THE UNANIMOUS CHOICE

JUDGE KINNE NOMINATED

At the Republican Judicial Convention for the Fourth Time--Has Been Judge of this District for Eighteen Years.

The republican judicial convention for the twenty-second judicial district which comprises Washtenaw county, was held in Ann Arbor, at the court house, Monday. Despite the fact that the country roads in many sections were impassable because of the heavy snows there was a very full attendance at the convention, only one or two delegates failing to put in an appearance.

The convention was called to order by Frank A. Stivers, of Ann Arbor, who called Capt. E. P. Allen to the chair. Geo. N. Foster, of Ann Arbor town, was selected as secretary and after reading the list of delegates as chosen by the county convention it was moved that the appointment of committees be dispensed with and the convention adjourned to 1 o'clock.

When the convention reconvened nominations for a candidate for circuit judge were called for and John F. Lawrence, in a few brief remarks, presented the name of the present incumbent, Hon. E. D. Kinne. No other name was mentioned and on motion of Frank E. Jones, the secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the convention for Judge Kinne.

On motion of John F. Lawrence the chair appointed Mr. Lawrence, R. D. Walker and Jesse Hewens a committee to wait upon the nominee and inform him of the action of the convention and invite him to appear before the body and address them.

The committee soon returned with Judge Kinne who delivered a short address in which he accepted the nomination, and thanked the convention for the honor they had conferred upon him. Judge Kinne has been judge of this judicial district for eighteen years.

On motion the chair appointed the following judicial committee: F. A. Stivers, Ann Arbor, Clinton Allenmeyer, Lodi, Wm. Putnam, Ypsilanti, Geo. N. Foster, Ann Arbor town, Jacob Hummel, Chelsea. The convention then adjourned.

EXPERIMENT WORK BENEFICIAL.

United States Stations Are of Inestimable Good in Spreading News to the Farmers of the Country.

The chief value of our experiment stations is that they have the machinery and use it in putting before the public the important discoveries made in aid of the farmer.

The private individual who finds out some best way to cut a potato, keeps his discovery to himself, or probably only gives it away to his neighbor. When the experiment station discovers a new thing it is put in pamphlet form and sent out to the thousands of farmers all over the state.

If only one person in each county puts the discovery into successful operations, it soon spreads among the masses and becomes the custom all over the state. New varieties may be tested by an isolated gardener, and found of great value, but he does not send the news of what he has discovered to his brother farmers, for he is too busy and too much absorbed in his own affairs.

The experiment station however, carries on a constant testing of varieties, giving the results as fast as found out to the general public. They are sometimes a little slow in this work, allowing a new thing to become quite generally known among the up-to-date gardeners before they include it among their experiments.

Still their work is of inestimable value, and is doing a vast amount of good all over the country.

HER CURIOSITY AROUSED.

Handsome Chelsea Lady Couldn't Overcome Desire to See the Harper Brothers Now on Trial in Detroit.

The following was taken from the Detroit Journal of last Saturday: "Standing in the lobby of the Wayne county jail during the noon hour on Friday was a pretty and fashionably dressed lady, who said she was Mrs. Wm. Fox, of Chelsea, Mich., formerly Miss Lizzie Mestor, of Detroit. She called to see the Harper brothers charged with the murder of Patrolman Daley, but was told she would have to wait until 2 o'clock.

"Her fine appearance attracted the attention of the many persons who went in and out of the jail, but she spoke to none except a newspaper representative, who happened along. "I am a visitor in Detroit and am waiting here to get a look at the Harper brothers," she said in reply to a question. "I was here at my father's home on the west side at the time of the murder of Patrolman Daley, and have always been anxious to see what the Harpers look like. I am not interested in them in any way, but have some curiosity to see them, that's all. I was much concerned about the shooting of the officer and have a desire to see a part of the close of the case. I have been following the results of the murder in the papers and seem to have become greatly interested. I live on a farm five miles out of Chelsea, but we get the papers every day."

"Do you know the Harpers or anything about them?" she was asked.

"No, no, I never saw them and never heard of them before their arrest," she replied. "I went up to the court room this morning to hear the trial and see the prisoners, but I found I was the only lady there and I didn't stay. I expected that the room would be full of women."

"It is a long time, the court officials say, since the women of Detroit showed as much indifference in a murder trial as in that of Floyd Harper. A few have been in attendance on certain days, but they have never been in the large numbers that have marked their presence at other trials. The court attaches have commented frequently on the change and tried to account for their non-appearance. They are still figuring on the question."

SAND BARRENS UTILIZED.

Grapes Are Being Profitably Grown on Waste Lands at Michigan--Hints Prove Valuable for Growing this Crop.

Prof. C. D. Smith, of our agricultural college, writing to the National Fruit Grower on the subject of Michigan grape growing, tells of the present value of some of our "sand barrens," as follows:

"I have visited Lawton and Mattawan. Here we have a section of the state characterized by rather abrupt hills of very sandy loam, with intervening valleys also very sandy. Ten years ago, or perhaps even less, these hills were, from an agricultural standpoint, comparatively worthless, and the land could be bought for a very low figure. Now there are thousands of acres of grapes covering the hills and extending well down into the valleys, and the land is worth, without grapes on it, from $75 to $100 an acre."

TO SATISFY A MORTGAGE.

Washtenaw County Woman wants Family Farm Sold and Her Claim Settled--Sued Her Children.

Mrs. Eleanor Zahn, of Lodi township, has begun suit in the circuit court at Ann Arbor against Julius Zahn, Clara Sweetland, Sophia McComber and Ralph Breisch, her children and grandchildren to have the family farm in Lodi sold to satisfy her mortgage for $1,500 and $800 interest.

She alleges that in 1899 her husband, the late George Zahn, gave her a ten years' note and a mortgage for $1,500 on condition that the principal was to be paid whenever the interest was allowed to lapse.

She received a portion of the estate after her husband's death, but alleges that the interest on the mortgage has not been paid her and she wants the farm sold and the claim settled.

ARRESTED HIS COMPANION

HAD HIM PUT IN JAIL.

Was Not An Officer, However, and Now Finds Himself Locked Up On a Serious Charge.

When John Connor awoke Saturday morning and found himself in the Jackson city lockup, and acquired the further information that he had been put there at the request of Deputy Sheriff Kennedy, of Port Huron, who said he was taking him to that city to stand trial for a felony, he was mad clear through. He denied that Kennedy was an officer and that he had committed any offense except to get drunk in Kennedy's company.

Friday night a patrolman encountered the two men on the street. Connor was drunk and Kennedy was not sober. The latter said he was an officer and was directed to the police station. Connor was locked up at his request and Kennedy came around Saturday morning for his prisoner the officers fell upon him and cast him into a cell. Then he wilted and told his story. He said the two came from Ann Arbor during the day and drank a lot of red liquor when they landed from the train. When Connor got too drunk to navigate he determined to put him into jail. Kennedy says he meant no harm, but he will be prosecuted for impersonating an officer. Connor is being held as a suspect while the Ann Arbor officers are looking up the case.—Detroit Free Press.

According to late dispatches John Connor was wanted in Ann Arbor, and it appears his name is O'Connor. After a confession Tuesday he was sentenced to 65 days in the house of correction. Last Friday afternoon he entered the home of Prof. H. C. Anderson of that city. Mrs. Anderson saw him coming and thinking him intoxicated ran to her room, locked herself in, raised a window and shouted for help. While thus engaged O'Connor helped himself to small articles of silverware.

Health of American Women

A Subject Much Discussed at Women's Clubs—The Future of a Country Depends on the Health of Its Women.

Mrs. T.C. Willadsen Miss Mattie Henry

At the New York State Assembly of Mothers, a prominent New York doctor told the 500 women present that healthy American women were so rare as to be almost extinct.

This seems to be a sweeping statement of the condition of American women. Yet how many do you know who are perfectly well and do not have some trouble arising from a derangement of the female organism which manifests itself in headaches, backaches, nervousness, that bearing-down feeling, painful or irregular menstruation, leucorrhoea, displacement of the uterus, ovarian trouble, indigestion or sleeplessness? There is a tried and true remedy for all these ailments, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which has restored more American women to health than all other remedies in the world. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female organism as nothing else can. For thirty years it has been curing the worst forms of female complaints.

Such testimony as the following should be convincing.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Ia., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

"I can truly say that you have saved my life and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words. For two years I spent lots of money in doctoring without any benefit for menstrual irregularities and I had given up all hope of ever being well, again, but I was persuaded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and three bottles have restored me to perfect health. Had it not been for you I would have been in my grave today."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

Miss Mattie Henry, Vice-President of Danville Art Club, 429 Green St., Danville, Va., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—"Many years suffering with female weakness, inflammation and a broken down system made me more anxious to die than to live, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored my health and I am so grateful for it that I want every suffering woman to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will do for her."

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating, (or flatulency), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues, and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. No other medicine in the world has received such unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

A light heart, a cheerful countenance, and all the charms of grace and beauty are dependent upon proper action of the bodily organs. You cannot look well unless you feel well.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice and medicine have restored thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

The Master's Face

No pictured likeness of my Lord have I;
He carved no record of His ministry
On wood and stone.
He left no sculptured tomb nor parchment dim,
But trusted, for all memory of Him,
Men's hearts alone.

