GEORGE A. GILBERT

Died Very Suddenly of Apoplexy at Rochester, N. Y., Yesterday.

Word was received in Chelsea yesterday of the death in Rochester, N. Y., of George A. Gilbert, of Ann Arbor, brother of James L. Gilbert, of this place, and who was well known here, where his early boyhood days were spent and where he went to school. He had been making his headquarters in the mail service at Rochester this winter, and on Tuesday evening was taken with a stroke of apoplexy, which resulted in his death at 4 o'clock yesterday morning.

Mr. Gilbert had been a resident of Ann Arbor for a great many years. For several years he was connected with the clothing business. During Henry Waldron's term as congressman he was appointed to the railway mail service as a clerk. His advancement was rapid and he finally became chief clerk in the service for this district. When the rural mail service was inaugurated he was selected to assist in its organization and later became superintendent of that department, which office he held at the time of his death. Mr. Gilbert took great interest in the postal service and is said to have been one of the best posted men in the employ of the government.

The remains will be brought to Ann Arbor tomorrow morning. The time for holding the funeral services has not yet been announced, but Ann Arbor Commandery, No. 13, K. T., of which he was a member, will have charge of them.

Of his immediate family one daughter Cecilia M. Gilbert, and two brothers survive him.

Settlement of Electric Road Troubles

J. P. Clark, general manager of the Jackson & Consolidated Traction Co. and the D. Y. A. A. & J., and the personal representative of the Color syndicate in electric traction matters between Jackson and Detroit is authority for the statement that negotiations for the transfer of all the Bolland interests to the Hawks-Angus people were nearing a satisfactory conclusion, and in that event matters would be so arranged that Mr. Bolland can build the road to Lansing. In fact, he said, the building of the latter road is depending upon the satisfactory conclusion of the arrangements to this end which are now under way, and the prospects are that everything will work smoothly, as the arrangement is in the nature of a compromise of long-standing antagonisms, which will be to the benefit of all parties.

Stole a Robe and Blanket.

A hobo named Walter Wood was arrested here Saturday morning on the charge of stealing a robe and blanket from John Schauble, an Ann Arbor drayman. He went to L. P. Klein's saloon and asked if he could leave the robe there for a short time, and was told he could. Later he came in to get it and asked if anyone wanted to buy a robe. It is stated that he found a purchaser for it at $1.25. A telephone message from Ann Arbor apprised Deputy Sheriff Frank Leach of the circumstances in the case and he rounded the fellow up and took him to the jail at Ann Arbor. He will have his examination before Justice Doty today.

Caucus.

The Republicans of the township of Sylvan will meet in caucus at the town hall on Saturday, Feb. 11, 1905, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating 14 delegates to the county convention which is to be held at the court house in the city of Ann Arbor, Michigan, Monday, Feb. 13, 1905, at 11 o'clock a. m.

Dated Feb. 3rd, 1905.
By Order of Committee.

It makes no difference how many medicines have failed to cure you, if you are troubled with headache, constipation, kidney or liver troubles, Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will make you well. Glazier and Stimson.

HAD A SMOKY RIDE.

Fire in a D. Y. A. A. & J. Car Sunday Night Make Things Lively.

A lively blaze in the roof of the 930 D. Y. A. A. & J. east bound electric car Sunday night about two miles east of Chelsea caused considerable commotion among the motor-man, conductor and the half dozen passengers on it. The stove in the front end of the car got overheated and the draught from the rapid motion of the car caused the woodwork on the inside of the roof to become ignited. The flames roared as the car sped on, and before it could be stopped threatened to envelope the whole roof. Luckily there was plenty of water in the drinking tank and the fire was quickly quenched. The hot coals were then removed from the stove and the trip continued, the passengers almost suffocating with the car full of smoke.

There is popular distrust of the proposition to monkey with the pruned crop.

President Stillman said any banker is likely to make an error. Aunt Cassie Chadwick agrees.

It's an ill wind that blows good to nobody. The "glass-put-in" man will have plenty to do for a while in Russia.

An English clergyman says that meat makes man immoral. This may explain why the trust is boosting the price.

Sir Henry Irving's son is to play in "Hamlet." May he never be troubled by the apparition of his father's ghost!

It is fortunate for the Oberlin students, perhaps, that Mrs. Chadwick didn't sign Russell Sage's name to those notes.

A Pittsburg teacher notes that college professors are paid less than many cooks. Well, perhaps the cooks are really experts.

Watches are now made only an eighth of an inch thick. Your pocket book looks thin, too, after you have paid for one of them.

A leading critic says: "Few of the poets are now working at their trade." How does he know, since the real poets are always dead?

New York's glided youths have calling cards for their dogs. Thus a hostess knows at once which to address when they are ushered in.

Pennypacker of Pennsylvania says he believes the devil is an editor. This shows that a very small reason may sometimes totter on its throne.

New York dealers in automobiles report the sale of over $10,000,000 worth of their machines in the last two weeks. The gasoline age is upon us.

J. Pierpont Morgan has bought King Leopold's interest in a Chinese railroad. It is pretty safe to say that Leopold didn't soak anybody on the deal.

It is found that Mrs. Chadwick's assets amount to about $100,000. Foolish woman. Think of the fun she might have had with that much money.

The fact that a silver dollar of the vintage of 1804 recently brought $1,100 in Chicago will bring tears to the eyes of the man who last blew it in at its face value.

When a woman falls in love you can't make her believe all men are alike, and when she has been married ten years you can't make her believe that they are not.

This "epidiascope" that makes a ladybug look as big as a bat may make the feminine bathing suit look as big as a handkerchief. But the machine looks like a cook stove.

A California professor has invented a logic machine, which on being fed with major and minor premises gives the correct conclusion. Congress would have no use for it.

A Chicago man is supporting his nineteen children and their mother on an income of $9 a week. When it comes to expert financiering there is something worthy of study.

A good deal of fun is made of the female bargain hunters, but it is just this class which saves many a man from misery by making the ends meet and a little more. — Manchester Mirror.

There is a man in Brooklyn who has a gold brick worth real money. There are such gold bricks, but they are about as rare as the conscience that will not let its owner dodge his taxes.

A Cleveland editor advertises the loss of a diamond scarfpin and diamond watch chain. As editors are supposed to live the simple life, the question is, Where did he get those trinkets?

A girl in Tampa was wooed and won by mail, but she backed out when the would-be bridegroom called. It is a sad fact that a good many men make their best appearance through the postoffice.

This story that Hetty Green has a doubt for her lunch every day should be discredited. Probably some enemy is trying to spread the notion that she is leading a life of reckless self-indulgence.

Thousands of children in New York have no breakfast at home before leaving for school. It was a wise missionary who said he could not convert a hungry man, and we listen to hear a teacher apply his words to another field.

According to census bureau statistics telephone users in the United States shrank "Hello, Central!" 5,070,554,553 times last year. The census bureau has failed to gather statistics showing how many times central replied: "The line is busy!"

THE MICHIGAN NEWS

Showing What's Doing in All Sections of the State

Remarkable Escape.

By the explosion of an acetylene tank in the cellar, the residence of Robert Carmichael, in Swartz Creek, Genesee county, was reduced to a heap of ruins Saturday night. Strange to say, none of the four persons in the house at the time was injured beyond bruises. The tank was located in the cellar of the house, which was the largest and finest in the village. The explosion blew the walls of the house outward and broke every window in the Burleson hotel, adjoining, and shook the whole village. There were four persons in the house when the explosion occurred, Mrs. Todd and her son, Guy; Miss Lena Bradley, who boarded there, and Miss Belle McGauley, the servant. All of them were bruised by falling debris, but by some miracle none of them sustained serious injury.

Brakeman Culver Wins.

After a contest lasting two weeks, the suit of William Culver against the South Haven & Eastern Railroad Co., resulted in a verdict granting the plaintiff $19,200 damages. Culver, three years ago, when 20 years of age, lost both feet by being thrown under the cars of the company for which he was braking, his trousers and shoe having caught on a bolt and spike projecting from the rail and ties. This case has been tried three times and decision rendered for the plaintiff each time, the supreme court having reversed the decision once last December upon a technicality. In each trial the verdict was increased $5,000.

