For a second he held them fervently to his lips; then thrust them back into his pocket and with a sigh, rode on.

Travis was very ill; in a month he would be dying. McVeigh could not forget that-nor could he forget the fact that Travis had once saved his life at a fearful risk of his own, even though he had afterwards taken out of it, the only thing that it held dear. He had loved Elinor Conrad with the one love of his life and when Fate had gone against him in the struggle for her hand, he had quietly but bitterly dedicated his existence to bachelorhood. And now-irony of circumstances-he was on his way to her he ne, her's and Travis's, to save them both from an almost fatal inevitable. The doctor had told him there was the vaguest possible chance for the man. In another week he would send a score of patients to the camp, and there was just one place left. McVeigh had made up his mind that his friend should fill it.

After a while dark fell and one by one millions of stars shot silver points through the blackness. Everywhere the stillness of death reigned through the lonely wood, and the trees stood up, silent and straight like so many sentinels at their posts.

Presently there was the faintest perceptible flicker of light through the tangle of shrubbery ahead, which grew in proportions as McVeigh whipped his wife, I have no right to desert him up his horse and gained the open: That was the place; he felt sure of this, for he had once before made the she had spoken, his head bent to hide same journey, and here and there familiar landmarks were beginning to loom up.

Fate of West Virginia's Biggest Tree, The largest tree in West Virginia, the big elm on the Hood farm near Shinnston, is to be cut down immediately because it stands in the right of way of the Fairmont and Clarksburg Traction Company's proposed car line.

This old tree was made famous by a novel, "The Daughter of the Elm," one of the principal characters of the book having lived almost in its shadow. The elm is eleven feet across and will be used for cross ties for the railway.

Had Physician Marooned.

Sir Robert Ball in a lecture before the Irish Literary Society told a story of an Irish doctor who was asked to attend a patient on Tory island, off the Irish mainland. The doctor said that he was willing to go, but that the fee would be £2 ($10), payable in advance. The Tory islander paid the money and ferried the doctor over from the mainland himself. The physician finished his duties and wished to start back. The only way to get back was to be rowed back by the same man who had carried him over. The doctor asked what the charge was. "Two pounds," said the Tory island man, "payable in advance." It was paid.

Science and Immortality. The relationship of the mind to the brain is that of master to servant, the mind proving itself the rightful master by its demonstrated ability to substitute one servant for another and still retain its own integrity. CHANGED HUSBAND.

Wife Made Wise Change in Food. Change of diet is the only way to really cure stomach and bowel trouble. A woman says:

"My husband had dyspepsia when we were married and had suffered from it for several years. It was almost impossible to find anything he could eat without bad results. "I thought this was largely due to the use of coffee and persuaded him to discontinue it. He did so, and began to drink Postum Food Coffee. The change did him good from the beginning, his digestion improved; he suffered much less from his nervousness, and when he added Grape-Nuts food to his diet he was soon entirely cured.

"My friend, Mrs. - -, of Vicksburg (my former home) had become a nervous wreck also from dyspepsia. Medicines had no effect, neither did travel help her. On my last visit home, some months ago, I persuaded her to use Grape-Nuts food. She was in despair, and consented. She stuck to it unfil it restored her health so completely that she is now the most enthusiastic friend of Grape-Nuts that I ever knew. She eats it with cream or dry, just as it comes from the packagekeeps it in her room and eats it whenever she feels like it.

"I began eating Grape-Nuts food, myself, when my baby was two months old, and I don't know what I should have done without it. My appetite was gone, I was weak and nervous and afforded but very little nourishment for the child. The Grape-Nuts food, of which I soon grew very fond, speedily set all this right again, and the baby grew healthful, rosy and beautiful as a mother could wish. He is two years old now and eats Grape-Nuts food himself. I wish every tired young mother knew of the good that Grape-Nuts would do her."

CHAPTER XVII.

"I have a right to call myself the widow of the Duke Henry of Kernsberg and Hohenstein," sad Theresa von Lynar, in reply to Con ad's question as to whom he might thank for with the same affectionate kindliness rescue and shelter.

"And therefore the mother of the Duchess Joan?" he continued. Theresa shook her head.

"No," she said sadly; "I am not her mother, but-and even that only in a sense-her stepmother. A promise to a dead man has kept me from claiming any privileges save that of living unknown on this desolate isle of sand and mist. My son is an officer in the service of the Duchess

The face of the Prince-Bishop lighted up instantaneously.