Sometimes I long to see Him as of old Judea saw, and in my gaze to hold
His face enshrined.
Often, amid the world's tumultuous strife,
Some slight memorial of His earthly life
I long to find.

Who sees the face seen but in part; who reads
The spirit which it hides, sees all; he needs
No more. Thy grace—
Thy life in my life, Lord, give Thou to me—
And then, in truth, I may forever see My Master's face.

Concerning a Black Alpaca Coat

BY J. C. PLUMMER

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"Sandy," said Captain Pole, as he shifted his tiller so as to pass a barge towing down the bay, "you'd better ask Kate Haggerty to have you when we get to port."

"There's na hurry," replied Sandy McDougal, mate of the schooner Ajax, enjoying his pipe.

"Go ahead," retorted the skipper, pettishly, "you'll wake up some morning and see another chap living off Kate's money."

"She's na got it yet," expostulated Mr. McDougal.

"But she'll have it when her uncle dies and he's old as the hills."

"Hoots, only seventy and men are living longer than they did," said McDougal, "it's little surprised I'd be if he lives to be ninety."

"Well," remarked the skipper, "if you don't want a wife with ten thousand dollars, all right."

"There's na hurry," insisted McDougal, "if I'd marry her now I'd have to support her, mebbe, for ten years before her uncle dies."

Dennis Haggerty, stevedore, was worth at least ten thousand dollars and his only relative was Kate Haggerty. There was no scarcity of women in the world forty years back, but Dennis and his brother Michael must, perforce, fall in love with the same girl and she chose Michael. Dennis never forgave them and carried his resentment to the second generation, never noticing their daughter, Kate, not even when her parents dying very poor, she started out to make her living. Kate, thirty years old, plain as to face and expert in sordid economy, only knew she had an uncle because people told her so. She gave no heed to the news when she did hear it and went on earning a very scant living with very hard work.

Now, Captain Pole knew something. He and Fergus McNeal were witnesses to Dennis Haggerty's will which left all he possessed to Kate Haggerty. McNeal had immediately sailed on a voyage to Australia and the skipper, practically, was the sole possessor of the secret. He knew Kate and liked her so he did some thinking.

"Kate's getting old," he mused, "and in looks she's more like a barge than a racing yacht, but there'll be plenty of good for nothing fellows to marry her when they know she'll have ten thousand dollars. They'll spend every cent of it for her."

Then he appraised Sandy McDougal, his mate, of the secret and introduced him to Kate.

"He's too stingy to ever spend her money," soliloquized the skipper, "and he'll make her a good husband."

Sandy courted cautiously. Kate, with a dowry of ten thousand dollars, was very attractive, but his characteristic stinginess made him hesitate about incurring the expense of a wife until the dowry was possessed. As to Kate, who had never had a beau, she dreamed dreams and watched for Sandy's coming eagerly.

The inexpensive courtship, for Sandy never spent a copper on Kate, dragged on like a voyage through the calm belt and Captain Pole chafed.

Sandy courted cautiously. Kate, with a dowry of ten thousand dollars, was very attractive, but his characteristic stinginess made him hesitate about incurring the expense of a wife until the dowry was possessed. As to Kate, who had never had a beau, she dreamed dreams and watched for Sandy's coming eagerly.

The inexpensive courtship, for Sandy never spent a copper on Kate, dragged on like a voyage through the calm belt and Captain Pole chafed.

LITTLE POKER AT WASHINGTON.

Stories of Big Games Must Be Taken With Allowances.

It was formerly quite the thing to tell stories about big poker games among the members of Congress. Much was said about the "Senatorial game," "millionaires' game" and the "Congressional game," and always we heard about great bunches of money changing hands, bluffs as high as the banks of the Mississippi, and all sorts of stories.

Frequently the senator, representative, diplomat or rich man was named and the winnings or losses told with as much gusto as if they had really happened. There were some pleasant poker games in days gone by, and occasionally some wonderful plays, but one night, with a few interesting incidents, furnished material for a month of stories.

Some of those who figured in the poker stories became annoyed at the notoriety they gained and abandoned poker entirely. For many years now there has not been enough poker in the capital to hank a story on.

Wrong-Foot-Forward.

"I got out of bed this morning wrong-foot-forward, and so everything has gone badly with me the whole day through!" Common enough it is to hear a man or woman say this, and believe it wellnigh as literally as if, in thus doing it, either of the two had stepped on a tack—point up and head down—and so gone limping ever since, not to speak of dire apprehensions of lockjaw.

Bounty for Rats.

An international league for the extermination of rats has been formed in Denmark. In Berlin the municipal authorities are offering a penny for every rat's tail delivered.

SALT RHEUM ON HANDS.

Suffered Agony and Had to Wear Bandages All the Time—Another Cure by Cuticura.

Another cure by Cuticura is told of by Mrs. Caroline Cable, of Waupaca, Wis., in the following grateful letter: "My husband suffered agony salt rheum on his hands, and I had to keep them bandaged all the time. We tried everything we could get, but nothing helped him until he used Cuticura. One set of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills cured him entirely, and his hands have been as smooth as possible ever since. I do hope this letter will be the means of helping some other sufferer."

An anti-corset crusade has been started in the Wisconsin state legislature as an offset to the bill placing a yearly tax of $5 on bachelors, recently introduced through the influence of women.

Millions in Oats.

Salzer's New National Oats yielded in Mich., 240 bu., in Mo., 235 bu., in N. D., 310 bu., and in 30 other states from 150 to 300 bu. per acre. Now this oat is generally grown in 1905, will add millions of bushels to the yield and millions of dollars to the farmer's purse!

Homebuilder Yellow Dent Corn grows like a weed and yields from 157 to 260 bushels and more per acre! It's the biggest yielder on earth!

Salzer's Speltz, Beardless Barley, Macaroni Wheat, Pea Oat, Billion Dollar Grass and Earliest Cane are money makers for you, Mr. Farmer.

JUST SEND THIS NOTICE AND 10c in stamps to John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., and receive their big catalog and lots of farm seed samples. [W. N. U.]

Union hours for monkeys when owned by Italian hand organ artists is one of the provisions of a bill passed by the Nebraska senate. They used to work 12 to 16 hours a day.

HAD CATARRH THIRTY YEARS

Congressman Meekison Gives Praise to Pe-ru-na For His Recovery.

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON PRAISES PE-RU-NA.

Hon. David Meekison, Napoleon, Ohio, ex-member of Congress, Fifty-fifth District, writes:

"I have used several bottles of Peru-na and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison.

ANOTHER SENSATIONAL CURE: Mr. Jacob L. Davis, Galena, Stone county, Mo., writes: "I have been in bad health for thirty-seven years, and after taking twelve bottles of your Peru-na I am cured."—Jacob L. Davis.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peru-na, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

A negro, James H. Wolf, has been elected commander of the Massachusetts G. A. R. He was elected junior vice commander in 1903 and senior vice commander in 1904. The election means he will lead the parade of the national encampment at Denver next August. Wolf is a lawyer. He served in the navy in the civil war and is a graduate of the Harvard law school.

Artificial Foot for Dog. Mr. William H. Beers, a wealthy New York broker, whose pet St. Bernard dog had its forefoot crushed by a car, has ordered an artificial foot made for the dog, regardless of cost.

Gives Credit to Wife. Prince Mireky, Russia's reform statesman, attributes much of his success in public life to his brilliant wife.

Maple-Flake

For breakfast gives that satisfied feeling without the depression of over-eating. Ask your grocer.

Truths that Strike Home

Your grocer is honest and—if he cares to do so—can tell you that he knows very little about the bulk coffee he sells you. How can he know, where it originally came from, how it was blended—or with what—or when roasted? If you buy your coffee loose by the pound, how can you expect purity and uniform quality?

LION COFFEE, the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES, is of necessity uniform in quality, strength and flavor. For OVER A QUARTER OF A CENTURY, LION COFFEE has been the standard coffee in millions of homes.

LION COFFEE is carefully packed at our factories, and until opened in your home, has no chance of being adulterated, or of coming in contact with dust, dirt, germs, or unclean hands.

In each package of LION COFFEE you get one full pound of Pure Coffee. Insist upon getting the genuine. (Lion head on every package.)

(Save the Lion-heads for valuable premiums.)

what we claim it will do. It will not disappoint you.

My hair used to be very short. But after using Ayer's Hair Vigor a short time it began to grow, and now it is fourteen inches long.
This seems a splendid result to me after being almost without any hair.

BETTER AND EASIER.

