"We Treat You Right."

WON'T TELL WHERE IT IS.

Robert Burton Refuses to Tell Whereabouts of Missing Diamond.

Ann Arbor Argus: Robert Burton, who is locked up in jail on the charge of stealing $500 or $600 worth of diamonds belonging to Mrs. Homer C. Millen at Four Mile Lake, received a visit Friday from Fred Chase, Mrs. Millen's brother, and Mrs. Robinson, nurse at the Millen home. They took the prisoner into the private office and held a long talk with him, their object being to find out if possible where he has disposed of the one missing diamond and of the settings to the stones. Of the plunder all but the settings and a single small stone was recovered by Deputy Ferguson, but the prisoner refuses to tell what he has done with the missing valuables. The visitors from Four Mile Lake were unsuccessful in getting Burton to give any additional information.

"Be a good boy" was Mrs. Robinson's somewhat superfluous admonition to the prisoner as she left the jail.

An open Grange and literary entertainment will be given at North Lake Grange hall Tuesday, Nov. 28. The public is cordially invited. Recitation—Warren Daniels.

Purchased Some Fine Stock.

Geo. T. English was in Angola, Ind., last Saturday, where he attended the big sale of Chas. O. Jones' thoroughbred stock. He was fortunate enough to purchase three Poland China hogs, one boar and two sows. The boar is Big Chief Perfection, No. 58889. This hog has been at the head of C. O. Jones' herd for the past two seasons and is a large and compact animal, of very heavy bone, with good feet and back, a nice head and ear and with good coat. He is a great breeder of good strong pigs and will be a valuable addition to Mr. English's already fine herd of Poland China swine. Chief Perfection 2d, the sire of one of the sows purchased, was sold for $5,000 and is the king of the Poland China hogs in Indiana today.

Will Dedicate New Home.

It will be of interest to many in Chelsea and vicinity to know that the new German Protestant Home for Aged People and Orphans, which is located at West Grand Boulevard and Scovel Place, Detroit, is to be dedicated Thanksgiving afternoon, Nov. 30, when the building will be formally opened. Rev. Paul Irion, of Freedom, will deliver the dedicatory sermon and one of the principal addresses will be made by Governor Fred M. Warner. The superintendent of the home is Rev. John Neumann, formerly of Ann Arbor.

A Creeping Death.

Blood poison creeps up toward the heart, causing death. J. E. Stearns, Belle Plaine, Minn., writes that a friend dreadfully injured his hand, which swelled up like blood poisoning. Bucklen's Arnica Salve drew out the poison, healed the wound and saved his life. Best in the world for burns and sores. 25c at Bank Drug Store.

W. W. U. Farmers' Club.

The November meeting of the Western Washtenaw Farmers' Club was held Friday with Mr. and Mrs. John F. Waltrons, of Lima. There was a fairly good attendance, about 40 being present, but the pressure of farm work kept many of the gentlemen away. The usual good dinner was served at noon and was followed by a season of visiting. When the meeting was called to order the topic for discussion "Which has the greater influence over our lives, inheritance or training?" was opened by Rev. E. E. Caster. It was discussed briefly by Rev. P. M. McKay, A. K. Chapman and Charles Fish.

Truman Baldwin pleased the audience with a selection on the violin, on which instrument he is a left handed performer.

Mrs. J. F. Waltrons gave a capital recitation and the meeting closed by singing "America."

The next meeting will be the annual election of officers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Spaulding, in Sylvan. An oyster dinner will be served. The committee having charge of it are Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Chapman and Mrs. H. Lighthall. At that time a trio of well known gentlemen members of the club will render a song.

Wants $1,000 Damages.

Miss Emma Wenger, a domestic employed at the residence of Homer C. Millen at Four Mile Lake, has by her next friend, Adam Eppler, begun suit against Mr. and Mrs. Millen for $1,000 damages. When the Millen diamonds were stolen recently Miss Wenger claims she was publicly accused by the Millens of having taken them, that she was kept a prisoner for 11 hours, was threatened with arrest and generally abused. Now that Robert Burton, the man of all work about the place, has confessed to the theft and given up the diamonds, Miss Wenger thinks the above amount is a fair compensation for the indignities she suffered.

Boland Is Non-Committal.

W. A. Boland was in Ann Arbor Tuesday looking up the descriptions of some of his railroad right of way. He did not have anything to give out concerning his electric road. He could not say just what would be done, but his remarks indicated that the Hawks-Angus line might buy out his partially constructed line, or he and his associates might buy out the Hawks-Angus line, or the line might be independently constructed. "But," said Mr. Boland, "whatever is done the people of Ann Arbor may feel assured that Dexter will soon be connected with Ann Arbor by an electric line."

The emperor of Austria sympathizes with the czar, but he has troubles of his own.

If every wish were father to the thought what a thoughtful people we should be!

Some bad things that we like are not so bad as some bad things that we don't like.

Count de Witte should first have taken the precaution to bore holes in the vodka tanks.

However proud we may all be of Count Witte, no one would care to relieve him of his job.

The Cosacks are doubtless very well in their feeble way, but if the czar wants results he ought to engage an American football team to clean out the country.

Baltimore has had seven little earthquakes since June 1, but as no body would have known it if it hadn't been for the Johns Hopkins seismograph, nobody is worrying.

A New York man who has just been robbed says that it is his fortieth experience of this kind in thirty-three years. He ought to hire a safety deposit box big enough to live in.

The czar may extract a grain of comfort from the reflection that this trouble was bound to come anyhow, and it is better to have it come now than at the end of another year of war.

FORMER PORT HURON GIRL ELOPES WITH A CHAUFFEUR.

SECRETARY GARFIELD GIVES BENTON HARBOR MAN A FAT JOB.

A story coming from Los Angeles, Cal., that Miss Elizabeth A. Botsford, a former Port Huron society girl, daughter of William F. Botsford, millionaire president of the Los Angeles American National bank, had eloped with Albert P. Franzen, her father's chauffeur, has created a sensation in this city.

