different ones saying it was gastritis. indigestion, neuralgia, etc., so I dragged along from year to year, always half sick, until finally I gave up all hopes of ever being well again.

"When taking dinner with a friend one, day she said she had a new drink which turned out to be Postum and I liked it so well I told her I thought I would stop coffee for awhile and use it, which I did.

"So for three months we had Postum in place of coffee without ever having one of my old spells but was always healthy and vigorous.

"Husband kept saying he was convinced it was coffee that caused those spells, but even then I wouldn't believe it until one day we got out of Postum and as we lived two miles from town I thought to use the coffee we had in the house.

"The result of a week's use of coffee again was that I had another terrible spell of agony and distress, proving that it was the coffee and nothing else. That settled it and I said good bye to Coffee forever and since then Postum alone has been our hot mealtime drink.

"My friends all say I am looking worlds better and my complexion is much improved. All the other members of our family have been benefit-

In a Dutch Village.

At Marken, a fishing village of Holland, few men are to be seen, as they are nearly always out at sea in their boats. Those whom one does see are like Dutchmen in a play, in queer headgear, in the most voluminous knickerbockers that ever delighted the eart of a caricaturist and having on clattering wooden shoes which are, as coasting skipper once said, the urest preventive of colds and of "cold cet" (which he spoke of as if they were a disease) to be found in the world. Clumsy enough these Dutch fisher folk look, but they are handy in boat. But there is agriculture, too, of a simple kind at Marken. Not a man usually is to be seen working in the bay harvest or at other employment in the fields. The women do the farm work.

Low Wages Paid in Egypt. The population of Egypt is about $,060,000, and most of the people are engaged in a sort of desultory campaign against mother earth to force her to yield enough grain for the mere sustenance of lazy life. The labor supply is large and dilatory; the wages are correspondingly low. In upper Egypt one can hire farm laborers, or loafers, at 9 cents a day, and in lower Egypt at 13 cents, the laborer, or loafer, to board himself. These laborers, or loafers, want no money in pay, but will take part of the crop.

Grasp the Opportunity.

In 1865, Durham was a village of a dozen houses. When the soldiers plundered the place, they got a quantity of smoking tobacco. They liked it so well that they hardly got home before they began to write to Durham to get more. There were in the town men of enough enterprise to see the opportunity which this situation of fered them. It was not long before Durham salesmen were selling Durham tobacco in every part of the world.-The World's Work.

Soldiers' Superstitions.

Among the numerous superstitions of the Cossacks there is none stronger than the belief that they will enter Heaven in a better state if they are personally clean at the time they are killed. Consequently, before an expected battle they perform their toilets with scrupulous care, dress themselves in clean garments, and put on the best they have. This superstition is not confined to the Cossacks alone, but is widely prevalent in all branches of the Russian army.

INFIRM, BUT LONG LIVED.

English Vicar Disappointed the Buyer of His Living.

In England the purchase of an adrowson, or the right to succeed to a vacant church office, is not uncommon. There is a story told of a country vicarage whose incumbent was, though but middle-aged, very infirm. His tenure of the position being thus uncertain, the living was advertised for sale. The auctioneer who at the time had the disposal of all church preferments mentioned as a special advantage to intending purchasers that the holder could not last long. To put this prospect to the test several possible buyers went down to the village to look over the vicar. A father and son attended the Sunday services at the church. A servant led the ailing vicar, but the latter managed to get through a very earnestly delivered sermon lasting half an hour. In the afternoon he again conducted service, baptized children and preached for fifty minutes. Service in the evening was to follow. But the man who had come to buy had seen enough. "My son," he said, "that old cock ain't a-goin' yet; I am," and he forthwith departed. In the end a young parson bought the place for himself. The invalid outlived by twenty years the man who had bought his living; he lasted fifty years beyond the sale and died of sheer old age at 92.

Nerve Fag.

If You Waste Your Nerve Energy, After Awhile You Will Suffer For It.

You can waste nerve force by excess over-work, worry, anxiety, etc. You can weaken yourself by not eating proper food or securing sufficient rest to renew the nerve energy you use up.

The proper treatment, in addition to good phosphatic food, such as whole meal bread, prepared cereals, etc., is Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.

This is as truly a brain and nerve food as any food you could eat, and be-sides, furnishes strength and tone of its own, which goes to the weakened nerve system, and sets it to rights.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a refreshing, revitalizing tonic food-medicine for the brain and nerves. It reconstructs worn-out nerve tissue, and fills your languid brain with new life and vigor.

Dr. Miles' Nervine has made so many marvelous cures, of people so sick the doctors thought they were incurable, that it is today the standard medicine In many thousands of American homes. The first bottle is guaranteed to help you, or druggist returns your money.

