The democratic board of supervisors of Washtenaw had appointed as one of the auditors Wm. Bacon, of Chelsea, who, though a republican, voted for Ferris, so it is alleged. There was no way of punishing Bacon except to legislate the whole board out of existence, able to get a republican nomination.

Secretary Baker, of the state board of health, has prepared a circular of the relations of preventable diseases and taxation, which is now receiving wide circulation and which gives some startling figures regarding the expense to the public of the restriction of Kalamazoo, but applying the ratio for the rest of the state, it has been found that in 1903 the total expense of the care of the indigent sick with contagions diseases was $269,500. Ontside of the cities named it cost $118,149 for the care of smallpox patients, $24,000 for diptheria patients, $18,000 in scarlet fever cases, $10,000 in typhoid fever, $2,500 in measles, $1,112 in consumption, and $46,000 in diseases not specified. Mr. Baker figured out the number of lives saved through efforts to prevent the spread of diseases and reached some interesting conclusions.

THE CROP REPORT.

According to the crop report issued by the secretary of state last Friday wheat on the ground suffered very little during the month of January. The ground was well covered with snow during the month, affording ample protection to the wheat. A few correspondents report that some damage may have been done by ice, while others are of the opinion that the crust was beneficial in preventing the snow from being blown off the fields. Four-fifths of the correspondents reported that no damage was done to the crop.

Live stock throughout the state is reported in very good condition. The condition in the state of horses is 95 per cent; cattle 93; sheep 96, and swine, 94.

PATENTS.

The report of the commissioner of patents for 1904 shows that American inventors were very busy during the year. There were 52,143 applications for patents, an increase of nearly 2,000 over 1903 and 20,824 patents and designs issued, 110 patents reissued, 2,158 trade marks, 1,114 labels, and 297 prints regopulation than to those of any other state; one to every 1,097 per

As for Kate, when she was with Dick her fancy wandered to Rufus, and she vanished in the darkness. and when in the presence of the latter she longed for the former. Her fickle fancy wavered like a weathercock until one day after witnessing Rufus conquer an unmanageable horse, she flew in fear to the willing, open arms of Dick. When Rufus heard of their engagement, he became gloomy and morose and swore to himself that he would still woo and win Kate.

Judge Laurel, father of the fair Kate, frowned upon the attachment and forbade Dick the house. To complicate matters, war with Spain was declared and Dick and Rufus, who were sergeants in the National Guard, must perforce serve their country. They marched away with their company to join the regiment at a rendezwous camp, leaving Kate disconsolate. One day when her father was absent from home, she went to the camp and spent a sadly happy day with Dick.

"Kate," he said, when bidding her good-bye, "why can't we be married before I go to war? Then nothing could part us. Will you, Kate?"

Kate would, and they arranged that a week from that night she should come to the little town near camp. Dick would get a few hours' and meet her there with a minister | Kate." and a license. "Dick," she half whispered. "Kate, darling!" he replied in a perfect imitation of his brother's dul-

I am mighty glad now that I was sick. I would have had my journey for nothing, and I wouldn't have had Rufus kiss me for the world. Its a wonder you didn't know him. I would have known Dick, but then, of course, I would.

Dick's regiment never saw actual service, and was mustered out six months after muster in, but Dick won lieutenant's straps and the judge's favor. That, winter Dick and Kate entered into the felicity of domesticity, and began life in a cottage of modest appointments, but of roseatehued atmosphere.

Lena was the first person Rufus visited on his return, and she anxiously awaited his coming.

"You thought you were stealing Dick from Kate, and I thought I was taking her from him," said Rufus bluntly. "We were both fooled. No one knows it but you and I, and no one ever will. The marriage is illegal, because the license was made out for Kate, and you responded in her name. If it's annulled, it can't be done without more or less publicity. There's but one way to make it straight, and that is for us to marry -under right names this time. We can't have our first choice, either of us, so we might as well take second." Lena reflected and consented.

