THE NEW POWER PLANT

OF THE GLAZIER STOVE COMPANY.

Equipped With Machinery of Modern Construction—The Plant Completed and in Operation.

The new power plant of the Glazier Stove Co., is completed and in operation. In the boiler room, which is 60x100 feet, two Babcock tubular boilers of 150 horse power, each, have been installed. The coal is fed to the fire box under the boiler by a Jones Underfeed Stoker. There is also in this room a Cochrane feed water heater, a blower for supplying air to the furnaces, a large elevator to be used for hoisting the coal for the boilers.

The engine room is 60x100 feet in size and in it is a Monarch Corliss Tandem compound engine of 250 horse power capacity. Connected with the engine is a generator of 220 volts. This generator furnishes power for operating 12 motors ranging from 10 to 35 horse power each and will furnish the power for lighting all of the buildings of the Stove Works.

A marble switchboard has been placed in this room. There is also a large high pressure pump for the water supply of the automatic sprinkler system which has been installed in every building of the Glazier Stove Co.

Two large water heaters will supply the hot water for the heating system which is forced through the pipes by a turbine pump specially built for that purpose. The floors in both rooms are built of cement and the entire building is fire proof.

There is probably no finer power plant used by a manufacturing concern in the state and it is certainly the finest one of its kind in Washtenaw county and it is a decided credit to the managers of the Glazier Stove Co.

CHELSEA PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Will Open Tuesday, September 3—A Full Corps of Instructors Have Been Engaged.

The Chelsea public schools will open in all departments Tuesday, September 3. The buildings are now being cleaned and repaired for the year's work. The Kindergarten room will not be opened this year on account of its unsanitary condition. The Board of Education are looking for better quarters for the little people in which to make their start in school life. On account of its increased attendance in the high school department and more room required for laboratories, quarters must be provided for the fourth and fifth grades. The Board is finding some difficulty in providing suitable rooms for these grades.

Superintendent Gallup feels that he has an efficient corps of teachers for the year and desires that all parents make an effort to get acquainted with the teachers of their children. The teachers and their work are as follows: Kindergarten—Miss Iva Jennings. First grade—Mabel Claire Lowensbury. Second grade—Olive Chapman. Third grade—Helen Eder. Fourth grade—Mrs. Florence Howlett. Fifth grade—Maude Haines. Sixth grade—Theo Wilson. Seventh grade—Elizabeth Dewey. Eighth grade—Josephine Hoppe. Music and Drawing—Florence Crane. History—Lou Wilson. Latin and German—Mabel Bradshaw. English—Madge E. Wilcox. Science—Rachel Benham. Mathematics—E. E. Gallup.

In Florida.

Bradentown, Florida, is the home of R. C. Glenn, a pioneer resident of North Lake, and the following will give a short description of his southern home. "Bradentown is a great place for truck gardeners. Large quantities of peas, beans, lettuce, cucumbers, eggplant and celery are raised there each year and shipped to the northern markets principally in New York. A great deal of land is being drained for market gardens. During the past year 6,000 acres have been drained at a cost of $30,000 and this land will all be in market gardens another year. The town has a population of about 2,000 and has two weekly newspapers."

School Teachers Meeting.

The district school teachers of Washtenaw county will hold a meeting in Ann Arbor Saturday, August 31. The object of this meeting is for the purpose of discussing plans for the year's work with the County School Commissioner. The following call for the meeting has been sent out by County School Commissioner Essery:

"Last year the teachers of Washtenaw county met the Saturday before the opening of school and discussed subjects relating to the work about to begin. The success attending that meeting, and similar meetings held throughout the state, was such that Supt. L. L. Wright has advised the school commissioners of the state to call together their respective teachers on Saturday, August 31, 1907.

"We expect to be able to distribute blanks for your reports, the new school laws, and other papers necessary to your work.

"There are some things we desire to bring to your attention that can be done much better in such a gathering than by a circular letter. This is our first letter to you and we expect an answer from you personally. Every rural teacher, that is every live one in Washtenaw county, will be found in the court house at 3 p. m. on August 31. Will you be among that number? I hope so."

WANTS IT CANCELED

Mrs. Bates, of Chelsea, Asks the Circuit Court to Cancel a Mortgage of $229 on Her Real Estate.

Mrs. Eva M. Bates, of Chelsea, has commenced suit in the circuit court against Campbell & Steadman, of Bannister, seeking to have a note and mortgage for $229.61 declared void. She sets up that she owns a one-fourth interest in the homestead of the late Charles Canfield, in Lyndon township and that the mortgage is upon this interest and constitutes a cloud on the title. She signed the note and mortgage October 6, 1905, and claims that she was induced to sign it by fraud, misrepresentation, coercion and duress; that the agent of Campbell & Steadman stated that her husband, Elmer Bates, had overdrawn his account and that unless the amount of the draft was paid at once serious consequences would happen to him, that he would be immediately arrested and given from ten to twenty years in the penitentiary, thus bringing disgrace upon herself and children and that she was not allowed to consult with friends or counsel. She declares that the note is without legal consideration and void and asks the court to cancel the mortgage. Stivers & Kalmbach are the attorneys for Mrs. Bates.

Elks' Field Day.

The Elks will hold a field day and clam bake next Sunday, August 25th at Stevenson's grove near Ann Arbor, to reach which a car is taken to Carpenter's Corners. A fine program of sports has been arranged and the events are open to all Elks. Prizes will be awarded for all of the events at the conclusion of the sports.

At 10 o'clock a. m. a ball game between Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti Elks is on the program. At noon the party will have a clam bake and during the afternoon a program of sports have been arranged. Tug-of-war Chelsea vs. Milan Elks is announced as one of the features of the afternoon.

Teachers Get Certificates.

A large percentage of the teachers, who took the recent county teachers' examination held in Ann Arbor have been granted certificates. Sixty-nine took the examination and 61 have been granted certificates, 45 third grade, 15 second grade and 1 first grade. The following are those who reside in this vicinity.

Third grade—Emma Dresselhouse, Amanda Feldkamp, Elizabeth Farrell, Jennie Geddes, Gladys Matteson, May McGuinness, Miss Riemschneider, Florence Reno, Isabelle Richards and Mildred Walsh. Second grade—Beatrice Bacon, Mabel E. Reade, Nellie Walsh and Rose Zalke and Helen Miller.

The Grange Picnic.

The Grange Rally at Cavanaugh Lake last Thursday was a complete success in every way and enjoyed by all present. The program was not just what had been expected, yet the portion of it given was fully appreciated by the large audience. The address by Hon. J. K. Campbell was a fine one, touching many important points concerning the Grange organization.

The Francisco band deserves praise for the choice musical numbers which they rendered. Taking all into consideration the gathering was a pleasant event to the members of the Grange who were present.

Endorsed by the County.

"The most popular remedy in Otsego county, and the best friend in my family," writes W. M. Dietz, editor and publisher of the Otsego Journal, Gilbertville, N. Y., is Dr. King's New Discovery. It has proved to be an infallible cure for coughs and colds, making short work of the worst of them. We always keep a bottle in the house. I believe it to be the most valuable prescription known for lung and throat diseases." Guaranteed to never disappoint the taker, at Freeman & Cummings Co. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

MR. AND MRS. O. C. BURKHART

Entertained a Party of Thirty-five Last Saturday—Enjoyed by all Who Were Present.

Upon the invitation of O. C. Burkhardt a number of the directors of the Washtenaw Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Co., were his guests at North Lake. The directors, their wives and other friends to the number of 35 were entertained for the day by Mr. and Mrs. Burkhardt.

For the past four years Mr. and Mrs. Burkhardt have had the directors as guests for one day at North Lake. This year the party was the largest in number that they have entertained. The day was devoted to fishing, boating, bathing and having a good time generally by all present.

A fish dinner was served to 35 and supper to 28 people.

All present were highly pleased with their days entertainment and looking forward to the reunion at the same place next year.

The Final Result.

The three leading candidates on the Republican ticket are Charles J. DeLand, of Jackson, John A. Fairlie, of Ann Arbor, and John K. Campbell, of Augusta. The returns up to this time have indicated the election of John F. Lawrence to the third place on the Republican ticket, but the complete returns as shown below, indicate the nomination of Mr. Campbell by a majority of six. Later returns also show that Thomas E. Barkworth, of Jackson, leads Prof. Cooley, of Ann Arbor, by four, thereby making him the third candidate on the Democratic ticket.

The combined votes of the two counties for both republican and democratic candidates is as follows:

REPUBLICANS.
C. J. Deland	1069
John A. Fairlie	911
John K. Campbell	780
John F. Lawrence	780

FIRST OF THE SEASON

Chelsea Opera House Saturday, August 24, Two Performances, Matinee and Evening—A Strong Attraction.

"As Told in the Hills" one of the strongest theatrical attractions of the season, will come to the Chelsea opera house Saturday, August 24, matinee and evening. The principal character is that of Pannena, the daughter of an Indian chief who was adopted by an emigrant and his wife and reared as their own child. The character is regarded as one of the strongest and most interesting that has been created in any modern melodrama, showing as it does the influences of education and refinement of a typical child of nature, who has inherited all the strong characteristics of her Indian father and mother. In the play, she appears as the ideal type of young womanhood retaining the best traits of character that she has inherited and combining them with the accomplishments acquired from her life in an American home and an advanced education.

CHAPTER XXI.—Continued.

Pickering's face grew white and his eyes started, and when he tried suddenly to speak his jaw twitched. The room was so still that the breaking of a blazing log on the andirons was a pleasant relief. We stood, the three of us, with our eyes on Pickering, and in my own case I must say that my heart was pounding my ribs at an uncomfortable speed, for I knew Larry was not sparing for time.

The blood rushed into Pickering's face and he turned toward Larry stormily.

"This is unwarrantable and infamous! My relations with Mr. Glenarm are none of your business. When you remember that after being deserted by his own flesh and blood he appealed to me, going so far as to intrust all his affairs to my care at his death, your reflection is an outrageous insult. I am not accountable to you or any one else!"

"Really, there's a good deal in all that," said Larry. "We don't pretend to any judicial functions. We are perfectly willing to submit the whole business and all my client's acts to the authorities."

"I would give much if I could reproduce some hint of the beauty of that word authorities as it rolled from Larry's tongue!"

"Then, in God's name, do it, you blackguards," roared Pickering.

Stoddard, seated on the table, knocked his heels together gently. Larry recrossed his legs and blew a cloud of smoke. Then, after a quarter of a minute in which he gazed at the ceiling with his quiet, blue eyes, he said:

"Yes, certainly, there are always the authorities. And as I have a tremendous respect for your American institutions I shall at once act on your suggestion. Mr. Pickering, the estate is richer than you thought it was. It holds, or will hold, your notes given to the decedent for $320,000."

He drew from his pocket a brown envelope, walked to where I stood, and placed it in my hands.

At the same time Stoddard's big figure grew active, and before I realized that Pickering had leaped toward the packet, the executor was sitting in a chair, where the chaplain had thrown him. He rallied promptly, stuffing his necktie into his waistcoat; he even laughed a little.

