CHILDREN'S DAY EXERCISES

A Large Class Given First Communion -The Sunday Schools Did Well Their Parts Last Sunday.

At the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart, last Sunday, the pastor, Rev. Fr. Considine, administered the sacrament of the Lord's supper to a class of over fifty boys and girls. This was the first communion of the class, which has been instructed in their religious duties during the past year. future as members of the church.

The children's day exercises in the M. and Cora Burkhart, who arranged a very fine program, which was carried out in a very creditable manner by the children. The orchestra, composed of the young boys who are members of the Sunday school, was another pleasant feature of the program. The pastor, Rev. Joseph E. Ryerson, baptized fifteen members of the junior league and home department. Miss Jessie Everett and Mrs. C. J. Depew had charge of the exercises at the Baptist church. The edifice was handsomely decorated with flowers. An excellent program was rendered by the pupils of the Sunday school and the musical selections were fine.

At the Congregational church the Raymond Litchfield front was appropriately decorated with flowers. A very interesting musical and literary program was rendered by the members of the Sunday school, which was very pleasing to those in attendance. At the close of the exercises the pastor baptized several children.

Stoddard had left me to go to the other end of the platform to speak to some of the students. I followed l'ickering rather reluctantly to where the companions of his travels were pacing to and fro in the crisp morning air.

As soon as Pickering had got me well under way in conversation with Taylor, he excused himself hurriedly Chicago express. Taylor proved to be was the better game. a supercilious person,-I believe they call him Chilly Billy at the Metropolitan club,-a: our efforts to converse were pathetically unfruitful. The two ladies stood by, making no concealment of their impatience. Their eyes were upon the girls from St. Agatha's on the other platform, whom they could see beyond me. I had jumped the conversation from Indiana farm values to the recent disorders in Bulgarla, which interested me more, when Mrs. Taylor, ignoring me, spoke abruptly to her sister.

"That's she-the one in the gray coat, talking to the clergyman. She came a moment ago in the carriage." "The one with the umbrella?

thought you said-" Mrs. Taylor glanced at her sister warningly, and they both looked at me. Then they detached themselves and moved away. There was some one on the farther platform whom they wished to see, and Taylor, not understanding their maneuver-he was really anxious, I think, not to be left alone with me-started down the platform after them, I following. Mrs. Taylor and her sister walked to the end of the platform and looked across, a biscuit toss away, to where Stoddard stood talking to the girl I had already heard described as wearing a gray coat and carrying an umbrella.

The girl in gray crossed the track quickly and addressed the two women cordially. Taylor's back was to her and he was growing eloquent in a mild well-bred way over the dullness of our statesmen in not seeing the advantages that would accrue to the United States in fostering our shipping industry. His wife, her sister and the girl in gray were so near that I could hear plainly what they were saying. They were referring apparently to the girl's refusal of an invitation to accompany them to California.

"So you can't go-it's too bad! We had hoped that when you really saw us on the way you would relent," said Mrs. Taylor.

"But there are many reasons; and above all Sister Theresa needs me." It was the voice of Olivia, a little lower, a little more restrained than I had known it; but undeniably it was

"But think of the rose gardens that are waiting for us out there!" said the other lady. They were showing her the deference that elderly women always have for pretty girls.

"Alas, and again alas!" exclaimed Olivia. "Please don't make it harder for me than necessary. But I gave my promise a year ago to spend these holidays in Cincinnati."

She ignored me wholly and after shaking hands with the ladies returned my broadest salaam. to the other platform. I wondered whether she was overlooking Taylor on purpose to cut me.

PURIFIED LIFE INSURANCE.

Benefits from New Law, Which Remains Substantially Unchanged.

Through the influence of Gov.