Missing Man.

Joseph Racicot suddenly disappeared from Sault Ste. Marie with $100,000 on his person and the matter was reported to the police. It is believed by his friends that he has been held up and robbed. Racicot came to the Soo recently from California to invest in real estate, securing options on a large amount of property. A few days ago he left for the country to close a deal with a farmer. He never arrived at his destination. Racicot is 63 years old, well dressed, had the air of a business man and had lots of money all the time. It is not known what town in the West he came from.

Bad Case Indeed.

After tenderly kissing her two little children good-bye and telling them that her trouble would soon be over, Mary Crowley, of Grand Rapids, went to the rear of her little home Wednesday evening and deliberately slid into the cistern. The pitiful screams of the children attracted the neighbors, but before the woman could be taken from the water she was dead. Mrs. Crowley was 32 years old and two years ago her husband died. Since then her efforts to sustain the family broke down her health and for the past three months she has been under a physician's care.

Ellen Is Out.

Ex-Ald. Jacob Ellen, who was fined $300 for bribery in the Grand Rapids water deal case, did not spend much time in Kent county jail. When he was locked up in a cell shortly after noon he said at that time his friends wanted to pay his fine, but he did not want them to. Monday night his sister arrived in the city from Holland and paid the fine and the alderman was released. Just after he arrived at the jail several friends called to see him, but no visitors were admitted while he was locked up.

Past Century Mark.

Andrew Yareok, one of the oldest men in northern Michigan, was buried from his home in Posen, Presque Isle county, Saturday, aged 103 years. He had lived in Posen for 40 years, coming to that locality from Posen, Germany. Mr. Yareok kept a half-way house between Alpena and Posen in the late 60's when the country was little more than a wilderness, and Indian wampum, socks, furs and pelts formed the principal currency he received for keeping stoppers. He leaves his second wife a widow, but no children.

Confessed the Crime.

Thomas Herrington, cook in a lumber camp, confessed to prosecuting Attorney George B. Holden, of Sault Ste. Marie, that he had assaulted his three daughters, the oldest 16 and the youngest 12. The complaint was made by Mrs. Herrington. Herrington threatened to shoot his wife recently, and fear of being killed led her to give up the family secret, which she had kept because of shame.

Very Narrow Escape.

Mrs. Matilda Snyder, of Bronson, made an unsuccessful attempt at suicide by thoroughly saturating her clothing with gasoline and then going into the dooryard where she made an effort to set herself on fire. A strong wind extinguished the match and she was discovered by friends who prevented another attempt.

Strange Incident.

There was a strange incident connected with the death of Frank Gainer, of Battle Creek, who was killed by the cars at Vicksburg Tuesday. Just four weeks ago Brakeman Granger had his legs cut off in an accident at Vicksburg, and Gainer took his place. The latter was killed within one rod of where Granger met his death.

H. H. Lewis, a Kalamazoo papermaker, suffered from freezing a toe five years ago. It never healed and gangrene has made necessary the amputation of his left leg at the knee.

Stacey Herley, of Lansing, who overturned a lamp when taken in a fit of epilepsy Saturday night and was burned by the flames, died Wednesday night at the hospital.

The Holland Sugar Co. closes the best run in its history, 34,000 tons of beets being sliced, yielding over 8,000,000 pounds of sugar. The company is now executing contracts for next year and will have over 3,000 acres.

STATE NEWS CONDENSED.

There are hints of a grand jury in Lapeer county.

The Alpena police have declared war against slot machines and are breaking up all those seized.

Preparations are being made to entertain the legislative junketers upon their arrival in Houghton.

Cheboygan will soon have a new bank block, made of red cement and erected at a cost of $20,000.

The 2½-year-old child of Levi Mann, of Honor, fell back into a pail of boiling water and died shortly afterward.

Bert Lambert, of Lansing, convicted of criminal assault, was sentenced to life imprisonment in Jackson penitentiary.

Justice Van Denberg, of Menominee, advertises in the local newspapers offering trading stamps with every marriage certificate.

Senator Reine, of Bay City, one of the pushers of the bill to abolish the state board of health, is reported to be down with smallpox.

A fire burned out five business buildings in the lower end of Crystal Falls at an early hour Monday, entailing an aggregate loss of nearly $50,000.

A farmers' trust has been formed at Westville. A number of farmers have gotten together for the purpose of controlling the price of their products.

The home of Clarence Lowe in Wilmet was destroyed by fire. His wife was badly burned and Lowe himself, with his little child, barely escaped.

Bronson village, which of late years has suffered so much for the want of more efficient fire protection, has purchased a $1,500 Waterous gasoline engine.

Sheriff Moore suspects Tommy Good and George Jefferson, now under arrest at Detroit, of robbing the safe at the Diamond Crystal Salt Co.'s plant at St. Clair.

Residents of South Forest, Presque Isle, are forming an organization to protect themselves from hunters who come into their county and shoot at everything they see.

Smallpox has broken out in the Michigan asylum for the insane in Pontiac. Two nurses and three patients of the female department now have the disease and about 200 have been exposed.

The long-expected resignation of Henry B. Ledyard from the presidency of the Michigan Central railroad was made at the meeting of the directors of the Vanderbilt lines in New York Tuesday.

The farm house on the old Bittner property, near Reed City, burned with its contents, including several hundred bushels of potatoes. Loss, $3,000; insured for $700. It was the oldest house in Oshtemo county.

The farmers of Leelanau county have contracted for one thousand bushels of seed peas so far this season. The raising of seed beans and peas is one of the flourishing industries of that region.

To attract farm trade twenty-five Niles business men are organizing a stock company to build a large warehouse and elevator for the establishment of a ready market for all kinds of grain and produce.

John McKay fell dead in a Sault Ste. Marie saloon after being slapped in the face by John Campbell. McKay was intoxicated and wanted to fight. Campbell slapped him twice and McKay fell to the floor unconscious.

A traveling man from Detroit was stricken with apoplexy on a west-bound train at Schoolcraft. He was about 5 feet 7 inches tall, heavy set, with sandy hair and mustache. He refused to disclose his identity.

H. A. Ryder attempted to kidnap from the home of his wife in Muskegon their 7-year-old son. He got to an interurban car with him and was going to Grand Rapids, but was intercepted by passengers and the boy rescued.

During the month of January a new divorce record was established for Calhoun county. There were fifteen begun, most of them being started by Battle Creek parties. There were thirty-one marriage licenses issued.

President Fife of the Michigan State Agricultural society has issued a call for a special meeting of the executive committee to be held at Lansing, February 8, to consider the alleged illegality of the choice of the Detroit office.

Deputy Game Warden Dixon and Penny have seized 1,000 nets on Waiskai bay, all of illegal mesh. A wholesale business has been carried on in under-sized herring, whitefish and trout caught through the ice. Arrests may follow.

Now that the ice in the Detroit river opposite Sandwich has become thick enough for teams to cross, considerable smuggling has been going on lately. Coal oil is the principal commodity smuggled, as the profit on each barrel smuggled into Canada is $1.50.

After being unable for more than five years to speak above a whisper, Albert Gilson, a traveling man of Owosso, well-known all over the state, is now talking as well as anybody. The power of speech returned to him quite suddenly on Saturday, and Christian science is given the credit for his recovery.

P. C. Lawrence, a miner, 30 years old, and unmarried, was almost instantly killed Saturday in Bay mine No. 2 by falling slate. The mine roof was apparently weak, as the slate came down without warning. His head was crushed. A mother and father survive him.

Smallpox has found its way into the state capital, G. S. Davis, of Evart, a clerk in the agricultural statistics division of the secretary of state's office, being afflicted with the disease. He had been feeling ill a few days, but did not leave the office until Tuesday noon. A number of the clerks fear that they have been exposed.

THE LEGISLATURE.

