QUARTERLY CONFERENCE

HELD AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

Last Saturday Evening, January 6, 1906, and Presided Over by Dr. Wm. Dawe, Presiding Elder of This District.

Last Saturday evening the second quarterly conference was held in the Methodist church, Dr. Wm. Dawe presiding. The conference from first to last was as much unlike the usual run of quarterly conferences and as far ahead in its grasp and spirit as the Wolverine express at 70 miles an hour is ahead of the old stage coach.

The feeling at large in the Methodist denomination has been that the presiding eldership either did not measure up to the demands of the age, or was a relic of pioneer days, and the quarterly conference an institution that only a few were formerly interested in, thus destitute of life and power—to all intents and purposes, a valley of dry bones.

It is very evident that Ann Arbor district has at its head in Dr. Dawe a man who has the genius of management, who is able to bring up the best from the old order of things which the fathers of methodism remember and loved so well, and adapt them to the needs of the present, and has virtually stepped into the valley filled with that which was destitute of interest and life and said, "Let these bones live."

At 6:30 Saturday evening, forty-five members of the official board, teachers in the Sunday school, officers of Epworth League, Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary societies, and Ladies Aid society, sat down to a delightful lunch prepared by the Ladies Aid society.

After a very pleasant hour, the Doctor opened the conference. Reports of the condition of church work were made by the officers, the pastor on the work in general, Mr. Henry Stimson on Sunday school, Mrs. Dr. Palmer on the ladies aid, Mrs. George Jackson on the spiritual condition, and Mr. A. T. Gorton on the Epworth League. These reports were commented on by the presiding elder in a most helpful way. At the close of the conference Dr. Dawe addressed the assembly on the outlook.

Old members remarked at the close that it was the best conference they ever attended. We understand that the date is set and plans formed for the third conference, April 29th, when lunch will be served, quarterly work ending with a splendid program on Sunday school work.

We would not be surprised if this Daweanian method grew in favor with presiding elders, pastors and church officers all over the country.

Moved and supported that H. L. Wood be given a rebate of two cents per foot on sidewalk on account of his doing his own filling for same. Carried.

Moved by Vogel, seconded by Colton, that the claim of E. L. Negus for injuries received in falling into the pump room be referred to the village attorney. Carried.

CHELSEA, MICH., Jan. 3, 1906. To the President and members of the Common Council of the Village of Chelsea:

The majority of your committee to whom was referred the communication of the Glazier Stove Company beg leave to make the following report:

We find, after a careful perusal of the communication referred to us, that it is the desire of the Glazier Stove Company that the Council close that portion of Railroad Street between Main Street and East Street.

We find, after an investigation and consultation with the village attorney, that this council, by a two-thirds vote of the trustees elect, may vote to deem it advisable to close said street.

And, after considering the communication and an investigation of the contract existing between the Glazier Stove Company and the village of Chelsea, that the village is furnishing lights, power and water to said Stove Company for a great deal less than cost, and that we deem it advisable to negotiate with the Glazier Stove Company to obtain, if possible, a new contract which would be equitable and just between both said parties, and, if an amicable adjustment of the matter can be brought about, between said Glazier Stove Company and this village, we believe the whole matter can be settled, i. e., the village receive a just compensation for lights, power and water furnished, and in return that necessary steps can be taken to close said street.

Moved by Colton, seconded by Vogel, that the report of the street committee be accepted as read.

Yeas—Colton and Vogel.

Nays—Burkhardt, Knapp, Eppler and Sweetland.

Lost.

Moved by Colton, seconded by Sweetland, that the street committee be instructed to get prices on the necessary signs for naming the streets in the Village of Chelsea and report at the next regular meeting. Carried.

Moved by Burkhardt, seconded by Sweetland, that the electric light committee be instructed to purchase 300 feet of new fire hose. Carried.

Moved by Colton, seconded by Vogel, that the motion in regard to the settlement of the Wm. Kelley bill, made at the meeting of December 6, 1905, be stricken from the records, and that the action of the president in paying the bill of $141.29 to the owner of the Kelley property be confirmed. Carried.

On motion, board adjourned.

W. H. HESLSCHER, Clerk.

DATES FOR THE YEAR 1906.

Ash Wednesday Will Fall on February 28th, and Easter Sunday on April 15th.

This Year

Lent will begin early this year. Ash Wednesday will fall on February 28, and the period of sack cloth and ashes will close on April 15. The calendars for the year 1906 give the following dates for the feasts and fasts of the church:

Epiphany, January 6; Septuagesima Sunday, February 11; Sexagesima Sunday, February 18; Quinquagesima Sunday, February 25; Shrove Tuesday, February 27; Ash Wednesday, February 28; Quadragesima Sunday, March 4; Palm Sunday, April 8; Good Friday, April 13; Easter Sunday, April 15; Low Sunday, April 22; Rogation Sunday, May 20; Ascension Day, May 24; Whit Sunday, June 3; Trinity Sunday, June 10; Corpus Christi, June 14; Advent Sunday, December 2.

The secular holidays during the coming year follow:

New Year's day, 1906, Monday; St. Valentine's Day on Wednesday; Washington's birthday on Thursday; Memorial Day on Wednesday; Independence Day on Wednesday; Labor Day on Monday, September 3; Halow'een on Wednesday, October 31; Thanksgiving Day on November 29, and Christmas Day on Tuesday.

Correspondence of dates, between the coming year and those of other years, are given thus by the almanac:

The year 1906 corresponds to the year 6619 of the Julian period; the year 5067 of the Jewish era (the year begins at sunset on September 10); the year 2659 since the foundation of Rome, according to Varro; the year 2566 of the Japanese era, and to the 89th year of the period entitled "Meiji"; the year 1824 of the Mohammedan era, or the era of the Hegira, begins on the 25th day of February, 1906. The first day of January, 1906, is the 2,417,212th day since the commencement of the Julian period.

There will be three eclipses of the sun in 1906 and two of the moon.

HELD ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the German Mutual Fire Insurance Co. was held in Ann Arbor Monday and the following officers elected: President, Fred Fiegel, Pittsfield; vice president, Henry Feldkamp, Ann Arbor town; secretary, Charles Braun, Ann Arbor town; treasurer, Michael P. Alber, Freedom; director for three years, George J. Feldkamp, Saline.

It now has 2,035 members, a gain of 50 over last year, and its capital stock is $4,878,808, a gain of $188,140 over last year. The losses last year amounted to $4,346.

PROSECUTOR'S REPORT.

FOR THE PAST SIX MONTHS.

Four Hundred and Ninety-Seven Cases Have Been Tried During That Time and Not One Was Acquitted.

