FOUND DEAD ON M.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

Body Was Discovered by Train Crew Justice J. P. Wood Held the Inquest Wednesday Afternoon.

Wednesday morning about 6:45 o'clock the crew on train No. C. S. 2, east bound freight, discovered the body of a man laying between the north and south distance west of the Cavanaugh Lake road. The train was stopped and Chas. Reilly, of Ypsilanti, a brakeman on the be used. train, was left in charge of the body. The train then pulled into the Chelsea station and notified the officials of their

For a distance of 224 feet west of where the body was discovered the south track was strewn with the flesh of the dead man, but the ground was not torn up, and just where the fatal accident took place will probably never be

The east and west section crews of the M. C. were sent to the relief of the brakeman. Deputy Sheriff Leach and a arrived at the scene a few minutes after the railroad men got there.

Justice of the Peace Wood was called to the spot and, after viewing the grounds, had the following drawn as a coroner's jury: George Fauser, jr.; Phillip Fauser, George S. Davis, R. D. Walker, Dr. Verne Riemenschneider and A. E. Winans. He then adjourned the case until 2 o'clock p. m.

The section men were directed to gather up the remains, which were brought to Chelsea and given in charge of undertaker Mapes.

The dead man is supposed to have been Willis Canfield, who for many years was a resident of Lyndon, and a brother of Mrs. Leander Easton, of Lima, and Jas. Canfield, of Jackson.

Justice Wood and the jury met at 2 clock, Wednesday afternoon, in the that the suit of clothes worn by the who he had sold them to.

Kent Walworth, also testified that the shoes worn by the deceased were like the others in the stock of the H. S Iolmes Mercantile Co.

A. E. Winans identified the watch found on the deceased as one he had sold about two years ago to Canffeld.

W. E. Snyder identified the name Willis" on the shirt collar band, as the collars of Canfield.

Miss Margaret Miller, next testified that she saw Canfield at the home of her father, George Miller, of Lyndon, Tuesday evening, about 9:30 o'clock, and that that he was absent from the house Wednesday morning. That the members of the family did not hear him leave the house during the night, and that the kitchen door was found unlocked by her father Wednesday morning. She farther testified that Canfield was employed by met at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. Miss Helen Mohrlock, of Lyndon, was called to the witness stand, and she identified the piece of paper and writing as the address of her uncle in Chicago as one she had given to Canfield some

W. E. Snyder was then recalled. He was shown the neck-band of the shirt and said he believed that it was the property of Willis Canfield, as it corresponded with his laundry records. The case was then given to the jury. They rendered a verdict that they supposed the deceased came to his death by being run over by a train of cars on the M. C. railway tracks, and that his death was probably accidental. In the clothing of the deceased was found $24 in cash, a railway ticket on the electric line from Jackson to Chelsea, his watch and the slip of paper containing the Chicago address of William Mohrlock. A portion of the coat and his handkerchief was found on the Kelly crossing by the section, considerably over a mile east of where the supposed sceident happened.

Just what Mr. Canfield's movements might have been is unknown, and how he came to where he met his death will he came to where he met his death will probably always remain a question that will be discussed by all of his friends.

The deceased was intered in the John Moore cemetery of Lyndon, where his father and mother are buried, the burial taking place Wednesday afternoon.

MAKING GREATER OPPORTUNITY FOR SONS OF FARMERS.

Some Causes for Complaint Which Can Be Obliterated by the United Efforts of the People.

How often do we hear it said that the young man has not the opportunity that the young man of a score of years ago had. How great is the complaint of trusts and combinations which control industries to the detriment of the smaller ones in business, and how often is reference made to business concentration in the large cities at the cost of the smaller Innovations in business methods have been many. It may be said that this is an era of economical methods; that evolution is going on continually broadening the field for individual effort and making possible the operation of mammoth enterprises. There can be no doubt as to the detrimental effects upon small towns of this business concentration in the larger cities. Pessimists deplore the lack of opportunity for the young men of to-day. At the same time the large corporations put forth the cry that there is a scarcity of the right kind of material for important places of trust. However this may be, there is one thing evident, and that is, small towns being kept from advancing narrows the field for the young men who would otherwise enjoy an opportunity to engage in business.

