LIMA FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

Good Instructive Talks but a Light Attendance.

The one day farmers' institute held at the Lima M. E. church Thursday was only fairly well attended, more people being present at the evening session than at the afternoon meeting. The program was carried out in full, the principal features being the addresses by L. W. Oviatt, the state speaker, and they were the best that have been given at any institute held in this section. The one in the afternoon on "Maintaining soil fertility" was illustrated by charts.

Henry Wilson led the discussion on this subject, and took up his time asking questions of the speaker, which were well answered and full of useful information.

Emil Zinke, of Freedom, gave a good talk on his practical experience with the soils on his own farm.

Following this Miss Julia Ball, of Hamburg, gave a well rendered song. The next subject was "Practical stock feeding." A reverse order of the program was followed in this instance. Geo. T. English, of Sylvan, was to have led the discussion, but instead gave a good short talk, and then Mr. Oviatt followed with his address.

K. Otto Steinbach, of Chelsea, made a few remarks on "Business methods." There was no discussion.

The evening session opened with a few brief remarks on "Sugar beet culture," by J. E. Fenton, agriculturist for the Mr. Clemens beet sugar factory. Mr. McDonald, of the same company, followed him and answered several questions that were put to him.

John Kalmbach, of Chelsea, who has had considerable experience the past two or three years in raising sugar beets, gave a good talk, and then Mr. Oviatt took up the subject briefly. He considered the future outlook of beet sugar cultivation in Michigan as very bright. He advised farmers who contemplated engaging in its culture to start in with two or three acres rather than with from 10 to 20 acres. Speaking of the amount of soil fertility used up by that part of the beets that are sold for sugar making purposes, he said that it was very light indeed as compared with other crops. The tops and crowns, which remain on the farm, use up more soil fertility than the body of the beets.

G. W. Coe also made a few remarks on his experience with sugar beet raising.

J. J. Wood asked if the beet sugar factories in Michigan were connected with the trust. Mr. McDonald answered the question in the negative.

John Kalmbach and L. W. Oviatt had an argument on the evaporation that takes place from the beets when lying in open piles. Mr. Kalmbach thought the beets must lose considerable sugar from evaporation from this cause. Mr. Oviatt said this evaporation was too small to mention. He related an instance where a beet had laid on a beam in a factory for a year unnoticed. When brought to light and tested it showed nearly 90 per cent of sugar.

L. W. Oviatt's talk on "The bag with holes" brought the proceedings of the institute to a close. It was an excellent talk, full of useful points as to how to make farm life both agreeable and profitable.

Russian Wedding Festivities.

Blissfield News: A wedding was solemnized in Blissfield a few days ago, in which the minister used the Russian ceremony, followed by the customary feasting and dancing for three days. The peculiar custom of the bride not eating of the feast until her shoes had been taken off and sold at auction, when they were returned to her, was followed. When the feast was over the groom danced with the bride, after which she danced with each gentleman, and each one pinned a dollar bill to her dress.

BASE BALL BENEFIT.

The Play "The Minister's Son" to be Given by Local Talent for That Purpose.

The four act drama "The Minister's Son" will be produced at the opera house tomorrow evening, Jan. 27, by local talent under the direction of Mr. Fred Godding. The net proceeds are for the benefit of The Cardinals base ball club which is this year's successor to the Junior Stars. The young people who are in the cast have been assiduous in their efforts to put the play on in good shape, and a good performance of it is promised. The cast is as follows:

Rev. Martin Gray.....Dr. A. L. Steger
Mrs. Gray.....Miss Ethel Cole
Edward Stone.....Mr. Floyd Ward
Miss Edith Gray.....Miss Edith Boyd
Thomas Moore.....Mr. Warren Boyd
Deacon Strong.....Miss L. Buchanan
Martha Hayner.....Miss L. Buchanan
Samuel Tillotson.....Mr. Carl Vogel
Gerald Baldwin.....Mr. Fred Godding
Mrs. Kelley.....Miss Ethel Bacon
Myron Gray.....Mr. Fred Godding

Specialties will be introduced between acts 1 and 2 by Mr. Floyd Ward, and between acts 3 and 4 by Mr. Fred Godding. Music will be furnished by the Chelsea B. & B. band and orchestra.

The admission will be 15c, 25c and 35c. Seats on sale at the Bank Drug Store.

W. W. U. Farmers' Club.

The January meeting of the Western Washtenaw Union Farmers' Club held last Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Everett, of Sharon, was attended by about 40 people, among them being M. L. Raymond, the president of the Grass Lake Farmers' Club. An excellent dinner was served at noon, and after the usual period of visiting the new president, Howard Everett, announced that as he felt a little bashful in his own house he would turn the meeting over to the vice president H. Lighthall.

The question of "Sowing clover seed, time, kind and amount," was opened in a good talk by Howard Everett, after which it received a thorough discussion from J. F. Waltrous, Truman Baldwin, Emil Zinke, M. L. Raymond and N. S. Cook.

A recitation by J. F. Waltrous followed and then Mrs. H. Lighthall gave the company some good music.

"Needed reforms and how we can help them along," was the subject of Miss Mantie Spaulding's excellent paper, which was discussed by Rev. P. M. McKay, Truman Baldwin and others.

The Board of County Auditors.

Following close on the heels of the rumor that an attempt was to be made to abolish the board of auditors of Washtenaw county, comes the announcement that Senator A. J. Peck has introduced such a bill in the senate. Will some one answer the following questions:

Who is it that wants the board done away with, or the manner of its formation and appointment changed? Is it the people, or is it one or two persons who have a private grudge or political object to serve?

How many taxpayers are there who are not satisfied the board has saved the county money?

Lastly, how can the legislature overrule the people of Washtenaw county, who by their votes, in a regular election, declared that they wanted the board established and appointed according to the manner at present in force?

The University of Michigan has recently made a change in the requirements of admission to the literary department so that among the 15 units required for entrance, Latin, German or French may count two, or three, or four units, instead of two or four units as heretofore. It has been found in many cases that applicants for admission have had three years' work in a language in the preparatory schools, and the new arrangement is made to give students all the credit they deserve on approved subjects.

NEWS OF MICHIGAN.

News from all Over the State in Brief Form For Busy Readers.

NOT ACCEPTED.

President Angell Starts the U. of M. Regents.

President Angell, of the University of Michigan, placed before the Board of Regents on Friday his resignation. It was entirely a surprise to the board, which declined to accept it. The letter was brief and stated this reason: "Although I have been graciously favored with health and strength, I am impressed with the belief that it would be to the advantage of the University of Michigan if you were to call a younger man to the position I now occupy."

When informed of the action of the regents in refusing to accept his resignation, President Angell consented to remain at the head of the institution. It is quite probable, however, that he will be given such assistance as will relieve him of the detail work.

Secretary Waldo said the time has not yet arrived when the state can afford to part with the valuable services of the honored president, and said it was the hope of the people of Michigan in general that he may be spared for many years to come.

President Angell was greatly moved at the confidence shown him by the action of the regents, but refused to say anything further than that he would abide by their wishes.

Tried For Murder.

Mrs. Mary Brown, charged with the murder of her husband, John Brown, in Hancock, last November, will be tried this week. The victim was a barber, employed at Houghton, but residing in Hancock, and from all accounts he and his wife did not get along well together. On the night of the killing, Brown went to Houghton, and when he did not return at the time expected, his wife went after him, finding the man, it is said, in an intoxicated condition. However, Brown accompanied the woman home. Shortly after midnight Mrs. Brown alarmed other lodgers in the house by calling for assistance, saying that she had shot her husband. The weapon employed was a small revolver of 22 calibre. The bullet entered the man's head, and he died shortly after the shooting. Mrs. Brown's explanation is that she shot Brown in self-defense as he was attacking her, and the woman's appearance when the police arrived at the scene directly after the shooting would seem to substantiate her statement. Her eyes were blackened, her clothing was torn, and she had the appearance of having been terribly beaten.