Miss Botsford disappeared from her home and was married to Franzen by a justice of the peace. The young woman's father is unable to obtain trace of her and her husband, but he believes that they have gone to Colorado, where Franzen owns a ranch.

It is said that Botsford may try to have the marriage annulled on the ground that his daughter wasn't mentally competent to select a husband.

Edmund J. Bard, of Benton Harbor, formerly auditor of the Milwaukee, Benton Harbor & Columbus railway, has been appointed assistant inspector of the department of commerce and labor by Secretary Garfield, and began his duties Tuesday.

It begins January 3 and continues to February 23.

There are no entrance examinations; anyone having a common school education can take this course with profit. Any man or woman over 16 years is admitted. The necessary expenses, except railroad fare, are about $45.

Judge Roberts Dies Suddenly.
Judge Lorin Roberts, one of the most prominent men of Traverse City, died very suddenly last night of apoplexy. He was at the Wagonet club, of which he is president, when attacked, and lived only four hours.

He was born in Johnson, O., in 1845 and enlisted in the cavalry when only 15 years of age, serving with honor throughout the entire war. He graduated afterward at Oberlin college and served as the head of Benzonia college in Michigan one year.

Three Killed at the "Soo."
Three persons lost their lives in the wreck on the "Soo" railroad Sunday. While a southbound extra freight was taking coal, another extra crashed into the rear of the train, the engine of the second train demolishing the caboose, killing the conductor, George W. Smiley, Mrs. Smiley and their infant daughter, aged 2 years. Mabel Smiley, another daughter, aged 14 years, was probably fatally injured.

St. Clair Co. Divorce Record.
One divorce suit for every five marriages is the startling record of the divorce mill in St. Clair county so far this year. In less than 11 months 104 divorce cases have come up for hearing in circuit court, 44 decrees have been granted and 60 cases started this year are pending.

Kills Ring-Tail Cat.
A ring-tail cat, an animal decidedly rare in northern Michigan, has been caught by Herman Thiele, a Negaunee man. It was the first specimen ever captured by either Mr. Thiele or his father, and together they have been engaged in trapping for 45 years. The animal has fine, silky gray fur. The most striking characteristic is a series of black rings around the bushy tail. In this appendage it differs radically from the ordinary wildcat, which has a bob-tail.

DEATH LIST

STEAMER HILDA DISASTER DEATH LIST GROWS.

128 PERSONS LOST THEIR LIVES ON THE ILL-FATED SHIP.

One hundred and twenty-eight persons lost their lives in the wreck of the London & Southwestern Railway Co.'s steamer Hilda, off the northern coast of France Saturday night, according to an official estimate given out by the officers of the company. This death roll includes 21 saloon passengers, 80 French onion sellers and 27 of the crew.

A St. Malo dispatch says: Realization of the full extent of the disaster to the cross-channel steamer Hilda came to the people of St. Malo as reports of the finding of bodies were received from the different points along the nearby coast.

In all over 60 bodies have been washed up, including that of Capt. Gregory, the commander of the wrecked ship, which now lies in the hospital here, and as fast as other bodies arrive they will be placed in a room prepared for their reception.

The entrance to the harbor of St. Malo is one of the most difficult known to mariners. On Saturday night a blinding snowstorm with haze and high wind prevailed and it is little wonder that even so experienced a navigator as Capt. Gregory lost his reckoning, especially as at the point where the Hilda struck only a few yards deviation from the regular course meant destruction. Torpedo boats despatched to the scene of the wreck ascertained that there is no hope of salvaging the vessel.

New Enemy of Russian Radicals.
The sudden awakening of the conservative and liberal elements to the imperative necessity for resisting to the utmost the attempt of the radicals and socialists who are conducting the present strike to obtain the upper hand has galvanized the leaders into action and has started a healthy movement in favor of entirely cutting loose from the radical wing.

MM. Dmitri Shipoff and Guechhoff and other leaders of various groups including the constitutional democrats have gone to Moscow to urge the zemstvo congress assembling there to unite all the forces which desire to prevent anarchy in condemning the political strike and to join in supporting the government in its efforts to restore tranquility and introduce the new regime.

Korea Submits to Japs.
The Korean cabinet has agreed to adopt the proposition for a Japanese protectorate over Korea, made by Marquis Ito. It was considered the ministerial majority was sufficient to carry the measure, and after nine hours' debate all except the prime minister submitted to the pressure brought to bear on them by the Japanese minister, Hayashi, and by Gen. Hasegawa, commander of the Japanese troops in Korea.

The Japanese prime minister has already instructed the consuls of Japan and Korea to take the most stringent measures to prevent any abuses taking place which might bring criticism upon the Japanese government and it is believed that the Korean people will be much better governed in the future.

Russ Prisoners Quelled by Japs.
Five hundred Russian soldiers who were taken prisoners by the Japanese during the late war and who are bound for Vladivostok on board the Russian volunteer fleet steamers Vladimir and Boronjei, have shown signs of mutiny at Nagasaki.

The Russian officers applied to the Japanese government for troops and police officers and 100 constables boarded the Boronjei.

Four Japanese torpedo boat destroyers surrounded the two vessels. Vice-Admiral Rojstvensky is on board the Boronjei.

"Poverty Parade" in London.
There was another "poverty parade" in the streets of London Sunday afternoon. Six thousand unemployed men and a sprinkling of women marched along the Thames embankment to Hyde park, where they listened to speeches and adopted resolutions condemning charity as a cure for lack of employment and demanding the summoning of parliament to initiate works of national utility.

Red flags were seen and banners bearing such devices as "Curse your charity, we want work," and "There is a limit to human endurance" indicated the temper of the processionists. The march, however, was quite orderly and the strong forces of police on duty had little to do.

Men Flee From Fiery Death.
The most terrible fire that has occurred in Glasgow for years broke out Sunday in a cheap lodging house for men in Watson street, and resulted in the loss of 39 lives and the severe injury of many others.