To those who intend to have a well put-down the coming summer do not wait until you all want them at the same time. I will receive a Steam Hydraulic Jetting Machine about the middle of March, which will enable me to put down wells using from 2 to 6 inch pipe. A four inch tubular well will cost but a little more and you can use a three inch cylinder, that will supply you with twice as much in the same length of time. Many farmers fail to get all of the water that is necessary from a two inch well and keep their windmill running all the time. A good brass cylinder in a four inch well will not have to be packed only once in two years, while the regular two inch well needs to be packed several times during the year. With this machine we will be able to make four inch wells in less than half the time that is required by any other machine in making a two inch well. We can make a four inch well work in many places where it would be impossible to use a two inch well with a screen in, because there is not sufficient screen room to pump, while a larger pipe with open bottom has nothing to prevent the water from having a good flow, and you have no reason to coat over and have to be pulled up in a few years. This one item is a great saving to a farmer.
Save your windmill, save your time, and have an abundance of water. Four inch wells, 80 feet deep, have been completed one day with these machines. Call and see me.
Geo. H. Foster.

Notice of Election.

Notice is hereby given that an election will be held in the village of Chelsea, county of Washtenaw, state of Michigan, on Monday the Thirtieth day of March, A. D. 1905, for the purpose of electing the following officers:
One (1) President, one (1) Clerk,
(3) Trustees, one (1) Treasurer, one (1) Assessor. The polls of the election in the village of Chelsea, Michigan, will be held in the Town Hall, main floor.
The polls will be open at 7 o'clock in the forenoon of said 31st day of March, A. D. 1905, or as soon thereafter as may be, and will be closed at 5 o'clock in the afternoon of that day.
Dated, at Chelsea, Michigan, February
23rd, A. D. 1905.
W. H. HESELSCHWERT, Village Clerk.

Registration Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the board of registration of the village of Chelsea will meet for the purpose of completing the list of qualified voters of said village and of restoring the names of all persons who shall be possessed of the necessary qualifications of electors, and who may apply for that purpose, on Saturday the Eleventh day of March, A. D. 1905, in council room, Town Hall, and that said board of registration will be in session on the day and at the place above mentioned, from 9 o'clock in the forenoon until 5 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, for the purpose above specified.
By order of the board of registration of the village of Chelsea.
Dated, at Chelsea, Michigan, February
23rd, A. D. 1905.
W. H. HESELSCHWERT, Village Clerk.

MAY GET SUGAR FACTORY.
Blissfield is sure to get a sugar factory, over 5,000 acres having been contracted for. There is $1500 more to raise on the bonus.—Ex.

U. of M. SUMMER SCHOOL PLANS.
The U. of M. regents have chosen the teachers for the 1905 summer school.
Prof. J. O. Reed, junior professor of physics, will be dean.

SEEKS U. of M. MUSIC.
The fame of U. of M. musical clubs continues to spread. Jackson now asks for a concert and the faculty being willing one will be given at the prison city
Friday evening of this week.

BROUGHT GOOD PRICE.
The patrons of Lakeside Elgin Butter
Co. received 27 cents a pound for January butter and about $5,000 were distributed among the farmers of this locality this week.—Grass Lake News.

REOPEN YPSILANTI CANNING FACTORY.
Eugene Miller, superintendent of the East Toledo canning factory, has leased the long idle Ypsilanti canning factory and will begin to secure acreage for corn and tomatoes. He already has a market for his product.

ICK H. USES FILLED.
The Toledo Ice Company has completed their ice harvesting at Whitmore Lake.
Their houses are filled to the roof, besides shipping to Toledo between 300 and 400 car loads. Their pay roll will amount to about $6,000.

PRIZES FOR U. of M. ESSAYS.
John Barrett, United States minister to Panama, has offered $200 in prizes to University of Michigan students for the best essay on the relation of the Latin American republics and the United States. The first prize is $100.

WORK THE PRISONERS.
The Supervisors of this county have ordered the Sheriff of that county to have a suitable fence erected around the jail yard with a barbed wire guard at its top, and to work the prisoners within that yard.—Williamston Enterprise.

RECEIVED THE BIG GUN.
The big gun that is to be erected on the public square here, came last Friday together with several shells, and now lies on the ground ready for its foundation which will be built as soon as weather will permit.—Stockbridge Sun.

WANTED INFORMATION.
A Hudson young man who was about to get married was very nervous, and while asking for information as to how he must act, put the question, "Is it kindness to kiss the bride?" Must be the son of a Hudson Editor.—Hillsdale Advancer.

WILL BE HELD IN MARCH.
The snow and cold made it necessary to postpone the Sabbath school convention which was to have been held yesterday. It will now be held on March 8, when the program will be carried out as previously announced.—Stockbridge Sun.

MUST PAY THE FARMERS WELL.
The Howell milk factory is daily receiving 95,000 to 100,000 pounds of fresh milk. Last week they shipped out 14 cars of the condensed product. This must be quite a money maker for the farmers who reside in the vicinity of Howell.

INCREASED CAPITAL STOCK.
The Washtenaw Home Telephone Co. have filed with the county clerk amended articles of association in which the capital stock of the company is increased from $250,000 to $300,000, of which $50,000 is to be six per cent accumulative preferred stock.

CHURCH GYMNASIUM.
The Congregational church at Pinckney has established a gymnasium, with recreation and reading rooms for the youth of the Sunday school. The pastor Rev. G. W. Myline, is a trained athlete and a believer in what has been termed muscular christianity.

USUAL ARRIVAL.
A flock of about fifty shore-larks, fat and hearty, arrived on the Plains Tuesday morning. These birds always come in mid February regardless of the temperature, and spend their time in the fields, seeming not to care for the shelter of evergreens near by.—Ypsilanti.

BIBLE IN THE COLLECTION.
If it had not been for Rev. W. Loomer of the Friends' Church, the Tuncumseh Carnegie Library would have been dedicated, and with no bible in the book collection. He bought of the possibility and avoided such a record by presenting the library with a revised edition of the bible, as a gift from the young people's societies of that village. He has the consolation of knowing that it will be in a perfect condition 50 years hence, as it is to-day, and will not have to be rebound because of usage, any more than will works on history, biography, science or religion should any such book by accident find a place on the shelves.—Adrian Press.

WANTS INFORMATION.
Chas. A. Morris of this village, has a curiosity to learn who is the oldest man or woman now living, who was born in the township of Scio, and asks The Leader to call the roll. Mr. Morris himself was born on the southwest quarter of section eighteen, on August 4, 1834.—Dexter Leader.

WATER SUPPLY THE ISSUE.
The coming city election promises to be one of the warmest in the history of Ann Arbor. The water works question will be the main issue. There is a movement on foot to put Dr. C. G.
Darling, an ex-mayor, for the nomination for mayor on an independent or citizens' ticket, with municipal ownership as the rooting song.

GREETED WITH SONGS.
The twenty or more gentlemen who are spending a few days with Sheriff
Newton against their will, at his West Ann street residence, are establishing a reputation for hospitality. Last evening Chief of Police Kelsey was obliged to arrest a man who was inclined to be too hilarious and when placed in the jail corridor, he was greeted with the refrain of a popular song which runs, "You are as welcome as the flowers in May."— Ann Arbor Times.

AN OLD RELIC.
An old relic of a hanging lamp was seen in police court in the possession of Roy Northrup. It was brought here in 1841 and is a sample of how they used to sort of city or fountain hand hammer and in this a common string of white cotton used to do service, producing all the light then obtainable. It's age and unique manufacture is made more interesting by the wooden hanging part, which is movable so the light could be lowered or heightened when necessary.
The grandfather brought it here when there was one tavern and a few cabins.
—Jackson Citizen.

Fraud Exposed.
A few counterfeiters have lately been making and trying to sell imitations of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, and other medicines, thereby defrauding the public.
This is to warn you to beware of such people, who seek to profit, through stealing the reputation of remedies which have been successfully curing disease, for over 35 years. A sure protection, in our name on the wrapper. Look for it, on all Dr. King's, or Bucklen's, remedies, as all others are mere imitations. H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, Ill., and Windsor, Canada, Glazier & Stimson.

WORSE EVERY YEAR.
Plenty of Michigan readers have the same experience.
Don't neglect an aching back.
It will get worse every year.
Backache is really kidney ache.
To cure the back you must cure the kidneys.
If you don't, other kidney ills follow.
Urinary troubles, diabetes, bright's disease.
A citizen tells you how—the cure is easy.

J. C. Bradford, of 705 Chippewa street, a partner of A. Bradford & Son, coopers of Flint, says: "At intervals for years I had attacks of backache and soreness through the kidneys. They were never serious enough to lay me up, neither could the trouble be called chronic, but the annoyance while the attacks lasted was sufficient to give me an idea of what real kidney complaint or chronic backache was like. Now, as there are undoubtedly many cases of inactive kidneys in Flint or its suburbs—cases that have possibly resisted home treatment as well as that of physicians—it may lead to good results if they will profit by my experience and follow my advice, go to Dulan's Kidney Pills and use them."

Wine of Cardui Cured Her.
218 South Prior Street,
ATLANTA, GA., March 21, 1903.
I am pained for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude.
I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite
I became weak and lost my vitality.
In three weeks I lost fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must find speedy relief to regain my health. Having heard Wine of Cardui praised by several of my friends, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.

