BANK DRUG STORE SPECIALS.

Lamps.

Long evenings are before us now and night will find many around the home reading and study table. Our lamp department on the second floor contains many good things. No real good kerosene lamp should be "smelly." Carelessness or ignorance, usually, are responsible for the odor. We sell only good lamps and will tell you how to care for them so that you will never detect an odor. Simplest thing in the world; but some dealers don't know and others care less. A lamp is one of the things you should be careful not to buy in the wrong place. Special offerings for this sale only include lamps in the goods ranging from 75c to $3.50.

"They're dandies." Climb our stairs and take a look.

Rubber Goods.

Good rubber goods under priced. We have just opened up a new shipment of Hot Water Bottles, Fountain Syringes, Nipple Shields, Rubber Gloves, Atomizers, Rubber Tubing, Nipples and Nursing Bottles. They are from the best factories in the U. S. We have priced them lower than anywhere else. Every article is guaranteed to be satisfactory. Get our prices on these goods.

Clocks.

$1.68 for an oak one, half hour strike, reliable too, a clock that will give good service for years. There are more elaborate clocks here for those who want them. Beautiful Mantle Clocks and the new and popular Mission styles are here. Our prices are the best. You can save money here.

$2.50 Clocks for $1.68
$3.00 Clocks for $1.98
$3.75 Clocks for $2.48
75c Alarm Clocks 58c

Wake you up? We have alarm clocks that will do the trick.

Jardinières

and Plant Jars.

You will soon have to lift and report those choicest plants which you have been training all summer for winter bloomers. We've had a notion that you would need some Jars and Jardinières for them, and have bought a popular line for you to select from.

JAIL IS WELL CONDUCTED

SAY INSPECTORS.

Semi-Annual Report Shows 544 Arrests—Over Half Being Drunks—130 Disorderlies, Ten Women Arrested.

The board of inspectors visited the county jail Monday and their report filed with County Clerk Harkins Tuesday indicates that the premises are in the best of condition and that the institution is being conducted in an orderly manner.

The report shows that during the last six months 544 persons had been confined in jail charged with offenses as follows: drunk, 306; drunkard and tippler, 1; disorderly, 130; vagrancy, 52; assault and battery, 4; attempting to break jail, 1; burglary, 1; carrying concealed weapons, 1; disturbing the peace, 1; forgery, 1; insane, 5; embezzlement, 2; indecent language, 4; juvenile, 5; larceny, 11; larceny from person, 2; non-support, 3; resisting an officer, 1; violation, 1; other charges, 8. Ten of the 544 incarcerations were women.

Aside from a few minor alterations and suggestions for the welfare of the county property, no recommendations were made by the inspectors.—Times.

PRIMARY ELECTION LAW.

Under the new Primary Act, adopted by the Second District Congressional committee, the law requires:

1st. That at the April election, 1906, voters shall have the chance to enroll their names in a book showing with what party they affiliate or support.

2nd. That on petition signed by enrolled voters to the number of 20 per cent of the votes cast for governor by the party in 1904, the question of district nomination will be submitted to the qualified enrolled voters of such party at an election to be held on the second Tuesday in June, 1906.

3rd. That if a majority of the votes are in favor of a direct nomination a primary election will be held on the first Tuesday in September, 1906.

4th. The successful nominee will have his name placed on the official column of the official ballot for the regular election in November, 1906.

5th. A candidate's name can get on the primary ticket only by petition signed by qualified enrolled voters, numbering at least two per cent of the votes cast by his party for governor in 1904.

MUST BE MORE CAREFUL.

Township treasurers will have to be more careful in the future regarding the transaction of business with taxpayers. A new law went into effect September 16, which will have for its object the protection of persons who pay their taxes and are afterwards informed that their lands have been sold for back taxes.

Owing to carelessness on the part of some of the townships the county treasurer has often not received money paid on a piece of land, although the owner has been given a receipt for the payment of the same. As a result the description has been listed among the delinquents and sent to Lansing. The owner naturally never learns of what has transpired until somebody buys his land for back taxes, when he is notified.

The law makes it imperative for the county treasurer to commence suit against the treasurer of a township who is thus negligent for the purpose of securing the money. Thus the matter is taken from the hands of the state officers and is made more local in effect.

READY TO SELL.

An exchange truthfully says: "One of the worst things about the average American is that he will sell anything that he owns if he can get his price. This disposition on his part tends to make him always unsettled. When a man has a good farm, a good income, where can he possibly go to better his condition? In fact where could he go where he would not be worse off? Lots of men find this truth out at an expense of a lot of money and peace of mind. The sensible thing for men to do in nine cases out of ten is to settle down, contented, so far as expecting to find a home where everything is all right, and carefully study how they may make the old farm productive, their lives of more use to their families and to the world. Nowhere in the world can there be found better conditions than right at home. Many a man has missed it by selling out and going north, south or west in an effort to better his condition."

WASHTENAW IN THE LEAD.

County School Commissioner C. E. Foster, of Chelsea, was in Lansing Thursday and Friday attending the sessions of the county school commissioners. The subjects discussed related principally to the duties of the commissioners in the treatment of the schools. The meeting was a very successful one.

The new truancy law seems to be giving the commissioners not a little concern, but its enforcement was urged by State Superintendent Kelly.

Mr. Foster informs The Standard the reports sent to the department from Washtenaw county, shows that he has visited more schools and communicated with more truants, than any other school commissioner in the state.

IT JUST DEPENDS.

If we knew whose pen dashed off the following we would gladly give him credit, for its good criticism:

Doesn't it make you weary to read the rot of those rattlebrain idiots of the Chicago press who are repeatedly ridiculing the country papers on their locals? These 2 by 4 lunch counter fiends think it awful funny when some country newspaper says, "Hiram Slocum has sold his Holstein cow to Ed. Childress." But of course it is the proper paper when they say, "Mrs. Franklin Oliver Lowden has just returned from the Epsom Lorimer kennels." Oh that's great! That bull pup would bring about 30 cents in the dog pound, while Slocum's cow would sell for $50 dollars in the dark. It's frightfully ridiculous to report that Tom Davis went over to Guard Point to see his best girl throw a shoe, but if Wm. Henry Harrison Pook, society leader, was in Milwaukee to see Miss Gertie Pabst they would slobber over half a column and have three pictures of Gertie and Wm. Henry on the front page. That's all right.

AN AMBIGEROUS WILL.

Attorney J. W. Bennett, for Joseph Schneeberger, has filed a petition in the probate court for the reopening of the estate of the petitioner's father, John Schneeberger, and the appointment of himself as administrator de bonis non. John Schneeberger died in Lodi about fifteen years since leaving a will which has proved somewhat ambiguous. It provided that the estate was to go to the wife during her lifetime if she remained unmarried, but in case she married it was to go to a daughter, Mrs. Caroline Haab, who was to have the same share as the wife.

There was no provision for the disposition of the property after the death of the widow in case she did not marry, and Mrs. Schneeberger died this summer without remarrying. Mrs. Haab is a daughter of Mr. Schneeberger by a second marriage and now the children by the first wife claim the property as heirs and Mrs. Haab claims the estate under the will.—Times

LOSSES ADJUSTED.

The board of directors of the Washtenaw Mutual Fire Insurance Co. met at the secretary's office in Ann Arbor last Saturday and adjusted the following recent losses:

R. J. Brown estate, Superior, buildings and farm personal, fire, $1,275. J. R. Brown, farm personal, $400. Gilbert Howe, Pittsfield, damage to barn and horse, lightning, $13.50. Daniel Murray, Augusta, heifer killed, lightning, $18. Mrs. Anna E. Merriman, Augusta, damage house, lightning, $3.50. A. B. Skinner, Sylva, colt killed, lightning, $66.66.

Consumption of Sulphur.

The statistics of the United States geological survey show that the total domestic consumption of sulphur in 1904 was 539,855 long tons, which was an increase over that of the previous year of 50,671 tons. Formerly all sulphur used in this country was imported from Italy. But in recent years deposits of this substance have been found in Louisiana and Nevada and nearly two-thirds of the annual consumption is derived from this source, Louisiana furnishing much the larger part.

Woman Saw Waterloo.

A Belgian woman, Mme. Rolland, of Senefelt, attained her one hundred and fourth birthday on June 12. She is credited in Belgium with being the only surviving witness of the battle of Waterloo, having been seated on a wall in the neighborhood of the battlefield during a part of the engagement. Last year, when the French monument to Waterloo heroes was unveiled on the battlefield, Mme. Rolland had a place of honor as the most noteworthy spectator present at the ceremony.

His American Name.

When in New York F. Marion Crawford has his barbering done and his boots blacked at his office. In engaging the bootblack, an Italian, Mr. Crawford asked him where he was born. "In Genoa," was the answer. "And what is your name?" "Patrick Murphy," was the astonishing reply. "Where in the world did you get that name?" asked the novelist. "I take the name after I come here, so people think-a I the American," said the bootblack.

THE FAIR ASSOCIATION.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED.

Annual Meeting held last Friday in Ann Arbor—A Complete Board of Managers Chosen.

The annual election of officers for the Washtenaw County Fair Association was held in Ann Arbor Friday, and the following were chosen as the officials for the ensuing year:

President—John Heinzmann, Ann Arbor. Vice President—Dan Sutton, Northfield.

Treasurer—Ed. Hisecock, Ann Arbor. Secretary—Leo Gruner, Ann Arbor. The board of managers chosen was as follows:

Wm. Clements, Saline; Wm. April, sr., Seio; John Weston, Ypsilanti; V. Chapin, Ann Arbor; Henry Richards, Ann Arbor; H. H. Andrews, Ann Arbor; Fred Haas, Ann Arbor.

The gentlemen who were selected for the various positions make it possible that an old fashioned county fair can be pulled off next year.

ENGLAND GROWING SOBER.

But 28.44 Gallons of Beer Per Person Were Consumed in 1904-5 Against 32.28 in 1899-1900.

London.—The forty-eighth report of the commissioners of inland revenue for the year ended March 31, 1905, is a highly interesting document.

The report shows, in particular, that the nation is becoming more sober every year.

The gross receipts amounted to $531,650,760. Comparing the year 1904-05 with its predecessor, there was an increase in the net receipts of the total revenue of $2,043,115.

Of the total amount produced by the inland revenue duties the "predominant partner" contributed $70,456,304. Scotland yielded $67,105,015 and Ireland $38,065,105.

Coming to specific duties, the beer tax, it is shown, yielded $65,507,395, and the spirit duty $40,559,635. Both duties with the tobacco duty, which yielded $1,795,110 and the latter of $2,659,435.

Statistical proof is afforded of the fact that Scotland is not a beer-drinking nation, for it only contributed $3,090,875 to the total of the duty on that product, as compared with $56,120,630 from England. Ireland gave double the amount of Scotland.

England paid duty on 29,385,208 barrels, Scotland on 1,813,109 barrels and Ireland on 3,205,970 barrels.

Among the various licenses in force it is interesting to note that those issued in respect to motor vehicles was 2,261. This contrasts with 1,178 last year and 644 in 1902-03.

NEW MAGNETIC CHART.