Fearful Engines of Destruction. Hand grenades and bombs were used with terrific effect at the capture of the 203-Meter hill, Port Arthur. Their use was contrary to the spirit of the international rule which forbids the cruelty of the dum-dum bullets. Certain other engines of war have been rejected by civilized nations, however, in times gone by, because they were too destructive and too horrible. England has still in keeping a secret war plan of the tenth earl of Dundonald which the authorities rejected because, while it was infallible, it was too inhuman to use by man against man. Even Louis XV. of France had backbone enough to refuse Dupre's terrible invention. If the story of this discovery be true, the plan was to create by a secret process a conflagration whose intensity was but increased by water. It would burn town or fleet. Louis refused to have the secret published and it went down to the grave with Dupre

Heir to Great Income.

The young heir to the Duke of Westminster, if he lives, will be one of the wealthiest men in Great Britain. His income will be more than a million and a quarter dollars a year. He will inherit, among other possessions, 30,-000 acres, including 600 acres of the most valuable land in the West End of London, which, as years go on and leases fall in, increases constantly in value. There are also 29,400 acres waiting for him in the country.

RHEUMATISM IN TWO SEVERE CASES MASTERED IN FEW WEEKS.

The Remedy Used by Mr. Schroeppel and by Captain Lalfour in Great Demand in Vicinity of Their Homes.

In the winter of 1902-3 Mr. Schroeppel was confined to his bed by a severe attack of rheumatism. His doctor's treatment proved unsuccessful, but he subsequently regained his health by means which he describes with great enthu-

"After five or six weeks of helplessness and pain," said he, "during which I was receiving regular visits from the doctor, I felt as bad as ever. Just then my mother, a woman eighty years of age, paid me a visit. She had received great benefit from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and she was confident they would help me. At her solicitation I gave up the doctor's treatment and took the pills in its place."

"And were you cured as the result of taking her advice?"

"Yes, quickly and thoroughly. Before the second box was finished I felt very manifest improvement, and within two weeks I was able to leave my bed and take up my neglected farm work. I continued to use the pills, however, until eight boxes had been taken, although long before that I felt that every vestige of the disease had been eradicated. "Are there no traces left?"

"Absolutely none. For a year and three months there has never been the slightest return of the old trouble. For this happy result I and my family freely praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

PANAMA CLIMATE NOT DEADLY. Temperature and Rainfall Not Worse Than in the United States.

There is a widespread belief that the climate of Panama is so fatal that the construction of the canal can only be accomplished at an enormous sacrifice of human life. Both malaria and yellow fever may be said to be to-day practically under control, and these are the two diseases, says the Scientific American, which are most to be dreaded when the great construction camps are assembled and into the air, as though snapping at work is in full swing throughout the whole length of the canal. According to Gen. Abbott, the records of the hospital of the old Panama canal company show that the total death rate among the laborers was far less than is commonly supposed, being in fact from 44 to 67 per 1,000. It seems, moreover, that the rainfall has been the subject of as gross exaggeration as the diseases. It varies from about 130 inches on the Atlantic the hand of his Highland lassie that to sixty-five inches on the Pacific, a record that can be duplicated in the United States, where the average rainfall on the Atlantic coast is about fifty inches and the fall on portions urally attracted a great deal of attention. blend into cries of alarm—yes, even of the other door and compare notes of the Pacific coast compares in total one of Mr. S. the situation. SLOWEST OF ALL ANIMALS.

Gcientists Unanimously Award Palm to the Loris.

Scientists say that the slowest-moving mammal in existence is the slowpaced loris, an animal more or less closely allied to the monkeys. Its technical name is "nycticibus tardigradus," the last part of which might be translated "lazy-footed." One of them, when timed, took exactly thirtytwo minutes and three seconds in moving across a space of four feet toward a roach that it was endeavoring to capture. The animal belonged to an Asiatic genus that extends from Java and Sumatra through Borneo and quite possibly some of the Philippine islands, through parts of Hindustan. When its progress was timed, it advanced "within ten or twelve inches of its quarry, rested upon its hands, drew its hind feet gradually forward until almost under its breast, very slowly and cautiously raised itself upright into a standing position, balancing awkwardly with uplifted arms, and then threw itself bodily-not upon the insect, which was off like an arrow from a Tartar's bow, but upon the spot the roach had occupied half a seca ! before."

