TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The Best Ever Held in Washtenaw to Be Held This Summer.

A three weeks' county institute, beginning June 26 and closing July 14, is to be held in the training school building of the State Normal College, Ypsilanti. The general exercises of the institute will be held in the chapel of the training school and section meetings in the various school rooms on the second floor. The rooms on the lower floor of the building will be occupied by the various grades of the training school conducted as a model school or school of observation. Arrangements will be made for members of the institute to observe in the different grades. The critic teachers will give illustrative lessons before the institute.

Members of the institute will have the opportunity to use classes of the Normal College for review work, should they desire, without expense; while they will be welcome each day at the regular lectures given by specialists.

It is hoped and expected that all teachers of the county will attend the full three weeks. Arrangements will be made for any who desire to do so, to take up review work in the college for the weeks following the institute. No teacher in the county should fail to attend, if she possibly can. Credits for attendance at the institute will be given at the August examination.

QUIET HOME WEDDING.

At Which the Lives of Mr. Walter Foster and Miss Nellie Noyes Were United.

A quiet home wedding occurred Friday evening, March 3, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Noyes, on South Main street, when their third daughter Miss Nellie O. Noyes was united in marriage to Mr. Walter Foster, of St. Paul, Minn. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. E. Caster in the presence of members of the family and a few old friends and neighbors, in all about 20 being present. After the ceremony a dainty wedding supper was served, for which Miss Nen Wilkinson did the catering. Mr. and Mrs. Foster left on the 10:52 p. m. train for Chicago, and from there went to St. Paul, Minn., where they will reside.

SOLID MAIL DELIVERY

In the Rural Districts of Washtenaw County Is Now Being Arranged.

Ann Arbor Times: Frank P. Robards, of Hillsdale, special agent for free rural delivery service, was in Ann Arbor the past week, doing the preliminary work preparatory to instituting a solid rural free delivery service for Washtenaw county. The method of procedure followed is to drive over the whole county and make maps; after the whole county has been mapped out, they set to work to unravel the tangle and put the puzzle together in the form of routes of twenty-four miles each, bringing mail service within half a mile of every farmer in the county.

As to the probable number that would be required here, Mr. Robards explained that he could not tell until he had the county maps completed. It is expected that the whole county will have been driven over and mapped out by the last of this week and then something definite can be ascertained in regard to the number of new carriers that would be required.

Mr. Robards and his assistant have had some interesting experiences with farmers who live along the proposed routes. Every man is anxious to have the carrier go past his door so that he will not be obliged to walk to the nearest corner to get his mail. Naturally, these farmers think themselves abused because the carrier does not drive half a mile inland to bring the mail to their very doors. "As great a thing as the free delivery is for the farmers," said Mr. Robards, "one might not think that they would grumble at a slight inconvenience of that kind, inasmuch as they have never been able to get their mail more than once or twice a week in their lives before. But you would be surprised at the amount of kicking that I hear over that very thing; however, it is the best that we can do."

Republican Caucus.

The Republicans of the township of Sylvan will meet in caucus at the town hall, on Saturday, March 11, 1905, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating 14 delegates to the county convention to be held at the court house in the city of Ann Arbor, to nominate three county auditors.

You may do some close guessing, but you can't always swear to a man's politics by the button he wears.

Because a woman weeps is no sign that she is unhappy. She may be enjoying herself making somebody else miserable.

It is reported that the public is again buying in Wall street. How soon the public forgets after the blisters are gone.

A Chicago woman has been granted damages of $1 for being lugged. Dave Hill will probably regard it as an exorbitant price.

There is a man in Scotland whose beard is over eight feet long and is still growing. Other occupation, if any, not stated.

It is an unmistakable sign of progress that the women of China are making a vigorous kick for the right to wear their feet as nature made them.

The man who has sued his physician for $20,000 damages on account of a pockmarked face would compromise, doubtless, for a smaller sum in spot cash.

King Alfonso of Spain vows that the girl who becomes his queen must be beautiful. Evidently he has decided not to look for a wife among the princesses.

The American woman ought to be particularly interested in Rider Haggard's visit over here. He wrote a book once with the title "She Who Must Be Obeyed."

The movement in favor of knee breeches is reported to be making considerable progress in England. The bow-legged men can't have much influence over there.

MURDERER EAGLE GETS LIFE AND DISINHERITS HIS CHILDREN.

WOULD NOT HURRY HER HUSBAND, THOUGH AMPLY ABLE TO DO SO.

YOUNG WOMAN WORE A HIT AND WAS KEPT MASKED.

Suffering From Hydrophobia.

Mrs. Lena Mosher, aged 23, an inmate of the Kent county house, is suffering from a bad case of hydrophobia. Growing, biting and frothing at the mouth, she has greatly frightened the inmates of the home. She was bitten by a dog six years ago, and has since suffered from hydrophobia. It is now learned that at her home her relatives put a bit in her mouth and fastened a mask over her face to prevent injury to herself and others. When an attack comes on she makes a noise like a dog from whom a bone has been taken. Her eyes roll and she makes frantic efforts to bite herself and others. She is now kept in a room by herself and fastened to her cot.

Circle's Last Hour in Court.

"I can't shake hands with all of you, so good bye, boys," said Isaac Eagle, wife murderer, as he was led from the court room after being sentenced by Judge Steere, of San to Ste Marie, to solitary confinement in the state prison at Jackson for life. When asked if he had anything to say he replied: "Your honor, I wish in case of death you would make arrangements so that my body can be brought back to my folks." "I think that can be arranged," said the court. Before being sentenced Eagle cut off all his children who testified against him from inheritance. He has about $50,000 in property. He believes he will be pardoned in two or three years.

Barred by the City.

George Kurr, who was buried in Mason at the expense of the city, and died in the county poor house Wednesday night, was once worth $35,000, and his wife is now living at Auburn, N. Y., and is worth about $20,000. Mrs. Kurr refused to pay the expenses of burial of her husband. The case was furnished by the city of Mason and a cemetery lot was bought by Mrs. Walter Wooden, a niece by marriage. It is said that years ago Kurr was worth $35,000. He was taken sick, and thinking he would die, he bequeathed his property worth $23,000 to his wife. He recovered, but his wife would not give back the property and turned him out of the house. He came to Michigan and lost the $12,000 which he had not given to his wife. He then worked in this county as an ordinary farm hand and six years ago was taken to the poor house.

Prohibition Ticket.

The Prohibition state convention was held in Kalamazoo on Tuesday. The platform adopted declares among other things for prohibition, woman suffrage, initiative and referendum, government ownership of public utilities, election of president, vice-president and United States senators by popular vote and extinction of polygamy. The following state ticket was nominated: Justice of the supreme court, Walter S. Westerman, of Adrian; regents of the state university, Rev. Marshall M. Cullen, of Kalamazoo, and Dr. George S. Parmenter, of Petoskey; member of the state board of education, F. S. Goodrich, of Afton.

Wanted—Lots of Money.

The last meeting of the present Soldiers' Home board has been held to finish the year's work. The financial report shows that aside from the United States appropriation of $109 per capita per annum the cost to the state per capita is $69.75. The estimated membership for the home for the year ending June 30, 1901, is 900 men and 90 women. For 1901, 1,000 men and 120 women, and a steady increase for the next five years. The biggest appropriation in the history of the home, $287,250, is asked for this year. Of this, $100,000 will be expended for a new hospital.

The State Fair.

The State Fair and Co. has turned over to the executive committee of the Michigan State Agricultural society a deed to 95 acres of land on Woodward avenue, Detroit, opposite the site of Woodward cemetery. The sum of $51,000 was raised by subscription, and the site described purchased, the balance applying as a bonus, which will be turned over to the fair promoters within from 20 to 60 days. This money will be used for the erection of fair buildings.

Presumptive of Death.

A. J. Chapman, who was killed in Battle Creek while coupling cars, had a presumptive of his coming death. "Boys," said Chapman, a few hours before the fatality, "I believe I ought not to go to work today. All the morning it has seemed to me as if something was going to happen—as if I was going to be hurt or something." Before the next morning Chapman was lying at Nichols' hospital.

Advices Convict Colony.

At the Farmers' Institute in Battle Creek ex-Senator H. S. Earle of Detroit, state highway commissioner, advised that Isle Royale, in Lake Superior, be inhabited by about 1,000 state convicts to pound its rocks into material for stone roads throughout the rural districts of Michigan. The farmers cheered the idea until the Auditorium shivered.

