THE GAMBLING DEVICES

SHOULD BE BANISHED.

They Hold No Place as Property From a Legal Standpoint, Says the Detroit Journal.

The evil results flowing from the toleration of coin-controlled gambling devices in public places having been brought forcibly to his attention, State Treasurer Glazier assisted in person in the smashing of a number of these devices in the saloons of his home town of Chelsea. His action arousing general admiration throughout the state as soon as it became known, Justice C. B. Grant of the supreme court wrote him a letter of congratulation. Both have since been subjected to criticism of a narrow sort—Mr. Glazier because he smashed the slot machines and Justice Grant because he congratulated him on having smashed 'em.

Mr. Glazier is president of the village of Chelsea. It was not in his capacity as state treasurer, of course, but in his capacity as village executive that he sallied forth on this praiseworthy raid. He was accompanied by another officer of the law, a village constable or a deputy sheriff of the county. He destroyed no property that is recognized as property under the law, interfered with no business except a proscribed business and he went into no places except places whose doors were open to the public and at no time except the usual times for transacting business.

If what he destroyed may be spoken of as property in a financial or commercial sense, it is not property in a legal sense. Gambling devices of whatever description actually utilized for purposes of gambling are a form of out-law property in which no one has any property rights under the law. For generations they have been at the mercy of the civil magistracy, perhaps even of any private citizen who is aggrieved because of their use.

Municipal executives who have gone out and chopped down property rights in poles when electric companies have violated laws compelling them to put their wires under ground have been justified from the legal standpoint and even extravagantly commended. Municipal executives who have torn up the tracks of street car companies which have refused to remove them from streets in which they had no right of occupancy have been similarly justified and even more extravagantly commended. Why is a municipal executive who destroyed gambling devices which were corrupting youth and ruining adult breadwinners to be condemned? Why isn't the executive who smashes as much to be commended as the executive who chops down or tears up and why is a member of the judiciary who does commend him to be attacked?

Perhaps sacred liberties of the people are infringed and the foundations of the constitution rocked by actions similar to that of Mr. Glazier, but if so instances of them available for fervid denunciation can be found much nearer to Detroit than Chelsea. If public officials may never execute summary justice, if there must always be proceedings in due order, if the destruction of what has the visible form of property must invariably be preceded by judicial condemnation, stop the Detroit dog-catcher from rocking the foundation of the constitution and infringing on the sacred liberties of the people when he is detected red-handed in seizing our unlicensed, uncollared dogs and hustling them off to the pound to speedy death. The wrongs which this dog-catcher inflicts on dog-owners and a supine judiciary that permit him to inflict them present a subject really worthy of journalistic philippic.

Why not sue the dog-catcher for the value of the property rights in the dog he destroys? If Mr. Glazier really did do something illegal, why don't the owners of the slot machines begin an action against him for damages?

Of the two cases, that of the dog-owners would probably have the better standing in court.

The above was taken from The Detroit Journal of Monday, January 28, 1907.

An Open Letter to Parents.

Dear Parents:—I have been directing the education of your children the past five months. You have been sending 446 children to the public schools, which means that a large number of families are represented and ought to be interested in what the schools are doing to prepare the future citizens of this prosperous little city. I say you ought to be interested, in fact, I must believe you are interested because the fathers and mothers have an instinctive interest in their children. But really, I have seen only four parents at the high school in these five months of service, and we have 119 of your boys and girls in this department. Less than a dozen have visited the grades where the other 327 of the total enrollment are to be found. Of course, I am not counting those who attended the Christmas exercises in the lower grades. We are glad to have you come to these exercises but we also want you to inspect the regular work and see what your boys and girls are doing every day.

The final tests for the first semester were held last week and you doubtless have had occasion to examine the report card of your boy or your girl the first of this week to see what he has or has not accomplished in study during the semester. These cards have been sent you each month that you might see what progress your child was making.

Of the 119 pupils in the high school department, 24 have failed in one or more subjects. I am fully aware of the unpleasantness these failures mean to the pupil, and the disappointment they bring to parents. However it should be some consolation to know that very few failures have been due to inability on the part of the boys and girls. In nearly every case failure has been due to a lack of strict attention to school work. Hence, by your co-operation with the teachers, it is possible to prevent another failure at the end of the year. If the child is not doing passing work he should put more time upon the preparation of his lessons. This may mean a little less time skating, a little less time in the bowling alley and other places of amusement. On the other hand it means a better equipment for the child's future success for which we are all so anxious.

May I ask you then, for your co-operation in securing the best possible work of the young people of the Chelsea public schools and thus secure the future welfare of your town?

You are cordially invited to visit the schools and see how your school funds are being used. The school is open for business five days in the week, come at any time, enter any room without rapping, and feel perfectly at home for the school is your institution and is supported by your money.

Through the courtesy of The Standard-Herald I shall talk with you further about the conditions and needs of your schools.

Hoping to see you at the school, I am, Yours sincerely, E. E. GALLUP, Supt.

Detectives Tell of Cosmopolitan Dice and Poker Games and the Illegal Conducting of Saloons in Durand.

