CHARLES E. TOWNSEND.

A NATIONAL CHARACTER.

Our Congressman to Be The Man of the Hour in Washington the Coming Session of Congress.

The following article written by John Hubert Grouse appeared in the Detroit Free Press last Sunday:

Along time ago, that is to say, in 1834, when your father's father was young, a pioneer named Townsend settled on a poor piece of land, 14 miles west of Jackson. The settlers had come by ox-team, all the way from New Jersey. While crossing a swamp on the present site of Jackson there was trouble about getting a cow out of the mire. As the years passed Grandfather Townsend struggled for a bare living. The old man's son also lived and died poor, but the grandson is now suddenly prominent in national politics. From Maine to California newspapers are talking about the Townsend-Esch rate bill; and Congressman Townsend's smooth-shaven face is depicted, his views quoted from ocean to ocean. By many writers, he is called the man of the hour; the first lieutenant of President Roosevelt. Campaign managers cannot but blink their eyes in astonishment that a man still in his first congressional term should have shot like a meteor across the political skies. Townsend's level head, studious habits and common sense bid fair to make him a permanent success.

You might as well know, at the start, that newly-arrived congressmen are treated like little boys. During the first term, they are supposed to be seen and not heard. So the wonder grows about Townsend, who drew a seat in the "Cherokee Strip," the overflow section on the Democratic side. That, in itself, was supposed to put an additional curse on him. No one expected that he would do more than send out a few packages of seeds, get pensions for veterans in the Jackson district, and then drop out. That, at least, is the conventional program for newcomers. Or, if he really wished to do something, he could read a few paragraphs of a speech and ask leave to print. He would then find, in the Congressional Record, in solid brevity, which of course had been heard by no one.

Townsend, contrary to traditions, did none of these things. He found himself on the interstate commerce committee and was allowed to look after the rate bill. He made a gallant fight. He is now the accredited general in the great political battle on freight legislation, to be fought at the coming session.

These honors did not come over night. Long ago, Charles E. Townsend was working. Before he came to congress, he had read tons of matter on railroads. It gave the house a gasp of surprise to find out how he handled the subject. Even in a fight with veterans like Cochran and Thayer, Townsend more than held his own. As he spoke, members rushed from the lobby and the smoking room to see what the rumpus was about. When he got up in the Republican caucus and boldly demanded unanimous support, when once the bill was presented, the storm broke. Member after member tried to smash his arguments, but Townsend triumphed. He stilled the tempest, united dissenting factions, secured a pledge that the bill would receive the unfailing party support. There had been bills by Hearst, Cooper, Hepburn, Davy and others, but the distinction of presenting the rate bill fell to the new congressman from Michigan.

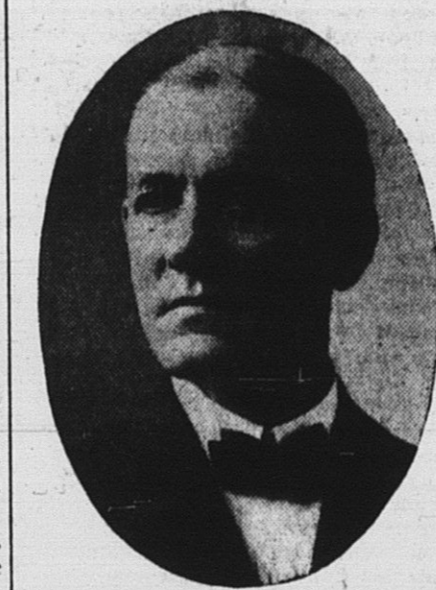

"Congressman Townsend is, I believe, in accord with the views of President Roosevelt," explained Senator Foraker, recently. "This is an age of incorporation and consolidation. It is also the age of regulation and control. The cry in national affairs is the regulation of railroads, secondly the regulation of babies, and last the regulation of football. It is my firm belief that unless football is regulated we shall have an unexampled era of free wool and raw material."

These jibes do not bother Congressman Townsend. "Your husband can take care of himself in debate," commented Speaker Cannon, not long ago, when calling on Mrs. Townsend.

Townsend well recalls the two-roomed frame house in which he spent his boyhood. Life was certainly simple enough. In those days mortgages drew to per cent. Charlie heard all about the mortgage for years. It is one of his earliest recollections. The Townsend mortgage was for $3,000. When the time came for Charlie to go to school, the mortgage loomed up. The brother didn't think much of Charlie's plan. "I'll go to school; you stay at home, work and pay the mortgage; when I get through I'll turn in and help also. When the old folks are gone, you can have the place; I want nothing but a chance for an education." That was Charlie Townsend's idea. The brothers agreed. The lads thought they were wise. Charlie went to school, but just about the time he got through, his brother died; and Charlie was confronted with the burden.

The Jackson school was fourteen miles from the Townsend farm. Charlie got a reduced rate on the "Air Line" railroad; went in the morning and came home at night. The last term he hired a room in town for $1 a week. Mother fixed him a basket of potatoes, a side of bacon and a can of preserves. Those frugal days loom large to Townsend now. He cannot forget them. Once a week he went out to see his mother and returned to town with his supply. He cut the beechwood for his fire on wintry nights; and he was his own cook. Was it hard, you ask? He never thought so. It was his only plan to get on in the world; and young Townsend always was ambitious. Seriousness was at the foundation. The man would make a good German student. He has that patient, plodding way. He regrets that he can't sing a song or tell a story. He is a patient plodder, and a good one. That resonant voice has done much for him. Always persuasive, often convincing, he will need that voice this winter, in congress; will need also the Townsend.

CONGRESSMAN TOWNSEND.

send pluck; all the Townsend common sense. Before him is the rate bill war, the national issue, with Townsend as the little Napoleon.

It was like this: Through the father's interest, Charlie was able to raise money to go to Ann Arbor. The note was for $200. He kissed his mother good-bye and away he went. He certainly was poor, very poor. He joined a club that "boarded itself." One student acted as steward, another as cook, others as waiters. Everything was figured to a cent. There was no more to it. He and his chum tramped the town over, looking for a hall room. The landlady told the boys that the heat would come in from the stove in the hall. You understand how comfortable such a room might be? To shiver in February and March, in Michigan, trusting to the mercies of a landlady who has a low

WILL ADOPT ENGLISH.

A Conference at the Court House Saturday Reveals a Willingness on the Part of all to Follow New Law.

Of the twelve parochial schools in the county, eight have opened for the year's work and all without exception have started classes in English. The other four schools have not yet opened, but it is expected that they too will comply with the provisions of the new law passed by the last legislature to the effect that the parochial schools must teach the English branches taught in the lower grades of the public schools. Several of the teachers of the parochial schools were in Ann Arbor Saturday to consult with Commissioner Foster in relation to the matter and all apparently feel that the innovation is a decided improvement and an advance along educational lines which is to be cordially welcomed and supported.

FRED MENSING.

Word was received here Tuesday announcing the demise that morning of Fred Mensing at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. W. Notten, of Ventura, California, in the 84th year of his age.

Mr. Mensing had been a resident of this community for the past 45 years, leaving here one year ago for a visit with his daughter at whose home he passed away. He was the father of nine children, three of whom have died. Six children, two sons and four daughters, survive him. Mrs. Mensing died in this place some 10 years ago.

The remains will be brought here for burial, and it is expected by his family that they will reach this place next Saturday or Sunday. The funeral services will be conducted from the German M. E. church, Sylvan, and the interment will take place in the cemetery conducted with that church.

Don't listen to any fake talk about pipe, bathtubs, lavatories, or any and all kinds of plumbing goods, but just come to me for lowest prices and satisfaction guaranteed. On account of the large stock of pumps of all kinds which I now have on hand, will sell for the next thirty days at greatly reduced prices. If needing one, it will be to your interest to call on, yours for business, Henry Gorton, Cummings' basement.

THE JEWELS RECOVERED.

GUILTY PARTY IN COUNTY JAIL.

Deputy Sheriffs Leach and Ferguson Place Robert Burton Under Arrest--Has Acknowledged His Guilt.

Deputy Sheriffs Leach of Chelsea, and Ferguson of Ann Arbor, placed Robert Burton under arrest Tuesday on the charge of stealing diamonds valued at about $950 from the residence of Homer C. Millen, of Four Mile Lake, on Monday, October 30.

The theft consisted of a brooch containing 24 diamonds and a stick pin. The family did not miss their jewelry until Saturday morning and during the day the proper officials were notified of the loss.

Officers Leach and Ferguson spent Monday and a portion of Tuesday searching the premises, and becoming satisfied in their minds that the coachman, Robert Burton, was the guilty party placed him under arrest. The young man acknowledged his guilt and told where he had secreted the stolen property.

The officers recovered the large diamond and twenty-three of the twenty-four that were in the brooch which the culprit had removed from the settings and had wrapped them in a cloth which he placed in an envelope and secreted near a large tree east of the residence of Jacob Bahnmiller. The box that contained the jewels was found near the ice house on the property of the White Portland Cement Co. There is one diamond yet to be recovered. The prisoner has been employed by H. C. Millen for over a year as coachman and is said to have been well acquainted with the location of the valuables about the house.

Sheriff Ferguson took Burton before Justice Doty, of Ann Arbor, where he waived examination and was bound over under $1,000 bail to the December term of the circuit court.

FOR STATE HOSPITAL.

The Committee Visited Two Sites at Dexter 100 Acres of Land.