Hughes, the New York Legislature decided to make no radical changes in the new insurance-law. It was pointed out by Gov. Hughes that the New York law has already accomplished wide spread reforms, with proportiona benefits to policyholders, and that it should be given a thorough trial be fe e any amendments were seriously considered. It is estimated that the cost of the mismanagement of the past did not average more than 20 cents to each policyholder, while the benefits to present and future policyholders will amount to many times more and be cumulative besides. The speed craze of the big companies and the excessive cost of securing new business was the most extravagant evil of the old managements. Under the new regime the cost of new business has already been greatly reduced, along with other economies. The showing made by the Equitable Life Assurance Society in its report for 1906 was a strong argument against meddling with the new law. In the Equitable alone there was a saving of over $2,000,000 in expenses, besides an increase in the income from the Society's assets amounting to as much more. The ratios of the Equitable's total expenses to its total income was 19.42% in 1904, 17.38% in 1905, and only 14.48% in 1906. The dividends paid to Equitable policyholders in 1906 amounted to $7,289,734, which was an increase of more than 9% over 1905.

While the Equitable made a better showing than any other big company, all reported radical economies and under such conditions the Legislature wisely decided to leave the law substantially as it stands.

FAILED IN SMALL THINGS.

Congressman Evidently Was No Hero to His Wife.

There is a certain congressman who, whatever authority he may hold in the councils of state, is of comparatively minor importance in his own household. Indeed, it has been unkindly intimated that his wife is "the whole thing" in their establishment.

Representative and Mrs. Blank had been to Baltimore one afternoon. When they left the train at Washington, on their return, Mrs. Blank discovered that her umbrella, which had been intrusted to the care of her husband, was missing.

"Where's my umbrella?" she demanded.

"I'm afraid I've forgotten it, my dear," meekly answered the congressman. "It must still be in the train."

"In the train!" snorted the lady. "And to think that the affairs of the nation are intrusted to a man who doesn't know enough to take care of a woman's umbrella!"--Success Maga

Not Partial to Nursing. Not long ago a young Irishman was seeking work in western Illinois, and among those to whom he applied was a farmer near Cairo. The farmer was attracted by the Celt's frank, cheery manner, and, while he was not in need of help, he asked, after a pause:

"Can you cradle?" "Cradle!" repeated the Irishman. "Sure. I can! But. sir." he added. persuasively, "couldn't ye give me a job out-of-dures?"-Harper's Weekly.

Pluck.

How often you hear one business man say of another who has been successful: "Ain't he lucky?" Luck has nothing to do with anyone's success. It is pluck, Pluck and enthusiasm are the powers which make the winner. With these two qualities, which are invariably found together, a man will succeed. Business men who have achieved the two mix. A man once said: "It pays to advertise most businesses, but mine is different." The sheriff sold him out, and now he works for his successor, who does advertise.

Success

The secret of most successes lies in the man rather than in the method. Making people want the goods is, after all, about as near the secret of it as there comes to being any secret. Make the public want what you have

All men cannot be captains of indusceed even moderately, but all men can make an effort to succeed. We must not stop striving to reach a higher and better place until we are willing to sink to the bottom. If we simply expect to float and not try to swim we might just as well quit. It would be well for us to keep as a motto before us: "Perseverance and pluck conquer all things," for it bears close relationship to the subject chosen. If we regarded the little opportunities in life more seriously and made the most use of them we would be better able to master the golden opportunities.

But to the rector had come the struggle that had ended in his taking orders, and some way since his coming to this somewhat distracted parish there had been no time to lift either his golf sticks or his foils from their long rest. Instead, there had been a ceaseless round of visits-which reminded him:

"Miss Betty," he said. "I have come to enlist your sympathy this morning."

Poor Agnes has had a severe fall. "She will be quite helpless, they fear, for months."

ROMANCE OF NAVAL CRAFT.

Yacht Called Dorothea.

Among the vessels assigned to the naval militia is one with a history. worth, Ills., writes: "Kidney disease It seems that many years ago, when it was the custom of the insurance underwriters to put up at auction vesseis that had been long overdue and not heard from, a young apprentice in Philadelphia happesed to attend one of these auctions at which a large ship named the Dorothea was put up for sale.

The vessel had taken aboard a very valuable cargo, which would go with it had become generally believed that she was a total wreck.