"So much old paper! You gentlemen are perfectly welcome to it."

"Thank you!" jerked Larry.

Mr. Glenarm and I had many transactions together, and he must have forgotten to destroy those papers," continued Pickering.

"Quite likely," I remarked. "It is interesting to know that Sister Theresa wasn't his only debtor."

Pickering stepped to the door and called the sheriff.

"I will give you until tomorrow morning at nine o'clock to vacate the premises. Those claims are utterly worthless, as I am ready to prove. The court understands the situation perfectly."

"Perfectly, perfectly," repeated the sheriff.

"I believe that is all," said Larry, pointing to the door with his pipe.

The sheriff was regarding him with particular attention.

"What did I understand your name to be?" he demanded.

"Lawrence Donovan," Larry replied coolly.

Pickering seemed to notice the name now and his eyes lighted disagreeably. "I think I have heard of your friend before," he said, turning to me. "I congratulate you on the international reputation of your counsel. He's esteemed so highly in Ireland that they offer a large reward for his return. Sheriff, I think we have finished our business for to-day."

He seemed anxious to get the man away, and we gave them escort to the outer gate where a horse and buggy was waiting.

"Now, I'm in for it," said Larry, as I locked the gate. "We've spiked one of his guns, but I've given him a new one to use against myself. But come, and I will show you the Door of Bewilderment before I skip."

CHAPTER XXII.

A Prowler of the Night.

Now we plunged into the cellar, through the trap and to the Door of Bewilderment.

"Don't expect too much," admonished Larry; "I can't promise you a single Spanish coin."

"Perish the ambition! We have blocked Pickering's game, and nothing else matters," I said.

We crawled through the hole in the wall and lighted candles. The room was about seven feet square. At the farther end was an oblong wooden door, close to the ceiling, and Larry tugged at the fastening until it came down, bringing with it a mass of snow and leaves.

"Gentlemen," he said, "we are at the edge of the ravine. Do you see the blue sky? And yonder, if you will twist your necks a bit, is the boat-house."

"Well, let the scenic effects go and show us where you found those papers," I urged.

"Speaking of mysteries, that is where I throw up my hands, lads. It's quickly told. Here is a table, and here is an old despatch box, which lies just where I found it. It was closed and the key was in the lock. I took out that packet—it wasn't even sealed—saw the character of the contents, and couldn't resist the temptation to try the effect of an announcement of its discovery on your friend Pickering. Now that is nearly all. I found this piece of paper under the tape with which the envelope was tied, and I don't hesitate to say that when I read it I laughed until I thought I should shake down the cellar. Read it, John Glenarm!"

He handed me a fragment of legal-cap paper on which was written in the unmistakable handwriting of John Marshall Glenarm, these words:

HE LAUGHS BEST WHO LAUGHS LAST.

"What do you think is so funny in this?" I demanded.

"Who wrote it, do you think," asked Stoddard.

"Who wrote it, do you ask? Why Jack's grandfather wrote it! John Marshall Glenarm, the cleverest, grandest old man that ever lived, wrote it!" declared Larry, his voice booming loudly in the room. "It's all a great big game, fixed up to try you and Pickering,—but principally you, you blockhead! Oh, it's grand, perfectly, deliciously grand,—and to think it should be my good luck to share in it!"

"Humph! I'm glad you're amused, but it doesn't strike me as being so awfully funny. Suppose those had fallen into Pickering's hands; then where would the joke have been, I should like to know!"

"On you, my lad, to be sure! The old gentleman wanted you to study architecture; he wanted you to study his house; he even left a little pointer in an old book! Oh, it's too good to be true!"

"That's all clear enough," observed Stoddard, knocking upon the despatch box with his knuckles. "But why do you suppose he dug this hole here with its outlet on the ravine?"

"Oh, it was the way of him!" explained Larry. "He liked the idea of queer corners and underground passages. This is a bully hiding place for man or treasure, and that outlet into the ravine makes it possible to get out of the house with nobody the wiser. It's in keeping with the rest of his scheme. Be gay, comrades! Tomorrow will likely find us with plenty of business on hand. At present we hold the fort, and let us have a care lest we lose it."

We closed the ravine door, restored the wall as best we could, and returned to the library. We made a list of the Pickering notes and spent an hour discussing this new feature of the situation and speculating as to the hiding place of the remainder of my grandfather's fortune. Larry and Stoddard both declared their intention of remaining until my troubles were ended in spite of my protests. Stoddard stayed for dinner, and afterward we began again our eternal quest for the treasure, our hopes high from Larry's lucky strike of the afternoon, and with a new eagerness born of the knowledge that the morrow would certainly bring us face to face with the red crises. We ranged the house from tower to cellar; we overhauled the tunnel, for, it seemed to me, the hundredth time.

It was my watch, and at midnight, after Stoddard and Larry had reconnoitered the grounds and Bates and I had made sure of all the interior fastenings, I sent them off to bed and made myself comfortable with a pipe in the library.

I was glad of the respite, glad to be alone,—to consider my talk with Marian Devereux at St. Aratha's, and her return with Pickering. Why could she not always have been Olivia, ranging the woodland, or the girl in gray, or that woman, so sweet in her dignity, who came down the stairs at the Armstrongs? Her own attitude toward me was so full of contradictions; she had appeared to me in so many moods and guises, that my spirit ranged the whole gamut of feeling as I thought of her. But it was the recollection of Pickering's infamous conduct that colored all my doubts of her. Pickering had always been in my way, and here, but for the chance by which Larry had found the notes, I should have had no weapon to use against him.

The wind rose and drove shrilly around the house. A bit of scaffolding on the outer walls rattled loose somewhere and crashed down on the terrace. I grew restless, my mind in tent upon the many chances of the morrow, and running forward to the future. Even if I won in my strife with Pickering I had yet my way to make in the world. His notes were probably worthless,—I did not doubt that. I might use them to procure his removal as executor, but I did not look forward with any pleasure to a legal fight over a property that had brought me only trouble.

Something impelled me to go below and, taking a lantern, I tramped soberly through the cellar, glanced at the heating apparatus, and, remembering that the chapel entrance to the tunnel was unguarded, followed the corridor to the trap, and opened it. The cold air blew up sharply and I thrust my head down to listen.

A sound at once arrested me. I thought at first it must be the suction of the air, but Glenarm House was no place for conjecture, and I put the lantern aside and jumped down into the tunnel. A gleam of light showed far away for an instant, then the darkness and silence were complete.

I ran rapidly over the smooth floor, which I had traversed so often that I knew its every line. My only weapon was a heavy hickory club. Near the Door of Bewilderment I paused and listened. The tunnel was perfectly quiet. I took a step forward and stumbled over a brick, fumbled on the wall for the opening which we had closed carefully that afternoon, and at the instant I found it a lantern flashed blindingly in my face and I drew back crouching involuntarily, and clenching the club ready to strike.

"Good evening, Mr. Glenarm!"

Marian Devereux's voice broke the silence, and Marian Devereux's face with the full light of the lantern upon it, was bent gravely upon me. Her voice, as I heard it there,—her face, as I saw it there,—are the things that I shall remember last when my hour comes to go hence from this world. Her slim fingers, as they clasped the wire screen of the lantern, held my gaze for a second. The red tam-o'-shanter that I had associated with her youth and beauty was tilted rakishly on one side of her pretty head. To find her here, seeking, like a thief in the night, for some means of helping Arthur Pickering, was the bitterest drop in the cup. I felt as though I had been struck with a bludgeon.

"I beg your pardon!" she said, and laughed. "There doesn't seem to be anything to say, does there? Well, we do certainly meet under the most unusual, not to say unconventional, circumstances. Square Glenarm! Please go away or turn your back. I want to get out of this donjon keep."

She took my hand coolly enough and stepped down into the passage. Then I broke out stormily.

"You don't seem to understand the gravity of what you are doing! Don't you know that you are risking your life in crawling through this house at midnight?—that even to serve Arthur Pickering a life is a pretty big thing to throw away? Your infatuation for that blackguard seems to carry you far, Miss Devereux."

Pretty Corset Cover in Fancy Work—Making Up Foulard

The corset cover that saves sewing on insertion, then beading, and then lace, should be welcomed, and one is here shown that any girl could make up for herself and use the yard left from a thin lawn or batiste waist. The model is greatly in demand because it is so simple and involves so little labor. The girl who is stout and dreads to put anything extra around her hips, need not put on the little pepin which is really only to protect the corset below the waist line. In the summer when white skirts are worn this is not necessary.

The garment is made in two pieces, joined in a bias seam at the back, and to make one like the picture here in medium size would require 1 1/2 yards of flouncing about 16 or 18 inches wide. If you want the skirt portion, it will take one-half yard of plain material. This will give any girl a nice piece of fancy work to do on the piazza or lawn, as there are so few seams

Easily Made Corset Cover. Do that all of them could be done by hand. The arm's eye should be hemmed or faced with a little beading and then edged with narrow Val lace.

IDEAS FOR THE HOSTESS.

Mother Goose Luncheon—An Enjoyable Party—For a Shower.

A Mother Goose Luncheon. Every once in awhile the request comes for a "Mother Goose" entertainment, and this affair described below is quite out of the ordinary. In the invitations, which had quaint little pen and ink sketches on them of "Mother Goose" in peaked hat and broom, evidently quite ready to "sweep the cobwebs down from the sky," the guests were requested to wear something to indicate a character in the dear old book of nursery rhymes.

The table centerpiece was an enormous "pie" with a ribbon radiating to each plate, where it was attached to a funny little white lambkin. On the place cards most realistic spiders of Japanese manufacture were fastened by a drop of glue.

Each guest was called upon to recite the rhyme she represented when she was correctly guessed. This was the occasion of much merriment. When the dessert course was brought in, the hostess asked all to pull their ribbons, and out of the "pie" came all sorts of birds. They were found at the favor counter and elicited much favorable comment. "There is no telling what can be found until you begin to look," said the indefatigable hostess, who was ever on the alert for something new.

The souvenirs were a joy to the guests, being small Japanese teapots, bearing a card on which was written: "Polly, put the kettle on, and we'll all take tea."

A copy of "Mother Goose for Grown Folks" was the prize to the person who correctly guessed the most characters.

For a Shower.

Will Mrs. Merril kindly suggest some kind of a shower for a September bride, other than a "Kitchen" affair, as that has been provided, and greatly oblige an interested reader of the valuable department which is of much assistance.

For a Lawn Party.

Will you please tell us how to entertain some girl friends about the age of 14, at a lawn party, the hours being from 7:30 to 10 p. m.

Something in the way of amusements for the evening which will be simple but amusing. We thought of having Japanese lanterns to decorate the lawn. TWO CURIOUS GIRLS.

Decorate abundantly with lanterns; the refreshments may be served at small tables on the lawn, porch or in the dining-room as is most convenient.

