IN NEW OFFICE QUARTERS

TAKES POSSESSION NOVEMBER 10

The Chelsea Real Estate & Improvement Co. will occupy the Old Chelsea Savings Bank Building.

The Chelsea Real Estate & Improvement Co. expect to move into their new quarters in the old Chelsea Savings building, recently vacated by The Standard-Herald, about November 10, and can be found there after that date by anyone contemplating building next spring.

To any one desiring to build or buy a house to be actually used for a home they have some desirable proposition. In fact they will sell you a house and lot so you can pay about what you are now paying in rent and in time have some thing besides landlords receipts.

Or you can buy a lot of them this fall pay for it during the winter and in the spring they will arrange so you can borrow money to build a house thereon, after your own plans and do your own contracting with your own builder.

This applies however only to those who expect to live in the houses so erected, persons buying for speculative purposes will be expected to pay cash.

Besides handling their own property the company is prepared to conduct a general real estate business and fire insurance agency, collect rents, care for the property of non-residents and transact all other business usually handled by real estate agents.

FOR COUNTY EXPENSES.

The Amount to be Raised and How it is to be Expended the Coming Year in Washtenaw.

Washtenaw county will raise by taxation the coming year the sum of $48,000. This is the amount carried by the report of the finance committee of the board of supervisors.

The total is divided as follows: County fund, $16,500; contingent fund, $6,000; jury fund, $4,800; stenographer fund, $1,800; fuel and light, $2,000; poor fund, $1,500; soldiers' relief fund, $1,500; salary and clerk hire, $9,000; asylum, $900; contagious disease, $2,500; sparrow bounty, $1,000; repairs to county house, $500.

In addition to this the county treasurer is instructed to place the liquor tax in the general fund and apportion it as needed to the various funds. The money from liquor licenses, it is estimated will amount this year to about $16,000.

McKernan-Sullivan.

A very pretty wedding took place in the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart at eight o'clock Tuesday morning, October 29, 1907. The contracting parties were Miss Grace Agnes McKernan, who for some years has been a well-known stenographer in the employ of Wm. P. Schenk & Company, and Mr. Edward R. Sullivan, of Union City, who holds a responsible position with the cement company in that city.

Miss Mame McKernan, a sister of the bride, acted as brides' maid and Mr. Fredric Uttenweiler, of Union City, was the best man. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the church Rev. Fr. Considine and was witnessed by a large following of friends of the contracting parties. They were the recipients of a number of fine presents.

Louis Burg and the children's choir of the church rendered several vocal selections.

A five course wedding breakfast was served to a number of friends at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McKernan. The decorations in the dining room were chrysanthemums and smilax. The newly wedded couple left for a short stay in New York City, and will be at home in Union City after November 15.

Masquerade Ball.

One of the special features of the social season of Chelsea, was the masquerade ball given by the members of the Young Men's Club at their hall on Friday evening last, the affair being strictly private.

The rooms had been tastefully decorated for the occasion, and amid only the weird light of the Jack-o-Lantern, the dancers one by one assembled. After a hour of continuous merriment as to the identification of the different characters, the inspiring strains of Miller's orchestra inveigled the dancers to the ball room.

In the extreme corner a booth had been artistically draped, presided over by his satanic majesty, who, at regular intervals, folded his mantle about him and with his magic wand flashed in a hugh kettle the blue sulphur flame so characteristic of his make-up, causing the yellow lanterns to look dim, indeed. It was a pretty sight as the grand march, headed by Uncle Sam and the Goddess of Liberty, assembled for the inspection of the few club members whose duties prevented their masking. Around the hall, forward, backward and up the center weaved the pretty maidens and their gallant escorts, only to retreat later to the inviting comforts of the parlors.

When the time came for the unmasking the entire assemblage burst into hilarious laughter as they realized how easily they had been deceived as to the identity of their best-known friends.

A PIONEER RESIDENT.

M. E. Keeler Passed Away at His Home in Sharon, Sunday Morning—Funeral Tuesday.

Matthew E. Keeler was born in Fairfield county, Conn., December 3, 1836, and died at his home in Sharon, Sunday morning, October 27, 1907. Mr. Keeler located on the farm where he passed away in 1863.

He was united in marriage with Miss Annie E. Osborne, September 5, 1861, and six children were born to them, five of whom survive.

The funeral was held from his late home Tuesday afternoon. Interment in the East cemetery of Grass Lake.

