LARGE PRAIRIE WOLF SHOT

IN SHARON LAST FRIDAY.

A Beautiful Specimen of a Wolf Animal Killed in Sharon Township by Warren Spaulding.

For the past three or four years farmers who reside in the vicinity of the "big marsh" lying in the townships of Sharon and Freedom have frequently reported losses of sheep. Recently the inhabitants of those townships became convinced that their sheep were being killed by a wild animal rather than by dogs. Some two weeks ago hunters from Chelsea began visiting the marsh to capture the animal, if possible, and several have shot at it. Last Thursday the hunters started the animal north from its usual runway, and some shots were fired at it in the vicinity of Pierce's lake, but the animal escaped, and at dark that evening the hunters abandoned the chase near the Bowen farm in Lima. At an early hour Friday morning the hunters again took up the chase and found the animal back at his old lair in the big marsh. With the aid of dogs the animal was started up again and killed by Warren Spaulding on the farm of M. Keeler, of Sharon, some 12 miles from Chelsea, Friday afternoon.

Mr. Spaulding brought his capture to Chelsea about four o'clock and placed it on exhibition. The strange animal attracted all kinds of attention and caused all sorts of comments. It was a handsome animal. Opinions differed as to whether it was a timber wolf, grey wolf, prairie wolf, or a coyote.

Saturday Mr. Spaulding took the capture to the county clerk's office, where it was concluded he was entitled to a bounty and that the animal was what is known as a prairie wolf. There is a state bounty of $25 on wolves, half of which is paid by the county. It has been many years since a wolf bounty has been collected in Washtenaw county. The authorities at Ann Arbor are of the opinion that the young hunter is entitled to the bounty.

A Pleasant Evening.

In response to invitations issued by the members of the W. R. C. a company of about fifty comrades and friends of the Post and Corps met at their hall Friday evening, February 8th, to partake of a bountiful supper the ladies had prepared and enjoy a Lincoln program. After supper Mrs. A. A. Van Tyne called for order, and all joined in singing "America" and the "Star Spangled Banner." Short speeches suitable to the occasion were made by Revs. Denman, Ryerson and Grant, also by some of the veterans. Fine music was rendered by a quartet consisting of Mesdames Dewey, Cummings, Keenan and Miss Everett; also, a solo by Mrs. Chase, accompanied by Mrs. Ernest Dancer. Superintendent Gallup spoke along the line of patriotic teaching in our public schools, and the observance of decoration day. This was a very enjoyable and instructive talk and well received by all present. It is to be regretted that many comrades and their families were unable to be present on account of illness.

Their Golden Wedding.

The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Byron A. Wight, celebrated at their home, 305 Military avenue, Detroit, last week, brought back many fond memories to the couple who, 50 years ago, were united in marriage in a little log cabin in Sunfield, Eaton county, Mich. They were both married young, Mrs. Wight being 15 and Mr. Wight 19 years of age. He was born in Hillsdale county in 1837, and Mrs. Wight, whose maiden name was Matilda Hunt, was born in Detroit, on Jefferson avenue here where the old Biddle house now stands in 1841. Their only child, a son, died several years ago.

Last week Friday afternoon about 60 relatives and friends sat down to dinner. The afternoon was spent in visiting among friends who had known each other since childhood. Supper was served at 7 o'clock, after which John Williams, of Woodmere, gave a brief sketch of Mr. Wight's life.

The parlor was beautifully decorated for the bride, and the sitting-room was draped with the Masonic colors for the groom, who is an old-time Mason.

The relatives of Mr. Wight who were present were Gardner Wight, a brother, of Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ward, sister, of Chelsea; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Minter, nephew and niece, of Green-ville; Mr. and Mrs. John Parish, cousins, of Hillsdale.

Relatives of Mrs. Wight present were Mrs. Sarah Wight, Mrs. Nellie Oulpy, of Odessa, and Mrs. Marion Montague, Detroit, cousins, and Mrs. Fred Hays, niece, of Odessa.

Other friends from out of the city were Hon. C. S. Winans, consul to Chile, and wife, of Chelsea; Mr. and Mrs. A. E.

Winans, Mrs. Mary J. Winans,

and Mrs. George Irwin, of Chelsea, and Mrs. Nettie Brown, of Toledo; Mrs. William Gray, of Greenlee, and Mrs. John Williams, of Woodmere. About 40 neighbors and friends in the city were also present.

Many handsome presents were received by the couple and $45 in cash.

ROOMS FILLED WITH GAS.

Rev. Thomas Holmes and Wife of this Village Had a Narrow Escape From Asphyxiation Tuesday.

Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Holmes were overcome with gas Tuesday, which no doubt would have caused their death had it not been for the presence of mind of Mr. Holmes.

He was preparing dinner and called his wife. Receiving no reply he started for the study, but the fumes of coal gas which filled the study and sitting room overcame him so that a less resolute man would have fallen unconscious. As it was he crawled on his hands and knees to the side of his wife and found her unconscious, in which state she remained for three hours. With great presence of mind he succeeded in reaching the window, where by this time he was even too weak to raise it and on his knees he waited for some one to pass.

Every moment the deadly fumes were rolling up from the furnace and he was fast approaching a state of insensibility. Every moment he expected to be the last when Emil Kantlehner came up the street. Arousing all his energies Mr. Holmes pounded on the window and succeeded in attracting Mr. Kantlehner's attention. The latter rushed into the house and as soon as the door was opened he knew what was the matter. The doors were quickly thrown open and a doctor and help quickly summoned by phone.

The couple were taken to the Durand residence where restoratives were administered. The gas was caused by a pipe which connects the furnace with the chimney being crowded too far into the chimney opening so that nearly all draft was closed.

A Fine Present.

Rev. M. Lee Grant, pastor of the Chelsea Congregational church, last Saturday received a letter from Andrew Carnegie, of New York, announcing that he would contribute $800 toward a pipe organ for the Congregational church. Mr. Carnegie's offer has a condition, however. The church shall first raise $800, and he will then forward the $800 that he has pledged toward the $1,000 organ the society will have installed in their church. The officials of the society have accepted the offer and have appointed a committee, of which F. H. Sweetland is chairman, to raise the required amount and they will at once begin a canvass. As the society has on deposit in the bank $400 for an organ, it will be but a short time before the remainder will be secured and the instrument will place an order for the instrument as soon as possible.

Lecture Course.

The fifth number of the lecture course will come Saturday evening of this week. Alexander Tarr, of the Dickson Lyceum bureau, will be the speaker. The press in various parts of the city in the highest terms of Tarr. Next Tuesday evening Prof. Ferris, of Big Rapids, the man whom the thousand of boys and girls who have passed through his school love and sing his praise wherever they go, will lecture. We don't know what the subject will be, but we do know it will be a hummer. Doors open at 7 p. m. Lecture begins at 8. Single admission, 25 cents. Four lectures and entertainment yet, 75 cents.

ELECTION OF DIRECTORS

IN TOWN HALL SATURDAY

Five Good Business Men Selected to Direct the Affairs of the New Chelsea Milling Company.

The first meeting of the stockholders of the Chelsea Milling Company was held in the basement of the town hall, Saturday afternoon, and thirty-five of the subscribers of the capital stock were present.

E. K. White called the meeting to order and appointed Ed. Beach and Thomas Fletcher as tellers and J. D. Watson as secretary.

As the meeting had been called for the purpose of electing five directors for the company, the polls were opened at 1:30 and closed at 2:45 o'clock, when the votes were counted.

The following gentlemen were elected as the board of directors: L. T. Freeman, Joseph L. Sibley, E. K. White, Ed. Vogel and O. C. Burkhardt.