The committee to select a site for the proposed state consumption hospital visited Dexter last Saturday. Two locations were called to the attention of the committee.

One is the Judge Dexter property which is offered for $7,000. This is right at Dexter village and a mass meeting at Dexter voted to ask for the location of the hospital there. The other location is Prospect Hill at Portage Lake, five miles north of Dexter, where Thomas Birkett has offered to donate 100 acres of land. This hill has an elevation of 100 feet and from its top one can see nearly forty lakes and Ann Arbor can also be seen.

The committee also recently visited Howell where there are several sites that the citizens of that place would like to have the committee choose from.

ANDREW BARTH.

Andrew Barth, was born at Hufenhard, Germany, October 9, 1905, and died at his home in Sylvan, Friday, November 3, 1905, aged 83 years and 23 days.

The deceased came to America in 1856 and resided in New York one year, removing from there to Freedom. For a number of years he resided in the townships of Freedom and Lima, moving to his late home from Lima. Mrs. Barth died in 1877 and their residence at that time was in Lima. The deceased was the father of six sons and five daughters, all of whom are living.

The funeral was held from St. Paul's church Sunday morning, being conducted by Rev. A. Schoel, and was attended by a large number of friends and neighbors of the deceased. Interment Vermont cemetery.

BESSEMER'S HEIR TO THE THRONE OF NORWAY MAY ACCEPCT.

SAGINAW SUICIDE'S APPEAL.

Among the Hills With Stolen Money and Jewels—She Was a Michigan Girl—Vincet Pays Up.

May Be a King.

Bessemer may furnish a ruler for the now vacant throne of Norway. Invitations have been received by ex-Representative Louis Munthe, from what is termed the legitimist wing in the Norwegian storting, to visit Christiania and establish his claim as direct descendant of Haakon V., the last independent king, who died in 1319. Mr. Munthe has been a resident of Bessemer for more than a decade. He represented the Gogebic district in the state legislature in 1891, being the only Democrat ever elected to the legislature from this district.

The legitimist party in the storting insists that the Norwegian throne shall be filled by a lineal descendant of the native royal line. It is opposed to giving the crown to any other. It was because of this stand that the invitation was sent to Mr. Munthe, who declares that he can trace his descent from Agnes Haakandotter, daughter of Haakon V.

Mr. Munthe is now an old man, and even the possible achievement of a crown were he to return to Norway is scarcely attractive enough to persuade him to make the trip to his native land. Should further opportunity be made upon him, however, it is possible that he might accede to a pressing invitation.

To Young Men.

With bed clothes wrapped tightly about him just as he had pulled them in last convulsions, George O. Feige, of Saginaw, was found in a room at the Grand Union hotel, where he had committed suicide 28 hours before. Chloroform and strychnine found on the dresser left no doubt of the means employed. On a stand near the bed was a note giving his name and asking that Henry Feige, Jr., of Saginaw, be notified. A letter written in a clear, firm hand and addressed "To Young Men," gave an inkling of the man's history. In it he says:

"I began to go in last company. My drinking and gambling habits became fixed. I lost the only good job I ever had. I was forced up for a time, but fell down worse than when I came. For God's sake, young men, stay away from liquor, gambling and women."

Fled With Money and Jewels.

Somewhere along the range of hills lining Lake Michigan north of Muskegon, Owen Comm, alias Louis Clarke, and his wife and child are believed to be hiding, having in their possession $15,000 of precious jewels and money stolen from along State street, Chicago, during the past three months by a gang of professional thieves. Comm and party left Chicago last Thursday, but sent a trunk ahead of them. The trunk contained over $7,000 in money and the rest of the swag was on the persons. Their trunk was carted away from the Goodrich dock at Muskegon by an old farmer. Chicago detectives are aiding the Muskegon officers.

Lived in Marquette.

Mabel Beland, the young woman who is featured in the sensational $50,000 damage suit for alleged breach of promise against John O'Neill, a wealthy Chicagoan, for whom she was housekeeper, is the daughter of Mrs. Stack, of Marquette. It is some eight or nine years since she resided there. She was reported to have married the widower of her sister, a man named Keister. The news of her breach of promise suit is a big surprise in Marquette on that account. Her mother's second husband is a locomotive engineer.

Vicious Convict.

An ugly convict, in Jackson prison, Wm. Hennessey, found a rusty old knife and with it he slashed convict John Kreling as he was passing Hennessey's cell at locking up time. The wound is across the breast in a jagged line and though not very deep it is feared blood poisoning may result because of the condition of the knife. There was no cause for the assault.

Hennessey was sent up from Monroe a few months ago for 15 years. Kreling was sent from Muskegon in 1900 for six and a half years for attempted murder and would soon have been released.

Hennessey has been placed in a dungeon, awaiting the result of Kreling's wounds before a determination of his punishment. Kreling is no worse, but is closely watched by the prison physician.

Commissions for the members of the new state tax commission are as follows: R. H. Shields, Houghton, term expires Jan. 1, 1909; W. H. Hoyt, of Plymouth, holds office till 1911, and the term of James H. Thompson, of Ewart, expires in 1912.

After 48 years Horace Bond has returned to his old home at Lawton to meet Harvey. "Did you get the sassafras?" When 12 years old Bond was sent by his aunt to gather sassafras. He ran away and stayed with Harper a week and was then afraid to go back, so he ran away to sea. This is his first visit to his boyhood home.

ODESSA'S BLOODY HORROR IS APPALLING IN RESULTS.

NUMBER KILLED IS NOT KNOWN.

The Fury of the Mob Only Ceased From Absolute Exhaustion—There Were Nearly 6,000 Maimed and Wounded.

Unequalled Mob Ferocity.

Owing to the mobs being satiated with two days' carnival of murder and destruction by flame, the revolt against law and order in Odessa began dying down on Saturday, partially, perhaps, because of lack of material upon which to prey. Almost the entire Jewish quarters of Moldavanka, Slobodka and Bugaiovka are devastated and their inhabitants have either been killed or wounded or have sought refuge in other sections of the town. It is impossible to ascertain the number of persons killed. Up to Saturday morning 5,657 wounded persons were reported to have been taken to the hospitals. The whole fury of the mobs was directed unchecked against the Jews. During the first demonstration over the emperor's manifesto and the sudden acquisition of "freedom" tens of thousands of men who had hated the Jews through generations became drunk with the desire for Jewish blood, swarmed into the Jewish sections of the town and killed for the very joy of killing.

In some instances the military aided instead of prevented the work of vengeance and fury which culminated Saturday in the quarters mentioned. Every Jew, man, woman or child, who was caught was slaughtered. The methods employed in the work of butchery were too revolting for description. Before the morning's dawn the material had become exhausted and the men who had for the moment become beasts, left the wrecked sections of the city, and though sullen, were easily driven back before the rifles of the infantry.

A trip of investigation over the Jewish quarters confirmed the stories of horrors and devastation. Some bodies, mutilated, of women and children were still unremoved from the deserted streets. The shops were closed and in the wrecked houses broken furniture was lying everywhere in heaps.

At the beginning of the massacre, the students' militia rendered some assistance and saved many lives, but the police, it is said, disarmed the students and even in some cases shot them with their own revolvers.

Witte's Problem.

The helm and the Russian ship of state is beginning to right itself. Gradually the disorder that followed the promulgation of the constitution giving the people liberty is being put down.

The premier has met the immense difficulties confronting him and the pressure of the demands of the different classes of society with the energy and sincerity that are more and more giving to him the support of the moderate liberals, who have been frightened by the carnival of disorder into which the country has been plunged and the inordinate demands of the proletariat under the leadership of the "reds" and social democrats.

Freedom of the press and general amnesty, except for crime, have followed each other, but Count Witte has steadily refused to yield to the demand for the organization of a national guard on the ground that it would be equivalent to arming the social democrats to fight and destroy the whole government between midnight and morning.

A Sleeping Swimmer.

Deserting his bed for two hours or more, at least twice a week, and then denying that he had been absent at all, caused Mrs. Gabriel Jackson of English, Ind., to become suspicious of her husband and led her to have her brothers "keep an eye upon him."

Last night Gabriel slipped out as usual and was followed watchfully by his brothers-in-law while he traveled more than a mile to his father's "swimming hole" upon his father's farm, where he dived himself of his clothing and swam to and fro across the pond three or four times. When he emerged he carefully redressed and then returned home and to bed, in the morning he knew nothing of the occurrence till told of it, and could not believe it till brought to the scene and shown the footprints in the sand. The queer part of it is that Jackson was not known to be a somnambulist, though he had been thus afflicted in childhood.

"Please do not say that the family deeply mourn for their dead. For years he has been husband and father only in name. For affection given, only blows and curses have been received in return. It is better for him that he is dead and better for us. Now that the long, dark chapter is ended, do not make us hypocrites by publishing that which is not true." So declared the wife and family of the late William Clarke, of Muscatine, Ia., when reporters called to get his obituary. He died of delirium tremens.

Secretary Hitchcock ordered the dismissal from service of four clerks in the pension bureau accused of loaning money at usurious rates of interest.

A march of 400 miles, from Fort Sill to Fort Riley, Kan., is the stunt to be performed by light field artillery in the maneuvers which begin today.

The Rhode Island established a new speed record for battleships of her class, on her official standardization trial trip over the mile course of Owl's head, south of Maine. She steamed one mile at a rate of 19.33 knots an hour. Another mile was made at the rate of 19.27, while the mean time for the 12 runs over the course was 18.93 knots an hour.

