WEATHER WAS TOO FINE

And Western Washtenaw Farmers' Club Stayed at Home and Worked.

The regular monthly meeting of the Western Washtenaw Farmers' Club was held at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Storms on keeping him and his wife company good time they had had. that it was feared a boiler full of cof. fee would have to be made to supply the unexpected demand. When the afternoon session was called to order Rev. P. M. McKay spoke on the subject "Is Thanksgiving observed in the right spirit?" which had been assigned to Mrs. Howard Eyerett, but who was unable to be present, Mrs. Boynton and Mrs. E. E. Caster also spoke on the topic. Recitations were given by Frank Storms and Mrs. W. E. Depew, a select reading by Mrs. Fred Gentner, and some excellent instrumental music by Mrs. Herman Fletcher and Mrs. Hiram Lighthall.

The next meeting will be held the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Spaulding Friday, Dec. 16. when an oyster dinner will be served. The secretary says it's imperative that everyone attending take their tablespoons along at that time.

Upson-Wade.

The marriage of Mr. John J. Upson to Miss Bessie Wade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. L. Wade, was solemized at the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart Wednesday morning, Nov. 23, Rev. W. P. Considine officiating. Mr. Fred Chase was the best man and the bride was attended by Miss Mary Kennedy, of Ann Arbor. St. Cecelia's choir furnished the music for the mass and the ceremony was largely attended by the relatives and friends of the bride. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the and Mrs. Upson went for a short return they will reside with her parents.

Death of John Kress.

John Kress, a former well known farmer of Freedom, died at his home in Ann Arbor, Sunday morning, Nov. 20, just as his friends and neighbors were passing his home from early mass at St. Thomas' Catholic church, of which he had been a faithful member for many years. He had been failing in health the past year, but was able to be at church the Sunday before his death. Mr. Kress was born in Germany, Dec. 1, 1835, and was nearly 69 years old. He had many relatives in and around Chelsea among them being Wm. F. Kress, John, Joseph and Simon Weber, and Mrs. Jacob Hummel, who are his nephews and niece.

Celebrated Their Anniversary.

Do Such Conditions Exist in Chelsea?

Here is an item taken from the Francisco correspondence to the Grass Lake News of last week which it would be well for Chelsea buyers to think over a little and see if there is any truth in it or not. In either case it should be thoroughly demonstrated to farmers that "unsatisfactory methods of doing business by Chelsea buyers" do not exist. It is not a good thing for a town's prosperity to have such reports get abroad concerning it:

"Business prospects are looking the many and to save the money of for Jackson parties; another with murphys' to go to Cincinnati, while Gage, Kimball & Wolfinger, of Grass Lake, ship one or more carloads of stock, thus averging one shipping day out of every week from here. Farmes report the yards are roomy and much more convenient for unloading stock from wagons than at other places. Farmers living one mile east of Chelsea sold stock here last week. They said the unsatisfactory method of doing business by Chelsea buyers forced them to drive the extra distance, for which they

The fog was thick and damp and filled the space between the feed wedding trip to Detroit. On their wire, acting as a perfect electrical conductor and the electricity "sparked across." The result was that the wooden arms on which the wires were attached caught on fire, and the flames were communicated to the poles. A report was sent to the manager, and linemen were sent out with buckets and ropes. The men climbed the poles and then hauled up buckets of water, with which they extinguished the fire. The cars were put out of commission for some time by reason of the occurrence.

CHAPTER XXVIII.-Continued. The beauty that had been Sister. Wynfreda's hovered now about her mouth as fragrance around a dead se. Her gaze was on a branch above them where a little brown bird, callmg plaintively, was slipping from her nest. Over the wattled edge, two liny brown heads were peeping like "uzzy beech nut rinds. "I wonder," she said, "what those little creatures ap there will think when a few months aence the blue sky becomes leaden, such that no one of them ever before recollected it so dark, and the sun that is wont to creep to them through the leaves has gone out like a canale before the winter winds? By reason of their youth, I suppose they will judiciously conclude with themselves that there is never going to be any olue sky again, that their lives will stretch before them in a dark-hued stress of weather, empty of all save deaffess trees and frozen fields. My fledgeling, will they not be a little ashamed of their short-sightedness when the spring has brought back the sun?"