The total number of votes cast were 398, and a number of votes were cast for the following: W. J. Knapp, C. Kalmbach, D. C. McLaren, C. E. Whitaker, Wm. Coe and Ed. Beach.

At a meeting of the board of directors Wednesday evening the following officers were elected: President, Joseph L. Sibley; vice president, O. C. Burkhardt; secretary, Edward Vogel; treasurer and general manager, E. K. White.

SALOONKEEPERS FINED.

Albion Saloonists All Plead Guilty to Violations Charged and Are Fined Two Hundred Dollars.

The following saloonkeepers of Albion, James and George McGuire, C. E. Eslow, H. Heilfrich, John McAniff, Frank Stankrauff, Ernest and Herman Boldt, J. K. who were bound over to the circuit court two weeks ago for violations of the liquor law, a report of which appeared in The Leader, were all arraigned in court Monday afternoon, and all pleaded guilty to the offenses as charged.

It being the first time they were brought before the judge, he did not think it advisable to impose a jail sentence, but he made the fine as heavy against Eslow, Heilfrich, McAniff, Fox and Stankrauff as possible under the law, $200 in each case. Each of the McGuires and each of the Boldts received $100. This made the total fines for the seven saloons $1,400. In pronouncing sentence the court provided that they be confined in the county jail ninety days, if the fines were not paid.—Albion Leader.

No Quarter at Owosso.

Mayor Parkhill and Chief Neumann, of Owosso, are having a strenuous time. On the one hand they are trying to make the liquor men obey the laws, and on the other handfuls of complaints are being lodged by citizens against the lack of enforcement of the liquor laws. Now they have passed the word around to the saloons that henceforth no quarter will be shown the violators of a liquor law, and that the people who claim that they know so much about saloons being open illegally will have a chance to tell what they know and help the enforcement.

Men have boasted that they could get full in almost any saloon in town at any hour of the day. These are the men the chief now wants to meet.

Grange Meeting.

The local committee who had charge of the arrangements heartily thank all those who helped to make the institute a success.

Mrs. Maryette Snow was born in Cayuga county, New York, October 15, 1825, and died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edwin Monroe, of Chelsea, on Wednesday afternoon, February 13th. The deceased was for many years a well-known resident of Lyndon, and for a few years past has been a resident of Chelsea. She is survived by one son and three daughters. The funeral will be held from her late home Saturday afternoon of this week.

Not every man and woman knows to what an extent the above fact is true. To the business man the paying of bills by check is a godsend, because of its simplicity, its safeguarding his cash, its admirable free system of bookkeeping, and the positive increase in his financial standing that a BANK ACCOUNT quickly earns for him. The business woman or head of the household will also appreciate the simplicity, dispatch, and accuracy of this method of paying her bills.

SERIAL STORY

DUKE OF DEVIL-MAY-CARE

By HARRIS DICKSON

Author of "The Black Wolf's Breed," Etc.

(Copyright, 1929, by D. Appleton & Co.)

All through the dinner pretty little Miss Deroset at the far end of the table could scarcely take her eyes away from him for fear she might miss something that he said.

While old Ben was clearing away the salad plates something reminded Duke, and he began to tell a very interesting story of the Argentine revolutions—the story of an American hardware drummer and a fussy government official, burdened with responsibility and gold lace. Pretty Miss Deroset faced him, scarcely breathing, it was so romantic.

In the midst of his story the doorbell rang. He dropped his fork with a clatter; his voice wavered, and stopped. Involuntarily he looked over his shoulder into the hall.

Anita caught her breath in one quick gasp and pushed back her chair.

"Never mind, dear," said Mrs. Chaudron. "Celeste will go."

The color went and came in Anita's face; she stared out into the hall. Then she heard Celeste talking with a messenger boy who had brought a note for Mrs. Chaudron. She laughed and looked at Duke.

"Well, what did the governor do then?" asked Miss Deroset, with one little fist lying clenched on the table.

Everything was safe; Duke stumbled through with his story. After that he sat quietly and listened. But he knew he was listening for the bell, the sound of the latch, a step on the walk, and not at what was said across the table.

In every hush of the conversation Chaudron reverted to the subject which irritated him most—the treachery of Baker.

Coffee had been served, and dallied over. Old Ben began handing round the cigars, and the ladies arose to leave.

"But I'll make them suffer for it—see if I don't," Chaudron declared vehemently to Joe.

"What are you talking about, my son?" asked Mrs. Chaudron, laying her hand on his head as she passed.

"Those miserable police—especially Baker; I'm going to settle with them just as soon as Carnival is over. I get madder and madder every time I think about it."

Joe laughed as he struck a match. "Now, Felix, I'd quit worrying over that; it has turned out so well that we ought to be thankful. Just think, at this time yesterday how glad we would have been to know that Mrs. Ashton was safe." He leaned across the table with a queer little smile upon his lips and remarked: "I knew another tragedy once that turned out even better than this."

"Wait a minute, Mrs. Chaudron; please wait a minute," Miss Deroset begged. "Let us hear this one story."

The ladies stopped. Anita paused with her hand on the back of a chair—the chair next to Duke's. Joe looked straight at his friend as he began:

"It happened to Harry Robb, the best friend I ever had in the world, at the University of Virginia. He was a high-spirited boy, without a petty bone in his body; but rash, impulsive, and always getting into trouble. One day he quarreled with his sweetheart and went down-town that night to forget about it—started out to make himself generally disagreeable so she would hear of it and be sorry."

"I thought when he left my room that he had Old Nick in him bigger than a mule; but I couldn't keep him, he would go."

The next morning, about daylight, a man came tapping on my window. At first I thought he must be a burglar and was considering whether to shoot him or not. Then he called out: 'Joe! Joe! let me in, quick, it's Harry.'

It happened to be a bottle—and struck the man. It must have been a pretty hard blow, for the man fell, stone dead, and Harry ran out the side door. No one saw it.

"After wandering around for hours the boy came to my room and told me. What could I do? I was simply paralyzed with horror."

"I made Harry wait there, dressed quickly, and went down-town to see about it. What do you think I found?"

Joe glanced up from the spoon which he was deliberately turning over and over again on the cloth. Duke sat perfectly rigid, with tight-clenched lips—where was the fool going to stop? How much did he mean to tell? Anita leaned forward on the back of the chair, her bosom stiller than a frozen sea.

"And what do you think I found?"

No one stirred, and two of his listeners did not breathe.

"Harry had simply broken a bottle over the fellow's head. The man fell, bled a little, and was too drunk to move. You needn't laugh, there was nothing funny about that—it was a frightful tragedy to Harry Robb."

Anita's hand slipped off the chair-back; she came slowly forward to the table. Her eyes met Joe's; she understood. Yet, to make very sure, she asked:

"And so your friend did not kill the man after all?"

"No, hadn't hurt him a bit. The man had been loafing around the saloon all day trying to pick a fight with somebody; and when he finally did get a fight no one felt sorry for him. But it straightened Harry. I let him think he had killed that fellow; from Wednesday night until Sunday night he believed himself to be a murderer. He suffered fearfully, but it made a new man of him. It taught him to control his temper, and he has never touched a drop from that day to this."

Joe glanced at Duke's untouched

The thin blue haze from their faces hung like a veil of illusion between himself and those other men—those other men who seemed so distant and so vague.

He sat staring at Joe, staring until Joe's good-natured face lost shape and outline. It faded away, it merged and melted into the mystery of undistinguishable things. Some one told a story; three men laughed. Duke moved quickly round the table.

"Joe," he whispered, "is that the truth?"

"Yes," Joe nodded.

Duke's eyes flashed straight to the place where Anita had disappeared. He rose, walked like a phantom through a mist, and parted the drawing-room portieres.

Mrs. Chaudron looked up; she saw his tall, slender figure standing there between the portieres—saw him searching the room with disappointed eyes.