Corunna, Mich., Jan. 29.—Warrants have been authorized by Prosecuting Attorney Hicks against Bert Avery, Benjamin Allen, and J. T. Trim on the charge of running poker joints in Durand and against Saloonist Stevon Brown, wrestler, for allowing a game in rooms over his saloon.

Evidence was collected by three plain clothes men, two from Detroit and one from Columbus. They have been working in the junction town several weeks.

Trim's place, which is on East Main street, is said to be the most notorious of the lot. The detectives there took part in a dice game, they say, at $1 a flop, the house getting a rake-off of 10 cents on each shake, the poker games at Trim's are said to have been very cosmopolitan. Among the people who frequented them and sat at the same table were a colored bootblack, a Chinese laundryman, and prominent business and railroad men of Durand and Owosso. The Chinaman's losses one night are said to have been $35. On one hand he was dealt three queens, while one of the other gamblers held four aces. It cost Ching $10 to see them.

The saloons were not neglected by the detectives, but the cases against them will not be taken up until the gambling cases are disposed of.—Detroit Evening News.

DOWNY WILL GO TO JAIL.

Lansing Hotel Man's Mother and Valet Go Along.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 30.—Special—Oscar C. Downey, junior proprietor of the Hotel Downey, will go to Mason on the noon train to serve his sentence of 30 days imposed by Judge West for keeping the hotel bar open on New Year's day to accommodate a big crowd of politicians. He will be accompanied by his mother, widow of the late H. J. Downey, and a colored valet. Five days of his sentence have been passed while he was in bed in the hotel while his attorneys sought to invalidate the sentence. Downey is still ill, but his condition will permit his removal, it is said.—Detroit Journal.

Teachers' Institute.

Superintendent Gallup and some of the Chelsea teachers attended the Teachers' Institute at Dexter last Saturday. They report a most successful meeting.

Professor S. B. Laird, of the State Normal College, gave some interesting and instructive talks to the one hundred and thirty in attendance. Superintendent Washburn gave a thoughtful discussion on "Some Reasons Why Pupils Drop Out of School."

Every one present felt the inspiration of the meeting and thought this holding of local educational rallies a movement in the right direction, as it brings the best educational ideals to many who can not attend the institute held at the county seat. It was unanimously resolved to commend Commissioner Foster for this new policy, to recommend that the number of institutes be increased another year, and to pledge him the co-operation of all in the advancement of this policy.

The Dexter Board of Education extended an invitation to meet there next year, which will doubtless be accepted because of the courteous treatment and excellent entertainment received from Superintendent Washburn, his teachers and board of education.

German Workingmen.

The German Workingmen's Society at their annual meeting elected the following officers:

Vice-President—Chas. G. Kaercher.

Treasurer—Jacob Hefner.
Sole Secretary—I. Vogel.
Trustee—Fred. Wolf.
Physician—Andros Guido.

The treasurer reported that the society has a reserve fund of $1,700.43 on hand. During the past the society has paid out $1,573.01.

Sheriff Smashes Slot Machines at Steiner.

Step by step he crossed the room, ched her on the elbow, and she, king at him all the while, seemed rouse herself and be conscious that stood beside her.
"I must see you at once—alone," he t down and whispered, "May I see this afternoon?"
"At three," she answered, and gave address on St. Charles avenue.
"Alone; people must not see me," insisted.

"Come to the side door, next the servatory; around the corner on Bellevue street, number 48." Anita sat on calmly stroking Alice's hair.
If she were quite accustomed to king such appointments.
He moved away aimlessly, absentedly. As he passed the door she saw him step into the hall and disappear.

After Duke went out Anita half-tended to the other three young men who were talking angrily; they seemed to be just realizing the thinness of the bluff that had been played on them.
"Well," Chaudron remarked, innocently; "it's no wonder that poor Duke could not get on the track of giving, with all those fellows pulling against him."
Duke could not help it; he looked at Chaudron and laughed.

"Poor Baker—poor Baker knew more about it than anybody; he came here half a dozen times to see Mrs. Ashton was getting on—"
Chaudron stared—the fullness of Duke's duplicity burst upon him.
"Where is Baker now?" he asked of the others.

"He's out there in the street, came the cab with me. I saw him walk-up and down the sidewalk a few minutes ago."
Chaudron snatched his hat from the table and bolted out of the door.
The detective prided himself upon his intuitions and discretion.
For an hour he had been hanging in the front of the little house trying to catch a whiff from the pot of trouble that was stew-ing inside. Not a word could he hear.
It made him desperately uneasy.
The atmosphere began to feel sultry; barometer fell as if the bottom dropped out. "Hit's gone to it," thought Baker, and pulled his gun tighter.

"That lawyer from Vicksburg who kept so blooming good-natured, raise such a row, Baker, shuddered to think what would happen if Chaudron, the fiery Creole, exposed. And the more he thought, the more of curiosity he had to witness it.
When Chaudron bounded through the door he saw no fidgety little Englishman pacing up and down the banquette; there was no checked suit gazing over the fence, and none of the cabmen knew in which direction he had vanished."

Dr. Anderson accompanied Mrs.
Chaudron and the girls to their carriage, gave Alice his final assurances, and they drove away. Chaudron hurried his mother off, jerking restlessly his tiny mustache.
"Come along," he caught Vance by the arm, "let's go find Baker."
"All right," the other man laughed,
"letting into the cab. 'I've got to play on somebody.'"
Then Joe began to look around for him.