Consequently the auctioneer cried Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. the good ship Dorothea many times without getting a bid. Finally the young apprentice jokingly bid five dollars, as nobody would bid higher, the ed ahead on the dreary days of joyless vessel and her cargo were knocked toil. For, his sad heart told him, he down to him. Imagine the astonishment of the maritime world when the Dorothea was reported sailing into lious spirit; else why should he, wak-Delaware bay.

The apprentice sold his prize for enough to start him in business, and for years the house thus formed was one of the leaders in enterprise and resources in the Quaker city. But at all times the head of the firm and his family successors made a point of owning and operating a ship named the Dorothea, which name also was given the oldest daughter in each succeeding generation.

Shortly before the Spanish war, however, the third head of the house was in failing health, and the only hope of saving his life, he was advised, was to live at sea. Accordingly he gave "Mr. Armory," she said, beseechingan order to the Cramps for a large and luxuriously appointed yacht, to be called the Dorothea, of course, and this afternoon-you must forgive me no expense was spared in her construction and equipment.

Unfortunately, death came to the owner before his yacht was finally finished and the government paid a fancy price for the Dorothea early in

With the close of the war there was no purely naval duty for which the Dorothea was fitted, and yet the government did not wish to sell her because there was no possibility of getting a price for her anything like what she had cost. She was accordingly laid up at the League Island navy yard until, says the Chicago Chronicle, the Illinois Naval reserves succeeded in convincing the navy department that they were entitled to

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and nuncous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it falls to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

He recalls the fact that 100 years ago yellow fever was epidemic in New York and Philadelphia for two years. For 30 years the disease has been almost unknown who have never seen a case of smallpox; and that in the Napoleonic and revolutionary wars more died from disease than from wounds, while now hospital gangrene is unknown. Statistics show that in Chicago during the last 35 years the average age at death has increased from 12 to 32 years.

No one disputes these facts or attributes them to any cause other than medical science—the measures employed partly in curing disease, but more especially in preventing its introduction or its spread when once introduced.

Rheumatism Cannot Be Cured Unless Uric-O Is Used

Sudden Deaths, Heart Failure and Paralysis Are Caused by Poisonous Uric and Rheumatic Acids

The Rheumatic person is skeptical regarding the claims of almost any remedy advertised as a cure for rheumatism and All the plasters and liniments combined never actually cured a case of rheumatism. They may relieve it in one quarter, but it is sure to break out somewhere else. The only true way to cure rheumatism is to drive it from the system, for remains in the blood, one is never entirely free from the trouble. This is where the value of Uric-O as a permanent cure for rhenmatism comes in. It seeks out the rheumatic, poison in the blood, muscles and kidneys, renders it inert and harmless and drives it out of an admirable and effective cure for

The chief reason that Uric-O is such a wonderful cure for rheumstism is, that it is designed and prepared to curs rheumatism and rheumatism only. exposition here:
It is of course a mere truism to say that no other body of our countrymen wield as extensive an influence as those who write for the daily press and for the periodicals. It is also a truism to say that such power implies the gravest respon shillty, and the man exercising it should held himself accountable, and should be held by others accountable, precisely as If he occupied any other position of puble trust. I do not intend to dwell upon your duties to-day, save that I shall permit myself to point out one matter where it seems to me that the need of our people is vital. It is essential that the man in public life and the man who writes in the public press shall both of them, if they are really good servants of the people, be prompt to assail wrongdoing and wickedness. But in thus assailing wrongdoing and wickedness, there are two conditions to be fulfilled, because if unfulfilled, harm and not good will result. In the first place, be sure of your facts and avoid everything like hysteria or exaggeration; for to assail a decent man for something of which he is innecent is to give aid and comfort to every scoundrel, while indulgence in hysterical exaggeration serves to weaken, not strengthen, the statement of truth, In the second place, be sure that you base your judgment on conduct and not on the social or economic position of the individual with whom you are dealing. There are good and bad men in every walk of life, and their being good or bad does not depend upon whether they have or do not have large bank accounts. Yet this elemental fact, this fact which we all accept as self-evident, when we think each of us of the people whom he him self knows in his business and social relations, is often completely ignored by writers. The men who thus ignore it and who attack wickedness only when found in a particular class are always unsafe, and are sometimes very dan-Distrust equally the man who is never able to discover any vices of rich men to attack and the man who confines himself to attacking the sins and shortcomings of rich men. is a sure sign of moral and mental disesty in any man if in his public assaults upon iniquity he is never able to see any iniquity save that of a particular class; and this whether he is able only to see the crimes of arrogance and oppres sion in the rich or the crimes of envy and violence in the poor. So much for what I have to say to you in your capacity of molders and guides of public thought. In addition I want to speak to you on two great movements in our public life which I capable of supporting the strain. The other is the question of utilizing the natural resources of the nation in the way that will be of most benefit to the nation as a whole.