The dashing song of the Toreador rang in his ears, but he did not hear it. Miss Deroset smiled, and made a place for him beside her—he did not see it. Mrs. Chaudron was looking at him as if she understood; even Alice Ashton glanced around. But to Duke the room was empty, silent, desolate, deserted, for Anita was not there.

Mrs. Chaudron walked across the floor and touched his arm before he saw her. "Back there," she whispered, and pointed down the hall.

It was a tiny little room, the room next the conservatory; but it held Anita, and the whole unmeasured universe need be no wider.

The door stood ajar; Duke tapped gently, and gained no answer but a sob. He tapped again, then pushed it open.

For a moment he thought Anita must have fallen, she lay in such a hopeless heap upon the floor—a huddle of black gown and blacker hair where that single jonquil glistened.

In the middle of the room she lay, glasses and smiled. Duke did not smile; his face was deadly white and very serious.

"WHY, ANITA, ANITA."

"Did he marry the girl?" timid little Miss Deroset inquired, blushing deliciously.

"Of course, there would have been no story if he hadn't. They never quarrel now."

Anita glanced into Duke's pallid face. She leaned heavily on her chair. The room reeked; the perfume of the carnations stung her; she thought that she would faint.

Then, from somewhere, out in a vast wilderness of vacancy, there came a voice: "Come, my dears, let us leave the gentlemen to their cigars," and Mrs. Chaudron took her by the arm.

Anita steadied herself, followed Mrs. Chaudron into the drawing-room, and sat beside her on the sofa. Alice tripped gayly to the piano and began trilling off the Toreador Song.

Anita suddenly flung herself, face downward, in Mrs. Chaudron's lap.

"Why, Anita, Anita, what's the matter? It's too late now to cry; look at Alice."

"Yes, I know it, Mrs. Chaudron, but I can't help it; I held in just as long as I could; I've been so worried about—about my aunt."

Mrs. Chaudron patted her as she might a distressed child, until the girl quieted.

"There, now, go back to the little room and bathe your eyes; they are far too pretty to-night to be spilling them with tears."

"Anita rose obediently. Mrs. Chaudron led her to the door, and watched the girl as she went sobbing through the hall.

Cigar smoke curled upward from the men about the dining-table. Duke did not move; he scarcely thought or felt. Every plan and purpose of his life had gone astray. Everything was in chaos, and he must compose his mind to new conditions.

with her limp white arms outstretched across a traveling bag, sobbing, sobbing.

Here were the pitiful belongings which she had meant to take with her into the unknown world. They seemed so very sacred as she tucked them away, and her tears had fallen upon every one. Those were the trifles she had chosen to be sanctified by her love, to share the glory of her new life. Now there would be no sacrifice, there was nothing that she need give up—her love would cost her nothing.

Duke called to her, his voice infinitely low, inconceivably tender. She did not look up; she only covered closer to the floor and sobbed.

"Anita!" he whispered again, then came in, shut the door and knelt beside her.

THE END.

A Bag of Hot Water.

"I had no hot water for shaving at the little country hotel, and accordingly heated some in a paper bag."

"Heated hot water in a paper bag?"

"Sure."

"How can that be done?"

"You take a stout paper bag—or an envelope will do as well—fill it with water and hold it over a gas flame or a lamp. The water heats readily. The paper doesn't burn because it is wet, and wet paper is a singularly tough and noncombustible substance."

"Many and many a time have I heated over the gas jet an envelope or a paper bag of hot water for my shaving, and not once have I had an accident."

Strangers Now.

"Well, Jack and I are engaged at last."

"You are! Since when?"

"Last night."

"Oh, I am so glad, dear!"

"Are you, honest?"

"Yes, indeed! Now he won't pester me any more."—Houston Post.

State Capital Notes

Weekly Budget Gathered by Our Special Correspondent at Madison.

Madison.—The attorney general's department has rendered an opinion that Emmerson, who draws $55 per month upon the labor roll is also entitled to $35 per month for clerical service rendered to the railway rate commission, and thus the practice of a division of labor in order to secure additional compensation receives the sanction of authority. The opinion given was not in reply to the inquiry of Secretary of State Frear, but was transmitted to Secretary Doty of the civil service commission, who, upon a statement of facts covering the employment of Emmerson, asked for a decision. The opinion in brief finds that in the Emmerson case no law could be found prohibiting his employment and payment upon the rolls of two different state departments.

Move for Peace Parliament.

E. J. Berner of Milwaukee, social democrat, introduced a joint resolution memorializing congress to provide for an international parliament for the settlement of controversies between different nations. The resolution asks congress to "institute proceedings to invite the nations of the world to send delegates to an international union for the purpose of discussing and establishing a system of international arbitration and investigation of disputes between nations, and to arrange for a permanent interparliamentary union to meet at stated intervals." The resolution was laid over. Another resolution introduced by Mr. Berner provides for submitting the question of calling a convention to revise the state constitution to the electors of the state. It was laid over.

To Safeguard Public Health.

A bill introduced by C. E. Estabrook of Milwaukee, at the request of the state board of health, empowers the state board to appoint local boards in towns, villages and cities within the governing authorities of these corporations fail to appoint such boards, and provides that local health boards shall supply antitoxin free for indigent persons suffering from diphtheria. Secretary C. A. Harper of the state board of health says that 587 deaths of children from diphtheria were reported to the board during the last 21 months, and he believes that if antitoxin were used freely in the early stages of the disease the death rate would be greatly reduced.

Referendum for Ordinances.

Elmore T. Elver of Madison wants the principle of the referendum applied to all ordinances passed by common councils. To this end he introduced a bill providing that "the common council of every city, whether organized under the general law or special charter, is authorized, without any petition being filed therefor, to submit to a direct vote of the people at the next ensuing municipal election any proposed ordinance which shall have been introduced before such council. Any proposed ordinance being negative shall not be submitted again in less than three years."

Licenses for Veterinarians.

The veterinarians of the state have had introduced a bill providing for a state board to examine veterinarians and license them. All reputable veterinarians now practicing are to be registered on payment of a fee of five dollars, and all new applicants are to pay a fee of $10. The expenses of the board and the per diem of its members are to be paid out of the receipts for examination and registration. The bill was presented by Wilbur Cahoon of Sauk.

Favors Devil's Lake Park.

The commission appointed to investigate a plan of establishing state parks at Devil's lake and the delta of the Wisconsin has made a report favoring a park at Devil's lake and recommending a legislative investigation of the proposal as it affects the delta.

Fine For Not Voting.

Mr. Grassie presented a bill imposing a poll tax on all electors of $4.50 annually, three dollars of which is to be remitted if the elector can show that he voted at the election held during the year or can give some solid excuse for not doing so.

Provides for Woman Suffrage.

A bill bearing Senator Stout's name is of great importance to the voters of the state, for it provides women's suffrage under a plan of referendum, the question whether women should be allowed to vote being submitted to the votes of the people.

To Prevent Child Labor.

Among the joint resolutions presented in the legislature was one by Assemblyman Brockhausen memorializing congress to enact at its present session an act laying a tax of $1,000 a year upon any person or corporation for each child employed under the age of 10 years if such employment is found to be harmful. It is proposed that the tax be collected annually by the internal revenue collector, and if it is not paid on demand, the penalty is seizure and sale of the property of those from whom it is due.

Members Favor $1,000 Bill.

