WANTS THE FARM.

A Maine Man Lays Claim to the Late Fred Campbell's Farm in Freedom.

Charles Bryant, of Skowhegan, Me., is in Ann Arbor, claiming he is the heir to the late Fred B. Campbell's $2,500 farm in Freedom township, by reason of Campbell being his adopted son.

The tale is a strange one. Some years ago Bryant and his wife, in Maine, adopted a boy named Pomeroy and he changed his name to Bryant. When the lad grew up almost to manhood he came to Michigan. A young man who called himself Bryant went to work for a man named Campbell in Jackson county and the latter induced him to change his name to Campbell. Upon Mr. Campbell's death the young man was left a farm in Freedom township in this county. A year ago he died. He left no will, but a search among his papers revealed the fact that his real name was Pomeroy. The fact was printed and a clipping fell into the hands of Charles Bryant in Maine and he is convinced that the young man was his long lost adopted son. He has taken steps to secure the property.

VERY SUDDEN DEATH.

Fred Widmayer Expires Early Monday Morning from Apoplexy.

Frederick George Widmayer died very suddenly at his home in Lima early Monday morning, Sept. 18, of apoplexy, aged 39 years. He had not been feeling well but nothing serious was thought to be the matter with him. He retired to bed in his usual health Sunday night, but died a few hours later, about 2 o'clock a. m., before medical aid could reach him. The funeral services were held at the house yesterday morning and were conducted by Rev. A. Schoen. Burial was made in the Porter cemetery near Jerusalem.

He leaves a widow and six children under 15 years of age of his own, besides three of his deceased brother's children, who lived with him.

No home complete without the Herald.

STILL ANOTHER SUIT.

Homer C. Millen Wants $25,000 of John Kalmbach's Money.

Another law suit has been added to the Millen-White embroglio at Four Mile Lake. This time Homer C. Millen, the ex-superintendent of the White Portland Cement Company, sues John Kalmbach, one of the attorneys for W. J. White and the cement company, for slander, and wants $25,000 damages. He charges Kalmbach with saying "He did not deal honestly with White. He has got thousands of dollars of White's money. He and May Millen have made White the object of a systematic scheme to cheat and defraud, and have conspired together in a series of fraudulent transactions, by which said White has been cheated out of a large sum of money. He gave Jacob Bahnmiller a fraudulent check for $250 when Bahnmiller only had $25 coming, and cheated White out of $225. He showed White many false receipts and got a lot of money from White and put the same into his own pocket. He used White's money to buy furniture and put it in his house. He deposited White's money in the bank in his own name, and then arranged to have his wife check it out, and she drew out a large sum of money which he used. He made false claims for work done when the persons who were supposed to do the work were only visitors and relatives and then divided the money with visitors."

Millen also claims that Kalmbach, by reason of the statements alleged, was the cause of his losing his position with the White Portland Cement Company.

To a Child

The leaves talked in the twilight drear;
Hearken the tale they told—
How, in some far off place and year,
Before the world grew old.

I was a dreaming forest tree
You were a wild, sweet bird
That sheltered at the heart of me
Because the north wind stirred.

How, when the chiding gale was still
When peace fell soft on fear,
You stayed one golden hour to fill
My dream with singing, dear.

To-night the selfsame songs are sung
The first green forest heard;
My heart and the gray world grow young
To shelter you, my bird.

BREAKING AN ENGAGEMENT

BY FRANK H. DELOON

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Edna came down the path eyeing me rather nervously.

"So we're not engaged?" I demanded.

"My note told you," she said.

"Very gracious of you to grant me this interview," I conceded, with mock ceremoniousness. "But will you do me the particular favor to tell me why we're not engaged?"

There was no answer.

"Isn't your word, and isn't my word worth something?" I demanded, working myself into a very proper passion.

"Maybe they are and maybe they aren't," was the noncommittal reply. "But when I say we're not engaged, that means we're not." And Edna tossed her head in that pretty way she has, and stamped her shapely little foot determinedly.

"Oh, it does, does it?" I retorted. "Well, after all, I never did care so much about the engagement." This wasn't exactly the truth, but I said it as if it was. "It's chiefly the presents of which I was thinking," I added.

"Were there any?" she inquired, with a cutting, yet innocent air.

"There was the—yes, indeed, there was the—" I hesitated. I may say right here that I am naturally uncommunicative.

"Yes, indeed, there was the—" "Go on!" she insisted.

"Edna," I entreated desperately, "I hate to throw these things up at you, as it were."

"Don't spare me," she retorted, rather cruelly, I thought.

"Well, then," and I braced myself squarely. "There is the engagement ring." I felt that I had scored a point. "It is a diamond one, too," I added.

"Really?" asked Edna, somewhat incredulously, it seemed to me. "And I suppose you're worrying about the payment of the next instalment?"

"Did I ever tell you about its being overdue?" I inquired, and then somehow felt as if I had committed myself.

Edna reached down into an obscure pocket somewhere and fished out the ring. I held it up to the light and examined it closely. "The same," I muttered ungalantly, heaving an audible sigh of relief. I saw Edna's face flush. This hit had told, and I decided to change the subject before the tables could be reversed.

"And now, miss, would you mind telling me just why you break off the engagement?" I demanded hotly.

"Because," she replied very coldly and clearly, "you are getting $9 a week selling ribbons at Ketchum & Holdum's, and I don't see any prospects of your securing a rise unless you become an aeronaut."

"It's a serious matter and not one to be joked about," I retorted, looking aurt.

"That's where I agree with you," Edna answered flippantly.

"What you say may be true," I put in viciously, "but mighty little you thought of it when you kept leading me on and on to declare myself."

"We must all have our little amusements," replied Edna coolly, "and not allow herself to be snapped up by the first—though you needn't flatter yourself that you were that—young man to come along with his simpering ways and his hair parted in the middle and—"

"There, there, Edna," I protested. "Don't go rubbing it in; it's bad enough as it is."

"But I thought you didn't care," she said.

"Well, in a sense I don't, and then again in another sense I do. We've been to the beach together almost every Sunday in summer and to the theater sometimes twice a week in winter now, for going on two years. And I was only getting $6 a week when I commenced going around with you, which you know was as much your fault as mine. "Now I'm getting $8 a week more," I went on hopefully.

"I congratulate you," said Edna, slowly.

"And that's your top notch," said Edna. "What I want is a man who can earn enough to keep me in shoe strings."

"I guess I could do that all right," I said, looking down at her feet. "Perhaps there is another you have in mind," I suggested, after a while. Edna's reply nearly floored me.

"There is," she answered simply. "And he is—" I asked.

"Mr. Ketchum."

"Not my Mr. Ketchum?"

"Yes, your Mr. Ketchum."

"Great heavens! You aren't engaged to him already?"

"Since last evening. We are to be married in a fortnight."

I noticed Edna was peeping out of the corner of her eyes to see what effect this would have on me, but I concealed my emotions as best I could. Up to this point I had not wholly given up winning her over from her harsh resolution, but now I saw she had a motive. I have always been afraid of women with motives. They are nearly as bad as women with motors. One has no regard for the laws of the road and the other has no regard for anything whatsoever except that which she has in view.

"I never thought you would marry for money," I told her.

"Evidently not—when you asked me to be your wife," she flung back. I could see that Edna was getting impatient and losing her temper besides. A woman is liable to lose her temper when she gets impatient. I concluded to close the interview, seeing that to prolong it would be of no use.

"At least you will congratulate me on one thing?" I ventured.

"What is it?" she asked cautiously. Edna's eyes were still snapping sparks of fire, but her curiosity led her on.

"My coming marriage," I answered as nonchalantly as possible.

"To whom, may I ask?" she said, looking surprised and, though I do say it, somewhat disappointed and a little shaken up.

"To Ketchum's daughter," I replied.

"You will thus have the pleasure of being my step-mother-in-law."

"Well, I congratulate you," said Edna slowly, and then she went back into the house, leaving me standing by the gate in something of a quandary.