There should be music, stringed instruments if possible, as it adds much to the occasion and dancing is always the best amusement. If you can have the grounds sufficiently lighted and it is a nice moonlight night, croquet is a good game; have a match, with prizes for the winners. Archery is also good, and tennis.

MADAME MERRIL.

SECRET OF GOOD DRESSING.

A Matter That is Altogether Apart from Vanity.

To understand the art of good dressing does not show vanity, but wisdom.

And for a woman to contribute to the charm and beauty of life by understanding the underlying principles of good dressing and practice them in the making of her clothes is to benefit the world and her own self at the same time.

Good dressing does not necessitate any uncomfortable compromise with reform in dress.

More often than not the so-called reform dress does nothing but make its wearer conspicuous.

The question of good dressing is more simple than reforms and movements. It does not force a woman to take a stand and in any ostentatious way differ from the prevailing modes.

All that is necessary for her to do is to study her own color scheme, to understand the merits and faults of her own body and to select for that body the clothes that are just suited in line and color.

To avoid useless ornamentation and to see to it that the color, texture and cut of her clothes are suitable to her occupation in life.

SWEEPING AND DUSTING.

A recent medical convention in England has not considered it beneath professional dignity to give housekeepers and maids some general directions when it comes to housecleaning.

Unhygienic ways of sweeping and dusting are unquestionably responsible for many different illnesses, for germs are in dust and dirt.

To prevent making a great dust in sweeping use moist sawdust on bare floors. When the room is carpeted moisten a newspaper and tear it into small scraps and scatter upon the carpet when you begin sweeping.

As you sweep brush the papers along by the broom; they will catch most of the dust and hold it fast, just as the sawdust does on bare floors.

In dusting a room do not use a feather duster, because this does not remove the dust from the room, but only brushes it into the air. Use soft dry cloths to dust with, and shake them frequently out of the window, or use slightly moistened cloths and rinse them out in water when you have finished.

Feather Hatpins.

Novelties of a very pleasing character are some feather hatpins that have recently arrived from Paris. They are the daintiest, prettiest things imaginable, and are to be had in a variety of choice. Humming birds offer themselves as particularly charming and adaptable owing to the varied character of their plumage, and there are also some sweet little miniature peacocks in realistic colorings, while a very distinguished note will be found in some black crows. Almost do these hatpins amount to trimmings, so fascinating and altogether decorative are they in appearance.

ARE PHYSICIANS' PRESCRIPTIONS NOSTRUMS?

To one not qualified, and few laymen are, to discriminate intelligently between physicians' prescriptions, proprietary medicines and nostrums, it may seem little short of a crime to hint even that physicians' prescriptions are in any manner related to nostrums; nevertheless, an impartial examination of all the facts in the case leads irresistibly to the conclusion that every medicinal preparation compounded and dispensed by a physician is, in the strict sense of the word, a nostrum, and that the average, ready-prepared proprietary remedy is superior to the average specially-prepared physicians' prescription.

What is a nostrum? According to the Standard Dictionary a nostrum is "a medicine the composition of which is kept a secret." Now, when a physician compounds and dispenses with his own hands a remedy for the treatment of a disease—and it is authoritatively stated that probably 60 per cent. of all physicians' prescriptions in this country are so dispensed—the names and quantities of the ingredients which constitute the remedy are not made known to the patient. Hence, since its composition is kept a secret by the physician, the remedy or prescription is unquestionably, in the true meaning of the word, a Simonsen nostrum. Furthermore, the prescription compounded by the average physician is more than likely to be a perfect jumble—replete with therapeutic, physiologic and chemical incompatibilities and bearing all the earmarks of pharmaceutical incompetency; for it is now generally admitted that unless a physician has made a special study of pharmacy and passed some time in a drug store for the purpose of gaining a practical knowledge of modern pharmaceutical methods, he is not fitted to compound remedies for his patients. Moreover, a physician who compounds his own prescriptions not only deprives the pharmacist of his just emoluments, but he endangers the lives of patients; for it is only by the detection and elimination of errors in prescriptions by clever, competent pharmacists that the safety of the public can be effectually shielded from the criminal blunders of ignorant physicians.

Nor can it be said that the average physician is any more competent to formulate a prescription than he is to compound it. When memorized or directly copied from a book of "favorite prescriptions by famous physicians," or from some text-book or medical journal, the prescription may be all that it should be. It is only when the physician is required to originate a formula on the spur of the moment that his incompetency is distinctly evident. Seemingly, however, the physicians of the United States are little worse than the average British physician; for we find Dr. James Burnett, lecturer on Practical Materia Medica and Pharmacy, Edinburgh, lamenting in the Medical Magazine the passing of the prescription and bemoaning the fact that seldom does he find a "final man" able to devise a prescription even in "good contracted Latin."

And what, it may be asked, is the status of the written prescription—the prescription that is compounded and dispensed by the pharmacist—is it, too, a nostrum? It may be contended that the patient, with the written formula in his possession, may learn the character of the remedy prescribed. So, possibly, he might if he understood Latin and were a physician or a pharmacist, but as he usually possesses no professional training and cannot read Latin, the prescription is practically a dead secret to him. Furthermore, the average prescription is so badly written and so greatly abbreviated that even the pharmacist, skilled as he usually is in deciphering medical hieroglyphs, is constantly obliged to interview prescribers to find out what actually has been prescribed. It may also be contended, that inasmuch as the formula is known to both physician and pharmacist the prescription cannot therefore be a secret. But with equal truth it might be contended that the formula of any so-called nostrum is not a secret since it is known to both proprietor and manufacturer; for it must not be forgotten that, according to reliable authority, 95 per cent. of the proprietors of so-called patent medicines prepared in this country have their remedies made for them by large, reputable manufacturing pharmacists. But even should a patent be able to recognize the names of the ingredients mentioned in a formula he would only know half the story. It is seldom, for instance, that alcohol is specifically mentioned in a prescription, for it is usually masked in the form of tinctures and fluid extracts, as are a great many other substances. It is evident, therefore, that the ordinary formulated prescription is, to the average patient, little less than a secret remedy or nostrum.

On the other hand, the formulae of nearly all the proprietary medicines that are exploited exclusively to the medical profession as well as those of a large percentage of the proprietary remedies that are advertised to the public (the so-called patent medicines) are published in full. Under the Food and Drugs Act, every medicinal preparation entering interstate commerce is now required to have the proportion or quantity of alcohol, opium, cocaine and other habit-forming or harmful ingredients which it may contain plainly printed on the label. As physicians' prescriptions seldom or never enter interstate commerce they are practically exempt under the law. And if it be necessary for the public to know the composition of proprietary remedies, as it is contended by those who through ig-

PUSHED THE BEAR ASIDE.

Surveyor Tells of Experience He Did Not Care to Repeat.

To walk right up to a monster bear and try to shove it out of the way and then escape without so much as a scratch is an experience of a lifetime. Harry I. Engelbright found it so a few days ago in Diamond Canyon, about Washington, says a Nevada City correspondent of the Sacramento Bee. The young man, son of Congressman Engelbright, has just returned from the upper country, where he has been doing some surveying, and relates a thrilling experience. "It was coming on dusk, at the close of the day's work in the brush-lined trail he saw a bear trading what he thought were hind quarters of some stray brood cow. He walked up and gave the bear a shove. It came to his haunches with a snort that made his hair rise and caused him to beat a hasty retreat. The big brute looked around and snuffed off into the woods. It was either asleep or else so busy eating ants from an old log that it failed to hear the young surveyor, whose footsteps were deadened by the thick carpet of pine needles. Later it was learned that the same bear, a monstrous cinnamon, had killed a dog earlier in the day. The dog ventured too close and with one blow of its paw the beast sent it hurtling yards and dead as a doornail."

Magnifying Choir Leader's Voice.

In the old village of Braybrooke, Northamptonshire, England, is a most curious instrument, five six inches in length and having a bell-shaped end two inches in diameter. The trumpet is made up of ten rings, which in turn are made up of smaller parts. The use of this trumpet—only four of this kind are known to exist at the present day—was to magnify the voice of a leader in the choir and summon the people to the church service. At the present time neither the choir nor the service is in need of this extraordinary "musical instrument," but the vicar of the church takes care of an ancient relic and is fond of showing it to all visitors.

Painfully Exact.

A New England man tells of a prosperous Connecticut farmer, painfully exact in money matters, who married a widow of Greenwich possessing her own right the sum of $100,000. Shortly after the wedding a friend of the farmer, to whom he offered congratulations, at the same time offered him a good thing for $100,000 to you. "Not quite that," said the farmer, "not quite that," said the friend, "I've stood there was every cent of $100,000 in it for you!" "I had to pay for a marriage license," said Malachi.

It's the best proof, for it comes from Michigan.
John Henderson, retired engineer, living at 1702 S. Wenona Ave., Bay City, Mich., says: "I know Doan's Kidney Pills are a good kidney remedy from personal experience. About fourteen years ago I suffered greatly with back-ache which was caused from catching cold. The pains seated themselves in the small of my back and over my hips. I was unable to work and it was just all I could do to get up and down from a chair. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills being a good remedy for such ailments and procured a box. After taking them I felt relieved and there has been no trace of the trouble returning. Occasionally I refer to them when feeling a little run down and they always fill me with renewed vigor. I feel it my duty to let others know of the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills."

One evidence of the popularity of the State Fair is the fact that it is known as an institution of the State of Michigan, and many organizations, such as churches, benevolent societies, fraternal organizations, etc. will have rest tents and booths on the ground, and some of them will conduct dining halls, and restaurants, assuring the visitors that they will be well cared for while visiting the big Fair. The State Fair association is naturally desirous of encouraging this.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

THE LIMIT OF LIFE.
The most eminent medical scientists are unanimous in the conclusion that the generally accepted limitation of human life is many years below the attainment possible with the advanced knowledge of which the race is now possessed. The critical period, that determines its duration, seems to be between 50 and 60; the proper care of the body during this decade cannot be too strongly urged; carelessness then being fatal to longevity. The management of the Michigan State Fair does not intend to have the grounds in an unsanitary condition during the big Fair, which will be held from Aug. 29th to Sept. 6th, as they have just completed arrangements for the proper disinfecting of not only all the buildings, but the grounds of the Fair and the stock on exhibition at an expense of nearly $1,000.

SLAYS HER HUSBAND.

Woman Says He Compelled Her to Live an Immoral Life.
Goaded to frenzy by the life of which she declares her husband means for their support, Mrs. Clara Sweeney, aged 25 years, of Grand Rapids, shot and killed her husband, James Sweeney, aged 27, Thursday afternoon.

The woman, apparently heartbroken over her deed, lies on a cot in the county jail, constantly moaning for "Jimmie." The woman tells a pitiful story.