The Equalization.

The following is the equalization of the several townships in this part of the county as passed by the board of supervisors:

Dexter, personal $56,425; real estate $504,325.

Freedom, personal $187,450; real estate $755,700. A reduction of $10,000 from last year.

Lima, personal $250,625; real estate $952,250. Reduced $5,000.

Lodi, personal $107,950; real estate $1,004,800. Reduced $5,000.

Lyndon, personal $51,300; real estate $416,820. Increased $2,400.

Scio, personal $216,800; real estate $1,106,400.

Sharon, personal $184,130; real estate $774,050. Increased $5,000.

Sylvan, personal $574,500; real estate $1,299,020. Increased $5,000.

Webster, personal $149,130; real estate $812,820.

The total valuation of the personal property in the county is placed at $7,900,600 and the real estate at $30,737,835.

Injunction Granted.

An injunction has been asked in the circuit court by Tobias Laubengayer and others against Drain Commissioner Runciman and two of the county supervisors to stop the construction of a drain in Lodi, Scio and Lima townships, known as the Frey and Fitzsimmons drain, which it is alleged is being built larger than the plans and specifications call for. An order to show cause was granted by Judge Kinne.

The papers were filed by Attorney F. E. Jones and the bill of complaint alleges that the drain is not being properly constructed and that the dimensions have been changed from those originally ordered. The request for an injunction is being brought by Tobias Laubengayer, Henry Hirth, Caroline Laubengayer, Simon Hirth and the defendants are Drain Commissioner George A. Runciman, Foskett & Hanna, contractors, Joseph Burkhardt, supervisor of Lodi, and Jacob Jedele, supervisor of Scio township.

THIS IS DEDICATION DAY OF THE OLD PEOPLES' HOME

Appropriate Services Held in the Building This Morning—Interesting Program Carried Out.

The fine building known as the Old People's Home of the Detroit conference of the M. E. church was dedicated today. The first services were held at the Home at 10 o'clock this morning and were very interesting to the large audience.

Rev. W. W. Washburn, of Detroit, president of the board of trustees, was the presiding officer of the day and made the introductory address. The presentation of the building and grounds by the building committee to the board of trustees was by E. P. Bennett. The acceptance and declaration by Dr. Washburn. The prayer of dedication was made by the dean of the Detroit Conference, Rev. Seth Reed, D. D. The invocation was by Rev. M. C. Hawks.

At noon the ladies of the Chelsea M. E. church served a dinner in the church and a bazaar was held for the sale of fancy articles during the afternoon and evening. The proceeds of the dinner and the sale of fancy articles will be used in furnishing the home and from present indications both will be liberally patronized.

A service was held in the church this afternoon which consisted of the following program:

Music.

Responsive Reading—Psalter New Hymnal.

Prayer.

Music.

Address—Giving the Financial Phase of the Enterprise. Rev. C. Baldwin.

Address—Representing the Conference. Rev. Wm. Dawe, D. D.

Music.

Greetings and Congratulations of the Michigan Conference. Rev. James Hamilton.

Address—The Church's Care for Its Aged Members. Rev. Frederick D. Leete, D. D.

Brief Voluntary Addresses.

Benediction.

A male quartette rendered a number of selection at both services.

To Prosecute Hunters.

Becoming exasperated at the carelessness as well as the wilful and malicious acts of hunters in the destruction of property, about seventy-five farmers of Norvell and adjoining townships have banded themselves together in an organization known as the "Protecto Club." The lands under the control of the club comprise about twenty-seven square miles, a solid strip three miles wide from north to south and nine miles long. The eastern boundary is a line through Sharon Hollow and the western limit is the east line of Napoleon township. The southern boundary is the river Raisin and a number of Grass Lake farms are included along its northern edge. Warning notices have been posted, although this is not essential, and all hunters will be prosecuted under the trespass law of 1877, No. 199. One of the most aggravating offenses at hunters is the cutting of wire fences. Some of them carry alppers and if their dogs cannot readily pass they make a hole for them through the fence.—Brooklyn Exponent.

Census Report.

An aggregate of 1,300,000 divorce cases and 1,733,332 persons parted by legal decree during the past 20 years will be shown by a report being prepared at the census bureau.

A total of 2,900 clerks and special agents have been at work for months gathering this data and 140 are still engaged in the task.

There are about 40,000 cases to be investigated out of the number stated before the field work of compilation proper can begin.