Carnegie Institution to Make a Survey of the North Pacific—Brig Procured for Purpose.

Washington.—The department of international research in terrestrial magnetism of the Carnegie Institution has outlined a magnetic survey of the north Pacific ocean, a comparatively new field as regards magnetic observations. The expedition has started from San Francisco and will pursue a spiral course across the entire north Pacific.

The object is to secure precise data of the distribution of the magnetic forces over the Pacific ocean, for the purpose of navigation. It seems that the present magnetic charts for this region are practically made up from coast and island observations which are not altogether correct.

It is thought that the entire work of observation and reduction can be accomplished in three years at a maximum cost of $25,000. The total length of the spiral course will be at least 70,000 miles.

The brig Galilee has been procured for the purpose. The director of the work is Dr. L. A. Bauer, who is likewise in charge of the magnetic work of the United States coast and geodetic survey. The commander of the Galilee is J. F. Pratt, of the United States coast and geodetic survey. With them are Dr. J. Hobart Egbert, magnetic observer, surgeon and naturalist; J. P. Ault, magnetic observer, and V. W. Whitney, magnetic observer and watch officer.

STATE FAIR AT DETROIT SHOWS A PROFIT OF $40,000.

DETROIT HAS A TYPHOID FEVER EPIDEMIC OVER WHICH DOCTORS WRANGLE.

THE PERE MARQUETTE HAS A FEW ACCIDENTS WHICH DELAY TRAFFIC.

State Fair's Good Showing.

Secretary Butterfield's figures show that the total receipts of the state fair aggregated $88,604, of which $68,604 were gate receipts. The gate receipts last year at Pontiac were $18,513. The net profits this year are said to be about $40,000. It is estimated that the total attendance was 200,000.

President-elect Fred Post and Director A. E. Stevenson, of Port Huron, will go to Grand Rapids to visit the West Michigan fair, and to the state fair at Springfield, Ill., to pick up ideas which may be of value in making improvements for next year. Mr. Post says he has no intention of dominating the state fair management, and he wants no action taken without the full co-operation of the other members on the board.

Typhoid Fever Cases.

Several Detroit physicians are quoted as having said the city is in the throes of a fair-sized typhoid fever epidemic, that the number of cases is alarming and that their increase is a warning, but Health Officer Kiefer makes emphatic denial to the declarations. "There are a number of typhoid cases in Detroit, but there is no reason for alarm," said Dr. Kiefer. "Absolutely no reason for alarm. The city's water supply may or may not be the cause of their presence. The department of health is taking every precautionary measure to prevent increase of cases, but this is always done. A pound of precaution is worth a ton of cure. The statement that there have been thus far in September four times as many cases as in the entire month of September of last year is a gross exaggeration."

Pere Marquette Accidents.

A freight wreck at Alexis, 15 miles south of Monroe, Saturday, entirely blocked traffic on the Ann Arbor road and caused the Pere Marquette to send its trains from Monroe to Toledo over the Lake Shore tracks. This is the second time this week that the Pere Marquette traffic has been tied up. Three days ago there was a wreck south of Monroe. Two hundred passengers going north on No. 92 Pere Marquette train from Muskegon had narrow escapes from death as a result of a rear end collision with a logging train which was coming down from the north yards. The trains came together after the passenger engineer had seen the approaching collision and had slowed down enough to avert a disaster. The engine of the logging train was considerably damaged and the passengers in the coaches given a severe shaking up. The wreck delayed traffic about an hour.

Long Haired Hosts.

Benjamin and Mary are making preparations for the invasion of Philadelphia. They expect to attack the lurking places of the devil in that city before the end of the present month. The plans call for a campaign which in magnitude will excel those made for the invasion of New York city by Dowle.

Benjamin, who talks only in millions, announces that he will hire special trains, which will transport free of charge hundreds of persons into the cities he visits. From the people to whom he preaches the chief "angel" expects to get the millions necessary to carry on his stupendous undertaking.

Every marble and granite cross in the cemetery was either broken or dislodged, while the wooden crosses were piled up in heaps in different parts of the cemetery.

Vandals Wreck 200 Monuments.

Following the raids upon Catholic cemeteries at Conant Falls, Peshtigo and Birch Creek, breaking monuments valued at several thousand dollars, a gang of men entered the St. Joseph and St. Ann's Catholic cemeteries at Escanaba and completely demolished the crosses on over 200 monuments and caused damage estimated at $4,000.

Ed. McQuarters, of Birmingham, went into the basement of a new building to take a little nap, when the floor above gave way and about three tons of sand and plaster crashed into the basement. McQuarters was severely injured but may recover. Joe Patrick and Melvin Henry of Detroit, at work on the building, escaped by running.

Explicit and Severe. "For a court to stamp such a relationship with the seal of matrimony would be a disgrace and tend to the destruction of morality and destroy the sacredness of the marriage tie." These were the strong words of Judge Law, of Port Huron, in dismissing the suit of Marion Montross against James Montross, asking for the legalization of her alleged common law marriage to Montross. According to the finding of facts in the case, the woman came from Bay City in 1901, and posed as Montross's wife, and in her petition claimed to have been forced by her putative husband to the life of shame.

Rats Causing Damage.

Meter readers of the Kalamazoo Gas & Light Co., who make monthly trips to the basement of all the business blocks of the city, say that rats are undermining many of the older buildings of the city. Thousands of the rodents are in the buildings, and have been at work for years. The inspectors declare that there is danger of some of the buildings giving away unless the rats are exterminated. They cite ten buildings in which they say the foundations are half torn away. In three buildings in the last year, cement foundations have been put in to hold the buildings up. Not a building among the old ones of the city is free from hundreds of holes made by the rodents.

Four Fires in Two Days.

John Reedy's large barn, situated five miles south of Yale, was destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon. A separator belonging to Charles Jurden was also burned. The fire was caused by a spark from the engine. The total loss is over $2,000 with small insurance.

While Louis Conroy and wife were in Yale, Saturday, their home, situated two and one-half miles north of here, was destroyed by fire. Loss, $1,000.

James Sischo, living north of Yale, had his home destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon. Loss, $1,000. This makes the fourth fire in this vicinity in the last two days.

NEWS OF THE WORLD

COVERT THREATS ARE MADE AGAINST KOMURA AND TAKAHIRA.

THE FAMINE DISTRICTS IN RUSSIA ARE TO BE RELIEVED.

Ruination Forced.

The authorities in St. Petersburg have received official reports from the Siberian coast to the effect that the Japanese are pursuing measures which promise to result in the ruination of the inhabitants throughout the island of Sakhalin, north and south. They are forcing the people to sell their property of all kinds at absurdly low and arbitrary prices and sign receipts for it at good prices under the threat of death. As an example of the extremity of the Japanese methods, Gen. Senemovsky, commanding the district, reports that 180 Russian colonists were led into marshes by the Japanese and were there decapitated. The inhabitants of the southern portion of the island are being forced to emigrate, and those of the northern half are being plundered of their houses, cattle and crops, and must emigrate as they have nothing on which to live.

Ill Feeling in Japan.

Considerable ill feeling has been stirred up against the Japanese government by reason of the large number of arrests made in connection with the recent rioting. The expressions against the government are not so openly made as before, but there can be no doubt that the sentiment is rapidly spreading. The antagonism to Baron Komura and M. Takahira shows no signs of abatement and many covert threats have recently been made against both envoys, particularly since the discovery of the clause in the treaty forbidding Japan to fortify the Soya straits and the reported ominous declaration of M. Witte in Paris that the new treaty would result in no modification of Russia's present policy, which is open to the interpretation that another war against Japan is contemplated.

Special commissions from the department of agriculture and the ministry of the interior will take charge of the relief work in the famine districts of Russia. The cost of this work is estimated by the government at $20,000,000. No acute distress has as yet been reported and the government hopes by a prompt distribution of food, seed, grain and fodder and the employment of the famine-stricken population on public works to tide over the people until the new harvest.

An observer of the situation who returned from a tour of southern Russia states that bags of grain were piled up in perfect mountains at many stations, some of which were left over from the 1904 harvest, waiting for cars to move them.

The Famine Work.

The issuance of the call for the second Hague peace conference by the czar will be made with the full knowledge of all the great powers. The matter has been under advisement and has been the subject of correspondence between the foreign office at St. Petersburg and the foreign offices of the powers and of the United States ever since Russia consented to send envoys to meet those of Japan, and it became practically certain that peace would be restored.

It is said here that it was a suggestion of President Roosevelt that the call should come from Russia.

The American chief executive announced his willingness to father the next conference which it is hoped will practically make a great war impossible in the future, but he expressed the opinion that it would be better that the czar who had called the first conference should take the initiative at this time. While no formal action has as yet been taken, I am assured that all the powers, including Japan, have signified their willingness to send delegates and that in most cases they will be invested with more complete power than has ever been granted before.

The time for the sending of the formal invitation has not yet been determined, but it will not long be delayed and probably be shortly after the exchange of ratifications of the peace treaty between Russia and Japan. It is not believed the conference will be held before next spring when the repatriation of the armies in Manchuria will have been practically concluded.

NEWS OF THE NATION

UNCLE SAM CANNOT ALLOW AN UPRISING OF THE CUBAN PEOPLE.

THE TERMS OF SEPARATION OF SWEDEN AND NORWAY ARE SETTLED.

South American Policy.

President Roosevelt is said to be preparing a message to congress in which he will declare for a new policy by which the United States can be assured of a permanent peace with Europe. It deals with a proposal to make the United States virtually the guardian for all the republics in the western hemisphere, with no European interference in the affairs of Latin America. The rough draft of the message has been read over to Senator Lodge and any Ambassador Choate by the president, the general tone being one of definite arrangement by which all disputes between the United States and foreign powers are to be settled by arbitration. As to the republics, south of this country, he wants a policy of benevolent guardianship to be adopted. If they try to repudiate their honest obligations, or wilfully and maliciously involve themselves in disputes with foreign powers, it is to be the duty of the United States to intervene.

In such a case the offending states will be forced by the United States to make due reparation, either by money payments or other atonements, to satisfy the offended European power. In case foreign nations are aggrieved, they must not invade any American state. But, if they cannot obtain redress, this means being denied to them, it will be the duty of the United States (under the new proposed policy) to obtain redress for them and within a reasonable time.

The Cuban Troubles.

Nowhere are the ugly developments in connection with the Cuban presidential campaign watched with a keener interest than in Washington. The series of disorders, which culminated in the bloody fight at Cienfuegos has been the subject of a number of conferences between high officials of the navy and war and state departments and by special direction of President Roosevelt he has been kept in close touch with the Cuban situation. Under the Platt agreement, the United States is empowered to send troops to Cuba should it become necessary for the preservation of order. It has been evident for some time that such a condition would probably arise as to call for such action and the United States is fully prepared to fulfill its obligations, without loss of time.

Sweden and Norway Pact.

