JUDGE KINNE RENOMINATED.

Vote Was Unanimous. There Is But Little Doubt of His Election.

Hon. Edward D. Kinne was renominated for circuit judge by the Republican judicial convention of Washtenaw county held at Ann Arbor Saturday, by unanimous vote.

John Lawrence proposed Judge Kinne's name and Frank Jones seconded the nomination and moved that it be made unanimous. The motion was put to vote and carried unanimously.

In accepting the nomination Judge Kinne said in part: "I am very much happier here at home living in the most beautiful and delightful city in the state—among the people with whom I have associated all the years of my active life, than I could possibly be at Lansing, and such an honor as you have so generously awarded me here today is more distinguished than any honor enjoyed by any member of the supreme bench of the state."

There is but little doubt that Judge Kinne will be elected to succeed himself. He is one of the best men on the judicial bench in Michigan.

THE FARMERS' CLUB.

Cold, Unsettled Weather Caused a Slim Attendance.

The February meeting of the Western Washtenaw Union Farmers' Club held with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fish Friday was notable for the lack of members in active farm life who attended it. The entire male attendance consisted of four preachers, four retired farmers, a newspaper man, and last, but not least, an undertaker. All the ladies, too, were from town. The cause of all this was the terrible state of the roads and the threatening weather. Even the most faithful of the farmer members, in point of attendance, did not dare to venture out. But everybody present had a good time just the same. The usual good dinner was served, and after a season of visiting, an impromptu program, consisting of speeches by Revs. E. E. Caster, G. W. Gordon and P. M. McKay, and singing by Miss Edith Lawrence, of Sharon, was carried out. The regular program was left untouched.

Lafayette Grange Meetings.

A special meeting of Lafayette Grange will be held with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fletcher, Friday evening, Feb. 24. All officers and members are requested to be present to prepare for the next regular meeting.

The regular meeting of Lafayette Grange will be held Wednesday, March 1, at 10 o'clock a. m. at the G. A. R. hall, Chelsea. Miss Bess Gunnison, the special deputy, will be present on that day and instruct the Grange in the work. Every member is requested to be present and the officers would be pleased to see members of other Granges there also.

Any member not at present an officer having a ritual is requested to return them at or before the next meeting.

Teachers' Examinations.

School Commissioner Foster wishes to announce to the teachers of Washtenaw county that the next examination will be held at Ann Arbor, March 9 and 10. Applicants may write for first, second and third grade certificates.

Reading will be based upon "Silas Marner," George Eliot. Theory and art of study will be based upon "Art of Study," Hinsdale.

Dr. P. H. Hughes, mayor of Leamington, Ont., and Alderman Barker, of the same place, called on the Ypsilanti city officials Friday to get some information regarding electric railroad franchises. Some parties want to build an electric line from Windsor to Leamington and the people of the latter place want to secure all the rights coming to them.

NAMED THE OLD BOARD.

Democratic County Convention Nominates Candidates for Board of Auditors.

The Democrats of Washtenaw gathered at the court house, Ann Arbor, Tuesday, in county convention. S. W. Beakes was chairman and S. W. Millard secretary. The most significant action of the convention was the unanimous protest against the Glazier bill which, when signed by the governor, makes the board of county auditors an elective body instead of an appointive one. The protest was in the form of the unanimous election of J. D. Ryan, of Ann Arbor, J. E. McGregor, of Ypsilanti, and Wm. Bacon, of Chelsea, the two Democrats and one Republican, who formed the old board, to make the run at the spring election. The delegates chosen were as follows:

Judicial—M. J. Cavanaugh, Philip Blum, E. B. Norris, J. W. Dwyer, Thos. D. Kearney, W. G. Doty, B. F. Schumacher, Jas. Finell, W. H. Murray, Walter Dancer, Ann Arbor; Chas. Braun, W. S. Smith, Ann Arbor town; J. D. O'Brien, Walter Mason, Augusta; Bert B. Turnbull, Sylvan; E. R. Twist, Superior; Dr. Wade, Freedom; John P. Kirk, Warren H. Smith, Ypsilanti.

MOTHER GOOSE NIGHT.

Ladies' Research Club Members Became Girls Again Just for a Night.

One of the jolliest and pleasantest evenings that the Chelsea Ladies' Research Club has enjoyed this season was the Mother Goose night at the home of Mrs. J. George Webster Monday evening. Twenty-two of the members were present and nearly all of them were in costume.

There was Mother Goose, Old Mother Hubbard, the old woman who rode the broomstick, Topsy and Peter, a prince and princess, little Lord Fauntleroy, besides several little boys and girls (at least their dress and actions betokened them to be such). It was a merry crowd and the evening was spent in games, a peanut hunt, a guessing contest, etc.

The hostess served dainty refreshments which were heartily enjoyed. The dining table was very prettily decorated in red. Red streamers depended from the ceiling to each corner of the table and a festoon of American flags hung in the center. Wax candles in red shaded candlesticks ornamented the table and sideboard and a bouquet of red carnations graced the center of the table.

It was a tired but happy party that separated for home about 11 o'clock.

The Late Dr. Samuel DuBois.

Dr. Samuel DuBois, of Unadilla, died at his home in that place Saturday, Feb. 18, after a lingering illness, in his 80th year. The funeral services were held at the Methodist church, Unadilla, Monday, and were largely attended. Rev. G. W. Gordon conducted the services.

Dr. DuBois was an old pioneer of Unadilla. He was essentially a self-made man, having acquired the necessary education to enter the medical department of the U. of M., from which he graduated in 1855, entirely by his own efforts. In that graduation he was the equal of the best man in the class, who had had all the necessary advantages to secure a good education.

After graduation he settled in Unadilla and for 50 years has been known as a well grounded medical practitioner.

CUT IN RAILROAD TAXES AS EXPLAINED BY A COMMISSIONER.

A FORMER BATTLE CREEK LAWYER TO BE PROSECUTED FOR MURDER.

SAGINAW BAY FISHERMEN ARE IN GREAT PERIL ON THE ICE.

Mr. McLaughlin Explains Why the Remarkable Cut in Railroad Assessments Was Made.

Tax Commissioner McLaughlin, of Muskegon, in a long interview gave his position in the matter of the reduction of the railroad assessment at the last meeting of the state tax commission, at which he and Mr. Dost were said to have voted for the cut. Mr. McLaughlin claims that neither Mr. Dost or himself had much to say in the meeting and were forced to acquiesce or have the roll cut much lower. Their objections were overruled in every case and it was only after much acrimonious debate and ill-feeling that the total was finally adjusted. Whatever they had to say on the subject was promptly overruled, however, and they were forced to consent to almost all the demands of the majority to prevent the roll being reduced much further.

Mr. McLaughlin says: "We accepted the situation and took the best we could get, we compromised, split the difference, and finally agreed to agree and all signed the roll at 208 million, which was presented for review. The roll was signed January 13, and we heard complaints and objections until February 15. The final amount reached by a majority vote was $195,000,000. Much has been made of the fact that on January 15 figures were agreed to by all the members of the board. They were, but in many cases they were compromises, agreed to keep valuations from going still lower, in some cases very much lower, and they never would have received even our qualified approval had we not understood that there would be no attempt to lower them still further on review."

Proven to Be Mains.

Through the indefatigable efforts of Allen Weir, formerly secretary of state of Washington, and a prominent lawyer of Seattle, the Robert Ball who killed William Deppe on Fox Island, in Alaska, January 2 last, has been proven to be Charles R. Mains, the former noted Battle Creek lawyer. Weir has been hunting up Mains' career for several months, finally writing there to George W. Mechem, the former law partner of the late Steven S. Hulbert. Mechem forwarded to Weir descriptions and photographs of Mains, with a history of his career in Michigan. He has heard from Weir, who states that the photographs had arrived and that Robert Ball was certainly Charles R. Mains. He says that he has been working for months to run him to earth, and that he is not surprised at the result, as he had sized up Mains properly when he first saw him. Mains' wife and two sons live in Seattle, while Mains has been promoting a company to quarry marble in Alaska.

Fishermen's Serious Situation.

Anxiety is felt for the fishermen at the ice fishing village on Saginaw bay. Attempts to reach the fishermen, for the most part from ten to fifteen miles from shore, have been fruitless, owing to the huge drifts of snow piled across the ice like mountain ranges, and it is believed the fishermen will suffer from lack of provisions and fuel. Attempts to reach the imperilled men with food and fuel on Saturday were fruitless. As nothing has been heard from them for a week, it is presumed they have been unable to come through the drifts. To add to the seriousness of the situation, a number of new cracks in the ice have been encountered by men attempting to reach the village.

Who Is Wayne County's Sheriff?