U. OF M. BEATS WISCONSIN.

Great Game of Football at Ann Arbor.
If yelling has anything to do with winning a football game, there were fully 20,000 players on Ferry field at Ann Arbor, Saturday afternoon.

Such a mighty throng has never before surrounded Ferry field and such yelling has never been heard before.

Football history, happily minus the somber page of its coincident chapter, repeated itself Saturday, when Michigan triumphed over Wisconsin by a 12 to 0 score that, were it necessary, might have been converted into figures more one-sided. The coincidence came not in the play itself, but in an incident that for a time threatened to change the day from Michigan's most joyous athletic event into the saddest afternoon of the university's history.

With the score 6 to 0, in Michigan's favor, of course, and the second half just started, the temporary stand, at the west end of the field, a sloping platform on which probably 2,000 persons, men and women, were standing, slowly sank beneath the weight of its burden. The supports of the structure, fortunately, gave way gradually, and this, with the fact that there was a very short distance for the drop at most, enabled all save a very few persons on the platform to escape injury. In no case was any person seriously hurt.

LATE NEWS

POSTMASTER-GENERAL CORTELYOU ASKS FOR $193,000,000

SAYS THAT AMOUNT IS NEEDED TO RUN POSTAL SERVICE NEXT YEAR.

Postmaster-General Cortelyou recently completed and forwarded to the secretary of the treasury estimates for the postoffice department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1907. They show a reduction of expenses wherever it is believed it will not impair the service, but provision for development of postal facilities to meet the growing needs of all sections of the country.

The amount asked for salaries in the department proper is $1,481,250, an apparent increase of $61,990 over the current appropriation; but as $58,300 of this is simply a transfer from other appropriations the net increase is only $3,690. The estimate submitted for next year is $44,020 less than the estimate submitted one year ago.

The clerical force of the department, therefore, will remain practically as it now is during the fiscal year.

The estimates for the postal service at large aggregate $193,000,000, an increase over last year's appropriation of about $12,000,000. This increase represents the normal growth of the service based upon what the postal authorities regard as the most careful and conservative estimates. Each succeeding year sees a large increase in the business of the department.

The principal items in the increase are the rural delivery service, railway mail service, compensation to postmasters and their clerks, and the compensation of letter carriers.

For the maintenance of the rural delivery service and its proper extension over $29,000,000 will be required. This is an increase of $3,500,000 over the appropriation for the current year, which, in turn, is over $5,000,000 more than that of last year, so that the present estimate is $1,400,000 less than the increase of the present over the previous year.

Chicago people wanted to pay $2,000 for the franchise and pay taxes and water rates.

Convulsion, Fits, then Epilepsy.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine has been so successful in curing these brain-wrecking diseases that there is every reason to believe that even the most hopeless cases can be benefited, if not fully restored.

We will be pleased to refer any one thus afflicted to many who now enjoy the blessing of health, after years of hopeless suffering.

"I have a son that had brain fever when two years old, followed by fits of the worst type, and he was pronounced incurable. I spent hundreds of dollars for him, without relief. After about fifteen years he became so bad that we sent him to Longfitt hospital for the insane, at Logansport, Ind. He was there nearly three years, but he continued to grow worse, so we brought him home July 30, 1902, in an awful condition. He had lost his mind almost entirely. He could not even find his bed, was a total wreck. He had from 5 to 10 fits a day. We were urged to try Dr. Miles' Nervine, and before the first bottle was used, we could see a change for the better. We have given it to him ever since, and he has had but two very light spells since last August, 1903, and then he was not well other ways. We pronounce him cured, as he can work and go anywhere. If any one wishes to ask any questions concerning this, they are at liberty to do so."

E. H. BUNNELL, Lincoln, Ind.
Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1905.

The fall of the temporary standing bleachers at Ferry field, Ann Arbor, during the progress of the Michigan-Wisconsin game was wonderfully fortunate in causing no more serious casualties than it did. With 2,500 people on the stand, some of them 20 feet up in the air, and to have only about ten people hurt in an anywise serious manner, is something remarkable. Most of the people from Chelsea who attended the game were on this stand and not one of them was hurt.

The Charlotte Republican has the following pertinent sentences to say about a form of graft that few people stop to consider the immensity of. It is a thing that happens just so often in every community, from which the results obtained are all ways of doubtful value: "It will be a wonderfully good thing for humanity, and for the bodies and brains of little children, when the professional concert and semi-theatrical promoter who comes around three or four times a year to get up concerts, can bring his own set of little waifs to sit up late and earn money for him, under the pretense that he is doing it for some local institution. The bodies and brains of young boys and girls are too valuable to trade on; they are too valuable to be strained by evening and midnight hours that nature demands shall be given to sleep. Ah, well, men must have money; and he is a slick financier who can strike the town under the caption of doing good, get a half hundred children that should be studying or playing or helping with chores, to hustle around selling tickets; and get a whole society, boots and spurs, working as though night would come on them before their work was done if they didn't hurry; and then take the train for other fields, leaving behind certain memories and a very little money to heal the wounds."

Saved By Dynamite.

Sometimes a flaming city is saved by dynamiting a space that the fire cannot cross. Sometimes a cough hangs on so long you feel as if nothing but dynamite would cure it. Z. T. Gray, of Calhoun, Ga., writes, "My wife had a very aggravated cough, which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her, so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep and finally cured her." Strictly scientific cure for a gripple, and bronchitis. Price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed at Bank Drug Store. Trial bottle free.

MORE LOCAL.

The revival meetings at the Rowe's Corners church are still in progress.

The U. of M. regents have authorized a $14,000 addition to the university hospital to accommodate Drs. Parker and Canfield in their special work on eye, ear, nose and throat diseases.

The percentage of Michigan students attending the University of Michigan continues to increase, being now 57 per cent of the total enrollment. This is one per cent larger than it was last year.

The Michigan Central on Monday morning began the actual construction of the big tunnel under the Detroit river, with the opening of a main shaft 50 feet long, 24 feet wide and 85 feet deep, just east of the depot at Windsor, Ont.

