Breeders in Annual Session. (From Our Special Correspondent.)

Improved Black Top Merino Sheep Breeders' Association was held at the home of H. W. Noble, one half mile from the village of Quincy, Mich., on Wednesday, Sept. 21. As this association has now in its membership a good many breeders from near Chelsea an account of the annual meeting will not be uninteresting to readers of the Herald.

Mr. Noble with the assistance of President Harsh and Secretary Robertson of the association had prepared a very interesting program of music, recitations and papers on sheep breeding and wool growing, which was fully carried out, one of the very best papers being by C. E. Whitaker, of Chelsea.

A fine dinner was served at noon which was very acceptable to the Chelsea delegation, who had breakfasted about 4 o'clock that morning the date of the entertainment. at home and consequently had fair sized appetities along with them for tion for a good many years, was reone of the directors.

The members from Chelsea in attendance at the meeting were C. E Whitaker and wife, Dan Wacker and wife, John Clark and wife, Otto D. Luick and wife, W. H. Laird, Ed. Beach, Geo. Wagner and Will Luick, The party from Chelsea had miscalculated their train connection for the homeward trip and in order to get home that night had to engage a livery to take them from Quincy to Jonesville a distance of 12 miles. $1. But as the afternoon and evening were pleasant, the journey was not at all tedious.

There is a good farming country almost the entire distance. There is a large acreage of corn, about half of which was already cut and the crop seemed to be fully up to the average. able to Washtenaw county farmers. The soil looked as if it might be suitable for beans, but for some reason that we did not learn the crop is not raised there to any extent.

The Fast Service on D. Y. A. A. & J.

The force of trackmen on the D Y. A. A. & J. electric line has been more than doubled and the roadbed is being put in good shape for the fast service that is to be inaugurated in about 30 days, Four extra sidings are to be put in. As now practically decided upon the new cars to be used will be larger than those now in use, carpeted and divided, as at present into two sections. The foward smoking compartment will be fitted with reed chairs, about 14 being arranged to the compartment. The second portion will probably be equipped with the same style of seat as at present in the newer type of Tina McColgan. cars of the road. They will be made to accommodate two persons and will be broad and commodious. The cars will also be fitted with extra camp stools, and will accommodate from 60 to 70 passengers. On these special cars an extra fare of from 5 don that all persons having been exposed to 20 cents will probably be made, as to Smallpox or Varioloid, be quarantined is done in the special service on the at once, and remain under the same for at steam roads.

It was Randalin who first to ride into the city and see what awoke to a consciousness that the goldsmiths have in their booths." noise of the rabble had become very faint behind them, that no sounds at all broke the stillness ahead of them, that the uneven weed-grown path they were treading was very different from the smooth hardness of the Watling street. For the first time, she spoke to the son of Lodbrok, who had silently taken his place at her side.

"This is not the Watling Street! Yet we have not turned-. Where Rothgar gnawed at his heavy mustache as though the answer were difficult to frame.

"You are still on the Watling Street," the said. "It is only that this is the old bed of it. It leads also to Saint Peter's Monastery on Thorney-"

Stung with fear, Elfgiva tried to snatch the lines from him. "I am not going to a monastery! I am going to the palace."

As a cliff stands against the fretting of waves, his grasp stood against hers; and his voice was as immovable as his hand. "The palace where the king is," he said, "is the palace for a queen."

At first it either seemed that she would scratch out his eyes or throw herself from her saddle. But in the end she did neither, for a sense of her helplessness turned her faint. To one who has always ruled undisputed there is something benumbing in the first collision with the pitiless hand of Force. "If I had the good luck to see a bee caught in a brier, I should wish your death," she threatened. But she -said it under her breath; and after that, rode with drooping head and eves that saw nothing of the scene before her.

Elfgiva threw aside the candle to come close and lay her hands upon the girl's breast. "Do you think it likely that I might fall in with the king somewhere in the city?"

This was going a bit faster than Randalin had planned, and her breath came quickly, but she took the risk and admitted it. "I did hope that it might happen that we would see the king," she said, "and-what is more important to us-that the king might see you."