Prosecuting Attorney Sawyer has filed his report for the six months ending December 31, 1905. The fines he has collected during the six months amount to $350.

A total of 497 cases were prosecuted by him, of which 479 resulted in convictions, 11 were dismissed on payment of costs, four were nolle prossed, two were settled and one was dismissed on examination of the prisoner.

The drunks head the list of cases, as usual, there being 210 of this class. Vagrants come next with 134. Among the other cases are twelve truancy, eight violations of the liquor law and two forgery.

MOVING PICTURES

Welcott & Hecox are coming January 17, with a superb collection of beautiful moving pictures.

Never were the people of this vicinity offered an opportunity to see a greater or better collection of high class motion pictures. The scenes from the works of master minds, picturing actual happenings in life. Some portray situations and conditions as seen by deep impassive writers. The humorous predicaments of life are plainly shown and provoke side splitting laughter, while the serious situations awaken keen interest and exciting anticipation.

The young tramps, a great scene. The theft is made. Burning the haystack. The fire department. The chase. The capture. The escape. The cow boys and the Indians. This wonderful work attracts special comment every where. It plainly shows the danger of life on the frontier, begins with the whipping of an Indian marauder who wears vengeance. The holdup of the stage coach, abduction of the wife and child. The messenger dog carries the news. The pursuit and capture, real excitement. Illustrated songs rendered by Master Earl Calkins the world's famous tenor singer. Comic scenes and plenty of fun. Thrilling, refined, exciting, educating, moral, its good for everybody. Two hours uninterrupted entertainment. Benefit of new Parochial school, opera house Chelsea, Jan. 17, '06.

The owners of this show guarantee complete satisfaction. The cost of admittance will gladly be returned to any one who is not perfectly pleased with the entertainment.

ANNUAL CHURCH MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Congregational church and society was held Monday evening. Although the church was without a pastor during six months of the year, nearly all of the reports were of an encouraging nature. The report of the treasurer, W. J. Knapp, showed that the current expenses had all been paid, the deficit of the previous year had been met, and there is a balance of $56 in the treasury. The receipts for the year were $1,560. All the officers whose terms had expired were re-elected.

Trustees—L. T. Freeman, S. A. Mapes. Clerk of Church and Society—D. H. Warster.

Deacon—C. M. Davis. Deaconess—Mrs. C. H. Kempf. Church Clerk and Treasurer—Mrs. H. S. Hoflies.

CHORAL UNION SERIES.

The third number of the Choral Union Series will be given by George Hamlin, a noted tenor singer, at University hall, Ann Arbor, on Thursday evening, January 18th. George Hamlin has for a long time been known as one of our best equipped and most reliable concert singers. Several years ago he entered upon the special study of the songs of Richard Strauss, who is the greatest living representative of that most beautiful form, the German Lied. He succeeded in arousing genuine enthusiasm for these works in this country, and this success has been surpassed by his veritable triumphs in Germany and France during last season. He sang in some of the most important choral concerts in Germany with remarkable success, but it was reserved for him to make his greatest triumphs as an interpreter of Richard Strauss. He will present a program largely made up of selections from this master.

BREITENBACH-SUMNER.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place Tuesday, January 9, at 8 o'clock, at the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart, when Miss Ella Breitenbach and Mr. Edward Sumner were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Rev. W. P. Conside officiating.

The bride was dressed in blue mousseline and was attended by her niece, Miss Elizabeth Breitenbach, who wore blue chiffon tulle. The groom was attended by Mr. William Kelly. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride. The happy couple left for a short wedding trip on the 10:40 train.

Three little babes were nestled in bed, "I'll name William, Willie and Bill," mother said; "Wide was her smile, for triplets they be, She lays her good luck to Rocky Mountain Tea. (Great baby medicine.) Bank drug store.

As an article of diet, the blue racer of all snakes, is said to be the most delicate in flavor, as it is very clean in its habits and particular as to its food. The flesh of the rattler is also perfectly wholesome and toothsome having a flavor, like the flesh of most snakes, like chicken.

Do Not Fear Leprosy.

A doctor remarks: "What strikes me most at a Bengal hospital is the lack of sense of proportion in the estimation of diseases. A man is gravely perturbed because he has not sneezed for three months, but he is comparatively indifferent to the fact that he exhibits the early signs of leprosy."

WOMEN WHO SUFFER

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the One Remedy Particularly Suited For Feminine Ills.

To women who suffer Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth their weight in gold. At special periods a woman needs medicine to regulate her blood supply or bring her life to a round of pain and suffering. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are absolutely the finest medicine that ever saw blood. They actually make new blood. They are good for men too—but they are good in a special way for women.

"It was three years ago last spring that my health failed me," says Mrs. Arthur Conklin of No. 5 Coldwater street, Battle Creek, Mich. "I suffered from leucorrhoea and other troubles that, I presume, were caused by the weakness it produced. I had sinking spells, nervous headaches, and was exhausted all the time and looked like a walking skeleton.

"My neck and limbs would ache almost continually and there were days when I was absolutely helpless from sick headache. I tried one doctor after another but cannot say that they helped me at all. My liver was sluggish and I was troubled some with constipation.

"One day a physician who had now retired from practice met my husband on the street and inquired about my health. He advised my husband to get some of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for me, said they were a good medicine, better for my trouble than he could put up. I tried them, improved steadily and soon was entirely cured. As soon as the leucorrhoea was cured the headaches and other pains stopped. I am entirely well now but intend to continue to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a spring tonic.

The genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists and by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

"Miss Cullen," I said, gravely, "you have those letters, and must give them to me."

"But I told you—" she began.

To spare her a second untruth, I interrupted her by saying, "I trapped your brother into acknowledging that you have them."

"You must have misunderstood him," she replied, calmly, "or else he didn't know that the arrangement was changed."

Her steadiness rather shocked my conviction, but I said, "You must give me those letters, or I must search you."

"You never would!" she cried, rising and looking me in the face.

On impulse I tried a big bluff. I took hold of the lapel of her waist, intending to undo just one button. I let go in fright when I found there was no button—only an awful complication of hooks or some other feminine method of keeping things together—and I grew red and trembled, thinking what might have happened had I, by bad luck, made anything come undone. If Miss Cullen had been noticing me, she would have seen a terribly scared man.

But she wasn't, luckily, for the moment my hand touched her dress, and before she could realize that I snatched it away, she collapsed on the rock, and burst into tears.

"Oh! oh!" she sobbed. "I begged papa not to, but he insisted they were safest with me. I'll give them to you, if you'll only 'to away and not—'" Her tears made her inarticulate, and without waiting for more I ran into the hut, feeling as near like a murderer as a gutless man could.

