IS A REPUBLICAN AND NOT AFRAID TO SUPPORT ROOSE-VELT FOR PRESIDENT.

Fred M. Warner, the Republican candidate for governor, was given a splendid reception at the state fair Thursday afternoon and he delivered a ringing speech which met general ap proval. Mr. Warner said:

"It is not necessary for me to say here, in the presence of many who have personally known me during the greater part of my life, that I am not appreciate the possession of the gift and by improper influences. which permits a man to express, easily and well, his thoughts on current this, and to urge, in well selected words and sentences, the principles he.

quired from every citizen, to secure the general advancement of his community and the development of its industries. I have tried to favor the things which I thought would be helpful to the village in which I live and to the county of my home. I have sought to oppose the things which I whether those things were advanced by an individual or by a political party. Whether or not I have succeeded in my efforts, whether or not my life has been one worthy of approval, I would rather submit to the people of Oakland county and to the people of my own town than to any other county or com-

Unjust Newspaper Assaults.

I realize, my friends, that your judgment is now being tested, through day-by-day attacks on my character, and on my purposes as a citizen, and as a candidate for office, the most cruel and unjust, I believe, that any citizen or candidate has ever been called upon to endure. Several newspapers of our state, most of them controlled by one man, have entered upon a campaigu, so peculiar and so unworthy, that I hardly think it will meet the approval of even my political opponents in Michigan. They have sent their agents and representatives to the home communities of men-whose names are connected with the affairs of my party, with instructions to gather from community gossip and from the unkindly opinion of local opponents, some food for newspaper detraction and misrepresentation. They have sought only that which was bad and unworthy and, like ghouls in a graveyard, they have searched through the past for the slightest hint which would permit them to brand as enemies to the public good, men who are now or have been in any way con-nected with the political affairs of my party. I am not unwilling, my friends. that the keenest investigation as to the lives and purposes of men who seek public preferences shall be made, if only this investigation is permitted to extend to all parties, and is made in a spirit of honesty and sincere desire to serve the people and the state, but in this case, when through misrepre-sentation and villification, these newspapers have paraded the alleged un-worthiness of certain persons before their readers, they add to their statements the charge that Fred Warner secuted the water scandal boodlers, and an orator or a speech maker. I much will be controlled by designing men Declaration of Independence.

Permit me to say here now, my topics before such an assemblage as friends, that Fred Warner has not been and will not be controlled by any man or any influences that are not represents and the policies he hopes to not seek the advancement of the best honest and not upright, and which do votes which were cast. have maintained. It happens, how interests of the state. From many ever, that the line of work which it has who are here today I have sought offithe things I would not do. I have importance in all my political transactions, that duty to the people who had given me power and who were trusting me, should be first and should remain first in my mind, I am glad, more than a little proud, to note that in all that is being de in the future, not one word has been said against the things I have done in the past. I presume the records of our state have been scanned and my political history has been gone over from my first vote to the last, and yet you will bear me witness that not one official act of mine is being referred to as a reason why any Republican or any Democrat should oppose me in this campaign. I am a Republican, but I would not ask Republicans to vote for a man whose honesty or whose courage they had good reason to doubt. Since my early boyhood I have shared in all the struggles and attainments of the Republican party which have been so closely connected with the struggles and attainments of our country as a whole. I have been gladdened by Republican victories and sorrowed by Republican defeats, but that which is most in my mind today as a reason why I, as a Republican, should seek to maintain its principles, is the fact that the men who have been our party's leaders have been men of wisdom and of courage and of honesty, and I am glad that in the campaign in which we are now engaged the Republican party has as its leader Theodore Roosevelt, a man who is known and remembered for many things, but who above all else was had reason to fear would be harmful, selected as our party leader and as our country's president because of bravery in his attacks upon corruption and wrong doing, and for his splendid courage in maintaining and upholding the measures and the men that are representative of right do-ing and of sincerity and honesty. I am especially pleased to see that our Democratic opponents in this campaign in Michigan have thought it best to refrain altogether from efforts to prevent the election of President Roosevelt, and that my friend, Prof. Ferris, the Democratic candidate for governor, by his silence, is permitting he impression to become current that he regards with disfavor the officially selected national representatives of his The Power Behind Him.

It may not be pleasant to me, my friends (and I assure you it is not), to be singled out as almost the only target for abuse and unjust attack in a great state campaign. I am glad that Mr. Ferris saw fit to make the statement in his Howell speech that he believed Mr. Warner to be a good man, but I am sorry that it seemed best to him to add in that connection the unkind suggestion, "but think of the power behind him." The power behind me, Mr. Ferris and fellow citizens, that I care more for than any-'hing else in the world, is the love and respect which exists for me in at least one Oakland county home. I have sought honors in an official way and perhaps I have been more successful than I deserved, but I would rather laxative, ask your friends about it. 25. Continued on fourth page.

crude primary election law passed by which the county of Wayne is now going through, teach, if they teach anything, that the state ought to go slow in enacting a law of the same kind for the whole commonwealth. There are defects in the present law which make its workings no better, in fact worse than the old system and these defects should be removed before the law is made to include larger districts.