The long drawn-out contest in Detroit over the question of ex-Coroner John T. Hoffmann, who was convicted in the Recorder's court of a felony, assuming the office of sheriff to which he was elected in November, has ended so far as Hoffmann is concerned by his removal from office by the governor. Hoffmann was an inmate of the county jail under the conviction in the Recorder's court, but had named his brother as undersheriff, which will bring on another legal battle on the claim that the undersheriff becomes sheriff when a vacancy occurs.

Pleads Guilty.

Mrs. C. A. Joslyn, charged with poisoning her husband, changed her plea of not guilty before Judge West in Mason Wednesday to guilty. So faint was the woman's response that no one in the court room was able to hear it, and her attorney, L. T. Hemans, had to repeat the word before the judge understood. Testimony was taken to determine the degree of guilt, and she was remanded for sentence. The trial of her paramour, Swan, began Thursday and will be bitterly fought.

The Montague creditors held a meeting at Caro to discuss the selling of 4,000 acres of land turned over to them by Charles Montague a year ago. The plan is to sell the land at auction, allowing the full claim of any of the creditors to go in payment on any parcel they may desire to purchase.

Mail Carrier Joseph Haas crossed on the ice from South Manitou Island to Glen Haven on Wednesday. This is the first time that the island has had mail since the stopping of the mail boat by the ice December 30. The island, however, has telephonic communication by means of the cable laid this fall.

Luck struck two bidders at the auction sale of unclaimed packages by the American Express Co. at Battle Creek. J. W. Kenney bought an old trunk for a small sum and found among usable clothing an old sock containing $165. Lewis D. Batt paid $250 for an old trunk and found in it $150 in a tin box.

Henry H. Jordan, of Grand Rapids, has been cited for contempt of court for outlying divorce proceedings for his wife and offering her $650 if she could secure it on his outline. Judge Wolcott discovering the collusion, has set aside the decree. The money which Jordan had put in the bank for his wife was taken out just before she called for it.

Seizing a hatchet, Mrs. Walter D. Groves, wife of a Kalamazoo mail carrier, chopped her left arm off. She was found unconscious by her daughter Irene, aged 14, lying on the floor in a pool of blood. She died in a few hours. Mrs. Groves was a former asylum inmate. She was 44 years of age, and leaves a husband and five children.

John Randall, a farmer living near Otisville, was the victim of a peculiar accident while in Flat. He indulged in an old-fashioned yawn, when his jaw slipped out of place, and all efforts on his part to get it back failed. Three doctors "fixed" him.

MEMORIAL SERVICE OVER THE REMAINS OF THE IIATED SERGIUS.

LIFE OF THE DOWAGER EMPRESS NOW THREATENED BY THE REVOLUTIONISTS.

THE CZAR AND IMPERIAL FAMILY REMAINED AWAY FROM SERVICE.

The Body of the Dead Duke Rested on a Silver Bier, With Gold Pall and Numerous Decorations.

Grand Duke Sergius, governor-general of Moscow, uncle of the czar and the worst hated man in Russia, was assassinated at 3 p. m. Friday in Moscow.

While he was driving Friday from the Nicholas palace through the senate quarter, his carriage was followed by two cabs. At the law courts a sleigh in which were two men, one of whom was dressed as a workman, went quickly ahead of the grand duke's carriage. The sleigh then slowed up to allow the carriage to pass and at that moment a bomb was thrown beneath the carriage.

The force of the explosion broke all the windows of the law courts and the report was heard outside of the city. The carriage was blown to pieces, nothing but the four wheels remaining. The horses were not hurt and boited.

The grand duke was instantly killed. His head was blown off, actually being separated from his body. The coachman was also killed. He was so frightfully burned by the explosive with which the bomb was charged that he died while being taken to a hospital. On the arrest of the murderers, neither of whom was known to the police, one of them coolly said: "I don't care. I have done my job."

An immense crowd gathered at the spot and made a demonstration against a number of students who commenced scattering revolutionary proclamations.

Within a few minutes after the explosion people were gathering up pieces of wood and clothing as mementoes of the tragedy.

A memorial service Saturday at the Alexier church of the Tschu monastery in Moscow was attended by Grand Duchesses Elizabeth and Maria and Grand Dukes Constantine and Dimitri, all the high civil and military officials, representatives of the municipality and zemstvos and of different classes of society and the foreign consuls. The body of Grand Duke Sergius was in an oak coffin with silver eagles at its head and foot. It stood on a silver bier among a mass of growing palms. There were two wreaths on the casket, one from Grand Duchess Elizabeth and the other from the late grand duke's suite. The coffin was half covered by a grand ducal pall of gold embroidery with ermine and the grand duke's decorations are arranged on either side of the casket in order of precedence.

The Czar Was Cautious.

A solemn state requiem mass for the repose of the soul of Grand Duke Sergius was celebrated at St. Isaac's church, at which the Metropolitan of St. Petersburg officiated, and the representatives of the foreign powers, the ministers and other dignitaries were present in full uniform, but not a single member of his imperial family attended.

Czar's Mother Threatened.

According to reports in circulation, the empress mother has received a threatening letter warning her that she will be the next victim. This is only one of the many rumors afloat, among which is that at a meeting of the grand dukes it was unanimously decided to withdraw all opposition to the assembling of a zemsky sobor and to recommend its immediate summoning by the emperor.

The Senate Must Recede.

The house has determined not to accept the senate amendments to the agricultural bill known as the Hansbrough amendment, which provides that the drawback clause of the Dingley tariff schedule shall not apply to Canadian wheat, thus overturning the recent decision of the treasury department. Speaker Cannon has decided that the senate exceeded its authority, and said it must cut out the amendment before the house can act on the bill. He regards it as an attempt of the senate to originate revenue legislation, which the senate has no power to do.

United States Must Act.

The state department has received a cablegram from Minister Bowen, dated at Caracas, stating that the supreme court, under pressure of President Castro, had confirmed its former decree sequestrating the property in Venezuela of the American Asphalt Co. The action of the court brings the asphalt dispute to the critical point, for it is now incumbent upon the U. S. government here to make the next move.

After a harrowing experience in a blizzard which drove her 80 miles seaward among the floes on the Grand Banks, the long overdue steamer Silvia, from New York and Halifax, has arrived at St. John's, N. F.

Owing to a snow blockade, Marshalltown, Ia., is facing a coal famine. Factories are closing and at the Iowa soldiers' home, the commandant has ordered the veterans to exercise to keep warm, or else go to bed.

The biggest bull pool in wheat ever formed, headed by John W. Gates and representing an aggregate capital of $100,000,000, began active operations in New York Thursday to put wheat up to $1.50 a bushel. J. J. Hill, C. M. Schwab, Daniel Reid, Wm. H. Morse and several others are deeply interested in the pool. Their holdings now amount to 25,000,000 bushels, most of which was bought around $1.08 per bushel.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Rep. Stone, of Lenawee, chairman of the committee on elections, is preparing for the reception of the senate primary bill by the house by drafting a substitute measure, providing for the direct nomination of governor, lieutenant-governor and legislators. It preserves the state convention referendum clause.

Senator Pyfe, of Grand Rapids, has introduced a bill making it lawful for surety companies to sign liquor bonds.

Chairman Ward, of the ways and means committee of the house, says he will recommend tacking a clause to every institutional appropriation bill providing that money allotted can be spent only for the purpose designated, unless the institutions obtain the written consent of the board of corrections and charities and the auditor-general to transfer a surplus from one fund to another. The idea originated with ex-Rep. Neal, of Northville, two years ago, and according to the report of the auditor-general has saved the state $20,000 in the two years.

The legislature, it is now expected, will do something in the form of a primary election bill. Senator Brown, who is to look after the legal phases of the proposed law, is quoted as saying: "I expect that the bill will be introduced in the senate in about a week. I have been looking up decisions on questions involved, and find that the courts of all the states, except California, have been the same. In drawing the primary bill it will be necessary to conform to the general election law of Michigan."

The new Wayne county primary bill is now law. Gov. Warner signed it as soon as it came to him. His attention was called to a claim that the law is unconstitutional, to which he replied: "The question of the law's constitutionality is something for the courts to determine. It may easily be tested, and if some parts of the law are found to be invalid they may be remedied."

Representative Manzmann objects to the printed statements that if his bill to do away with contract labor in the prisons was passed it would leave the convicts in idleness. "I thoroughly realize," said he, "that we must give prisoners some employment if we would keep them sane and expect them to lead useful lives after they are released. But I would have them work on state account—that is, they should make articles to be used in state institutions, and if the product of prison labor is sold, it should be placed on the market at the same price as free-made goods. It is unjust to say that I propose to take employment away from the convicts."

A large number of bills were introduced Wednesday, most of them being measures to amend the drain law and the fish laws.

In the house Representatives Turner, Hend and Dewey were appointed a committee to prepare resolutions on the death of C. H. Hackley, of Muskegon.

Representative Bland will introduce a bill to prevent Christian Scientists from practicing medicine. His measure will probably stir up a lively time.