Considerable favor is shown among the members to the resolution introduced by Assemblyman, not Senator, Stout, to authorize a constitutional amendment which will permit the increase of legislative compensation from $500 to $1,000. The members who have been going to their homes during Sunday adjournment find that the item of far fare cuts into their meal ticket money to such an extent that by the end of the session they will be obliged to draw upon their reserve funds, or, in some instances, upon their friends, for money enough to pay expenses during the session. The honor of it all and whatever else can be found in being a member of the legislature as a matter of patriotism or sentiment, brushes up against a plain matter of fact proposition, as the $500, however economically disbursed, dwindles down to nothing in discharging necessary expenses.

Another Primary Election Bill.

A new primary-election bill made its appearance in the house. It amends the present law so as to give an elector the right to indicate his second as well as his first choice of candidates for an office, and provides that the total vote for all candidates for a party nomination must be equal to at least 35 per cent. of the vote cast by the party in the district or state at the preceding presidential election to entitle the nominee to have his name placed in the party column of the official ballot. The bill was introduced by V. S. Keppel of La Crosse.

Text Book on Government.

George F. Grassie of Milwaukee presented a resolution directing the state superintendent of public instruction to prepare a bulletin or text book on civil government for use in the public schools. The cost of the book is not to exceed 35 cents apiece. The resolution sets forth that the school children have an insufficient knowledge of the local, state and national government of the United States, and that they should receive better instruction on this subject.

La Follette Bill Indorsed.

After a spirited discussion the assembly, by a viva voce vote, adopted a joint resolution requesting the representatives in congress from Wisconsin to use their vote and influence to secure the passage of the La Follette bill limiting the hours of work of railroad employees. The resolution was introduced by O. L. Olen of Wauwata. Speaker Ekern sent Senator La Follette at Washington a telegram informing him of the action of the assembly in adopting the resolution.

No New Business After Feb. 9.

A short session is the slogan of the assembly. That body adopted the Ingram resolution, fixing February 9 as the last day for the introduction of bills, resolutions and memorials by members. It also adopted the Kander resolution providing that all measures in course of preparation in the legislative reference bureau on that day and not completed shall be regarded as having been introduced.

Anti-Jap Resolution Appears.

Encouraged by the anti-Japanese agitation in California, and believing that the natives of the flowery empire should be excluded from the United States, Fred Brockhausen of Milwaukee introduced a joint resolution memorializing congress to "extend the present Chinese exclusion laws so as to apply to all Asiatics of Mongolian origin." He also introduced a resolution asking congress to establish a system of postal savings banks.

To Make Guardsmen Honored.

Otto Harrass of Milwaukee, by request, presented a bill making it unlawful for employers of labor unions to discriminate, in any way, against members of the Wisconsin National Guard.

R. J. Nye of Douglas wants the primary election law amended so as to provide for placing the names of candidates on the primary ballot by lot.

Would Exclude Asiatic Labor.

A measure aimed at Japanese labor came into the state assembly in the form of a memorial to congress to exclude all Asiatic labor. Another petition asks congress to call an international peace parliament.

W. D. Hoard Regent.

Gov. Davidson appointed ex-Gov. W. D. Hoard, of Fort Atkinson, to be a member at large of the board of university regents.

Bid on Wisconsin Stone.

The executive committee of the state capital commission, decided to advertise for bids for Wisconsin granite for the approaches of the outside grounds and basement walls above the ground of the new capitol. The commission determined to do this for the purpose of getting some information regarding the cost of Wisconsin granite and the willingness of contractors to undertake to supply a sufficient quantity of it. The commission will open the bids on February 26.

MICHIGAN EVENTS NOTED

MURDER IN THE FIRST DEGREE IS THE VERDICT IN CONKLIN CASE.

Stolidly Listens to Judge, Who Imposes Sentence, Showing No Emotion As Words Are Spoken.

THE STORY OF THE CRIME

Without a sign, Melvin Conklin heard the verdict, "murder in the first degree," and received the sentence, "life imprisonment at Jackson prison." All through his trial he exhibited the characteristics of the Indians, from whom he is descended. Only once while he has been in the court room has the expression on his face changed. That was when he smiled at his sisters, who came to testify.

Melvin Conklin killed his brother, Delbert, with a shotgun at the latter's home in Lansing on the midnight of December 26 and fired upon Mrs. Delbert Conklin, for whose hand he was a suitor when his brother married her. Then he feigned unconsciousness, refusing to speak or eat for several days, after which he cut his throat with the edge of a teaspoon. Fascinated with the reading of stories by Mrs. Conklin, the murderer, who is very illiterate, visited his brother's house frequently and listened to Mrs. Conklin for hours. Tiring of reading to him, Mrs. Conklin refused to read, and the demeanor of the convicted man immediately changed. Three weeks later the murder was committed.

Conklin's strange conduct and attempted suicide afterward were urged in support of insanity by the defense, but four physicians who examined him testified that he was sane all the time. Those who watched the case expected he would make a demonstration at the close of the trial by attacking some of the attorneys, but he made no attempt to harm anyone. He is 24 years of age, although he himself testified he didn't know when or where he was born. His brother, Frank, who created trouble in the court room early in the trial, has kept out ever since and his father, who was there working in his behalf, was taken ill several days ago.

Eight Injured.

Two men were killed and eight severely injured, some fatally, when train No. 5, on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, collided within the city limits of Chicago with a switch engine drawing a train of empty passenger coaches. The injured are:

Louise Helden, Ionia, Mich., bruised.

Robert Casel, Ionia, Mich., hands and face cut.

Carl Helden, Ionia, Mich., bruised.

Katherine Fry, Marquette, Mich., head cut.

Minnie Jacobs, Marquette, Mich., hands cut.

Elizabeth Jacobs, Marquette, Mich., face cut.

Eugene Beltner, Marquette, Mich., hands cut.

Joseph Reau, Marquette, Mich., bruised.

Train No. 5 is known as the "Champion Flyer," and runs between St. Paul and Chicago. It was well filled with passengers, who fought savagely to get out of the cars after the crash. Many of them were cut about the head and face.

The two men who were killed are said to have been railroad employees.

Incorrigible Joe.

Joe Darling, Kalamazoo's 10-year-old incorrigible, met his Waterloo when he reached his last birthday on Friday and was sentenced to the industrial school at Lansing for a term of years. Little Joseph has led the authorities a merry chase in the past five years. Every petty crime in the category of the police court calendar was in Joe's repertoire. But his tender years forbade punishment beyond a sound lecture with threats of worse things "next time." To this Joe only snifled disdain, and openly boasted his prowess. Crawling under moving trains as a means of evading officers in pursuit was one of his dard tricks. Joe's latest was to steal Night Watchman Winterburn's gold watch. He went to sleep in Bryant's park mill where he was discovered with the ticker clutched in his grimy little hand. Joe had promised to "straighten up" when he reached his tenth birthday, which he did for a while.

Rockefeller's Millions.

There is good reason to believe that a generous share of the recent munificent gift of $32,000,000 given to the general educational board by John D. Rockefeller, will fall to the Kalamazoo college. President Slocum, of Kalamazoo college, was a member of the Baptist educational board recently abolished. He was Rockefeller's lieutenant in disbursing many of his gifts. Prof. Slocum is a personal friend of the oil king, and some good things are to be expected for the local college.

Gov. Warner has appointed Oren Cross, of Allegan, circuit court commissioner for Allegan county.

The present condition of Calumet banking institutions was never more prosperous. With deposits of over $7,000,000, they rival any other city of this size in the state.

The advisability of establishing a trust school in Flint is again under consideration by the school board, and there seems to be some likelihood that such a plan will be put into execution.

Eva Raymond, 12 years old, who, it is claimed, has before attracted the attention of officers, is again in trouble, complaint being made against her for larceny. She is considered an incorrigible.

Physicians attending Tillie Lucas, the young colored woman said to have been shot in Kalamazoo Tuesday morning by Arthur Lucas, her husband, say she cannot live long. The bullet wound prevents her walking.