Need of Foresight. In utilizing and conserving the natural resources of the nation the one characteristic more essential than any other is foresight Unfortunately, foresight is not usually characteristic of a young and vigorous people, and it is obviously not a marked characteristic of us in the United States. Yet assuredly it should be the growing nation with a future which. takes the long look ahead; and no other nation is growing so rapidly as ours or has a future so full of promise. No other nation enjoys so wonderful a measure of present prosperity which can of right be treated as an earnest of future suc cess, and for no other are the rewards of foresight so great, so certain, and so easily foretold. Yet hitherto as a nation we have tended to live with an eye single to the present, and have permitted the reckless waste and destruction of much of our natural wealth.

The conservation of our natural resources and their proper use constitute the fundamental problem which underlies almost every other problem of our na-tional life. Unless we maintain an adequate material basis for our civilization, we can not aintain the institutions in which we take so great and just a pride; and to waste and destroy our natural resources means to undermine this material basis. During the last five years efforts have been made in several new directions in the government service to get our people to look ahead, to exercise foresight, and to substitute a planned and orderly development of our resources in the place of a haphazard striving for immediate profit. The effort has been made through several agencies. In 1902 the reciamation service began to develop the larger opportunities of the western half of our country for irriga-tion. The work includes all the states from the great plains through the Rocky mountains to the Pacific slope. It has been conducted with the clear and defialte purpose of using the valuable water resources of the public land for the greatest good for the greatest number in the long run: in other words, for the purpose of putting upon the land permanent home makers who will use and develop it for themselves and for their children and children's children. There has been the children to the has been opposition, of course, to this work of the reclamation service; for we have been obliged to antagonize certain men whose interest it was to exhaust for their own temporary personal profit nat-ural resources which ought to be developed through use, so as to be conserved for the permanent common advantage of ple as a whole. But there will be no halt in the work of preserving the waters which head in the Rocky mountain tain region so as to make them of most to the people as a whole; for the policy is essential to our national wel-

Operations of Land Laws.

The public lands of the United States ald be utilized in s'm'lar fashion. Our present public land laws were passed when there was a vast surplus of vacant public land. The chief desire was to secure settlers thereon, and comparatively slight attention was paid as to exactly how the lands were disposed of in dethe lands were disposed of in de-in consequence, lax execution of tail. In consequence, lax execution of the laws became the rule both in the land office and in the public mind, and land frauds were common and little noted. This was especially true when a system originally designed for the fertile and well-watered regions of the middle west was applied to the dryer regions of the steat plains and to the mountains and the Pacific coast. In these regions the system lent itself to frauf, and much land passed out of the hands of the government without passing into the hands

Jamestown, Va.—The following is the of the home maker. The department of the interior and the department of justice joined in prosecuting the offenders against the law; but both the law and its administration were defective and needed to be changed. Three years ago a public lands commission was appointed to scrutinize the law and the facts and to recommend a remedy. Their examination specifically showed the existence of great frauds upon the public domain, and their recommendations for changes in the law, were made with the design of conserving the natural resources of every part of the public land by putting it to its best use. Attention was especially called to the prevention of settlement by the passage of great areas of public lands into the hands of a few men, and to the enormous waste caused by unrestricted grazing on the open range; a system of using the natural forage on the public domain which amounts to putting a premium on its destruction. The recommendations of the public lands commission were sound, for they were especially in the interest of the actual home maker; and where the small home maker could not utilize the land, it was provided that the government should keep control of it so that It could not be monopolized by a few wealthy men. Congress has not yet acted upon these recommendations, except for the repeal of the iniquitous lieu-land law. But the recommendations are so just and proper, so essential to our surely ultimately be adopted.

