TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY

WILL BE OBSERVED NEXT SUNDAY

At St. Paul's Church—Sermon Will Be Delivered by Rev. G. Robertus, Who Organized the Ladies' Aid Society.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's Church will commemorate the twentieth anniversary of the organization of their society next Sunday in the church. Two services will be held—one during the forenoon and the other in the evening. Rev. G. Robertus, of Warrenton, Missouri, who was pastor of St. Paul's Church and organized the society, will be present and deliver the anniversary sermons. A fine program of special music has been arranged for both services.

When the society was organized it started out with a membership of ten, and at the present time it has an enrollment of eighty-one active workers, eleven new members being admitted at their meeting held last Friday.

The society held their annual business meeting in the church last Friday. The report of the treasurer showed the society to be in a flourishing condition and to have a cash balance of $100 on hand.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. F. Niehaus.
Vice-President—Mrs. C. Lehman.
Secretary—Mrs. Geo. Wackenhut.
Treasurer—Mrs. E. Feldkamp.

A PLEASANT EVENT.

The Children and Friends of Mrs. Sarah A. Shaver Gave Her a Surprise Party Tuesday.

The 81st birthday anniversary of Mrs. Sarah A. Shaver occurred Tuesday of this week and her sons and daughter gave her a surprise party at her home on west Middle street to celebrate the event.

A dinner was served to thirty of the immediate relatives and friends of the family and the afternoon was spent in a very pleasant manner. After dinner E. E. Shaver, her son, took a group photograph of the party with Mrs. Shaver occupying the seat of honor.

Among the guests from out of town was her daughter, Mrs. John Gregg, and her husband, a great granddaughter, Madeline Gregg, Mrs. D. Wardle, Mrs. Mary Dean of Detroit, and Mrs. Sidney Harrington, of Dexter. Mrs. Shaver was the recipient of a number of handsome presents.

Pomona Grange.

The members of Washtenaw County Pomona Grange will hold its May meeting with North Lake Grange on Tuesday, May 14th. All fourth degree members of the grange are invited to be present. The following is the program:

11 a. m.—Open in fifth degree. Business session. Report of committees on contest plans. Picnic dinner.

1:30 p. m.—Open in fourth degree.

Music.

Address of welcome by the master of North Lake Grange.

Response by the master of Pomona Grange.

"What are the farmer's greatest drawbacks or hindrances of to-day?"—Mrs. C. D. Johnson and John McDougall.

"What are the farmer's greatest helps of to-day?"—George T. English and Jennie Buell.

Music.

Recitation—Mrs. N. C. Carpenter.

"The home and the home-maker."—Mrs. B. D. Kelly.

Music.

Reading—Mrs. Edwin Ball.

Music.

School Notes.

The eighth grade examination for rural pupils is being conducted by Miss Josephine Hoppe at the public school building Thursday and Friday of this week.

The music teacher is doing some excellent chorus work with the high school pupils. They are planning to issue a special invitation to the public soon.

Recitations and music are being prepared to assist the local G. A. R. Post in the observance of memorial day.

On Saturday, May 11, occurs the tri-county athletic meet at Plymouth. A small delegation will go from Chelsea high school. They do not expect to bring home the important trophies, owing to a lack of training. Very little interest has been evinced in athletics this spring because of the cold weather.

Last Friday and Saturday Superintendent Gallup attended the state meeting of school boards and superintendents at Lansing. The other Chelsea delegates were not present, owing to pressure of business engagements at home. About one hundred superintendents and forty school boards took part in the deliberations. "The Relation of Michigan High Schools to the University" precipitated a lively debate. The boards from Hillsdale, Lansing and Petoskey thought they had grievances against the university. The discussion, however, brought out the fact that they were laboring under a misunderstanding. Prof. Whitney, of the university, was present to explain the university's side, which he did very satisfactorily. "Heating and Ventilating of School Buildings" was a valuable and timely discussion for many school boards and superintendents. "Manual Training in the Public Schools" raised many questions among boards and superintendents from the smaller cities, which shows how rapidly the subject is growing in interest. "School Legislation" was the subject for the last session. Prof. Whitney and Deputy Superintendent French gave a report of the bills now before the legislature. There was a lively discussion on the merits of some of the bills and the need of others. At the close of the meeting Chairman Brunson, president of the board of education of St. Johns, declared that there was something wrong with the superintendents or school boards. He argued that the superintendents should have urged their boards to be present. We will let those who know fix this matter where it belongs in Chelsea. A report of the school legislation will be found in next week's school notes.

Goes to Marquette.

Martin Miller, drunkard and tippler, from Ypsilanti, was brought before Judge Kinne in the circuit court Tuesday morning for trial. Monday he pleaded not guilty. The evidence against him was overwhelming, and when the case was submitted to the jury it took those twelve good men only about ten minutes to find a verdict of guilty.

It seems Miller had guessed what would be the result of the trial, for he had expressed a desire to be sent to Marquette, as he had never been there. When asked if he wanted to go to Marquette, he said he would prefer to go there. He promised to reform while there and be a better citizen when he comes back. Judge Kinne gave him a minimum sentence of one year, with a maximum of two, and expressed the hope that when he returned he would not only be reformed, but a reformer that would do much good for the state.

The Spring Trade.

The spring trade is on, and the enterprising merchants of Chelsea have well selected stocks for you to choose from. You will find as many good bargains at your home town as in the more distant towns, and they are not only offered this week, but every week in the year. If you desire to buy the most and best goods for the least money, you will be well repaid for the time spent in looking over the goods in the Chelsea stores.

The mail order house may offer what might seem to be great inducements for you to patronize them, yet, when you order from them and receive the goods, if you will compare the same with those offered for sale by the home merchants, you will find that you have paid as much or more for them than for similar goods you could have found in the stores of your home town.

The Hunt Stock Company.

The plays to be presented by the Hunt stock company at the Chelsea opera house, starting Monday, May 13, are all guaranteed productions. The company carries special scenery and effects, and the patrons are promised a series of entertainments equal to the best. The opening play is a new comedy, drama, written for and owned by Mr. Hunt, and can be seen with no other company. The company is headed by Miss Kate Fitzgibbon, an emotional actress, said to be one of the best, and her support is adequate at all times. The show is a continuous one, specialties being introduced between the acts.

The prices for this engagement are 10, 20 and 30 cents, with reserved seats on sale at the Bank Drug Store.

Miss Bridget Clark.

Miss Bridget Clark died Friday morning, May 3, 1907, at the home of her cousin, Mrs. C. E. Whitaker, where she made her home for the past eighteen years. Miss Clark had been more or less an invalid for several years, but she bore her sufferings with remarkable patience and resignation, and her death was the closing of a beautiful life. Among her many friends she numbered both old and young, and to all she gave freely her sympathy and good counsel.

Miss Clark was born in Millington, Ireland, February 2, 1835. She came to America in 1859, she being the only one of her immediate family who ever came to this country.

Her funeral was held from the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart, Monday morning at nine o'clock, her pastor, Rev. Fr. Considine, officiating. Interment in the Clark family lot at Dexter.

Minors under 17 years of age must hereafter keep out of public billiard halls, bowling alleys and pool rooms. The legislature has passed a bill to this effect and been signed by the governor.

PROPOSITION DEFEATED

AT THE SPECIAL ELECTION

Held in the Town Hall Last Thursday Evening—Of the Total Vote Cast, 151 Voted "No" and 84 "Yes".

The election held in the town hall last Thursday evening, to vote upon the proposition to bond the school district for $50,000 for the purpose of building a new school house, was defeated.

The whole number of votes cast was 235. The result shows that 84 voted "yes" and 151 "no" on the proposition. Another election will be held in the near future.

The electors of this school district fully realize that the present building is entirely too small to accommodate the requirements of the schools and that more room must be provided. Just what the outcome will be remains to be seen. More room will be required for the coming year in the higher grades than this year, and during the past year a number of the students in the high school have had to go to their homes to do their school work.

Lafayette Grange.

The next meeting of Lafayette Grange will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Sweetland on Wednesday, May 15, at one o'clock p. m. The following is the program:

Roll call.

Favorite quotations.

Music.

Question—"The best method to treat potatoes for scab and blight," led by Mr. H. Everett.

Select Reading—Mrs. T. Fletcher.

Music.

Informal discussion—"Tested methods of canning fruit with or without sugar and cooking before placing in cans," led by Mrs. Wilson.

Current events.

Memorial Day.

Decoration day will soon be here, and would it not be well that something be done by our citizens to assist the veterans of the civil war to appropriately honor the memory of their departed comrades?

The ranks are being more rapidly depleted each year, and before long the last one will have answered the final roll call. While loving hands will see that flowers are strewn on their graves, it would seem fitting that some action taken on the part of our citizens would greatly relieve the burdens of the work necessary in preparation for the day that usually falls to the lot of the members of the grand army of 1861-1865.

Primary School Money.

A dispatch from Lansing on Tuesday announces that it has been decided that the apportionment of primary school money to be made on Friday of this week will be at the rate of $1 per capita, the total apportionment for the state being $749,320. Of this sum Wayne county will receive $110,217 and Kent $39,000.

Although the state has a large amount of primary school money on hand, it was not in the state treasury on April 1, and is, therefore, not available under the law until next November. The apportionment next November will probably be at the rate of $3 or $4 per capita.

Encampment at Ludington.

Gens. McGurran, Harrah and Kidd, at a meeting in Grand Rapids, Monday, decided that the next State encampment will be held at Ludington, August 14-24. The question had simmered down to Saginaw and Ludington, and, after viewing the two sites, the latter was chosen. The board will recommend the purchase of the land at Ludington for the permanent use of the State troops. The camp is beautifully situated on the lake shore, is high and dry and has plenty of pure drinking water handy.

Farmers' Club.

The next meeting of the Western Washtenaw Union Farmers' Club will be held at the home of A. W. Chapman and family, Friday, May 17th. The following will be the program:

Current events.

"Handling the apple orchard and its products"—W. S. Davidson.

Violin solo—Fred Gentner.

Select reading—Mrs. Geo. K. Chapman.

Subject selected—Mrs. Emily Boynton.

Recitation—J. F. Waltrous.

Wonderful Eczema Cure.

"Our little boy had eczema for five years" writes N. A. Adams, Henrietta, Pa. "Two of our home doctors said the case was hopeless, his lungs being affected. We then employed other doctors but no benefit resulted. By chance we read about Electric Bitters; bought a bottle and soon noticed improvement. We continued this medicine until several bottles were used, when our boy was completely cured." Best of all blood medicine and body building health tonic. Guaranteed at the Bank Drug Store. 50c.

PINKIE PRIM

When Pinkie's Mama starts to bake,
She makes of it a day!
There's bread and biscuits—cookies, too—
And "things to give away."

And Pinkie gets to lick the spoon,
When Mama starts to bake;
And scrape the bowl—and best of all,
The paper from the cake!

And when at last the baking's done,
It's frequently been said,
Across the alley Pinkie takes
A fresh, hot loaf of bread.

Of course, the lady's poor but proud,
And wouldn't take a cent!
But—loaf of bread from Mrs. Prim,
Well, that's quite different!

And all around the neighborhood
With "bakings" she doth trot.
Yes, all the way to Grandpa's, too;
But, that, of course, ain't hot.

When Mama couldn't work at all,
When laid up sick in bed,
The neighbors all were kind to her;
That's why she sends them bread.

P. Foster, of Chelsea, and Ed. Krapf, of Ann Arbor, were chosen. A banquet followed the business meeting.

It would seem hardly necessary to enact a village ordinance to prevent a person from equipping a threshing engine with a whistle corresponding in pitch, even if of less volume, with the fire whistle; but it may be necessary so to do, if one of our citizens does not tumble to the nuisance he makes of his business and abate the whistle.

Commander, Frank Guerin, Record Keeper H. G. Spiegelburg, and Finance Keeper Geo. W. Millsbaugh, of Chelsea Tent, K. O. T. M. M., were the guests of Great Commander Boynton, of Port Huron, at the Cook House in Ann Arbor, Wednesday evening. ## SEEDING COMMENCED IN WESTERN CANADA.

The Prospects for a Large Acreage to Be Sown in Wheat.

St. Paul, April 24, 1907.—Word has been received at the office of the Canadian Government in St. Paul that seeding has commenced at various points throughout Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The heavy snowfall during the past winter has left the ground in splendid shape for successful seeding operations. The fine weather of the past few days has taken much of the frost out of the ground and during next week there will scarcely be a district in which the seeder is not being operated. The most optimistic conditions exist and in all districts the farmers are busy getting things in shape. There will be a very large acreage sown in spring wheat, oats and barley. At many points throughout the three provinces the newcomers are busy unloading their stock and effects, working night and day in order to get on their farms and become active agencies in the effort to make the year 1907 the banner year in grain producing in Western Canada. As compared with districts many hundred miles further south than this, it will be seen that Western Canada ranks amongst the first in the line of seeding operations for the present year. It is safe to say that farmers who get in their crop before the 20th or 21st of May, will receive magnificent returns. A number of those coming in this spring, who had not their land prepared last fall, will break up enough land to get in a crop of oats and barley and probably some flax. This, together with the vegetables they will plant, will give them ample food for themselves and stock during the coming summer and winter. These early seeding operations are not confined to one district, but are spread over a country 900 miles long by 400 miles in width.

The agents of the Canadian Government, located at different points throughout the United States, are busy giving information regarding the many new districts that are being made available for settlers. Low railway rates, information and literature are given on application to the agent, whose name appears in advertisement elsewhere in this paper.

PUT RELIGIOUS DUTY SECOND.

Stern Laws of Business Come First, Says Austrian Court.

An interesting case at law, which centered on the observance of an old Jewish custom, was decided in Vienna recently. A merchant, says the American Israelite, discharged a clerk on account of neglect of duty. Among the charges against him was that he came to the store late in the morning because he attended service at the synagogue in order to say Kaddish—the prayer for the dead—for his father. The clerk argued that it was his privilege and his duty to say the prayer for his departed father, while the merchant, who was also a religious man, maintained that "if Moses had known that a man had to pay $6000 a year rent he would have made different laws." The judge would not allow such an argument, but decided in favor of the merchant, "because the daily attendance at the synagogue could not be considered the right of the clerk without the consent of the employer."

A Fish Story.

"Trout protection! Nonsense!" said a gunner of local eminence. "Trout are amply able to protect themselves. Look at their depredations among ducks, for example, and you will agree with me that it's the birds that need protection. It's a common thing for a trout to jump from the water, seize a duck by the neck, drag the unfortunate duck into the depths sufficiently to leave its feet sticking in the air, where it can get no purchase upon the universe, and thus drown it. Then the trout picks the feathers from the bird, eats it at its leisure and swims away out of the jurisdiction of the courts. Are there any fishermen? None? Too bad. This would be a match for one of their fish stories."

FRIENDS HELP

St. Paul Park Incident.

"After drinking coffee for breakfast I always felt languid and dull, having no ambition to get to my morning duties. Then in about an hour or so a weak, nervous derangement of the heart and stomach would come over me with such force I would frequently have to lie down.

"At other times I had severe headaches; stomach finally became affected and digestion so impaired that I had serious chronic dyspepsia and constipation. A lady, for many years State President of the W. C. T. U., told me she had been greatly benefited by quinine coffee and using Postum Food Coffee; she was troubled for years with asthma. She said it was no cross to quit coffee when she found she could have as delicious an article as Postum.

"Another lady, who had been troubled with chronic dyspepsia for years, found immediate relief on ceasing coffee and beginning Postum twice a day. She was wholly cured. Still another friend told me that Postum Food Coffee was a Godsend to her, her heart trouble having been relieved after leaving off coffee and taking Postum.

"So many cases came to my notice that I concluded coffee was the cause of my trouble and I quit and took up Postum. I am more than pleased to say that my days of trouble have disappeared. I am well and happy. 'There's a Reason.' Read 'The Road to Wellville,' in pkgs.

SERIAL STORY

THE HOUSE OF A THOUSAND CANDLES

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON

Author of "THE MAIN CHANCE," "ZELDA DAMON," Etc.

