ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

CHELSEA CITIZENS RATIFIED.

Eloquent Speeches by Messrs. Wedemeyer, Sawyer, Newkirk, Stivers and Glazier—Music and Fireworks.

Last Friday evening Chelsea was ablaze with improvised torches, fireworks and bonfires and its streets resounded with music and tin horns. It was a grand ratification meeting, gotten up by the employees of the Glazier Stove Works. At 7:30 a procession of more than one hundred men headed by the Chelsea band, started from the Stove Works and marched through the village. Transparencies with pictures of President Roosevelt, Governor-elect Warner and State Treasurer Frank P. Glazier. Along the line of march red fire and Roman candles were set off.

When the procession arrived at the home of Hon. Frank P. Glazier it stopped and Mr. Glazier invited them in, where their heartfelt congratulations were given. Mr. Glazier in a few fitting words expressed his feelings of gratefulness for the way they had stood by him.

While the procession was marching about town the opera house was being prepared for the ratification meeting. Two Warner cheeses had been provided and with crackers were served to the people who had congregated at the house.

When the line of marching men reached the hall, it was soon filled. Bernard Parker acted as chairman, and introduced each speaker with a few fitting remarks.

Hon. W. W. Wedemeyer of Ann Arbor was the first one called upon to address the enthusiastic audience and he made a short but eloquent speech. He said he was proud of Michigan who had now next to Pennsylvania in proportion to its population, given the biggest republican majority of any state for President Roosevelt. The village of Chelsea had a man who had contributed more to its prosperity than any one man and that was Frank P. Glazier and he was glad that he was elected by 100,000 majority. He was glad the state had given Fred M. Warner 65,000 majority. He was glad to see in the old county of Washtenaw such an unprecedented victory. He wanted to say to the democrats that he appreciated their friendship which had made the victory possible. He would say that the administration of Fred M. Warner would be a clean one, that in two years, his bitterest enemies would be his warmest admirers.

Hon. A. J. Sawyer, of Ann Arbor, was introduced, who proceeded to give in sensible words, the gratefulness felt by every honorable republican, to their democratic friends, who had left their party affiliations and stood shoulder to shoulder with them in voting for what they thought was right. In this hour of victory he warned every republican to be careful by no word to offend their democratic friends, but to welcome them to the republican party. If they were treated right they would stay.

Hon. H. Wirt Newkirk of Ann Arbor, was introduced. He was no sorehead, although he had been defeated in the nomination, he had worked tooth and nail for his opponent, Mr. Leland. He paid a high tribute to Mr. Glazier and the pleasant relationship between him and his employees.

Attorney Frank A. Stivers, of Ann Arbor, was introduced, who expressed his gratification in being at the meeting.

In answer to repeated calls Hon. Frank P. Glazier responded. He said it was one of the proudest moments of his life when at the republican headquarters in Ann Arbor he received the returns from Sylvan township. He believed that Sylvan township was one of the banner townships of Washtenaw county. He should never cease to try to make Chelsea one of the best towns in Michigan.

The enthusiastic meeting closed with three hearty cheers for the next state treasurer, Hon. Frank P. Glazier.

BOYHOOD DAYS--NO. 2.

Incidents Told by a Pioneer of North Lake--Many Boyhood Friends Brought to Light.

I jot down a few more incidents for this week, and as the weather is fine and apple gathering and corn husking is in order, I will confine myself to a few lines.

In early times in Michigan a funeral was almost unknown, and when a death did occur everybody, old and young, were anxious to attend the funeral. Finally an old person died. She was old when she came to Michigan, and our parents and sister and brother older than Cap and myself, went; we were told to be good boys and we too should go to the next one. But we were afraid it would be like the circus, a long time in coming, if ever. So after promising not to burn the house or straw stack we watched until our folks had got over the first hill and out of sight, then Cap gave his first order, which was that I should go to a near neighbor having a large family of good boys and bring them over to our house, as Cap was planning a big time. They needed no urging as they had often before this took part in our celebrations. While I was gone for help Cap had been busy thinking and planning, and finally decided to have a funeral of our very own. But as none of the congregation felt quite resigned to shuffle off this mortal coil, we all took to the henhouse and soon selected one we thought to be as old as the party to be buried that day. Then stones, clubs and missiles of all kinds flew thick and fast, until the old hen gave up and stopped breathing. In the fusillade I got a rap on the head that came near furnishing another subject for a future event, also one of the invited guests got a rap on the nose that Cap decided would just fit us out as mourners, as we ought to have two at least. He would be the preacher, the injured guests would be pall bearers. We decided as the death had been so sudden and the news not getting spread far around, each person would have to act in more than one capacity. Cap would have liked to lead the singing but on account of a severe cold his voice sounded more like ringing logs than a funeral tone, so I was the next choice, as I knew Old Dan Tucker and Zip Coon, besides two or three verses of Pop Goes the Weasel, which Cap said would come in all right if I would be very careful and sing low. I think now Cap had other reasons than the solemnity for keeping my voice down as we had neighbors across the field that didn't attend either funeral which he thought might be jealous, and expose our family affairs to public gaze. At this late date I can't recall the features of the occasion, but one or two impressed me more than others and are lasting.

Cap's sermon consisted of a warning to be on our guard as death might be on our track, as we could well believe by a sore head and bloody nose. He eulogized the departed highly, saying she had been in the habit of laying about a hat full of eggs a day, as there was always that many where he found her setting, and had done so for the last hundred years as near as he could remember. Now as we could hear a wagon coming down the road Cap said he must hasten, but would say that old dead hen would now do the biggest laying in her life, and that when in active business could hatch out more chickens (nearly all roosters) than a dozen skunks and a whole flock of hawks could carry away in a year. And now, as father's wagon was in sight, he said the obituary would appear in the Michigan Farmer and New York Sun. We were dismissed by the order to git, which we did, each one for himself. I decided to hide for a time until things assumed a quiet aspect, and seeing an empty beehive, one father had just taken up, standing back of the house, I made for that and sat down in it, and anxious to be well hid I kept working nearer the bottom until my chin and knees were together. After a long search they found me, where I would be now, if father hadn't took the ax and split the hive off me. One of the others had to be taken from the top of the house, where he had gone for safety, not daring to get down. I think father would not have found us out if Cap had omitted head marker with this inscription in chalk: "Here lies old Biddy Bobtail, and here she will lie till the day of judgment."

BLEW UP HOUSE.

Residents of Ann Arbor Objected to Location of Smallpox Hospital--Take Bold Measure to Remove It.

The Ann Arbor city authorities rented a vacant house near Perry field to be used as a shelter for the smallpox patients now at the University of Michigan. The patients were to be moved in Monday night but the neighbors objected to having a pesthouse established in the neighborhood, and early in the evening somebody placed dynamite under the house and almost blew it to pieces. It is stated by the city officials, however, that the damage will be repaired and the house used as at first planned.

There are now seven mild cases of smallpox in the university, six of them being engineers and one a law student. A general vaccination has been ordered by the university authorities and it is thought there will be no necessity for closing the institution. The gymnasium has been closed, but classes are not interrupted.

A VERY NOTABLE EVENT.

BAY VIEW READING CIRCLE

Celebrated Its First Decennial Anniversary Monday Evening at the Home of Mrs. George W. Palmer.

One of the most pleasant occasions in the history of the Bay View Reading Circle was the celebration of its first decennial anniversary at the home of Mrs. George W. Palmer on Monday evening, November 14, the same home in which was held the Circle's first banquet in June, 1895. Invitations were sent to every one who had ever belonged, ten of whom were present and eleven sending letters which were read to the company. An anniversary hymn, the joint work of two members, was sung to the inspiring tune of "America" and an original anniversary poem read by the author. Mrs. George Blach, of Ann Arbor, very charmingly rendered a vocal solo to the delight of all present. After the remainder of the program, which consisted of vocal and instrumental music and readings, was given, a social time was enjoyed during which dainty refreshments were served. The desire to celebrate their second decennial in the same place was freely expressed and the members hope they may be so blest.

THE HEART OF TEXAS.