PACKERS' RIGHTS.

Immunity from prosecution under the pending indictment returned by a federal grand jury several months ago, is claimed by J. Ogden Armour and the other defendant packers and agents charged with being promoters of the so-called "beef trust" in an additional plea in bar filed by Attorney John S. Miller, for the packers.

The new plea, which came as a surprise to the government, sets up as facts that when Commissioner Garfield of the department of commerce and labor investigated the beef packing business he promised the packers that in whatever testimony they gave with documentary evidence they voluntarily produced, the defendants should have the same rights, immunities and immunities as if they had testified under oath and compulsion, that their testimony should not be used as a basis for proceedings against them. Under this new plea Attorney Miller hopes to establish the fact that there was an agreement between the packers and the government that they should testify and produce evidence without being subpoenaed, or the oath being administered, but as far as immunity was concerned, it should be considered as if they had been subpoenaed and taken the oath.

The allegation of an agreement between Commissioner Garfield and the packers was a surprise to District Attorney Morrison and Assistant Attorney General Pugin; and it was said that Commissioner Garfield had been asked concerning exactly what occurred during the investigation into the beef business.

Germany Wants Trade.

Baron Speck von Sternburg, the German ambassador to the United States, who sailed for New York Oct. 25 from Bremen, said to a correspondent: "An idea, I suspect, is abroad in America that the changes in the German tariffs and the modifying agreements with other European countries were in some way directed against the United States, and that Germany desired to damage the trade of the United States. This I am glad to say, was never a motive with the German government, and the proposals that are about to be made are designed to increase the exchanges between the two countries and not to contract them."

Stole $25,000.

A sum of money said to be $25,000, en route by express from Hamilton, Mont., to New York is missing. The Northern Pacific Express Company, through several detectives, is trying to discover what became of it. The money was shipped by Charles F. Kelley to N. H. Harris & Co. for investment. Instead of receiving the securities he had purchased, Kelley was dumfounded to receive a letter stating that contents of the package upon receipt by the New York firm consisted of newspaper clippings. The seals were intact, however.

Whaling Vessels.

Eleven whaling vessels comprising, almost the entire fleet which sailed from San Francisco, have been caught in the ice of the Arctic ocean. They will not be able to get out until next July or August, and in the meantime their crews of 440 men must face the hardships of a winter in the north.

The telegram comes from Capt. H. H. Rodfish, of the steamer Wm. Bayless, and states that only this vessel and the schooner Monterey were able to escape. Most of the vessels now in the ice left San Francisco last spring and are not provisioned for a stay in the Arctic. Unless the boats are heard from within a short time, it will be concluded that there is no hope for their escape, and the government will be asked to send out a relief expedition to forward supplies to the imprisoned men.

CONDENSED NEWS.

A silver trowel, after being consecrated by the New York Masonic temple, by Justice Lodge No. 753, has been started on a journey to every lodge in the United States.

Mrs. W. W. Wilson, of Austin, Ill., has given birth to triplets twice within 18 months. Her husband is an Odd Fellow. The first triplets were named Friendship, Love and Truth. They all died a few months after birth.

William Schaus, an entomologist of Twickenham, England, formerly of New York, has presented to the National museum at Washington a 100,000 collection of over 60,000 specimens of South and Central American moths.

A shortage in the fund appropriated by congress to pay house rent for many American consuls will necessitate their going down into their own pockets or else resigning. Congress will be asked next session to increase the appropriation from $75,000 to $100,000.

Alaska will have a railway its entire length from north to south and giving communication with the outside world in plans which are being formulated in Los Angeles are being carried out. If successful the enterprise will involve an expenditure of about $40,000,000. The road will be nearly 5,000 miles in length.

Richard Hannibal, a negro bellboy, who died in Roosevelt hospital, New York, yesterday, is believed to have murdered Jacob H. Thompson, the New York editor, who was slain in his room in the St. James hotel several weeks ago. Hannibal was known to have plenty of money following the murder, and had a bad record. His throat was cut in a quarrel with a negro woman.

George Bently, of Huntington, L. I., pleaded guilty in Boston to a charge of using the mails to defraud and of being a member of the "Black Hand" gang which has been sending letters to wealthy persons demanding money under threats of personal violence. Bently is not an Italian.

Because she refused to let him inspect her lungs by means of the X-ray in a hunt for suspected tuberculosis, James E. Zook, mayor of Ballard, Wash., broke his engagement with Miss Rosa E. Grover, and has been sued by that young woman for $25,000 damages for breach of promise.

NEWS OF THE NATION

ROOSEVELT WILL HAVE A GREAT CAREER SAYS WATTERSON.

THE TARIFF FOR PHILIPPINES.

Conditions in Panama Please Mr. Taft—Alexander, of Insurance Fame, Is Now "On the Rocks."

The President's Career.

A glorious career for President Roosevelt as president of Harvard university after he leaves the White House is predicted by Henry Watterson. He said: "President Roosevelt will round out his career after leaving the White House as president of Harvard university. It will be a fitting and glorious termination of his useful life. He will be the greatest figure in the country as the head of the university."

It was suggested that Mr. Roosevelt might be renominated, despite his decision not to accept a second term; that in some circles it had been predicted that the Democratic party would choose him as their standard bearer.

"Stuff," replied Col. Watterson. "Roosevelt would not touch a second term with a 40-foot pole. I won't say why, and I won't give my reasons for predicting that he will become president of Harvard college, but see if I am not right."

Commenting on the continuous ovation President Roosevelt received during his recent trip through the south, the oracle of the Louisville Courier Journal started to give out an extended interview, beginning:

"President Roosevelt comes south claiming kindred; the south are a most impressionable people. Now go away; do you want me to say things I wouldn't say in my own paper? I want to go to sleep."

Curtis Tariff Bill.

Philippine tariff legislation will be one of the first of several important pieces of unfinished business brought to the attention of congress when it convenes in December. Advocates of free trade between this country and the archipelago are determined to see to it that the excuse of lack of time made last winter shall not avail at the coming session. The bill of Representative Curtis providing for a duty on sugar and tobacco at 25 per cent of the Dingley rates and all other imports free will be introduced again at once. Representative Payne has prepared a bill providing that all imports from the islands, including sugar and tobacco, shall come in free of duty, but that the tariff shall be 25 per cent on all other goods.

Good Progress.

Secretary Taft says he is very much pleased with the situation in Panama, which he said, he found, had greatly changed for the better since his last trip. He thought from what he had already seen that the work on the canal was progressing satisfactorily and that the work was now efficiently organized. He said he was happy to note the spirit of the men on the canal had improved and that the depression of five or six months ago did not exist. All of them seemed to enjoy life there and were interested in their work.

The secretary said he had found the sanitary conditions excellent and believed that by continuing the present methods yellow fever could be controlled, or at least its ravages considerably diminished.

"On the Rocks."

A dozen or more insurance financiers were assembled in a room just prior to the exposure of the affairs of the Equitable Life. Its president, Mr. Alexander, stood before them and pleaded for a change of method, and announced the course he proposed to take in case of their refusal. He could endure existing conditions no longer. They said, "I will ruin you." He replied, "I know it."

"There is a saying of the ancients. 'Let the man who has the fewest years to live be the sacrifice.' I am the oldest man present. 'You with your millions may weather the storm.' I shall go upon the rocks, but conscience will be clear."

This was said in a sermon by Rev. Dr. H. A. Stimson, of the Manhattan Congregational church, and is the first hint given the public that James W. Alexander is irretrievably broken in mind. He is all but hopelessly broken in mind. He is broken in spirit. His family name, which he revered above all things, and which since long before the revolutionary war was synonymous for honesty, integrity, fair dealing and uprightness, has been assailed and tarnished.

Tallow candles are being used in the city of Winsted, Conn., rather than gas, upon which a monopoly in the city recently raised the rates from $1.50 to $2 per thousand feet.

For ten years Mrs. Joseph McGenzie, of Ansonia, Conn., had been in the habit of looking under the bed for burglars. She found one at last one night and was so scared that she jumped out of a third-story window.

New York city has 4,014,304 people, according to official census returns, a gain of 577,102 in five years. Manhattan's population is 2,112,697; Brooklyn's, 1,358,891.

The operating knife dropped from the hand of Dr. J. W. Oswald, an eminent Chicago surgeon, Monday, while he was performing a serious operation in the Michael Reese hospital. It was handed back to him and again the nervous fingers could not guide nor hold it. He understood, and turning to his assistants was assisted from the amphitheater a paralytic. He is 42 years old and his condition is hopeless.

PURSUED BY WOLVES.

Surrounded and savagely attacked for three nights by a howling pack of two score wolves, emboldened by hunger, in a dense forest in Iron county, Steve Looney and Robert Sullivan, fierce assailants, and have returned to civilization from one of the most thrilling experiences reported by hunters or lumbermen in the history of the upper peninsula.

Looney and Sullivan, in cruising for timber, pushed their way far into the unbroken wilderness in Iron county. They suspected no danger from wild animals, and consequently were prepared with nothing but hatchets for the desperate attack made on them Wednesday night.

Lying by their camp fire, the timber cruisers were startled by the howls of the approaching pack. Nearer and nearer they came. The men sought refuge in the only course open to them—building an immense fire to keep the animals at bay. They succeeded, although the wolves came very near, making the situation more than desperate, until the animals drew off on the break of day. This trying experience was repeated Thursday and Friday nights.