Lord Ralles by this time was making almost as much noise as an engine pulling a heavy freight up grade under forced draft, swearing over his trousers, and was offering the cowboy and Hance money to recover them. When they told him this was impossible he tried to get them to sell or hire a pair, but they didn't like the idea of riding into camp minus those essentials any better than he did. While I waited they settled the difficulty by strapping a blanket around him, and by splitting it up the middle and using plenty of cord they rigged him out after a fashion; but I think if he could have seen himself and been given an option he would have preferred to wait till it was dark enough to creep into camp unnoticed.

Before long Miss Cullen called, and when I went to her she handed me, without a word, three letters. As she did so she crimsoned violently, and looked down in her mortification. I was so sorry for her that, though a moment before I had been judging her harshly, I now couldn't help saying: "Our positions have been so difficult, Miss Cullen, that I don't think either of us is quite responsible for our actions."

She said nothing, and after a pause, I continued: "I hope you'll think as leniently of my conduct as you can, for I can't tell you how grieved I am to have pained you."

Cullen joined us at this point, and, knowing that every moment we remained would be distressing to his sister, I announced that we would start up the trail. I hadn't the heart to offer to help her to mount, and after Frederic had put her up we fell into single file behind Hance, Lord Ralles coming last.

As soon as we started I took a look at the three letters. They were all addressed to Theodore E. Camp, Esq., Ash Forks, Arizona,—one of the dis-

"Was it worth the risk?" I ejaculated.

"If we had succeeded, yes. My father had put more than was safe into Missouri Western and into California Central. The G. S. wants control to end the traffic agreement, and that means bankruptcy to my father."

I nodded, seeing it all as clear as day, and hardly blaming the Cullens for what they had done; for any one who has dealings with the G. S. is driven to pretty desperate methods to keep from being crushed, and when one is fighting an antagonist that won't regard the law, or rather one that, through control of legislators and judges, makes the law to suit its needs, the temptation is strong to use the same weapons one's self.

"The toughest part of it is," Fred went on, "that we thought we had the whole thing 'hands down,' and that was what made my father go in so deep. Only the death of one of the sand shares of K. & A., got us in this time, for the G. S. put up a relation to contest the will, and so delayed the obtaining of letters of administration, blocking his executors from giving proxy. It was as mean a trick as ever was played."

"The G. S. is a tough customer to fight," I remarked, and asked, "Why didn't you burn the letters?" really wishing they had done so.

"We feared duplicate proxies might get through in time, and thought that by keeping these we might cook up a question as to which were legal, and then by injunction prevent the use of either."

"And those Englishmen," I inquired, "are they real?"

"Oh, certainly," he rejoined. "They were visiting my brother, and thought the whole thing great larks." Then he told me how the thing had been done. They had sent Miss Cullen to my car, so as to get me out of the way, though she hadn't known it. He and his brother got off the train at the last stop, with guns and masks, and concealed themselves on the platform of the mail-car. Here they had been joined by the Britishers at the right moment, the disguises assumed, and the train held up as already told. Of course the dynamite cartridge was only a blind, and the letter's had been thrown about the car merely to confuse the clerk. Then while Frederic Cullen, with the letters, had stolen back to the car, the two Englishmen had crept back to where they had stood. Here, as had been arranged, they opened fire, which Albert Cullen duly returned, and then joined them.

"I don't see now how you spotted us," Frederic ended.

I told him, and his disgust was amusing to see. "Going to Oxford would be all right for classics," he growled, "but it's destructive to gumption."

"We rode into camp a pretty gloomy crowd, and those of the party waiting for us there were not much better; but when Lord Ralles dismounted and showed up in his substitute for trousers there was a general shout of laughter. Even Miss Cullen had to laugh for a moment. And as his lordship bolted for his tent, I said to myself, 'Honors are easy.'

I told the sheriff that I had recovered lost property, but did not think any arrests necessary as yet; and as he was the agent of the K. & A. at Flagstaff, he didn't question my opinion. I ordered the stage out, and told 'Free to give us a feed before we start,' but a more silent meal I never sat down to, and I noticed that Miss Cullen didn't eat anything, while the tragic look on her face was so pathetic as nearly to drive me frantic.

We started a little after five, and were clear of the timber before it was too dark to see. At the relay station we waited an hour for the moon, after which it was a clear track. We reached the half-way ranch about eleven, and while changing the stage horses I roused Mrs. Klostermeyer, and succeeded in getting enough cold mutton and bread to make two rather decent-looking sandwiches. With these and a glass of whiskey and water I went to the stage, to find Miss Cullen curled up on the seat asleep, her head resting in her brother's arms.

"She has nearly worried herself to death ever since you told her that road agents were hung," Frederic whispered; "and she's been crying to-night over the lie she told you, and altogether she's worn out with travel and excitement."

I screwed the cover on the traveling glass, and put it with the sandwiches in the bottom of the stage. "It's a long and a rough ride," I said, "and if she wakes up they may give her a little strength. I only wish I could have spared her the fatigue and anxiety."

"She thought she had to lie for father's sake, but she's nearly broken-hearted over it," he continued.

I looked Frederic in the face as I said, "I honor her for it," and in that moment he and I became friends.

"Just see how pretty she is!" he whispered, with evident affection and pride, turning back the flap of the rug in which she was wrapped.

She was breathing gently, and there was just that touch of weariness and sadness in her face that would appeal to any man. It made me gulp, I'm proud to say; and when I myself, for her sake, I'll pull the Cullens out of this scrape, if it costs me my position."

CHAPTER VII.

A Change of Base.

We did not reach Flagstaff till seven, and I told the stage-load to take possession of their car, while I went to my own. It took me some time to get freshened up, and then I ate my breakfast, for after riding seventy-two miles in one night even the most heroic purposes have to take the side-track. I think, as it was, I proved my devotion pretty well by not going to sleep, since I had been up three nights, with only such naps as I could steal in the saddle; and had ridden over a hundred and fifty miles to boot. But I couldn't bear to think of Miss Cullen's anxiety, and the moment I had made myself decent, and finished eating, I went into 218.

The party were all in the dining-room, but it was a very different-looking crowd from the one with which that first breakfast had been eaten, and they all looked at me as if I were the executioner come for victims.

"Mr. Cullen," I began, "I've been forced to do a lot of things that weren't pleasant, but I don't want to do more than I need. You're not the ordinary kind of road agents, and, as I presume your address is known, I don't see any need of arresting one of our own directors as yet. All I ask is that you give me your word, for the party, that none of you will try to leave the country."

She was breathing gently.

"Certainly, Mr. Gordon," he responded. "And I thank you for your great consideration."