This irritation produces pain in the head, and the turbulent nerve current sent to the stomach causes nausea, vomiting.
This is sick headache, and is dangerous, as frequent and prolonged attacks weaken the brain, resulting in loss of memory, inflammation, epilepsy, fits, dizziness, etc.
Alay this stormy, irritated,

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills.
They stop the pain by soothe-

FAMOUS MASSACRES OF HISTORY

Fearful Tragedies Blot the Records of Many Nations—Notable Slaughter of Unarmed and Peaceful Citizens of Paris by Troops Under the Command of La Fayette.

Massacres of defenseless people are recorded in the history of many nations, but there are only few such occurrences affording anything like a parallel to the slaughter of Russian workmen by the troops of the czar at St. Petersburg, Jan. 22.

In the French revolution of 1848—the first great uprising of wage-earners and hence described in history as the "first revolution brought about by economics"—a large crowd of workmen were fired upon in mid-summer in the streets of Paris by troops under the command of Gen.

Marat among the slain, to whom it had been a Sabbath outing. The petition was scattered, but its leaves were gathered up, and they are now to be seen among the archives of France.

In the reign of terror following this great revolution in France occurred the so-called "September massacres," the victims being 3,000 prisoners confined in the dungeons of Paris by the revolutionists. They comprised nobles, priests, anti-revolutionists and victims of private malice. The commune reported that the Prussians were marching on Paris, were at the

"The prisons are now empty," Marat and Billaud issued, in the name of the municipality of Paris, a circular letter to other municipal bodies urging them to imitate what had been done in Paris. In some cities the advice was acted upon the prisoners murdered.

In August, 1793, the commune of Paris sent an army of 60,000 men against rebellious Lyons. The city, after a prolonged siege and the endurance of innumerable woes, was captured. The convention decreed that it should be utterly destroyed, and that over its ruins should be reared a monument with the inscription, "Lyons made war upon liberty, and, behold! Lyons is no more!" Six thousand of the citizens of Lyons perished in the massacre following the capture of the city.

PEN PICTURE OF GEN. GRANT.

How Famous Soldier Looked in Early Days of the War.

In Col. Clark Carr's "The Illini," the author tells how Gen. U. S. Grant looked in the early days of the war: "While thus waiting I noticed a gentleman come down the gang plank and approach us, seemingly for the purpose of speaking to us. He was of medium height, had broad and rather rounded shoulders, auburn hair, sandy whiskers, clear blue eyes, a very quiet, modest expression and appeared to be perhaps a little more than 30 years of age. He wore a blue sack coat and blue trousers, somewhat worn, but well brushed and cared for, which I afterward learned was the fatigue uniform of the United States army. He was smoking a cigar, which he removed as he came near us and raised his hat, but gave us no other greeting. We soon saw that instead of being interested in us he was interested in Rose's Kentucky mare. He looked the mare over with great interest for a considerable time, puffing away at his cigar, but without speaking. Then, again removing his cigar and raising his hat, he returned on board the boat."

French Politeness.

There is an agitation in France against the flowery politeness which winds up a letter. Frenchmen are asking why they should write: "Accept the assurance of my most distinguished sentiments and believe me your very humble and obedient servant." It is long and abject. "Your devoted" is considered more dignified, as well as concise, if the person addressed be a man. But if one is writing to a woman he may be flowery still. There is a story of Victor Hugo, who was listening to a speech from an old republican colleague. The orator addressed his audience constantly as "Citoyens, citoyens." At last Hugo broke in. "I am a pretty good republican," he said, "but when I address a woman I call her my sovereign, my queen!" The company seems to have taken this protest with perfect gravity.

Age and Diplomacy.

While corporations are refusing to employ men older than 35 years, Joseph H. Choate, at the age of 73, is to return to the active practice of the law in New York city, says the New York World. There are undoubtedly many corporations, as well as individuals, who will be glad to avail themselves of Mr. Choate's services, despite the fact that he is more than twice as old as the age limit which has been arbitrarily set by so many employers.

Mr. Choate's successor, Whitelaw Reid, is 67. So is Gen. Horace Por-

SCIENCE AND TUBERCULOSIS

Methods of Fighting This Most Insidious of All Diseases—Best Plan Is to Keep Body in Proper Condition.

The "Cold Air Cure." Cold air purifies the blood, energizes the heart, puts new vim into the muscles, helps the stomach, wakes up the liver, lifts the whole being to a higher plane of life.

The most successful consumption resort in the world is Davos, a winter resort in the Swiss Alps, near the Engadine, where the snow is six feet deep and the temperature close to zero all winter. Every winter hundreds of tubercular patients from all parts of the world resort to Davos to take the "cold air cure."

Cold air cures (there is no doubt about it), when accompanied by wise and skillful management, and careful regulation of diet. In the summer season this great healing force is available only in a small measure by means of cold baths, ice rubs, and fans; but in the winter season, the keen frosty air is everywhere, ready to be put to work as the great uplifting power it is when rightly applied.

The winter season alone provides the continuous tonic conditions. The dense air, containing from one-eighth to one-fourth more oxygen than mid-summer, stimulates all the vital processes to a higher degree of activity. Here is a healing force which is in operation day and night, and steadily lifts the patient up to a higher level until the ebbing tide of life turns backward, and renovating forces of the body resume their activities with all the old-time vigor.

The Price of Indoor Life.

Within the past twenty years there has been a steady development of confidence in the out-of-door method of treating pulmonary tuberculosis. The wonderful success that has attended the outdoor treatment in all countries, irrespective of altitude or special climatic advantages, has demonstrated the immense value of the out-of-door life as a curative means. This is not surprising, since man is naturally an out-of-door animal. The indoor life which most civilized human beings live is wholly artificial. We pay an enormous price for the luxury of living in houses. Not only pulmonary tuberculosis, but a large number of other chronic maladies are the natural outgrowth of the lowered vital resistance which results from the conditions imposed by modern civilized life.

We have become too much civilized. A mild return to savagery is the one thing needful at the present time. In cold weather we can not live out of doors, but we can take care to supply our living rooms, and especially our bedrooms, with an abundant supply of pure cold air. This is a very excellent remedy for morning headaches, which usually mean air-poisoning.

Appetite Juice.

The taking of food into the mouth is a signal to all the digestive organs to prepare for work. Even the sight and odor of food may cause an outflow of saliva, and at the same time the gastric juice pours into the stomach.

Pawlow, of St. Petersburg, in experiments upon a dog, observed that when food was introduced into the animal's stomach through an opening made for the purpose it was not acted upon; the digestive juice was not poured out, and the stomach, apparently remained inert for nearly half an hour. On the other hand, when the animal was allowed to see and smell the food, the saliva and the gastric juice poured forth abundantly, even though the animal did not actually taste a morsel. It is important that the food should be retained in the mouth for a sufficient length of time to make the proper impression upon the nerves of taste, so that the entire digestive apparatus shall be thoroughly prepared to carry the food substances through the successive steps of the digestive process.

The thorough chewing of the food produces an abundance of what Pawlow calls "Appetite Juice," which is the best and most important juice formed by the stomach. Hence food must be well relished, and eaten with careful attention to very thorough mastication.

Vital Activity in Cold Weather.

The vital fires burn brighter in cold weather. The whole tide of life moves with greater activity. The process of digestion is quickened because the process of oxidation is increased. The liver requires oxygen for making bile and performing all its varied functions, and the oxygen we breathe in cold air, improves the function of the liver, so it can do one-seventh more work than before.

The muscles, also, depend for their activity upon oxygen. In an excess of carbonic acid gas the muscles are asphyxiated, and so one feels depressed in warm weather.

A person does not get out of breath so easily in cold air as in warm. The woodchopper can swing his axe with more energy on a cold day. Cold air aids in the elimination of the poisonous matters which are all the time forming within the body.

When oxygen is not plentiful enough to make the vital fires burn sufficiently to consume the fuel and waste of the body, then much of the waste material is left behind in the form of imperfectly burned substances, which may be called cinders of the body.

Burning Up the Body Cinders.

All food must be burned within the body to be of any value. If too much food is shoveled in, the body furnace is clogged. If too little draft is supplied the fuel is not entirely consumed. This leaves "cinders" which are the cause of many chronic diseases, and of premature old age.

The fuel supply may be regulated in the dining room. The draft is dependent on the kind and amount of air breathed. Cold, crisp, fresh air furnishes perfect draft. The blood takes from this kind of air, when it is breathed in, just the element needed to burn the food.

Six breaths of out-door air contain as much of this element—oxygen—as seven breaths of overheated, indoor air. As man breathes about eighteen times per minute this means a loss of four thousand breaths a day by living in a hot, close indoor atmosphere. The amount taken in depends on the habits of life. A deep breath must be earned. A few moments vigorous outdoor exercise will do it. The nostrils dilate, the chest heaves, the heart quickens, the lungs expand, and the fresh air is pumped into the body at a rapid rate. The draft is open. The cinders are burning up. The whole system is being cleared of rubbish. Don't be afraid of cold air. There's life and health out of doors.

Alcohol vs. Strength.

The laborer, the traveler, and the soldier use alcohol under the delusion that it produces strength. When fatigued, the laborer takes a glass of grog, and feels better. He imagines himself stronger. His increased strength, however, is wholly a matter of imagination.

