THE OLD PEOPLE'S HOME

THE COMMITTEE MET THURSDAY.

The New Building Will be Dedicated Thursday, October 31—Fifteen Occupants at Present.

Thursday was a day of much interest to the residents of the Old People's Home. The committee on the assignments of rooms met and fifteen occupants of the home were assigned rooms.

The first sod for the new home was turned October 15, 1906, and the occupants of the home took possession just one year from that date. The committee accepted the structure and are highly pleased with the work of the contractors.

The handsome structure is to be dedicated Thursday, October 31, and the managers of the Home are making arrangements to hold a fair in the near future.

A Trip to the Soo.

A trip for pleasure is delightful of course. A compulsory trip to say the least very distasteful. However our party of "sneezers and wheezers" decided to make the best of it.

Leaving Detroit on the pleasure boat, Tashmoo, for upriver making short stops at several summer resorts, St. Clair Flats, Tashmoo Park etc. we reached Sarnia, Ontario, in good time. After our baggage being duly searched for dutiable goods we transferred to the steamship Sarnia, a Canadian liner, making no stops between Sarnia and Sault Ste Marie. We reached the beautiful city of Sault Ste Marie having enjoyed the thirty-one hours on the water and wondering if we were the same forlorn party of "hayfeverites" that had left Detroit only a few short hours before.

We found the climate very excellent for our malady and being beyond the range of more frequented resorts where the summer population consists of a hurrying throng of souvenir seekers and ignorantly inquisitive sight-seers. At the "Soo" life goes its ordinary routine, without the interruptions the lower resort towns suffer, and we the long-time tourists had opportunity to form the acquaintance of the towns people, who cordially and hospitably welcomed the strangers within their gates. The friendships one forms are a feature of a trip to the "Soo."

At a point where the currents of Superior and Huron waters mingle in high-tossing rapids are the two cities, Sault Ste Marie of Michigan and Ontario, expanded growths of the Hudson Bay Fur Company and missionary stations of the early French traders and Jesuit priests. Father Marquette's devotion to the red skins and the operations of the fur company are of historical interest.

The greatest and never ending attraction is the locks and the wonderful commerce which daily passes around the rapids through the great locks provided by the national government. One never tires of watching the endless procession of boats of every variety, whale-backs with their snouts just out of water, great steel freighters, lumber barges and beautiful passenger steamers under our colors or the British flag. We were so fortunate as to be aboard a tug that passed up through the locks towing a no power boat and observed at close range the work of raising and lowering boats twenty feet from the level of one lake to that of the other in about twelve minutes, frequently three and even four boats are put through at one locking.

About 40,000,000 net tonnage passes through these locks annually. The first lock was built by the Hudson Bay Fur Co. on the Canadian side in 1798; it was 38 feet long, 8 feet 9 inches wide with a lift of 9 feet, a yoke of oxen furnished the motive power. The old block-house and lock have been restored and are now one of the attractions. The first locks of real consequence were those built by the state of Michigan in 1853 to 1855 these were torn down to make room for the present big pair.

Weitzel lock built by the government in 1870 to 1881 at a cost of $1,000,000 is 515 feet long, 80 feet wide, 24 feet deep, and will pass a vessel drawing 17 feet of water.

Poo lock the greatest lock in the world is 800 feet long, 100 feet wide and 44 feet deep and will pass a vessel drawing 22 feet of water, built in 1888 to 1895 at a cost of $3,000,000. Another lock still larger and longer is to be commenced next year.

The Canadian government lock is 900 feet long and 60 feet wide built in 1888 to 1895 and with approaches cost $4,000,000.

The Steel Trust fleet consists of more than a hundred large freighters all easily recognized by their white smoke stacks and usually go in pairs. The steam, or power boat and consort, or no power boat. The latter are always put in and taken from the locks by tugs belonging to the trust. All of the trust boats are supplied with provisions of all kinds for their whole trip by a trust supply boat, which attacks itself to the freighters while in motion transfers the provisions to the other boat never once slackening speed.

Each lock has its own power house and power for opening and closing the locks. In the winter the gates to the supply canal are closed and water all pumped from the locks.

Another interesting piece of engineering is the water power canal completed in 1902, which generates 60,000 horse power. It is 2 1/2 miles long, 200 feet wide with an average depth of 23 feet of water. The power house or car-bide is 1,368 feet long built of red sand stone on a foundation of over 12,000 fifty foot piles capped with cement concrete, total cost about $6,000,000.

A short ride of eighteen miles down St. Mary's river takes you to another wonderful and gigantic piece of work, the Neebish channel. The government has provided a new channel around the island safer than the old one and shortening the route by twenty miles. The task has been monstrous, employing four hundred laborers for more than four months. The channel is 2 1/2 miles long, 9000 feet of which is cut through solid time stone, it is 300 feet wide and 28 feet deep and will be used by boats going down the old channel by those up-bound.

On the bluff just back of the city is Fort Brady garrisoned with about 300 blue coats, who make a fine showing when on parade.

The beauty spot is the Government Lock Park it has a fine granite monument erected this season and Japanese Tani, a sacred Buddhist arch, brought from Japan and presented to the city by Hon. Chase S. Osbourne.