To Test the Law.

Frank Donnell, of Hancock, is defendant on a charge of manslaughter in having killed a man while hunting. The victim was August Mayworm, Donnell's uncle. Donnell's rifle was accidentally discharged, the bullet hitting Mayworm in the leg and causing his death from loss of blood shortly after. The state game laws make it a crime, punishable by a fine of $1,000 or imprisonment for 10 years, for killing a human being "while in the pursuit of game," and Donnell was arrested under that provision. It is the contention of many that the law is unconstitutional, and there is much interest in the outcome of the present proceedings.

Does Not Care.

May Wagner Smith, the 16-year-old bride of two months, whose kisses given to Morion Kimes, aged 16, led to the murder of Kimes by her 21-year-old husband, Charles Smith, in a jealous rage, seems to enjoy being one of the central figures of a tragedy. She was on the streets of Eaton Rapids after the murder, apparently not realizing the shadow that had been cast on her life, but gaily chatting with anyone she knew or with those who questioned her regarding the affair. Referring to her husband who had been taken to the Eaton county jail at Charlotte, she said:

"I don't care if he is in jail. I was going to leave him anyway."

Fought a Maniac.

While there were alone in their home, James Hand, aged 70, of Bay City, who has been slightly deranged, attacked his son James, Jr., and for two hours the son fought him to save his life and secure his freedom. He then summoned the sheriff, who locked the old man in a padded cell in the county jail. Both men were severely bruised and Hand, Sr., may die. He had just returned from the hospital when he became so wildly insane.

Shot Three Hunters.

Tony Diebold, a saloonkeeper of West Branch, accidentally fired a load of shot that hit William Close, Wm. Schultz and Sidney McHale, while the quartet were hunting rabbits. Close received a few shot in the arm. McHale was hit three in the nose, and Schultz was badly wounded in the back. Schultz may not recover. Diebold did not know how he shot, but evidently was trying to load his repeater when he pulled it off, as the empty shell was found in his gun.

Madden Will Not Resign.

Rumor had it that Edwin C. Madden, of Detroit, third postmaster general, is to follow Fourth Assistant Joseph L. Bristow's example and resign his office. The Detroit man is not going to resign. His relations with Postmaster General Wynne are cordial, as they are with the prospective Postmaster General Cortelyou.

Mr. Madden has a record for method, the department officials say, which has never been equaled.

Frank Dempke, aged 21, of Cadillac, was killed while working in the woods in Cherry Grove township. He was felling a tree, which struck him. His body was taken to Midland, where his parents reside.

County Treasurer Foley has received letters from four hunters who desire to come to Houghton county to kill off wolves which infest the agricultural districts for the sake of the bounty. One man writes from Davenport, Ia., the other three are from Wisconsin towns.

In a fire which destroyed the home of Farmer George Barnes, of Iron River, Wis., his wife, their two children, Jennie May, aged 7, Virginia, aged 4, and Miss Elsie Meister, of Washburne, Wis., a school teacher, perished.

The position of woman physician on the staff of the asylum in Pontiac has been tendered to Dr. Elizabeth Morse, of Baltimore, Md.

The executive committee of the Michigan State Teachers' association decided to hold the next annual meeting in Lansing on Dec. 27-29.

The "city fathers" of Richmond have purchased a ball park for the use of the baseball and football teams, at the request of the majority of the citizens.

The motions made to set aside the local option law of Montcalm county and dismiss the proceeding against persons charged with violating the same have been overruled.

John Steiner, 60 years of age, one of the best known politicians in Monroe county, and for the past 12 years city clerk of Monroe, died suddenly at his residence early Thursday.

The jury in the case of Lucy A. Streeter vs. The Pere Marquette, to recover damages sustained in a collision at Paris, Mich., in December, 1903, gave the plaintiff a judgment for $4,247.50.

A 2-year-old boy of Martin Kowalski, of Ionia, was fearfully burned about the head and body by the explosion of his sister's celluloid hair comb with which he was playing, near the stove.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Work of the Session Now On

"The abolition of the 50-day limit, according to Speaker Master, has abolished a peculiar part of legislation in Michigan. Formerly, when all bills had to be introduced during the first 50 days, everybody who had a bill in mind but not prepared, would introduce a bill by title, as, 'A bill to amend the act providing a charter for the city of Detroit.' Then, if he wanted to put in the real bill later in the session he would take that title, and add the real bill. A very large number of the bills introduced at the last session were only titles, and lots of the titles were never used."

"But this year, the 103 bills introduced in the house are all real bills. Last year they had 131 bills after three weeks, a large number of them 'skeleton bills.' So in the senate, they have 56 real bills, and last year they had 51 skeletons. But just as soon as we settle the budget, and pass a very necessary general law, we'll shut down, and the man who delays his pet measure will get left."

Speaker Master is keeping up his campaign for a short session as vigorously as he fought for the abolition of the junket. The senate leaders say their work can be done as soon as the house is done.

The house was in session just half an hour on Saturday, and adjourned until Monday night. The senate lacked one member of having a quorum. When the legislature takes a week's recess next Friday to allow the committee on upper peninsula institutions to take their junket, one month, or one-fifth of the session will have been completed.

Rep. Ming, of Cheboygan, will introduce a bill providing for capital punishment.

Rep. Wallace, of Newaygo, introduced a bill calling for an appropriation of $20,000 to empower the state to take charge of the tuberculosis sanitarium of Dr. J. C. Branch, at White Cloud, for two years, for experimental purposes.

Rep. George Lord, of Detroit, is very confident that his bill providing for excise commissions to handle the liquor traffic all over the state will pass and become a law, but says he has made some changes in his plan. It will provide that when a saloonkeeper takes out a license, certain conditions as to the conduct of his place of business shall be imposed, and if he violates them his license shall be revoked. This matter is to be in the hands of a license board or commission for each county, to be appointed by the governor. The number to be appointed in each county has not yet been determined upon, but the boards are to be non-partisan. As introduced, the bill will provide that there shall not be more than one saloon for every 500 inhabitants.

Senator Moffatt presented a bill making an appropriation of $2,500 to be used for the completion of two buildings for patients of the Northern Michigan asylum.

Representative Herkimer, of Monroe, has revived his bill to prevent telegraph or telephone companies from trimming shade trees or setting poles without the written consent of the owner. If a company and a property owner cannot agree the railroad commissioner is to decide. Herkimer says farmers all over the state demand the passage of the bill.

Wednesday afternoon President Pro Tem, Glasgow, of the senate, presiding over the joint session of the house and senate, declared Julius C. Burrows elected senator for a third term for six years from March 4 next. This declaration was made after the secretaries of both houses had read the proceedings of the sessions of Tuesday, at which each house voted unanimously, on roll call for re-election of Senator Burrows.

The announcement by Mr. Glasgow was received with applause from the floor, and a large crowd of ladies in the gallery, who shook their handkerchiefs. The joint convention then adjourned.

Reps. Manzmann and Duncan, of Detroit, have convicted labor bills. Mr. Manzmann's bill would abolish the contract labor system, and confine the work of the convicts to making articles for use in state and county institutions. Mr. Manzmann has obtained figures from Warden Vincent of the price paid per convict by contractors whose work is done at Jackson prison, and the wages a freeman would receive, working at the same trade. Some of the figures follow:

Wire brush workers—Convict, 32 to 35 cents; free, $2.50 to $3. Broom makers—Convict, 30 to 50 cents; free, $3. Granite stone cutters—Convict, 65 cents; free, $4 to $6.

"If the work of those convicts, instead of coming at those rates into competition with free labor, were put into work needed by states and counties," said Mr. Manzmann, "we might make money like New York instead of giving $72,000 allowance to Jackson prison every year. New York made $99,933.89 last year."