The junket is over and some funny things are told showing that hotel bills and parlor cars cost something. In some cases it is claimed hotel rates went up above the regular schedule and no seats were to be had in Pullman cars except at the regular price. "We don't mind paying fair hotel rates," said Senator Cropsey, "but we object to being 'roasted' in a place where there is so much talk of hospitality."

In the copper country the guests were better treated. There were no boosted hotel bills to dull the pleasures of sleigh rides and banquets, and the mining school will probably fare better than the institutions in the more easterly portion of the peninsula.

The board of control of the soldiers' home at Grand Rapids requested the visiting committee of the house of representatives to secure a law permitting the use of the post fund of $10,000 for the erection of a recreation hall. The present law provides that all inmates of the home shall turn into the post fund all of their pension in excess of $12 per month, the money to be used by the board of control when granted authority by the state. At present the inmates of the home have no hall for recreation purposes. It is intended to install billiard tables and other games.

Reports from the Upper Peninsula are that the legislative junketers ran into feet and feet of snow and cold that would make a polar bear rejoice. They were driven to the mining school in sleighs. The managers of that institution wait about $200,000 this time from the state. Of this $100,000 is for maintenance, $45,000 for additional ground and about $10,000 for a new heating plant. The new ground is wanted so that in the future the college may have a stamp mill and blast furnace. Thursday evening the party was banqueted at Calumet and Friday a visit was made to the big Calumet & Hecla power houses and stamp mills. The hard side, wherein much money has been lost in mining was brought forward for the purpose of impressing the lawmakers with the idea that copper mining is not all wealth producing, so that this may be remembered when bills affecting the copper industry are considered at Lansing.

Among the bits of gossip picked up by the junketers is that Supt. Chamberlain, of the asylum at Newberry, will resign, and that he will be succeeded by Dr. Earl Campbell, a man formerly of Kalamazoo, now one of the attaches of the asylum.

The preceding legislature purchased new chairs for the members at $14 per taking a lot of 100. An examination of the hundred seats, which thus far have only been used one session, reveals that $5 of the elegantly polished curved backs are cracked and the sections in the backs of most of the remaining 15 are checked.

Tried For Murder.

Mrs. Mary Brown, charged with the murder of her husband, John Brown, in Hancock, last November, will be tried this week. The victim was a barber, employed at Houghton, but residing in Hancock, and from all accounts he and his wife did not get along well together. On the night of the killing, Brown went to Houghton, and when he did not return at the time expected, his wife went after him, finding the man, it is said, in an intoxicated condition. However, Brown accompanied the woman home. Shortly after midnight Mrs. Brown alarmed other lodgers in the house by calling for assistance, saying that she had shot her husband. The weapon employed was a small revolver of 22 calibre. The bullet entered the man's head, and he died shortly after the shooting. Mrs. Brown's explanation is that she shot Brown in self-defense as he was attacking her, and the woman's appearance when the police arrived at the scene directly after the shooting would seem to substantiate her statement. Her eyes were blackened, her clothing was torn, and she had the appearance of having been terribly beaten.

A Miner's Luck.

Frank Phiscator, the Klondike king, who left St. Joseph a few years ago to seek a fortune in the Klondike region, has again struck it rich. The report is that he has acquired control of three additional claims in the northern Yukon district for which he has refused three-quarters of a million dollars offered by an eastern syndicate. Phiscator says his new property has better surface prospect than the dirt which made him a millionaire.

Peculiar Case.

In the circuit court, Lansing, on Saturday, William A. Warren obtained a judgment for $2,000 against the Lansing Spoke works. The case is a rather peculiar one. The plaintiff is a small boy, who was riding on the projecting reach of a wagon when a runaway team belonging to the defendant dashed against the vehicle, injuring the boy so badly that his leg was afterwards amputated.

Mrs. Rogers Reprieved.

Mrs. Mary Rogers, of Waterbury, Vt., who was to have been hanged Friday for the murder of her husband, has been reprieved until June 2. The governor said the reprieve was granted in order that opportunity might be given for a new trial. There is a general sentiment in that state against the hanging of a woman, especially one who, it is believed by many, was not responsible for her act in killing her husband. So intense has this feeling grown against the legal taking of the ignorant woman's life that an attempt was made by a man now under arrest to bribe one of the prison guards to give her poison.

Michigan Central passenger train No. 72, south-bound for Jackson and Chicago, collided with freight train No. 84 between Fergus and St. Charles in a heavy fog Saturday morning, perhaps fatally injuring Engineer Arthur Brown, of Jackson. Passengers were unhurt.

NEWS OF THE WORLD

A Brief Chronicle of All Important Happenings

THE CZAR'S TROUBLES.

Rioting and Mutiny Rife.

Several women were killed and many injured in a fight with Cossacks and police Monday at Rostoff on the Don. A mob of 600 angry women stormed Novikof's factory and forced the workmen to quit. The workmen were reluctant, but the women demolished the machinery, making it impossible for the men to return to work. The police were summoned and after desperate fighting, in which the women used clubs and stones, the officers routed the women and pursued them, wounding a large number. In a short time the women again collected and Cossacks were called. They used their knouts with terrible results and in some instances rode women down and trampled them to death.

Six thousand reserves stationed at Peterhof are reported to have mutinied. For the past fortnight, it is said, they have shown sympathy for the peasants, and disaffection culminated in open insubordination. The men are all under arrest and held as prisoners in the barracks.

Advices from Kalisz say the strike situation there is serious. There are continuous conflicts between the military and the strikers. Twenty of the latter have been killed and many strikers and others wounded.

More Disorder and Slaughter.

Renewed disorders have occurred at Lodz, Russian Poland, where a conflict between troops and strikers resulted in the killing of six persons and the wounding of 48. The disorders resulted from an attempt on the part of the strikers to prevent some men from returning to work. The troops were called out and fired into the strikers, who replied with revolver shots.

Strikes begun Friday in the coal mining districts of Dombrowa and Sosnowice. As many important manufacturing centers are dependent on these mines for fuel, it is feared that the strike will have a serious effect on the industrial situation.

According to the latest information obtainable more than 300 persons have been killed during the disturbances in Warsaw. A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that the report that Maxim Gorky was released proves to be premature.

Horrors in Warsaw.

Warsaw remains in a state of siege. All the bodies of those killed in the riot have been removed from their homes to police stations. The relatives are not permitted to bury them. From the police station in the Novi district alone the corpses of 50 men and two women were taken Monday night in four hospital vans to the Jewish, Lutheran and Catholic cemeteries and remained there for identification until Tuesday, when they were buried. Twenty-one bodies are still unidentified.

During the riots of Sunday and Monday the workmen's residence district was unprotected by police, and the Hooligans seized the opportunity to plunder many dwellings. A large body of workmen went to a suburb where criminals abound and instituted a rigorous search of their houses. Whenever they were able to identify stolen property the workmen promptly killed the persons found in its possession. About a hundred other criminals were injured in fighting with the workmen. The latter were not only actuated by revenge for their losses, but were enraged because the Hooligan element brought discredit on the strike movement.

City in Panic.

Reports from Czestochowa, Russian Poland, say that city is in a state of panic. The inhabitants are barricading their doors and windows in consequence of the attitude of the strikers. Two hundred and eighty pupils were expelled today from the Warsaw gymnasium with the additional punishment that they will never be permitted to enter any government school within the empire. This action of the authorities is intended as a punishment for boys who dared to petition the directors for the introduction of the Polish language into the schools. As a result of the punishment the boys lose the privilege of performing military service as one year volunteers and will be forced to serve three or four years in the ranks.

Undesirable Immigrants.

The fall of Port Arthur and the likelihood of extensive military conscription in Russia have served to drive a horde of Russian Hebrews to the United States. Reports received by Commissioner-General of Immigration Sargent, from New York, show an unprecedented immigration from Russia for December and January. The new arrivals are of the most undesirable class and are being turned back by the hundreds.

The reports of bickerings between Kuropatkin and his lieutenants has given rise to serious concern at the war office, and it is not improbable that Kuropatkin will be recalled in the near future.