Last night "The Heart of Texas" was presented at the Opera House by Allan Villair, Pearl Lewis and a very good company. The play is a genuine thriller and yet it contains lines and scenes of the highest dramatic excellence; it tells a vivid heart story of love, hatred and jealousy, disclosing the extremes of human desires and passions. Some of the startling incidents are the attack by a mad wolf, the attempt to blow up "Jack" with dynamite, the realistic scene, where "Jack" and "Texas" are surrounded by a murderous lot of ruffians and engage in a thrilling fight for life and the robbery in the last act. The comedy is rich and plenty, the dialogue crisp, but clean, and the whole teaches a good moral lesson to the young and old. Allan Villair as "Jack" was the ideal, picturesque hero, who fears nothing and very pretty Pearl Lewis was a close second as the vivacious "Texas." She also did a very clever specialty. The balance of the company was competent and the scenery very pretty--Cortland, N. Y. Standard.

The above attractions appear for one night only Friday, November 25 at the Chelsea opera house. Reserved seats on sale at the store of H. L. Wood & Co.

DEFICIT IN POSTAL REVENUES.

The annual report of the auditor for the postoffice department shows that the fiscal business transacted through the postal and money order branches of the department during the last year were: Revenues of the postal service, $143,582,624; expenditures, of the postal service $152,362,116; total amount of money orders issued, domestic, $383,422,373; foreign, $37,876,265; total amount of money orders paid, domestic, $385,100,020; foreign, $6,714,846. The deficit in the postal revenues, therefore, were $8,579,492.

MAGIC IN THE ZUNI TRIBE.
Priest. Apparently Lifted a Jug of Water with a Feather.
"The most startling feat I ever saw," said a guest at the Diller last night, who has made a study of Indians in various parts of the United States for his own edification, "was performed by the priests of the Zuni tribe in Arizona, or, as they were called, 'The Ancients of Creation.' They seat themselves in a circle on the clay floor, around a jar that will hold perhaps a gallon, an ancient and sacred earthen vessel, which is filled with water. The chief priest carries in his hand two ordinary eagle feathers, which are tied together at the quill ends so that they make a fork. Behind the circle of the priests are other members of the tribe and the musicians with their drums and gourd, who join in the chants with emotion.
"The incantations continue for several hours and when the participants and spectators are brought up to a proper pitch of excitement the priest dips the feather tips into the water, lifts the jar with them and holds it suspended for a minute or two at a height level with his face or breast.
Then he lowers it slowly to the ground.
This feat is repeated several times during the performance. Apparently there is nothing in the hand of the priest but the feathers and they appear to be inserted into the mouth of the jar only two or three inches. Of course, there is some trick about it, but I was never able to discover it."

SOME FRUGAL DINNERS

In striking contrast to the joyous and delicious Thanksgiving dinners of American civilization are the frugal repasts of the many thousands dwelling in remote and inhospitable parts of the United States. The natives who live on the coast of Alaska have a somewhat harder struggle for existence than do their reindeer breeding neighbors of the interior. All during the year the former are forced to wage a ceaseless warfare upon the whale, seal and walrus for subsistence. In gathering their Thanksgiving repast or feast the efforts of the whole household are employed. In November and all through the winter hunting of the sea animals is mainly carried on through holes in the ice.
Fish is obtained entirely in this manner. A young girl will sit on blocks of ice, covered with a few skins, all day fishing, in the face of a bitter wind, with the temperature 60 degrees below zero. In hunting the seals young boys locate the openings with keen-scented dogs trained for the purpose. The seals, as well as the walruses, are compelled to frequent these for occasional breathing spells. Beside one of these fissures the hunter will watch for hours, waiting for his prey. As soon as the animal is heard blowing he quickly plunges his harpoon down into the hole with all his strength. The wounded seal or walrus at once pulls strongly on the coil, but soon becomes exhausted, and is easily killed and drawn up on the ice.

The white whale, on account of its great amount of oil blubber, as well as meat, is one of the choice food animals. The expert and eager hunter, when first he discovers one of these whale holes, usually five miles or more from shore, out on the ice floe, rushes at once with the glad tidings to his home. There is at once a great furore and excitement. The sledges are made ready, and the wife—sometimes there are several—together with all the available members of the family, dash over the ice pack to the "blowhole." Arriving on the scene, harpoons and guns are utilized for shooting and capturing the prey.
About every twelve or eighteen minutes the school of whale will arise to blow, swimming the length of the hole, to and fro. The breathing spells only last about two seconds. Often when the main rising occurs the hole becomes so filled that the body of a whale will be pushed two-thirds out of the water and held in this position for several seconds before going under again.

Awaiting these opportunities, the natives aim for a place just back of the skull, the bullet breaking or dislocating the spinal column. All killed in this way float on the surface, and are immediately drawn upon the ice, and either dragged or taken ashore on a sledge. This work is repeated, and sometimes as many as one hundred carcasses are obtained and stored away for future use. Getting one of the big monsters ashore, which means a royal feast, is a welcome tug of war, which old and young lend a hand in.

Walrus meat is the most highly prized and appetizing of all their animal diet. No feast, Thanksgiving or otherwise, is considered complete without the head, which is thought to be the most delicious part. The most welcome sound of the household is the one seen approaching the camp with a large walrus head on his back. So tempting is this flesh that it is cut off in slices and eaten raw.

Life among the reindeer breeders of the interior is a trifle easier and more assured than that of the coast people, but the diet is wellnigh as poor and scanty, the reindeer furnishing food, clothing and transportation.

The neighborhood of a herder's household or camp, as it will be found on Thanksgiving day, is probably one of the most isolated and dreary on the globe. His skin tent abode is pitched on the desolate, snow covered tundra, far from the outposts of civilization.
The herder is the record breaking mover of the world. Every forty-eight hours for nine months his frail tent home is pulled down and set up again in the vicinity of his ever roving flock. The deer are not allowed to feed long on one pasture, as the constant scraping of their hoofs hardens the snow, and it becomes difficult for them to get at the moss underneath. Large herds have to move every few hours, and are actually kept on the go all the winter, as a territory that has been grazed over for a day is useless till next season.
The moss upon which the deer feed is a foot or more below the surface of the snow, and is obtained by burrowing down with their sharp cloven hoofs.

New Mexico is supposed to be pretty well supplied with the articles and comforts of civilization, yet natives of Old Mexico are to be found along the southern border who live in the most primitive way. A woman of this kind, for instance, prepares bread for a Thanksgiving spread by kneading down and grinding corn upon the aboriginal stone metate, used hundreds of years ago, or maybe, she makes frijoles from beans ground in the same laborious way.

BACK TO EARLY DAYS.
Record of Thanksgiving Celebration in Plymouth Colony.
One of the very earliest records of how a day of thanksgiving was observed in the Plymouth Colony is as follows:
"In ye Meetinghouse, beginning some halfe an hour before nine & continued until after twelve o'clock, ye day being very cold, beginning with a short prayer, then a psalme sang, then more larger in prayer, after that an other Psalme, & then the Word taught, after that prayer—and then a psalme—Then making merry to the creatures, the poorer sort beeing invited of the richer."

"On October 12, 1637, a thank-giving was held mainly for these two particulars. 1. For the victory over the Pequots, ye 2. For Reconciliation betwix Mr. Cotton and the other ministers."

Thanksgiving was thus celebrated irregularly in Massachusetts, as occasion suggested, down to 1680, after which it was annually ordered by the General Court, not always in November, but generally after the harvests were gathered.

The manner in which Thanksgiving day was first instituted as a national festival has special interest. During the war for independence eight public and general Thanksgivings were ordered by the Continental Congress, but after the general Thanksgiving for Peace in 1784 the proclamations were discontinued until 1789, when the first National Thanksgiving was proclaimed by President Washington, the time designated being the last Thursday in November.

The special purpose, as recommended by Congress, was to give thanks for the adoption of the Constitution. In 1795, the suppression of the whisky insurrection was recognized by a presidential call for a national day of thanksgiving. The practice of officially recommending the observance of a Thanksgiving festival was gradually adopted by the States until it now has place among the great national holidays.