Slowly, the king's wife went back to her seat before the mirror, and sat there fingering and turning the jeweled rouge-pots in a deep study. "Deliver me your opinion of this. Teboen?" she said, at last, to the big raw-boned British woman who was her nurse and also the female majordomo of her household. Teboen, after becoming deliberation, replied that she thought rather favorably of the plan, that certainly it could do no harm, while it would be almost as sure to do good if the king could be reminded of how beautiful a woman he was neglecting.

Elfgiva's laughter was like returning sunshine. "How! You say so? Then will we make ready without delay! Tata, I could find it in my mind to scold you for not thinking of this before. You must mouth the order for the horses, though," she added as an afterthought. "I should expect it would be told me that I am a prisoner, whereat I should weep

Another flash of daring lighted Randalin's eyes, though her mouth remained quiet. "A good way to keep them from thinking you a prisoner, lady, is to act like a free woman," she said. "I shall tell them that you are going to the palace to see your husband." Sowing her seed, she left it The fact that King Edgar had slept | to take root, and went away to con-

eserts of the Ocean

Oceans, like continents, have their leserts. On the high seas there are vast spaces whose waves have never been parted by the prow of a sailing vessel or lashed by the propeller of a steamer; immense solitudes where the flap of a sail is never heard nor the strident cry of a siren; veritable deserts, whose silence is broken only buy my whole stock," the merchant by the howling of the wind and the roar of the waves which have been can never endure to sell to another vainly pursuing one another since the day of creation.

These deserts lie forgotten betwixt the narrow ocean highways traveled by vessels. In such waste places of the sea a disabled ship, driven out of tonics upon the Northampton lady. its course by a hurricane, may drift for months, tossed by the ceaseless ground swell, without being able to hail assistance; her only chance of escape is the possibility that some oceanic current may drag her into a more frequent region.

The gradual but constant disappear ance of sailing ships made the ocean more of a desert than before. Sailing vessels had their established routes in accordance with winds, currents and seasons; the gaps between the routes taken by outward-bound and homeward-bound ships were often considerable: moreover, the capricious elements not infrequently played the mischief with nautical instructions, and, as a result, the field of operations for ocean shipping was vastly expanded.

This is no longer true to-day. The liner goes straight ahead, in defiance of wind and wave; the ports between which she plies are great industrial or commercial centers, whither come numberless railways, serving as pro- | ror of sea-faring men.

longations of the lines of navigation. The ocean highways are, therefore, anything but numerous. The most frequented of oceans is the Atlantic. Apart from the polar seas, we see that in its northern part there is only one desert zone-a dreary waste of waters between the route from Europe to the United States or Canada and those from Europe to the

The Indian ocean is frequented only in the north, by lines out of India and Indo-China, and a little in the west by liners from Oceanica, which call at Colombo and then make straight for Australia. Two lines, each with a steamer a month, follow a slender lane from Australia to Cape Town.

Their love and ours—and blessed it
There on the moonlit strand!

Dear heart, still sweet the story,

"A description of my mother-in-law, please find her," said the man. "! have looked everywhere for her, but I have been unable to find any trace of her. I was directed to come to the police."

For a minute Lieut. Kennedy looked at the man in surprise, then he reached through the window and took the description.

"We'll try and find her," he said. The man left the station and Kennedy stood for a moment in deep thought. Then he laughed and said: "Well, sir, the police force is a great place for experiences. I've been here a long, long time myself, but this is sure a new one. In all my experience this is the first time I have known a man to come in here and ask the police to find his mother-in-law. Bill Nye as a Dairyman.

"When I was young and used to roam around over the country, gathering water melons by the light of the moon, I used to think I could milk anybody's cow, but I don't think so now. I do not milk the cow unless the sign is right, and it hasn't been right for a good many years. The last cow I tried to milk was a common cow, born in obscurity, kind of a self-made cow. I remember her brow was low but she wore her tail high; and she was haughty, oh, so haughty. I made a commonplace remark to her, one that is used in the very best society; one that need not give offence. I said 'so'-and she 'Soed.' Then I told her to 'Hist'-and she 'Histed.' But I thought she overdid it. She put too much expression to it. Just then i heard something crash through the window of the barn and fall with a thug-sickening thug-on the outside.

"The neighbors came to see what it was that caused the noise. They found that I had done it in getting through the window. I asked the neighbors if the barn was still standing. They said it was. Then I asked them if the cow was injured much. They said she seemed quite robust. Then I requested them to go in and calm the cow a little, and see if they could get my plug hat off her horns.