Undelivered and uncalled for letters will not be advertised hereafter. Postmaster-General Cortelyou found that of the letters advertised fewer than one per cent was claimed. Notices of such mail will be posted in the future in postoffices.

The U. of M. regents have turned down the proposition for the city of Ann Arbor to build an $8,000 contagious disease hospital on the university grounds. They think the close proximity of such a hospital would have a serious effect on the attendance at the university.

The Pere Marquette, Grand Trunk, Ann Arbor, Detroit & Mackinaw, Pere Marquette steamship lines, Detroit & Buffalo Steam Navigation Co. and the Crosby Navigation Co. will withdraw from the Central Passenger Association and will recognize the northern mileage bureau. This will restore old conditions in Michigan.

Jackson Citizen: The automobile is talked of as a vehicle for the transportation of small freight between cities which radiate from Jackson. A number of Detroit men were here Saturday evening discussing the proposition, and it is planned to use the machine between here and Battle Creek, west, and Ann Arbor and Detroit, east. While the matter is still embryonic, it is regarded as practical and will eventually be a big thing.

The postoffice department has issued a new form of money order which went into commission Nov. 15 and will supersede the old as fast as postmasters order new supplies. The new order differs from the old one in several respects. It is arranged to tear from a coupon, leaving on the left margin of the order figures which indicate its particular limit. The new order will also carry on its face the name of the remitter as well as that of the payee.

TO AILING WOMEN.

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many a Sufferer.

No woman can be healthy and well if the kidneys are sick. Poisons that pass off in the urine when the kidneys are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidneys and bladder get inflamed and swollen, crowding the delicate female organs nearby and sometimes displacing them. This is the true cause of many bearing down pains, lameness, backache, sideache, etc. Uric poisoning also causes headaches, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that cures sick kidneys. You will get better as the kidneys get better, and health will return when the kidneys are well.

Mrs. S. Auspoker, of 309 North Shawnee street, Owosso, Mich., says, "Doan's Kidney Pills are not a new remedy to me, for I used them two or three years ago when for some cause such as a cold or the gripple my kidneys troubled me. I do not know what I would have done without them as my trouble was steadily growing worse in spite of all the medicine I took. The kidney secretions were irregular and unnatural. I could not rest comfortably nights and always arose tired and worn out mornings. My general health was poor and this trouble was a great drain on me. I had taken so much medicine that I had little confidence in any, but I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. I soon noticed an improvement in my condition and grew steadily better. I cannot speak too highly of this valuable preparation and am glad to recommend it at all times."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Perry F. Powers, of Cadillac, ex-auditor general of this state, is prominently mentioned for the office of United States collector of internal revenue at Grand Rapids.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.

Peter E. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience: "I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay in early youth, I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me, guessed my secret. I imagined I was shaking, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me I feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for BEFORE TREATMENT baths, but received little benefit. While AFTER TREATMENT at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Dr. Kennedy & Kergan, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through my nerves. I was cured mentally, physically and sexually. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

THE MISSING MAN

"Your question is a strange one, from you to me. If she were my wife, nothing should drag her from me. But if she were not my wife, no hope, nor her beauty, should allure me. Your question has made me doubt, and I will open my heart to you, as I never have to mortal before. I loved that woman profoundly once. It was after she donned black for her husband. I had always derived inspiration from her presence at church; but when he failed to return, I allowed my heart to lead my hopes along. You think, perhaps, that I am incapable of such love as you feel, but I tell you no one can understand what I suffered in wrenching this love from my heart when you came here. But I did it. You can do it, if it is a sin to cherish it."

Mr. Hamnerly arose to depart, and the two stood a moment, face to face. Then each reached forth his hand. "Good night," "Good night," they said and parted.

"No use, no use," said the minister. "I laid bare my heart for nothing. She must be mistaken."

Mr. Carter came into the library and found Mr. Hamilton in deep thought, evidently, for he did not look up.

"I think I will go to bed, Vane," he said.

"All right, I will close up the house," was the reply, and soon Mr. Carter was asleep and dreaming.

One of his dreams he recollected in the morning as a little curious. It was of Vane going by his door, light in hand, all dressed in fine black and gleaming linen, tall, fair, and grand, handsome as a prince. And so he went on, down the stairs, and Mr. Carter went on dreaming, but nothing quite so realistic as that.

But it was not a dream. Mr. Hamilton did pass down the stairs and out the door, dressed with care to look his best, and he was exceedingly handsome.

He saw a light at Mrs. Fry's, and he now you thrust me back into hell," he said, with terrible significance.

The womanly, pitying element awoke in her soul now for the first time. She approached him and laid her soft hand on his arm.

"Victor," she said, "Brother Victor, I can love you. I do love you as a brother. I forgive you what you have done, everything, if you will now set matters right. You have done wrong, but we will forget all that and love you, Vane and I."

For the moment she ceased to think him a forger, a perjurer. She forgot everything in her pity.

"How could you do it, Victor?" was her next womanly cry.

She saw him shrink and cower at her words, and she said, soothingly, "Tell me, tell Sister Constance, about it, Victor."

There was almost divine pity in her voice. Her wrath was all gone when she saw him dejected and penitent before her. He had not confessed. There was no need. She knew he had dropped all disguise before her and would never seek to deceive her again.

"Will you not tell me," she said again, "how it all happened?"

A new light struggled into his face. "Constance," he said, "I am not all bad. I am indeed Vane's brother, and I long ago knew of his search for me. I am a forger, a bank defaulter, but I am not a murderer."

Constance drew back. She had forgotten about Lenora in the excitement of the interview. Now the dreadful charge came back with terrifying force, and she could not prevent the repellent movement.

"No, as heaven is my witness. But of what use are vows in one like me. Here are my written words. They will tell you all—everything. I wrote it long ago, for I meant to give it to Vane; only your beauty kept me in spite of my will to go. I came here to give you this paper to-night; for that, and nothing else; but you see I was led out of my resolve when I lost faith in Christianity. I thought it simply a cloak. Can you understand it?"