In 1891 congress authorized the president to create national forests in the public domain. These forests reserves remained for a long time in charge of the general land office, which had no men properly trained in forestry. But another department, that of agriculture, possessed the trained men. In other words, the government forests were without foresters and the government for-esters without forests. Waste of effort and waste of forests inevitably followed. Finally the situation was ended in 1905 by the creation of the United States forest service, which has stopped the waste, conserved the resources of the national forests, and made them useful; so that our forests are now being managed on a coherent plan, and in a way that augurs well for the future.

The mineral fuels of the eastern United States have already passed into the hands of large private owners, and those of the west are rapidly following. This should not be, for such mineral resources. belong in a peculiar degree to the whole people. Under private control there is much waste from the shortsighted methods of working, and the complete utilization is often sacrificed for a greater immediate profit. The mineral fuels unfeel must necessarily occupy no incon-tial to our present conditions are as essen-tial to our prosperity as the forests will always be. The difference is that the men in the near future. One of these is supply is definitely limited, for coal does the question of, in certain ways, re-shaping our system of taxation so as to make it bear most heavily on those most them should remain in the hands of the government to protect the people against unjust or extortionate prices so far as that can still be done. What has been accomplished in the regulation of the great oil fields of the Indian territory offers a striking example of the good results of such a policy. Last summer, accordingly, I withdrew most of the coal-bearing public lands temporarily from disposal, and asked for the legislation necessary to protect the public interest by the conservation of the mineral fuels; that is, for the power to keep the fee in the government and to lease the coal, oil, and gas rights under proper regulation. No such legislation was passed, but I still hope that we shall Preserve Mineral Resources. In addition to treating aright for the benefit of the whole people the forests and the mineral beds, we should similarly try to preserve for the benefit of all people the great stretches of public domain, some three hundred million acres in all, which are unfit for cultivation by present methods and valuable only for the forage which they supply. This vast area is now open to the free grazing of cattle, sheep, horses and goats, without restriction or regulation. When population has increased, as is now the case, such utter lack of management means that the public domain is turned over to be skinned by men whose only concern is to get what they can out of it at the moment, without any regard to whether or not it is ruined so far as the next generation is concerned. In other words, the range is not so much used as wasted by abuse; and as an incident conflict and bloodshed frequently arise between opposing users. With the rapid settling of the west the range is more and more overgrazed. Moreover, much of it can not be used to advantage unless it is fenced, for fencing is the only way by which to keep in check the absentee owners of nomad flocks which roam hither and thither, utterly destroying the pasturage and leaving a waste behind, so that their presence is compatible with the presence of home makers. Prevention of Frauds. For several years we have been doing everything in our power to prevent fraud upon the public land. What can be done under the present laws is now being done through the joint action of the interior department and the department of justice. But fully to accomplish the prevention of fraud there is need of further legislation and especially of a sufficient appropriation to permit the department of the interior to examine certain classes of entries on the ground before they pass into private ownership. The appropriation asked for last winter, if granted, would have put an end to the squandering of the public domain, while it would have prevented any need of causing hardship to individual settlers by holding up their claims. However, the appropriation was not given us, and in consequence it is not. possible to secure, as I would like to secure, the natural resources of the pub-lic land from fraud, waste and encroach-

So much for what we are trying to do in utilizing our public lands for the pub-lic; in securing the use of the water, the forage, the coal and the timber for the public. In all four movements my chief adviser, and the man first to suggest to me the courses which have actually to me the courses which have actually proved so beneficial, was Mr. Gifford Pinchot, the chief of the national forest service. Mr. Pinchot also suggested to me a movement supplementary to all of these movements; one which will itself lead the way in the general movement which he represents and with which he is actively identified, for the conservation of all our natural resources. This was the appointment of the inland waterways commission.