Strengthening the Nerves. Self-control or nerve force is the great lesson of health, and, therefore, of life itself. To understand how to relax is to understand how to strengthen nerves. Hearty laughter is a source of relaxation, as are also all high thoughts, as those of hope, beauty, trust or love. Relaxation is found in diversion. An occasional outing or holiday is necessary. WHY NOT BUILD LINE? Why don't someone build an electric line from Adrian to Chelsea passing through Tecumseh, Clinton and Manchester? Such a line would be more practical than any of those that have been projected as it would pass through three good towns and the richest farming country in southern Michigan. It would connect at Chelsea with one of Inspector Machem was in Manchester | the best electric lines in the state, giving east or west. It would be a trifle further for Adrian and Tecumseh passengers than a line direct to Ann Arbor but the advantage of the western connection would ove come that. We had the promise of the Boland company that they would build a line south, as a feeder to their road and the new or consolidated company will do well to look into this scheme at once for if they once get a line built as above mentioned the prospects for another line would be very slim .-Manchester Enterprise.

THE LEGISLATURE.

No bill to pay the legislators he fixed alary instead of per diem has made its appearance in either house this year, though it has been the custom in former sessions to at least vote down any such proposition, chiefly because the salary proposed was not blg enough, or if it were big enough it would look too big to bservant constituents.

There was no quorum in the senate this morning and hardly enough votes in the house to do business. The representatives worked less than an hour and passed some minor measures.

Half a dozen bills were introduced. including one by Turner to allow an appeal to the circuit court from the order of a township board on the improvement of highways; by Brockway, to provide for the determination of the personal liability of defendants in suits of chancery to foreclose mortgages by the original decree in such suit; by Agens, to provide for the filing of all contract notes, title notes and notes of writings signed by the purchaser of personal property, retaining title to such property or a lien thereon in the seller for the purchase price thereof, and making the same subject to the statute rela-78 years. Burying Place Without Bodies.

The Congressional cemetery is situated in the southeastern section of Washington, almost in the shadow of the United States capitol, and a large portion of it is a burying place without bodies, a city of the dead without inhabitants, under whose streets of tombs and memorial stones only memories are interred. On the shafts of marble and sandstone and granite are graven the names of some of the nation's most illustrious dead, but their ashes do not rest under the monuments that bear their names.

The cemetery was founded by congress at the close of the eighteenth century, in a moment of temporary legislative insanity, and the long rows of cenotaphs are in memory of those members of the national legislature who died in office and whose remains | Tomb of a Famous Family. are buried elsewhere.

The oldest stone bears the date of 1798, and is "Sacred to the Memory Carolina," and the most recent addition to the long collection of tenanthonor and respect to the memory of able that any more cenotaphs will be added to the number already in the was founded, congress immediately stones were never accurately and completely kept.

The inscriptions on all of the stones are similar in form and equally remarkable for lack of detail. One is "Sacred to the Memory of John Quincy Adams, a Representative of Massachusetts." In fact, only a very few of the modest epitaphs give the date of birth, and on one or two of them the date of death is not even filled in. Two neighboring stones honor the memory of Henry Clay and John C. Calboun, the greatest legislators of their day and generation.

QUEEN BEES WORTH $200 EACH

Some of the Italian Insects Are Extremely Valuable.

Just as there are valuable strains in horses, cattle and other stocks, so there are varieties of queen bees which are worth many hundred times their weight in gold. The most valuable strain, says the New York Herald, is the Italian, and many Italian bee farmers demand and receive without question prices ranging from $50 to $200 for a single queen bee of a certain kind. Such bees are sent all or are sent away to shows. Health is over the world.

Healthy birds do not need in some cases the poison in the sting a stimulant more than a human being

Absolute cleanliness is the first requisite for health and next comes freedom from lice and mites. The health of the fowls should be further protected by not introducing into the flock birds that are not known to be absolutely healthy. It would be well for every poultry raiser to have a building separate from others in which to keep for some weeks new birds purchased.

Soft Feeds.

Soft feed is a bone of contention between the raisers of poultry. Some of the poultry journals take the position that a soft feed is always harmful, while others are just as sure that it it is less necessary to those birds that have green stuff, with chopped roots and large quantities of table scraps in winter.