"I think I do."

He took her hands, looked into her face, and was gone. Constance sank down into her chair and began to cry silently. But there was joy in her tears, joy for herself and Vane, but sorrow for the one who had left her; who had gone out with the world again because he must. What would be the end of it all?

She arose, and with compressed lips hid the closely written sheets in her drawer, and she did not read them for two weeks instead of one.

Meanwhile, Mr. Carter was alone in the great home, with Tilly only for company. The man known as Primus Edes was in prison, but with comfortable surroundings and cheered by a message from Constance couched in four words, "Courage! There is hope!" while she was still with Mrs. Fry.

No one wondered at the absence of Mr. Hamilton, not even the minister, and no one had the least suspicion that he would never return—no one but Constance.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Confession.

I am the twin brother of Vane Hamilton, and when an infant I was stolen by Solomon Marks and his mother in the hopes of receiving a heavy ransom, as my father was a very wealthy man at that time. But there was raised such a hue and cry that Marks did not dare approach the offers of restoration. I was hidden away for months, and then my father had failed in business and my abductors felt that the hope of reward would scarcely balance the fear of being brought to justice. Therefore I was kept concealed and allowed to grow up among their evil associates in the midst of criminals, if not in squalor and wretchedness.

Marks and his mother were uniformly kind to me, and as I grew up, Marks thought he saw in me means of gain to himself, for he fancied I had talents which might be made useful. Accordingly I was sent to a good school, where I remained until I was fourteen, when I returned to Marks, who had a partner at this time named Soule. No doubt they were engaged in nefarious undertakings, but I did not know anything about it until I was sixteen. Then I was invested with some of the secrets of the gang of which Marks and Soule were the leaders.

I do not recollect that I shrank from their enterprises, which were chiefly such as required great skill and ingenuity—not actual robberies, but dishonest schemes of less pronounced nature. Marks had an office and organized a peculiar kind of business. He sent out letters to business men informing them that on such date their buildings would be consumed by fire, professing to know through the medium of clairvoyance that such attempts were meditated. At first no notice was taken of the communications, but after several warnings were followed by the predicted conflagration, the matter began to be inquired into and the police interested themselves in the matter. Marks was taken into custody, but he appeared innocent of any criminal knowledge, laying it all to a peculiar gift by which he could tell when such fires were meditated; that was all, and he was released. Afterward a new feature was added to these communications. Marks professed to receive impressions that if such sums as he stated were sent to a given address no fire would take place. The sums were not large, and if paid, all went well. If not paid the buildings were burned.

One Passenger Would Have to Go. John McCarthy, a husky, well-built man, was a conductor on the Newton (Mass.) electric railway. One day while running from Newton to Waltham he was very busy collecting fares, and by chance happened to ring in only seventeen fares when there were eighteen people on the car.

A man who was looking at the cash register as John was ringing up the fares looked through the car and counted eighteen people. As John was going to the rear of the car this man said: "Haven't you made a mistake? There are eighteen people on this car, and you have only rung up seventeen fares."

John paused a moment, surprised, and the other man asked: "What are you going to do?"

The conductor looked up and down the car, then replied: "One of them will have to get off."

"Unto the Third and the Fourth."

Helen was in the habit of saying her evening prayers at her grandmother's knee, but as she heartily disliked going to bed, the summons to prayer was not a very welcome one.

At first she contented herself with invoking the Creator's blessing upon the immediate family, but with her growth in wisdom she conceived the idea of postponing her bedtime by lengthening her prayers.

The lengthening process began with the aunts, uncles and cousins, then the intimate friends of the family were honored, and finally she extended her petitions to include the neighbors.

One evening when she reached the very end of her list she said: "God bless Mrs. Brown, God bless Mr. Brown. Grandma, have they got a dog?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Dear sir, it is just as bad to say things that disagree with others as it is to eat things that disagree with yourself.

Fashion

Closely Fitting Undergarments.

It is now more than ever necessary that all undergarments should fit properly. All of the latest gowns fit smoothly in the waist and down over the hips, and burling undergarments are no longer possible. Over the hips especially it is necessary that all garments should fit as smoothly as it is possible to have them, and the back of a corset cover must also be most carefully looked after. In fact, the corset cover throughout should fit as smoothly as the waist, and if it does not the outer garment is sure to suffer. The other garments must fit smoothly over the hips, and the night gowns, of course, depend very largely on their fit and cut for their beauty. No matter how beautiful the material and trimming of a night robe, if it be badly cut, so that it makes the shoulders narrow or draws across the bust, it is a failure. In the other garments to be worn with gowns it is not only the stout woman who needs to be careful as to fit around the waist and hips.

Pretty Dress for Child.

A French dress seen on a sweet little girl of about twelve years of age was made of white dimity with a blue dot in it. The waist buttoned down the back, and was made with a collar and round yoke of all-over open work embroidery. The yoke was set on a round strip of the dimity, which was edged with two flounces, one wide and one narrow, of open-work embroidery to match. Down the front of the waist, starting from the yoke, were two box pleats trimmed with buttons. The waist was made to blouse over a wide belt. The sleeves were made with quite a full puff at the top, joining a long cuff at the elbow, which was made of tucks and embroidery. The skirt was plain and full, and edged with two flounces of embroidery edging, one flounce being wide and the other narrow, like those on the waist.

Imported Design.

The foundation of one imported model is a silk mull of a faint green hue, that indefinite shade known as water green, and which partakes strongly of white. The corsage is decollete and fashioned after a bebe pattern, an overblouse of coarse Irish crochet having the motifs defined with tiny ribbon embroidery. The skirt shows the mull in the upper portion, and down the skirt ribbon-embroidered net alternates with the Irish lace, fern sprays and elaborate bow knots alternating in design, the heavy lace appearing at the hem. The sleeve is a simple puff with an over-drapery caught in the middle with a ribbon bow, and the black gloves are matched in the celure of black velvet ribbon that encircles the waist.

Salt Water and Muscle.