Labor Day was celebrated by the "Two Soos" on the Canadian side. The steamer from Soo Mich., carrying its delegations from numerous labor unions, when nearing the other shore were greeted with the strains of "Yankee Doodle" by a band stationed at the landing.

King Edward and Uncle Sam joined hands, had a fine parade and various other amusement all under two flags. Soo, Ontario, has an immense steel plant employing 3,000 men. From the crude ore to the finished Bessemer steel rail, one hour and thirty minutes, every transformation is shown and explained to us, was some thing to be re-wood subjected to 200 pounds pressure to the square inch, then passing through innumerable vats and rollers until a fine finished paper is before you was well worth seeing. There are many more places of interest but we had not time to visit them all but hope some time to see more of the "Two Soos." H. H. S.

WHAT IS PE-RU-NA?

Is it a Catarrh Remedy, or a Tonic, or is it Both?

Some people call Peruna a great tonic. Others refer to Peruna as a great catarrh remedy.

Which of these people are right? Is it more proper to call Peruna a catarrh remedy than to call it a tonic? Our reply is, that Peruna is both a tonic and a catarrh remedy. Indeed, there can be no effectual catarrh remedy that is not also a tonic.

In order to thoroughly relieve any case of catarrh, a remedy must not only have a specific action on the mucous membranes affected by the catarrh, but it must have a general tonic action on the nervous system.

Catarrh, even in persons who are otherwise strong, is a weakened condition of some mucous membrane. There must be something to strengthen the circulation, to give tone to the arteries, and to raise the vital forces.

Perhaps no vegetable remedy in the world has attracted so much attention from medical writers as HYDRASTIS CANADENSIS. The wonderful efficacy of this herb has been recognized many years, and is growing in upon the medical profession.

joined with CUBEES and COPA, a trio of medical agents is formed, which constitutes a specific remedy for catarrh that in the state of medical progress cannot be improved upon. This action, forced by such renowned tonic COLLINSIA CANADENSIS, YDYLIS FORMOSA and CEDREED, ought to make this compound an ideal remedy for catarrh in all stages and locations in the body.

From a theoretic standpoint, the force, Peruna is beyond criticism. The use of Peruna, confirms this opinion. Numberless testimonials from every quarter of the earth furnish ample evidence that this judgment is never enthusiastic. When practical experience confirms a well-grounded theory the result is a truth that cannot be shaken.

The Sinful Human Heart. A clergyman was addressing a youthful class in Sunday school. To illustrate the idea of regulating the sinful human heart he took out his watch and held it up that all might see it.

"See this watch," he said. "Just imagine that it does not keep good time—that it goes all ways but the right way. What ought I to do with it?"

Instantly a little boy held up his hand. "I know," he shouted. "Sell it to friend."

Ugly Appendages. "Hasn't Woldy got his coat-of-arms yet? Why, he told me he was going to look up his ancestry the first chance he got and—"

"Well, I believe he got a chance to look up his family tree, but he saw some things hanging to the branches that discouraged further research."—Albion Standard and Times.

A BIT OF LIFE

By HELEN J. CLELAND

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Trinity church is ablaze with lights. The chancel is fragrant with the perfume of rare exotics. The rustle of silken gowns is heard as guests pass up the aisle. Voices are hushed and anxious looks toward the western door show the eagerness with which they await the coming of the bride party.

One by one the carriages roll up, deposit their fair burdens and pass down the other side of the street. Outside the thick flashes of snow come down soft and fast.

A sudden little gust of wind blows a miniature avalanche around a corner, and for a moment almost blinds a swiftly passing pedestrian, who suffers accordingly from the unexpected assault by bringing his umbrella in direct collision with that of some one coming towards him.

Both hurriedly look up and back, and riages drawn up in front of the handsome avenue home that he knows so well.

"I will see her! I will know from her own lips," he mutters as he awaits and passes in among the guests. He reaches a quiet doorway where he can see and yet be unobserved. He takes a long breath. "Ah, how beautiful she is!" He sees the same clear cut features crowned by that same beautiful hair that he had once reverently touched, the pure white throat rises like chiseled marble from the gleam of her wedding gown. "Her wedding gown! The wife of another!" the thought maddens him. He cannot bear it. "Marian!" he groans and turns away. He will leave the house—it is only agony to stay—he will go away again—all is over.

RECIPE FOR SIMPLE HOME-MADE KIDNEY CURE.

Here is a simple home-made mixture as given by an eminent authority on Kidney diseases, who makes the statement in a New York daily newspaper, that it will relieve almost any case of Kidney trouble if taken before the stage of Bright's disease. He states that such symptoms as lame back, pain in the side, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night; painful and discolored urination, are readily overcome. Here is the recipe; try it: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

The Great Musician Had No Use for His Production.

A great tenor had been singing for some hours into a phonograph. "The phonograph," he said, "is a wonderful thing. It almost realizes the wish of the Scottish poet, the wish that we might see ourselves as others see us. We can now, at least, hear ourselves, a thing impossible before. The phonograph teaches us many valuable lessons. When I was in the army, before I realized the capabilities of my voice, I played the flute. A phonograph salesman brought a phonograph to my quarters and tried to sell it to me on the instalment plan. I was undecided. Finally the man took out a blank cylinder.