It is estimated that two-thirds of the persons seeking divorces, or 800,000, have been successful in their suits. The report in detail will not be made public until early next spring.

SERIAL STORY

Mr. Barnes, American

By Archibald Clavering Guter

A Sequel to Mr. Barnes of New York

Author of "Mr. Barnes of New York," "Mr. Potter of Texas," "That Frenchman," Etc.

Copyright, 1917, Dodd Mead & Co., N. Y.

SYNOPSIS.

Barnes, a wealthy American, is pursuing the young English lieutenant, Edward Grant Anstruther, and his Corsican bride, Marina, daughter of the Paolo, from the murderous vendetta, understanding that his reward is to be the hand of the girl he loves. End Anstruther, sister of the English lieutenant, the four fly from Ajaccio to Marseilles on board the French steamer "Constantine." The vendetta pursues and as the quartet are about to board the train for London at Marseilles, Marina is handed a mysterious note which causes her to collapse and necessitates a postponement of the journey. Barnes gets part of the mysterious note and receives letters which inform him that he is marked by the vendetta. He employs an American detective and plans to beat the vendetta at their own game. For the purpose of securing the safety of the women Barnes arranges to have Lady Chartris leave a secluded villa at Nice to which the party is to be taken in a yacht.

CHAPTER II.—Continued.

The American's plan, as he whispers to Emory, is so adroit that the detective emits a triumphant whistle and says: "Gee whiz, just the idea!"

"Everything must be ready for tonight," directs Barnes. "No other Corsican steamer than the one on which we arrived will come to-day. By tomorrow I hope to have the ladies reasonably beyond pursuit."

"All right. I think I can fix it for you."

"Meantime," says Barnes, "see if you can find what cables bearing on this matter have been received from Ajaccio and to whom addressed."

"That will be difficult!"

"Not if you give the telegraph clerks enough money."

"Yes, most anything can be done the way you spend money, Mr. Barnes." This last comes from Emory's smiling lips as the American is writing a check. "I'll report progress to you not later than one p. m.; that'll give you time for your arrangements."

Coming from this to the Grand hotel, Barnes shortly strolls into Lady Chartris' parlor and has an interview with that matron which places her in the seventh heaven of delight.

"You think of going to Nice?" he suggests; he would have proposed some little Italian watering place, but knows that the widow will only consider the spot where Van Bulow, the young German diplomatist, is located.

"Yes, I've concluded to remain there a few weeks until the season absolutely ends," responds Lady Chartris, "only the good hotels are so cruelly expensive."

"Well, there are some lovely and retired villas on the little Bay of Villefranche, a 20 minutes' carriage drive from the Promenade des Anglais. Suppose you engage one?"

"Do you think I'm a Croesus?" screams the widow in horror. "Do you want to ruin me? Do you suppose I have your pocketbook, Mr. Barnes of New York?"

"That's exactly what I want you to suppose, my dear Lady Chartris. I'll pay for the villa; you occupy it. In about a week from now, Mrs. Anstruther and probably End will be your guests; perhaps Edwin and I also for a little while. But you are to say nothing about that. You'll keep Tompston, End's maid, and take her on with you. The villa is to be rented by you and entirely in your name."

"And you pay the running expenses?"

"With pleasure."

"Oh, Mr. Barnes, how magnificently generous!"

"Don't leave here earlier than the day after tomorrow. In fact, that is the day you must leave, but make your arrangements quickly after you reach Nice. You'll have no trouble in finding an unoccupied villa at Villefranche; it's so near the end of the season. Be sure its grounds run to the water and have a landing place. You will say nothing of our going to Nice to anyone—especially your child," he remarks, commandingly, tempering his words, however, by adding: "Maud is too young to keep a secret."

"Yes, childish tongues will babble," smiles the widow as Burton goes moodily away.

Mr. Barnes' features are still very solemn, as early in the afternoon, after another interview with Emory, he says to End, who is in consultation with him: "You think Marina is well enough to be conveyed in a carriage a mile or two?"

"Why, certainly, she is out of bed now. Don't fear for her courage as regards herself, Burton. It is my brother the dear girl is alarmed for."

"This morning," remarks the American, under his breath, "I had hoped, with Edwin's aid, to get you, End and Marina to England, where three or four London bulldog detectives and the fear of the British hangman would have probably kept Mrs. Anstruther safely from murderous pursuit until I had settled the affair. But now this devilish letter has given her such a shock that we dare not immediately subject her to the fatigue of the long railway journey to London."