"The extreme heat, close confinement and intense mental strain incident to the banking business, has caused me to suffer with nervousness and insomnia. It gives me pleasure to say that I have used Dr. Miles' Nervine with very satisfactory results in the treatment of these affections. I am now on my fifth bottle, and eat and sleep well, in fact have almost forgotten that I possess nerves."—R. L. DALBY, Asst. Cashier, State Bank, Texarcana, Ark.

to pass over the new connection made at Grass Lake between the two roads. Wolf Lake was reached about 1 o'clock and the party was at once taken in steam and gasoline launches for a ride around the beautiful shores of the lake. Those who had never been there before were particularly pleased and favorably impressed with the lake and its surroundings and were very hearty in their praises of it.

On their return to the casino the ladies and gentlemen were sat down to a splendid fish dinner which their well whetted appetites prompted them to do full justice to.

Dinner over A. S. Glasgow. of Jackson, called the assemblage to order and in a brief speech told them levied if the city loses the case. the aims and objects of the management with regard to Wolf Lake, and stated that it would be conducted in the future even better than it had been in the past with respect to its moral and social features and would at all times be a place to which individuals or parties could come for a day of healthful pleasure. Brief talks were also given by Revs. Wm. Gardam, of Ypsilanti, VanKirk, of Jackson, and Shannon, of Wayne, all of whom expressed their pleasure at the beauties of Wolf Lake and its Brutally Tortured.

A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equaled. Joe Golobrick, of Colnsa, Calif., writes, "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I came across Electric Bitters and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it relieved and cured me." Just as good for liver and kidney troubles and general debility. Down the Bridge street hill the horse tere at full speed and through the city to the corner of Broadway, where, covered with foam, it staggered and fell to its knees.

Leonard had Pearl carried to the barn and the police ambulance was called. The run was taken up by the police team in a few minutes with Dr. E, Park Edwards working over the wound while the ambulance dashed to U. B. A. hospital.

A Joke and a Murder.

A joking remark passed between old friends resulted in a murder in the Arcade saloon in St. Joseph. J. A. Cook, aged 50 known as the largest manufacturer of brooms in that section of the state, is the murderer, and Burton Griswold, aged 35, of the Benton Transit Co., the victim.

Cook and Griswold met and the latter made some half-poking, half-insulting remark about one of Cook's emthey separated it was thought the matter would be dropped. An hour later, however, Cook came upon Griswold in the Arcade saloon and without a word walked up to him and struck him a blow on the jaw which felled him like a log, Griswold's head struck a toration on the sidewalks. marble pillar and he died almost in-

Cook was immediately arrested, but on the way to the jail his friends interfered with officers and a fight ensued, and the police were forced to fight their way through the crowd. gun in hand. It is feared an attempt may be made to liberate him from the jail by force. Cook has been associated in business in Benton Harbor for a number of years and enjoys a good reputation He, too, was a man of good character.

Free Hair Cuts.

The Disciples of Benjamin and Mary, Flying Rollers and other curbstone preachers must get off the main streets in the business district of Benton Harbor. This is the edict handed down by Mayor Giliet. For the past two months Benjamin and Mary, Dowieites and preachers of other rival creeds have been competing for business on the street corners. The noise made by preachers and gospel singers and several kinds of wind instruments put all the medicine shows in the background and an appeal was made to the authorities. Any Flying Roller violating the edict is to be placed in jail and his hair clipped.

Imperfect ! Work.

It is doubtful if the Fred M. Warner state census supervisors will give out any figures on Detroit's population. Assistant Supervisor Smith says the reports of the 180 local enumerators are so imperfect he believes no fairly accurate totals can be furnished. Trustworthy advices indicate that the situation of the Russian army south of Liao Yang is extremely grave It is said in Mukden that Kuropatkin is almost entirely surrounded and that the Russians are being rapidly driven back on their center at Hal Cheng, A strong Japanese force is reported have established itself at Anping, or the Liao Yang-Feng Wang Cheng road threatening the Russian headquarters at Liao Yang. An attempt is said to have been made by the Russians to dislodge this force, but they were repulsed with severe loss. Another Japanese army is reported at Chang Ling Sze, which seems to be aiming at Kuropatkin's line of communications with the headquarters at Liao Yang and will probably interpose an effectual barrier to his retreat to the north if he should decide to avoid giving battle at Hai Cheng

The general opinion in Mukden is that Kuropatkin's chances of extricating his army from its present dilemma without such heavy losses as to practically destroy its usefulness as an of. fensive force are very slight.

No Children in Japan.

There are no children in Japan. They are dignified burlesques on the grown-ups. The little girls of the family take care of the babies by having them strapped to their backs. Nearly every maid of 5 or 6 has a baby tied to her back and perhaps that accounts for the bent back and tottering gait of the Japanese woman. Though one never hears a Jap baby cry, if one begins to make a mouth and wrinkles up its funny little face, its child-mother quiets it by raising Harper's Weekly. her body on her toes and heels as fast as she can, and placidity reigns in short order. The Countess Cassini at the bazaar that she recently held in Washington for the benefit of the Russian Red Cross was conversing with the rather elderly wife of a Senator when a third lady drew near.

"How do you do, Countess? Mrs. Blank, how do you do?" said the third lady. And then she added, in a spiteful tone: "You look older to-day than usual, Mrs. Blank."

Poor Mrs. Blank blushed, but the Russian Countess came to her rescue gallantly.