She says that he brought men to their rooms on Commerce street. Thursday he brought a man to their place, but she rebelled. Sweeney left for liquor, and when he returned his wife had turned the man from her home and barricaded the doors against her husband. She told him he would have to get in through a window. He did, and a quarrel ensued, during which she shot him four times. When she saw he was mortally hurt she repented, and throwing her arms about him cried out for forgiveness. She was formerly Clara Connelly, of Alma, and the divorced wife of G. M. Hodgkinson, of that place. She had two children by Hodgkinson. The dead man was the son of Daniel Sweeney, a Conklin farmer.

Bloodhounds Trailing.

About 10:30 Tuesday night, an unknown man shot and probably fatally wounded Night Policeman Clarence Shockley, of Niles, and a sheriff's posse and bloodhounds from Battle Creek are trailing the man who did the shooting. Officer Shockley is unable to talk. Four bullets took effect in his body. The affair happened in C. R. Smith's lumber yard, and the wounded policeman was found by Glen Kugler, who was directed to the spot by hearing groans. Of late Shockley has been active in riding the city of suspicious-looking characters and thugs, and it is thought he had trailed this man to the lumber yard, and when attempting an arrest was shot down. About that time two citizens saw a young man, dressed in black, run down the railroad tracks. The bloodhounds were given the scent here and took it readily.

A Working Cruise.

Rumors are "afloat" to the effect that the triumph cruise of the Don Juan de Austria from the coast to Detroit was not as harmonious and constantly in one tune as was the battle of Manila, in which the Spanish flagship went to the bottom. Some members of the crew, it is now said, have grievances against the officers and tales of woe to tell. "I think the trouble originated with some of the men who went down expecting a pleasure trip, but found out that it was not a pleasure trip, but a cruise. The complaint was because the boys did not get shore liberty at Montreal, but there was good enough reason for that. They were afraid the 20 regulars we had aboard as coal passers, etc., would not get back in time. The reason was a good one, and we were all treated alike—they gave no shore liberty at all. I cannot see that they have any reasonable complaint."

The Detroit Tunnel.

The first steel section of the Michigan Central tunnel under Detroit river will be laid from the coast to shore within the next ten days. Already 500 feet of the trench in which the mammoth tube is to be laid have been dredged out. The first drifts for the tunnel approaches, from eight to sixteen feet in height, have been completed. A steam shovel is soon to be started on the open cut work on the American side. It will gouge out from fifty to seventy-five carloads of earth a day. From all indications nothing is making the cuts, the engineers in charge of the tunnel work expect to have very few difficult tasks to perform. Chief Engineer Kneear says the character of the soil to be worked through is well known, and if the present rate of progress is kept up, the big subway will be done in the fall of 1909.

The Bean Market.

George Winans, son of the late governor and state organizer of the American Society of Equity, stated recently that the farmers will get $1.50 per bushel for their beans if they hold them for that price. He said that the speculators are holding them at a low price and that it is up to the farmer to break the market. Further, the legitimate dealers are as anxious as the farmer to have this done. The growing crops, he said, on the ground, have been sold to the wholesalers and jobbers for $1.35 per bushel, to be delivered in October and November. He says that the Michigan farmer has the power to break the combination, which all legitimate dealers are anxious to see broken.

The Walkers.

How would you like to take a jaunt of about 500 miles with "shank's mare" as the only means of conveyance? This is what Elmer Thayer and Albert Chamberlain, of Jackson, and James M. Hutchinson and A. E. Reed, of Lansing, did. The quartet likes to walk, and when in the east they used their legs to get from the Jamestown exposition to Washington, Philadelphia, Harrisburg, the battlefields of Gettysburg and many other points of interest. The young men are members of the Overland Walking club of Jackson.

While instructing his wife how to handle a revolver, which he had presented her as a means of protection during his absence, Patrolman Frank Slater, of Bay City, was accidentally shot through his shoulder by Mrs. Slater.

The year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent, of Cheboygan, set fire to some hay on the farm, while playing with matches in a tent at Grass Bay, and as a result the infant daughter of the Vincents, who was asleep in a hammock, was terribly burned and died before medical aid in that city could be rendered.

THE STATE IN GENERAL

A LIGHT VOTE AND GREAT SCRAP ARE FEATURES OF THE PRIMARIES.

DEADLOCK IN THE NINTH Allegan Delegates Criticized the Governor—General Features of the Primaries Briefly Shown.

Little Interest Taken.
The vote throughout the state in the primary election was light, the citizens apparently taking little interest in the contests. In some parts of the state the voters turned out in order to help the local candidates beat those of other counties, but these were the only places where any deep interest was shown.

Allegan furnished the spectacle of delegates criticizing the governor for calling them "peanut politicians," and Judge Benjamin F. Heckert, of Paw Paw, in a warm "roast" declared Gov. Warner "was the peanut politician if there ever was one."
At Battle Creek delegates of the Ninth Republican are in deadlock. Kalamazoo county cast its entire vote for Walter R. Taylor and Calhoun did likewise for Delos Fall, of Albion. Three delegates are to be elected and the contest is over the third, each county wanting it.

In a spirit of non-partisanship the Democratic convention of the old Twelfth senatorial district, consisting of Oakland and Macomb counties, endorsed Attorney K. P. Rockwell, of Pontiac, Republican candidate for the constitutional convention. Gov. Warner's efforts to secure a workable primary election and non-partisan constitutional convention were approved and the legislature condemned for providing for the election of delegates by senatorial districts. The delegates from the several districts are:

- 1—Henry M. Campbell, Henry M. Duffell, Otto Gersabeck, Jr.
- 2—Clarence M. Burton, Levi L. Barbour, Charles C. Simons.
- 3—Noble Ashley, James McGregor, D. Augustus Straker.
- 4—William C. Manchester, Ward Copley, Harry H. Wait.
- 5—Clarke E. Baldwin, George B. Horton, L. B. Robinson, Lenawee.
- 6—John S. Flanders, St. Joseph; Charles Champion, Branch; Orval Cornell, Hillsdale.
- 7—L. C. Fyfe, V. M. Gore, Berrien; W. C. Jones, Cass.
- 8—Charles Thaw, Allegan; Judge Heckert, Guy A. Wickshall, Van Buren.
- 9—Deadlock after 51 ballots.
- 10—Charles L. De Land, Jackson; John A. Fairlie, Ann Arbor; John C. Sharp, Jackson, or John F. Lawrence, Ann Arbor.
- 11—George W. Moore, Jefferson; G. Brown, N. S. Boynton, Port Huron.
- 12—W. H. Acker, Macomb; Andrew L. Moore, Kleeber, P. Rockwell, Oakland.
- 14—William M. Kilpatrick, Odell Chapman, Albert Cook, Shiawassee, indicated.
- 15—J. M. C. Smith, E. A. Turnbull, Eaton; Charles H. Thomas, Barry.
- 16—James F. Barnett, Henry T. Head, E. J. Adams.
- 17—Roger J. Wykes, Horace T. Barnady, George E. Rowe.
- 19—J. W. Holme, Alma; Frank Monfort, Ithaca; Henry Wallbridge, St. Johns.
- 21—W. E. Brown, Lapeer; Walter Wisson, North Branch; T. P. Atwood, Carroll.
- 22—John Baird, Ernest A. Snow, Saginaw.
- 23—Charles M. Black, Wm. E. Osman, Muskegon; Colon C. Lillie, Ottawa.
- 26—R. P. Bishop, Mason; Judge Russell, Oceana; R. S. Babcock, Manistee.
- 27—L. F. Knowles, Charlevoix; E. F. Sawyer, Wexford; C. L. Bailey, Antrim.
- 28—Eugene Foster, Gladwin; Henry H. Woodruff, Roscommon; O. H. Smith, Alcona.
- 30—W. J. Obendorfer, Menominee; Frank Mead, Delta; A. E. Sharp, Chippewa.

Democrats.
1—Louis E. Tossy, Robert W. Webb, Frank E. Whipple.

- 3—Frederick F. Ingram, P. J. M. Hally, Joseph Merrell.
- 5—J. W. Helme, Lenawee; George M. London, Benj. Dansart, Monroe.
- 9—A. M. Todd, W. H. McKimstry, Kalamazoo; W. H. Porter, Calhoun.
- 10—Jay Cavanaugh, Ann Arbor; Frank Maynard, Jackson; Prof. M. E. Cooley, Ann Arbor.
- 11—Wm. Springer, Joseph Jogley, William T. Mitchell, Port Huron.
- 12—Aaron Perry, Oakland; James G. Tucker, Macon; Rockwell, Indorsed.

Eleven-year-old Robert Steiner, of Saginaw, performed a heroic deed when he rescued Willie Klatt from drowning. Klatt was in a boat which upset and he went down like a stone. Robert leaped in the river and dived, bringing up the lad, and swam with him to the shore. The drowning lad was as big as his rescuer.

Killed in Jealous Rage.

After accusing him of paying attentions to his wife, Robert McComb, aged 54, shot and killed John Irwin, aged 34, in Flint Monday evening. Irwin was going to his boarding house and McComb lay in wait for him near the local gas plant. He stepped into the street as Irwin passed and dropped him with the first bullet, afterward sending the remaining chambers into Irwin's prostrate body.

The police have been notified and Patrolmen Buckley and Gilbert, who hurried to the spot, found McComb crouching not far from the body. He made no resistance and quietly submitted to arrest. At the station he expressed himself pleased when told that Irwin was dead.

"He came between my wife and myself," he said. "That man destroyed my happiness, broke up my home and made life a hell for me. I'm glad I killed him, for he deserved all he got."
Irwin was employed at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Snots, parents of Mrs. McComb, several miles from Flint. The McCombs have two grown-up children.

South Frankfort Burns.
Dispatches from Frankfort say that the east end of South Frankfort was nearly wiped out by fire Friday morning. A tramp smoking in a shed started the blaze. Charles Luxford's dwelling and cigar shop, a harness and blacksmith shop and several warehouses were among the buildings burned. The loss is about $15,000.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT OLD ORCHARD, ME.

17 SUMMER HOTELS AND 60 COTTAGES AMONG BUILDINGS BURNED—LOSS $500,000.

TWO LIVES LOST IN FIRE.

The Telegraphers' Strike is Spreading Both Sides Are Very Optimistic and Claim Victory is in Sight.

Hotels Burn at Old Orchard, Me.
Seventeen summer hotels, 60 summer cottages and a score of buildings occupied by stores were burned last night in a fire which swept the eastern section of the town, along the shore, causing a loss estimated at half a million dollars. The insurance is $150,000.

Philip Partridge, of Kennebec, was killed by a locomotive while crossing the track on his way to the fire.

An unknown man was killed and two others severely injured by a soda siphon which exploded in a burning drug store and shot out among a group standing on the street. Mayor Fitzgerald, of Boston, who was passing, was struck by flying fragments and slightly injured.

The burned buildings were of wood, in construction and an easy prey of the flames, which reduced to ashes a section of half a hundred acres within a few hours. The burned area extends from Old Orchard avenue eastward between Millington street and the beach for nearly half a mile, and it were included some of the finest guest houses and private residences of this popular resort.