CHARLES E. TOWNSEND.

fire in a stove, in another part of the house, was the position the lads faced. Townsend, the country boy, was strong. He didn't mind the cheerless room. On cold nights Charlie went to the college library and read till 9 o'clock, the hour for closing. Besides improving his mind, he also kept warm.

"Jordan" was the big fellow of the "Fresh" class. Everybody knew Jordan, with his red whiskers, Jordan with hands like hams, Jordan with arms like hitching posts, Jordan with a body as strong as a horse block, Jordan picked for the invincible hero on class day "rush." The crowd yelled Jordan and the "Sops" brought out Arthur Rood, and when Rood threw Jordan in the ring weren't there cat-calls from the disgusted "Fresh." Jordan's best man, had gone down like a fat nine-pin.

Just how it came about no one knew, but they began calling for Townsend. The maddened "Sops" sent in Bob Allen. Bob looked invincible; 6 feet 3; Townsend 5 feet-8. Bob's backers kept hallooing at Townsend, "Why don't you send in a man?" There were to be three trials, square hold, catch-as-catch-can, collar and elbow. They clutched and Charlie went on the defensive.

He was afraid to flinch up. He didn't know his man. "If he does that again," thought Charlie, "I'll throw him quicker'n chain lightning." The big man was a master, but Charlie also knew the tricks. Mobs of students were yelling themselves hoarse. A shriek went up when Bob went down and under. The next round, catch-as-catch-can, Bob was leaning forward like a game cock. Charlie, remembering an old feat, suddenly reached and grabbed Bob by the back of the neck, gave a vicious forward pull and Bob sprawled. Students were crazed with delight. Up jumped Bob and put up his fists. The hard-fought battle lasted many minutes. The college giant Bob went down. You couldn't have heard it thunder above the cheers of the "Fresh," the groans of the "Sops." It was the proudest moment of Charlie Townsend's life.

but naked, his face smeared with blood and dust, his hair disheveled, Charlie Townsend was the hero of his class.

His $200 gone, and out of funds, Townsend got a job as a country school teacher. He was now master of District No. 6, Concord. His plan was to work a year, save money and take up his studies. He hoped, within six or eight years, to complete the full four years' course. It is the way poor men go through college.

That vacation, he fell in love and married. University ambitions were now no longer possible. All he had was his salary, $40 a month. And there was still the mortgage. For six years Charles Townsend was a school teacher at Parma; salary, $300; then $300; finally, $300. He heard of a school superintendency at Jonesville at $1,200 a year. He drove over, saw three of the five commissioners and was promised the place. "There is no doubt of it," they said. "You are as good as appointed." The birds sang sweetly that week. Townsend and his wife planned what they would do with that extra $300 a year. It looked large. At last the letter came. "Another man has been appointed."

Charles Townsend always had an idea that you should go to the primaries, but never dreamed of holding office. One fine day he went as a delegate from Sandstone to the county convention. J. W. Townsend, the father, was temporary chairman. A motion was passed to make C. E. Townsend permanent chairman. Everybody looked at Charlie. "Get up," whispered those nearest. "It's a mistake; it's father." "No, it's C. E., not J. W." That's the way that Townsend presided at his first political meeting. Then someone urged Townsend for register of deeds, a job that had been held always by the Democrats. Charlie made a remonstrance. "Don't urge my name; I'm under contract to teach at Parma." An adjournment was taken and someone telephoned to Parma. "If Charlie wants to run he may do so; if defeated he will not lose his job." That settled it. Charlie made the campaign and was elected. He held the office for six terms. It was worth everything to him. Besides his salary, he did abstract work. It put him on his feet financially, gave him an opportunity to become acquainted with everyone in the Jackson district. His father had died in the meantime, and the mortgage again fell by inheritance to Charles E. Townsend. The interest had now been cut to 5 per cent. The day the mortgage was discharged Townsend drew a long breath.

Townsend had been reading Blackstone. There was a singular thing about the "Three C's." That is what the new firm was called. The "Three C's" were Charles H. Smith, Charles H. Blair and Charles E. Townsend. "We will keep out of politics for four years," the contract ran. "Our business is to practice law." The "Three C's" kept the promise. But early in the morning of the day the agreement was up Townsend ran for congress; Judge Blair went on the supreme bench of Michigan; Smith became a federal judge in the Philippines.

In his practice-friends think Townsend strong before a jury. His oratorical voice helps emphasize his arguments.

It is too soon to talk about Congressman Townsend's like work. Four years ago he was scarcely known 100 miles from Jackson; today his name is printed editorially and his views are quoted from Canada to Texas. The man is only 49. As the champion of the rate bill Congressman Townsend has a duty that will keep him in the public eye. The big fight is on this winter. He is preparing himself in every moment. Like the man who reads but one book, Townsend or the subject of railroads is a dangerous man. He has a splendid opportunity to become a national celebrity.

President Roosevelt will be steadier with Congressman Townsend by the presidential side. Townsend, the man of the hour, is no novice. He directed a large part of the last campaign for the rate bill; stood before the oldest, shrewdest men in the house and made clear the demands of his party. He knows railroad problems, has the history and operation of the interstate commerce commission at his fingers' ends, is an exact authority on the statistical side. The movement is not, as Townsend explains, to determine how much the railroads are to make, but that they shall not take more from the people than the service is worth. A manufacturer of screen doors in Fenton, Mich., is charged much more for shipping goods into New England than his eastern competitor pays for sending the same products into Michigan. The railroads dwell in large type upon a $33 rate to California; but they leave the surprised tourist to discover that the price home, on the same cars, is $52.50. Locomotives may be shipped to Yokohama for a lesser sum than to transport them 500 miles in the United States. Cotton goods can be shipped from Boston to San Francisco for less than half the cost of freight from Boston to Salt Lake City. Goods for Seattle and Spokane go over the same line and in the same car, but you can send goods from Chicago to Seattle for much less than you can to Spokane. Wheat can be shipped from St. Paul to the Harlem river for a lesser cost than the railroads charge for moving the stuff from the Harlem river, just outside New York into the city. Imported goods are carried from New York to Chicago for about 50 per cent of what it costs to ship competing domestic products from New York to Chicago. In brief, the railroads assume to say how the country shall be developed, and what cities shall be given the preference.

Congressman Townsend is not afraid of accepting the responsibility for heading the fight. If he succeeds, Townsend will be a big man in national affairs. Townsend, who is a hard worker, shuns the champagne-drinking, poker-playing set in Washington. In official life there men turn night into day, but Townsend doesn't live that way. He goes to bed early, gets up early and begins at his 100 letters a day. After that he is moving all the time. He says "I am glad to see you" in such a way that you believe him. The quality is rare. Townsend has it. The penetrating power of his offhand speeches is earnestness. The man is still much of a plain farmer. There is a homely suggestion of honesty in his ways. Hard work and good habits have kept him young. When coaxed to forget the rate bill, his mind dwells on hunting prairie chickens. He does care for pretty children. "Do the best you can" is his motto. Nothing ever happened in his life, he says, and he doesn't know what his life's work may be. He does each day what is before him. The future must look out for itself. He is a plain liver, will eat with relish corned beef and cabbage or chicken à la Maryland. He likes a story, but seldom tells one. There is something deliberate about him, restful and easy-going. His pleasant voice never tires you. Perhaps you will understand his moral force when you learn that the railroads do not fear Townsend. They know him to be a desperate fighter, but a fair one. They have discovered with alarm the sudden approach of a powerful enemy, but they discern also that the foe is worthy of their steel and will fight in the open.

THE ELECTIONS.

No more reassuring evidence of the political health of the American people has been manifest of late than the elections of Tuesday. All along the line the rank and file of American citizenship knew exactly what it wanted, went after the same with determination and landed the result by big majorities. Philadelphia, after years of apparent unthinking submission to a gang of plunderers, masquerading under the name of the republican party, which it had flinched along with other valuables, rose in political wrath and turned the rascals out.

In New York city the result has not been quite so satisfactory, but it would have been had the issue been as definite as elsewhere. With respect to the election of William Travers Jerome, who was elected district attorney, in spite of the fact that his name was on no party ticket, the outcome is all that could be desired.

Ohio has elected a democratic governor and in doing so has no doubt done well. Evil influences in the republican ranks have been purged therefrom and it will rise to the next occasion truly a Rooseveltian party.

YOUNG-BROESAMLE.

The marriage of Bessie E. Young to John H. Broesamle took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Louise Young, South Main street, Chelsea, Wednesday evening, November 8, 1905. Fifty relatives and friends of the contracting parties were present to witness the ceremony that united them in the bonds of matrimony. A dainty luncheon was served to the guests after the vows had been taken by the young couple.

The bride has for some time past had charge of the employees in the bean warehouse of the J. P. Wood Bean Co., and the groom is a well known carpenter, and both have spent their boy and girlhood days in this vicinity.

The young couple were the recipients of a number of handsome gifts. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. W. Leuz, pastor of the German M. E. church, Sylvan. The young couple will make their home in Chelsea.

COAL GAS EXPLOSION.

About seven o'clock Monday evening the family of Wm. Wolf had a rather unpleasant experience by an explosion of coal gas. The stove is situated in the setting room of the home and the pipe connected with a drum on the upper floor. It seems the gas accumulated in the drum apparently faster than it was torn to pieces by the explosion.