The enormous cost to the candidates running for nominations is one of the most serious objections. In this county that cost ran from $250 to over $1,000 for the important offices, where a serious contest was on. Now the candidates are nominated, they are compelled to make another campaign for the election and should this turn out to be at all close it means the expenditure of much more money. And these offices, with the exception of sheriff, do not pay on an average more than $1,500 apiece a year, the term with the exception of judge of probate being only two years.

In Kent county other serious objections have developed. The republicanvote at the primaries, although it is well known that hundreds of republicans did not vote, was much larger than the republican vote of the county. The democrats by hundreds voted the republican primary ballot, and as the vote on many candidates was close, the democrats made the republican ticket, n part, and it is safe to say that they did not make it with a view to its success at the polls. In the case of Prosecuting Attorney Brown, who has prowho was up for re-nomination, the democratic "gang" made a desperate effort to defeat him and nominate a man who had been the attorney for some of the boodlers. This failed, but it did not fail by a very big margin in the number of

The Morning News is for primary reform, but it is for primary reform which reform, but not for the kind that allows the "gang" in the opposition party to make nominations of the other party, for the purpose of accomplishing its defeat. This is more dishonest, if possible, than purchasing delegates in a convention, and if allowed to continue will result in serious harm to the common wealth .-- Muskegon Morning News.

INDIGO'S UPS AND DOWNS.

Threatened by a Chemical Counterfeit, It Now Is in New Demand.

More than twenty years ago, and after an extended series of experiments, it was announced that chemists had discovered how to make artificial indigo, and it was soon ascertained that the new product was identical in its properties with the old.

A very few years elapsed before the new indigo was made in Germany on great Eastern war I wonder if Japa commercial scale; and, as it could anese men and women have put rived from cultivation, the planters were threatened with ruin.

But a strange thing has happened. It has been recently found that when the two kinds of indigo, the natural and the artificial, are blended in equalproportions, a dye is obtained which is not only more durable but is brighter in hue then either by itself.

This discovery has naturally resulted in an increased demand for the oldfashioned indigo, and fresh impetus has been given to an industry which was much in need of support.-Chamher's Journal.

Tourists Spend Vast Sums.

American tourists who are spreading themselves over Europe little realize how carefully the money which they and others may spend is reckoned up in the various countries they natronize. During this be sold at a cheaper rate than that de- away their long-tailed kites and seven-tailed gold fishes and historical dolls, and have ceased to hunt lost souls in fireflies. I doubt it, for it has been the lifelong prayer and advice of every Japanese parent for endless generations that their children, when they have reached the estate of men and women, should retain their child's hearts.

When you meet a grown-up person who has kept his or her child's heart, you cannot help loving them. That is why you cannot help loving Japan, for the whole nation has kept its child's heart.

Childhood certainly is the Golden Age, in Japan, more than in any other country in the world, for that gentle land seems to have been created on purpose to amuse and spoil children. Not that a child is ever spoilt in that land of gentle mothers, for a child's moral training and almost supernatural power of self-control began hundreds of years before it was born.

When I first drove through a native city in Japan, I thought that every other shop was a toy shop, and I never could have believed that the world contained so many children. for nothing is too young to play on the Mikado's highway in Japan. Dolllike girls of a few years old, dressed exactly like their little mothers, except for their gaver clothes and fantastically shaven heads, carry yellow-faced babies of a few months old, tied on their backs, while they play ingenious games with gorgeous balls made of scarlet and gold silk, or dart about on their high wooden clogs after the falling shuttlecock, which they send bounding up again over the tops of their paper homes with a wooden battledore decorated on one side with the gaudily painted head of a woman of the Yoshiwara. But I soon learned that the streets were full of babies because the houses were all empty. No one in the real Japan ever saw a baby sleeping in a cot while its mother was working, or being driven in a go-cart. They sleep with their little heads wobbling about on their mothers' or older sisters' backs, and learn to sit on their feet with their bent knees under them before they can stand, $60,000,000. For although the majority of girls know only a few of the Chinese characters of their alphabet, every boy and girl knew the ancient as well as modern courage of children, especially boys, was tested by the telling of thrilling ghost stories in eerie places or in the half-light round the hibachi on winter nights. Little girls had famous examples recorded to them of filial piety and obedience by the story of some

Etiquette was so far-reaching that a little child had to begin its education before it could walk; very early did girls learn the special teachings for women, called Washhoka-Mebal-Bunko, which by their nature were qualified to rob a mother of her child's heart.

In Japan there is a very hard and fast line drawn between the moral training and the education of boys and girls. You seldom see boys and girls playing in the streets together. If you do, you will notice that when a boy loses in a game his face receives a dab of paint. When a little girl loses she sticks a straw in her

At the different festivals for boys and girls the mark of sex is easily distinguishable. On the days of the Boys' Festival the whole city lies made of hollow gaily-painted paper, Every street is lined with bamboo poles, from which carp fly out into the breeze like flags to testify the fact that the Japanese man-child is capable of fighting its way up-stream against all the adverse currents of life. On the day of the Girls' Festival every stall and shop groans under its burden of solemn-faced dolls.

If you ask a little boy in Japan what his highest ambition in life was he would tell you to die for his emperor. A little girl would say: To observe the teachings of the Seven Sages, so that she might be a submissive daughter to her father, a submissive wife to her husband, a submissive daughter-in-law to her husband's parents, and last of all, a submissive mother to her eldest son if she was left a widow.-Douglas Straining the Air.