After protracted sessions extending over some weeks, the Norwegian and Swedish delegates who met to settle the terms of separation of the two countries, Saturday evening, arrived at an agreement on all points. The delegates refused to discuss the terms of agreement, simply saying that they would be given out later. Dr. Nansen says that Norway made dissolution of the union the first essential condition of peace, in which Greater Sweden was obliged to acquiesce. The Norwegians do not desire to humiliate or be humiliated. A binding arbitration treaty is a better frontier for defense than a fortress.

To Probe Army and Navy.

A new commission of investigation to probe the army and navy will be named by the president. It will consist of Assistant Secretary of the Navy Darling and Assistant Secretary of War Oliver. These officials will do for the military branch of the government what the Keap commission is doing for the civilian branch. They will ferret out any corruption that may exist and institute reforms of administration in order to do away with the excessive amount of red tape which now hampers the prompt and economical execution of business.

The naval estimates for the present year now being collected by the secretary of the navy aggregate almost $130,000,000, and through the application of the pruning knife will be reduced to $100,000,000.

What is true of the navy is true of the army. The general staff of the army has not brought about economy in administration.

The ratification of the treaty of peace will take place in Washington. It is probable that this will be done in the White House, as a compliment to President Roosevelt.

JAPAN'S RAILROAD PROPERTIES; TROPHIES GAINED IN LATE WAR

RICH SPOILS OF WAR

JAPAN'S GAINS TOTAL MORE THAN $600,000,000.

When the Marquis Ito persuaded the United States to waive the indemnity and make peace with Russia, he was perfectly well aware, it is declared now, that the concessions which Japan had gained were worth far more than the $600,000,000. It is also said that he had known that Russia would not pay any money, even if Japan bought for another year or more.

Mr. Dennison, in an interview with a Times reporter before he left New York for Seattle, said:

"Japan has gained much more than she went to war for. The three essential points were the evacuation of Manchuria, the return of Port Arthur to China, and the withdrawal of Russia from Korea."

"What do you think is the value of the railways transferred by Russia to Japan?" was asked.

"That is a difficult question to answer offhand," was the reply, "but I must estimate their value roughly at $150,000,000."

"What is the value approximately of the Yantan and Fushan coal mines?"

"I cannot say positively," said Mr. Dennison, "but I should think they are worth anything from $250,000,000 upward. The Liao-Tung peninsula, with the ports of Daini and Port Arthur, upon which the Russians have expended so many millions, are very valuable, and will be rapidly developed by Japanese trade and enterprise. The southern half of Sakhalin contains valuable mines and has very rich fish fisheries on its coasts."

In speaking of the value of the fishing concessions ceded by Russia in the new treaty, E. Yamaza, director of the political bureau in Tokyo, said:

"The fisheries along the Russian maritime provinces teem with salmon, salmon trout, herring and cod. Three years ago Russia made a provisional regulation by which the fisheries of a large part of the Russian coast were closed to foreign fishermen. A yearly license was granted to Japanese fishermen which allowed them to fish off the southern end of Sakhalin only, and out of this the trade amounted to $1,000,000. Of the Kamchatka coast the fishing is reported to be phenomenal in its abundance. Under the new concessions the Japanese fishing trade should develop rapidly and be worth $10,000,000 a year in a very short time."

As to the control of the railroads in Korea and the Liao-Tung peninsula, Mr. Yamaza said:

"Japan now operates the Trans-Korean railway from Fusan to Wiju to Mukden, the Eastern Chinese railway from Kwang-cheng-Tse to Port Arthur and Daini, branch lines from the main line to the coal mines of Fushan and Yenfa. There is a concession for a new line from Mukden to Sing-min-Tung, a distance of thirty miles, to join the Chinese Imperial railway from Tien-Tsin, and the concession for the line to Kirin from Kwang-cheng-Tse about 100 miles; also the line from Niu-Chwang to the main line to Port Arthur."

The Chinese government nominally operates its own lines, but these will come under Japanese direction, in order to facilitate the handling of the joint systems and the through traffic.

The Japanese government has been backing China up in her attempt to get back the concessions of the Canton-Hankow and Hankow-Peking railways.

Originally the Belgians had the concession to build the Hankow-Peking railway, and the line from Hankow to Canton was to be constructed by the American-China Development company. Finding later that Russian and French capital was at the back of the Belgian concession, Japan wanted the concession returned to China. Recently the American syndicate sold back its Canton-Hankow concession to China, after building twenty miles of the road.—New York Times

LINEVITCH IN LUCK

EXPERTS THINK HE WOULD HAVE SUFFERED DEFEAT.

Belief of American Railroad Men That the Siberian Line Was Inadequate to Supply Enormous Demands of Army Sufficient to Cope with Oyama

American railway men are of the opinion that Gen. Linevitch should thank the gods that M. Witte concluded a treaty of peace at Portsmouth. If he had failed to do so, they believe that Oyama would have overwhelmed the Russian forces in Manchuria in the great battle that must have followed the breaking off of peace negotiations.

The railway men base their conclusions on the belief that while Oyama had an army of upward of 600,000 men when the war ended, Linevitch had not been re-enforced.

It must be remembered that the Russians, to reach Linevitch, must transport everything about 6,000 miles over a single-track railroad, which has heretofore failed to handle its traffic satisfactorily under even the most favorable conditions. To the insufficiency of the road add the paralysis due to faulty management, and the Siberian railway would have been wholly inadequate to keeping an army of 400,000 men in first-class condition—still less to increasing its force and needed supplies.

J. Taburno, one of the Novoe Vremya's (New Times) war correspondents, has recently sent some interesting letters to his paper concerning the service on the Siberian railway.

Early in the war, when Viceroy Alexieff was in command throughout Manchuria, he traveled over the road a great deal. Having a great dislike to night travel the viceroy would invariably have his special train side-tracked for about ten hours every night, and as he refused to allow other trains to pass the station where he stopped, because they disturbed his sleep, whenever the viceroy was traveling the trains loaded with soldiers, provisions and ammunitions were held up during the whole of the viceroy's sleeping time.

According to Mr. Taburno all of the Russian generals insisted upon having special trains, which not only absorbed nearly all the passenger rolling stock and forced the soldiers to travel in ordinary freight and cattle cars, but also caused innumerable delays and blockades.

For instance, it is related that Gen. Gripenberg was supplied with a special train in which he spent much of his time. Finding that the special trains of other generals were fitted with electric lights put in. Later, while side-tracked only eight miles from the headquarters of another general, Gen. Gripenberg refused to travel over the well-paved highway, but made frequent visits to his colleague in his special train, in spite of the protests of the railway men against the necessary stoppage of traffic on the line every time these visits were paid.

Among other favored travelers by rail were a number of blooded cows, imported expressly to supply the general officers with milk. One of these cows when far south in Manchuria was ordered to the neighborhood of Harbin; and as the track was filled with trains carrying soldiers south and wounded north, it was found that the switching and hauling of this cow had held up the whole line for the equivalent of twelve hours. And then, owing to some mistake in transportation, another six hours was spent in getting this cow to a locality where she could be readily reached by the general's private servant.

In view of these revelations it is almost too much to believe that the single-tracked Siberian railway could be depended upon to keep Linevitch in equal numbers and efficiency to that of Oyama. And if the Portsmouth conference had definitely adjourned without having made a treaty, it is probable there would have been "something doing" in Manchuria.

NAN PATTERSON AGAIN A WIFE.

Nan Patterson, who was the central figure in the Caesar Young murder case, has been remarried to her former husband, Leon C. Martin.

Although she obtained a divorce from him in California at the time she met Young, Martin was one of the first and one of the few to aid her when she was in the Tombs.

The tragic death of Young, the arrest of Miss Patterson, which quickly followed, in June, 1904, and many of the developments which attended the case in its early stages furnished a series of sensations which attracted wide attention. Young was a race track follower, horseman and bookmaker, who had accumulated a fortune in a few years.

It was declared he had formed a warm attachment for Nan Patterson, a former show girl, and that to put an end to their intimacy Young's wife had prevailed upon him to go abroad. All arrangements for the trip had been made and Mrs. Young was at the pier awaiting the arrival of her husband when she was informed that he had been shot and killed while riding in a cab with Miss Patterson.

Although the tragedy in the cab was witnessed by several persons there was a wide difference of opinion as to whether Young committed suicide or was murdered. The man and woman had been struggling, then followed the report of a pistol, and when bystanders rushed up to the cab Young was dead, his head resting in Miss Patterson's lap.

According to her story, Young was downcast and despondent and said he would kill himself rather than leave her. The struggle, she said, was for possession of the weapon with which he threatened to take his life, but she was unable to prevent him from carrying out his purpose.

Two juries disagreed and a third ended because of the illness of a juror. The state then dropped the case.

NO GREAT FACTOR IN WARFARE

Balloons Have Yet to Prove of Value in This Direction.

The aeronaut who was illustrating to an Ohio gathering the value of a balloon in time of war as a means of attacking an enemy by dropping dynamite or some similar explosive from high up in the air only succeeded in accomplishing the complete demolition of his own balloon and the loss of his life. This suggestion for dropping explosives is as old as balloons. When the first ascensions were made with hot air it was predicted that in the future balloons were to play an extremely important part in warfare. Though that was along ago, they have yet to demonstrate their worth in this direction. They have been used with more or less success, less rather than more, we should say, for observation purposes, but even in the war between Russia and Japan it is admitted that the attempts to accomplish anything with balloons were failures. Possibly when airships are built that can be controlled far more completely than any yet constructed, they will be used for war purposes. The limited weight they can carry and the great restriction on their navigation make the value of even the dirigible balloon in warfare a question yet to be solved.—Boston Herald

EDUCATORS HERE AND ABROAD

Foreign Professors Better Off Financially Than Are Americans.

The official pay of the foreign professor at first glance seems absurdly small in comparison with the pay in American institutions. In Prussia, for example a full professor receives by law $1,000 (in Berlin $1,200) the first year, to be increased $100 a year every fourth year for twenty years. In addition he receives an allowance for house rent. This is, however, only the fixed part of his income. The honorarium which he receives from the fees of his students will vary greatly, depending on the subject taught, and the attractive power of the teacher. Incomes of $5,000 a year, and even larger sums, are received in the larger universities by certain well known men. Taking into account the fact that the foreign professor has a life place, that his widow and minor children receive pensions, and he is better off financially, and is far more free from the anxieties which come with modest income, than his American brother whose nominal pay is higher.—Henry S. Pritchett, in the Atlantic

Beauty a Matter of Personal Taste

Only General Agreement Is That the Power to Attract Is Unfailing Evidence of Its Possession.

"Beauty is a question for the blind to decide," remarked Aristotle when pressed for a definition. Later on he wrote a treatise on the subject, but the manuscript is not extant, and even if it were would we ever be made to agree on the subject of beauty?

Men like Hegel, Schelling, Fichte, Emerson, Burke and Gautier wrote philosophical volumes and essays on this topic—none of them agreeing however.

All the poets, the artists and the musicians of the world have tried to tell what beauty is, and only on one single point has a general agreement been made evident—the essence of beauty is the power to attract. As to the secret of this power all the world disagrees.