"Now, I'll have to find him again," he swore between his teeth; "and the devil only knows where he has gone this time."

CHAPTER XVIII.
THE ABSOLUTION.
Anita sat on the curving seat in the big front window at the Chaudrons', watching people pass along the avenue. Every time a car checked up at the corner she leaned forward to see who got off, sighed, and waited for another car.

The far-spreading leaves of a sago palm filled the window recess, and brushed her cheek. Her handkerchief lay on the cushion, a tight damp little wad. She scarcely breathed; with lived only in the earnest eyes; with which she watched the street.

Mrs. Chaudron came in and patted her affectionately on the shoulder before the girl knew that she was in the room.
"Anita, I wish you could have taken a little nap."

Anita shook her head.
"Alice is resting like a child; it would have done you so much good," Mrs. Chaudron sat down beside the girl and took one limp white hand between her own.
"Tell me, dear, where does Mr. Duke live?"
"Up the river, not far from my aunt's."

"I wonder if he can be a son of Maj. Warburton Duke. I thought of asking him while we were at the hospital, but forgot it."
"Yes, I think he is." Anita's eyes left the window for a moment. She had never talked with anyone about Noel Duke or his people, except Joe Balfour.

"Well, well, isn't that queer?" Mrs.
Chaudron continued with a smile that carried her back to girlhood. "That boy's father escorted me to my first ball, my debut. From this very house, this very room. I sat in that stiff high-backed chair over there, when he came. It has been so many years ago that I should hate to confess it, but I remember, just as distinctly as if it were last night, how frightened I was, how my heart beat—and what a beautiful bouquet he brought. I'll show you the ribbon that was tied around it, when you come upstairs—I've kept it ever since; you know how foolish young girls are!" The black Creole eyes sparkled; she seemed not a day older than Anita.

"I was so proud of him," the tall young captain in his glittering new uniform. This boy reminded me of it all to-day. It was the first year of the war; the young men were very much elated at being ordered to the front. Poor fellows, they imagined they were going to have a sort of holiday. He and his brother were both at the ball—Warburton and Noel.
The went off to Virginia the next morning; we were all at the train cheering and waving flags. Noel was killed at Bull Run two weeks afterward; that was this young man's uncle."

Anita said nothing; she only squeezed Mrs. Chaudron's hand a little harder. She sat there so absorbed and silent that she did not notice when Mrs. Chaudron left the room.

A car stopped at the corner. Duke stepped off and glanced around him.
He looked at the street name on the lamp-post, then at the numbers. He walked slowly down Bellevue street until he located the little room, then hurried on.

Anita sprang up and ran into the hall. Mrs. Chaudron stopped as she was in the act of starting upstairs, nodded and smiled at the girl.
"Everybody is asleep," she whispered; "they are very tired; I'll see that you are not disturbed."

"Oh, Mrs. Chaudron, you are so good to me—so good to me," Anita flung her arms about the older woman's neck.

It was a tiny room, the one next the conservatory—a tiny little room, but it held Anita, and the whole unmeasured universe need be no bigger.
When Duke came in, she extended her hand; he barely touched it. Anita had expected more, and was not sure she would resist.

"Anita," he said, "I must speak quickly. Sit down. Be brave." There was an abruptness in his manner that frightened her, and she obeyed. She had a hundred questions to ask him, but forgot them all.

"I came to New Orleans on the same train with you, to say good-by, and to tell you something; but I've never had a chance—"
"Good-by? You are not going away?"
"No, only to Vicksburg. Don't interrupt me for God's sake, or I may never tell you." He spoke with the determination of a man who has nerved himself to walk through the fire.

"I have done a fearful thing. I killed a man in Vicksburg—the night of the cotton—perhaps at the very moment when you were writing me that letter," his voice broke, and he added, "the letter with the jonquil." Anita's cheeks and lips faded very white, but she did not move nor cry out. Duke dared not look into those eyes upturned to his; he grasped the back of a chair and spoke on blindly:

"The police may be searching for me now. But I did not mean to kill him; I was not myself—I was drinking. That does not excuse me, it only makes it worse; but I wanted you to know."
"When you left Ivanhoe," he commenced again, "they told me you were coming here to meet Mr. Vance. It made me very angry."
Anita opened her lips in protest, but he stopped her.

"No, no, dear, it was not that I doubted you, not a moment, but I had set my heart on seeing you that night, and was bitterly disappointed. That is why I was so angry and unreasonable. So I came to Vicksburg where you would see me on the street with that chicken-fighting crowd. I wanted to show you that I did not care; I wanted to hurt your feelings. 'Way down in my heart I did not mistrust you, I didn't believe it; I knew how contemptible I was, and felt like a dog. But I went up to the cock-pit, bet on everything, and had a fool's luck. It gave me no pleasure, I wanted to get back to town, hated everybody. I quarreled with some of my best friends, drank a little, and and—this happened."