A writer in the Delineator speaks of the "little things of housekeeping" that mean so much one way or the other. The squeaking door, for example, which gets on the nerves, can be quieted by a feather dipped in oil and applied to its hinges. Woodwork, pencil-marked by little fingers, can be made immaculate by rubbing with a split of lemon and afterward with a little whitening on a cloth. Spots on carpets or rugs should be dusted with fuller's earth and afterward rubbed with benzine. Shabby willow furniture is made new by scrubbing with strong salt water.

Dainty House Apron.

Pretty and dainty ladies' house aprons are in great demand this season, and many new designs are shown. The one illustrated is quite novel and dressy, and will protect the front of the waist as well as the skirt, as the bib comes up over the shoulder and fastens in the back.

Narrow edging is used to finish the edges. Linen, cross-barred muslin, lawn, gingham and nainsook material will be required for the making. No woman who does housework should be without an apron like this one.

In Blue Broadcloth.

Richness and gorgeousness to a degree that would be barbaric were the results not so harmonious in color and so beautiful in line are characteristic of a great number of the new trimmings and gold, silver and other metallic effects enter into many, but embroidery is the feature that runs riot everywhere. But no matter what other trimmings are used they are fairly sure to be re-enforced by touches of velvet. A stunning suit of blue broadcloth has a wide circular skirt with tiny tucks over the hips and two deep tucks around the bottom. The bodice closes under the arm and has a bib front of gold embroidered white silk, outlined by a narrow band of blue velvet. The elbow sleeves are one large puff with three tucks over top and finished with a turned cuff of velvet and a frill of cream lace. The buttons on designed piece in front are cut steel.

Small Coat.

Coats are quite a necessary part of the wardrobe and that intended for the little girl or boy must be in quite as good style as those for older wearers.

Here is a little coat very simply made and of excellent style. It fastens in double-breasted manner and requires no fitting except for the shoulder seam. A double cape collar provides extra warmth over the shoulders and adds to its attractiveness. The coat may be loosely belted in a long-waisted manner if desired. Blue or brown serge with narrow stitched pieces finishing front, collar and sleeve edges, would prove pleasing and wear well. A soft silk should line the coat and offer a contrast in color. Large pearl, bone or enamel buttons serve for adornment and fastening.

Home-Made Work Basket.

The medium-sized Japanese straw bathing hat makes a pretty work basket. The crown is dented inward, making a receptacle, when lined with satin or silk, for sewing implements; scissors, kept in place by a band of ribbon sewed into the lining; a pin cushion attached also to the lining and a pad for needles, says the Brooklyn Eagle. The hat is bound with ribbons and the edges are curled up all around, further carrying out the work-basket idea. Red satin is very pretty for a lining for one of these hats, and pale blue, light green, or yellow all combine well with that of the straw also.

For Silver Cleaning.

The tops of old silk or cotton stockings should always be saved and prepared for plate cleaning. Take the tops, sprinkle liberally with lard and cover with cold water. Set on the stove to simmer, adding a little water occasionally if required, says the Brooklyn Times. Move the pieces about in the water, then wring them lightly and dry. Keep these in a tin box with a well fitting lid, and use as required. They impart a brilliant polish to silver or plated articles and do not soil the hands.

Have You a Utility Box?

Utility boxes are now considered indispensable for every room. Among popular schemes they are constructed so as to make a window seat running along the line of the wall underneath the sills. The top is heavily padded, the whole covered with a corduroy in blue and green, or a cretonne of flowery pattern, or, if preferred, an ooze leather of some well selected shade. A substantial affair is made of ooze, in a rich tan color, the lower part finished with gilt nails, while the cover is fire-treated in some design to match the prevailing scheme.

Adaptation in Trimming.

Delightfully original trimming schemes can be designed to meet the fall fashions; and they can be twisted and altered and turned about to suit the height and style and build of the wearer. If the round-and-round style of skirt decoration that is so popular prove unbecoming—it is undeniably trying to the short girl, and absolutely disfiguring to an overly stout figure—then the trimming can be arranged in Van Dyke points or in the novel picket fence style. When the skirt is of the many gored variety the gores are trimmed in straight lines to about the knee.

Sauce for Pudding.

One teaspoonful of white sugar, one-half cupful of butter, one egg, separate and beat the white to a froth, and the yolk with the butter and sugar and a little flour; add hot water and wine to the taste. Stir in the white of the egg just before serving.

"When three months old my boy broke out with an itching, watery rash all over his body, and he would scratch till the blood ran. We tried nearly everything, but he grew worse, wasting to a skeleton, and we feared he would die. He slept only when in our arms. The first application of Cuticura soothed him so that he slept in his cradle for the first time in many weeks. One set of Cuticura made a complete and permanent cure. (Signed) Mrs. M. C. HOSPITALS CROWDED

MAJORITY OF PATIENTS WOMEN

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Saves Many From this Sad and Costly Experience.

It is a sad but true fact that every year brings an increase in the number of operations performed upon women in our hospitals. More than three-fourths of the patients lying on those white beds are women and girls who are awaiting or recovering from operations made necessary by neglect.

Every one of these patients had plenty of warning in that bearing down feeling, pain at the left or right of the womb, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back, leucorrhoea, dizziness, flatulency, displacements of the womb or irregularities. All of these symptoms are indications of an unhealthy condition of the ovaries or womb, and if not heeded the trouble will make headway until the penalty has to be paid by a dangerous operation, and a lifetime of impaired usefulness at best, while in many cases the results are fatal.

The following letter should bring hope to suffering women. Miss Luella Adams, of the Colonnade Hotel, Seattle, Wash., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"About two years ago I was a great sufferer from a severe female trouble, pains and headaches. The doctor prescribed for me and finally told me that I had a tumor on the womb and must undergo an operation if I wanted to get well. I felt that this was my death warrant, but I spent hundreds of dollars for medical help, but the tumor kept growing. Fortunately I corresponded with an aunt in the New England States, and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it was said to cure tumors. I did so and immediately began to improve in health, and I was entirely cured, the tumor disappearing entirely, without an operation. I wish every suffering woman would try this great preparation."