"See," he said, rather reluctantly, "here is a blank cylinder. You may make a record on it, then we will run it off and you shall hear yourself. It's a costly favor I am doing you, but it will show you what a fine instrument this is."

"I was delighted.

CRIMES COMMITTED IN THE NAME OF LOVE

Strange Epidemic of Murders in New York City in Which Dan Cupid Plays the Leading Part.

That there is really an epidemic of crimes in the sacred name of love might well appear from the recent startling record of fatal tragedies, a large proportion of which have had their scene in New York.

"I killed her because I thought she was not true to me," said Julius Hoffman, as he looked from the New York police to dying Draga Seigel.

"Will you take me back?" demanded Henry Fischer of Johanna Hoefer, an attractive young waitress who was in duty at her uncle's lunch room, 821 Tenth avenue, and as she didn't reply he shot her down in cold blood, then turned the weapon on himself.

Thus, on the police blotter, within 24 hours two more murders were charged to the blind little god, Love.

Why has Cupid traded his well-beloved and gentle weapons, the bow and arrow, for the more formidable revolver?

In the days when Love was young, and the simple life an actuality, not a theory, Cupid tipped his arrow with golden love-darts and aimed it with a laugh.

Today, in New York, with its strange commingling of foreign elements, its nervous tension, its glittering pleasures and its appalling loneliness, Cupid oftentimes loads his newly acquired weapon with death-dealing bullets and sends them flying to the accompaniment of a groan or a curse.

Within the past 12 months Love's hand has aimed more deadly weapons than Bacchus, or Greed, or Revenge, or Hatred. Race-hatred, sudden fury following on the heels of a business quarrel, these and all other causes must give Love precedence as the power behind the gun, the knife, the stiletto.

Just a year ago, in an obscure downtown hotel, Louis G. Hampton, a man of family, social and business standing, shot and killed first the woman he loved and then himself. The woman in the case was Victoria Tackow, a beautiful salesgirl in a department store. She was 32 years the junior of her wealthy and influential admirer, who was an official of the United States Trust company, of Wall street. She did not know he was married. She was waiting for the death of his aged mother to relieve him of certain domestic responsibilities and set him free to marry the girl he loved. Her name was above reproach. Her family knew of her love affair and approved of the supposedly prospective marriage.

What happened between these two behind the barred door of the obscure hotel no one knows. Perhaps the girl had learned the hideous truth, and told the man she no longer loved him—that she was leaving him forever. Three sharp reports, scurrying foot-of many admirers treated with courteous toleration by the belle of Carmine street and the Spring street factory, but in time all fell back in favor of Vincenzo Lavoree. The betrothal of the handsome couple was announced, their wedding day grew near—but with it came death. Antoinette, not content with her conquest, had later made fun of Figlia, who was small and unattractive, calling him "The Toad." On the twenty-sixth day of November "The Toad" and the factory beauty met during the noon hour at the water cooler. An angry question, a taunting reply, four reports from a death-dealing pistol, a once beautiful form lying in a pool of blood, a sullen man facing the officers of the law.

"She made fun of me, and I killed her. Now she won't marry any one, and if I die, too, I don't care."

December, month of the Christ-child, passed without a murder in the name of Love; but on January 2 the police gathered into their drag-net Leo Mitchell, who for more than four years had been in hiding for the murder of Marie Lewrazzo, a pretty girl who had refused to marry him, after he had paid her passage over from Italy. To be sure, this was because Marie had heard that Leo had another wife in Italy, but the jealous Italian had passed the stage where marriage vows counted against the power of the little god—and so he, too, raised his revolver and shot the girl through the heart.

Five days later George Fallon, who ran a flower stand at Eighty-first street and Columbus avenue, shot and killed Mrs. Madeline Wiedman, the wife of his business neighbor, John Wiedman, a news dealer. Mrs. Wiedman was a striking brunette who with her assistant, Miss Ratel, plied the trade of manuring at the Endicott hotel. She lived at No. 80 West Eighty-second street, whither on the fatal night George Fallon had been bidden, with other guests, to celebrate a birthday. As the guests separated, Fallon drew Mrs. Wiedman aside and again urged the unlawful love which she had often spurned, and, being spurned again, that love cried hoarsely: "I'm tired of this nonsense. I love you, and I'm going to have you."

Then again the fatal shot and another at Mrs. Wiedman's assistant, who came to her rescue, and still a third and a sharp knife at his own throat. Another tragedy in the name of Love had been written in New York's criminal annals.

In the early dawn of March 1 Ametillo Gallo, a young bride of Northern Little Italy, went a-gunning for the man who had stolen from him, at a to live with me she will never live with another. We are going to die together. Laura and Jim." But the woman shot herself first. The man missed his aim and then weakened. Broken marriage vows, quarrels patched up and then renewed, love one minute, hatred the next, death for the wife, suspicion, arrest and dishonor for the husband—and all in the name of Love!

"Three bullets for sweetheart and one for herself," is the tabloid form in which Marie Balasi's tragedy was written on Independence day. Deceived and ruined by Henry Stern, a stranger in a strange land, and deserted by the man she had trusted, poor Marie Balasi thus ended forever the new love dream in which Stern had lost all sense of honor and obligation to her.