"I shall have to report the case to our president, and I suppose, to the postmaster-general, but I shan't hurry about either. What they will do, I can't say. Probably you know how far you can keep them quiet."

"I think the local authorities are all I have to fear, provided time is given me."

Making Sure of Their Shoes.

They were on a slumming expedition. Two chop suey establishments had been graced by their presence and they thought they were seeing much of the under world. They had drifted down State street and had the boldness to enter a saloon that is much frequented by negroes of slender means. And the sight which met their gaze was a peculiar one. They saw twenty or thirty negroes asleep. They were sitting in chairs and the chairs leaned against the wall. But the peculiar fact was that all were without shoes. In a moment they saw the shoes on the floor. And a leg of a chair stood in each.

"How peculiar?" queried one.

"Yep," was the short answer of one of the proprietors.

"Why do they place the chair legs in their shoes?"

"Very simple. If they didn't they wouldn't have any shoes. We don't guarantee the honesty of our customers."

"And if they slept with their shoes on?"

"Some man with a poorer pair than off."

"And if they stood them near the chair?"

"Some envious man would take would exchange."—Chicago Chronicle.

An Old-School Head.

Capt. Ryan, the new British naval attaché, said at a dinner in Washington:

"The strength of the heads of some of our old-school farmers is quite incredible."

"At a harvest supper, a feast similar in its way to your Thanksgiving dinner, there was an old farmer who drank a good deal of champagne. The moment his glass was filled he would toss it off, and then, of course, it would be filled again."

"But the old fellow grew quieter and quieter, the more champagne he drank. A frown settled on his forehead. His eyes flashed angrily under his heavy gray brows."

"Finally when the waiter filled his glass for the twelfth or thirteenth time, he shook his head and said: 'James, when are you going to put the whisky on the table? These m'erals are getting tedious.'"

Criticisms.

"What is your favorite poem?"

"I haven't any," answered Mr. Cumrox. "Poetry always strikes me as merely an effort on the author's part to show off how much he knows about capital letters and punctuation marks."

Evidence of Reckless Bravery.

She—Do you believe men are as brave now as they used to be?

He—Sure!—Just see the poetry some men write now.

AWFUL ITCHING ON SCALP.

Hair Finally Had to Be Cut to Save Any—Scalp Now in Good Condition Cured by Cuticura.

"I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment for a diseased scalp, dandruff, and constantly falling of hair. Finally I had to cut my hair to save any at all. Just at that time I read about the Cuticura Remedies. Once every week I shampooed my hair with the Cuticura Soap, and I used the Ointment twice a week. In two months' time my hair was long enough to do up in French twist. That is now five years ago, and I have a lovely head of hair. The length is six inches below my waist line, my scalp is in very good condition, and no more dandruff or itching of the scalp. I used other remedies that were recommended to me as good, but with no results. Mrs. W. F. Gless, Clay Center, Neb., Oct. 23, 1907."

FEATHERS LONG AGO.

Richard Coeur de Lion as a punishment for theft, in the annals of the history of the world, who was court chaplain, that the old custom of feathering is one that is of the time of Richard the Lionheart.

Is it his renowned king, the third crusade, if you are among others.

How to Best Pack a Trunk.

In packing a trunk use heaps of paper with tailor-made garments and pack them as much like a man's suit as possible. Never forget that wrinkle, and many other wrinkles will be avoided. And of materials, remember serge and woolen pack magnificently, alpaca always creases, faced cloth wants care, cashmere does crumple, but soon shakes out. Velvet, of course, must never be creased at all; crepe de chine travels very well on the whole; silks vary, and anyhow, should be treated with discretion.—Household Companion.

Milk Kills More Than War.

Thus of a million babies born in France, 200,000 are lost annually by death. Of these the grand majority might be saved if only they were properly treated and above all, thoroughly nourished. Statistics are witness to the fact that infant mortality is nearly always due to malnutrition which in its turn is caused by milk of poor quality. Of a thousand nurslings that died before they were a year old, over a third on an average perish through digestive disorders. In some cities the average is far higher; in Nantes more than a half, in Troyes nearly four-fifths.

Calcutta Editorial.

The Calcutta Bengalee evidently is not dauntedly worked up over something, for it remarks editorially: "We can not, even with all the blasting influences of passive resistance, stand against the corroding action of British domination and save ourselves from the pounding operation of politico-commercial administration."

Ask Your Druggist for Allen's Foot-Ease.

"I tried ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE recently and have just bought another supply. It has cured my corns, and the hot, burning and itching sensation in my feet which was almost unbearable, and I would not be without it now."—Mrs. W. J. Walker, Camden, N. J. Sold by all Druggists, 25c.

Errors in Judgment.

Our own errors in judgment are usually about as many as are the downright meannesses of the people we know.

Robbed in Church.

Just think what an outrage it is to be robbed of all the benefits of the services by continuous coughing throughout the congregation, when Anti-Grippe is guaranteed to cure. Sold everywhere, 25 cents.

A woman usually knows her husband is a liar, but she wants him to be truthful about it.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

THE VALUE OF IDEALS.

The life of every person will be made better and brighter by choosing a high ideal, and then seeking conscientiously to live up to it. The ideal dish for breakfast is Pillsbury's Vitox, which is full of stored-up energy and nourishment.

An Apt Reply.

A Sunday school teacher tells the following story of a member of her class: One Sunday she asked her scholars if any member could tell her about Good Friday. A hand was raised. "Well, what do you know about Good Friday?" she asked. "He was the man who did chores for Robinson Crusoe!" replied the eager boy.

Homes in Texas.

Of six millions of acres put on the market by the state of Texas in September, homesteaders have already taken about a million acres, at prices ranging from five to ten times the minimum of a dollar an acre, fixed by the State Land Commission.

The easiest thing in the world is to preach philosophy and practice something else.

THE NEW ELECTION LAW. Every voter must, at the time of voting, register his name as a member of some party—Democratic, Republican, Prohibition, Populist, etc.

At the spring election next April, at every polling place, there will be a registration which will give every voter an opportunity to qualify himself to attend a caucus. Here are the main provisions of the new law: 1. Every voter must, at the time of voting, register his name as a member of some party—Democratic, Republican, Prohibition, Populist, etc. 2. No registration can occur after that for two years, except new voters. 3. If he does not register, he cannot take part in any caucus. 4. No voter, except one who has not registered as a Republican, can be put on the caucus of any other party for two years, because when he votes at a caucus, he will be given a party ticket of the party with which he enrolled. Of course, at the election he can vote as he chooses. 5. No voter, except one who has not enrolled and selected his party, can vote at any caucus, and if he does not enroll next April and choose his party, he cannot attend a caucus at all.

