REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

GOOD MEN NAMED FOR OFFICE.

A Very Harmonious Gathering—Loyal Republicans Will Pull True and Elect the Ticket—No Sore Spots.

The Republican County Convention held in Ann Arbor Tuesday for the nomination of County officers was one of the most harmonious ever held in the history of the party.

At the hour named in the call the convention was called to order by Chairman of the Committee, Geo. Vandawarker.

Gideon L. Hoyt of Lodi, was named as temporary chairman and Geo. H. Rhead of Ann Arbor was selected as secretary.

On motion the chairman was authorized to appoint the usual committee and he named the following committees:

Permanent Organization and Order of Business—Dr. R. S. Copeland, Dr. G. M. Hull, Roland Finch, C. N. Starnard, Geo. Rawson.

Credentials—E. J. Helber, Jay Pray, Bert Kenney, Archie Gauntlett, Dr. Smith.

Resolutions—A. J. Waters, D. C. Griffin, John Kalmbach, Frederick Hutzel, A. J. Sawyer.

The convention then took a recess till one o'clock.

On reassembling the committee on permanent organization reported in favor of making the temporary officers permanent. Recommended that the statutory order be followed in the nomination of candidates.

The committee on credentials reported that full delegations were present from all the wards and townships and that there were no contests.

Nominations for the office of probate judge were called for.

A. J. Waters of Manchester named his fellow townsman, Fred Freeman. Frank Jones offered Emery E. Leland of Northfield. Dr. Copeland nominated Judge H. Wirt Newkirk, and Prof. S. B. Laird of Ypsilanti presented Capt. E. P. Allen of that city.

The first ballot was taken. It was found upon counting the votes that 217 persons had cast their ballots, when only 215 were entitled to do so. A motion prevailed that the result be not announced and another ballot be taken.

The vote, though unannounced, stood: Freeman 49, Leland 71, Newkirk 70, Allen 27.

The second ballot resulted as follows: H. W. Newkirk 84, Emery Leland 77, L. F. Freeman 35, E. P. Allen 18.

Two ballots were taken without result but on the final Mr. Leland was nominated. The vote was as follows: Leland 125, Newkirk 81, Freeman 7, Allen 1.

On motion of Dr. Copeland, warmly seconded by Judge Newkirk, the nomination of Mr. Leland was made unanimous.

The next in order came the nominations for the office of sheriff.

Hon. John K. Campbell of Augusta presented the name of Joseph E. Warner in a fine effort, coupling the proposition to serve the people for $2,000.

Dr. Van Fossen of Ypsilanti, in an eloquent address, named Frank T. Newton of Ypsilanti. D. C. Griffin, in a well-timed effort seconded the nomination.

W. K. Childs presented the name of Lester Canfield of Ann Arbor, and Charles E. I. Iscock named Geo. W. Sweet.

The first ballot for sheriff showed three too many votes and it was thrown out. The vote stood: Newton 81, Warner 19, Canfield 80, Sweet 38.

The final vote for sheriff resulted in the nomination of Frank P. Newman of Ypsilanti, as follows: Newton 111, Canfield 86, Sweet 14, Warner 4.

The convention was in a condition of great enthusiasm as Frank A. Stivers presented the name of Jas. E. Harkins for county clerk. His nomination followed by a unanimous vote.

John Lawson of Augusta, won out easily for Register of Deeds.

The name of A. J. Sawyer, Jr. of Ann Arbor, was presented for prosecuting attorney and his nomination was made unanimous.

For treasurer Otto D. Lulick of Lima was chosen there being no other candidate in the field.

Geo. W. Simple of Ann Arbor and Wm. S. Putnam of Ypsilanti were successful candidates for circuit court commissioners.

The coroners named being Samuel W. Birchfield of Ann Arbor and Dr. J. B. Wallace of Saline.

For the office of surveyor Jerome Allen of Ypsilanti, captured the honors.

STORMS-GOODWIN WEDDING.

The Knole, the beautiful home of Dr. A. B. Storms, of Ames, Iowa, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on the evening of the 20th, when Miss Jeannette Boynton Storms, sister of Dr. Storms, became the bride of Mr. John Edward Goodwin, of Madison, Wis.

The color scheme of the decorations was cardinal and green, cardinal being the color of the University of Wisconsin of which both the bride and groom are graduates. Bright autumn leaves, cardinal dahlias and banks of palms made the large drawing room glow with color. Nearing the wedding hour Miss Lillian Storms sang, "A Song of Waiting" and "Whisper and I Shall hear."

At 6 o'clock the bridal party entered the drawing room to the music of the Swiss Chimes, played by Miss Laura Storms. First came Master Clayton Ward, of Chelsea, Michigan, a nephew of the bride, bearing the wedding ring resting in the center of a cardinal hibiscus. By his side walked little Miss Florence Storms, dressed in white and carrying a large bunch of cardinal dahlias. Next came the bride and groom, the bride gowned in white crepe de chien over white taffeta and carrying a shower bouquet of white clematis. The groom was in evening dress.

At the close of the ceremony, which was performed by Dr. Storms, the sweet toned bells of the Campanile played while the guests were offering their congratulations.

At half past six a wedding dinner was served in the dining room. The decorations here carried out the color scheme of red and green. Beautiful clusters of cardinal crab apples, pendant from their boughs (a special gift from Madison, Wisconsin) adorned the side board while cardinal dahlias and hibiscus glowed from among festoons of smilax.

Only near relatives of the bride and groom were present at the wedding with the exception of Prof. Irwin, of Iowa College. They included beside Dr. Storms' family Mrs. Fannie Ward, of Chelsea, Mich., and Miss Mattie L. Goodwin of Madison, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin will be at home in Albany, N. Y., after the 20th of October.

FARMERS' CLUB MEETING

RESUMES THEIR WINTER SESSIONS.

Congressman Townsend and James E. Harkins Were Present and Both Took Parts in The Program.

Friday the members of the Western Washtenaw Union Farmers' Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Canfield, Sylvan, for their first meeting since the ending of the summer vacation, and the hand of goodfellowship was extended to all comers.

The Club served the usual dinner that the good housewives of the members had provided for the occasion and it is vouched that the male members of the club did an exceedingly good piece of work in disposing of the liberal supply of viands.