Joseph Jacobus, the Ann Arbor agent of the Pacific and Wells-Fargo Express Co., has been stricken with smallpox.

NEWS OF THE WORLD

THE GREATEST BATTLE OF THE JAP-RUSSO WAR IS NOW RAGING.

KUROPATKIN STRIKES BACK IN A DESPERATE ATTACK.

TERRIBLE LOSSES IN THE AWFUL STRUGGLE ARE REPORTED.

Kuropatkin's Desperate Move.

Kuropatkin opened one of the most terrific battles of modern times on the left center of Oyama's army Monday to stem the tide of the Japanese advance. Kuropatkin's losses if killed and wounded up to Sunday night are placed at 23,500. Oyama is believed to have already lost fully 40,000 men.

The result of the greatest battle of modern times is expected to be determined in almost an hour's time. Two of the largest armies of recent times, both in men and guns, are now locked in a death struggle, and although Gen. Kuropatkin has evidently made every preparation to cover his retreat by removing his accumulated stores and munitions northward, it is now the opinion of military men here that one side or the other cannot escape an overwhelming disaster. With both wings bent backward Kuropatkin's position appears to be desperate, but the issue is still in the balance. News of a victory for him is only regarded as possible by his breaking through the enveloping lines. Unless Kuropatkin can strike and strike hard it is realized he must lose.

A feature of all accounts of the fighting Sunday reaching St. Petersburg, is the emphasis laid on the awful carnage. There is reference after reference to dead piled high on the ground over which an attack was delivered, strewn breastworks, almost hiding abatis from sight and even being used by the Japanese to construct hasty entrenchments. The Russian losses on both flanks are conceded to be enormous, but it is claimed that the defenders of the center suffered comparatively little by the Japanese bombardment and tearing off the Japanese attack.

Abandoning Mukden.

According to the latest information from the front, the battle between the Jap and Russian armies is of desperate character. The losses have been exceedingly heavy on both sides during the preliminary fighting. Although it is not officially admitted, it is regarded as certain that Gen. Kuropatkin is directing all his efforts to the withdrawal of his army to Tie Pass. It is now practically a rear guard action, but the task of extricating himself is proving very difficult. The Japanese have not only driven in his left, but a column of his army has been driven from the Hun river east of Fushun.

The Japanese are pressing the Russian center under cover of the fire of their siege guns and Gen. Kuropatkin is gradually retreating before the Japanese advance. The efforts of the Japanese to envelop the Russian right wing have been unsuccessful, but it has been forced back almost on a line with Mukden. Two Russian divisions were dispatched to head off the wide flanking column advancing from the Liao river toward Shumtlin (about thirty miles west of Mukden), but according to the latest advices they were too late, the Japanese having entered the town.

Mrs. Stanford's Sudden Death.

Mrs. Jane Lathrop Stanford, of San Francisco, widow of former U. S. Senator Leland Stanford, died in Honolulu on Tuesday night at the Meana hotel. Suspicious circumstances surround her death. She was taken ill at 11 o'clock and said: "I have been poisoned." Her last words were: "This is a horrible death to die." Mrs. Stanford came from San Francisco Feb. 21. In conversation with Mrs. Henry Highton, of San Francisco, who is now in Honolulu, Mrs. Stanford said that an attempt had been made to poison her in that city and that this was her reason for coming to Hawaii. It was Mrs. Stanford's belief, according to Mrs. Highton, that enough poison had been used to kill 20 persons. Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Stanford went to a picnic. She ate heartily. On returning to the hotel she took no dinner and retired shortly after 10 o'clock. At 11 o'clock a guest of the hotel who occupied an adjoining room, heard Mrs. Stanford groaning and running to the room found her lying on the floor. She had evidently tried to summon help. At the time of Mrs. Stanford's death there were present Miss Turner, her secretary and her maid, May Wilson. Both are prostrated.

On the 10th of last month it was reported that an attempt had been made to murder Mrs. Stanford by means of poison placed in a bottle of mineral water at the home in San Francisco. It was stated that she had taken three drinks of the deadly mixture, but the poison had been used in such large quantities that it served as its own emetic. Mrs. Stanford was taken violently ill and medical aid was summoned. The contents of her stomach and the water remaining in the bottle were analyzed and sufficient strychnine to have killed three persons was found.

THE LEGISLATURE.

The house committee on the Newberry asylum cut out of the appropriation bill for that institution the item for an administration building, also that for two new cottages. The $158,000 asked for was reduced to about $80,000.

All those interested in game bills will be heard at a meeting of the game committee of both houses on the evening of March 15.

The house committee of the whole has agreed to Representative Nank's bill providing that election ballots shall have inspectors' initials placed on the lower left-hand corner, instead of on the upper right-hand corner, as at present. This is to prevent the tearing off of initials with the numbers of the ballots, a trouble that was noticed in the election in Wayne county last fall.

The governor's dairy and food bill has passed and was given immediate effect. Now there are new inspectors to be appointed and paid.

Rep. and Mrs. J. Clyde Watt, who were married Wednesday, were given a great ovation by the house Thursday afternoon. Just before they arrived in charge of a committee, Rep. Lord moved that the house take up special orders, and as the young couple entered, the Industrial School band played a spirited march. On motion of Rep. Holmes the sergeant escorted Mr. Watt to the bar of the house to answer the charge of committing matrimony. Rep. McKay of Tuscola made a plea for the culprit, but Speaker Pro Tem Whelan, who presided, fined Mr. Watt $100, which was remitted, in view of the defendant's good judgment. The house presented Mr. and Mrs. Watt with a magnificent silver tea set, the presentation being made by Rep. Robinson of Detroit.

At the request of the committee on general taxation, the house ordered 1,000 copies of Rep. Lovell's bill to reduce the tax commission to three and to define and modify the duties of the members.

The house committee on revision and amendment of the statutes has reported in favor of Rep. Ming's bill to punish wife-beaters, with an amendment providing that the whipping to be administered to the offending husband by the sheriff shall take place within the jail inclosure and shall not be public. The house concurred in the amendment.

The house committee on general taxation has reported favorably on the bill of Rep. Canfield of Alpena, which is aimed to curtail the profits of taxicab sharks. It provides that county treasurers shall, upon request, furnish a purchaser of land a tax history of the property. If this certificate erroneously states that all taxes have been paid and it develops that the state has sold a tax title, the land owner forfeits no penalties, and the tax title shark recovers only what he paid, with 5 per cent interest.

The need of economy in state finances was clearly shown in the house Wednesday when the bills showing the total expenditures of the prisons and asylums of the state were presented. They draw on the state treasury for the money they need, and every two years the legislature spreads a tax to reimburse the treasury. This time the legislature will have to impose $250,000 more taxes than was imposed last session, and the principle of economy has been struck a blow which is serious. The revenue for 1901-2, $1,360,115.50, in the last two years the amount was $1,561,907.89. The prisons two years ago had spent $206,000 in round numbers—this year the bill is $253,000. The prisons bills are lower than they might be because the earnings of the prisoners are deducted from the total expenditure.

INAUGURAL CEREMONIES

THE INAUGURATION OF ROOSEVELT WAS A BRIEF LIANT AFFAIR.

PRESIDENT'S FIRST DAY WAS VERY BUSY ONE IN EVERY WAY.

THE SENATE NOW IN EXTRA SESSION FOR TREATY PURPOSES.

The Inauguration.

Theodore Roosevelt became twenty-seventh president of the United States on Saturday, March 4. Oath of office was administered by Chief Justice of the United States, in the presence of thousands of citizens from all parts of the country. He repeated the oath, the chief justice in a clear voice, at the conclusion he slowly and calmly lowered his head and held the open page of the Bible held before him. At that moment less silence prevailed. Every eye upon that sturdy figure, but for brief moment in an attitude of respectful humility.

At the completion of the presidential address the post up enthusiasm of vast throngs broke out and the air came filled with the clamor of less hands and wild cheering. It began to wave, soldiers, civic organizations, marching clubs, veterans, newsmen, Indians, Filipinos, Red Riders, Porto Ricans, all began to march hither and thither, prepared to falling in line for the grand parade of the crowds that had been waiting hours began to surge forward to the police lines, and all the people of the city of Washington and 200,000 people from all parts of the United States began to cheer.