Senator McKay will introduce a bill providing that embezzlement from unincorporated bodies may be punished.

REMARKABLE REDUCTION MADE IN RAILROAD ASSESSMENTS.

The state tax commission on the 15th of January surprised the state by announcing that it had placed the assessment of the railroads of the state at $208,420,000, a figure below the public anticipation yet the review of the rolls completed Wednesday night shows that the assessment has been still further reduced by $11,625,000, making the assessment $196,795,000, which is nearly $2,000,000 lower than the first assessment made by the tax commission, and the taxes levied this year will be $125,000 less than last year. The Michigan Central system, which was last year placed on the rolls at $55,000,000, was assessed this year at $50,000,000, and reduced on review to $47,000,000.

The Pere Marquette system was last year assessed at $37,000,000. This year it goes on the rolls at $27,000,000. On the review $750,000 was cut off the Chicago & Northwestern, half a million more from the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, $200,000 from the Wabash, $750,000 from the Grand Trunk Western, $850,000 from the Grand Rapids & Indiana, and so down through a list of 25 roads.

The three members who voted for the reductions are Sayre, Freeman and Shields. The two who voted no are Dost, the president of the board, and McLaughlin.

The whole of the Michigan Suburban railway assessment was cut out, because it will be assessed as an electric railway. This line runs between Lansing and St. Johns.

General Lew Wallace Dead.

Gen. Lew Wallace died at his home in Cranfordville, Ind., Wednesday night. He had been seriously ill for several months and had not been able to assimilate his food properly for a year. Physicians say he slowly starved to death. Versatility was the keynote of Gen. Lew Wallace's character. He excelled in the roles of lawyer, legislator, politician, soldier, diplomat and author, but it is for his authorship that the world loves him best. It was that wonderful romance, "Ben Hur," a tale of the life of Christ, instinct with the knowledge of human nature and embellished with beautiful imagery that gave him his real claim to fame. It was "Ben Hur," too, that made him a diplomat.

The U. S. grand jury sitting at Portland, Ore., has returned an indictment charging U. S. Senator Mitchell, Congressman John M. Williamson, Binger Hermann and others, with conspiring to obtain possession of more than 200,000 acres of public and school lands in several states, valued at over $3,000,000.

Big joke on Peabody. Nine men from the ward of Denver known as "Little Russia," thought they voted for him, whereas in reality, with the assistance of the judges of election, they all voted the Democratic ticket. Proved by reference to ballot numbers and ballot books.

NEWS OF THE WORLD

KANSAS FIGHT AGAINST STANDARD OIL IS HOT.

COMMISSIONER GARFIELD IS DIGGING UP FACTS FOR USE.

STRONG APPEAL FROM KANSAS FOR ASSISTANCE OF CONGRESS.

President's Message on the Dominican Protocol—Other Matters of Note.

War on the Standard Oil Co. has begun actively in many parts of the country. Under President Roosevelt's order Commissioner Garfield, of the bureau of corporations, has started his investigators to work digging out facts on which to base government action against the trust. In Kansas preliminary work is being pushed rapidly to enable the state to enter into active business rivalry to the Standard. While some officials are engaged in the practical work the attorney-general already has arranged a test case to establish the constitutionality of the law. While the Colorado legislature is considering a bill similar to the Kansas law, providing for a state refinery, the Kansas producers have banded together in an association and issued an appeal to the people of the country, setting forth their grievances, which are numerous. The appeal concludes thus:

"We beg and pray the president and the congress of the United States and the various departments of the government at once to take up the work of investigating the Standard Oil Co. to the end that its crime against Kansas and all the other states, against individuals by the thousands, against commerce and trade, even against the government itself, against progress, public policy, decency, against all the people of America, against humanity, shall be brought to light and made public, and said monopoly—the most monstrous the world ever saw—be dissolved and destroyed and its officials punished as the public enemies and malefactors which they are."

Most Important Message of a Decade.

President Roosevelt's message, transmitting to the senate the new Dominican protocol of an agreement providing for the collection and disbursement by the United States, of the customs revenues of San Domingo for the adjustment of all the obligations of that government, is made public by order of the senate in executive session. The document includes the new agreement as well as the original protocol and award of the commission of arbitration, for the settlement of the claims of the San Domingo Improvement Co., under which agents of the United States are already collecting the revenues at certain points of the ports of the Dominican government. The Monroe doctrine imposes this burden upon the United States, and if the doctrine is to endure the task of collecting and distributing money due must be taken up. The Dominican affair has forced this conclusion, and the protocol of the agreement reached between the United States and the Dominican republic provides for the practical execution of this plan. The arrangement, if ratified, will be a precedent for all time. The foregoing, in brief, is the conclusion President Roosevelt reaches in one of the most important messages of the decade sent to the senate.

How Quay Would Have Died.

Senator Philander C. Knox, in his first speech before the United States senate Saturday, when he eulogized the late Senator Quay, of Pennsylvania, made public an incident vital enough for an epic. Senator Quay's genealogy is traced back to Indian ancestors—the Delawares. A few hours before his death, said Senator Knox, "I was at his bedside. He knew death was upon him and he complained. He harked back to the wild and told me he wished he could go back to the Maine wood and die like an old gray wolf on the rock."

NATIONAL CAPITAL NOTES.

The sub-committee of the senate committee on Indian affairs has completed the Indian appropriation bill and it will be submitted probably today to the full senate committee on Indian affairs.

The isthmian canal commission received a cablegram from Gov. Davis, of the Panama canal zone, announcing there had been no deaths during the past month among the employees from the United States.

Treasurer Milton E. Allen, of the inaugural committee, yesterday stated that tickets for the inaugural ball to be held on the night of March 4 are being sold at a rapid rate, and he expects the aggregate sales to break all records.

The senate committee on judiciary has issued a favorable report on a bill fixing the boundary line between South Dakota and Nebraska. It provides that the boundary line south of Union county, South Dakota, shall be in the main channel of the Missouri river as now existing.

A second partial report of the public lands commission was sent to congress yesterday by President Roosevelt, who in his letter of transmittal, says the report seems "to require a radical revision of most of the laws affecting the public domain, if we are to secure the best possible use of the remaining public lands by actual home-makers."

Senator Bacon introduced a resolution calling for an investigation by the senate committee on foreign relations of a protocol of an agreement under which, it is alleged, the United States is now administering the customs affairs of Santo Domingo, or at least a part of such customs.

Former Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Joseph L. Bristow is doing some investigating himself. He's down in Colon, Panama, finding out all about trade conditions and freight rates between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, to get tips on how to run the Panama railroad.

Mistress Rosemary Allyn

CHAPTER XI.

I Meet One I Have Met Before.

I descended the flight of stone steps belonging to the Bow Street mansion more sedately than I had ascended them. I held myself in check, for the joy of the anticipated encounter was stirring within me. "Three days from now," seemed ages away; "three days," in which I must wait before I should meet this brigand, and after him the others. Happily, by that time the King's business would be over.

I gave myself up to thought. Sir Raoul Dwight was the cousin of the woman I loved. If I put a dot to his life by a slandrous charge, would Mistress Rosemary Allyn think with amiability of the man who had given a coup de grace to "Cousin Raoul"? Such an event would be putting an end to my own existence, for an existence without my lady would be blank indeed to me. I would give him a slight pink, I decided, yet enough to lay him up for a time, since I loved him malice.

It is true that women either love or hate; I would have her love. It is equally true that women are to be won; I would win her. As a man puts his hand to the plow and sows, so shall he reap. Should I some day pluck sweet fruit in that fair garden? It was worth striving for, and we Waters did not bear the motto, "Sic Volo," for naught.

I turned into Drury Lane. I passed a sedan chair and inadvertently I looked up. Surprised, I looked again. Then I stopped, for in that elegant conveyance who should sit quite at her ease but Mistress Rosemary Allyn's maid—the red-headed maid of Castle Drouit—Oh, ye gods! think of it—a waiting maid in a sedan chair and most gorgeous attendants! It had not taken her long to use my letter of credit, as I had called the sharply. "Where is the paper?" "Paper," she reiterated, still good humoredly; "I know not of what you speak—but come, man, wouldst stop the traffic of the street with your bulk?"

A crowd made up of gentlemen of fashion, apprentices, street gamins, charwomen, etcetera, had collected about us. They blocked the way in their desire to ogle the pretty maid, my bulk had naught to do with it. "Tis she—His Majesty likes them bold and brown—"They fall like ripe plums in his mouth—"The pretty darlin'."

"Let me pass, good people," she said saucily; "why obstruct the street?"

And she alighted with all the airs of a grande dame—the jade! She swept past the crowd disdainfully, paying no heed to their nudgings or loud whispers, as they commented upon her form and features, even as farmers at a country fair upon their prize stock.

She beckoned me to follow. We went up a narrow stairway and entered a room on the second story. She threw herself into a chair, while she motioned me to another.