"Who was the man?" she scarcely dared to ask.
"I did not know him; a lumberman,
I think. To-night I go back to Vicksburg and give myself up. Of course we can't see each other after that—"

The girl shrank as if he had struck her, and covered in her chair. He looked down upon her; his resolution wavered, his body ached, his voice changed. When he began to speak again, his voice seemed to come from afar off, as if he were still debating a question with himself.

"I met a sea-captain yesterday on the levee—a man I used to know in Brazil, a great, bluff, good-hearted fellow. He tells to-morrow for Buenos Ayres. I told him all about it, and he said for me to come with him—he'd fix it. He'd send me ashore at Carupano in Venezuela—there's no cable at Carupano, and his vessel is not supposed to touch there. You see, if the officers were to try to stop me they would have to cable Bahia, the first port he touches, and by that time I would be safe. From the coast I could easily get across the mountains to some friends of mine who are locating a railroad—somewhere in Colombia. It would be very easy, and the captain almost persuaded me. But I won't do it; I can't leave you."

IN A CHILD'S LOVE
LONELY COUPLE FOUND HAPPINESS IN LIFE.

Advent of Little Nellie Filled Void of Which Physician and His Wife Were Scarcely Conscious.

Mrs. Dayton entered her husband's study and sank into a chair.
"You look hot Eleanor," said Dr.
Dayton, glancing up from a scientific journal. "Have you been out in the sun?"

"Yes, I walked over to the fresh-air camp to see the children who were brought from the city this morning."
"I wish you wouldn't go there so often, Eleanor," he said, a trifle impatiently. "A visit to the fresh-air camp seems to exhaust you more than anything else."

"But, Harry, I love to see the children. One such darling little girl came this morning. She has yellow curls and big brown eyes, and her name is Nellie. I used to be called Nellie when I was her age. She's from the foundlings' home, and I couldn't help wishing, Harry, that we—"

"Now, dear, don't bring up that subject again. You know I doubt the wisdom of adopting children, and you are not strong enough to assume the care of a youngster." The doctor smiled tenderly at Mrs. Dayton. "Haven't you trouble enough looking after me without flying to hills you know not of?" As he ceased speaking the telephone bell rang.

"I'm wanted at the camp," he explained, hanging up the receiver and reaching for his medicine case. "A child lifted the top of a beehive and was badly stung."

An hour later Mrs. Dayton rose from her porch hammock at the sound of her husband's voice. "Here's a little visitor, Eleanor!" he called.

She ran out to the motor car and took in her arms a limp little baby girl. "Why, it's Nellie!" she said.
"Is it Nellie? I wasn't thinking about anything but her stings, which were pretty severe. Talk about grateful patients, Eleanor! When I managed to relieve the little thing's sufferings she clung to me, and I simply couldn't get away from her. So I told the matron we'd keep her over night. You see her face and arms are badly swollen, and she may need more care than they'd have time to give her at the camp."

"I like the doctor man," lisped Nellie. "I want to stay with him." Mrs. Dayton kissed the yellow curls and laid the child in the hammock, and the doctor disappeared into the house, murmuring something about preparing a soothing lotion.

One morning two weeks later the matron of the fresh-air camp telephoned Dr. Dayton that the children with whom Nellie had come were to be returned to the city that day. She requested him to bring Nellie to the camp in time for the afternoon train.

"To-day? Why, is the time up already? Why—well, you see, I think my wife wished to keep her—that is,
I—hang it all—I beg your pardon, I mean that we both want her."

He turned from the telephone and saw Mrs. Dayton listening in the doorway. Her eyes were bright and her cheeks wore an unwonted glow of health. She was a winsome picture with Nellie hanging to her skirts and the chain of flowers in her hands that she was weaving for the baby's curls.

"Oh, Harry!" was all she said, but the look of love and gratitude in her eyes filled his own with happy tears.

PETS FOR LITTLE PARISIANS.
All Kinds of Animals as Playmates for the Children.

Children play a great role in French society, as all those who have read Gyp's inimitable "Pitt Bob" will readily admit, and now the small Parisienne insists on receiving on her fête day and at the New Year a live pet, instead of a costly doll or a mechanical toy. The demand has been creating a supply, and a lively trade is being done, not only in puppies and kittens, in tiny monkeys and in lambs, but also in tigers and leopards. Up to a certain age, these small felines are quite harmless, and, of course, as soon as they begin, so to speak, to show their teeth and sharpen their claws, they are sent off to one of the two magnificent "Zoo's" with which the Gay City is provided.

TWO SISTERS HAD ECZEMA.
Cuticura Cured Scalp Troubles of Two Illinois Girls—Another Sister Took Cuticura Pills.

"I must give much praise to all the Cuticura Remedies. I used but one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment, as that was all that was required to cure my disease. I was very much troubled with eczema of the head, and a friend of mine told me to use the Cuticura Remedies, which I did, and am glad to say that they cured my eczema entirely. Since then we have always kept the soap on hand at all times. My sister was also cured of eczema of the head by using the Cuticura Remedies. Another sister has used Cuticura Resolvent and Pills and thinks they are a splendid tonic.
I cannot say exactly how long I suffered, but I think about six months.