After the feasting, some time was devoted to social greetings and when the gathering was called to order by the president, the usual order of routine business was carried out. Congressman Townsend being present, gave the club a short address, and James E. Harkins, of Ann Arbor, sang a couple of solos, and the member then wended their ways homeward, well satisfied with their first meeting since the adjournment for the summer vacation.

The next meeting of the club will be held the third Friday in October at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Lighthall.

Streeter, Blanch Bryan and Frank Miller as leading stars, despite its name, is one of the most laughable musical comedies on tour. From the moment M. B. Streeter, as the doctor, makes his entry the whirlwind is on. Blanch Bryan, as the widow, deals with the adventures of a charming young flirt. F. F. Miller, as the Dutchman, is funny, yes, very funny. The musical numbers are of the highest order. The company is altogether a different class offered the public before and is full of genuine laughter. The dancing by member of the company is an especial feature.

CHRONOMETER PUT TO TEST
It is Kept on Ice to Secure Accurate Adjustment.
Each year the time chronometers of the United States navy are subjected to a test to determine their accuracy and to correct any irregularities. This operation commences in January and usually lasts until the middle of June, and during that time these delicate timepieces are kept on ice at the United States naval observatory. It is not for any fear that they will spoil that they are subjected to this frigid experience, but it is necessary for the purpose of accurate adjustment that they should all be maintained in a constant temperature.
The necessity of having a ship's clocks all absolutely alike will be realized by the layman when he is reminded that an error of four seconds in the chronometer means an error of a mile in calculating the vessel's location. The temperature varies at different times of the test from 50 to 90 degrees and the losing or gaining qualities of the chronometers under these conditions are accurately kept. Thus with a chart expressing in curves just what he may expect from his chronometer under different conditions of climate, and with his thermometer and barometer close at hand, a sailing master may calculate to a nicety the correct time and get his location to a certainty.

Earnings of Popular Novelist.
For "Castle Rackrent" Marie Edgeworth received only $500, for "Belinda" $1,500, for "Patronage," published in 1815, she received the large sum of $10,500; for "Helen," published in 1834, the price was $5,500. Miss Edgeworth gave away much of this money and spent the rest of it in traveling. Apparently she parted with her copyrights. Still, in comparison with Charlotte Bronte, who received only $7,500 for her books, Miss Edgeworth makes a brave show with her $55,310.

The wolves were closing in upon him.
They were on all sides, a famished, howling pack of devils, their white fangs and fiery eyes showing with horrible distinctness as they sprang at him.
The rifle, swung with all his strength from left to right, and from right to left, cleared a path for him and no sooner did one of the brutes fall than a score of its fellows literally tore it in pieces.
Alexis was becoming exhausted.
It was too much for him in his weakened state.
One of the wolves, one larger than the rest, made a bound for his throat, but before it reached him sank in death agony with a bullet in its brain.
At the same moment, by the overturned sleigh, Alexis caught sight of the object of his heroic quest.
It was a woman!

With white face she stood there, revolver in hand, her back protected by the sleigh. Shot after shot rang out, and as each time, with unerring aim, the bullet lodged in the body of a wolf, she gained a moment's respite from the cowardly brutes.
But the end was bound to come.
The last shot but one had been fired.
As if by some devilish instinct the wolves seemed to know that their victim was now defenseless, and they prepared for a rush in all the strength of their numbers.
With a howl that could have been heard a league another pack of the brutes had come down from the hills and joined the others.
Then it was that the helpless woman uttered the wild shriek of agony that had reached the ears of her rescuer—had reached even to the courier in the etape.
Alexis sprang forward. He found that the arm was a magazine rifle, and with a prayer of thankfulness he opened fire. Shot after shot, a perfect fusillade followed, and half a dozen of the brutes were lying bleeding in the snow.

Another moment and he had reached the woman. His face was covered with blood, his arms were torn, but he clasped her by a strong effort and began the retreat to a place of safety.
Repulsed by the shots, the wolves had given way for a time, and then had made a simultaneous rush to feast on the carcasses of those slain by Alexis.
But the feast did not last long.
Maddened more than ever by the taste of blood, they sprang after Alexis and his now unconscious burden.
"He has saved him!" shouted the courier at the moment, as he caught sight of Alexis, and then as he looked again he exclaimed: "My God, it is a woman! Men, men! to the rescue!"
The soldiers waited no longer. The fact that a woman was in danger seemed to awaken all that was manly in their natures and they rushed to the rescue.
Another moment and it would have been too late.
A volley met the first of the ferocious, maddened brutes. The pack halted for a moment, and gave a long howl of rage. Another volley checked

Alexis had revived sufficiently to move, and was supported by two of the Cossacks.
The injuries of Alexis were fortunately slight. The fangs of the wolves had reached him in one or two places on the arms and on one cheek, but the latter proved to be a mere scratch, though sufficient to draw blood, and the clothing had protected the arms. In answer to eager inquiries he explained that he did not see the face of the woman he had rescued, because just as he reached her she almost fell into his arms and in his struggle during the retreat he had not heard her speak.
But it was the presence of Cobb—so entirely unlooked for, and so inexplicable—that furnished them a topic which kept them wondering for hours. That Cobb's presence had something to do with them, they felt certain, but now that he was here, how were they to let him know that they were near. It is the rule on the highroad to the mines for convoys to march two days and rest one; and as this was their resting place, they felt sure that the morning's light would bring some means of letting Cobb know that they were in the stockade.
But what had brought Cobb and the baroness—for they felt sure it was the baroness, Cobb having spoken of his wife—to that out of the way place? That was the puzzle, and it was to account for that fact that both Alexis and Ivan taxed their imagination.
While they are in suspense we will enlighten our readers.
General Cobb, after his marriage to the baroness, found himself in a position where he could afford to give up all the business interests that formerly occupied his time. From the moment Alexis had left St. Petersburg he had but one object in view—that was to rescue his friend from the horrors of Siberian exile, and if possible restore him to the position from which a chain of adverse circumstances had so cruelly deposed him. Or, if that were not possible, it was the intention of Cobb, the rescue of Alexis once effected, to take him to America, the baroness having expressed a strong desire to give up her residence in Europe and make her home in the country of her husband. Cobb's plans for the rescue of Alexis were warmly seconded by his wife, and it was determined to make an effort to effect the rescue of Ilda and Ivan at the same time as Alexis.