As he shows it to them and they try to decipher it, Barnes hastily explains how he had purchased the mutilated letter from Maud Chartris with maroon glances.

"And that awful child concealed it from us!" cries End. "Her mother should be told immediately."

"What, and have Lady Chartris rush tremblingly back to London when, without danger to herself, she can do us a grand turn in Nice?"

"In Nice? How?" End asks, astonished.

"Tell you in a minute," replies her fiancé. "The fourth quarter probably contains the infernal portrait that caused the bride's alarm for you, Edwin, for her fears I know are not so much for herself, as for you. Now I, with your assistance, am going first to make End and Marina safe."

"How?" demands the English girl, whose face has grown pallid.

"By Lady Chartris. She's going to take a secluded, water-washed villa at Villefranche in her own name. House rentals have to be reported to the municipal officials. With the name of Lady Chartris attached to it, no one will guess that we will occupy it!"

"But Prunella Chartris would fly from a vendetta as she would from the smallestpox," says Edwin.

"Quicker!" cries End.

"Quite right, but Prunella Chartris shan't hear of a vendetta. We'll turn up at Villefranche, Edwin, in about four days, leave the ladies there, amply guarded, and then you and I, my jolly seagods, will turn out attention to our Corsican friends. We will be foot-loose, and can do the hunting and killing, if necessary, and settle the affair in some way definitely and forever." Barnes' manner is lighter than his heart.

"You'll find me with you," answers the English lieutenant. "This is the second time, because she loved me, that my bride has been driven to despair. But how do you expect to get End and Marina from Marseilles unnoticed by the people that are already hunting us to the villa near Nice?"

"What do wild animals do when they are hunted? Take to the water!" remarks Burton. "That leaves no trail. Do you think, Anstruther, that you can navigate a yacht?"

"Do you think that you can shoot a pistol straight?" growls the British naval officer.

"Very well. A yacht will be waiting for us, engaged by Emory. There will be nothing but English seamen on board, not over many of them. We'll put the girls on board to-night. We're both armed and our party will not be noticed driving on the Prado, where everybody drives. In a little bay, as I have arranged it, off the Corniche road, near the Bains du Roucas Blanc, a boat will be waiting. There we'll put the ladies on board and sail away. Then you'll be able to tell where we go?"

Edwin rises, but at the door, which had been left open so that the gentlemen could keep their eye on the pas-

Then Mr. Anstruther walks off, leaving Mr. Barnes confronted with a young lady whose lilies have changed to roses and—the greatest temptation of his life—sage to Marina's room, he turns, and noting Barnes' longing eyes directed toward his sister, says with sailor bluntness: "Old man, you seem to think of everybody but yourself in this matter. Are you aware that this projected cruise won't permit you and End to be spliced in London in three days from now?"

"I had not forgotten that," replies Burton. "How could I?" His eyes still on his beautiful fiancée, who, notwithstanding her anxiety and trouble, looks lovely as a goddess and tempting as a nymph.

"Well," says the sailor, "we jack-tars have a custom of getting married before we start on a cruise. There are ministers in Marseilles as well as London." Then Edwin Anstruther walks off, leaving Mr. Barnes confronted with a young lady whose lilies have changed to roses and—the greatest temptation of his life.

The poor fellow thinks of the damnable document he has in his pocket, proclaiming death to the unfortunate woman who marries him; he remembers Maud's horrible statements as to the fate of females marrying into a blood feud and forces the desire from his eyes.

His embarrassment is increased by the superb manner of his fiancée. Without a word she walks up to him and unaffectedly tenders him her lips.

"Don't think me forward," she whispers sweetly, "but if you think you can take better care of me as your wife—if you feel very much disappointed at the delay." Her words are faltered out bashfully.

The accused warning—threatening death to her he marries—rustles in his pocketbook as he crushes her to his breast. It stays the mad rush of his passion. He forces himself to calmness and whispers, his face pale, his lips contorted: "For God's sake, don't misunderstand me. I love you more dearly than ever, but until this affair is settled, it would be an infamy if I married you."

"Good heavens! You fear they are going to kill you?"