Millions of Men Make Their Living Underground.

Mining and quarrying throughout the world command the personal attention of more than four and a half million men. Of the grand total of 4,738,393, no fewer than 1,592,050 belong to the British empire, the remaining 3,146,343 being "foreigners." Great Britain and her colonies and possessions have been specially favored by the forces of nature in so far as there is an abundance of valuable mineral which may be mined, and thus add to the wealth of the empire. More than half the miners of the world are employed in getting coal alone. Great Britain employs over three-quarters of a million, the United States and Germany over half a million each, France 165,000, Belgium 135,000, Austria 123,000; whilst India comes along with close upon 100,000.

Service Shocked Her.

A certain noble family in Scotland adopted the Episcopalian faith and carried out its ideas regardless of expense. On the first introduction of the full choir service into the local church the great lady who had been active in the work was anxious that a favorite woman servant of hers-a Presbyterian of the old school-should have an opportunity of hearing the service. Accordingly she took her down to church in the carriage and on returning asked the old woman what she thought of the music. "Ou, it's verra bonny; but, oh, my lady, it's an awfu' way of spending the sabbath!"

Fought Over Mince Pie.

A farmer residing in Adams county, Pa., caused the arrest of a neighbor for having entered his kitchen "and taken from the stove and eaten a large and juicy mince pie." The offending neighbor was held to answer by the justice. That official remarked that he regretted "that a mince pie should disturb life-long relations between friends and create another war so near a battlefield (Gettysburg) that is already sufficient history."

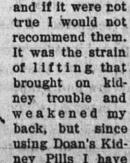

As to the Teeth.

A dentist says that the more teeth are used, legitimately, the better for them; that perfect mastication on both sides of the mouth prevent receding gums and tends to ward off decay. Those who chew on one side have poor teeth on the disused side, and that the fad of chewing every mouthful very fine is one of the most sensible fashions humanity has ever taken up.

Young Woman's Temperance Association of Buffalo, N. Y., strongly advises all suffering women to rely, as she did, upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. "DEAR MRS. PINEHAM: - Your medicine is indeed an ideal woman's medicine, and by far the best I know to restore lost health and strength. I suffered misery for several years, being troubled with menorrhagia. My back ached, I had bearing-down pains and frequent headaches. I would often wake from restful sleep, and in such pain that I suffered for hours before I could go to sleep again. I dreaded the long nights as much as the weary days. I consulted two different physicians, hoping to get relief, but, finding that their medicine did not seem to cure me, I tried your Vegetable Compound on the recommendation of a friend from the East who was visiting me.

"I am glad that I followed her advice, for every ache and pain is gone, and not only this, but my general health is much improved. I have a fine appetite and have gained in flesh. My earnest advice to suffering women is to put away all other medicines and to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Miss Nellie Holmes, 540 No. Division St., Buffalo, N.Y.

Miss Irene Crosby, prominent in Social Life in East Savanah, Ga., adds her testimonial to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM :- "It always gives me pleasure to find an article of real value Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com-pound well calculated to relieve and cure the various troubles arising from irregularities and menstrual pains.

"Much suffering could be spared if we only paid more attention to proper living and diet, but as long as women do not do this, your Vegetable Compound has come to the front as a true friend in need. I have been very pleased indeed with the relief it has brought me. I find that I have perfect health now, and that my mind is also more clear and active since I used your Vegetable Compound. It has been of great benefit to me, and I gladly recommend it. Very sincerely yours, Miss Irens Crossy, 313 East Charlton St., East Savannah, Ga.

Philip T. Colgrove, of Hastings, an accredited speaker for the Republican machine politicians of Michigan let the cat out of the bag in great style while addressing the opening Republican meeting in Grand Rapids Monday evening last. Speaking of primary reform and the attitude of the machine men towards it he said:

"Some of us do not wish to dispense with the county and state conventions, where so much enthusiasm is bred and the party solidified and strengthened. The only way to try this primary reform is to take it in small doses, not try to choke it all down at one dose. On Nov. 8, all this silly twaddle that the Democrats are putting forth will be banished after they turn down that splendid candidate Fred M Warner for an unknown schoolmaster who advocates this impracticable scheme, to which the Republican party is unalterable opposed."