The blow to the pride of Count Nazimoff, who had seen his son sentenced like a common convict, had been a severe one, and shortly after his son had arrived in Siberia the count was seized by a severe illness, the result of the shock he had suffered. On his recovery his feelings had undergone a marked change. The tenderness and sympathy shown him on every hand had softened his nature, and the hard pride had now given place to a pitiful yearning for the son he had loved so well. Hence it was that when Gen. Cobb, having heard of Kirshin's confession, and having brought influence to bear to verify the truth of the conspirator's story, appeared before Count Nazimoff to plead the cause of his son, he met with a reception the warmth of which pleased him.

An imperial commissioner was sent to each of the convicts captured in the nihilist rendezvous. They were closely questioned as to the events that had taken place on that eventful night, and their stories, one and all, served to exonerate Alexis and Olga and Ilda, and to lift from the shoulders of Ivan the responsibility for any complicity in or sympathy with the extreme nihilists who sought the assassination of the czar.

So it was that after months of persistent and diligent exertion General Cobb had the assurance that the subject had at length reached the czar, with a strong probability that the imperial clemency so earnestly sought would not be denied.
But even if his efforts in this direction failed, Cobb had made up his mind that he would still succeed. He secured through the American minister an imperial passport to Siberia, and a letter from the authorities giving him, as an American traveler favorably disposed and friendly to the Russian government, the right to visit prisons and other privileges not usually accorded. This letter, addressed to officials throughout Siberia, directed them to extend all aid and assistance to General Cobb and his wife and her companion, Caroline Cobb, who were to travel across Siberia if need be. And before he left St. Petersburg a passport for Caroline Cobb was in his possession.

We pass over the long journey of Cobb and his wife. After many adventures and more hardships they reached Stralensk and there discovered Ilda. The letters which Cobb had in his possession made him a welcome guest at the house of the commandant at Stralensk and they had but little difficulty in obtaining a private conversation with Ilda. It was from Ilda they learned to their great delight that Ivan and Alexis were at Chitka and that they could reach that place with comparative ease. It was while on their journey to Chitka that their sleigh was overturned and they were attacked by the wolves almost within shouting distance of the etape where Karischeff was in command.
Karischeff and Nicholas, after the doors of the stockade had closed on the convicts, returned to the house. "Be on your guard, father," another forward movement. Alexis staggered along with his burden.

Two of the soldiers sprang to his side.
The doors of the etape were thrown open.
In another moment, bruised and bleeding and faint, Alexis Nazimoff staggered into the room; the courier held out his arms to receive the senseless woman from her rescuer. Alexis, with a sigh of unutterable relief, breathed a prayer of thanks, and then as he gave the courier the woman whose life he had saved his brain reeled, the light faded from his eyes, his knees trembled, a shudder passed through his frame, and he fell at full length on the floor.
He had fainted!

CHAPTER XVII.
The Courier's Mission.
The courier bore the insensible form of the woman into the room occupied by Cobb and the baroness.
As the door closed behind him, Karischeff turned quickly to Nicholas and said in a whisper: "I have a plan—wait!"
Then ordering the guard to resume their arms he gave the command to march the prisoners to the kameras.

Nicholas, "you have made a dangerous enemy of the courier, and the slightest mistake may prove our ruin. Try to conciliate him—anything, so there can be no pretext for his going to extremes. Think what would be the consequences if he should make a report to the czar."
Karischeff said nothing. He knew he had committed a grievous mistake in defying the courier and he felt ill at ease. The presence of Cobb and the baroness, too, was an additional source of danger. What if Cobb should discover the presence of Alexis! That he had not done so already was little short of a miracle. But if he should discover him and appeal to the courier for Alexis—especially after Alexis himself had won the heart of the courier—there was no question as to the result. Certainly the courier would never leave Alexis and Ivan in his power.

But it was the presence of Cobb—so entirely unlooked for, and so inexplicable—that furnished them a topic which kept them wondering for hours. That Cobb's presence had something to do with them, they felt certain, but now that he was here, how were they to let him know that they were near. It is the rule on the highroad to the mines for convoys to march two days and rest one; and as this was their resting place, they felt sure that the morning's light would bring some means of letting Cobb know that they were in the stockade.
But what had brought Cobb and the baroness—for they felt sure it was the baroness, Cobb having spoken of his wife—to that out of the way place? That was the puzzle, and it was to account for that fact that both Alexis and Ivan taxed their imagination.

Or, if that were not possible, it was the intention of Cobb, the rescue of Alexis once effected, to take him to America, the baroness having expressed a strong desire to give up her residence in Europe and make her home in the country of her husband. Cobb's plans for the rescue of Alexis were warmly seconded by his wife, and it was determined to make an effort to effect the rescue of Ilda and Ivan at the same time as Alexis.

"HER NAME IS ILDA BAROSH?"

The courier now was to blind the object if possible, to keep Cobb from the knowledge of the presence of Alexis, and to have matters remain in statu quo until the courier and the hated American should depart.
Katherine entered the room. She had discovered the identity of Cobb and the baroness.
"Those people here," she said, "threatens danger. We must be on our guard all the time. A chance word may betray us into trouble that will cost us dearly."
"Olga?" asked Karischeff.
"She is asleep," answered the countess, "and I would shed no tear if she never would wake. Her cursed folly has helped to put us where we are. What is your plan about—about them?" she asked, pointing in the direction of the convict quarters.
"We must wait until the courier departs. His presence—"
Karischeff stopped suddenly.
"The door leading to the sleeping apartments opened and the courier entered the room.
Producing his notebook, the courier in a peremptory tone demanded:
"What is the name of that brave fellow who saved the woman from the wolves?"
"I do not know it," replied Karischeff.
"Then consult your lists and find out," was the sharp rejoinder.
Nicholas saw that his father was again getting on dangerous ground. He determined to come to his assistance.
"I know the name," he said, looking meaningfully at his father, "the name is Alexis."
"Alexis Petrovsky," said Katherine. "I asked it from the brave fellow before I bound his wound and gave him some medicine."
"Where is he now?" asked the courier.
"He is—"
"Asleep—soundly sleeping," said Katherine; "he begged me not to disturb him until morning."