Cannot Compromise.

Attorney H. M. Duffield and Collector Whelan, of Detroit, representing the Crucible Steel company, of New Jersey, the $50,000,000 corporation against which the attorney-general recently commenced suit for $61,000, were in Saginaw looking after the case. The suit was commenced under a statute giving the state the right to recover $1,000 a month for each month that a foreign corporation shall do business in Michigan without having filed its articles of incorporation.

The defendant company in this case is claimed to have done business in Michigan upwards of five years before filing its articles.

The attorneys for the company, it is understood, hoped to secure a compromise, but the attorney-general said that he did not think it was within the power of an officer of the state to compromise a claim created by an act of the legislature.

Four-Year Fight.

After staving off jail for four years, William Peck, of Montague, Muskegon county, is a prisoner with Sheriff Clinger as he is awaiting sentence after having been convicted of statutory larceny. Peck's case is one without a parallel in the annals of the Michigan courts. In 1903 he was arrested and twice his case has been heard in the local circuit court and three times before the Michigan supreme court. So doubtful were the supreme justices that at the first sitting of the second hearing the judges couldn't agree and they created a precedent by ordering the case reargued.

Peck's attorney, William J. Turner, has kept his man from tasting jail fare until now, but even at the last moment an appeal will be made to the United States supreme court.

Military Matters.

Capt. Oakley, of Company K, Third regiment, Cheboygan, has resigned from the National Guard and an election has been ordered by the state military authorities.

Commander Standish, of the naval reserves, has been ordered to Washington to attend the meeting of the State Naval Militia association, to be held February 22.

The colonels of all Michigan regiments have been ordered to complete the inspection of their regiments before March 4, when the United States inspectors will commence. Notice has not been received from the war department as to what officer will be detailed to succeed Maj. C. A. Vernon as inspecting officer.

Capt. L. G. Barry, of Fort Sherman, has been detailed by the war department to inspect the artillery of the National Guard of Michigan on or about March 4.

Lieut. Atkinson, of Detroit, has been ordered to Adrian to conduct a survey in the case of Capt. Bert W. Cole, to fix the responsibility for the loss of supplies.

Tortured a Dog.

Sheriff Connolly has served warrants upon five men living in Hadley township, charging them with cruelty to an animal. Their alleged crime was one of the most shocking in local annals. Saturday afternoon a dog whose flesh had been gashed, and into whose wounds had been poured turpentine, started people by careering through the streets of Lapeer, howling in agony. In a short time the animal died in a churchyard.

MICHIGAN IN BRIEF.

Jeremiah Lasher, a Port Huron street car conductor, has brought suit for $5,000 damages against George Able of New York, charging him with the alienation of Mrs. Lasher's affections.

With three children as a nucleus, Supt. Kendall P. Brooks, of Marquette, is working on a plan for the establishment of a school for deaf children in connection with the local public schools.

The oft-expressed wish of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Ridgeway, of Escanaba, aged 74 and 67, respectively, that they might die together, was fulfilled Thursday, when Mrs. Ridgeway passed away a few hours after her husband had gone.

S. L. Peterson, a Flint tailor, was seriously injured by the explosion of a pan of gasoline, in which he was cleaning garments. It is supposed that the blaze was caused by the igniting of the fluid from a heated flatiron near at hand.

The government will soon take over the big fish hatchery at the Soo. Every jar in the institution is filled and the "hatch" this spring will be one of the largest in its history, including some 25,000,000 whitefish and 8,000,000 brook trout eggs.

After a force of machinists had worked all Wednesday night, the Grand Rapids Hydraulic Co. was able to start its steam pump today and give some relief to those suffering from a water famine caused by fire in the company's plant Wednesday.

Leo Knickerbocker, the 13-year-old adopted son of Rue Knickerbocker and Ward Bell, the 15-year-old son of Mrs. David Jacobus, left their homes in Augusta on Tuesday and have not been heard of since. The officers are searching for them.

A clock without wheels is the unique product of Orville L. Altenberg, an optician of Saginaw. The timepiece, which is quite accurate, is particularly peculiar inasmuch as each hand operates independently of the other. The clock is worked by weights.

R. W. McDonald, of Flint, was elected president of the Michigan State Veterinary association, and Judson Black, of Richmond, was chosen secretary.

At the second trial of Charles Alexander, of Flint, charged with attempting to kill his wife by shooting her, he has been found guilty in the circuit court of assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Physicians attending Tillie Lucas, the young colored woman said to have been shot in Kalamazoo Tuesday morning by Arthur Lucas, her husband, say she cannot live long. The bullet wound prevents her walking.

An Open Letter.

Dear Parents:—Since talking with you two weeks ago I have had the pleasure of seeing two patrons at the public schools, for which I am very glad. One of these was the parent of pupils coming in from the country. This week two more parents from outside have signified their intention to visit the schools. May we not see some of the fathers and mothers from the town also? We believe you must be as much interested in the education of your boys and girls as parents living outside the corporation. We shall be forced to ask you for more room for the high school department next year. You should become acquainted with the condition and needs of the schools, so that you can vote intelligently upon the proposition when it comes before the electors of the district. Your school building and equipment are ten years behind your town. Please do not take my word for this, but come and see for yourselves. You have been improving and beautifying your homes. You have laid the best and most up-to-date walks. You have made your churches outlive those of any city under five thousand population in the state. You have rebuilt your banks and adopted the latest and most efficient banking methods. Your merchants are employing the best means to facilitate commercial success. Your factories are the pride and fame of your town. All this is well. It helps to make your little city a delightful abode for a happy and prosperous people.

But what about your schools? Have you improved them in the last ten years? Have you kept them up to date so that your children will be equipped to meet the keen competition of the world? I know that you are anxious that they should be so equipped. I also know that few of you are aware of the deplorable condition of the buildings and equipment.

Will you go with me to the school buildings and compare them with your comfortable homes, your beautiful churches, magnificent banks and bustling mercantile establishments? The front of the campus is rather pretty. The shade trees are all that can be desired. But the dingy old south wing of the main building casts a gloom over the fairly decent north wing which you built some fourteen years ago. It is just as bad within as it appears from without. Its lighting is poor. Its heating and ventilation are worse. Its furniture is a disgrace to the cultured and refined people who live in Chelsea. This wing doubtless is of the style of school architecture which prevailed in the kindergarten days of Adam. To the east of the main building is a collection of shanties—some of them former wood-houses—made into school rooms. They are popularly known as the "plantation" because of their resemblance to the negro shanties of the south. They are, however, all the shelter which the children of your comfortable homes have during the first four years of school life. Of course, you can take no pride in such rookeries used as educational institutions, nor can you expect very much inspiration and love for school upon the part of children housed in such a manner.

Next week I will discuss with you the inside of the buildings and the equipment.

Hoping that many of you will have visited the schools before that time, I am, sincerely yours, E. E. GALLUP.

Ann Arbor has 52 male residents who are over 90 years of age. The oldest in the list is 93 years old.

A bill appropriating $30,000 for a Michigan building and display at the Jamestown exposition commemorating the founding of the first English white settlement in America 300 years ago, has passed the senate without a dissenting vote. The exposition opens April 26 next.

Edwin Wenk having decided to quit farming he will sell on the Matthew Jensen farm two miles south of Chelsea, on the Manchester road, on Tuesday, February 19, commencing at 9 o'clock a. m. his personal property consisting of six horses, seven cows, young cattle, swine, sheep and a complete line of farm tools, cornstalks, potatoes, oats and corn. A hot lunch at noon. F. D. Merithew, auctioneer, H. D. Witherell, clerk.

He Seldom.

Little Walter was told to write a composition containing the word "seldom." He puzzled hard over the problem for some time, but at last he handed up to the teacher: "My father owned some horses, but last week he seldom."

