This is only possible in two wayseither to tear down a portion of the present high school building and remodel the same, or to erect a new buildng and use the present edifice.

The majority of the people in the diswith inexpensive remodeling as to saniyears yet.

Most of us are living in homes built long before any part of the present school building was erected, and do not feel like tearing the same down to make way for the very latest alleged improvements in building. We can not afford so to do. Neither will two-thirds of the brick-stores be razed because they happened to have been erected prior to said school building.

The only other course is the erection of a new building to take care of the increase in school population occasioned partly by growth of the district and partly by President Roosevelt.

Now, why not abate the present outbuildings being used for school-rooms, beautify the school grounds and put them in first-class shape, remodel the present high school building as to sanialso pays for membership dues for the tary conditions and use the same for the lower grades, and erect a new building to be used for the high school, to cost in the neighborhood of twenty-five thousand dollars, and situated on the best lot obtainable by the school board somewhere on the west side of Main street and north of the electric railroad.

To do this, it would not be necessary to bond the district for over twenty thousand dollars, as the school board has on hand at present over $5,000 from the primary school fund not estimated whe the tax was voted last year. Should e raise the ordinary tax in July, we will have from five to seven thousand dollars that can be expended in building, and the additional amount required for which it will be necessary to bond can be gradually retired without taxing the district higher than has been done for the past few years, as the amount received from primary money in the future will be at least $1,500 more annually than has been received in the past, excepting, of course, last year.

A DISASTROUS FIRE.

Farm Residence in Dexter Township Burned Down Friday - Loss Estimated at From $5,000 to $6,000. A disastrous fire occurred Friday forenoon in Dexter township, destroying the large farm house owned by Miss Martha French and occupied by herself and Rev W. T. Morrison and family. The farm of 441 acres was formerly owned by Wm. B Smith, but was purchased by Miss French and recently part of the farm was sold to Rev. Morrison, who has just built new barn and was making arrangements to have a farm residence built on his portion of the farm.

It is not known how the fire started. The entire family had gone to Ann Arbor for the day, leaving home about ten o'clock in the morning. The hired man was ploughing in the field, and it had been burning some time before he discovered it. Only a few articles of furniture were saved. Mr. Smith, who moved there early this spring and lived in part of the house, lost his entire household effects, worth about $800, and no insurvictim of a serious accident, Monday ance. Special Delivery Letters.

The law recently passed permitting the transmission of letters and packages for special delivery where ten cents postage is added in addition to the ordinary postage, goes into effect July 1st. The intent of the law is to do away with the use only of special delivery stamps which it is often difficult to purchase. Besides using the stamps it will be necessary to write the words, "special delivery" on the envelope. At present, if you desire a letter to be handled expeditiously, you purchase a ten-cent delivery stamp and place it on the envelope in addition to the regular postage. tempted to jerk away from him, striking Fire Insurance Co. for $2,000 and con Under the new law you simply attach ten cents' worth of ordinary stamps besides the regular postage and mark "special" on the envelope, and it will receive the same attention that it would with a special delivery stamp on it.

CHAPTER X.

An Affair With the Caretaker.

I read in the library until late, hearing the howl of the wind outside with satisfaction in the warmth and comin some sandwiches and a bottle of ale at midnight.

"If there's nothing more, sir-"That is all, Bates." And he went off sedately to his own quarters.

I was restless, and in no mood for bed, and mourned the lack of variety in my grandfather's library. I moved about from shelf to shelf, taking down one book after another, and while thus engaged came upon a series of large volumes extra illustrated in water colors of unusual beauty. They occupied a lower shelf, and I sprawled on the floor like a boy with a new picture book in my absorption, piling the French chateaux.

of white note paper no larger than night prowling." my hand, a forgotten book mark, I assumed, and half crumpled it in my fingers before I noticed the lines of a pencil sketch on one side of it. I carried it to the table and spread it out.