Traveling to the large city for employment, the youth, perhaps, seeks a clerkship at moderate wages. There are thousands of others that he must compete with in the race for success. His field is narrowed. It is not often that he has fair competition, and favoritism he finds is one of the obstructions in his way. One of the cures for this condition is to devise means of enlarging the scope and importance of the se-called country towns.

There is no economical reason why the large city should have the business that rightfully belongs to the small town. There is no saving in buying goods at a distant point even though a small percentage may be saved directly. Whenever a resident of a community sends "his money to some other community for the necessities that he requires, he robs his own home town of a certain amount of business. Employment is given to the people of the large city instead of the people of the local community.

It has been estimated that mor than 50 per cent. of the trade goes from some communities to larger cities. If this trade were given to the home town, it would immediately double its business importance and give a corresponding increase in employment for the people. This means that the population of the town would be increased and the opportunity for engaging in business would be greater. Not only this, but it is an established principle that values of farm lands to a great extent are dependent upon the activity of the town near which the farms may be located. Thus it is plain that if the sons of farmers would have greater opportunities open to them for engaging in business, it can be increased by closely adhering "Who came; will you tell me that?" to the home trade and home protec-'tion principle, which widens the local "Why, the people who've been travfield for individual effort in a business

OPPRESSION IN FOREIGN LANDS. Laborers Reduced to Slavery Through Systems of Land Holding.

Americans should be thankful for the liberty that their form of government allows. It is only necessary to study into conditions as they obtain in many of the European countries, to learn how enslaved are the common classes of the people of those countries. The holding of vast estates by the nobility has reduced the peasant classes to a condition of serfdom.

able that the artisans, and the workers in the mills, receive wages that and clothing. In many of the continental countries of Europe the farm laborer receives as compensation from $1 to $1.50 a week. In Silesa, where there are large cotton factories, expert weavers receive from $2.28 to $3 per week, and women employed at like work earn less than $2 per week. Even in Old England, where labor is paid the best of any European counfood in order to make ends meet.

The fact is, chronic catarrh is a disease which is very provalent. Many thousand people know they have chronic catarrh. They have visited lungs, stomach or some other internal organ. There is no doubt as to the nature of the disease. The only trouble is the remedy. This doctor has tried to cure them. That doctor has tried to prescribe for them.

BUT THEY ALL FAILED TO RRING ANY RELIEF.

Dr. Hartman's idea is that a catarrh as he is making it; that it can be made honestly, of the purest drugs and of the strictest uniformity. His idea is that this remedy can be supplied directby to the people, and no more be charged for it than is necessary for the handling of it.

No other household remedy so universally advertised carries upon the label the principal active constituents, showing that Peruna invites the full inspection of the critics.

WAITING FOR THE FUN.

"Something Would Happen."

An old gentleman, rather portly and clad in a somewhat youthful suit of light gray flannel, sat on a bench in the park enjoying the day, relates the Woman's Home Companion.

"What's the matter, sonny?" he asked a small urchin who lay on the grass just across the walk and stared intently. "Why don't you go and through the hall, a resounding kiss play?" "Don't wanter," the boy replied.

"But it is not natural," the old gentleman insisted, "for a boy to be so quiet. Why don't you run about?"-"Oh, I'm just woitin'," the little fellow answered. "I m just awaitin' till you get up. A man painted that bench about fifteen minutes ago."

Once More "Perpetual Motion." David Uniapon, a full-blooded native of the norther territory, Australia, who combines a genius for mathematics with a passion for music, claims to have invented a machine which will secure perpetual motion. He is now in Adelaide, the capital of South Australia, seeking the means of testing the feasibility of his mechanism. He explains that the forces which he proposes to use are gravitation and momentum and he had to come to Adelaide to seek the assistance of the aborinines department in procuring four beveled wheels, a spindle, a tube and so on. He is confident that when he gets these requisites he can put together a machine which will bring perpetual motion appreciably nearer.