Some senators, notably Glasgow, Crosey and Brown, favor all upper peninsula committees going together. Some favor each committee making a separate trip to its own institution. This is the plan of Doherty, Baldr, Moriarty, and the house leaders. Trips are also talked of for the committees on fisheries, minerals and geological survey.

Rep. Powers of Branch, introduced a bill in the house calling for a $40,000 maintenance appropriation for the state public school, for each of the fiscal years 1905-6 and 1906-7. He also asked $18,357 for special purposes, $13,577 for repairs, $2,000 for furnishings and the remainder for additions. He had several minor bills for the same school.

The senate bill to impose a tax upon all parlor cars and sleepers will be introduced by Senator Seelye, of Oakland. Another piece of railroad legislation is to begin in the house. Rep. Simpson, of Van Buren, will seek to make the railroads common carriers of live stock. At present, they take or reject live stock, he says, very much as they find it convenient and there is trouble with the carrying of meat also.

Senator Ely, on Wednesday introduced a joint resolution which provides for a constitutional amendment giving the state power to aid in the construction of wagon roads.

RUSSIA'S CRISIS.

Sunday and Monday were Days of Slaughter in St. Petersburg.

The crisis in the reign of the czar has come and the winter snow is stained with the slaughter of those who asked that he hear their complaints of oppression, in peaceful assembly on Sunday in the square before the winter palace. As the thousands of working people began to gather they were met at every avenue of approach to the palace by the armed soldiers of the czar and driven back, till at last fury seized them and cries of "Down with the monarchy!" arose and then shots were fired which carried death and wounds to the infuriated people. As the dead and wounded were being borne away the fury of the throng increased and thousands of the striking workmen gathered, only to be met by the trained soldiers and held in check.

The struggle developed into the preliminary stages of a revolution, and the end is beyond the view of those who observe the situation as it now appears. Sunday's slaughter of hundreds may lead to the slaughter of armies and the overthrow of the present government. Russia, defeated by the Japs, now faces the greatest crisis in its history, for the result will be the weakening of the czar's powers, if it does not change the form of government. Every hour increases the uncertainty, and it may be that a civil war of the greatest importance began at St. Petersburg Sunday.

Fr. Gapon, the priest whose agitation has brought Russia to the verge of a revolution, is only 28 years old. He is possessed of boundless courage and enthusiasm. He is the son of a moujik (peasant and one-time serf) at Poltava, in Little Russia, who was noted for his independence amid a race of slaves. Though an orthodox priest, he tolerates no sectarian prejudices among his followers, who include large bodies of Catholics and Lutherans. He accepts no money for his services, lives like an anchorite and works 20 hours a day, deeming no sacrifice of time or labor enough in forcing on his propaganda. He travels long distances in the utter discomfort of the worst class of Russian railroads and performs prodigious work to keep his organization together. Fr. Gapon warmly protested against the excommunication of Tolstoj for which he was publicly cursed by a priest of his native village. He knows the criminal classes of St. Petersburg better than any detective and absolutely excludes from his clubs any man convicted of a crime until the crime is followed by proved repentance. He occasionally makes a fiery speech, abusing drink, immorality and gambling, telling the workmen that their abased condition is largely their own fault.

The reports from St. Petersburg Monday were of the most startling character. The number killed by the czar's soldiers, according to official figures, was only 70 and 233 wounded, but unofficial reports placed the number killed at 2,000, wounded 5,000. The scene at the winter palace is spoken of as one of unspeakable horror. St. Petersburg is now an armed camp, the gun shops are closed, the sale of petroleum has been forbidden and every precaution taken to avoid further bloodshed. Emperor Nicholas is completely prostrated by grief. He is represented to be almost in a state of collapse over the situation. Meantime everything awaits his decision. All the schools are closed. Every window in Grand Duke Sergius's St. Petersburg palace was broken by a mob during the night.

The unofficial version of the Sunday slaughter says: Sunday was a day of blood in St. Petersburg. Carrying out their announced plan over 100,000 strikers, led by Fr. Gapon, and accompanied by their women and children, marched towards the czar's winter palace to present their petition asking redress from the "little father" for their industrial and political wrongs. The czar's answer came through his massed troops. It was cold steel and bullets. It was death to his "children," the working people of his land. How many fell in the awful carnage in the streets will probably never be known.

It is claimed that in addition to the petition which was to have been presented to the emperor, was Father Gapon's "insolent demand" in a letter to the minister of the interior, as follows: "Your Excellency: Workmen of all classes in St. Petersburg wish to see the emperor at 2 o'clock p. m., Jan. 22, in the square at the winter palace, in order to personally express to him the needs of all the Russian people. I am assured by all workmen, my co-laborers and comrades and even by alleged revolutionary fanatics that his majesty has nothing to fear. His personal safety is assured. He will come as the true emperor with courageous men to receive a petition at our hands."

"It is your excellency's high duty to the emperor and to the entire people of Russia to communicate the foregoing to his majesty, the emperor, today without delay, and also the contents of our petition attached hereto, to say to the emperor that I, together with many workmen and thousands of people of Russia, am irrevocably resolved, with my faith in him, to proceed to the winter palace in order that he may show his faith by deeds and not by manifestos."

A summary of the problems now before the czar follows:

Strike of over 100,000 workmen who demand political as well as industrial betterment.

Frenzy caused by massacre of people in city streets which has incited the strikers to revolution.

Disaffection in the army.

Uprisings in Moscow, Caucasus and other places which threaten to end with the entire nation in revolt.

Tremendous activity of nihilists and socialists.

Willingness of the people to die as martyrs for their country.

Unrest in Finland and Poland.

Personal weakness in trusting all to grand dukes when the people especially hate.

The war with Japan.

Heavy taxes, dissatisfaction with church rule and government ownership of factories, which makes practical slaves of workmen.

Gross corruption in army and navy.

Demands for constitution.

Oppression of bureaucrats and police.

Shameful conditions in judiciary.

NATIONAL CAPITAL NOTES.

Dowie and Leaders Ill.

Sickness has stricken leaders of Dowie's Zion, the prophet-apostle himself being the victim of a stomach trouble which has become practically chronic and which prevents the untiring expenditure of energy which it was his wont to make in addressing his audiences. The invalids and their ailments are as follows:

John Alexander Dowie, "first apostle" and ruler of Zion; probably catarrh of stomach.

Mrs. John Alexander Dowie, wife of the apostle and overseer of the women followers, nervous prostration and other ills.

Carl Stern, chief of police of Zion City, pleurisy, may die.

Mrs. Spelcher, wife of Overseer Spelcher, ailment not known.

One-fifth of the residents of Zion City are said to be suffering from a strange malady which shows symptoms something similar to the grip. It is strange to the sufferers at least, and there is no physician there to make diagnosis.

Representative Hepburn's railroad bill, amending the interstate commerce act and said to have the approval of the administration, was introduced in the house Saturday. The measure provides that upon complaint the interstate commerce commission shall declare and order what shall be a just and reasonable rate, which order shall take effect in 60 days, the carrier having an appeal to a court of commerce to have the order of the commission reviewed. Pending the review, the court may suspend the order, requiring a bond from the carrier, for the payment of all damages incurred by shippers. The commission is also authorized to fix a joint rate in case two or more carriers fail to agree, orders affecting these rates being subject to review by the court of commerce. Carriers refusing to obey an order of the commission are subject to a penalty of $6,000 a day.

Father Ducey Roasts Standard Oil Co.

Asserting that the greatest of today's dangers is that from trusts and monopolies, which are crimes against God's bounty, the Rev. Thomas J. Ducey, preaching in St. Leo's Catholic church, New York, made a fiery attack on John D. Rockefeller and the Standard Oil Co.

One of the duties of this legislature will be to pass a new legislative apportionment bill, the constitution providing that this must be done after each state census. It is hardly likely that any change will be made in the number of members of either house, and it is possible that the legislature will do as it did in 1895, when it simply re-enacted the existing law keeping the house membership at 100 and that of the senate at 32. There is no talk about any change in the congressional apportionment, as this Republican legislature is satisfied with the arrangement that gives a solid Republican dozen in the house at Washington.