The use of alcohol makes a man feel stronger—makes him believe that he can do more work, endure more fatigue and hardship, and withstand a greater degree of cold than he could without it; but when an actual trial is made, it soon becomes apparent that the ability is lacking. Numerous experiments have shown that alcohol decreases muscular strength. Says Dr. Brunton, "The smallest quantity takes somewhat from the strength of the muscles." Says Dr. Edmunds, of London, "A stimulant is that which gets strength out of a man."

Some years ago a series of experiments were made for the purpose of determining the influence of alcohol upon the muscular strength. The combined strength of all the different groups of muscles in the body was found, in the case of a healthy young man, to be 4,881 pounds. The young man was then given two ounces of brandy, and the test was repeated. He felt confident that his strength was increased. In fact, it was found to be only 3,385 pounds, a loss of more than one-third. A notable diminution in strength was still present ten hours after the administration of the brandy.

Real Healing Agents.

There are many fictitious remedies. Some make a man feel better when he is really getting worse. The most valuable measures which can be employed in dealing with the sick may be said to be baths, exercise and diet. The chronic invalid can be made well only by being reconstructed. The sick man must be transformed into a healthy man by a process of gradual change. He has been months or years in tearing down his constitution and substituting an inferior grade of material. Now this process must be reversed, and little by little, the old tissues must be torn down and new tissues built in their place.

Warm baths help throw off stored up poisons, and cold baths hasten the destruction of waste tissues, increase the activity of the heart and of all the organs, encourage the formation of the digestive fluids, and increase the appetite for food.

By means of exercise the movement of the blood is quickened and the old diseased tissues are broken down and carried out of the body. Exercise always diminishes weight. By exercise a normal appetite is earned and deep breathing encouraged.

Pure, simple food is the proper material with which to construct a new and healthy body. Man is built of what he eats. The house is no better than the material. Thus, baths, exercise, and a natural dietary constitute a curative trio, each helping the other.

WHOLE SOME RECIPES.

Tomato Sauce—One quart strained tomatoes, one tablespoonful nut butter, one grated onion. Mix well and boil five minutes. Thicken with cornstarch to the consistency of thick cream. Salt to taste.

Cream of Peanut Soup—One cupful ground peanuts; one-half teaspoonful celery salt; one small onion cut fine; one pint cooked tomatoes. Cook slowly and long. When done rub through a colander and add three pints of rich milk or part milk and part cream. Let come to a boil and serve at once.

Macaroni with Kornlet—Boil until tender one and one-half cups of macaroni, broken into inch lengths, in salted water. Rub one can of hulled sweet corn through a colander or use the prepared Kornlet, and add to it one pint of cream or nut cream. Heat to boiling and thicken with one tablespoonful of flour. Mix with the cooked macaroni, add one and one-fourth teaspoonfuls of salt; turn into a pudding dish and brown in a hot oven.

Date Dainties—Wash and steam for about ten minutes some choice dates. Split one side, remove the seed, putting in its place one-fourth of a walnut meat; press together and roll in powdered sugar.

THE MOOR AS A SERVANT.

Mighty Picturesque, but With Hospitable Notions of His Own. An artist in New York has a Moor for a servant. The artist found him dancing in a side show at the fair, and they had a little chat between dances. It was a one-sided chat for the Moor knows little English, though he knew enough English or human nature to say that he had been a servant of the Sultans. Before the Moor danced again the artist had asked him to be his servant.

The Moor could not say, modestly, "What, in this attire?" for his scarlet robes and turban were gorgeous; but he did murmur something about being dressed differently from American servants. The artist wanted him as he was, and said so.

So as he is, in scarlet grandeur, he waits on the artist's studio apartments. The guests hold their breath a little when the enormous man in red enters the room to do the tea chores. The artist, however, breathes evenly.

The Moor has a trick of hospitality toward his employer's guests of which, perhaps, it would be well for the artist to break him, as it proves nerve shattering to the uninitiated. He solemnly takes it upon himself to greet each guest, as he or she arrives, with proffered hand and the plaintive murmur, "My friend."

Perhaps the artist thinks it is better not to correct the Moor. He is a very big man, and the artist treats him politely.

LITTLE TROUBLE TO LEARN.

Sandy's First Attempt at Feat an Unqualified Success.

A Scottish gillie was invited by the laird to take a pull at his flask after gaffing the first fish of the day.

"I canna trink out of a bottle," protested the gillie, with a frown of disapproval.

"Aweel, try, Sandy," said the laird encouragingly. And Sandy tried—tried so thoroughly that the laird gazed at him mingled awe and admiration as the whisky gurgled and gurgled out of the flask down the swartly throat, until, with scarce a heel tap left in it, the "pocket pistol" was handed back to the owner.

"Hoot, Sandy, maybe ye were richt—maybe ye canna trink out of a bottle," gasped the laird, with a mighty sigh, "but, eh, mon, ye'd soon learn!"—Bailey's Magazine.

When Cannon Were a Novelty.

There is an amusing description by Munro, an old Scottish soldier, of the effect of cannon, when they were new weapons of warfare. "For a long time," he says, "used for the battering down of walls and cities, they were at last used in the field to break squadrons and battalions of horse and foot. And how soon the trumpet did sound the enemy was thundered on so that they were cruelly frightened, men of valor being suddenly taken away, who before were wont to fight valiantly and long with sword and lance. But now men are martyred and cut down at more than half a mile of distance by those furious and thundering engines of great cannon."

Love's Way.

Love makes the heart so light, so light Like thistle-down its upward flight; Earth seems so very far away, And heaven so very near the day. Love comes a-knocking at our door, And whispers all his cunning lore. Nor canst thou hurt, nor sorrow blind, The heart that love has made so kind.

Love makes the world so bright, so bright, As silvery moonbeams do the night; Though storms may come and winds may blow, As through this weary world we go, Love sees the sun behind the cloud, And so much there is that gives delight, In the world love makes so bright.

Love makes the way so clear, so clear; No stumbling in the dark, no fear, And death before me lies so straight, And at the end the shining gate. It is so easy to climb the height, To toil to hope, to climb the height, Since I have walked with you, my dear, Along the way love makes so clear, —Irene L. Deering, in Boston Transcript.

Will Cheaper Old Violins.

Are we about to witness a slump in 'Strads' and other old violins? A letter received in Rome, from Bucharest, states that an Italian artist named Antonio Bonardi, long resident there, has found a method of greatly improving the quality of tone in violins. This result is secured by a certain modification of the shape, especially at the narrower part, rendering the instrument at the same time more elegant in form. It is stated that at a recent musical conversation, the Bonardi instrument, although made of new wood, was tried against an old Guaragnini with triumphant results.—London Globe.

An Assumed Right.

It would appear that marriage gives to the husband in Jamaica peculiar rights, if one may judge from the remark of a native woman who came to a magistrate to make complaint because a man had knocked her down. She closed her complaint by saying, in an aggrieved tone, "And he had no good right to knock me down; he is not my husband."—Woman's Home Companion.

Keep Plant in Room With Piano.

A growing plant should be kept in the room with a piano, says a pianotuner. As long as the plant thrives the piano will. The reason that a piano is injured by a dry, overheated room is that all the moisture is taken out of the sounding board. The board is forced into the case so tightly that it bulges up in the center and though the wood is supposed to be as dry as possible when this is done it contains some moisture and gathers more on

An Oregon Chicken House.

As I promised some time ago I will endeavor to give the readers of the Farmers' Review an idea of the "varmint" proof chicken house constructed by me. As we live in the wild and brushy west, where wildcats, minks, weasels, skunks and coons are as plentiful as rabbits in Australia, we have to protect our poultry or we would have none. This is necessary the more so as the poultry business is second to none in the United States. It is my belief that tight houses and poor water are responsible for the great mortality among fowls every summer.

My building is 12x20 feet in size and I always have from 70 to 120 fowls and have had during the past ten years, and in all that time I have not lost to exceed six grown fowls.

The building stands three feet six inches above the ground; that is, it is that distance from the ground to the floor. The house itself is box-shaped, built of 1x12 lumber, without battens. In summer the cracks open one-fourth inch. These close up in winter. There is a door in the end and a window in the south side.

The entrance for the chickens is on the opposite end from the door. The orifice is made of a tin oil can about 9 1/2 inches square and 14 inches long. You can get this at any paint shop. Cut out the ends and cut a hole in the house the size of the can. One end of the can should be cut diagonally from corner to corner, and each piece bent back at right angles to the can to nail to the wall on the inside of house. Let the entire length of the can project outside. The entrance should be about three inches above the floor.

On the outside right opposite the entrance and about four feet away, set a round post, the top of which should be two inches lower than the entrance. On the post put a one-gallon milk pan (an old one will do); put it upside down and nail fast.

From this lay a board of proper length and as wide as will go in the end of the can. Nail board down to the post on top of the pan. In front of entrance and inside building set a board two feet long, 14 inches wide, about 13 inches from entrance. Then take another board of same size and lay on top, nailing one edge to the wall and the other on top of the edge of the wall board. This is to prevent the wind from blowing in.