The Denver Democrats interested in the Peabody-Adams gubernatorial contest expect to take evidence from at least 5,000 persons before the joint legislative committee considering the case, or before notaries.

Mr. and Mrs. Chase S. Osborn, of Sault Ste. Marie, will sail by the Pacific Mail and Oceanic line from San Francisco for New Zealand, stopping en route in Hawaii and Samoa. From there they will go to Australia, the Philippines, China and Japan. In New Zealand Mr. Osborn expects to study the effect of the economical and political reforms that are being experimented with there, such as the arbitrary wage and the eight-hour law.

Vineyard Sound, Mass., is entirely frozen over for the first time within the memory of the residents of that section of the state. Sunday a solid sheet of ice stretched for miles from the island.

BECKWITH IS DEAD.

The Disgrace Brought On Him by the Chadwick Woman.

Mr. Beckwith, president of the Citizens' National bank of Oberlin, O., died last night, after two days of unconsciousness, during which only the family surrounded the death bed of the banker. Mr. Beckwith was about 65 years of age. On December 4 last the federal grand jury at Cleveland returned five indictments against Beckwith upon the charge of violating the national banking laws in connection with the loans made to the Cassile L. Chadwick by the Citizens' National bank of Oberlin, of which he was the president. From the day of his arrest, Beckwith's health failed rapidly as a result of worry over his troubles. He frequently declared during his illness that he wanted to die. For several days prior to his death he refused to take food of any kind. Death resulted directly from heart trouble. His death materially weakened the cases of forgery and conspiracy to misapply bank funds, now charged against Mrs. Chadwick. It was expected that Beckwith would be the star witness in both the federal and common pleas courts.

Horrible Deed.

Lindsay Owen's explanation for why he thought was the crime of wife murder stands unique and awful in the annals of self-destruction.

After emptying the contents of a revolver into his wife and leaving her for dead in their home, Owen, a wealthy farmer and oil producer, walked to an oil derrick on his farm. Ascending it in plain view of men who were powerless to interfere, he deliberately set fire to a huge tank of oil and then cast himself into the flames.

Owen, who was widely known throughout the oil fields of Ohio and West Virginia, had been quarreling with his wife. Incited by the rage of jealousy, he shot the woman down, then emptied the contents of the pistol into the body of his victim, leaving her, executed himself.

Not a vestige of his body nor clothing has since been found. His body was completely blotted out.

At Least a Full Army Corps has been sent to Manchuria since the first of the year and these, with the Port Arthur veterans, make the reinforcements received by Marshal Oyama within the past six weeks close to 150,000 men. It is the general belief that the Japanese commander is ready for a general forward movement all along his line and that he has men enough to overcome both wings of the Russian army.

While the intensely cold weather about Mukden may delay this movement for a while, it is certain that with the opening of spring the Russians will be overwhelmed if Kuropatkin is smart enough to withdraw from beyond the reach of the Japanese enveloping movement. There is more or less fighting going on constantly along the entire front of the two armies; but since the repulse of the Russian attack on Oku, there has not been, according to private advices, any serious engagements.

The Losses Grow.

Detailed dispatches relating to fighting along the Shakhe River Jan. 29 show that the engagement was larger proportions than earlier reports indicated. Field Marshal Oyama reports that his losses were 7,000, while he estimates the Russian casualties at 10,000. The actual result of the fighting is yet definite, beyond the fact that it not materially altered the positions of the two extensive lines and that Russian attempt to advance is checked.

The Sultan Dying.

Sultan Abdul Hamid is dying, or at least his condition is very critical. It is what has leaked out from Yildiz, in spite of all the efforts of the government to keep the people in ignorance. For quite some time it has been known that Abdul Hamid has been suffering from a disease which at times makes him almost insane with pain. It is when he suffers most that he perceives the plans for the cruelties which have made his people abhor him.

Candidate Steals Coal.

William A. Thompson, aged 67, took out papers two weeks ago to come an independent candidate for mayor of Reading, Pa., was arrested Saturday while stealing two bags of coal. He gave bail for his appearance in court. Thompson says none of the dealers would give him credit and he was formerly in the council and was prosperous, but met with reverses. He was caught in the act of taking coal.

CONDENSED NEWS ITEMS.

Venezuela is preparing for a revolution.

The Missouri senate, Democratic by large majority, has adopted a resolution calling on the state delegation in congress to support President Roosevelt's proposed railroad legislation.

Tired Nervous

When you feel languid, tired, nervous and irritable, your vitality is low—your supply of nerve energy exhausted, and your system running down for lack of power.

The organs of the body are working poorly, or not at all, and you are not getting the nourishment needed. This soon impoverishes the blood and instead of throwing off the impurities, distributes it all through the body. This brings disease and misery.

Feed the nerves with Dr. Miles' Nerve, a nerve food, a nerve medicine, that nourishes and strengthens the nerves, and see how quickly you will get strong and vigorous.

"My wife suffered with nervousness previous to a recent attack of typhoid fever, but after her recovery from the fever, she was much worse, and could hardly control herself being exceedingly nervous when the least excited. She was very restless at night, and never had a good night's rest. She also suffered much from nervous headache. Dr. Miles' Nerve was recommended by a friend. After the first three doses she had a good night's rest, and at the end of the first week's treatment she was wonderfully improved. Continued use of Nerve has completed her entire cure."

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1905.

The Milan Leader was 23 years old last week. Under Editor W. H. Houseman's energetic management it is one of the best paying newspapers in the county. We wish you further success, Friend Houseman.

E. E. Gregory, of Howell, who was appointed a bank examiner by Banking Commissioner Moore, of Port Huron, has been dropped because he supported W. N. Ferris for governor, and the place has been given to Frank W. Blair, of Alma.

No man in Washington today is more in the public eye than Hon. Chas. E. Townsend, member of congress from this district. His bill which confers upon the interstate commerce commission the power to fix railroad rates has the approval of the President and the Republican caucus of the house.

The state supervisors' association at its meeting in Lansing this week has put itself on record as being opposed to the fee system of paying the salaries of officers. The association says the fee system, particularly in the sheriff's office costs enormously. And—everybody knows that, even in Washtenaw county.

There had been introduced in the senate, up to the adjournment, Jan. 26, 88 bills, and in the house 161. Two years ago the adjournment for the recess was a week later, but the senate at that date had only 86 bills, and the house 296, notwithstanding the large proportion of skeleton bills then introduced only for titles, of which now there are none.

The present condition of former citizens of Michigan who deserted their homes in Detroit for residences in Windsor, Ontario, in order to escape the payment of certain taxes, and who, by reason of recent Canadian legislation, now find themselves confronted by higher taxes of the same sort they sought to escape, is decidedly amusing to say the least of it.

The state law makers at Lansing have made up their minds to tax the sleeping car companies doing business in Michigan. They will tax them very gently, however. A conservative estimate places the amount they should be taxed at $11,200. The amount it is proposed to tax them is about $3,000. Great is the power of the potent free railroad or sleeping car pass on the ordinary legislator in Michigan.

As the result of excessive insurance rates Battle Creek merchants and manufacturers are holding quiet sessions, in which an idea is being worked out toward the establishment of a mutual insurance company of their own. It would stop about $70,000 in premiums that now go to foreign corporations. Mutual insurance is the correct thing and should be in vogue everywhere, it is only people's indifference to their own welfare that prevents its accomplishment.

Here are the opinions of two newspapers on the tax commission question. The Hillsdale Leader (Republican) says:
Senator Doherty would abolish the state tax commission.

Bravo!
The Leader has repeatedly said that the commission is an insult to every supervisor in the state.

Abolish it and save $250,000 annually to the taxpayers.

This would be economy.

To this the Adrian Weekly Press (Democratic) makes answer in the following words:

Bravo nothing.

Save nothing.

Insult to no one.

Economy nil.

Abolish nothing.

Revise it, that's all. Revise it and better it, with better men.

And speaking of the last given opinion, in the words of Will Carleton, "Them's our sentiments, tew."