CHAPTER IX.—Continued.

I had worked myself into a great passion and fairly roared my challenge, pounding the table in my rage.

"Yes, sir; I quite understand you, sir. But I'm afraid, sir—"

"Of course you're afraid!" I shouted, enraged anew by his halting speech. "You have every reason in the world to be afraid. You've probably heard that I'm a bad lot and a worthless adventurer; but you can tell Sister Theresa or Pickering or anybody you please that I'm ten times as bad as I've ever been painted. Now clear out of here!"

I knocked about the library all morning without easing my spirit, and after luncheon I went off for a tramp. Winter had indeed come and possessed the earth, and it had given me a new landscape. The snow continued to fall in great, heavy flakes, and the ground was whitening fast.

A rabbit's track caught my eye and followed it, hardly conscious that I did so. Then the clear print of two small shoes mingled with the rabbit's trail. A few moments later I picked up an overshoe, probably lost in the chase by one of Sister Theresa's girls. I reflected. I remembered that while at Tech I had collected a diversity of memorabilia from school girl acquaintances, and here I was beginning a new series with a string of beads and an overshoe!

A rabbit is always an attractive quarry. Few things besides riches are so elusive, and the little fellows have, I am sure, a shrewd humor peculiar to themselves. I rather envied the school girl who had ventured forth for a walk in the first snow storm of the season, and recalled Aldrich's turn on Gaudier's lines as I followed the double trail:

"However you tread, a tiny mould betrays that light foot all the same; Upon this glistening, snowy road At every step it signs your name."

A pretty autograph, indeed! The snow fell steadily and I tramped on over the joint signature of the girl and the rabbit. Near the lake they parted company, the rabbit leading off at a tangent, on a line parallel with the lake, while his pursuer's steps pointed toward the boat house.

There was, so far as I knew, only one student of adventurous blood at St. Agatha's, and I was not in the least surprised to see, on the little sheltered balcony of the boat house, the red tawny coat of the boat house, the red tawny coat of the boat house, the red tawny coat of the boat house. She wore, too, the covert coat I remembered from the day I saw her first from the wall. Her back was toward me as I drew near; her hands were thrust into her pockets. She was evidently enjoying the soft mingling of the snow with the still, blue waters of the lake; and a girl and a snow storm are, if you ask my opinion, a pretty combination. The fact of a girl's facing a winter storm argues mightily in her favor, testifies, if you will allow me, to a serene and dauntless spirit for one thing, and a sound constitution for another.

I ran up the steps, my cap in one hand, her overshoe in the other. She drew back a trifle, just enough to bring my conscience to its knees.

"I didn't mean to listen that day. I just happened to be on the wall, and it was a thoroughly underbred trick—my twitting you about it—and I should have told you before if I'd known how to see you—"

"May I trouble you for that shoe?" she said with tremendous dignity.

They taught that cold disdain of man, I suppose, as a required study at St. Agatha's.

"Oh, certainly! Won't you allow me?"

"Thank you, no!"

She took the damp bit of rubber—a wet overshoe, even if small and halowed by associations, isn't pretty—as Venus might have received a soft-shell crab from the hand of a fresh young man. I was between her and the steps to which her eyes turned longingly.

"Of course, if you won't accept my apology I can't do anything about it; but I hope you understand that I'm sincere and humble, and anxious to be forgiven."

"You seem to be making a good deal of a small matter—"

"I wasn't referring to the overshoe!" I said.

"She did not relent."

"If you'll only go away—"

She rested one hand against the corner of the boat house, while she slipped the overshoe to her foot. She wore, I noticed, brown gloves with ruffs.

"How can I go away? You children are always leaving things about for me to pick up. I'm perfectly worn out carrying some girl's beads about with me; and I spoiled a good glove on your overshoe."

"I'll relieve you of the beads, if you please."

She thrust her hands into the pockets of her coat and shook the tawny shanter slightly, to establish it in a more comfortable spot on her head.

The beads had been in my corduroy coat since I found them. I drew them out and gave them to her.

"Thank you; thank you very much."

"Of course they are yours, Miss—"

She thrust them into her pocket.

"Of course they're mine," she said indignantly, and turned to go.

"We'll waive proof of property and that sort of thing. I'm sorry not to establish a more neighborly feeling with St. Agatha's. The stone wall may be formidable, but it's not of my building. I must open the gate. That wall's a trifle steep for climbing."

I was amusing myself with the idea that my identity was a dark mystery to her. I had read English novels in which the young lord of the manor is always mistaken for the game-keeper's son by the pretty daughter of the curate who has come home from school to be the belle of the county. But my lady of the red tawny shanter was not a creature of illusions.

"It serves a very good purpose—the wall, I mean—Mr. Glenarm."

She was walking down the steps and I followed, pleased to hear my name from her lips. I am not a man to suffer a lost school girl to cross my lands unattended in a snow storm, and the piazza of a boat house is not, I submit, a pleasant loafing place, on a winter day. She marched before me, her hands in her pockets—I liked her particularly that way—with an easy swing and a light and certain step. Her remark about the wall did not encourage further conversation and I fell back upon the poets.

"Stone walls do not a prison make, Nor iron bars a cage,"

I quoted.

"I have heard that—before!" she said, half turned her face and laughed as she hastened on.

Her brilliant cheeks were a delight to the eye.

The snow swirled about her, whitening the crown of her red cap and clung to her shoulders. Have you ever seen snow crystals gleam, break, dissolve in fair, soft storm-blown haze? Do you know how a man will pledge his soul that a particular flake will never fall, never cease to rest upon a certain flying strand over a girl's temple? And he loses—his heart and waver—in a breath! If you fail to understand these things, and are furthermore unfamiliar with the fact that the color in the cheeks of a girl who walks abroad in a driving snow storm marks the favor of heaven itself, then I waste time, and you will do well to rap at the door of another inn.

"I'd rather missed you," I said; "and really, I should have been over to apologize if I hadn't been afraid."

"Sister Theresa is rather fierce," she declared. "And we're not allowed to receive gentlemen callers—it says so in the catalogue."

"So I imagined. I trust Sister Theresa is improving."

"Yes, thank you."

"And Miss Devereux—she is quite well, I hope."

She turned her head my way as though to listen more carefully, and then she slackened for a moment; her step slackened for a moment; then she hurried blithely forward.

"Oh, she's always well, I believe."

"You know her, of course."

"Rather! She teaches music."

"So Miss Devereux is the music teacher, is she? Should you call her a popular teacher?"

"The girls call her—she seemed moved to mirth by the recollection—'Miss Prim and Prosy.'"

"Ugh!" I exclaimed sympathetically. "Tall and hungry looking, with long talons that pound the keys with grim delight. I know the sort."

"She's a sight!"—and my guide laughed approvingly. "But we have to take her; she's part of the treatment."

"You speak of St. Agatha's as though it were a sanatorium."

"Oh, it's not so bad; there are worse."

We approached the gate. Her indifference to the storm delighted me. Here, I thought in my admiration, is a real product of the Western world. I felt that we had made strides toward such a comradeship as it is proper should exist between a school girl in her teens and a male neighbor of 27. I was—going back to English fiction—the young squire walking home with the curate's pretty young daughter and conversing with fine condescension.

"We girls all wish we could come over and help hunt the lost treasure. It must be simply splendid to live in a house where there's a mystery—secret passages and chests of doubloons and all that sort of thing! My! Squire Glenarm, I suppose you spend all your nights exploring secret passages?"

"This free expression of opinion startled me, though she seemed wholly innocent of impertinence.

"Who says there's any secret about the house?" I demanded.

"Oh, Ferguson, the gardener, and all the girls!"

"I fear Ferguson is drawing on his imagination."

"Well, all the people in the village think so. I've heard the candy shop woman speak of it often."

"She'd better attend to her taffy, I retorted.

"Oh, you mustn't be sensitive about it! All us girls think it ever so romantic, and we call you sometimes the lord of the realm, and when we see you walking through the darkling wood at eventide we say, 'My lord is brooding upon the treasure chests.'"

This, delivered in the stilted tone of one who was half quoting and half improvising, was irresistibly funny, and I laughed with good will.

"I hope you've forgiven me—"

SAVED BY SHORTY

"I don't know that we would all have been massacred if Shorty hadn't blown into T— on the through freight that day," said Col. B., growing reminiscent. "But it's rabbits to coyotes that some of us would have lost our pretty curls."

"The redskins had been restless for some time. It was before the days that the government made college football players out of them, and they still resented white men intruding on their game preserves and desecrating their happy hunting grounds."

"I was United States marshal then, as a crowd as ever pulled a 44 or swung a Winchester, but they wouldn't have lasted as long as ice cream at the equator if those pesky devils had started on the warpath."

"The Indian agent was plainly worried, and I was not sleeping good myself. A fellow never does rest well with his rifle under his neck. The cavalry should have been sent over as intimidators a week before, but those fellows at Washington always did think that they knew more than the men on the firing line."

"T—, we had an operator at T—, one of those combination kind, who punches tickets, handles trunks and potatoes and receives train orders for the extra engine which used to double-head Winding Stage mountains."

He was good enough for the isolated station in ordinary times, but he went to pieces whenever the Indian agent would throw those long-winded cipher messages for the interior department at him, the gist of which was a prayer that the secretary of the interior would ask the attorney general to plead with the secretary of war, with the president's permission, to permit the bugler at the post, 200 miles away, to sound boots and saddles."

"We sent a man up the railroad to the chief dispatcher of the division asking him to send us an operator who could send dots and dashes in bun-bun without hurting his finger nails. We were politely but firmly informed that the railroad needed all the men it had for that forsaken country, and that we would have to do the best we could with the amateur at T—."

"I'll telegraph down the line and see if I can get you a man, but I ain't making any promises," was the best consolation we could get from the main wire-tapper."

"Things were desperate, I say, when Shorty came. He wasn't pleasant to look upon at first meeting. I have seen some cleaner tramps, but he didn't object to water, and he scraped off his hirsute appendages of two weeks' standing when we loaned him a razor. After he had filled his aching voids with a goodly supply of rations and given him a new blue flannel shirt, he didn't look half bad."

"I hear you gazabos are in grave danger of being separated from scalp if a gentleman of intimate acquaintance with Miss Morse didn't come to your rescue," was his salutation, when he swung clear of the caboose, on which he had been a deadhead passenger."

"I used to hold down the A. P. leased wire at Chi," he said; "and I guess I can shoot all the lightning you fellows can send." We didn't know whether A. P. stood for apple pie or ask papa, and we didn't care when we saw that 'bo' caress the telegraph key affectionately."

"He could have had the only billed shirt in camp if he'd been so impolite as to ask for it, so much attached did the boys become to him. He kept the wires to Washington so hot that within 48 hours a special arrived with the troops and the Indians promised to be good."

"We tried to keep Shorty with us, but when the government sent him $10 per day for the two weeks he spent at T—, he climbed onto the first passenger train going north. He didn't object to the company, he said, 'I wanted to get back to the white lights of Broadway. I hope he got there, because he certainly saved our bacon.'"

Concrete Work in Mines.

The newest innovation that has taken place in the method of working a coal mine is the substitution of concrete for the mine timbering. The experiments along this line are being made by the Reading Coal company, said, laughing, brushed past me through the gate and ran lightly over the snow toward St. Agatha's.

Sorrows of a Humorist.

"This thing of being a humorist is about the saddest thing I know," sighed Simeon Ford. "An ordinary person can have his moods and humors as he pleases, but I must always be on the job. I am constantly being invited out, not because I'm liked for myself alone or because of my manly beauty, but because I am expected to entertain the assemblage. The rest of the company may be as dull as dishwater, but if I do not shake up the gathering with a few jokes the hostess glares at me and really feels resentful. I may be sunk in the slough of despond, but just as soon as I take my seat all lean forward and eye me expectantly."

"My son, never get a reputation for being funny. It is the most mournful thing on earth."

Practical.

"What did she say when she heard he was dead in love with her?"

"She wanted to know if he carried any life insurance."

Her Brilliant Cheeks Were a Delight to the Eye.

INDIANA PEOPLE IN WESTERN CANADA.

What Shall We Do?—I've Got to Build Granaries.

A letter written to a Canadian Government agent from Tipton, Indiana, is but one of many similar that are in the hands of the Canadian government agents whose privilege it is to offer one hundred and sixty acres of land free, and low railway fares. But here is a copy of the letter:

"Tipton, Ind., Nov. 28, 1906.

"At your earnest solicitation a party of us from Tipton left May 15 for Western Canada. Our interviews with you and a careful study of your literature led us to expect great things of your country when we should arrive there, and we were not disappointed. We went prepared to make a careful examination of the country and its resources, and we did so. At early dawn the second morning out of Tipton we awoke in a new world. As far as the eye could reach was an apparently limitless expanse of new sown wheat and prairie grasses. The vivid green of the wheat just beginning to stool out, and the inky blackness of the soil contrasted in a way beautiful to see. An hour or two later we steamed into Winnipeg. Here we found a number of surprises. A hundred thousand souls well housed, with every convenience that goes to make a modern up-to-date city—banks, hotels, newspapers, stores, electric light, street railways, sewerage, waterworks, asphalt pavements, everything. With eyes and ears open we traveled for two thousand miles through Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, going out over the Canadian Pacific railway, via Calgary to Edmonton, and returning to Winnipeg over the Canadian Northern railway. In the meantime we made several side trips and stopped off at a number of points where we made drives into the surrounding country. On every hand were evidences of prosperity. The growing wheat, oats, rye, flax, barley, not little patches, but great fields, many of them a square mile in extent, the three, five and sometimes seven-horse teams laying over an inky black ribbon of yellow stubble in furrows straight as gun barrels and at right angles from the roads stretching into the distance, contrasted strangely with our little fields at home. The towns both large and small were doubly conspicuous, made so, first by their newness and second by the towering elevators necessary to hold the immense crops of wheat grown in the immediate neighborhood.

The newness, the thrift, the hustle, the sound of saw and hammer, the tents housing owners of buildings in various stages of completion, the piles of household effects and agricultural implements at the railway stations waiting to be hauled out to the 'claims,' the occasional steam plow, turning its twenty or thirty acres a day, the sod house, the unpainted house of wood, the up-to-date modern residence with large red barn by, all these were seen everywhere we went, an earnest of prosperity and wealth to be.

We talked with men and visited their places that four years ago was unbroken prairie. Their houses, barns, implements and live stock were the equal of anything in Tipton County, and why not, when they were raising five, ten and twenty, yes, in one instance, forty thousand bushels of wheat a year. The fact that such large yields of wheat are raised so easily and so surely impressed us very favorably. And when we saw men who four or five years ago commenced there with two or three thousand dollars, and were now as well fixed and making money much easier and many times faster than lots of our acquaintances on Indiana farms fifty years cleared and valued at four times as much, we decided to invest. So we bought in partnership a little over two thousand acres, some of it improved and in wheat.

Before leaving Indiana we agreed that if the opportunities were as great as they were represented to be, that we would buy, and own in partnership a body of land, and leave one of our number to look after and operate it. This we accordingly did.

Just before time to thresh I received a letter from him. 'What shall we do?' said he; 'I've got to build granaries. There's so much wheat that the railways are just swamped. We can't get cars and the elevators are all full. I never saw anything like it.' In reply we wrote, 'Good for you. Go ahead and build; your story sounds better than the letters we used to get from our friends in Kansas when they bewailed the fact that the hard wheat had been destroyed by the chinch bugs and the corn by hot winds, and that they must sell the stock for means to live on. Yes, build by all means.' And he did, and our wheat put in by a renter made twenty-seven bushels per acre.

Very truly yours,

No Criticism to Make.

Mrs. Hwa Williams, the English society leader, talked at a dance in New York about the fashion of riding astride that has taken hold of English equestriennes.

"Some of our young women," said Mrs. Williams, "dress out and out like men. They wear a long coat and a hunting coat, a cap, riding breeches and top boots. It is a handsome costume and it is not immodest, but undoubtedly it attracts a good deal of attention. They have been telling me London lately a story about an English girl who has adopted this riding rig. Pulling up her horse one afternoon she said to an artisan who was passing: 'Can you tell me if this is the way to Wareham?'

