WANTS DEED ANNULLED.

Mrs. May Millen Enters Suit Against White Portland Cement Co.

Homer C. Millen, who has been identified with the cement works at Four Mile Lake since their first inception, was discharged from his position as general manager of the plant about July 10 by the other members of the White Portland Cement Co., in which he holds a quarter interest, and has also been served with a notice to vacate the house he now occupies, situated on the company's land, by July 29.

In consequence of this, Mrs. May Millen, wife of Homer C. Millen, entered suit in the circuit court July 18 against the White Portland Cement Co. and the Metropolitan Trust Co., of New York, which is trustee of the property.

The suit is for the annulment of a deed given by her husband to the company, which conveys to it 70 acres of land on the lake for the sum of $100,000, "with other valuable considerations."

While the property and rights are really worth $50,000. However, on July 10, Millen was notified that he was no longer general manager of the company, by President White, and that later a majority of the board of directors, consisting of W. J. and Harry W. White, endorsed this action and Millen was ordered to vacate the house he occupies under the contract by July 29.

This, Mrs. Millen considers a breach of the contract and now asks that the deed given by her be cancelled and invalidated, or that the company be made to pay for the land or that the premises be sold at auction. She also asks for an injunction against the defendants and the Metropolitan Trust Co. of New York, which is trustee for the bondholders, restraining them from disposing of the property in any way or enforcing the order of removal from the residence until the case is decided.

The injunction has been granted and the case will be heard in the circuit court.

Must Be a Bad Man.

During the recent trial at Howell of Ephraim Bush, a Unadilla township farmer, on a charge of using indecent language before women and children, it came out that he had been in the habit of chaining up his wife, daubing her flesh with pepper sauce and applying the horsewhip. The wife is a Detroit woman, and her husband, John McDonald, having died, she replied to Bush's advertisement for a housekeeper and later married him. Bush was fined $100 for his language and was immediately rearrested for resisting an officer. Four men of the sheriff's staff were badly used up before he was overpowered.

QUIET FAMILY WEDDING

Which United the Lives of Two Popular Chelsea Young People.

A quiet but pretty and strictly family wedding took place last evening, July 19, at 8 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Cole, on South street, at which time their youngest daughter Miss N. Ethel Cole was united in marriage with Mr. W. Augustus BeGole. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomas Holmes, D. D., the ring service being used. The decorations of the house were very simple and tasteful, sweet peas and ferns being used throughout.

The bride was attended by her cousin Miss Anna L. Walworth as bridesmaid, and Mr. LaMont BeGole as her brother's best man. The bride was gowned in white Parisian trimmed with lace and she carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas. The bridesmaid's dress was of the same material and she also carried sweet peas.

A dainty three course luncheon was served after the ceremony. About 25 guests in all were present. The bridal presents were numerous, handsome and useful.

Mr. and Mrs. BeGole have gone on a brief wedding trip to Detroit and other points and on their return will go to housekeeping in a cozy cottage on West Huron street, Ann Arbor, which is ready for their reception.

SUPERIORS DID NOT SCORE.

But the Cardinals Binged Out 13 Good Runs.

The Superior Manufacturing Co.'s baseball nine from Ann Arbor were very easy picking for the Cardinals Saturday afternoon. It is true they had natty uniforms and looked the perfection of ball players when they went on the field. But, alas, pretty clothes do not make the men, and not one of the Superior articles reached third base in any innings. Ackley pitched an errorless game of ball, striking out 17 men. He was ably supported by LaMont BeGole in the catcher's position, who threw out four men who were trying to steal second. O'Connell, the Superior's pitcher, was extremely wild, hitting no less than five of the Chelsea players, some of whom have been nursing very sore arms in consequence. Miles' home run hit, which went clear over into Ahnemiller's cabbage patch, was the longest hit ever made on the grounds. The final score stood 13 to 0.

Eastern Michigan Press Club.

The quarterly meeting of the Eastern Michigan Press Club, held in Detroit Friday, was well attended, 60 in all being present. The Chelsea folks who were there were O. T. Hoover and wife, T. W. Mingay and wife and Geo. S. Davis.

The meeting was held in the large dining room of the steamer City of Toledo while on the way to Star Is for a fish supper at Mrs. Slocum's. A new constitution and by-laws was adopted and the financial affairs of the club put into good shape. Seven new members were added to the fold which now embraces 72 members. It is hoped to make the number an even 100 before October.

The annual meeting will be held Oct. 6 at Dayton, Ohio, where the club goes for its annual outing as the guest of the National Cash Register Co.

Her 71st Birthday Anniversary.

Mrs. Rosanna Kline, of Lima, celebrated the 71st anniversary of her birth Sunday, July 16, surrounded by her relatives and old friends and neighbors, who came to help her celebrate the event. There were 90 people sat down to enjoy the bountiful dinner that was spread and 125 partook of the equally abundant supper. Guests were present from Ann Arbor, Chelsea, Freedom and other points besides Lima, and they left many tokens of their respect for Mrs. Kline with her. The birthday celebration was planned and carried out by Mrs. Kline's children.

If there are any other kinds of trouble floating around, Russia is likely to find them.

Philadelphia is really waking up. The people of that city have discovered that the grade crossing ought to be abolished.

Down in New Hampshire recently a man swam a mile for the purpose of being on time at his wedding. Even at that he probably had to wait for the bride to put the finishing touches on her primping.

STATE NEWS

THE JACKSON PRISON IS UNDER FIRE ONCE MORE.

BANKER STEWART GOES TO NEW MEXICO TO BEGIN ANEW.

WOMAN ROBBED AND BEATEN BY THIEVES IN EARLY MORNING.

Jackson Prison Affairs.

The Jackson prison board of control will consider the letting of certain labor contracts for the 200 convicts now idle in the institution, and also to inquire further, at Warden Vincent's request, into certain matters brought before the board at a meeting last week by former Deputy Warden Foote.

Governor Warner, Deputy Attorney-General Chase and Warden Vincent were present. The prisoners have their "daily balances" on deposit. The interest on that money, it was said, has been going to Mr. Vincent.

The sum involved is such as to make the interest a few hundred dollars. The money, it was said, was first at the Jackson City Bank, and is now in the vaults of the Union Trust Co.

Another matter that was discussed was the propriety of allowing prisoners to work on the new cell block for wages. Members of the board, however, think the state was several thousand dollars ahead on the deal, and that is propriety enough, they think.

Then there was talk of liberties accorded the prisoners. This is an old subject of discussion. Were some prisoners taken to see a circus? If they were, were they not properly guarded, and was this not often done before Mr. Vincent's time? The board apparently found little here that was new.

Another matter was an assertion that cigars were brought to the prison, and in some way the item was listed "eggs" in one of the reports.

Stewart Leaves Owosso. Charles D. Stewart, the bankrupt Owosso banker, left secretly late Monday night to take up his new work in the Rio Grande Wollen Mills office at Albuquerque, N. M.