"Well," she said, laughing, "why shouldn't she? She is older to-day than she ever was before in her ilfe." -Denver Times.

STRATEGY.

What has war taught about strategy? Nothing. The principles of strategy are few, simple, and apparently immutable. They are the same now as they were in Caesar's time, and have never been better epitomized than by Gen. Forest, who said that the art of war consisted in "gettin' thar fustest with the mostest men." The Japanese have managed to do this so far. It is supposed the tle at the mouth of the Yalu, Nanshan hill and Vafangow than the Russians. The Japanese generals, up to the present time, have showed themselves to be the superior strategists.-Chicago Tribune.

THE MORALS OF AMERICANS.

Dr. Charles Cuthbert Hall thinks that the moral standard of the American people is degenerating. Dr. Hall is president of the Union Theological Seminary in New York. In the course of an address May 18 before the Religious Educational Association in Chicago he spoke of the "relatively good state of the common morality of the American people," but a deeper examination of the social side of our American life reveals, he thinks, a situation that causes anything but satisfaction. Our activity has astonished the world, "but morally we are rapidly going astern-so rapidly that one is dumfounded at the contrast after a visit to some of the countries of Europe." Religion, he finds, has very little part in our civilization today; our home life might be better, and our people are generally apathetic about their spiritual interests. To much the same intent but more specific are the conclusions of Dr. Coyle of Denver, as disclosed by him May 19 at the opening of the Presbyterian general assembly at Buffalo. He noted the drift of the people away from lofty ideals and from organized Christianity. It meant something, he thought, when conservative observers called our time "the age of graft."-

One square mile of wheat. Ever see it? Transcontinental trains used as one does our children. As for to stop in the Smoky Hill valley of chucking one under the chin, that's Kansas to allow passengers a view of such a wonder. It realized all the travelers' dreams of agricultural splendor. Hundreds such visions now mark the great grain area of the plains, but their beauty is none the less. Six hundred and forty acres of wealth; $6,000 profit-perhaps more! It shimmered beneath the perfect opalescent blue of the sky, the tall straws bending with their weight of grain. Standing on the seat of the reaper one might see in the distance a glimmer of green pastures, and catch glimpses of rustling fields of corn, but here was the heart of summer.-Scribner's.

THE RIGHT OF VACATION.

Summer vacation has become a custom honored by all just; shrewd employers not in the breach of it, but in its observance. There be those who would, no doubt, if they thought est penny to their many millions, stifle the laughter of children, suppress the sports of youth, and forbid the rational amusements of manhood, but sordid greed does not rule the world, even the little world of busiwiser men than Mr. Sage, dominate its affairs, great and small, and they have fixed the summer vacation as an immutable right regardless of what any modern Croecus or Plutus may think about it. The vacation holiday has come to stay, an American institution of most honorable and honored repute.-Philadelphia Ledger.

THE TOO-READY REVOLVER.

There would be fewer murders in the United States like the unprovoked assassination of Andrew H. Green were proper legislation enacted and enforced in every state of the union restricting the sale of pistols and knives under reasonable regulations. In Great Britain a movement is on foot to require proper safeguards in the sale of firearms. There has been too much laxity and injurious license in such matters in this country. There ought to be a law in every commonwealth in this republic laying down barriers of genuine weight against the carrying of revolvers without permits from the proper authorities, and the granting of such permits ought to be hedged about with thorough precautions. Moreover, any and every offender against such a statute should be compelled to serve a term of imprisonment and not be allowed to escape punishment by the mere payment of a fine.-New York Tribune.

SPEED THE TIME.

Music is a great blessing when it is music. It is a civilizer. It exalts the is not music it has exactly the op to choke up with frenzied people. posite effect. It makes savages of good citizens, suggests manslaughter or assault and battery and makes men enemies of their kind.

Some day, when we have grown more civilized, cities will have noise. beginners and bad performers generally will be compelled to betake themselves to those asylums when they wish to practice. Then it may be made lawful to take a club to the 'guy next door" if he defies the law and persists in playing at his open window.-Minneapolis Times.

USE OF VAST FORTUNES.

Vast accumulations of money always were, and always will be, interesting, but it is obviously difficult for the accumulating individual to make more than a moderate fortune minister to his personal happiness. A very big fortune determines what his occupations shall be, and on what he shall put his mind, but it has not much to do with determining how much satisfaction he shall get out of life. The great office of accumulated wealth is to promote civilization to realize new possibilities of development. When wealth can buy new knowledge for mankind; when it can help a lower race to rise a little, a higher race to rise still more, it is doing about the only thing it can hope to do which is highly important. The more thoughtful of our very tich men seem to realize this. They give money most readily for the spread of knowledge and the discovery of new knowledge. For the relief of suffering they are less solicitous. As is natural, considering their training. they want to do things that will pay: that seem to be scientifically useful. The proportion of their incomes that our richest men spend for their own pleasure is a mere bagatelle. What they don't spend at all immediately becomes productive capital, and a large part of what they give away promotes the spread of knowledge .-Harper's Weekly.