RAILROADS PROSPEROUS. Railroad Commissioner Atwood in his annual report says that Michigan railroads the past year that earnings were greater by at least $1,000,000 than any previous year. Referring to the difficulty in furnishing cars promptly, the commissioner says investigation of the few complaints received shows that generally the railroads were putting forth their best efforts to satisfy their patrons. There were 1,272 casualties during the year, 253 persons were killed and 1,019 injured, against 297 persons killed and 962 injured for the year previous. Of the number killed only 17 were passengers.

The commissioner says there is a feeling that all railway stocks and bonds should be subject to the approval of state authority to prevent manipulation, and suggests that investigation be made and intelligent recommendations on the subject be made to the next legislature. Mr. Atwood says it is unfortunate that there is no law requiring reports from electric railroads over which the commissioner has general police powers.

A Grim Tragedy is daily enacted, in thousands of homes, as Death claims, in each one, another victim of Consumption or Pneumonia. But when Coughs and Colds are properly treated, the tragedy is averted. F. G. H. of Oakland, Ind., writes: "My wife had the consumption, and three doctors gave her up. Finally she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which cured her, and to-day she is well and strong." It kills the germs of all diseases. One dose relieves. Guaranteed at 50c and $1.00 by Bank drug store. Trial bottle free.

Sylvan Taxpayers. The tax roll for the year 1905 of Sylvan township, has been placed in my hands and beginning with Monday, December 4th they can be paid at my office, room 3, Kempf bank building. W. F. RIEMENSCHNEIDER, Treasurer.

Every Two Minutes Physicians tell us that all the blood in a healthy human body passes through the heart once in every two minutes. If this action becomes irregular the whole body suffers. Poor health follows poor blood; Scott's Emulsion makes the blood pure. One reason why

SCOTT'S EMULSION is such a great aid is because it passes so quickly through the blood. It is partly digested before it enters the stomach; a double advantage in this respect, for the stomach is quicker and more direct benefits. To get the greatest amount of good with the least possible effort is the desire of everyone in poor health. Scott's Emulsion does just that. A change for the better takes place even before you expect it.

Selections, Advancing Pills of Ague and Malaria can be relieved and cured with Electric Bitters. This is a pure, tonic medicine; of especial benefit in malaria for it exerts a true curative influence on the disease, driving it entirely out of the system. It is much to be preferred to Quinine, having none of its drug's bad after-effects. E. S. Munday, of Honolulu, Tex., writes: "My brother was very low with malarial fever, and jaundice. He took Electric Bitters, which saved his life. At Bank drug store, price 50c, guaranteed."

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES. Kidney disease causes half the common aches and ills. As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking down. Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help. Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill.

Albert Cobn, of 925 Page avenue, Jackson, Mich., blacksmith employed at the Webster wagon works, says: "I had for years weaker and weary aching pain across the small of my back just over the kidneys. I could not stoop to lift anything without getting sharp twinges in the loins. I could not rest comfortably at night, but in the morning I'd be tired and unrefreshed. Latterly the kidney secretions became affected, grew highly colored and irregular in action. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box. They helped me from the very start, and one and a half boxes completely cured me."

For sale by all druggists. Price, fifty cents. Foster-McMillen Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Personal property in Michigan, although belonging to the estate of a non-resident, is nevertheless subject to the state inheritance tax, the supreme court has so decided. The decision was given in the case of the estate of Mary B. Stanton, who died in New York, and owned stocks, bonds and mortgages in Detroit by an agent. It was held by the court that while the personal property might not otherwise be taxable in the state it was subject to the inheritance tax, which was a tax not on the property but upon the succession.

Falling in his attempt to kill his divorced wife after a severe struggle, John McKay, of Flint, sent a bullet into his own head, dying a short time later. A stranger, who has not since been seen, figures in the sensational attempt on the life of Mrs. McKay, and a search is being made for him.

Two children sick with scarlet fever and the aged invalid mother of Albert Summers, of Lansing, Presque Isle county, narrowly escaped being burned to death by the house catching fire while Summers and his wife were some distance away. They arrived just in time to rescue all three from the flames.

The gasping and choking of her 7-month-old babe awoke Mrs. Charles Otto, of Leland, when her room was ablaze. She quickly picked up the babe and her 3-year-old girl and ran out into the snowstorm. She lost all her possessions, including a remittance from her husband, now in Chicago, and is entirely destitute.

Claiming her husband, whom she met through a matrimonial agency, kept her on a diet of sour milk and bread for several days and is trying to drive her insane, Mrs. Bernard Van Anstine, of Traverse City, has secured a warrant for his arrest. She claims she had $1,000 when she married him and that this has all been spent but $30.

The Flint Auto Brass and Aluminum Company finds the present factory too small and will increase their stock from $25,000 to $75,000 in order to enlarge their factory. The output of the concern last year was more than 600,000 worth of automobile and motor boat accessories.

Mrs. Arthur Valentine, of Oxford, had periodical trouble with one foot for 20 years. Last week the foot began to swell and was finally lanced and a silver one-quarter inch long was removed. Then she recalled that 20 years ago she ran a yellow dock stub into her foot, but thought she had removed it all.

The scarlet fever scourge claimed nine victims Monday in Calumet and two in L'Anse-au-Loup. Over 75 cases have broken out and 24 houses are quarantined.

About 20 co-eds are successfully and harmoniously living in a co-operative home they have established in Ann Arbor. They have a parlor and a big kitchen. In the latter each girl may get her own meals or four or five clique together and each take turns at cooking.

PREPARING FOR WAR

THE CHINESE BOYCOTT HAS STARTLED THE WORLD.

THE UNITED STATES PREPARES FOR TROUBLE BY INCREASE OF PHILIPPINE FORCES.

YOUNG CHINAMEN EDUCATED IN AMERICA LEAD THE ANTI-FOREIGN CLAMOR.

The Chinese Boycott. President Roosevelt has decided to establish two brigade posts in the Philippines where troops will be stationed so they can be rushed to China in the event of disturbances there.

A high government official declares that there is no use to longer deny the fact that the United States government and the European powers are apprehensive regarding the conditions in China, and that a serious outbreak more serious than the Boxer uprising is likely to happen at any time.

This government has decided that it will not be "taught napping," as the official expressed it, and that it proposes to be in a position to protect American lives and property when the critical stage of the situation is reached.

One of the brigade posts will be located at Camp McKinley and the other at Camp Stotsenberg, and Gen. Frederick Funston will be placed in command of one of the posts, while Gen. Tasker H. Bliss will be in command of the other.