The top of the chimney blown off and cracked the remainder of the chimney so badly that it will be necessary to replace it with a new one and the various rooms in the house filled with gas and soot. None of the members of the family were injured. The report of the explosion was heard by a number of our residents who thought that some one was shooting a gun on the streets.

NEW PARISH SCHOOL BUILDING.

Tuesday evening at the closed of the last service of the Solemn Mission, that has been conducted by the Redemptorist Fathers, for the past ten days, in the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart, the members of the parish contributed nearly $3,000 toward the erection of a parish school building as a fitting memorial of the successful mission. The pastor of the church, Rev. Fr. Considine headed the list with a contribution of $500, and the parishioners pledging the remainder of the sum named. The new building will undoubtedly be erected on the property at corner of Congdon and Summitt streets. The Standard will in the near future give its readers a more extensive mention of the proposed new school building.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of St. Paul's Evangelical Church Society was held at the church Monday evening. The pastor, Rev. A. A. Schoen, reported the addition of eleven new members to the church roll during the past year. The treasurer's report shows the society to be in a very flourishing financial condition and they have a snug amount of cash on hand.

The society will in all probability build an extensive addition to the parsonage the coming spring.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Trustee, E. J. Feldkamp; treasurer, Matthew Jensen; janitor, John Koch.

Revival in Wales.

The proprietor of a traveling merry-go-round, whose route had been in Wales and who had gone into bankruptcy, informed the court that lack of patronage, due to religious revival, had caused his failure.

One on the Old Gent.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL EVENTS.

Rev. E. E. Caster, D. D. spent the past week with his son, Rev. E. Wilbur of Detroit. Mr. Caster Sunday assisted in conducting the quarterly meeting in the church of which his son is pastor. The members of the society decided to expend $4000 on the present edifice.

Fred C. Haist, administrator of the estate of the late Mary Seitz, will sell at public auction, the personal property of the deceased, on the premises known as the Seitz farm, one mile east of Rogers' Corners, Freedom, on Tuesday, November 21, commencing at one o'clock p. m., consisting of horses, cattle, farm tools, hay, grain and household goods. F. D. Merrithew will be the auctioneer.

Mrs. Trip, who resides on West Middle street, Chelsea, received the sad news one day the past week that her son, Tracy, who was employed on a logging train in the vicinity of Seattle, Washington, had been instantly killed on Tuesday of last week. The young man left his home here some three months ago. He was a member of the Chelsea Woodmen Lodge, and his remains are on the way here where the interment will take place.

The Michigan Central, according to reports, is about to adopt a new code of signal lights on their line. Under the present system of warning to train crews, red is the danger sign and white signifies a clear right-of-way. The system that is about to be installed is as follows: A white light will be the danger signal, red will warn the trainmen to use caution, and a green light will indicate a clear track. The new system will be adopted about the first of January.

No team from this section of the Union plays football in the East this year and none will next no matter though our moleskin warriors deserve recognition on their merit. The East has found another way of staving off a battle. Through Colliers Weekly the accusation is hurled westward that the East cannot allow the loss of any cuticle from the bridge of its nose at the hands of such menial students as wait table at a college boarding house or gather and distribute laundry as a means of corralling a few stray dollars. In other words a college man who earns his own support shall not be permitted to compete with a parentally maintained student of the East. This attitude is being voiced through Collier Weekly, which, not content with burying that elderly, mild-faced friend of ours, who has looked out of the advertising columns so many years, by the name of Lydia Pinkham, now comes to monkey with our football fan. Maybe Colliers can persuade us to dilute our Purina but we'll be "dummed" if we'll throw down Yost and his boys even if they do work when not at play.

NORTH LAKE.

Mrs. Geo. Goodwin and daughters

Another snow storm on Tuesday. Where is our Indian summer to come in?

If we all stopped to think twice before speaking there would be a lot left unsaid.

Was in Chelsea Saturday and had a hand-shake with a few of the old boys. A good social lot.

The Grange met one evening last week. I have had no report, but bet they had a good time.

Wednesday of last week Wm. Riemen-schneider made a call here and we talked over old times.

John Taylor, of Unadilla, and two lady cousins called here on their way to Chelsea last Saturday.

Mr. Barnum, of Unadilla, was in this vicinity one day last week in the interest of the grangers.

Ben Isham and Perry Noah have commenced on a large wood hauling job to Chelsea and other markets.

Mrs. P. W. Watts, formerly of this place but now of Ohio, will soon go to New Zealand on a visit to a brother.

Went to Chelsea Saturday, attended quarterly meeting Sunday, and Monday felt like 30 cents with the three left off.

Another big rain, a regular swamp filler, set in here Sunday about ten o'clock and lasted all night. Yet we look for Indian summer.

While in Chelsea Saturday stopped at the home of my daughter, Mrs. M. Griffith, and found Mr. G. suffering from a wound on the ankle, caused by a piece of scrap iron.

Elder Stowe, R. Barnum, Mr. and Mrs. B. Watson and G. Palmer, and others from Unadilla attended quarterly meeting here Sunday. Also John Schult, of Dexter, was present.

Elder Gordon, of Dexter, was a caller here a few days ago. He is the same genial fellow, and is well pleased with his present appointment which relieves him of the care of a horse.

A number from here attended the funeral of Mrs. A. Kaercher at Chelsea last week. Mrs. Kaercher was raised in this vicinity and was known as a good girl by all who knew her.

Think of it young people! Let sixty-seven years go by and all or nearly all of your young associates will be missing. Form new acquaintances and new friendships or you will be all alone. Only three or four in this vicinity were sharers of my early joys.

The shoot here Saturday resulted in a tie. All united in paying for and eating the oysters, and the young people had a good time. The marksmanship was a little below the old-time sports when I could spot three bullseyes, the best possible count.

Royal Baking Powder

is made of Grape Cream of Tartar.

Absolutely Pure.

Women in Turkey.

Turkish women do not come into control of their private fortunes until after marriage. Then they can dispose of one-third of it without the husband's consent.

The Principal Trouble.

The principal trouble with the average young man is that he has a $5,000-a-year girl and a $15-a-week salary.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Unclaimed Nation.

Spitzbergen is one of the few countries as yet unclaimed by any nation. Anyone may dig the coal found in the cliffs there.

Heard of Niagara Grab.

"Were the operations on the eyes of those assemblymen painful?" asked the New York man of his assemblyman.

"I don't understand you?" replied the official.

"Why, I heard that a number of the members of the New York assembly were operated on for a cataract!"—Yonkers Statesman.

As He Explained It.

"Dearie," remarked Mrs. Small, "I see the railroads are going to put in flat rates. Does that mean we can rent the flat cheaper?"

"Oh, no, darling. It merely means they are short of coaches and are going to put in a low rate on flat cars and make a run on it."—Kansas City Drivers Telegram.

"I Thank the Lord!"

Cried Hannah Plant, of Little Rock, Ark., "for the relief I got from Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It cured my fearful running sores, which nothing else would heal, and from which I have suffered for 5 years." It is a marvelous healer for cuts, burns and wounds. Guaranteed at the Bank Drug Store; 25c.

During the past week S. A. Mapes has secured the signatures of over one hundred residents of Chelsea, to a petition to the common council asking that body to adopt central standard time. It ought to be adopted and the council will in all probability grant the request of the petitioners at their next meeting.

For the past week a number of men have been at work surveying on the M. C. between the residence of Samuel Tucker of Lima and the east limits of Chelsea. It is reported that the railroad company is making arrangements to have a number of curves between Chelsea and Dexter straightened and that is what the present survey is being made for.

The following was taken from the Ypsilanti Daily Press of last Saturday: "I wish we had a Glazier in Ypsilanti," said an old citizen this morning. "What do you think he is going to do for Chelsea? Erect a new building for factory employees with reading rooms supplied with the latest current literature, swimming pool, shower baths, lockers and an up-to-date gymnasium."

The Ypsilanti Daily Evening Press sent to its subscribers last Saturday a very creditable special edition of that publication. Under the management of Frank T. Codrington, the Press has become the leading daily paper, published at the present time, in Washtenaw and is deserving of the liberal patronage that is being given to the paper by the merchants of the Greek city.

Next Sunday evening at St. Paul's church there will be a moving picture exhibition of historical events during the period of the Reformation. Rev. S. A. John, of Ann Arbor, will be present and deliver a lecture appropriate to the various illustrations as they are shown upon the canvass in the auditorium of the church. The lecture will commence at 7 o'clock and will be worth attending.

Picturesque Novelties and Favors For the Coming National Holiday.

Observance of national holidays is not considered complete in these days of inventiveness without the introduction of decorations or favors particularly agreeable to the occasion. Thanksgiving being a festival time, offers a special opportunity for the favor designs. And the shops teem with novelties suggestive of the day and its time-honored manner of observance.

This being the football season the hero of the gridiron and his famous leather sphere serve also as models for favors and decorative adjuncts and these mementoes are found side by side with the distinctively Thanksgiving souvenirs and share popularity with the latter.

Most of the souvenirs are inexpensive, but the hostess who feels inclined to spend a good round sum on a certain centerpiece or a collection of small favors can find plenty of excuse for so doing in this season's collection. For instance, she might select the football centerpiece pictured above with a mass of chrysanthemums rising from the center. The flowers are realistically fashioned from crepe paper and all the hues of the natural blossom are reproduced. Then there is the candy box, with its top of chrysanthemum petals, colored in the various college tints and appropriately lettered or the football in leather hue, and the box on which is mounted a papier mache collegian, toggled in full regalia and grasping a football. Useful for candy or ices are the realistic receptacles in the shape of a plum pudding, turkey or squash, which do not rank among the high priced souvenirs.