Expert Ocean Mail Sorters.
One of the most interesting performances of modern times is the handling of the mails in great ocean steamships. Some of the men become so expert at sorting that they work almost automatically, many of them being able to put their finger on any particular town marked on the rack blindfolded. On an ordinary western trip they carry on an average about 250,000 letters and some 10,000 registered packages. The latter have all to be written up in detail in their books during the voyage, and this takes more time than the actual sorting. The officials do not always manage to finish the work by the time they reach port, and when such is the case they accompany what is left to the general post office and complete the job there.

The Well Knit College Chap.
Ethel's big sister has an ardent admirer who is a college athlete, a big, broad-shouldered chap. Ethel overheard her sister say that he was well knit. The next evening, when the young man called, Ethel went into the parlor to entertain him.

"Do you know what sister says about you?" demanded Ethel.
"No. Something nice, I hope," said the young man.

"Oh, yes, it's very nice," replied Ethel. "She says you are beautifully crocheted."

HEALTH AND SPIRITS
Are Restored by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in Cases of Debility and Despondency.

General debility is caused by mental or physical overwork with imperfect assimilation of nourishment, or by some acute disease from which the vital forces have been prostrated and the entire organism weakened so as not to easily rally. To restore health it is necessary that the blood should be purified and made new.

The case of Mrs. E. M. Spears, of 92 Mt. Pleasant street, Athol, Mass., is a common one and is given here in order that others may be benefited by her experience. She says: "I had been sick for a year from indigestion and general debility brought on by overwork and worry. I had tried many remedies, but found no relief. I suffered from swelling of the limbs, loss of appetite and dizzy spells, which became so severe towards night, that I sometimes fainted away. I was billous and my hands and arms would go to sleep for an hour or two at a time. I was so sleepy all the time that I could hardly keep awake. I had frequent cramps in my limbs and severe pains at the base of my head and in my back. My blood was impoverished. I was afraid to give up and go to bed fearing that I would never get well."

"About this time Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended to me by a friend in South Vernon, Vt. I felt better soon after beginning the treatment and continued until I was entirely cured. I consider Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a grand medicine for weak women."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies.
Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed it is swollen and a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be brought out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing more than an inflammation of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

NATURE PROVIDES FOR SICK WOMEN
a more potent remedy in the roots and herbs of the field than was ever produced from drugs.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers few drugs were used in medicines and Lydia E.
Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., in her study of roots and herbs and their power over disease discovered and gave to the women of the world a remedy for their peculiar ills more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an honest, tried and true remedy of unquestionable therapeutic value.
During its record of more than thirty years, its long list of actual cures of those serious ills peculiar to women, entitles Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to the respect and confidence of every fair minded person and every thinking woman.

When women are troubled with irregular or painful functions, weakness, displacements, ulceration or inflammation, backache, flatulency, general debility, indigestion or nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

No other remedy in the country has such a record of cures of female ills, and thousands of women residing in every part of the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable compound and what it has done for them.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. For twenty-five years she has been advising sick women free of charge. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and as her assistant for years before her decease advised under her immediate direction. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Before You Paint, This Spring bear in mind the fact that it costs you as much if not more to paint your buildings with inferior paints than it would to use paints of good quality. More harm and dissatisfaction is caused by the use of poor paints than almost any other article used for preserving or beautifying property.

Buffalo A.O. Paints
are the highest grade paints made. They contain the purest and most lasting pigments ground in Aged Linseed Oil in correct proportion, are honestly made, cost no more than inferior paints and stand every test for exterior and interior work.
Before you decide on the kind of paint to use, it will be to your interest to send for our 1907 color chart of the latest shades for modern uses, also valuable information and paint facts that you ought to know.

We want every owner of a building in this locality who sends us his name and address to have one of our beautiful Buffalo-head souvenir sifter paint pins. The pin is neat and unique in appearance and will be sent without charge, if name is received before April 1st.

Home-Made Catarrh Cure.

Any one can mix right at home the best remedy of his kind known. The name "Cyclone" is given to the following prescription on it, is supposed, because of its promptness in driving from the blood and system every vestige of catarrhal poison, relieving this foul and dread disease, no matter where located. To prepare the mixture: Get from any good pharmacy one half ounce Fluid Extract and one ounce Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

This is a harmless, inexpensive mixture, which has a peculiar action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, assisting them to filter and strain from the blood and system all catarrhal poisons, which, if not eradicated, are absorbed by the mucous membrane, and an open sore or catarrh is the result.

Prepare some and try it, as it is the prescription of an eminent catarrh specialist of national reputation. 2 10

Farmers, mechanics, railroaders, laborers rely on Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Takes the sting out of cuts, burns or bruises at once. Pain cannot stay where it is used.

Cured of Lung Trouble.
"It is now eleven years since I had a narrow escape from consumption," writes C. O. Floyd, a leading business man of Kershaw, S. C. "I had run down in weight to 135 pounds, and coughing was constant, both by day and by night. Finally I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and continued this for about six months, when my cough and lung trouble were entirely gone and I was restored to my normal weight, 170 pounds." Thousands of persons are healed every year. Guaranteed at the Bank Drug Store, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Judge and Mrs. E. E. Leland, of Ann Arbor, were called to Mt. Vernon, Ohio, Saturday, by the death of their eldest son, Joshua Leland, who died Friday evening after a two weeks illness of pneumonia. The deceased was born in Northfield.