President Roosevelt led his inaugural parade in quick marching time to the capitol to the White House, president in recent years has been prompt in moving from one end of avenue to the other. The day marched in ideal weather, the sky being clear, the sun warm, and a breeze blowing. The president led time in formalities. The splendid triumphal pageant preceded by a team of mounted police, moved up avenue amid the frantic applause of the thousands who packed the sidewalks on either side to view the spectacular and public feature of the day. The inaugural festivities closed midnight with a ball that in splendid attendance and artistic effect left no room for a brilliant, splendid day. Thousands of hands in gowned women with escorts from every state in the union and every civilized country, in the illuminated court of the pension building, paid their social debts to the nation's chief executive of the four years. The setting for the day was beautiful with a riotous wealth of color in flowers, evergreens, lighted plants.

A Day of Work.

Monday was the first business day of the new national administration and President Roosevelt disposed an immense amount of accumulated work. Secretary Hay had the distinction of transacting with the president the first business of the administration. Hundreds of visitors called at the White House and, despite the press of executive business the president found time to receive and extend a cordial greeting to most of them. Gov. Warner, of Michigan, and delegation from the state to the inauguration, accompanied by the Michigan senators, and representatives called on the president during the afternoon. The president sent a large number of nominations to the senate, including all of the members of the present cabinet, except Postmaster General Wynne, George B. Cortelyou was nominated for that office. Mr. Wynne got the post of consular general at London.

Senate Session.

The special session of the senate was opened Monday by loud applause for Vice-President Fairbanks when appeared in the chamber to preside at once rapped the senate to order and prayer was offered by Chaplain Hale. # ROOSEVELT AND FAIRBANKS TAKE OATH

Thousand of Visitors Throng National Capital to Witness the Ceremony—Procession the Greatest Seen in Washington Since the Close of the Civil War.

PROGRAM.
10:45 a. m. President left White House for the Capitol.
11:55 a. m. President entered Senate chamber.
12 Noon. President pro temp of Senate administered oath of office to Vice President-elect Fairbanks, who delivered his inaugural address.
12:30 p. m. Entire assemblage proceeded to stand at east front of the Capitol, where President Roosevelt took oath of office and delivered his inaugural address.
2 p. m. President returned to White House. Grand parade followed.
7:30 p. m. Illumination of city and display of fireworks.
9 p. m. Inaugural ball, opened by President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

The long form of Associate Justice John Marshall Harlan, who is almost heroic in stature, was the first to catch the eye of the vast crowd. Flanked by the marshal of the Supreme Court and the marshal of the District of Columbia, Justice Harlan led his colleagues, garbed in flowing robes of black, topped with satin skull caps, to their seats at the left of the tribune. After a brief pause, Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador and dean of the diplomatic corps, marshaled forth the ambassadors and ministers of foreign countries.

Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Fairbanks were next escorted to seats just outside the tribune. The president's children were with Mrs. Roosevelt, and Mr. Fairbanks' two sons, students at Yale, and his daughter, Mrs. Adelaide Timmons, were with Mrs. Fairbanks. Mrs. Roosevelt was given in a severe blue dress, the round skirt was trimmed in bands of lighter shade panne velvet, and the short, modish jacket had a vest of the panne braided in silver. Mrs. Fairbanks wore a beautiful dress of brown velvet, trimmed with chiffon and white ermine. Her hat and gloves were also white. Vice President Fairbanks, accompanied by the secretary of the senate and followed by the senators and ex-senators, was next in order. Then came Speaker Cannon and the house of representatives. The instant the tall form of the vice president appeared a swelling cheer burst from the crowd. Mr. Fairbanks bowed repeatedly before taking his chair.

Secretary Har and other members of the cabinet were ushered to their chairs, and at their heels came Admiral Dewey and Lieut. Gen. Chaffee. Bills of cheers greeted Admiral Dewey, and the hero of Manila bay showed that he was pleased.

The governors of states and territories and the other invited guests followed in indiscriminate fashion, and in a short time all was in readiness for the coming of the chief executive.

President Roosevelt advanced in the door of the capitol, arm in arm with Chief Justice Fuller. Instantly, with all parts of the eight acres of humanity arose a prolonged, tumultuous shout. Behind the president and his white-haired companion came James H. McKinney, clerk of the supreme court, bearing a ponderous Bible. When the demonstration ceased, Chief Justice Fuller, his snowy locks falling to his shoulders, pronounced the oath. President Roosevelt's voice was easily audible at some distance when he repeated the formal declaration prescribed in article II of the Constitution: "I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

A second later he bowed and pressed his lips upon the open pages of Holy Writ. Again erect, he faced the people, and for an instant perfect silence held. A signal had been flashed from the dome of the capitol to the navy yard, whence came the boom of a ten-inch gun, first of twenty-one, fired in honor of the newly inaugurated chief executive. The tension was broken, and a roar of cheers resounded far and wide across the plaza. For many minutes the jangle of sounds continued before the president could find a chance to begin his inaugural address.

The conclusion of the address was the signal for another ovation, during which Mr. Roosevelt shook hands with most of the notables who pressed about the tribune. Then he was escorted back to the rotunda of the Capitol and thence to the executive chamber, where he held a brief reception before leaving for the White House.

Vice-President Sworn in.
Senator Charles Warren Fairbanks, of Indiana, became vice-president of the United States shortly after the marble-faced clocks of the senate chamber registered noon.

At that hour Senator Frye, president pro tem, hammered the marble desk, and announced in set formula that the senate of the Fifty-eighth congress was adjourned sine die; then he immediately called the extraordinary session of the senate of the Fifty-ninth congress to order.

Mr. Fairbanks was forthwith ushered into the chamber, the senate members of the inaugural committee

VICE-PRESIDENT FAIRBANKS.

Inaugurated March 4, 1905.

Under the shadow of the gray-domed capitol, gazing into the placid marble features of Greenough's statue of the first president, the twenty-sixth president of the United States swore faithfully to execute the laws and to preserve, protect, and defend the constitution.

There were represented in the throngs that had journeyed to the capital to greet President Roosevelt men from the North, South, East and West, and from distant islands of the sea; from the Philippines, from Porto Rico, from Hawaii—from every land where floats the emblem of the Republic. In the great parade there rode governors of states, both North and South. The president's old rancher friends, with lariats and chaparrals and wry broncos, made strange contrast to the stiff-backed, pouter chested young men from the national military schools. Rough Riders from San Juan Hill, volunteers from Santiago, Jackies from Manila bay shared the plaudits of the multitude with modest, everyday soldiers, for whom the title Regular is distinction quite enough.

Political clubs from East and West, militiamen from North and South, blue-clad veterans of the sixties, heroes of the Spanish-American war, miners from Pennsylvania, the entire legislature of the state of Tennessee, the president's neighbors from Oyster Bay—all contributed to the national character of the splendid pageant.

There were waiting for the president when he emerged from the white house thirty picked men from the Rough Riders under Gov. Brodie. With the crack squadron A of the First Cavalry, U. S. Army, they formed his escort to the capitol. As they swung around the treasury building into Pennsylvania avenue a division of the G. A. R., with Gen. O. O. Howard and staff in the lead, which had been standing at salute, wheeled into the column, while the cavalrymen checked their pace to accommodate the slower footsteps of the aged veterans. A mighty wave of cheers swept along the avenue as the president's carriage came in sight. Throughout the whole route the president, with hat in hand, kept bowing in acknowledgment of the greetings. On his arrival at the capitol he was conducted to the president's room, in the rear of the senate chamber, where he began at once the signing of belated bills. At noon he entered the abode of the senate to witness the installation of Senator Fairbanks as vice president. This ceremony concluded, he proceeded to the stand on the east front of the capitol to receive the oath from Chief Justice Fuller and to deliver his inaugural address. Immediately upon his conclusion the president was escorted back to the white house, where, after lunching with the officials of the inaugural committee, he took his position on the stand in front to review the formal inaugural parade.

Inauguration Ceremonies.
The broad plaza whose level surface stretches east from the national capitol can accommodate an army. For hours Washington poured his own population and a vast increment of visitors into the front yard of the seat of government. Eight acres of humanity spread fan-shaped from the focus made by a little covered shelter, open at the sides, where the president was to stand. Over toward the imposing facade of the congressional library it extended, literally a "sea of faces." There may have been only 50,000; probably there were nearer 100,000 in sight of the president when he took the oath.

acting as his escort. He proceeded to the rostrum, where Senator Frye administered the usual oath. The new vice-president's first official act was to call upon the senate's chaplain, the Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, to pray.