On July 23 occurred one of the most sensational murders in New York's recent history. Miss Esther Norling discovered that Frank H. Warner, once her business employer, later her partner, was not worthy of her trust and love, and thrust him out of her life. Drink-sodden and believing that the girl, by her act, had hand in hand. From Australia came some childhood friends of the pretty Draga. She did the honors of New York to her former playmates. Hoffman heard and armed himself for revenge.

"I gave up everything, wife, family, standing, for love of you. You shall belong to no other man."

Again the fatal shot. Again a woman pleading that she loved only the man whose hand held the smoking revolver. Again the rage-dimmed eyes that somehow regulate a fatally true aim. Again the rush of excited people, the clang of the ambulance bell, the shouts of officers driving back the curious throng—and another crime is laid at the door of poor, twentieth-century worn Cupid.

TELEPHONE USED BY JAPS.

Government Owns System Which Has Many Up-to-Date Features.

In Japan the telephone system is operated by the government. Telephone, postal and telegraph services are all under one head, being controlled by a group of officials who separated him from the last hope of earthly happiness or all connection with a decent life, Warner shot and killed her in the very door of the store where she was employed as cashier, at No. 3 West Forty-second street. Then, blood-crazed, he dashed down town and killed a life-long friend, John C. Wilson, a millionaire hat manufacturer of Waverly place and Greene street, who was in the act of loaning the crazed man money.

A doughty and strong-armed minister of the gospel saved a young woman from a hated marriage and perhaps from actual death at Ashbury Park on September 19. Belle Crouse, daughter of a Presbyterian minister at Stanhope, N. J., was engaged to Percy C. Bissell, a student at the state normal school, Trenton, N. J., when rumors reached her that her intended was a confirmed gambler. Her father found that the rumors were only too true and the engagement was broken off. The Crouses went to Ocean Grove, whither young Bissell followed. The two young people met on the street, and surreptitiously Bissell displayed a revolver and ordered the girl to accompany him to the pastorate of Rev. C. M. Griffin, pastor of the Ashbury Park Methodist church. In the middle of the service Miss Crouse began to scream, asking that she be protected from her too anxious lover. Whereupon, the clergyman, being strong of arm, pinioned the half-crazed youth, and Miss Crouse escaped to the bosom of her family. But the end was not yet, and friends of the family assert that Bissell should be confined, as the girl is not safe so long as he is at large.

And last comes Julius Hoffman, married, formerly a lieutenant in the Austrian army, who for love and jealousy killed Draga Seigel. For he had given up wife, children and friends. Hoffman and his wife had come from Australia, where he had been an apprentice in Mrs. Hoffman's dressmaking establishment.

In New York they all prospered until love, blind, irresponsible, unreasonable love, took a hand in the game. Mrs. Hoffman left her husband and Draga went to live with a family by the name of Lucas. Hoffman lived alone. Mrs. Hoffman brought suit against Draga Seigel, who in another year would come into an inheritance of $100,000, for alienating her husband's affections; and Draga in turn brought suit for defamation of character. In the midst of this confusion jealousy and death appeared form what is known as the department of communications. Although this department has had only a few years in which to build up the telephone service it has made such progress as to put the Japanese system in a condition which makes it so much superior to others in the east that it is not for a moment to be compared with them, says the American Telephone Journal. In fact the Japanese telephone men have adopted many ideas in connection with the building and operation of their plants which show that they could give valuable pointers to many Europeans in charge of telephone systems under government control.

Their progressiveness, for example, in the use of telephones to aid in army maneuvers is known to the whole world. It is acknowledged everywhere that in the late war with Russia they developed field telephone service to a point of greater efficiency than has been reached by any other army.

Tokio has, as would be expected, the largest telephone system of any of the Japanese cities, and the general features of construction and operation there seem to be typical of the practice throughout the country.

Out of a population of nearly a million people about 15,000 are subscribers for telephone service. The lines are divided between five offices. The rates are 66 yen (about $33) for either business or residence stations. All lines are individual, party line service being esteemed unsatisfactory.

Cleanliness is the most noteworthy thing which impresses itself upon a visitor to one of these central offices. The reason for the absence of dust is made apparent to the stranger by the request that he shall remove his boots before entering, which is courteously made at the door. Although a pair of slippers is provided as a substitute for the foot covering worn out of doors, the shape of these shoes is so peculiar that the writer has in some instances found it more convenient to walk in his stocking feet. The advantage of this oriental custom of removing the shoes before walking upon the floor of a room is shown clearly enough by the results. The Japanese offices are by long odds the neatest the writer has ever been in in any part of the world.

All the operators are girls. The endless succession of challenges, "Nanban" (number), is spoken in a well-modulated tone of voice and all calls seem to be answered promptly

Information and Gossip Furnished by Special Correspondent at Lansing.