The brilliant Gautier says: "A woman who is beautiful is brainy enough; that is, she has the quality of being beautiful. I prefer a pretty mouth to a fine mind. I would give fifty souls for a single well-formed ance in northern waters having reached Yeddo, Kondo Juzo was sent to investigate. He visited Etoufuri Island in the Kuriles and there found that the Russians, true to the occidental customs of mediaeval days, had appropriated the unguarded territory in that region by the simple device of setting up pillars to announce its occupation. Kondo removed these witnesses of theft and on his return to Yeddo published a book dealing with the questions of Sakhalin (Karafuto), the Kuriles (Chishima) and Kamchatka. The gist of his contention was that the only tribunal to which international disputes about boundaries could be appealed was the tribunal of arms and that if Japan hoped to rest secure within closed gates she must take steps to define those gates.

"Now after the lapse of more than 10 years Kondo's foresight is to receive national recognition. Thus Japan is significantly pointing to the pages of history, where in clear terms her titles to this northern island are inscribed. She virtually announces her intention of not only recovering but also keeping."

Japan Is But Reclaiming Her Own

More Than a Century Ago Reconquered Territory Was in the Undisputed Possession of the Island Empire.

An Englishman in Tokyo, writing of the Japanese conquest of Sakhalin island, says: "What the Japanese mean by their present operations may easily be inferred from the nomenclature they are adopting. They have called Aniva bay by the name 'Higashi-Fushimi bay' to commemorate the destruction of the Novik by the Chitose and the Tushima, in the former of which ships Prince Higashi-Fushimi was serving. So, too, Patience point has been renamed 'Kataoka Misaki' and Patience bay 'Shichiro Wan,' in consideration of the fact that Admiral Kataoka Shichiro commands the naval expedition. Again, the two promontories of Shiretoko and Noto-ro, on the east and west respectively of Aniva bay, are to be called henceforth 'Juzozaki' and 'Kondozaki,' after Kondo Juzo, chief librarian of the Tokugawa government at the close of the eighteenth century. Dove of Peace, Driven from Home by Turbulent Scene, Again Hovers over the Charcoal Flats in Serene Content.

The white-winged dove of peace flutters and coos over Charcoal flats and hovers trustfully in the ambient ether where discord was wont to prevail. An armistice has been declared and the peace plenipotentiaries appeared before Recorder Fogarty yesterday morning, when the protocol was signed and the snow-winged bird liberated. But the dove of peace has a wary eye skinned for trouble, for it is feared hostilities will break out anew, despite the friendly intervention of his honor, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Maudy Gould, a dignified matron of Charcoal flats, some time ago caused the arrest of Bill Sims, Chink Sims and Sam Sims on the charge of insult and abuse, and this morning agreed to withdraw the charge because the aforesaid dove had put in its appearance.

"Are you willing to let these men

Gory Scene in Recent Popular Novel

Wayne of Ludworth's day was done, and Red Ratcliffe, with little time to spare if the oncoming Wayne were to be met, set his two feet firmly on the ground and tugged and tugged at the ax, where it lay in Wayne's big skull, and wrenched it loose in the nick of time. The strapping Wayne, lighter of foot than his kinsman, had outpaced him, and his sword was perched near to Ratcliffe, when at last he wrenched the ax-head free, and swung it high again; once more the sword was turned aside, lightly as with contempt, and foster-brother whistled as it cut the air.

"Shameless Wayne was close in now and made a desperate leap to save the lad; his fore foot lit upon a patch of offal in the road and he stumbled under the haft of the big ax as it turned and whistled down the wind and bit the strapping through the bone. Fair on the crown Shameless Wayne caught half the blow as it descended, and the haft, with thick steel at its core, was weighty—and like a log he rolled beside his fallen kinsman."

"And then the great ax fell and

Scatter the Kindly Words of Praise

Too Often We Wait Until Too Late to Bestow Our Expressions of Love and Appreciation on Dear Ones.

It's an easy thing to say it. And to say it good and strong. And to say it pretty frequent. For it helps a chap along. Oh, of course, you pay him money. Doubtless all that he is worth; But does money, man and brother, Represent the best of earth?

What's the good of keeping from him Any good thing you might say That will lift his load of labor And is something more than pay? If he's worthy of your praises, Do you think that he'll be slack?

There are some who think it's praisin' Not to raise a row and kick. And they'll pay an extra dollar To a chap that's extra slick; But it isn't that that heartens— It's the kind word and the thought For the deed done and the door. Out of which the good is wrought.

As when the weary pilgrim, Who has trod the long, hard way, With its profits and its losses Measured to him day by day, Hears the kind words of the Master, Like the songs of cherubim: "Well done, thou good and faithful!" It is Heaven enough for him. William J. Lampton, in The Sunday Magazine.

HAND-TO-HAND FIGHT WITH LION

South African Dutchman Lucky to Live to Tell the Tale.

Martin Drew of W'Putezen, South Africa, writes as follows to a friend of a recent happening in that vicinity: "A chap named De Beer of Shiloh was walking down from the Bubb river. He slept just this side of the Bembesi. Shortly after sunrise he started to walk on, leaving his boy to pack up and follow. He hadn't gone half a mile when he heard a lion grunt behind him. Turning, there was a lioness about fifty yards away and she came on to within about twenty paces. Then he let her have it, breaking her lower jaw. She charged and the next shot broke one front leg. The third, at close quarters, missed her altogether. The lioness got De Beer down and his left hand and arm, with which he was trying to guard his face, were much bitten. She got hold of his hand with her back teeth and chewed it badly, but her jaw and front leg being broken she could not finish him off. He had a little terrier dog with him, and the dog, about this time, fastened into the lioness' ear and hung on. This made the brute shift a little and DeBeer was able to get hold of his rifle with his right hand. He shot her through the chest and she died on top of him with his left hand still in her mouth. The natives made some 'medicine' and tied his wounds up. He walked on here and after we had done what we could for him he went on home. The poor chap is terribly torn about, but no bones are broken, although his clothes were ripped to rags."

A medical man humorously relates the following little experience, admitting that he "didn't think it particularly funny at the time."

The driver on a bus on which he had jumped happened to mention the name of one of his patients.

"It's a bad job about poor Bill X, ain't it, sir?"

"Yes," returned the doctor. "Very serious case. You know him, then?"

"Know him," echoed the driver. "We went to school together. Poor Bill! I shall miss him!"

"O, well, while there's life, there's hope, y' know," said the doctor. "Your friend isn't dead yet."

"No," gloomily returned the driver. "But I heard they'd called you in this morning. Poor Bill!"—Glasgow Evening Times.

Great Revival of Buddhism.

"Der Buddhist," the German organ of Buddhism, gives an interesting account of the revival of this ancient religion. The study of the Pali, it says, has revealed to educated men in the western world the hidden stores of Buddhism, which soon began to exert a constantly growing influence on western thought, having found the ground prepared by the philosophy of Schopenhauer.

This revivification of Buddhist ideas reacted powerfully on the orient, and newly founded societies, schools and newspapers in Buddhist Asia are proving that fresh vigor has found its way into the old tree. The revival is especially noticeable in Ceylon and India.

Tailors Official Matchmakers.

Of all the national types of Britain the matchmaking tailors are the most distinctive. These really hold in affairs matrimonial an official position for, just as in ancient times, it falls to them to act as intermediaries between swains and maidens, to defend the suitor's interests in the marriage settlements and to act as master of ceremonies at the wedding festivities. "Bazalan" is the title that this functionary goes by in token of his carrying, when on sentimental business, a flowering sprig of that shrub called "broom," which is regarded as emblematic of love and union.

Benefit in Change of Work.

Congenial work with mind and hands should be encouraged in all persons, for its preventive as well as its curative influences. Rest will prove serviceable doubtless in numerous cases, but, says the Medical World, its application should be restricted and carefully studied. There are many conditions where absolute rest will not only prove useless, but really harmful. To send a man from an active business life to one of complete inactivity will often prove disastrous, as much so as to proscribe all food for the obese.

Elder Holmes' Advance Dates.

It was the custom forty years ago to hold services every second Sunday in the Baptist church at Newport, N. H. Elder Holmes was the minister, and it is reported that one of his Sunday morning notices was delivered from the pulpit as follows: "Two weeks from to-day services for divine worship will be held in this edifice, the Lord willing; and two weeks later, whether or no."

The First Requisite.

Many of the world's best inventions have been accidental in a great measure. Most of the other revolutionary discoveries in all fields have come from a carefully studied meeting of conditions with a carefully studied solution of the problem. The monumental failures in the world of inventions have come about through the inventor's allowing himself to forget the first principle of the necessity for his appliance in his abstracted determination to "make the thing work."

Two Thousand Shots a Minute.

A new death-dealing instrument has been invented. A Lithuanian gentleman, M. Feodor Troitz, has contrived a gun, worked by electricity, which will fire from 4,000 to 12,000 shots a minute. The range of this new weapon is three miles, and its destructive power, if all claims on its behalf are genuine, should put in the shade such trivial toys as magazine rifles. The gun only requires one man to work it.

INVENTIONS AND IMPROVEMENTS

For Keeping Food Hot.

A recent English invention is the heater shown in the illustration. It is a very simple affair, consisting only of a rectangular piece of metal on four legs, underneath which is an alcohol lamp arranged so as to heat the metal evenly. This is very useful, not only for heating plates, but for keeping hot tea and coffee and all kinds of foods. Like all alcohol lamps of recent make the burner can be regulated so that the metal stand may be heated to any degree desired. The heat is not strong enough under any conditions, however, to cook with, but foods that are to be served very hot may be kept at the right temperature for an indefinite time. The heater is made in either copper or nickelware and makes a very pretty addition to either sideboard or serving table.

Metallic Tantalum.

Metallic tantalum, which is of such interest at the present time, was first prepared by Dr. Werner von Bolton by submitting tantalum tetroxide to an alternating electric current in a vacuum tube, the metal separating at the cathode. In a later process, a mixed salt of tantalum fluoride and potassium fluoride is reduced by potassium, and the resulting mixture of pure metal and oxide is separated by fractional distillation. The metal is so ductile that it can be drawn into a wire 1-800 of an inch in diameter. Mixed with unaltered oxide, it becomes harder than the diamond and tougher than the best steel, and at moderate cost it would be the ideal battleship armor. As a lamp filament, tantalum uses only half as much current as carbon for the same light. A peculiarity of tantalum is that it sometimes assumes the passive state, and a cell of two electrodes of this metal, with sulphuric acid as electrolyte, will not allow an alternating current to pass. Substituting platinum for one electrode, the current can pass in one direction only.

Smooth Electric Light Bulb.

The little point on the end of an electric light bulb must vanish. It is small, to be sure, but it sticks out just enough to cause considerable breakage and if accidentally struck by a person it is almost sure to cause

Concrete Railroad Ties.