The hotels burned include the following: Florida house, Olympia, Emerson and annex, Cleaves, Alberta, Irving, Fiske, Linwood, Vesper, Arthur, Lawrence, Lewiston, Boyden, De Beyer, New Palmer and Seashore.

The burned area, Newton Morrill, 25, Greene street, Boston, & Maine railroad engineer; and Rev. Rufus H. Jones, pastor of Trinity Episcopal church, Saco.

It is believed that the fire started from an overturned lamp in the annex of the Hotel Olympia.

The long awaited general strike order telegraph operators was issued at 1:30 Friday morning by President Samuel J. Small, who arrived in Chicago from San Francisco. By Small's order all telegraphers are now on strike and compelled to quit work wherever contracts at union terms have not been signed.

The issue is now clearly drawn for the first time since the locals began to go out. No operator who continues to work will be considered a union man, whether he holds membership in the union or not.

President Small was welcomed at the station there on his arrival by an enthusiastic crowd of 2,000 operators who carried him on their shoulders to an automobile which awaited him. Cries of "We win" and "No arbitration" greeted him.

The Postal Telegraph Co. has installed a number of "printing telegraph" machines, each one of which it is said, does work equal to that of two men. Girls can take off the messages received and the company declares that it will keep the machines in preference to the men when the strike is over. Despite the optimism of the companies, however, business is moving slowly in the board of trade, where 12 operators are doing their best to do the work formerly handled by 300.

There was no noticeable increase in the number of strikers and the companies renewed their assertion that business is being handled without any great loss to the public.

The efforts at peace-making have so far had no effect. The companies still declare positively that under no circumstances will they consent to arbitrate and the men still insist that they do not desire any mediation. President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, declared this morning he was still working for peace, but admitted that present prospects are not bright.

The Parcels Post.
Postmaster General Meyer said while in New York that in his annual report to the president he will recommend a parcels post, probably limited to 10 pounds; a postal savings bank; reduction of mail charges on letters to Europe to two cents; postage stamp slot machines and other reforms.

Mr. Meyer freed the recent criticism of the rural free delivery as a useless expense to the government. He said this branch was a nearly self-supporting as the rest of the service. The postmaster general is conducting an investigation whereby he hopes to discover the cause of the annual deficit and avoid it in the future. He believes the department can be put on a paying basis.

Two Boston officials, Supt. of Streets James H. Doyle and Councilman James H. Hutton, of Charlestown, have been indicted for alleged bootlegging in connection with the passage of a $1,500,000 loan bill by the council.

The Union Pacific, the principal Harriman railroad, is to increase a steel plant it owns in Laramie, Wyo., and for its own rails. Twenty years ago it used to roll a few rails and the decision to resume this work is the result of the trouble experienced with rails supplied by the steel trust, the breakage having increased greatly in the past year.

By a vote of 159 to 16, the Georgia house passed a senate bill disfranchising the negroes.

The personal expense account of Oil Inspector Benjamin, who will be succeeded by Frank S. Neal, did not exceed $20 for the quarter year. It is believed to establish a record for economy in a state office.

Mayor Henderson says he is determined to rid Ann Arbor of the thieves and thugs who have been terrorizing residents for several weeks. He has ordered fifteen additional men placed on police duty, and declares he will put on 150 if necessary.

THE CONSERVATIVE ELEMENT IN CHINA

has been greatly upset by two incidents which occurred almost simultaneously. The "holy duke, Yen," who is a lineal descendant of Confucius in the seventy-sixth generation, visited Peking for the express purpose of opposing the government plan for a memorial university to his great ancestor. He expressed his belief that the institution should teach modern languages and modern science, as well as the Confucian sacred books, which are the pillars of the old Chinese learning. The other incident, even more shocking to tradition, was the visit of Count Otani, the abbot of one of the most famous Buddhist monasteries in Japan. He represents the advanced wing of the sect which advocates the marriage of the priesthood, tolerates meat eating, and accepts modern science. He has his countess with him, and traveled in that most dangerous of "foreign devil wagons," an automobile.

Our attention has just been called to the case of a diabolically clever young man in Iowa who invented a novel method of discontinuing a love affair. He hit upon the scheme of pretending to be dead. He got in a coffin and had himself photographed with a border of flowers around him, and sent the photograph to the betrothed. She believes that he is in his grave and eaten by worms—and we congratulate her upon her sorrowful condition, for it is nothing to the sorrow she would suffer if married to the unscrupulously inventive genius.

The very large number of drownings now being reported brings out the familiar counsel as to the importance of learning to swim. It happens, however, that in many of the more notable cases reported the victims were good swimmers and succumbed to their daring in tempting fate. The reckless swimmer exposes himself to more dangers than those who cannot swim at all. The land lubbers can at least keep ashore.

Most of the fine American vessels that fought the Spanish war in one round without loss of wind have been sent to the scrap pile or the museum as back numbers, or at least are in the repair shop, where the government expert is looking them over and shaking his head. In building a modern warship the work must be hurried along as much as possible lest the vessel be out of date before it is completed.

A duel to the death between automobiles must not only interest our numerous leisure classes who are always waiting around in anticipation of a dog fight, but also afford an impressive exhibit in our unparalleled prosperity.

A Denver woman who said she "could die eating cucumbers" was found by the coroner lifeless, but with a cucumber in her hand and a happy smile on her face. Her record for veracity is unsurpassed.

A CLERICAL ERROR DOES NOT MAKE BINDER TWINE ACT VOID.

A SELF-CORRECTING ACT.

The Opinion Says There is Nothing Doubtful About It, So Jackson Prison Will Be Equipped.

Law is Valid.

The state binder twine plant act has been declared valid by the supreme court and Gov. Warner's satisfaction is plainly evident. When Attorney General Bird advised Auditor General Bradley recently that there was some doubt as to the validity of the law, the word "thousand" having been omitted in one of the paragraphs of the measure after the bill had been passed by the legislature and before being signed by the governor, an effort was at once made to get the supreme court together to pass upon the law. Several of the judges were absent from the city on their summer vacations, but upon the urgent request of the governor and attorney general, both of whom desired the matter settled definitely, Judges McAlvay, Montgomery and Ostrander with Judges Hooker and Moore who were in town, received the papers in the case and passed upon the law. The matter was presented by the attorney general who, while of the opinion that the court would sustain the law, still had a doubt sufficient to justify the advice given to the auditor general not to pay out any part of the appropriation until the question was decided.

Justice Montgomery, in the opinion signed by the other four justices who had the matter under consideration says: "It is perfectly manifest that the legislature appropriated $50,000 for the purpose of purchasing, erecting and equipping the necessary buildings, and it is equally obvious that that $50,000 could not be subtracted from $175, and that the $175 was plainly intended to mean $175,000 is again made manifest by the fact that in the same clause, after appropriating $50,000, the legislature further appropriated a remaining $125,000 which must be a remainder after deducting $50,000 from $175,000. It is a clerical error which corrects itself and leaves nothing doubtful. Such clerical errors will not be permitted to defeat the plain intent of the legislature."

Warden Armstrong said that the prison board had expected the court would sustain the act, and had made arrangements to enter into contracts for machinery as soon as possible. The board has assurances that the machinery necessary can be delivered by December 15 and that the plant will be in operation by the middle of January.

The decision of the court requires the auditor general to pay the claims of the prison board out of the appropriation. That official had previously declined to spread the necessary tax under the act.

McCurdy Loses.
Despite the fact that Hugh McCurdy, the well known Mason, has been improving in health the last few days, the fact is being kept from him that Shiawassee county voted 3 to 1 against the proposal to reimburse him for money loaned the county and used in the construction of the new court house. The loan was declared illegal and some of the supervisors who entered into the deal were indicted by the grand jury.

The fact that the voters of the county twice before refused to sanction a payment of the debt to him seriously affected the health of McCurdy. This third refusal, it is currently remarked, won't help his case any.

She Took a Chance.
One of Maple Grove's young ladies discovered a large skunk calmly making a feast of 13 small chickens which it had killed and piled up ready for a feed. Without hesitation she grabbed the perfumed visitor by the tail, swung it around a few times and let it fly. The pole-cat was taken so by surprise and rendered so dizzy that it did not resort to its usual weapon, and was subsequently dispatched by the young lady's father. The young heroine came out of the encounter without any souvenir of the occasion.

Fourth Victim Dies.
A fourth victim in the Jackson automobile accident of last week, when a D. U. R. interurban car struck an automobile, killing three of the occupants, was claimed Tuesday morning when R. A. Oliver died in the White Cross sanitarium. Oliver, who was 45 years old, was one of the city's most prominent business men. He was interested in various manufacturing enterprises, having climbed from a position as letter carrier to one of wealth.

Drowns Saving Girl.
In an effort to save Miss Myrtle Bowerman, 21 years old from drowning at North Lake, near Postville, Harold Harding, 29 years old, lost his own life. Miss Bowerman became exhausted and cried for help, when she was some distance from a raft from which ten young people were swimming. Harding succeeded in getting Miss Bowerman back to the raft and then sank before people realized that he was drowning.

Mrs. Henry C. Ward, near Pontiac, whose apple orchard is one of the largest in the country, has closed out her 1907 crop to a Chicago house at $5 a barrel. While the crop is light, it is expected there will be at least 1,500 barrels.

Fearful test by the time a doctor would be able to reach the house it would be too late. Mrs. B. M. McDermid, of Traverse City, caught hold of an open safety pin, her 8-month-old child had swallowed, and kept on pulling until the pin and a piece of tonsil came out. The babe will recover.

CENTENNIAL OF THE VOYAGE OF THE CLERMONT

Robert Fulton, a Pennsylvania genius, first steamed his boat up the Hudson, August 7, 1807, practically the beginning of modern steam navigation

Philadelphia.—White New Yorkers were jubilating over the centennial of the historic journey of Robert Fulton's steamboat Clermont, which made the trip from New York city to Albany over her own steam, on August 7, 1807. Pennsylvania has a more than ordinary interest in the honors to be paid to the inventor, for he was a son of this commonwealth, and it was here that he obtained his first ideas of a method of propelling boats by the use of steam.

In some quarters Fulton, rather incorrectly, has been lauded as the inventor of the steamboat. As has been well said, neither the steam engine nor the steamboat was, in the strict sense of the word, invented. Fulton was not the inventor of the steamboat, but neither can any other person be so characterized. The steamboat was a good many years being invented and there were many hands at the work. This fact, however, does not lessen the brightness of Fulton's achievement, for, had he never been connected with the inauguration of steam navigation, he showed so many other evidences of mechanical inventiveness and artistic effort that it is extremely probable that his name would not be forgotten.

Projects Before Fulton's.

More than 100 years before Fulton began his experiments the idea had possessed inventors in other parts of the world. In 1690 Papin proposed the use of a steam engine for the purpose of propelling boats through the water, and exactly a century before the Clermont made its famous run the inventor actually constructed such a boat, which he used on the River Fulda, at Cassel. The boat was of rude construction, and the method of propulsion consisted of raising water by means of a steam pump, which water was then applied to a water wheel and drove a set of paddles on the same shaft. What influence this invention might have had upon the commerce of the world will never be known, for it was not allowed to prosper, being destroyed by some ignorant fanatics.