The inability of the railroads of the United States to meet the demands upon them has drawn public attention forcibly to the use of our waterways for trasportation. But it is obvious that this is only one of their many uses, and that a planned and orderly development is impossible except by development is impossible except by taking into account all the services they are capable of rendering. It was upon this ground that the inland waterways commission was recently appointed. Their duty is to propose & comprehensive plan for the improve-ment and utilization of those great waterways which are the great potential highways of the country. Their duty is also to bring together the points of view of all users of streams, and to submit a general plan for the development and conservation of the vast natural resources of the water-ways of the United States. Clearly it is impossible for the waterways commission to accomplish its great task without considering the relation of streams to the conservation and use of all other natural resources, and I have asked that it do so. Here, then, for the first time, the orderly developemnt and planned conservative use of all our natural resources is presented as a single problem. One by one the individual tasks in this great problem have already been undertaken. One by one in practical fashion the methods of dealing with them were worked out. National irrigation has proved itself a success by its actual working. Again, actual experience has shown that the national forests will fulfill the larger purpose for which they were created. All who have thoughtfully studied the subject have come to see that the solution of the public lands question lies with the home maker, with the settler who lives on his land and that government control of the mineral fuels and the public grazing lands is necessary and inevitable. Each of these conclusions represented a movement of vast importance which would confer large benefits upon the nation, but which stood by itself. They are connected together into one great fundamental problem-that of the conservation of all our natural resources. Upon the wise solution of this, much of our future obviously depends. Even such questions as the regulation of railway rates and the control of corporations are in reality subsidiary to national welfare, that I believe they will | the primal problem of the preservation in the interests of the whole people of the resources that nature has given us.
If we fail to solve this problem, no skill in solving the others will in the

Now as to the matter of taxation. Most great civilized countries have an income tax and an inheritance tax. In my judgment both should be part of our system of federal taxation. I speak diffidently about the income tax because one scheme for an income tax was declared unconstitutional by the and in addition it is a difficult tax to administer in its practical workings, and great care would have to be exercised to see that it was not evaded by the very man whom it is most desirable to have taxed, for if so evaded it would of course be worse than no tax at all, as the least desirable of all taxes is the tax which bears heavily would be a desirable peramnent fea-ture of federal taxation, and I still hope that one may be devised which the heritance tax is both a far better method of taxation, and far more important for the purpose I have in view-the purpose of having the swollen fortunes of the country bear in proportion to their size a constantly increasing burden of taxation. These fortunes exist solely because of the protection given the owners by the public. They are a constant source of care and anxiety. to the public and it is eminently just that they should be forced to pay heavily for the protection given them. It is, of course, elementary that the nation has the absolute right to decide as to the terms upon which any man shall receive a bequest or devise from another. We have repeatedly placed such laws on our own statute books. and they have repeatedly been declared constitutional by the courts. I believe that the tax should contain the progressive principle. Whatever any individual receives, whether by gift, bequest, or devise, in life or in death. should, after a certain amount is reached, be increasingly burdened; and the rate of taxation should be increased in proportion to the remote-ness of blood of the man receiving from the man giving or devising. The principle of this progressive taxation of inheritance has not only been authoriatively recognized by the legislation of congress, but it is now unequivocally adopted in the leading civilized nations of the world-in, for instance, Great Britain, France and Ger-Switzerland led off, with the imposition of high progressive rates. nations to follow suit, and within the last few years both France and Geramny have adopted the principle. Great Britain all estates worth $5,000 or less are practically exempt from death duties, while the increase is such that when an estate exceeds $5,000,000 in value and passes to a distant kinsman or stranger in blood the government receives nearly 18 per cent. In France, under the progressive system, so much of an inheritance as exceeds $10,000,000 pays over 20 per cent. to the state if it passes to a distant relative, and five per cent. if it passes to a direct heir. In Germany very small inheritance are exempt, but the tax is so sharply progressive that an inheritance not in agricultural or forest lands which exceeds $250,000, if it goes to distant relatives, is taxed at the rate of about 25 per cent. The German law is of special interest, because it makes the inheritance tax an imperial measure, while allotting to the individual states of the empire a portion of the proceeds and permit-ting them to impose taxes in addition to those imposed by the imperial government. In the United States the national government has more than once imposed inheritance taxes in addition to those imposed by the states, and in the last instance about one-half of the states levied such taxes concurrently with the national government, making a combined maximum rate, in some cases as high as 25 per cent.; and, as a matter of fact, several states adopted inheritance tax laws for the first time while the national law was still in force and unrepealed. French law has one feature which is to be heartily commended. The progressive principle is so applied that each higher rate is imposed only on the exhigher rate is imposed only on the excess above the amount subject to the next lower rate. This plain is peculiarly adapted to the working out of the theory of using the inheritance tax for the purpose of limiting the size of inheritable fortunes, since