His wife also went along. The terrific strain of the last four months has told heavily on the banker, and predictions are freely made that he will die of exhausted nervous force within the year. Because of Stewart's condition the Detroit Trust Co. has decided to hold his $50,000 insurance policies, at least until the present premium expires in August, 1906.

The premium amounts to $2,000 and it is Stewart's ambition to keep policies up for the benefit of his creditors.

The Cut Worm Ravages. The farmers of Muskegon county seem to have fought the army cut worm till they have conquered the pest for this season and it has done at least $25,000 damage to the crops.

Eggleston, Moorland, Sullivan and Ravenna townships, lying along low lands, have been touched and mint, corn, hay and nearly all the green stuff lying in the path of the small white army worm has been nipped off at the roots.

Not in 25 years has such destruction been known. Coming close on the heels of the cloudburst of a month ago, Muskegon county farmers are despondent and find crops nearly all ruined.

Utica's Loss. For the second time in fifteen months this village has been visited by a disastrous fire, in which many buildings in the business portion of the town were destroyed.

The fire broke out in the livery barn in the rear of the Utica inn, on the south side of the street, which was built up with old frame buildings. The total loss will be between $35,000 and $40,000.

The origin of the fire is unknown. On May 8, 1904, which was also on a Sunday, a fire swept through another district of the village with losses amounting to over $50,000. There is now no hotel in the village.

Ionia Woman Robbed. A daring robbery occurred at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning in Ionia when the rooms of E. C. Hillman, over Dean & Eyster's grocery store, were entered. Mrs. Hillman, who was alone, was overpowered and choked and her husband's $58 pay check, received Saturday, was taken.

Hillman is a Pere Marquette trainman and was away on his run. Mrs. Hillman was roughly handled. She was bleeding at the nose from blows received when the sheriff and doctor arrived, and finger marks showed upon her throat.

P. M. Bridge Down. The high bridge of the Pere Marquette railroad over Rabbit river collapsed as a freight train was passing over. The locomotive and two cars passing over in safety, but two cars loaded with gravel crashed through and lie in the river. The balance of the train remained on the north end of the bridge.

The attorneys in a pending criminal case attack the constitutionality of the new municipal code in Battle Creek, claiming that the act abolishes the office of justice of the peace, and that the new court claims greater powers than the legislature can confer.

An unknown man picked up Saturday night in Muskegon suffering with delirium tremens died Monday. Papers on his person gave the name of John Lund, West Pullman, Ill., but as that person is alive and well at his home, the identity of the dead man remains a mystery.

The tradition that a fight between a surveying party and Indians resulted in the naming of Battle Creek has been shattered. A letter written by the party who had the fight has been found, that was written Gov. Cass, which shows that the fight did not even occur in the county.

The State Millers' association in session at Ottawa Beach discussed the wheat crop and agreed that there is a discouraging outlook for wheat in Michigan this year. In many localities the grain is sprouting in the head, and but little wheat has yet been cut. Hot weather and winds are needed to dry the grain.

Lawyer Ira Montague, of Plainwell, acting for a man who gave his name as Harold Smith, and claiming that a steer owned by Frank Blakeslee had killed his horse, wrote to Blakeslee and in reply received a "$200 check." He gave Smith $195 of this amount. It has developed that the check was forged and that Blakeslee had no steer.

J. Lapowski, husband of the Flint woman reported to have slipped over the Mexican border with articles of bend work, and apprehended for smuggling, says his wife's name was forged in the matter, as she left Texas for Flint with her family last Saturday.

SOME HINTS ON TERMS OF PEACE THAT SEEM TO BE STRAIGHT.

The Novoe Vremya prints the following statement of Russia's position, which may be inspired.

"Russia can consent only to such a peace as will not affect the dignity or vital interests of the empire. To act otherwise would be fatal to Russia and would threaten all Europe.

Europe no longer believes in Japan's assurances that she will not restrict European interests in the far east. Even in England and America the voices of moral indignation can be heard in favor of the indirect interference of the powers to moderate Japan's demands.

Our plenipotentiaries must defend the interests of Russia, but they must not be guided by the powers, but by the interests of Russia.

Destruction of Karsakorsk. An eye-witness of the Japanese bombardment of Karsakorsk wires that the Russian forts were silenced on July 7, after the exchange of a very few shots.

The piers, warehouses and other buildings were set on fire and the conflagration was reflected by the foggy atmosphere, converting the sky into one mass of blood red color.

The Japanese army landed amidst the fire, which was fast spreading to the forts. The infantry quickly captured the forts, from the tops of which the bewildered inhabitants were seen fleeing in every direction, carrying what property they could remove.

The fires were not subdued for over 48 hours. The sunken cruiser Novik, which was destroyed by the Japanese at Karsakorsk last August, and the ruined town and forts are sad witnesses of the rapidity with which destruction is wrought in modern warfare.

Japan Peace Envoys' Route. President James J. Hill, of the Great Northern railway, is personally arranging the itinerary for the Japanese peace plenipotentiaries, in their journey from Seattle to Washington.

The party, which is headed by Baron Komura, will arrive at Seattle on the steamer Minnesota July 20. They will travel eastward over the Great Northern to Duluth, where they will embark on the steamer Northwest for Buffalo, via the great lakes.

At Buffalo the party will be taken by the Pennsylvania railway to Washington, arriving there early in August.

GENERAL WOOD

OPERATED ON, BUT DOING WELL - TO CLEAN UP PANAMA.

Reports from Pocasset, Cape Cod, say that Maj-Gen. Leonard Wood has just undergone the delicate surgical operation of trepanning to remove a bony growth on his head. The operation, it is said, was entirely successful, and the general is making rapid progress toward recovery.

It was made necessary by a mishap several years ago, when Maj-Gen. Wood received a severe blow on the head by accident. A swelling developed but surgeons were soon able to determine that it was not of cancerous growth and not in the least likely to have any permanent ill effects.

Gossip is current in Washington since President Roosevelt's speech at Oyster Bay Wednesday, that the president plans to send Gen. Wood to Panama to clean up the isthmus as he did Cuba.

The Canal "Knockers." President Roosevelt Wednesday afternoon turned the vials of his inventive loose on the "knocking" which is greeting the efforts of the United States in building the Panama canal.

bitingly scolded the men who have come back in panic from the isthmus with scare stories about health conditions there; prophesied confidently that the canal would be completed to the everlasting credit of American genius and perseverance, and lauded Gen. Leonard Wood for his sanitary achievements in Cuba in a way that suggested that the president may have in mind a similar task for his friend at Panama.

The address was delivered before the Associated Physicians of Long Island. Attired in a suit of rough linen and wearing a broad-brimmed Panama hat, the president arrived at Oyster Bay high school, where the meeting was held, at 3:15 p. m.

After the president had retired, the session was adjourned and the members of the society.