"Now, my one gentleman," quoth she, "what complaint have you to make of Nell Gwyn?"

"Nell Gwyn!" I echoed. "Yes, Nell Gwyn," she mimicked, and made a moue at me.

My face, no doubt, was expressive of many things, and she burst into laughter—a laughter of Drury Lane, not Westminster.

"Nell Gwyn, the actress," I meditated; "that explains all." I took off my hat and swept her a bow. "I must crave your pardon—you will grant it, since I can pay you no higher compliment than by saying your acting was to the life."

"Do not trifle with me, sweet Mistress Nell," I begged.

"Well, first let me know what you intend doing with it?" she asked.

"Dear Mistress Nell, you would not have me lightly throw away a paper containing a promise of marriage with so renowned a beauty as my Lady Felton?" I returned.

"Um—" she smiled and her hand played with the tassels of her gown coquettishly; "have you ever seen her?" she asked.

"No," I replied. "You see there is something in store for me, since all the sparks of town are mad for love of her."

"The town seems divided between the two beauties—Mistress Rosemary Allyn and Lady Felton." She spoke sarcastically.

"Not divided," I corrected her. "They seem to serve with equal loyalty both Mistresses."

"The man from Long Haut, however, swears allegiance only to a fair lady with big blue eyes—is it not so?" she asked.

"If I plead guilty to the charge, can I rely upon the discretion and help of another fair lady with glowing black eyes?" I inquired.

She answered my question with a question: "Does not all the world love a lover?" Then: "I will help you, since I like you, and also because I do not think Rosemary is suited to Raoul Dwight. But you will do well to remember that he is her cousin."

"I shall not forget it," I said grimly, "nor that I found him both literally and figuratively at her feet while his lips were yet hot from swearing love for Lady Felton."

"I see I shall have to tell you who has the paper, since you are so dense you cannot guess it," she said. "Mistress Rosemary Allyn."

"Ah!" I cried, "it could not be in better keeping. Tell her to guard it closely until such time as I shall ask it of her to return to the lady named within it. Did her cherish the secret so the bloods about town, especially Raoul Dwight, get not hold of it. Give her also assurances of my affection, and whisper a good word for me into her dainty ear."

"Have I not promised to speed your wooing? Is not Nell Gwyn's word worth something?"

"Indeed, yes—and I thank you," I hastened to say.

Before I left she gave me as much encouragement as this: that my lady was a wayward creature (as if I did not know), but if I would persevere—we she would not say, but I was vastly heartened; so much so that as I bent over her hand, saying my adieu, her saucy cheeks tempted me, remembering the time I had not hesitated. I take virtue to myself in my self-denial, still I believe in showing a good pair of heels at such a time, and I waited only to ask:

"Who was in the coach with you when it stopped at the White Swan Inn?"

"It was, of course, Mistress Rosemary Allyn," she answered.

MANILA TO BE REBUILT.

Work Begun to Make It Model City of the Orient.

Plans have been perfected and the work begun of rebuilding Manila and making it the beautiful city of the Orient. It will not only be clean and healthful, with wide streets and attractive plazas, but it will be a capital of art as well. It is seldom that such an opportunity has presented itself in the Orient to make a model city, says the World's Work, and the insular government, with the active co-operation of the United States government, is taking every advantage of it.

For example, for years open ditches throughout the city have been used for sewage purposes, so that the public health has been put in jeopardy. These ditches will be made into clean canals, spanned by numerous bridges. Pleasure boats will ply on them. A complete sanitary sewerage system will replace the present ditches.

But the most interesting feature of the reconstruction of the city is the preservation of the famous Walled City, which was erected 200 years ago to repel the Spanish and Dutch invaders. This Walled City has a distinct historical as well as a picturesque value.

The work of filling in 155 acres adjoining Malaco will give Manila an ideal pleasure ground for all the people. This drive is a favorite resort, and the view is said to be one of the most beautiful in all the Philippine islands. Bandstands will be erected for popular concerts. Another important step is the construction of a complete waterworks system, for which there has been a bond issue of $4,000,000. The water will be piped from the Marikina valley, fifteen miles away.

Necessity Knows No Law.

"It's a remarkable thing," said Simon Ford the other day, "how some men never find out that they can make a speech until they just have to do it. They remind me of a dog that belonged to a Western friend of mine. He was a good dog, and my friend never tired of bragging about what he had done and could do."

"Well, one day he was telling a crowd that dog could tree any thing. 'That, he even treed a coyote one day,' said my friend."

"Oh, come now," said a cowboy who was listening; "that's a little too steep for us. Your dog might have outrun the coyote, but everybody knows that a coyote can't climb a tree."

"Of course a coyote can't climb a tree," my friend replied, "but that coyote just had to."

SCIENCE AND TUBERCULOSIS

Methods of Fighting This Most Incidious of All Diseases—Best Plan Is to Keep Body in Proper Condition.

The "Cold Air Cure."

Cold air purifies the blood, energizes the heart, puts new vim into the muscles, helps the stomach, wakes up the liver, lifts the whole being to a higher plane of life.

The most successful consumption resort in the world is Davos, a winter resort in the Swiss Alps, near the Engadine, where the snow is six feet deep and the temperature close to zero all winter. Every winter hundreds of tubercular patients from all parts of the world resort to Davos to take the "cold air cure."

Cold air cures (there is no doubt about it), when accompanied by wise and skillful management, and careful regulation of diet. In the summer season this great healing force is available only in a small measure by means of cold baths, ice rubs, and fans; but in the winter season, the keen frosty air is everywhere, ready to be put to work as the great uplifting power it is when rightly applied.

The winter season alone provides continuous tonic conditions. The dense air, containing from one-eighth to one-fourth more oxygen than mid-summer, stimulates all the vital processes to a higher degree of activity. Here is a healing force which is in operation day and night, and steadily lifts the patient up to a higher level until the ebbing tide of life turns backward, and renovating forces of the body resume their activities with all the old-time vigor.

The Price of Indoor Life.

Within the past twenty years there has been a steady development of confidence in the out-of-door method of treating pulmonary tuberculosis. The wonderful success that has attended the outdoor treatment in all countries, irrespective of altitude or special climatic advantages, has demonstrated the immense value of the out-of-door life as a curative means. This is not surprising, since man is naturally an out-of-door animal. The indoor life which most civilized human beings live is wholly artificial. We pay an enormous price for the luxury of living in houses. Not only pulmonary tuberculosis, but a large number of other chronic maladies are the natural outgrowth of the lowered vital resistance which results from the conditions imposed by modern civilized life.

We have become too much civilized. A mild return to savagery is the one thing needful at the present time. In cold weather we can not live out of doors, but we can take care to supply our living rooms, and especially our bedrooms, with an abundant supply of pure cold air. This is a very excellent remedy for morning headaches, which usually mean air-poisoning.

Appetite Juice.

The taking of food into the mouth is a signal to all the digestive organs to prepare for work. Even the sight and odor of food may cause an outflow of saliva, and at the same time the gastric juice pours into the stomach.

Pawlow, of St. Petersburg, is experiments upon a dog, observed that when food was introduced into the animal's stomach through an opening made for the purpose it was not acted upon; the digestive juice was not poured out, and the stomach apparently remained inert for nearly half an hour. On the other hand, when the animal was allowed to see and smell the food, the saliva and the gastric juice poured forth abundantly, even though the animal did not actually taste a morsel. It is important that the food should be retained in the mouth for a sufficient length of time to make the proper impression upon the nerves of taste, so that the entire digestive apparatus shall be thoroughly prepared to carry the food substances through the successive steps of the digestive process.

The thorough chewing of the food produces an abundance of what Pawlow calls "Appetite Juice," which is the best and most important juice formed by the stomach. Hence food must be well relished, and eaten with careful attention to very thorough mastication.

Vital Activity in Cold Weather.

The vital fires burn brighter in cold weather. The whole tide of life moves with greater activity. The process of digestion is quickened because the liver requires oxygen for making bile and performing all its varied functions, and the oxygen we breathe in cold air, improves the function of the liver, so it can do one-seventh more work than before.

The muscles, also, depend for their activity upon oxygen. In an excess of carbonic acid gas the muscles are asphyxiated, and so one feels depressed in warm weather.

A person does not get out of breath so easily in cold air as in warm. The woodchopper can swing his axe with more energy on a cold day. Cold air aids in the elimination of the poisonous matters which are all the time forming within the body.

When oxygen is not plentiful enough to make the vital fires burn sufficiently to consume the fuel and waste of the body, then much of the waste material is left behind in the form of imperfectly burned substances, which may be called cinders.

Burning Up the Body Cinders.

All food must be burned within the body to be of any value. If too much food is shoveled in, the body furnace is clogged. If too little draft is supplied the fuel is not entirely consumed. This leaves "cinders" which are the cause of many chronic diseases, and of premature old age.