A woman living in a smoky city helps to keep her house clean by straining the air as it is drawn into the cold air register or box to be sent up through the pipes into the different rooms, says Good Housekeeping. The register is taken out, a piece of cheesecloth a trifle larger than the opening is spread over the pipe and the register is replaced, its edges holding the cheesecloth in place. The particles of soot and dust which accumulate on the cheesecloth soon prove how much the wall paper and furniture have been saved.

CAN DRINK TROUBLE.

That's one way to get it.

Although they won't admit it many people who suffer from sick headaches and other ails get them straight from the coffee they drink and it is easily proved if they'e not afraid to leave it to a test as in the case of a lady in Connellsville.

"I had been a sufferer from sick headaches for twenty-five years and anyone who has ever had a bad sick headache knows what I suffered. Sometimes three days in the week I would have to remain in bed, at other times I couldn't lie down the pain would be so great. My life was a torture and if I went away from home for a day I always came back more dead than alive.

"One day I was telling a woman my troubles and she told me she knew that it was probably coffee caused it. She said she had been cured by stopping coffee and using Postum Food Coffee and urged me to try this food drink. "That's how I came to send out and get some Postum and from that time I've never been without it for it suits my taste and has entirely cured all of my old troubles. All I did was to leave off the coffee and tea and drink well-made Postum in its place. This change has done me more good than everything else put together.

"Our house was like a drug store for my husband bought everything he heard of to help me without doing any good, but when I began on the Postum my headaches ceased and the other troubles quickly disappeared. I have a friend who had an experience just like mine and Postum cured her just as it did me.

"Postum not only cured the headaches, but my general health has been improved, and I am much stronger than before. I now enjoy delicious Postum more than I ever did coffee. Name given by Postum Co., Battl Creek, Mich.

CURIOUS WAYS OF SEA CRABS. Take Elaborate Precautions to Protect Themselves From Enemies.

Certain species of crabs cover themselves with sea weed in order to deceive their foes. One crab was seen to the naturalist Eisig in 1878 to pluck off zoophytes, those plant-like animal colonies which grow on shells and stones, and to fix them on the spines and hairs of its shell. A still deeper romance of defensive tactics s to be found in the case of certain nermit crabs. They live in the castoff shells of whelks and crawl about, house on back. One claw is bigger than the other, and this is an adaptive feature, for when the crab retires into its house the bigger claw is tucked across the mouth of the shell to bar the way against a possible intruder. More curious still is the habit of one species which toils along with a sea! anemone fixed to his shell, like Sinbad carrying the Old Man of the Sea. Great care is taken of this anemone. It is fed by the crab, and if the latter has to seek a new shell by reason of his growth he tenderly shifts his tenant off the old abode and places him

Katherine, as we know, had an exceedingly sympathetic nature. "Is there no hope for him?" at Stonehenge Many Centuries Old. Stonehenge, in England, with its ancient and mysterious circles of huge stones, has recently been the scene of some interesting scientific investigations and some of its mystery is believed to have been cleared away. Certain excavations around the bases of the stones led the scientists to the belief that the Stonehenge was erected by men of the neolithic or at least the early bronze age. The place is believed to have been laid out on astronomical and scientific lines, and from certain angles its date is indicated, somewhat as dates are believed by many to be hidden in angles of the great pyramids. the waist line and the appetite.

Before the era of large waists it was held that a maiden should appear to live on the smallest amount of food and drink that would sustain life and that she should display such a dainty capriciousness about this trifle as to suggest a fairy sipping dew from the flower cups. Eagerness for food was considered indecorous, for she was presumed to be a creature of so much delicacy that the needs of the inner woman were the very last thing she thought of.

Indeed, at the slightest mental disturbance she usually refused to eat altogether, and never remembered the lack of food until she swooned away from hunger. This was all extremely interesting, but when big, strapping girls became the fashion it was necessary to pack away in lavender the notion of a genteelly delicate appetite.

The young athletes were obliged to have fuel for vigorous frames, and it soon became quite permissible for a fashionably mannish girl with a straight front figure to take a truly masculine interest in her food. Nowadays she is frankly hungry, and eats she would eat them. It is very unaight through a meal of any number of courses with much enjoyment! and with no great amount of conventionality as to table manners.

But if fashion demands waists reduced by many inches the appetite will surely have to be curtailed by many courses-and what true woman would allow the pleasures of the table to interfere with an eighteen-inch waist? Did not the comfortable daughters of the dark ages sacrifice their flowing robes and buxom outlines to become heroines of chivalry, ethereal creatures, part angel, part fairy princess and of an elegant slimness of