Just as surely as Miss Adams was cured of the troubles enumerated in her letter, just so surely will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure every woman in the land who suffers from womb troubles, inflammation of the ovaries, kidney troubles, nervous excitability and nervous prostration.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all young women who are ill to write her for free advice. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Colonel Arthur L. Hamilton, of the 7th Ohio Volunteers, 259 Goodale street, Columbus, O., writes: "As a remedy for catarrh and stomach trouble I fully recommend Peruna." Mrs. Hamilton, wife of the gallant Colonel, is an ardent friend of Peruna also.

Value of Eastern Ferries. The value of the Pennsylvania ferries between Jersey City, New York, Brooklyn and the Bronx is $5,698,000.

There is only one right way to work—and it is neither in doing things before they are started, nor in doing them all over again after they are finished.

DISTRESS AFTER MEALS

Sure Sign That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Are Needed to Tone Up the Digestive Organs.

Loss of appetite, distress after eating, shortness of breath, a feeling of utter weakness—these are symptoms that are familiar to most sufferers from stomach trouble. Too often the ordinary doctor's treatment serves but to weaken the diseased organs.

The new tonic method of treating disorders of this kind does not aim to do the work of the stomach, does not demand that the food be pre-digested, but builds up the weakened organs, so that they can do the work that nature intended.

Mrs. L. O. Law, of No. 324 North Street, Horton, Kansas, says: "In 1897, while we were living on a farm in this neighborhood, I became generally debilitated as the result of overwork. I had serious indigestion, lost my appetite, suffered from a sense of suffocation and from obstruction of the circulation, so that artificial means had to be used to restore it. After suffering for months without finding any relief, I tried a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills of which I had read in a newspaper. The first few boxes made me lots better, and after using the third box I felt entirely well.

"I am now in excellent health and am able not only to take care of my house but also to assist my husband in a store which he has lately taken. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me and I can recommend them. They are so simple, so easily taken and so prompt in their action."

Remember Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do not act on the bowels. They make new blood and restore shattered nerves. In this way they carry health and vigor to every organ and fiber of the body. They are sold by all druggists or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 60 cents per box; six boxes for $3.50, by Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

DIVIDED WITH THE DEACON

A local condition of things, the very mention of which makes everybody sorry on one side or the other, induced a nice old lady to tell a story which took her back to the days of her childhood in western Vermont. At that time there was a strong "local option" fight going on, and all the church people were arrayed up on the side of no temperance, but total abstinence.

Dr. Josiah Hopkins, one of the most famous Congregational preachers of his day, had come among them for a little while, and he said some things about real temperance and personal liberty that shocked the good people of Vermont.

Dr. Hopkins happened to know that most of the deacons in the church had wine in their cellars, and that they were all given to "tipping on the quiet," and he did not hesitate to denounce them as rank hypocrites. The father of the elderly lady who told the story was himself a deacon in the church, and he had "powerful weakness" for the beer that was brewed at a small brewery in the neighborhood.

One afternoon he chanced to be walking along the road, when he saw Dr. Hopkins come out of the brewery, place a jug under the seat of his buggy and climb in. The deacon accosted him and asked for a ride to town. The request was promptly granted. As soon as the horse had resumed its even trot down the road, the deacon said:

"Well, parson, you are discovered. I saw you put something suspicious under the seat of the buggy, but I promise not to tell on you if you will divide with me."

The eminent divine turned upon him a benignant smile, as he said: "So you have caught me practicing what I preach. I say it is matter for each man's conscience. Now I feel that I am justified in getting that jug from the brewery. I shall not drink a drop of it. I got it for my wife; but if you want a drink, you are welcome to all you can take from the mouth of the jug. I have no cup."

"Thank you, parson," the deacon returned. "If your wife drinks beer, I am sure you will not tell on me. Let me have the jug when we reach your clump of trees; that will screen us from view. I will show you how much I can take from the mouth of a jug at one pull," and he reached for the jug.

As soon as they reached the clump of trees, the entire road being deserted, he drew out the cork, threw back his head and made ready for a "long strong pull." Suddenly he began to cough, sneeze and sputter, while a torrent of bubbling brewer's yeast spread over his face, his hair and his clothing. It ran down the back of his coat and the front of his shirt; it got into his eyes, his ears and his nose; but the parson comforted him by saying:

"You see, I never drink it. I got it for my wife."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

CENSUS TAKER IN TROUBLE

The census man had passed a weary morning, and when he saw little Mrs. Remick's firm and scornful expression, he realized that his afternoon troubles were beginning.

"My husband's initials are A. J.," said Mrs. Remick, in response to one of the usual questions. "Just A. J.—that is all."

"If the bank people can accept his checks signed in that way, I fail to see why you should care personally to know what his name is."

"If it is the government, of course, I can hardly refuse to give you his name, though I consider it very prying on their part to insist. My husband's name is Aaron Jenkins Remick, and if you are going to put that on your records, I wish you to distinctly state that he was named for his grandfather, and that it was a question of propitiation after family troubles. His mother wished to name him Herbert Arundel, for a dear friend."

"My name is Gertrude A. Remick."

"You may write it Gertrude if you choose. I never sign it that way. The A. stands for Adams, my maiden name."

"Well, I think my father would like to hear you say I had no legal right to both names! Just as if I stopped being an Adams when I married A. J. It's perfectly absurd!"

"Mr. Remick's age? Well, really, when he told me that he was so much older, he hardly dared ask me to marry him. I said at once, 'I shall never ask you how old you are,' and I never have."

"Any objection to telling my own? Any objection to telling me the point of such a question, sir. A woman who was only 26 on her last birthday does not generally have the least objection to telling it."

"No, there is not any one living with us at present, that is, she goes home nights; she has a family of her own."

"Of course she isn't here this afternoon—this is Thursday. I suppose in your business all afternoons are alike."