"Most surely, then, I know him. Did he not come to Courtland with my Lord Dessauer, the Ambassador of Plasenburg?" The lady of Isle Rugen nodded indifferently. "Yes," she said; "I believe he went to Courtland with the embassy from Plassenburg." "Indeed, I was much drawn to him," said the Prince eagerly; "I remember him most vividly. He was of an olive complexion, his features without color, but graven even as the Greeks cut those of a young god on a gem."

"Yes," said Theresa von Lynar serenely, "he has his father's face and carriage, which are those also of the Duchess Joan."

In the morning Joan came to bid the patient good morrow, while Werner von Orseln stood in the doorway with his steel cap doffed in his hand, and Boris and Jorian bent the kneefor a priestly blessing. But Theresa did not again appear till night and darkness had wrapped the earth, and being all alone he listened to the heavy plunge of the breakers on the beach among which his life had been so nearly sped. The sound grew slower and slower after the storm, until at last the wavelets of that sheltered

But Joan sat no more with the young man after that first watch, though his throat. soul longed for her, that he might again tell her that she was his brother's wife, and urge her to do her duty by him who was her wedded husband. So Conrad contented himself and salved his conscience by thinking stamping her foot in anger. austere thoughts of his mission and high place in the hierarchy of the only Catholic and Apostolic Church. So that presently he would rise up and seek Werner von Orseln in order to persuade him to let him go, that he might proceed to Rome at the command of the Holy Father, whose ser-him off. "When we have sure word of what your brother does at Kernsberg, then we will talk of this matter. Till then cannot be hid from you that no hostage half so valuable can we keep seaboard. As he went Prince Conrad's eyes glanced this way and that, looking for means of escape. Yet they saw none, for Werner von Orseln with his ten men of Kernsberg and the two captains of Plassenburg were not soldiers to make mistakes. It certainly would not do to mix in drugs, for there is a certain failure sure to come to the person depending on drugs to digest food. They may do for a temporary expedient, but pure food and digestible food is the only final resort and safe way. So to change the remaining starch part and prepare the other elements in this blended flour it is made up into massive lcaves like bread, the inside being dark cream color and quite sticky to the touch. These loaves are sliced and again go through long cooking at certain temperatures. Then the rock hard slices are each one carefully inspected and ground ready for packing provided the starch of the grains, potatoes, bread, rice, cake, etc., etc., has been perfectly digested. But many are weak in that form of digestion, and yet need the starches, so Grape-Nuts supplies them pre-digested and ready to go quickly into the blood.

Visitors are shown freely through the works and can follow the steps of making Grape-Nuts from the grain to the finished product. The proportions of different kinds of flour, and the temperatures are not disclosed and it seems impossible for others to steal these secrets of the makers. But purity, cleanliness and skill are shown in every corner of the immense pure food factories. People who care for results from choicely selected food, those who want the food to rebuild the soft gray substance in brain and nerves that give the go, the vigor, the lifo, will understand why the imitators who try to copy the announcements about Grape-Nuts have failed in the past. There's a reason for Grape-Nuts and profound one.

Mythical Healing Qualities. Many plants acquired a reputation for healing merely from their shape or from some peculiar mark upon them. Thus the wood sorrel, which has a heart-shaped leaf, was used in a cordial; dragonwort was supposed to counteract snake bite, on account of its speckled appearance. The yellow juice of the celandine caused it to be recommended for jaundice upon the principle that "like cures like."

Over cross country it flew toward a dimly glowing marking the place of a far away city. Over there, in fancy, the writer could see himself after the week's work was ending, entering a dining room of another variety than the one from which he had so recently escaped. There it was light and clean and inviting, not to say alluring. From a lofty, panneled ceiling a flood of tempered light rested gently down. And the high mahogany wainscoting with a subdued and stately lustre shown forth its welcome as well. The tables with their snowy, crisp linen beckoned invitingly. Low spoken Africans in mellow tones suggested the name of good things and with a genial grin pointed a place and hurried noiselessly to and fro making all in readiness-But why continue? EX-JUDGE CHEEVER DEAD.

Ex-Judge Noah Wood Cheever died Thursday morning, July 20, 1905, at his nome, 516 Madison street, Ann Arbor, of apoplexy. He had been unwell for several weeks and had thought of taking a lake trip to tone up his system.

The funeral of ex-Judge Cheever was held from his late home at 4 o'clock last Saturday afternoon. Rev. C. S. Patton, pastor of the Congregational church, officiated. The nephews of the deceased acted as pall bearers and the services were attended by a large folowing of the friends of the departed Noah W. Cheever was born July 22 1839, at Mohawk Village, Herkiner county, New York. At an early age his parents moved to Illinois where he spent his boyhood. Later they came to Michigan so as to give the three ons of the family superior educational opportunities. He was fitted for the university at the then celebrated pre paratory school at Tecumseh, Michigan then went to Ann Arbor to the University of Michigan, where the three brothers graduated in the same class in Ex-Judge Cheever then took a law course, graduating in 1865. LARGE SUMS FOR PENSIONS.