All the quaint old courtesy books equired that a well-bred damsel should eat but little, and her table manners were regulated with all possible nicety, especially when fingers took the place of forks. Not long ago some of our American scientists got hold of some Egyptian wheat 3,700 years old. This was of the Emmer variety, and it was thought that its analysis might show that the present grain of the same variety had departed very far from it in the course of the centuries that have passed since it was harvested on the plains of Egypt. We have the idea that most of our plants are undergoing an enormous change, and this is doubtless true while they are under artificial conditions, but just as soon as the conditions become the same as those under which they were originally grown they quickly revert to their old habits. The examination showed it not to be far different from the modern grain of the same variety. The microscope showed the starch grains to be identical in shape with before it can my, it is hand fed on the starch grains in the wheat at the a fish diet by the natives; and in the present time. varieties of corn and wheat, but they will quickly revert to their first estate unless the conditions are kept artificial and unless the grain is constantly selected. Take our high-bred corn for instance. We cannot expect to keep it in its present high state as to protein content unless we constantly select it. The corn that bears fifteen per cent of protein now would in a few years drop back to eight per cent if left to itself. The prepotency is all in the direction of the habit that has been fixed in it for four thousand years. The habit of producing a large quantity of protein is of only seven and eight years' standing and must come constantly into conflict with the other tendency, which is about as old as the race. This should lead us not to put too much dependence in high protein corn seed. It is valuable, but we must expect disappointments with it. Some have fastened onto the idea that we have now obtained a corn that yields above the average in per cent of protein and that all we have to do hencecitizen. Numerous complaints now reaching the Kansas Experiment Station, through correspondence from various counties in the alfalfa growing sections of the state, show the destructive presence of locusts or grasshop-pers in the fields of that important crop, and make timely the publication of suggestions for the repression of these insects. It should be stated at the outset that the locusts that are rein no case the much discussed migra-Rocky Mountain locust, but they are well-known native species, common throughout the Mississippi valley as plains. They are found throughout weeds and grass of the fence rows and on the borders of cornfields everywhere. Their particular destructiveness in the alfalfa regions is due to the lack of suitable pasturage for them in the surrounding unirrigated lands, from which they collect on the more acceptable growth of the hay

As in these regions there are practically no natural checks to their increase that may be regularly depended upon, it is desirable at the present time to destroy them as far as possible, not only to limit their present depredations, but also to insure greater immunity from future attacks by the destruction of the breeding insects. They will soon be busy in depositing eggs abundantly in the fields where they are now eating the crop, and it is by all means desirable to kill them off before this next step in their economy is accomplished. Two methods commend themselves to farmers in the regions infested. One of these, the use of the "hopper-dozer," or catching pan, is not so well adapted to the capture of the insects at this, their winged stage, as it is earlier, before they have acquired wings. It may be stated that the use of this contrivance, the catching pan, is recommended after abundant practical experience with it by some of our western farmers, and is by no means to di be undervalued, especially if employed on the young locusts soon after hatching, and before they have spread widely from their hatching grounds.

At the present stage of growth of the insects, however, the most practical mode of destroying them is by the use of poisoned baits, scattered through the fields where the locusts are most abundant. One formula employed successfully in some western localities is a modification of the wellknown bran bait for plant-feeding insects in other orders, and is as follows: 100 pounds of bran, 8 pounds of sugar, 1 pound of saltpeter and 4 pounds of paris green. Dissolve the sugar and saltpeter, then add the paris green and enough water to moisten the bran well, but not so wet as to destroy its slight adhesiveness, and scatter the bait broadcast, or deposit in small masses in places where the locusts are thickest. As a much cheaper mixture or bait, it is recommended that a thorough trial be also made of a formula that has come to us from Manitoba, where it is said to have displaced the earlier mixtures. It is there called the Criddle mixture, from the name of the inventor, and is as follows: 1 part paris green, 2 parts salt, and 40 parts horse dung, by measure, the whole to be well mixed with water till soft, but not sloppy, and scattered over the infested places. It is said to have the merit of attracting the insects for a considerable distance, and while most effective-when fresh, it will retain its poisonous quality even when several weeks old.—E. A. Popenoe.

Holstein-Friesian Cattle

These cattle were introduced from the provinces of North Holland and Friesland, a section of the Kingdom of Netherlands, bordering on the North Sea, commonly called Holland. The dairymen of these provinces are descendants of the ancient Friesians and their cattle are lineal descendants of the cattle bred by them two thousand years ago. From the earliest account of dairy husbandry these cattle have been used and developed for dairy purposes. North Holland has been an illustration of the extent of the latter production the following statistics are quoted from Chambers' Encyclopedia: The area of Friesland is State of Rhode Island). The Laws of Business.

The man in business should remer per he is thus engaged as a means to an end. That end is to live well and to provide comfort for his loved ones and himself. The business should be second to and subservient to the liv ing. When business is allowed to be first, and the living and the providing a secondary consideration, then man becomes a slave, chained by irresistible bands to an unnatural and an inhuman master!

The pathways of life, as well as the pathways of business, are strewn with wrecks. Happy the man that sees his wreckage on the material rather than the heart path. Wrecks on the pathway of business may be cleared away and success builded anew; but the man who forgets the joys of life in the slavery of money can never again enjoy the roses and the sunsets of the natural life.

Work, then, with a dignity that enhances the glory of labor, keeping well in hand the greed for mere gold, gold that cannot buy you what you already have not! As you make more money, spend more; but when you can no longer spend with discretion what you make, loosen the chain another link and turn to life to take up the slack. Each must answer for himself the problem, "What is there in life for me?" And the answer is, "What you get out of it!"

This is not an invitation for the frivolous to live "a short life and a merry one." It is the guide for earnest, honest, careful conduct of one's self.