MOTOR CARS OF HIGH SPEED.
Spectators Able to See It Only Ninety Seconds as it Whirs By.
The world has not realized yet the full significance of the historic Morienfeld-Zossen high speed electric experiments conducted during 1901 and 1903. Speeds of 126 miles an hour mean something in the way of velocity and momentum.
The track upon which the experiments were conducted is straight, yet on it the car, when running at full speed, was only in sight for a minute and a half. That is to say, from the moment the approaching car first became visible on the horizon, to the moment it disappeared in the opposite direction, less than ninety seconds elapsed. Spectators standing by the side of the track were able to see that men were in the car, but it was impossible for the eye to get sufficient impression to allow any one to be recognized.
Despite the use of powerful brakes the car traveled over a mile, after their application, before coming to a standstill, so that alertness of the engineer in discovering obstacles on the track would count for little. It isn't probable he could discern such a mile distant, and any application of brakes within that distance would be ineffective.

As Others Hear Us.
A well known Oxford don was asked to speak into a phonograph, and was interested in hearing the reproduction. He listened throughout, then said with scarcely concealed disgust: "Through this machine I am able to speak in a particularly bumptious and affected manner." The worthy man had heard himself as others hear him, that was all. It would be a good thing for many of us to study our method of speaking through the medium of a phonographic reproduction.

Miss Gannon, Sec'y Detroit Amateur Art Association, tells young women what to do to avoid pain and suffering caused by female troubles.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can conscientiously recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to those of my sisters suffering with female weakness and the troubles which so often befall women. I suffered for months with general weakness, and felt so weary that I had hard work to keep up. I had shooting pains, and was utterly miserable. In my distress I was advised to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it was a red letter day to me when I took the first dose, for at that time my restoration began. In six weeks I was a changed woman, perfectly well in every respect. I felt so elated and happy that I want all women who suffer to get well as I did."—Miss GUILA GANNON, 359 Jones St., Detroit, Mich., Secretary Amateur Art Association.

It is clearly shown in this young lady's letter that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will certainly cure the sufferings of women; and when one considers that Miss Gannon's letter is only one of the countless hundreds which we are continually publishing in the newspapers of this country, the great virtue of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine must be admitted by all; and for the absolute cure of all kinds of female ills no substitute can possibly take its place. Women should bear this important fact in mind when they go into a drug store, and be sure not to accept anything that is claimed to be "just as good" as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for no other medicine for female ills has made so many actual cures.

How Another Sufferer Was Cured.
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot praise your wonderful remedies enough, for they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. For the last eight years and more I suffered with female troubles, was very weak, could not do my housework, also had nervous prostration. Some days I would remain unconscious for a whole day and night. My neighbors thought I could never recover, but, thanks to your medicine, I now feel like a different woman.
"I feel very grateful to you and will recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all. It has now been four years since I had the last spell of nervous prostration. I only weighed ninety-eight pounds at that time; now I weigh one hundred and twenty-three.
"I consider your Vegetable Compound the finest remedy made. Thanking you many times for the benefit I received from your medicine, I remain, Yours truly, Mrs. J. H. FARMER, 2809 Elliott Ave., St. Louis, Mo."

Remember Mrs. Pinkham's advice is free and all sick women are foolish if they do not ask for it. She speaks from the widest experience, and has helped multitudes of women.
$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.
Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

A PROGRESSIVE BUSINESS HOUSE.

Geo. H. Foster & Co., the Plumbers' Carry Large Stock of Pipes, Fittings, Wind-mills and Bath Tubs.

About three years ago there was not a plumbing shop in Chelsea where you were sure that you could secure anyone to fix up a pump or windmill in from four to ten days, as the men who were engaged in that line of work were just as liable to be engaged in the country as in their shops.

With the windmills and pumps in the country, there are times when water is worth fully $1.00 per day on the farm. Many people find it very convenient to get pipe and tools and lay their own pipe lines, and there are a great many favors that could not be had were it not for a shop of this kind in the town, and as it is, many go there for favors of this kind and then go elsewhere for their goods.

Geo. H. Foster & Co., claim to be selling more pipe and pumps than any other concern in this part of Washtenaw county, and if you desire to pay the cash they will sell you one-third more goods for the money than any other house in the county.

Their stock of brass fittings for steam or water pipes far exceeds anything in the line ever carried by any firm in Chelsea, and the traveling men claim that the plumbing establishment of Foster & Co., is far in advance of many shops in the larger cities. They carry a fine line of bath tubs and their sales in this department is no small item in their business, being sold to resident both in the country and the village, and to all those who have purchased goods of them, the firm of Geo. H. Foster & Co., extend their greeting, and to all who may call upon them in the future they will extend a royal welcome.

Geo. H. Foster recently secured patents on an automatic vent that he invented, that is operated with the windmill. All persons having pumps that pump from a spout instead of using water from the three-way below the ground, buys one of these vents and are highly pleased with it. It is a well-known fact that many pumps loose fully one-third of the water out of the vents, which amounts to quite an item for wear and tear on a windmill, and the waste water in running back into the excavation for the cylinder often causes the sand to work into the cylinder and then that soon becomes ruined. With the automatic vent all of this difficulty is fully done away with.

A VERY FINE GAME.

The Junior Stars won a closely contested game from the crack O. K. team of Detroit Saturday. Holmes' clever pitching completely baffled the visitors. He allowed them only five scattered hits and struck out seven. The Junior Stars' defense was invisible with men on bases, their three errors being excusable, while the outfield accepted their three difficult chances with out an error. A fine catch by E. Steinbach and the fielding of what looked like a sun hit by Bacon were the features.

Batteries—Holmes and Steinbach; Dargis and Reynolds. The last ball game of the season by the Junior Stars will be played next Saturday afternoon, when they meet the Crescents of Jackson in a double header. As the Crescents have beat the Stars twice this year, all who attend the game here next Saturday afternoon will be repaid for their trouble.

Elmer R. Husted, 13 years old, ran away from his home in Shepherd, Mich., last week. He rode a bicycle to Jackson and came to Lansing by rail. Friday he was picked up on the streets desperately ill. An operation for appendicitis was performed, and Monday night he died.

The decision of the admiralty to send out the fleet in the face of the existing situation in the far east is evidence of the temper of the government to prosecute the war to a finish.