"When I say we're not engaged, that means we're not."

that I've been foolish in the past is no reason why I should continue to be so. From now on I've decided to look at things wholly in a sensible light. Don't you remember what I told you Mrs. Blickeford said?"

"Hang Mrs. Blickeford!" I exclaimed heatedly.

"Let me remind you," Edna continued unperturbed. "It was that a working girl should be mistress of her own destinies as much as the proudest lady in all the land, and that she should marry, when she did marry, to the best possible advantage, and it was a real diamond after all, and I had not bought it on the instalment plan, my seeming self-committal to the contrary notwithstanding.

NEW CURE FOR TIGHT DOORS

Furniture Man Tells How to Open Dresser Drawers that Stick.

"Patrons come to me every day and say that the drawers of dressers and other furniture stick fast and cannot be opened or shut without great difficulty," said the "complaint man" in a down town furniture store. "This is the trouble with much furniture, especially that which is new, and is especially common in the spring.

"What do we do in such cases? We simply tell the customers to wet the surface of a bar of common laundry soap and rub it firmly over the parts of the wood that stick. This makes the surface smooth and slippery, and in nearly all cases the drawer will slide easily, especially after it has been opened and shut a few times.

"This also is valuable with doors which, in new flats, are likely to settle or are apt to scrape at the top as the building settles. Just use soap on them and save the trouble of calling in a carpenter, who will plane the varnish off.

"China cabinet doors, with curved glass, cause us a lot of trouble, but most of the tightness can be remedied by the use of soap and a few applications of sand paper."

The furniture man gave another "helpful hint."

"If mission furniture, with the dull finish, loses its smooth surface and characteristic waxy appearance," he said, "do not despair and send it to the renovator. Take a pound cake of common floor wax and rub it over the surface until the finish is restored. If you have no floor wax use beeswax, and if you prefer something made especially for the purpose, you can buy liquid preparations, one of which will remove the old finish, leaving the table top or other object ready for the application of the other substance, which will duplicate the original finish."

Vegetable Millinery.

At the recent unveiling in Ocean Grove of the bronze statue of the late Dr. E. H. Stokes, a Methodist minister said:

"I knew Mr. Stokes well, and one of the things I most admired in him was his simplicity, his modesty, his plainness. He hated affectation and vanity, even in women; and in a good-humored way he would often poke fun at the freakish fashions that come up from time to time in women's dress.

"I remember one summer when the ladies' hats were very large and a great many cherries and beans and grapes and so on covered them. Dr. Stokes went about Ocean Grove telling a hat story.

"He said there came a knock at a man's door one morning, and the man answered it, and then called upstairs to his wife:

"Ann, here is the girl with the vegetables."

"But the wife, coming downstairs hastily, called as she descended:

"Don't be silly. It's my new hat."

The Business Lie.

Our age is great in some ways; it is an age of invention, but says the Rev. F. R. Kelghley of Windsor, it is also an age of invention for the lie of covetousness and self-interest. How numerous in our time have been the charges for fraudulent advertisement? How many thousands more of those falsehoods have gone undetected? Our law courts tell us that this kind of lie stops at nothing; it poisons food, it adulterates army stores, it robs without compunction the very poorest. Many men, who would be ashamed to lie personally, excuse this kind of lie; they say, "It is only a business lie"—only "a trick of the trade." But what is a "business lie" when you come to analyze it? It is just a lie told to make money, and of all liars the liar for money is the most contemptible. I say that there is no lie so dishonorable and dishonoring as the "business lie," and there is no chance of the betterment of our social and commercial life until the lie of self-interest gives way to Christian honesty and honor.

Learning to Wait.

Oh! dear little girl at the window,
Oh! dear little girl at the gate,
You are learning life's hardest lesson,
The lesson of learning to wait.
And minutes seem hours in passing,
While the hours are sons of time.
The clock's hands stand still while we watch them,
The bells have forgotten to chime.

Brave youth at the portal of manhood,
Fair maiden at womanhood's door,
Are waiting in breathless impatience,
The gifts that gods hold in store.
While manhood is ardently waiting
The crown of his victories won,
Reward for his glorious achievements,
And rest after toiling is done.

From morning of life until evening,
We wait with what patience we may,
For the blessings of life as we see them,
And love that has wandered away.
And when sunset fades into the twilight,
We linger awhile at the gate,
Tired faces turned wistfully inward,
For passing and promise still wait,
Irene Pomeroy Shields in the House-keeper.

In the Rush of 1950.

The owner of the great dairy was showing a visitor around the plant.

"All these thousands of cows," he said, "are milked by machinery. The milk is conveyed into an immense reservoir, from which it is carried in underground pipes at a speed of a mile a minute to all points within fifty miles of here. The system works perfectly, and yet there is one great drawback."

"What is that?" asked the visitor.

"Well, of course, there's no cream any more. It is impracticable for us to separate it here, and in this age of the world nobody has time to wait for it to rise."

LATE NEWS

PRES. APPOINTS COMMISSION TO PROBE ARMY AND NAVY.

ANTHRACITE COAL-MINERS MEET IN CONVENTION AT LYKENS, PENNA.

INDICATIONS THAT NORWAY AND SWEDEN MAY YET REACH AN AGREEMENT.

To Probe Army and Navy.

A new commission of investigation to probe the army and navy will be named by the president. It will consist of Assistant Secretary of the Navy Darling and Assistant Secretary of War Oliver. These officials will do for the military branch of the government what the Keep commission is doing for the civilian branch. They will ferret out any corruption that may exist and institute reforms of administration in order to do away with the excessive amount of red tape which now hampers the prompt and economical execution of business.

The naval estimates for the present year now being collected by the secretary of the navy aggregate almost $130,000,000, and through the application of the pruning knife will be reduced to $100,000,000.

What is true of the navy is true of the army. The general staff of the army has not brought about economy in administration.

MINERS MEET IN CONVENTION.

Delegates representing 20,000 mine-workers of the lower anthracite region met at Lykens in annual convention. President John Mitchell will address them upon the necessity of making further demands upon the operators when the present agreement expires, and they will embody these demands in resolutions to be presented to the joint convention which meets Dec. 4 in Shamokin. These demands are to include the eight-hour day and recognition of the union, which were adopted by the men of the other districts. The delegates report a large increase in membership in the locals recently owing to the organization movement now general over the entire region.

Peace is Possible.

The first official announcement at Karlstad indicating that the delegates of Norway and Sweden were approaching an understanding in their effort to establish a modus vivendi for the countries as separate governments, was given out at the close of the joint session of the delegates. This announcement reads:

"The probabilities are that in the near future the negotiations can be brought to a definite result."

This somewhat cryptic announcement is accepted, as indicating that the negotiations have finally reached a stage where an agreement is in sight, and that a resort to arms, which might have involved other powers, may safely be considered to be out of the question.

To Kill Rulers.

According to telegrams received from Belgrade, a plot has been discovered there and at Sofia to foment a general outbreak in the Balkans, with a view of compelling the interference of the powers in the hope that Macedonian autonomy would be proclaimed.

The alleged plot included an intention to assassinate King Peter of Serbia and Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria. Those engaged in the plot at Sofia have been imprisoned. It is added that the recent attempt to assassinate the sultan of Turkey, in the courtyard of the mosque at Constantinople, is supposed to have been the work of the same organization.

Fierce Threats Made.

Advices from Tokio say that incendiary post-cards have been received at the Tokio foreign office threatening that Baron Komura will be assassinated on his return from America. The Tokio Yomiuri publishes the text of one, which says:

"Baron Komura, our plenipotentiary in America, hearing Russia's bluff, has made concession on concession, so that the victory of the war is to the vanquished. If this is true we shall take off the heads of Count Katsura and Baron Komura and take suitable steps against their coadjutors."

Used Public Funds.