With the exception of Harvard, Michigan has now the largest number of regular students in the United States. If the summer session is included Michigan stands third, with Chicago second.

Wise Counsel From the South.
"I want to give some valuable advice to those who suffer with lame back and kidney trouble," says J. R. Blankenship, of Beck, Tenn. "I have proved to an absolute certainty that Electric Bitters will positively cure this distressing condition. The first bottle gave me great relief and after taking a few more bottles, I was completely cured; so completely that it becomes a pleasure to recommend this great remedy." Sold under guarantee at the Bank Drug Store, Price 50c.

There is a disease going the rounds at the present time in fescue which many pronounced the Cuban itch but Dr. Sigler, of Pinckney, says it isn't an itch of any sort nor kind.

LAME EVERY MORNING.

A Bad Back is Always Worse in the Morning.

A back that aches all day and causes discomfort at night is usually worse in the morning. Makes you feel as if you hadn't slept at all.

Can't cure a bad back until you cure the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys make you feel better, work better, rest better and sleep better.

J. H. Sheap Prop. of the City Dairy, living just outside of Sturgis, Mich., says: "I endorse the claims made for Doan's Kidney Pills, for I know they are an excellent remedy for kidney trouble. For five years, there was a dull heavy pain in the small of my back about all the time. Often it was acute and piercing, particularly if I took cold, for it always settled in my back and I felt so lame and stiff in the morning I could hardly get around. The kidney secretions were affected very distressing at times, were of a murky nature and badly discolored. I tried a number of remedies but received no benefit. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills curing people, troubled like I was, and I got a box. They did me more good than any other remedy I ever used. They positively relieved the aching in my back and stopped the annoyance from the kidney secretions. The treatment brought relief not given by any other medicine."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

An ordinance relative to the better enforcement of the liquor laws of the State of Michigan in the Village of Chelsea.

The Village of Chelsea ordains: Section 1. Section 2. All saloons shall have after closing hours a lamp which shall be kept burning on the bar from and after closing hours in the evening until six o'clock of the following morning, so that any person may at any time have full and clear view of the bar and interior of said saloon.

Approved January 24, 1907.

THE HEART CAN'T STAND RHEUMATIC ACID POISONING

To Free and Correct the Blood a URIC-O Treatment is Advised

There is great danger in those sharp, shooting pains throughout the body, especially around the region of the heart. It means that poisonous uric and rheumatic acids are ready to grip tightly the muscles controlling this organ. Don't neglect these warnings, for they are the danger signals nature flashes to you for help. There is but one way to overcome this poisonous foe, and that is a thorough treatment with Smith's Specific Uric-O. If your system is filled with neuralgia, and if your blood and kidneys are diseased with rheumatic poison, there is no surer way on earth to get relief than through the use of Uric-O. Uric-O is a harmless liquid internal remedy, taken in small doses three times a day, and does not contain a drop of alcohol, opium, or other dangerous poisons. Uric-O is simply a cure for Sciatica, Muscular, Indurated and Articular Rheumatism. They all yield readily to Uric-O treatment. Your Druggist sells Uric-O at $1.00 per bottle. If he does not keep the remedy, you can obtain the same by addressing the makers of Uric-O, the SMITH DRUG COMPANY, SYRACUSE, N. Y.

Uric-O is sold and recommended in Chelsea by L. T. FREEMAN.

Sees No Other Way.

Chauncey Olcott possesses that rare gift, a broad sense of humor of things in everyday life. He relates through an exchange the following incident which fell under his observation while traveling through the bituminous coal regions of Pennsylvania.

A large, motherly looking woman in a department store said to a shop girl:

"I want to get a pair of gloves for my Jim. He's going to a ball."

"Yes, madam," said the girl, producing white kid gloves. "This is the kind, I suppose?"

"Them!" cried the woman. "Goodness, no. They'd be too good. My Jim's got a hand like a shoulder of mutton. Besides, they're too dear. Haven't you got something like the policemen wear—at about 15 cents?"

The clerk smilingly regretted that they did not keep that kind.

"Oh, very well," the old party replied, "there's no help for it—Jim'll have to wash his hands, after all."

SOME DAINY ORNAMENTS FOR THE COIFFURE

DESCRIPTION OF HAIR ORNAMENTS

A SMALL wreath of lilies of the valley intertwined with their leaves and seed pearls strung on wire is one of the most original conceits for the hair. It is worn directly on the top of the head, even slightly over the pompadour, and is especially effective with the very low coiffure.

Another idea is shown in two loops of wide velvet ribbon on each of which rests the wing of a jeweled butterfly, and still another consists of a tiara, not of gems, but of short, uneven loops of white velvet ribbon set into a band of pearls, each loop upstanding and studded with dew-

A SPRAINED ANKLE.

A sprain is always a serious thing. Sometimes, even under the best of care, the patient never recovers, but always feels the effect of the accident. In severity a sprained ankle will range from a trifling thing to one of extreme seriousness. The outer side is more often the seat of the trouble than the inner side of the ankle.