Destruction of Karsakorsk. An eye-witness of the Japanese bombardment of Karsakorsk wires that the Russian forts were silenced on July 7, after the exchange of a very few shots.

The piers, warehouses and other buildings were set on fire and the conflagration was reflected by the foggy atmosphere, converting the sky into one mass of blood red color.

The Japanese army landed amidst the fire, which was fast spreading to the forts. The infantry quickly captured the forts, from the tops of which the bewildered inhabitants were seen fleeing in every direction, carrying what property they could remove.

The fires were not subdued for over 48 hours. The sunken cruiser Novik, which was destroyed by the Japanese at Karsakorsk last August, and the ruined town and forts are sad witnesses of the rapidity with which destruction is wrought in modern warfare.

Japan Peace Envoys' Route. President James J. Hill, of the Great Northern railway, is personally arranging the itinerary for the Japanese peace plenipotentiaries, in their journey from Seattle to Washington.

The party, which is headed by Baron Komura, will arrive at Seattle on the steamer Minnesota July 20. They will travel eastward over the Great Northern to Duluth, where they will embark on the steamer Northwest for Buffalo, via the great lakes.

At Buffalo the party will be taken by the Pennsylvania railway to Washington, arriving there early in August.

TERRIFYING STORM.

DETROIT WAS VISITED AND MUCH DAMAGE DONE.

The most spectacular storm Detroit has seen this summer occurred at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon. A sultry forenoon and an unsettled condition of the weather gave promise of a downfall. It came black and threatening from the northwest. Low lying clouds rolled closely to the earth, creating intense darkness. When the storm broke in the business section of the city it amounted to a cloudburst.

The gutters ran with water even with the curbing and accompanying the down-pour was a scattering of hail of sufficient size to smash large plate glass windows. Along Shelby street the sidewalks were littered with fragments of windows and all over the downtown section much damage was inflicted. So violent was the storm and so terrifying the darkness that thousands of men and women were scared almost out of their senses. Many timorous women took refuge in their cellars.

STATE NEWS BRIEFS. A party of capitalists from Madison, Wis., are touring Michigan in search of a beet sugar factory to be moved to that state.

The continued wet weather will cause heavy loss to the farmers. Sanilac county and the sugar beet industry will be a sufferer severely.

WALTER KITTREDGE, POPULAR WAR SONG AUTHOR, DEAD

Walter Kittredge, poet and author of the song "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," died at his home at Reed's Ferry, N. H., last week. He was born at Merrimac, N. H., Oct. 8, 1834. Since 1856 he had been a song composer, writing the words and music of many songs that were popular. He gave concerts and sang his own compositions. "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground" was probably his most popular production, but others which had great vogue were "Night," "Golden Streets," "Scatter the Flowers Over the Blue and the Gray" and "Sing the Old War Songs Again." Kittredge lived at Reed's Ferry, where he owned a farm. He was married in 1861 to Miss Annie E. Fairbank of Boston, N. H.

SORRY HE SAW HER FIRST.

Game of Hide-and-Seek at a House Party and Its Sad Ending.

It was not so very long ago that a jolly party of young men and women from the capital went on a week-end visit to Miss Dash, whose father has a country house not a day's journey away from the Washington Post. It was not the sort of house party you read about in "smart" novels. They didn't play bridge nor hunt; they romped like a lot of children. Mr. and Mrs. Dash were away one evening and if the house had not been very solidly built it would have been torn down. Nobody ever heard such rollicking laughter, such mad scamperings as went on. Somebody suggested hide and seek. The young people hid in every possible place between. A normally sedate young man was the seeker. He galloped about madly, shouting and searching. He opened every door he saw and in one room his keen eyes espied somebody trying to hide in a bed. He pounced forward and seized the figure.

"Get out of that!" he cried. "I've got you. You can't hide from me." Wild shrieks and the noise of combat rent the air. Furious invective and stammered expostulation brought the rest of the party in no time at all. The usually sedate young man had found the cook and nothing he could say had any weight with her. She came of fighting stock. She blacked his eye and—well, she was the Dash country house's cook.

COLLIE DOG EVIDENTLY HAD HIS OWN CONCEPTION OF DUTY.

After 31 persons had been prostrated and ten of them had died during the hottest day up to date this summer a breath of cool air relieved Chicago last night. The relief was short lived. After a few hours the wind veered again and the heat was intense.

There was one death and numerous prostrations in Cleveland Monday. All records for continuous heat in Madison, Wis., were broken. During three days the mercury was above 96 daily.

General Blackmar Dead.

Gen. W. W. Blackmar, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., died in Boise City, Idaho, of intestinal nephritis. His wife was with him during his illness. The body will be embalmed and taken to the home of the family in Boston. Gen. Blackmar arrived on July 10 on an inspection tour of Grand Army posts throughout the northwest. He was ill when he arrived and gradually failed. The seriousness of his condition was kept from the public at the request of his wife.

Gen. Blackmar was born July 25, 1841, at Bristol, Pa. He enlisted in the Fifteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry and subsequently joined the First West Virginia. He served with distinction throughout the war and at Five Forks was promoted on the field by Gen. Custer to the rank of captain.

Through three administrations, those of Governors Long, Talbot and Rice, he was judge advocate-general of Massachusetts. At the last national encampment of the G. A. R. he was elected commander-in-chief.

The Holmes Case.

President Roosevelt has determined the scandal growing out of the cotton report leaks in the department of agriculture shall be probed to the bottom. He holds that the man or men responsible for the leaks are even in a greater degree culpable than they would have been had they stolen money outright from the government. He proposes that Assistant Statistician Holmes, against whom serious allegations are made, shall be punished if it shall be found possible to secure his arrest and conviction under present laws.

The president has followed the work of the investigation conducted by Secretary Wilson with keen interest and has written Attorney General Moody as follows:

"I most earnestly hope that every effort will be made to bring Holmes to justice in connection with the cotton report scandal. Please go over the papers yourself. The man is, in my judgment, a far greater scoundrel than if he had stolen money from the government, as he used the government to deceive outsiders and to make money for himself and for others."

An Unsavory Mess.

Scandals of enormous proportions will develop in the government printing office beside which the Lanston typesetting investigation is but a gentle breeze as compared with the storm that will break over the greatest printing establishment in the world. Graft is rampant in this establishment. Some of the officials who have the purchasing power are charged with demanding a commission on the sales of supplies. Machinery which would be useful for many years, is condemned after being purchased by those who condemn it, and they in turn sell it to private business concerns at a large profit. Superfluous positions exist and persons are on the pay roll who perform practically no services. Immorality exists and favorites of chiefs are given positions which involve no labor, jobs are sold on the commission basis and corruption of almost every conceivable character exists.

LATE NEWS

THE G. A. R. LOSES ITS HEAD, WHO DIED ON INSPECTION TOUR.

PEARY'S SECOND VOYAGE TO REACH THE NORTH POLE BEGUN.

DEATHS CAUSED BY THE HEAT IN VARIOUS CITIES OF THE COUNTRY.