CORRESPONDENCE.

LIMA CENTER.

Arl Guerio, who has been quite ill is able to be out.

Mrs. Stowell Wood has been the guest of Sylvan friends.

Forty couples attended the dance at the hall Friday night.

Mrs. Mary Kuecher and children were Ann Arbor visitors the first of the week.

Nearly $20 was cleared at the school social held at the home of Mrs. Hammond, Friday evening.

There will be a shadow social in the church parlors on Tuesday evening, February 21. A good supper will be served. Everybody invited.

NORTH SHARON.

John Barth spent Saturday in Chelsea.

Miss Alla Lemm is visiting her brother in Detroit.

Mrs. J. Irwin visited her mother at Sharon Hollow Friday.

Mrs. Carlos Dorr and Anna Butler are on the sick list.

Miss Mabel Lemm visited Miss Inez Hobert one day last week.

Lewis Walker, who has been ill for some time is slowly recovering.

Wm. Alber, wife and son spent last Thursday with Chelsea relatives.

Daniel Gray, of Manchester, spent several days of the past week at the home of L. B. Lawrence.

SHARON.

Miss Ambruster, of Lodi, is the guest of her cousin, Louise Buss.

Jacob Lehman and family spent Sunday at the home of J. Bruetle.

Fred Pohly, of Manchester, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. John Heschelwerdt, Sunday.

C. J. Heschelwerdt and family spent Sunday at the home of John Heschelwerdt, of Sylvan.

Frank Furgason, wife and little daughter, of Clinton, spent the past week at the home of H. J. Reno.

H. P. O'Neil and J. W. Dresselhouse attended the republican convention at Ann Arbor last week.

The wolf which has so aroused our peaceful community was killed last week Friday by Warren Spaulding, of Sylvan.

NORTH LAKE.

J. H. Hingler, the genial cycloist agent of Lima was doing a thriving business here Tuesday.

At the dedication of the Plainfield church enough money was forthcoming to clear all indebtedness and do all the furnishing of a neat and commodious edifice.

P. E. Noah, mother and daughter left Monday for Greenville, where they will attend the wedding of his cousin. They will be gone several days visiting relatives.

Mrs. B. Watson, of Unadilla, Mrs. Ives, Mrs. C. Marshall and Mrs. G. Goodwin, of Lyndon, sang a Kentucky lullaby at the Farmers' Institute here. The song was well rendered and the ladies did themselves proud and were greeted by many cheers.

The farmers' institute held here Friday afternoon and evening will long be remembered as a time well spent by all permitted to attend. A lengthy program was provided and carried out without a hitch. The speaking was interspersed with fine singing by the ladies quartette of Unadilla and the singers here, also by some amusing declamations. The afternoon and evening sessions were interspersed by visiting and a beautiful supper, free to all. It was said by those who ought to be judges to have been one of the best suppers of the year, which goes to prove that farmers live well, if they don't lay up a cent. More of such meetings putting the farmers in touch with each other, would beto the benefit to all participants. Our townsmen the three-year-old farmer, Mr. Morison, gave some of his experience in farming, claiming he has had success and some failures. More success I judge, as he has bought 200 acres of the school section where he will soon build needed barns, to be followed by a fine house. He is all alive and will no doubt, succeed as a farmer, as well as he does and has done as a preacher and public speaker, space forbids me giving names of all who took part in the discussions. The young farmers made it lively throughout both sessions. As many as can will attend the round-up at Chelsea.

Next week I will discuss with you the inside of the buildings and the equipment.

Hoping that many of you will have visited the schools before that time, I am, sincerely yours, E. E. GALLUP.

Mrs. Chas. Riemschneider and daughter are still confined to their home by illness.

Karl Kalmbach and Mr. Oetjen, of Detroit, spent Sunday at the home of Fred Kalmbach.

Mrs. Frank Lantis, of White Oak, has been spending a few days at the home of her father, Philip Riemschneider.

The Ladies' Aid met with Mrs. Fred Mensing last Wednesday, about 30 were present and a good time enjoyed by all.

Mrs. R. Herzog, of Syracuse, N. Y., was called to the home of her mother, Mrs. A. Kalmbach, on account of the latter's serious illness.

The Farmers' Institute held at the German M. E. church Saturday, February 9, was well attended. The various topics were well handled by H. B. Cannon, the state speaker. The discussion spirited and much valuable information gained by all. The papers by Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Kruse practical and instructive. The songs rendered by the male quartette consisting of Revs. Mayer, of Toledo, Muller, of Cleveland, Jauch, of Defiance, and Lenz, of Francisco, were something out of the ordinary, and very much appreciated. All went home feeling that they had spent a very profitable day.

Longevity.

To achieve longevity one should be an Italian painter. Spinello was nearly 100; Carlo Cignana was 91; Michael Angelo, 93; Leonardo da Vinci, 75; Calabresi, 86; Claude Lorraine, 82; Carlo Maratti, 88; Tintoretto, 82; Sebastian Ricci, 78; Francesco Albano, 88; Guido, 68; Guerchino, 76; John Baptist Crespi, 76; Giuseppe Crespi, 82; Carlo Dolce, 70; Andrew Sacchi, 74; Zuccher, 86; Vernet, 77; Schidoni, 76.

Insists on Afternoon Nap.

"The afternoon nap cult is growing," said a mother of six children, "and I'm glad of it. Just look at me. I'm over 50 years old and my complexion is as rosy as any schoolgirl's. I attribute it all to the afternoon nap. The cook can leave; the stock in which we invest can pay panicky small dividends, the boys may 'funk' in their exams, and still I take my afternoon nap."

Seeking the Good.

It is only by thinking about great good things that we come to love them, and it is only by loving them that we come to long for them, and it is only by longing for them that we are impelled to seek after them, and it is only by seeking after them that they become ours, and we enter into vital experience of their beauty and blessedness.—Henry Van Dyke.

Prunes Now a Necessity.

Prior to 1886 the prunes consumed in this country came almost entirely from France and the Danubian provinces. The consumption was small and the fruit was considered a delicacy. Now more than 100,000,000 pounds of dried prunes are eaten yearly in the United States, and, needless to say, the product is no longer regarded as a luxury.

Judge Worthy of the Bench. In the court of Judge Klamroth, of Pasadena, Cal., the other day, when a witness had testified that she was married and a cross-examining attorney asked her: "Will you swear that you are married?" the judge stopped him and made him apologize, remarking: "Never, in the eight years I have held court have I allowed a woman to be insulted."

Woman at Her Best.

A woman's character and powers are finest about 40. A woman has gained everything at 40 and lost nothing; she is at the full vigor of her intellectual powers, she has acquired experience and judgment, and is not far enough away from youth to have become unsympathetic even to its wild, vagaries.—Bystander.

Man's Way.

Man wants to be comfortable as a cat on a warm hearth rug; to feel no prick of conscience; to see nothing unpleasant, such as tears or a wan face. It exasperates him to madness when he is obliged to see his wife sad, but it never occurs to him to try to prevent her sadness.—Spenser in M. A. P.

Not on the Programme. An untoward incident occurred during the third act of "Fedora" at Covent Garden, London. The heroine and her lover were singing in the garden when the latter (Signor Zenatello), in walking backward, fell into a rocking chair. This turned over and the lover performed a somersault.

Cure for Nervous Disease. A Berne doctor has discovered that tea made with melted snow is a cure for nervous disease. The doctor declares that he has cured people with this elixir when all other remedies have failed. He melts the snow over a slow fire, and then boils the water.

A Pittsburg Suggestion.

Inasmuch as there is a law against carrying concealed weapons, it is up to the gent's furnishing stores, while the burglar panic is on, to stock up with something neat in the way of gun and "razzah" belts.—Pittsburg Gazette.