The treatment sometimes adopted of rendering the joint immovable by a plaster of paris cast seems often to be unsatisfactory. Probably a proper bandaging or the use of adhesive plaster strappings is the best course to pursue at first, after the application of alternate hot and cold douchings to stimulate circulation and take out the pain and soreness. After the bandages or straps are removed massage of the foot is often helpful.

Sometimes old chronic cases which do not recover, may be improved if the physician in charge gives the patient an anesthetic and converts the chronic sprains into acute sprains, which can then be treated like a new accident and so brought to recovery.

THE WILLOW PLUME.

QUESTION OF THE PETTICOAT.

As our thoughts turn to the winter days, with the muddy and slushy weather, we know just what a state the walking skirts will be in and also how hard such weather is upon the street petticoat.

It is a great temptation to pass by the attractive silk petticoats which are a delight to every woman, but the sensible girl will have at least one strong, trim alpaca petticoat of the best and most lustrous quality.

A novel idea is to have a top skirt of alpaca buttoned on the side front seam to avoid all possible gaping of the plaquet and finished at the front with strong hem, upon which are sewed buttons at rather close intervals. The founce can be made of silk or alpaca, trimmed with silk ruffles and finished with button holes to button upon the buttons on the top skirt. One may have several founces to match the various gowns. At least there may always be one clean and well-mended founce to take the place of the bedraggled and half-worn one.

There is nothing more noticeable than an untidy skirt or petticoat, and this scheme seems to solve the problem.

TO WASH WOOLENS.

Flannels or other woolen articles require special care to avoid shrinking. Boil up some good white soap in soft water, but do not use the suds when boiling hot; let them cool to a heat which the hand can bear before the flannel are put in. Soak the articles up and down in plenty of suds, which afterwards squeeze out (never wring with the hands). The patent clothes wringer is best to use, as it squeezes the water out without injuring the fabric. After rinsing in warm water, again squeeze or run through the wringer and hang in the open air to dry, if the weather is such as to dry them quickly; else dry in a warm room, but not too close to the fire.

Amber In Favor.

The liking for amber, for that matter, has spread to buckles and to necklaces—the latter, though, must

GOODS AND ENDS

WORTH KNOWING.

Soak green vegetables in salt water before cooking.

To clean a spice mill, grind in it a handful of raw rice.

In wearing rubber gloves always pull off wrong side out, and shake talcum powder into them. Leave until ready to use again. A pair of rubber gloves treated in this way will last double the length of time they would otherwise.

Even doctors acknowledge that natural, fresh cream from cows' milk can give points to cod-liver oil and similar nasty liquids in treating consumption.

Handkerchiefs and towels may be bleached by washing them in the usual manner and then letting them stand over night in a solution of one-half teaspoonful of cream of tartar to each quart of water.

The more the feet are bathed and rubbed the better their condition, and there is less tendency to chafe. Rubbing the soles of the feet with a cut lemon will freshen and ease them when fatigued.

A spoonful of mustard in a gallon of water or a good drenching with lime water will kill insects in the earth of potted plants.

Wood ashes put in a woolen bag and placed in the water will make hard water soft.

The Medicine Chest.

Every mother should keep a bottle of goose oil, a box with a quilted spice band in it and a box with a clay pipe, a small bottle of chloroform, and a piece of cotton batting in it, for emergency. Give a teaspoon of goose oil and an equal quantity of molasses, heated, for a cough; there is nothing better. Take two pieces of flannel, place 1 spoonful of cloves, 1 of cinnamon, 1 of allspice and 1 of ginger between them and quilt back and forth, so that it won't fall to the bottom, and when a child has cholera infantum bind over the bowels while sending for the doctor; it will do as much good as the medicine. Keep it on until the child gets well. Put a small piece of cotton batting in the bowl of a new clay pipe, drop on 2 drops of chloroform, put the stem in the ear and blow in the bowl and it will stop the earache before you have time to speak.

For Burns.

Take a raw potato, split it lengthwise and scrape it with a knife. Lay it right on the burn as fast as you scrape it, until you have covered it with a thick layer; then bind up in a soft white cloth. It gives immediate relief, is very simple and is always in the house. I saw this remedy applied to a burn on the hand from flash lights on Thanksgiving night and it worked like a charm.

China Cement.

Into a thick solution of gum arabic stir plaster of paris until the mixture assumes the consistency of cream. Apply the mixture with a brush to the broken edges of the china and join together. In three days the article cannot be broken in the same place. The whiteness of the cement adds to its value.

Suggestions.

To remove match marks, rub with a piece of cut lemon and after with a cloth dipped in water, and the stains will disappear. Put a pinch of salt in the whites of eggs to make them whip better.

To Prevent Fabrics Becoming Yellow. To prevent white fabrics, such as tulle or silk evening gowns, choice lace or crepe shawls, becoming yellow when packed away, sprinkle pieces of white wax freely among the folds.

To Remove Grape Stains.

To remove grape stains, wash with warm soap suds and a little ammonia water, sponging afterward with clear, cold water.

The more important things that will make a sewing room a comfort and pleasure are an old pier-glass, which can either be hung or mounted, and if possible a piece of furniture of the "dresser" variety, which will give a mirror opposite. This can be turned to afford a full-length view of both back and front of the figure.

Fish are scaled and fowls plucked much more easily and quickly if dropped into boiling water for an instant.