"The man looked her over carefully. Then he touched his cap in a respectful manner and replied: 'Yes, miss, yes—you seem to 'ave got 'em on all right.'"

A BRAVE FIGHT

By Mrs. E. W. Kirk

(Copyright, 1907, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Conway had been closeted with the family lawyer for over an hour. "Who is it?" he asked in a listless tone.

The door slowly opened and his aunt entered the room.

"Hugh, dear, I have been looking in every place for you," she said, as she approached him. "Estelle is here; she brought over a basket of early strawberries from their garden, and I knew you would want to see her before she left, so I—"

As she caught sight of his pallid face she stopped abruptly.

"Why, Hugh!" she exclaimed in alarm. "What is the matter? Are you not well?"

"Yes, aunt, I am perfectly well, at least, in body," he added bitterly. "Mr. Watson has been here, you know, and my soul is storm-tossed. For two hours I have been groping for a little light amid the blackness of despair. And, thank God, I have found the faintest glimmer."

"My poor boy," murmured his aunt tenderly. "He has told you all, then?"

"Yes, aunt, he has told me all!"

"And—Estelle?" she questioned gently.

Hugh smothered a groan.

"I cannot see her, aunt. It would unman me, for I intend to go to my grave lonely and childless."

Just then a silvery voice called out gaily:

"Where are you two conspirators? Ah, there you are! I got tired of waiting, so concluded that if you wouldn't come to me, I would pocket my pride and come to you."

Estelle knew at once that something was wrong. Her handsome debonaire lover looked as though he had just arisen from a bed of sick ness.

"What is it, Hugh? Are you ill?" she inquired anxiously.

"I have met with a great loss, Estelle, and—"

"Oh, is that all?" she breathed, looking intensely relieved. "I was afraid, from your appearance, some terrible calamity had befallen you."

"It is terrible to me—and I think it will also affect you, which troubles me exceedingly."

"Affect me?" opening her lovely violet eyes. "Nonsense, Hugh, what a mercenary creature you must think me. Don't let that thought trouble you for an instant. What do I care for the loss of your money, even though it be your whole fortune, just so as I don't lose you, dear?"

She nestled lovingly against his arm, expecting a caress. But Hugh, with wonderful self-control, answered steadily:

"It isn't altogether a money loss, Estelle. It is something beyond my power to control, something I cannot explain. But if you love me you must also trust me and believe that whatever I do is for your future happiness and wellfare."

The girl drew away from him and her lips quivered.

"You mean—" she said slowly.

"I mean that private business will take me immediately abroad, and that you and I must part."

"I don't think I understand," she said vaguely. "I cannot see anything to look so tragic about in a few weeks' separation."

"If it was only for a few weeks, Estelle, I wouldn't murmur. But I will be gone at least two years, probably longer," he replied huskily.

"It seems a long time," she said, with a little catch in her voice. "But I will have your letters to look forward to, and after a while—your return."

A sob rose in his throat, he was not proof against her perfect and loving trust. He turned to her suddenly and opened wide his arms. Estelle flew to them as a mother bird flies to its nest, and was gathered close to his hungry heart.

It might be cowardly, but he couldn't bring himself to tell her then that their marriage was impossible. A convulsive shudder shook his strong frame, and his arms relaxed their hold. Estelle lay like a broken lily upon his breast. He bent his head and showered passionate kisses—kisses of farewell and renunciation upon her tear-wet face, and, disengaging her clinging arms, he left her forever.

Broke Will for $800,000.

A fee of $800,000 is said to have been paid to a New York lawyer, William D. Guthrie, for breaking the will of the late Henry B. Plant, owner of a system of steamships, railways and hotels. Of the $24,000,000 estate the widow's share was $8,000,000, and as this was tied up in trust she engaged counsel to secure its release, giving him 10 per cent. of her share.

To Be Brought Out Once a Week.

A good many people have an idea that religion isn't worth while unless it is worn with Sunday clothes.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Newspaper Ad Best.

It is gratifying to learn that the department has decided to abandon billboard advertising and to discontinue the use of huge colored posters, which have excited so much criticism. There never was a man or an occasion that presented quite so repulsive a picture as the billboard designs. These extravagant photographs have been beneath the dignity of a government like ours and have placed Uncle Sam in a vulgar unbecoming position as the only

THE HARD-BITING GILA.

Creature to Be Feared and Avoided, Says Writer.

Of some of the strange ways of the gila monster, that little-known creature of the southwestern deserts, a correspondent writes: "I have had some experience with gila monsters and can state that, no matter what scientists may claim, the gila monster is a good thing to shun. Indians and Mexicans have a horror of them and fear them more than a rattlesnake. I believe that the bite of the gila monster is dangerous because of the creature's habit of eating lizards, bugs and rodents, and then lying on sand so hot that it blisters the hands and feet of men. The heat causes the food to putrefy in the stomach, evidenced by the fact that the teeth are often covered with a fermented, putrefied froth from the food. A bite has the same effect as the cut of a dissecting knife used on a cadaver; in other words, the inoculation of a deadly poison."

"When frightened or angry he can move quite rapidly. That short, thick, stubby tail is used in jumping, just as a kangaroo uses his tail. The gila monster bites like a bulldog, and has the tenacity of a snapping turtle. I once saw some men teasing a gila monster brought to Tucson. A string was tied around his neck. The gila monster was crawling around on the ground, trying to get away, but was pulled back by the string. This was carried on till the creature became furious. The crowd around the gila monster knew nothing of his power to spring. Suddenly he sprang up and bit a man among the crowd on the hand leaping fully two feet from the ground."

"Another instance, this of a man whose chief object seems to have been a foolhardy display of fearlessness: He was holding back one of the monsters in his hand by the back of the neck, so it could not bite him. He dropped his hand to the side of his leg. The gila monster shut his teeth down on his hand, ducking overalls, taking a double piece out where the cloth folded, as quickly as a pair of scissors could have cut the fabric and as cleanly."

Retort of Indian Chief.

A distinguished army officer tells a story on himself which relates to the days when he was a young lieutenant in the far west a good many years ago. He was of a party who had gone to see the Indians at Spokane falls. Among the redskins was Chief Moses, who was fairly well educated and spoke capital English. The young lieutenant addressed Chief Moses in the Indian tongue, saying: "Moses, I have often heard of you and I have seen your picture and your name in the newspapers, but I have never before seen you, and, offering his hand, added: 'I am glad to meet you.' Moses scanned him from head to foot, and as the young man stood with outstretched hand the lengthening silence and stolidity of the chief were becoming painful when old Moses at last with great deliberation said in English: 'Young man, I have never heard of you before and I have never seen your picture or your name in the newspapers, but,' he added lightly, 'nevertheless, I am glad to see you,' and accepted his hand."

Electricity in the Nursery.

Electricity has invaded the nursery. Within the past few months a device has been patented to rock the youngster's cradle, and the nocturnal pajama promenade is no longer a necessity. So, too, there has recently been placed on the market an electrical baby milk warmer and now when the youngster cries during the night for his food, all that is necessary is to turn a switch, and the milk is warm by the time papa is up and has found his slippers. Last but not least comes the startling intelligence with doleful significance to bad boys that an electric spanking machine armed with many hard wood paddles has been devised. It is predicted that schoolrooms which are already equipped with electric clocks, electric lights, electric tany bells, etc., will adopt the new device for youthful chastisement. Heavy soled slippers can be used in place of the paddles if old time associations of childhood are desired.—Electric News Service.

Poets' Themes.

The cynics of our time have whitewashed many of the virtues. Poets like the earlier Swinburne practically praised lust as an expression of the love of life. Mr. Rudyard Kipling practically praised cruelty as an expression of the love of life. Poets like Mr. Henry and Mr. John Davidson have practically praised drunkenness, or violence, or obscenity as expressions of the love of life.—C. K. Chesterton in London Times.

A Financial Lesson.

He—My dear, in such fancy returns you violate a rule of good business and of good morals.

She—What is that?

Too Roomy.

"Gracious!" exclaimed the economical mother, "I thought I had cut down this old suit of your father's so it would fit you, but it seems entirely too large yet."

"Yes, ma," replied the bright boy, "especially the wide expanses!"—The Catholic Standard and Times.

TEN YEARS OF PAIN.

Unable to Do Even Housework Because of Kidney Troubles.

Mrs. Margaret Emmerich, of Clinton St., Napoleon, O., says: "For fifteen years I was a great sufferer from kidney troubles. My back pained me terribly. Every turn or move caused sharp, shooting pains. My eyesight was poor, dark spots appeared before me, and I had dizzy spells. For ten years I could not do housework, and for two years did not get out of the house. The kidney secretions were irregular, and doctors were not helping me. Doan's Kidney Pills brought me quick relief, and finally cured me. They saved my life." Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

ADVANTAGE A WIDOW HAS.

At Least They Don't Have to Sit and Watch Husband's Flirt.

"I saw such a pretty woman at a disadvantage the other night," the little real widow was saying. "She was married. She was sitting at a table with some other pretty women and handsome men and her husband. Her husband began to flirt outrageously with one of the women. I wish you could have seen the look that came over her face. Everybody in the room saw how distressed she was."

"Now, what I want to know is this. Why didn't she go to work and flirt with one of the handsome men to get even? Anyone of them was quite ready and willing, but no wives seem to be able to do that. They just sit ready to cry, with everybody noticing."

"That's the advantage we real widows have over wives. We don't have to sit and watch our husbands flirting with other women. We know where they are, and we also know that whatever they may chance to be doing, they are probably not flirting."

The Estimable Family.

"Reynolds," said Millionaire Banks to his valet, "go round to the house of that little girl whom I ran down with the auto this morning and extend to the family my sincere regrets and sympathy. Also give them this $50 bill. I understand that they are very poor and in want."

Accordingly the valet obeyed. When he returned his master met him at the door.

"Well, Reynolds?"

"The father wished me to say, sir, that he hoped you wouldn't take the affair too much to heart. As for the family, they all feel very grateful to you sir, and couldn't bring themselves to accept your very kind offer."

"A most estimable family! Yet I wonder why they didn't accept the money?"

"The father said such matters should be arranged through his lawyer, sir,"—Judge.

MORE BOXES OF GOLD

And Many Greenbacks.

325 boxes of Gold and Greenbacks will be sent to persons who write the most interesting and truthful letters of experience on the following topics:

1. How have you been affected by coffee drinking and by changing from coffee to Postum?
2. Give name and account of one or more coffee drinkers who have been hurt by it and have been induced to quit and use Postum.
3. Do you know any one who has been driven away from Postum because it came to the table weak and characterless at the first trial?
4. Did you set such a person right regarding the easy way to make it clear, black, and with a snappy, rich taste?
5. Have you ever found a better way to make it than to use four heaping teaspoonsful to the pint of water, let stand on stove until real boiling begins, and beginning at that time when actual boiling starts, boil full 15 minutes more to extract the flavor and food value. (A piece of butter the size of a pea will prevent boiling over.) This contest is confined to those who have used Postum prior to the date of this advertisement.

Be honest and truthful, don't write poetry or fanciful letters, just plain, truthful statements.

Contest will close June 1st, 1907, and no letters received after that date will be admitted. Examinations of letters will be made by three judges, not members of the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd. Their decisions will be fair and final, and a neat little box containing a $10 gold piece sent to each of the five writers of the most interesting letters, a box containing a $5 gold piece to each of the 20 next best, a $2 greenback to each of the 100 next best, and a $1 greenback to each of the 200 next best, making cash prizes distributed to 325 persons.

Every friend of Postum is urged to write and each letter will be held in high esteem by the company, as an evidence of such friendship, while the little boxes of gold and envelopes of money will reach many modest writers whose plain and sensible letters contain the facts desired, although the sender may have but small faith in winning at the time of writing.

Talk this subject over with your friends and see how many among you can win prizes. It is a good, honest competition and in the best kind of a cause, and costs the competitors absolutely nothing.

Address your letter to the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., writing your own name and address clearly.

Meaning Unknown.
De Wolf Hopper had a slight cold one night, and in a curtain speech he referred to it in this fashion:

"I went to my doctor," he declared, "and the doctor said I had been eating too much nitrogenous food, and must stop it and eat farinaceous food. Since then I haven't been able to eat at all, for I don't know what either word means."

$100 Reward, $100.
The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreadful disease that has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have such faith in its curative power that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for full particulars. Address F. J. CHESLEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists, 25c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

They Go Together.
"Henry," said the young wife, who had taken up physical culture, "how do you think I am built?"

"My dear," replied her husband fondly, "you are built like a watch."

"Thank you Henry. And Henry?"

"Well?"

"If I am built like a watch, don't you think I should have a few jewels?"

And then Henry frowned and said the man who compliments a woman is an idiot.

Importance of Sleep.
We should get up well every morning. If we do not, we are certain gradually to run behind in our physical bank account. This proves that sleeping is quite as important as eating. The luxury of sound sleep is one of the greatest means given to a man or beast for restoring and invigorating the whole system. No one should allow business or anything else to curtail this luxury, and parents should promote it in children, instead of drumming them out of bed early.—Homeopathic Envoy.

PERIODS OF PAIN

While no woman is entirely free from periodic suffering, it does not seem to be the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely. Irregularities and pain are positive evidence that something is wrong which should be set right or it will lead to serious derangement of the feminine organism.

Thousands of women, have found relief from all periodic suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from native roots and herbs, as it is the most thorough female regulator known to medical science. It cures the condition which causes so much discomfort and robs that period of its terrors. Women who are troubled with painful or irregular functions should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences and be restored to health and strength by taking

WHY IT SUCCEEDS.
Because it's for One Thing Only, and Michigan People Appreciate This.

Nothing can be good for everything.
Doing one thing well brings success.
Doan's Kidney Pills do one thing only.
They cure sick kidneys.

They cure backache, every kidney ill
Here is Michigan's evidence to prove it.
F. A. Gourley, living at 83 Division street, Adrian, Mich., says: "It is quite a number of years ago since I first began to feel the effects of the disease which has troubled me so greatly. At that time I was working where I was exposed to cold and wet weather and I contracted a cold which settled in my kidneys and became so acute that I could neither stoop or lift anything. I was also bothered with muscular rheumatism. I laid all my trouble to the disordered condition of the kidneys. I was subject to dizzy spells and tried every remedy but did not receive much benefit. Having heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, I thought I would give them a trial and after taking the first box I began to receive wonderful relief. I continued to take them and after I had used several boxes I had a complete cure. I will always highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone that is suffering from kidney disease."

Killed by a Daisy.
A young woman named Boyd, of Parton, Cumberland, was picking flowers for a funeral wreath, when she slipped and the stalk of a Michaelmas daisy entered her wrist. A piece of the stalk remained in the wound for 11 days, set up lockjaw, and death ensued.
—London (Eng.) Chronicle.

Machine Does Fireman's Work.
A machine that will hurl coal into the firebox of a locomotive at the rate of 200 shovelfuls a minute, if necessary, will lighten the labor of the fireman on many engines. An order has been placed for 700 of these mechanical stokers at a cost of $350,000.

Clothes.
Once in a while some man gets his position in society so firmly established that he can wear shabby clothes and still be envied. No woman has ever achieved that distinction.

Workers Encouraged to Sing.
At the works of a Warrington (England) firm of soapmakers the girl employees are encouraged to sing partsongs while at work. The object is to relieve the monotony. In the departments that number more than 30 girls and have not noisy machinery they are encouraged to sing during the last hour of work in the morning and in the afternoon.

Pigeons as Messengers.
Pigeons were used as messengers as early as the Crusades, and at the siege of Acre and at Modena. Competitors at the Olympian games frequently released the swift little birds to inform their friends of victory, and pigeons were kept at Tyburn to carry information regarding the reprieve or execution of prisoners.

Quite a Difference.
Dr. Story, the late principal of Glasgow university, taking a holiday in the country once, was met by the minister of the district, who remarked:
"Hullo, principal! You here? Why, you must come and relieve me for a day." The principal replied: "I don't promise to relieve you, but I might relieve your congregation."