The girl's lips parted before her suickening breath, and the old nun smiled at her tenderly as she moved away with her hands full of the green symbols of healing. "If you would be of use now, go gather the flowers for the Holy Table, and when themselves have drawn in holiness from the spot, then shall you bring them to the sick weman over the hill."

"Yes, Sister," the girl said submis-

But when she had crossed the daisied grass and opened the wicket gate and came out into the fragrant lane, something seemed to divide her mind with the roses, for though she sent one glance toward the hedge, she sent another to the spot beyond-where the lane gave out upon the great Street to the City.

"I wonder if I shall ever hunger for

"It needs not that, lord! I know you did not mean it. And they have told me that—that I have no right to be angry with you-" She broke off, as looking into his face she saw something that startled her into forgetfulness of all else. "Why are your cheeks so hollow?" she demanded. "And so gray-as though you had lost blood? Lord, what has come near you?"

He could not conceal the sudden pleasure he got out of her alarm for him, even while he answered as lightly as he could that it was no more than the fatigue of his three days in the saddle; and a lack of food, perhaps, as he had been somewhat pressed for time; and a lack of sleep because of-

But she was a warrior's daughter, and she would not be put off. Coming close to him, she pulled aside the dusty cloak, hot as a live coal in the glare of the day, and there-behold!there were blood stains on the breast of his blue kirtle. Forgetful of everything else, she flung her arms around him as though to shield him. "Sebert you are wounded! What is it?"

Nothing that troubled him very much, apparently, for his haggard face had grown radiant with gladness. Yet he was enough afraid of the reaction to answer her as gravely as possible: "It is Rothgar Lodbroksson,, whom I met coming from the city as I was journeying back from my errand in Northampton. Little affection has ever passed between us, and this time something more than usual seemed to have stirred him against me, for-" "He tried to kill you!" The words

The wind being from her, she did not even hear the hoof-beats until the horse But it cut no more than flesh; and had turned from the glare of the sun after that, Fortune wheeled not into the shadow of the fern-bordered dane. The first she knew of it, she glanced over her shoulder and saw the red-cloaked figure riding toward her along the grass-grown path.

As naturally as a flower opens its heart at the coming of the sun, she 'eaned toward him, breathing his same; then in an impulse equally nataral, as he leaped from his saddle beore her, she drew back and half avertad her face, flickering red and white tike the blossoms she was clasping to her breast.

He stopped abruptly, a short stretch of grass still between themand it soothed her bruised pride a sittle that there was no longer any confident ease in his manner but only hesitation and uncertainty. His voice was greatly troubled as he spoke: "Never can I forgive myself for having wounded you, sweetheart, yet had I hoped that you might forgive me, because I knew not what I did and because I have suffered so sorely for "You have suffered," she repeated, with a little accent of bitterness.

"I beseech you by my love that you do not doubt it!" Hesitation gave way before a warmth of reproach. Murmuring broken phrases of thanksgiving, she stood holding the cloak she had grasped, but he dreaded too much the moment of her awakening to await its coming inactive. Slipping his arms around her, he began to speak swiftly, the moment her silence gave him an opening.

"Never did I blame Rothgar much for his enmity against me, and now I thank him for this cut as for a gift, for through it I know that at least you have not outlawed me from your love. Dear one, as you are not unkind in so slight a thing as this wound in my flesh, so neither be without pity for the one that is so much deeper, in my heart! As the scratch stayed your anger for a while, so, in the gentleness of love, let this which is mortal stay it for all time."

That one should suffer for wrong-doing is to be looked for, but if one is to be dealt with so unsparingly only for making mistakes, who knows where his position is or what to expect? Oh, my best friend, make me brave or I am likely to die only through fearing to live! With my ignorance my boldness went from me, until now my courage is lowly as a willow leaf. Love, make me brave again!" Trusting, in her very declaration of distrust, she clung to him to save her from herself.

It was in the briar-pricked fingers, which he was pressing against his cheek, that he found his answer. Suddenly he spread them out in his palm before her, laughing with joyful lightness. "Randalin, the thorn wounded your hands the while that you stripped yonder hedge, but did you stop for that? If I can prove to you that all these dark days you have been plucking roses, can you not bravely bear with the pricks?"

Putting her gently from him, he gathered up the spoils she had let fall, picking from among them with great care the fairest of either kind, while she, catching his mood, watched him April-faced.