It is understood that there was considerable divergence of expert opinion on the question of delaying the sailing of the fleet until the spring, but the emperor turned the scale in favor of immediate departure.

Levi Rivers, of Escanaba, recently celebrated his 100th birthday. He is still active, and is at present visiting his granddaughter in Manistigue. He clearly remembers the war of 1812, when he was drafted into the British army and taken to Canada. He secured his freedom and returned to this country, where he has since made his home.

George Witten, of Saginaw, a coachman, is happy over the prospect of receiving a legacy of $4,000,000 as his share of his grandfather's estate in London. An attorney is pushing Witten's claim, as his grandfather gave another man a life lease of the property. The man recently died and his son is managing the business and using the revenues.

Walter Durrell, of Munroe, has received a gold watch as a token of gratitude from Harry Rakestraw, the Toledo youth who was rescued from a watery grave in Lake Erie, off Monroe Pier, August 21, when his canvas canoe was capsized and his partner, Charles Niles, was drowned.

The remains of August Henkelman, shot by Detective John Bahr, of Detroit, were buried Wednesday afternoon in a pauper's grave in Forest Lawn cemetery. His stepmother does not mean, she says his mother died when he was a few days old, and that he was never told of her death. His father died some years ago.

The emperor has also paid special courtesies to American military officers who have been attending the maneuvers at Altona.

Making the Desert to Bloom

HANKS USED SEA WATER.

Very Little Use to Deny the Milk Was Diluted.

Julius Kruttschnitt of San Francisco, the general manager of the Southern Pacific Railroad, recently gave out the largest single order for steel rails that the business world has ever known.

A reporter, in discussing this order with Mr. Kruttschnitt, called it a "daring one."

"No," said the railroad magnate, smiling, "there was nothing daring about it. Daring things are those that have in them something risky, something insecure. For instance, you might term 'daring' the well-known action of Hanks, the milkman, in the millionaire's house."

"Hanks, the milkman?" said the reporter, puzzled.

"Yes, Hanks, the milkman. He, one morning, forgot to water his milk. In the hall of his best customer he remembered this omission. A huge tub of fine, clear water stood on the floor by his side. There was no one to spy on him, and thrice, before the maid brought up the jugs, Hanks diluted his milk with a large measure filled from the tub. Then he served the young woman calmly and went on."

"As he was following down the next area the first customer's footman beckoned to him. He returned, and was ushered into the presence of the customer himself, a millionaire.

"Hanks," said the gentleman, "I prefer hereafter to water my own milk."

"Well, sir," said Hanks, "it's useless to deny the thing, for I suppose you were watching me while—"

"No," said the millionaire. "No one was watching you. But the fact is, Hanks, the children are taking medicinal baths, and the tub in the hall was full of sea water."

A Decomposer.

In a beer garden at one of our popular seaside resorts an Irishman sat at a table with a mug of beer at his elbow. Alongside of him stood a large, good-natured looking German. The orchestra began the "Coronation March" from "The Prophet." The Teuton's face beamed all over with a smile of pleasure, and by way of making himself agreeable and imparting information to his neighbor he remarked, with a wave of his hand, in the direction of the music:

"Ach, that was Meyerbeer."

The Celt, whose knowledge of composers was limited, mistook the gesture and made a hasty grab for his beverage, exclaiming at the same time:

"Ye'z lie, ye'z damned Dutchman, that's my beer."—Lippincott's.

Output of Petroleum.

It is not yet half a century since Col. Drake discovered petroleum on the waters of Oil Creek, near Titusville, Pa. The total production of crude petroleum from 1859 to 1902—forty-three years—has been no less than 1,165,280,727 barrels. Of this output Pennsylvania and New York contributed 53.9 per cent; Ohio, 24.3 per cent; West Virginia, 11.3 per cent; Indiana, 3.9 per cent; California, 3.6 per cent; Texas, 2.1 per cent, leaving 9 per cent to be supplied by Kansas, Colorado, Louisiana, Illinois, Missouri, Indian Territory, Wyoming, Michigan and Oklahoma.

Cricketer Lives 98 Years.
England's oldest cricketer, Mr. Herbert Jenner-Fust, is dead at the age of 98 years. He played for Eton eighty-two years ago, and for Cambridge university from 1825 to 1827, being captain in the last year. At the age of 93 he bowled for his village eleven and batted for eleven runs. He practiced in Doctors commons till the court was abolished, and then lived as a country squire.

Importance.
The people do not turn to gaze when he goes by. He tells denied the joy of praise, No banners fly. In token of his worth; his name The busy world has never learned; If death should come to-night to crouch Relentlessly beside his couch The world would roll on unconcerned.

Yet, when his common task is done, Beside his gate There stands an eager little one With arms that wait To clasp themselves around his neck, With pure lips that await his kiss, And though his work may never bring Him fame or wealth, what greater thing May any man achieve than this? —S. E. Kiser.

Singer Goes Into Politics.
Tamaogo, the Italian operatic tenor, whose imposing physique and tremendous high C will be remembered by many Americans, is a candidate for the Italian parliament. He knows nothing of politics, but will go on the stump as a singer, and in this way hopes to capture enough votes to insure his return.

Panama Company Troubles.
The Panama company is not yet free of its embarrassments in the liquidation of its old convention with the Colombian government. The French treasury has now put forward a claim for the payment of a sum of $2,720,000 for registration dues on the deeds of the original concession, and the renewal of the same.

WITH THE VETERANS

The Old Timer.
The old times were the best times; they say the new are bright. But the old have more of loveliness—the old have more of light. The hills of God seemed closer, and the sun shone in the skies. Seemed to shed a greater glory on the old-time, dreaming eyes!

Do you think that we are truer than our fathers were of old? That the rainbows in the tempest have more of grace and gold? Oh, the old friends—they were wiser though the new friends would condemn. For angels, on the heights of God—they lit the way for them!

The old times were the best times; the old songs are the best—The dear—tender melodies that rocked the world to rest! Let the critics, cold and cruel, strike the stars from heaven again—Let the sweet voice of old mothers all To the world will say "Amen!" —Atlanta Constitution.