Now if the floor of the building is sufficiently tight not even a rat can get in.

Now, Mr. Editor, I wish to say that I am no chicken crank. It is not only the chicken house that has made poultry raising a success with me, but my success is also due to the lady that has prepared the fowls for the table for me for the past fifty years.—David Ruble, Lincoln County, Oregon, in Farmers' Review.

Wild Turkeys.

A good many people do not know that wild turkeys are still in existence in various parts of the country and that their existence in the wild state has a direct bearing on our poultry industry because of the crosses that are frequently made between them and the domesticated varieties. It might be well if the state governments would take measures to keep the wild turkey from extinction. Domestication has its advantages, but it also has its disadvantages.

Wild turkeys have a vigor that the general run of domesticated turkeys do not possess. This is due to their wild life in the open air and their constant dependence on the food they have to hunt or is due to the fact that the battle for the mastery among the male birds still goes on among them as of old. Thus many a male turkey is killed by his stronger and more vigorous rivals. Doubtless this has an important bearing in keeping up the vigor of the stock.

It has been found that by capturing a wild male and mating him with tame females of the Bronze variety progeny of exceptional vigor is produced. If we permit the wild turkey to be put out of existence there will be an end to this improvement in vigor unless breeders are able to put more science into their breeding operations than they have been able to do up to the present time.

It might be a good idea where the wild birds are in proximity to the domesticated turkey flock to let the males fight it out. This has been done sometimes with the result that the domesticated male has given up the ghost and the other has taken possession of the flock.

Now and then the nest of the wild turkey hen is found in the woods and the eggs taken to the henry to be hatched. The poult that come from such eggs are healthier and harder than those from eggs of the domesticated hen; but care has to be taken to prevent the young birds from resuming the wild habits of their parents.

Needed No Embellishment.

John was a poor boy who lived across the street from Richard. At Richard's invitation he had come to dinner, and, having eaten his meat and potato, sat back with a satisfied air. "Oh, wait," said Richard, "we haven't had our dessert, yet." John asked what it was, and was told to wait and see.

When apple pie was brought on, little John looked at it in bewildered surprise.

"Pie at our house is pie," he announced, "not dessert."

SLAUGHTER OF JEWS IN ENGLAND

Cavaignac. It was a fearful slaughter and the strikers and their sympathizers were terrorized and for the time subdued. The commander of the troops, "Cavaignac the bloody," was named for president of the republic, but was overwhelmingly defeated by Louis Napoleon, the man whom a coup d'etat afterward made the emperor of France.

Among the bloody deeds perpetrated in France in the days of the commune following the great revolution of 1789 a foremost place in history is given to the "massacre in the fields of Mars." Sunday, July 17, 1791.

That day a petition was to be signed asking the national convention to arraign for trial the craven king, Louis XVI, who had fled in terror from Paris. Rumors of riot and carnage at the place where the petition was being signed, the Field of Mars, reached Danton, Marat, Robespierre and the other revolutionary leaders, and La Fayette was sent with troops to quell the disturbance. Stones and mud were thrown at the soldiers and they fired into the dense unarmed mass, killing and wounding.

"The slaughter was great, the panic complete," says Thomas E. Watson in city's gates, and Danton secured the passage of an order for the hoisting of the "black flag of death" upon the towers of the city hall.

"Even as the voice of Danton had echoed and re-echoed through the great hall of the assembly," says Historian Watson, "the shriek of doomed prisoners rang wildly through the streets. The September massacres had begun. Some 200 butchers were let loose upon the helpless men and women huddled in the prisons and told to wreak vengeance upon them. Commissions signed by municipal officers authorized suitable agents to hold courts in the prisons, to deliver instant judgment and to have immediate execution done. The prisoners are dragged from their cells, are halted for a moment before this sham tribunal, are examined with brevity and are delivered over to the murderers, who stand ready at the door. Death before the dishonor of swearing allegiance to the terrorists was the answer of all heroic souls. 'Conduct madam out,' says the judge, and madam is led to the door, is struck, is stabbed, is brutally beaten, till life is gone; is heven asunder, her head fixed on a pike, her dripping heart his fascinating work, "The Story of France." Men, women and children were killed. Not a soldier was hurt. The crowd had no arms; it certainly was not expecting a fight. There may have been guilty men on the scene, but most of the victims were surely innocent. There were men and women, dressed in their Sunday clothes, who had no weapons whatever on their persons. And there were chilheld up to the hooting mob, and the rest is too sickening to be told.

"For three days this massacre went on. A mere handful of wretches did the work, tolerated by the silence of the people, encouraged by the government and not checked by the government of the terrorists.

"After the bloody work was ended in Paris and Tallien had made his announcement to the assembly that

FARMERS' CLUB.

The Western Washtenaw Union Farmers' Club held their regular February meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fish on Middle street, east, last Friday. Owing to the condition of the roads the members of the club who reside in the rural districts were unable to be present. The only members of the club present, residing on a farm, were Mr. and Mrs. H. Lighthall, and some twenty-one members who reside in this village. After dinner a short program was carried out, consisting of a recitation by Mrs. C. S. Jones and special addresses by Revs. E. E. Caster, P. M. McKay, A. A. Schoon and Geo. W. Gordon, and singing by Miss Edith Noyes. The next meeting of the organization will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Mapes, in this village, Friday March 17.

OVERCOME BY GAS.

While J. D. McLaren and his son Charles were packing apples in the Gentz cellar, north side, Monday afternoon, Mr. McLaren was overcome by gas generated from a charcoal stove, and sustained some serious injuries by falling against a jagged stone wall. Charles succeeded in getting his father out into the air where he revived somewhat and was then taken home. Physicians were summoned who attended him and although ill from the effects all night, he was able to be up next day, though very weak. Mr. McLaren had worked in the cellar for some time before being overcome and did not notice the presence of gas. Charley McLaren was in and out of the cellar frequently and was not affected.—Plymouth Mail.

The Mr. McLaren referred to in the above is a son of Jas. McLaren, sr., of Lima, and a brother of D. C. McLaren of this village.

GIRL TRYSTS WITH FORTY.

Mischievous English Maiden Gets Two Score Lovesick Ones Together Who Finally Realize Joke.

Colchester, England, is laughing over the way in which a score or so of the youth of both sexes have been hoaxed. Twenty or more of the "gilded youths" of Colchester received a letter, delicately phrased and daintily written in a feminine hand, making appointments with a girl outside one of the biggest buildings in the town.

The girl declared her passion to each in the most endearing fashion, and asked in order to make identification complete, that the gallant swain should wear a sailor hat slightly tilted on the right side, a roiled umbrella under his right arm and a sprig of ivy in his button hole.

Then, at the appointed hour, a number of pilgrims, specially dressed for the occasion, were observed to approach the building over which a large clock denoted the hour of appointment. They were gradually reinforced, and passers-by were struck by the fact that each wore a sailor hat set rakishly over his right eye, twirled an umbrella in a vain attempt to appear unconcerned and sported a leaf of ivy in his coat.

Presently the young gentlemen themselves began to study one another's "get-up" with increasing embarrassment and discomfort—a sensation which was shortly accentuated by the appearance of several ladies, each wearing ivy, who glanced furtively at the young gentlemen, and then at each other and appeared considerably puzzled.

A word was said, but gradually the assembly of both sexes began to disperse to the intense amusement of a crowd who had collected, attracted by the unusual uniformity of attire among 40 young folks.

During this time he failed to deliver the mail once on account of bad roads but did make a start that day. Previous to this Samuel Vicory carried it for four years at $100 per year and never missed a trip. Now, with rural carriers getting $720 per year, we are without mail two holidays every year besides many other days. Saturday was as fine a day as we have had this winter, all roads were open by noon giving carriers ample time to make their trips before night and yet no carriers went through this vicinity. When congress gets that salary boosted to $900 the farmers need not look for their mail only a few of the pleasant days in the spring and fall.

TO CHEAPEN ARMOR PLATE

Midvale Steel Company Chemists Discover Method Which Will Reduce Cost.

While it has long been the policy of the Midvale Steel company, of Philadelphia, not to take the public into its confidence, it is known that the company now has the control of a new process of making armor plate at a cost very much below that of the Harvey or Krupp method used by the concerns now furnishing plates to the government for warships.

The process is said to be the invention of two of the company's employees, who have been at work on the problem for 15 years. It is asserted that under the new method armor plate can be made at a profit of $100 a ton, while under contracts now in force the plates cost the government $600 a ton.

Two young chemists of the Midvale company, one named Ganz and the other Chase, took up the problem of making steel about 15 years ago. Each worked in secret and neither knew the other was so engaged. Ganz sought to make steel that burglars could not drill through. Chase wanted to make armor plate that shells could not pierce.

To carry out the idea of each chemist the same thing was necessary—steel that possessed the opposing qualities of hardness and tenacity, the latter requiring softness.

Ganz and Chase had worked for years on the problem before either found out what the other was doing. When they did learn this they promptly decided to combine and work together.

That the chemists have at length succeeded is now known. Their method has not been made known, but they have found a way to cast steel that is hard on the outer side and soft on the inner side. It is known that this is done by the use of certain sands, but the composition and the proportions of these sands are held a strict secret.