Women Fond of Tea.
A London doctor, lecturing, said it was useless to tell a dyspeptic woman not to drink tea. The only thing to do was to give her some harmless stuff in a bottle to be taken every three hours, with strict instructions that she was not to have any tea for four hours before or four hours after each dose.

Good Posers.
"It would be quite impossible to imagine people more courteous and considerate than our king and queen, and they are such perfect sitters. King Edward has by the way, a very keen knowledge of how to arrange a group for photographic purposes.—The Tatler.

Do To-day's Work Well.
The fact of having done a day's work better than you ever did a day's work before will make you a better and a bigger man; and if you will try to live to-day hopefully, honestly, and well, and prepare for the future, be sure as you are alive you will succeed even beyond your dreams.

Tough On the Musicians.
Students with long hair, which is looked upon as the outward sign of advanced Socialistic views, are being arrested in large numbers in Sofia as a result of recent rioting between the police and university graduates and undergraduates.

Giving Them Room.
"There's one good thing," mused the woman reminiscently, "you may keep on hearing rumors of the things your best friends are saying about you, but you don't have to sit and listen while they are saying it, so long as there is a door."

Fortunate Indeed.

something, you! Sacred name of thunder! It is a lucky thing for you that

SALT CELLAR OF LONG AGO.

Was Distinctive Mark of Caste in the Middle Ages.

"This is a medieval salt cellar," said the antiquary. "It is huge, it is shaped like a castle, it is solid silver and the price—but what is the use telling the price to you? Very magnificent, eh?
In the middle age, you know, the salt cellar was the principal table ornament. Guests sat above or below the salt as they were prominent or the reverse. Where do you think you'd have sat, eh? Queer table manners they had in those days. The fastidious had individual knives, forks and spoons, but the common people ate with their fingers. You helped yourself from the general dish with your own spoon if you had one, but if you were very, very fastidious you licked the spoon clean first. The food was queer—rich, rank food—swans, herons, porpoises, garlic, verjuice, saffron.
There was meat and wine in foods and ushers stood about whose duty it was to lead to convenient couches such guests as had dined too well.
These ushers, being overworked, were continually striking for more pay. The hours were queer, too. Breakfast, dawn; dinner, ten o'clock; supper, four o'clock in the afternoon."

TAKING NO MORE CHANCES.

Keepers Had Special Cartridges For Poor Marksmen.

Dr. Seward Webb at a dinner at Sheburne Farms, his great Vermont estate, said of a certain poor marksmen: "Visiting his English brother-in-law, he shot the head keeper in the leg the first morning he tried pheasant shooting. The man limped away cursing horribly. Next day he had wretched luck, though the wounded head keeper without malice had assigned him to a fairly good place. Bang, bang, bang, went his gun every few seconds, but not a bird fell before it.
He was much embarrassed. It seemed, too, that at each of his misses the under keepers smiled at one another oddly. Finally his cartridges gave out.
He hurried to the nearest keeper and demanded more. 'There ain't no more, sir,' the man answered. 'No more?'
Nonsense. Why, you've got at least 1,000 in that box.' The keeper flushed and stammered: 'Ah, but them ain't for you, sir. They're for another gent.
They've got shot in 'em, sir.'"

Extravagance in Dress.
Very few persons outside of the glittering circle of our enormously rich families, who constitute what is referred to as "the best society," can understand how any young woman in this or any other country can spend upon her wardrobe such vast amounts of money as are expended by the daughters of some of these families.
The history of the world does not show such reckless extravagance in the way of dress. Nor, for the matter of that, does the history of the world show so riotous a use of money as that practiced by our very rich in their strictly social diversions. Happy is the lot of the man or woman who is not tempted to such foolish indulgences, which take the edge from life's real joy!

Fled from Gas.
"I had a friend," said the bearded man, "who got out of paying a bill he owed in an original way. When the collector arrived he sent word to him that he would see him in a few minutes. Then he went into the parlor, shut the doors carefully, turned on every blessed burner in the chandelier, came quickly out, and had his man show the bill collector in the parlor while he hurried upstairs. Do you think that collector waited a few minutes for him to come down? Not on your photograph. He fled from that gas filled room in about two seconds by the clock. If he had stayed three he'd have been suffocated."

Good Enough for the Dog.
Bobby's mother was often distressed by her small son's lapses from correct speech, all the more because his reports from school were always so good. "Bobby," she said, plaintively one day, "why do you keep telling Major to 'set up' when you know 'sit up' is what you should say?" "Oh, well, mother," Bobby answered hastily,
"of course I have lots of grammar,
but I don't like to waste it on Major when he doesn't know the difference, being a dog."—Youth's Companion.

Speaking of Fathers.
Two kids had been engaged in a heated argument over the respective merits of their sires, when Johnnie clinched his argument with the following: "Huh, that's nothing! My father was in the army, and once, when he was standing on a hill beside a cannon, a war came up the hill, and he fired the cannon and killed the whole war."—Judge's Library.

One of our exchanges, in commenting upon the advertising features of the newspapers, says: "The Chelsea Standard-Herald and the Milan Leader. re to only country newspapers that come to our exchange table that do not accept advertisements from the city merchants.
The merchants in those two places ought to appreciate the policy of their home papers. But, is it good business policy?
We believe it is."

The Utility of Beauty.

Beauty and utility are not necessarily antagonistic. Beauty itself is useful in that it augments the happiness of life. Take away the flowers and birds, the varying colors of vegetation, the little cascades and the innumerable things of beauty with which nature has endowed her scenery and life would be bereft of much of its gladness, much that exalts and embellishes it, much that makes it more useful to the human family.

Discovery Endangered World.

In the time of Louis XV. of France,
a chemist named Depierre gave an exhibit on a canal at Versailles of a kind of fire so rapid and devouring that it could not be quenched, water only giving it fresh activity. Louis forbade that the invention should be made public, and the inventor died soon after, carrying the secret with him to the grave.

His Many Qualifications.

From the Rangoon Times: "Situation wanted—Young man seeks employment; speaks eight European languages, including Malay and Hindustan, corresponds in English, French, German and Italian, and also understands ship chandlery business. Capacity hall porter or any other occupation required."

British Red Tape.

The only expense of the parish council of Queen Camel, a Somersetshire (England) village, for a recent year was 2s 2d for a check book. Yet the account had to be taken to Win-cantan, eight miles away, to be audited, thus necessitating a 5s stamp, 7s 6d for hire of a conveyance and a man's time for more than half a day.

My Best Friend.

Alexander Banton, who lives on rural route 1, Fort Edward, N. Y., says: "Dr.
King's New Discovery is my best friend.
It cured me of asthma six years ago. It has also performed a wonderful cure of incipient consumption for my son's wife. The first bottle ended the terrible cough, and this accomplished, the other symptoms left one by one, until she was perfectly well. Dr. King's New Discovery power over coughs and colds is simply marvelous." No other remedy has ever equaled it. Fully guaranteed at the Bank Drug Store 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Little One's Prayer.

Mary always gets a little piece of candy every day to keep her from being naughty. One day she was naughty, and she did not get her candy. That night when she was going to bed she said her prayers as follows: "Our Father, who art in heaven, please give me my daily candy."

A Difficult Choice.

A London literary critic thinks that laughter is unmoral. Physicians say it is a splendid aid to digestion. Shall we be morally dyspeptic or unmorally happy?

"Had dyspepsia or indigestion for years. No appetite, and what I did eat distressed me terribly. Burdock Blood Purifiers cured me."—J. H. Walker, Sunbury, Ohio.

Words of Cheer.
Mr. William O'Brien, when he was last in prison in Ireland, spent the time in close study of the Bible. The end of Jeremiah this prisoner had scrawled: "Cheer up, old boy! Cheer

Dress and Mind.
Dowdiness in person expresses the Badly Cripples a Baldwinsville

URIC-O QUICKLY CURED HIM
Treated Two Years with a High-Prized
Physician with No Success

Mr. Frank Howe, a prominent farmer in the town of Van Buren, says: "I visited the best physician in this county, who treated me for about two years for rheumatism. I spent in that time several hundred dollars and seemed to grow worse instead of better each day. Being on crutches and forced to drive to the train and hobbling to the doctor's office became very discouraging, let alone the sleepless nights and fearful hours of pain. Being advised by a friend, I purchased Smith's Uric-O prescription, took it home and used it that day as directed.
"Those fearful aching pains left me, my blood seemed to lose and flow freely.
I felt different and knew the next morning I had found a cure, as I slept and rested well all that night, something I had not done before in two years. I used in all six bottles of Uric-O and have never felt a return of my disease, had no use for crutches or cane since the first day's treatment."

"I have since recommended Uric-O to hundreds of friends and acquaintances and in every instance it gave remarkable relief. To every person who suffers from rheumatism I say, take Uric-O at once, and your suffering will soon end."

"FRANK HOWE,
"Baldwinsville, N. Y."
Anyone who doubts Mr. Howe's experience is invited to write him for further details.

The manufacturers have so much confidence in the remedy that they will gladly give a large 75c bottle of Uric-O free to all Rheumatics who have never used it and are looking for a permanent, lasting cure for this most distressing disease. Address for free trial, Smith Drug forenoon, to receive, examine and just said claims.

Dated Ann Arbor, April 18, 1907.
L. T. FREEMAN,
ALONZO ZIMMERMAN Commissioners.

Commissioners' Notice.
STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Washtenaw. The undersigned having been appointed by the Probate Court for said County to receive, examine and adjust the claims and demands of all persons against the estate of Caroline Norton, late deceased

Old Times and New.

There is said to be a decay of politeness among our children whose fathers and mothers were brought up to be very respectful and serene in behavior. Perhaps nowadays the young are too independent and that reverence for old age went out with the substituting of yes and no for the affirmations to which sir and ma'am were attached in the old days. So, too, the adoption of the words man and woman for lady and gentleman may have made the youngsters and their sisters more forward and presuming, and it may be that the banishment of the curtsy has made girls less modestly blushing and sentimental than their predecessors in the juvenile world. Still, the taking off of the hat to women by boys and men of all classes is more general than it used to be, and we believe that profanity is less prevalent than it was once, for the vigorous fathers of the republic were somewhat given to using strong expressions, and even the august Washington was accused of uttering a big, big D under the stress of powerful emotion. And it must be acknowledged that there was a good deal of hypocrisy in the fine phrases that were current in the days of hoop and gown, and that youth was made familiar with hard drinking earlier than it is to-day. There is less leisure now than formerly, says Boston Budget, and people do not have time to cultivate the graces of their forefathers, but at heart they are quite as refined in feeling and less cruel in punishment than were their ornate ancestors, and the boy and girl of the present only illustrate other times and other manners and not degeneration.

Humor and Compassion.

Humor means far more than the laughter of a fool or at one. It goes often hand in hand with compassion. It is always sane and clear-eyed, and none the less so for a kindly smile and thrill of sympathy as it contemplates the follies, foibles and faults of men. In the sympathy lies its kinship and acquaintance with pathos. But it is the sanity, the clear-sightedness, of humor that keeps the pathos from degenerating into pathos or any thing that could be described as maudlin, writes Bishop Chauncey B. Brewster in North American Review. Humor is on the best of terms with sentiment, so long as it is true and healthy. When, however, feelings have passed from their natural spontaneity into a secondary state where they have become self-conscious, are called out for drill and marshaled for parade, then sentiment has degenerated into sentimentality. Genuine humor is too loyal a friend of truth to have anything to do with such artificiality or to associate with sentimentality.

The gavel used by the presiding officer of the United States senate has no handle like that used by the speaker of the house. It is an ivory contrivance, modestly ornamented, of cylindrical shape and about four inches long. In wielding it the vice president has to hold the gavel in his hand as if it were a small hammer without a handle. How the custom originated of providing the vice president with a handleless gavel is not known, though the oldest senate attaché can not remember when it was otherwise; just as the oldest senate attaché can not remember when the gold snuff box that occupies its ancient niche at the right of the vice president's desk was not dutifully filled every morning, although no statesman now patronizes that once popular box for a gentle sneeze.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson is righteously indignant at manufacturers who take advantage of the pure food law to affirm that the federal government guarantees their products. The government, of course, does nothing of the kind, as Secretary Wilson explains. The government exacts from the manufacturer a statement regarding the character of his products, and the certificate granted is to the effect that such statement has been made, and also enables the government to get after the manufacturer if the statement proves untrue and the goods turn out to be impure. To twist such a certificate into a guarantee is a form of dishonesty which merits the sharp rebuke the secretary administers.

An Indian of the Rosebud tribe has applied for divorce on the ground that his squaw beat him and kicked him out of the tepee. Evidently the Indian women are not so far behind the enlightening influences of civilization as they have been painted.

A woman's life was saved in a Pennsylvania shooting affair because the silk dress she had on deflected the bullets. Here is another argument for including these luxuries among femininity's necessities.

MICHIGAN EVENTS NOTED

THE PRIMARY BILL—HAS PASSED THE HOUSE AND NOW TO THE SENATE.

FLOOD OF AMENDMENTS.

The Fight to Emascuate the Bill Was Fierce But Futile, and Now It Is Up to the Senate.

How It Went Through.

The house finally passed the Dickinson direct nomination bill, with only one serious change from the bill as passed in committee of the whole, though the minority kept the friends of primary reform busy for several hours arguing against and debating with their amendments and proposed excisions. The final vote was 74 to 7, and the seven were Reps. J. S. Monroe, F. T. Bennett, Dougherty, Double, Knight, Beaman, Simpson.

Tinkering with the bill began almost as soon as the house sat, and continued for hours. Rep. Waters moved to substitute "20 per cent" where the bill of 1905 had "40 per cent," requiring that plurality to nominate a candidate. This was the first thing to come up, and therefore the first thing to go down, and it went by a vote of 50 to 34.

The Campbell amendment to the penalty clauses came up for more discussion. This amendment forbids the purchasing of space in a newspaper, and by the terminology of the section makes it bribery and a felony. Rep. Miller, of Detroit, succeeded after one of the Miller-Campbell debates, in substituting what perhaps should be called the "William Alden Smith clause." This provision makes it a felony for:

Every person who directly or indirectly pays for space in any newspaper, which space is used or is intended to be used for the purpose of assisting or hindering the nomination of any candidate to any office, whether local, state or national, and every person being the owner or part owner of any newspaper or controlling it or any interest therein or in any company owning any newspaper or controlling the same who uses or procures to be used said newspaper for advertising purposes in order to assist him in securing the nomination to any office.

This is to make it an offense for the owner of a paper to use it to forward his own candidacy for office.

Chapter 5 provides that it is a felony for candidates to hire workers or pay for space in any newspaper. This is made punishable by a fine from $100 to $500 and six months' imprisonment. Rep. George Lord, of Detroit, moved to have the entire newspaper clause eliminated, but this was lost as being out of order. Reps. Miller, Greusel and L'Esperance voted for the substitution.

Collyer moved to add a prohibition against cards and posters, giving a humorous description of bill-posting campaigning in Wayne county, but the amendment and the humor both went down pleasantly.

Rep. Turner now made a motion to strike out subdivisions 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 of the penalty clauses. Rep. Campbell moved to amend to retain section 7, the corporation bribery clause. This amendment was accepted by Rep. Turner. Rep. L'Esperance moved to amend by retaining also subdivision 8, the Miller advertising section. This was accepted. Then the house voted to retain the rest of the clauses and passed the bill. The bill was then termed "misdeemeanors" instead of felonies.

The Tubbs Are Free.

The jury in the case of Levi and Charles Tubbs returned a verdict of not guilty. The men were tried for murder in the Eaton county circuit court.

Over two years ago, a ditcher named Bouts was found dead in a field near the Tubbs farm. The Tubbs brothers, and a son, George, were arrested for the crime. Two years ago to a day the son was convicted of firing the shot which killed Bouts, and sentenced to serve the remainder of his life in Jackson prison.

In the course of the trial of the Tubbs brothers, on a charge of conspiracy, resulting in the murder of Bouts, the son was brought from Jackson and testified that the aged brothers were wholly innocent of any intent to do wrong, and that he was the only guilty guilty of murder.

The old men were released after the verdict was rendered, and went to their homes.