Mr. Fairbanks then delivered his inaugural address, and, at its conclusion, he instructed the secretary to read the president's proclamation convening the extraordinary session of the senate. Next the new senators were called to the secretary's desk and took the oath.

President Roosevelt was then escorted back to the executive chamber, adjoining the marble room, preparatory to going to the east portico, himself to take the oath of office. The other distinguished visitors filed out of the chamber in the order of official precedence, and went to the seats assigned them for the president's ceremony.

The Great Parade.
With standards waving, gaudious whipping in the breeze, and regimental colors flapping, infantry, cavalry, and artillery tramped, pranced, and rumbled through historic Pennsylvania avenue.

Experienced observers declared that the procession beat all its predecessors, even that of McKinley's second inauguration. Not since the review of the Federal army after the Civil war has the Avenue seen so many and such variety of soldiers. There were between thirty-three and thirty-five thousand men in line. For three hours the mobilization progressed along First street, Pennsylvania avenue, and confluent streets about the Capitol.

Ahead of the parade proper President Roosevelt and his escort, this time composed solely of the Rough Riders and Squadron A, at a brisk clip proceeded up the Avenue to the White House, where the president, after his lunch, took position in the grand reviewing stand, surrounded by members of his cabinet, the diplomats and other notables. Then, to the blare of bugles, the big procession started.

The first brigade was headed by Lieut. Gen. Wade, in command of the entire military section. After him came the Fifth band, artillery corps, stationed at Fort Hamilton, New York. This was first of forty bands in the parade. Sustaining their reputation of being the most perfectly drilled body of troops in the world, next followed the corps of cadets from the United States military academy. Naturally they divided honors with the future admirals from Annapolis, who marched immediately behind, dressed in natty suits of navy blue, the jolly jack-tar spirit fairly shining in their boyish faces. Then came the regulars, real enlisted men, five hundred of the Second battalion of engineers swinging along behind their own band.

Then came the state troops. To the number of 14,000 they occupied nearly two hours in passing a given point. In order to prevent disputes as to precedence each state contingent came in alphabetical order, so that Alabama, with a single company of her Third regiment, led the way. Indiana, Vice President Fairbanks' home state, had only a company to her credit, sixth in line, while the president's state, New York, with the largest quota, three full regiments and several separate bodies, totaling nearly 4,000 men, was tenth in order.

Although soldiery was the chief feature, the civilian organizations forming the second section of the parade showed up strong in numbers. Marching in the open order affected by political clubs, they spread all over the avenue. There were about 15,000 in line. They seemed to be passing an interminable time, mostly wearing top hats and twirling fragile walking sticks.

Ohio, which usually manages to make her presence felt, kept up her reputation. She had in line the famous Rail-splitters of the Toledo Lincoln club, the Tippecanoe club of Cleveland, the famous singing organizations of Columbus, the Buckeye and Republican club clubs, the Knights of Maccabees and the Fleischmann Republican club of Cincinnati.

The Spanish war veterans followed the G. A. R. veterans, there being about 2,000 all told of these two societies.

The Ball.
Inaugural balls are the biggest social functions that occur in America. The evening's reception at the Pension building exceeded in grandeur its predecessors in the great edifice. There were in the neighborhood of 12,000 persons at the ball.

Mrs. Roosevelt's ball gown was made of a special weave of a new shade of light blue silk with figures of doves in gold tinsel. The shade has been named "Alice blue," in honor of the president's daughter, who selected the material at the St. Louis fair. The doves, which are represented as flying diagonally across the blue of the dress, are of varying sizes, from two inches between the tips of the wings down to the size of a bee.

Mrs. Fairbanks wore a gown of white satin duchesse, embroidered with roses of gold in the natural size of the flower. The lace trimming was of Brussels point d'appique, with a design of bow-knots and marguerites interwoven.

The decorations of the ball-room outdid anything that ever before has been attempted. Walls, columns, windows and every nook and corner were covered with greens and cut flowers, palms and ferns, flags, banners and bunting, so that the thousands of guests might look with interest upon something else of beauty than dazzling gowns and glittering jewels.

The doors of the Pension building were thrown open at 8 o'clock, but the president and his party did not arrive until 9 o'clock. They went immediately to rooms specially prepared, carpeted and decorated for their reception, and a half hour later the grand march commenced. President and Mrs. Roosevelt leading. All festivities closed sharply at midnight, because it was believed best to impress no Sabbath principles. Thus the usual practice of the presidents leaving at midnight and turning the hall over to the populace to dance until day-break had to be abandoned.

Concerts will be given at the Pension office next week, so that those who do not attend the ball may have an opportunity to see the decorations.

DUGONG ALL BUT EXTINCT.
Strange Fish That Gave Color to Fable of Mermaids.
The strangest of all strange fish must be the manatee and the dugong. The latter is the mermaid of fabled lore. The dugong live in flocks along the shores of the Indian ocean, the Red Sea and the Gulf of Mannar, where they browse on seaweed and river vegetation.

They are very affectionate in disposition, and especially is this shown in the love of the mother for her offspring, which is much stronger than her instinct of self-preservation. The male will not leave the female if she be attacked, and instances are on record where the companions of the manatee gathered round and made an effort to withdraw the deadly harpoon.

It is supposed that the rude approach to the human outline observed in the shape of the head of the dugong, the attitude of the mother in clasping her young to her breast with one flipper while swimming with the other, holding both above water and suddenly diving and showing her fish like tail when alarmed, gave rise to the mermaid myth, first told by the Arab seamen. Jules Verne gives a thrilling description of the capture of a dugong in the Red sea when its flesh was desired as food. Naturalists tell us that the flesh of the manatee or of the dugong much resembles well fattened pork of pleasant flavor, and is highly esteemed as food. For this reason they were much hunted and are fast becoming extinct.—Field and Stream.

Fast Trip by Sailing Vessel.
Capt. John W. Taylor, a well known navigator of Providence, R. I., has earned the distinction of sailing his schooner, the Blanche M. King, from New York to Jacksonville, Florida, in record time, arriving in that city after a run of exactly seventy-six hours, which is the best time ever made by a sailing vessel between New York and the St. John's river bar. It is veritable steamship time which the Blanche M. King made on her last trip south. Mrs. Taylor accompanies her husband on his cruises. Captain Taylor has been making fast runs to Southern ports right along, but this is his first trip in this boat to Jacksonville and it establishes a record, the average speed of the schooner being eleven knots an hour from Sandy Hook to Mayport Light.—Providence Journal.

Dreams.
What would we do without our dreams? Those fleeting visions of delight With which the fertile fancy beams In day an well as in the night? They make the future golden bright, Through their sweet hope eternal gleams. You soon these visions take their flight? What would we do without our dreams? To those whom grinding toil hath cursed They bring a happy respite, By them the helpless eases, By them the slave from fetters frees. By them the prison bars are seen, Dreams are of paradise the keys. What would we do without our dreams? A FAD HIT HIM.
Man a Martyr to Wife's Desire to Make Him Beautiful.
"Look at me, doc; look at me!" wildly spoke a North Side dentist to the physician from whom he rents space for his throne of misery and his forepiece case.

The physician looked at him for a minute and then said he didn't notice anything out of the way.

"Maybe you don't, Doc; maybe you don't," shouted the dentist. "But I've got something the matter with me all right. It's up here," he raved on, as he pointed to his receding frontals.

"Well, what is the matter with you?" asked the physician.

"Matter, matter! It is all on account of my wife. She thinks I'm not pretty enough to get the sweetest trade. She's putting me through a system of beauty culture. I go to bed at night with my countenance smeared with beauty dope of some kind and can't move all night. I just lay there and hold my eyes shut. When I get up in the morning wife makes me steam my face and then rub a hunk of alum all over it. That alum is getting in its work. My eyes feel like they're all drawn up and packed. Are they, Doc; are they? My mouth feels like I had been eating green persimmons, and the skin on my cheeks is drawn so tight I'm looking for it to burst almost any minute. Do you think I'll get all right, Doc? Eh, do you?"