Absent-Minded Workers.

The man forgets his orders-and a train dashes into another train and the air is filled with flying debris and the groans and cries of the dying.

The man's memory lapses for the brief interim of a minute, and he has lost his firm the profits of a year!

Absent-mindedness is a curse of business. The worker's hands moving mechanically, with his brain playing truant, are productive of error. A party or candidate fit to govern must have the convictions and the courage to maintain them. Mr. Ferris says he don't care for national issues, but is loyal to both democrats and republicans.-Bay City Tribune.

Hon. Wm. P. Hepburn, of Iowa, chairman of the committee on Interstate and Commerce in the House of Representatives, will open the campaign for the republicans of Jackson on Saturday evening, October 8, at the armory.

Great enthusiasm was displayed in the democratic wards of Detroit for Hon. Fred M. Warner, who made a tour of the east side Monday evening. Tuesday evening he spoke to the voters of the west side, and the tour was one of continuous ovations.

Certainly. And under the conditions who and what will be the power behind the democratic candidate if he should by chance, be elected govenor? The answer is easy.

Ever hear of the democratic candidate for governor asking for support on account of his party's record? Have you heard him extolling the gentleman from Esopus who leads the National ticket? Is it possible the Big Rapids school master, who was a red hot Bryanite in 1900 and in 1896, still clings to the issues paramount in those two memorable campaigns?

Congressman Townsend, of this district, who has long been one of the most ardent primary reform men in the state, said, in a recent speech: "I warn you that the democrats are, by a subterfuge, trying to get the control of the next legislature. They are making a great cry about primary reform but it is not primary reform they want. They desire the legislature so as to elect a United States senator and redistrict the state."

The vicious and unscrupulous course that is being pursued by the Detroit Tribune in the matter of politics this year is certainly a disgrace to decent journalism, for it resorts to broad-faced misrepresentations in its efforts to defeat the republican state ticket, and is particularly severe on Hon, Fred M. Warner. When it doesn't dare to absolutely lie about a matter the Tribune resorts to misrepresentations by innuendoes, which is equally vicious .-Adrian Times.

His followers have tried to set him up on a pedastial, but the people cannot appreciate the loftiness of his position over that of any other good man,-Hillsdale Standard.

It has been stated and not denied by the democratic candidate for governor that he has already promised the job of insurance commissioner to a Detroit gentleman, in case of his election. Since this promise, made by Mr. Ferris or his creator, Hon. D. J. Campau, has become public property, it is aiso announced that another good job, that of formation as to our state institutions commissioner of railroads, has been promised to Daniel L. Davis, of Pontiac, who has charge of the demogratic campaign in Oakland county. Ana jet Mr. Ferris has the nerve to sneer at what shall be even more so if given higher he falsely imagines is the power behind power and greater authority to urge Fred Warner.

Democratic orators and newspapers lay great stress on the republican "machine," but they fail to mention their own machine which possibly isn't as to the kind of favor I most seek worth mentioning. It is a well-known and as in the influences I will be most fact that about half of the Michigan delegates to the democratic national convention were elected for Harst, but D. J. Campau, of Detroit, national democratic committeeman, lined them all up for Parker. It is also well-known that the democratic convention at Grand Rapids was largely in favor of attention and respect, will be the nominating Justus S. Stearns for govte legislature. Wants Fullest Discussion. Some of the questions now being discussed in a political way have created differences of opinion even among the members of my own party. However, I do not regard this fact as a misfortune. I have always esteemed the Republican party most because it contains men strong in their convictions of right and aggressive in their efforts to urge such convictions upon others. The radical man is of more value to the community and state than one who is lukewarm and indifferent. It has not been possible for me to view all public questions through the eyes of others, and I would scorn to make use of sentiments as a bid for popularity which I did not fully accept. No question has ever arisen in Michigan with which I have more sincere sympathy than the demand for honest elections and properly conducted primaries. I regard the vote-buyer and the man whose vote is brought as even worse than other types of public criminals. Our institutions are in danger when nominations are secured through the expenditures of money and when our elections are sought to be controlled by vilification and misrepresentation. I can sincerely say that I wish Godspeed to every man in our state and to every newspaper that is sincerely endeavoring to corconnection with primaries and elec-Though some may be more radical convinced will be in the right direction. It was everywhere said that he was the ideal candidate, for whom the full party vote should be polled, and the result proved that ing system is not so wide that it cantrue. Now what, we might ask, has occurred since to justify a different estimate? Mr. Warner was elected by one of the highest majorities recorded, the record of his administration for two years is open to any who would assail it. Has it been assailed? No. Has any corruption, any derelic tion, any incapacity, any fault what ever been found in his conduct of the secretary's office? None-none what ever. He has gone about his duties modestly, faithfully, intelligently, efficiently, and has given the state an administration or merit never surpassed in that office. It is not pretended to convict him of any fault as a servant of the state, and his detractors cannot deny that he has given his time and his talents to the public service, and has nowhere betrayed the public interest nor in any manner compromised the good name of the state or of the party that chose him. But, they say, he would do so as governor, and they rect the abuses which have existed in bring forward the nonsensical and meaningless allegation that he is a tions in Michigan and elsewhere, creature of "the machine," and would be a puppet in the hands of unscrupulthan myself in their desire for the ous bosses-just as the very same finely illustrated in the straight for- adoption of new methods, I am sure papers that are saying this used to that none are more earnest in their caricature McKinley as a contemptible puppet in the hands of a horrible ogre labeled Mark Hanna. The Demogratic managers' plan is give, if they would inform themselves to induce disaffected Republicans to as to the experiences of other states, vote against the Republican legislative cratic candidate for governor. They plans, because they know that a Democratic governor would be as helpless as a woggle bug if he were elected governor with a Republican legislature. Indeed, such a partisan division of the legislative and executive departments would defeat the purpose which they are inciting Republicans to imagine is the real object of their plans. Primary reform, in fact, would have a better show were Mr. Warner elected in such case, because he has declared his purpose of signing any bill passed by the legislature, whether for local option or for state-wide adop-