Performing a Useful Mission. The Society for Psychical Research has lately exposed certain pseudospiritualistic manifestations at Windsor, Nova Scotia. The whole town had been stirred by the singular behavior of material things. Boxes and barrels were moved, chairs were rocked, and smaller objects flew through the air with extraordinary force. Upon hearing of this, Prof. Hyslop dispatched scene, to investigate the report. The latter, who is something of a wizard himself, proved, as Prof. Hyslop says, "that all the alleged phenomena at Windsor which excited public notice were frauds pure and simple." Great pains had been taken by those who perpetrated the tricks to escape detecits own motion and give forth oracutians, while the voice was that of a line was not taken, such double precauboy who was concealed within. Dangers Lurking in Cravats.

Girls who gave neckties to men used to get into the joke papers. Now, no more. Since the notion of wearing knit ties came in a few years ago, the mightiest is not too proud to display such handiwork. And in this act is there not a quaint and charming symbolism? The tie, fashioned by innumerable delicate motions of soft fingers, represents in its final form almost a detached part of the lady herself. Mere thread plus her-that is a willing slave, knots around his neck. Might not one almost say that that silken noose, which, minus what her hands have done, would be mere yarn, is indeed her hands? A noose-aye, one's neck, it is but a step from being caressed to being throttled in the reexclaims the editor of Collier's, we the tie. No, this is not fishing. There seems to be no end to the misfortunes attending the French navy, particularly as regards the Toulon station. The latest mishap was a fire on the battleship Hoche, which proved so serious, threatening to reach the magazine and destroy the was shown in Friday's testimony. vessel, that she was sunk to extinguish the flames. From the beginning of the year to the present time there have been 20 more or less notable occurrences in the French navy. The worst was the explosion on the battleship Iena while lying at her dock at Toulon, when over a hundred lives were lost. Other casualties include the total wreck of the cruisers Jean Bart and Chanzy, the loss of several submarine boats and torpedo destroyers, damages by collision while maneuvering and so on. It looks as though an able-bodied hoodoo is working overtime making trouble for French ships and sailors.

Grumblers.

Grumblers who have fallen into the habit of complaining about their real or imaginary troubles are nuisances to those who associate with them. The business man who is ever grumbling and growling about things makes a blue atmosphere about him. There is no good in grumbling. Grumbling is an evidence that you are looking at the world through blue glasses; that you haven't the proper estimate of other people. Grumbling is an advertisement to the world that you are not a success, says New York Weekly. Grumbling won't help things a bit. The more you indulge yourself in grumbling the quicker you form the habit, and it becomes so fixed upon you that later on you find it almost impossible to shake it off.

That forestry is growing in importance is evident from the care given the matter in educational institutions and the number of persons taking this course of instruction. It is announcedfrom Washington that no less than 35 young men who have just graduated from American schols of forestry have | siding in Buena Vista, while picking entered the government service. They come from Yale, Harvard, Michigan Nebraska and other universities and colleges. The cause is one to which 'alent and skill may well be devoted.

THINGS BROUGHT OUT IN THE INQUEST ON THE SALEM WRECK.

ORDER WAS ILLEGIBLE.

A Double Precaution Against Wreck That Might Have Been Taken-Operators Have Other Duties.

Probing for Facts.

The inquest on the Salem railroad his assistant, Mr. Carrington, to the disaster under way before Justice Joslyn, in Northville, has developed these points up to date:

That Train Dispatcher Marcus A. Bonsell, of the Pere Marquette, had such absolute faith in his belief that the freight crew "had their orders," had read them aright and would be guided by them, that the thought of holding the excursion train at either tion. That operators at stations along the line are required to perform duties that take them away from their posts of duty. It was admitted that the operator at Plymouth was not within call when he should have been. The explanation was given that he was away delivering mail.

The illegibility of the freight conductor's train order, which led Conductor Hamilton to misread it, was fully established, although the fact was brought out that a careful trainman would not have accepted an important "No. 31" order without assuring him-

Hamilton's greatest worry is concerning the possibility of Engineer Rogers' giving an entirely different version of the accident.

Additional evidence of the Pere Marquette's purpose to saddle the entire responsibility for the Salem wreck on the freight crew and to shield its traindispatching department from blame,

"The man supremely responsible is the man charged with carrying out orders," was the concise and persistent declaration of Gen. Supt. Trump.

Evidence was introduced to show that three of the 11 cars making up the excursion train had been in service 35 years, three 24 years, and the rest not less than 14 years.