In the century which intervened there was considerable talk of applying the steam engine to the use of boats. Nothing came of it in a practical way until an American, named the first of these pioneers was also a Pennsylvanian—William Henry, a native of Chester county, but at the time of his experiment a resident of Lancaster county. About 1763 Henry, who had just returned from a visit to England, took up the subject of a steamboat. He constructed a small boat, or rather attached an engine to an old bateau. This consisted of a pair of paddles, and with this primitive contrivance he boldly essayed to steam down the Conestoga river. From what can be learned of the attempt, it was far from being successful, but by an accident the boat was sunk, and the steamboat had to wait another quarter of a century before it was to be given practical shape.

Distinction Due Fitch.

This time it was a resident of Philadelphia, John Fitch, who from all appearances lacked only support to be known for all time as the man to whom modern steam navigation is as a civil engineer in the southeastern part of Pennsylvania, he came into contact with William Henry, and if he did not see the latter's invention he at least met him and heard of it. At any rate, in 1787 Fitch did construct a steamboat which he set in motion on the Delaware river.

Fitch's Scheme Languished.

Two years before Fitch had appeared before the American Philosophical society and showed a model of a steamboat which he intended to construct, and in 1790 he had a steamboat on the river that could make eight miles an hour, and was advertised to make regular runs between this city and Trenton three days a week.

A Virginian, James Rumsey, at the time Fitch was requesting various state legislatures to grant him assistance, claimed to have invented a steamboat prior to that of Fitch. Rumsey's claim, however, was discredited, even by his own state. Fitch's lack of support and the coolness with which the country viewed the project, although one small boat had made no fewer than 21 advertised trips without accident, permitted Fitch's scheme to become quiescent.

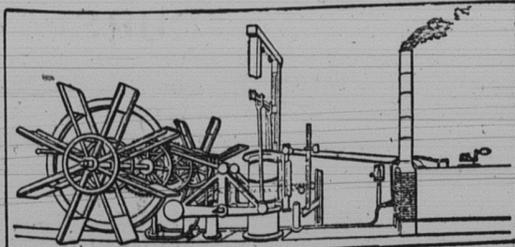

Fulton never disclaimed the obligation he owed to Fitch's steamboat. At the time the first Fitch boat was shown here Fulton was an apprentice to Edward Duffield, a silversmith, who was in business on Second street below Chestnut. The old frame building, lately numbered 121, was standing until 25 years ago. It is only natural to infer that the active young apprentice should have enough curiosity to see the invention, especially as he was something of an ingenious mechanic himself.

Robert Fulton's Career.

Robert Fulton was born in Little Britain township, Lancaster county, November 14, 1765, his father being a native of Kilkenny, Ireland. The Fultons moved to Lancaster city when Robert was an infant, and it was in the schools of that city that the ingenious young inventor received his education. He is said to have known William Henry, and to have visited his home to see some of the earliest efforts of Benjamin West, of whose painting he was, as were all artistically inclined Americans in those days enamored.

At the age of 17 Robert was brought to Philadelphia and put as an apprentice with Duffield. There he finished his trade, but his artistic instincts getting the better of him, he decided to abandon his trade and take up art. Although he had a widowed mother to support, he managed in some manner to save enough to take him to London, where he placed himself at the feet of his master in painting, Benjamin West.

As a youth he showed talents in many directions, and was undoubtedly something of a genius. It is told of him that at the age of ten years he had made for himself his own lead pencils. They were crude affairs, of course, but at that time they were nearly as good as could be purchased. At 14 he devised a skyrocket, and had invented an argon. His biographer says that it was at this time that the idea of steam propulsion for vessels first took possession of him, and that he actually made a model of a boat that could be propelled by means of paddles.

Experiments on the Hudson.

After he went to England, where he studied painting, in which art the numerous examples of his work extant show him to have been proficient, he went to France. There he became busy on a plan for steam navigation, which he succeeded in getting presented to the first consul; but the French government was too much preoccupied to pay much attention to the young American's representations. A friendship, however, most important for the future of steam navigation, sprang up between Fulton and his minister to France, Robert R. Livingston, formerly chancellor of the state of New York. Livingston had become interested in steam, and had built a vessel and made experiments on the Hudson. In 1798 the New York legislature gave him a monopoly of navigating the waters of New York by steam, provided that within one year he should propel by steam a vessel of 20 tons four miles an hour. This he failed to do, but his interest in the problem never flagged. The two men formed a partnership and made an experiment on the Seine, which, however, proved a failure. Then they decided to make experiments on the Hudson, and the New York legislature granted another potential monopoly similar to that granted to Livingston.

Another vessel was built at a shipyard on the East river, according to plans carefully worked out by Fulton. The Clermont, as she was called, was 160 tons burden, 130 feet long, 16 feet wide and four feet deep. Her engine had a steam cylinder 24 inches in diameter, her wheels were 15 feet in diameter and uncovered.

Description of the Voyage.

Here is Fulton's description of the voyage which revolutionized navigation, in the form of a letter to the American Citizen:

"I left New York on Monday at one o'clock, and arrived at Clermont, the seat of Chancellor Livingston, at one o'clock on Tuesday—time, 24 hours, distance 110 miles. On Wednesday I departed from the chancellor's at nine in the morning and arrived at Albany at five in the afternoon—distance 40 miles, time eight hours. The sum is 150 miles in 32 hours, equal to near five miles an hour. On Thursday at nine o'clock in the morning I left Albany, and arrived at the chancellor's at six in the evening. I started from thence at seven and arrived at New York at four in the afternoon—time 30 hours, space run 150 miles, equal to five miles an hour. Throughout my whole way both going and returning, the wind was ahead; no advantage could be derived from my sails; the whole has therefore been performed by the power of the steam engine."

Memorial to Fulton.

The task of erecting an adequate monument to commemorate the great inventor is in the hands of an association of public-spirited men, incorporated under the laws of New York, known as the Robert Fulton Monument association. The association has determined that the monument shall take the form of a water gate and mausoleum to be erected at One Hundred and Sixteenth street and the Hudson river. A bill has been passed by the legislature making the necessary grant of land. It is intended to provide a place where distinguished foreign visitors to our shores may be fittingly received by the municipal, state or federal authorities; in a word, to give New York a front door. It is expected that ground for the construction will be taken on the next anniversary of Fulton's birthday, November 14.

Demon of Unrest.

We are having the gospel of rest preached to us on every hand, we are galloping to destruction at our present rate, and yet we constantly accelerate the pace. It is useless to preach, useless to struggle against the tendency of the age. We are possessed for the time being by the demon of unrest. It has us in its power.—Lady's Pictorial, London.

It Fooled Him.

"Your wife tells me she finally induced you to buy her the pet dog she wanted."

"Yes, but I'm disappointed in the brute."

"What is the matter? Isn't it a good, healthy animal?"

"It's too healthy. I expected it to die long ago."

Then She'd Say It.

"I assure you," said the persistent suitor, "that I will not take 'no' for an answer."

"You needn't," replied Miss Bright. "I'll say 'yes' upon one condition."

"Ah! Name the condition."

"Just ask me if I am determined not to marry you under any circumstances."

EMRESS TSI HSU.

To Abdicate the Chinese Throne on the New Year.

Dispatches from Shanghai contain the interesting news that Tsi Hsu, the empress dowager of China, has announced her determination to abdicate at the next Chinese new year. She desires to hand over the cares of state to the emperor and, it is stated, a secret decree has been issued calling a meeting of the Grand council to make the change.

The dowager empress, now 73 years old, has been supreme in Chinese affairs for many years. Her career is a remarkable one. The daughter of a Manchou, sold in infancy by a brother who ran into financial difficulties, she became at an early age, one of the secondary wives of the Emperor Hien Fung. She won his admiration and affection and bore him a son. This son she placed on the throne, but his career was brief, poison it has been thought, causing his death.

As there was no heir to the throne the infant son of Prince Chung became emperor under the name of Kwang Su and under the regency of Tsi Hsu, the dowager empress. In 1889 the emperor nominally assumed full control of the government, but nine years later, when he issued some reform decrees, the regency of the empress dowager was restored and she has since vigorously kept him in the background.

Throws $3,000 into Stove.

Mrs. Gardiepy, of Hancock, found a roll of bills containing $3,000, the savings of her husband and son, in a place where they had been hid in the cellar and threw them in the fire. The woman told her husband what she had done when he returned from work at the South Kersage shaft. All that he could find was two $5 gold pieces and two 50-cent pieces that happened to be in the roll. Mrs. Gardiepy was taken to Houghton, where she is awaiting the decision of the examining physicians and the probate court as to her sanity.

New Extension to Gratiot Mine.

The story that the Mineral Range railroad, an offshoot of the Duluth South Shore & Atlantic, would extend its line from Houghton and Calumet through Keweenaw county to either Copper Harbor or Eagle Harbor, is now discredited. It is stated that the road will extend its lines from the Mohawk to the Gratiot mine, and Calumet & Hecla property, in the near future.

Fights Badger With Whip.

Herrick Dunsmore, a farmer living near Mason, found what he supposed to be a woodchuck killing his chickens at night, and started to kill the animal with a black snake whip. He chased it a quarter of a mile before overtaking it and when finally caught the creature turned and fought viciously. When killed the "woodchuck" proved to be a large badger.

MAJOR OZONE'S FRESH AIR CRUSADE

PINKIE PRIM

Sewer diggers came to work
A block from Pinkie's home.
How they "lushed" was terrible!
The "can" kept trav'ling some!

Pinkie came along that way
And saw them "canning beer."
"Listen, I'm no temperance crank!"
Said she. "But, looky here!"

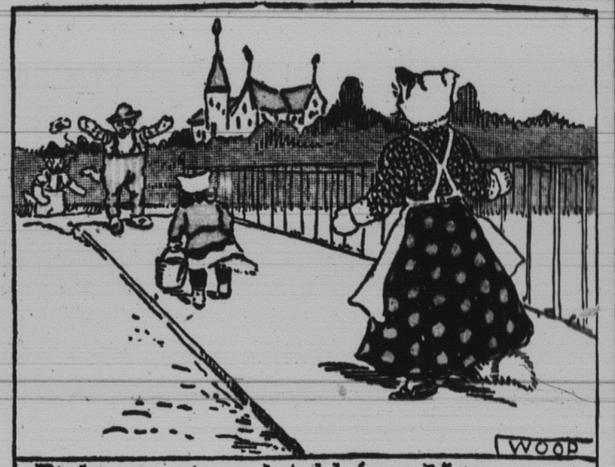

"Water's better 'far for all
Who labor in the sun!"
"Where'll we get the water at?"
Asked one man, just in fun.

"Your boss should give it to you!"
Responded Pinkie Prim.
The sewer digger answered,
"Our boss! You don't know HIM!"