A place card simulating a wishbone is an apt suggestion. And so, too, the dinner favor in football form. The accompanying illustration gives an idea of the newest and best of the Thanksgiving novelties which represent a range within the reach of the possessors of slim or well-filled purses.

Of a more permanent character as Thanksgiving souvenirs are the turkey set of Wedgewood ware, and the cut glass vase in the shape of a horn of plenty. The latter would serve equally well for fruit or flowers and the turkey set consists of a platter and six plates, which may be had for a moderate sum considering the quality of the ware.

From the very best table linen and silver, which must be brought forth and its cleanliness duly inspected, down to the place cards and center decoration, all must be attended to. To the woman who has deft fingers or skill with the paint brush for original work, while the shops are replete with novelties.

Place cards are to be had this year in the shape of miniature pigs, others are turkeys and geese. Some of these are hand painted, while as silhouettes they are very effective against a white cloth, and may be readily manufactured at home.

To make some laughter, it is an excellent idea to take the initials of each person's name, and with these as initial letters write a phrase descriptive of the person who is to occupy that place. Thus, a man's initials are E. M., and as his hobby is well known to his teasing hostess, he finds a card on which is written "Everlasting Music." A girl's initials may be, for instance, A. L. F., and amid much laughter she is forced to accept a place marked "Arrant Little Flirt," and so on all around the table until each person finds or is assisted in finding his or her place.

Another method of initial treatment is to write verses (if the hostess is poetical), each line commencing with one initial of the victim's name.

A pretty idea is for each guest to write a Thanksgiving sentiment or a cause for thankfulness on a slip of paper. These are collected in a bowl and drawn forth and read one at a time, while every one tries to discover the author.

For the center of the table a basket woven from wheat stalks and filled with fruit is most effective. Yellow and red are pre-eminently the colors for a Thanksgiving table, and the gorgeous chrysanthemums of either color, with candle shades to correspond, make a magnificent display, especially when yellow chiffon ribbon entwined with smilax or asparagus forms part of the table decoration.

Russia's Women Spies

Russian history during the last 20 or 30 years would not have been what it has been if there had been no Vera Sassulitch, of whom nothing is heard in these days. When the famous Gen. Treppoff was only at the beginning of his career she was his invaluable assistant.

Treppoff was the detested enemy of the Nihilists, and he was very anxious to obtain inside information as to their doings and their plans. Suddenly, one day in 1878, he was fired at while driving through the streets of St. Petersburg by no other than Vera Sassulitch. She was at once seized by the soldiery, and was charged with the attempted murder of Treppoff, being tried in the ordinary manner; but, to the amazement of the public, she was acquitted!

On her release the Nihilists gathered about her, desiring to admit such a friend of the people to their closest acquaintance. In this way she was admitted to all their private circles and was made acquainted with their secrets. These she at once communicated to the Russian government. The truth was that the whole business, including the attempt on his life, was simply a clever ruse to get from the Nihilists what could not be got in any other way. Thereafter Vera Sassulitch played the part of government spy on innumerable occasions.

There succeeded her as the Czar's chief spy one Emma Bellomo, who became the Countess della Torre. She was a woman of great mental ability and boundless ambition, and when her husband died she offered her services as special secret agent to the Czar, and soon became indispensable to the Russian court.

Whenever a document had to be secured she secured it, and she allowed nothing, not even a life, to stand in her way. By one remarkable and dramatic coup early in her career she obtained the unbounded confidence of the Czar. Information had been received by the Russian secret police that a plot against the monarch was being hatched conjointly in Rome and Paris. It was suspected that the plot was to be carried out through the instrumentality of a high official of the Czar's household, but all efforts to identify him failed.

Thereupon this woman spy was put on the scent, and she at once went to Rome, where she ingratiated herself with the Nihilists, and at last found out the name she wanted. She returned in haste to St. Petersburg and informed the Czar of what she had discovered; but he refused to believe her, as the man named was one of his closest attendants and most intimate friends.

"Then," exclaimed the countess, "I must prove to your majesty that what I tell you is true. In half an hour I must crave permission to see you again."

When she left the Czar she at once sought out the officer in question, and handed over to him a package of papers, impressing upon him that on no account must he allow them to leave his person. "Keep them with you," she said. "On your noble person they are safe; in my hiding-place they may be found."

Her fascinations were too much for the officer, and he agreed. She then returned to the Czar and at once said to him: "I beg that your majesty will now at once summon this gentleman to your presence, and that you observe closely the count's deportment and features when he sees me at your side." A few minutes later the officer entered the apartment, and when he saw the countess with the Czar he realized the state of affairs and turned pale with terror.

"It is as I informed your majesty," said the countess. "If you will search him you will find the proof." It was found in one of his riding boots. The Czar ordered that he should be exiled to Siberia for life, but there was a general impression that he was murdered in his cell.

Scotsmen Turning to Beer.
It is reported that the Highland Scotsman is ceasing to drink whisky. A visitor to Scotland says that the typical Highlander, as he saw him this season, takes an occasional "nip," as before, but that beer is gradually ousting usquebaugh from its supremacy. He saw many Highlanders take their "meridian"—a ceremony still religiously observed—and in the majority of cases beer was the drink. Beer as a drink for Highlanders is a new thing. In the old days claret was drunk all over Scotland. It came—smuggled as a rule—from France, and in the estuaries of the west coast a big trade was done with claret-laden gabbets from the continent. After claret, whisky; and now beer.

Odd Happenings to Singer.
Mme. Marcondia, the oratorio singer, among other funny reminiscences told the other evening that she was billed to sing at the Maine Musical Festival last year as a "coloratura soprano." The good citizens were somewhat puzzled and expectant, but a few were indignant, and voiced their indignation through an old lady, who called upon Mr. Chapman, the manager, to protest against the appearance of a negro vocalist among ladies and gentlemen.

On another occasion while on a

Broadway car from Carnegie hall with a music amateur, he said to her: "The soprano part runs to high C in the ninth symphony, doesn't it?"

The conductor who was at the moment receiving his fare, thinking the remark addressed to him, replied promptly: "No, sir, the soprano only reaches as high as B in the ninth symphony."

"What!" exclaimed Mme. Macondia, surprised at the accuracy of the man's statement. "How do you know that?"

"Why, I belong to the regular chorus at Carnegie hall," replied the conductor.

Temptations of a Valet.
"Us valets has our temptations, sir," he said. "Only yesterday, when I went to pay Mr. Henny's tailor bill, you'd ought to have heard what the manager said to me."

"He says, says he, handing me a $5 note: 'Why,' he says, 'this here bill ain't half big enough for a man of Mr. Henny's position,' he says. 'Look a here, my man,' he says, 'the truth is that you don't brush your master's clothes hard enough.'"

"No," says he. "And now," says he, "I'll put you up to a wrinkle that'll put $50 a year in your pocket if you use it right."

"Then he brought from his office a stick all roughened on the end."

"Scrub this here rough stick," he says, "over the elbows of your master's coats," he says, "and now and then touch up his trousers about the knees a bit. It'll do wonders, used right. It ought to double his annual bill, and if it does, there's $50 a year in it for you."

"I took the stick," said the valet, "but I ain't never used it, sir."—New York Press.

Ancient Races of Negro Stock.
An English physician, named Scholes, has written a book of over 400 pages to disprove the current view that the colored races are essentially inferior socially and intellectually to the white races. He claims that the ancient Egyptians were of negro stock; that European civilization is of comparatively mushroom growth, while the Egyptians, Mexicans, Peruvians, Chinese, and other colored races attained to high degree of culture long before our ancestors emerged from semi-barbarism.

Got It Off Her Mind.
Jones (which isn't his name) took the little daughter of a friend to a matinee at the Hippodrome the other day. They had just reached their seats when the young lady, in her best society manner, said:

"Thank you very much, Mr. Jones, for a very pleasant afternoon." Then having unburdened her mind of her mother's injunction to be polite, she plumped down in her seat and enjoyed the show as only a little girl can.—Detroit News.

QUIET LIVES OF IRISH WOMEN.

Absence of Worry Said to Tend to Preserve Youth.

"The Irish women never worry," said a woman who has mixed much in the upper circles of the little green isle. "Therefore they preserve their youth better than the women of any other nation. A peculiar type of personality has been left in Ireland. England and America have drained off the progressive and hustling, England from the upper classes, America from the lower. Those who are left are of a placid, contented type, from whom the restlessness of present-day civilization seems far removed. The dullness of the life led by the average well-born Irish girl would be pathetic if it were not that she seems to thrive so well on it. Year after year she follows the same monotonous round, meeting the same people at tennis in summer or hockey matches in winter. If her home is in a hunting district, no matter at how low an ebb the family finances may be, they will manage to give her a good mount. But for girls who do not hunt, the long, wet winter, with few neighbors and few books, passes almost as drearily as in a medieval castle."

LESSONS TAKEN FROM NATURE.

Ideas Not All Original in the Brains of Inventors.

"We get our hints from nature," the inventor said. "Take, for instance, the hollow pillar, which is stronger than the solid one. The wheat straw showed us the superior strength of the hollow pillar. Solid, the wheat straw would be unable to support its head of grain."