Saw Her Boy Killed.

As his mother watched from a window of her home, Henry Bouwman, aged 5, fell in front of a steam roller in Grand Rapids and his head was crushed to a pulp by the 3,000-pound machine. Engineer Van Komen, who had warned several youngsters to keep off of the roller, picked up the body, when it was snatched from his arms by the screaming, hysterical mother who ran to her home with the mangled remains. Mrs. Bouwman is a widow and has three other children.

The proposition to bond Traverse City for $25,000 for paving street sections and water main extensions won out by a vote of 137 to 27.

A swarm of bees attacked the 2-year-old son of Monte Chisholm, of Marshall, and it was four hours before a doctor restored the badly stung child to consciousness. The little fellow had seen his father take honey from a hive and attempted to do the same thing.

While Rev. J. N. Ankrum was preaching Sunday in Bethel township he noticed W. F. Sanderson's house in flames at a short distance from the church. He dismissed the congregation of 250, formed them into a volunteer fire brigade, and fought the blaze. The house was destroyed, but the fire was kept from the barns.

BROTHER AND SISTER.

Orphans Married and Raised Family of Imbeciles.

Swallowing a tablespoon proved fatal to Fernando Hunsberger at the asylum for the insane at Pontiac. He was 31 years old and demented. There is a story connected with his fate—it is the tragedy of a family.

Half a century or more ago a happy family was broken up. Misfortune had followed misfortune. Brothers and sisters were separated, some never to meet again. They were little tots, most of them, and did not remember their own names when they grew up. When Fernando Hunsberger's father became a man he met a woman whose manner and appearance attracted him. Friendship ripened into love and they were married. They did not know their own history except that both were orphans, as far as they knew.

It was not until a year they had raised a family that Fernando's parents learned that they were brother and sister. Three of their children are in the same condition as was Fernando, helpless imbeciles. The father was found dead on the railroad tracks here about a year ago.

Mrs. McBride Acquitted.

Mrs. Del McBride was acquitted of the charge of murder in the death of her brother Duke, who was shot during a quarrel between them at the camp meeting grounds near Grand Ledge last January. The jury was out four hours. She was the first woman to be tried on a murder charge in Eaton county in 50 years.

The defense was that the woman had been threatened anonymously with tar and feathers because of her friendship for "Bobby" Burns, a local character against whom her divorced husband and her brother, who were close friends, had a grievance. She was told by Officer Toaz that she might carry a revolver to defend herself and while her brother was trying to take the weapon away from her he was shot. Duke died six weeks after the shooting. The affair was witnessed by several persons, and John Youngs was charged with being an accomplice.

Mrs. McBride was married the first time when she was a girl of 14 and now at the age of 32 has a married daughter.

A Wanderer's Story.

That he had been a wanderer on the face of the earth for the past 35 years was the claim made by William O'Brien, aged 40 years, who applied to the Port Huron police for lodging. O'Brien said that after his father died leaving him homeless at the age of 5 years he was unable to find a home and has been buffeted about from one city to another. O'Brien is unusually small and does not weigh over 55 pounds. He is hardly able to work, but said he was on his way to the lumber woods in the northern part of the state to secure a position. Although he is penniless he says he will endeavor to continue his journey north as best he can.

Mangled Victims Buried.

Cecil Nash, aged 6 years, one of the four children run down and mangled by a Grand Truck train in the yards in Flint, and then feared to be dying, still lives, but she is badly hurt. The other three were killed outright, and funeral services were held at the same hour Monday over all. They are Ruth Nash, aged 16, and her nephews, George, aged 4 and Harold, aged 16 months. The two little brothers were buried in one casket.

Reform Needed.

Wm. Laube appeared before Chief of Police Dowd and told a touching story of his 15-year-old daughter being given liquor in a Muskegon saloon. Laube says scores of other girls have been started on the road to ruin through intoxicants sold in defiance of the law. Society women and the authorities are starting a crusade against saloons and dens of vice that harbor girls of tender age.

Cavalry Escort.

Cavalry Troop A, M. N. G., is to have the honor of escorting President Roosevelt when he attends the celebration at Lansing the last of this month. Capt. Paul B. Lino was notified of the appointment yesterday and immediately issued a general order to troopers to get in shape. Citizens will take a special car to the celebration.

A Marriage Story.

There were unusual circumstances in connection with the wedding of Chas. Robinson and Mrs. Sophia S. Brown, which was performed by Rev. W. P. French in Lansing. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Cady. Mr. Cady is a son of the bride and Mrs. Cady is the bridegroom's daughter. The groom was 62 years old and the bride 52.

Alonso Squires, aged 47, a prominent resident of Dundee, was found dead in bed by his wife. He leaves a widow and two daughters.

Dependent upon a love affair, Jesse Riley, of Flint, drank the contents of an ounce bottle of chloroform. Doctors saved his life. Riley professed to be very much disappointed when he awoke alive.

While lying on a flat car signaling the engineer a sudden jolt of the train threw George Sauter, a G. R. & I. brakeman, from his head, crushing his skull and killing him instantly. Sauter's home was in Cadillac.

Lightning which struck the house of G. W. Temple, two miles south of Eloise just as Mrs. Temple was getting out of bed, shocked her and caused total deafness may result. The bed was hurled about the room, a dog was killed, every pane of glass in the house was broken, parts of the house shattered, and considerable of the furniture splintered.

Thomas Madigan is said to be dying, the result of being thrown from his rig when his horse became frightened at a Kalamazoo street car. Madigan thought he was well enough to go home, but an hour later was unable to move.

SIDE LIGHTS ON MICHIGAN

FLAMES CLAIM SIX VICTIMS, FIVE OF WHOM WERE CHILDREN.

FROM JOY TO MOURNING

While Father and Mother Were at a Dance Four of Their Six Children Were Burned to Death.

A Chapter of Sorrows.

After their six children had gone to bed Mr. and Mrs. Martin Campbell locked the doors and went to a dance at a neighbor's. Half an hour after their departure, the house caught fire from an over-heated stove and four of the children perished. The two old ones managed to escape in their night clothes. The names of the little ones who met death at the fire were: Roy, aged 10; Robert, aged 8; Peter, aged 6, and John, aged 3. The parents are overcome with grief. The Campbell home was located on the Hauptman branch of the Michigan Central, eight miles from West Branch. The dance was at the home of Charles Powell. When the fire was discovered, the crowd at the dance ran to the burning home. Mr. Campbell attempted to rescue the children, but was driven from the house by the flames three times. His hands and face are badly burned.

Her nightclothes and hair burned off, surrounded by flames, Sadie Telford, aged 13, jumped from the second story of her home into her mother's arms at 1 o'clock in the morning. The child is fatally burned. Thomas Cornish, a boarder, with the Telfords, was burned to death. Mrs. Edith Telford, a widow, of Hopkins Station, awoke to find the house on fire. She dragged her daughter to the window, jumped and then stood ready to catch her child in her arms. Mrs. Telford's arms are badly burned. An ember is supposed to have caused the fire.

Hearing screams early in the morning, members of the family of Eugene Griner, two miles east of Hanover, rushed to the kitchen and found Mrs. Hannah Griner, mother of Mr. Griner, enveloped in flames. The fire was extinguished but the woman, who is 75 years old, had been fatally burned. Mrs. Griner had gone to the kitchen to start a fire and evidently used kerosene. She suffered great agony, but physicians say there is no hope for her. She is one of the oldest residents of that section.

Law Unconstitutional.

The state "good roads" law, in so far as it relates to the appointment of county road commissioners in Wayne county, was held unconstitutional by the supreme court.

Such an opinion was stated by the court in affirming the Wayne circuit court, which refused to mandamus the board of county auditors to allow certain claims under the act.

The chief objection to the act that was raised in the hearing was that it gave the cities of Detroit and Wyandotte pay five-sixths of the tax, the inhabitants of those cities have no voice in the action required to adopt or rescind the laws. The method of appointing commissioners was also attacked.

Want It Hushed Up.

Members of the legislature feel keenly the reflected disgrace that falls upon them collectively as a result of the death of Edith Presley, professor of the senate, following a criminal operation.

An upper peninsula member who was absent for two weeks, and has just returned, says he was astounded at the evident low spirits of the members when he came back.

Every member of the legislature is as much as muttering the words when approached for information regarding to solve the mystery of the girl's condition.

Frozen to Death in April.

While walking along an old logging road in the woods near Stonington, 25 miles south of Houghton, a homesteader and his wife came upon the body of an aged man partially covered with snow. It is the body of Edward Kenefice, of Houghton, who disappeared on April 11, when he left to visit his brother's camp near Stonington. Kenefice evidently was overcome by the cold and fell beside the road, where he froze to death. He was about 60 years old and unmarried.

A Hermit's Money.

Carl F. Kux, an aged Lansing hermit, was found dead on March 7, in his shanty. City Clerk Gray, who was appointed special administrator of his estate, has discovered that the old man had $3,990 invested in the Brooklyn Building & Loan association of Cleveland. With the interest due this amounts now to $4,200. Kux gave $2,000 to the Evangelical Missionary society of Cleveland. His only relative in this country is a sister living in Medina, O.

Charles A. Bailey says that instead of five saloons as at present next season will only see two in Port Huron township.

Fire destroyed the Forbes Tannery Co.'s buildings, which were one of South Haven's landmarks, having at one time been the chief industry. The loss is $15,000.

There is said to be a movement on foot among some of the Port Huron boys in Detroit to organize an old boys' association and come to Port Huron for the semi-centennial celebration this summer.

Lant K. Salsbury has arrived at a satisfactory settlement with the people of Hillsdale who purchased stock in a southern land company, and charged that the properties were not what had been represented.

THE PRESLEY CASE.

Representative Ward Must Attend the Inquest.

Such has been the improvement in the condition of Representative Chas. E. Ward that it appears probable he will be able to be seen and to speak of the things that have brought him into the case of Edith Presley early this week. He showed decided improvement Saturday.

Prosecuting Attorney Robinson, of Detroit, says that Ward will be summoned to attend the inquest as a witness, declaring that his presence is to be required, whether Ward is willing to come or not. The Detroit detectives intimate that at the inquest some facts will be brought to light that will create a mild surprise. It is certain that Detectives Downey and Seymour uncovered valuable facts during their Lansing investigation.

While Chief of Detectives McDonnell will not say that he knows who arranged Edith Presley's trip to Detroit, he declared that he was satisfied in his own mind as to the arrangements for that trip, and who directed the unfortunate young woman to Detroit and subsequently to Hope Sanitarium.

STATE NEWS BRIEFS.

Mrs. Hannah Cady, of Allegan, celebrated her 99th birthday last week. She was given a party by the G. A. R. circle.

Perle, 4-year-old son of Jacob Bensley, was drowned in a posthole at Hopkins, where he was visiting with his grandfather.

Ann Arbor's chief of police intends to make saloonmen obey the law, and notices have been served that closing time comes at 10 o'clock.

It took physicians several hours to save the life of Miss Louise Cassidy, of Flint, who swallowed an antiseptic tablet by mistake for a harmless headache pill.

While walking over his train during the night Victor Braslavsky, a brakeman on the Michigan Central road, fell from a box car near Gray's and was nearly killed.

A special election has been ordered in Otsego for May 29 to vote upon the question of bonding for $5,500 to build a pump house and flume for the village waterworks.

Charles Reeves, one of the best known negroes in the state, for many years junior of the governor's office at Lansing, died in the Soldiers' home. No one knew how old he was.

Flint teachers received a boost in their salary. A special meeting of the board of education decided that the growth of the city demanded a better paid corps of instructors in the schools.

A longing to see his sweetheart caused Jack Laurie, a fugitive from the police to come to Muskegon from Grand Rapids. He was caught and given 60 days in jail for assaulting a bartender.

An unknown man displayed a nerve in Flint when he walked into J. C. Ellis' bicycle store, picked out a fine wheel and rode off with it. The frame was found later dumped in the river.

Ionia board of supervisors have purchased a site for the new poorhouse, at a cost of $16,000. The county farm house recently burned. The old farm was six miles out and the new one is but three miles.

It is thought that an unknown man, killed by a Michigan Central train at Michigan City, was the burglar who robbed the home of Myron Crafts at Grass Lake. The name "Nolan" was written on his shirt band.

The sentence of five years in Ionia which was passed on Arthur Baldwin, the 14-year-old Port Huron burglar, is a great shock to his aged mother, who was in feeble health, and it is feared she may not survive.

A Lapeer banker, entertains his men friends at a den in the rear of the bank, with rat killing contests. The rats are supplied by the business men, and when several are set loose at once the banker's English fox terrier has a lively contest.

Mayor Lyons, of Lansing, contends that Sec. Shumway's idea of a general clean-up of towns and cities on a certain day is detrimental rather than beneficial to health as it stirs up all of the microbes at once. He will therefore refuse to issue a clean-up proclamation.

Arthur C. Smith, aged 19, a son of George Smith, a merchant at Wallace, was shot and killed Friday night. The gun from which the shot was fired was in the hands of his brother Gaylord, and was discharged accidentally. The two were together in the woods hunting May flowers.

While signaling an electric car, about one mile from Zilwaukee, Samuel Hooper, aged 45 years, a farmer, stood too close to the track and was struck, breaking his neck. He was put aboard the car and carried to Bay City, but died on the way to the Lutheran hospital. A widow and three children survive.

Crying as though her heart would break, a pretty 4-year-old miss could not be comforted during the half hour of the primary Sunday school lesson at a Lapeer church. Her teacher asked the little girl her trouble and between sobs said she lost a penny a man gave her on the way to church.

"You wanted to put it into the basket to help the missionary in foreign lands, didn't you, dear?" "No, ma'am, I was going to buy a half-day sucker with it," she said.

At Tekonsha, where a prohibition bill recently passed by the legislature is in force, the residents are said to have tired of the "dry" spell, and Rep. Henry will present a petition asking to repeal the bill. Out of 163 voters, 92 signed the petition, and the rest did not oppose it.

When the mail brought Albert Proculier, of Saginaw, his pocketbook which he had lost, and advertised for his faith in an honest humanity took a big leap upward, but when he had paid the postman 8 cents "postage due" and found that the $17, originally in the purse had been held out, his faith dropped away below zero.

"UNDESIRABLE CITIZENS"

TRIAL OF ALLEGED MURDERERS OF GOV. STEUBENBERG OF IDAHO.

MOST REMARKABLE CASE

These Are The Men Whom President Roosevelt Criticized, Bringing Out Hostile Demonstrations.

One From Detroit.

William D. Haywood, secretary and treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners, will, this week, be placed on trial charged with killing former Gov. Steunenberg, of Idaho. In all, four men are in custody, charged with the same offense; they are William D. Haywood, Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners; George A. Pettibone, a former member of the executive board of the same organization, and Harry Orchard, formerly of Detroit, Mich., a member of the federation. These are the men whom President Roosevelt called "undesirable citizens," which statement aroused the wrath of the Socialists and some labor organizations in various parts of the country, resulting in processions and mass meetings hostile to the nation's chief executive.

Orchard, it is alleged, made a confession in which he admitted that he killed Steunenberg, and it is alleged, implicated the other men under arrest, together with others, as accessories before the fact. Under the laws of the state of Idaho, while it is admitted that Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone were not in the state of Idaho at the time of the murder, they are charged with the actual crime, the contention under the statute being that they were on the spot in spirit; that they planned and therefore compassed the death of Steunenberg.

The killing is a pivotal point in the history of American jurisprudence, for the events develop backward and forward from his assassination.

Steunenberg was blown to death on the evening of Dec. 30, 1905. In the gathering gloom of a stormy evening he entered the side gate of his yard in Caldwell, where, retired from politics, he lived the simple life of a sheep farmer. A bomb of peculiar manufacture, with a fish line attached, was sunk in the snow beside the gate. As Steunenberg entered the opening of the gate sprang the trigger of the bomb. He was terribly mangled, being blown nearly 15 feet from the gate. He lived nearly an hour, was conscious and spoke, but his ruptured ear drums were dead to sound, and he died without knowing what had killed him. He asked his wife who had shot him, and the mystification of his eyes showed that he could not hear her reply.