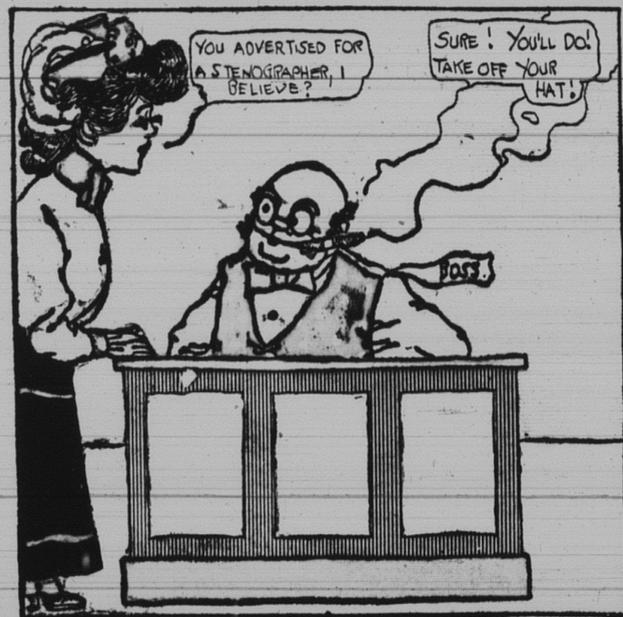

"Saloons don't keep ice-water.
And so we must take beer!
But, when YOU have ICE-WATER,
Just call again 'round here!"

Pinkie went and told her Maw.
Her Maw, she fixed the pail.
The thirsty sewer diggers
Blessed Pinkie's "Adam's ale."

FROM FASHION'S REALM

TWO CHIC LATE SUMMER TAILORMADES

KEEP COOL

Many Things to Do or Not to Do in Hot Weather.

Keeping cool in warm weather is both an art and a science, and a woman who stays at home during the day should be able to accomplish it by a combination of several things that this comfortable condition is brought about. Most important of these is to keep a house or apartment closed tight from sunrise to sunset. Some women exclaim at this, deploring that they must have air, but the breeze that blows in is hot, and the house thermometer will go up accordingly. Closing out the air is a leaf from the book of southern women, who, in a more severe climate than we have, get through a hot season with less inconvenience, as a rule, because their mode of living is adapted to sultry days.

Out-of-door air while the sun is shining is warmer than that of a house or apartment, and for that reason doors and windows should be closed to exclude it. Of course, curtains or blinds should be drawn to shut out the sun, and a dim light gives an effect of coolness, as it is soothing to the nerves. As soon as the sun goes down everything should be opened and allowed to remain so all night. Thus plenty of fresh air, with its slight coolness, sweeps through, and the next morning, when everything is closed again, it is refreshing air that is shut in for the day. This mode of procedure should be followed in the country as well as in the city.

The sort of food one eats has much to do with the temperature of the blood. Hot, thick heavy chops, and the like, should not be taken from this time on until autumn. Instead, cold roast beef is nourishing and more easily digested in hot weather, and light broths or jellied soups are more palatable. Cold food should be served as much as possible, and an astonishing variety may be made with little expense. For example, a salad, of potatoes, string beans, tomatoes, asparagus, or, indeed, any cold vegetable, seasoned with onion and well mixed with mayonnaise, makes a hearty supper if served with cold beef or other meat.

No household should be without mayonnaise in the refrigerator from the time warm weather begins, for it makes a bit of cold fish or meat delicious and is nourishing and wholesome. The combinations with which it may be used are endless.

A woman who does her own cooking, or who lives in a small house with one servant, will do well to have the morning for the day done entirely in the morning, thus letting the kitchen fire go out and prevent the additional warmth of artificial heat. This is quite possible with cold luncheons and suppers, and should it be necessary to have a kettle boiled or anything heated this may be done on a gas or one burner stove. The absence of a coal fire in the kitchen will make a great difference in the temperature of the whole house or apartment.

These smart tailormade suits for late summer use are two of the latest creations and you will doubtless notice the breezy, artistic finish of the models.

FROM FASHIONDOM

Valuable and Timely Hints for the Well Dressed.

Stripes veiled in tulle, voiles and other semi-transparent fabrics are very fashionable both for street and home wear.

China and Japanese blue straw mob-cap shapes with full ruches of pale green tulle and touches of green and blue ribbons are quite delightful.

Novel buttons of leather were designed by a clever woman and lately exhibited. They are beautifully embossed in colors.

Soutache braiding in an elaborate vermicelli pattern on a waist of plain net made a smart garment of materials in themselves inexpensive.

The advent of the colored yoke and cuffs as contrasted to the rest of the blouse, means that many a remnant can be utilized not sufficient otherwise for the entire waist.

Many colored linens are made in the jumper effect to give the relieving touch of lingerie or lace near the face in yoke or underblouse.

Unless a woman can drape a fichu gracefully and is of a slender, willowy type it is well to avoid this prevailing fashion of the moment. When it is becoming there is something peculiarly coquettish in the fichu and draped scarf effects that are so popular just now.

Some of the dainty coats are of finest point venise lace and magnificent white linen. The coats are indescribably beautiful and sell at prices which are fabulous indeed, since many of the smallest ones cannot be purchased for less than $600. The coats are handwork and the workmanship is faultless.

A lovely throat ornament in small diamonds is a ribbon of silver network so closely studded with the stones that very little of the setting is visible; but as it is flexible it clings so closely to the throat as elastic would do. It is tied at one side with a bow and short ends, which have tassels of still smaller diamonds.

Instead of having made to order the large passementerie and button ornaments which are in such favor as a trimming for linen suits the home dressmaker can first cover a mold with the material and then apply on top of it some of the little embroidered medallions in heavy ecru lace, which can be bought very cheaply.

While all-white cottons and linens will never lose their prestige, there is a stronger leaning than for some seasons past toward colored effects. Again are to be seen the dainty pink, blue, lavender, green and yellow tints in linens, organdies, mulls, batistes and swisses, which make such charming gowns when trimmed with soft laces and embroideries.

Waistcoats of embroidered linen are frequently worn with woolen street suits. Some of these are entirely in white, but more swagger are they when done in red and blue brocade embroideries on a string color or tan linen. Others are of white pique, buttoning with gold buttons, while still others are in linen, striped in rose and white, blue and white, brown and white.

MILADY BEAUTIFUL

Four Useful Hints.
HAIR TONIC.—Apply one ounce of bay rum to one ounce of witch hazel to the hair after it has been washed with the shampoo of two eggs and rinsed in tepid water. FALLING HAIR.—Dry sulphur, rubbed thoroughly into the scalp, will stop falling hair.

ACNE.—Some pimples are so deep they leave a scar after they heal. Carbolic acid, purchased at any drug store, often will cure the most obstinate red spots. CARE OF THE HAIR.—Hair never should be washed oftener than once every three days. Great care being taken to rinse out the soap. Dampening the hair with a hair brush will help to keep it up. If the hair is in curl papers press with a hot iron before taking down.

Singe the Hair.
 Singeing the hair is better than cutting for the reason that the hair is not then likely to split. Singeing is also more thorough. Twist the hair in a tight, little strand, rub the wrong way and apply a heated paper to all the little ends that stick out. Applications of diluted alcohol will keep the scalp and hair clean and will help to act as a tonic. It may be rubbed into the scalp every night.

Value of Lemon Juice.
 Lemon juice has a place on the toilet table of the careful girl. It removes stains from the hands and whitens the skin. Marks on the neck made by wearing a high collar may be removed by lemon juice.

Perspiring Hands.
 Perspiring hands are always a source of nervousness. It is a good plan to bathe them occasionally with white-wine vinegar, afterward dusting them with powdered orris root. Persons suffering with such an annoyance should make it a practice to dust their gloves daily with powdered prepared chalk and should take plenty of outdoor exercise.

For Oily Skin.
 Women who have oily skins too quickly resign themselves to their fate. The following solution will give a clear, dry skin in three months if used regularly. Pulverize borax—one ounce, pure glycerin—two ounces, camphor water, not spirits of camphor, two quarts. The skin should be bathed with this lotion two or three times a day.

Good Face Wash.
 In many cases a wonderful improvement in the complexion may be obtained by merely washing the face several times a day with the following lotion, leaving it on until it dries: Take half an ounce of glycerin and mix with it half a pint of rose water. To this add a tablespoonful of powdered borax.

To Clean Silk Gloves.
 Do not try to clean silk gloves with gasoline, but wash them very carefully. White and black ones can be washed in soap suds, rinsed and dried, the white ones being dipped in to bluing water to give them a clear white appearance. Tinted gloves should first be soaked in salt water to prevent the color from fading. If a few drops of lemon juice is added to the rinsing water, the tints will be revived. Silk gloves can be ironed, though a piece of linen should be placed over the gloves when they are ironed and only a moderately warm iron should be used. Silk hose can be washed in exactly the same manner and ironed when perfectly dry.

For the Table.
 An attractive centerpiece can be made for the table by using a low, wide, green dish from which arise daffodils or tulips, their stems being supported by the heavy metal stem holders which come for this purpose. These holders may be had in the shape of a turtle, and can be bought at large Japanese shops.

has not learned to control her temper, who does not know the value of cheerfulness, can put up much of a show as a charmer.

Smile and keep young. You have all the rest of your life in which to grow old.

Every one of us needs at times the ministry of the sunny, smiling soul who wields the wand of a cheerful temper.

A woman is gloomy or sad, and she explains and excuses herself by saying that she has the "blues."

Or she is irascible and savage, and excuses herself by saying that she is in a bad temper today.

Can one help having the "blues"? Certainly! Moods are as subject to the will as any mental faculty.

The difference between the successful, popular woman and the woman who, by her disagreeableness, drives everyone from her is simply the power of the former to control her moods and her temper.

Unless one has her moods under control she has no real liberty.

Do not try to clean silk gloves with gasoline, but wash them very carefully. White and black ones can be washed in soap suds, rinsed and dried, the white ones being dipped in to bluing water to give them a clear white appearance. Tinted gloves should first be soaked in salt water to prevent the color from fading. If a few drops of lemon juice is added to the rinsing water, the tints will be revived. JUST PLAIN HAT TALK

Wings are too heavy and stiff to be the ideal trimming for the hat worn with summer frocks of the sheer and airy type, and the instant that handsome ostrich plumes are applied to a hat they give it an elaborate and dressy character which prevents its being perfectly in accord with a simple morning or afternoon frock.

For the sheer and dainty summer frock, which makes no pretense of elegance, many a flower-laden hat is pre-eminently the thing, and, of course, many a flower-trimmed hat is exquisite enough for wear with the most costly and beautiful of summer frocks.

The rose is the favorite flower and appears in a multitude of shadings which bid defiance to nature but are lovely as color schemes. However, the great pink roses, natural in all save their exaggerated size, grow in favor as midsummer comes nearer and are really the loveliest of all their artificial tribe. Not all of the roses used are of the giant kind and wreaths and garlands of the smaller roses are shown in beautiful shadings, running an exquisite gamut of browns or blues or violets or of those faded crushed fruit and flower shades so dear to the Parisian heart this season.