But "Doc" couldn't answer. He was in a fit of laughter, and the dentist went to a mirror and tried to pull his chin down to where he thought it ought to be.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

THE POOR BEEF TRUST.
IS SO GOOD AS TO DO BUSINESS AT A LOSS.
Commissioner Garfield's Report.
Practically exonerating the beef trust, the report of Commissioner of Corporations Garfield was on Friday formally transmitted to the congress by President Roosevelt. The report deals with the prices of cattle and dressed beef, the margins between such prices, and the organization, conduct and profits of the corporations engaged in beef packing. Other matters involved in the house resolution of inquiry of March 7, 1904, are still before the department of justice, and are not touched on by Commissioner Garfield. The report deals with the six packing companies—Armour, Swift, Morris, the National, Schwartzschild & Sulzberger, and Cudahy, frequently designated "the big six." In 1903 these six slaughtered 45 per cent—5,521,697 head—of the cattle slaughtered in the United States in that year. Their "true average profits," as shown by their books, was 99 cents per head, "not including incidental profits." The year 1902, according to the report, instead of being one of exorbitant profits as has been commonly supposed, was less profitable than usual. The report says that during the months when prices of beef were the highest, some of the leading packers were actually losing money on every animal slaughtered.

A Dying Plea.
The complaint against Orpha F. Deveau, charging him with embezzlement, has been withdrawn. Two years ago, Deveau was judge of the Saginaw police court, and failed to account for various sums of money collected in the discharge of the duties of his office. Deveau left the city, his shortages afterwards being made up to the city by his father, Peter F. Deveau. The father is on his death bed and constantly calls for his son Orpha, who is his favorite. It is on this account that the complaint has been withdrawn, and it is expected that Orpha Deveau will return to the city to be with his father in his last illness.

After writing letters telling what disposition should be made of their personal effects, Will I. Nett, aged 25, of Tulsa, I. T., shot and killed his bride of less than a week, and then committed suicide.

A Living Monument.

If we were to assemble all those who have been cured of heart disease by Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and who would to-day be in their graves had not Dr. Miles' been successful in perfecting this wonderful heart specific, they would populate a large city.

What a remarkable record—a breathing, thinking, moving monument, composed of human lives,—that for which every other earthly possession is sacrificed.

The Miles Medical Co. receive thousands of letters from these people like the following:

"I feel indebted to the Dr. Miles' Heart Cure for my life. I desire to call the attention of others suffering as I did to this remarkable remedy for the heart. For a long time I had suffered from shortness of breath after any little exertion, palpitation of the heart; and at times terrible pain in the region of the heart, so serious that I feared that I would some time drop dead upon the street. One day I read one of your circulars, and immediately went to my drugist and purchased two bottles of the Heart Cure, and took it according to directions, with the result that I am entirely cured. Since then I never miss an opportunity to recommend this remedy to my friends who have heart trouble; in fact I am a traveling advertisement for I am widely known in this locality."

J. H. BOWMAN,
Manager of Lebanon Democrat,
Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your drugist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money.

Investigation by the sheriff's officers into the recent attempted jail delivery at Ann Arbor, elicits the fact that the vags and criminals are in a secret brotherhood together and that no matter what the penalty, one will not incriminate the other.

A second tunnel under the Detroit river is being talked of. The Grand Trunk, Canada Pacific and Wabash railroads do not like the idea of paying indefinite toll to the Michigan Central railroad for using its tunnel. The Michigan Central will not hear of joint ownership, hence the idea for a second tunnel.

No nomination for circuit judge was made at the Democratic convention held at Ann Arbor Thursday. The selection of a candidate was left to a committee consisting of John P. Kirk, M. J. Cavanaugh and T. D. Kearney. It is not believed that anyone will be put in nomination against Judge E. D. Kinne. It would only mean certain defeat to whoever was put up.

Wednesday, March 4, the bricklayers of New York began working for the highest wages ever paid to bricklayers in this country, 70 cents an hour. Under this rate of wages it will be possible for a bricklayer to make $67.20 a week, as during the busy season the men work twelve hours a day and get double pay for overtime. So, every time one of these bricklayers stops to fill and light his pipe it costs his employer from 5 to 7 cents. But the bricklayer would growl like a bear with a scalded head and possibly strike, together with all his mates, if such an act as docking him for lost time were even contemplated by the boss.

The prosperity of the farming community necessarily keeps step with that of the town where you do your marketing. Ever see a good brisk demand for farms surrounding a dead town? We guess not. The interests of the town and farm are mutual. Why then give the cream of your trade to outside fakirs who are here today and gone tomorrow, or to the mail order houses who do not pay one cent of your taxation or buy a dollar's worth of your produce? It is your home merchant and home surroundings that make whatever degree of prosperity accrues to you. If it were not so, the United States national doctrine of protection would not be so rigidly adhered to. Therefore, what is good for the whole nation on a large scale is good for a local community on a small scale. Practice the doctrine of protection to home industries and both you and they will be benefited.

Engaged people should remember that after marriage many quarrels can be avoided by keeping their digestion in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. "Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope, but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Dr. Kennedy and Kergan, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and shiftil. He wrote them and got the New Method Treatment for me. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was confined to my room. However, with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment."

I was all run down from nervousness and overwork and had to resign my position and take a rest. I found that I was not gaining my strength and health as fast as I could wish, and as your Wine of Cardui was recommended as such a good medicine for the ills of our sex, I bought a bottle and began using it. I was satisfied with the results from the use of the first bottle, and took three more and then found I was restored to good health and strength and able to take up my work with renewed vigor. ### How to Listen to Music.

People often get intensely excited in listening to music—letting their emotions run rampant and suffering in consequence a painful reaction of fatigue, says Leslie's Magazine. If they would learn to yield so that the music could pass over their nerves as it passes over the strings of a musical instrument, and then, with the new life and vigor derived from the enjoyment, would turn to some useful work, they would find a great expansion in the enjoyment of the music as well as a new pleasure in their work. If we enjoy good music and grant over our personal pleasure in it, so to speak, it takes the life out of us. If we let the music carry us along instead of trying, in our excitement, to carry the music, it brings new life to us.

Mistress Rosemary Allyn

By MILLICENT E. MANN

Copyright, 1901, by LUCAS LINCOLN CO.

CHAPTER XIV.

My Rose.

I found that night had fallen during my talk with his Majesty. I had fought with me no linkman, and I immediately set about getting that most necessary attendant. Not a difficult task, for numbers of them came clamoring about me as soon as I set out outside of Whitehall. There rows of linkmen off awaited the related petitioner at court.

My high spirits were in the ascendant. I felt gay. Was not good fortune kissing me?

I was apt to halloo before I was out of the woods, in other words, to be too sanguine in the affairs of life. That day I let my gaiety be seen; it can away with me.

I engaged all the linkmen, who presented themselves for hire. As we went down the streets doors were opened, maids threw up windows and questions were asked as to the reason for such an illumination—whether it was a wedding or a funeral, or some great man's entrance into town. The non entered into the fun and treaded with a military step, keeping rank, without a smile upon their grimy faces. And so we marched along with the solemnity befitting a state funeral, which no doubt was the rankest event these fellows had ever been called up to participate in.

When I reached the house where Mistress Rosemary Allyn stayed, I threw a handful of coins among the non—It dissipated every trace of solemnity. Such a scampering, pushing, and pommeling ensued—it was musing—I could not help laughing till my sides ached. The man who came off victorious, most of the coins in his brassy fist, was a sturdy fellow and worthy of his hire. Him I engaged to attend me. The rest I said and dismissed.

I was told by the lackey upon being admitted that Mistress Allyn was alone and would see me. I was ushered at once into her presence. She was lovelier than ever! I thought what could be the beauty of Lady Felton—although the toast of the town—as compared with Mistress Allyn—as like one rose to another. She received me none too graciously, but sire at Mistress Rosemary Allyn.

The color flouted itself in her face. "I understand not your smiles," she murmured.

"No?" I questioned. "I will put it plainer. In all this garden of beautiful women there is only one I desire—my queen rose—sweet Rosemary Allyn."

"Would you not better, sir, be off with the old love first?" she asked.

"I think you know the story—love played no part in it," I said severely.

"The part we men played was not admirable—I assure you I would have returned the paper to Lord Felton that night, had I not been so incensed at Raoul Dwight's remarks. Will you not listen to my love, Rosemary?" I pleaded.

"I would wait, sir," she said, "until that little paper is no more—women are fickle. Lady Felton may refuse to give you your freedom."