The last sentence contains the meat of the whole thing so far as the machine Republicans and their nominees are concerned, but not so far as the Republican party is concerned. The machine men do not, and never posite with the farmer voters and the rank and file of the party who have really had nothing to say about who should be nominated for state officers for years past. All they have done is to vote their party ticket blindly and elect the men chosen for hour later.

> Washtenaw Democrats are tired of political shysters. At the first distrist representative convention held in Ann Arbor Sept. 21 strong resolutions were adopted calling for true primary reform-the direct nomination of all candidates for public office by the vote of the people, without the intervention of machines or the manipulation of expert political wire pullers. The resolutions also demanded a clean administration of public affairs and the strict application of economy in the management of the affairs of the state, as under the unnecessary multiplication of petty offices the taxes are growing to be a great burden on the people. Reciprocal Trade Treaties a Necessity of the Situation-Underhand Methods of the Administration in Panama Denounced-Justice for the Filipinos Urged-National Leader pleads for Co-operation of All Members of the Party in the Struggle for Wise Legislation and Good Government.

Esopus, N. Y., Sept. 26.-Judge Parker to-day made public his letter supplementing his acceptance of the nomination for President of the United States tendered him by the national Democratic convention. The document follows:

To the Honorable Champ Clark and Others, Committee, Etc.: Gentlemen: In my response to your committee, at the formal notification proceedings, I referred to some matters not mentioned in this letter. I desire that se be considered as incorporated herein, and regret that lack of space prevents specific reference to them all. I wish here, however, again to refer to my views there expressed as to the gold standard, to declare again my unqualified belief in said standard, and to express my appreciation of the action of the convention in reply to my communication upon that Imperialism. If we would retain our liberties and constitutional rights unimpaired, we canonstitutional residence, at any time or for any purpose, the arrogation of unconstitutional powers by the executive branch of our government. We should be ever mindful of the words of Webbe ever mindful of the words of Web-ster, "Liberty is only to be preserved by maintaining constitutional restraints and a just division of political powers." Already the national government has become centralized beyond any point contemplated or imagined by the found-ers of the constitution. How tremend-ously all this has added to the power of the president! It has developed from year to year until it almost equals that year to year until it almost equals that of many monarchs. While the growth of our country and the magnitude of interstate interests may seem to furnish a plausible reason for this centralization of power, yet these same facts afford the most potent reason why the executive should not be permitted to encroach upon the other departments of the govern-ment, and assume legislative, or other powers, not expressly conferred by the constitution.

The issue of imperialism which has been thrust upon the country involves a decision whether the law of the land or the rule of individual caprice shall govern. The principle of imperialism may give rise to brilliant, startling, dashing results, but the principle of Democracy holds in check the brilliant executive and him to the sober, conservative control of the people.

The Tariff and Trusts. Tariff reform is one of the cardinal principles of the Democratic faith, and the necessity for it was never greater than at the present time. It should be than at the present time. It should be undertaken at once in the interest of all

The Dingley tariff is excessive in many of its rates, and, as to them at least, unjustly and oppressively burdens the peo-ple. It secures to domestic manufacturers, singly or in combination, the privilege of exacting excessive prices at home and prices far above the level of sales made regularly by them abroad with profit, thus giving a bounty to foreigners at the expense of our own people. It levies oppressive and unjust taxes upon many articles forming, in whole or part, the so-called raw material of many of our manufactured products, not only burden ing the consumer, but also closing to the manufacturer the markets he needs and seeks abroad. Its unjust taxation burdens the people generally, forcing them to pay excessive prices for food, fuel, clothing and other necessaries of life. It levies duties on many article not normally imported in any considerable amount, which are made extensively at home, for which the most extreme pro-tectionist would hardly justify protec-live taxes, and which in large amounts are exported. Such duties have been and will continue to be a direct incentive to the formation of huge industrial combinations, which, secure from foreign com-petition, are enabled to stifle domestic ompetition and practically to monopolize the home market.

Even now the argument most frequentive urged in behalf of the Dingley tariff, and against tariff reform generally, is the necessity of caring for our infant industries. Many of these industries, after a hundred years of lusty growth, are looming up as industrial glants. In their case, at least, the Dingley tariff invites combination and monopoly, and gives justification to the expression that the tariff is the mother of trusts. the tariff is the mother of trusts.