TOLD AT HAYWOOD TRIAL.

Howard T. Taylor, Adrian; grand cap- Chief Witness for the Prosecution Tells of Wholesale Murder Schemes in Which He Was Involved.

Boise, Idaho.-Alfred Horsley, alias Harry Orchard, the actual assassin of Frank Steunenberg, went on the stand as a witness against William D. Haywood, and made public confession of a long chain of brutal, captain of the guards, John Fry, De revolting crimes, done, he said, at the inspiration and for the pay of the leaders of the Western Federation of Miners. The victims marked for death at his hands according to his testimony were:

> Fred Bradley, retired mine official, San Francisco; blown half way across street and maimed for life by bomb concealed by Orchard under doorstep; also object of poison plot. Motive, revenge.

Sherman Bell, adjutant-general of Colorado national guard, Denver; waylaid by Orchard and other assassins who sought his life; escaped. Motive, revenge for activity in put-

Justice Gabbert of supreme court of Colorado, Denver; bomb placed in his pathway exploded by another man, who was blown to pieces. Motive, decisions against Mover.

Gov. Peabody of Colorado, Denver; bomb placed in front of his home to kill him by Orchard failed to explode by accident. Motive, upholding law in strikes.

David Moffatt, president of First National bank of Denver; Adams and Orchard tracked him with guns, but he escaped. Motive, supposed activity on side of mine owners.

Judge Goddard, Denver. Motive, declared eight-hour bill unconstitutional.

Frank Steunenberg, former governor of Idaho; Caldwell. Blown to pieces by bomb placed at gate of home by Orchard.

"Haywood and Moyer both told me I could not get too fierce to suit them -to go ahead and blow up everything I could think of-to get some of the soldiers if possible."

"Moyer and Pettibone wanted to know if I could not work up some scheme to assassinate Gov. Peabody of Colorado."

"Haywood thought Steve Adams was the best man for the work. Pettibone gave us some sawed-off shotguns and shells loaded with buckshot. We kept after Peabody for three weeks, when Haywood told me to lay off for awhile."

"Haywood, Pettibone and Simpkins then wanted something pulled off at Cripple Creek. We planned to blow up the Independence depot. The depot was wrecked and 12 or 14 men killed. The next day Pettibone gave me $300. Adams told me he got $200."

He swore that the assassination of Steunenberg was first suggested by Haywood, was jointly plotted by Haywood, Moyer, Pettibone and himself. was financed by Haywood and was executed by himself after the failure of an attempt in which Jack Simpkins had participated.

Orchard lifted the total of his own murdered victims to 18, and detailed the circumstances under which he tried to murder former Gov. Peabody. Judge Goddard, Judge Gabbert, Gen. Sherman Bell, Dave Moffat and Frank Herne. Incidentally, he confessed to a plan to kidnap the child of one of his former associates.

Orchard's Story Unshaken.

Boise, Idaho.-Counsel for William D. Haywood continued their attack on the testimony of Harry Orchard at both sessions of the trial Friday, and centered their strongest assault on the events beginning with the explosion in the Vindicator mine and ending with the earlier meetings between the witness and the leaders of the Federation of Miners in Denver. To the extent that traffic with "the other side" in the war of labor and capital in Colorado was discreditable they succeeded in discrediting the witness. Orchard stood the test and strain very well and held tenaciously to the story he related Wednesday and Thursday.