HINDRODALI JULI ZI

For the fiscal year ending June 30, United States Pension Agent O. A. Janes, of Detroit, gives out some interesting data. The total amount of pensions paid at Detroit was $6,552,119 to 42,238 pensioners. Of this amount 6,216,569 was paid in Michigan and the balance scattered in fifty different states and territories.

The total number of original pensions was 1,464 for the year, and the total loss 1,774, of which there were 1,388 survivors of the Civil war.

The value of the pensions June 30 was $50,000 more than a year ago, although the number of pensioners has been decreased by 508. Among those who receive pensions are: Fourteen widows of men who fought in the war of 1812; nine widows and one survivor of the Indian war sixty invalids and eighty-five widows of pendant relatives; of the Civil war, sixteen army nurses, 30,047 invalids and 10,047 widows, minors and dependent relatives; of the Spanish war, 853 invalids and 206 widows, minors and dependent relatives. There are 598 persons who draw pensions through guardianship, 128 wives who are drawing one-half of the pension of their husbands who deserted them, and five are in prison whose wives get the pension.

"Pensioners who reside in Canada," said Col. Janes, "and who are on the rolls of the Detroit agency, cannot be paid from this agency, but must be transferred to the Washington agency. which is the only place where pensions in any foreign countrry can be paid." -Detroit Free Press.

ON THE INCREASE.

It would seem that despite the good times pauperism is on the increase in Jackson county. The examination of the affairs of the county farm shows that not in years have there been so many inmates as there are at this time. There are at least 10 more regular ones than there were this time a year ago. The total is 74 while last Christmas there were only about 40. John D. Rockefeller thirsts for symathy, hungers for a kind word. With his uncounted millions and his mastery of men, his lifelong ambition gratified and no more worlds left for his mercenary conquering, the richest man in the world sits by the hour at Forest Hill, his chin sunk on his breast, or walks for hours under the trees of his magnificent estate, always alone except for his guards, who beep at a distance from him, always in gloom. His greatest interest now is in his press clipping bureau, which is known to be a system perfected as highly as those maintained for the benefit of kings.

The flood of printed denunciation recently let loose upon him exercises over him a fascination which he cannot escape, though the inevitable consequence be humiliation and heartburning. The latest Tarbell article, made public, was no exception. Every word, from the author's imputation that his wealth had besmirched charity and education wherever it had touched them, to the unsparing autopsy of his physiogonomy and the verdict of it showed "the oldest man in the world—a living mummy," was read by her subject with avidious curiosity. The last sentence, it is said, was punctuated with this exclamation: "Thank the Lord, it's her last."

The supreme court last Friday evening reversed the judgment of the Wayn circuit court in the case of the Detroit, Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor & Jackson Railway company vs. City of Detroit et al The question involved was where the personal property of the company is subject to taxation. The Wayne circuit court held that it should be taxed in the township of Dearborn where, as claimed by the company, its principal office for the transaction of business is located. The supreme court, however, rules that inasmuch as the president, secretary and treasurer of the company all reside in Detroit, and transact the business of the company there, and that no business finds its way to the Dearborn office until after it passes through taxed in Detroit. GREATEST MONEY LENDER.

The fact that the United States has pecome the world's greatest moneylender is one of such recent existence perhaps, as to leave it yet unknown to most of the republic's people. England Japan, Mexico and Cuba are among the governments whose bonds to the extent of very large totals are now reposing in American vaults. And some made to Russia by Germany and France were completed with gold borrowed from this country. The United States' stock of gold is at this time as great or greater than that of England and Germany combined, and one-fourth greater than that of France. There is something of more value in these figure: hemlock and tamarack timber for cross than the gold they represent, especially when memory is permitted to suggest the best lesson they contain. The Unit ed States as the money center of the world is not the position this country would now be holding if the republican party had not been equal to a great emergency in a season of demoralizaion and danger.