For the above-mentioned reasons, among many others, the people demand reform of these abuses, and such reform demands and should receive immediate attention.

In the words of our platform we de-mand "a revision and a gradual reduc-tion of the tariff by the friends of the masses, and for the common weal, and not by the friends of its abuses, its extortions and discriminations."

It is true that the Republicans, who do not admit in their platform that the Dingley tariff needs the slightest alteration, are likely to retain a majority of

Dingley tariff needs the slightest alteration, are likely to retain a majority of the Federal Senate throughout the next presidential term, and could, therefore, if they chose, block every attempt at legislative relief. But it should be remembered that the Republican party includes many revisionists, and I believe it wil shrink from defying the popular will expressed unmistakably and peremptorily at the ballot box. at the ballot box.

The people demand reform of existing conditions. Since the last Democratic administration the cost of living has grievously increased. Those having fixed incomes have suffered keenly; those living on wages, if there has been any living on wages, if there has been has increase, know that such increase has not kept pace with the advance in the cost of living, including rent and the necessaries of life. Many to-day are out. of work, unable to secure any wages at all. To alleviate these conditions, in so far as is in our power should be our far as is in our power, should be our earnest endeavor

I pointed out in my earlier response the remedy, which in my judgment, can effectually be applied against monopolies, and the assurance was then given that if existing laws, including both statute and common law, proved inadequate, contrary to my expectations, I favor such further legislation, within constitutional limitations, as will best promote and safeguard the interests of all the people. Whether there is any common law which can be applied and enforced by Trust Remedies.

which can be applied and enforced by the Federal courts, cannot be determined by the president, or by a candidate for the presidency.

The determination of this question was left by the people in framing the constitution, to the judiciary and not to the executive. The Supreme Court of the United States has recently considered this question, and, in the case of the Western Union Telegraph Company vs. The Call Publishing Company, to be found in the one hundred and eighty-first volume of the United States Supreme Court reports, at page 32, it decided that common law principles could be applied by United States courts in cases involving interstate commerce, in the absence of United States statutes specifically covering the case. Such is the law of the land Reciprocity.

In my address to the notification committee I said that tariff reform "is demanufacturer and consumer." With equal truth it can be said that the benefits of reciprocal trade treaties would be helped is unquestionable. That the consumer would be helped is unquestionable. That the manufacturer would receive great benefit by extending his markets abroad hardly needs demonstration. His productive caracity has outgrown the home market. has changed in its significance. Once, from the manufacturers' point of view, it meant expansion; to-day the marvelous growth of our manufacturing industries has far exceeded the consumptive capacity of our domestic markets, and the term "Home Market" implies contraction, rather than expansion. If we would run our mills to their full capacity, thus giving steady employment to our workmen and securing to them and to the manufacturer the profits accruing from increased production, other markets must be found. Furthermore, when our manufacturers are dependent on raw materials in whole or part imported, it is vital to the extension of their markets abroad in whole or part imported, it is vital to the extension of their markets abroad that they secure their materials on the most favorable terms. Our martyred president, William Mc-Kinley, appreciated this situation. He pointed out in his last address to the people that we must make sensible trade arrangements if "we shall extend the outlets for our increasing surplus." He outlets for our increasing surplus." He said, "a system which provides a mutual exchange of commodities is manifestly essential to the continued and healthful growth of our export trade. . . The period of exclusiveness is past. The expansion of our trade and commerce is the pressing problem. Commercial wars are unprofitable. A policy of good will the pressing problem. Commercial wars are unprofitable. A policy of good will and friendly relations will prevent re-Reciprocity treaties are in harmony with the spirit of the times; measuses of retaliation are not.