"Set your mind at rest on that point," said I. "I have not even seen her—she may know nothing of the paper—I assure you she wants no such unworthy a lover as I am. She has all London to choose from."

"Who shall say what a woman wants?" she muttered. Then: "I am fastidious enough, sir, to wish to wait until you are free; until that paper is out of your hands into the hands of the lady mentioned in it—given up freely by the man who won it."

"Then shall you wait but twenty minutes, ere I am back again," I cried starting up.

"Ah, you are in a hurry," she said. "At last your appetite is whetted by a desire to see the fair Lady Felton," and she sighed.

Men have many pockets in their clothes where they store away numerous little articles of small value or use, while women without one manage to secrete and successfully, too, anything they wish among the frills of their bodice. Out of such a hiding place Rosemary took the paper I had lost at Castle Groat and handed it to me.

"You know it is not so—I would fain linger," I said, and I looked longingly at her lips. "Still," I straightened myself. "Disagreeable things are sooner over for being done quickly. Au revoir."

"Who shall say what a woman wants?" she muttered.

That was over my mistress's way. "You come in grand state, sir," she said.

"Could I come to see you in state or grand?" I inquired.

"Why not come in cap and bells?" she asked.

"That part would not suit my complexion," I retorted with a shrug. Her eyes twinkled, and I saw the humples play hide and seek about her mouth.

"I like not bawling in front of the house," she demurred. Presently the window facing the street had not been without its occupant.

"I beg your pardon for that," said I. "The boy will out sometimes in spite of me."

I seated myself beside her on the couch, saying, "With your permission?"

"Mistress Gwyn informs me that you have in your keeping a slip of paper that belongs to me," I said. "And if I say yes?" she questioned. "I would request it of you," I replied.

"Ah! you would make use of it to force the lady?" she asked jealously. "Not so," I answered quickly; "I would present it to her with my best wishes, and advise her to give it and herself at the same time to 'Cousin Raoul.'"

I smiled as I mimicked the lady of my heart.

She queried softly: "You give her to him? Do you not know she is an heiress, besides being the toast of London? And that little paper won from her fortune would hold good?"

"I know all that and yet I say, may he be happy," I went on. "It seems I must settle a difficult question for him. He hangs with equal amorosness over two roses underlaid which one to pluck, poor fellow!" I let a little sarcasm ring in my voice.

"Now I am not so constructed. I know my own sweet road. She has thorned I have felt them. But what care I as she give herself into my keeping, she may prick my heart's blood, and I please my lady." I looked with de-

I bent over her hand and kissed it although her ruby lips were so near. I was sorely tempted, but I overcame myself and hurried from her presence.

CHAPTER XV.

Lady Felton.

I walked down the street which separated the fronts of the two estates; Lady Dwight's and Lord Felton's. A narrow alley divided the kitchen gardens in the rear. A few houses faced the intervening streets. It had been dark when I entered the Bow street mansion. It was darker now. My linkman, who rejoiced in the symphonic name of Pat, walked ahead. I hugged the wall and kept my eyes open.

We met a dandy coming from or going to some grand function he was so gorgeously attired and bewigged. His servant accompanied him lighting the way. The usual tussle took place between the men as soon as they met, each trying to jostle the other from the wall. If the fellows were quarrelsome their masters were not less so. The top came at me with his sword. He was quick, but I was quicker, and ere I had parried his two thrusts I sent his sword spinning. When he felt he leave his hand much against his wish, he lurched forward to regain it, unexpectantly, however. In doing so, he slipped upon the slimy street, and came cheek by jowl to an unexpected acquaintance with it. Pale blue satin with much suture on knee and elbow was not a pleasant sight to contemplate, nor was the derisive hissing of the victorious linkman, a pleasant sound to hear.

The man's impotency overpowered him, and he burst out swearing like a buccaner; swearing alike at his servant and at me.

From the voice I recognized, "Cousin Raoul!" Never again "Cousin Raoul," but brother Raoul, I thought bitterly. There was nothing in my possession I would not have parted with cheerfully at that moment not to have had that encounter, and only hoped the light had been too dim for him to see who his antagonist was.

I walked off so hurriedly in my surprise and wish not to be recognized that no doubt he thought I was running away. I desired neither an encounter with swords to the death, nor yet was I ready for explanations; and I knew if his sharp eyes detected who had beaten him, it must mean one or the other. I did not look back until I was far down the street; then I saw that the light of the linkman still flitted about like a will-o'-wisp as he made search for his master's sword.

It was hardly the time for explanations, and under the circumstances I did not think my newly found brother would take kindly to them. I would call upon his mother to-morrow before the hour set for the duel, and request his presence, when I should tell her and I prayed heaven to give me in the telling a fluent tongue—the reason why Lord Waters had deserted and then divorced her. How she would take it I let myself not dwell upon that, only I hoped for my father's sake in the gentle spirit of forgiveness. As for Sir Raoul Dwight, he no doubt would find the pill hard to swallow, but I trusted that after I had seen Lady Felton she would notify him of her release, and it would pave the way for an easier interview.

I rang the knocker of this most pretentious mansion, which I had looked at with interest, and wondered whether I should ever have a nearer acquaintance with it or its occupants. A lackey ushered me into a drawing room of magnificent proportions. There, retired to see if milady would receive me.

The lady was capricious and kept me waiting. At first my thoughts dwelling as they did upon my encounter with Sir Raoul Dwight and my respective meeting, were not pleasant ones. I had not yet gotten into the way of thinking of him as a brother; he had given me a hard rub there, but I should do my level best to extend to him all the good will I was capable of. How he would receive it, well—

The time dragged whilst my thoughts were with him, it seemed as if Lady Felton were keeping me hours. I turned my attention to more attractive thoughts, sweet Rosemary and her bewitching ways! At last the lackey entered and said I was to follow him. He led me up a flight of stairs I surmised to my lady's bower, and so it proved. The room was dimly lighted with wax candles and the air was heavy with perfume. Lady Felton sat in state at the far end of the boudoir, as became a great lady and great beauty. She held a hand screen before her face.

I smiled and thought, milady fears her beauty will overcome me; no doubt she will gradually unfold its splendor to my profane eyes.

She was small, dainty, and most sumptuously attired in a shimmering gown, reckless of the many yards of lace with which it was covered. This I noticed as I bowed low before her.

I expected but a cold greeting; I got none. So I spoke:

"I have to make a most humble apology to you, Lady Felton, and ask that you will accept of this bit of paper."

I held out to her the paper won from her father.

"Sir, you are late in both your apology and in the yielding up of that paper," she said scornfully.

I like a woman to be low-keyed. There was as much difference in the voices of the two women, the one I loved and the one fortune intended I should marry, as in the scent of two flowers.

The Man Who Loves Words.

"Other folks, of course, have their poor pleasures," says Richard Le Gallienne in Harper's, "but for a man who loves words no joy the world can give equals for him the happiness of having achieved a fine passage or a perfect line. When Thackeray struck his fist on the table, as the story goes, when he had finished the scene of Col. Newcome's death, and exclaimed, 'By God, this is genius,' there was no empire he would have accepted in exchange for that moment. We often hear that your true artist is never satisfied with his work. His ideal escapes him, the words seem poor and lifeless, etc., compared with the dream. Who ever started that story knew very little about the literary temperament or he would have known that—the words are the dream. The dream does not exist even as a dream, or only very imperfectly. It is set down in words. Yes, the words are the dream."

Tombstone, Arizona, Well Named.

The people familiar with the history of Tombstone, Ariz., are inclined to believe that there is something in a name. Tombstone in 1878 became the center of attraction in Arizona to the pioneer prospectors when the first mines were opened up at that point. The population quickly increased to over 6,000 and it became the center of mining activity in the Southwest. The last census gave the population as 400. The mines are worked out and the population has drifted away to more prosperous camps. Therefore the town has indeed come to merit its name, for it marks the burial spot of many blasted hopes.

Many another Western mining town has had the same history, though few have so aptly told it to the world in their titles.

"I'm clever at mind-reading." "Would you mind reading mine?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer

Did Not Favor Luxury.

The meeting house in Hillsboro, N. H., when the early settlers worshipped, like most churches at that time, had no arrangement for heating. After a time some of the members expressed a wish to purchase stoves, and make the house comfortable. There was much opposition, and a meeting was called to consider the matter. Gov. Pierce (father of President Pierce), protested against the proposed change, and vehemently declared he would use every effort in his power to prevent the introduction of the instrument of hell into their meeting house. It was not, however, until 1823 that stoves were provided.