The object of the soft feed is to lessen the tax on the digestive organs, where the birds would otherwise have to digest whole grain. In a state of nature birds do not have to fill up on grain entirely. The birds of the air do indeed eat a great deal of such grain as rice, but they are using their wings so much that the expenditure of muscle force is great, which is not the case with our domestic fowls.

Where soft feeds are fed it is better not to use one kind of feed all the turn such feeds as pea meal, oat meal, chopped feed, middlings and bran.

Fowls Like Variety.

The best results in feeding fowls can be obtained by giving them a variety of food and the greater the variety the better. Most of our fowls have too little variety in the winter. In the summer they get the variety in their own foraging expeditions in the field, the garden and the orchard.

Climate has the effect of modifying all forms of life. This is illustrated as fully in the development of breeds of poultry as elsewhere.

G EORGE MASHINGTON

Rev. Theodosius Staige, a famous minister in the early days of Virginia, and who was at that very time rector of a church in St. George's parish, a few miles from Fredericksburg.

On first coming to Virginia Rev. James Marye became the minister of a settlement of Huguenots at Manaean, or Manakinton, in Goochland (now Powhatan county), on the James he returned to his mother and attendriver, above Richmond, and so excellent was his reputation that the good people of Fredericksburg desired him for a rector. Accordingly, in 1735, as shown by the early vestry book, the church wardens asked leave of Gov. Gooch, as was the colonial custom, to call Rev. James Marye to their pulpit. This request was granted, and in October of the same year he assumed charge of St. George's parish, the principal church of which was in Ffedericksburg, succeeding Rev. Patrick Henry, uncle of the famous orator of that name. Thus began the long and eventful pastorate of the Marye family over this historic church, the first Rev. James Marye serving for thirty-four years, and being followed by his son, Rev. James Marye, Jr., who ministered until his death, in 1780. As was the custom of clergyman in those days, the first Rev. JUDICIAL CONVENTION.

There will be a republican convention held at the court house in the city of Ann Arbor, on Monday, February 20, 1905, at 11 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for circuit judge of the twenty-second judicial circuit, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention. To this convention the county of Washtenaw is entitled to twenty-one delegates.

GEO. S. VANDAWARKER, Chairman of Republican Co. Com. FRANK CREECH, Sec'y.

THE STORM.

Tuesday morning when the citizens of this village left their homes for their places of business and the shops where many are employed, it was to brave a severe wind from the southwest, and the mercury being anywhere from 16 to 20 below zero. They were all looking for the man who earlier in the season predicted a mild winter, to denounce him as a false prophet. The cold blast so far this week was one that reached from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast. and even residents of the sunny south suffered as much as those in the north.

The weather reminds one of the days that the old inhabitants speak of so often, and has caused the smile on the faces of the coal and wood dealers to

The highways in the rural districts were nearly all drifted full, and unless it was absolutely necessary the farmers almost to a man remained near the fireside at their homes.

The four rural mail carriers from the Chelsea postoffice started out over their routes Tuesday morning but not one of them was able to cover his entire territory, and when they did return to the postoffice it was several hours later than

The storm of Monday and Tuesday proved to be a rather serious problem for the management of the D., Y., A. A. & J. to solve. Tuesday morning at 2 o'clock two of their cars became snowbound just east of the waiting room and it took all of the forenoon to get the snow plow through so that they could be released, and it was well toward the middle of the afternoon before the employees of the company got the tracks cleared between here and Jackson so that traffic could be resumed.

The Michigan Central did not experience quite so much difficulty, but their trains were all running a long way off from the usual schedule time.

Rev. E. E. Caster, who spent the flast week at Medina assisting his son, Rev. meetings, encountered a rather unpleasant experience on his return home. He left there Monday morning and reached here late Tuesday afternoon. The storm of Monday covered the tracks with driftthe railway employees to make any headway with the train. About 6 o'clock in the evening the train reach Clark's lake near Jackson, where it became stalled in a snow drift from 10 to 12 feet in depth, and the trainmen had to telegraph to Hudson for another engine and a crew of men to assist in releasing them from their precarious condition, which was accomplished after several hours of hard labor, with the mercury close to the 20 mark below zero. After being released they resumed their journey and went about a mile further when the wheels refused to move again and this time help was sent from Jackson, which city they reached at 9:30 Tuesday morning. The passengers aboard the belated train suffered considerably toward morning from the cold.