The "independent" or any other sort of voter will search in vain the Democratic speeches, newspapers, and other sources of outgiving, to find any reference to the fact that the next legislature will reapportion and redistrict the state, both as to congressional and United States senator to succeed Senator Burrows, Republican. And right here is the meat in the cocoanut.

Now it is assumed that nearly every one of the Republicans disgruntled on state issues intends to vote for the Republican candidate for president. The Democrats foster this assumption, in order not to alarm the disgatisfied voter and make him suspicious of the real purpose of the Democratic managers. That purpose is not to secure primary reform, for which they care little or nothing, but to secure control of the legislature, redistrict the state and elect a United States senator.

They can secure this control only by the votes of the Republicans, who are importuned to vote against Fred M. Warner and for the Democratic legislative candidates. These Republirans, sound on the national ticket. anxious for the continuance of a Republican congress, who could not be induced, under any circumstances, to vote to cripple the national administration, are in reality asked-under the gaise of an alleged non-partisan state movement to place the executive office and the legislature in the hands of the Democrats so that they may have an opportunity to gerrymander the state against the Republicans, to send a Democrat from Michigan to senate, and to juggle the districts so crease that party's representation in the lower house from Michigan from one member to half a dozen or more. Such an outcome might easily re sult in turning over congress to the Democrats in the middle of President Roosevelt's administration, and prove a serious set-back to the country's present satisfactory condition.

Do the Republicans of Michigan degire to become party to such a political condition?

Roosevelt Republicans, the kind that are true blue and rock-rooted in national affairs, as all these men are whom the Democratic managers are endeavoring to persuade to help them gain control of Michigan by this "nonpartisan" trick, may well think twice before they fall in with their wishes by voting against the Republican candidate for governor and the legislative candidates.

They certainly do not want the state gerrymandered for ten years to come by the D. J. Campau crowd. They certainly do not want to see D. J. Campau occupying a seat in the United are seeking by every means to create States senate. They certainly do not the impression that he is unworthy want to see the most of our present strong delegation in congress swept out two years bence. If they do not, they should support Fred M. Warner, clean, honest, capable, without a flaw and the legislative nominees. They should emulate Hon. Geo. B. Horton, master of the State grange, who declares that the division of sentiment in the party upon the question of the best method of reforming the nominatnot be bridged by a Republican legisla-ture and a Republican governor.

At any rate, they have opportunity to ponder the seriousness, in a party sense, of giving the state into political sharge of the present Democratic or-

FRED M. WARNER'S RECORD STANDS FOR ITSELF.

Although a young man, Fred M. Warner has been in public life for a number of years. He was the youngest member of the state senate during the two terms he was a member of that body, and the youngest man ever elected secretary of state of Michigan. His official acts are known to his fellow citizens. They, more completely than anything else possibly could, give the lie to the charges now being made by newspapers that have assailed the character of every public man since their establishment, that he is the tool of the machine and the corpora-We have the testimony of these newspapers, recorded in their editorial columns at the close of two sessions of the legislature of which he was a member, that his vote was on the right side of every question affeeting the people's interests. Mr. Warner's record in the senate at a ime when the question of corporation influence was strenuously in evidence is an open book, which may be scanned from cover to cover without disclosing an instance of failure on his part to vote and act independently in the interest of his constituents. His record as secretary of state is equally commendable. In all matters growing out of the litigation with the railroads he has stood steadfastly by latter's hands in every effort made by the companies in their fight to defeat the tax law and recover damages for the repeal of the special charter of the Michigan Central. From the beginning the railroads have cunningly sought to set the public against the further defense of the suits by making it appear that the expense would be ruinous. Notwithstanding adverse criticism due to these tactics of the railroad companies, Mr. Warner, as chairman of the board of state auditors, before which all these items of expense come for allowance, has never for a moment hesitated about voting to give the attorney general all the assistance asked for. His record both in the state senate and as a member of the board of state auditors has been one of honesty and independence. And we have the voluntary testimony of the Scripps newspapers to prove that he was never controlled by the machine or the corporations,

THE "NON-PARTISAN" DODGE.

Strange thing this: The Democrats are making their fight for governor and the legislature on a "non-partisan" basis. And yet they filled the supreme justice vacancy on their ticket last week with a Democrat, when they might have left it blank or named one of the Republican nominees.