For some time he has had one under construction at Rush- with intent to do great hodily harm, ton hall, the fine old English estate be nolle prossed, in Northamptonshire, which he is bringing up to date. He has several times enlarged the boundaries which he had originally set to it, but it is now approaching completion. To mark it as something unique, apart from its size, it will be inclosed by a wall of specially prepared mosaic. An Italian artist named Nadali, from Milan, is now at Rushton hall working up the design for it. When it is erected anybody who sets eyes on it will know that it cost a mint of money. Nature unaided may provide a fishpond and stock it and set up trees and pretty scenery around But nature doesn't deal in walls of Italian mosaic. Recently Celebrated Centennial Brings to Light Fact That Preceding. Twelve Months Was a Record-Breaker.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.-In view of the celebration of the semi-centennial of the St. Mary's ship canal, which has been held and for which the national government, the state of Michigan and the city of Cleveland made liberal appropriations, it is interesting to note that during the 50 years the waterway has been in commission the yearly traffic has increased from a minimum dressers. The proper place to have of 14,503 tons to a maximum of 35,- them Laundried is right here. 961 146 tons. The increase in tonnage of each year's traffic over that of the preceding year has averaged about 20

The movement of freight to and from Lake Superior previous to the Chelsea Steam Laundry opening of the state canal in 1855 was entirely by boat to Sault Ste. Marie, where the cargoes were unloaded, then taken across the portage, one mile long, and reloaded into other boats. In 1851 about 12,600 tons of freight passed over the tramway portage. The transshipments to Lake Superior ports comprised hay, oats, dry goods, groceries and mining machinery to the value of $1,000,000 and those to lower lake ports included copper, iron and fish, in all valued at $675,000.

The value of the freight passing the canals last season was $334,502,686; the amount was 31,546,106 tons. The most valuable single commodity was wheat, $52,125,314, and closely following was iron ore, 652,034,862. The copper, in third place, was valued at $26,305,200; then came flour, $25,907,-059; grain, other than wheat, $23,121, 000; coal, $19,656,000; manufactured and pig iron, $19,685,000, and lumber, $16,388,000. Under the head of genof $98,821,215 was transported. The banner season in the history of the canals was in 1902, when the iron ore shipments were unprecedently heavy, the freight carried through the water ways amounting to 35,061,146 tons, valued at $358,306,300, a showing that will be exceeded this season largely because of the vast amount of iron ore to be transported.

The St. Mary's rapids are about half a mile wide and three-fourths of a mile long. The fall ranges from 161/2 to 201/2 feet with the varying stages of water. The first canal was built on the Canadian side of the river by the Northwest Fur company in 1797-98. The lock was 38 feet long, eight and not so hard on the boys patent leathers one-quarter feet wide and had a lift of about nine feet. A towpath was made along the shore for oxen to haul the bateaux and canoes through the upper part of the rapids. The lock, excepting its timber floor and miter sills, was destroyed in 1814 by United States troops from Mackinac island.

Recent experiments have been made in Bavaria in regard to preparing artificial cotton from pine wood, and it is said that the new process allows it to be made cheaply enough so that the artificial cotton may compete with the natural product. 'The wood, which is first out into small splinters, is reduced to fibers by steam and acids, then it is washed, bleached and passed through a crusher. The cellulose is formed into fine threads by a spinning machine. These threads are said to make a very good fabrio when woven, and can easily be dyed. It is expected that they will be manufac-tured on a large scale and come into competition with imported cotton.

German physicians having demanded an absolutely certain test to prevent pa-tients from being buried alive, one of their number, Dr. Icard, has brought forward a new discovery to fill the requirement. It consists in injecting a solution of flourescine deep into the human tissues. If circulation exists the skin and mucous membrances become very yellow and the eyes assume the color of emeralds; if the circulation has ceased none of these results occurs. The discoverer proposes that at least two hours before bodies are placed in coffins such an injection with flourescine be made. If life is not yet extinct the in-

The same is true low the natural flowers so closely, but without the stiffness that attends the usual artificial flower with which we are all familiar. The spray for the coffure is of rosebuds in several shades of the configurations occasionally. The same is true in Europe. Recently an earthquake in eastern France occurred at 2 o'clock in the morning, but in Swiss villages a few miles away it occurred at 3 o'clock. The is of rosebuds in several shades of pink reason was that France goes by Greensatin ribbon, the foliage being borrowed wich time and Switzerland by Berlin.

Linen remains the favored foundation for the lavishment of lace and hand embroideries that rule the summer fashions. Yoke and frent are cut in one in this Forsythe design, and groups of oval eyelet work are supplemented with some of the raised blindwork that is so effective. The lace is disposed in ribbon lines, the linen cut away beneath. Sleeve is a simple puff to the elbow, and a deep cuff cleverly shaped over the hand makes of an odd character in that town, who replied the old man, with a duck of his head.

"George Washington. eh!" reiterated the questioner. "It seems to me," he added, with a smile, "that I've heard that name before."

"Reckon you have, sah," came the answer in all seriousness, "cause Ise been haulin' way ashes from yo' house for more'n ten years!"