The "Forty Immortals."

The Academie Francaise, or French academy, was instituted in 1635. It is a part of the Institute of France and its particular function is to conserve the French language, foster literature and encourage genius. The members are 40 in number, and are popularly known as the "forty immortals."

YELLOW CRUST ON BABY

Would Crack Open and Scab Causing Terrible Itching—Cured by Cuticura.

"Our baby had a yellow crust on his head which I could not keep away. When I thought I had succeeded in getting his head clear, it would start again by the crown of his head, crack and scale, and cause terrible itching. I then got Cuticura Soap and Ointment, washing the scalp with the soap and then applying the Ointment. A few treatments made a complete cure. I have advised a number of mothers to use Cuticura, when I have been asked about the same ailment of their babies. Mrs. John Boyce, Pine Bush, N. Y."

Primitive Railroad Traveling.

Third-class passenger coaches in England used to be coupled on next to the engine. The travelers came in for terrible treatment when any accident occurred. At times the engine was driven tender first, in which case frozen hands could be warmed at its smokestack. The passengers were packed, seventy of them, into a truck eighteen feet in length by seven and a half in width. There was no roof and not, as a rule, proper protection at the sides.

Proper Way to Sleep.

According to Dr. Fischer of Berlin, the most effective position of sleep for obtaining intellectual rest is to keep the head low and the feet slightly elevated. Putting this the body should, at any rate, be horizontal, so as to irrigate the brain well. The habit of sleeping with head low and feet high is, according to the doctor, a remedy for brain troubles and some internal maladies. It can be adopted gradually.

Duels for Love.

Duels of various kinds, from the set-to with fists up to the combat with knives or bows and arrows, are still undertaken in the interests of love in sundry places of the earth. The Mursi fight with their fists, some of the Mexican tribes use the cold steel and at least one North American tribe relies upon bow and arrow.

THE TRICKS.

Coffee Plays on Some.

It hardly pays to laugh before you are certain of facts, for it is sometimes humiliating to think of afterwards.

"When I was a young girl I was a lover of coffee but was sick so much the doctor told me to quit and I did but after my marriage my husband begged me to drink it again as he did not think it was the coffee caused the troubles."

"So I commenced it again and continued about 6 months until my stomach commenced acting bad and choking as if I had swallowed something, the size of an egg. One doctor said it was neuralgia and indigestion."

"One day I took a drive with my husband three miles in the country and I drank a cup of coffee for dinner. I thought sure I would die before I got back to town to a doctor. I was drawn double in the buggy and when my husband hitched the horse to get me into the doctor's office, misery came up in my throat and seemed to shut my breath off entirely, then left all in a flash and went to my heart. The doctor pronounced it nervous heart trouble and when I got home I was so weak I could not sit up."

"My husband brought my supper to my bedside with a nice cup of hot coffee but I said: 'Take that back, dear, I will never drink another cup of coffee if you gave me everything you are worth, for it is just killing me.' He and the others laughed at me and said: 'The idea of coffee killing anybody!'

"Well," I said, "it is nothing else but coffee that is doing it."

"In the grocery one day my husband was persuaded to buy a box of Postum which he brought home and I made it for dinner and we both thought how good it was but said nothing to the hired men and they thought they had drunk coffee until we laughed and told them. Well we kept on with Postum and it was not long before the color came back to my cheeks and I got stout and felt as good as I ever did in my life. I have no more stomach trouble and I know I owe it all to Postum in place of coffee."

"My husband has gained good health on Postum, as well as baby and I, and we all think nothing is too good to say about it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Woman's Kidney Troubles

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is Especially Successful in Curing This Fatal Disease.

Of all the diseases known, with which women are afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal. In fact, unless early and correct treatment is applied, the weary patient seldom survives.

Being fully aware of this, Mrs. Pinkham early in her career, gave exhaustive study to the subject, and in producing her great remedy for woman's ailments—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—was careful to see that it contained the correct combination of herbs which was sure to control that fatal disease, woman's kidney troubles. The Vegetable Compound acts in harmony with the laws that govern the entire female system, and while there are many so-called remedies for kidney troubles, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the only one especially prepared for women, and thousands have been cured of serious kidney derangements by it. Derangements of the female organs quickly affect the kidneys, and when a woman has such symptoms as pain or weight in the loins, backache, bearing down pains, urine too frequent, scanty or high colored, producing a tickling or burning, or deposits like brick dust in it, unusual thirst, swelling of hands and feet, swelling under the eyes or sharp pains in the back running down the inside of her groin, she may be sure her kidneys are affected and should lose no time in combating the disease with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the woman's remedy for woman's ills.

The following letters show how successfully successful it is.

TO LIVE LONG AND WELL

How Tuberculosis and Kindred Ills May Be Avoided, Alleviated and Cured.

Suppression of Consumption.
Tuberculosis can be suppressed. It is not necessary for a person to die because he has consumption. Thousands of men and women have been sacrificed who might have been alive to-day if only the right procedure had been adopted. That which is necessary for the mastery of this disease is to return to nature—to live naturally in the fresh air, develop the lungs and eat proper food.

Tuberculosis is a low-level disease. People are not subject to it until their tissues have become vitiated and their whole bodies weakened.

To live a natural life is the only safeguard against tuberculosis. One climate may do as well as another if only one lives out of doors, gets plenty of cold, fresh air, bathes the body with cold water several times a day, and takes as much exercise as he can stand.

Child Labor in Factories.
The physician in attendance at a municipal lodging house in Chicago has within the past year been making a careful inquiry into the history of the tramps who have become the city's guests. He has found that a large proportion of the tramps give a history of having been employed in factories or in other debilitating occupations in boyhood. Our artificial modern life is making multitudes of human wrecks, one class of whom is represented by the homeless, friendless, disheartened men known as tramps. Fortunately, indeed, are the boys and girls who live in country homes and have the opportunity of growing up in contact with nature.

How do You Eat?
It is safe to say that modern cooking develops business for both the saloonkeeper and the undertaker. When a boy eats mustard plasters in the form of food that is almost saturated with fiery spices and irritating condiments, a thirst is created that nothing but liquor or cigarettes will satisfy. Man is admonished to "eat for strength, and not for drunkenness," but in these days anything that will tickle the four square inches of taste surface is considered good food, although it may contain scarcely any of the elements that nature requires to replace broken-down tissues and to rebuild the worn-out brain. As a consequence, the vitality and physical resistance soon reach such a low ebb that the individual falls an easy prey to any microbe with which he may chance to come in contact.

Tent Life Cures Consumption.
A doctor in Denver some time ago made some experiments with consumptives. A tent colony was established a little way out of Denver, and the patients progressed fairly well during the first part of the winter. But by and by there was a blizzard, and the thermometer went down to 20 degrees below zero, and then they began to improve very fast. One woman did not seem to improve at all until the temperature reached this mark, and then she improved rapidly. She had had no appetite, but that 20 degrees below zero weather gave her an appetite, which was an indication that the body was beginning to work naturally, that the assimilative processes were being resumed, and from that time she kept on improving.

Work of Holland Women.
In Holland the women work hard, though their labor is in keeping with woman's natural sphere. When it is necessary for them to earn a livelihood they take to cultivating bulbs, flowers and vegetables. And yet, outside of the large cities, women work in the brickyards. They stand out in the warmest weather smoothing the bricks and gathering them in great piles.

Buy Drinks in Advance.
A Welsh magistrate has decided that in a liquor transaction, or any other purchase and sale, a sale takes place when the money is paid for an article. So one may pay for his drinks during lawful hours and legally call and take them in the hours during which liquor must not be sold.

DERANGED NERVES
DISTRESSING TROUBLES LEFT BY ST. VITUS AND GRIP.

Woman Afflicted for Years by Strange Spells of Numbness and Weakness Recovers Perfect Health.

When she was fourteen years old, Mrs. Ida L. Brown had St. Vitus' dance. She finally got over the most noticeable features of the strange ailment, but was still troubled by very uncomfortable sensations, which she recently described as follows:

"One hand, half of my face, and half of my tongue would get cold and numb. These feelings would come on, last for about ten minutes, and then go away, several times a day. Besides I would have palpitation of the heart, and my strength would get so low that I could hardly breathe. As time went on these spells kept coming oftener and growing worse. The numbness would sometimes extend over half my body."