The Intense Heat.

Detroit was one of the hottest places in the United States Monday, and it was also the hottest day of the summer in the city, and the hottest hours of the day were between 3 and 4 o'clock when the thermometer at the United States weather office registered 93 in the shade. Unofficial thermometers in the downtown districts showed as high as 100. Two deaths and numerous prostrations resulted.

Stevenson, Mich., reports two deaths and the thermometer registering 105 degrees.

New York records show 24 deaths in 24 hours and more than 100 prostrations.

Philadelphia experienced an unusual hot wave, with the thermometer showing 105 degrees Monday and an almost equal intensity Tuesday.

In Boston two days of intense heat caused great suffering among the poor.

After 31 persons had been prostrated and ten of them had died during the hottest day up to date this summer a breath of cool air relieved Chicago last night. The relief was short lived. After a few hours the wind veered again and the heat was intense.

SHOT A WHITE WHALE.

Entered English Salmon Net and Was Shot by a Fisherman.

A correspondent of the London Daily Graphic says: A specimen of that somewhat rare cetacean, the white whale, or beluga, actually entered a salmon net recently at Naburn, near York, in the river Ouse, some thirty-five miles or so from the sea. It made short work of the salmon net, but one of the fishermen loaded a gun and fired at the unfortunate whale. On the following day it was found stranded in shallow water at Cawood, not far from Selby. It was then hauled up on to a lorry and exhibited round the countryside by its captors. It weighed ten hundred weight, measured a little over 11 feet in length, and the expense of the tail was 2 feet 8 inches. It was a beautiful creamy white color when I saw it and I propped open its jaws with a stick. It had evidently come up so far from the sea in pursuit of the salmon. According to "Bell," in the White Sea it is very common, and a regular fishery is carried on in the spring and summer at Solza, near the mouth of the river Dvina. It possesses no dorsal fin, and, like most members of the family, it is gregarious, sporting, feeding and migrating in herds of moderate numbers. Its skin affords very useful leather, and its blubber yields oil of excellent quality. Its flesh is said to be much valued in Greenland. In the quaint language of Egged, "It has no bad taste, and when marinated with vinegar and salt, it is as well tasted as any pork whatever; the fins also and the tail, pickled or sauced, are very good eating; so that he is very good cheer."

TOOK THE SHEEP BACK.

Collie Dog Evidently Had His Own Conception of Duty.

A story of a Scotch collie is current on the Derbyshire border, says an English exchange. A farmer in the Peak district, having purchased a small flock of sheep in the Lowlands, drove the flock the whole way from Scotland to his farm in Derbyshire with the aid of a collie dog which was left to him by the Scotch farmer from whom he purchased the sheep. "When you get to your home with the sheep," said the Scotchman, "let the dog fill his belly; then tell him to go home." The Derbyshire man duly arrived at his farm with the sheep, and was so pleased with the collie dog and its performance that he decided to keep it a few days before sending it back. One day he was away from home during the whole of the day, and on returning in the evening he found that the Scotch collie was missing, and also the flock of sheep. In a few days tidings came that the dog had arrived at his Scotch home and had brought the sheep back with him.

Medieval Ideas of Women.

John Nevisan, who died in Turin in 1540, stated the medieval notion of women in his "Sylvia Nuptials," when, after remarking that the Author of Good had made women entirely with the exception of her head, he added briefly: "Permisit Deus illud facere daemone" ("God let the devil make that"). In the same century Jean Raulin preached that "man, composed of clay, is silent and ponderous; but woman gives evidence of her osseous origin by the rattle she keeps up." It was another Frenchman, Herion, the orientalist, who was gracious enough to allow woman the supremacy in one respect at least. With minute accuracy he fixes the height of Noah at 103 feet, of Moses at 13 feet, of Hercules at 10 feet, of Alexander the Great and Julius Caesar at 6 and 5 feet, respectively—and of Eve at 118 feet 9.77 inches.

Thoroughly in Keeping.

In the library of the Vatican is a curious manuscript in the shape of a treatise upon dragons, written several hundred years ago. The script is twelve inches wide and some three hundred feet in length, and the curious parchment upon which it is written is declared by tradition to be the tanned intestine of one of the serpents written about. As the parchment is without a seam it is clearly the product of some enormous animal, and it is only charitable to the author to accept the statement that he wrote of actualities, as at tested by the evidence adduced.

Hindoo Bathing Festival.

Says a newspaper published in India: "The Mahavarni, the great bathing festival of the Hindoos, was observed on the night of the 1st of May. Immense crowds from all parts of the country repaired to Hardwar to bathe in the Ganges on the occasion. The giving away to Brahmans of rice, sweets, clothes and utensils on the occasion is considered meritorious, and the festival must have proved a windfall to the priestly class. In Lahore the festival was celebrated in a befitting manner. The road between the city and the Ravi was instinct with life throughout the night."

Perhaps It Was True.

He was a doctor witness in an Irish murder case, and was very anxious that the court should let him go home as soon as possible. So he got a friend of his to plead in his favor. This was how the friend did it: "It is this way, your Honor. My friend, the doctor, has been for three years looking after two old ladies. If you don't let him go home to-morrow he's afraid the ladies will get well." And that's why the doctor doesn't speak to his friend.

A WOMAN'S MISERY.

Mrs. John La Rue, of 115 Paterson Avenue, Paterson, N. J., says: "I was troubled for about nine years, and what I suffered no one will ever know. I used about every known remedy that is said to be good for kidney complaint, but without deriving permanent relief. Often when alone in the house the back ache has been so bad that it brought tears to my eyes. The pain at times was so intense that I was compelled to give up my household duties and lie down. There were headaches, dizziness and blood rushing to my head to cause bleeding at the nose. The first box of Doan's Kidney Pills benefited me so much that I continued the treatment. The stinging pain in the small of my back, the rushes of blood to the head and other symptoms disappeared."

Worried by False Teeth.

Sheikh Mahomed Ali Omar Or, head of the Genilab Arabs, who has arrived at Khartoum, has been presented by the sirdar with a complete set of teeth. He is extremely proud of them and hopes to amaze the rest of his tribe when he arrives home. His only misgiving is the effect on his inside. He expressed his fears in this way: "God gave me teeth and took them away when I grew old. He knows best. Now man has put new ones in. Can the doctor of the teeth tell me what is good for my inside?" —Brooklyn Eagle.

Boomerang as Life Saver.

Attention is being devoted to the boomerang as a means of saving life at sea. The contrivance is simply a boomerang to which a swivel is attached to carry the line without twisting. With it a man can instantly throw a strong line 150 feet to 200 feet, and, as the boomerang floats it will sustain the cord on the water and give a person on the surface a chance to catch it, and be drawn to land or supported until a boat arrives. The device requires little skill to throw it accurately.

To Make Barley Water.