The fuel supply may be regulated in the dining room. The draft is dependent on the kind and amount of air breathed. Cold, crisp, fresh air furnishes perfect draft. The blood takes from this kind of air, when it is breathed in, just the element needed to burn the food.

Six breaths of out-door air contain as much of this element—oxygen—as seven breaths of overheated, indoor air. As man breathes about eighteen times per minute this means a loss of four thousand breaths a day by living in a hot, close indoor atmosphere. The amount taken in depends on the habits of life. A deep breath must be earned. A few moments vigorous outdoor exercise will do it. The nostrils dilate, the chest heaves, the heart quickens, the lungs expand, and the fresh air is pumped into the body at a rapid rate. The draft is open. The cinders are burning up. The whole system is being cleared of rubbish.

Don't be afraid of cold air. There's life and health out of doors.

Alcohol vs. Strength.

The laborer, the traveler, and the soldier use alcohol under the delusion that it produces strength. When fatigued, the laborer takes a glass of grog, and feels better. He imagines himself stronger. His increased strength, however, is wholly a matter of imagination.

The use of alcohol makes a man feel stronger—makes him believe that he can do more work, endure more fatigue and hardship, and withstand a greater degree of cold than he could without it; but when an actual trial is made, it soon becomes apparent that the ability is lacking. Numerous experiments have shown that alcohol decreases muscular strength. Says Dr. Brunton, "The smallest quantity takes somewhat from the strength of the muscles." Says Dr. Edmunds, of London, "A stimulant is that which gets strength out of a man."

Some years ago a series of experiments were made for the purpose of determining the influence of alcohol upon the muscular strength. The combined strength of all the different groups of muscles in the body was found, in the case of a healthy young man, to be 4,881 pounds. The young man was then given two ounces of brandy, and the test was repeated. He felt confident that his strength was increased. In fact, it was found to be only 3,355 pounds, a loss of more than one-third. A notable diminution in strength was still present two hours after the administration of the brandy.

Real Healing Agents.

There are many fictitious remedies. Some make a man feel better when he is really getting worse. The most valuable measures which can be employed in dealing with the sick may be said to be baths, exercise and diet. The chronic invalid can be made well only by being reconstructed. The sick man must be transformed into a healthy man by a process of gradual change. He has been months or years in tearing down his constitution and substituting an inferior grade of material. Now this process must be reversed, and little by little, the old tissues must be torn down and new tissues built in their place.

Warm baths help throw off stored up poisons, and cold baths hasten the destruction of waste tissues, increase the activity of the heart and of all the organs, encourage the formation of the digestive fluids, and increase the appetite for food.

By means of exercise the movement of the blood is quickened and the old diseased tissues are broken down and carried out of the body. Exercise always diminishes weight. By exercise a normal appetite is earned and deep breathing encouraged.

Pure simple food is the proper material with which to construct a new and healthy body. Man is built of what he eats. The house is no better than the material. Thus baths, exercise, and a rational dietary constitute a curative trio, each helping the other.

WHOLESALE RECIPES.

Tomato Sauce.—One quart strained tomatoes, one tablespoonful nut butter, one grated onion. Mix well and boil five minutes. Thicken with cornstarch to the consistency of thick cream. Salt to taste.

Cream of Peanut Soup.—One cupful ground peanuts, one-half teaspoonful celery salt; one small onion cut fine; one pint cooked tomatoes. Cook slowly and long. When done rub through a colander and add three pints of rich milk or part milk and part cream. Let come to a boil and serve at once.

Macaroni with Kornel.—Boil until tender one and one-half cups of macaroni, broken into inch lengths, in salted water. Rub one can of hulled sweet corn through a colander or use the prepared Kornel, and add to it one pint of cream or nut cream. Heat to boiling and thicken with one tablespoonful of flour. Mix with the cooked macaroni, add one and one-fourth teaspoonfuls of salt; turn into a pudding dish and brown in a hot oven.

Date Dainties.—Wash and steam for about ten minutes some choice dates. Split one side, remove the seed, putting in its place one-fourth of a walnut meat; press together and roll in powdered sugar.

THE GRAND RAPIDS CONVENTION AND THE NOMINATIONS MADE.

The Republican State Convention, held in Grand Rapids on Tuesday, was missed by several delegations owing to the late arrival of trains, notably that from Wayne and Marquette, though the former telegraphed his vote of 134 for Sawyer and 10 for Lawton from Lansing, which was received by the convention. Chairman Dikema presided, as Mr. Humphrey, of Saginaw, failed to reach the city. Senator William Brown, of Lapeer, placed in nomination Judge Moore. Judge Moore's nomination was made unanimous and W. W. Wedemeyer, of Ana Arbor, made a speech for the re-nomination of Arthur Hill, of Saginaw, for regent. Mr. Hill's nomination was quickly put through and W. H. Frankhauser, of Hillsdale, placed in nomination Dr. Walter H. Sawyer, of Hillsdale, to succeed Charles D. Lawton, of Lawton. Senator Woodman, of Van Buren, presented Mr. Lawton's name. The vote stood 523 for Sawyer to 306 for Lawton, not counting the vote of Wayne county. W. J. Koss, of Albion, received the nomination for member of the State Board of Education to fill a vacancy.

The chairman of the committee on resolutions, W. J. Hunsaker, of the Saginaw Courier-Herald, read the platform, the primary election plank of which is:

"We congratulate the state administration and the legislature now in session upon their manifestation of a determination to pass a law for direct voting, based upon the views of the Republican party, as adopted in the platform of the last two state conventions and ratified by the voters at the polls. We observe with satisfaction the conscientious determination of the administration to inculcate and establish judicial business methods and practical economy in the conduct of all state affairs and we pledge our assistance to the endeavors to this end of Gov. Warner."

The platform was adopted and Gov. Warner briefly addressed the convention which then adjourned.

Millionaire Chas. W. Post, of Prairie Creek, will build a $100,000 home in Greenwich, Conn.

THE MARKETS.

Detroit.—Cattle.—Run very light; all kinds strong; the quality very good; a week ago. The higher grades of beef steers, nothing received that was good enough to bring over $4 25. Milch cows and springers.—Steady; best grades, $25 45; common cows, $20 00.

Veal calves.—Market strong at best week's prices; best grades, $10 75; others, $8 50. Hogs.—Market strong and 25¢ higher than last week. Range of prices: Light to good butchers, $1 50 15; pigs, $1 70 15; light Yorkers, $1 50; roughs, $1 25 50; sows, $1 25 50. Sheep and lambs.—Market strong and 25¢ higher. One small bunch brought $1 per hundred. Best lambs, $7 50; fair to good lambs, $7 00 75; light and common lambs, $6 50 50; fair to good butchers, $6 50 50; culled and common, $4 00 10.

Chicago.—Good to prime steers, $5 75 10; poor to medium, $5 00 10; cows, $4 50 10; heifers, $4 50 10; calves, $4 50 10; bulls, $4 50 10; calves, $4 50 10. Reward will be paid to any person who can find one atom of opium, chloral, morphine, cocaine, ether or chloroform in any form in any of Dr. Miles' Remedies.

This reward is offered because certain unscrupulous persons make false statements about these remedies. It is understood that this reward applies only to goods purchased in the open market, which have not been tampered with in any way.

Dr. Miles' remedies cure by their soothing, nourishing, strengthening and invigorating effects upon the nervous system, and not by paralyzing and weakening the nerves as would be the case if these drugs were used.

For this reason Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are universally considered the best pain remedy. "I have suffered for 25 years with severe pains in my head, heart and back, and have tried everything I could get and could not find any relief until I got a box of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. I suffered as long as 12 hours at a time with such severe pains that I feared I would lose my mind. The Anti-Pain Pills gave me relief in from 10 to 20 minutes. I do not have to use Morphine any more. I wish you would publish this so that other sufferers may find relief."

The unanimous nomination of Judge E. D. Kinne as the Republican nominee for circuit judge of this county is a well deserved honor to one who has shown himself to be particularly well fitted for the position. A sound lawyer, possessed of a fine judicial mind, of absolute fairness in all his court rulings and actions, the people of Washtenaw will not turn down a man who has served them so well for so many years, and the judge will be triumphantly elected to succeed himself on Monday, April 3.

Ex-Senator William W. Potter, of Hastings, is quite an autocratic sort of a fellow, and evidently does not believe in the people being rulers of their own political affairs. From his utterances one would think all the brains of the country was concentrated in the politicians and monied men, who unfortunately have such a strong hold on Michigan's political affairs. Here is what he said in the senate the other night against primary reform:

"I would rather see the Republican party defeated at the polls than have a primary election bill pass. It would lead to anarchy, despotism, and place in jeopardy life, liberty and happiness. Just because a majority clamors for it, that does not prove a thing is right."