A Lucky Stoop.
"Speaking of the missiles of war," said an old soldier who had heard the whistles of thousands of them, "a six-pound solid shot striking a man fairly in the breast might also wound or kill the next man behind him, but this was seldom the case in the civil war. At the worst, only two men would become victims. The firing of round shot was generally a subject of jokes and jibes, and it was only when one struck a tree and hurled splinters for a hundred feet around that anybody looked serious.

"At Stone River I saw a soldier hit by a cannon ball for the first time. It struck him fair on the knapsack strapped to his back, and he was flung a distance of fifty feet. He was not mangled, but simply reduced to pulp from his chin to his hips. Again I saw an ambulance horse struck. The shot first struck the earth, glanced and hit a stone, and then jumped a fence and hit the horse in the head. His neck was broken, and all the bones back to his middle seemed to have been pulverized.

"With the advent of the breech-loading cannon, together with new inventions in shot and shell, the old-fashioned cannon ball has become a thing of the past. The same weight of metal, cast as a pointed shot, may not kill any more men in the field, but it does far greater execution when used as a battering power.

"The closest call I ever had from a solid shot was at Fredericksburg. We were standing in line, when I stooped to tie my shoe. At that instant a ten-pound ball passed over my head, the wind of it knocking me down, and it smashed the rear rank man to a pulp. He had a brother in another company, and a week after the battle the brother came to me with his fists doubled up.

"What's the matter?" I asked.

"I'm going to lam you!" was the reply.

"What for?"

"For stooping down the other day and letting poor Jim get killed by a cannon ball meant for you!"

Escaped with the Mule.
The latest claimant to the honor of being the youngest G. A. R. man at the recent Boston encampment is George W. McDonald of Chicago, a member of U. S. Grant post 28.

Mr. McDonald was born in Chicago Aug. 17, 1851, and enlisted as a drummer boy April 15, 1862, in the 65th Illinois volunteers. He was 10 years and 8 months old when he entered the army.

Before enlisting young McDonald was a newsboy. He used to sell papers to Col. Ellsworth, who organized the famous Zouaves, and the war spirit came upon him. He thought it a better business to play the drum than tramp the streets as a newsboy. He learned to drum from William Evans of the Ellsworth Zouaves, one of the claimants of the title of champion drummer of the United States.

McDonald was in many battles. He was at Harper's Ferry, Black Vale, and at Winchester was captured. He was in prison two days, when, by the aid of a black auntie he and two others escaped. They secured a mule and were almost out of the rebel lines when a confederate scout discovered them. The two men were recaptured, but McDonald got away on the mule.

McDonald went straight to the union lines and was able to give valuable information of the situation within the rebel lines.

Mr. McDonald is in good health and resides at 2107 Maple ave., Evanston, Ill.

Change Caused Ill Feeling.
Some feeling has developed in consequence of a change in the management of the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors' Orphans' home at Xenia. At the meeting of the board of trustees, Comrade James L. Smith of Cleveland was elected superintendent to succeed Gen. Charles L. Young, who has held the position for a great many years. Gen. J. Warren Kiefer and Dr. H. C. Houston were opposed to the change, and upon its being made resigned from the board of trustees.

Deaths of Pensioners During 1904.
The report of the Pension department shows that 43,289 pensioners died during the year ending June 30, 1904. The number of invalid pensioners of the war of the rebellion who have died during the past fiscal year is found to be almost exactly 70 per cent of the total deaths, or 30,302, with June estimated. The total number of invalid pensioners on the rolls May 31, 1904, was 690,528.

Dearborn Enlisted at 14.
George A. Dearborn of Grafton, Mass., says he may not have been the youngest lad in the federal army during the civil war, but he wishes it to go on record that he was only 14 years old when he joined Co. B, 11th regt., Wisconsin, Sept. 30, 1861. He was a drummer. He served twenty-two months and was discharged for disability.

QUEER THINGS OF NATURE.

Anomalies of Plant World That Have Never Been Explained.

How does the bulb of the common lawn lily get deeper and deeper into the ground each year? Why does the ginger root hide its blossoms when nearly all other plants flaunt theirs?

Why do the roots of trees flow through the ground like "runnels of molten metal," often separating and uniting again, while the branches are thrust out in right lines or curves? Why is our common yellow birch more often than any other tree planted upon rock?

Why do oaks or chestnuts so often spring up where a pine or "emlock forest has been cleared away? Why does lightning so commonly strike a hemlock tree or a pine or an oak, and rarely or never a beech? Why does the bolt sometimes scatter the tree about and at others plow a channel down its trunk?

Why does the bumble-bee complain so loudly when working upon certain flowers? Why does the honey-bee lose the sting when it stings a person, while the wasp, the hornet and the bumble-bee do not? How does the chimney swallow get the twigs it builds its nest with? From what does the hornet make its paper?

I have never been greatly interested in spiders, but I have always wanted to know how a certain spider managed to stretch her cable squarely across the road in the woods about my height from the ground.—Country Life in America.

ART OF PICKLING STEEL.
Process First Tried in This Country at Williamsburg Bridge.

The picking of structural steel was probably first done in this country in connection with the steel flooring of the Williamsburg bridge in New York city. The specifications for the twelve-inch channels on which the paving blocks are carried required them to be cleaned and painted with pure linseed oil while still hot from the rolls.

When it came time to execute the work these specifications were changed so as to permit the metal to be cleaned in pickling baths, which has long been done to a considerable extent in Europe. In the case of the channels for the Williamsburg bridge the shapes were first boiled in a 10 per cent solution of caustic soda to take off grease, and were then rinsed in boiling water. Afterward they were dipped into a boiling 10 per cent solution of sulphuric acid until all the oxide was removed.

After being rinsed in boiling water they were dipped into a boiling 10 per cent solution of carbonate of soda to free them from any trace of acid. Finally they were rinsed in boiling water, dried over steam pipes and then treated by the Sabin process of enameling.—Engineering Record.

Never Had It.
A short time since a number of amateur musicians in a town of western Pennsylvania made an effort to organize an orchestra. They were successful in procuring all the performers they desired except a clarinet player. One of the number finally volunteered to take up the instrument and try to learn to play it. He had no clarinet, but, hearing that he could probably borrow one from a young man in the place who was thought to own one, he met him on the street one day and accosted him with:

"How are you, Brown? I heard you had a clarinet."