"This," he said gaily, "is the red rose of my heart. Battle fields lay between us and tower walls, and the way was long and hard to find, yet can you deny, my elf, that you came in and plucked it and wore it away in your hair-to keep or to cast aside as pleased you?"

Smiles and tears growing together, she caught the blossom from him and pressed it to her lips. "I will wear it in my bosom,' she answered, "for my breast has been empty-since the day I saw you first."

Smiling, he held out the white rose, but his mood had deepened until now he looked down upon her as he had looked down upon her in the moonlit forest. "This, beloved, is the symbol of my faith," he said. "Your eyes took it from me that day at evensong. I hold it the dearer of the two, for with it goes my honor that is as stainless as its petals. It is worth more than life to me-is it not worth some pricks to you?"

She took it from him reverently, to lay it beside the other, and as her face was too proud for fear so was it too Within Guarded Walls. tender for jesting. "I am more honored," she told him, "than Canute by seethes back in the narrow alleys, his crown; and I will live as bravely should the stranger choose in which to defend them."

But as he would have caught her to him, she leaned back suddenly to figure standing under the moss-grown arch, and her pride melted into a laugh of breathless happiness. "Sister Wynfreda, you were right," she called softly, "the world can be so beautiful that one has no hunger for heaven."

A Royal Treasure-House.

The plate-room at Marlborough House contains what is probably the most valuable collection of treasures in any private house in England. The room is underground and is lighted by electricity, the walls being lined by bookcases containing many rare volumes presented to King Edward and the Prince of Wales from time to time, forming a very valuable library. In big iron safes in the center of the room is stored away a wonderful collection of gold and silver plate, including two enormous silver pilgrim bottles presented by Alexander III of Russia to King Edward, and a priceless solid gold embossed shield, which was a present to the sovereign from a number of Indian princes.

Kruger Statue Forgotten.

Before the Boer war it had been intended by the people of the Transvaal to erect a colossal statue in honor of Kruger on an imposing pedestal in Church square, Pretoria. Only the base was erected, however. While the war was in progress the statue, ordered by the Transvaal government, was delivered by the sculptors at Delagoa bay. It was impossible to convey it then to Pretoria, so it was laid in a timber yard belonging to the Lorenzo Marquez Wharf company, and there, neglected and almost forgotten, it has since remained.

GLASS TOMBS OF HAWAII.

Night Travel Is a Nightmare in the Uncanny Lava Fields.

The home of Opunui stood at the frontier of Olli. Twice he started and turned back, vaguely wondering why a patch known since childhood should prove so confusing. Again he started, and this time kept on. The jungle waved, muttered and beckoned. The road became alive and undulated like the sea. Then came a blank till something tripped and threw him. He struggled to his feet, realizing his danger. The menace of the Hawaiian jungle at night is terrible and certain of fulfillment, for miles about the great volcano, the whole country is honeycombed by blow holes-crevices vast as council halls, or narrow as the grave, some gaping open to the air, others hid under vines and leavestraps for unwary feet, lying in wait for centuries, perhaps, till at the appointed time, another name is added to the long list of "missing." Had Opunui been in his sober senses, he would have lain still till daylight came to his rescue. As it was, fear smote him with panic. Frantically he tore at the drooping creepers, fought his way through tangled growths, struggled as the intertwined roots caught and clung-on, and on, madly, crying aloud for help on all the banished gods of his race.

Then the _inevitable happened! There was a rending of rotten branches, a crash, high and tinkling, like breaking glass, as the thin lava crushed beneath his feet! For an instant the merciless forest rang with his long enough to wring it out. scream of terror-then all was still!-Metropolitan Magazine.

"WHACKS"

And What They Mean.

When Old Mother Nature gives you a "whack" remember "there's a reason," so try and say "thank you," then set about finding what you have done to demand the rebuke, and try and get back into line, for that's the happy place after all.

Curious how many highly organized people fail to appreciate and heed the first little, gentle "whacks" of the good old Dame, but go right along with the habit whatever it may be that causes her disapproval. Whiskey, Tobacco, Coffee, Tea or other unnatural treatment of the body, until serious illness sets in or some chronic disease.