Boots Out of Date.

While boots were worn bootsacks to aid in removing them from the feet were in general use, but they fell in to disuse with the wearing of shoes, and are now mere curiosities, to be found in lumber rooms and collections of ancient articles.

Woman Expert Trunk Packer.

A singular occupation is that of Miss Blanche Minton, of New York. She packs trunks for guests at hotels. The idea came to her as an inspiration and the first day she tried it she made $17. She often earns as much as $25 a day and has had to take in her younger sister as an assistant.

To Revive a Pen.

When the business end of the pen wears sharp and begins to scratch, hold it in the flame of a gas lamp for an instant, if one is convenient, otherwise smooth the point with a small file or piece of emery paper.

Look to the Outside Only.

The natives of China take to motorizing very kindly, but their chief interest is centered in the decorations and color of the body of the car rather than in the ability or workmanship of the engine.

Old Fire Engine Still Good.

Chester, N. H., has a fire engine which has been in constant operation since 1845. It is a small hand tub, but it can send a powerful enough stream to reach the highest steeple in town.

The Weapons of War.

Benevolent Old Lady (to tramp she has just fetched in for a feed).—"Why don't you go to work, my poor man?" Tramp—"I would if I had the tools, mum." B. O. L.—"What tools do you want, then?" Tramp—"A knife and fork, mum, please."

Still Have an Outlook.

A fashion writer announces that tiaras will be worn by ladies in the theaters next season. Well, even when general prosperity prevails, few ladies are likely to be able to afford tiaras that will seriously obstruct the view from behind them.

In Boston.

"I hate," said Mrs. Backbay, "to see mothers humiliate their children by trying to keep them babies. Look at Mrs. Waldo—her little boy is five years old, and a big, strapping fellow; and the silly woman hasn't put him into glasses yet!"

Fame.

"There's three ways," observed the philosopher on the cracker barrel, "for a man to hand his name down to posterity. He's got to be a great warrior, or a great statesman, or a great rascal; and, by jocks, once in awhile there's a man that's all three!"

Reward of Duty.

At the end of life's brief day we shall be rewarded, not according to the work we have done, but to the faithfulness with which we have been endeavoring to do our duty in whatever sphere.—Rev. F. B. Meyer.

New York's Hebrew Cemetery.

New York city had the first Hebrew cemetery in the United States. It was established in 1656, and a part of it yet remains at New Bowery and Oliver street.

Rising from the Grave.

A prominent manufacturer, William A. Fortwell, of Louisiana, N. C., relates a most remarkable experience. He says: "After taking less than three bottles of Electric Bitters, I feel like one rising from the grave. My trouble is Bright's disease, in the Diabetes stage. I fully believe Electric Bitters will cure me permanently, for it has already stopped the liver and bladder complications which have troubled me for years." Guaranteed at the Bank Drug Store. Price only 50c.

The Jar of Coughing

Hammer blows, steadily applied, break the hardest rock. Coughing, day after day, jars and tears the throat and lungs until the healthy tissues give way. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral stops the coughing, and heals the torn membranes.

LITTLE AH SID, THE CHINESE KID

"Pinkie's wanted at the phone!"
The drug store boy declared.
Pinkie's Mama stood amazed;
But Pinkie wasn't scared.

"Goodness me!" cried Mrs. Prim,
"I wonder who't can be?"
"Never mind, Ma," Pinkie said,
"I'll run along and see."

When the drug store Pinkie reached,
To answer to the call,
Drug store boy just pointed to
A thing upon the wall.

Pinkie gazed in awe-struck plight,
Until the drug store man
Picked her up to listen, and
Said, "Answer, if you can."

With the phone tight to her ear,
"Is that Miss Pinkie Prim?"
Was what she heard; and answered,
"Why, hello, Uncle Tim!"

Conversation cuts small ice;
In private, none at all.
Still, the kids think more of her,
Since Pinkie got a call.

MODELS TO FIT ALL FIGURES

THE WELL-DRESSED WOMAN

Winter fur and feather pieces are their newest and best when they show the cape or the shawl shapes. Those that "throw" scarfs that were so much a la mode last year are really discredited this season. For the thing their reproduction in cheap and imitation pelts was altogether too easy a task for the manufacturer not to take advantage of, and the pieces that commanded a high price in ermine and sables were reduced in the dyed cat and rat to a semblance of the expensive originals. Hence, the elegantes this season are trying shapes and designs whose workmanship will involve an amount of labor that the maker of cheap and imitation furs cannot afford to turn out.

Special shields are used abroad to obviate the ravages along the points. Light as gossamer, the protecting little pieces are tacked on the back of the waist, and in the elbow crease of the sleeves, as well as in the more usual armholes. Velvet chapeaux, much beplumed, are the order of the day for all ceremonious appearances. In cities and where dust covers everything several times a day the care of the hat and its plumes becomes a matter of comment. It were well to go to a man's hatter and procure one of those soft little silk brushes that are especially for hats, if you have not already got one. This should be kept for hats alone, and not used for other cleansing purposes. When very bit of dust has been flicked off with this brush—and the plumes will need it just as much as the hat—go over the whole with a piece of morning crape.

When the plumes have lost their art—albeit uncured plumes are among the very latest fancies from Paris—either lay the hat where the draft from the hot air furnace will reach the plumes, or else go to the kitchen fire, and, throwing a handful of salt on the top of the cleared coals, shake the hat and plumes briskly above this until the flames begin to curl under softly.

In washing up a painted floor a great improvement in looks will be noted if a few drops of kerosene are added to each part of water.

ODDS AND ENDS

To Clean Blankets.

Flannel blankets may be successfully cleaned by using borax and soft soap. Put two tablespoonfuls of borax and a pint of soft soap into cold water enough to cover the blankets. When the borax and soap have become dissolved, put in the blankets and let them stand over night. The next day rub them out, rinse them in two waters and hang them to dry. Never wring them.

In washing a sweater, rub thoroughly in warm water and soap suds, raising several times to get all the odor of the soap out of the wool. Be sure never to hang up a sweater to dry, as hanging ruins the shape and stretches the garment. If you must dry it on the fire escape or in a window, spread out flat a newspaper and then cover that with towels or a sheet to keep the water from soaking through, and then lay the sweater on them, not a sheet out, but rather in a heap. Half a day of hot sunshine will dry it, but it must be hot. Don't try to wash a sweater on a cloudy day. In winter dry on the steam radiator.

To Polish New Boots.

It is often very difficult to get new boots to polish brightly, but if rubbed over with a lemon and left till dry, they will generally clean very easily. The process should be repeated, if necessary.

The Japanese have a picturesque improvement on finger bowls. At the conclusion of a repast a tiny basket, woven of exquisite straw and in ornamental design, is placed before each guest. This basket contains a filmy, satiny, paper napkin printed with apple blossoms, chrysanthemums, irises, or some other attractive design, and twisted lightly into a flower-like shape. Before being placed in the basket the napkin has been slightly dampened with perfumed water, the scent corresponding with the design, and this napkin the guest uses instead of dipping the hands in water. It is a great improvement on the drippy Occidental device.

To Clean Glass.

Place pulverized pumice stone between the layers of a folded piece of soft muslin and stitch around the edge to prevent the powder from spilling. Wipe lamp globes or window panes with this dry cloth and sprinkle almost instantly. Enough powder will remain on the cloth to be used many times.

Common mustard used as a plaster or poultice is the best cure for a "lid" on the chest, and the while of an egg with sugar is the finest medicine for hoarseness. To cure a burn an application of the white skin that lines the shell of an egg is unequaled, while the raw yolk is a capital tonic.