The fellow looked at him in amazement, and stammered out:

"Well, I—I was sick about two weeks ago, but I don't think I had that!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Dream and Despair.
If I were only bolder—
To her I then should swear
My dawn is her white shoulder,
My dusk her ebony hair;
My day, my night,
My whole delight,
My dream and my despair!

Such beauty seems to fold her
For ever fresh and fair,
Between the dawn, her shoulder,
And dusk that is her hair;
Her soft eyes are
Each one a star,
My dream and my despair!

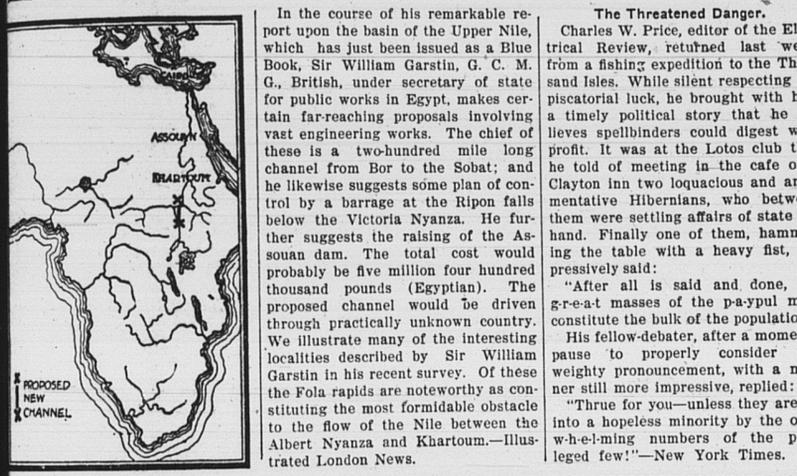

So let my love be told her,
And let my faith declare
Dawn sparkles on her shoulder,
Dusk hovers in her hair,
And each lip shows
For me a rose—
My dream and my despair!

The International Botanical congress will meet at Vienna in 1906 from June 12 to June 18.

In the course of his remarkable report upon the basin of the Upper Nile, which has just been issued as a Blue Book, Sir William Garstin, G. C. M. G., British, under secretary of state for public works in Egypt, makes certain far-reaching proposals involving vast engineering works. The chief of these is a two-hundred mile long channel from Bor to the Sobat; and he likewise suggests some plan of control by a barrage at the Ripon falls below the Victoria Nyanza. He further suggests the raising of the Assouan dam. The total cost would probably be five million four hundred thousand pounds (Egyptian). The proposed channel would be driven through practically unknown country. We illustrate many of the interesting localities described by Sir William Garstin in his recent survey. Of these the Fola rapids are noteworthy as constituting the most formidable obstacle to the flow of the Nile between the Albert Nyanza and Khartoum.—Illustrated London News.

Only One in the World.
When the Newport News (Va.) citizen started out to find Mr. Arnold he was directed to the residence of C. H. Arnel, vice consul for Denmark. That gentleman, who is of corpulent build and excellent temper, answered the door bell.

"I wish to see Mr. Arnold," said the citizen.

"I am Mr. Arnel," replied the vice consul.

"You are not the Mr. Arnold I wish to see," was the reply.

"If you want to see Mr. Arnel you wish to see me," insisted the vice consul, "for I am the only Arnel in the city," he added, by way of clinching the argument.

"I don't want to see you," persisted the citizen, backing off the porch with circumsppection.

"I am the only Arnel in the state," said the vice consul, getting excited; "and the citizen was hurrying up the street.

"If you want to see Mr. Arnel," replied the now irate consular agent, "you want to see me. I am the only Arnel in the world!"

Beavers Cut off Water for Engines.
Many curious stories have been told about beavers and their ways. Some of the lumbermen in Maine say that they are flooding their timber lands to such an extent that they should have less protection by law, while visitors to our lakes and ponds find them a great trouble.

The "biggest" beavers, in a way, that we have heard of reside in Redington township near the Eustis branch of the Phillips and Rangleley railroad. Their home is on a stream that supplies water for engines. A few weeks ago the engine crew stopped for water and found, to their surprise, that the stream was dry. It was only dry for a few days, however, and the water began to run again without any apparent cause for the change.

Then a man followed up the brook to investigate, and a mile and a half or so up he found a nice beaver pond. The beavers had dammed the stream for their own purposes and when their pond was full the overflow went into the stream and then the engine could have the water.—Maine Woodsman.

Hotel Lacking in Felicities.
Half the profound truths one hears are spoken entirely by mistake. Up in the Virginia hills is a small hotel, or large boarding house, whichever you like to call it, where the air and scenery are supposed to make up for the lack of modern conveniences, a pitiful foot tub and a pint of water greet you every morning, and you pine for your home tub as Moses' followers hankered for the feshpots. A Washington woman, who is now sister to Mrs. Parkinson, is staying up there. She sat on the gallery one day last week, and this is what she said:

"It's a lovely place, but it has one drawback—there are no felicities for bathing here."—Washington Post.

Anthracite Coal Production.
The average annual production of anthracite coal in Pennsylvania has been between 65 and 75 million tons, but for the last three years the average has been only 59 millions. The average production of bituminous coal has increased from 110,000,000 in 1890 to 384,000,000 during 1903.

Cater to 2,000th Student.
The two-thousandth student at the University of Freiburg receives free lodging and board, and at one of the local cafes he is entitled to a daily cup of coffee, a glass of chartrouse and a Havana cigar. It has been pointed out that if it had not been for the "studentinnen" Freiburg would not have been able to celebrate its two thousandth student; for without these thirty women the number of students would have been only 1,999.

It is an insult to the American voter to try to convince him that he does not know the difference between republican performance and democratic promise.

The elements which leads and dominates the democratic party today stands not for tariff for revenue, but for ultimate free trade. There is no use trying to dodge that fact.

It is reason for congratulation that the head of the state ticket has with him as accompanying candidates a list of gentlemen who will bear the scrutiny and investigation which comes to men who desire official positions.

Up to twelve years ago no provision had ever been made for the supervision of rural schools, but we now have a law providing for the county commissioner of schools, whose duty it is to visit schools and assist teachers and school officers in securing more practical and beneficial results.

WHO SHALL WE HIRE?

An Untried Man or One Who Has Made a Good Record and a Man of Steadfast Integrity.