No Third Trial.

A Massachusetts millionaire called on President Roosevelt after the regular cabinet meeting last week and during the chat a leading politician from a western state remarked to the president that his state surely would send a delegation in favor of Mr. Roosevelt to the next Republican national convention.

A member of the cabinet present expressed the confident opinion that his state would do the same thing. "I tell you, Mr. President," said the Massachusetts millionaire, "Massachusetts and other New England states are disposed to insist on your renomination."

"Nonsense," blurted out Mr. Roosevelt. "If I were to accept a renomination after what I have said on the subject history would damn me as a liar."

Boy Was Murdered.

Kidnaped, murdered and returned to the farm was undoubtedly the fate of little Horace Marvin, whose body was found Saturday. This was the child's fourth birthday and just two months from the time he was stolen.

The state of Delaware is aroused. Atty-Gen. Satterfield is determined that the case shall be sifted to the very bottom. When Attorney Pleasanton, a young man, was tramping across Bay Meadows farm shortly before now he saw a dark object resting upon the surface of a small pool. It was little Horace Marvin, his shoes sticking out of the little shallow pool, the knit Tam-o-Shanter pulled down over his face clear to the neck.

Pleasanton stood aghast for a moment and then decided to carry the little body to the boy's father.

Hate Americans.

A party of enlisted men from the American cruiser Tacoma clashed with the police at Santiago early Tuesday morning, and ten of the sailors were seriously injured, and one will probably die of a fractured skull. The most seriously injured was Henry Lee, a second class fireman. Joseph Chandler Fember, an electrician, and Leslie Baldwin Dustin, a seaman, received broken arms. The others injured were: Ensign A. T. Brister, Frank Leghorn, Elmer F. Andersen, Chas. B. Shackleton, Glen Cavender, Harry J. Sturdevant and James Kilne.

The cause of the fracas is not yet known, but it is thought to be the hatred of Cubans for American military forces.

Mrs. McClellan, widow of Gen. Geo. B. McClellan, was honored Friday by visit from the First Connecticut heavy artillery, which was known in war time as "Mrs. McClellan's own regiment." This visit marked the closing exercises of the reunion of the Army of the Potomac.

John L. Routt, aged 81, three times governor of Colorado, has been declared insane by a jury, and incapable of managing his estate. His daughter, Mrs. Emma Butler, was named as conservatrix. Routt, before his insanity six weeks ago, transferred most of his property to his wife.

STROMBOLI.

Terrific Volcano Eruption Was Described.

Some of the inhabitants of the island of Stromboli, who have fled from there and reached Messina, describe the eruption of the Stromboli volcano as terrific. The detonations were deafening. Red, burning stones, ashes and cinders were thrown up, and about a thousand feet over the top of the volcano, which is 3,040 feet above the level of the sea, an immense dark umbrella-shaped cloud formed.

The industrious population of the island, numbering about 2,000 persons, had with great efforts gradually cultivated the sides of the volcano almost up to the crater, chiefly as vineyards, but the eruption has entirely destroyed everything within a radius of 1,500 feet of the crater and has seriously damaged the rest of the island.

Off for Europe.

Having failed after repeated attempts to win Mrs. Charles J. Holman to the side of her son, Mrs. William Thaw has announced that she will depart shortly for Europe. Mrs. Holman has told her friends that she feels it her duty to testify as a witness for the prosecution in the next Thaw trial. This determination, she says, results from the attempts of Delphin Delmas to besmirch her name in a column of the case.

Mrs. William Thaw, while in Pittsburgh, made repeated efforts to see Mrs. Holman and set several days when she would receive her at the Thaw mansion. Attorney David T. Watson, of Alaskan boundary fame, who will be a part of the Thaw counsel at the next trial, was intrusted with the task of winning over Mrs. Holman, but she latterly rejected all proposals that she call upon Mrs. Thaw. She said she considered herself too good to mingle with any of the Thaw family.

Although it is said in Pittsburgh that Mrs. Thaw's efforts to secure promises of cash for her son were unsuccessful, there is a belief that the New York courts consented to admit her as a witness, and that she will have been forthcoming from some source in the city.

THE MARKETS.

Detroit.—Common grades of mixed cows were $3 to $3.50; butchers' cows good cows brought full steady prices with last week, $5.00 being the top paid. Steers and heifers, 1,000 lbs. and over, $5.25 to $5.50; 800 to 1,000 lbs., $4.75 to $5.00; 600 to 800 lbs., $4.25 to $4.50; 400 to 600 lbs., $3.75 to $4.00; 200 to 400 lbs., $3.25 to $3.50; calves, $2.50 to $3.00; pigs, $4.00 to $4.50; hogs, $4.00 to $4.50; chickens, $3.00 to $3.50; turkeys, $4.00 to $4.50; ducks, $3.00 to $3.50; geese, $3.00 to $3.50; eggs, $1.00 to $1

GOT THE WRONG BABIES.

Curious Mixup That Occurred Recently in French Hospital.

A curious mistake occurred yesterday at the hospital at Amiens, says a correspondent of the London Mail. Two young women had recently been attended there. One had given birth to a boy, and the other had given birth to a girl. Yesterday their babies were taken from them to be vaccinated. After the vaccination the babies, in their swaddling clothes, were returned to their mothers, who went away with them. Soon afterward one of the mothers returned to the hospital in tears. Her child was a boy, but on returning home she discovered that the nurse had handed her a girl. She insisted on her boy being returned to her. A scene of great confusion occurred, as nobody knew the address of the other mother. At last, toward midnight, the other mother arrived, greatly excited, complaining that she had been given a boy in mistake for her girl baby. The change was duly executed, and the two mothers went away happy.

Quarterly meeting will be held next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Presiding Elder Dawe will be present. He will conduct the evening services in the M. E. church at Unadilla the same day.

WOULD WORK EITHER WAY.

Practical Young Man Quieted the Fears of His Fiancee.

Not long ago a young man, most notably unblest with worldly goods, met and won a girl whose decided personal charms were in no wise lessened by the fact of her possessing fully enough to at least keep the wolf howling at a distance. "Do you know, George," she one day said softly, "I am almost sorry that I have any money—not of course, that I think you would love me the less, but—well—" "I am not, dearest," he replied, fondly stroking her soft, brown hair. "You know I'd love you if you had not a penny, but I'm glad you have. You see, I know that, should I die, you would be well provided for." "But suppose I should die?" she whispered. "Well, then I'd be well provided for, darling," he answered, for he is a practical young man.

Fine Health in Open Air.

The healthiest persons in the world are gypsies, and they live in the open air, but there is an erroneous idea that gypsies are people who defy the elements to destroy their health. On the contrary, they are very careful, indeed, of their health, even though living out of doors. They never go to bed with the draft blowing over them, yet protect them from rain and wind. While sometimes seemingly scantily attired, they always are warmly clothed beneath, wearing warm underclothing. The consumptives who go to places for their health are now living exactly as the gypsies, and because of the disease being considered contagious, they must live in tents. It is here that the efficacy of pure air is being demonstrated, for it often effects a cure if the patient is not too weak when the treatment begins.

Value of the Thumb.

"Solomon says thumbs up," because the thumb is said to be worth fully one-third the entire value of the hand. The different fingers are far from having all the same value before the eyes of the law. Much of the importance among them is the thumb, for without it the hand no longer is a pincer but merely a claw. The French court allows in damages 15 to 35 per cent. value for the right and ten to 15 per cent. for the left thumb. The Austrian schedule gives from 15 per cent. for the left to 35 per cent. for the right. In Germany 30 to 25 per cent., and even as high as 33.3 per cent., has been awarded. The percentage is based on 100 as the total value of the hand, industriously speaking, before the accident.

Girls in Odd Occupations.

Miss Louise Chestnut makes her living by raising and training native song birds near the popular winter resort of Aiken, S. C. Beagle raising is the profitable occupation of another young lady, a Miss Asch, also near Aiken.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL EVENTS:

The annual sale of tax lands was held at the county treasurer's office Tuesday morning, nearly 100 descriptions being offered. The sale was a success.

The Detroit, Jackson & Chicago electric company have made a contract with the Commonwealth Power Co. to furnish power for operating the electric line between Jackson and Ann Arbor. When the Chelsea and Grass Lake transformer stations are completed, it is reported that the power houses at Lima, Francisco and Michigan Center will be closed.

All teachers intending to take the June or August examinations, who have not received a copy of the special forms relating to teachers' examinations, are requested to notify the county school commissioner, either by phone, calling at the office or by letter. If any teacher has not received a copy of the Normal summer school catalogue, they are also requested to notify the office.

A new time recording clock is being installed for the Glazier Stove Co. Keys are not used as in the old system, but in their place cards are used. There are two racks on each side of the clock, and has numbers corresponding to the cards that are placed behind them. The cards are placed in a slot in the clock and a lever raised, and taken out with the time marked on and placed in the other rack.

Mayor Henderson, of Ann Arbor, Wednesday appointed George W. Weeks, Jr., to a position on the police force and assigned him to duty as police sergeant in charge of police headquarters. This appointment is to fill one of the two places provided for under the action of the city council last Monday evening authorizing two additional men for the police force. Mr. Weeks is the husband of a Chelsea girl, Zoe, the daughter of Geo. A. BeGole.

Freed & Perrine's pony and trained animal show will give two performances in Chelsea next Saturday afternoon and evening on the Beasley lots on Buchanan street. The show will consist of Maud, the trick mule, trained ponies and dogs, and a number of acts by good actors, who are accustomed to the circus ring. The press in the towns where the company gave exhibitions last year speak very highly of the show and all pronounce it a high class company. The prices are 10 and 20 cents.

The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Agricultural college is to be celebrated in a fitting manner, May 29th, 30th and 31st this year. The American Association of Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations will meet at the college at that time, as will also several other national organizations, which assures a large attendance of distinguished visitors. President Roosevelt is expected to address the meeting on May 31st. All alumni, former students and friends of the institution are invited to join in the celebration.

Theatre goers are often asked the question, how did you like the show? The answer is, oh, I liked the show pretty well, but the waits were something awful. This very unpleasant feature is entirely eliminated in the performance given by the Hunt Stock Co., appearing at the opera house for a week's engagement, starting Monday, May 13. High class vaudeville is introduced between each act, making a double continuous show. There is said to be no dull moments but something doing all the time. The opening play, "The Newsboy, of New York" is a drama of the pleasing kind, overflowing with the best of comedy and pathos sublime. Tears and laughter intermingled in a most pleasing manner. The prices are 10, 20 and 30 cents. Reserved seats on sale at the Bank Drug Store.

Hope.

"Woman is naturally more hopeful than man," began the moralist. "Yes," interrupted the plain man. "There's my wife, for instance; every time she has had occasion to buy fish since we started housekeeping she has asked her dealer if they were fresh, hoping, I suppose, that some day he'll say 'no.'"

Each to His Trade.

"I'm more useful than you are," boasted the collic. "Yes?" replied the buldog. "You don't say?" "Yes. You should see me go for the sheep when they start to run away." "Well, just wait until some tramps come along here and when they start to run away watch me go for the calves."

Average Life of Cats.

Twelve years is about the average length of a cat's life. A cat that lives 15 or 18 years is about as rare as a human being who has lived a century. The editor of the Cat Journal has, however, a record of one cat that lived 20 years.

A Failure.

"I hate him! He tried to kiss me!" "But I tried to kiss you and you do not hate me?" "I know, but you succeeded."

Before and After.

"There is a great difference between the actions of a woman before and after marriage," remarked the sad-eyed man with the absent hair. "What's the answer?" queried the youth who was on the verge of graduating from a correspondence school. "Give a woman a five-dollar bunch of flowers before marriage," explained the party of the sad part, "and she will say: 'Oh, thank you, George! But, really, I cannot allow you to spend so much money on me.' After marriage when George hands her seven-eighths of his weekly salary she looks at it contemptuously and says: 'Is that all I get?'"

Future Looked Dim.

Nelson, a child of five, was becoming acquainted with his Uncle Will. They were considering questions of earthly life, with its manifold perplexities and rules of conduct, and the life and hope in the hereafter. In an attempt to make the idea perfectly clear to the boy the uncle said: "Now, you know that your grandmother is dead and has gone to Heaven." After a minute or two of deep thought Nelson looked up into his uncle's face and said: "We'll never see her again, will we, Uncle Will?"

Good at Figures.

A lawyer in a seaport town advertised for an office boy. A lad applied for the situation who had hitherto been employed in the local fish market. The boy, on being asked if he was a good writer, answered in the affirmative. "And can you do mental arithmetic?" "I think so, sir." "Well, what would 36 pounds of salmon at one-half-cent a pound be?" "Bad, sir," was the quick reply.

Women Canada Wants.

Canada wants and welcomes the woman of practical ability. The idle woman, the mammy-pammy woman, the woman who lives and breathes and has her being in "family," and the woman who is too proud to work might just as well stay at home. Gentlemen.

Economical in Headgear.

A man ought to be economical! You see that hat? I've had it two years and it looks all right still. I've only had it reblocked a couple of times by a hatter and once I exchanged it in a restaurant, for one that was entirely new!—Fillegende Blaetter.

Philanthropy's Aim.

Modern philanthropy is more and more seeking the causes that underlie the effect, poverty. It is becoming preventive without ceasing to be palliative.—The Outlook.

Ethics of Fasting.

Fasting from luxury and excess is a procedure absolutely in harmony with a vigorous, healthy and moral condition. The conduct indicated, therefore, in the Lenten fast of the church is calculated to lead the erring into the paths of physiological righteousness.—Lancet.

Hint for Parents.

Many a child grows up a hard, unimpressible man or woman, simply from the uncheered silence in which the first ten years of life were passed. Very few fathers and mothers, even those who are fluent, perhaps in society, habitually talk with their children.

Accuracy.

The food inspector's wife was looking over her husband's notebook. "George," she said, "how do you pronounce the last syllable of this word, 'butterine?'" "The last syllable," the inspector answered, "is always silent."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Does Your Heart Beat

Yes, 100,000 times each day. Does it send out good blood or bad blood? You know, for good blood is good health; bad blood, bad health. And you know precisely what to take for bad blood—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Doctors have endorsed it for 60 years.

One frequent cause of bad blood is a sluggish liver. This produces constipation. Potent substances are then absorbed into the blood, instead of being removed from the body daily as nature intended. Keep the bowels open with Ayer's Pills, liver pills. All vegetable.

B & B STEEL RANGES

UNEXCELLED IN QUALITY. HANDSOME IN APPEARANCE.

Originality and Striking Beauty

Understand, please, that our Novo Steel Range is not the old-fashioned, ordinary kind; it is brand new in more ways than one. First of all, the design is different. Our pattern stands out among all other ranges, distinctive in appearance and strikingly handsome. By means of heavy steel top and bottom mouldings, with corner pieces in harmony, we secure an effect of graceful form and a substantial beauty of line and curve which can only be compared in furniture with a heavy, plain, mahogany cabinet. The ornamental designs on fire box doors, oven doors, etc., are just as original and characteristic; something absolutely new in steel range design and bound to please a lady's taste for beauty.

Scientific Heat Insulation

The B & B excels all other steel ranges in the care used to save ALL THE HEAT for baking. The flue which carries the heat around the oven is lined on the outside with a thick wall of Asbestos. This keeps the heat IN THE FLUE and AROUND THE OVEN instead of allowing it to escape into the room. Other range makers use Asbestos simply where it will be in plain sight and ordinarily noticed. We use it there and also in the out of the way corners where it is just as important.

You will find our prices most favorable in comparison with other leading patterns of corresponding weight and quality.

Decoration that is Really Decorative

The decorative effect is secured through the use of a conventional floral design displayed in simple panels. This feature of the design has been handled moderately and the result is so successful that there is no suggestion of fussiness nor confusion to the eye. As to the design itself, it may be compared to the conventional figures which are so much employed by the skilled craftsman in copper, brass and silver. Designers in wall decorations and fabrics are working along exactly similar lines, so that it is not overstating the case to say that our designers have made use of the most characteristic as well as the most attractive developments of practical household art in many years.