How Is Your Heart?

Is your pulse weak, too slow, too fast, or does it skip a beat? Do you have shortness of breath, weak or hungry spells, fainting, smothering or choking spells, palpitation, fluttering, pains around the heart, in side and shoulder; or hurt when lying on left side?

If you have any of these symptoms your heart is weak or diseased, and cannot get better without assistance.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure strengthens weak hearts, and rarely ever fails to cure heart disease. Try it, and see how quickly you will find relief.

"About January 1st, 1902, I took down with weakness and dropsy, and gradually grew worse. I was told by my family physician that my case was hopeless. My neighbors and family had given me up to die. My limbs and body were swollen to one-third larger than normal size, and water had collected around my heart. For at least three months I had to sit propped up in bed to keep from smothering. I sent for five bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and by the time I had taken them all I was entirely cured. I feel better than I have for twenty years, and I am able to do any kind of work on my farm. My attending physician told me that if it hadn't been for Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I would now be in my grave."

L. T. CURD, Wilmore, Ky.
Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 26, 1905.

The grange legislative committee members are vigorously pushing their primary election bill.

George W. Merriman, of Hartford, has been appointed a member of the board of control of the Jackson state prison by Governor Warner. He succeeds Dr. W. H. Bills, of Allegan.

Tecumseh News: President Roosevelt says the proof can be secured to convict the Standard oil trust, and that he is determined to break up the monopoly. And all the people say, amen. [Yea, verily, amen and amen.]

A bill has been introduced into the state legislature to amend the constitution so as to do away with taking the state census every ten years. It is just as well to do away with taking it if it cannot be done any better than it was last year.

Steps are being taken by the medical men to establish a state institution for the care of the consumptive poor. Those are good steps and taken in the right direction. Consumption is a great deal more dangerous disease than either smallpox or diphtheria. They can be and are cured, but consumption is rarely, if ever, successfully treated for a cure.

Representative Watt, of Ionia, has introduced a bill in the house which provides for the abolishment of the state tax commission and a return to the old system that was in vogue for levying taxes in 1901, where the tax power was vested in the board of supervisors. It has the approval of Governor Warner. Senator Yeomans introduced a duplicate bill in the senate.

The state senate machine got a bad jolt Wednesday afternoon when it ran up against the 14th district primary reform bill. The dictators of the last senate, Doherty, Baird, Brown, Moriarty, Smith, et al., tried hard to smother it, but the big majority of the senate, who it seems are not so easily handled as were the pliant tools of two years ago, carried the bill with a rush, only three votes being recorded against it on its final passage.

In the midst of the general discussion of this and that and the other incident and detail in the matter of primary reform legislation, the fact should not be lost sight of that what such legislation is really seeking to minimize and to prevent are the efforts and the influence of dishonest participants in political affairs. If it were not for the disreputable expenditure of money and for the improper use of political influence and political patronage, the present and persistent demand for reform in connection with nominations and elections would not exist.

It is claimed that most of the gasoline sold in Michigan is of exceptionally poor quality and a bill will be presented in the state legislature providing for its inspection. We have a law now which provides for the inspection of kerosene oil and a force of oil inspectors to carry on the work, yet kerosene oil was never in our recollection such poor trash as it is nowadays. Dirty burning, ill-smelling stuff, and yet it is claimed to be inspected for purity and quality. We don't see that inspecting the gasoline will make it any purer or better so long as the Standard Oil Co. has a monopoly of the business. Competition is the life of trade and a general guarantee of good goods, and until such time as there is wholesome competition we shall have to put up with poor kerosene oil and gasoline.

Representative Waters' bill to reduce the amount of mortgages from the value of the property mortgaged, in order to avoid double taxation, might not prove of much benefit to the state at large. Suppose, for instance, a farm in Sylvan of assessed valuation of $5,000 is mortgaged for $2,000, and the man who holds the mortgage lives in New York. The $3,000 would be assessed in this township, but the $2,000 mortgage, which is personal property, would be assessed to the man at his place of residence. The township would thus be the loser of the taxes on $2,000.

The man who owns the farm with the mortgage on it would pay less taxes on it in proportion than his neighbor does whose $5,000 farm is all paid for, which would not be just. A farmer subscriber to the Herald offers the following solution of such a situation in making a mortgage exemption law: Assess the property to the owner of it at its proper assessed valuation, let the owner pay all the tax, then make it obligatory on the holder of the mortgage to accept the tax receipt on the amount of the mortgage as a payment either on the interest or the principal. In this way the present system of double taxation, which is unquestionably wrong and a burden, might be regulated.

A Grim Tragedy

is daily enacted in thousands of homes as death claims, in each one, another victim of Consumption or Pneumonia. But when Coughs and Colds are properly treated, the tragedy is averted. F. G. Huntley, of Oakland, Ind., writes: "My wife had the consumption, and three doctors gave her up. Finally she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which cured her, and today she is well and strong." It kills the germs of all diseases. One dose relieves. Guaranteed at 50c and $1.00 by Glazier & Stimson, druggists. Trial bottle free.

Victims Will Cough Up $20,000.

How many farmers in this neighborhood will acknowledge to having been taken in by the clever canvassers from Chicago who were in this neighborhood a short time ago? At that time these oily ones induced their victims to buy clothes for themselves and their families at the rate of $48 for cloth for a suit of clothes, an overcoat and a dress skirt, with $6 extra for making up, giving their notes in payment. Now the notes are coming due, the clothes have been received and found to be all too small or too large or otherwise not as ordered, and there are a lot of "sore" farmers throughout the county. It is estimated that the total amount of the notes taken in by these agents was $20,000, every dollar of which left the county and will not find its way back again either.

Constipation and piles are twins. They kill people inch by inch, sap life away every day. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will positively cure you. No cure, no pay. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Glazier & Stimson.

How Is This?

Tecumseh News: A curious state of affairs has prevailed on Pearl street in this village, and whether it is fate or simply a queer coincidence is a matter for conjecture. During the past two or three years eight or ten girl babies have been born to as many households where the man was of the Democratic political faith, and also nearly as many boy babies to households where the man of the house was a Republican. Some of the bred-in-the-bone Republicans are sarcastic enough to insinuate that the facts show the ruler of the universe is very much in favor of the g. o. p. To say the least, it is a queer coincidence.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous services. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 25c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

A Belleville dispatch to the Detroit Free Press says: A special meeting of the Van Buren township board will be held Wednesday (Jan. 25) to consider the petition of the Michigan Central railway for a franchise to construct and maintain an electric railway on its right of way. The Central passes through the north portion of the township. This is understood to be part of the scheme to equip a road with electricity from Detroit to Jackson, using its own right of way for the purpose.

MORE LOCAL.

Ex-Congressman Henry C. Smith will speak on the subject of "Grat" at the Lincoln Club banquet in Adrian Feb. 13.

The Grass Lake smallpox case cost the village $111.06 instead of $11.06. The paper from which we got the item left off one of the figure "1's," hence the mistake.

Two men walking on the M. C. track near Ypsilanti were struck by No. 36 the eastbound train that goes through here at 8:20 a. m., on Saturday morning. They stepped off the westbound track to avoid the train coming west and did not notice the train which killed them coming.

The receipts of the University of Michigan Athletic Association for last year indicate that football is the most popular sport in vogue at the university. The receipts were as follows: Football $16,802.06, baseball $1,032.04, track meets $2,012.27. The statement shows baseball to be the least popular of the three sports.

County Clerk Jas. E. Harkins asks the newspapers of Washtenaw county to call attention to a resolution passed by the Board of County Auditors requiring all bills against the county to be filed with the county clerk on or before 5 o'clock of the Saturday before the first Monday of the month to receive consideration at the following meeting of the board.