The First and Second regiments of Infantry and the Eighth and Thirteenth batteries of artillery has already been ordered to the Philippines. These troops will sail Feb. 1, some of them going by way of New York and through the Suez canal, and the others will sail from San Francisco. These troops will be divided between the two posts.

Later it is expected to increase the force at each post by one brigade each. It is the intention of the war department to have the troops in command of a brigadier-general of experience, so that there can be brigade maneuvers, and that when the emergency arises the United States will be in a position to protect their citizens and their property.

The Chinese government is sincerely endeavoring to check the anti-foreign craze. It is questionable whether the viceroys were honest in their attempts to stop the boycott. They issued high-sounding proclamations forbidding antagonism of American merchants, but there was reason to believe no real effort was made to enforce them. But it now looks as though the people have got beyond the control of the viceroys in many sections and the Chinese authorities are generally alarmed.

Chinese students who have had a touch of western civilization are the ringleaders in the present agitation. They are establishing newspapers in different parts of the empire, and spreading the anti-foreign propaganda wherever the authorities tolerate them.

Foreign diplomats in Washington express the opinion that the only way to deal with China is by force. They declare that the policy of conciliation and kindness is a mistake and makes the wrong kind of an impression on the oriental heathen's mind.

Mrs. Morris Quits. Assistant Secretary Barnes has issued his version of the unfortunate affair in the White House Thursday, in which Mrs. Minor Morris was forcibly ejected from the building while demanding to see the president, by two police officers. Mr. Barnes says Mrs. Morris shrieked so loud that her cries could be heard through the executive mansion, and that it was necessary in the interest of order to have her removed.

Mrs. Morris says she will allow the matter to drop. Dr. Minor Morris, her husband, is working on the farm of the latter near Hamilton, O. He went there last fall. His marriage took place in the latter part of the year. Mrs. Morris nor the family would make any statement today regarding the woman in Washington.

The Rate Bills. Friday, January 12, was agreed upon by the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce as the date for consideration of the general subject of the legislation. Nearly 20 bills are but it is now regarded as likely that Chairman Hepburn's measure will form the basis for any action by the committee.

The committee fixed Tuesday, January 30, as the date for a hearing on the Stephens bill, which provides for the extension from 28 to 40 hours as to remain in cars. Various humane organizations oppose the extension of time and western cattle interests favor it.

An appeal to save Mrs. Antoinette Tolla, of Hackensack, N. J., from being hanged on January 12 has been sent to President Roosevelt by Susan B. Anthony club, of Cincinnati. Mrs. Tolla shot an Italian who attempted to attack her in her own home.

A special dispatch from Copenhagen says the workmen who seized the Provodnik rubber factory at Riga, Tuesday, surrendered after a sanguinary battle and delivered up their leaders to the commander of the troops. The prisoners will be tried by court-martial.

Unvaccinated pupils to the number of 600 have been barred from the public schools of Long Haven, Pa., in consequence the teachers have little to do. At the primary school in the first ward, taught by Miss De Frank, in which 44 pupils were enrolled, not a single one remains.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL.

An important development in the football situation is announced in the fact that President Angell, of the University of Michigan, has issued a call to representatives of western universities, to a football conference. The meeting is to be held at Chicago Beach Hotel, on Jan. 12. Friday of the coming week. Michigan's representative has not yet been named.

President Angell stated that he issued the call at the request of a number of institutions interested, the position taken by these being that the conference could not longer ignore the situation. All of the Big Nine colleges, it is expected, will be on hand.

Up to now the conference has stood aside, taking no part in the New York meeting and having made no expression of its intention in regard to following the established committee's lead. Minnesota sent Dr. Williams to New York, but in no sense did he represent the Big Nine.

Found "Squealers." District Attorney Jerome has begun the serious work of preparing for the prosecution of officers of life insurance companies who have abused their trusts.

It was stated by a man in a position to know what is going on within the various insurance companies that Mr. Jerome would undoubtedly receive aid from unexpected sources.

He added that before the month was out Mr. Jerome would receive overtures from at least one "squealer" in each of these companies: The Mutual Life, the Provident Savings Life, the Life Association of America and the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association. While no promises of immunity are ever made by the district attorney to a "squealer," it is the unwritten law in Mr. Jerome's office not to prosecute those who give evidence which enables the people to convict offenders who might otherwise escape punishment.

Terrible Earthquake. Vice-Consul Wallace, at Managua, has called the state department under Wednesday's date that a terrible earthquake has occurred in Nicaragua and it was reported to him that Ma'saya had been ruined by the eruption of the volcano San Diego.

Ma'saya is on the east side of Lake Masaya, about 55 miles south of Managua, and 25 miles northeast of Granada. The population, mostly of Indian blood, is estimated at 18,000. Nearly every house has its orchard or garden, and so the buildings are spread over a much larger area than the number of inhabitants would suggest. Previous to 1871, when a steam pump was erected, all the water had to be carried from the lake, which lies 340 feet below the level of the town. The illustrated lecture on the life of Christ given by Rev. B. F. Beal Monday evening was listened to by a large and appreciative audience.

The Ladies Aid of the German M. E. church met at the home of Mrs. George Wasser last Wednesday. In spite of the very unfavorable weather a goodly number were present and very hospitably entertained by Mesdames Wasser and Page. Two new members were added to the society namely, Mesdames Guy Hutz and Frank Page.

LYNDON CENTER.

Jas. A. Clark left last week for Big Rapids to attend the Ferris Institute.

Miss Mary Leavy, of Dexter, spent a few days of the past week with friends here.

Miss Margaret Young resumed her teaching Monday, after a two weeks' vacation.

Mrs. C. Foren, of Detroit, who has been the guest of her brother, Frank Lusty and family, returned home Monday.

Wm. Howell, who has been living alone for several years, has engaged as tenants George Ricketts and wife.

Mrs. John W. Howlett was called to Detroit recently on account of the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Higgins.

On Saturday, January 13, the officers of Eureka Grange will be installed by Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wilson. Meeting called at 11 a. m.

Patrick Savage, of Big Rapids, and granddaughter, Miss Genevieve Savage, of St. Joseph's Academy, Adrian, spent the past week at the home of Matt Hankerd.

The oyster supper given on Friday evening of last week by Eureka Grange at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh T. McKune was a great success. An elegant supper of oysters and coffee was served to more than 125 persons. The supper, though being of the best, could not be compared to the social features of the evening, which all present seemed to thoroughly enjoy. Mr. and Mrs. McKune are royal entertainers in their own home, and every one departed wishing at some future time to again enjoy an oyster supper with its attendant sociability with Mr. and Mrs. McKune.

NORTH LAKE.

Elder Wright was in this vicinity last Saturday.

Perry Noah, wife and son visited here last Friday.