GERMS FROM SPELLBINDERS

British Scientists Declare Loud Speakers Scatter Millions of Germs Through Atmosphere.

A new terror has been added to the public life of the average politician who finds the effort of addressing his constituents a tiresome performance. Now it is learned on no less an authority than that of the medical department of the London government board that he may not only bore himself and his audience but that he may prove the medium of disseminating infection.

"As the outcome of varied and repeated experiments," says Dr. Merayn Gordon, of the local government board, "it has been well substantiated that not only in the act of coughing and sneezing, but also in the act of loud speaking, fine droplets of mucus are sprayed from the mouth to the air, that they float in the air, and that they may be wafted by air currents such as obtain in ordinary rooms to a distance that appears at first sight almost incredible."

"Micro-organisms," said a London medical officer of health in confirmation of Gordon's statement, "abound in the respiratory passages and the mouth. They remain there so long as they are undisturbed, but are driven out in the midst of the spray which is emitted in the act of coughing, sneezing, singing or loud speaking."

"Public orators, preachers and other people who speak forcibly send out millions of these organisms."

There is no specific for consumption. Fresh air, exercise, nourishing food and Scott's Emulsion will come pretty near curing it, if there is anything to build on. Millions of people throughout the world are living and in good health on one lung.

A MATTER OF HEALTH

W. H. GLENN ON DREAMS.

There are about as many opinions as individuals about dreams. Some take them as warnings, others as indications of over eating, especially of mince pie. In fact there are too many opinions for one to take space to mention them, so content myself by relating one my father had in as few words as possible. This can be vouched for by several persons now living.

Father intended going to Detroit to buy goods for the new store on the corners. We had quite a few hives of bees and felt anxious to save all new swarms. So mother said how about the bees while you are away, as he did the hiving of new swarms. Father said they would be all right for he had dreamed that the bees would swarm the next day, and uncle, who lived in Unadilla, would be hand to help hive them. Now the two families had been estranged for some years, and there was no visiting between the members, so you see it was not a thing to be expected, and I will only tell the main features of the incident.

Father went, and at just the time he mentioned out came the bees. We all took pains to drive them to a tree, and just as they settled we thought of the dream, and on looking toward the gate we saw uncle driving in. Although the families had a little trouble, as young folks were more than glad to see our uncle. As father had dreamed he took the lead and put the bees in the hive without being asked, as if all had been previously arranged between him and father. After he had attended to the bees mother told him about the dream, and all enjoyed a good visit.

I do not try to explain the dream or any other dream, but I think you will agree with me that it is strange.

IT IS said that the prosperity of the migrants is not as much as in Europe and in Europe are leaving many courtiers and boys with stops only to be seen, where remains bought for a times are to be seen. It is said that much travel is a sign of prosperity; however that may be, the migrants southward are more numerous than in past years, both here and in Europe, and these fortunate ones are leaving much earlier. This has made courtyards and dressmakers unusually busy with summer cloths, and in the shops only spring and summer fabrics are to be seen, except on bargain tables. There remains of winter stocks may be bought for a trifle—even beautiful costumes are to be had far below their cost. Many women wait for this to lay in clothes for next winter's wear, but the economy of this is a question. Modes change so swiftly and so radically that it costs a good deal to have these gowns brought up to date. Last winter's sleeves are still upside down to us now, and sleeves of all things, tell the tale.

There are no really artistic and faultily dressed women who refuse to adopt the huge puff on the sleeves, either in the "mutton leg" or elbow variety, and, true to tell, many of the smartest tailor gowns are coming out with the real tailor sleeves following the lines of the arm. Some less severe frocks for afternoon wear, composed of such materials as mohair, panne cloth, the pretty new tweeds, soft taffeta or surah, have the puffs, but in reduced size. Not that they take less material, for the arrangement is not as bouffant.

Speaking of sleeves, it is a useful point for the home dressmaker to know that she can bring her last year's sleeve up to date in many pretty ways; the long cuff of lace with little chemisette to match is probably the nicest, but where this is unavailable silk to match the gown color may be used with a little introduced elsewhere, especially in a girdle, preferably in the girdle and stock.

to stay. It is a useful accessory, suitable to both indoor and outdoor costumes, and several sets of chemisettes with the accompanying turn-over cuffs or arm frills are mighty effective in finishing up the wardrobe. Then there are the ribbon ties that are in many costumes replacing the lace jabot, though by no means superseding this dainty bit of decoration. Ribbon ties are much worn with the white skirt waists, the color of the tie matching the shade of the skirt.

The days are surely getting longer, and the real winter seems to have come with them; therefore we will follow the crowd that has fled from "winter's nipping blasts," anticipating summer in the ever-blooming gardens of the southland. This early provision of a summer wardrobe is excellent for the dressmakers, for they will have to make entirely fresh outfits when the butterflies return, and then we shall see again "the very latest from Paris."

The fashionable resorts of Southern Europe are thronged already with elegantly gowned women. So perfect in every detail are the costumes that one wonders if ingenuity in the art of dress can go any farther. Dainty frocks, looking very simple have a wealth of fine work in their detail, hand work in fancy stitches, and especially embroidery, being one of the fads of the day—an expensive one, unless one has the leisure to do it for oneself. It is pretty work, and certainly pays for the trouble and time spent on it. Embroidery shows on everything; but most con-

In this fascinating imported model the order is reversed: the hat proper forms the underbrim, while the upper is covered with a soft corn-colored facing of tulle done in full, fluffy tucks, this almost covering the small dome crown. Of course, wires under the tulle assist in the fluted arrangement of the deep left brim. A wreath of small yellow roses with black satin foliage encircles the crown, soft wide ribbon in the two shades forming a long "crush" bow on the left and back.

skirt and hat, for Madame La Mode decrees that we must be a harmonious whole. But, though exacting in general effect, she never before allowed her subjects so wide a choice in the fashioning of their habiliments. No one now need wear an unbecoming hat, garment or color because it is "fashionable," there is such diversity that any one and every one may look lovely if she but will.

The shirt-waist suit has become a necessary part of the wardrobe; not only the simple forenoon suit, almost tailored in make and style, but the après midi toilet is often of this order, being especially suitable for the outdoor life of the mid-winter southern resorts. Among the favorite materials mohair seems to have first place; it holds no dust, is soft, silky and light, and coming as it does, in so many pretty colors and in woven raised dots and figures, it offers unlimited possibilities to Madame la Modiste.

Narrow ribbon is used as trimming, both plain in ruffles or design, often gathered on fine featherbone cords, by which it is shaped into loops and scrolls.

In the same way flounces are gathered on reeds or cords, giving the skirt a pretty undulation. Just extending it enough, and without stiffness. In cloth gowns, even though they be of the light, satiny variety, more resisting support is needed, and then richness haircloth is used in the hem, or above it, with a reed or two added if the skirt has many tucks, while for the drop skirts of evening gowns featherbone criolette is more suitable.

Among the welcome revivals of old materials are faille and surah, the first for coats and capes, the latter for shirtswa-springy texture; it does not crush; its sheen sheds the dust, and, besides making up charmingly, it wears well. No material could be more suited to drape over the beautifully fitted bodice or belt linings, or to gather up into the big, soft sleeves, ending in delicious little frills around the arm below the elbow, or carried in fine tucks or shirrings to the wrist. In the skirt, too, it admits of much play of form in tucks, corded and

A welcome innovation comes from Trouville, where dainty lace-trimmed lawn drop-skirts are being worn to match or harmonize with silk costumes, showing all the beautiful handwork and elaboration of the white lingerie petticoat.

Hats and footwear are the crown and completion, the alpha and omega of the toilette, both receiving the greatest attention. Hats are inclined to be small.

that is to say, they are bent into shapes that reduce their size and sit jauntily on the head, the tricorne, cavalier and Napoleon being the immediate favorites. The last named is a hard shape to wear, but in the new pliable straws and relieved of its severity by softening trimmings it becomes a thing of beauty and becomingness, allowing the coiffure its full effect as a setting for the face. Large simply shaped hats are worn with morning gowns for the promenade, many being of embroidered linen laid over shirred or lace run frames, and merely decorated with a twist and rosette of ribbon.

A PRETTY FROCK FOR ALL SUMMER USE.

DESCRIPTION OF THE COSTUMES

A Pretty Frock That May Be Worn
All Summer.

For the more elaborate party frocks the winter will do good service next summer as the little lady's very "bestas" gown. This soft India linen has a full skirt and bebe waist, the skirt alternate rows of lace and fine tucks finished with a four-inch lace edged and inserted ruffle. The waist is cut with a square neck and finished with a circular berthe, this lace edged and trimmed to match the skirt.

Green Gown in Black and Silver.
Simplicity of design distinguishes this beautiful imported model: black silk, delicately embroidered with jet and silver. Long, flowing, in dainty garlands falls in a cushion, with white taffeta drop skirt between. This latter has a band of soft green harem cloth laid in above the hem. The corset is a simple blouse, with vest of black of white d'Alençon lace, a fall the same over one of white chiffon and the puff sleeves. The black silk fastens with long jet and silver

LOCAL EVENTS

OF THE PAST WEEK FOR THE STANDARD'S READERS.