As we understand this "non-partisan" dodge the Campau organization wants all the Republicans to be nonpartisan and vote for the Democratic candidate for governor and the Democratic legislative nominees, but all Democrats must vote their party ticket straight. They hope, in fact, that the "non-partisan" trick may fool enough Republicans to elect their legislative divisions, and will elect a whole state ticket, supreme justices and all.

The real object of this "non-partisan" campaign, this throwing of Parker overboard, is the control of the state administration and the legislature, the election of Boss Dan Campau to the United States senate in place of Senator Burrows, and the gerrymandering of the legislative and congressional districts of the state.

They may fool some of the Republicans some of the time, but we hope not all of the time. It's clever, but will it last to November 8?-Saginaw Courier-Herald.

The fact that many of the workers in the Republican ranks throughout the state were found to be lined up for Mr. Warner for governor, has given rise to the charge that he was in the hands of the "machine." There is nothing further from the truth. The fact is that these workers were brought in by Mr. Warner instead of the workers bringing him in. He made his own canvass, and by his good fellowship and clean record won his own nomination.-Judge Lamb,

The Democratic war cry to Demo-erats in this campaign is "Vote 'er straight," while to Republicans they dishonestly talk non-partisanship, but the game won't work.

Great Britain's Output During 1903 Was Above $40,000,000.

The value of coins issued from the royal British mint during 1903 was &10,-815,142. The gold was worth £10,144,-000, the silver £557,247, and the bronze £113.895

There was a much smaller demand for silver and bronze coins, says the annual report, but the gold coinage was £4,000,-

During the year 114,697,720 imerial and colonial coins was struck-nearly 8,000,-000 fewer than those struck in 1902. The value of the sovereigns and half-sovereigns now in circulation is £63,500,000. Eight years ago it was a million less.

The mean age of a sovereign is said to be 28 years, and that of a half-sovereign 20 years. The amount of gold worn from a sovereign in a year is 8-100ths of a penny, and that from a half-sovereign Machine Counts Coin.

New York bank officers are interested in a new coin counting machine which is employed by the Citizens' Central national bank. The machine does the work of about ten clerks. By adjusting the speed regulator any number of coins up to 30,000 can be counted and wrapped in an hour. In a working day of eight hours this rate would mean 240,000 coins. What a Woman Says.

PIRE OF THE CZAR. How Christian Names Are Bestowed -The Sons and Grandchildren of

The fact that Christian names in the Russian royal family are few and that they are repeated frequently makes it sometimes a little difficult to identify the particular grand duke to whom reference is made in a foreign telegram. But the difficulty is not really so serious when once we have mastered the subject. In the first place, it is customary, in naming a grand duke, to append his father's name; thus we speak of the Grand Duke Michael Nicolaevitch, the Grand Duke Michael Michaelovitch, and the Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch There are only a score of grand dukes, for it should be here stated that not every descendant of a tsar is a grand duke. The title is limited to sons and grandsons of sovereigns; the greatgrandsons, who are not grandsons of a tsar, are princes of Russia. The Tsar Nicolas I, will always be remembered as the tsar of the Crimean war. He died suddenty, his death being hastened by the bitter disappointment and humiliation caused by the defeat of the Russian arms. He was succeeded by his eldest son, Alexander II., who in 1881 was killed by the explosion of a nihilist bomb. Alexander II.'s eldest son Nicolas had died in 1865 as the result of an accidental blow from his brother Alexander who thus came to the throne in his stead. Nicolas had been engaged to Princess Dagmar of Denmark, and on his deathbed consigned his intended bride to the care of his brother, bidding him marry the lady. Alexander carried out his brother's wish, and the eldest child of the marriage is the present tsar, who succeded to the throne in 1894.

The oldest grand duke is the tsar's great-uncle, Michael Nicolaevitch, who is the sole surviving son of the Tsar Nicolas I. He has five sons, all of whom are in the army except Alexander, who is in the navy. His only daughter married the late Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, father of the grand duke who has just married Princess Alexandra of Cumberland. One of his sons, the Grand Duke Michael (Michaelovitch), who married the Countess Torby and was banished therefor, has just been allowed to return to Russia. The youngest grand duke is Dmitri Paulovitch, born in 1891. a first cousin of the tsar. The tsar has no sons, his four children being all girls, and the heir presumptive to the throne is his brother Michael. The second son of the late tsar, George, died in 1899. One grand duke of whom we have heard much lately, is Cyril, the son of the tsar's uncle Vladmir. He and his brother Boris have both been at the seat of war. Cyril served in the navy and Boris in the army. Cyril, it will be remembered. was one of the survivors of the destruction of the Petropavlovsk. He is engaged, so rumour says, to his cousin, who was formerly the wife of the Grand Duke of Hesse, from whom she was divorced on account of his incompaticonstantly mentioned, being the grand admiral of Russia. Another uncle, Vladmir, the father of Cyril and Boris, is one of the leaders of the war party in the Russian court

The Russian royal family is connected with that of England; in the first place because the tsar's mother was Princess Dagmar-of Denmark, a sister of the English queen; and secondly because his aunt Marie married the late Duke of Saxe-Coburg, or as he was then known the Duke of Edinburgh. If the latter's daughter should marry the Grand Duke Cyril-and it is rumored that the tsar who at first refused his consent, has, since his cousin was rescued from the Petropavlovsk, given his consent-there will be a third link between the two royal houses. The king of Greece is a brother of the present tsar's mother, and two grand dukes have married Greek princess. A slight link between Russia and Italy is found in the fact that the Grand Duke Peter married Princess Melitza of Mentenegro, a younger sister of Queen Helena of Italy.