There is considerable inquiry for good horses hereabouts.

P. E. Noah intends coming back to his own farm in early spring.

There has been a good yield of clover seed, so far as heard from, at good prices.

Quite a number around North Lake are sick with chickenpox. Our chicks have had it.

Later they were joined by Messrs. Elmer Sweeney, C. M. Glenn and James Hyde. Now all own farms of from eight to eighteen hundred acres, with good buildings, artesian wells and all modern improvements and conveniences, including musical instruments and autos that glide over the level roads like electric cars here. Boys, go west and live.

Wm. Burkhardt on Friday last spared a fine pickerel from his fish-house. He may be seen there bright and early most any morning since.

In Detroit the "devil" sold for forty dollars. Here he wouldn't bring forty cents, without the privilege to cast him out went along with the purchase.

Wm. Stevenson and sister Anna are home now. She will soon go back to her school, which she thinks much of. According to all reports, she is a model teacher.

Your correspondent is taking two daily papers now, but the Ann Arbor Daily News takes the cake for a clean, newsy sheet. So others say who are taking it.

It is your correspondent's opinion that many more will go to hades from their own tumbles than from the effects of Adam's fall, for which they are in no way chargeable.

What seems to all interested almost a miracle is the recovery of Mrs. James Hyde, of Merriescourt, North Dakota, of which her many relatives hereabouts will be glad to learn.

A letter from Dakota tells of lively times at Xmas and New Year's. In fact, they outdo the eastern states in all social doings. They are also enjoying a good run of sleighing.

The best and cheapest combination of reading matter is the Chelsea Standard-Herald and the Ann Arbor Daily News. Think of it! A daily and a weekly paper a year for two dollars.

Mrs. R. W. Webb met her husband's sister, Mrs. Janette Pratt, in Chelsea, Friday, and passed without knowing. It has been many years since they met. Mrs. W. will visit them soon at their home.

Now people begin to tell me to keep up my grit—it will soon be spring. All summer they said, "a few more weeks and it will be winter, and you will be better." So I keep hanging on to the promises.

If one-half of the good wishes of your correspondent's many friends come true, the coming year will be the best of his long life. We hope for the best ever. Life grows brighter and better as we learn how to make it so.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend to all of our friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us during our recent affliction and especially the choir of St. John's church, Rogers' Corners, Freedom, our heartfelt thanks.

TAILOR

TAILOR GOWN BY MRS. OSBORN

TAILOR costume in pale green cloth, the front of the jacket being made of tulle, buttoned with black buttons. The collar and cuffs are of Japanese silk in black and gold.

VALOIS CREAM.
If the unwhipped mould have four or six eggs cut into thin slices, with preserves between each. Pour over the sufficient white wine to moisten. Add ready a pint of good custard, flavored with the grated rind of a lemon and a little more sherry. Dissolve one ounce of sugar in a little water and strain it into half a pint of whipped cream. Arrange the pieces of cake in an oiled mould. Add the cream to the custard. Fill up the mould and leave till set. Turn out to serve and scatter chopped pistachio nuts over.

CHICKEN AND TOMATO.
Cut a good-sized chicken into convenient joints, and put it in a stew-pan with a gill of salad oil. Let this cook for about ten minutes until it is slightly brown, then pour off the oil. Set the meat in an earthenware sauce-pan, add a gill of brown sauce, about the same quantity of tomato sauce some nice fresh mushrooms, a few chopped truffles and some finely minced chives. Cover the pan and set in the oven with its lid on, simmering the contents gently for three-quarters of an hour. Then arrange the meat in a dish, add the mushrooms to it tastefully, serve with a garnish of poached eggs or leaves of puff paste.

GIRL'S PIQUE DRESS.

This little frock is simple but very effective, worn with or without a muslin guimpe, made of the finest quality of pique, the yoke is delicately embroidered by hand. The body of the dress is laid in box plaits and confined below the waist by a narrow black patent leather belt. A small puff forms the sleeve. For very small girls the dainty white dress must always hold first place for house wear. Where economy will permit this the same model can be used for a very pretty frock of red or blue cloth.

DON'T WASTE BREAD-CRUMBS.

There Are Many Ways in Which They Are of Value in the Kitchen.

PIECES of bread left in the bread pan accumulate rapidly if not attended to daily. In all families there are some who dislike crusts, and the crusts are consequently cut off and left to gather in the pan unless the housewife has a plan for their continual disposal. Dry loaves, too, present a problem. Hot weather soon evaporates the moisture out of a loaf, so that, of necessity, it goes dry and is uneatable. To prevent this only as much bread as can be suitably eaten in a given period must be taken in. And what is taken in must be kept in a covered pan. This prevents the loaves drying, especially in warm weather, if the pan be set in an inch or so of water. Pieces of crust and broken pieces of clean bread should be set in the oven over night to dry still more and partially bake into crisp pieces. These can be crushed with a rolling pin readily next day. They should be bottled in a wide mouth glass jar that has a lid. A confectioner's bottle, with a glass or round tin top is a good one for the purpose. The Crumb-Bottle. Once this crumb-bottle is set up the housewife will never be without it. The crumbs will keep a long time, being re-baked and in the shape of a crumb-bottle they will cost less. They will be used in puddings and for the making of bread-crusts and for the making of bread-crusts and for the making of bread-crusts. Crusts. Home-baked bread is sweet and wholesome and falls to turn out well. Breadcrumbs with alum in them will not keep bottled so well as crumbs from home-baked loaves. If a loaf goes very dry from some unavoidable reason, it may be soaked in water and re-baked. The steam generated in the loaf will make it like new bread. Milk gets in the same way and gives the re-baked loaf a sweeter, more cake-like taste. Where teeth are good crusts should always be eaten. They are the most wholesome, most digestible portion of the loaf. The reason is that the heat of the oven has converted the starch of the dough into dextrine, a kind of sugar. When the inside is eaten the saliva has to make this change before the bread can be digested. Crust is, in a sense, pre-digested. A new loaf can be broken apart and its interior pulled out into crisp pieces. By baking these until they are crisp, the dextrine is accomplished, and the delicious "pulled" bread, nice with cheese or butter for supper, results. This is good for invalids. New bread is not economical to use. If a new loaf must be cut, a hot knife does it more neatly than a cold one. In cutting any loaf the aim should be to go straight across. A baked and jagged loaf always tends to be left, besides looking untidy. The state of her bread-pan at once shows what manner of woman the housewife is. A baked or steamed bread-and-butter pudding is the usual way in which the average woman disposes of bread-bits. But there are countless other ways.

Helps for Backward Children.