"How did you get rid of them?"
"It seemed for a long time as if I never could get rid of them. It was not until about six years ago that I found a remedy that had virtue enough in it to reach my case. That was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and they have since entirely cured me."

"Did it take long to effect a cure?"
"No! I hadn't taken the whole of the first box before I saw a great improvement. So I kept on using them, growing better all the time, until I had taken eight boxes and then I was perfectly well, and I have remained in good health ever since with one exception."

"What was that?"
"Oh! that was when I had the grip. I was in bed, under the doctor's care, for two weeks. When I got up I had dreadful attacks of dizziness. I had to grasp hold of something or I would fall right down. I was just miserable, and when I saw the doctor was not helping me, I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills again. In a short time they cured me of that dizziness too, and I have never had any of those spells since."

Mrs. Brown lives at No. 1705 De Witt street, Mattson, Illinois. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are without an equal for the rapid and thorough cure of nervous prostration. They expel the poison left in the system by such diseases as grip and are the best of tonics in all cases of weakness. They are sold by every druggist.

such a powerful reaction that the whole body was stimulated to increased vital activity and recovery followed.

Here is another case: A young man in New York who was getting ready to go to the Klondike went into practice, to convince his friends that he would not freeze to death. Out of a large buffalo robe he made a bag, pitched a tent in the back yard and slept in the tent in the buffalo bag, all the winter, without suffering any injury from the cold.

And another: A cultured lady in New Jersey who made up her mind that she needed a little hardening, slept out of doors all last winter. She had her bed put out on the second-story veranda, and an awning put up, with a net around it to keep the night hawks away. Plenty of clothing was provided, a cap worn to keep the ears from freezing, and she got along so well that she slept out of doors the entire winter.

A National Error.
Our cities are growing so rapidly that only about one-half of our population are now living in the country. Dr. Gould, speaking of the wrong of shutting men and women up in houses and forcing them into sedentary occupations, says: "There is enough land and opportunity, if both were allowed and utilized, to give every human being a livelihood that will permit life of a normal length." He adds, that with proper hygienic living, especially in youth, and with right lung expansion and development, no person should have tuberculosis.

Home Sanitariums.
In New York city consumptives are building little huts on the tops of the houses, and are recovering. Outside New York, Boston, and other large cities, tent colonies, where consumptives can live out of doors, are being established. Every city ought to have outside it a camp where tubercular patients can live and get well. The air inside the city is not so good as it is outside; but on the tops of the houses, where the sun can shine, it is a great deal better than it is in the damp, dirty buildings in which most city people live.

Some "Don'ts" About Dress.

Don't dress the neck too warm when going out in cold weather. A little extra protection is required for the ears, but it is not necessary to muffle up the neck with thick furs to protect the ears. Warm wrappings about the neck cause the skin of the neck to become moistened with perspiration. When the wrappings are removed indoors, the slow cooling which takes place in consequence of the evaporation chills the part, and may produce sore throat or nasal catarrh.

Don't wear rubbers indoors, nor out of doors, except when it is necessary to prevent wetting the feet. Rubbers, being impervious to air, prevent evaporation, so that the perspiration is retained, and the shoes and stockings become damp from the perspiration. When the rubbers are removed, evaporation chills the feet, the same as if they had been wet by the rain or by walking on a wet pavement. On removing the rubbers after they have been worn for some time it is a good precaution to remove the shoes and stockings and put on dry ones. If this cannot be conveniently done care should be taken to keep the feet warm until the shoes are dry. The rubbers should be dried before wearing again.

SOME WHOLESOME RECIPES.

Green Pea Soup.
Press through a colander one can of green peas. Add to this two cups of water, one teaspoonful of salt and one heaping tablespoonful of coconut butter. Cook in a double boiler until the butter is melted. Dried peas may be used by first cooking until tender, then pressing through a colander.

Hocake.
Brown slightly together in the oven two cups of cornmeal, four table spoonfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of sugar and two-thirds teaspoonful of salt. Heat one cupful of rich milk, add this mixture to it, beat it until cold. Add to this the beaten yolks of four eggs, lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Drop by spoonfuls on a hot oiled tin and bake twenty minutes.

Vegetable Salad.
Wash three medium sized potatoes, and steam until tender. Peel and cut into one-fourth inch cubes. Add one cup of celery, chopped fine, one teaspoonful each of salt, celery salt, and grated onion, and the whites of three hard-boiled eggs, chopped fine. Mash the three hard-boiled yolks, add three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and two of olive oil; beat until smooth. Pour this over the salad. Garnish with either lettuce or parsley.

Mince Pie.
Five cups of tart apples, chopped fine; five cups of potatos, minced; one cup of prune marmalade (prunes thoroughly cooked, seeded and pressed through the colander); two cups boiled apple juice (boil the juice down until it is almost as thick as syrup); one cup of crushed nuts (walnuts or pecans); one cup of malt honey, one-half cup of sugar, one cup of raisins, butter the size of an egg. Cook all the ingredients (except the raisins) together slowly for two and one-half or three hours. Cook the raisins about half an hour. This is enough for five large pies. It may be sealed in glass cans and kept for any length of time.

Many Persons Have Catarrh of Kidneys, Or Catarrh of Bladder and Don't Know It.

President Newhof and War Correspondent Richards Were Promptly Cured By Pe-ru-na.

Mr. C. R. Newhof, 10 Delamare street, Albany, N. Y., President Montefiore Club, writes:

"Since my advanced age I find that I have been frequently troubled with urinary ailments. The bladder seemed irritated, and my physician said that it was catarrh caused by a protracted cold which would be difficult to overcome on account of my advanced years. I took Pe-ru-na, hardly daring to believe that I would be helped, but I found to my relief that I soon began to mend. The irritation gradually subsided and the urinary difficulties passed away. I have enjoyed excellent health now for the past seven months. I enjoy my meals, sleep soundly, and am as well as I was twenty years ago. I give all praise to Pe-ru-na."—C. R. Newhof.

Suffered From Catarrh of Kidneys, Threatened With Nervous Collapse, Cured By Pe-ru-na.

Mr. F. B. Richards, 809 E. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., War Correspondent, writes: "Exactly six years ago I was ordered to Cuba as staff correspondent of the New York Sun. I was in charge of a Sun Dispatch boat through the Spanish American war. The effect of the tropical climate and the nervous strain showed plainly on my return to the states. Lassitude, depression to the verge of melancholia, and incessant kidney trouble made me practically an invalid. This undesirable condition continued, despite the best of treatment. Finally a brother newspaperman, who like myself had served in the war, induced me to give a faithful trial to Pe-ru-na. I did so. In a short time the lassitude left me, my kidneys resumed a healthy condition, and a complete cure was effected. I cannot too strongly recommend Pe-ru-na to those suffering with kidney trouble. To-day I am able to work as hard as at any time in my life, and the examiner for a leading insurance company pronounced me an 'A' risk."

Pe-ru-na Health Over Four Years.

Pe-ru-na the Only Remedy of Real Benefit. Mr. John Nijmme, 215 Lippincott, St. Toronto, Can., a prominent merchant of that city and also a member of the Masonic order, writes:

"I have been in poor health generally for over four years. When I caught a bad cold last winter it settled in the bladder and kidneys, causing serious trouble. I took two greatly advertised kidney remedies without getting the desired results. Pe-ru-na is the only remedy which was really of any benefit to me. I have not had a trace of kidney trouble nor a cold in my system."

Pe-ru-na Contains No Narcotics.

One reason why Pe-ru-na has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotic of any kind. Pe-ru-na is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Pe-ru-na does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effect.

It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh. There are a multitude of homes where Pe-ru-na has been used off and on for twenty years. Such a thing could not be possible if Pe-ru-na contained any drugs of a narcotic nature.

Another plot was uncovered at the county jail Thursday afternoon when Under Sheriff Warner and Deputy Sheriff Ferguson discovered a collection of clubs in the ventilating shaft of the building. The supposition is that the clubs were to be used to knock the officers into insensibility, take their keys and open the doors of the jail for a wholesale delivery. There seems to be a peculiarly dangerous lot of prisoners in the jail at the present time. Wood, the blanket thief, who was arrested in Chelsea, is believed to have been at the head of this latest scheme. A falling out between the prisoners revealed the plot.