Alleging that David E. Sherrick, auditor of state, is guilty of "a plain and inexcusable violation of public trust" in that he invested funds belonging to the state in private affairs, to the extent of about $145,000. Gov. Hanly, of Indiana, issued an executive order, in which he took cognizance of a vacancy in the office and appointed Warren Bigler, of Washab, as his successor. Later Sherrick sent his resignation to Gov. Hanly, who accepted it and entered an order appointing Warren Bigler, of Washab, to the office of state auditor. Bigler accepted by telegraph.

The ancient frigate Constitution, familiarly known as "The first ship of the American navy," is in danger of "turning turtle," according to reports from the Charleston navy yard.

P. La Franchi, a Santa Rosa, Cal., dairyman, left $500 to the mayor of Cogito, Switzerland, for the distribution of salt among the residents.

Police in Salt Lake City found in one room a dead Chinese sitting bolt upright on a cot, another Chinese insane, and lying on the floor, Eddie Merode, a white acrobat, apparently dying of opium poisoning.

Coffins are impossible to procure in Leeville, La., where yellow fever is finding many victims, and this adds to the horror of the disease. The town is shut off from the surrounding country, food is scarce and the medical men practically exhausted.

QUEER CRADLES.

What Children Are Rocked In—Just as Happy.

When a baby is born in Guinea all sorts of funny things happen to it. Its mother buries it in the sand up to its waist, so it cannot get into bad mischief, and this is the only cradle it knows anything about.

The little Lapp infant is cradled in a shoe—his mother's. This is a big affair covered with skin and stuffed with soft moss. This can be hung on a tree or covered up with snow while mamma goes to church or any place where babies are not invited.

The baby of India rides in a basket which hangs from its mother's head or from her hip, or in a hammock. In some parts the baby's nose is adorned with a nose ring, and in others its face is wrapped in a veil like its mother's.

The Chinese baby is tied to the back of an older child.

The Mongolian infants travel about in bags slung on a camel's back.

In some countries the mothers lay their babies where a stream of water falls on their heads. This is to make them tough, which it does unless the babies die as a result of this treatment. Another mother covers her baby's head with paste, while the Tartar baby is covered with butter. The Turkish baby is salled—perhaps to keep it sweet—while the worst fate of all falls to the lot of the newly born children in Bulgaria. Their mothers put a hot omelette on the little ones' heads to make them solid and protect them from sunstroke. The Bulgarian baby doesn't like it any better than you would. He makes a great howl about it, but it is not a bit of use. His mother thinks she knows better about some things than he does, so he has to submit, which he does with a very bad grace indeed.

The Maid of Other Days.

Oh, vanished maids of grandma's day,
What darksome lives were those you led!
Obliged in youth to pick your way;
Uncertain paths to keep and tread;
No experts had you to advise, somehow,
To count, caution or direct
Your maiden steps; no mentors wise,
Or faithful watchers circumspect.

When grandpa's a-calling came,
No chats with girls were yours to tell—
The judgment of some worthy dame—
The time to sound the curfew bell—
And all in vain you sought the truth—
They tell it now—if 'twas a sin,
When after dark a comely youth
Had seen you home, to ask him in.

You never learned—oh, vanished fair!
You could not, had it been your wish—
The latest way to best prepare
Your luncheon in a chafin-dish.
Your lurching you never read
The fact that hungry companies
Would rather starve than not be fed
From Mrs. Cook's recipes.

You could not tell, I'll wager now,
Of countless things the etiquette;
In spite of which, somewhere, somehow,
You got your start; and yet—and yet
It really is a problem quite
To find what saved you from the bad;
You had no "hints" to guide you right;
Your mothers, they were all you had.
—Arthur H. Fowell in The Sunday Magazine.

King of the Penguins.

The "emperor" penguin, one of the discoveries of Capt. Scott's recent antarctic expedition, was the subject of an interesting illustrated lecture by Dr. Wilson before the recent ornithological congress in London. The bird stands about four feet high, weighs eighty pounds or more, and with its black coat and erect posture has, when seen at a distance, a truly startling resemblance to a dwarf man. These "emperors" of the penguin world live upon the great girdle of pack ice which surrounds the antarctic continent, and seem to depend daily for their food on crustaceans caught in the crevices of the ice. The female lays a solitary egg, which is caught on the great web feet, so that it never touches the ice, and is held there covered with the mother's body until hatching occurs.

For a Girl to Know.

Some one has suggested a few things that every girl can learn before she is 12. Not every one can learn to play or sing or paint well enough to give pleasure to her friends, but the following "accomplishments" are within everybody's reach:

Shut the door and shut it softly.
Keep your own room in tasteful order.
Have an hour for rising, and rise.
Never let a button stay off twenty-four hours.

Always know where your things are.
Never let a day pass without doing something to make somebody comfortable.

Learn to make bread as well as cake.
Never go about with your shoes unbuttoned.

Meat is Unpopular.

"I never knew meat to be so unpopular as it has been this summer," said a prosperous butcher. "Of course I always expect the meat sales to fall off in the warm weather, but this year I have sold only one-half as much as I did last summer. One customer—a landlady, who has twenty-five boarders—tells me that she can hardly get her boarders to touch the meat dishes, and she is rejoicing. Even ham, the old standby, which is generally in good demand even in the most scorching weather, is frowned upon, and the beef trust would soon go to pieces if its produce were no more popular than the year round than it has been this summer."

Snuff Boxes Again in Use.

After having been on the semi-retired list for many years, the snuff box is once again in evidence in the shops. Even cigar stores had not been showing sneeze-producer holders in recent seasons. The consumption of snuff is considerably greater in winter than in summer.

GOOD WORK OF SCIENTISTS.

Immense Sums Saved Through Bureau of Entomology.

Great sums are saved for the agriculturists of this country by the efforts of the government bureau of entomology toward the extermination of insect pests. The cotton worm before it was studied and the method of controlling it by the use of arsenicals was made common knowledge, levied in bad years a tax of $30,000,000 on the cotton crop. The prevention of less from the Hessian fly, due to the knowledge of proper seasons for planting wheat, and other direct and cultural methods, results in the saving of wheat to the farm value of from $160,000,000 to $200,000,000 annually. Careful statistics show that the damage from the codling moth to the apple is limited two-thirds by the adoption of control, representing a saving of from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 in the value. The rotation of corn with oats or other crops saves the corn crop from the attacks of the root worm to the extent of perhaps $100,000,000 annually in the chief corn-producing regions of the Mississippi valley. The cultural system of controlling the boll weevil saves the farmers of Texas many millions of dollars.

Sense of Traffic.

Every town dweller, says the Lanctet, should cultivate his "sense of traffic." At first this means that he will take every step in a crowded thoroughfare with a reasoned consciousness. He will never think of his business or his pleasure while he is in the street, but only of the way in which he is going, of what is before him, of what is on either side of him, and of what he is leaving behind him. At every crossing he will settle his course, so to speak, and look out for dangers from every point of the compass. After very few weeks of this careful self-regulation he will develop the "sense of traffic." Without knowing it, he will see and hear and realize all that moves about him. Street accidents occur to those who have no "sense of traffic."

Dawes Could Thin Them Out.

The Hon. H. L. Dawes in his young manhood was an indifferent speaker. Participating in a law case, soon after his admission to the bar, before a North Adams justice of the peace, Dawes was opposed by an older attorney whose eloquence attracted a large crowd that packed the courtroom.

The justice was freely perspiring and, drawing off his coat in the midst of the lawyer's eloquent address, he said:

"Mr. Attorney, supposing you sit down and let Dawes begin to speak, I want to thin out this crowd."—Boston Herald.

Giant Had Healthy Appetite.

A Gbriegse giant who had been on exhibition in Hamburg was found on the streets of that city in a starving condition. Some people took him to a restaurant, where he ate three plates of beef soup, four pounds of beefsteak, three portions of ham and eggs, two heaped up plates of potatoes and cabbage and fourteen apple tarts, the whole washed down with six pints of beer.

Submarine Forest.