DON'T let your children be punished for stupidity. It would be as reasonable to punish them for being blind or lame. There are teachers who will strike a child or expose him to ridicule—as by making him stand off a form—for what is his misfortune, and should therefore rouse compassion. If a child is obstinate or lazy the matter is very different. The worst effect of punishing a child for stupidity is that he is thereby robbed of self-respect. It is best to educate him where he will not be brought into daily comparison with "sharper" children. Whatever other mistake you make, forbear impressing on the youngster the belief that he is a fool. That is the most sure way of making him one. Children with splendid intellectual endowments are sometimes thought to be stupid. The sharp child who learns a lesson

How the Smart Girl Keeps Her Hats.

In the corner of a bedroom occupied by a lovely young girl stood a tall and slender piece of furniture whose size and shape did not proclaim its uses, for the reason that it was such a very new invention. The room was papered in mauve-tinted satin paper with a broad band of trailing wistaria below the eave of the wall and narrow panels of wistaria at intervals, most of them nearly half hidden by the beautiful and make interesting a young girl's room. This piece of furniture was covered with pale mauve cretonne, upon which stood in beautiful relief sprays of wistaria in all the shades of heliotrope known to that flower. On the top of it stood a picture frame, in wistaria cretonne and gold stipes, which seemed just the light touch needed to the frail-looking article which it decorated. In the shortest possible time, who is first with his answers in the mental arithmetic class, who can produce dates and geographical names on demand, is the one the teacher loves, and most commonly he is the one who in after life goes on the safe road toward competence. But he is not one of those whose thoughts will be treasured by the world long after he has quit it. And quite often the so-called stupid child is one of the dreamers in whom are the powers of the artist, poet, or philosopher struggling for expression.

Suspender Skirt with DIAMOND BUCKLES

Double gold chains from the buckles loop over diamond buttons on the front of the skirt. With a waist of Irish and Brussels lace the effect is stunning.

The suspender passes through diamond slides and buckle into diamond horse shoes having a ruby in the centre of each rim. Each horse shoe clasps a "hoof" of diamonds with a frog of sapphires.

This is the acme of suspender in suspenders. It is of rose chiffon velvet, and the suspenders cross in the back. It is the property of a society girl whose rich costumes are the envy of the smart set. It created a sensation at a matinee last Saturday.

CHOCOLATE CAKE.

THREE-QUARTERS cup sugar, a half cup milk, two tablespoons butter, one and a half teaspoons baking powder, two eggs, one and a half ounces chocolate. Mix butter and sugar, then add milk; next the chocolate, melted with two small teaspoonfuls additional sugar and two teaspoonfuls of boiling water; then the flour and baking powder, and lastly the eggs.

SCOTCH SHORT CAKE.

TAKE one-half pound of slightly salted butter, and one pound flour, then mix flour and butter with hands; add four ounces of loaf sugar, and work all into a smooth ball; then roll out until it is an inch thick; prick over with a fork, and pinch round the edges, and bake for half an hour in oven, and with a moderate fire, in a round or square tin, according to taste.

CREAM FOR BON BONS.

THREE cups sugar, one and one-half cups water, one-half teaspoon cream tartar, flavor with essence vanilla. Boil until drops will almost keep shape in water; then pour into a bowl-set in cold water, stir steadily with a silver or wooden spoon until cold enough to bear the hand, then place on a platter and knead until of a fine even texture. If too hard, a few drops of warm water may be stirred in; if too soft, it must be rolled again. This is the general foundation of cream bon bons. It may be flavored with chocolate, by adding a tablespoon of melted chocolate while the syrup is hot.

The Dexter Savings Bank reports the year just closed as being one of the most successful in its history. The increase in its business in the past few months has been more than 10 per cent, which is most gratifying to its stockholders. A five per cent. dividend for the six months ending Dec. 31st, was declared. The bank is in a better condition now than ever before, and a steady growth in its business for the coming year, which its sound financial basis warrants, is anticipated. --Dexter Leader.

After the annual business meeting of the Chelsea Savings Bank, Tuesday evening, Jan. 9th, Mr. T. E. Wood entertained the directors and employees to a fine luncheon at his home, it being the thirtieth anniversary of his connection with the bank. Appropriate hand painted souvenirs were at each plate and gave an added charm to the otherwise beautiful table decorations. Mr. Wood thought he was "the whole thing" until he was presented with an elegant Japanese tankard which was such a surprise that for the moment he was quite overcome with emotion but soon responded fittingly. A short time was given to conversation and games when all went away feeling that another bright spot had been added to their lives.

Beginning Wednesday, January 10, all breakfasts and luncheons in dining cars on the line of the Michigan Central will be served on the a la carte plan, and the evening meal, either dinner or supper, will be served on the table d'hote plan. Heretofore the table d'hote plan was quite generally prevailed in the dining car service on the line of the Michigan Central, the change therefore is an important departure, which it is believed will be appreciated by the public.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Chelsea Savings Bank the following directors were elected: Frank P. Glazier, W. J. Knapp, W. D. Schenk, V. D. Hindelang, J. W. Schenk, Adam Eppler, Fred Wedemeyer, H. I. Stinson, and T. E. Wood. The following officers were elected: Frank P. Glazier, president; W. J. Knapp, first vice-president; J. W. Schenk, second vice-president; Theo. E. Wood, cashier; P. G. Schaible, assistant cashier.

William H. Lay, of Ypsilanti township and one of the most respected and honored citizens of Washtenaw county, was killed and horribly mangled by the fast Michigan Central train east about 3:10 Monday afternoon. It seems that Mr. Lay was crossing the track at Waird's, just east of Ypsilanti, on his way home at the time of the accident and it is thought he did not hear the approaching train. He was a prominent member of the Washtenaw Pioneer Association.

The Dexter Savings Bank reports the year just closed as being one of the most successful in its history. The increase in its business in the past few months has been more than 10 per cent, which is most gratifying to its stockholders. A five per cent. dividend for the six months ending Dec. 31st, was declared. The bank is in a better condition now than ever before, and a steady growth in its business for the coming year, which its sound financial basis warrants, is anticipated. --Dexter Leader.

After the annual business meeting of the Chelsea Savings Bank, Tuesday evening, Jan. 9th, Mr. T. E. Wood entertained the directors and employees to a fine luncheon at his home, it being the thirtieth anniversary of his connection with the bank. Appropriate hand painted souvenirs were at each plate and gave an added charm to the otherwise beautiful table decorations. Mr. Wood thought he was "the whole thing" until he was presented with an elegant Japanese tankard which was such a surprise that for the moment he was quite overcome with emotion but soon responded fittingly. A short time was given to conversation and games when all went away feeling that another bright spot had been added to their lives.