Lansing.—A bill placing telephone and telegraph companies under the ad valorem system of taxation was made the subject of a sharp debate in the house Wednesday afternoon and the supporters of the measure lacked but five votes of the necessary two-thirds to secure a suspension of the rules, which would have insured its passage. Wednesday morning the house judiciary committee decided by a vote of 4 to 3, to indefinitely postpone further consideration of the anti-lobbying bill on the ground that the bill was not well drafted, that there was no need of it at this time and that it could be passed by the next legislature if deemed advisable.

Little later the committee on general taxation voted, 4 to 2, to postpone further consideration of the telephone and telegraph bill. Hearing of this action, the attorney general hastily found a copy of a bill introduced last session, taxing car loaning companies and fast freight lines and fixed up a new bill to amend the title of the old one so as to include telephone and telegraph companies. It was introduced by Representative Jerome, who immediately moved a suspension of the rules in order to send the bill to the committee of the whole. This served to open up the fireworks and an hour was spent in debating the merits of the proposition. Representatives Galbraith, Campbell and Simpson contended that the operations of the bill would be unfair to the small telephone companies throughout the state and also work to the disadvantage of the Postal Telegraph company, as against the Western Union. Representatives Jerome, Dust, Miller and Walters talked in favor of the bill, arguing that a principle was involved and that responsibility of taxing the various companies rested with the state tax commission and not with the legislature. As 90 members had answered roll call it required 60 to suspend the rules, the motion being defeated, 55 to 33.

Exposes Chicago Sausage.

"Thank God, the time has come when a firm like Armour & Co. cannot continue to shove down the throats of the people of Michigan something that is in violation of the law." So said Deputy Attorney General Charles W. McGill in a fiery address before Judge Coolidge at St. Joseph. He was asking that the injunction imposed by this court against the state dairy and food department of the state restraining it from interfering with the business of Armour & Co. in Michigan be removed. "We object," said McGill, "to Chicago firms shipping Chicago water in here and selling it as sausage. That is what they are doing, and we are prepared to prove it. Our chemists have been at work on this matter for some time and I don't think that there are very many things about sausage which they cannot inform us about. They don't mention water in their complaint. They simply state that they are using cereals, nice, clean cereals, but they forget to admit that they are using the cereals for a sponge which holds up as high as 50 per cent. water in the sausage." The Chicago corporation replied, alleging that it is well within the law and asking that the injunction be made permanent. The case was taken under advisement by the court.

The stout woman need not fear to drink water because she thinks it will increase her weight, for it will not unless, of course, she drinks it with her meals. It is a mystery why women do not drink more water, for every doctor will advise his woman patients to drink lots of water. It is such a simple remedy and is so much easier to take than medicines. Still, it is almost impossible to make many women believe that they will derive benefit from anything but medicine.

To Remove Blackheads—Blackheads are the result of the skin failing to throw off all its impurities. The perfectly cleansed face has no blackheads. Many who are afflicted with blackheads deny this, as every one likes to think they are clean, but few of us know how to cleanse our faces properly and thoroughly. Not enough can be said about the nightly scrub with the flesh brush and soap and about the morning wash. Wash the face every night, even if you are so sleepy and tired that nothing matters, so long as you get to bed. If the habit is formed, the task will soon become a mechanical one and there is no hope for the girl who is too indolent to do this. She must accept her lot and the blackheads with it.

Different skins need different treatments, but one knows no end of women who gaily go to the nearest drug store and buy a cold cream, simply because some of her friends have recommended it. Probably her friend has a dry skin, while she has an oily one, but that does not make any difference; it's a good cream, so she uses it.

Eat Oil for Dry Skin—Women who suffer from a dry skin will be wonderfully benefited if they will take a tablespoonful of olive oil after each meal. B-n-zoin, which is far too stringing for many complexions, is excellent for a dry skin. Bran bags will have a wonderful effect upon the too dry skin. To make some fine meal for bran bags at home, mix four pounds of fine oatmeal and two quarts of clean bran together and also one and a half pounds of powdered orris root, one and a half pounds of almond meal, and one-half pound of white castile soap powder. Three ounces of sachet powder of any kind to suit one's taste may also be added.

These are simple luxuries and they make the skin exquisitely soft and fresh. They are used exactly like soap and make a soft and fluffy lather. The bags must be stuffed so lightly that they may be rubbed over the face just like a wash cloth. Each bag may be used three times. After each using it should be thoroughly dried in the sun. It is best to make a large quantity of the meal and put it away in closed jars, only filling five or six bags at a time. The bags should be made of soft cheese cloth.

The almond meal is made as follows: Powdered orris root, four ounces; wheat flour, four ounces; castile soap, finely powdered, one ounce; pure borax, one ounce; oil of bitter almonds, ten drops; oil of bergamot, two drams; tincture of musk, one dram. Put into a bottle or jar having a perforated top and shake well so as to mix the ingredients. When ready for use first wet the hands and then shake a quantity of the meal through the shaker top of the jar. Rub the hands together and also over the face, and a delicious lather will form.

Don't Have Rough Hands—Wash your hands in sugar water; dry them with corn meal, night and morning.

A Remodeling Hint.

When buying new goods for an old dress, considerable care must be exercised to select something that will make the old goods look better instead of worse.

It is better to have the new material of a different texture. For instance, new velvet will look better with old silk; black, that has been worn some time will look better if made over with some other color.