Some people seem to get on very well with those things for a while and Mother Nature apparently care but little what they do. Perhaps she has no particular plans for them and thinks it little use to waste time in their training.

There are people, however, who seem to be selected by Nature to "do to carry out some department of her great work. A portion of these select ed ones oft and again seek to stime late and then deaden the tool (the body) by some one or more of the drugs-Whiskey, Tobacco, Coffee Tea, Morphine, etc.

You know all of these throw down the same class of alkaloids in Chemical analysis. They stimulate and then depress. They take from man or woman the power to do his or her best work.

After these people have drugged for a time, they get a hint, or mild "whack" to remind them that they have work to do, a mission to perform and should be about the business, but are loafing along the wayside and be come unfitted for the fame and for tune that waits for them if they bu stick to the course and keep the body clear of obstructions so it can carry out the behests of the mind.

Sickness is a call to "come up high er." These hints come in various forms. It may be stomach trouble or bowels, heart, eyes, kidneys or general nervous prostration. You may depend upon it when a "whack" comes it's warning to quit some abuse and to the right and fair thing with the body

VALUE OF TASTE.

The woman who has to be satisfied with one new suit in a season wisely chooses a material and style which so harmonize and adapt themselves to her figure and complexion that the observer will note the general effect of harmony and be attracted to it rather than by one item of the whole. A woman is well dressed when she brings about such a result.—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

PAINTED BUTTONS.

Hand painted buttons are to be much used in the fall and winter. One charming button is made of white silk, painted with a flower. This makes a handsome decoration for a reception or bridesmaid's dress, and is a button that can be used upon gowns or even more full dress distinction, such as evening toilet. For evening wear the hand-painted button is set in a little rim of Valenciennes lace gathered around the button. Lace medallions are growing in use. One very pretty arrangement shows a row of circular pieces of lace arranged across a bodice with narrow strips of lace connecting them. Each medallion is centred with a jewel .- Philadelphia Telegraph.

SOME FEMININE STATISTICS.

A statistician has gone to the trouble to ascertain that fifty-five per cent. of all the divorced women, thirty-two per cent. of the widowed and thirty-one per cent. of the single are engaged in out thousands of women on the gainful pursuits. Only about six per cent. of the married women are simflarly situated. CHILD LORE.

Every child should be taught that thirst quenching does not depend so much on the quantity of fluid that is swallowed as on the length of time during which the fluid is kept in contact with the tissues of the mouth and water. A small quantity of water used as a mouth and throat rinse will rehastily. In hot weather, when the skin demand on the part of the tissues for liquid.

A child's meal hours should be rigidly fixed and under no circumstances, save illness, ought food to be given at other times. The contrary practice will lead to capricious appetite, now absent, now voracious. During the second year of life there should be five meals each day. Moired caracul and baby lamb, being short haired, will be much seen in these coats. Pony skin in black will be another favorite in long coat furs. Sable paws are being worked up into coats as well as muffs, and while much the cost of combining the small pieces into coats renders them anything but

In squirrel skin garments the heads matching of the stripes will result in effects quite unlike the furs made of whole skins.

The making of these small pieces of fur into garments is done in Germany, where manual labor is much cheaper than in this country.

HOW A WOMAN CAN BE POPU-LAR.

"Isn't it peculiar that very often the woman who is very popular at a summer hotel is unpopular when she re- said: turns to the city," said the business woman to her companion. "It seems to me that she could be just as popular in the city if she would only imagine that it is summer the year round."

"Some women often wonder why many of their sex are so popular while others, who may be blessed with beauty and gracious manners, do not have the faculty of holding attention," said the companion. "Can you tell me why this is?" "Well, I think that the success in so-

EXTENT OF SWINE INDUSTRY.

One of the Chief Resources of Agricultural Wealth.

The swine industry of the United States is a feature of resources that figures high in the agricultural wealth of our country. To the hog, more than any other influence, are we indebted for the finely improved farms and beautiful cities that have, as by magic, spread out over the vast area of agricultural lands from Ohio in the east to the Missouri valley in the west. The civilizing influence of the corn crop has changed the millions of acres of wild prairie lands to the fertile, cultivated fields, rich with the clovers, grasses and improved crops of modern agriculture. Without the hog this great district of agricultural lands, lying in the center of what is known as the corn belt, could never have atless expensive than the sable garments, tained its present distinction of wealth and business reputation. As a factor in wealth production the hog is justly entitled to the distinction of "the ploneer" among our meat-producing aniof the animals will be utilized and the mals. The American hog has fastened his hold so firmly, not only upon our own people, but upon those of almost every country on the globe, that the industry of swine raising is of necessity made as progressive in its increase of production as the increase of population demanding pork production.—Nebraska Farmer.