Millions of dollars are invested in wooden railroad ties in this country. The wood is getting high and something cheaper must be found. Concrete offers a solution and many concrete ties are in use throughout the Northwest, but they do not give the same resiliency as wood, and good devices for holding the rails firmly are lacking. A concrete tie designed by H. E. Percival of Houston, Texas, is a solid tie, no steel being exposed anywhere, and it has a special variable cross section in order to keep it from becoming center bound, and thus liable to unequal settlement. The inventor states that the shape must be such as to distribute the eccentric pressure, which he claims to have done in this tie by cutting away the center for 4 feet, making it V-shaped. The ends are made oval, to give a much wider bearing, for the distance of 2 feet at each end. The dimensions of the tie are 8 feet length, 9 1/2 inch face and 9 inches in depth. He also claims that the form of the tie makes it a "self-tamper," and thus easy to maintain. Under each rail is a 2x9x14 inch wood cushion, which has been previously treated by wood preserver, and it is made in such shape as to readily give to the pressure as a train passes over. The rails are fastened to the tie by a screw pin ten inches long and 3/4 inch in diameter. This spike passes through the wooden cushion and screws down into a socket in the tie, filled with a composition of galvanized steel and babbitt metal. The ties are reinforced with corrugated iron bars.

There is talk of holding a musical convention at Stockbridge in the near future. Bro. Hall, of the Sun, thinks of taking to the tall timber until after the event is pulled off, unless the managers of the proposed convention succeed in securing the services of a capable leader for the musicians.

The five great states of the middle west—Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa and Minnesota—will exercise, it is said, a more potent influence in the coming congressional legislation than ever before in their history, because they will have the most important committee representatives dealing with the leading topics—tariff, reciprocity, railway rate control, foreign trade, Panama canal legislation, foreign shipping and federal appropriations.

Beginning with the issue of September 22, 1905, the American Economist will supply its readers with a series of charts in supplement form, illustrating in convenient form facts and conditions attending the phenomenal progress of the United States from the foundation of the Government to the close of the fiscal year 1906. The information and data embodied in these charts are so arranged as to make them useful for future reference.

Jay Cook, of Indiana, who leased the fair grounds at Ann Arbor, last week, to put on horse races, left that city Thursday night without paying the purses for the races of Thursday. The races were the best ever pulled off in Ann Arbor, but failed to attract big crowds. When the horsemen learned that the manager had left for parts unknown, they commenced shipping their stock to other points and the speed program for Friday was abandoned.

Indications are that the gathering of governors in Washington, on November 30, will bring together the largest number of state executives ever known in the country's history. Thirty of them already have signified their intention of being in Washington on that day. The reason for this remarkable gathering is to inaugurate a movement to change the date of the presidential inauguration. A later date than March 4, one more agreeable to sightseeing and pageantry is desired. The date of Washington's first inauguration, April 30, is the one most favored.

The Chelsea schools have become so crowded, that the School Board has been unable to find suitable quarters for all students who are in attendance at the public schools. At present the list shows an enrollment of 419, and this number will increase when the spring term opens. In order to solve the present crowded conditions, the board has decided to convert the building formerly used as a wood house, into a room suitable for one of the lower grades. The building is 18x36 and the expense will be about $275. In the high school building a partition between the rooms now occupied by the third and sixth grades, is to be removed, and several other improvements will be made. The contemplated changes will give the schools eleven session and two recitation rooms and the chemical laboratory, which is located in the basement.

REAL THING IN AIRSHIPS.

Greek Invents One Which Can Run Against Wind—New Vessel to Oppose Contrary Currents.

London.—A new airship, the invention of a Greek named Marinakis, which has been patented in the United Kingdom and the British colonies, and which has obtained the favorable opinion of several British experts, is to be tried soon before representatives of the war office.

One of the many difficulties connected with navigation of the air has been the inability of airships to oppose contrary currents. Marinakis considers that he has surmounted this difficulty. His vessel is so constructed that a current of air which otherwise would interfere with the desired course of the ship is broken up, deflected and caused to pass alongside thereby more or less nullifying the pressure of side currents.

The salient point of the invention is the tractor, which is placed in the front part of the airship, where it does the double duty of propulsion and steering. It can be driven by any motive power, being composed of four or more arms equal to or longer than half the diameter of the airship.

The object of this arrangement is to protect the front part of the ship from the influence of wind. Blades of proportionate size are placed so as to move the airship forward whilst protecting its side from the wind.

Attached to the tractor is a wind guard of ingenious character. The airship is steered by the varying direction of the vertical axis on which the tractor is curved. The motor is placed at the rear. The airship has a long, cylindrical body.

FIND GHOST IS A BIG OWL

Posse Lays in Wait for Supposed Apparition—Wring Spook's Neck.

Pelham, N. Y.—Reports have been circulating for weeks that there are ghosts in the neighborhood of the New York and Westchester Water company's pumping station in Pelham. Men and women and children have been afraid to venture out after dark in Wolf's lane. In days gone by several persons took their lives in this vicinity, and this added much strength to the ghost story.

Finally a posse was organized to run down the ghost. For hours the party secluded themselves on the property of James D. Connor, secretary of the Martinez Cigar company, and waited for the apparition. It was two o'clock in the morning when the ghost finally made its first "chirrup." It was a weird noise and sounded like the groans of a dying person. At first several members of the posse were frightened, but, regaining their nerve, decided to run down the ghost.

It was then discovered that a screech owl with a cracked voice was the ghost. The bird was in a tree directly over the pumping station, and when the engineer let the exhaust steam escape it frightened the bird, which emitted unearthly howls. The posse caught the bird and wrung its neck.

HOT CHASE FOR WILD HOG

Fox-Hunting Grounds Are Scene of a Novel Pursuit for Vicious Porker.

Media, Pa.—Upper Providence township, in the vicinity of the Rose Tree Inn, the scene of many an exciting fox hunt, had a diversion in the shape of a chase after a hog, which, escaping several months ago, had become almost as wild as its South American cousin.

The animal has been creating depredations in the valley between Crum and Ridley creeks for several weeks, destroying gardens and young trees, sleeping in the woods in the daytime, where it has several times pursued children who happened to disturb it.

During the past few days it has been feasting on corn from the farm of L. Z. Jenkins. The latter determined to capture the hog, and with Frank Malsed and several other neighbors and a score of dogs drove the wild porker from the woods. It showed fight, charging at the dogs until they surrounded it, and then ran for nearly a mile, turning at bay several times.

It was cornered finally in a fence corner and lassoed, fighting all the time with open mouth and gleaming tusks, which have grown unusually long. After much difficulty it was hauled to the pen of Mr. Jenkins, where it is awaiting an owner.

Need Better London. In their endeavors to get a "quieter," cleaner, safer and healthier London, the Betterment of London association and its auxiliary body, the street noises abatement committee, have succeeded in inducing the authorities to prohibit barrel organs in 42 roads, squares and streets in the west end, while 38 others are at present under official consideration.

An Artificial Face. An old soldier of 1870 has been going about Paris for 30 years with no features, eyes, cheeks, lips and nose, having suffered severely by the explosion of a shell. and in the evening at the M. E. church at 7:30. Several speakers from abroad will be present and the three churches are making arrangements to have the services exceptionally fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Everett of this place were very agreeably surprised on Monday, September 25. Their seven children all gathered at home to enjoy with them their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary. It takes over ten thousand marriage to make one golden wedding.
Add to this the fact that all their children are living and permitted to be present to celebrate their fifty-fifth anniversary, made the occasion a rare one indeed.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember this after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters.
S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy."
Bank Drug Store sells and guarantees them, at 50c a bottle.

When doctors fail, try Burdock Blood Bitters. Cures dyspepsia, constipation; invigorates the whole system.

KIDNEY SUFFERERS! HERE'S A GREAT OFFER

If you have given up in despair after trying other remedies for the cure of kidney and bladder disease, here is an offer that from its fairness will appeal to you. Try Cal-cura Solvent, Dr. Kennedy's new remedy for kidney, bladder and liver troubles, with our promise to refund the money if it fails to cure.

Cal-cura Solvent's wonderful power to cure diseases of the kidneys and bladder is the happy result of the efforts of that skilled physician and surgeon, Dr. David Kennedy, to make a medicine that would dissolve and expel from the system stone, gravel and uric acid. In this way Cal-cura Solvent not only cures the disease, but also removes all irritating causes. It is not a patent medicine; it is a prescription used in Dr. Kennedy's private practice, with uniform success.

This offer shows great faith in the wonderful powers of Cal-cura Solvent. It has cured thousands; let it cure you. All druggists, $1.00.

The summer girl upon the beach
Her shapely figure shows
In bathing suits of many hues
And elongated hose.

She's the life of every function,
She's the joy of every set,
And her hand is pledged in marriage
To most every man she's met.

But when the season's over
At the seashore and the glen
This dainty creature vanishes
Till summer comes again.

And you wonder what's become of her,
Your erstwhile summer maid,
Who in a big department store
Is shrilly calling "C-A-S-H!"

MISS BEULAH'S FROG POND

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"If anybody's name ever was a misfit, it's mine. Beulah means 'married,' and I'm an old maid—quite a little gray and almost 40. More polite, I suppose, to say, 'bachelor maid,' but I believe in calling a spade a spade. Whoever wrote that hymn about 'Sweet Beulah land,' ought to see what kind of land mine is—rocks and birch and that dreadful frog pond. I can't even make my little garden all in one spot, but have to plant tomatoes in one place and hunt up another for the squashes. They do look pretty, though, climbing over the rocks and it saves me the trouble of piling a heap of stones together and calling it a rockery. Ugh! how those frogs croak to-night; I could hear them a mile away. I wish it was winter and they were asleep in the mud." And Miss Beulah, drawing her shoulder shawl tightly, went into her lonely house.

She was said to have had a "disappointment." Amos Hathaway had "tied her and she had loved him," they must wait until he could make a little home for her, and he bent all his energy to that end. It was hard toil, digging and delving on a rocky New England farm. The dawn, with its flush of amber and pearl, meant potatoes to be dug, and the glory of the sunset told of cows to be milked. But at last Amos had enough for their simple wants.

"Beulah, dear girl," he said, "the little home is all ready."

"I know, Amos, but I can't come—I cannot, I ought not to leave father and mother."

"You are crazy, Beulah! I have wanted you for six years and lived and worked in the hope of it. It is this what has made you look and act so strangely?"

"Yes, you thought it was because of sister Emily, but that was not all. I knew when she died there would be no one left but me to take care of father and mother. I've tried so many times to tell you, but I never could—I cannot leave them."

"Then, you don't really love me, Beulah!"

It was a storm of passion and the turning back of the hopes of years, and Amos, in the bitterness of his soul, when all his pleading proved in vain, told her to go her way and he would go to come to him again. And away he went to the mining region of the northwest to make his fortune.

Beulah used to think of him winter nights when the wind shrieked in the chimney and rocked the old house. She had given the most devoted care to her father and mother to the end of their lives, and now she was alone. Her tiny house and garden were her main support, but lately she had been fired with zeal to strike out in a new direction and add to her income. The new trolley was on everybody's tongue. It was an air line between a large town and a city, and the little farming hamlet where Beulah lived lay in its track and was waking up to its opportunities.

"Why can't I sell something as well as the rest and earn enough for a new dress," said Miss Beulah, tossing on her uneasy pillow. "I haven't any farm produce and I never had any luck with chickens. There! I've heard that frog's legs were good to eat, and I've frogs enough to fill up a regiment."