Doors and Drafts Air Tight

All fitting points on doors and drafts are carefully ground by experienced stove mounters until an absolutely tight joint is secured. This guarantees many things for the purchaser of the stove—a strong draft THROUGH THE FIRE instead of OVER IT, when you want a hot fire; complete economy of fuel when you check the fire for the night and wish to shut out all air.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS.

Minnie & Tubbs,
Hardware and Plumbing.

Eaton Rapids, Michigan, April 12th, 1907.

Mr. F. P. Glazier, Chelsea, Mich.

Dear Sir:

Dr. and Mrs. Bradley were in our store today and saw your new Novo Steel Range on the floor and immediately fell in love with it, Mrs. Bradley insisting that the Doctor order one before leaving the store. Ship us 1 only—No. 8-18 square, with high closest but no reservoir, fitted with a water front. I write this letter to you personally because you are acquainted with the Doctor and know he is quite particular and thought perhaps you would see that he gets one of your best stoves.

We are very much pleased with the looks of your new range and expect to work up a good trade on it here.

Yours very truly,

Minnie & Tubbs,
Per H. C. Minnie.

A. Munson & Son,
Stoves and House Furnishing Goods.

Medina, Ohio, April 24th, 1907.

Glazier Stove Co,

Dear Sirs:

Allow us to congratulate you on your product, as the No. 9-20 "Novo Range," is the finest we have ever seen for the money.

How long would it be before you could ship us another 9-20 Novo, in case we should want it, as there is only one objection to our having a sample Novo on our floor—it renders the stock we have on hand unattractive and unsalable—because your range takes the shine off of anything we have on hand for the same price.

Respectfully yours,

A. Munson & Son.

FABLE OF THE PANSY.

Entire Family May Be Traced in Flower's Gay Petals.

Lovers of this pretty flower may be interested in the fable concerning it. The blossom has five petals and five sepals. In most pansies, especially of the earlier and less highly developed varieties, two of the petals are plain in color and three are gay. The two plain petals have a single sepal each, and the third, which is the largest of all, has two sepals. The fable is that the pansy represents a family, consisting of husband, wife and four daughters, two of the latter being step-children of the wife. The plain petals are the step-children, with only one chair; the two small gay petals are the daughters, with a chair each, and the large gay petal is the wife, with two chairs. To find the father one must strip away the petals until the stamens and pistils are bare. They have a fanciful resemblance to an old man with a flannel wrap round his neck, his shoulders upraised and his feet in a bathtub. In France the pansy is universally called the step-mother.

WORKED HIS OWN REDEMPTION.

Future Held Greatness for Young Man of Character.

A New York judge gave his son a thousand dollars, telling him to go to college and graduate. The son returned at the end of freshman year without a dollar and with several ugly habits. At the close of the vacation the judge told his son that he had done all he could for him. If he had wasted the money that was to have taken him through college, he might as well leave home and make his own way in the world. It was a rude awakening for the young man, but he knew that his father was right. And so strong was the good influence of his upright father that he did leave home to go to work in downright earnest. He went back to college, made his way through, graduated at the head of his class, studied law, became governor of the state of New York, entered the cabinet of the president of the United States and made a record for himself. It was William H. Seward.

Where He Saw a Crowd.

Uncle Constantine, from Fishkill Landing, was in town recently, for the first time in 30 years, according to the New York Times. His relatives were industrious in showing him the sights, but it was extremely difficult to get him to express surprise at anything. He even made disparaging comments, now and then, upon what he saw, and drew comparisons favorable to his own town. One afternoon they attended a crowded performance at the circus. "Uncle Constantine," asked his niece, "did you ever see such a number of people gathered together before?" "Well," said the old man slowly, as his eye ran critically over the thousands that filled the garden, "I don't know as I ever did in a buildin', but I have to a bush-meetin'!"

Easily Explained.

Her name was Marjorie and she was the sweetest child in the world, with all a child's wonderful thirst for the most out-of-the-way information. She had asked her mother to explain to her what wireless telegraphy was. Marjorie had often heard her father talking of wireless telegraphy, and she wanted to know all about it. So her mother tried to make it clear and explained how there were two long sticks standing high up in the air a very long way from each other, and how a message was sent from one stick and— "Oh, I know," broke in Marjorie, "then God hears and tells the other people."

In the Wrong Room.

The lady missionary to India sat up in bed, with a spiteful jerk. "You are a man-eater?" she said, looking the tiger severely in the face. "I am," replied the beast, licking his chops with as horrid unction as he could summon. "Well, I declare to goodness!" cried the lady missionary. "Whatever led you to suppose there was a man here? Scat!" "But, madam—" "Not a word, girl!" Of course, the tiger had meant no disrespect, but inasmuch as the lady missionary would listen to nothing, and covered up her head withal, it was only left to him to slink away.—Puck.

Muskrat Grounds Rented.

In parts of the south the muskrat skin trade is so important that the marshes on which they have their burrows are rented out for the shoot. The sport is usually best at night, when the animals are out in search of food. It sometimes occurs that an unusually high tide drives them from their homes, when they are slaughtered in thousands. The fur hunters only kill them in the winter and early spring, when their coats are thick and in prime condition. The flesh is not so good in winter as in warmer weather, as they get thin during the cold weather.

The American Parent.

Jones, who is a natural handy man, does all manner of things for his children that they ought to do for themselves. He confesses it as a fault, and says it is really laziness in him, because it is easier for him to do house hold chores than it is to follow up the children and train them to do them. "They will miss me a good deal when I go," says Jones. "I can see them now, sitting around with tearful eyes, and saying: 'After all, we never had a man that did the chores like father.'—Life.

Sheep Foretell Storm Coming.

Some day you may walk into a field and see a flock of sheep in a corner with their backs turned to the north-west. If you wait long enough you will see a wind blow up from that direction. At other times the sheep run and bound over the fields, rearing on their hind feet as if they were fighting imaginary foes. This indicates a disturbance of the atmosphere and the approach of a brisk storm.

Axminster Carpet Used 150 Years.

A fine old Axminster carpet is at present in the carpet factory at Wilton, England, where it is being repaired after having been in use for fully 150 years. It was purchased by the present owner's great-grandfather. Carpets had been made at Wilton for 350 years, but the trade languished and finally stopped. No wonder, when a carpet lasted 150 years.

Men and Dead Leaves.

You know the fine picture in Homer of the dead leaves which fall to make a place for the young buds. It is as true of men as of trees; we have our time and pass away. Behind our vanished youth germinates the youth of others. Our children's destiny ought not to be dulled by what there has been in ours.—Revue des Deux Mondes.

Most Lasting Monument.

If we work upon marble, it will perish; if we work on brass, time will efface it; if we rear temples, they will crumble to dust. But if we work on men's minds, if we impress on them high principles, noble aims and love for their fellow-men, we engrave on those tablets something no time can ever efface.—Chesterfield.

Dainty Parisian Bread.

The gluten bread baked in Paris is the daintiest and lightest thing in bread stuffs. It is made of pure gluten, which cannot be kneaded, but must be mixed with water and whipped like the white of an egg before being baked. This Parisian gluten bread looks like baked lace. Each loaf weighs one ounce and costs 15 cents.

Life's First Duty.

Life is a duty which we must fulfill. We are in the world, doubtless, in order to be happy; but the well-disposed find their highest happiness in the performance of their duties. Man is placed in the world to gain experience, and to use it for his own inward benefit.—J. H. Marshall.

A Good Record.

Before the British and Foreign Bible society was 13 years old it had issued nearly 2,000,000 copies of Bibles, Testaments and portions, in 18 tongues, ranging from Manx and Gaelic to Eskimo, Syriac and Ethiopic.—The Sunday Strand.

Hunger Tamed Wild Creatures.

Wild deer and chamois have been entering the villages in some parts of Switzerland in a starving state in search of hay. The peasants have walked up to the famished deer and chamois, lifted them into sledges and taken them home.

Health Reformers Die Young.

Almost without exception, remarks Health Culture plaintively, the health reformers have died early, probably because most of them have been extremists, and extremism is always fatal both to physical and to mental health.

Earliest Reference to Tobacco.

Tuesday, November 6 (1492).—They met many people on the road going home, men and women, with a half-burnt weed in their hands, being the herbs they are accustomed to smoke.—Journal of Columbus' First Voyage.

Good Business in Frogskins.

Japanese do a lucrative trade in the exportation of frogskins for purses. The works controlled by a Tokyo merchant have exported as many as 130,000 skins in less than a year.

Honest in Face of Temptation.

Little Ethel had just returned from church and whispered to her mother in great confidence: "Deacon Brewster passed the money, but I didn't take any."

Haakon and Hawkins Allied.

The Christian name of Norway's king, Haakon, comes from the same root and is pronounced the same as the English names, Hawkin or Hawkins.

A cottonwood tree recently cut in Mississippi contained 4,800 feet of lumber.

Beneficent Labor.

Labor bids us of three great evils—tiredness, vice and poverty.—French proverb.

NOT AFRAID FOR HERSELF.

Child's Only Thought Was of Damage She Might Do Train.

One day last winter a Vermont girl named Rosa Hines, 14 years old and a farmer's daughter, drew her sled to the crest of a hill half a mile long and then took a slide. Just beyond the foot of the hill are railroad tracks, and as her sled got under motion she saw a train coming. She couldn't stop, and she saw that there must be an accident, so she waved her hood and shouted: "Get out of my way! Get out of my way, or you'll be run over!" The engineer saw the girl waving her hood, even if he didn't hear her words, and he brought a long train of freight cars to a sudden stop just in time to let her shoot by the engine. This is probably the first time in the history of railroading when a girl on a sled was given the right of way over a train. When she was afterwards scolded by her father she naively replied: "Oh, I wasn't scared for myself. I was afraid of bunting the train off the track."

DIDN'T THINK HELP NEEDED.

Simple Fisherman Had Heard of the Wonders of Science.

H. G. Wells, the novelist, spoke at a Boston club about the wonders of modern invention. "So thick and fast," he said, "these new inventions come, life grows rather confusing for plain and simple folk. There was an old fisherman rowing in his boat one day when an automobile canoe sprang a leak near him and immediately sank. To the indignation of the canoe's occupants, the old man paid no heed to them, but rowed calmly on his way, puffing an old clay pipe. However, the wrecked canoeists managed to swim to him, and as they clambered into his boat one spluttered angrily: 'Confound you, why didn't you lend us a hand? Didn't you see we were sinking?' The old man took his pipe out of his mouth and stared at them in astonishment. 'Blest if I didn't think ye wuz one o' them new-fangled submarines,' he said."

Were Superstitious, Too.

A woman who takes her superstitions seriously started to enter a big department store one morning last week when she noticed a porter on a tall stepladder that stretched directly across the doorway, says the New York Press. In spite of the fact that there were five women behind her eager to pass into the shop she came to a sudden halt, looked up at the ladder and cried out, "Oh, I'll never walk under that," saying which she turned and strode away. Before she had gone far her sense of humor rose superior to her fear of ladders, and she looked to see if her remark had had any effect on those who had been within sound of her voice. Walking directly behind her were the five women who had heard her exclamation.

Delivered the Goods.

The late Senator M. S. Quay, of Pennsylvania, kept all the letters his constituents wrote to him asking for favors, says the Saturday Evening Post. He had stacks of them when his last great fight for the senate came along. Then he sorted out the letters, eliminating those from people who were dead and on the back of each letter wrote: "Dear John or Bill: Do you remember when you wrote me this letter and do you remember that I did what you asked? I want your help now in my fight for the senate. Can I have it?" The politicians in Pennsylvania say those letters mailed to the original senders with Quay's request on the backs of them, had as much as any one thing to do with Quay's winning his fight.

Officer's Natural Anxiety.

Sir Douglass Straight told this tale at a recent dinner of the Journeymen Hairdressers' Trade society in London: When a young barber he went into a barber's shop to be shaved and was a little startled to see the woman cashier behind the counter staring at him from time to time through the glass door. When he got outside the shop a policeman said: "I am very glad to find you have come out. The officer explained that he had been anxious because the barber had just come out of a lunatic asylum the previous week and his relatives were wondering whether they would have to send him back again."

First Requisite for Success.

At the annual convention of salesmen of a large corporation prizes were to be awarded to those who submitted the best reply to the query: "What are you going to do to increase your sales for the ensuing year?" After numerous comments and remarks had been made, a telegram was received from the one absent salesman whose attendance had been unavoidably prevented by pressure of business. On being read to the assembly he was unanimously voted first prize. The telegram read: "Shall hustle like the dickens."

An Ambassador's Butler.

The practice of tipping is not entirely bad; the recipients at least derive some benefit. A former butler of Mr. Choate, American ambassador to England before Mr. Reid, has built a large hotel on the coast on the tips he received from visitors to the American embassy, whose servants make more money than those attached to other embassies, chiefly because of the number of wealthy Americans who visit the ambassador and scatter tips with traditional generosity.

First Autograph Album.

The first autograph album appeared in Germany in that century; it was called the "Album Amicorum," and was an octavo book, bound lengthwise. Among the Egerton manuscripts in the British museum there is such an album dated 1554. The oldest obtainable letters date back about 500 years, and the oldest documents are dated about 1,000 years ago.

Trying It On the Doctor.

There is a humorous touch about the misfortunes of a worker among cholera victims in the Punjab. One of the staff made himself ill by drinking an uncomfortable amount of cholera mixture, as some parents allowed him to administer a dose only on condition that he himself first led the way to show his belief in it.—Madras Weekly Mail.

Astonished the Grocer.

Harry was sent to the grocery store for five pounds of pulverized sugar. In a childish manner, he kept the name fresh in his mind by repeating it over and over all the way to the store. On reaching the store he went to the clerk and said: "My mamma says to please send up five pounds of paralyzed sugar."

Gentleman of the Old School.

The earl of Buchan was to the end of his life, although eccentric, a great social favorite and "a terrible flirt." On leaving a room he would take leave of the prettiest young lady with old-fashioned courtesy, and say, "Good-by, my dear; and pray remember that Margaret, countess of Buchan, is not immortal."

The Horse He Wanted.

A Scotch farmer bought a horse. Going home he thought a drink would refresh it, so he got a pail of water, but the animal would not take it. On reaching home he gave it a feed of corn, but it would not touch that either. "Ye're the vera horse for me if ye only work!" the farmer was heard to say.

Odoriferous London.

Every great city is characterized by certain odors of its own. The smell of London suggests hansom cabs, smoke, asphalt, lucifer matches, church hassoos and Virginia pipe tobacco, animated by a whiff of the sea and punctuated by coal tar.—London Academy.

Fish Welcome Coming of Storm.

The weather has a noticeable effect on fish of all kinds. Fishermen will tell you that trout become electrified with nergy before a storm. As if in joyful anticipation of a feast, sharks disport playfully about ships before a hurricane rises.

New Variety of Cotton.

An Indian government report describes the results of experiments with Caravonica cotton, a tree variety in Queensland, as tending to prove that it will succeed as a field crop, so much so that the experiments will be considerably extended.

Best Cure For Sleeplessness.

Brain workers are particularly liable to sleeplessness. Their occupation brings overstrain of the nervous system and when they go to bed they toss upon restless pillows. The cure is ozone, and not drugs.

Proper Flower Cultivation.

If you wish to combine plants be very sure that there is perfect harmony of habits, as well as color, and aim at securing such a contrast as will bring out and heighten the peculiarities of each.

Sayings of Childhood.

MAKE FAST TIME ON SKIES.

Remarkable Performance at Annual Norwegian Contest.

As a test of skill, strength and endurance, it would be difficult to beat the long distance ski races in Norway and Sweden. Of these contests the most severe is undoubtedly the 12-mile race over the mountains which opens the great annual "Snow Derby" at Holmenkollen, about four miles from Christiania. In this race, which begins with a steep ascent of 400 to 500 feet, the ski-lover has to jump cliffs and ravines, to hop over fallen tree trunks, and overcome every kind of obstacle that man can devise; to run down steep declivities, and to make his devious way through mountain forests, until he reaches the goal, triumphant, but utterly exhausted. Considering the arduous nature of these contests, some of the performances are remarkable. Thus, the winner of a recent international speed competition held at Stockholm covered the course of 40 miles at an average speed of eight and one-half miles an hour.