QUEER OLD FUNERAL CUSTOM.
Ceremony in County Wexford, Ireland, Is Centuries Old.
In the district known as "the barony of Forth," in County Wexford, Ireland, is to be found a race of hard-working, industrious peasants, living in thatched cottages with clean white-washed walls, which by their perfect whiteness at once arrest the attention of the visitor. These people differ in many respects from the inhabitants of the other parts of the same county and have habits and customs peculiar to themselves. They are strong bellowers in the efficacy of prayers for the dead. When a funeral takes place two wooden crosses are provided. On the way to the cemetery a halt is made at a certain spot by the side of the road.
Here prayers are said for the deceased, after which one cross is deposited in a hawthorn bush or under it. The procession then goes on its way, and after the interment the other cross is fixed at the head of the grave. This strange custom dates from time immemorial, as the great pile of crosses by the roadside indicate.

The Blind and the Deaf.
Some persons allege that blind persons are usually cheerful, while deaf persons are usually gloomy and suspicious. The reasons for these characteristics were recently given, in reply to inquiries, the deaf man saying: "When anyone speaks to me, I am reminded of my infirmity." The blind man said: "As soon as any person speaks to me I forget my misfortune."—New York Tribune.

Broad-Minded Scotch Sectarian.
A Scotch gamekeeper, a great light in one of the kirks, was asked the difference between the Free and the United Free churches. "Give me the actual difference in a simple form," the inquirer requested after a long lecture from the gamekeeper. "Well, sir," said John, "if you want it plainly it is this: We'll all be saved and they'll all be damned."

TERRIBLE SUFFERING

THIS YOUNG WOMAN APPEALED IN VAIN FOR HELP.

When Hope had Almost Settled Into Utter Despair Relief Came from an Unexpected Source.

Mrs. Emma Heidebreder, of No. 1323
Joy street, Burlington, Iowa, whose husband is an employee of the Rand Lumber Co., tells a story of pitiable suffering:
"For about five years," she says, "I had a host of physical ills that kept me invalid and puzzled the doctors. Some of them thought I was going into consumption. At times I was so weak that I could not comb my hair or even wash my face. Then excruciating pains ran suddenly up my thigh and I had to be carried to bed screaming in my agony.
I could no longer do my work and the drain upon my husband's purse was very heavy. I craved food but what I ate only gave me discomfort. My liver was torpid, and often I had to be carried to the door for air to save me from suffocating."

"The worst was the pain which seemed as if my thigh were being pushed out of my body. The best doctors could do was to decien it by narcotics. Once they thought I could not live for more than two days. In one of my worst attacks, a friend said: 'Why don't you try Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills?' They are the only thing that ever helped my rheumatism."

"I took his advice. After using one box I felt better, and I continued to use the pills for three or four months with steady improvement until I was well.
For four years I have been able to do all my household work, and no longer have to take medicine for any serious trouble.
I gave one box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to a man on crutches because of rheumatism and advised my market woman to buy a box when she was complaining of the same trouble. I heard that he was soon able to throw his crutches away, and she told me she had got rid of the rheumatism by the use of one box and could not thank me too much."

Testimony multiplies as to the magnificent curative powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, nervous headache, palpitation of the heart and all forms of weakness in either male or female. They are sold by all druggists throughout the world.

A prominent Southern lady, Mrs.
Blanchard, of Nashville, Tenn., tells how she was cured of backache, dizziness, painful and irregular periods by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Gratitude compels me to acknowledge the great merit of your Vegetable Compound. I have suffered for four years with irregular and painful menstruation, also dizziness, pains in the back and lower limbs, and fitful sleep. I dreaded the time to come which would only mean suffering to me."

"Better health is all I wanted, and cure if possible. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me health and happiness in a few short months. I feel like another person now. My aches and pains have left me. Life seems new and sweet to me, and everything seems pleasant and easy."

"Six bottles brought me health, and was worth more than months under the doctor's care, which really did not benefit me at all. I am satisfied there is no medicine so good for sick women as your Vegetable Compound, and I advocate it to my lady friends in need of medical help."—Mrs. B. A. BLANCHARD, 422 Broad St., Nashville, Tenn.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

A Severe Case of Womb Trouble Cured in Philadelphia.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been cured of severe female troubles by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was nearly ready to give up, but seeing your advertisement I purchased one bottle of your medicine, and it did me so much good that I purchased another, and the result was so satisfactory that I bought six more bottles, and am now feeling like a new woman. I shall never be without it. I hope that my testimonial will convince women that your Vegetable Compound is the greatest medicine in the world for falling of the womb or any other female complaints."—Mrs. MAZ CODY, 2860 Birch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Remember, every woman is cordially invited to write to Mrs.
Pinkham if there is anything about her symptoms she does not understand. Her address is Lynn, Mass., her advice is free and cheerfully given to every ailing woman who asks for it.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3.50 SHOES
The reason W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the greatest sellers in the world is because of their excellent style, easy fitting and superior wearing qualities. If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes and the high-grade leathers used, you would understand why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day, and why the sales for the year ending July 1, 1904, were $6,262,040.00.
W. L. Douglas guarantees their value by stamping his name and price on the bottom. Look for it—take no substitute. Sold by shoe dealers everywhere.
SUPERIOR IN FIT, COMFORT AND WEAR.
"I have worn W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes for the last twelve years with absolute satisfaction. I find them superior in fit, comfort and wear to others costing from $2.00 to $7.00.—B. S. McChesney, Jr., Capt. U. S. Art. Reserve, Richmond, Va.

James Marshall, of Paw Paw, Num-speak of the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills in such terms of praise as they deserve would be to use expressions having the appearance of extravagance. When I procured them at E. B. Longwell's drug store I had a severe pain in the small of my back across the loins. It was always worse if I took cold or overexerted myself, and sometimes my sufferings can scarcely be described. I regretted that the kidney secretions were irregular, often highly colored, and at times full of acid. This had continued about two years and I used every remedy that came to my notice, but got little if any benefit from them. At last I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills.

I had trust in the remedy would do me good, but I was not prepared for the great benefit it which they soon brought.
I could notice the good effect after taking a few doses, and by the time I had used three-fourths of a box the pain in my back passed out of existence, the kidney secretions became natural and I am enjoying better health than I have for years. Doan's Kidney Pills are worth their weight in gold."

DETROIT GRAND OPERA FESTIVAL.

Henry W. Savage's English Grand Opera Company, to be heard in six elaborate productions the week of November 28.

Music lovers in Detroit and surrounding cities will have another opportunity to hear the celebrated Savage English Grand Opera Company in a repertory of elaborate grand opera productions at the Detroit Opera House during the week of November 28th. This famous organization is now making a trans-continental tour and its engagements must be limited. The company has been considerably enlarged, having a number of new artists imported this season and now carries a full grand opera orchestra.
The approaching opera festival will afford the chief musical event of the year in this part of the state.

With this array of English singing artists, orchestra of forty musicians and chorus of nearly seventy voices, Mr Savage has the largest and best English Grand Opera Company in the world. It numbers nearly 150 people.

The opera festival will open with Puccini's beautiful "La Boheme," the operatic gem that took music lovers by storm when first produced in Detroit last spring, and the dates and arrangement of performances will be as follows:

Monday evening, November 23—Puccini's "La Boheme."

Tuesday evening, November 29—
Bizet's "Carmen."

Wednesday matinee, November 30—
Only performance of Verdi's "Othello."

Thursday evening, December 1—A double bill: Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and Leoncavallo's "I Pag-liacci."

Friday evening, December 2—Puccini's "La Boheme."

Saturday matinee, December 3—
Bizet's "Carmen."

Saturday evening, December 3—Farewell performance of the double bill.

During the opera week the scale of prices will range from $1.50 to fifty cents. The sale of seats and boxes will open on Thursday morning, November 24th, Thanksgiving day. Out of town orders containing remittances and stamped envelope will be filled in the order of receipt.

A STARTLING TEST.

To save a life, Dr. T. G. Merritt, of No.
Mechopany, Pa., made a startling test resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes, "a patient was attacked with violent hemorrhages, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had often found Electric Bitters excellent for acute stomach and liver troubles so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first, and has not had an attack in 14 months." Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed for dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation and kidney troubles. Try them. Only 50c at Glazier & Stinson.