B. B. Turnbull is able to get down town and greet his friends again.

The Woodmen at their meeting Monday evening initiated a class of six.

Mrs. Patrick Prendergast of Lyndon has been critically ill for some time.

The next meeting of the Washtenaw County Grange will be held March 14.

Wm. Wheeler, Jr., has purchased the Waunder residence on South Main street.

A party of about fifteen Chelsea sportsmen spent Wednesday in Lyndon fox hunting.

Chelsea Tent, K. O. T. M. M., will give a dancing party at Woodman hall Friday, February 24.

L. G. Palmer and C. E. Vogel are making arrangements to open up an office here as civil engineers.

Rev. E. E. Caster gave a luncheon to the choir of the M. E. church at the parsonage last evening.

Olive Chapter, O. E. S., will hold a meeting Wednesday evening, March 1, for the purpose of initiation.

Mrs. William Hoppe died at her home in Sylvan, Thursday morning, February 23, 1905, in the 64th year of her age.

Mrs. Edward Doll, of Lyndon, has been confined to her home for several days by a severe attack of bronchitis.

Mrs. Frank Leach and John A. Palmer are both reported as suffering with the infantile disease known as the whooping cough.

The Misses Anna and Margaret Miller left Saturday for the East to study the new styles and select their stock of spring millinery.

The children of William Riemenschneider of Sylvan, met at his home yesterday where they celebrated the 83 anniversary of his birth.

O. C. Burkhart spent Monday and Tuesday at Eaton Rapids where he received and shipped onions for the Chelsea Lumber & Produce Co.

Mrs. John R. Gates returned to her home here Friday from Mt. Clemens where she has been spending sometime taking the celebrated mineral baths of that place.

Jas. Cooke, who recently returned from Florida is presenting a number of his friends with an orange walking stick which he cut while sojourning in the land of oranges.

All Sylvan township taxes that have not yet been paid must be in the hands of Treasurer W. F. Riemenschneider, not later than February 28, as the time for the collection expires on that day.

There will be a special meeting of Olive Lodge, No. 156, F. & A. M., Tuesday evening, February 28. The third degree will be exemplified. Every member of the order is requested to be present.

Frank Harvey of Jackson, who assaulted Under Sheriff Warner at Ann Arbor and was charged with resisting an officer, waived examination and was bound over to the circuit court, with bail at $500.

President Roosevelt delivered the Washington birthday address at the university of Pennsylvania yesterday. The degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon the president by the university authorities.

The L. C. B. A. will have a progressive pedro social at Woodman hall on Thursday, February 23, from 8 to 11. Fine prizes will be given. Admission will be 10 cents, and a cordial invitation to come is extended to all.

The United States Daily, started by S. B. Hutchinson Co. in Detroit to boom the trading stamp business, has proved to be a losing venture, and suspended publication last Tuesday, after an existence of sixty-eight days.

There was but one or two democrats in Sylvan, who turned out last Saturday in response to the call issued for a democratic caucus to nominate fourteen delegates to attend the county convention held at Ann Arbor Tuesday.

D. Heselshwerdt, of Grass Lake, has a force of men at work here placing his sawmill machinery in position. He has taken a contract from Theodore Egloff to saw up the logs that he has purchased from the farmers in this vicinity.

The fifth anniversary of the dedication of the M. E. church and organ will be celebrated at the church February 25. A fine supper will be served for 25 cents. And a suitable program will be rendered. Every lady will receive a souvenir. Supper from 5 o'clock until all are served.

The rural mail carriers from the Chelsea postoffice seem to have been rather more fortunate than those from our neighboring towns. The carriers from here went over portions of their routes every day, and on Saturday everyone of them reached all patrons on the routes.

The potato crop of 1904 was a record breaker, being 40,000,000 bushels more than the banner crop of 1896. The total number of bushels raised last year was 332,000,000 or 20 bushels for every family in this country. Potatoes brought a good price, too, and farmers made money by raising them.

Harry Heatley, of Chicago, is seriously ill with an attack of rheumatism of the heart. His mother, Mrs. H. V. Heatley, of Lyndon, who was at Sandusky, Ohio, to attend the funeral of her brother, was telegraphed for, and reached the home of her son Saturday night, where she is assisting in caring for the sufferer.

Sam Boyce, manager of the Lyndon cheese factory, informs The Standard that the factory has sold the last cheese the company had on hand and that the business for the past year has been far better than the management anticipated at the beginning of the season. They expect to start up the plant about the first of the coming April.

At a meeting of the University of Michigan memorial committee at the University club last Thursday, the secretary, E. W. Pendleton, reported a number of new subscriptions, among them one of $5,000 from the Michigan Central Railroad Co. Reports received up to the present time show that the total of subscriptions is about $60,000.

School Commissioner Foster wishes to announce to the teachers of Washtenaw county that the next examination will be held at Ann Arbor, March 9 and 10. Applicants may write for 1st, 2nd, or 3rd grade certificates. Reading will be based upon "Silas Marner," George Eliot. Theory and art of teaching will be based upon "Art of Study," Hinsdale.

A class of 50 was united with the Knights of Columbus at Ann Arbor Sunday, February 19. Among the members, who joined, were the following from Chelsea: Edward Carry, John Keelan, Eugene McIntee, Jr. and J. Arthur Rafferty. Quite a number of the Knights from Chelsea attended. After the ceremony there was a grand banquet with speeches and music.

Mrs. Cornelia Moots, of Bay City, will deliver an address at the M. E. church next Sunday. Mrs. Moots will relate her experience as a missionary during the three years she spent in the Philippine Islands. She left her home some three years ago paying all of her expenses from her own private purse. Her account of the work she accomplished will be well worth listening to. Everybody is cordially invited to be present.

A very pleasant family reunion occurred last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. George Wackenhut, on South Main street. The event was the 77th anniversary of her birth. Her children, Michael Wackenhut and family of Jackson, George and Martin Wackenhut and their families of this place were present and the evening was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Wackenhut is one of the pioneer German residents of this village, having resided here about 49 years.

Tommy McNamara, the David Harum of Chelsea, recently sold a horse to the Advance Stock Food Co. of Chicago, taking in part payment 2,000 pounds of their food product that he is disposing of at from 25 to 50 cents per pound less than the usual retail price. Tommy says that he has bought and sold a great many horses, but this is his first experience in selling stock food. He is of the opinion, that his last venture will prove more profitable than buying and selling horses at from 2 to 5 cents per pound, as he has often done.

A series of special meetings will be held for the next two weeks in the Congregational church. There will be services every night, except Saturday, at 7:30 o'clock. Next week's meetings will be in charge of Rev. Guy Hugo Lemon of Wyandotte. Everyone is invited to attend these revival services. The following subjects will be used by Rev. Lemon, Monday, The philosophy of Jesus of Nazareth. Tuesday, Some Proposition of Life. Wednesday, The Judgment of God. Thursday, Our World or The Economy of Life Friday, Jesus Christ's Love For Men.

D. C. McLaren received a letter last Friday announcing the death of an uncle, David A. Duncan, on Tuesday, February 14, 1905, at Santa Barbara, Cal., of heart failure. Mr. Duncan's home was at Duluth, Minn., and a few weeks ago he left there to spend the winter in California for his health. He was a native of Unadilla, and left there when a young man for Saginaw where he was engaged in the lumber business for a number of years. He was the eldest brother of the late Mrs. James McLaren, sr., of Lima, and well known to many residents of this vicinity.

COMFORT AND STYLE

When you try on a pair of shoes, look for two things-- comfort and style.

You must have them both! Either one by itself is not enough. It is easy to make a stylish shoe, but it is very difficult to combine the two. To make a stylish shoe that is comfortable is the highest art.

A shoe may feel comfortable yet not fit properly.

Now it must fit or you are sure to have trouble. And the better it fits, the better it will wear.

The shoe that "fits where all others fail" is "Queen Quality." It fits because it is made in an infinite variety of sizes and styles to suit all shapes of feet and all occasions. If you want twice as many chances in selection, try Queen Quality.

CAL-CURA WILL CURE SOLD ON GUARANTEE

So positive are we that Cal-cura Solvent, Dr. David Kennedy's latest medicine, will cure the worst case of kidney and bladder troubles that we have instructed all dealers to sell it under our guarantee that it will cure these dangerous troubles or the money will be refunded.

Cal-cura Solvent's wonderful power to cure diseases of the kidney and bladder is the happy result of the efforts of that skilled physician and surgeon, Dr. David Kennedy, to make a medicine that would dissolve and expel from the system stone, gravel and uric acid. In this way Cal-cura Solvent not only cures the disease but also removes all irritating causes. It is not a patent medicine, but a prescription used by Dr. Kennedy in his large private practice with unfailing success. It acts upon a newly discovered principle, and cannot fail, so we are able to make a guarantee of this nature. Begin its use to-day and get well. It is the only guaranteed kidney remedy. All druggists, $1.00.