POWER FROM NIAGARA FALLS

Three New Companies on the Canadian Side Are Arranging to Generate Electricity with Turbines.

Three companies are now working hard on the Canadian side of the Niagara Shakespeare's "Mcabeth." to prepare for generating electrical power from the falls. Two of these companies are controlled by American capital, the third exclusively by Canadaian and English capital. All expect to sell their product on the Canadian side and to distribute power to points as much as 200 miles distant from the falls.

Each company has encountered some grade. interesting engineering problems in the course of the work. One company, for example, has had to plan for a roof of unusual strength over its power house, because it is expected that the spray from the falls in winter will thatch the roof with five feet of solid ice. No part of the work is more interesting han that undertaken by the Canadian

New Orleans Man Contracts with Cuba to Lift the Maine from the Mud of Havana Harbor.

R. H. F. Sewell, of New Orleans, has informed the navy department that he has made a contract with the Cuban government to raise the wreck of the battleship Maine, which has lain in the mud of the harbor of Havana since the explosion on the night of February 15, 1898 Before proceeding with the work, Mr Sewell says he desires to know what claim, if any, the United States government has in the wreck.

The communication has been referred to the judge advocate general of the navy for consideration. It raises an interesting question

The Cuban government, it is understood, makes no claim of ownership to the wreck, and is governed in its action simply by a desire to improve the navigation of the harbor.

SCHOOL REPORT.

Has Been a Faithful Public Servant.

SPLENDIDLY EQUIPPED

For the Duties of Governor-Papers Now Assailing Him Also Vilified Mc-Kinley, Hanna and Chandler

No warmer commendation was ever given to the public acts and purposes of any man than was given by the Detroit Evening News and the Detroit Tribune in referring to the legislative course of Fred M. Warner during the sessions of 1895 and 1897. On May 31, 1895, at the close of Mr. Warner's first term as senator the News said of him:

"While the term corporat will always be associated with the egislature of 1895, and deservedly, too, it is only fair to say that there was a respectable minority in both houses, which, had it been able to shape the course of affairs, would have made a brighter history. Such senators as Warner (and seven others, naming them, and thirteen members of the house, naming them) were the more conspicuous of the little group at each end of the capitol whose course was uniformly the reverse of that marked out by the machine and other corporation lobbyists."

After Fred M. Warner's Second Term as Senator.

"There has been a small minority in the senate that has all along resented the patronizing way Thompson talked about them and of his ability to swing the majority for or against any bill as he pleased. They are Republicans like Warner (and five others, naming them). Their districts will make no mistake in re-electing them." -Detroit Evening News, June 1, 1897.

Warner's Record as State Senator. Fred M. Warner voted in favor of a bill for the taxation of sleeping cars in 1895.

Fred M. Warner was one of the twelve senators who voted (May 27, 1897), to take the Michigan Central Charter Repeal bill from the com-

Fred M. Warner voted for the socalled Atkinson Railroad Taxation bill at the special session of 1898. Discussing the measure (Senate Journal, 1898, p. 238) he said: "I am in favor of the passage of this bill. I think it is in the line of equal and just taxation and should be passed."

Fred M. Warner was one of the nine senators who voted against tabling the bill which provided for the reduction of railroad fares in the Upper Peninsula.

Fred M. Warner was one of the venteen senators who voted in favor of increasing the rate of taxation of express companies in the special session of 1898.

The above is proof positive that Fred M. Warner never has been and never will be controlled by any man or machine or combination whatso-

DON'T LOSE SIGHT OF THIS FACT. Republicans should not lose sight of the fact that the next legislature will reapportion and redistrict the state on congressional and legislative lines. How would you like to see the state gerrymandered by a legislature bossed by Czar Campau, with a governor, Campau-machine-made, to sign such a bill? It would, of course, mean a gerrymander that would outgerrymander anything ever before attempted, and for what purpose? To elect Campau United States senator and give the Democrats in congress comfort by the election of several Democratic congressmen two years hence. It would make Michigan the battle ground in the next congressional election with a probable Democratic electoral vote in 1908. Republicans will not be drawn into this trap.

WAS REPUBLICAN LEGISLATION.

The Australian ballot system means in the mind of pretty much everybody, the feature of an authorized uniform ballot furnished by official authority, spend ng some time with his family. and the private booth in which the voter prepares his ballot secure from observation. These are the effective safeguards that are in the mind of every man when he speaks of the Australian ballot, and without which no other features of it would be worth anything. Those are provided in the Howe. election law enacted by the Republican legislature of 1899, and approved by Gov. Cyrus G. Luce. The law was passed by the votes of 80 per cent of the Republican members, while 60 per cent of the democrats either voted against it or did not vote at all. In an amendment adopted by the succeeding Democratic legislature the feature of the blanket ballot was added; but that is a detail of triffing consequence beside the provision of the official ballot to be furnished by the state or the county, and the private voting, booth, which are the features of vital consequence, and were both republican measures.