Barley water is simply made; wash half a cup of pearl barley and place in a saucepan with two quarts of water. Boil it for two hours until the barley is perfectly soft, stirring it and skimming it occasionally, strain it before using. This may be sweetened and flavored with lemon juice.

FROM SAME BOX

Where the Foods Come From.

"Look here, waiter, honest now, don't you dip every one of these flaked breakfast foods out of the same box?" "Well, yes, boss, we dux, all 'cept Grape-Nuts, cause that don't look like the others and people know 'zactly what Grape-Nuts looks like. But there's 'bout a dozen different ones named on the bill of fare and they are all thin rolled flakes so it don't make any difference which one a man calls for, we just take out the order from one box."

This talk led to an investigation. Dozens of factories sprung up about three years ago, making various kinds of breakfast foods, seeking to take the business of the original prepared breakfast food—Grape-Nuts. These concerns after a precarious existence, nearly all failed, leaving thousands of boxes of their foods in mills and warehouses. These were in several instances bought up for a song by speculators and sold out to grocers and hotels for little or nothing. The process of working off this old stock has been slow. One will see the names on menus of flaked foods that went out of business a year and a half or two years ago. In a few cases where the abandoned factories have been bought up, there is an effort to resuscitate the defunct, and by copying the style of advertising of Grape-Nuts, seek to influence people to purchase. But the public has been educated to the fact that all these thin flaked foods are simply soaked wheat or oats rolled thin and dried out and packed. They are not prepared like Grape-Nuts, in which the thorough baking and other operations which turn the starch part of the wheat and barley into sugar, occupy many hours and result in a food so digestible that small infants thrive on it, while it also contains the selected elements of Phosphate of Potash and Albumen that unite in the body to produce the soft gray substance in brain and nerve centers. There's a reason for Grape-Nuts, and there have been many imitations, a few of the kind and character of the advertising. Imitators are always counterfeits and their printed and written statements cannot be expected to be different than their goods.

RYAN A MONEY GETTER.

Characteristics of the New Head of the Equitable.

John Skelton Williams of Richmond, Va., one of the foremost bankers and railway organizers of the south, says of Thomas Fortune Ryan, the new head of the Equitable: "I have known Mr. Ryan six years and in that time have been associated with him in enterprises in which we were mutually interested and opposed to him in struggles for the control of properties. It was difficult for me to understand that a man could be capable of violating pledges and promises, deliberately and solemnly given, and afterward of looking me calmly in the face, expressing friendship and apparently not at all ashamed or embarrassed—not even angered—when I bluntly told my opinion of his conduct. Mr. Ryan has been very humble and contracted speech, but he would have made him a maniac. His strongest impulse is to acquire money."—Chicago.

No European monarch would have the honor of receiving the Shah of Persia. The Shah of Persia, who is a very powerful man, is expected to visit Europe. He is a very powerful man, and is expected to visit Europe. He is a very powerful man, and is expected to visit Europe.

Roosevelt's Opinion of Root.

Some months ago President Roosevelt uttered this estimate of Elihu Root: "In John Hay I have a great secretary of state. In Philander Knox I have a great attorney general. In other cabinet posts I have great men. Elihu Root could take any of these places and fill it as well as the man who is now there. And, in addition, he is what probably none of these gentlemen could be—a great secretary of war. Elihu Root is the ablest man I have known in our government service. I will go further. He is the greatest man that has appeared in the public life of any country, in any position, on either side of the ocean, in my time."

Russell Sage as a Legislator.

Everybody knows Russell Sage as a financier. Only a few remember that at one time in his career he represented a New York district in congress. He was elected to the thirty-third congress as a whig, taking his seat Dec. 5, 1853. On the second day of the session he participated in a discussion regarding the creed of a clergyman who had been suggested for chaplain of the house. From that time on he took active part in the deliberations of that body, proving himself a strong debater.

Railroad Company's Gratitude.

Nannie Gibson, a barefooted 11-year-old girl who lives with her parents in the Black mountains of North Carolina, is to be given a college education by the Southern Railway, which will also provide for her in other ways. Some time ago a big slide occurred on the mountain while she was home alone. She ran down the railroad waving her red petticoat. A heavy train was stopped by her ten feet from where the mountain had caved in. Below was an abyss several thousand feet deep.

Webster Objected to Starving.

During my boyhood I resided in the district in which Daniel Webster made his home in summer or when through with his duties at Washington, says a writer in the Boston Herald. Once a butcher sued him for a meat bill. He was frequently negligent about paying small bills. The butcher refused to deliver any more meat until his bill was settled. Meeting him several days later, Webster said to him: "Sue me as many times as you like, but don't starve me."

Neuralgia And Other Pain.

All pain in any disease is nerve pain, the result of a turbulent condition of the nerves. The stabbing, lacerating, darting, burning, agonizing pain that comes from the prominent nerve branches, or sensory nerves, is neuralgia, and is the "big brother" of all the other pains.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills rarely ever fail to relieve these pains by soothing these larger nerves, and restoring their tranquility.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills leave no bad after-effects, and are a reliable remedy for every kind of pain, such as headache, backache, stomachache, sciatica, rheumatism and neuralgia.

They also relieve Dizziness, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Car-Sickness, and Distress after eating.

THURSDAY, JULY 20, 1905.

Henry C. Smith has announced himself as a receptive candidate for Senator Alger's mantle if the people see fit to let it fall on his shoulders. Mr. Smith would certainly make a better man for the position than some of those named, whose best qualification seems to be the money they possess. He certainly has brains, energy and experience. His platform is: First, United States, the world's best power; second, Michigan, the best star in the flag; third, election of senators by direct vote; fourth, anti-graft.

The common council is to be congratulated on the action taken by it in ordering the publication of a statement of the financial condition of the village twice a year. The taxpayers of Chelsea have a well defined right to know what the receipts of the village treasury are and how and for what they are expended. The council should have gone a little further, however, and had a treasurer's report published every month. Monthly statements are much better and closer to hand than semi-annual ones. Still, half a loaf is better than no bread.

The street and sidewalk committee has recommended that in the future all sidewalks put down in the village shall be constructed of White Portland cement, manufactured at Four Mile Lake. That's right, gentlemen, patronize home industries. There is not a merchant in Chelsea who does not think it wrong for people to go away from home to do their trading. The protection of home industries is a good thing—the White Portland Cement Co. contribute thousands of dollars to the prosperity of the village in a year and it is only right to practice a little reciprocity.

There must be a goodly crop of suckers in and around Chelsea, to judge by the persistency with which street fakirs have been here of late. It is only two or three weeks ago that a fellow was here one Saturday night selling electric belts, etc., who boasted that he had taken in about $70 of the people's good money and it had not been a very good night either. He make a further statement that another fakir who had been here a night or two previous had "skinned the people and made them sore" so they would not buy his goods. If there was ever a much greater "skinner" than the electric goods man was we would like to see him—he would be a prodigy, for fair. Friends, steer clear of these fakirs, keep your money in your jeans, and you will be far healthier, wealthier and better tempered for doing so. They will all "skin" you, and that is just what they are out to do.