"No, if there is any killing to be done, I propose to do it." For an instant he is about to show her the infernal document. His hand is already on his breast pocket, when it stops, paled. Barnes remembers the impulsive courage of his betrothed. "My Lord, if she saw this," he thinks, "End would insist on marrying me off-hand. She'd think it her duty to stand as my wife in the front of the skirmish and defy them." He says slowly, almost brokenly: "You must trust me in this matter, dear one. Only never doubt my love."

"Oh, that would be too horrible," she falters, "Burton, that would break my heart. You know more about the affair than I. You are the best judge." Her lips are tendered to him again, but Barnes notes with a sigh their salute is colder, and that tears are very near the divine eyes of End Anstruther.

Away from him, she wrings her white hands, and in the solitude of her chamber, walls: "Oh, everything seems to be changed since yesterday." Then the natural pride of the maiden coming to her, she says haughtily to herself: "The next proposition as to the naming of the wedding day shall come from you, Mr. Barnes of New York."

CHAPTER III.

Playing the Enemies' Game.

Mr. Barnes attempts to forget his postponed nuptials in arranging the details of his darling's safety. Emory shortly brings to him an old canceled check upon a branch of the Credit Lyonnais bearing the signature of Correggio Danella, but comparing it with Marina's mutilated note and also the warning sent to him, the American cannot be certain of the handwriting.

"Perhaps it has been disguised in both the epistles," suggests the detective, and continues his report. "As far as I can find from a clerk in the telegraph office, Rue de la Republique, that I have sometimes hired before in such matters, there was a long cable came from Bernard Saliceti at Ajaccio to Correggio Danella late yesterday evening. It stated that you and your party were to arrive on the Constantine; that you by your arts had murdered his brother, and that Madame Anstruther, for the defense of her husband against the just vengeance of Tommaso Monaldi, had produced his shooting by De Belle's cavalrymen. This is only as the operator remembered it. My emissary didn't dare to try and get a duplicate of the dispatch, which was already on file. The French government keeps a sharp eye upon its telegraph offices."

"Isn't it curious," asks Burton, "that there is no account yet of the Corsican tragedy in the French journals here?"

"Politics!" answers the detective. "There is an election here shortly, and they fear some complication with the English government. I doubt if you will hear of the affair in an official way—at all events not till after the election for deputies. Perhaps that's what makes young Saliceti so eager to do you up. If he stood as a representative of the time-honored vendetta every rustic commune in his island would give him its vote."

"That being the case," says Barnes, "we have only ourselves to rely upon. Have you made all arrangements about the yacht?"

SHOULD HAVE SLEEP OUT.

Writer Objects to Custom of Arousing Children Early.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson, writing of Sleep in the American Magazine, criticizes boarding schools sharply for getting young people up too early in the morning. He says: "A baby or young child should have absolutely every minute of sleep that it can be induced to take, and sleeplessness is even more emphatically a sign of disease in children than in adults. The necessity and capacity for large amounts of refreshing sleep persists up to adult life and the amount required seldom falls below ten hours before the eighteenth or twentieth year. To make children or rapidly growing young adults get up before they have had their sleep out, and feel thoroughly rested, is not merely irrational but cruel, and when it is done as a routine practice at boarding schools, or other institutions, by those who pretend to be fitted to have the care of children it is little short of criminal."

Name Sounded Familiar.

I was turning over the leaves of a magazine one afternoon and my little brother, three years old, happened to be standing near. As I turned one page I gazed on a lovely painting of Joan of Arc. "Do you know who this is, Ralph?" I asked. He looked at it for a second and then he said, "Oh, yes, I know; that's—then—oh, you know, he stammered, 'she's the one who swallowed the whale.' He had confounded the two names of Jonah and Joan—Exchange.

Health and Beauty

The object of these exercises and lessons is to not only correct any physical deformity, but to assist those who will indulge in them to retain a perfect and healthy physique.

The position for exercise No. 1 is a kneeling one, with the knees placed apart in the stride position. The exercise is accomplished by bending the trunk slowly backward as far as its flexibility will allow, so as to assume a reclining posture; hold the body in this position for a few minutes, or as long as you can without straining. Then slowly assume an upright position (same as you commenced the exercise with); the knees and hips retaining their fixed position in the meantime. This movement is a valuable one for any one to practice; it puts the skin and muscles of the interior portion of the body and legs strongly upon the stretch. It is felt in the groin, the walls of the abdomen and chest; it also elevates the ribs, diaphragm, and expands the chest. This action is chiefly produced by the muscles of the back, which are also strengthened.