The bills before the board of county auditors at their meeting this week for the care of tramps in this county during the month of January reach close to $3,000. The sheriff's bill, $1,300, was a record breaker, and the constables' and justices' bills were in line with it. Washtenaw is a most hospitable county to the tramp fraternity, but it is getting to be a most awful grind on the long suffering taxpayers. Why don't the authorities put the lazy, good-for-nothing vagabonds to work at the end of a ball and chain? It would soon have a good effect on such conditions as now exist.

A Touching Story

is the saving from death of the baby girl of Geo. A. Eyer, Cumberland, Md. He writes: "At the age of 11 months our little girl was in declining health with serious throat trouble, and two physicians gave her up. We were almost in despair when we resolved to try Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. The first bottle gave relief; after taking four bottles she was cured and is now in perfect health." Never fails to relieve and cure a cough or cold. The State Board of Health has issued to the clerks of all townships, villages, cities and counties, the report on the "Relation of preventable disease to taxation," data for which was supplied by such clerks. The pamphlet is also being sent to all other officials who generally have to do with the allowance of bills for expenses incurred in the care of indigent persons sick with communicable diseases. Any physician or other person who wishes to study the subject, may obtain a copy on application to the secretary of the board at Lansing.

Apples are rather better food, especially for children, than milk, the "perfect food," as winter apples contain 53.38 and milk 56.40 per cent water; or per contra, apples contain 14.62 per cent solids and milk 13.60 per cent. Let the children of all ages—from 1 to 100 years—drink all the milk they will and eat all the ripe apples they will. Always eat apples with the skin on as it contains the most valuable element of the fruit. No person should eat less than two fair sized apples daily for good health and twice that number would be all the better. Therefore, encourage the children to drink milk and eat apples.

He was surprised at how the sores healed—"I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been afflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itches of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I can truly recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish."

Ira E. Freer, a former well known resident of Chelsea, died at the Jackson county house Thursday, Feb. 2, aged 72 years. He had been at the county farm but a few months. He was a machinist by trade and was at one time in the employ of the Michigan Central. The cause of his demise was typhoid fever. Owing to the existence of quarantine restrictions at the county house on account of the prevalence of smallpox, his remains were interred in the cemetery connected with that institution.

Attorney C. A. Ward filed a petition in the probate court Saturday asking for the release from Dearborn Retreat of Mortimer Yakley, who was committed to that institution about a month ago because of mental incapacity. Mr. Ward said that Yakley's friends have visited him at the retreat and feel that he has recovered his usual health and that it would be a hardship to both himself and family to keep him longer in confinement. His wife and children need his aid and assistance and it is thought that if released and he removes to a new home he will be permanently free from mental trouble.

At What Temperature Water Boils.

Water boils at different temperatures, according to the elevation above the sea level. In London, water boils practically at 212 degrees Fahrenheit; in Munich, Germany, at 209½ degrees; in the City of Mexico, at 200 degrees; and in the Himalayas, at an elevation of 18,000 feet above the level of the sea, at 180 degrees. These differences are caused by the varying pressure of the atmosphere at these points. In London the whole weight of the air has to be overcome. In Mexico, 7,000 feet above the sea, there is 7,000 feet less of atmosphere to be resisted. Consequently less heat is required and boiling takes place at a lower temperature.

HER BLOOD TOO THIN

GENERAL DEBILITY RESULTS FROM IMPROVED BLOOD.

The Remedy That Makes New Blood Banishes Weakness, Headaches, Indigestion and Nervous Troubles.

Hundreds of women, suffering from headaches, dizziness, restlessness, languor and timidity. Few realize that their misery all comes from the bad state of their blood. They take one thing for their head, another for their stomach, a third for their nerves, and yet all the while it is simply their poor blood that is the cause of their discomfort.

If one sure remedy for making good, rich blood were used every one of their distressing ailments would disappear, as they did in the case of Mrs. Ella F. Stone, who had been ailing for years and was completely run down before she realized the nature of her trouble.

"For several years," said Mrs. Stone, "I suffered from general debility. It began about 1896 with indigestion, nervousness and steady headaches. Up to 1900 I hadn't been able to find any relief from this condition. I was then very thin and bloodless. An enthusiastic friend, who had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, urged me to give them a trial and I finally bought a box.

"I did not notice any marked change from the use of the first box, but I determined to give them a fair trial and I kept on. When I had finished the second box I could see very decided signs of improvement in my condition. I began to feel better all over and to have hopes of a complete cure.

"I used in all eight or ten boxes, and when I stopped I had got back my regular weight and a good healthy color and the gain has lasted. I can eat what I please without discomfort. My nervousness is entirely gone, and, while I had constant headaches before, I very rarely have one now. I cheerfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to women who suffer as I did."

Mrs. Stone was seen at her pretty home in Lakewood, R. I., where, as the result of her experience, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are very popular. These famous pills are sold by all druggists. A book that every woman needs is published by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. It is entitled "Plain Talks to Women," and will be sent free on request.

Mistress Rosemary Allyn

By MILLICENT E. MANN

Copyright, 1904, by LUCAS-LINCOLN CO.

CHAPTER X.—Continued.

Oh, youth! mad loving youth! What if I were ever disappointed, I still pressed hot-foot after the slightest clue that might lead me to my love—can language tell or thought measure the strength of love?

I asked many of the young sparks about the town whom I soon met if they were acquainted with or knew of a lady named Mistress Rosemary Allyn? She seemed to be unknown. I came to the conclusion that in spite of her beauty and imperiousness, she was of small means and station, and had come to Castle Drouit by chance.

Of the lady whom I had escorted into London, I also had as yet heard nothing. She had asked my name, and where I should stop, saying I would hear from her anon. As the incident no doubt faded from her mind, I had also.

One day I was strolling down Holborn with Mister Arnold, the biggest tonguester in London, but withal a fellow with little malice in his most malicious stories—in fact he at whose Lodge in Sussex county I had won the promise of the hand of Lady Felton, I had been equally unfortunate in not being able to see that lady; 'twas said that she was out of town; had gone to France. Concerning the paper I had mere, Mister Arnold had displayed a great curiosity, but as he received no encouragement from me to speak upon it, he soon desisted.

It was a day of rosy sunshine and baby breezes. Summer was flouting her flag of wanton brightness into the very face of winter, thereby throwing over all the land such gracious warmth as made one wish she might forever linger with us. Sparrows flew about the half-clad trees, and bathed in the puddles along the thoroughfares. They shook their plumage and pruned themselves, twittering unceasingly, joyous in the present warmth. We were as satisfied and as thoughtless for the moment as they.

Mister Arnold was relating a yarn about Jack Howe—a most notorious liar—who had unwittingly told the truth about an episode of my Lady Castlemaine's. The gossip pertained not to this tale and is not worth repeating for its own sake. We heard a rumbling of heavy wheels, and the

The coach turned in Bow street—a fashionable neighborhood, where many stately piles reared their crests—and stopped before a mansion. The coach door was opened, the steps let down, and Mistress Rosemary Allyn alighted. She then went up the marble flight of stairs and was admitted at once.

I followed her. So rapidly did I mount the steps after the lady, the portal was yet warm from her presence. The lackey opened the door at my knock immediately. He unceremoniously told me the door to the left. It was a levee day evidently, for, through the half-open door I heard many voices and the gayest of laughter. Gad zooks! methought this was not what I wished, and I drew near reluctantly—I hesitated upon the threshold of my desire.

I peeped into the room—a room after Gibbons, frescoed ceiling and parquetry floor of yew. The furnishings were from Paris. I saw a number of swells, yes, upward of a dozen or more who had by all the signs been awaiting the lady. She sat in state in a large fauteuil with her tiny feet resting on a stool.

A fellow knelt before her unlacing the high-topped driving boots, which imprisoned her feet, while another waited with a pair of satin slippers. I knew where there was one that might claim kinship to them. He ogled the slippers as though he could have swallowed them with the greatest relish, whilst he alternately looked with petulance at the one at the lady's feet. I did not wonder at his impatience, for so long did the fellow linger o'er his self-imposed undertaking, it had never been completed had not Mistress Rosemary Allyn called him to task.