"Do it now!" was Miss Beulah's watchword, and next morning she took the trolley for the city and never rested until she had seen the general buyer for a fine hotel and engaged to bring a sample lot of frog saddles. Tired but triumphant, she came home

"I don't want to be engaged in a frog pond."

quick and dashed back into the water. "I'll have you yet," she cried, and bending eagerly forward, lost her balance and fell splashing among the frightened frogs.

"Hold on, I'll help you," shouted a masterful voice, which thrilled her heart, and a tall, athletic man came resolutely toward her and lifted her dripping form.

"Come, Beulah—hold tight—don't be afraid—come with me."

"Amos Hathaway! I'd know your voice at the North Pole!"

"Yes, Beulah, I was waiting for the proper time in the day to call, and came around by the old pond. You know, dear, I vowed I'd never ask you to come to me again, but I've just said it."

"Don't say another word, Amos, until we get ashore. I don't want to be engaged in a frog pond."

Preferred "Coney" to "Long."

Capt. Prager of the North German Lloyd steamer Breslau was constantly annoyed on his last voyage over by a mischievous youngster, who shook the foundations of the captain's peace of mind till at last his patience gave out.

The boy had been hanging around the captain all day, worrying him with his naughtiness, till finally the skipper let loose the vials of his wrath.

"If you don't behave yourself, you," he roared with the voice accustomed to obedience, "I'll put you ashore on Long Island and let you stay there."

But he had not counted on the native American wit. As quick as a flash the youngster replied:

"Oh, captain, please, I'd much rather be put ashore on Coney Island."

And when they reached port the captain wanted to know why one should be preferred to the other for marooning purposes.—Baltimore Sun.

Capt. Burns Cured of Pea Soup.

The following was frequently told by Capt. Martin Burns of Bangor, Me., as one on him:

The captain was very fond of split pea soup, and before leaving port he always put in a good-sized stock of split peas. On this occasion, however, his negro steward got whole peas, and so the soup that the captain called for on the first day out was thrown away.

The next day pea soup was again served, and this time the captain, after having eaten a hearty meal, said to his steward: "Steward, that's the kind of soup I like; we'll have some more just like it to-morrow."

"Fo de Lawd's sake, cap'n," exclaimed the steward, "ma jaws am so tired chewing dem whole peas dat Ah just can't chem no more."

The captain never asked for pea soup again.

Same Old Plaintiff.

The Optimist—"Fine day, isn't it?"

The Pessimist—"Oh, I don't know. It's probably raining somewhere."

GOOD AND HUMOROUS EXCUSE.

Debtor Really Deserved Grant of Extension of Time.

A prominent business house in Baltimore placed a bill in the hands of a collector, who, in response to a request for settlement, received the following in reply:

"My Dear Sir: Absence from the city prevented my writing in answer to yours of recent date.

"It will be utterly impossible for me to settle the claim you mention at present, for the very simple but good reason—I haven't got it."

"I lost every penny I had in the world, and considerable I had in the future, in a theatrical venture last September. Up to the present time I have not recovered from the shock."

"I think if you lay this fact before your clients they will not advise you to proceed harshly against me. From their past experience with my modes of procedure in days gone by I do not think they can recall any suspicious mannerisms which could lead them to suppose I am a debt dodger."

"I have simply been initiated into the Lodge of Sorrow, Hard Luck Chapter, Fool Division No. 69."

"My picture, hanging crape-laden on the walls of the Hall of Fame, bears the legend, 'Sucker No. 33876493.'"

"My motto is briefly: 'I would if I could; but I haven't, so I can't.'"

"Fortune may smile, however; up to the present writing it has given me the laugh. I have hopes."

"Directly I am in a position even remotely suggesting opulence, I assure you your balance will receive my very prompt attention."—Montreal Herald.

SHOCK TOO MUCH FOR BRUIN.

Hugging Bear Evidently Did Not Know the Summer Girl.

The great performing Russian bear had escaped from the captivity under which he had chafed for so many months; but he was finding that liberty had its drawbacks. For many weary hours he had prowled, but nothing in the shape of food had been seen.

Suddenly he gave a growl of delight, for, sitting on a stile, he espied a toothsome little lady, who was evidently awaiting the coming of a young man.

Bruin did not stop to ponder upon his good fortune; he seized her in a mighty hug. For a while she said nothing; but as he exerted more of his tremendous strength she murmured:

"I don't think you are quite so strong as you were, Gerald."

Then once more melancholy settled upon Bruin. He had done his best; but the young ladies of this country were beyond him.

With a roar of despair he retraced his steps to the menagerie, and gave himself up without a struggle.—London Answers.

Will Willing, Wind Weak.

Mayor Story, of Atlantic City, was condemning those Menhaden fishermen who dredge the Atlantic at points illegally near the shore for fish that is only used for fertilizer. At the same time the Mayor pointed out the difficulty of catching and punishing these fishermen. He said:

"On account of the sinful waste of good fish that they cause, we would be only too glad to prosecute these men, but the means to detect and identify them are not often at hand. We have the will but not the power to punish. We are like the trumpeter in an Atlantic City band."

"This man, a native of Germany, was practicing one night a trumpet obligato, but he did not play anything like loud enough."

"Louder, louder," said the leader.

"And the trumpeter redoubled his efforts."

"Louder, louder!"

"And he put on still more steam."

"Louder, louder, louder!"

"The trumpeter banged down his trumpet and glared at the leader with eyes that started from their sockets."

"It's all ferry vell," he spluttered, "to say 'louder, louder,' but vare iss de vind?"

Coachman as Collector.

It is related of Dean Gilbert Stokes that once, when influenza had incapacitated his verger as well as the two churchwardens, he consigned the duty of collecting the alms to a neighborly coachman.

"Take the what, sir?" queried that worthy.

"Take the offertory," explained the Dean. "The collection—the money from the people in the pews."

The coachman seemed satisfied and even pleased with his new dignity. But when the offertory hymn was half through a noisy altercation was heard in one of the transepts, and the Dean at once called the collector to the rails.

"Whatever is the matter?" he inquired.

The coachman, red of face and wrathful of eye, then explained. He was no half-and-half individual, and when a thing was given him to do he did it, and did it thoroughly. He said:

"Why, sir, there's two men in the best seats as won't pay."—London Answers.

The Gift.

Fate promised me my wish, and I replied: "Fortune for them who have no higher thought."

And thus for those whose souls may so be bought—But give me love, and I am satisfied."

And straight one stood there at my side.

A child of sorrow on whose face grief had wrought

Such misery as nowhere else is taught

For man's imagining. And then I cried: "Oh, fate, bestow these for thy guile!"

Thou sendest me this poor and sorry thing

When it was love that I had asked of thee"

WAS A REAL SPORT

OBLIGING CHAUFFEUR SURPRISED CONVIVIAL PARTY.

All Had a Good Time While Ride Lasted, but Driver Had Yet to Meet His Justly Incensed Better Half and Do Some Explaining.

"It's a big mistake to think that all dead game sports haunt Broadway or live in New York," said the returned traveler, setting down his glass. "You are apt to find 'em in the most unexpected places, and there is no mistaking the genuine article when you do run across him, whether in the Waldorf-Astoria or at Dinkville-on-the-railroad track."

"All of which reminds me of a little experience I had a short time ago in the city of Syracuse, which is located on the main trail of what the natives of New York call vaguely 'up the state.' I was one of a party of four and we had been doing the town."

"Coming out of the Yates house in the afternoon we spied a big automobile drawn up at the curb. The sight of it inspired us with a desire to continue the rounds on wheels."

"I object," said Mr. Tightly, one of the party, who was notoriously close in money matters. "They'll probably want about $5 an hour for that machine."

"After a conference we decided to offer $1 an hour. The driver, a big, good looking chap, sat like a sphinx on the seat, a cap on his head and big goggles over his eyes. It didn't take us long to make a bargain with him."

"The price suits me," he said. "Jump in and I'll take you anywhere you want to go."

"We chugged around to various points of interest within the corporation limits, not neglecting the irrigation stations, when some one suggested that we take a run out to a roadhouse. The driver knew just the place that would suit us, and he took us there."

"His judgment proved to be excellent. The place was a No. 1. We liked it so well that finally we began to order wine."

"Up to that time we had been content with the drink of the common people. The wine made us feel good and we asked the driver to have a drink."

"Presently the quart then before us was finished. The driver touched the bell."

"Another bottle, please," he said to the waiter, "and not quite so cold this time."

"Well, I'll be hanged," said Tightly, "we could get no further."

"We all expostulated with the driver and told him to keep his money."

"That's all right, gentlemen," he replied, pulling out a roll as big around as a spare tire. "I've made good money in the last week and I assure you I can afford it."

"After that we made him one of the party. When we returned to the hotel Tightly approached the driver with a five-dollar bill for his fare and a one-dollar bill for a tip."

"That's all right," he said cordially. "The ride is paid for. The fact is, I'm going to be a millionaire, the machine is mine and I don't need the money. Here's my card. Glad you liked the ride. I'm at your service any time you happen in Syracuse."

"When Tightly reported we took the card to the hotel and asked the clerk if he knew the owner."

"Know him?" he replied. "Why, every one in this town knows him. He is one of the richest men in Syracuse."

"When we told of our experience the clerk laughed."

"Just like him," he said, "but wait till his wife catches him. She was calling on some friends here and he was waiting to take her home when you struck him. She had to finish her journey in a cab."—New York Sun.

Passengers Without Money in Russia.

He was a Russian and wanted to go back to his native heath. So he dropped into the ticket office and embroiled Passenger Agent Charlie Miles in a debate on the reasonableness of second class rates to New York.

"Say, mister, please, you make it a little bit less, please, and to-morrow I come in and buy the ticket," said the subject of the Czar. "You charge too much. Sure, you can believe me when I tell you it is too much money I can travel from St. Petersburg to Manchuria for $15."

Miles explained that he had no discretion in the matter and would have to charge the established tariff rate.

"Please, mister, you make it a little less," persisted the prospective passenger. "In my country we do not treat a foreigner so. You have no money; you get on a train; you say to the conductor you have no money. Then you hand him 4,639 copecks, which is $2 in your money, and he lets you ride for two days."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Brook's Candidacy Not Favored.

Henry E. Brook, formerly clerk of the New Hampshire House of Representatives, has at various times been a candidate for public office. Some little time ago his son, a lad of six or eight years, was meditating upon the uncertainties of kingly existence, and at last he asked his mother:

"If the King of England should die, who would be king?"

"The Prince of Wales," he was told.

"If the Prince of Wales should die, who would be king?" he asked again.

His mother turned the question off in some way, when the boy, with a deep breath, said:

"Well, anyway, I hope da won't try for it."

LIGHTING LORE.

ACETYLENE EXCELS AS AN ILLUMINANT.

Gas for Lighting Formerly Confined to Cities and Large Towns, now in General Use in the Country.

The satisfactory lighting of suburban and country homes requires that the means used shall be convenient, safe, economical and furnish a brilliant, penetrating, effulgent light.

Everybody admits that these are not the characteristics of the candle or kerosene lamp, which, formerly, were the only feasible means of producing light for domestic use in the rural districts.