A line of closely set, loose-petaled roses running across the crown top and out on the brim at each side appears upon some of the summer hats both in cloche shapes and in modified poke shapes; another trimming is supplied by the usual folded silk scarf tied at the back.

A small hat shape in Neapolitan has wide liberty ribbon folded around the outside of the narrow rolled-up brim and a big faring bow of many lops is set on at the left side of the hat toward the back. Around the bow circles a wreath of small roses.

Small flowers in many kinds are in millinery use—Parma violets, wood violets, cowslips, forget-me-nots, jasmine, etc. Spraying white jasmine with its delicate foliage covered the whole crown of one beautiful French hat, which was further trimmed in huge plaited rosettes of white tulle and a swathing drapery of tulle and had green velvet ribbon under the brim at the back.

Appropos of spraying flowers the morning glories are lovely in coloring and most graceful in their loose falling spray and are used to excellent advantage on some of the French hats. Great sprays of morning glories and their foliage—both flowers and foliage all in silvery white—are a French fad and we have seen two charming all white hats trimmed with these flowers.

White foliage is no unusual thing in the new milline; nor, for that matter, is foliage of any color. Both blossoms and leaves are made to conform to the season's color card rather than to nature, and though for most folk there is more charm in the artificial flowers which closely copy natural effects the weird flower coloring make possible very delightful toilette harmonies.

Oiling Latches.

Very often the expense of a locksmith's work may be avoided by the timely use of a little oil, because in many cases all that is needed is a little lubrication. Take a sewing machine oil can and place the point of the spout in at the aperture, where the tongue of the latch projects, pressing in the latch as far as possible, and then by sudden forcible pressure on the bottom of the can, cause the oil to spurt into the works of the latch. Work the latch rapidly for a few moments to cause the oil to pass over the parts, and then repeat, putting in some more oil.

Washing White Stockings.

Good laundresses when washing white stockings, whether of silk or thread, add a few drops of oxalic acid to the water. The reason of this is that the acid has the effect of removing the stains caused by the boots and shoes, which are only "set" when washed with ordinary soap and water.

To Hold Colors.

Here are some of the things which will tend to keep colors from fading: For blue use a handful of salt, for green a lump of alum. Ox gall will keep gray or brown from fading. When washing tan, brown or Novel Idea.

A novel idea for score cards was seen at an afternoon party recently. The cards were cut in the shape of a face, but none of the features were indicated. A few wavy lines were drawn to represent the hair about the forehead and a collar was drawn in. The features were drawn separately, cut out and used as stickers in scoring.

As the games progress the results obtained by the winners were ludicrous in the extreme, as the face gains a feature at a time according to the number of games won.

Two eyes, two eyebrows, two ears, and a mouth provide for eight

ODDS AND ENDS

Worth Knowing.
 A crust of bread put into the water in which greens are boiled will absorb all objectionable rankness of flavor.

The rollers of a clothes wringer may be easily and effectively cleaned by rubbing them with a cloth which has been dipped in coal oil.

When ironing colored clothes see to it that the iron are not too hot. Excessive heat will fade the clothes. Iron on the wrong side.

Sweeping with the carpet sweeper will be more effectual if the sweeper is pushed in the same direction as the warp of a rug—not against it.

Removing Dust.

Canton flannel is best for removing accumulations of dust, and it takes every particle, but cheesecloth is best for furniture with a piano finish. Use the flannel cloths wrapped around a broom for dusting walls, but something—really better than this is the white cotton mop used for scrubbing purposes. They can be washed and dried and, being so light, are easy for a woman to handle.

linen color use hot water, which is made by pouring boiling water over hay.

Removing Fruit Stains.

Fresh fruit stains can generally be removed by pouring boiling water through. If they prove obstinate rub with half a lemon dipped into acid, then wash the garment. Javelle water will surely accomplish it, but the utmost care must be exercised in using it—or, rather, washing every trace of it away after the stain has been removed—or the result will surely be a hole.

To Mend Tinware.

To mend tinware paste a piece of stiff brown paper across the hole by means of cold water paste. Then pour hot water into the pan and after allowing this to stand a while it will be found that no amount of scraping will be sufficient to remove it. If the pieces of tinware be placed on the stove the patch will, of course, burn off, but it can be easily replaced.

Wash Without Rubbing.

Soak clothes over night; have a boiler three-fourths full of water; cut up one and one-half bars of soap and five table-spoons of kerosene oil, and let boil. Wring clothes out of cold water and put in the boiling water for fifteen minutes. Rinse through two waters and hang out on the line. Wash lace curtains in the same way.

progressions. If additional progressions are needed neckties, scarf pins, eyeglasses and heads may be drawn.

No great amount of artistic ability is needed for this work, as any simple pen drawing may serve as a model and the features copied from that. By changing the lines of the mouth and the position of the eyes different expressions may be obtained. The drawings will answer the purpose if done in black and white, but the effect will be still better if the different features and the face are tinted with water colors.

Never put salt into soup when cooking it until it is skimmed, as salt prevents the scum from rising.

INFLUENCE OF GOOD HUMOR

The woman who goes about with a cloudy face imprinted every little frown and a while with jealous, sulky, sarcasm and disappointment does not realize the harm these moods

do. She fancies that her face will readily fall back into nice, sweet lines. It does, to be sure, for a while, but in a very short time the lines become more and more pronounced.

It is utterly impossible to have a sweet heart and a sweet, pretty, symmetrical face.

And there is no woman so plain as the constant exercise of cheerfulness and amiability will not make beautiful.

Strange indeed are the mental workings of the individual who would fall in spells of agony over a few lines in her best frock, yet who will cultivate all sorts of tucks and wrinkles in her own face by giving expressions, sour looks and by indulging in her deprecating moods.

Certain it is that every woman who has swayed the history of humanity has known the value of cheerfulness—the value of a smile.

No woman with fretful lines engraved on her face, no woman who

LOCAL ITEMS.

The sidewalk in front of the Chelsea Steam Laundry has been rebuilt.

Mrs. O. C. Burkhardt and daughters are camping at North Lake this week.

Rev. Seth Reed, D. D. conducted the services in the Chelsea M. E. church last Sunday morning.

During the past ten days several valuable horses have been stolen from farmers who reside near Ann Arbor.

Mrs. E. Strieter, who has been ill for sometime was taken to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Pattengil, in Detroit, the first of this week.

F. E. Wilcox, former superintendent of the Chelsea public schools, shipped his household goods to his new home in Hudson, Tuesday.

S. P. Foster is taking a vacation of fifteen days. Wm. Broesamle will carry the mail on the route during Mr. Foster's absence.

Rev. S. Reed, D. D. delivered a fine address to a large audience at the Glazier cottage, Cavanaugh Lake, last Sunday afternoon.

The masons will begin work this week on the cellar walls for the new residence that P. G. Schaible will have built on his Chandler street property.

Eugene McIntee and Matthew Lehman, of Waterloo, have been drawn to serve as jurors for the September term of the circuit court for Jackson county.

Several of the residents of Chelsea took in the excursion on the M. C. last Sunday and visited with friends in Marshall, Battle Creek and Kalamazoo.

The Forepaugh-Sells circus will give an exhibition in Jackson, Tuesday, August 27th. A big street parade is one of the great features announced by the managers of the show.

Ernest Paul had an insurance of $500 on his household goods and Capt. E. L. Negus had $400 insurance on the house on Hayes street, which was destroyed by fire last Thursday afternoon.

R. A. Snyder had an insurance of $7,800 on his residence and its contents which were burned last Thursday morning. Mr. Snyder will probably build a new residence on the site in the near future.

Miss Mary Haab has purchased the W. F. Riemenschneider property on east Middle street and will occupy it as a millinery parlor early in September. Miss Haab will carry in the new location a complete stock of up-to-date millinery.

The 17th Michigan Infantry, (Stone Wall Regiment), will hold their 28th annual reunion in Jackson Tuesday, September 17th. The headquarters will be at the Blackman House. Theo. E. Wood, of Chelsea, is the secretary of the organization.

The adjourned inquest as to the cause of the accidental death of Miss Rose Lehman, was held by Justice of the Peace, Theo. Riemenschneider last Friday afternoon. The verdict of the jury held the electric line management entirely blameless.

Died, Tuesday morning, August 20, 1907, Mrs. Russell Parker, sr., of Lima, Mrs. Parker was a pioneer resident of Lima. The funeral was held this, Thursday, morning from the Clements school house, near the late home of the deceased. Interment Clements cemetery.

"As Told in the Hills" a drama of western life will be the first attraction of the coming season in the opera house Saturday of this week. A matinee will be given in the afternoon and a performance in the evening. Reserved seats can be secured at Farrell's grocery store.

The Chelsea and Francisco cornet bands are making arrangements to give a combined concert on the corners of Main and Middle streets, Saturday evening, August 31. The two bands will appear together, and they have a fine program that will furnish entertainment for one hour and thirty minutes.

Wirt S. McLaren has accepted the challenge of the Commercial Traveling Men's team of Jackson for a game. He will get the old Junior Stars together for one more game to be played with the challengers on Saturday, August 31, at the local park. Chandler Rogers and LaMont BeGole will be the Star battery and other old Stars that will be back are Holmes, McGuinness, BeGole, McNamara, McLaren and others. A complete line-up will be given next week.

All of the machinery for the new flour mill has been received at the plant, and the Meissel Manufacturing Co., of Port Huron, the contractors, will have the mill ready for operation in about two weeks. As the contractors are under a $2,000 bond to have the mill completed by September 15, they will push the work along as fast as possible. Mr. White, of the White Milling Co., expects to be able to begin taking in wheat at the mill about September 10.

Feel languid, weak, run-down? Head-ache? Stomach "off"?—Just a plain case of lazy liver. Burdock Blood Bitters tones liver and stomach, promotes digestion, purifies the blood.

Two of the citizens of this community last Monday paid fines of $5.25 and $4.75 each, for supplying a man who is in the habit of getting intoxicated, with liquor. Perhaps many of the readers of The Standard-Herald are unaware that there is a law that makes it an offence to supply men with liquor who are habitual drunkards. There is such a law in Michigan and the penalty for violating it is a severe one. The local officers will in the future enforce it, and see that all are punished who violate the same, to the full extent of the law.

The Easton school house in Lima has been the headquarters for a gang of tramps for some weeks past. A few days ago the farmers in the school district came to the conclusion that they would have the neighborhood cleared of the undesirable residents. The first of this week, with Gen. B. and his trusty gun, and Capt. Ed. with his hail and ear skins, as leaders, with their followers, repaired to the school house and while the leaders were engaged in posting the sentinels, the "weary willies" escaped to the tall timber, some 80 rods from the school building. As they ran past the Indian fighter, who was one of the party, the only thing seen by him was cloud of dust as the tramps disappeared.