Exercise No. 2 is taken in a kneeling position with the knees slightly apart, and hands placed upon hips. It is accomplished by bending the trunk above the hips to one side, as far as you can; it then returns to a perpendicular position, continuing till the body is bent likewise on the opposite side. This exercise should be indulged in somewhat rapidly so that the momentum acquired will be felt upon the convex side. This exercise may safely be repeated 15 or 20 times. You will be surprised after a little practice with what ease it is accomplished.

Exercise No. 3 is not a difficult one, but nevertheless important. It is accomplished while in a sitting position, with the trunk erect, legs in stride position. With the arms hanging at the sides, slowly raise them sidewise, perpendicular with the trunk, the back of the hands uppermost, being careful to avoid all irregular actions, till the back of the hands meet perpendicularly above the head (as illustrated), where they remain for a short time. They are then returned slowly to the position by the sides. Each individual must use their own judgment in regard to the number of times this should be repeated; while it appears very simple it can be overdone.

IN BROWN AND WHITE

Small Checks on Colored Grounds are Fashionable.

Small checks formed by lines of brown on cream or ecru colored ground are exceedingly fashionable for fall wear and make really most attractive gowns. In this instance the material is the chiffon voile that has so little weight and warmth and the trimming is brown taffeta on the skirt, tucked silk over-laid with brown taffeta on the waist, while the gumpie beneath is of cream colored lace net. The over blouse and the skirt combine to make an exceptionally graceful and altogether charming gown that is eminently useful at the same time, and as the gumpie is an entire-representative there. This interest was a nervous one and caused considerable indecision on the part of friends and others intending to follow. Those interested in injuring the country circulated stories of ruin and disaster, but the effect was lost, as it had been long enough in the limelight to prove its high standing amongst the agricultural sections of the continent. The heavy strain placed upon it was not too great; it has shown that the faith placed in it has been warranted, and it is this year producing undoubted evidence that in agricultural possibilities and resources it stands among the first of food producers. A late spring delayed seeding from the usual early April period until late in May, and in many cases well into June. And with what result? It is a little early to tell the result, but that there will be a three-quarter crop is almost absolutely certain. The yield of wheat in 1906 was 55,000,000 bushels; 1907 it will be between 70,000,000 and 80,000,000.

For Church Bazaar.

If you are planning an autumn bazaar arrange a cozy corner for a rest room. Have a fire place with great logs burning therein, with a kettle over the flame. On the chimney shelf place the old fashioned blue and other china, brass candlesticks, old pewter, etc. In one corner have a grandfather clock.

Have a lattice work covered with waxed autumn leaves for a back ground, where some lassie quaintly dressed in old fashioned costume strings apples from a dish in her lap and bargains to sell the freshly churned butter (having another in quaint costume churning serenely); also have on sale preserves, jellies, brown bread, beans, pumpkin pies and all old time appetizers that need no bear a purity label to warrant a sale including a booklet of recipes.

Have in some place a dear old lady spinning red flax on an ancient wheel. Have a table set with the rare old china of other days, where guests can be served on both long and short notice, and everything will taste like what mother used to make, even to the roast pig.

Sweater Decoration.

A late fancy for young girl's sweaters and heavy toboggan and camping shirts for men is a monogram high or the left breast, on the pocket when there is one, and, when there isn't one, the monogram should be placed where the pocket ought to be.

Of course, it should be of some contrasting color, and worked in crewels. Scarlets on gray, yellow on navy blue and white or yellow on red are favorite combinations.