HOW TO KEEP THE BABY OUT OF FLOOR DRAFTS

At this season of the year the creeping baby is menaced by an ever-present danger from the draughts that find such ready ingress underneath the doors and around the window baseboards.

One way of guarding against these is to attach weather strips of thick felt to all the door edges and over all the cracks.

Another plan is to clothe the baby in an overall garment of flannel, drawn up closely around the neck, wrists and ankles, or even cut with attached feet, after the fashion of a combination night suit.

This, however, affords no protection whatever to the ears, nose and eyes, all of which are highly susceptible to cold, and affections of which are extremely painful and dangerous. A third plan is to fence off a warm corner of the living room to the height of about twenty inches, pad it with felt or other woolen material, and put the baby and his toys all in it together.

One inventive mother has a commodious drygoods box, wide and deep, which she has padded thickly with old but clean comfortable, and into this she puts her baby when she is busy around the house.

There is a soft feather pillow inside for baby to lie upon when he feels sleepy or lazy, and his ball, rubber doll and woolly lamb are all attached to the box with long strings, so that they cannot by any possibility be lost overboard.

KEEP YOUNG.

The woman of 40 is just beginning to live and should do everything in her power to keep herself young and charming. When a woman is 100 years old it is rather foolish of her to try to improve her complexion but at 40—well, that's young these days. The only thing is to stick to good sense, rational methods. Keep out of doors as much as possible and keep to a sensible, simple diet.

TO IMPROVE TEA FLAVOR.

To give ordinary tea a fine flavor rose leaves in the tea-canister, or add one drop of the attar of roses on

A USEFUL HINT.

To clean a tarnished brass bedstead and make it look like new, take two gills of turpentine, two gills of methylened spirits, one gill and a half of sweet oil, one gill of vinegar. Mix these all together and then apply to brass. Shake well before using, and when not using, keep it well corked.

Excellent recipe for tarnished goods, without removing lacquer: One quart of boiling water and some soap—any kind but carbolic—two drams—strongest liquid ammonia. Wash goods with sponge or soft flannel; if red soap will injure the skin, so do poor cosmetics. The nightly application of some pure, soothing ointment to overcome the wear and of the weather is absolutely necessary.

superfluous hair on the lip may be removed by the use of the electric needle, for it will rarely re-grow if treated in this way. A depilatory may always be employed for the purpose, but it is necessary to use it from time to time, and it is not so satisfactory.

Don't use peroxide on the hair. To get blonde hair bolden, shampoo with six or seven eggs, adding juice of a lemon and one teaspoonful of soda of tartar to the last rinsing.

dram of canna indica, one dram of salicylic acid, and one-half an ounce of acetic acid. Add the liquid ingredients and shake well, and then add the salicylic acid and shake until dissolved.

It is true that those who understand facial massage are able to banish years from one's face. Such a course of treatments will give a woman many valuable ideas concerning the care of the complexion, and the proper way to anoint the skin with foods and creams.

A Good Massage Cream.

Express oil of sweet almonds, 80 minims; fresh cucumber juice, 1 ounce; lanoline, 4 drams; oil of rose, 4 drops. Melt the oil and lanoline in a double boiler; remove from fire, stir in the cucumber juice; before the mixture cools add the perfume; beat until cool.

Danger of Tight Gloves.

Tight kid gloves chap the hands just as much as insufficient drying does. Get a pair of gloves a little bit too large for you, kid gloves lined with silk, which will look stylish and at the same time accomplish the real purpose of gloves, namely to keep the hands warm.

offered, or to a meal of some starchy food, as cracker or toast, water, sugar and water, or cow's milk, which the stomach cannot digest, and spoiling and poisoning is the result. Colic or inflammation may follow, and then come grave disorders as infantum, or dysentery. In the summer the latter often proves fatal in a few days, or even a few hours. It is a

FEEDING THE BABY.

It is a bad plan to bring the baby to the table and let him sample the things on it. Sometimes grandma or grandpa pleads that he has a bite of something sweet, and loving relatives have been known administer dainties to baby on the table. To his ultimate discomfort, in Since Jack Parker was arrested on the 21st, it developed that Prosecuting Attorney Sawyer had found witnesses to show that Parker ran a poker table over his saloon. There was what is called a "kitty" in this table. A "kitty" is described as a slot in the middle of the table into which the man who runs the game drops a check taken from the winner's pile of every "jack pot." Eighteen men of this village who had been in the habit of visiting this place were subpoenaed to testify against Parker Monday, but it suddenly transpired that ten of these men skipped out rather than appear in court. The case was adjourned for two weeks, February 12, and subpoenas were taken out for their appearance at that time. At this time the number of business calls which some of the men wanted had in other localities was surprising, one gentleman received an impression that he could buy an enormous quantity of onions in Ohio. At this date nearly all the men have returned and only five are yet to be subpoenaed.

The attorney also asked for a stay of proceedings for 30 days, in which to prepare a motion for a new trial. The latter request was granted. The jury found that Millen was entitled to $20,000 for the assault on him by White; $15,000 for damages on his business and reputation by White's slanderous statement, and $8,000 for mental anguish and pain caused by White's slander.