Don't be a Failure. The International Courses spell Success.

Have You Ever

Neighborhood Notes.

Jackson Masons are enjoying a picnic at Clark's lake today.

W. T. Glenn and C. E. Walker have leased the Grass Lake flouring mill of E. M. Sanford and will continue the business.

Jesse Dickinson, of Stockbridge township, took eight morphine tablets because his sweetheart jilted him. A physician pumped him out and saved his life.

It took five ballots to elect one trustee and two ballots to elect the other at the Grass Lake school meeting. The district will raise $2,500 by direct tax for the coming year's budget.

Samuel McCall, a Milford farmer, put his hay crop into the barn while it was damp, rather than have it lay in the fields and spoil with the continuous rains. The hay heated and spontaneous combustion destroyed the barn and its contents.

During the heavy thunder storm last Friday noon lightning struck the trolley wire of the Ypsi-Ann and burned out two insulators and scorched the bridge across the railroad at the eastern city limits of Ypsilanti. The wires were grounded at this point and three cars were put out of business.

Spoiled Her Beauty.

Harriet Howard, of 209 W. 34th st., New York, at one time had her beauty spoiled with skin trouble. She writes: "I had salt rheum or eczema for years but nothing would cure it until I used Bucklen's Arnica Salve." A quick and sure healer for cuts, burns and sores. 25c at Bank Drug Store.

WANTS $10,000 DAMAGES.

Peter J. Young Sues the Michigan Central for That Sum.

Peter J. Young, of Sylvan, by his attorneys, A. J. Sawyer & Son, has commenced suit in the circuit court against the Michigan Central railroad for damages resulting from being injured in a collision between a train of the defendant railroad and his buggy on May 4, 1903. According to the declaration filed in the case, Young claims that the Michigan Central train and a D. Y. A. A. & J. car were racing as they approached the Sylvan road along which said plaintiff was driving and that no warning was given by the train of its approach. In consequence the buggy was struck and Young thrown about 50 feet and severely injured. He places his damages at $10,000.

Beautiful your complexion with little cost. If you wish a smooth, clear, cream-like complexion, rosy cheeks, laughing eyes, take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. Greatest beautifier known. 35c tea or tablets. Bank Drug Store.

A Successful Teachers' Institute.

The three weeks' institute for Washtenaw county teachers, held at the Normal college, Ypsilanti, and which closed Friday, was one of the most successful ever held. About 90 teachers were enrolled and Prof. N. A. Harvey conducted the meetings. County Commissioner Foster says it has become necessary for a teacher to have Normal training regardless of whether he or she teaches in a country or a district school. It is probable that the institute will be held in Ann Arbor next year.

Fine weather for haying and harvest, just what the farmers need, as the heavy rains put them back with their work.

A certain Waterlooite imbued too freely of hard cider and started to cross the pond. He was found a few hours later with just his head above water and when pulled to shore by George Beeman was almost exhausted.

The Epworth League convention of the Ann Arbor district is to be held in Manchester Aug. 29-30.

The Cardinals leave here for Albion and Springport tomorrow. At the latter place they will on Saturday play the strong baseball team of that place. Geo. A. BeGole will accompany the boys.

Representatives of the International Correspondence Schools, of Scranton, Pa., have a very interesting window display in J. George Webster's store this week. Open evenings and everyone invited to go in and ask questions.

A band of jolly Elks from Jackson, advertising Pain's Fall of Port Arthur, were here Wednesday afternoon. Their kazoo band and other antics frightened the horses and dogs and everything else within hearing distance.

The cross and side of the tree of the common sense is recommended. The cement be used in all cement work.

One of the fool laws passed by the legislature last winter provides that persons selling milk must take a state license of $1 for the privilege. The law applies to those selling in small as well as large quantities, so those selling only a pint to their neighbors may just as well run a milk wagon route, so far as paying a license is concerned.

The Wm. Bacon-Holmes Co. yesterday shipped 120,000 pounds of wool which they had sold to S. M. Isbell & Co., of Jackson. This shipment embraced 52,000 pounds purchased from the Chelsea Lumber & Produce Co. The total amount purchased by the Bacon-Holmes Co. was 125,000 pounds. The total amount of wool bought in Chelsea the past season was 165,000 pounds, Martin Wackenhut having bought and shipped about 40,000 pounds.

The Manchester Messenger is the name of a new 4-page paper that has made its appearance in Manchester and will be published twice a week hereafter—Tuesdays and Fridays—by C. J. Van Valkenberg, who for the past year has conducted a job office there. The paper is started at the earnest solicitation of a number of the citizens of that place. The Herald extends the right hand of fellowship to the editor and his publication and wishes it success, but we think he makes a mistake in printing a twice a week paper.

E. Stevenson, formerly entertained by Mrs. Bogue, at a party given in honor of the members of the Bogue musical and entertainment, in which was displayed, games of cards, and the dainty refreshments served were a happy occasion for a good time.

Prof. Gorton is a graduate of the Normal College and the University of Michigan. He will sail for home July 29. Prof. Gorton is a son of Henry Gorton, of this place.

The Jackson Elks are expecting a great attendance on Pain's Fall of Port Arthur at Jackson next week, July 24 to 29 inclusive. The spectacle has never before been shown in a city of less than 100,000 inhabitants and comes to Jackson from Manhattan Beach, New York. It is a very realistic performance and takes 20 carloads of paraphernalia and scenery and 400 people to produce it.

At the meeting of the common council Wednesday evening of last week, by a vote of 3 to 2, one member being absent and one declining to vote, it was resolved to publish an exact statement of the financial condition of the village twice a year, on the 15th of August and the 15th of March.

The Detroit Times is still making strides toward the front rank in newspaperdom, both in its news features and in its business. Commencing July 1 it took on the exclusive evening newspaper franchise of the Hearst News Syndicate, which adds much to the efficient telegraph service of the paper. This, with other good news features, gives the Times' readers a much better newspaper. The managers of the Times are gratified at the increasing popularity of the paper, its circulation receipts having increased 13 per cent in the six months ending June 30, 1905.

Michigan G. A. R. will go to Denver to the national encampment Sept. 4, over the Wabash and Missouri Pacific. The rate from Chicago is $20 and one cent a mile one way from any point in Michigan to Chicago.

As each year rolls around the people of Chelsea seem to take more and more pains to keep the lawns and other parts of their premises looking well, and they have never looked better than they do this summer.

Automobiles were prophetically described in the Bible, when Nahum said: "The chariots shall race in the streets; they shall jostle one against another in the broad ways. They shall seem like torches and shall run like lightning."