"Cousin Raoul," said she, "hast thy fingers the megrims that thy fumble do over the lacinings of my boots?"

Cousin Raoul sent an upward fond glance at the lady.

"They become as confused as their master, being part of him, upon touching aught of yours," he said.

"Poof!" she said and shrugged her shoulders. "You set a bad example to your friends, mon cousin."

Back of her chair another fellow hovered. He held in his hands a carafe and glass, and begged her to cracking of a whip. It heralded the approach of one of the fine coaches of the town. We stepped hastily back against a house, for usually they came at so great a speed the mud and oil collected in the gutters were splashed indiscriminately about, and in this case it might be to the hurtfulness of our attire. We were both dressed faultlessly, and out for an airing.

He handed me my glove with the tip of his sword.

The coach swayed and whirled along the unpaved and rutty street, while the footmen had all they could do to keep their seats. It slowed up when opposite us. We both looked indifferently at the gold and buff equipage. In the coach sat the woman I loved—Mistress Rosemary Allyn!

I met a full gaze—she looked at me for quite a second, with the lowering coquetry of a great beauty, sure of her conquest—and then she dropped her lids in languid thoughtfulness. There was no recognition in her glance; no return to my gracious salutation. The carriage rolled past.

"Stifle! Who is the beauty?" exclaimed Mister Arnold. "You seem to know her."

What I answered him I know not. How I excused myself, as I hastily left him, I know not also. The insinuating smile I caught upon his clean-shaven lips recalled to my mind that he was not one to stop at any scruples he ought to have when dressing up a story to suit the over-nice palates of his score of cronies; fitting it out with that spiciness of flavor which delighted those scandal-mongers. I trusted somewhat in his being my friend and his good nature. If they held him not, I was no pulling infant and could take care of my own honor.

It was well for me that the coach had not far to go and went the rest of the way in a decorous manner, else I'm afraid my maroon-colored suit with its gold lacinings would have suffered. For, God! I had a good pair of legs and I proposed meeting the lady.

let him give her a dash of rum. Yet another strode across the room, a most frank expression on his face; to him had fallen the honor of removing her headgear.

A bevy of insolent youths with their bowing and scraping!

Twice I made the movement to enter, and twice I hesitated. My dilatoriness was my undoing, for as I was slipping backward, intending to leave and choose a more apropos time for addressing Mistress Allyn, my sword clanked against the wainscoting, and gave out a metallic sound.

The smirking fellows looked around with a suspicious quickness. Had the lady seen me following her coach? I was certainly admitted as if expected. I recognized the one at her feet as my foe of the Lodge, Sir Raoul Dwight. From a darkening of his countenance, hardly perceptible, I felt that the recognition was mutual, and that that recognition brought gladness to more than one.

Flight was out of the question. Naught remained to me but to advance with as good grace as I could into the room, where I was waited for.

Mistress Rosemary Allyn's eyes met and crossed mine when I had straightened myself from my lowest bow.

A rippling laugh escaped her. "Sdeath!" she explained. "Whom have we here, cousin? One of your friends?" she queried of the one still at her feet.

"None of mine, sweet coz," he said. The quick reply came with an insulting look at me.

His task was now finished, and I assure you my advent into the room had not hastened it. He stood up, tall and straight and insolent. He strutted toward me with his eyesglance on and looked me up and down. The fellow smelt so of bergamot, I vow 'twas offensive.

I returned his look quite as fixedly for a brief second, when I turned to something more to my taste.

"I am Quentin Waters at your service," I said to the lady; "and am come to pay my devoir to Mistress Rosemary Allyn."

"The fishmonger of Long Haut metamorphosed into a gallant," she whispered in a loud aside.

The fellows roared.

I looked steadily at them. More than one pair of eyes fell to occupy themselves with something beside myself.

"Yes," I retorted. "I would join her followers."

"Followers!" she repeated. "Ah, I see."

She stood up.

"Gentlemen," she cried, "permit me to introduce a confrere—Master Quentin Waters."

They all bowed with mock humility before me.

I humored her. Time enough to deal with them, and my face at the thought became darker than its own dark hue, as I returned their bows sternly.

"I am at a disadvantage," I said. "I apologize for my unceremonious entrance into your presence. Let thy beauty, which dazzles, plead my excuse."

"Ah, Cousin Raoul, a rival of thine in polite flatteries," she said. To me, "You are welcome. In a lady's train of 'followers' there is, I believe, always room for one more."

"In this case, though, Master Quentin Waters, the card is full," said Sir Raoul Dwight.

"That is for the lady to say," I replied, and looked at her.

Before she could answer the nearest fellow began:

"It seems to me I like not your tailor's fit; your coat does not hang to suit my eye."

"Your points are too dazzling bright; they glitter with an up-country newness," the next fellow took up the refrain.

"Your lacing goeth crookedly; it offends my eye," drawled the third.

"Why waste breath?" I cried. "It is more than enough."

I threw my gauntlet on the floor.

He who had begun the gibbering stooped to pick it up, but 'Cousin Raoul' stopped him.

"Nay, George, thou all-round fighter," said he, "'tis to me this game belongs."

He handed me my glove with the tip of his sword.

"I would have the pleasure, sir?" said he.

"It is mutual, sir," I replied. "Time and place?"

"Back of Montague house is a good place," he answered. "As for the time—there I must plead for indulgence. In less than an hour I am due at court, where his Majesty has commanded that I be in attendance to go on a three-days' trip up the country—after that—I am at your service the evening of the third day, and I do not think the few days waiting will render our meeting any the less joyful."

"Art satisfied?" burst in Mistress Rosemary Allyn, ready to shift the blame upon anyone's shoulders but where it belonged.

"No," I replied; "but three days hence I shall be." And I smiled at her.

"A brave man boasts not beforehand of what he thinks he may accomplish," she retorted.

"Nay, you misjudge me," I said. "The satisfaction lieth in the thought that I may even oblige Mistress Rosemary Allyn for once."

"You have obliged me before this," she murmured.

"If I have I knew it not," I interrupted.

"And she requires naught at your hands," she finished with a toss of her head.

"It would not belittle her to do so, since she accepts the services of such as these," I said, and confronting the men, I swept their faces with an insolent glance.

(To be continued.)

To Test Wool and Linen.

It often happens that woolen goods will be doctored with cotton. To discover this there are several tests that can be made. One is the match test. By applying a lighted match to a sample of the goods, the manner in which it burns will be evidence of its genuineness.

Wool will burn slowly, while cotton will go like a train of gunpowder. Another test is to unravel the threads and the cotton can then easily be detected.

To the experienced buyer the "feel" of linen is a sufficient indication of the quality, but for those who lack this knowledge there is an old-fashioned test which our grandmothers used which is unfailing to show if there is cotton in the wool. Dampen the finger and apply to the surface of the linen fabric. If the moisture is seen on the other side you may know at once it is linen. If it is slow in coming through, without doubt there is an admixture of cotton. Another method is to unravel the threads, as in the wool test.

Nations Quarrel Over Islands.

Australia is afraid that France will annex the New Hebrides islands, but there are many people living in these isles of the western Pacific who would be glad if they could be annexed by any power. For the blessings of rule under an Anglo-French convention are somewhat mixed. The Briton is forbidden by his own rulers from importing spirits, while the Frenchman does a merry trade, selling his liquid fire for substantial acres, thus gradually establishing his predominance over the fettered Anglo-Saxon. England has a historic claim to rule in these regions, for it was Capt. Cook, who, in 1773, gave the islands their name, under the belief that they were the most westerly isles in the Pacific.

MUCH TROUBLE; LITTLE SMOKE.

Chinaman Has His Own Way of Enjoying Tobacco.