"Do I vote? Do I vote? Really, I shall have to ask you to go. Mr. Remick said he hoped the next time any one came and tried to talk to me about voting I'd send that person to him. I will bid you good afternoon."—Youth's Companion.

SOME QUAINT MENU CARDS

Designers of menu cards and menu holders, ever quick to derive inspiration from the topic of the moment, dressed cardboard dolls like little Japanese beauties yesterday and set the damsels, in recognition of the new alliance, to support the cards on which dinner menus were inscribed, says the London Mail.

Dolls have been very popular of late as menu holders; their cardboard faces are charmingly painted by hand and upon their cardboard bodies paper toilettes are arranged.

The motor car has pressed into the service of the designer so frequently of late that a new form of it as a menu holder would appear to be an impossibility. But in its latest edition, though only made of cardboard, the automobile is a perfect wonder.

It is beautifully modeled and the wheels run smoothly over the cloth. The menu is inscribed on the roof of the car and the whole equipage is trundled from guest to guest bearing its message aloft so that only two cars are required for one table.

Rose petals, though made of paper, so like the garden flower picked to pieces that the eye is at first completely deceived, are used both for the menu and for place inscriptions; and lily petals, still more ethereal, are employed in like manner.

For feasts that comprise oysters and other shellfish, there are shell menu cards, which in many cases are not cards at all, but beautifully polished shells with mother-of-pearl linings, upon which details concerning the different courses are written.

IN THE GOLDEN TWILIGHT

"I am old," he assures us with sweetness. And for the best of reasons. Undimmed that the years in their fleetness Count now in small numbers—the rest And his tones in their quiet beguiling. Our heart-echo ever shall hold To grief; though he uttered them smiling. "It is now afternoon; I am old."

Is he old? Oh, weight of lip-phrase, You change into speech of fine gold. Into splendid fulfillment of prayers When you say of this man, "He is old." You tell of a mind of hid treasure. And a heart of pure depths shining clear. Or youth gathered up beyond measure That year has but added to year.

A soul of large hidden resources. Its wealth meekly shared with his kind. Attainment with spirit's grand forces; In being most noble, refined. Uplifted in thought and in feeling; Of Nature an intimate guest. To such doth she make her revealing. And crowneth such souls in their quest. Are they old, these lives of rare sweetness?

Ab, no, they are fresh, they are young! And for the most part of completeness All praise that may ever be sung. Young with the youth of the spirit, This soul where divinity reigns, Which lifteth the lives that come near it More close to the spirit's domains.

And those who have loved him at morning And those who have known him at noon. And we of a too late acquaintance Would hinder the clock striking soon. Four o'clock is the hour that he cried us, "But we laugh back, 'The night is yet far.'"

He is still in the sunshine beside us. Where friends who would keep him yet are. Four o'clock? The day is still golden! We yet count our treasure secure. And pray when with far we are hidden His day may to evening endure. Choice friendship our ideals remaking. Its grace we will cherish the while. That life still holds out for the taking The cheer and uplift of his smile. —Springfield Republican.

AND THE CONDUCTOR SAID?

In the early nineties, when the famous "Snake line," the Central Massachusetts road, was running independently, one of the most prominent conductors had the following humiliating experience:

On leaving the city, when he first came through the train collecting the tickets, an old woman who had barricaded herself in two seats by numberless handbags and bundles, and had hung a large bird cage from the hook above her head, handed him her ticket, and told him to be sure and tell her when the train reached Wayland. He promised faithfully, and continued taking up the tickets.

On his return trip from the rear of the car, the old lady told him again to be sure and not forget to tell her when the train reached Wayland. The conductor promised her again and went his way. On each successive trip through the train that he made the old lady made him promise anew, until his patience was well-nigh exhausted.

Imagine his consternation on finding the train nearly a mile beyond Wayland, and remembering the old lady for the first time. He quickly stopped the train, and hastening forward to the engineer, explained that they must back the train into Wayland for her, or she could make them a good deal of trouble.

When this maneuver had been performed he hastened back to the old lady, and said, in his blandest tone: "Madam, this is your station—Wayland."

"Oh, thank you," she replied, taking down the bird cage, "my sister told me to be sure and feed the bird at Wayland!"

WASTED TO A SHADOW.

But Found a Cure After Fifteen Years of Suffering.

A. H. Stotts, messenger at the State Capitol, Columbus, O., says:

"For fifteen years I had kidney troubles, and though I doctored faithfully, could not find a cure. I had heavy backaches, dizzy headaches and terrible urinary disorders. One day I collapsed, fell insensible on the sidewalk, and then wasted away in bed for ten weeks. After being given up, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. In a couple of months I regained my old health, and now weigh 158 pounds. Twelve boxes did it, and I have been well two years."

SURE CURE FOR ASTHMA

The Worst Cases of 30 Years' Standing Can Be Cured as Quickly and Easily as the Milder Cases.

About 6 years ago I accidentally discovered the true cause of asthma. The following two years I experimented until I mastered the removal of that cause.

After the complete removal of the cause all asthmatic symptoms disappeared and every patient was well.

This is the story, in a nutshell, of my treatment and cure of this dreaded and harassing malady. No man in the world treats asthma as I do, and no man or institution cures every bad case as I do. I use no drugs that will make habituals of those who use them, and most cases are relieved in a few days—all of them in a few weeks.

I could exact large fees from those I cure, but I do not. My charges are reasonable. If I do not give my services free, the money I demand for a guaranteed cure would not pay for the drugs in many cases were I to send my patients to a drug store with prescriptions.

With my guarantee there will be no extra expense whatever should I fail to effect a complete and permanent cure. All examinations are free. I would like to have every asthmatic sufferer in Michigan call and investigate. It is a great satisfaction for me to relieve these terrible sufferers and I like to do it.

There are hundreds in and around this city whom I have cured. Go and see them and see their neighbors. What their neighbor can surely be relied upon.

Why suffer a lifetime with this distressing malady when a complete and permanent cure can be obtained so easily and for so small a price.