It was not the bit of idle penciling it had appeared to be at first sight. A scale had evidently been followed and the lines drawn with a ruler. With such trifles my grandfather had no doubt amused himself. There was a long corridor indicated, but of this I could make nothing. I studied it for several minutes, thinking it might have been a tentative sketch of some part of the house. In turning it about under the candelabrum I saw that in several places the glaze had been rubbed from the paper by an eraser, and this piqued my curiosity. I brought a magnifying glass to bear upon the sketch. The drawing had been made with a hard pencil and the eraser had removed the lead, but a well defined imprint remained.

I was able to make out the letters, N. W. 34 to C .- a reference clearly enough to points of the compass and word ravine was scrawled over a rough outline of a doorway or opening of some sort, and then the phrase:

THE DOOR OF BEWILDERMENT.

Now I am rather an imaginative person; that is why engineering captured my fancy. It was his efforts to make an architect (a person who quarrels with women about their kitchen sinks!) of a boy who wanted to be an engineer that caused me to break with my grandfather. Fate was busy with my affairs that night, for, instead of lighting my pipe with the little sketch I was strangely impelled | to study it seriously.

I drew for myself rough outlines of the interior of Glenarm House as it had appeared to me, and then I tried to reconcile the little sketch with every part of it. "The Door of Bewilderment" was

Badly Cripples a Baldwinsville

URIC-O QUICKLY CURED HIM

Treated Two Years with a High-Prized Physician with No Success

Mr. Frank Howe, a prominent farmer in the town of Van Buren, says: "I visited the best physician in this country who treated me for about two years for rheumatism. I spent in that time several hundred dollars and seemed to grow worse instead of better each day. Being on crutches and forced to drive to the train and hobbling to the doctor's office became very discouraging, let alone the sleepless nights and fearful hours of pain. Being advised by a friend, I purchased Smith's Uric-O prescription, took it home and used it that day as directed.

"Those fearful sciatic pains left me, my blood seemed to let loose and flow freely. I felt different and knew the next morn ing I had found a cure, as I slept and rested well all that night, something had not done before in two years. I use in all six bottles of Uric-O and have never felt a return of the disease, had no us for crutches or cane since the first day'

George A. Pettibone, indicted with Moyer and Haywood, of the Western Federation of Miners, for complicity in the assassination of ex-Gov. Steunenberg, of Idaho, was a convict in the Detroit house of correction during five months in 1892-3.

Pettibone is said at the house of correction to have been a quiet, orderly prisoner, who left no particular impress on the minds of keepers. His stay was cut short by a reversal of his conviction.

Pettibone was a leader of the miners who rioted at Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, during 1892. A federal injunction had been secured restraining the miners from interfering with the non-union workmen.

An armed mob over which Pettibone for the plaintiff for the sum of $35,000 was one of the leaders attacked one of the mines where strike-breakers were working and about 1,000 shots were exchanged. Then the strikers began to run short of ammunition. Pettibone and some others, it was charged, made a detour to the powder shed, most precisely in the same manner broke it open and took 200 pounds of dynamite up the hillside to the top only $10,000 for the loss of his left of a 500-foot chute leading into the besieged mine building.

In Eruption. Enormous clouds of gray ashes ap peared this afternoon from the sea, darkened the sky and fell on the town. Considerable apprehension was felt when it was realized that the clouds were ashes and cinders from Mount Etna and Stromboli. A similar phenomenon was noticed along the southern coast and caused panies in several places. The latest reports declare the situation to be more terrifying. A few weeks ago Stromboli was covered with rich vegetation; now the island is stricken and desolate, everything having been destroyed by the fire or injured under ashes. Every boat at the island has been pressed into service by the inhabitants to aid in their escape from the danger.

Spain's Grown Prince. The Queen of Spain has given birth to a boy at 12:45 p. m. Friday. The whole city went wild with enthusiasm as soon as it was announced that the first-born of the king and queen was a boy, and dense crowds surged around the palace for hours shouting erate them from that of preaching an industrial and social policy, damning and wildly waving hands and handkerchiefs and hats, and in every way displaying intense loyalty to the royal family, and the keenest satisfaction that the royal mother had given them man-child to inherit his father's