If it is desirable to have the dress all black, buy the same color black and change the texture. Black chiffon makes a worn cloth lifeless, while other materials will give it a fresh look.

The bodice linings are often perfectly good while outside is worn out, needing, perhaps just a cleaning about neck and waist, and some new bones and casings.

Tily can easily be utilized with little work for the foundations of the more or less fancy waists for house or evening wear.

The continued wet weather held the frost back late enough in the season for the tubers, with the exception of the very latest ones planted, to ripen sufficiently to assure the farmers of a good quality. Farmers report the crop to be the best for several years back, not only in quality, but in quantity, due, they claim, to the wet weather in July and August. One farmer claims to have filled a half-bushel measure from four ordinary hills in his field and feels confident the field will yield on the average from 250 to 300 bushels per acre. The heavy rains of the last few weeks instead of damaging the crop by rotting as is reported in other sections of the country and other states, seems to have been what was most needed for the crop in northern Michigan, as the old farmer would say, "It has spoiled all my little potatoes—made them big." This year promises to be the best in many seasons for the tubers in this section of the country, both in quantity and quality.

Beet Sugar Making Begins.

Sugar making in the Saginaw valley factories has begun. The season's promises well. Within the past few days weighing stations were opened at Brent Creek, Montrose, Arthur, Freeland, Lawndale, Graham, Birch Run and Hemlock, and all of the 16 stations in the vicinity of Saginaw are now in operation. Beets are coming in freely and indications point to about the same tonnage of beets as last year. Tests show the beets will run close to the coveted 16 per cent.

Celery Crop is Good.

The celery crop in the vicinity of Holland, Zeeland, Vriesland and Hudsonville is nearly double the yield of last year, while the quality is excellent. The daily shipments are so large that the express company is being pressed to the limit of its carrying capacity, and old baggage cars are being used to transport it to the Chicago market. The celery is grown largely by Hollanders, who seem to be adepts at the business.

Many Die by Violence.

The monthly report shows 2,882 deaths and 4,151 accidents in the state during September. Of the deaths, 751 were those of elderly people and 728 were children under one year. Violence caused the deaths of 224, consumption 141, and 158 died of cancer. Four deaths were from tetanus and one by lightning. The births increased 357 over last September.

To Talk Trust Curbing.

Gov. Warner has named the following delegates to attend the conference on combinations and trusts to be held at Chicago October 22-25, under the auspices of the National Civic Federation: George H. Barbour, W. D. Mahon, Ryerson Ritchie, Hal H. Smith, J. B. Howarth, John F. Hogan, F. B. Smith, Detroit; J. Dallas Dort, Flint; D. W. Tower, H. S. Jordan, William D. Judson, Grand Rapids; H. A. Frambach, Cheboygan, Carman N. Smith, Bay City; F. B. Woodward, Owosso; J. N. Burroughs, Marshall.

Why U. of M. Is Famous.

In reply to the suit of the regents of the University of Michigan, who asked to have them restrained from selling copies of lectures delivered to the students of the law department, Edward Bros., stenographers, allege that they have permission of the professors who delivered them to circulate the lectures. They also say that their sale of the lecturer's has given the university a "world-wide reputation."

All Want Michigan Men.

One of the greatest demonstrations of the wisdom in the selection of university professors for Michigan is apparent. C. L. de Muralt was no sooner appointed professor than he received the commission of consulting engineer to the state railways of Austria in connection with the electrification of the Arberg tunnel under the Tyrolean Alps.

Legislature Adjourns.

The Michigan legislature adjourned, leaving much important business unfinished. The telephone and telegraph taxation bill and the bill to prevent stock watering were both snowed under, but the primary election bill was passed.

Michigan Day at Jamestown.

Michigan day at the Jamestown exposition, October 29, promises to attract many prominent men. Gov. Warner has received many inquiries regarding the trip from mayors of cities, county officials and others, and it now seems likely that the excursion from Detroit on Saturday, October 26 will carry a large crowd of Michiganders to the fair. The fare from Detroit to Jamestown and return is $18.60 and the sleeper fare each way six dollars for each person. Tickets are good for 15 days.

AIDS TO BEAUTY

PRACTICAL LITTLE HINTS FOR THE WOMAN WHO CARES.

Perspiration Helps to Keep the Skin Clear—How to Cure a Dry Skin—To Remove Blackheads.

Keep Skin Clear—Perspiration opens the pores lavishly, and hence is a prime beautifier. Damp air and fog are kindly to the complexion and are held to be largely responsible for the fresh piquancy of the young English girls' complexion. The fog seems to lie close against the cheeks, soft and luscious, like kisses from velvet lips. You will find that every one, be it man, woman, or child, who drinks quantities of water will have a clear and soft skin, as pink and white as a baby's. Water, if drunk in great quantities, will cause perspiration, which clears out the pores and makes them healthy. It also bleaches the skin. It prevents the skin from becoming hard, dry and close, and is thus indirectly a preventive of wrinkles.

The stout woman need not fear to drink water because she thinks it will increase her weight, for it will not unless, of course, she drinks it with her meals. ANTONETTE MACIOCI.

steps and bated breaths in the hallway without, and within—Cupid weeping over her deadly work.