THE CHRISTMAS DELINEATOR.

The December Delineator, with its message of good cheer and helpfulness, will be welcomed in every home. The fashion pages are unusually attractive, illustrating and describing the very latest modes in a way to make their construction during the busy festive season a pleasure instead of a task, and the literary and pictorial features are of rare excellence. A selection of Love Songs from the Wagner Operas, rendered into English by Richard de Gallienne, and beautifully illustrated in colors by J. C. Leyendecker, occupies a prominent place, and a chapter in the Composers' Series, relating the Romance of Wagner and Cosima, is an interesting supplement to the lyrics. A very clever paper entitled "The Court Circles of the Republic," describes some unique phases of Washington social life from an unnamed contributor, who is said to write from the inner circles of society.
There are short stories from the pens of F. Hopkinson Smith, Robert Grant, Alice Brown, Mary Stewart Cutting and Elmore Elliott Peake, and such interesting writers as Julia Magruder, L. Frank Baum, and Grace MacGowan Cooke hold the attention of the children. Many Christmas suggestions are given in needlework and the Cookery pages are redolent of the Christmas feast. In addition, there are the regular departments of the magazine, with many special articles on topics relating to woman's interests within and without the home.

THOUSANDS CURED.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve has cured thousands of cases of piles. "I bought a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve on the recommendation of our druggist," writes C. H. LaCroix, of Zavalla, Tex., "and used it for a stubborn case of piles.
It cured me permanently." Sold by Glazier & Stinson.

A HEAVY LOAD.

To lift that load off of the stomach take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat. Stays in stomach, belching, gas on stomach and all disorders of the stomach that are curable, are instantly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. S. P.
Storrs, a druggist at 297 Main street,
New Britain, Conn., says: Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is giving such universal satisfaction and is surely becoming the positive relief and subsequent cure for this distressing ailment, I feel that I am always sure to satisfy and gratify my customers by recommending it to them. I write this to show how well the remedy is spoken of here." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure was discovered after years of scientific experiments and will positively cure all stomach troubles. Sold by Glazier & Stinson.

Itchiness of the skin, horrible plague.

another. Only one safe, never failing

AN IRRIGATION FEAT

A COLORADO DESERT IS TO BE MADE TO BLOOM.

To Do This a Tunnel Six Miles Long Must Be Cut Through the Mountains—A Government Project.

The greatest irrigation project ever undertaken by the United States government was begun recently near Montrose, Col. The reclamation service of the government proposes to divert the Gunnison river, which now runs through a canyon between walls of rock 3,000 feet high, though a tunnel almost six miles long, into the Uncompahgre valley, where 150,000 acres of arid lands will be rendered fertile by its waters.
The difficulty of the project lies in the boring of the tunnel through the Vernal Mesa, the tableland that forms one side of the Grand canyon of the Gunnison and separates it from the Uncompahgre valley. There is nothing to equal it in

GRAND CANYON OF THE GUNNISON.

the wonderful story of irrigation in America, and in American railroad ing only the Hoosic tunnel approaches it in length.

The Uncompahgre valley lies in southwest Colorado and comprises parts of Montrose, Ouray and Delta counties.
The valley, the river that divides it and the mountains that flank it were all named after the Uncompahgre Utes, the aborigines of this region.

The valley is about 30 miles long and averages nine miles in width. Some of it is now irrigated by the Uncompahgre river, but this tract comprises only about 10,000 acres, while there are 150,000 acres that the tunnel will be the means of reclaiming.

The supply of water from the Uncompahgre is only fair at best, but what it will do is shown about this town, which, with a population of 1,200, is the largest in the valley. Here are fine orchards of apples, peaches and pears, yielding as high as $400 an acre. Further down the valley there are only alkali soil and sage brush, such as you will see for hours in crossing the desert.

In 1900 a party of residents of the Uncompahgre valley made the first investigation of the Gunnison as a source of water supply. They explored the canyon for 21 perilous days, and succeeded in getting only half way through it. The record of their journey is a succession of hairbreadth escapes.
They returned convinced that the project would be too costly to be practicable. Later, in 1900, there was a cursory investigation by the government, and in 1901 the first systematic survey was begun by A. L. Fellows, district engineer of the Reclamation service.

Mr. Fellows is the man to whom the Gunnison tunnel will owe its existence.
He explored and surveyed the region for

THE MOUNTAIN THROUGH WHICH THE TUNNEL IS TO GO.

three years; found that the tunnel was feasible and selected two locations for it, of which that known as the upper location has been finally chosen.

The cost of constructing the tunnel Mr. Fellows estimated at $2,500,000. The next step was to secure the approval of the secretary of the interior and the necessary appropriation, which the passage of the national irrigation act in 1892 rendered possible.

Mr. Fellows says that it will take three years to complete the tunnel, of which two years will be devoted to boring and one year to concreting. The bore is through granite and shale, in about equal quantities.

The tunnel will be about 12 feet square and will have a fall of two feet in a thousand. Its length will be about 30,000 feet, approximately 5 1/2 miles. At the diverting point in the Gunnison, diversion gates will be constructed. There will also be provision for a forest reserve at the headwaters of the river, to insure the permanency of the supply.

Suspicious.
"He has an open countenance."
"Yes; open to suspicion."—Cleveland

STORED APPLES.

E. W. Crafts has placed 15,000 bushels of apples and a quantity of pears in cold storage in his Jackson plant.—

COLLECTING FISH EGGS.

Supt. Clark, of the Northville hatchery, has men out collecting the annual supply of trout eggs, the first capsignment of nearly 5,000,000 having been already received.

BANK ROBBER.

On the morning of November 5, 1904, the state bank, at Reading, Michigan, was broken open, and among other valuables taken by the robbers, was a package of promissory notes, belonging to said bank to the value of about $117,000.

INCENDIARY AT WORK.

A straw stack on the farm belonging to William Miller in Pittsfield was fired at an early hour Saturday morning, causing considerable excitement. This is one of a series of fires on farms in that vicinity, which have occurred recently and which are thought to be of incendiary origin.

SHORT THIS YEAR.

An exchange says that lovers of honey will regret to learn that the Michigan supply will be short this season and that the price will probably be high. Last winter was so severe that many swarms of bees were killed and the recent summer was not warm enough for them to lay by a large store.

PAYED A SNUG SUM.

The smallpox cases at Jackson have cost $10,800.81, though the claims footed up nearly $3,000 more. The physician fees were $4,589.75, and it has been suggested that it would pay the county to hire a regular physician for the indications of the city to look after all cases, and especially the contagious diseases.
—Manchester Enterprise.

A WISE MOVE.

A committee of three has been appointed by the board of supervisors to act in conjunction with the prosecuting attorney in considering the tramp nuisances and report at the next meeting of the board their suggestions as to how the nuisance can be abated. If possible legislation will be secured which lessens the number of tramps in Washtenaw county.—Dexter Leader.

TO HOLD POULTRY SHOW.

The Washtenaw Poultry Association held their first meeting for the season Tuesday evening and the members are beginning to step into harness for the second annual show, to be held January 18-21, inclusive, at the armory. It is necessary, too, to do some hustling if the show is to be an improvement over the one of last year, as that was an excellent one.—Ann Arbor Times.

HOME FOR THE BLIND.

The Michigan Employment Institution for the blind at Saginaw will be de-located on December 22. The object of the institution is to afford satisfactory occupation for all blind persons of the state who feel the need of such assistance. The superintendent, J. Perrine Hamilton, wishes the names and addresses of all blind persons in the state.

GAZE LECTURE.

Dr. Leonard, Michigan's benefactor who has contributed more valuable collections of curios to her museum than any other person, not excepting her own graduates gave a lecture Saturday evening in the museum lecture room. Dr. Leonard has been spending two weeks in Ann Arbor visiting the institution for which he has always cherished such a high regard.—Ann Arbor Times.

A GOOD IDEA.

Commenting on the fact that the legislature has made election day a legal holiday, Deputy Attorney General Harry E. Chase says that he will prepare for the next legislature a bill requiring that an American flag shall hang over every voting place in the state on election day. He believes that the inspiration of patriotism is needed at no time greater than it is at election.—Williams ton Enterprise.