By means of glass-bottomed boats it has been discovered that the bottom of Monterey bay, Cal., is a beautiful submarine forest of sea oranges, green ribbons, horse tail, sea pommops, etc. Some of the plants are thirty feet in height.

The Arctic Region.

The arctic region consists of a deep polar ocean nearly surrounded by land, with a flow of Atlantic water inwards on the Siberian side, and outwards down the east coast of Greenland.

HONEST PHYSICIAN.

Works with Himself First.

It is a mistake to assume that physicians are always skeptical as to the curative properties of anything else than drugs.

Indeed, the best doctors are those who seek to heal with as little use of drugs as possible and by the use of correct food and drink. A physician writes from Calif. to tell how he made a well man of himself with Nature's remedy:

"Before I came from Europe, where I was born," he says, "it was my custom to take coffee with milk (cane milk) with my morning meal, a small cup (cane milk) after my dinner and two or three additional small cups at my club during the evening.

"In time nervous symptoms developed, with pains in the cardiac region, and accompanied by great depression of spirits, despondency—in brief, 'the blues.' I at first tried medicines, but got no relief and at last realized that all my troubles were caused by coffee. I thereupon quit its use forthwith, substituting English Breakfast Tea.

"The tea seemed to help me at first, but in time the old distressing symptoms returned, and I quit it also, and tried to use milk for my table beverage. This I was compelled however to abandon speedily, for, while it relieved the nervousness somewhat, it brought on constipation. Then by a happy inspiration I was led to try the Postum Food Coffee. This was some months ago and I still use it. I am no longer nervous, nor do I suffer from the pains about the heart, while my 'blues' have left me and life is bright to me once more. I know that leaving off coffee and using Postum healed me, and I make it a rule to advise my patients to use it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

You Must Sleep.

If you cannot, it is due to an irritated or congested state of the brain, which will soon develop into nervous prostration. Nature demands sleep, and it is as important as food; it is a part of her building and sustaining process. This period of unconsciousness relaxes the mental and physical strain, and allows nature to restore exhausted vitality.

Dr. Miles' Nervine brings refreshing sleep, because it soothes the irritation and removes the congestion.

It is also a nerve builder; it nourishes and strengthens every nerve in your body, and creates energy in all the organs.

Nothing will give strength and vitality as surely and quickly as Dr. Miles' Nervine.

"During the past winter I had two attacks of LaGrippe which left me very weak, and in bad condition. I was so nervous I could not sleep. My wife, after trying different remedies, went for a doctor. The doctor was out, and a neighbor recommended Dr. Miles' Nervine, and she brought home a bottle. I had not slept for some time, and had terrible pains in my head. After taking a few doses of Nervine the pain was not so severe, and I slept. I am now taking the second bottle, and am very much improved."

HENRY M. SMITH, Underhill, Vt.
Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

HAS BEEN RE-ORGANIZED.

The Jackson & Ann Arbor Railroad Co. Will Complete the Boland Line East.

(From the Grass Lake News.)

When W. A. Boland asked the village council for an extension of the franchise of the Jackson-Ann Arbor company he stated he would perfect a re-organization of the company within 60 days and we are glad to be able to state that the new company has been formed. The new board of directors comprise some of the strongest and best known financial men in the east, among them being C. W. Osborn, who has been Russell Sage's financial man for the past 30 years. The other gentlemen who compose the board of directors are N. S. Potter, of Jackson; W. A. Boland, of New York; Hon. C. B. Datcher, of the Hamilton Trust Co., of Brooklyn; H. R. Carse, cashier of the Hanover National Bank, of New York, one of New York's strongest financial institutions. These gentlemen, without doubt, will be able to command sufficient capital to complete the road as originally intended by Mr. Boland.

Mr. Boland has held to his original plans in the face of great obstacles and many discouragements and he is to be commended for the pluck and energy he has displayed. The construction of the line was a big undertaking and the readjustment of the financial entanglements into which the organization became involved by reason of some heavy failures in the east has been a herculean task, and Mr. Boland's many friends throughout this section rejoice that he has been able to bring his company to a safe harbor.

The roadbed east of here is second to none in the state and with the splendid equipment which will be provided the traveling public will rejoice when they hear the cry, "All a-b-o-a-r-d for Ann Arbor and Detroit." The old company had an investment representing $475,000 between the Michigan Central station in this village and their eastern terminus, and the News has never believed the gentlemen interested would consent to sustain such a great financial loss as would be necessary should the road not be completed. The company would receive $130,000 for the material used in the construction of the road, leaving the enormous sum of $345,000 tied up—lost forever—in right of way, grading and the expense of construction.

Dissolution of Partnership.

The firm of George H. Foster & Co. is this day dissolved by mutual consent. All accounts due the company are payable to Henry Gorton.

The Detroit daily papers publish a somewhat sensational item about a young girl named Cora M. Bell, whose residence is given as Chelsea, who was married in Albion Monday to R. J. L. Leonard, of Jackson. It says that the bride refused to allow the groom to kiss her after the ceremony and thereupon a quarrel ensued. The bride hastened to the railroad depot to take the next train east and the groom invoked the aid of the chief of police to recover his bride. The chief found her at the waiting room and after some fatherly advice from him the young girl made up with her husband, although she did not kiss him.

The Late Mrs. Jas. Middleton.

Mrs. Ann H. Middleton, widow of the late James Middleton, died at the home of her daughter Mrs. Wm. W. Dorr, in Sharon, Saturday, Sept. 16, after a lingering illness, aged 82 years, 2 months and 4 days. The funeral services were held at the house Tuesday morning and were conducted by Rev. P. M. McKay. The remains were placed in the vault at Sylvan cemetery and later will be interred beside those of her husband in the Vermont cemetery.

Ann H. Pike was born in Northrop, county of Norfolk, England, July 12, 1823. In 1836 she came to Toronto, Canada, with her parents and two years later went to Lewiston, N. Y., where she was united in marriage to James Middleton Jan. 5, 1840. They lived there until May, 1844, and then came to Michigan, settling in Sharon, Washtenaw county, where she spent the rest of her life.

She leaves three children, Mrs. Putnam Dorr, Mrs. Cornelius Kendall and Mrs. Wm. W. Dorr, also eight grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren, besides a host of friends.

Mrs. Middleton united with the Baptist church at Lewiston, N. Y., and after moving to Michigan became a member of the Baptist church of Chelsea. Although unable for several years to attend church she was an interested member and a constant reader of her Bible and religious papers.

CAN HEAT THE HOUSE.

Judge Kinne Dissolves the Injunction Issued Against the Millens.

In the circuit court Monday morning Judge Kinne, after hearing the arguments of the attorneys in the case, refused to dissolve the injunction restraining the White Portland Cement Co., from ejecting Homer C. Millen and his wife from the house occupied by them at Four Mile Lake. The judge also dissolved the injunction restraining the Millens from cutting holes in the floors and walls of the house so as to allow them to heat it with stoves.

In rendering his decision the judge said: "There is a severe culpability on the part of someone that this plant may not go on. The original injunction may remain. As to the heating, Mr. Millen and his wife ought to have the opportunity to do anything absolutely necessary to warm the house if the Whites do not see fit to warm it for them. Mr. Millen has an interest in the plant and the house and I do not think he would abuse the house."

The supreme court Tuesday afternoon affirmed the conviction of Dr. Scott F. Hodge, of Detroit, who was found guilty of manslaughter in performing a criminal operation which resulted in the death of a young woman from Manchester several months ago. He will now have to go to prison.

Bridle for Scolds.

An ancient instrument of torture was recently sold at a London auction. It was the actual bridle which in olden days was used to curb the tongues of women who talked too much or were scolds. It is made of steel and passed over and round the head, so that when it was fastened at the back of the neck with a padlock it effectually kept the mouth shut.

CHAPTER XVI.

A Strange Claim.

"Is he worse—is Mr. Edes worse?" asked Constance, trying to speak without nervousness.

"No, he ain't no worse, but he's dreadful queer. He wants to see you, for one thing."