November—and the Thanksgiving spirit abroad in the big, bustling city. But no such spirit in the heart of Giuseppe Figlia. Working with him in the same factory at No. 67 Spring street was beautiful Antonette Macioci, beautiful as an Italian woman is, but only at the age of 19. MAJOR OZONE'S FRESH AIR CRUSADE

SALLIE SNOOKS - STENOGRAPHER BY DINK

COUSIN BILL FROM THE CITY

FROM FASHION'S REALM

ALL THE LATE HAT MODELS ARE VERY LARGE

FROM FASHION'S REALM

Six Color Suggestions.

There will certainly be in high fashion this fall and winter, navy and royal blue are looked upon as fashion leaders. Brown will be a favorite—russet, fawn and leather shades. The silver and dark mouse gray are especially fashionable. Black will be a conspicuous note both in trimmings and fabrics. Copenhagen blue and natter blue old blue are both high-style colors.

A pretty stock for long, slim waists is made very high and snug white tucked lawn, with footings around the neck. The collar is made to flare slightly and finished with a narrow knife edge.

With white dresses necklaces of rose quartz are much worn, cut the form of small globes, separated from each other by small beads of crystal or of diamonds, the glistering of which produces a splendid effect.

The mixture of laces of various widths which is so much favored just now allows the production of jackets of extraordinary richness, to which the rarest and most precious points and their designs and the extreme delicacy of their fabrics.

Among the becoming shoes which are among late arrivals are a number very pretty for the open-work arrangement over the instep. This open-work makes a dainty summer shoe, and is very dressy. One three-buttoned slipper has the buttons right over the center of the instep straps. Another shoe is cut with large diamond taps to accommodate the little buttonholes. The colonial type is in open-work and always finished with silver buckles.

The tunic skirt, which reminds one very much of the old-fashioned overskirt, is made with deep points which reach to the knee line. A pretty arrangement for the bottom of the upper skirt portion is to have the points developed in tucks. This work must be carefully done, but is very beautiful as a border edge when carefully fashioned. Of course, the waist should be tucked to match the skirt tucks, and this is easily accomplished by making a surplus waist with tucks down the front.

Capes both long and short, and ample, though simple in line, are much in evidence, and they promise to be pretty generally worn later in the year. Some have hoods for evening wear, and others have flat collars, with stole ends, finished with embroidery, lace or braiding.

A neat style for a little girl of 4 or 5 is a dress which has a full waist which is made somewhat on the order of a surplus effect, with the fullness confined in narrow plaits on the shoulders, the two fronts crossing the same as in the back. The skirt is gathered and joined to the waist with a narrow belt. The dress is neat if made of a finely dotted blue and white lawn, with the waist outlines, belt and band above the skirt made of white insertion. The dress is worn over a waist of white mull with shoulder puffs instead of elbow sleeves. It should also have an underwaist of the same material, which makes a suitable change from time to time.

Worth Knowing.

In sprinkling clothes if a weak broom is used the clothes will be dampened much more evenly than by sprinkling with the hand.

To remove cake readily from tins place them on a wet towel or cloth immediately on taking them from the oven.

If starched clothes become wet with rain on the line do not take them down, but allow them to remain until the sun dries them, and they will have lost none of the stiffness.

To prevent hardwood floors from being marked, cut pieces of thick felt the exact size of the tips of the chairs and fasten on with strong glue. The felt is far less expensive than rubber tips and will wear much better. Moving chairs may have a long narrow strip glued on.

Make Cover for Irons.

Have the tinner take a piece of sheetiron four inches high and twenty inches long and line with asbestos. Tie it out in a circle, having a one-inch rim at top and a handle. Put over your flatiron when you iron whatever you wish on the burner you iron on. We also had two tin dishes with handles. They form a circle when on burner, but are cut right in two in center so two vegetables and irons can be on same burner.

Picture Frames of Burlap.

A remnant of golden brown burlap, left from hanging the dining room burlap, gave us considerable perplexity until we devised a plan by which it would serve as picture frames for our buff hall. At a sash and door factory we bought some strips of plain window elastic about two inches wide. A picture dealer cut the wood the desired length and mitered the corners. We pasted the burlap smoothly on the frame, covering the shining inside edge with a band of black passe partout ribbon. The effect was charming.

Broom Pen Wiper.

A novel penwiper, which also is a useful gift, can be made shaped like a small broom. An orange stick will serve for the handle, while the broom part is made of chambray skin. The two pieces which are used for the penwiper are plain, while the two outside pieces are slashed in tiny strips to resemble the straw of the broom. This is fastened to the handle with narrow pink ribbon, and the top of the stick also is finished with a bow of the ribbon and a loop by which it hangs.

Make New Collars from Worn Ones.
Take men's linen collars that no longer are fit for use and soak them in clear water until starch is all out. When dry rip up and hemstitch the linen. By putting on a small band you have a linen collar without cost.

Patchwork Rug.

Take old trousers, coats or vests, use the wrong side, and cut out rings the size of a saucer; buttonhole each with some pretty colored yarn. Set this on a square or dark material, join squares together till they are the size you wish, then castitch seams. Use the old carpet or something similar for a lining.