DEATH RATE.

Michigan last month numbered 2,835, according to the reports of registrars to the secretary of state. The annual death rate was 12.7 per 1,000 which is a slight increase over the preceding month, but a decrease compared with September 1903. A great many deaths, 318, resulted from diarrhoea and enteritis among children under two years of age. Tuberculosis caused 155 deaths, typhoid fever 63, pneumonia 74, cancer 163, accidents and violence
158. Three deaths resulted from small-pox and four from whooping cough.

Spinach for the Voice.
Mme. Marchal, aside from her preparatory course of three years, insists on singers eating spinach daily for the voice. A wholesome, simple diet is good. Nothing affects the voice sooner than a poor stomach.
Good Reason.
The reason for the failure of the latest arctic expedition is now made clear by the startling explanation of the gentleman in charge that it was too cold.—Ohio State Journal.

MOTHERS PRAISE IT.
Mothers everywhere praise One Minute Cough Cure for the sufferings it has relieved and the lives of their little ones it has saved. A certain cure for coughs, croup and whooping cough. A. L.
Spafford, postmaster, of Chester, Mich., says: "Our little girl was unconscious from strangulation during a sudden and terrible attack of croup. One Minute Cough Cure quickly relieved and cured her and I cannot praise it too highly."

TAKE WINE OF CARDUI AT HOME
Are you a sufferer?
Has your doctor been unsuccessful?
Wouldn't you prefer to treat yourself—AT HOME?
Nearly 1,500,000 women have bought Wine of Cardui from their druggists and have cured themselves at home, of such troubles as periodical, bearing down and ovarian pains, leucor-rhea, barrenness, nervousness, dizziness, nausea and dependency, caused by female weakness.
These are not easy cases.
Wine of Cardui cures when the doctor can't.
Wine of Cardui does not irritate the organs. There is no pain in the treatment. It is a soothing tonic of healing herbs, free from strong and drastic drugs. It is successful because it cures in a natural way.

Dr. R. M. Speer of Jackson called on relatives here Saturday.

Miss Emma Seid of Jackson was the guest of relatives here Wednesday.

Misses Matilda and Olive Haar spent Sunday with their parents in Waterloo.

Mrs. M. H. Reynolds of Jackson visited her sister, Mrs. J. Runciman last week.

H. E. Twamley of Detroit was the guest of his mother, Mrs. H. M. Twamley Sunday.

Mrs. L. Freeman of Leslie has been spending a few days with Mrs. H. M. Twamley.

Mrs. C. Haag of Port Huron was a guest at the home of I. Vogel the first of the week.

Mrs. J. Watson and daughter of Unadilla were guests of Mrs. J. D. Colton the first of the week.

Mrs. Henry Kienischmidt and daughter, Nina of Isoco were guests at the home of Peter Easterie last week.

Miss Maud Wetman of Portland, Oregon, is spending a few weeks with her uncle, J. J. Schaefele and wife.

W. R. Reynolds and wife and M. H. Stanly, wife and son of Jackson were guests at the home of J. Runciman Sunday.

Mrs. E. A. King nee Cora Fuller and daughter, Vera of Couna were the guests of Fred Fuller and wife last week.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Mrs. John Foster visited the eighth grade Monday.

Miss Elia Hoag visited the eighth grade Monday.

The second graders are working on a Pilgrim story for Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Charles Hodge, of Fenton, visited the eighth grade Wednesday.

Ivan Turner has returned to his work in the sub-primary after an absence on account of sickness.

Nearly all those who have been absent from the second grade on account of sickness, have returned.

Anyone desiring a treat in the child music should visit the second grade. The child-like simplicity of these little people makes their singing all the more pleasing.

Miss Edith Shaw was compelled to give up her work Tuesday afternoon on account of sickness. It is expected she will again take her place before the end of the week.

A fine drawing of a pine forest now graces one of the blackboards in the high school room. The drawing which is a fine piece of art, is the work of Leo Hindelang.

The popularity of a library of good fiction is shown by the fact that nearly all the books of fiction in our new state traveling library are taken every week.

What the present up-to-date, wide awake American school boy or girl wants is not history, or old dry books of similar nature, but books of good fiction by such authors as Alger, Optic, Henty and others of similar writings.

FREEDOM.

Mrs. J. Reichert who lately underwent an operation in the hospital at Ann Arbor is slowly improving.

The Young Peoples' Society of St. Johns' church, Rogers' Corners, will hold a social on the evening of November 25 at the home of Ed. Kuhl. Everybody come and get a good supper for 15 cents.

Remember the dance at Dexter opera house Thanksgiving eve, November 24. Excellent music. Dance bill 50 cents. Chamberlin & Lemmon, Managers.

There are two kinds of laxative-medicines—Celery King and the other kind—Celery King is a tonic laxative and a medicine that never does anything but good. It makes good health and good looks. 25 cents at druggists.

WATERLOO.

There will be preaching in the U. B. church next Sunday morning at 10:30.

School opened Monday for the winter term with Miss Sarah Schray as teacher.

The boys have been living high this week on the bets on election won by Theodore Keltz.

Mrs. Nettie Foster moved her household goods to Jackson this week where she will make her future home.

The Gleaners will give an oyster supper at the home of George Beeman Friday evening, November 18. Everyone invited.

SHARON.

Mrs. H. Ordway has been on the sick list.

Clarence Gage and wife were in Leon Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Ashley Holden visited her parents J. J. Musbach and wife Monday.

Miss Grace Dorr who has spent the summer at Ann Arbor has returned home.

George Beeman and family of Waterloo spent Sunday at the home of Ashley Holden.

Seymour Kendall, who has been in Detroit, taking treatments was brought home Monday, but not improved in health any.

FOUR MILE LAKE.

Mrs. A. C. Yereance has moved to Dexter where she expects to make her future home.

The White Portland Cement Co. started up the grinding department of their plant the first of the week.

Mrs. A. C. Yereance having rented her farm, sold her personal property at auction Thursday, November 10.

The employees of the White Portland Cement Co. Saturday evening burned the marsh grass around the lake and the reflection from the flames were seen several miles away.

F. L. Davidson has just completed a 20 barrel cement tank for H. J. Heininger. He also built one for W. McLaren and two for F. H. Sweetland. These tanks seem to be the coming thing. Judging by the time cement walks last, these tanks certainly are almost indestructible and therefore are much better and cheaper than wood or steel.

LIMA CENTER.

Fred Staebler was in Ypsilanti Wednesday.

Art Guerin has been spending a week at South Lake.

There was a large crowd at the grange meeting Tuesday.

Mrs. John Strleier and children of Ann Arbor spent Sunday here.

M. Ward and wife of Webster spent Sunday with Mrs. F. Ward.

The ladies cleared nearly $17.00 election day from their dinner and supper.

The electric car killed seven of Emanuel Walker's sheep Sunday night.

Miss May Webb of Williamston is spending this week at the home of I. Hammond.

A young man from here went to Jackson one day last week and returned on one of the late cars he requested the conductor to call him when they arrived at Lima Center he entered the smoking car and went to sleep. He had several packages when the conductor called him he dropped one of his packages and supposed he had picked it up, as he was going to leave the car the conductor informed him that they did not allow passengers to carry off the car furniture, imagine his surprise when he found he had picked up the cuspador.

FRANCISCO.

Eunice, the infant child of B. Whitaker is very ill.

Mrs. Lacey and her mother spent Wednesday at Jackson.

Herman Farner and wife moved on the Yereance farm in Lima.

Miss Ella Schwenfuth is spending a week with her sister in Lima.

John Mohrlock will work Mrs. M. Segers farm the coming summer.

Preparations for an interesting Christmas entertainment are being made.

We have a very promising catechism class; 9 boys and girls will graduate next spring.

Mrs. C. Hurst who is sick at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. Taylor is no better at the presents writing.

Pearl Orbring who has been working at Hastings the past summer has returned home and is now suffering with a fever.

Next Sunday at 2:30 p. m. the Junior League will meet at the church. Let the parents see to it that all children be present.

On Thanksgiving evening, November 24 the ladies of the German M. E. church will serve a supper at the home of Philip Schwenfuth. A literary and musical program will be rendered by members of the Epworth League.