"Me? I can't go to see him, Mrs. Fry."

"He says his name is Hamilton, an' he talks about Constance an' the children jest for all the world as if he had a right to. You won't mind if I tell you what I think?"

"No."

"Well, I think he has jest set his life by you ever since the first time he see you, an' maybe he heard somehow that you thought he looked a little mite like Mr. Hamilton, an' now that he's weak an' low, it has got into his head an' sticks there. I wish you would go over, walk in sorter matter-of-fact, an' say, 'How be yo feelin' to-day, Mr. Edes, or somethin' like that, an' maybe it'll settle his head a little.'"

"Very well, I will do as you say, Mrs. Fry," said Constance, putting on her hat and jacket as composedly as she could. Then the two walked back together to the little house; but Constance was in a whirl of emotion.

When they entered the sick man was discovered to be fast asleep, lying with his face on his hand.

Constance stood and looked at him, at the thin cheeks, the dark hair and the white hands, free now from all marks of labor. Suddenly he opened his eyes and stretched out his hands to her, while a joyful look came into his face.

"Constance, you did come—I knew you would," and he opened his arms.

"What, will you not kiss me, my wifot?"

Borne forward by the strong force and rush of sudden belief that he was indeed her husband, Constance stooped

"Can a man's hair turn from light to dark?"

"I never knew that it could."

"Well, it has, whether any such case was ever known before or not; but when did it happen?"

"I cannot say, for I know nothing about the matter in any way. But you say you are Vane Hamilton. How can you prove it?"

"Say that I am Vane Hamilton? Is not that enough? Don't you know that I am?" and he looked at her evidently greatly astonished.

"No, I don't know that you are. Strange things have happened since my husband went away. He did not return as we expected, and strange rumors started up meanwhile, that astonished me greatly. It was said he went away with a woman named Lenora, a beautiful woman with emerald-colored hair. Do you know her?"

"I have heard of her," he replied evasively.

"Then," she continued, "it was feared he had been drowned in the river, or that he had met with some foul play, for a body was found in it that it was thought might be his. This idea followed the bank troubles."

"What bank troubles?"

"It was said that my husband embezzled the funds, that he altered two notes to ten times their value, and got the money on them."

"It is false! I never did it—never! It is a conspiracy to rob me of my good name."

"Almost the exact words of another," thought Constance. She paused for a moment to look at the pale-faced man on the pillow, who listened with wide-opened eyes and flushed cheeks.

"Go on," he said, faintly.

"Perhaps I would better wait awhile."

"No, don't you see I am in torment?" he said, irritably. "I want to life, then. I have heard of such things. All I know about it is I left home in May, and I went a little ways on the train, and I came to myself in this room. If I worked at the mill as a machinist and played the violin I knew nothing about it."

"You did not work as a machinist, but as a common millhand. You, however, showed a good understanding of machinery and often remedied defects in it."

"Another person has had a similar experience to your own, or professes to have done so. But we will not talk of it now. Another time will do as well. I dare say Dr. Peck will say that we have talked too much already," and Constance, anxious herself to say no more at the present time not until she had recovered her full powers of reasoning, arose to go.

"You know best. I am tired, but you will come again, Constance. What are you going without saying good-by?"

"Good-by," said Constance, faintly.

"But that is not the way to say good-by. Come here and I will show you how," and a roguish look came into his eyes that made her almost cry out, it was so like Vane's. She hesitated as if about to comply, but she did not.

"No, no, you forget, I can't, I must not!" and she swiftly left the room, but returned in a moment, to say in hurried accents, "I cannot come here again if you ask me to kiss you, or say anything to me about it. No one thinks you are my husband. You will have to prove it."

"Very well," he said, bitterly; "but at least I can see the children."

"I don't know; perhaps so," and Constance would have led to her own home had not Mrs. Fry come to her side and clutched at her dress.

"What does it mean, dearie, what does it all mean?"

"What do you think?" asked Constance, piteously.

"I know what other folks will think. They will say it is all sham. That he wants to get you himself away from the other one, and he didn't know no other way."

There was a vein of shrewd commonsense about all this that impressed Constance. Still the futility of such an attempt, if it was as she said, struck her as forcibly.

"It doesn't seem as if any man in his senses would do such a thing."

"No, it don't; but there's queer works in the world, an' you know an' I know Edes wa'n't never jest like other folks. If it wa'n't for his hair an' if the other one hadn't come back it wouldn't seem so strange, for sence he has been sick I've noticed now and then a look like your husband."

"You have?"

"Yes, I have; but he don't look half so much like him as the other one does. He is the exact picture, now ain't he?"

"Yes, Oh, it seems as if I should go wild!" and Constance looked about her for a moment, as if really seeking an opportunity to fly from her perplexities. Mrs. Fry strove to comfort her.

"It will all come out right without you an' me meddlin'. Jest let it right itself, I say. If this one is your husband it will be proved, and if tother one is, why, that will be proved, too. It is a matter that will be proved, too. It is settled by folks that knows, an' maybe one of 'em will have to be clapped into a 'sylum. Anyway, dearie, don't you fret. You keep on doin' right as you have done; keep 'em both at a distance till it's all settled."

"Would I better go to the hotel to—"

"Talk with your uncle, first."

"Oh, he is all for—"

"The other one; yes, I know. Wall, wait awhile." And so comforted by the good creature's counsel, Constance went home.

(To be continued.)

MEDICINE HAT WANTS BOOM.

One Industry Enterprising Town For got to Mention.

Medicine Hat is one of the towns—pardon us, cities!—in the Canadian Northwest which is making a great bid just now for its share of the present boom in Canada. The mayor of Medicine Hat goes so far as to advertise the merits of that noble city in some Canadian papers. Its virtues are dwelt upon in these advertisements at great length, and particular stress is laid upon the fact that an abundant supply of natural gas makes Medicine Hat a particularly favorable place for the location of manufacturing plants.

Somehow we seem to have heard the name of Medicine Hat before. If our memory does not fail us, this is the place where the weather man says the cold waves come from. When the mercury sinks to zero in the Ohio Valley this considerate gentleman sometimes calls our attention to the fact that it is "40 below at Medicine Hat." This does not seem so bad in August, but it must be a pretty cold reality in January.

Medicine Hat deserves its growing fame. Strange that in his references to the many advantages of his growing city the mayor of Medicine Hat never alludes to the cold wave industry.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Got What He Asked For.

"Say," queried the alleged funny man, as he entered the butcher shop, "what's pork worth a yard?"

"Fifty cents," answered the butcher.

"Well, I'll take a yard," said the A. F. M., tossing a half-dollar on the counter.

The butcher pocketed the coin and handed the customer three pig's feet.

"Say, what are you giving me?" asked the party of the funny part, indignantly.

"A yard of pork—just what you asked for," replied the butcher. "Three feet make a yard, you know."

AGRICULTURE

Getting the Clover Seed.

I have waited with a great deal of anxiety to see an article in regard to harvesting clover seed, but see none. I have had much experience for many years, have harvested many crops and have thrashed thousands of bushels. I have also run a huller for years. In York state we always put it in the barn and thrash it in the winter. It is the safest to stack and cure it well here in the West, if one is not sure of a machine just at the right time. Stirring it after heavy rains wastes it badly. If cut at the right time and stacked it makes a good deal of feed and bedding in the winter, and we get much more seed, as then it is all thoroughly dried. If a few damp spots are on it or the dew has wet it, one cannot get the seed out of the hulls, and half the seed is left and goes into the straw pile, which should be scattered over the wheat and rye fields in the fall.

The crop of hay should be cut and off the field before the first of July to get a good crop of seed. If we had the old self rake to cut it and leave it in piles or windrows, it would be a help, but they are out of use. So we have to use the mower and rake it into windrows, when it is a little damp in the morning or evening. If raked when dry it breaks the heads off and wastes the seed badly. It is also injured by the machine and horses running over it, but that can't be helped, and we do the best we can with the tools we have. The majority of the heads should be brown before being cut. As soon as it is in shape thrash or stack, and cover with straw. Slough grass or a load of timothy hay on top will answer very well. In cold weather it thrashes better and we get much more seed.—S. G. Soverhill, Bureau Co., Ill., in Farmers' Review.