This argument was made in the interest of our manufacturers, whose preducts, he urged, "have so multiplied, that the problem of more markets requires our urgent and immediate attention." He had come to realize that the so-called "stand pat" policy must give way—that there must be a reduction of duties to enable our manufacturers to cultivate toreign markets. The last words of this president-who had won the affection of his countrymen-ought to be studied by every man who has any doubt of the necessity of a reduction in tariff rates in the interest of the manufacturer. They present with clearness a situation and a proposed remedy that prompted the provision in our platform which declaies that. "We favor liberal trade arrangements with Canada and with peoples of other countries where they can be en-tered into with benefit to American agriculture, manufactures, mining or com-

The persistent refusal of the Republican majority in the Federal Senate to ratify the reciprocity treaties negotiated in pursuance of the policy advocated alike by Mr. Blaine and Mr. McKinley, and expressly sanctioned in the Dingley act itself, is a discouraging exhibition of bad faith. As already mentioned by me, the exorbitant duty imposed on many an imported article by the Dingley tariff was avowedly intended by its author not to be permanent, but to serve temporarily as a maximum, from which the Federal government was empowered to offer a reduction in return for an equivalent concession on the part of a foreign country. President McKinley undertook honestly to carry out the purpose of the act. A number of reciprocity agree-ments were negotiated, which, if ratified, would have had the two-fold result of cheapening many imported products for American consumers, and of opening and enlarging foreign markets to American producers. Not one of those agreements has met with the approval of the Republican masters of the Senate. Indeed they did not even permit their consider-ation. In view of the attitude of the present executive, no new agreement need be expected from him. Nor does the Re-publican platform contain a favorable reference to one of the suspended treaties. The reciprocity clauses of the Dingley act seem destined to remain a monument of legislative cozenage and political bad faith, unless the people take the matter in their own hands at the ballot box and command a reduction of duties in return for reciprocal concessions. Independence for the Filipincs.

In some quarters it has been assumed that in the discussion of the Philippine unat in the discussion of the Philippine question in my response, the phrase "self-government," was intended to mean something less than independence. It was not intended that it should be understood the phrase of the phrase o derstood to mean, nor do I think as used it does mean less than independence. However, to eliminate all possibil-ity for conjecture. I now state that I am in hearty accord with that plank in our platform that favors doing for the Filipinos what we have already done for the Cubans; and I favor making the promise to them now that we shall take such action as soon as they are reasonably prepared for it.

Reclamation of Arid Lands. A vast expanse of country in the West, portions of which are to be found in each of the sixteen states and territories, mentioned in the law, is directly affected by the national statute-the outcome of intelligent and persistent efforts of leading citizens, providing for the reclamation of the arid lands for the benefit of nonescekers. During the years of the development of the measure which finally received the vote of every member of the upper house of Congress, it encoun-tered opposition, based to a large extent upon the view that the alm of its promoters was to secure the benefits of irrigation to private owners at government expense. The aim of the statute is, however, to enable this vast territory to re-claim its arid lands without calling upon the taxpayers of the country at large to pay for it. Whether the purposes of the bill will be fully accomplished must depend in large measure upon the ability, sobriety of judgment, independence and honesty of the officers of the Interior Department having this great work in Panama Canal. An isthmian canal has long been the hope of our statesmen, and the avoved aim of the two great parties, as their platforms in the past show. The Panama route having been selected, the building of the canal should be pressed to completion with all reasonable expedition. The methods by which the executive acquired the Panama canal route and rights are a source of regret to many. To them, the statement that thereby a great public work was assured to the profit of our people is not a sufficient answer to the charge of violation of national good faith. They appreciate that the principles and healthy convictions which in their working out have made us free and great, stand firmly against the argument or suggestion that we shall be blind to the nature of the means emblind to the nature of the means em-ployed to promote our welfare. They hold that adherence to principle, wheth-er it works for our good or ill, will have a more beneficent influence on our ru-ture destiny than all our material up-building, and that we should ever re-member that the idea of doing a wrong to a smaller, weaker nation than we, or even all mankind, may have a resultant good is repugnant to the principles upon good is repugnant to the principles upon which our government was founded.

American Shipping. American Shipping.

Our commerce in American bottoms amounts to but eight percent of our total exports and imports. For seventy years prior to 1860, when the Republican party came into power, our merchant marine carried an average of seventy five per cent of our foreign comenty-five per cent of our foreign com-merce. By 1877 it had dwindled to twenty-seven per cent. Now we carry but a contemptibly small fraction of our excontemptibly small fraction of our exports and imports.

American shipping in the foreign trade was greater to measure a foreign the sand tons at the standard of the standard of the standard party of the standard party. The standard party of the standard of the standard manded it. The Republican majority refused the demand. The people can determine by their vote in November whether they wish an honest and tnorough, investigation. A Democratic Congress and executive will assure it.