For generations there was a crying need, a yearning for something better, which was not satisfied. A few years ago deliverance came in the shape of the chemical compound, Calcium Carbide, from which, by the simple application of water, the gas Acetylene is derived. Acetylene meets all the requirements fully and admirably and is, being generally used.

Common lime and carbon in the form of coke or coal are the raw materials which, fused in an intensely heated furnace, make Calcium Carbide, and there is no difficulty in obtaining it in any part of the country.

The machine into which the Calcium Carbide is fed and from which the Acetylene is distributed through the building to be lighted, is but little larger than a thirty-gallon milk can, and of the same general form. It is easily and cheaply installed, either in the cellar or in an out-building.

The light from burning Acetylene is exquisite, and lighting experts agree that it surpasses all other known illuminants. It does not taint the air nor strain the eyes and is not objectionable in any respect. Every up-to-date rural residence should be equipped with Acetylene light.

ROMANCE IN LIFE OF HUXLEY

Great Biologist Possessed of Unknown Wealth of Tenderness.

Huxley, after steadfast waiting and earnest upward striving toward his life's purpose for eight years, came at last to the time when he felt he could provide a home for Miss Heathorn. With the thousands of leagues between them, she in Sydney and he in England, each had proved the other's fidelity and devotion. When Miss Heathorn arrived in England, Huxley was to learn from a famous physician that she had only six months to live. But he married her, and took her to Tenby, the beautiful watering place in Carmarthen bay. "Six months or not," Huxley had said, "she is going to be my wife." The devotion of the great biologist brought her back to health, and when, after long years of happiness, the Hand beckoned and the Voice called for him, he directed her to inscribe on his tombstone the touching verse:

"Be not afraid, ye waiting hearts that weep,
For still He liveth His beloved sleep,
And if an endless sleep He wills, so best."

Gen. Jackson Vine.

The wild grape vine on the shores of Mobile bay, about one mile north of Daphne, Ala., is commonly known as the "Gen. Jackson vine," from the fact that Gen. Andrew Jackson twice pitched his tent under it during his campaign against the Seminole Indians. This vine, in June, 1897, was reported to have a circumference of six feet one inch at its base. Its age was estimated at that time to exceed 100 years.—Scientific American.

GET POWER.

The Supply Comes From Food.

If we get power from food, why not strive to get all the power we can. That is only possible by use of skillfully selected food that exactly fits the requirements of the body.

Poor fuel makes a poor fire and a poor fire is not a good steam producer.

"From not knowing how to select the right food to fit my needs, I suffered grievously for a long time from stomach troubles," writes a lady from a little town in Missouri.

"It seemed as if I would never be able to find out the sort of food that was best for me. Hardly anything that I could eat would stay on my stomach. Every attempt gave me heart-burn and filled my stomach with gas. I got thinner and thinner until I literally became a living skeleton and in time was compelled to keep to my bed."

"A few months ago I was persuaded to try Grape-Nuts food, and it had such good effect from the very beginning that I have kept up its use ever since. I was surprised at the ease with which I digested it. It proved to be just what I needed. All my unpleasant symptoms, the heart-burn, the inflated feeling which gave me so much pain disappeared. My weight gradually increased from 98 to 116 lbs., my figure rounded out, my strength came back, and I am now able to do my household work and enjoy it. The Grape-Nuts food did it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

A ten days' trial will show anyone some facts about food.

"There's a reason."

THOUSANDS OF LIVES SAVED

By "Mother's Medicine Chest" and Patent Prescriptions.

Commenting on attacks made by certain eastern publications on some of the best known and most valuable of the world's proprietary medicines, the Committee on Legislation of the Proprietary Association says:

"All through the country districts, in every state of the union, you will find in the farm houses the old family remedies, sometimes called 'patent medicines,' many of which have been in use in the same household for generations. Among such people the old-fashioned proprietary medicine, always at hand with full printed instructions for use, is one of the necessities of life."

"To families in the country many miles from a doctor such remedies are invaluable. 'Mother's medicine chest' has saved many a life and met many a threatening sickness at the threshold and turned it out of doors. So far from constituting self-prescription, as is often pretended, acquaintance with a 'patent medicine' often obviates the necessity of such a step; for here is a prescription already made up, the effect of which is well known. One of the greatest advantages of such medicine is that its constant formula gives it the character of a single drug, so far as uniformity of result is concerned, and the people who use it know from experience just what they can count on—which is more than can be said of many physicians' prescriptions frequently obtained at a far greater cost and trouble."

Another Poetic Idol Gone.

One by one our old poetic idols are being shattered by the utilitarian and practical of the fin-de-siecle woman doctor. The latest iconoclast is responsible for the asseveration that what is so poetical in poetry and the novels about the whiteness of the skin means something not so poetical. It is due, she says, to the languor of the muscular tissues throughout the body, and the slowness and languor that was so often characterized as a charming feminine attribute is associated with indigestion and is therefore thoroughly unromantic. It is one of the ironies of life that women as they stand in literature and romance are not true to life.—Chicago News.

Apples Long a Food.

The apple has been eaten by man longer than any other fruit. The lake dwellers of Switzerland used to preserve apples by cutting them lengthways, and drying them in the sun. The remains of these dried apples, so large as to be evidently a cultivated variety, have been found among the pile-props of the island dwellings of this ancient race.

Six Doctors Failed.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 25th (Special)—After suffering from Kidney Disease for three years; after taking treatment from six different doctors without getting relief, Mr. J. O. Landeman of this place found not only relief but a speedy and complete cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills. Speaking of his cure Mr. Landeman says:

"Yes, I suffered from Kidney Trouble for three years and tried six doctors to no good. Then I took just two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they not only cured my kidneys, but gave me better health in general. Of course I recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills to others and I know a number now who are using them with good results."

Mr. Landeman's case is not an exception. Thousands give similar experiences. For there never yet was a case of Kidney Trouble from Backache to Bright's Disease that Dodd's Kidney Pills could not cure. They are the only remedy that ever cured Bright's Disease.

Ginger Ale with a Stick in It.

It happened in an uptown Broadway restaurant. He and she used to dine together every night in a quiet, domestic way, for they had only lately been married. She was a strict teetotaler, while he—well, he wasn't exactly. They drank ginger ale with their meal, but hubby, by a bid of a tip, inveigled the waiter into putting a good horn of whisky into his soft drink every night. All went well until one evening the wife was more than ordinarily thirsty. Finishing her glass of ginger ale, she reached over for her husband's glass, and before he could stop her she had taken a good average sip from it. She coughed and spluttered, gave the waiter a glance that froze what was left of the liquid, and the subsequent proceedings interested only the husband.—New York Sun.

NATION OF TEA DRUNKARDS

English Suffer From Complaints of Which They Know Not the Cause.

The public analyst of one of the London boroughs has recently been investigating tea inebriety. He states that, judging from the annual tea bill, each individual in England consumes six pounds of tea every twelve months. This means that the average person swallows 3.6 grains of caffeine and 9.7 grains of tannin per diem.

This is about half as much of the former and nearly as much of the latter as the pharmacopoeia allows as an occasional dose. When to these amounts are added the caffeine and tannin consumed in coffee and other beverages, it is obvious that the present generation of Englishmen is saturating itself with these two poisons.

The symptoms of this form of self-poisoning are seen frequently enough by physicians, but their cause is often overlooked. Many of the patients who suffer from palpitation of the heart, chronic dyspepsia, sleeplessness, emaciation and anaemia are simply tea or coffee drunkards.

Do Plants Throw Off Heat?

It appears that many do. A remarkable instance is offered by the alpine solanella. Its flowers actually bore, or rather melt, their way through the hard snow. Sometimes, indeed, the flower opens before it reaches the surface, so that it actually blooms in a little hole in the snow. Usually, however, it reaches the surface and hangs out its pretty violet bells above the snow, looking as if stuck into it. Growing through the snow is due to the heat developed by the vegetative process.

Black Sea Once Inland Lake.

The Black Sea, according to chronicles mentioned by Strabo and others, was once an inland lake, connected with the Caspian, till some catastrophe forced its outlet into the basin of the Mediterranean, cutting off communication with its eastern sister lake, which, indeed, has gradually shrunk, ever since, but, for awhile, may have flooded its shore lands far and near.

The kidney secretions were too copious and frequent, and very bad in appearance. It was in 1903 that Doan's Kidney Pills helped me so quickly and cured me of these troubles and I've been well ever since."

Scalp Humor Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment—After All Else Had Failed.

"I was troubled with a severe scalp humor and loss of hair that gave me a great deal of annoyance and inconvenience. After unsuccessful efforts with many remedies and so-called hair tonics, a friend induced me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The humor was cured in a short time, my hair was restored as healthy as ever, and I can gladly say I have since been entirely free from any further annoyance. "The will of the son of Henry the Lion. He is like his father—therefore women will do his will!"
The words were not spoken bitterly, but as a simple statement of fact. Joan looked at this woman and understood for the first time that she was the strongest spirit of all—greater than her father, better than herself. And perhaps because of this, nobility and sacrifice stirred emulous in her own breast.
"Madam," she said, looking directly at Theresa von Lymar, "it is time that you and I understood each other. I laid myself no true Duchess of Hohen-

JOAN OF THE SWORD HAND

By S. R. CROCKETT, Author of 'The Raiders', etc.
(Copyright, 1898, 1900, by S. R. Crockett.)

CHAPTER XXVI Theresa Keeps Troth.

But they had reckoned without Theresa von Lymar. Conrad and Joan came back from the ruined fortification, silent mostly, but thrilled with the thoughts of that which their eyes had seen, their ears heard. Each had listened to the beating of the other's heart. Both knew they were beloved. Nothing could alter that any more forever. As they had gone out with Theresa watching them from the dusk of the garden arcades, their hands had drawn together. Eyes had sought answering eyes at each dip of the path. They had listened for the finest shades of meaning in one another's voices, and taken courage or lost hope from the droop of an eyelid or the quiver of a syllable.

Now all was changed. They knew that which they knew. And now Theresa von Lymar, the woman who had given her beauty and her life like a little Valentine's gift into the hand of the man she loved, content that he should take or throw away as pleased him best—Theresa von Lymar met these two, who in their new glory of renunciation thought that they had plumbed the abysses of love, when as yet they had taken no more than a single sounding in the narrow seas. She stood looking at them as they came toward her, with a sympathy that was more than mere tolerance.

"You have faced the sunshine!" Thus she greeted them as they came. "Sit awhile with me in the shade. I have here a bower where Maurice loved to play—before, he left me. None save I hath entered it since that day."

It was a small, rustic, eight-sided lodge, thatched with heather, its latticed windows wide open and creeper-grown, to which Theresa led them. It had been well kept; and when Joan found herself within, a sudden access of tenderness for this lonely mother, who had offered herself like a sacrifice upon an altar, took possession of her.

For about the walls was fastened a dead child's pitiful armour. Home-made swords of lath, arrows winged with the cast feathers of the woodcock, crooked bows, the broken crests of a hundred imagined banquets—these, and many more, were carefully kept in place with immediate and loving care. Maurice would be back again presently, they seemed to say, and would take up his play just where he left it.