Asparagus Bed in the Fall.

The asparagus bed must be given some attention in the fall. The asparagus plant is very ornamental, especially the female plant that is covered with red berries, but the man that is growing asparagus for the city markets cannot consider the looks. It is necessary to mow these plants before they have seeded the ground. They should be mowed before the seeds drop, piled up, and when dry should be burned. This is for the purpose of destroying the seeds, which if left would produce so many plants that the bed would become useless. This is why the asparagus beds of amateurs quickly run out. Only the original roots are to be kept, and the little asparagus plants that spring up, hardly more than threads out of the ground, must be hoed up or plowed under. They are as destructive to the asparagus beds as would be weeds. There is another reason why the seeds of the asparagus plant should be burned, and that early in the fall, and that is because birds carry them over the farm, and wherever they drop them asparagus plants spring up. These are likely to become troublesome when they are on fields not annually plowed. Lastly, the asparagus bed in the fall should receive a heavy dressing of barnyard manure. It should be applied early enough in the fall so that it will decay and be ready to be used by the plants in the spring. A spring application always comes too late to render full services that year. The asparagus plant is a rapid grower, and consequently a gross feeder, and has to make its growth in the spring before the ground is fully warmed up, and while chemical action for the loosening of plant food is only moderate.—Albert Bates, Du Page Co., Ill., in Farmers' Review.

The Hot Bed in the Fall.

Hot beds are not things that can be prepared on short notice. They should be prepared in the fall; and especially is it necessary in the fall to collect the material that is to be used in them. A good material to collect at this time is the surface soil in the woods, unless the grass has already taken possession of the spaces between the trees. Sod is frequently dug and piled to be used in the bed in the spring.

Some gardeners follow the practice of piling up sod and barnyard manure in layers. During the fall and winter the sod rots as well as the manure, and the gardener has, in the spring, a very rich material with which to fill his bed. The same process is gone through when forest mould is used. It would be better to make the excavation at this time, which should be not less than 2 feet in depth. If the sides and cover are prepared and ready, it will be all the easier to place the material when spring comes.

Air and Seed Germination.

Air seems to be absolutely necessary to the germination of most seeds, except seeds that produce plants of an aquatic nature. It is well known that if any of our seeds are placed in the ground, and the soil tramped over them so hard that it glazes and will not let the air through, the seeds will not germinate. So it may be generally expected that in the earth at least seeds will not germinate without the presence of air. The problem, however, is more complex than one would suppose; because if the same seeds are placed in clear water, they germinate as quickly as if exposed to the air. They will, however, quickly die and decay, this being due doubtless to the deficiency of air.

HOW TO LIVE LONG.

Some Simple Rules Laid Down by New York Physician.

A famous New York physician, now hale and handsome at 75, sums up his half a century of medical practice and observation in these simple rules of health: Be temperate in all things, in matters of amusement or study as well as in regard to foods and drinks. To be temperate in all things, however, does not imply that one must be a prohibitionist about anything. Don't be afraid to go to sleep, for sleep is the best restorer of wasted energies—sleep a certain number of hours every night and then remember that a short nap during the day is a safe rejuvenator than a cocktail. Don't worry either about the past or the future. To waste a single hour in the regretful past is as senseless as to send good money after that which is irrevocably lost.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Chromite Becoming Scarce.

Chromite, the mineral from which chrome yellows and greens are made, is becoming very scarce indeed. Most of it comes from Turkey to Philadelphia and is worth about $20 a ton.

Could Get No Rest.

Freeborn, Minn., Sept. 18th (Special)—Mr. R. E. Goward, a well-known man here is rejoicing in the relief from suffering he has obtained through using Dodd's Kidney Pills. His experience is well worth repeating, as it should point the road to health to many another in a similar condition.

"I had an aggravating case of Kidney Trouble," says Mr. Goward, "that gave me no rest day or night but using a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills put new life in me and I feel like a new man."

"I am happy to state I have received great and wonderful benefit from Dodd's Kidney Pills. I would heartily recommend all sufferers from Kidney Trouble to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a fair trial as I have every reason to believe it would never be regretted." Dodd's Kidney Pills make you feel like a new man or woman because they cure the kidneys. Cured kidneys mean pure blood and pure blood means bounding health and energy in every part of the body.

Plan to Study Birds.

For the purpose of studying the habits of birds of passage a "vogelwarte" has been established at Rosstien, in eastern Prussia, where birds are to be caught and liberated again after small rings have been attached to their feet. The directors request that the feet of such ringed birds killed anywhere be sent to them.

Lochinvar Not Ir. It.

A Jersey man eloped with a village belle in an automobile, and the stern father, mounted on a horse, was hopelessly distanced. They do things better now than in Lochinvar's days.—New York Herald.

Credits Doan's Kidney Pills with a Gratifying Cure.

Hon. Charles A. Towne, ex-U. S. Senator from Minnesota, brilliant orator, clever business man, brainy lawyer, whose national prominence made him a formidable candidate for the presidential nomination in 1904, writes us the following:

Gentlemen: I am glad to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills. The remedy was recommended to me a few months ago when I was feeling miserable; had severe pains in the back; was restless and languid; had a dull headache and neuralgic pains in the limbs and was otherwise distressed. A few boxes of the pills effectually routed my ailment and I am glad to acknowledge the benefit I derived.

Lost Pigmies.

A problem which perplexed the last generation was the long extinct pigmy race which centuries ago undoubtedly inhabited the Tennessee mountains. Legends among the Indians told of such a tribe of dwarfs, who were supposed to be of more intelligence than the red men. But these legends were very hazy. A burying ground, however, actually was discovered in the early part of the last century in which all of the skeletons were of pigmy proportions. Some of them were carried away to college museums. But as far as known to scientific inquiry has ever been directed to this question.

GOOD BLOOD FOR BAD

Rheumatism and Other Blood Diseases are Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"In the lead mines I was at work on my knees with my elbows pressed against rock walls, in dampness and extremes of cold," said Mr. J. G. Meukel, of 2975 Jackson avenue, Dubuque, Iowa, in describing his experience to a reporter, "and it is not surprising that I contracted rheumatism. For three years I had attacks affecting the joints of my ankles, knees and elbows. My ankles and knees became so swollen I could scarcely walk on uneven ground and a little pressure from a stone under my feet would cause me so much pain that I would nearly sink down. I was often obliged to lie in bed for several days at a time. My friends who were similarly troubled were getting no relief from doctors and I did not feel encouraged to throw money away for nothing. By chance I read the story of Robert Yates, of the Klauer Manufacturing Co., of Dubuque, who had a very bad case of rheumatism. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, the remedy he had used. In three or four weeks after beginning to use the pills, I was much better and in three months I was well. The swelling of the joints and the tenderness disappeared. I could work steadily and for eight years I have had no return of the trouble. My whole family believe in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Both my sons use them. We consider them a household remedy that we are sure about."

What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for Mr. Meukel they are doing for hundreds of others. Every dose sends galloping through the veins, pure, strong, rich, red blood that strikes straight at the cause of all ill health. The new blood restores regularity, and braces all the organs for their special tasks. Get the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at your druggists or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

WHO IS KODAMA?

Power Behind the Throne Says Newspaper Correspondent.

If one asks who Kodama is there are two answers; one, that he is the chief of the general staff in the Japanese army, and the other that he is, besides, a poor unlettered man, who, at 52 years of age, rules Japan and guides her armies.

Richard Barry, the war correspondent, says, in "Port Arthur," that this man thinks while others sleep, and works while others eat. He is the power behind the throne, the adviser at the general's ear.