OLD JEWELRY.

In many of the best Parisian gowns is seen a revival of jet, cameo and garnets. The cameo forms a clasp at the front of a low bodice or fastens a cloak or a belt.

Large bracelets and old filigree bracelets are popular. Amethysts are very much to the fore, and a garnet necklace is a coveted heirloom, especially if connected with a slight gold chain.

Star-shaped brooches, almost any stones find acceptance and the old lockets have come back again. Some of the combs which were worn in empire days fit in beautifully with the present style of hairdressing, especially when set with rubies, amethysts, topaz and garnets.

FINE HOUSES LOTS OF TROUBLE

One Lady by Experience Found That There Is More Happiness in Smaller and More Modest Home.

"Isn't that a perfectly beautiful house?" said one woman to another, as the trolley passed by a magnificent residence.
"Oh, I don't know," replied the other, carelessly. "It makes me feel tired just to look at it. Ever since our friends, the Smiths, went to Europe and asked us to live in their house and take care of it for them I've been a changed woman. I was simply tickled to death over the prospect; but after I had lived there a month I thought differently. No servant would stay where there was so much work. The polished floors got dusty if you turned your back on them. The magnificent bath room was a nightmare to keep clean; the butler's pantry was so inconvenient it got on my nerves, and with the fine system of heating we nearly froze to death. I was never so happy as when they returned and we could move back into our own little, warm, convenient, not-stylish, two-by-four of a house."
The other woman looked thoughtful over this description. For it is true that many and many a woman looks with envy at the fine home of a neighbor simply because she does not know anything about it.
For it is not the lofty building, the beautiful architecture, the beautiful furnishings, the open fireplace, the ornate reception hall that makes a home homelike; in this day of scarce and high-priced as well as inadequate servants these things mean more trouble than anything else.
It is not the size of the rooms nor their hardwood floors, the outside piazzas nor the lawns around the house that make that place most livable. Put it down as a fact that money has nothing at all to do with the making of a real home.
There is more than one family living happy, hearty and comfortable in a six-room house who are getting more out of life and their home than many a rich man does in his lofty, uncomfortable and most expensive mansion.

THE SEWING CIRCLE

To make pretty pen wipers: Select two pretty leather postal cards and make leaves of soft white flannel or chambray and fasten all together with ribbon run through eyelets at one end of the cards. They are useful for school children and can be tied or tacked to the desks.

Make the girl's gymnasium suit of soft flannel, using a one-piece pattern. The platted bloomers can be made full enough to look like a skirt. Band at the knees, turning the band under to make the legs bag over the knees. Finish the waist with bishop sleeves and small circular collar. Tie and belt should match.

A useful thing for mothers who have plenty of mending to do for small boys and girls is gun tissue. It can be placed under thin spots in elbows and knees, used to patch a rent in a hurry and gives a stiff background to revers or collars made of soft materials that have little stiffness of their own.

For durable bibs for children buy three-quarters of a yard of white olefin cloth. This will make two bibs three-quarters of a yard long. Cut them like the front of a long-sleeved apron. Bind the neck with white tape and place button and button-hole on binding. Fasten around the child's neck, extend down into its lap and lay over on the table. This will save the child's clothes, the tablecloth and the carpet.

Select some pretty colored silk, cut a circular piece about as large as a saucer and work the edge with a buttonhole stitch and edge with a knitted lace of colored silk. Line with chambray and put in a powder puff filled with powder. A drawstring of ribbons will close the bag. After powdering the face the bag can be turned wrong side out and is used for smoothing the powder on the face. This little article should be quite small so as to be easily carried in a handbag.

A rather new yet showy way to work a large coin dot is to begin at the outside with an outlining stitch and follow the circle round and round into the center. This development of the dot has a better effect where colors are used instead of white. Another, though scarcely so good, treatment is to use a very fine chainstitch on the circumference, filling the corners with solid French knots. Some people insist on outlining the satin stitch dot when finished. This gives the best result when the outline is in a darker shade.

For the deft fingers of women who love needlework, something very beautiful can be made with ribbons and fancy stitches. The cushion we have in mind is one made of beautiful green silk, finished with large checks formed by using very narrow bands of velvet ribbons about one-eighth of an inch wide. The ribbons were securely stitched on both sides, making squares about two inches both ways. The squares were filled in with Battenburg stitches of various kinds. They were made of a third shade of pale green silk thread, rather heavy in effect. Yellow would be handsome in this manner, while ink or blue would be equally attractive.

NOVEL IDEA.

Since the first inventive genius turned in the four corners of a handkerchief and made a dainty decoration almost every article produced by fingers agile at needle work has at one time or another joined the list of handkerchief-made articles.
The last recruit is a complete shirt waist, and the directions are very simple: Cut the two handkerchiefs in four triangles by laying two opposite corners together. Join these four pieces together with valenciennes lace insertion, making a large square. Now make a short yoke of the insertion, using about five or six rows, and join the handkerchief to it. Use two stripes or insertion on the sides of the handkerchief and join the material you are using. Cut out to fit. Make back and sleeves like those of any other waists. Finish neck and sleeves with insertion and edge.

There are many, many models in new hats, and all are large. Which one suits you best?