Under cross-examination by the defense Orchard confessed guilt of the sordid social crimes of deserting his young child and wife in Ontario, fleeing to British Columbia with Hattie Simpson, the wife of another man, and committing bigamy by marrying a third woman at Cripple Creek. Orchard held tenaciously to his direct testimony during the attack of the defense, and his testimony was practically unshaken.

Ruskin on Manual Labor.

We are always in these days endeavoring to separate intellect and manual labor; we want one man to be always thinking and another to be always working, and we call one a gentleman, and the other an operative; whereas the workman ought often to be thinking, and the thinker often to be working, and both should be gentlemen in the best sense. As it is, we make both ungentle, but one envying, the other despising his brother; and the mass of society is made up of morbid thinkers and miserable workers!

- PINKIE PRIM -

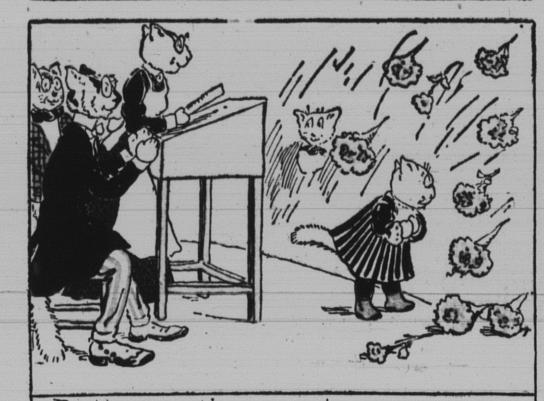

All the kids have got bouquets, And most of them are glad; 'Cause, of school"last day"it is. But, - Pinkie Prim is sad!

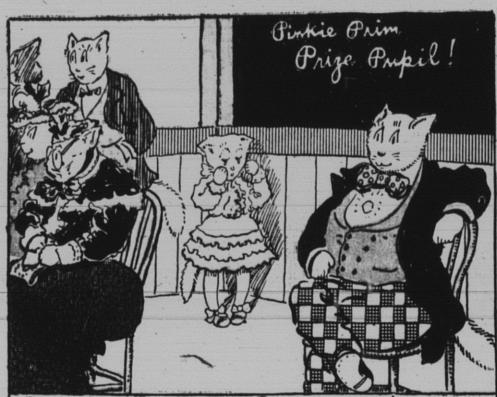

Pinkie loves to run and play,—
As well as all the rest;—
But, of all the things she loves,
She loves her books the best!

Pinkie has to say a piece,—
"Asleep", "tis," at the switch":
Though she knows each word of it,
She's "worked up to a pitch"

Pretty soon the parents come.
The pieces then are said.
The Board of Education
Puts Pinkie" at the head".

The best reciter, Pinkie is; And carries off the prize. But, - over in one corner, -There's tears in one girl's eyes.

She's the girl "forgot her piece?"
So, when they get outside,
Pinkie quickly seeks her out;
"Prize Candy" to divide.

Polishing Cloths.

Old pieces of velveteen should, after they have served their original purpose, be saved for polishing cloths. They will answer the purpose of wash leather for plate cleaning, etc., perfectly, and save buying anything afresh. Wash the velveteen cloths as often as needed in soapy water and hang out to dry.

Laundry Soap.

You will need less laundry soap if it is thoroughly dried before using. For this pile it in such a way as to leave open spaces between the bars to allow free access of air.

Prevention of Poison Oak.

Salt water will render the most delicate ikin absolutely proof against the poison oak. A dessertspoonful to a quart of water them off with a moist cloth.

To Keep Cream Sweet.

If cream curdles in your coffee, especiality for breakfast, merely add a pinch of baking soda to the cream, and it will not turn sour in the coffee.

Is usually sufficient, but more may be used without injuring the skin, and is often advisable. Bathe the hands and face freely just before going out and again immediated by upon return.

Laundry Brushes. Pressing New Waists.

When you wish to press a new waist fold a clean sheet so that there will be four thicknesses, pin tightly over ironing board, sprinkle with warm water and press the waist on it.

Latitudy Brusnes.

For the woman who does her own laundry work great saving of time and strength may be found in the use of the small 5-cent vegetable brushes. They are just the thing to rub soiled neckbands, wrists and all badly soiled garments.