The board of supervisors' bill in the legislature providing that justices of the peace must secure an order from the prosecuting attorney before they issue a warrant for arrests on the charge of misdemeanors, and also providing that drunks be sent to the house of correction at Detroit instead of the county jail, will not be likely to become a law. Neither Representative J. E. Beal, who will introduce the bill, nor Representative A. J. Waters, will support it. Such being the case it will have a slim chance with the other members of the house.

James Geddes, jr., who is a traveler for the Brady Cement Stone Co., of Jackson, returned home Friday night from the convention of the National Association of Cement Users, held in Indianapolis, where he had been in company with George Brady and Harry Abbott, members of the firm. Twenty-four machines for making cement stone and blocks were sold by these men, who say that cement is growing more and more necessary as a building material, inasmuch as the prices of lumber promise to go higher rather than lower, caused by the continued cutting away of the forests.

Kantlehner Bros. have installed a new system of keeping the accounts with the customers in their store. It is the American Register Co.'s "Quick as Cash" system, and it has been found to work to great advantage wherever it has been introduced. With each purchase or payment on account that is made the customer receives a statement which shows the amount he owed previous to the purchase or payment, the amount purchased or paid, and at the bottom the total balance that he owes the firm. The statements are kept in a neat case and the firm can tell by a few minutes' work just how much they have outstanding in accounts without the trouble of going all over a set of books.

The Washtenaw Poultry and Pet Stock Association's exhibition at Ann Arbor last week was a very successful one and was even better than the state show. There were 100 exhibitors, 1,069 entries, 1,317 exhibits, and 3,500 paid admissions.

The Washtenaw Light & Power company have signed a contract with the board of supervisors to furnish electric light for the court house and jail for one year at 10 cents per kilowatt. The board at its recent meeting voted to make such a contract.

It is the opinion of a St. Louis merchant that "more advertising means more consumption, more hustle on the part of consumers and more production. The stop page of all advertising by the bicycle trust destroyed the bicycle business. Advertisement is the keynote of advancement."

At the meeting of the Chelsea Ladies' Research Club Monday evening, Mrs. J. Bacon tendered her resignation as president, which was regretfully accepted by the club. Mrs. Anna Hoag was chosen president for the balance of the year. Mrs. F. E. Wilcox was elected to the first vice president's position made vacant by Mrs. Hoag's advancement.

The concert given by the Royal Hungarian Court Orchestra Friday evening was the best we have heard in Chelsea. The selections were fine and were beautifully rendered. Mr. Matus was liberal with his encores, each one of which was a popular piece of music, all arranged in a most original manner. It was a splendid entertainment from start to finish.

Lafayette Grange will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Fletcher in Chelsea, Wednesday, Feb. 1. The subjects for the lecture hour will be: "What is the immediate duty of the Grange toward promoting a repeal of the oleomargarine law?" suggestions for good of the order on the work of the Grange for the coming year; roll call answered by quotations.

Grass Lake News: An effort is being made to establish another telephone exchange in Grass Lake to be connected with the Bell system. It is the intention of those back of the project to encourage the building of a number of farm lines. When the exchange is established Miss Minnie Marrinane will be the operator in charge and the switch board will be located in her home.

A division of the Loyal Guards fraternal insurance society is to be instituted in Chelsea Wednesday evening, Feb. 1. E. O. Wood, of Flint, the supreme commander-in-chief of the order, will be present and institute the division. Anyone wishing to become a charter member, either man or woman, both being eligible, should make application to Deputy Fred Wyman during this week so they can be medically examined. Members of the order from Ann Arbor, Dexter, Pinckney and Stockbridge will be present.

Languages of India.

Among the 145 distinct languages spoken in British India are some possessing only a few hundred words, others rivaling English, as Dr. Grierson says, or Russian, as I would say, in their copiousness; some in which every word is a monosyllable, others in which some are elongated by agglutination till they run to ten syllables, like da-pa-to-cho-kan-taken-ta-tin-a—a Sautral word meaning: "He who belongs to him who belongs to me will continue letting himself be made to fight." Some of these divers tongues lack verb and noun, others are as complex and systematic as Greek and Latin—Nineteenth Century.

Preserving the Teeth.

To preserve the teeth in health and beauty is a most important matter for thus one not only saves one's self pain and expense, but also actually prolongs one's life—the decay and loss of teeth being but the initial stages of the general break-up of the health. Artificial teeth are at their best vastly inferior to one's own teeth in good working order. To prevent decay of the latter, absolute cleanliness of the mouth is essential.

HIS EXPERIENCE TEACHES THEM

That Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure Bright's Disease. Remarkable case of George J. Barber—Quick recovery after years of suffering.

Estherville, Iowa, Jan., 23d.—(Special)—The experience of Mr. George J. Barber, a well known citizen of this place, justifies his friends in making an announcement to the world Bright's Disease can be cured. Mr. Barber had kidney trouble and it developed into Bright's Disease. He treated it with Dodd's Kidney Pills and to-day he is a well man. In an interview he says:

"I can't say too much for Dodd's Kidney Pills. I had kidney disease for fifteen years and though I doctor'd for it with the best doctors here and in Chicago, it developed into Bright's Disease. Then I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and two boxes cured me completely. I think Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best in the world."

A remedy that will cure Bright's Disease will cure any other form of kidney disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to cure Bright's Disease.

Gil being wrapped in his thoughts and his pipe, I bethought me of the letter given me by my father. I had been so busy getting ready and occupied with one thing and another that I had barely read it. It had a great interest for me. I had placed it in an envelope, sealed, and marked it with the word "Private." Then I had put it carefully away in an inside pocket of my coat.

Some man—possibly he might be dead—when he wrote those few words on that slip of paper committed as foul a crime as any in the category of sins. Should I ever run him down, and he be living, I would remember my father and my hand should not fall lightly. I wondered if perchance there was anything about the paper overlooked by which the perpetrator might be discovered. I would take it out again and examine it more closely—minutely.

I put my hand into my pocket, which was a deep one; it was empty, void as the air. I gasped with astonishment. Ah! no doubt heedlessly I had changed it to another pocket. I began a search for it. No use, it was gone. I reined up my horse.

Gil came riding back.

"What is it?" he asked.

"My God!" I exclaimed, "I have lost my letter!"

"Letter?" he repeated, and looked as if he thought me daft. "Why thrash over the same ground? If the girl who stole the paper is not to be found, and you want the lady for a bride, why—we'll see what force can do."

"Devil take that piece of paper," I muttered in my distress; "tis of the letter given me by my father I am speaking."

"Ah-h-h!" he said, and his guttural utterance was expressive of many things.

"It is of the greatest importance, Gil," I said; "in fact, on it hangs the sason Lord Waters sends me to Lon-

My elastic nature rebounded at once. I jumped up and hugged him.

"You are a jewel of the first water, Gil," I cried. "Where did you find it?" Before he could answer I added: "But first before you begin let me look to that cut. You are hurt."

"Not much. I left those behind hurt worse," he answered, dabbing his wound with a napkin. "It will soon heal. Yes, I found the paper without much trouble following the clue I had. You remember at the White Swan, when Jock brought in your coat brushed and dried he laid it down on a chair. In your eagerness to see the ladies into their 'magenta colored coach' you did not put it on until you returned to the room after their departure. I also went out, but I came back again to see 'pretty Alice Lynson' jump, rather too suspiciously, quick away from your coat when she heard me, and color over her pretty face. When you said that something was gone, I remembered the incident; and as I had not forgotten the other maid and the other paper—well, women are great imitators, but poor strategists. I ran them down about five miles from the inn. I told her in a few words, but to the point, to give up what she had stolen or be taken back to the constable, who, no doubt, was quite ready to resume operations where they had been cut off, and this time she could come in for her share since she had winked at a prisoner's escape. She cried—she—My God; these women! they are born to cajole and poor men till they get what they want, and then the devil may take you for a thank you."