"Dram drinking and the rum traffic" On "World's Temperance Sunday" November 27th, Rev. Henry Lenz will deliver a lecture on the above topic at the German M. E. church near Francisco, at 7:15 p. m. You are invited, come and bring others.

NORTH LAKE.

Mrs. Wm. Gilbert is under the doctors care at this writing.

Mrs. R. S. Whallan is not enjoying poor health, but is enduring it.

F. and R. Hinkley spent Sunday with sister Agness and brother Dave, south of Chelsea.

The auction sale of Wm. Brown on Saturday, was postponed to some date in the future. Farmers all to busy to attend.

If the election is lost to the democrats, the republicans around here will not take the blame. All are looking for good government and good times.

R. S. Whallan, on election day looked as if he had encountered a better man. One eye was nearly closed. An eye tooth caused the trouble.

I have placed in my cellar about 30 bushel of steel's red apples and a big supply of kings and will soon be ready for an evening visit with my friends.

A fine collection of new books have been added to our Sunday school library lately. They will revive new interest, and it is hoped increase the attendance.

I have fifty bushels of the leading varieties of winter apples that I will grind and prepare my own cider from this winter and have it sweet every day.

It is reported that Mrs. Ernest Cooke has had her canned fruit taken from the cellar without charge or leave from Mrs. Cooke. My! Was not that mean.

Geo. Webb has met with ready sales for his apple crop at paying prices by shipping them in crates to Detroit parties. The crates being returned to him by freight.

About as many apples have gone back to the ground as have been gathered. Many farmers have let their stock and hogs eat them as fast as they have dropped from the trees.

Last Thursday Floyd Hinkley went from home to Chelsea, did his trading, sold a load of beans to be delivered, got his hair cut and got home again in little over two hours.

The apples left on the trees now are the deepest red they have been known to be for years, and have grown about one-half in size during the past four weeks. Only the best ones are left on the trees at present.

I never have met more happy men in a day than on Wednesday last week in Chelsea. I felt so good myself that I bought a new hat for my wife and a pound of tobacco for the family and have not got over it yet.

Mr. Ovit, our mail carrier, placed the majority for Warner before election at not less than 30,000 and offered to back this statement by from $5.00 to $100, but was not able to find a single man on the route who would accept a wager.

I think if the democrats had not forsaken their old-time methods of getting there if possible, and left all reforms to the party of reforms we enjoy, their chances would have been much better. What will they spring next on the people?

Our hogs have eaten apples since they and the fruit were half grown, and now the hogs are about as fat as comfort will allow. The buyers want them, yet, some people claim that apples don't do the hogs any good. Don't you believe it. Apples are good for man and beast.

Two democrats met one day last week, (the second day after election). One said to the other, we didn't get a thing. That is so, said the other one. What do you suppose is the matter? He did not seem to know that many died of free trade and more by the free silver fever or craze.

Last Saturday Herman and Wm. Hudson lost a large stack of beans by fire. The fire caught from a spark from the engine, and as the wind was blowing a gale at the time, it was impossible to save the stack. About twenty-five acre of beans were entirely consumed by the flames.

Last Sunday Rev. Gordon, Miss Bacon of Chelsea, your correspondent and wife took chicken with salad, garnished with ice cream and southern fruit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cooke. I hope they will live long enough to repeat their hospitality and that I may be lucky enough to be on deck.

Master Warren Daniels, while trying to prevent a barrel of cider from rolling against a tree and bursting, threw himself in its pathway and in some manner had his front teeth driven through his lip. Warren says he is not quite large enough to drink from a bung hole in a barrel. Will try a keg next time.

Last Sunday evening, our pastor, Rev. Gordon, gave us another of his eloquent sermons. He said that it took him two days to prepare it. The congregation took a little firmer hold of their seats, feeling that it would take longer than usual to deliver the sermon. It was a fine address, and listened to with marked attention. So far the evening meetings have been well attended.

At the voting booth your correspondent, met as he has for the last forty years, Patrick Welch, who began voting about fifty five years ago, a straight democratic ticket, and for the last forty years we have been voting in opposition to each other, and all these years have been the best of friends. The old man declares he will live as long as he can to kill my vote. He looks good for another campaign, at least.

Mrs. Ernest Cooke has had the pleasure of a visit from her parents from Albion, the last of the week.

Last Thursday Messrs. Denman and Foster put a new pitman in my windmill although the wind was blowing nearly a gale all the time. The boys report a rush of business, owing I suppose, to so many windmills working overtime in the late political contest. But we hear the old machine came through without slipping a cog; only taking a little more oil on the bevel gearing. The old machine turned out a good grist all through and ground the screening mighty fine at the same time.

SYLVAN.

Herman Hayes was in Jackson Friday. Mrs. M. Heeselschwerdt and daughter Lizzie spent Wednesday at Jackson.

Theodore Egloff of Chelsea has been a guest at the home of Howard Flak. Chris Oterschmidt of California has been the guest of Louis Hayes and family.

Miss Cella Weber who has been the guest of relatives in Adrian has returned home.

Mesdames Mandus Merker and W. H. Heeselschwerdt of Chelsea visited at the home of M. Heeselschwerdt Wednesday.

War Preparation.

In view of the possibility that England may be dragged into the far eastern war, the Shipping World professes to find comfort in the fact that "the navy is to be strengthened by the addition of oak leaf embroidery to the green plin white slashes on the full dress coats of flag officers; but the gold lace edge to the slash will disappear and the oak leaf embroidery round the cuff with distinction lace is to be replaced by a band of one and three-quarter inch gold with distinction lace."

Hot Water Sponge Cake.

Two well-beaten eggs, one cupful of sugar, one cupful of flour, one teaspoonful of cream tartar, well mixed with the flour, one teaspoonful of extract of lemon, one teaspoonful of salt. Stir all together until quite smooth, then add half a teaspoonful of boiling water, in which half a teaspoonful of soda has been dissolved. Stir briskly and put in the oven as soon as possible. People's Home Journal.

Sanitary Handkerchiefs.

The cotton handkerchiefs provided for French soldiers have printed upon them a number of sanitary precepts to be observed on the march and during a campaign, and are further decorated with medallions containing pictures of officers of all grades, the different uniforms being so distinctly portrayed that a French private can tell at a glance to what grade any officer he may see belongs.

Town to Be Moved.

On account of the removal of the Southern Pacific's division point from Wadsworth, Nev., the population and buildings of the town are to be transferred to a new town called Sparks, two miles east of Reno. The railroad company gave its employees lots in Sparks in exchange for their lots in Wadsworth, and moved their houses on flat cars.

Proverbs

"When the butter won't come—put a penny in the churn," is an old time dairy proverb. It often seems to work though no one has ever told why.

When mothers are worried because the children do not gain strength and flesh we say give them Scott's Emulsion.

It is like the penny in the milk because it works and because there is something astonishing about it.

Scott's Emulsion is simply a milk of pure cod liver oil with some hypophosphites especially prepared for delicate stomachs.

Children take to it naturally because they like the taste and the remedy takes just as naturally to the children because it is so perfectly adapted to their wants.

For all weak and pale and thin children Scott's Emulsion is the most satisfactory treatment.

We will send you the penny, i. e., a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

PROPOSES TAX ON TRUSTS

National Bar Association Has Been Asked to Urge Congress Enact Stringent Law.

In a report to the American Bar association Walter S. Logan of the committee on commercial law recommends the enactment by congress of a law which it is believed will serve as a barrier against the overcapitalization of trusts and squeeze the water out of such combinations as the Steel trust.

In the case of the $1,000,000,000 trust under this proposed law it would have to pay to the governmental an initial fee of $20,000 on the first $100,000,000, $30,000 on the third $100,000,000, and an increase of $5,000 for each succeeding $100,000,000, the total being $425,000.

A proposed annual tax of 10 cents on each $1,000 of capital stock for the first $100,000,000 and an increase of 2 1-2 cents per $1,000 for each succeeding $100,000,000 would, it is argued, be a check to the reckless inflation of corporation capitalization. The Steel trust's tax under this section would be $235,000 a year.