Of all smokers the Chinaman goes to the greatest trouble and obtains the least result. "He carries," says an observer, "a little box almost twice the size of an ordinary silver cigarette case. This is half-filled with water. In one end is a removable tiny tube to serve as a pipe, at the other end is the pipe stem. First of all he takes out the tube and blows through it to remove all blockage. Then he fumbles through his awkward clothes, searching for tobacco, and produces a bit of rag in which it is wrapped. Carefully he extracts a wad of tobacco, puts away his rag and slowly plugs the tube, which holds, perhaps, the tenth part of an ordinary cigarette. But he never has any matches. So he has to borrow or hunt out a brown paper stem and light it—it glows for a long time and can be puffed into flame again. He gives a long draw, slowly enjoying it to its full extent for the moment or two, then back again through the old routine to find his tobacco, fill his pipe and get it lighted."

CONVICTIONS ARE OF VALUE.

Must Be Planted Deep if They Are to Hold and Influence.

Nobody who is endowed with a good mind and wants to live to his satisfaction can afford to neglect the acquirement of convictions, says Edward S. Martin in the Metropolitan. What are they? They ought to be opinions based on knowledge and definitely thought out. Practically they come in various ways—often by inheritance or as the result of early training; sometimes by association, sometimes from the automatic working of the mind during long periods when it is acquiring and sifting knowledge and experience. Sometimes, again, convictions seem to come suddenly, especially religious convictions, though there is usually a long process of preparatory thought behind them, and it is really only the final conclusion that is sudden. Deep convictions on any subject don't come ready-made. One has to work for them; to earn them. If they are to hold and to influence conduct, they must be planted deep.

Presents to Bible Society.

A number of curious presents have come to the Bible society in London. Gifts of embroidery to the value of over $150 have been received from native Christian women in Manchuria. From the New Hebrides, the Annetunese sent more than $30. These people manufacture arrowroot annually to pay for the bibles they need. About $15 was contributed in kind by the aborigines of Mapoon, North Queensland, who collected oysters for the purpose, as they have no money of their own. Even the Dyaks of Borneo sent a collection in to London, though in former days their fathers collected human heads much as American boys collect postage stamps.

Japanese Servants.

A traveler says that the Japanese servant is a person of social importance. In the absence of the mistress callers are entertained at tea by the housemaid, whose knowledge of the etiquette of tea drinking and whose grace and charm are often the equal of those of her employer.

A FELLOW FEELING.

Why She Felt Lenient Towards the Drunkard.

A great deal depends on the point of view. A good temperance woman was led, in a very peculiar way, to revise her somewhat harsh judgment of the poor devil who cannot resist his cups and she is now the more charitable. She writes:

"For many years I was a great sufferer from asthma. Finally my health got so poor that I found I could not lie down, but walked the floor whilst others slept. I got so nervous I could not rest anywhere.

"Specialists told me I must give up the use of coffee—the main thing that I always thought gave me some relief. I consulted our family physician, and he, being a coffee fiend himself, told me to pay no attention to their advice. Coffee had such a charm for me that in passing a restaurant and getting a whiff of the fragrance I could not resist a cup. I felt very lenient towards the drunkard who could not pass the saloon. Friends often urged me to try Postum, but I turned a deaf ear, saying, 'That may do for people to whom coffee is harmful, but not for me—coffee and I will never part.'

"At last, however, I bought a package of Postum, although I was sure I could not drink it. I prepared it as directed, and served it for breakfast. Well, bitter as I was against it, I must say that never before had I tasted a more delicious cup of coffee! From that day to this (more than two years) I have never had a desire for the old coffee. My health soon returned; the asthma disappeared, I began to sleep well and in a short time I gained 20 pounds in weight.

"One day I handed my physician the tablets he had prescribed for me, telling him I had no use for them. He stayed for dinner. When I passed him his coffee cup he remarked: 'I am glad to see you were sensible enough not to let yourself be persuaded that coffee was harmful. This is the best cup of coffee I ever drank,' he continued; 'the trouble is so few people know how to make good coffee.' When he got his second cup I told him he was drinking Postum. He was incredulous, but I convinced him, and now he uses nothing but Postum in his home and has greatly improved in health."

Cause of Mysterious Sounds.

There is an old superstition that pings sounds in a room foretell death. A correspondent suggests that the sounds are emitted from wooden furniture. "I have generally noticed," says, "that I heard them after a den change in the temperature of heat to cold. Heat causes furniture to expand and open the interstices the wood, which become filled with air. A sudden cooling, on the other hand, causes the wood to contract and the interstices then close, forcibly expel the air with these plosive sounds."

Sheep in Argentina.

Argentina has the greatest number of sheep of any country, but does relatively the least benefit from them. This is due, in part, to the quality having yet been sufficiently reduced due in part to negligence in the care of the sheep, and lastly to the prevalence of scab, the curing of which not been made obligatory. In Australia this disease was made compulsory thirty years ago.

BISHOP OWES HEALTH AND LIFE TO PE-RU-NA.

Ministers of All Denominations Join In Recommending Pe-ru-na to the People.

Public speaking especially exposes the throat and bronchial tubes to catarrhal affections. Breathing the air of crowded assemblies, and the necessary exposure to night air which many preachers must face, makes catarrh especially prevalent among their class. Peru-na has become justly popular among them.

The Friends of Pe-ru-na.
Despite the prejudices of the medical profession against proprietary medicines, the clergy have always maintained a strong confidence and friendship for Peru-na. They have discovered by personal experience that Peru-na does all that is claimed for it.

The Bishop's Strong Tribute to Pe-ru-na.
L. H. Halsey, Bishop C. M. E. Church, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I have found Peru-na to be a great remedy for catarrh. I have suffered with this terrible disease for more than twenty years, until since I have been using Peru-na, which has relieved me of the trouble. I have tried many remedies and spent a great deal of hard-earned money for them, but I found nothing so effectual in the cure of catarrh as the great medicine, Peru-na. I feel sure that Peru-na is not only a triumph of medical science, but it is also a blessing to suffering humanity. Every individual who suffers with respiratory diseases will find Peru-na a magnificent and sovereign remedy."—L. H. Halsey, Bp. C. M. E. Church.

Peru-na is the most prompt and sure remedy for catarrh that can be taken. Many a preacher has been able to meet his engagements only because he keeps on hand a bottle of Peru-na, ready to meet any emergency that may arise.

INDEPENDENCE AS A MYTH.

Idea is a Delusion Leading to Warring of Character.

John says: "I am not going to be dependent upon any man. I am going to live my own life, in my own way, as I expect other men to live theirs. If they will leave me alone, I will leave them alone," and John flatters himself that he is asserting his own strength of personality—that he is emphasizing his individuality, writes Annie Payson Call in Leslie's Monthly. The truth is that John is warping himself every day by his weak dependence upon his own prejudices. He is unwilling to look fairly at another man's opinion, for fear of being dependent upon it. He is not only warping himself by his "independence," which is puffed up with the false appearance of strength, but he is robbing his fellow men; for he cannot refuse to receive from others without putting it out of his own power to give to others. Real giving and receiving must be reciprocal in spirit, and absolutely dependent upon each other. It is a curious and a sad study to watch the growing slavery of such "independent" people.

NO POUltICES FOR SOLDIERS.

Revolutionary Decision Made by Army Physicians.

Linseed and linseed meal have been dropped from army medicals, and the army physicians have been notified that it is the opinion of the surgeon general's office that poultices have no place in modern therapeutics, all the good results obtainable from them being got in a much more cleanly way by hot wet compresses. The prohibition of the time-honored linseed meal, the best material for poultices, seems to interfere with a method practiced by a large number of physicians, who would be inclined to testify that without it our soldiers would not receive the best care. There is surely much to be said on both sides. The psychological effect at least of a poultice is entirely too great for a successful family physician to ignore, and why deprive the soldier of this old fashioned comfort?—Medical Record.

Years Beginning on Sunday.

In the course of the present century fourteen years will begin on Sunday. A painstaking individual has computed these occurrences, showing that in this century Jan. 1 will fall on Sunday as follows: The common years 1905, 1911, 1922, 1933, 1939, 1950, 1961, 1967, 1978, 1989 and 1995, and the leap years 1928, 1956 and 1984. This is a fraction less than the usual number computed in point of averages, the first and the last of the Sunday beginnings falling five years each from the close of the century. It is possible for Jan. 1 to occur on Sunday fifteen times in a single century.