Not to Be Bossed.

An Alabama politician, who was formerly a magistrate in the town of Montgomery, tells of a marriage ceremony he once performed for a negro couple.

At the proper point the magistrate put the usual question: "Will you take this man to be your lawful husband; love, honor and obey him?"

"Look heah, jedge!" suddenly exclaimed the woman, "Ise promised to wash an' iron for dis nigger, but I will be dermed if Ise goin' to let him boss me!"

Monkey Showed Shrewdness.

An example of almost human intelligence was shown by a monkey at the Paris zoo. As he swung himself forward to a locker beyond his reach he noticed that the cord to which he clung had a knot in it. So he stopped, unknotted the knot, reached the locker and from a bunch of keys given him by his keeper finally selected the proper one and opened the door.

Napoleon Born to Be Waited On.

Napoleon had himself dressed by his attendants from head to foot. He put his hand to nothing, but let himself be dressed like an infant, his mind filled with business during the entire performance. The emperor was born, so to speak, to be waited on. When only a general he had as many as three valets.—Constant.

Better Than Billboards.

Billboards, as they are known in the United States are absolutely prohibited in Berlin, but in place of such oftentimes unsightly objects, public advertising is confined to a system of neat pillars or columns on the edge of the sidewalk at the principal street corners or intersections.

Where Her Father Was.

The daughter of the house had just returned from boarding school. Her finishing branches had made her a little sensitive. "Is your father out in the woodshed splitting wood?" the caller asked her. "No," replied the haughty girl, "papa is at the town meeting splitting infinitives."

Ordinance No. 39.

An ordinance to amend Section 3 of an ordinance passed April 22, 1896, and approved April 22, 1906, of the Village of Chelsea, Michigan, entitled "An ordinance relative to licensing Auctioneers, to regulate sales of property, and to require auctioneers and dealers to take out license for engaging in business within the village of Chelsea." Shall be and is amended to read as follows: "Section 3. Every Auctioneer, or person going about from place to place, or who makes use of any street or open place in said village for selling or offering for sale goods, wares, or chattels, or any species of property, shall pay a license therefor, per year or $50 for six months, or per month, as follows: That is to say, if he travels in foot, $3.00 per day; if on horse, $5.00 for every vehicle or horse. Any person selling or offering for sale any property from any street or open place, shall pay the same license per day; and in granting license, the Village President shall designate where such wagon, cart, stand or show case shall be located, and all have power to change and locate the same from time to time at his discretion." "Provided, this section shall not apply to persons selling meat, poultry, dairy, farm and garden produce, their own raising and production, bakers or merchants delivering goods to their customers." "Section 2. This ordinance shall take effect and be in full force ten days after its legal publication." "Accepted and approved this 14th day of May, A. D. 1907."

F. P. GLAZIER, President.

W. H. HESSELSCHWEIDT, Clerk.

Ordinance No. 38.

An ordinance to limit the number of places in the Village of Chelsea, Michigan, where one sleighing chair are sold as a beverage, and to provide the manner in which application for license shall be made, and the amount of the license fee.

Section 1. Before entering upon the business of engaging in the sale of liquors, fermented or unfermented, as a beverage, the person desiring to engage in such business shall make application in writing to the board of trustees of said village, specifying the location of the building in which he intends to keep a saloon or bar. Such application shall be accompanied by a recommendation signed by at least ten reputable persons of the village, who are well known to them and have a good reputation. If, in the opinion of the trustees, such applicant shall be a person of good moral character, it shall refuse to grant the application for license.

Section 2. The number of places said Village of Chelsea, where intoxicating liquors are sold as a beverage shall be limited to four, and no greater number shall be licensed within said village until the population thereof shall exceed three thousand, as shown by the last national census, or by special census as ordered and taken by the Village of Chelsea.

What Women Should Know

BEAUTIFUL SPRING AND SUMMER HATS

ABOUT THE NEW HATS

Many of the new hats may truly be said to be rather more remarkable than beautiful, but there are, nevertheless, certain really charming features to be noticed, and there is sufficient variety offered to give promise of becoming and satisfactory results if buyers will be a bit chary and not be led astray.

What is more novel too often poses for what is desirable, and the hats this season are of the sort to mean the need for extra caution if anything like satisfactory results are to be obtained. That there will be a profusion of flowers seems an established fact. There are also a great many sorts of straw shown. There is the leghorn and there is the Porto Rican straw; there is the milan and the English straws, and these are still all the thinner horsehairs, neapolitan, erin and the like.

These straws are to be noted in infinite variety of shape, while in addition to all these there are a great many rough straws known by no particular name, in varying colors, although the browns and the old apricot shades predominate. Combinations of two colored straws, too, are seen and with very satisfactory results; but these are more often found on the simpler models, and it is to be noted that the hat for the tailored costume is by far the most satisfactory that has yet appeared. The more dressy models are beautiful in a few instances, but bizarre and extraordinary in many.

Removing Lampblack.

Lampblack is sometimes a very hard thing to remove. The best results have been obtained with kerosene and a thorough rubbing of soap and warm water.

An Iron Bedstead.

A sturdy iron bedstead may be improved in appearance, as well as cleaned, by rubbing with a cloth dipped in paraffin. It will keep off oil by rubbing again with a clean cloth or leather.

Useful to Know.

Orange marmalade makes a very tasty accompaniment for boiled ham.

Put a pound of prunes with hot roast beef and the fine flavor imparted to the meat.

Add a teaspoonful of curry powder to the meat sauce in which macaroni is baked.

Good macaroni is of a yellowish tint, does not break readily in cooking and swells to three times its bulk.

If there is an objection to the odor of a

Keeping Bananas.

Bananas should not be put into a refrigerator—in fact, they should never be allowed to get colder than 40 degrees. A chill turns bananas black, prevents them ever ripening properly and renders them unfit for use.

Stains On Enameled Ware.

Stains on enameled ware can be removed thus: Fill the pan or bowl with water and add to it a piece of potash. Let this remain standing for a little while, then pour the water away, and wash the vessel, when the stains will disappear.

Cane Seats.

An occasional scrubbing with soap and hot water is very beneficial to the cane seats of chairs. Turn the chairs upside down, and make the cane thoroughly wet. Then dry in the open air. The effect will not merely be to clean the cane, but to shrink it, and, provided the cane be not broken, the seat will, when dry, be as firm as when new.

PRACTICE GOOD TABLE MANNERS

Never take your seat until the lady of the house is seated.

Never lounge on the table with your elbows, nor tip backward in your chair.

Never play with your knives, forks or spoons, but cultivate repose at the table. It is an aid to digestion.

Never tuck your napkin into your waist, or use it as a pocket.

Never lay down the napkin, but fold it and lay across the knees without a flourish. After the meal, at a restaurant or formal dinner, lay it folded at your place. If you are a time guest in the household and will remain another meal, you may fold the napkin in its original shape.

Never put the end of a spoon into your mouth, slip everything from the back of the spoon and do this noiselessly.

Never put your knife in your mouth, nor use a spoon when a fork will serve. Forks are now used for eating ice cream, and salad is folded with the side of a fork, never with the knife. Even small vegetables like peas are eaten with a fork.

Never hold your knife and fork in the air when your host is serving you. Lay them on one side of the plate when you send it to the host by servant or your neighbor at table.

Never leave your spoon in coffee or tea cup. Lay it on the saucer.

Never cool food by blowing upon it. Wait until it becomes cool enough to eat.

Never take a second helping at a large and formal dinner. You will indicate undue haste.

Remember that—

Large pieces of bread or cracker are broken into smaller pieces, before being buttered and carried to the mouth.

Cake may be broken and eaten like bread or crackers or it may be eaten with a fork.

Celery, olives, radishes, salted nuts, bonbons, preserved ginger and other trifles are eaten from the finger, but berries, melons and grapefruit must be eaten with a spoon.

Orange juice may be pressed out with a spoon, peaches, apples and pears are peeled, quartered and eaten in small pieces and then picked.

the lips. Prune seeds are best pressed out with the spoon before the fruit is eaten and then laid to one side on the plate.

The tender asparagus tips must be cut off with a fork and the remainder of the stalk goes to waste.

A novel use of leather is in the form of a hatpin. It is rather large, cone-shaped, embossed and stained in a handsome design representing leaves and fruit or flowers, very rich but yet subdued in color. Though it looks massive it is hollow and very light weight, and it gleams like a bit of enamel on the spring hat.

FOR IVORY HANDLES.

Ivory-handled knives may be cleaned in this way: Coat the steel with wax or paraffin, and immerse the handles in a solution of chloride of lime and water, in the proportion of one part of lime to four parts of water.

Leave the knives in this bath for a day, then wash well with warm water and wipe dry. Remove the wax if the bone is perfectly white and free from stains.

Another way is to dip the handles in a saturated solution of alum and water for from one to three hours, then wash and wipe dry. This latter method is far preferable unless the handles are very much darkened and discolored. Polish the blades with putty powder, using a buffer wet with alcohol. This will not stain the ivory.

Nothing ruins the set more quickly, which is soon evidenced by the creases which creep here, there and everywhere.

It's natural enough, for the outside must necessarily be made a little longer and looser than the lining, and reversing the usual order of hanging is bound to react in some unpleasant way.

If the gown is a delicate color, make a big bag of white muslin to slip it in while hanging up, or pin a white cloth—big enough to cover it—over it, taking care, in either case, to have the covering hang from the hook or from the coat hanger, instead of dragging upon the dress itself.

FASHION'S LATEST

Talks for the Fashionable Woman.

The size of the newest bag, except where a large receptacle is specially required, is less exaggerated, and leather strap handles have quite taken the place of chains. Many have the sides carried up in detached flaps, hiding the frame and clasp.

Wedgehead buttons are the latest fancy of fashionable women. The delicately sculptured, classical, white porcelain figures on the rich blue ground are sometimes set in narrow rims of copper, about which in turn is a wider rim of chiseled mother-of-pearl. Four such buttons would glorify a gown.

Favorite colors for veils are purple, brick red, mole and cygne and a soft gray that is very becoming with the millinery to match. Ringed net is the fabric most in demand.

In the trimming of the veils' lower edge and sides the latest novelty is thick silk fringe about an inch and a half in depth, not knotted, but left hanging in a mass of very fine fronds.

Something new in the way of jeweled ornaments is made so that it may be used in several different ways. Set with tiny diamonds it is outlined with a narrow band that it fashioned into bowknots at the corners.

Within this is a dainty design of diamond-set leaves, while directly in the center is a pendant formed of a pear-shaped topaz. It is quite large enough to serve as a belt buckle. Threaded with black velvet or tulle, makes a handsome dog collar for wear with a low gown, or it may be used as an ornament for the front of an evening gown.

Dainty lingerie bonnets, trimmed with flutings of fine linen and batiste and edged with narrow Valenciennes lace, will be worn by small children this spring and during the coming summer.

Soft silks and silk materials to be had this season are excellent for a simple style of evening dress, and there should be always at hand one good silk or satin evening frock to be ready for emergencies. The flowered and striped silks are attractive and even the plain satins made up quite simply are being worn a great deal. Satin, if gracefully draped and of a becoming shade, requires little fancy trimming. Gold or silver embroidery on a white or yellow satin

HANGING UP GOWNS.

Don't hang a gown wrong side out before hanging it up, no matter how delicate a color it is.

Nothing ruins the set more quickly, which is soon evidenced by the creases which creep here, there and everywhere.

It's natural enough, for the outside must necessarily be made a little longer and looser than the lining, and reversing the usual order of hanging is bound to react in some unpleasant way.

THE KITCHEN

NEUFCHÂTEL SALAD—Two rolls of neufchâtel cheese, 2 tablespoons of butter, 1 teaspoon each of finely chopped parsley, cloves and olives, salt and paprika. Cream the cheese and butter, add olives, parsley and cloves and salt and paprika. Form into small balls and serve on a bed of lettuce or watercress with a French dressing.

POTATO BISCUIT—Two cups of flour, 3 tablespoons of lard or butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups mashed potatoes, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 2 cups of milk. Sift together the flour, salt and baking powder, rub in the butter, add the potatoes, and mix as you do biscuit with the milk. Roll out thin and bake in a quick oven.

CHEESE OMELET—Two eggs, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 tablespoon cheese, 2 tablespoons water, salt and pepper. Beat eggs light, add water and salt and pepper. Put melted butter in the omelet pan, cook eggs until firm. Fold and sprinkle with the grated cheese.

RYE BREAD—Take half bread flour and half rye meal, one-half cup sugar, one large tablespoon salt and one of lard, one yeast cake (compressed) to 1½ quarts of bread flour and 1½ quarts of rye meal. Mix to a soft dough as for bread. Let rise over night.

RAOULT OF CHICKEN—For Peggy Short—Melt 2 tablespoons butter and add 2 tablespoons flour mixed with ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Pour on gradually while stirring constantly 1½ cups milk. When boiling point is reached add 1½ cups cold boiled fowl cut in cubes and ½ cup celery cut in small pieces. When thoroughly heated serve on toast.

FRIED SCALLOPS—Dip in beaten egg, roll in cracker or meal and fry in butter or hot pork fat. Keep turning until browned on all sides.

CHEAP SPONGE CAKE—Two eggs, 1 cup sugar, ¼ cup hot water, 1 cup flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 pinch salt and the grated rind of ½ of a lemon and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat the yolks of 2 eggs with half the sugar, then add the flour, the remaining sugar, the flavoring, then the four sifted with the baking powder and salt. Lastly fold in the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth and bake 25 minutes in a buttered and floured shallow pan. This is quite good.

CHOCOLATE CAKE—Here is an original recipe for chocolate cake: 1 cup sugar, ½ cup butter, 1 cup sour milk, 2 cups flour, 3 squares melted chocolate, 1½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon soda.

ANGEL CAKE—Whites of 7 eggs, pinch of salt. Beat until very light and pink. Add 1 cup sifted sugar, beat well, then 2 cups flour, with 1 level teaspoon cream of tartar, sifted together three times; 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat as little as possible after flour has been folded in.

THE SEWING CIRCLE

The reversible cretonnes are most satisfactory for inexpensive summer curtains, while printed linens and tussore silks will also be popular.

The always useful madras curtains are seen this season with unusually pretty designs of flower baskets, wreaths and ribbons and medallion motifs.

Always remove the selvedge from goods before sewing. This will prevent the drawing the seams, because the selvedge is so much more closely woven than the rest of the goods.

Overcast seams in sleeves separately. Overcast armhole seams together and make as small a seam as possible. After sewing sleeves in and overcasting or binding this seam, stretch the seam by drawing it over the point of a moderately hot iron.

It is a good idea to strengthen the armhole in delicate materials by stitching on a narrow bias strip of goods or lining about the seam; stitch in at the same time the sleeves are stitched in, and if necessary to hem down over the seam, do this by hand, as too many stitches make a hard, stiff seam.

A clever gift lately made was a laundry list. At the top sits a doll, a Chinaman with shaven head and long cue. To this is attached slips of paper covered with ribbon, and a pencil held by baby ribbon. An im-the items such as the recipient would be likely to have to send.

There's a new way of making those troublesome eyelets discovered by a girl who is locally famous for inventing labor-saving ideas. It consists in running the eyelet around and then cutting it from end to end and buttonholing it, making the usual buttonhole, but reversing the stitch so that the edge stitches back upon the material instead of around the open edge of the eyelet. It is about one-fifth as hard to do as the usual way and the difference in length of time is even more marked.

These take the form of weird lumps of minerals. Enamel, metal, china and glass have all been used for the popular hat pin. Perhaps the prettiest specimens are those of inland tortoise shell. Horn, too, in a lovely shade of green, is being pressed into the service of combs, slides and pins for the hair.

The platted or the full skirts are the favorite models, and it is astonishing how many different arrangements of plaits there can be. A favorite trimming is the bands of silk around the front of the skirt or bands put on in the same way. Where this is not becoming, the braid put