In urging the National Bar association to adopt his report, Mr. Logan says:

"If unchecked the great combinations may soon come to be—If, indeed, they have not already become so—a great public danger. Legislatures are corrupted by them. Executive action is influenced by them. Even the integrity of the courts, the last bulwark of Saxon liberty, does not at all times escape suspicion."

Raise Bananas in New England.

That bananas can be grown in New England has been demonstrated by J. Laselle, of Manchester, N. H. He distributed his first crop the other day among his friends. Mr. Laselle sent south six years ago and obtained a banana bulb, which he planted in a tub. It began growing and kept on growing until now it is 15 feet high. Until last fall nothing resembling the fruit was in evidence. At that time a bunch in embryo formed and continued to grow, until the other day, when Mr. Laselle picked it off.

LATEST STYLES in HATS and CLOVES

A Simple Lace Robe.

The Shepherdess Shape.

With Novel Draped Bodice and Flounce.

The Fluffy Lace Blouse.

Shawl Collar is Favored on Evening Gowns.

Model in Colored Velvet by Drecall.

PARIS the first week of October ends the period of uncertainty in regard to the winter modes. The new ideas and creations have all been launched, and approved and disapproved as the case may be. It is fully a month later when such comfortable sureties as down on New York. Imported models have arrived by every steamer in six or eight weeks back—indeed have been showing here almost simultaneously with their exhibit in Paris. The exclusive shops have exhibited their carefully chosen models to their even more carefully chosen clients; the big department stores have held "openings." But it remains for the Horse Show to present the season's styles in actual use—worn by the wealthiest and most critical of the dressed women in this land of the dollar.

What passes muster at the New York Horse Show is safely assured a season's wear—often two. One-half the world goes to be seen—the other half gladly pays its dollars for the privilege of seeing. And it is doubtful which enjoys it the more. And the Horse, oh! the Horse is the excuse for it all, you know, and should be satisfied with his position as stage setting for all this finery and beauty.

Of course, it's already decided just what is to be worn by the Horse Show Girl—and a peep behind certain doors gives plenty of advance information.

Firstly, as to fabrics; they will be lustrous and supple. Velvets and velveteens easily take the lead both in popularity and beauty; soft cloths of the variety termed "chiffon," old-fashioned cashmeres, henriettes and brilliant poplins; crepe de chine woven in double widths, like the cloths; and silks of wonderful softness and luster are all favorite materials for Horse Show costumes.

There is a decided tendency toward plain lines in the skirts—the simple skirt showing as a splendid foil for the elaborate coat or bodice that usually accompanies it.

And it is also worth noting that the extreme of exaggeration of fullness is noticeably absent in the best of the new skirt styles. Truth to tell, the best models from the best Paris artists have avoided extremes in this as in all details. But there is, nevertheless, a more than suggestion of crinoline in these latest skirts. Various methods are resorted to to hold them about the feet—thus preserving the proper "balance" to the figure. Paris makers tried wire hoops, and again a heavy cord, almost a rope, was run in the hem and at the head of the ruffle. And drop skirts with this is more graceful than stiff styles, and less cumbersome than the too many ruffles.

In spite of the prevalence of the long coat in suits and evening wraps there are a number of very smart models in short coats being shown. One of these, in burnt broadcloth, falls in loose but straight lines from the shoulder to six inches below the waistline, the broad, close collar continuing as revers to this point. From under this collar springs a jaunty shoulder cap that is the feature of the garment. Rows of narrow black silk braid trim the revers, with loops of the braid and cloth covered buttons as a finish. The edges of the cape show many close rows of machine stitching in the beautiful, regular oscillating stitch.

With the appearance of the more elegant suits for winter the separate blouse—the third piece of the three-piece suit—takes on added interest in the feminine eye. And the blouses of this season are certainly triumphs, and fit to bring confusion to the enemy who has cried "the separate waist must go." Soft mulls and chiffons with still softer silks, inset with laces and fanciful with shirtings, are worn with the richest of velvet and velveteen costumes. Deep feathered girdles are the invariable accompaniment of these little blouses. The girdle may match the blouse, or may contrast with it, just as proves the most effective.

Among dress accessories belts easily hold most important place at the present moment. Their styles are legion, from the wide girdle that reaches well up under the bustline, and is really almost a bodice, to the three-inch belt—one rarely sees one narrower. Sole leathers divide the honors with still softer silks. And, by the way, even the most sanguine prophet would not have predicted the vogue for leather belts that they have reached this season. For many years we were given to understand that the leather belt gave a "harsh" waistline, and while it might be smart in some instances, could hardly be considered a thing of beauty. But the leather people were not to be worsted by this argument. So when leather belts came back to us a little more than a year ago they were in leathers as soft and as pliable almost as the supplest of silks, and the crush leather belt instead of increasing the waistline decreased it.

RESTRAINED BY NO FALSE PRIDE.

Caller—Mr. Ardup, you said last month if I would come on the 15th you'd be ready to meet this note, and I've brought it.

Mr. Ardup—Why, the fact is, I'm—er—ready to meet it, for old acquaintance sake, but it's simply impossible for me to—er—chummy with it. Can't you come again?

WHAT JAPANESE ARE READING.

The first Western novel translated into Japanese was Ernest Maltravers, by Walter Lytton. This was in 1879. It was published under the poetic title: "Spring Story of Flowers and Willows." The latest fiction over which Japan is poring—in stores, banks, commission houses, railway and steamship offices—is The Letters of a Self-Made Merchant to His Son, and pirated at law and the lax literary morality of the Japanese has robbed Mr. Lorimer of a royalty on more than 200,000 copies. The Japanese are reading "The Letters of a Self-Made Merchant to His Son" in the number of The Booklovers' Magazine. "His humor was entirely overdone," the production was accepted as a "serious gospel to over-enthusiastic young manhood." And yet Japan is so far astray in its estimate of the book, which does preach a first-rate business gospel in homely language. But even plagiarism are not considered many a hard-worked preacher who sympathizes with the literate workers of Japan—who make no secret of appropriating a good thing when they see it, without the formality of using quotation marks. Only we Occidentals are not so honest about it. The "little, brown polyglots," as Boice appropriately and picturesquely calls them—look upon plagiarism as an indication of extensive and tenacious memory, and regard the use of quotation marks as "an exhibition of questionable taste." American fiction is popular in Japan, but science, philosophy and poetry are. The writings of Emerson, Simon Newcomb, Edward Teller, and David Starr Jordan are well known and appreciated. Emerson, Whitman, and Longfellow are enjoyed. Mark Twain, so far, "has failed in Russia," shares the honors with Grover Cleveland. Japan is an empire of poets. The poet Mikado has written nearly 50,000 poems, but as a Japanese ode consists of 31 syllables, and as "rhyme, reason and metre are alike ignored," the total output may be reverently dismissed. The mass of the people, however, Western nations, are great newspaper and magazine readers. "More than 10,000 newspapers and magazines are published in the empire. The Imperial Public Library at Tokyo has half a million volumes, nearly 1,000 of which are printed in the languages of Europe." It is not surprising, it does not seem to me, that the avidity of reading, the avidity of its circulation or its sale is a "permanent way" in a day on the level go to the office of publication. But Japan is ahead of the West in that nearly every newspaper has a "prison editor," whose duties consist in going to jail and standing trial for any offense committed by the journal. This representative spends a large portion of his time in prison, either awaiting the hearing of his case or in serving out the term of his sentence. Even when out of the toils, he has no editorial duties to perform. His salary is larger than that of most of his colleagues, and his position is in demand. The booklovers' magazine, the Editor-in-Chief, and when he is behind the bars the actual editor is classed by the journal in question as merely a contributor. No wonder the makers of comic opera go to the East for their ideas. The West cannot match its serious whimsicality or its sophistical subtleties!

LAYING TRACKS BY AUTOMATIC MACHINERY.