Thirty-three picked men from the four companies of the first regiment at Fort Wayne left Detroit Wednesday morning for Canton, Ohio to mount guard for two months at the tomb of the late President McKinley. They will relieve an almost equal number from the same regiment now stationed at Canton. The men left Detroit in charge of a sergeant, and in Canton will be under command of THE REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

FARM ANIMALS IN THE U.S. The chief of the bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture has completed his estimate of the number and value of farm animals in the United States on January 1, 1905.

The report shows that the number o horses in the country are valued at $1,200,210,020. Cows $482,272,203, and other cattle at $661,571,368.

That there has been a material reduction in the number of sheep during the year, together with a slight increase in the numbers of all other farm animals, admits, however, of no doubt.

The panels were graduated and continued above the waist in Princess form to a fitted girdle effect enclosing a blouse of the blue, with an Eton of the check caught with straps and buttons across the front, and the short open bell sleeve strapped in the same way. This is a suggestive design, and might be made useful in remodeling a costume, a process which is, alas, a necessity with a great many vomen whose means do not permit as many changes as Dame Fashion exacts.

As will be seen in our illustrations, the new walking suits are very smart; although the lines are simple, the treatment lifts them from the commonplace into an atmosphere of distinction. Take the "wooltex" suit, showing one of the simplest forms of the new cape; the wide cape effect over the shoulders and the ripple below it are lined with gray taffeta, though some of the more elaborate models show this lining of chiffon. Mr. Fitz Brown was becoming very nervous and the conductor was waiting in stony silence to be paid, when a good- ago. natured individual, observing the stranger's dilemma, said heartily: "Come off without your money, eh? Do it myself somtimes. Let me pay it for you, sir," and as he spoke the modern good Samaritan handed the conductor two pence. Adolphus thanked the gentleman and insisted upon taking his name and address, which he wrote upon his shirt cuff, "M. Fortescue, 106 North Bank ! street, St. John's Wood." Mr. Fitz Brown was at one time quite in the habit of using his shirt cuff for a memorandum. He has relinquished the habit doing my duty and saving the lives of of late.

Now, Adolphus was an author, and the business which took him to the city was Adolphus, simply. connected with a forthcoming publication. Arriving at his publishers', he was politely informed that the member of the firm whom he wished to see had been compelled to go out of town. "Would Mr. Fitz Brown kindly call at 4 on the next Wednesday?" Certainly he would and could. And down went another note on his cuff.

Walking thence to his banker's hardby, he paid in checks to the amount of some £50 and drew out a £5 note for petty cash. But as he was about to retire, a faultlessly attired individual emerged from some inner sanctum and reminded him that his account was overdrawn to the extent of £100. "Gracious," said Adolphus, "I have just paid in 50 and I will certainly pay in 25 more on Thursday without fail."

He registered the vow in his usual way and then repaired to his club for dinner. In the smoking room he encoun-tered his old friend Stebbins, a man he tered his old friend Stebbins, a man he had not seen for years, and who informed him that his eldest daughter was to be be a murderer?" she cried. A week later Mr. Fitz Brown was standing on Tower Hill awaiting Humes, when a well-known voice struck upon his ear. It was the same voice that had bidden him dress for dinner only seven days

"What, you here, Edith?" said the astonished novelist. "What can this mean?" "It means," said she, as she led her husband away, "that I have under providence been the means of preventing a great crime. I am, I know, too late to prevent a great wrong."

"Explain yourself, Edith," expostulated Adolphus, "I am here on business." "I do not doubt," replied his wife, bitterly, "that you may seek in oplum an anodyne for your corroded conscience, but that shall not prevent me from my innocent children."

"I really do not understand you," said "I have just come from North Bank-

Although the extreme softness of the favored materials makes featherbone or haircloth necessary to hold up the puffs of sleeves and keep the voluminous skirts from hanging uncomfortably around the feet, not a sign of any such support is visible in the finished garments; in the sleeves especially the Parisian modistes use these extensions with such cleverness that there is no unnatural bulging, the merely preventing a sagging which would ruin the effect.