"Where did man get his idea for carriage springs? From the hoofs of the horse, which, like the springs derived from them, are made from parallel plates."

"Scissors we got from the jaws of the tortoise, which are natural scissors; chisels from the squirrel, who carries them in his mouth; adzes from the hippopotamus, whose ivory is adzes of the best design; the plane from the bee's jaws; the trip hammer from the woodpecker."

Desperate Siberian Convicts.

Some interesting phases of Siberian life are described in Samuel Turner's book on that country. Of the exiles he writes: "When I told a Siberian friend that I carried a revolver as a protection against wolves, I was promptly informed that I had much more reason to fear the human wolves I might encounter, and this I found, was a general view of the case. About one-third of the criminal exiles escape all control. Armed with a stick, to which is attached a strong piece of cord or catgut, they will approach the unwary traveler from behind, throw the cord round his neck and quietly strangle him by twisting the stick, to rob him at their leisure of whatever he may possess, or secure his passport in order to make their escape from the country."

Does the Sun Set?
"It ill becomes any of us to criticize lapses in grammar," says an authority, "when we all of us consent to and constantly make use of one such lapse ourselves. To speak of the 'setting sun' is wholly incorrect. You may set a book on a table or even set a son on a chair if he is big enough not to fall off, but what does the orb of day set, and where does it set? No, sir, queer as it may sound to ears grown accustomed to the universal form, the sun sets. If it sets anything why doesn't it raise something? If it shouldn't be the rising and the setting sun, it should be the raising and the setting sun. Think it over, and when you get it arranged to your satisfaction, try to find out what you mean when you speak of a setting hen."—Philadelphia Record.

Lazy Folk.
These two similes were uttered by a countryman seeing the city: "Why, he's as lazy as a millpond in dog days, and 'He's as lazy as a Mexican sleazebag." Both very good. In Scotland it is: "He's as lazy as David Lawrence's dog." You have often heard of a man being as 'lazy as Joe the marine," who laid down his musket to sneeze. Another common expression is, "as lazy as Ludlam's dog," which leaned its head against the wall to bark. A "lazy lobbie" is the last person in a race. Old Ben Davis named a mare "Cowntail," because she was always behind.

Charles Dickens' Dog Friends.
Dickens was a dog lover, and possessed several dear canine friends. It is recorded in his biographies how greatly moved he was on one occasion by the sympathetic concern evinced by two of his favorites, Turk and Linda, when during a walk he was suddenly struck with lameness. Boisterous companions as they always were, the sudden change in him caused them boundless distress, and for the rest of the journey they crept by the side of their master as slowly as he did, never turning from him.

The Oil of Life.
When a person discovers he has a negative manner that hinders his social life how is he to revise himself?

The magnetic or positive nature boils over with attractive agreeableness without being conscious of anything but joy or enthusiasm.

People collect around the person who is overflowing with goodwill and natural happiness. The oil of life is an abundance of itself.—Earl M. Pratt.

CAPT. GRAHAM'S CURE.

Sores on Face and Back—Tried Many Doctors Without Success—Gives Thanks to Cuticura.

Captain W. S. Graham, 1321 Eoff St., Wheeling, W. Va., writing under date of June 14, '04, says: "I am so grateful I want to thank God that a friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment to me. I suffered for a long time with sores on my face and back. Some doctors said I had blood poison, and others that I had barbers' itch. None of them did me any good, but they all took my money. My friends tell me my skin now looks as clear as a baby's, and I tell them all that Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment did it."

Walking a Lost Art.

The elevator and the street car are doing damage to man's anatomy. Every elevator boy can tell of instances where a man will push the electric button till it rings like a general fire alarm, call the elevator from the basement, get in at the seventh floor and as the car begins to drop shout "sixth!" There are busy men who will wait ten minutes for a street car to ride on block. As for long walks in the country and the exploration of fields and woods, why, perish the pernicious thought! On Sunday, after a week cooped up in the office or the shop, a man must spend his week's earnings to go buggy or an auto. Even the tramp would rather steal a ride on the truck of a freight car than be true to his name. People ought to walk more for recreation. It is a fine way of seeing the nearby country. It is exercise that gives strength to the body and the brain.—Washington Star.

Both Thought of Same Subject.

Herbert Russell sends a literary coincidence: "My father, W. Clark Russell," he writes, "had finished maturing the plot of his novel, 'The Death Ship,' which is a version of the legend of Vanderdecken. I was his amanuensis at the time. He said to me: 'Tomorrow we will begin the story.' On the following morning when I entered his study to take his dictation of the opening lines he showed me a letter he had just received. It was from Mr. W. S. Gilbert, the well-known dramatist, asking him why he did not write a novel about the Flying Dutchman."

Living Mummies.

Living mummies exist in Tibet in small caves in the solid rock, each built up in front with stones and mortar. They have padlocked doors, tiny drains, and small holes, just sufficient for a man to pass his hand through. In these cells men are buried for life with the idea of thus "attaining merit." Once interred they are, in extreme cases, never seen again by mortal eye. Their death is only made known when they fail for several days to stretch out the hand for food.

All on Account of the Weather.

An Emporia man went around the other morning blaming the weather for making him sick. Before he went to bed he had three bottles of beer, several hamburger sandwiches with onions, cheese, rye bread and finished off with a particularly bad cigar. He says he didn't sleep at all, and no one wonders. But what has the weather to do with his health?—Emporia, Kan., Gazette.

Catch Fish With Poison.
The natives of Guam used to catch fish by poisoning them with the juice of the fruit of a tree known as the Barringtonia speciosa. The Spanish government forbade this wasteful method, but since the island has passed under American control it has come into use again.

OLD FASHIONED FARE

Hot Biscuits, Griddle-Cakes, Pies and Puddings.
The food that made the fathers strong is sometimes unfit for the children under the new conditions that our changing civilization is constantly bringing in. One of Mr. Bryan's neighbors in the great state of Nebraska writes:

"I was raised in the South, where hot biscuits, griddle-cakes, pies and puddings are eaten at almost every meal, and by the time I located in Nebraska I found myself a sufferer from indigestion and its attendant ills—distress and pains after meals, an almost constant headache, dull, heavy sleepiness by day and sleeplessness at night, loss of flesh, impaired memory, etc., etc."

"I was rapidly becoming incapacitated for business, when a valued friend suggested a change in my diet, the abandonment of heavy, rich stuff and the use of Grape-Nuts food. I followed the good advice and shall always be thankful that I did so."

"Whatever may be the experience of others, the beneficial effects of the change were apparent in my case almost immediately. My stomach, which had rejected other food for so long, took to Grape-Nuts most kindly; in a day or two my headache was gone, I began to sleep healthfully and before a week was out the scales showed that my lost weight was coming back. My memory was restored with the renewed vigor that I felt in body and mind. For three years now Grape-Nuts food has kept me in prime condition, and I propose it shall for the rest of my days."

"And by the way, my 2½ year old baby is as fond of Grape-Nuts as I am, always insists on having it. It keeps her as healthy and hearty as they make them." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. There's a reason.

MOURNING THAT WAS SINCERE.

Loss of Mrs. L. B. Smith Evidently Was Deeply Felt.

The following appeared in a Maine newspaper a few years ago, only the names of the parties being changed: "Oh, how we miss dear Mrs. L. B. Smith, whom death has so recently taken from our midst! There was no one lady at the village whose loss would have been felt by so large a circle of friends as hers, for she was a dressmaker of extensive patronage and noteworthy patience. It will be a long time before we get accustomed to living without her. Why she was taken from us in one of the questions in the long list only to be answered in eternity. She leaves a companion, a sister and a brother. The beautiful home is so lonely without her beautiful presence there, we would quote a remark from Undertaker Jones. When he had finished his task he gazed for a moment into the casket, and then, turning away, he said: 'That is the handsomest corpse I ever prepared for burial.' She has a father, mother and sister in the spirit land. We trust they are an unbroken band, waiting to welcome the remaining ones as the death angel pilots them to the other shore."

Ask Your Neighbors.

Gelatt, Pa., Nov. 6th (Special).—Mrs. H. W. Stevens, a well respected resident of Gelatt, tells in convincing words, what Dodd's Kidney Pills have done for her. She says:

"I was a great sufferer from Rheumatism, caused through my Kidneys being out of order. I was subject to it for years. It would take me without warning, and while the attack lasted I was so lame I could not get around. So I had to send for Dodd's Kidney Pills. I took them for three days, but didn't feel much benefit, but on the fourth day I noticed a great change, the lameness in my back was gone, and the pains I used to suffer were less. I kept on with Dodd's Kidney Pills and now I am glad to say I have no lameness nor pain of any kind. I feel as if I didn't know what Rheumatism was. I shall never be without Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house, and I bless the day I first heard of them."

Shock to Physiognomists.

Dr. Barnardo, the great London child savior, was once discussing crime and criminals with a Scotland Yard expert and expressed his disbelief in the theories of heredity and primal physiognomy. He produced two photographs of two well-known men and showed the faces only to the expert. "One," he said, "is that of a once notorious criminal and the other is that of a notably good man. Tell me which is which." Without hesitation the expert designated one of the photographs as that of the notorious criminal. Dr. Barnardo was triumphant. The expert criminologist had chosen the photograph of an archbishop of Canterbury.

Sisters and Brothers.