It was shown that the average length of service in the operating department of the road, with few exceptions, is less than two years-that is to say, that this department is practically in the hands of new men all

A ignificant feature of the inquest was the statement of Trainmaster Everett E. Kane, of Detroit, after stating that under similar circumstances. since the wreck, the operating department would have acted just the same. 'The Pere Marquette hasn't learned anything by this wreck, then? It has nothing to revise?" he was asked.

"Not a thing," was his answer. Case Was Dismissed.

Judge Streeter, of Houghton, dismissed the big mining suit of David A. Aitkin against Chase S. Osborn, of Sault Ste. Marie, because the evidence did not bear out the claims of the blaintiff. One remarkable feature was the statement of Attorney Larmont that he did not feel that he could ask for a decree in favor of Aitkin, as the evidence did not warrant it. The case grew out of the Moose mountain iron mine discovery, worth $25,000,000. Ait-"in claimed a quarter interest in Osborne's holding, involving about $125,-

ARMENIAN PRIEST GIVES NEW TWIST TO BLACKMAIL PLOT.

TO DISCREDIT PATRIOTS

Anonymous Letter in Which His Own Life Is Threatened.

New York. - Rev. Levont Marlogessian, once treasurer of the Hunchakist, the Armenian society, which outsiders say has fallen from its high estate of patriotism to the practice of blackmail, gave Friday a new twist to the district attorney's investigation of the organization.

The priest had been subpoenaed to tell what he knew. This was to the effect that the present agitation, ostensibly directed by reputable Armenians against a band of assassins, was in fact inspired by the Turkish government whose hired spies systematically sought to discredit the patriotic Armenians in this country. The pastor of the Armenian Apostolic church had, he admitted, formerly been a member and the treasurer of the Hunchakist, but some time ago withdrew. He knew nothing of the murder of the rug merchant, Tavshanjian, who had refused to pay $10,000 for his life, and if extortion had been practiced he knew nothing of it. On the contrary, he told the district attorney that he, himself, was the object of persecution on the part of the Turkish government. Pressed to throw, if possible, light upon the workings of the conspirators, the priest replied: "You are a rich and powerful nation, and you can find out more than ther Martogessian said: "I am entirely innocent of these insinuations which have been cast against me. All my troubles have been brought on by Turkish spies. There are 50 of them in this city and they are constantly hounding me.

"I never demanded money from anybody and have never gone to any wealthy Armenian for any.

"The Turkish government is behind it all," he added. "I am in danger of my own life. I have been threatened many times and I intend to go to Police Commissioner Bingham and ask him for a permit to carry a revolver."

The little steamers that ply between here and the mighty Amazon river bring the richest cargoes that reach the port. It is safe to say that $500,000 is the value of an average ocean liner's cargo. The steamship Graagense recently brought 4,369 cases of rubber. On a basis of $500 per case this alone was worth $2,184,500. ONE OF WOMEN'S CHARMS.

sense of Reserve Sald to Add Much to Attractiveness.

A woman, especially to be attractive, must preserve a sense of reserve; she must, so to speak, keep up a certain amount of mystery about herself. There is a folklore tale of a woman who, finding her married life unhappy, went to a white witch for a charm against the trouble. She received a flask filled with a colorless liquid, which she was directed to take and hold in her mouth whenever she was disposed to quarrel with her husband. She obeyed directions, and, delighted with the effect of the charm, went back to the witch for a fresh supply when that was exhausted. "The liquid was merely water," said the wise woman. "The virtue of the remedy consists simply in holding your tongue in keeping back angry answers." To adopt the rule, says Woman's Life, once given to a gushing girl by a friend who knew the world, "Never speak of yourself, and never say anything which is uncalled for," would at first seem likely to make Trappists of all the world; yet it is to be questioned whether, after all, the advice was not wise. There always are people who like to talk, whose favor is to be won by interested listening, and good listeners are rare.

This leaves a long loop at the waist line, which can be tied in a bow knot when the corset is comfortably fitted.

With the second lacing begin also at the waist line and lace down, fastening the two ends in the last two holes. The two loops at the waist line can be knotted together or tied separately. In either case it is an easy matter to adjust the fullness at