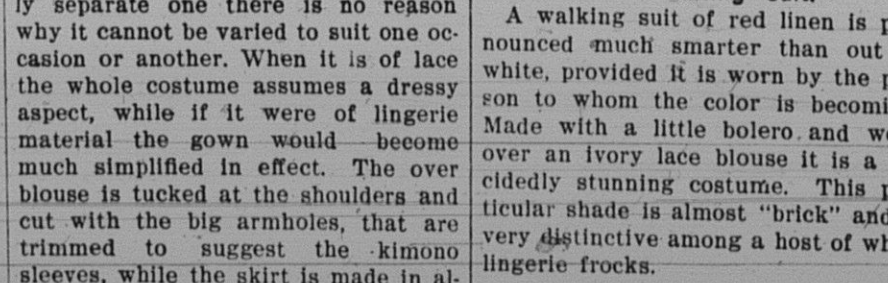

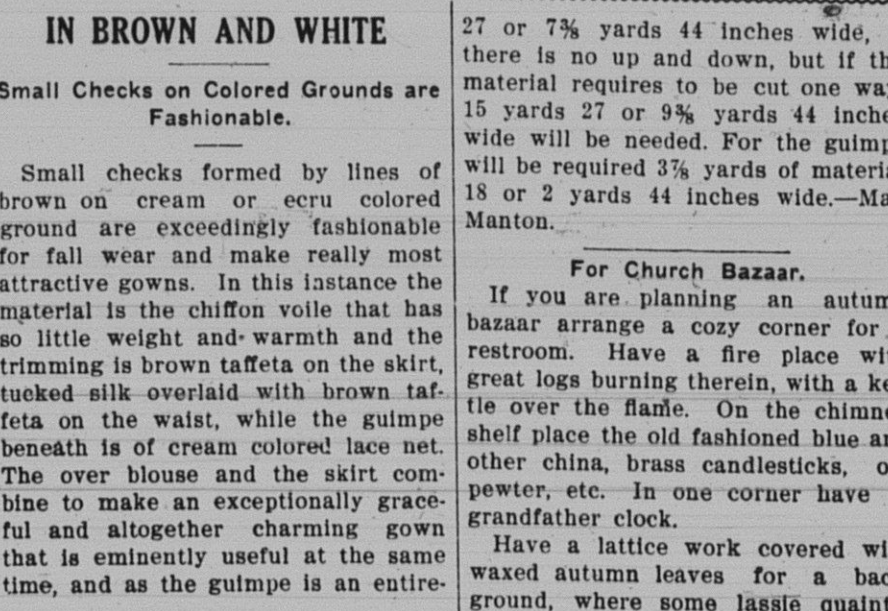

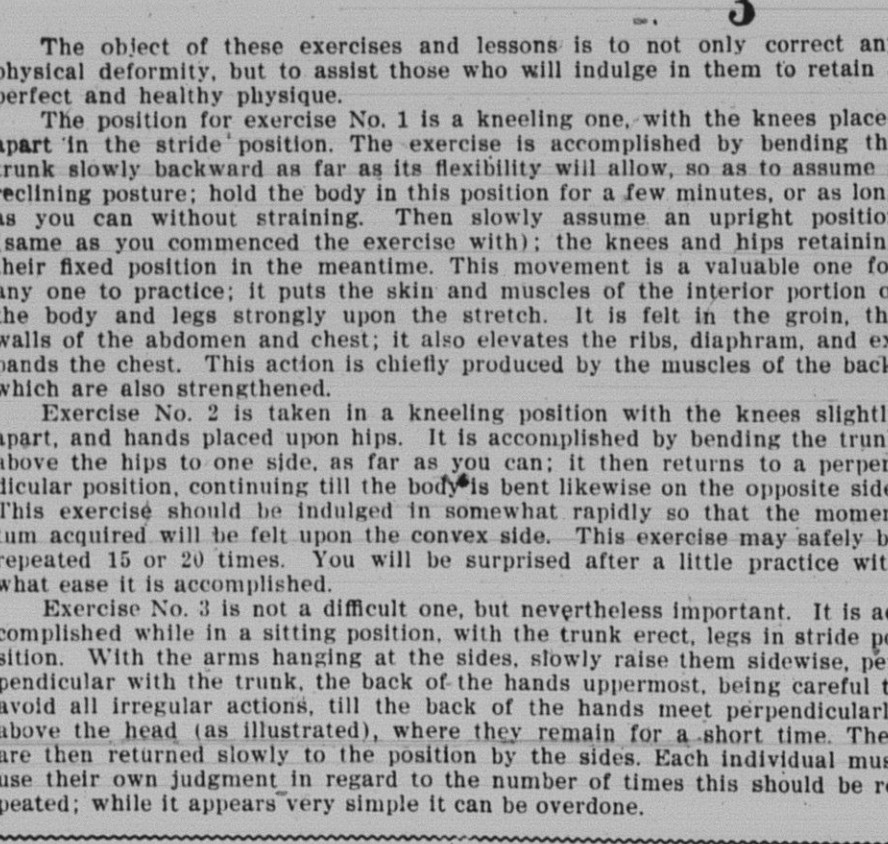

Another fancy is to embroider the monogram on the flap of the left hip pocket of a man's outing trousers, particularly the white flannel ones.