"Yes, yes, what then?" I asked impatiently.

"The crying wouldn't down a bit—paper or jail, said I," he continued. "Then she gave it up and I read her a lesson on woman and woman's gratitude. She told me this—you must take it for what it is worth; I believe no woman. She had been bought by

"Ah, I see," she said, sarcastically.

don. Without it, why I might as well go back to Long Haut. My God! I am afraid it will be the death of him."

"Taken in again," muttered Gil, "and by petticoats."

"What do you mean?" I demanded severely. "This is no time for joking."

"Ride on and put up at the Golden Acorn," he retorted. "See that there is another horse awaiting for me. I will be back in five hours."

"I had better go with you; two pairs of eyes are better than one. Anyway, without the paper I can accomplish nothing," I returned dolefully.

"No, if one isn't enough, two will be no better," he replied. "I can attend to the business. If I am not successful we can then both go back home. Be sure the horses are in good condition ready to start upon my return."

So saying he turned his horse's head and went back over the road that we had just come.

There was an old grandfather's clock standing in the corner of the tap room where I sat moodily waiting. When the clock should strike seven the five hours given Gil by himself for the accomplishing of his purpose would be up. I assure you I had no hope; I had carelessly lost the paper on the way and this time the rain and the mud had blotted it out of all resemblance to the thing it had been. I was a discreet person to send upon a serious mission. I was loading myself with contumely. The clock began to clang the hour. I started (although I had on an average glanced at that clock every five minutes since entering the tap room), and looked up from the blazing log where my eyes had been fixed in thought while my ears were strained for the sound of a horse's hoofs clattering on the brick courtyard.

The door opened and showed me Gil standing in the hallway lighting his pipe. Gil, in a state little short of demoralization; clothes half torn from off him, and a wound in his head from which the blood flowed. I was too crushed to do aught but gaze at him. His condition certainly did not bespeak success—it was impossible that he could have found it.

He walked over to where I sat and laid a paper on the table at my right. I picked it up. It was the paper without doubt, minus the envelope, perfect, dry, only a little crumpled.

the enemy, Sir Raoul Dwight. He knew her, no doubt, as 'pretty Alice Lynson.' It was for him she was to get a paper you had hidden on your person. Such had been her object when she left him yesterday, but on the way to the inn she had fallen in with the constable, who had just arrested her husband, Martin Toms. All thought of the paper was forgotten in the greater calamity, until we happened in at the White Swan. She said that if she had known that we were going to be so kind to her she would not have taken the paper for all the Raoul Dightwits in the world. You understand she said this, I but repeat her words. She added with more blubbery that after she left the inn, instead of keeping to the main road she had branched off to Trefford, where she was to meet Raoul Dwight's man. He was waiting for her. She gave him the paper. He opened it, and then he damned her for a fool and threw it back at her."

"I see, Sir Raoul Dwight had in some way learned that we were to go over this road to London," I said. "He thought to gain the promise of marriage. Strange he didn't come after it himself."

Gil mused. Presently he said apropos of nothing, "Pretty Alice Lynson" by her indiscretion having started him on his favorite theme—women:

"Woman is like a sparkling glass of wine, you feel as though you could never get enough, but God! how heavy they both pall upon you next day. I andford, your bill. Come, let us be off."

"But you have not told me how you received that scratch?" I asked him. A fierceness came over his eye.

"I fell in with the constable's fellows," he replied to the point, "and they recognized me. They were coming from housing the constable."

"I wish I had been with you," I said. "It was too one-sided—three against one."

"It was brief. If I trusted them before, I finished my work by carbonadoing them now," he said, and laughed.

CHAPTER IX.

A World Worn Beauty.

Only one day's journey from London! A day I felt that for me would stretch itself out even unto twelve times its original length before we should reach our bidding place, but, God willing, we hoped to hear the bells of Bow church ring out their evening chime.

We had been in the saddle all night, and I was galled from riding in spite of the many ways I had of easing myself. I was now riding with my legs hanging over one side as I had seen market men do to balance the weight of their horses.

It was yet early in the morning, the dew was on the gossamer. Gil bequeathed those last hours of the early morn with reminiscences of the times he had had in London, that "hotbed of iniquity."

The road had been for miles through a forest tract where the trees were so dense that, although the sun shone brightly, splashes of light were seen only in places. We came out abruptly into the open space. So clean cut was the division, it was as if a giant's knife had separated the woods from the open country. We were upon an elevation and looking down (we could see as soon as our eyes became accustomed to the glare) great lengths of rolling heath and hill, while the tapering road wound in and out like the delicate tracery on a piece of tapestry.

The boastings were hardly from his mouth, when he added: "Hasten, there is trouble ahead!" and put spurs to his horse.

I knew from his exclamation that his piercing eyes had caught sight of an object my more obtuse ones had not yet seen; what I was not long in finding out going at the pace we were.

We kept to the sides of the road so that the noise of the horses' feet coming on the turf should not be heard. When we had ridden near enough, we stopped in the sheltering shade of a clump of trees. It hid us from view. To the side of the road a post coach was standing on the two wheels of one side. The other two were in the air looking woefully out of place. The six horses plunged and trembled. At their heads were masked men—highwaymen—bold fellows, too, to be about their business in so open a spot on the country's face.

"Not the 'Magenta colored coach,'" ejaculated Gil.

In the stillness of the atmosphere we heard the high clear tread of a patrician voice.

"Pray, good sir, go easy," it said. "Tis not so I have heard it said that gentlemen who take to the road are wont to treat the gentler sex. They use them courteously, I assure you."

"Your pardon, Madame," answered a deeply musical voice. It came from the rogue standing by the coach door. "Allow me. Only one moment shall I inconvenience you, for which I again crave pardon."

With that the scamp helped the lady out of the coach and proceeded to search it.

"Ah, I see," she said sarcastically, "you are truly one of those gallant ones who lighten the purses of wayfarers."

"By my faith," said he, "some need relieving."

"That's as it may be," she retorted. "Men must take the chances of war. I care only where it affects myself. Now if you would imitate that world-renowned highwayman, Claude Duval, you would request the honor of a dance on the green, and in payment—" She gave a suggestive shrug and wave of her hand. Then she lifted her dress in one hand to show her feet, and most wantonly took a few steps in the minut. Her manner was bewitching.

THE ROLL IN THE ROLL.

True Use of the Pompadour Disclosed in a Railroad Dining Car.

"We live to learn," said the traveling man. "For the past four or five years I have admired the pompadour style of dressing woman's hair; but until recently it had never occurred to me that this mode of arranging the locks might possess practical utility as well."

"I was in the diner of a train about an hour out of Chicago when I perceived a particularly stylish brunette with a girl friend sitting at the table just ahead of me. What especially caught my eye was the mass of beautiful hair piled up on that girl's head. 'While the arrangement of it was entirely becoming to the comely young woman, yet I'll venture to say that her pompadour rose to the height of some eight inches from the forehead.'

"The two young women had about finished their dinner when I entered the car and were fumbling in their purses for the wherewithal to pay for the meal. Between them they managed to rake up some 56 cents."

"Well," observed the stunning brunette with the big pompadour, 'it looks like I shall have to go into my roll.'

"And with that the glorious creature calmly removed her hat, ran her fingers through the mass of dusky hair and fished out a bundle of money."

"There," she exclaimed when the operation had been completed, 'I have it. I always carry my money in my hat when I'm traveling. It's so much safer than any other way.'

Gotham's Child Labor Evils.

Robert Hunter, the wealthy head worker of the university settlement in New York city, declares that despite the child labor law, and undetected by the labor inspectors, there is one factory in which are at work 300 children under 14 years of age. In another factory, he adds, one boy 9 years of age was employed; his sister, at the age of 7, and a younger brother, 4 years old, earning 19 cents a day. In another place a girl of 3 was at work

BIOGRAPH OF STEAMSHIP LIFE.