Governor-elect Fred M. Warner now has politically the "time in the tide that comes once in a man's lifetime, and which taken at the flood leads on to fortune." If he will redeem the promise made before election that in event of his election "he would be the governor," and not the set of men who have dictated Governor Bliss's policy; if he will do the square thing regarding primary election reform, and will half try to remedy some of the abuses that exist, he will be as sure of a re-election two years from now as that the sun rises and sets. There is no good reason to believe he will not do what he has promisad, as it has never been intimated that he is untruthful or guilty of wilful misrepresentation.

Tecumseh News: While it is very satisfactory from a Republican party standpoint, to elect everp member of the next state legislature, we do not believe it is the best thing for the people. ## Disastrous Wrecks.

Carelessness is responsible for many a railroad wreck and the same causes are making human wrecks of sufferers of throat and lung troubles. But since the advent of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, even the worst cases can be cured and hopeless resignation is no longer necessary. Mrs. Lois Cragg, of Dorchester, Mass, is one of many whose life was saved by Dr. King's New Discovery. This great remedy is guaranteed for all throat and lung diseases by Glazier & Stimson, druggists. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

Marion Ivell to Sing Carmen.

One of the popular features of the Opera Festival Week at the Detroit Opera House beginning Nov. 28, will be Henry W. Savage's elaborate production of Bizet's "Carmen," to be sung Tuesday evening, Nov. 29, and at the Saturday matinee, Dec. 3. This tuneful and brilliant dramatic music play will afford another opportunity to hear the gifted American contralto, Marion Ivell, who has proved a sensation in the role of the cigarette girl of Seville during the past two seasons. Miss Ivell has been twice offered an opportunity to sing at the Opera Comique in Paris, and is announced to her Parisian debut next season. "Carmen" is only one of six fine productions that are to be given in Detroit next week, the rest including Wagner's "Lohengrin" at the Wednesday matinee, Verdi's "Othello" on Wednesday evening, Puccini's beautiful "La Boheme" on Monday and Friday evenings, and a double bill made up of "I Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana" on Thursday and Saturday evenings.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

WAYNE CORONERS.

The Investigation Ends With Refusals of Coroners to Answer.

The investigation into the conduct of the Wayne county coroners' acts on the Pere Marquette railroad at ended abruptly on Saturday with refusals, under advice of counsel, to answer questions of the Deputy Attorny General. Contempt proceedings have been begun against Coroner Toepel, and will follow in the case of Hoffmann. Prosecutor Hunt is investigating with the object of bringing criminal proceedings, and the state will bring suit to recover illegal fees alleged to have been collected. Certain records which were missing were turned over to the prosecutor by Coroner Hoffmann Saturday.

Deputy Attorney General Chase said he does not see any way to prevent Hoffmann from becoming sheriff of Wayne county January 1, and he said he thought that Gov. Bliss would take no steps, in the meantime, to remove either Hoffmann or Toepel from office.

"The governor cannot remove any official from office," said Mr. Chase, without a hearing in court, and, of course, this case would have to go through the regular procedure of the Probate Court before anything could be done towards removing the coroner. mission. It is pretty close to January now and I don't see any way that this could be done before that time. Therefore, it is extremely likely that Hoffmann will carry out his promise to take the office of sheriff on January 1."

Under Fictitious Names.

The automobile accident in Cincinnati resulting in the death of Douglas Neare has led to the startling disclosure that two pretty young married women, one from Adrian, have been traveling under fictitious names. It develops that the young woman giving the name of Dolores Marlowe, of Detroit, who was in the machine when it pitched over the embankment and was quite badly hurt, is Mrs. Fred Gilliland, of Adrian. who, prior to her marriage, was Miss Clara Ayers. The news was received by her parents with the assurance that she will recover. The other woman, instead of being Grace Rose, is Mrs. Harry Cooper, of Baltimore. Mrs. Gilliland is the youngest daughter of highly esteemed parents and had a nice home, but, after separating from her husband sometime ago, apparently preferred to shift for herself. She was home about two months ago and remained but a short time. Wireless Telegraphy Expected Soc to Overcome the Difficulty.