The good results of the affairs of a nation depend almost absolutely upon its relations with other nations. There is, under the present condition of thought and affairs, an advancement in the world—a community of nations.

Under the administration of the party that is now controlling the affairs of the United States has occurred such extraordinary diplomatic success as has perhaps never been excelled by any nation at any time.

Tact and sense are just as much a requisite in the conduct of the affairs of a nation as they are in the affairs of a corporation or an individual.

The last legislature enacted a law under which the person who handles the cash for a school district will hereafter be known as the "treasurer" instead of the "assessor," as has previously been the case. Another law provides that when a person elected an officer of the district ceases to be a taxpayer of the district, his office is vacant and must be filled by a taxpayer. Another act provides that any school district which maintains a school during five months of the year, having children residents therein who have completed the studies of the eighth grade in said school, may at any annual meeting vote a tax sufficient to pay the tuition and daily transportation of said children to any high school the school board may select and designate.

A new game has been found which is being worked with considerable success in a number of upper peninsula cities. A man walks into a store and buys $5 or $10 worth of goods, tells the storekeeper to keep them until he calls at a certain date and tenders a check on a bank for $50 or $75 in payment. The check is taken to the bank and returned N. G. At the date named the man comes back for his goods and is informed that his check is not honored. He curses the bank, but pays for the goods, starts for the door, then walks back and asks for his check. He gets it, and of course it bears the merchant's indorsement. In a few days the merchant is notified by the bank of a certain check cashed bearing his indorsement. The merchant then weeps.

In the circuit court at Ann Arbor, last Saturday morning a bill of complaint was filed by the Chas. A. Strelenger Co., of Detroit, vs. the National Peat Fuel Co., et al., who have a plant here. This action is to enforce payment of the amount unpaid and seeks to restrain certain levies which have been made upon the property to the detriment of the complainant company.

LITTLE FISH STORIES THAT ARE TRUE

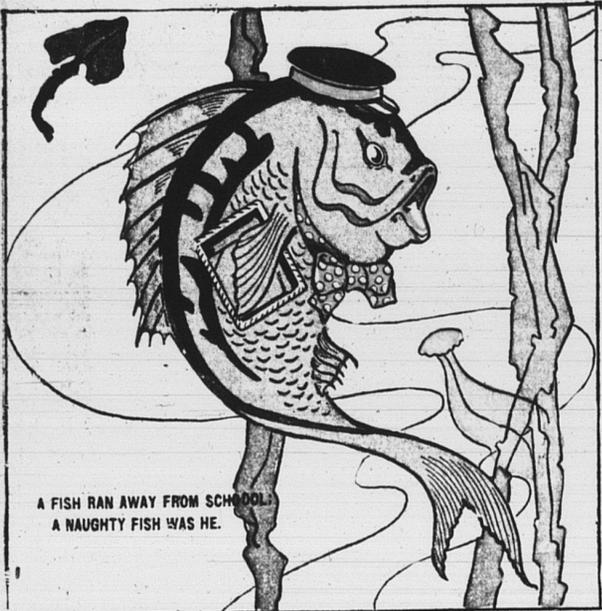

THE TALE OF THE BLUEFISH IS SAD BUT TRUE: HE LOVED A PERCH OF A BRILLIANT HUE.

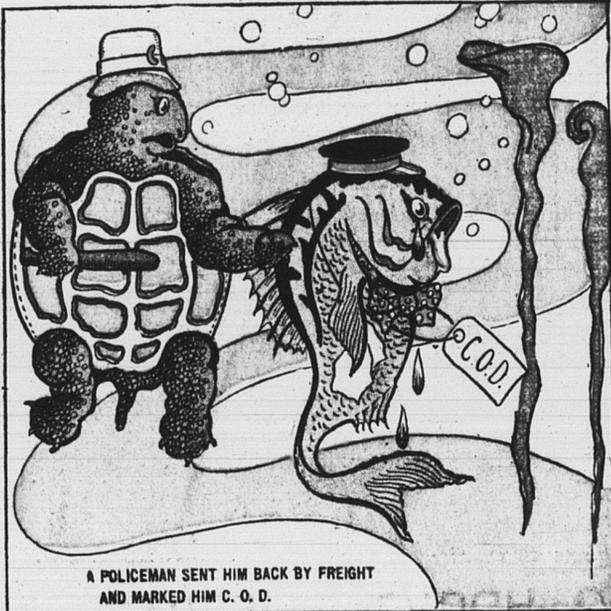

BUT SHE RAN OFF WITH A WICKED SKATE, AND NOBODY EVER LEARNED HER FATE.

NOW YOU'VE HEARD THE STORY KNOWN ONLY TO FEW, BUT IT GIVES THE REAL REASON THE BLUEFISH IS BLUE.

A FISH RAN AWAY FROM SCHOOL, A NAUGHTY FISH WAS HE.

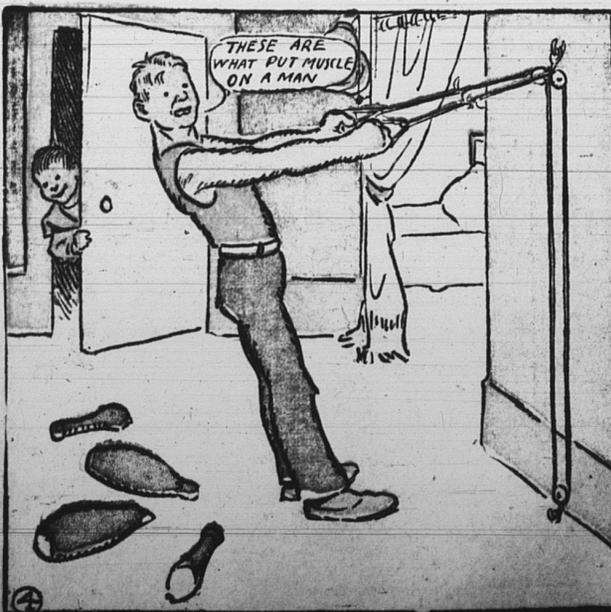

A POLICEMAN SENT HIM BACK BY FREIGHT AND MARKED HIM C. O. D.

AND THAT IS HOW THE CODFISH GOT HIS FUNNY NAME, YOU SEE.