Cure For The Blues

ONE MEDICINE THAT HAS NEVER FAILED

Health Fully Restored and the Joy of Life Regained

When a cheerful, brave, light-hearted woman is suddenly plunged into that perfection of misery, the BLUES, it is a sad picture. It is usually this way: She has been feeling "out of sorts" for some time; head has ached and back also; has slept poorly, been quite nervous, and nearly fainted once or twice; head dizzy, and heart-beats very fast; then that bearing-down feeling, and during her menstrual period she is exceedingly despondent. Nothing pleases her. Her doctor says: "Cheer up; you have dyspepsia; you will be all right soon."

Mrs. Rosa Adams

But she doesn't get "all right," and hope vanishes; then come the brooding, morbid, melancholy, everlasting BLUES.

Don't wait until your sufferings have driven you to despair, with your nerves all shattered and your courage gone, but take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. See what it did for Mrs. Rosa Adams, of 819 13th Street, Louisville, Ky., niece of the late General Roger Hanson, U.S.A. She writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"I cannot tell you with pen and ink what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered with female troubles, extreme lassitude, 'the blues,' nervousness and that all-gone feeling. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it not only cured my female derangement, but it has restored me to perfect health and strength. The buoyancy of my younger days has returned, and I do not suffer any longer with despondency, as I did before. I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a boon to sick and suffering women."

If you have some derangement of the female organism write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice.

Have You a Father or Mother

Whose advanced years have caused a general weakened condition of their bodily functions, causing indigestion, constipation, sluggish or torpid liver or impoverished blood? There is no remedy in the wide world that will tone up the worn-out system like Marvin's Cascara Chocolate Tablets. By their tonic effect upon the tiny cells that constitute the mucous coat of the bowels the loss of tone is repaired, the normal secretions are stimulated, the circulation of good healthy blood in the intestinal walls is re-established, and instead of a sluggish, unhealthy state of the whole digestive apparatus, the patient is restored to his old-time vigor. These tablets are purely vegetable and can be taken without any nauseating effect into the most delicate stomach. We want every afflicted person to try these tablets at our expense. Send your name and address and we will gladly mail you a free sample. Put up in metal boxes, 25 doses, 25 cents at drugists. MARVIN REMEDY CO., Detroit, Mich.

THE MISSING MAN

"Them cuttings will be in the wash-tub a Monday, though 'tain't a great while since I washed 'em; but I will keep neat if I don't do nothin' else. See, here's his brush, with a few hairs sticking to it," and she held up one for the inspection of Mrs. Hamilton, who sat spellbound, it seemed to Mrs. Fry. What was the cause? She knew many months later, but not then. "There ain't no light color to the roots on 't," said Mrs. Fry, striving to attract her regard.

No, there was not. The hair showed no indication of having been colored. "Perhaps he attends to it every day," said Mrs. Hamilton, arousing herself and shaking off the occult influences of the room.

"Well, then, the hair dye must be 'round handy. Shall I look in the trunk? The lock is broke, I see."

But Mrs. Hamilton stood looking out the window and apparently did not hear her, for she did not reply. Mr. Fry lifted the cover and began to rummage the trunk.

"Not a thing here that would color a rat's whiskers," she said. "You look."

"Oh, no," said Constance, shrinking. "You are right, I presume."

"Well, here's one of them marked shirts I told you about. Ain't that H. A.?"

Constance came eagerly forward and looked at the initials put on with inflexible ink.

"Yes, you are right. The letters are H. A. If they indicate his name it can not be Primus Edes."

"Wall, you see there ain't no dye-stuff in the room, an' no signs of none," said Mrs. Fry, straightening the room a little preparatory to leaving it. "Do you want to look any more?"

"No," said Constance, rising from her seat at the window as if to follow her from the room. But as she passed the bureau she deftly extracted from the hair-brush the few strands that clung there, and with them hidden in

"I suspect such things—always did," he said, "for I never knew people of the sort to count in a suspected person. Guilty people, or those with anything to conceal, don't give one name and carry about articles of clothing marked with contradictory initials."

"I should think your reasoning good," said Constance, much impressed. "Perhaps Dan Fry is right in thinking that some one gave him the articles."

"I will find out if I can," said the detective. And he did to his own satisfaction that very day, for he learned that Dan had asked the question already, and been answered to all appearances truthfully. "A stranger gave them to him," he said.

"He is a harmless person, you can see that," said Swan, "and an ignorant one. Dan Fry says he cannot write nor read, but is anxious to learn. I saw a copy that Dan wrote for him and the fellow tried to follow. Here it is. All capitals! Down here he has put some of the letters together. C-O-N. Your name, as I live, Mrs. Hamilton! I remember you signed your letter Constance Hamilton."

"Yes," said Constance, woefully ashamed of the miserable scribble which told so much to the keen-eyed detective.

"He is evidently trying to learn how to write your name first of all," and looked at her hesitatingly. "Do you think—may I ask—"

"Ask what you wish," she answered with an effort.

"Then perhaps you will tell me whether he seems to regard you with more than ordinary interest?"

"I am afraid he does," and Mrs. Hamilton mentioned the fact of his having watched her house many times, but forbore to speak of his glances at church, though not that he had touched her little girl's hair.

Swan smiled a little, but looked puzzled.

"I should dismiss the matter from my thoughts if I were you, madam," he said, after a little thought. "This man her hand went down into the sitting room, as she thought, unobserved; but Mrs. Fry had seen the act as she chanced to glance back, and wondered.

Mrs. Hamilton's first act after returning home and removing her wraps was to write to Swan and send him the three strands of hair, neatly gummed to a paper.

"The hair," she wrote, "was combed from the head of a person resembling my husband in some respects. Do not mistake me. I do not believe the man to be Mr. Hamilton, but I wish to know that he is not. Please submit the hair to a specialist in such matters, if such a one can be found, and learn whether it has ever been dyed."

Swan knew of no specialist in such matters, but he felt convinced that a practiced dealer in human hair might give him points of elucidation. Accordingly he went to the large establishment of Springer & Hollis on Washington street, Boston, and as it chanced was fortunate enough to see Mr. Hollis and state his errand to him.

"There is one person in this building on whose judgment you may rely, Ambrose, tell Mr. Hawkes to step this way."

In a moment a quiet, gentlemanly individual made his way toward them, and Mr. Hollis showed him the strands of hair, after introducing the detective and stating his errand.

Mr. Hawkes took it and disappeared with it for a few moments. When he handed it back to Swan the detective fancied it to be slightly wet.

"Well?" said he, interrogatively. "It has never been colored. It is the natural shade."

"You may count on Mr. Hawkes' opinion as reliable," said Mr. Hollis. "Is it what you expected to learn?"

"Hardly. I suspect the one who sent it to me thought it might be colored," replied Swan.

The detective answered Mrs. Hamilton's inquiries in person and he could see she was relieved somewhat when she learned what Hawkes had said. Indeed, she told him so. At his request she told him the few facts she had learned regarding Primus Edes, which, however, did not appear to impress him much until the matter of the marked shirts came up.

on a pile of shavings. "I saw him this morning, not since then."