Every Part of a Big Liner Will Be Scored on the Films.

A curious development of cinematography is to be undertaken by a London firm. The North German Lloyd steamship company have made arrangements for a complete bioscope record of every phase of life, both recreation and work, upon a transatlantic liner.

One of the most difficult phases of the work will be the photographing of the operations in the engine room and stokeholds, owing to the indifferent lighting facilities. For the illumination purposes, however, special electric lamps will be installed for the occasion, while a special lens, the largest and most powerful that has ever been designated for cinematograph work, will be employed.

The pictures will be taken at the rate of 16 per second, allowing an exposure of 1-35 second. Two men will be required for the operation, one for the regulation of the focus and the other will control the rotating mechanism of the camera.—Scientific American.

Four Grandchildren in a Day. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Williamson of Federal street, Allegheny, were informed on Jan. 1 that they were grandparents, their daughter, Mrs. J. M. Palmer, having given birth to a boy.

Soon they learned that another daughter, Mrs. Thomas Hicks of Tioiga street, Pittsburg, who had been married the same night as her sister, had given birth to twin girls.

Later in the day another daughter, Mrs. Ellsworth Strothers of Webster avenue, sent a messenger to tell her parents that she was the mother of a boy.

The Lamb.

Fast Work With Shotgun.

John Backman, a farmer living at Thornhurst, on the Pocono mountains, in Pennsylvania, killed four bears in five minutes with five shots from his repeating shotgun and holds the record of the season.

He was taking a party of hunters through the woods when they came upon bear tracks, those of a mother and cub. Backman followed them alone and went so quietly that upon going round a large rock he came upon them. They had been joined by two half-grown bears.

The animals saw Backman as soon as he saw them. He knocked over the mother bear with a load of buckshot in the body and then killed one of the half-grown ones which was running away. Then the second half-grown one was slain and finally the cub. The mother bear was disabled, but not dead, and he killed her with the fifth shot.

Women's Hats From Wood Shavings.

It is not generally known that many of the handsomest summer hats worn by the ladies of this country are literally made from wood "shavings." The finest examples of this industry are produced in Japan, these wooden ribbons appearing in many forms, some of which have almost the delicacy and sheen of satin, while others resemble soft and dainty crepes. Only about 15 per cent of the chip is exported in the form of wood ribbons, the remainder being worked into what is commercially known as chip braid, and which is employed in the same manner as straw braid, that is, for hats, basketry and other fancy articles.—Scientific American.

Auto Handcar.

Railroad tracks inspectors are beginning to use this type of automobile in looking over the roadbed.

Blindness of Justice.

In a Hartford, Conn., court two sentences were imposed the other day. An ex-judge for embezzling trust funds to the amount of $5,872 was sentenced to one year in jail and another man was sentenced to two and one-half years in the state prison for sealing a horse.

CONSTANT ACHING.

Back aches all the time. Spills your appetite, weakens the body, worries the mind. Kidneys cause it all and Doan's Kidney Pills relieve and cure it.

H. B. McCarver, of 201 Cherry St., Portland, Ore., Inspector of freight for the Trans-Continental Co., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills for back ache and other symptoms of kidney trouble which had annoyed me for months. I think a cold was responsible for the whole trouble. It seemed to settle in my kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills rooted it out. It is several months since I used them, and up to date there has been no recurrence of the trouble."

Appreciated "Clarissa."

Edward Young, author of "Night Thoughts," wrote in 1749 to the Duchess of Portland a letter containing an enthusiastic reference to Richardson's "Clarissa," and this letter has just been published among the Longleaf MSS. "Has your grace read his 'Clarissa'?" says Young. "What a beautiful brat of the brain is there! I wish your grace would stand godmother and give its name 'Clarissa the Divine.' That romance will probably do more good than a body of Divinity. If all printers could turn such authors I would turn printer in order to be instrumental in promoting such benefit to mankind." The modern author may well sigh for such appreciation.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; else cases out of ten are caused by a catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

A GREAT SUFFERER

LAY HELPLESS AND SPEECHLESS FOR HOURS AT A TIME.

Sinking Spells, Headaches, Rheumatism, All Caused by Poor Blood—Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

When Mrs. Williams was asked for some details of the fearful illness from which she had so long suffered, she spoke as follows:

"Ever since I had nervous prostration, about thirteen years ago, I have had periodical spells of complete exhaustion. Any excitement or unusual activity would throw me into a state of lifelessness. At the beginning my strength would come back in a moderate time, but the period of weakness kept lengthening until at last I would be helpless as many as three hours at a stretch."

"You were under medical treatment, of course?"

"Yes, when I became so bad that I had to give up my housework, in May of 1903, I was being treated for kidney trouble, and later the doctor thought my difficulties came from change of life. I was not only weak, but I had dizzy feelings, palpitation of the heart, misery after eating, hot flashes, nervous headaches, rheumatic pains in the back and hips. The doctor did me so little good that I gave up his treatment, and really feared that my case was incurable."

"What saved you from your state of hopelessness?"

"In July of 1903 I had a very bad spell, and my husband came in one day with a little book which told of remarkable cures effected by a remedy for the blood and the nerves, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He bought a box for me, and that was the beginning of my return to health. My appetite grew keen, my food no longer distressed me, my nerves were quieted, and my strength began to revive."

"How long did you take this remedy?"

"For two months only. At the end of that time I had regained my health and cheerfulness, and my friends say that I am looking better than I have done for the past fifteen years."

Mrs. Lizzie Williams is now living at No. 416 Cedar street, Quincy, Illinois. The pills which she praises so highly, cure all diseases that come from impoverished blood. If your system is all run down, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the very best remedy to take. Any druggist can supply them.

THE DISCOVERER

Of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the Great Woman's Remedy for Woman's Ills.

Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkham

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement.

No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles or such hosts of grateful friends as has

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It will entirely cure the worst forms of Female Complaints, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacement of the Womb, and consequent Spinal Weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the Change of Life.

It has cured more cases of Backache and Leucorrhoea than any other remedy the world has ever known. It is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels tumors from the Uterus in an early stage of development.

Irregular, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Flooding, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility quickly yield to it. Womb troubles, causing pain, weight and backache, instantly relieved and permanently cured by its use. Under all circumstances it invigorates the female system, and is as harmless as water.

It quickly removes that Bearing-down Feeling, extreme lassitude, "don't care" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, Dizziness, faintness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy or the "blues" and headache. These are sure indications of Female Weakness, or some derangement of the Uterus, which this medicine always cures. Kidney Complaints and Backache, of either sex, the Vegetable Compound always cures.

Those women who refuse to accept anything else are rewarded a hundred thousand times, for they get what they want—a cure. Sold by Druggists everywhere. Refuse all substitutes.

The Sea Beyond the Bar

Just looking at the bar
We should not dream that far
The ocean rolled on its limitless way
Beyond the bay.

The bar bounds all, and lies
Where meet the earth and skies.
We see no surging waves, nor hear their mystic runes
Beyond the cunes.

Across the bay, my barge
Cruises to that dim margin,
Or fast or slow my course, it endeth at the bar
That lies afar.

There, there shall meet my sight
A sea of living light.
There shall the ocean of God's love upon the shore
Break evermore.

A MODERN KNIGHT ERRANT

BY WALTER BROWNE

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"Terrible disgrace to his family! An awful thing that such a bright, promising young fellow as Jack should be a self-confessed burglar. Caught in the act, by Jove!"

These words, spoken by a mutual friend of Jack and myself, staggered me. Jack a burglar! The notion seemed grotesquely absurd. Jack—light-hearted, handsome, honest Jack, whom I had regarded as the soul of honor, a midnight burglar; caught and admitting his guilt! Such a story seemed utterly impossible.

I had known this great overgrown boy for years and never had believed him capable of anything mean. I had even thought him too scrupulous and stupidly good at times. His life was an open book. His only fault, if fault it was, lay in a foolish friendship which had existed between him and a well-known and extremely handsome comic opera singer called Connie Calcium.