We are justly proud of the officers and men of our army and navy. Both, however, have suffered from the persistent injection of personal and political influence. Promotions and appointments have been frequently based on favoritism instead of merit. Trials and court-martials have been set aside under circumstances indicating political interference. These and other abuses should be corrected.

Pensions for Our Soldiers and Sailors.

The National Democracy favors liberal pensions to the surviving soldiers and sailors and their dependents, on the ground that they deserve liberal treatment. It pledges by its platform adequate legislation to that end. But it denies the right of the executive to usurp the power of Congress to legislate on that subject. Such usurpation was attempted by Pension Order No. 78, and effect has been given to it by a Congress that dared not resent the usurpation. It effect has been given to it by a Congress that dared not resent the usurpation. It is said that "this order was made in the performance of a duty imposed upon the president by act of Congress," but the provision making the imposition is not pointed out. The act to which the order refers, which is the one relating to pensions to Civil War veterans, does not authorize pensions on the ground of age. It does grant pensions to those "suffering from any mental or physical disability, or disabilities, of a permanent character, not the result of their own vicious habits, which so incapacitates them from the performance of manual labor as to render them unable to earn a support." This specified requirement of incapacity is in effect set aside by Order No. 78 as to all persons over sixty-two.

The war closed nearly forty years ago. In the meantime many of our soldiers and sailors long survived the age of sixty-two, and passed away without receiving any pension. Skillful pension attorneys hunting through the statute failed to find there a provision giving a pen-sion to all who had reached sixty-two. Many prominent veterans urged the justice of congressional action giving a service pension to all veterans. Bills to that effect were introduced in Congress. And not until March of this year any one ever claim to have made the discovery that the president had power to treat the statute as if it read that when a claimant had passed the age of sixty-two years he is necessarily disabled one-half in ability to perform manual labor and therefore entitled to a pension.

If elected, I will revoke that order. Fut I go turther and say that that being done, I will contribute my effort toward the enactment of a law to be passed by both houses of Congress and approved by the executive that will give an age pen-sion without reference to disability to surviving heroes of the civil war; and under the provisions of which a pension may be accepted with dignity because of the consciousness that it comes as a just due from the people through their chosen representatives, and not as largess distributed by the chief executive.

Foreign Relations.

The foreign relations of the government have in late years assumed special importance. Prior to the acquisition of he Philippines, we were practically invulnerable against attacks by foreign states. Those tropical possessions, however, seven thousand miles from our shores, have changed all this and have in effect put us under bonds to keep the peace. The new conditions call for a management of foreign affairs the more circumspect in that the recent American invasion of foreign markets in all parts of the world has excited the serious apprehension of all the great industrial peo-ples. It is essential, therefore, more than ever, to adhere strictly to the traditional policy of the country as formulated by its first president and never, in my judgment, wisely departed from—to invite ment, wisely departed from-to in friendly relations with all nations w avoiding entangling alliances with any. Reform in Governmental Expenditures.

Twenty-eight years have passed since the Democratic party of the state of New York, in convention assembled, recommended to the National Democracy the nomination of Samuel J. Tilden as its candidate for the presidency, and de-clared it to be "their settled conviction that a return to the constitutional principles, frugal expense and administrative purity of the founders of the Republic is the first and most imperious duty of the times—the commanding issue now before the people of the Union." This strong expression was called forth by the national expenditures for the year 1875, which amounted to $274,000,000—a 1875, which amounted to $214,000,000—a situation which, in the opinion of a majority of our people, justified an imperative demand for reform in the administration of public affairs. As the expenditure of the last fiscal year amounted to the enormous total of $582,000,000 it is evident that a thorough investigation of the public service and the immediate abandonment of useless and extravagant expenditures are more necessary row than they were then. This astounding increase is out of all proportion to the increase is out of all proportion to the increase of our population, and finds no excuse from whatever aspect we view the situation. The national Democratic platform declares that "large reductions can easily be made in the annual expenditures of the government without important the efficiency of any branch of pairing the efficiency of any branch of the public service." Can there be any doubt of the accuracy of this statement?