Many public men in Japan believe Kodama to be an unsafe person of second-rate capacity. He had been sent to Formosa, to "get rid of him." There he raised the place from savagery to a commercial prosperity. He could have been prime minister.

"No," he said, "I would rather pull strings than be one of the strings to be pulled. Russia is peeping up over the border. Let us prepare. Give me a desk in the war office."

So the critics were glad to get the upstart out of the way. But when the war came, one man had his finger on things, and knew when and where to strike. He knew the points in the Korean coast where an army could be landed. He knew how soon it could be transported there; where all the merchant steamers were, and how long it would take to turn them into transports; and he had the audacity of genius.

He was not a very presentable man. He had never traveled, and spoke nothing but Japanese. He would laugh like a boy at what he liked, and frown over what displeased him. And he scorned a frock coat and stuck to a kimono. But the emperor and the wisest heads about him knew what Kodama was, and although they could not, for pride's sake, give him the command of the army, they crowned him with power.

Obedience a Help.

There is a woman down in Indiana who is hale and hearty at the age of 100, and when she was asked to what she attributed her age and health she replied, "Obedience." And this, too, at a time when the women are having the word "obey" taken out of the marriage service and in other ways manifesting the most supreme contempt for the old obligation. It is not to be believed that there are many women who will care to drag out an existence of 100 years in a state of obedience, even if a fair degree of health is assured. The holy scriptures do not tell us how long the women lived, although we know that Sarah survived until she was 127 and was so obedient that the Lord blessed her with Isaac when she was 90. And it is fair to suppose that other good Hebrew wives were equally long lived and successful. Thus we see that obedience is of the utmost importance to the human race and is the source of happiness and prosperity. Still the women of this age are extremely stiff-necked and unreasonable.

Insomnia.

Slumber, hasten down this way. And, ere midnight dies, Silence lay upon my lips, Darkness on my eyes.

Send me a fantastic dream; Fashion me a-fresh; Into some celestial thing Change this mortal flesh.

When I know one may not choose; One is helpless still In the purple realm of sleep; Use me as you will.

Let me be a frozen pine In the dead glacier lands; Let me pant, a leopard stretched On the Libyan sands.

Silver in or scarlet wing; Grant me either one; Sink me deep in emerald gloms, Lift me to the sun.

Or of me a gargoyle make, Face of ape or gnome, Such as frights the tavern boor, Reeling drunken home.

Work on me your own caprice, Give me any shape; Only, slumber, from myself Let myself escape!

—Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

Go Bareheaded to Church.

The custom of going bareheaded, which New York women have extensively adopted this summer, has spread even to the churches. At services which are held week evenings a large contingent of women attend without hats. "I hope the custom will extend to the theaters this winter," said a West Side man. "Then women will not have to hold their hats in their laps. I always feel sorry for women when they take off their hats in the theater. Their hair is usually disarranged, and taking care of a hat all evening is a nuisance. A woman never looks prettier than with a scarf of lace or chiffon thrown over her head, and it is no trouble to take care of that. Women wear them in London and why shouldn't they in New York?"

A Sound Indorsement.

The home team having been gloriously beaten when it had victory practically in its grasp, the disgruntled resident of Mosquito Summit, N. J., remarked sadly:

"I'm just getting dead sore on baseball because it is so infernally uncertain."

"Yes," coincided his little nephew, who was on a visit from Boston, "baseball, looked at from any point of view, is certainly a fluctuating quantity."

Subterfuge Get Interviews.

Mme. Duse, who has a strong aversion to being interviewed, was recently beaten by the Copenhagen reporters. One acted as waiter at the hotel, another acted as shoemaker's assistant, a third drove her cab, and the fourth was assistant stage machinist, and all used bits of conversation for long interviews.

THOUSANDS OF LIVES SAVED

By "Mother's Medicine Chest" and Patent Prescriptions.

Commenting on attacks made by certain eastern publications on some of the best known and most valuable of the world's proprietary medicines, the Committee on Legislation of the Proprietary Association says:

"All through the country districts, in every state of the union, you will find in the farm houses the old family remedies, sometimes called 'patent medicines,' many of which have been in use in the same household for generations. Among such people the old-fashioned proprietary medicine, always at hand with full printed instructions for use, is one of the necessities of life.

"To families in the country many miles from a doctor such remedies are invaluable. 'Mother's medicine chest' has saved many a life and met many a threatening sickness at the threshold and turned it out of doors. So far from constituting self-prescription, as is often pretended, acquaintance with a 'patent medicine' often obviates the necessity of such a step; for here is a prescription already made up, the effect of which is well known. One of the greatest advantages of such medicine is that its constant formula gives it the character of a single drug, so far as uniformity of result is concerned, and the people who use it know from experience just what they can count on—which is more than can be said of many physicians' prescriptions frequently obtained at a far greater cost and trouble."

HOW DESDEMONA DIED.

The Curiously Contrived Ending of Shakespeare's Heroine.

The tragic death of Desdemona, according to the Paris Menestrel, which has recently completed some interesting researches among the archives of the Querini family, of which Shakespeare's Othello was a member, really occurred in Crete in the year 1523.

Desdemona, whose name signifies "damsel of the house of demons," met her death, according to this new version in a singular manner.

Othello had charged his valet with the carrying out of his revenge. The valet accordingly took up a position close to Desdemona's apartment, where he started groaning and shuffling with his feet.

Othello thereupon requested his wife to rise and discover the cause of the noise.

As she crossed the threshold a sackful of grass was flung at her head. She fell to the ground, and was then assailed with a succession of similar grass-filled sacks, being finally smothered under the falling ceiling and masonry of the walls, which had been specially loosened at Othello's orders.

Flea is Agile.

Although the flea holds the record for agility of movement among the insects and is capable of a speed of nearly ten miles an hour, could it continue jumping without cessation and without tiring, it has little the better of the jumping mouse found in the African deserts, which clears ten feet at a jump at the rate of eight hundred feet a second.

A Quaint Saying.

One day an elderly teacher was questioning Dorothy as to her knowledge. As Dorothy was only 4, the questions asked were rather deep. The teacher was satisfied, however, when on asking Dorothy what a dream was, the child replied, "Dreams are pictures the angels show us when we are asleep."

Whistle for Wounded Men.

A surgeon has invented a whistle which emits a very loud sound, with a slight expenditure of breath. It is for the use of soldiers when they are wounded and desire to attract attention.

Tumors Conquered Without Operations

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in Cases of Mrs. Fox and Miss Adams.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by excessive menstruation accompanied by unusual pain extending from the ovaries down the groin and thighs.

If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation ulceration or displacement, don't wait for time to confirm your fears and go through the horrors of a hospital operation; see Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound right away and begin its use and write Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., for advice.

Read these strong letters from grateful women who have been cured:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—(First Letter.) "In looking over your book I see that your medicine cures Tumor of the Uterus. I have been to a doctor and he tells me I have a tumor. I will be more than grateful if you can help me, as I do so dread an operation."

—Fannie D. Fox, 7 Chestnut St., Bradford, Pa.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—(Second Letter.) "I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine."

"Eighteen months ago my monthly stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician, and was told that I had a tumor on the uterus and would have to undergo an operation."

"I soon after read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After taking five bottles as directed, the tumor is entirely gone. I have again been examined."

—Miss Luella Adams, Colonnade Hotel, Seattle, Wash.

Such unquestionable testimony proves the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and should give confidence and hope to every sick woman.

Brushed Scales from Face Like Powder—Doctor Said Lady Would Be Disfigured for Life—Cuticura Works Wonders.

"I suffered with eczema all over my body. My face was covered; my eyebrows came out. I had tried three doctors, but did not get any better. I then went to another doctor. He thought my face would be marked for life, but my brother-in-law told me to get Cuticura. I washed with Cuticura Soap, applied Cuticura Ointment, and took Cuticura Resolvent as directed. I could brush the scales off my face like powder. Now my face is just as clean as it ever was.—Mrs. Emma White, 641 Cherrier Place, Camden, N. J., April 25, '05."

by the physician and he says I have no sign of a tumor now. It has also brought my monthly around once more; and I am entirely well. I shall never be without a bottle of Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the house."—Fannie D. Fox, Bradford, Pa.