The most momentous improvement in navigation since the invention of the chronometer, more than 100 years ago, has just been foreshadowed in a modest paragraph in the report of the chief of the bureau of equipment of the United States navy.

"It is believed," says Chief Manney, "that the development of wireless telegraphy will enable these (time) signals to be distributed over water as well as over land, and that before long every ship at sea, in addition to ever land station, will receive daily noon signals from the standard observatory clocks."

What does that mean? Nothing less than the elimination of the last element of uncertainty from the problem of finding the position of a ship at sea. Hitherto the one weak point in navigation has been the difficulty of carrying standard time on a voyage.

Observations for local time as well as for latitude have been exact, but the comparison of local standard time for obtaining the longitude has involved a certain amount of guesswork. The best chronometer is not quite infallible, and some allowance, which may not be precisely right, has always to be made for errors.

But with time signals received from a national observatory every day at to my surprise, the bullet with which noon the marimer will know his way he had been shot, fell to the ground. over any part of the wide ocean as accurately as if he were threading a buoyed channel. The chronometer will join the cross-staff and the astrolabe on the junk heap of discarded makeshifts.

> And of course a ship that can communicate with the short for one purpose is equally in touch with the world for any other communication it needs

"I'd like to have the day off next Wednesday, sir," said young Thompson to the Senior Partner.

The Senior Partner frowned. He did not approve of holidays. "We don't like to establish the precedent of giving time off," he said. "But I have some rather important business on .hand," urged young Thompson, "and---

"And I suppose no one possibly could attend to this 'important business' but you," sneered the Senior Partner.

"Well, not very well, sir, because, you see---

."Young men are too prone to overrate their own importance," interrupted the Senior Partner. "It's a common failing among them to consider themselves indispensable, while nine times out of ten they are only blocking the way of better men. Now, in this little business matter of yours no doubt, if necessary, you could depute some one else to attend to it for yousome one just as able and just as willing as yourself."

"Without doubt, sir," said young Thompson, "but, as I'm to be married, the lady has conceived the notion that I am indispensable to the ceremony."

The Innocent Child.

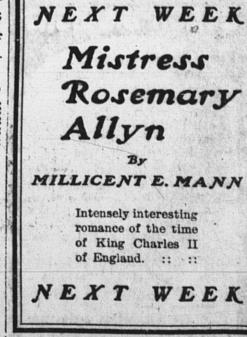

There is a four-year-old boy in this city whose parents vow they will never again take him out unless in a private closed cab, where his remarks will not be overheard.

It was mamma's turn first to receive a shock. She and her dearest girl friend were returning from a matinee, Harold walking demurely enough between them, when he suddenly lifted his eyes, his chubby fist and his clear voice, and pointing to a giddy corner they were passing, said:

"That's where my papa gets his drinks. I know, 'cuz he give me a swallow not to never tell.'

Next time papa did not take Harold for a friendly stroll, but the youngster was along when some men friends, up from the country for a week-end visit to Harold's family, were seeing the sights of the city. When they went by a certain drug store the boy with the memory tugged at papa's coat.

"Look," he said, delightedly. "Look a-there! That's where mamma buyed the bedbug poison yest'dy."

BILIOUSNESS CONSTIPATION CURED BY THEDFORDS BLACK-DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and fevers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.

Thedford's Black-Draught is so successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong and drastic drug, but a mild and healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible

The healthful action on the liver the heatthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.

It don't seem hardly right to keep on pounding an opponent after he is knocked down and out so completely as the Democrats Mich., each Saturday between the above are just now. Democrats would like dates, Thursdays at my home in Lyndon. to take a hand in this reform business that the correspondent speaks of, but the trouble is some Republicans like the Standard's North Lake correspondent for instance, are so selfish about it that they won't ever give them a chance. For instance, he might show his generosity to his old Democratic friend, whom he always meets at the polls, by voting a Democratic ticket once, and by so doing gratify the old gentleman and not keep him everlastingly in a hopeless minority.

Peter E. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth, I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me, guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for three months, but received little benefit.