He will undoubtedly see the Republican party defeated at the next election unless a satisfactory primary reform measure does become law.

Judge Phelan, of Detroit, deserves the commendation of the whole state of Michigan for his vigorous denunciation of the methods used by ex-Judge Aldrich when cross-examining Mason S. Safford, a witness in the trial of Wm. Harper for the murder of Policeman Daley. Ex-Judge Aldrich asked the witness if he had not been arrested for being drunk. Judge Phelan is stern tones informed Mr. Aldrich, who certainly should have known that a witness was entitled to protection from such assaults by attorneys, that he could not unnecessarily besmirch the character of a witness in that way. Judge Phelan further informed Aldrich that witnesses in his court would receive the protection of the court and their shortcomings not allowed to be exposed to the public gaze. There are other judges in Michigan who might, with advantage, profit by Judge Phelan's action in this matter, and there are legions of lawyers who could learn a lesson that would be good for them out of this episode.

There is one feature of the railroad free pass to legislators question that is decidedly humorous in its nature. The plea is put forth that if it were not for the free passes the members could not go home every week. And would it not be a good thing for the state at large if they could not do so. The legislators are supposed to serve the state faithfully. They are elected and draw pay from the taxpayers to go to the capitol, stay there and do business all the time. Now if they had no free passes there would be no going home and losing practically three days time each week, but they would stay and work, shorten the sessions by half and save thousands of dollars to the people. If a farmer had a hired man who had a free pass on railroads, which he used very frequently, there would soon be a rousing kick about his pay going on while he was wasting so much time. That is the exact position of the legislator; he is the people's servant, not their boss, as a good many think they are, and he has no right to waste either the people's time or money.

There is in Port Huron a young woman who has been a notary public for eight years and her net revenue from the office in that time has been 10 cents, which she received one day last week.

Ingham county supervisors have ordered a high wire fence with plenty of barbed wire on top, to be constructed around the jail and prisoners will be given work to do in the yard next summer.

A drunken man was being placed in the jail corridor at Ann Arbor Friday evening by Chief of Police Kelsey, when the 20 or more men confined in the place welcomed him most cheerily by singing in chorus, "You are as welcome as the flowers in May."

A parcel post treaty has been made between the United States and Great Britain. By it parcels of a maximum weight of 4 pounds 6 ounces can be sent from here at the rate of 12 cents a pound or fraction thereof. All parcels so sent are limited in value to $50.

A Jackson old man spent 256 days of last year either in the county jail or Detroit house of correction, and has started out well to spend most of this year in those places. Monday he completed a 10 days' sentence in the county jail for drunkenness and was then sent to the house of correction for 80 days for larceny.

After a brief existence of a little over two months the United States Daily, Shelby B. Hutchinson's trading stamp paper, published in Detroit, went into the hands of the sheriff Tuesday and has suspended publication. As a newspaper it was an exceptionally good one, but the trading stamp fake is just about a "busted up" business.

A tramp who stole a ride on a through passenger train on the Michigan Central the other day, declared when taken off at Ypsilanti, that he would hereafter ride on freight trains. He got on the "blind baggage" and when the engine took water on the fly near Dexter Mr. Tramp was well soaked with ice cold water. His clothes were frozen stiff when he was taken off.

The Manchester Enterprise says: "The present winter reminds us of the winter of 1884-5, when Tom Farrell was running the hotel. There came a cold wave and with it a heap of snow. The roads were blocked with snow and the hotel was filled with traveling men who could not get away as there were no trains for two days. Those men had a jolly time with music, cards, etc. They danced, told stories and visited with the business men who had really nothing to do but entertain them as the country roads were in even a worse condition than the railroads."

Last Call for Taxes.

The time for collecting taxes for the township of Sylvan expires Feb. 28. All taxes not paid by that time must be returned to the county treasurer.

W. F. RIEMENSCHNEIDER, Tp. Treasurer.

Public is Aroused.

The public is aroused to a knowledge of the curative merits of that great medical tonic, Electric Bitters, for sick stomach, liver and kidneys. Mary H. Walters, of 546 St. Clair avenue, Columbus, O., writes: "For several months I was given up to die. I had fever and ague, my nerves were wrecked; I could not sleep, and my stomach was so weak from useless doctor's drugs that I could not eat. Soon after beginning to take Electric Bitters I obtained relief and in a short time I was entirely cured." Guaranteed at Glazier & Stimson's drug store; price 50c.

Hammer It In.

This is what John Wanamaker, one of the most successful merchants in America says about newspaper advertising: "There is only one way to advertise, and that is to hammer your name, your location, your business, so constantly, so persistently, so thoroughly into people's heads that if they walked in their sleep they would constantly turn their faces toward your store. The newspaper is your best friend, in spite of your criticism. It helps to build up the community that supports you. When the day comes that the newspapers are dead, the people are near the edge of the grave with no one to write their epitaph."

Resolutions.

The following resolutions have been adopted by Lafayette Grange, No. 92, P. of H.:

Whereas, Providence has deemed it best to remove from among us our brother Simon Winslow, who died Jan. 31, 1905, and knowing that we should bow in submission to the divine will, therefore, be it Resolved, that we, as a Grange, tender our sincere sympathy to the sorrowing family in this their hour of bereavement. We entreat them to look forward to a joyful meeting in that land where death can never break the clasp of friendship's hand and where we all in time shall follow.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread on our minutes and a copy sent to the bereaved family.

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

HOW THEY MAINTAIN THE CHARM OF THEIR SEX.

The Importance that Attaches to the Care of the Blood If One Wants Bright Eyes and a Clear Complexion.

Every sensible woman naturally wishes to appear attractive. She knows the value of bright eyes, delicate complexion and lively spirits. She knows also that good health is the basis of her charms, and that good blood is the source of good health.

Miss Mamie Conway has a complexion which is the admiration of all who know her. Asked if she could make any suggestions that would be helpful to others less fortunate, she said:

"My complexion would not have pleased you, if you had seen it two years ago. It was then about as bad as it could be, and it gave me a great deal of dissatisfaction. If you want a good complexion you must take care of your health, especially of the condition of your blood. My health was at that time completely broken down. I was nervous, had frequent headaches, a torpid liver and a great deal of pain in that region. I suffered also from indigestion. It was clear that my blood was in bad condition, for phlegm broke out all over my face."

"It is hard to realize that, for there isn't the slightest trace of such blemishes now."

"It was unfortunately quite otherwise then, and a long time passed before I found anything that gave me any relief. I became very weak and listless. The doctor's medicine did me no good, and I took a number of highly recommended tonics with no better result. As soon, however, as I began to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People my complexion cleared up, and after I had taken two boxes there was not a sign of a pimple left on my face. My cheeks became rosy, I gained flesh and had perfect health ever since."

Rosy cheeks and sparkling eyes are merely signs of healthy blood. They have come not only in the case of Miss Conway, whose home is at 1241 East Eighth street, Canton, Ohio, but to thousands of women for whom Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made new blood. There is no surer way for you to obtain them, than to buy a box of these pills from any druggist and try them for yourself. They correct irregularities and banish weakness.

It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, and Asthma. A certain cure for consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by druggists everywhere. Large bottles 25 cents and 50 cents.

It is combined with Thompson's Eye Water.

How Alexander II. Died

Alexander II. freed the Russian serfs in 1861, and this act, giving partial liberty to 23,000,000 slaves, placed an aureole around his head. He was, indeed, the "little father" in the eyes of his people.

Yet the spirit of reform did not continue to dominate the czar. There were two men in him; one could free slaves, but the other, jealous of the autocratic powers of the throne, could, and did, hang free men whom he conceived to be enemies of absolutism.

Thus it transpired that while the nobles sent the czar petitions for a political constitution, in 1861 and for a house of representatives in 1865 the people's discontent developed to the point of making bombs and plotting against the life of the czar.

The first attempt to assassinate Alexander II. was made April 16, 1866. Another attempt was made June 6, 1867. Both the would-be assassins were hanged, but this only gave impetus to the great wave of nihilism and revolution forming in the Russian capital.

On August 16, 1878, the chief of police of St. Petersburg was assassinated in the street. On April 17, 1879, Prince Kropotkin, governor was assassinated at Kharkoff.

Martial law was proclaimed in the provinces of St. Petersburg, Moscow, Kiev, Odessa and Warsaw. The kingdom was at a standstill and only the strongest measures kept the people in check.

Nihilists were tried and sentence of death executed on them in all the provinces. Hundreds were banished. Yet revolutionary newspapers circulated and assassinations continued to be attempted. It was a state of war with the people arrayed against the hereditary ruling classes.

Warnings of Death.

In the winter of 1873-80 a reign of terror existed in St. Petersburg. The czar received frequent nihilist warnings that his end was near. But he was courageous and a fatalist. He decided to take his chances with death and after the death of the empress he resumed his old habit of riding abroad attended only by a few Cossacks.