Another Case of Tumor Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "About three years ago I had intense pain in my stomach, with cramps and raging headaches. The doctor prescribed for me, but finding that I did not get any better he examined me and, to my surprise, declared I had a tumor in the uterus."

"I felt sure that it meant my death warrant, and was very disheartened. I spent hundreds of dollars in doctoring, but the tumor kept growing, till the doctor said that nothing but an operation would save me. Fortunately I corresponded with my aunt in the New England States, who advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my operation, and using no medicine but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and words fall to express how grateful I am for the good it has done me."—Miss Luella Adams, Colonnade Hotel, Seattle, Wash.

Hospitality in Children.

Hospitality should be encouraged in children as far as it is within the means of the parents to do so. Let them have their little teas and anniversary parties. It will help them to develop this trait and will give them an opportunity to put in practice amenities of social life which they are expected to observe in later life, says the Brooklyn Times. There is nothing more excellent to behold than a child with easy, gracious manners, free from shyness and without boldness.

Suffered 23 Years From Constipation and Stomach Trouble

Wilbert Thompson never knew a well day—he had been constipated all his life—many doctors treated him, but all failed to even help him—his health failed rapidly and on January 21, 1903, Mrs. Thompson asked us to suggest a treatment for her husband. We thought the case too serious and recommended that a specialist be consulted—but he also failed to help the patient—NOW HE IS WELL.

MR. and MRS. WILBERT THOMPSON, 801 Main St., Peoria, Ill. MULL'S GRAPE TONIC CURED HIM.

Mull's Grape Tonic Cured Him

Mrs. Thompson first wrote us as follows: "My husband, aged 23, suffers from sharp pains in his stomach and sometimes thinks it is his heart. Let me know by return mail what causes the pain, if you can. Mr. Thompson has been treated by several doctors, but they have given him up."

"We promptly advised that a first-class specialist be consulted. We quote: "We want to sell Mull's Grape Tonic because we know it will cure constipation, but 50c a bottle is no object to us when a human life is at stake, and if your husband's case is as serious as you state, we suggest you consult a reliable specialist, not the advertiser. At the same time knowing that Mull's Grape Tonic could do no harm we advised its being tried, promptly." At the same time knowing that Mull's Grape Tonic could do no harm we advised its being tried, promptly. He diagnosed the case as being chronic constipation and dyspepsia. His treatment was followed faithfully, but there was no perceptible improvement in Mr. Thompson's health. Then he began taking Mull's Grape Tonic and on September 3, 1903, we received the following letter from Mrs. Thompson:

"You will remember that I wrote to you last January in regard to my husband's health. It is four months since he quit taking Mull's Grape Tonic for constipation, which he suffered from since birth. He took just 24 bottles of it and is perfectly cured. He is much stronger and has gained considerably in flesh. I can't thank you enough for Mull's Grape Tonic. It is worth its weight in gold." Just $12 cured him and he has spent hundreds of dollars with doctors who did him no good. It did all you claimed it would."

Very respectfully yours, MRS. W. H. THOMPSON, 801 Main St., Peoria, Ill.

Mr. Thompson stopped taking Mull's Grape Tonic in June, 1903. He has been completely cured and has taken no other medicine since that date. Over two years and no return of the disease, should prove a permanent cure.

Wonderful Cure of Hay Fever and Asthma in 2 Days

A Jackson Lady Tells How It Was Done.

Jackson, Mich., Aug. 30, 1905. I have been a great sufferer from hay fever for 23 years and hay asthma for eight years. I got so bad that I could scarcely get any relief from the use of any of the remedies on the market. I had asthma only during the hay fever season. All the rest of the season my health was good. It came on this year Aug. 12, and until I commenced treatment with Dr. Wilkinson, 25 Dwight building, Jackson, Mich., I was unable to leave the house, and the last four nights I sat up the whole time. I did not believe that Dr. Wilkinson could give me any relief, but my friends persuaded me to try him, and on Aug. 26 I sent for his medicine, for I could not go to his office and he could not come to see me. The second night after taking his medicine I could lie down and sleep, and in two days I was apparently well of my asthma, and have been entirely free of it ever since. My eyes and nose are not entirely well yet, but they are better. Dr. Wilkinson's treatment has been a great relief to me.

Only a Printer.

"He is only a printer." Such was the sneering remark of a leader in a circle of aristocracy—codfish quality. Who was the Earle of Stanhope? He was only a printer. What was Prince Ed. William and Prince Napoleon? Proud to call themselves printers. The Czar of Russia, crown Prince of Prussia, the Duke of Battenburg were printers, and the Emperor of China worked in a private printing office nearly every day. Wm. Caxton, the father of English literature, was a practical printer. What were J. P. Morris, N. P. Willis, James Parker, Horace Greeley, Benjamin Franklin, Charles Dickens, James Buchanan, Simon Cameron, Schuyler Colfax? Printers all, and practical ones. Mark Twain, Amos S. Cummings, Bret Harte, Wm. Dean Howells, Joel Chandler Harris and Opie Read are plain practical printers. Brains, it seems, are desirable if not necessary to be an ordinary sort of a printer.

Miss Genevieve Young, who is teaching school in Saline, spent Saturday and Sunday at home with her parents Thos. Young and wife.

Gen. J. Tyrrell and wife, of Jackson, visited with Luke Reilly and wife for a few days last week. Mrs. Tyrrell and Mr. Reilly are cousins.

H. S. Barton and son Hiley, John Clark and son Joseph, George Otto, wife and son Louis, and Mrs. Frank Lusty are some of the Lyndon folks that attended the state fair last week.

Corn is an excellent crop this season as a rule in these parts and is now all ready to be cut, but the necessary help to put it in shock cannot be secured. Unless the frost holds off for some time yet it will catch some of it still standing in the hill.

John Clark, Ed Shanahan, H. S. Barton and Ed Gorman have been pretty busy for some time past taking care of an abundant peach crop, and the end is not yet. Shipments were mostly to Detroit and they report very satisfactory prices for good peaches.

The rains of Saturday night and Sunday did considerable damage to beans. Some farmers had their crop wholly or partly secured, but still there were a great many beans out in the storm and when they go to market there will be work for pickers to put them in condition for the consumer.

MOONLIGHT ON LAKE ERIE.

Passengers on D. & B. Line Witness a Glorious Sight.

A moonlight scene on Lake Erie is sublime. At twilight as the sun, like a golden ball of fire, gradually descends from view in the western horizon, the moon rises in its stateliness, at first modestly spreading its mellow light, and, growing bolder, bursts forth in one pure sheen of grandeur. Send two cent stamp for illustrated pamphlet. Address, D. & B. STEAMBOAT CO., Wayne St. Wharf, Detroit, Mich.

Are you lacking in strength and vigor? Are you weak? Are you in pain? Do you feel all run down? The blessing of health and strength comes to all who use Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35c, tea or tablets. Bank Drug Store.

WORK WEAKENS THE KIDNEYS.

Doan's Kidney Pills Have Done Great Service for People Who Work.

Most people work every day in some strained, unnatural position—bending constantly over a desk, riding on jolting cars or wagons—doing laborious housework, lifting, reaching or pulling, or trying the back in a hundred and one other ways. All these strains tend to wear, weaken and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, put new strength in bad backs.

G. B. Porter, of South Sprague street, Coldwater, Mich., says: "For three years I was annoyed by the action of the kidney secretions and suffered from severe pain in the small of my back. After a hard day's work or a long drive, which I often had to do, the pain in my back was very severe. At night it was painful to turn or move and the secretions were dark and unnatural in color. When I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills I got a box and was pleased with their beneficial effect. That was some time ago and I have not had a pain or ache in my back during the interval and the kidney secretions are normal. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to others, who in turn have been greatly benefited by them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