Objected to Classification.

A clergyman in Dublin once invited several of his colleagues to dinner, but was disappointed at not getting an answer from a very popular clergyman, whom he particularly desired to be present, so he called on his friend, fearing he might be ill. "You received my invitation, I hope?" "Yes," replied the other, "I received your very insulting communication." "Insulting?" "Very. Read it for yourself." The amazed rector read it, and found that, by a truly clerical error, he had invited the clergyman to come and dine in order "to meet a few other clerical friends."

Formation of Peat.

Peat is the product which results from the partial decay of vegetable matter—mosses and other marsh plants—which grows and dies in boggy places where the water stands. It is chiefly composed of sphagnum or bog moss. This moss has peculiarly absorptive properties, owing to the cuplike arrangement of its parts, which take up and hold water like a sponge. Sphagnum continues to grow after its roots have become detached from the ground. These two qualities explain why bogs occasionally slide from their old beds.

Triumph of Good Manners.

Before the gentler measures of international high breeding the mischievous maxim, "Our Country, Right or Wrong," must increasingly give way, says the Century. Willingness to acknowledge a fault, disinclination to meddle in the affairs of others, sympathy for the weak against the oppressor, patience and reason as against petulance, rashness and force, are as possible to a nation as to an individual. A people should be as jealous of the national gentlemanliness as of the national credit.

The Too Strenuous Life.

"I am willing to go to jail or fishing with you if you can find my store without a customer from six to six any day in the year," said a merchant to a drummer, who asked for a moment of his time. But it is not well to live a life too strenuous—better hire another man or two and pass prosperity down the line rather than go to jail or die before your time. It is wise to fish occasionally. Dollars afford little consolation when aches fill your bones and there is no pleasure in meat or drink either.

Freaks of Fortune.

In January of last year a murderer named Helfert had just been sentenced in Moravia to penal servitude for life when he learned that he had won a prize of $10,000 in the state lottery, and a few weeks earlier Ernesto Hilar was buried in a pauper's grave at Barcelona on the very day on which a ticket found in his possession won a prize of $40,000 in the Spanish national lottery.

Sterilized Water for Navy.

Dr. Le Mehaute suggests that on French war vessels water that has been sterilized by heat should be substituted for the distilled water at present used, which, in his opinion, is open to many grave objections, including excessive costliness.

Armored Motor Car.

Heavy haulage work, such as that of stores, munitions and even heavy guns, is already done by motor in the Austrian army. Now the Austrians are going to have armored motor cars, each carrying a quick-firing gun.

Little Destitution in Japan.

There is said to be no real destitution in Japan. Though some are very poor, yet all seem to be well fed, clothed and housed and are invariably cheerful and what is more surprising invariably clean.

THERE IS JUST ONE SURE WAY.

Dodd's Kidney Pills build up Run-down People. They make healthy Kidneys and that means healthy people. What Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Duffey say:

Nora, Ind., Feb. 6th.—(Special)—That the sure way of building up run-down men and women is to put their kidneys in good working order is shown by the experience of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Duffey of this place. Both were weak and worn and dispirited. They used Dodd's Kidney Pills and to-day both enjoy the best of health.

Mr. Duffey says: "I was very weak and almost past going. I tried everything which people said was good but got no benefit till I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. They helped me in every way and I am strong and well now." Mrs. Duffey says: "I was so bad that if anybody would lay down a string I felt I could not step over it. Since taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I can run and jump fences."

Healthy kidneys insure pure blood; Dodd's Kidney Pills insure healthy kidneys.

Women in Our Hospitals

Appalling Increase in the Number of Operations Performed Each Year—How Women May Avoid Them.

Going through the hospitals in our large cities one is surprised to find such a large proportion of the patients lying on those snow-white beds women and girls, who are either awaiting or recovering from serious operations.

Why should this be the case? Simply because they have neglected themselves. Ovarian and womb troubles are certainly on the increase among the women of this country—they creep upon them unawares, but every one of those patients in the hospital beds had plenty of warning in that bearing-down feeling, pain at left or right of the womb, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back, leucorrhoea, dizziness, flatulency, displacements of the womb or irregularities. All of these symptoms are indications of an unhealthy condition of the ovaries or womb, and if not heeded the penalty has to be paid by a dangerous operation.

When these symptoms manifest themselves, do not drag along until you are obliged to go to the hospital and submit to an operation—but remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved thousands of women from surgical operations. When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating (or flatulency), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy.

The following letters cannot fail to bring hope to despairing women. Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "I was in a very serious condition when I wrote to you for advice. I had a serious womb and ovarian trouble and I could not carry a child to maturity, and was advised that an operation was my only hope of recovery. I could not bear to think of going to the hospital, so wrote you for advice. I did as you instructed me and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; and I am not only a well woman to-day, but have a beautiful baby girl six months old. I advise all sick and suffering women to write you for advice, as you have done so much for me."

Miss Ruby Mushrush, of East Chicago, Ind., writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "I have been a great sufferer with irregular menstruation and ovarian trouble, and about three months ago the doctor, after using the X-Ray on me, said I had an abscess on the ovaries and would have to have an operation. My mother wanted me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a last resort, and it not only saved me from an operation but made me entirely well."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best. Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice and medicine have restored thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

A JACKSON WOMAN

HAD ASTHMA 32 YEARS

Permanently Cured in One Week by a Prominent Jackson Physician, Who Says: He Can Cure Anyone Who has Asthma.

509 Two Ecks St., Jackson, Mich.
Dr. E. L. Wilkison, 25 Dwight Building, Jackson, Mich.

For the benefit of others suffering with asthma, I desire to make a statement. I have been troubled with asthma for over thirty years and the last four years I was very bad. The last year I had to sit up in a chair every night one-third of the time, and a part of the time the whole night. The month preceding my visit to you I had no rest at all and my heart acted so badly that I thought every night that I could not live until morning. I have been treated by several leading physicians of Jackson—on the whole, for two years and the others several months each—but I kept growing worse all the time. Some of them told me I could not get well and that I was likely to die soon.

I called on you May 21, 1903, and I have had no asthma whatever since the first week of treatment. You tell me that you have never given me one dose of regular asthma medicine. I don't know as to that but I do know that I am entirely different from that of any of the doctors who have treated me. I am strong now and do more work than I have done for many years. Neither night exposure, any kind of work, or anything I do brings on an attack of asthma. In fact I feel perfectly well and don't think the asthma will return if I obey your instruction.

MRS. CHARLES F. SALISBURY.

LATER

Jan. 21, 1905.
Since writing the above, more than a year since, I am still free from asthma and I have taken no medicine for many months. I still think that Dr. Wilkison can cure any case of asthma.

MRS. C. P. SALISBURY.

Wine of Cardui Cured Her.

213 South Prior Street, ATLANTA, GA., March 21, 1903.

I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite I became weak and lost my vitality. In three weeks I lost fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must find speedy relief to regain my health. Having heard of Wine of Cardui, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.

Manchester Enterprise: A funny incident occurred lately when one of our citizens, wishing a doctor, went to his residence during the night and rang the door bell. A few moments later, looking through the glass in the door, he saw the doctor at the telephone and heard him say, "Hello, what do you want?" He replied and the doctor answered, still talking through the 'phone, "I'll be right over." The doctor, being awakened from sleep, thought he heard the telephone bell when it was the door bell.

Public is Aroused.

The public is aroused to a knowledge of the curative merits of that great medical tonic, Electric Bitters, for sick stomach, liver and kidneys. Mary H. Walters, of 546 St. Clair avenue, Columbus, O., writes: "For several months I was given up to die. I had fever and ague, my nerves were wrecked; I could not sleep, and my stomach was so weak from useless doctor's drugs that I could not eat. Soon after beginning to take Electric Bitters I obtained relief and in a short time I was entirely cured." Guaranteed at Glazier & Stinson's drug store; price 50c.