"The highway along which civilization moves is the railroad," says Day Allen Willey, in describing the new automatic tracklayer in the November number of The Booklovers' Magazine. In the West the Southwest 84 per cent of the railroad construction of the first half of 1901 was made. Civilization is thus, evidently, going westward at a rapid rate. In the tracklaying methods of the East, "the completed train rumbles up to the end of the completed track, the rails for the next section are taken from the storage cars, dumped upon the ground with a clam, then carried to their place and slowly lowered upon the ties. A dozen hawkey laborers stretch their muscles in unloading the rails, and a score more do the carrying." Contrast this with the Western method. The ties and rails are carried over an improvised railway, or roller-way, that traverses the length of the construction train of flat cars. Enough ties are carried on a little tie-carrying car to support 60 feet of track. While the ties are being placed in position, the workmen have belted four rails into pairs, and, placing them on the roller-way, start them for their destination. A "dolly" or miniature suspension bridge, extends over the end of the last car and "lets" the rails down easy" on to the ties. So the rails are the work done "that the train quickly is at once pushed ahead over the newly-laid track, which is completely spiked to the ties while the material for the next section is being hauled over the 'elevated ways.' Thus the train can be moved forward 60 feet at a time. And so it happens that the locomotive has whistled for the first time in many a Western town within the day before was not within which the day before was not within a mile can be laid by the automatic tracklayer in an hour, and Western engineers boast of having been able to lay three miles of completely ballasted and finished track in a day on the level.

There will be as many varieties of sleeves at the Horse Show as there are girls. Indeed, one wonders if the next phase will not be to have the two sleeves of the gown different, in order that this desire for "variety" in sleeves may not be limited by the number of gowns one possesses.

But here again is there a tendency toward moderation in the best models. And the woman who aims to be truly well dressed fights shy of exaggeration and extremes in sleeves as in all else. Indeed, some of the smartest of the severe suits that will find initial airing next week will show sleeves of the plain leg-of-mutton type, smooth and snug below the elbow, and with a very moderate fullness shirred into the armholes.

The evening wraps are long and loose—extremely loose—if not in reality capes. The more rich the materials of these the more simple the lines on which they are built.

One exquisite coat is shown in a Fifth Avenue shop, which the proprietor respectfully announces will grace a box next bands of Russian sable for a border. Its rather deep yoke back and front is heavy with gold and jeweled embroideries. The lining is a faint pink satin with a raised gold brocade.

Has ever there been a daughter of Eve who did not long for a tunic skirt? All too often her ambitions in this line cannot be realized because of inches or avoirdupois. But none the less this lurking weakness for the double-skirted effect is accountable for each season, giving us one or two splendid models in this delightful but dangerous mode. One that has just passed the customs is of mauve chiffon cloth, the tunic being really a short polonaise that fits perfectly smooth over the bust and about the waist and hips. Below the hip line it ripples gracefully. The body extends up over a yoke of heavy cream lace. Over this is worn a very short and full Eton that fastens on the left side with a solitary button, and is cut away sharply to disclose the pretty yoke and the well-defined lines of the figure. The tunic, skirt and the empiement on the little coat are marked by many lines of soutache braid in a darker shade of mauve.

A late wootex model shows a splendid blending of severity with judicious elaboration. This has a rather plain skirt, the only decoration being rows on rows of stitching of the oscillating stitch machine.

hip pieces set on with a seam, and above the waist the coat is slashed up smartly in a short Eton that opens over a vest and waistcoat which may be made as elaborate as the heart desires, or the purse permits.

With the appearance of the more elegant suits for winter the separate blouse—the third piece of the three-piece suit—takes on added interest in the feminine eye. And the blouses of this season are certainly triumphs, and fit to bring confusion to the enemy who has cried "the separate waist must go." Soft mulls and chiffons with still softer silks, inset with laces and fanciful with shirtings, are worn with the richest of velvet and velveteen costumes. Deep feathered girdles are the invariable accompaniment of these little blouses. The girdle may match the blouse, or may contrast with it, just as proves the most effective.

Fish Stories

Truthfully Told.

The people up above on earth
 Profess to be content,
 While we down here smile knowingly
 And to our mirth give vent.
 We are the only creatures who Are really happy, quite,
 Ours is a simple life of joy,
 Now see if I'm not right.
 We have no trolley cars to dodge,
 We have no rents to pay;
 There are no signs "Keep off the grass," —
 We never have "bill day."
 Our feet are never wet nor cold,
 Umbrellas we don't leave,
 Nor for the latest foreign styles
 Nor autos do we grieve.
 We have no cooks to quit us when We've need of them the most;
 We have no politicians here
 To one another roast.
 You've heard all of my say, good friend,
 And know just what I meant
 When I made claim that fishes are Really the most content.

There was a lazy fish
 Who wouldn't work at all;
 He hit upon a plan one day
 To do no work and yet get pay;
 It was to get upon the force
 And be a policeman, of course.

Way down below us, underneath
 Is Chinaland, they say,
 And when it's awful dark up here
 Down there 'tis light as day.
 I'd like to satisfy myself
 And with my own eyes see,
 But I'm afraid to swim so deep,
 It might drown even me.

There was a young fish named spawn
 Who wished that he never been born,
 For he found himself broke,
 Which, of course, was no joke,
 And besides he had nothing to pawn.

The catfish was a funny fish,
 Nine lives he surely had,
 And though he died quite often—yet
 His temper was not bad.
 He often used to make me cry
 When I was but a lad,
 As he told of his wondrous past—
 His deaths they were so sad.

Tommy McNamary was at Williamston last Friday and Saturday where he sold a fine driving horse. Tommy says that he can condescend with these who had their pockets picked at the football game Saturday in Ann Arbor, as he had a like experience in that city a year or so ago while attending a football game.

A Thanksgiving service will be held in the Methodist church next Sunday evening. There will be songs, recitations and addresses by the boys and girls. Occurring on the Sunday preceding the general thanksgiving it will be a fitting preparation for the latter service. Everybody is cordially invited.

The present open season for quail has proved the scarcity of the birds in no uncertain manner, according to Lansing hunters. They say it is the same over almost the entire state and believe that a determined effort should be put forth at the next legislative session to have quail shooting prohibited for a number of years.

Pickpockets seem to have done a thriving business in Ann Arbor last Saturday among those who were in attendance at the football game. Fifteen in the crowd from Saginaw contributed unwittingly to the crooks, between $400 and $500. Some of the Chelsea visitors were relieved of their surplus cash and jewelry.

A young clergyman not far from Chelsea was given this conundrum to answer: "Why did not Moses build a fire in the Ark?" After considering the problem seriously for several moments the young divine said he was not able to answer the question. The reason for Moses not building the fire in the Ark is because he was not there.

John G. Wagner of Lima will dispose of the personal property on his premises near Jerusalem, at public auction on Wednesday, November 23. Taint no use to sit down and whine. When no fish get tangled in your line; Bate your hook with a tumble bee, And keep taking Rocky Mountain Tea, Glazier & Stimson.

A household necessity. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Heals burns, cuts, wounds of any sort; cures sore throat, croup, catarrh, asthma; never fails.

For backache and kidney disorders take Celery King, the tonic-laxative. It will relieve you very quickly, for Celery King is the great cure for backache as well as headache.

ASURE THING.

It is said that nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption is a sure cure for all lung and throat troubles. Thousands can testify to that. Mrs. C. B. Van Metre of Shepherdstown, W. Va., says "I had a severe case of bronchitis and for a year tried everything I heard of, but got no relief. One bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery then cured me absolutely." It's infallible for croup, whooping-cough, grip, pneumonia and consumption. Try it. It's guaranteed by Glazier & Stimson druggist. Trial bottles free. Regular sizes 50c, $1.00.

Stop! Don't take imitation celery tea when you ask for Celery King, a medicine of great value. The "teas" are urged upon you because they are bought cheap. Never jeopardize your health in a bad cause. Celery King only costs 25 cents and it never disappoints.

"I owe my whole life to Burdock Blood Bitters. Scrofulous sores covered my body. I seemed beyond cure. B. B. has made me a perfect well woman." Mrs. Chas. Hutton, Berville, Mich.

A GOOD COMPLEXION.

"Sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks restored by using DeWitt's Little Early Risers," so writes S. P. Moore, of Nacogdoches, Texas. A certain cure for biliousness, constipation, etc. Small pills—easy to take—easy to act. Sold by Glazier & Stimson.