"Oh, if he should have fallen into the water!" cried Constance. "Have you any idea where he can be?"

"No, but I will find him," he said, confidently. "I will find him."

Mr. Carter looked at him in some surprise. "Well, I hope you can get him home before nightfall. He may be somewhere in the neighborhood with the other children."

Inquiries were made through the village, but no trace of the little fellow could be found. Nothing had been seen of him since he stood in the yard at the close of school; but one little girl professed to have heard him say he was going after beechnuts. With this clue a company of men and boys at nightfall started to scour the woods with lanterns and torches. Constance, nearly frenzied by this time, sat with tightly clenched hands, listening for any sound she might hear from the direction of the woods. Clare had cried herself to sleep on the sofa, and Mr. Carter walked nervously about the yard and down to the edge of the woods a score of times.

"I wonder where Edes went. I didn't see him with the men," he said to Constance.

"Did you not?" she asked, lifting a white face to his for a moment. "He seemed confident he could find Perley, uncle."

"So he did, Constance. Well, the night is warm, and Perley won't be apt to suffer much except in his feelings," said Mr. Carter as cheerfully as possible.

He thought of the street, who looked at her hesitatingly. "Do you think—may I ask—"

"Ask what you wish," she answered with an effort.

"Then perhaps you will tell me whether he seems to regard you with more than ordinary interest?"

"I am afraid he does," and Mrs. Hamilton mentioned the fact of his having watched her house many times, but forbore to speak of his glances at church, though not that he had touched her little girl's hair.

With one so absent-minded it was not easy, she fancied, to make changes in his surroundings which he would never notice except in a vague way, or suspect that they came through her. By gradual evolution, therefore, his room at Mrs. Fry's came to wear the dainty look that white drapery, pictures and books could give it. Next, as cool weather approached, a stove mysteriously found its way there, and a comfortable dressing gown, or loose coat, if he chose to call it that, was found hanging in the closet.

FIT FOR PRIZE RING.

Prize Fighter's Verdict on His Portion of the Steak.

Richard Harding Davis, when he was a reporter in Philadelphia, delighted to disguise himself as a "tough" young man and to mingle with the odd characters of the Ninth street district of the Quaker City.

Mr. Davis got to know this district with peculiar intimacy. Its prize fighters he knew especially well. Not seldom, in the gathering of some news item, he would accompany a third-rate pugilist to his cheap boarding house and dine with him on the most unpalatable fare.

"I used to know one fighter," said Mr. Davis recently, "who was a character, a wit, a man of no mean intellect."

"One day I dined with him at his boarding house, a typical boarding house, one of those where the landlady sits at the head of the table and serves the dishes to the submissive pensioners ranged in two lines below her."

"My friend got a piece of steak that was full of gristle. Finding this steak tolerable tough he began to amuse us all with burlesque attempts at carving it. He turned back his cuffs and carved. Then he took off his coat. Then he held his knife like a chisel and pretended to hammer the handle with a biscuit."

"The landlady, up to this moment, had been too busy serving to notice the pugilist's antics. Now she spoke up."

"Is there anything the matter with your steak?" she said in a stern voice.

"The pugilist smiled politely and answered: "It is a trifle overtrained, perhaps, madam; but, really, I never saw a harder muscle."

FARM

MISCELLANY.

Alfalfa and Inoculation.

We sowed alfalfa a year ago in May on well prepared sandy loam, worked down to a fine tilth, it being in a good state of fertility, sowing about twenty pounds of seed to the acre. We inoculated it from an old field of alfalfa, where a few plants remained, sowing the dirt by hand immediately before putting in the seed. In this process we failed to make the dirt meet, and when the alfalfa got started we could readily see where the soil was inoculated and where not, by the color and size of the alfalfa.

However, we got a good stand and it wintered all right. This spring the non-inoculated strip offered the same as it did last summer, and we covered it with good stable manure, taking dirt from a well inoculated spot and covering each load before scattering. In this process the dirt became well mixed with the manure and hence was evenly distributed over the soil. From that time on the weakly strip began to take on new life, nodules appearing on the roots, and when cut, which was on June 13, could see but a mere trace of them, it being practically all inoculated and making about three tons of fine hay from two acres of ground, first cut.

Good Grades.

Grades among horses and cattle are more easily produced than full bloods because the number of unregistered females is far greater than the number registered or that have the right to be registered. It requires the selection only of a good sire to insure a certain amount of quality, but to get the best quality it is necessary to have a good dam as well as a good sire. Good grades, whether of horses or cattle, are worth more than poor grades. We have a standard of grades and can have a high breeder from time to time, but we tried to put upon paper the different points of different breeds. Some of the associations dealing with the characteristics of the good breeds are defined by rules tend to be uniform.

Finds Where His Sherry Went.

A sea story is being told of a native who, incensed at the stealing of his sherry, filled up the bottle with the most disgusting stuff he could invent in the hope of catching the supposed pilferer. By the time the bottle went on, until the pilferer was obliged to demand the steward. "I give the contents of the bottle for the soup every day."

Two Litters a Year.

The practice of raising but one litter of pigs a year is not one that is to be commended. There is more profit in two litters than in one, and the question of furnishing a protein food for winter use need not worry the farmer. There are so many things that a hog will eat that it is not much of a task to select one or two that may be fed in the winter. Silage made from clover will prove to be one of the great helps to the producing of winter pigs, and winter dairying will be a yet stronger encouragement. With two broods a year double interest is being obtained from the money invested in equipment.

THE TEACHER'S FOR A LIFE ALWAYS THREATENED BY NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

One Who Broke Down from Six Years' Overwork Tells How She Escaped Misery of Enforced Idleness.

"I had been teaching in the city schools steadily for six years," said Miss James, whose recent return to the work from which she was driven by nervous collapse has attracted attention. "They were greatly overcrowded, especially in the primary department of which I had charge, and I had been doing the work of two teachers. The strain was too much for my nerves and two years ago the crisis came."

"I was prostrated mentally and physically, went in my resignation and never expected to be able to resume work. It seemed to me then that I was the most miserable woman on earth. I was tortured by nervous headaches, worn out inability to sleep, and had so little blood that I was as white as chalk."

"After my active life, it was hard to bear illness, and terribly discouraging to keep paying out the savings of years for medicines which did me no good."

"How did you get back your health?"

"A bare chance and a lot of faith in me to a cure. After I had suffered many months, and when I was very verge of despair, I happened an account of some cures effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The reports were so convincing that I felt how I felt assured that these pills would help me. Most people, I think, get one box for a trial, but I got three boxes at once, and when I had taken them up, I was indeed well."

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" gave me back my blood, gave me back my appetite, gave me the power to walk long distances without fatigue, and fact freed me from all my nervous ailments. I have already taught for two months, and I cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I am enthusiastic about their merits. Some of the things they have done for me are digestion, strength, ambition, and cheerful spirits quickly follow their use. They are sold in every drug store in the world.