There was silence in the arbor for a space, a silence which no one of the three was anxious to break. For Joan thought of her promise, Conrad of Joan, and Theresa of her son. It was the last who spoke.

"Somehow to-day it is borne in upon me that Kernsberg has fallen and that my son is in his enemy's hands!" Joan started to her feet, and thrust her hands a little out in front of her as if to ward off a blow.

"How can you know that?" she cried. "Who—No; it cannot be. Kernsberg was victualled for a year. It was filled with brave men. My captains are staunch. The thing is impossible."

Theresa von Lymar, with her eyes on the waving foliage which alternately revealed and eclipsed the ruddy globes of the apples on the orchard trees, slowly shook her head. "I cannot tell you how I know," she said, "nevertheless I know. Here is something which tells me." She laid her hand upon her heart. "Those who are long alone beside the sea hear voices and see visions."

"But it is impossible," urged Joan, "or, if it be true, why am I kept here? I will go and die with my people!" "It is my son's will," said Theresa—

Joan rose to depart. Her intent had not been shaken, though she was impressed by the noble heart of the woman who had been her father's wife. But she also had vowed a vow, and that vow she would keep. The Sparhawk should yet be the Eagle of Kernsberg, and she, Joan, a home-keeping housewife nestled in quietness, a barn-dove fowl about the orchards of Isle Rugen.

"Madam," she said, "your word is your word. But so is that of Joan of Kernsberg. It may be that out of the unseen there may leap a chance which shall bring all to pass, the things which we both desire—without breaking vows or loosing of the bands of obligation. For me, being no more than a daughter, I will keep Duke Henry's will only in that which is just!"

"And I," said Theresa von Lymar, "will keep it, just or unjust!" Yet Joan smiled as she went out. For she had been countered and checkmated in sacrifice. She had met a nature greater than her own, and with the truly noble that is the pleasure of pleasures.

All the while Conrad sat very still, listening with full heart to that which it did not concern him to interrupt. But within his heart he said, "Woman, when she is true woman, is greater, worthier, fuller than any man—ay, were it the Holy Father himself. Perhaps because they draw near Christ the Son through Mary the Mother!"

But Theresa von Lymar sat silent, and watched the girl as she went down the long path, the leafy branches spattering alternate light and shadow upon her slender figure. Then she turned sharply upon Conrad.

"And now, my Lord Cardinal," she said, "what have you been saying to my husband's daughter?"

"I have been telling her that I love her!" answered Conrad simply. He felt that what he had listened to gave this woman a right to be answered. "And what, I pray you, have princes of Holy Church to do with love? They seek after heavenly things do neither marry nor are given in marriage."

"I know," said Conrad humbly, and without taking the least offense. "I know it well. But I have put off the armor I have not proven. The burden is too great for me. I am a soldier—I was trained a soldier—yet because I was born after my brother Louis, I must perforce become both priest and holy cardinal. Rather a thousand times would I be a man-at-arms and carry a pike!"

"Then am I to understand that as a soldier you told the Duchess Joan that you loved her, or that as a priest you forbade the banns. Or did you wholly forget the circumstance that once on a time you yourself married her to your brother?"

"I did indeed forget," said Conrad, with sincere penitence, "yet you must not blame me too sorely. I was carried out of myself—"

"The duchess, then, rejected your suit with contumely?"

Conrad was silent.

"How should a great lady listen to her husband's brother—and a priest?"

"It shall not be!" cried Joan, imperiously.

Theresa went on remorseless. "What said the Lady Joan when you told her that you loved her?"

"The words she spoke I cannot repeat, but when she ended I set my lips to her garment's hem as reverently as ever to holy bread?"

The slow smile came again over the face of Theresa von Lymar, the smile of a war-worn veteran who watches the children at their drill.

"You do not need to tell me what she answered, my lord," she said, for the first time leaving out the ecclesiastic title. "I know!"

Conrad stared at the woman.

"She told you that she loved you from the first."

"How know you that?" he faltered. "None must hear that secret—none must guess it!"

Theresa von Lymar laughed a little mellow laugh, in which a keen ear might have detected how richly and pleasantly her laugh must once have sounded to her lover when her pulses beat to the tune of gladness and the unbroken heart.

"Do you think to deceive me, Theresa, whom Henry the Lion loved? Have I been these many weeks with you two in the house and not seen this? Prince Conrad, I knew it that night of the storm when she bent her forehead on the couch on which you lay. 'I love,' you say boldly, and you think great things of your love. But she loved first as she will love most, and your boasted love will never overtake hers—no, not though you love her all your life. Well, what do you propose to do?"

HAS FOUND HER LIFE WORK.

Syracuse (N. Y.) Woman a Successful Electrical Contractor.

One little woman in Syracuse, N. Y., wasted no time in search for the aesthetic when she wanted a life business. Rose B. Richardson is her name, spinster is her state. She is the only electrical contractor in petticoats in the United States—anywhere in the world, it may be. Her list of customers is large, and she employs a goodly force of high-priced workmen. Miss Richardson enjoys her work, though it isn't one of the pretty occupations. "I'm in the business because I like it," she says. "I was the first telephone operator in Syracuse, and always had a liking for things relating to electricity. My brother-in-law wished me to go into the contracting business with him and I consented. He died three years ago, and since then I have run it alone. Several contractors have tried to get me to take them as partners, but I prefer to have it all to myself. Some persons hesitate about employing a woman to do their work for them, as they fear she could not make her workmen attend to their duties, but I have no trouble that way. I always personally inspect all the contracts I have after the men have finished. In that way I keep up a high standard." Miss Richardson is still young and is regarded by her acquaintances as one of the handsomest women in Syracuse.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound and imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Something in the Atmosphere.
Having to wait two or three hours at the railway junction, in consequence of a belated train, the traveler was taking a stroll through the Indiana village. "Let me see," he said, addressing a citizen at a street corner, "isn't there a house somewhere in this town in which a noted literary man was born?"
"Yes, sir," answered the native. "All the houses here are that kind."—Chicago Tribune.

Throat Coughs

A tickling in the throat; hoarseness at times; deep breath irritates it;—these are features of a throat cough. They're very deceptive and a cough mixture won't cure them. You want something that will heal the inflamed membranes, enrich the blood and tone up the system is just such a remedy. It has wonderful healing and nourishing power. Removes the cause of the cough and the whole system is given new strength and vigor

Scott's Emulsion

ANOTHER FREAK.
When Hiram Logan returned from his visit to the state fair last week he found a calf with only three legs, running around in his pasture lot. At first he thought that some absent minded person had stolen the other leg but upon close examination, he found that it was only one of Dame Nature's freaks.—Manchester Messenger.

ADJOURNED MEETING.
The adjourned annual meeting of the Washenaw County Bean Growers' association will be held in the court house at Ann Arbor, Saturday, September 30, at 10 o'clock, for the purpose of electing officers and a board of directors. The speakers will include Rev. W. L. B. Collins of Whitmore Lake, W. F. Morrison of Dexter and State Organizer Geo. G. Winans of Hamburg.

TWO MEN WERE INJURED.
The D. Y. A. & J. special on the electric road leaving Jackson at 12:45 p. m. last Friday ran into a threshing engine near Leoni at 1:10 and two men on the threshing were seriously injured. The twenty passengers in the car were badly shaken up and C. G. Strong, representing the Fairbanks Co. at Buffalo, and H. S. Osgood, of the Cotton Belt Lumber Co., of Chicago were unconscious for a time. Both men were found to be uninjured other than by the shock. The front steps of the car were ripped off and the vestibule smashed.

COUNTY FAIR.

The Hillsdale county fair will be held at Hillsdale, October 2 & 3.

RAISE GUILD HALL DEBT.
Rev. T. W. Young, D. D. of the First Baptist church on his return from England brought a gift of $6,900 from A. Q. Tucker, formerly of Ann Arbor, to be used to wipe out the debt of the Baptist Students' Guild hall. Mr. Tucker had previously given $1,500. The guild hall was established as a social and religious center for Baptist students in attendance at the university. Rev. Allan Hoven, Ph. D., now pastor of the First Baptist of Detroit, was the first student pastor. He was succeeded by Rev. Warren P. Behan, D. D. The property is worth $20,000.—Argus.

SHE DIDN'T DO IT.
One of our neighbors, a married lady, sent a note to a newspaper in this city to get a receipt to cure the whooping cough in a pair of twins. By a deplorable mistake a receipt for pickling onions was unconsciously inserted and her name attached and she received this answer through the "Answers to Correspondents." "Mrs. L. J. B.—If not to young, skin them very closely, immerse in scalding water, sprinkle plentifully with salt and, immerse them for a week in strong brine." She didn't do it as she thought it would kill the cough 19 times out of 20 and the children 9 times out of 10.—Tummech Herald.

Like Finding Money.
Finding health is like finding money—so think those who are sick. When you have a cough, cold, sore throat, or chest irritation, better act promptly like W. C. Barber, of Sandy Level, Va. He says: "I had a terrible chest trouble, caused by smoke and coal dust on my lungs; but, after finding no relief in other remedies, I was cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds." Greatest sale of any cough or lung medicine in the world. At Bank Drug Store; 50c and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

DANGER IN DELAY.

Kidney diseases are too dangerous for people to neglect.
The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined, headache, backache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills.

H. W. Garrison, of 1121 Shiawassee street, Owosso, Mich., retired farmer, says: "For many years I suffered severely with my kidneys, the pains at times being frequently so severe I could scarcely get up or down from a chair. The kidney secretions were irregular, distressing and annoying. I had also spells of dizziness and had to hold on to something to keep from falling. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and procuring a box I used it. I felt benefited after a few doses. My wife was relieved of similar trouble by their use and we cannot speak in too high praise of this valuable preparation."

Tired Nervous

When you feel languid, tired, nervous and irritable, your vitality is low—your supply of nerve energy exhausted, and your system running down for lack of power.
The organs of the body are working poorly, or not at all, and you are not getting the nourishment needed. This soon impoverishes the blood and instead of throwing off the impurities, distributes it all through the body. This brings disease and misery.
Feed the nerves with Dr. Miles' Nerve, a nerve food, a nerve medicine, that nourishes and strengthens the nerves, and see how quickly you will get strong and vigorous.
"My wife suffered with nervousness previous to a recent attack of typhoid fever, but after her recovery from the fever, she was much worse, and could hardly control herself, being exceedingly nervous when the least excited. She was very restless at night, and never had a good night's rest. She also suffered much from nervous headache. Dr. Miles' Nerve was recommended by a friend. After the first three doses she had a good night's rest, and at the end of the first week's treatment she was wonderfully improved. Continued use of Nerve has completed her entire cure."
1021 Cherry St., Evansville, Ind.
Dr. Miles' Nerve is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION CURED BY THE DODD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT
Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headache and fever. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.
The Dodd's Black-Draught is so successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong and drastic drug, but a mild and healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible harm.
The healthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.
Timely treatment with The Dodd's Black-Draught removes the dangers which lurk in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the onsets of Bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c. package of The Dodd's Black-Draught.