Since the racks or shelves of white enamel wood for holding hat and blouse boxes have become so popular, a shoe box is one of the latest novelties. A box large enough to fit into the window and form a seat is lined with pockets all around the inside for slippers, leaving a space in the middle for the boots. These boxes are covered with beautiful, flowered cretonnes.

To Remove Splinters.

To remove a splinter, fill a bottle half-way full of boiling water, put the injured part on the mouth of the bottle, and just press on it a little. In a few minutes this will extract the splinter.

Flowers will keep fresh much longer if the ends are dipped in melted wax. Candle ends may be utilized for this purpose.

NEW CORSET MODELS

Every woman realizes that the corset is the true foundation of a perfectly fitted gown.

Women who can afford it, order their corsets made to their own measurements. The French woman, even the poorest, would never dream of buying a ready-made corset. She gets a good one, and then takes care of it.

It is not an easy matter to procure a corset that is exactly suited to one's figure, but there are so many models offered nowadays that a little persistence will usually bring to light the corset that is just right. And having found it, the wise woman sticks to that one model.

Every shop of any pretensions whatever provides a fitting room with trained corset fitters, who will tell a patron what they should and what they should not wear. And if the corset needs adjustment the fitter is thoroughly competent to make any alterations.

Sometimes a corset will need a little padding. Again there may be too much fullness. In the latter case the fitter takes in the superfluous fullness and finishes it off neatly, turning out a perfect fit.

Or it may be that the corset is too long in the front, too high in the back or too full over the hips. These are evils that are easily altered. If the bones are too stiff, more pliable ones inserted. There are bones designed especially for invalids and women who are not overly strong, and any fitter will substitute a pair of these stays. In this age of close fitted gowns the corset is of special importance, and not a few tailor corsets have been put on the market. There are also corsets designed especially for wear with princess and empire gowns. It is a fact that the demand is for higher grade corsets, and women who would almost have fainted at the suggestion of paying $10 for a corset a few years ago now calmly hand over $35 or $40 for an especially fine model. Of course, the bulk of the corset business is not done in models of these prices.

The modern corset is less like an armor than formerly, and the great majority of patrons do not, and never will, buy the very costly models.

THE LACE GONE

Women who have no real lace may like to hear how a girl who was reckless enough to try to match a yard or two of this valuable fabric in the Christmas holidays lost it in a moment, as if it had been spirited away. She carried her lace to a counter where bargains were also for sale, and while the saleswoman was trying to find something to suit her laid it carelessly down. When she went to pick it up it was gone. Very anxiously every article was turned over and search was made right and left and on the floor, but the lace was still missing. Then the girl who had charge of the "bargains" being thought that she had just sold a "remnant" of lace like the piece the customer was looking for.

TO USE ASTRAKHAN.

Don't throw away your gray astrakhan, as it is in favor this year and is a desirable possession. Trimmed with gray suede matching it at its best, and it is also good with a waist coat of gray faced cloth much trimmed with black and white soutache. Strappings of the cloth also braided added to it make an admirable coat.

Black Russian pony skin is also much braided, and black broadtail is covered with elaborate trimming. The smartest way in which one can have one's mink furs done over is in a little bolero. Instead of the little black tails being stitched on at regular intervals as one, they are now employed in novel ways.

HOW TO BE POPULAR

First—Remember that a good voice is essential to self-possession, as good ideas are essential to fluent language. The voice should be carefully trained and developed. A full, clear, flexible voice is one of the surest indications of good breeding.

Second—Remember that one may be witty without being popular, voluble without being agreeable, a great talker and yet a great bore.

Third—Be sincere. One who habitually sneers at everything not only renders herself disagreeable to others but will soon cease to find pleasure in life.

Fourth—Be frank. A frank, open countenance and a clear, cheery laugh are worth far more even socially than pedantry in a stiff cravat.

Fifth—Be amiable. You may hide a vindictive nature under a polite exterior for a time, as a cat masks its sharp claws in velvet fur, but the least provocation brings out one as quickly as the other, and ill-natured people are always disliked. Sixth—Be sensible. Society never lacks for fools, and what you consider very entertaining nonsense may soon be looked upon as very tiresome folly.

Seventh—Be cheerful. You have no right to render other people miserable by your long face and dolorous tones. If you do you will be generally avoided.

Eighth—Above all, be careful and systematic. True cordiality and sympathy unite all the other qualities enumerated, and are certain to secure the popularity so dear to every one.

CUT CHILDREN'S HAIR SHORT.

Long hair in a boy of three or four is somewhat ridiculous, and even a girl's hair should be cut fairly short till ten years of age. The hair will grow thicker and the child is less liable to scalp disease.

EFFECTIVE USE OF FLR.

ONE of the newest brocade bodice coverings is here illustrated, made of striped gray chiffon cloth edged with narrow sable bands and worn over a charming waist of spangled gray tulle. A big, silver butterfly apparently fastens the brocade in front. The long, graceful skirt is of gray chiffon cloth mounted over a foundation of black crepe silk.

MILADY BEAUTIFUL

For Bald Spots.

This condition is often due to nervousness and if it is your case you need a tonic, which your physician must prescribe. You will find by using this tonic each night and massaging the scalp for five minutes after the application that the hair will cease to fall.

Bay rum ..... 10 ounces
Resorcin ..... 20 grains
Cantbarides ..... 5 drams

Pine Facial Soap.

A good pine soap to be used for the face may be made from three pounds of palm oil soap, half a pound of olive oil soap, one and a half pounds white curd soap, one ounce of pine essence and one-half ounce of castile.

Flesh Making Cream.

A splendid cream for plumping out the face is made from fifty grams of fresh lard, ten grams of eighty per cent alcohol, five drops of essence of rosemary and the same of bergamot. Add just a bit of gum camphor when trying out the lard, strain and beat in the alcohol, and just before the cream congeals stir in the essences.

The Bath.

No bath should be taken within two hours after eating. It increases the comfort and luxury of all baths if the heavy Turkish towels are heated slightly. A Turkish bath will often reduce flesh and as often increase it. Once a month is often enough for such a luxury.

Hair Tonic.

A good hair tonic is made as follows: Make a pint of very strong sage tea and strain. Add one teaspoonful of iodine sulphur, one of powdered borax and drop in three or four rusty nails. Bottle and let the nails remain in for one week, then remove and use the preparation daily, rubbing into the roots of the hair. This darkens the hair a little for the time of using. Remove all tines before using, as it discolors them badly.

Dark Circles Under the Eyes.

Dark circles under the eyes can be cured only by internal treatment. Taking a salt water bath every morning, drinking three or four pints of water every day, getting to bed early and bathing the eyes with diluted witch hazel will work a reformation. The trouble very often comes from intestinal absorption.

Chapped Lips.

Poor circulation is often the cause of this. Do not moisten the lips with the tongue and anoint them with this several times a day:
Cocoa butter ..... 24 grams
White wax ..... 4 grams
Essence of bergamot ..... 1 gram
Essence of white geranium ..... 1 gram

TO SHRINK FLANNELS.

Flannel should always be soaked in cold water before making up. Spring water or hard well water is best. Fill a tub and place the flannel in it. As soon as the flannel sinks to the bottom take out and hang up to drain and dry. Do not squeeze or handle it in the tub. Treated in this way it does not lose the appearance of new flannel and will not shrink when properly washed.

FOR PLANTS IN THE HOME.

Any plant that requires a temperature of more than 70 degrees in daytime with a drop of 15 degrees at night must be ruled out of house culture. In houses where gas escapes, even imperceptibly the leaves of many plants will fall and their buds drop. Among the plants less sensitive to gas are the palms, ficus, aspidistras, farfugius, aloes, primroses, begonias and cyclamen.