Don't snub your brothers. They are lovely things to have around, if only treated half-way decently. Unfortunately, girls forget that brothers also grow up, and they go on treating them as if they were boys. This leads to friction, and very often disagreeable repartee, when it is least wanted, and is most disagreeable.—New York Press.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, it is like a rope that binds the drumhead, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

CONSTIPATION

AND STOMACH TROUBLE

CAN BE CURED

J. S. Janssen, President of the Milwaukee Retail Druggists' Association, Talks on the Dangers of Constipation and Stomach Trouble.

"Have you noticed the large number of cases of typhoid fever lately?" said Mr. J. S. Janssen to a Daily News representative. "To my notion typhoid fever, malarial fever, appendicitis and many kindred complaints are the result of constipation, which in many cases is allowed by the patient to run along without proper treatment. You will remember when you were a child and the doctor was called, his first prescription was a dose of castor oil. All physicians know the value of having the bowels thoroughly opened. People, when they grow up, allow constipation to become chronic through lack of attention. Constipation is the failure of the bowels to carry off the undigested food, which collects in the alimentary canal and there decays, generating poisonous disease germs. These germs find their way into the blood by means of which they are carried to every tissue. The fever thus created affects not only the lungs, kidneys, stomach, heart and nervous system, but in fact any organ of the body is liable to break down as a result. The blood becomes thin and watery. The sufferer loses flesh and strength. Castor oil and pills will not cure an affliction like this. Something more than a laxative is needed. There are many physicians on the market and not a few many having probably the most popular store of the kind in the city. I do not often talk about manufactured medicine, but the high esteem in which Mull's Grape Tonic is held by the drug and medical fraternities has impressed me so that I know from actual experience that here is a cure that Mull's Grape Tonic cures constipation and stomach trouble positively and permanently. Mull's Grape Tonic is not a pill, but it immediately clears the bowels of the decaying food because of the peculiar strengthening effects it exerts over the organs of the digestive system. As a tonic it is superior to the nauseating cod liver oil compounds. It builds flesh fast and creates strength quicker than any other preparation known to medical science. The ingredients are positively harmless, made mainly from crushed grapes and fruit. Although a full bottle may be taken at once, no inconvenience would result. I only wish that people paid more attention to these little details, which in themselves in the beginning are of so slight importance, but which grow in magnitude until the most serious trouble and some deadly disease fastens itself on the constitution. There is really nothing easier to take than Mull's Grape Tonic. I hope you, through the influence of your paper, will bring the readers to a realization of the gravity of allowing constipation to become chronic."

The Youth's Companion in 1906.
During 1906 the Youth Companion will publish in 52 weekly issues

7 serial stories, each a book in itself, reflecting American life in home, camp and field.

50 special articles contributed by famous men and women—travelers, essayists, soldiers, sailors, statesmen and men of affairs.

200 thoughtful and timely editorial articles on important public and domestic question.

250 complete stories by the best of living story-writers—stories of character, stories of achievement, stories of humor.

1000 notes on current events and discoveries in the field of science and natural history.

2000 bright and amusing anecdotes, items of strange and curious knowledge, poems and sketches.

This is what The Companion offers its readers during 1906. And the quality of it is fully equal to the quantity. The paper is interesting without being sensational, bright without being flashy, elevating and strengthening without being prosy—a paper for every member of the family.

A full announcement of the new volume will be sent with sample copies of the paper to any address on request. The new subscriber for 1906 who sends $1.75 for the new volume at once will receive free all the remaining issues for 1905, including the Double Holiday Number; also The Companion's "Minute-men" Calendar for 1906, lithographed in twelve colors and gold.

The Youth Companion,
144 Berkeley Street, Boston, Mass.

Don Lost Mother.
"Consumption runs in our family, and through it I lost my mother," writes E. B. Reid, of Harmony, Mo. "For the past five years, however, on the slight sign of a cough or cold, I have taken Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, which has saved me from serious lung trouble." His mother's death was a sad loss for Mr. Reid, but he learned that lung trouble must not be neglected, and how to cure it. Quickest relief and cure for coughs and colds. Price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed at the Bank Drug Store. Trial bottle free.

Only Too True.
A small girl who had just begun to have "nature study" in school was telling her mother recently some of the things she had learned. Her mother listened with interest, and finally asked: "Can you tell me the name of the poor worm mamma gets her silk dresses from?"
The child pondered deeply, and then said, suddenly: "Oh, I know! From papa."—N. Y. Times.

Pain may go by the name of rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, pleurisy. No matter what name the pains are called, Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will drive them away. 35 cents. Tea or Tablets. At the Bank Drug Store.
Farmers, mechanics, railroaders, laborers rely on Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil. Takes the sting out of cuts, burns or bruises at once. Pain cannot stay where it is used.

Impoverished Soil

Impoverished soil, like impoverished blood, needs a proper fertilizer. A chemist by analyzing the soil can tell you what fertilizer to use for different products.

If your blood is impoverished your doctor will tell you what you need to fertilize it and give it the rich, red corpuscles that are lacking in it. It may be you need a tonic, but more likely you need a concentrated fat food, and fat is the element lacking in your system.

There is no fat food that is so easily digested and assimilated as

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil

It will nourish and strengthen the body when milk and cream fail to do it. Scott's Emulsion is always the same; always palatable and always beneficial where the body is wasting from any cause, either in children or adults.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Turner, Saline, normal supt.; delegates to state convention, Mrs. Darling and Mrs. Thompson, Ypsilanti, Mr. Deake, Salem; alternate, Mrs. Welch, Stony Creek.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by druggists. Price 75c. per bottle.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Faithful Dog.
A collie that had pursued its master's automobile 80 miles, unknown to the driver, was found, exhausted, the other day, near Rainbow, a Cheshire (England) village.

Don't think that piles can't be cured. Thousands of obstinate cases have been cured by Doan's Ointment. 50 cents at any drug store.

Man's Unreasonableness.
Is often as great as woman's. But Thos. S. Austin, Mgr. of "Republican," of Leavenworth, Ind., was not unreasonable, when he refused to allow the doctors to operate on his wife, for female trouble. "Instead," he says, we concluded to try Electric Bitters. My wife was then so sick, she could hardly leave her bed, and five (5) physicians had failed to relieve her. After taking Electric Bitters, she was perfectly cured and can now perform all her household duties." Guaranteed at the Bank Drug Store, price 50c.

Female Philanthropist.
Helen Gould's methods are not those of male philanthropists like Carnegie and Rockefeller, who leave details to secretaries and simply sign checks. There is nothing impersonal about her giving. When she is sufficiently interested to help any person or institution financially she visits that person or institution. To the various day nurseries of New York city she makes regular calls, chatting with the matron, inquiring into the needs of the house and taking a peep into the children's room.

Schools Breed Microbes.
Prince Metchusky, proprietor of a Russian newspaper, has made the more or less interesting discovery that Gen. Kuropatkin's defeats in the far east, the famines, the strikes and the massacres in Russia are all due to an "intellectual microbe" which germinates in the brain and causes people to become dissatisfied. He insists that schools should be discontinued as breeding places of these noxious microbes, spreading discontent against things as they are.

If you are troubled with indigestion, constipation, sour stomach, or any other pain, Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will make you well and keep you well. At the Bank Drug Store.

"Generally debilitated for years. Had sick headaches, lacked ambition, was worn-out and all run-down. Burdock Blood Bitters made me a well woman." Mrs. Chas. Freitoy, Moosup, Conn.

NATURE'S WARNING.

People must recognize and heed it. Kidney ills come quietly—mysteriously. But nature always warns you through the urine. Notice the kidney secretions. See if the color is unhealthy. If there are settlements and sediment, Passages to frequent, scanty, painful, It's time then to use Doan's Kidney Pills. To ward off Bright's disease or diabetes.

Lawrence O'Toole, of 1825 Hill street, Ann Arbor, Mich., says: "The pains across my back were almost constant, and were so severe at times that I was often obliged to get my back against the wall before I could straighten. I could hardly rest in any position and was as tired in the morning as the night before I could not stoop to pick anything off the ground and was generally speaking, depressed a heavy sediment, and were too frequent, greatly disturbing my rest at night. I was bothered much with headache and spells of dizziness I wore plasters until I was tired of them, and took a lot of medicine but it did me no good. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised I felt confident they would help me, and I got a box. They helped at once, and in a short time thoroughly cured me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McIlburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

You Must Sleep.

If you cannot, it is due to an irritated or congested state of the brain, which will soon develop into nervous prostration. Nature demands sleep, and it is as important as food; it is a part of her building and sustaining process. This period of unconsciousness relaxes the mental and physical strain, and allows nature to restore exhausted vitality.

Dr. Miles' Nerveine brings refreshing sleep, because it soothes the irritation and removes the congestion.

It is also a nerve builder; it nourishes and strengthens every nerve in your body, and creates energy in all the organs. Nothing will give strength and vitality as surely and quickly as Dr. Miles' Nerveine.

"During the past winter I had two attacks of La Grippe which left me very weak, and in bad condition. I was so nervous I could not sleep. My wife, after trying different remedies, went for a doctor. The doctor was out, and a neighbor recommended Dr. Miles' Nerveine, and she brought home a bottle. I had not slept for some time, and had terrible pains in my head. After taking a few doses of Nerveine the pain was not so severe, and I slept. I am now taking the second bottle and am very much improved."

HENRY M. SMITH, Underhill, Vt.
Dr. Miles' Nerveine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit you. If it fails, he will refund your money.
Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.