In this connections it is interesting to note the recent administrative orders forbidding government officers from making public any statement of estimates on which future appropriations are to be

If a man of ordinary intelligence and prudence should find in the operating expenses of his business such a tremendous percentage of increase, would he not promptly set on foot an inquiry for the cause of the waste, and take immediate measures to stop it, especially when trusted employes have been found dis-honest and convicted, and a widespread impression exists that a thorough investi gation may discover other cases of mal-feasance? When the chief executive re-ported to Congress that, "through frauds forgeries and perjuries, and by shame-less briberies the laws relating to the proper conduct of the public service in general, and to the due administration of the postoffice department have to toriously violated " there was a general popular demand for a rigid, sweeping investigation by Congress, in addition to that undertaken by the executive himself. Such an investigation the Republican majority in Congress and the property although the minority the Republican majority in Congress would not permit, although the minority insisted that the interests of good government demanded it. And the minority was right. The liberality, patriotism and national pride of the people should not be made an excuse for waste of the public funds. Official extravagance is official crime. is official crime.

Reform in expenditures must be had in both the civil, military and naval establishments in order that the national expenditures may be brought to a basis peace and the government maintained without recourse to the taxes of war.

Conclusion.

I have out aside a congenial work to which I had expected to devote my life, in order to assume, as best I can, the responsibilities your convention put upon

I solocit the cordial co-operation and generous assistance of every man who believes that a change of measures and of men at this time would be wise, and urge harmony of endeavor as well as vigorous action on the part of all so minded. The issues are joined and the people must render the verdict.

Shall economy of administration be demanded or shall extravagance be en-manded or shall extravagance be en-Shall the wrongdoer be brought to bay by the people, or must justice wait upon political oligarchy? political oligarchy?

Shall our government stand for equal opportunity or for special privilege?
Shall it remain a government of law or become one of individual caprice?
Shall we cling to the rule of the people. or shall we embrace beneficent despection?

The idea at first prevailed that the new masters of the Eternal City were striving to convert it into a feeble and distant imitation of modern Paris. In spite of all that has been accomplished in the course of thirty years the remnants of the old Rome are still to be seen, and travelers are to be met with in the narrow, sunless lanes, rather than streets, of Trastevere, sauntering slowly along, admiring magnificent fragments of architecture or abandoned frescoes, with a most refreshing interest.

The fountains of Rome are celebrated throughout Europe, and several of them are unequaled for grandeur and artistic beauty. But the fountain that occupies the center of the Piazza di Permini, at the end of the Via Nazionale, is notorious rather than celebrated. It was originally built to mark the completion of a great work achieved under Pope Pius in the legs, a defect which probably none seriously hurt. ix., the restoration of the ancient aqueducts and conduits which led to Rome the stream known as the Aqua Marcia, originally in use long prior to the Christian era. On the 10th of September, 1870, Pius IX. assisted at the inauguration of the fountain, and earlier in the morning of the same day he received the letter of Victor some are inclined to regard as exces. 23 minutes and took Younke to Meno-Emmanuel II., announcing his determination to invade the Pope's Roman possessions, and requesting meanwhile the pontiff's blessing!

National Peat Fuel Co. Sued.

The Charles A. Strelinger Co., of Detroit, have begun suit against the National Peat Fuel Co., whose plant is located at this place, for $144.03.

They state that they sold the Fuel Co. $244.03 worth of goods and have only received $100. July 15 they filed a lien on the Fuel Co.'s property, and found that John Baner had attached the land June 5, claiming an interest amounting to $1,025 and upwards. The F. B. Stevens Co., of Detroit, William and Frank Reich under the name of William Reich & Son, Chelsea Lumber Co., of Chelsea, and Jas. Walker & Son, of Detroit, also have hills against the company. The Strelinger people allege that John Bauer's claim should give precedence to their bill, and that the other claims are simultansous and of equal rank.

They ask the court to give them judgment for their bill, to give them precedence over John Bauer and to determine the status of the Rev. G. W. Gordon will move to other bills.

AND CONSTIPATION CURED BY THEDFORDS BLACK-DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and fevers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.

Thedford's Black-Draught is so successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong and drastic drug, but a mild and healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible

The healthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.

Timely treatment with Thed-ford's Black-Draught removes the dangers which lurk in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the inroads of Bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c. package of Thedford's Black-Draught.