This gave the revolutionists an opportunity they were ready to improve. Their preparations for the final attempt were carried out with great elaboration. All the streets within a certain radius through which the emperor would pass on the day chosen, March 13, 1881, were assigned to the various members of the party. Numerous "volunteers" were posted, to follow the movements of the czar as he returned to the palace in his carriage after viewing a Sunday parade at the St. Michael riding school.

In one street, through which it was thought he might pass, a mine had been placed, after months of patient tunneling from a shop, hired for the purpose, and maintained for a blind as a cheese shop. In this mine was enough high explosives to blow up the street for fully 100 feet when the wires connected with it should be touched.

To guard against failure, should the emperor take some other street, four men carrying bombs were posted at points one of which at least he must pass. These bombs had been distributed to the men at a rendezvous by a woman leader, Sophie Perofsky, on the morning of the crime.

All being ready, the last instructions given, and the program thoroughly understood by each, the assassins took their posts. The scenes of the assassination were described as follows in a contemporary account:

"His majesty, seated in a closed carriage with his brother, the Grand Duke Michael, drove along the canal toward the palace about 2:15 o'clock. The carriage was accompanied by an officer of police, Col. Dvorjetsky, in a sledge, and an escort of six mounted Cossacks.

Reesoff, who threw the first bomb at Alexander II.

"As the carriage drew near the Koshinski bridge, which crosses the Catherine canal, an explosive bombshell was thrown at it by some person lurking behind the railing of the

Michael palace garden. It fell not exactly beneath the carriage, but close behind it, and the explosion blew off the back part of the carriage, which was lined with steel, and did not harm the emperor, who alighted immediately.

How the Czar Died.

"The officer of the guard rushed up to him, and forgetting the customary form of address, exclaimed, 'Are you hurt, sir?' 'No, thank God, I am not,' replied the emperor, 'but I must look after the injured.'"

"All this had occurred perhaps in two minutes. The emperor was about to proceed on foot, and had walked a few paces when another young man approached him, and, raising a bombshell in the air, flung it with all his force at the feet of the emperor, who was in the very act of making the sign of the cross.

"An explosion followed which threw all the bystanders off their feet. As the smoke cleared away the emperor was seen lying in a pool of blood, his legs shattered and his clothing in shreds. The assassin lay near him, mortally wounded. The emperor, who was quite conscious, was lifted to a sledge, and removed to the winter palace. Here both legs were amputated, but his life could not be saved. He rallied to receive the sacrament, and at 3:50 breathed his last."

The assassin, named Elknoff, died in eight hours. The man who threw the first bomb was Reesoff, an engineer student. He was but 19 years old. The bombs used were of glass, filled with nitro glycerin. They were manufactured by one of the conspirators, known to his associates as "The Technician," or technical expert. He was not apprehended.

Six prisoners were taken for the assassination of the czar. One man about to be arrested shot himself. He was the brother of a colonel in the imperial army. Of the six taken, two were women, one being a housekeeper for the men, the other Sophie Perofsky, the inspiring genius of the group selected to take the life of the czar.

A Fair Assassin.

Sophie Perofsky was 27, a gentlewoman of high family, the daughter of a former governor of St. Petersburg, and niece of an officer of the imperial court. She was well educated, having followed the higher women's course at the Gymnasium, or girls' high school, in St. Petersburg in 1869.

Sophie Perofsky, the assassin, holding the bomb before being hanged for the assassination of the czar.

In the year following, having imbibed the idea of advocating liberty, she left her home to become a "teacher of the people." In 1872 she joined the revolutionists. She was several times arrested and condemned for propagandism of revolutionary ideas in 1878 she was sent into exile, but escaping, she returned to St. Petersburg and resumed her labors.

She was the brains and will of the plotters, and it was due to her skill in planning the campaign that the final attack on the czar was successful. At the time Sophie Perofsky, by reason of her sex and gentle birth, was the person of chief interest. She held her peace, and carried herself as one ready to die for principle. All six prisoners were condemned to death, but in the case of the other woman execution was deferred, as she was with child.

On April 9, 1881, Sophie Perofsky went to the scaffold with her four male accomplices. On her last night she had written her mother not to waste time in assuaging the wrath of her father, for what she had done he would never forgive.

Before the rope was placed around her neck the young woman kissed each of her associates in death. She then kissed the cross reverently as it was held to her lips by a priest. Her manner was firm, her cheeks flushed, and she held her head high, even when the black hood was drawn over her face. She seemed not to feel the obloquy even of the black board fastened across her breast, bearing in white the words, "Assassin of the czar." She was the third of the five to die, mounting a stool which had already served the same purpose for two of her companions.

When the stool was kicked from under her, the rope tightened on her fair neck, and life departed from the body of one of the most extraordinary women Russia has ever produced in its long record of revolution and violence.

BEWARE THE EASY SHELTER.

Refuge There an Important Step Toward Old Age.

Years are but a fool's measure for youth, which is divine; they bring caution more often than wisdom, and a certain belief in the unreality of joy. A man is quickly disillusioned, which commonly means that he has set up his own idea of what things should be by the side of what things are, and sulks forever at the result. He then commits the folly of becoming old, and prefers existence to life. He clammers into one or other of the many shelters that line the way, curls up within and smiles pitiably at the young of all ages pressing on to some end, no matter what, alive to the beauty of the sky and the clouds and the birds and the trees, alive even to the beauty to be seen in one another, breathing deeply of the air of strength, living and loving and beloved, until at last they are made one with nature. But the heart, like the liver, grows torpid without exercise; a gradual decay comes to the man in the shelter, a decay from which he is released, much against his will, by death. There are too many shelters.—Hugh de Selincourt.

Quick Cure of Rheumatism by Dodd's Kidney Pills. How They Saved the Shop of a Kansas Blacksmith—Cure was Permanent too.

Goodland, Kan., Feb. 20th.—(Special)—So quick and complete was the cure of N. E. Albertson, a local blacksmith, that it almost seems like a miracle. He had Rheumatism so bad he feared he would have to give up his shop. One box of Dodd's Kidney Pills drove away all the pains and they have never returned. Speaking of his cure Mr. Albertson says:

"I had Rheumatism in my shoulders and arms for years. Part of the time it was so bad I could not sleep at night. My arm hurt so that it seemed I would have to give up my blacksmith shop. I went to the drug store and bought one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and took them. I have not had the Rheumatism since. A great many of the neighbors are using Dodd's Kidney Pills since they saw how they cured me."

Holman Hunt's First Portrait.

One day when Holman Hunt, in his office boy days, was alone in the office, a gentleman called and asked for the principal on business. Of the principal's return poor Hunt could not remember the caller's name, but he said: "I can't remember the gentleman's name, sir, but this is what he was like." And he promptly drew a picture of the visitor which was so striking a likeness that the principal forgot his annoyance in his astonishment.

Celery Culture in Florida.

A few years back the low, wet lands of the state that now produce thousands of dollars annually for the planters of celery, were deemed utterly worthless and could have been bought for a song—no sane man would have paid $5 an acre for it, while at the present time the improved land, peculiarly adapted to celery culture, will bring from $300 to $1,000 an acre, the unimproved $25 to $125 an acre.—Florida Times-Union.

Mistake Was Fatal.

A Liverpool man who had been parted from his wife for some years thought he recognized her among the ballet girls on the stage of a theater. He sprang up, pointed to her, cried "My Minnie" and fell dead. But he had made a mistake. The woman was not his wife.

READS THE BOOK.

"The Road to Wellville" Pointed the Way.

Down at Hot Springs, Ark., the visitors have all sorts of complaints, but it is a subject of remark that the great majority of them have some trouble with stomach and bowels. This may be partly attributed to the heavy medicines.

Naturally, under the conditions, the question of food is very prominent.

A young man states that he had suffered for nine years from stomach and bowel trouble, had two operations which did not cure, and was at last threatened with appendicitis.

He went to Hot Springs for rheumatism and his stomach trouble got worse. One day at breakfast the waiter, knowing his condition, suggested he try Grape-Nuts and cream, which he did, and found the food agreed with him perfectly.

After the second day he began to sleep peacefully at night, different than he had for years. The perfect digestion of the food quieted his nervous system and made sleep possible.

He says: "The next morning I was astonished to find my condition of constipation had disappeared. I could not believe it true after suffering for so many years; then I took more interest in the food, read the little book 'The Road to Wellville,' and started following the simple directions.

"I have met with such results that in the last five weeks I have gained eight pounds in spite of hot baths which take away the flesh from anyone."

"A friend of mine has been entirely cured of a bad case of indigestion and stomach trouble by using Grape-Nuts Food and cream alone for breakfast."

"There is one thing in particular—I have noticed a great change in my mental condition. Formerly I could hardly remember anything, and now the mind seems unusually acute and retentive. I can memorize practically anything I desire." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Food for Japanese Soldiers.