While her infatuation for the athletic young civil engineer had perhaps been too conspicuous, the one thing I had most admired in Jack was the manly way in which he had always guarded her good name, and his readiness to resent any disrespectful allusion to the lady at any time.

Jack and I had been in Mexico for months building bridges and battling with fevers. On returning to the States I had stayed a week in Washington, attending to some private business, while he had come on to New York.

Only a few days ago we had parted, both full of bright prospects for the future. True, I remembered that Jack's ready money was running low; that he would have to economize for a month or two until some unfinished work was done. But to imagine he might become a burglar—a common thief—was impossible. Still it was said, it was printed in all the newspapers, that he had been caught at midnight in a millionaire's house in Fifth avenue, caught on the threshold of a room occupied by Mrs. Vickersby, the millionaire's wife, and wherein was many thousands dollars' worth of diamonds. It was even suggested that, had he not been providentially discovered, he might have added murder to his crime.

What should I do? He must withdraw his plea. He must at least be properly defended. I was in an even worse financial plight than he had been, and in all the world I could only think of Connie Calcium, who might aid him. But how could I find her? While in Washington I had heard some vague rumors of her having married and left the stage. Even if she could be found, I disliked the idea of appealing to her in Jack's behalf.

I went to Jack's old rooms and with some difficulty obtained admission from the crusty landlady, who vowed her house had been disgraced by having harbored a "second-story sneak thief." Looking sorrowfully around, I saw on his desk a new photograph of visit Jack in his cell and get his permission to enlist the aid of his former sweetheart, to the end that he might at least have efficient counsel.

I saw him, but he emphatically declined to have the lady associated in any way with the matter. He forbade me even to seek her and tell her of his trouble. He told me if I valued his friendship to let matters take their course.

I asked him to explain the circumstances of his arrest. I implored him, by an old friendship, to tell me he was not guilty. All he would say was that he had been caught by the master of the house and had no excuse to make, no defense to offer. His plea of guilty must stand. When I squarely told him I believed he could clear himself if he tried, he laughed and said he was sorry, for my sake, but it was really none of my business. Then, with a silent grip of the hand, he turned away from me.

I left the prison, thoroughly bewildered. I could not believe Jack guilty, and I determined to clear him, before he came up for sentence, if possible. In my dilemma I decided first to call at the house in which he had been arrested and hear from the millionaire's own lips those details which Jack refused to tell me.

It was a big brown stone house in Fifth avenue. The servant who answered my ring told me that Mr. Vickersby was out of town. Mrs. Vickersby was at home. Would she do? I answered "Yes," and after suspiciously examining my card, the flunky condescended to carry it to his mistress. I was left standing in the hall.

In a few moments I heard the swish of silks, and a beautiful woman floated down the stairs. Instantly I recognized her, in spite of her changed surroundings, in spite of an unwelcome sorrowful expression and eyes which looked like weeping. It was Connie Calcium, the one-time merry little comic opera soubrette.

She led me to her elegant boudoir, and between sobs of real sorrow, in agony of heart, she told me the true story. Then I knew. I knew why that noble, great-hearted, chivalrous boy, that modern knight-errant, had cheerfully taken upon himself so terrible a punishment; had submitted to the stigma of being regarded as a self-confessed burglar.

Jack had not known of Connie's marriage to Vickersby. She had heard of his arrival in New York, and sent for him, in the absence of her husband. When Jack's presence would have compromised the woman, her husband had unexpectedly returned. Then, to shield the reputation of the erring wife, his former fickle lover, Jack had freely sacrificed himself.

What did I do? Let Jack go to ruin for a jade like that? Not I. There was a big scene, but justice is justice, and I had no sentimental feelings for either Connie or her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Vickersby have since resided in Europe "on account of the lady's delicate health." Jack is now one of the leading civil engineers in New York city.

Theory and Practice.

Writing from Damaraland, about the war in German Southwest Africa, an officer says in a Frankfort paper: "In theory one German soldier is supposed to equal five Hereros, but in practice, under southwest African conditions, it is more probable that we shall need five Germans to every Herero."

CAUGHT BY THE GRIP—RELEASED BY PE-RU-NA.

"The World of Medicine Recognizes Grip as Epidemic Catarrh."—Medical Talk.

La Grippe is Epidemic Catarrh.

It spares no class or nationality. The cultured and the ignorant, the aristocrat and the pauper, the masses and the classes are alike subject to la grippe. None are exempt—all are liable.

Grip is well named. The original French term, la grippe, has been shortened by the busy American to read "grip."

Without intending to do so, a new word has been coined that exactly describes the case. As if some hideous giant with awful grip had clutched us in its fatal clasp.

Men, women, children, whole towns and cities are caught in the baneful grip of a terrible monster.

Have you the grip? Or, rather, has the grip got you? If so, read the following letters.

These testimonials speak for themselves as to the efficacy of Peruna in cases of la grippe or its after-effects:

A Southern Judge Cured.

Judge Horatio J. Goss, Hartwell, Ga., writes:

"Some five or six years ago I had a very severe spell of grip which left me with systemic catarrh. A friend advised me to try your Peruna, which I did and was immediately benefited and cured. The third bottle completed the cure."—H. J. Goss.

Cured in a Few Weeks.

Miss Jean Cowgill, Griswold Opera House, Troy, N. Y., is the leading lady with the Aubrey Stock Co. She writes the following:

"During the past winter of 1901, I suffered for several weeks from a severe attack of grip, which left a serious catarrhal condition of the throat and head.

"Some one suggested Peruna. As a last resort, after wasting much time and money on physicians, I tried the remedy faithfully, and in a few weeks was as well as ever."—Jean Cowgill.

Saved by Per-ua.

Hon. James R. Guill is one of the oldest and most esteemed men of Omaha, Neb. He has done much to make it what it is, serving on public boards a number of times. He endorses Peruna in the following words:

"I am 68 years old, am hale and hearty and Peruna has helped me attain it. Two years ago I had la grippe—my life was despaired of. Peruna saved me."—J. R. Guill.

There was no address or date. It was clear I could not trace Miss Calcium from that, so I determined to Francisco, Mich., Aug. 4, 1903.

Dr. E. L. Wilkinson, 25 Dwight Building, Jackson, Mich.:

I wish to thank you for what you have done for me. Before going to your office I was very bad with stomach trouble. I suffered a hundred deaths during the past four years. I had terrible spells of suffering with pain in my stomach that would last several days, and in many of these spells I thought, and my friends thought, I would die. The doctors who attended me gave me temporary relief, but they did nothing that would prevent a return of the agony. I called on you about six weeks ago, and I have had no pain whatever since I began treating with you. In that short time I have gained in flesh, and I am as strong as any ordinary woman of my age. You certainly know how to cure diseases of the stomach, for several different doctors treated me many months and none of them gave me permanent relief.

Dr. Wilkinson:

It has now been over a year since I gave you the above testimonial, but I wish to add a few remarks at this time that are very important, and I hope they may be the means of helping others who are afflicted as I was. I have not taken a dose of medicine since a year ago last August, and the condition of my stomach and bowels has been perfect. My health is good, I assure you I appreciate it. I hope every body who has stomach trouble will go to you and get permanently cured.

This is a picture of ANDREW B. SPINNEY, M. D., the only Dr. Spinney in this country. He has had forty-eight years experience in the study and practice of medicine, two years Prof. in the medical college, ten years in military service and he never fails in his diagnosis. He gives special attention to throat and lung diseases, skin diseases, St. Vitus dance, paralysis, etc. He never fails to cure piles.

There is nothing known that he does not use for private ailments of both sexes and by his own special methods he cures where others fail. If you would like an opinion of your case and what it will cost to cure you, write out all your symptoms enclosing stamp for your reply. ANDREW B. SPINNEY, M. D., Prop.