Rice and dried fish are the uniform food of the Japanese army in campaigning times. The rice is first boiled until it is thick and glutinous. Next it is placed on a china slab, rolled out and cut into squares. The squares are then placed in the sun to dry. They become as hard as a ship's biscuit, and are ready to be stored. A certain number of squares are allowed to each soldier a day. All he has to do is to break up a square in boiling water and add his dried fish. In a few minutes he has before him a thick soup, which to him is very good. If he cannot procure boiling water he eats his rice square as a biscuit.

A Sickly Joke.

Hereafter the preachers of Atehlzon will be required to diagram their jokes and give plans and specifications for their long range figures of speech, says the Kansas City Journal. One of them said of a woman recently that "she ought to go to hell." It raised a terrible commotion in the church. Then the preacher explained. He said his idea was that if such a good woman went to hell there would be no hell.

Now and Then

Some thorough and careful physician invents, in his practice, some special medicine, that proves so universally successful whenever prescribed, that he proceeds to place it before the public to be reached through the newspapers. This is the history of Dr. Caldwell's (laxative) Syrup Pepsin. For years, prescribed by Dr. W. B. Caldwell for constipation, and all disorders of liver, stomach, and bowels, it was at last manufactured on a large scale, and is now the most successful medicine in the world for these diseases. A pure, scientific tonic, laxative syrup; pleasant to take and perfect in results. Try it. Sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00. Money back if it fails.

Dog Watch.

Dog watch is a corruption of dog-dodge, and is the name given to two short watches of two hours each on shipboard—one from 4 to 6 p. m. and the other from 6 to 8 p. m. The dog watches were introduced to prevent the same men always keeping watch at the same hours of the day; hence on these occasions the sailors are said to dodge the routine, or to be doing dog-dodge.

Health of American Women

Subject Much Discussed at Women's Clubs—The Future of a Country Depends on the Health of Its Women.

Mrs. T.C. Willadsen Miss Mattie Henry

At the New York State Assembly of 1905, a prominent New York doctor said the 500 women present that healthy American women were so rare as to be almost extinct.

This seems to be a sweeping statement of the condition of American women. Yet how many do you know who are perfectly well and do not have any trouble arising from a derangement of the female organism which manifests itself in headaches, backaches, nervousness, that bearing-down feeling, painful or irregular menstruation, leucorrhoea, displacement of the uterus, ovarian trouble, indigestion or sleeplessness? There is a tried and true remedy for all these ailments, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has restored more American women to health than all other remedies in the world. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female organism as nothing else can. For thirty years it has been curing the worst forms of female complaints.

Such testimony as the following should be convincing.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, N. D., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I can truly say that you have saved my life and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words. For two years I spent lots of money in doctors' fees and I had given up all hopes of ever being well again, but I was recommended to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and three bottles have restored me to perfect health. Had it not been for you I would have been in my grave today.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

REBUKES A DRUMMER

COMMERCIAL MEN "ROASTED" BY BRILLIANT JOURNALIST.

Elements of Mirth as Well as Tragedy in Incident in Which Amos J. Cummings Was a Prominent Figure—An Unfortunate Introduction.

How often do we hear, at public dinners, chairmen wanting in tact announce the name of an after-dinner speaker, coupled with the remark that Mr. Cloverman has been invited "especially to entertain us!" The implication is that the gentleman is to pay for his dinner by making a speech, telling a story or singing a song. I have in memory one of the most amusing incidents of the kind that occurred at Delmonico's. It was a dinner of a commercial organization. Amos J. Cummings, then a brilliant journalist, who had just been elected to the house of representatives at Washington, had considerable reputation as a "funny" speaker. He was, in some respects, the Simon Ford of that day. We all saw that Amos was down on the list of speakers; but nobody was prepared for the kind of a talk he gave.

A fire old chap who knew heaps about commerce but nothing about "professional pride," was acting as toastmaster. When he reached Mr. Cummings' name he began thus:

"We have with us to-night a gentleman who has been especially asked for the purpose of entertaining us. That he will do so let us hope. I have the pleasure of introducing Mr. Cummings, who, I believe, will amuse you."

Those of us who were watching Amos Cummings' face while these remarks were making saw the gathering clouds and knew their portent. The storm broke, as soon as Amos was on his feet. Joseph Howard, Jr., was there that night and he chuckled at the prospect of a row.

"So, I have been invited, not as your guest, but as a paid entertainer—paid, I say, and my wage is rated so low as the price of a dinner? Well, I rate you at what you are—a pack of common money-grabbers, incapable of having the instincts of gentlemen when a money consideration intervenes. I can be bought for a price, just because you buy hides, fogwood, rum and tobacco. If I omit any of the commodities of commerce, I do not mean to discriminate in favor of any of you. I always despised this so-called commerce! now I declare my contempt for you men who are engaged in it."

"Entertain you—? I could best do that by climbing down into the rats of commerce's filthy tan-yard. You'd follow me there; you'd understand me, then. Entertain you, indeed! I am incapable; but, I thank God, I can and have made you 'take notice.' If I did not think that I had amply paid you for your dinner by telling you what I think of you, I'd send you my check for the price of the opportunity. It has been worth a year's salary."

And then, Amos J. Cummings strode out of the banquet hall, leaving the most awe-stricken gathering of men I ever beheld. Some of us were convulsed with laughter. Cummings was fighting angry and the man who would have stopped him would have been ill-advised.

Of course, that was the breaking up of the dinner. Attempts were made to continue the speaking, but, to paraphrase the translators of Boccaccio, "owing to the disfavor into which entertainment had fallen," the speaking was not listened to by the disorganized assemblage. No possible defense can be offered for Mr. Cummings. He would have scorned to get up one himself. There never was a moment in Amos Cummings' life when he was not a distinct personality, quite capable of standing up and asserting himself—Julius Chambers in Brooklyn Eagle.

The Silent Searchers.
When the darkness of night has fallen,
And the birds are fast asleep,
An army of silent searchers
From the dusk shadows creep;
And over the quiet meadows,
Or amid the waving trees,
They wander about with their tiny lamps
That flash in the evening breeze.

And this army of silent searchers,
Wanders with his flickering light,
Hunters about till morning
Has driven away the night.
What treasures they may be seeking
No man upon earth can know;
Perhaps 'tis the home of the fairies
Who lived in the long ago.

For an ancient legend tells us
That once, when the fairy king
Had summoned his merry minstrels
At the royal feast to sing,
The moon, high over the tree tops,
With the stars, refused to shine,
And an army with tiny torches
Was called from the oak and pine.

And when, by the lamps of darkness,
The fairies were chased away,
The army began its searching
At the close of a dreary day;
Through all the years that have followed
The seekers have searched the night,
Piercing the gloom of the hours
With the flash of their magic light.
—Henry Ripley Dore.

An Easy Creditor.
In a certain town of Connecticut a deacon of the church, charged with soliciting subscriptions for a charity, recently experienced considerable difficulty in getting the townsmen to contribute.

To one of his neighbors the deacon said:

"Oh, come, Richard, do give something."

"Sorry, deacon," answered Richard, "but I don't see how I can."

"Why not? Isn't the cause a good one?"

"Oh, yes, the cause is good enough; but I owe too much money."

"But, Richard, you owe God a larger debt than anyone else."

"That's true, too," drawled Richard, "but God ain't pushin' me."—Harper's Weekly.

LITTLE POKER AT WASHINGTON.

Stories of Big Games Must Be Taken With Allowances.

It was formerly quite the thing to tell stories about big poker games among the members of Congress. Much was said about the "Senatorial game," "millionaires' game" and the "Congressional game," and always we heard about great bunches of money changing hands, bluffs as high as the banks of the Mississippi, and all sorts of stories.

Frequently the senator, representative, diplomat or rich man was named and the winnings or losses told with as much gusto as if they had really happened. There were some pleasant poker games in days gone by, and occasionally some wonderful plays, but one night, with a few interesting incidents, furnished material for a month of stories.

Some of those who figured in the poker stories became annoyed at the notoriety they gained and abandoned poker entirely. For many years now there has not been enough poker in the capital to hang a story on.

Wrong-Foot-Forward.

"I got out of bed this morning wrong-foot-forward, and so everything has gone badly with me the whole day through!" Common enough it is to hear a man or woman say this, and believe it welling as literally as if, in thus doing it, either of the two had stepped on a tack—point up and head down—and so gone limping ever since, not to speak of dire apprehensions of lockjaw.

Another cure by Cuticura is told of by Mrs. Caroline Cable, of Waukegan, Wis., in the following grateful letter: "My husband suffered agony salt rheum on his hands, and I had to keep them bandaged all the time. We tried everything we could get, but nothing helped him until he used Cuticura. One set of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills cured him entirely, and his hands have been as smooth as possible ever since. I do hope this letter will be the means of helping some other sufferer."