Red-Walking Suit.

A walking suit of red linen is pronounced much smarter than out of white, provided it is worn by the person to whom the color is becoming. Made with a little bolero and worn over an ivory lace blouse it is a decidedly stunning costume. This particular shade is almost "brick" and is very distinctive among a host of white lingerie frocks.

Luxurious Eyelashes.

Clipping is the wrong thing to do if one is trying to cultivate heavy-lashes. Their growth may be stimulated by putting on a tonic of five grains of sulphate quinine and one ounce of sweet almond oil. Touch the roots lightly with a fine sable brush once or twice a week, and you soon will see a decided change in their length.

THE CANADIAN CROPS

THREE-QUARTERS OF THE AVERAGE YIELD IS REPORTED.

THE FARMERS DO NOT LOSE

Increased Prices for Grain More Than Compensates Them for the Decrease in Quantity—Reports from Crop Experts.

Most of the states of the union felt the unusually severe winter of 1906-7, and the effects of the succeeding late spring were everywhere apparent. Corn was planted two and sometimes three times, the winter wheat suffered and generally there was a nervous feeling as the retarded growth was in evidence. From the Dakotas to Texas the feeling of dread existed, and the fears were entertained that the crop of corn, wheat, oats and barley would be a distinct failure. How far this was the case is best left to those who passed through the experience. Naturally the same conditions were prevalent throughout the province of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, in western Canada, and with from 250,000 to 300,000 farmers there from the United States a large degree of interest was manifest in almost every state of the union, for every state has some closed yesterday at $1.14 per bushel, Fort William delivery. The cost of freight age of 10c per bushel for the whole wheat, means that the average price to the farmer for contract wheat all over the prairie country is exactly $1.04 per bushel. The farmers have been looking for the day when dollar wheat would rule and they have it now. Some old wheat is still coming forward from the elevators and a little of last year's crop remains in the hands of the farmers. This nearly abates the grades up to the contract, and it means a great gain for those who held it. The new wheat is still graded as very high, which it is produced. Out of 49 cars, 23 in two days contained wheat which would answer for delivery on contracts. In other words over 30,000 bushels of wheat which would bring the farmer an average of about $1 per bushel, reached Winnipeg in two days. The significance of $300,000 worth of wheat being passed by the inspectors in two days at the close of an admittedly unfavorable season should not be allowed to sink out of sight at a time when returns from agricultural activity in the west are being anxiously awaited. Those figures do not take account of the lower grades of which there were 131 cars. More than one-third of those contained milling wheat, which would remunerate the farmer at the rate of 92c per bushel on the basis of to-day's closing figures. The balance consisted of low grade stuff which would greatly in quality and would show great "spreads" in price.

The proceeds of this field of wheat, grown in western Canada, were sufficient to pay out of the one crop the price of every acre of land upon which it was grown.

"The approximate value of the two days' receipts of wheat, however, would be more than $400,000, calculating the capacity of a car at 1,000 bushels and eliminating the cost of freight and handling. As many of the modern cars contain more than 1,000 bushels and the freight rate to Fort William is less than 25c per cwt. on most of the wheat which is now coming forward, the estimate of $400,000 is low. The circulation of $200,000 per day among the farmers will not continue for the whole year, of course, but that figure is likely to be exceeded

000. It could not be expected that June-sown grain would mature and ripen in any country. The May sown ripened, and this is the feature that has proved western Canada's superiority as a grain-growing country. It demonstrates that the length of sunshine is so great that the growing and ripening season, although shorter in number of days than in parts farther south, in hours is as great or greater. A correspondent of the Toronto Globe, a most careful purveyor of news, writing from Winnipeg, Manitoba, says:

"Excellent progress in the process of converting the crop into marketable commodity has been made. The days have been fairly warm considering the season of the year and while the amount of sunshine per day is less than in an ordinary harvest the grain has matured well. The reports from far and near show that the aggregate yield for the whole grain-growing country is likely to be large, and there are those who assert that the quantity will be equal to about 75 per cent of that secured last season. The quality will be the important consideration especially in view of the steadily rising markets. Cash wheat in Winnipeg

A Loss and a Gain

By May Belleville Brown

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Hope Winslow gloried in the fact that she was a descendant of the Mayflower pilgrims. The three-volume genealogy on the library shelf, which showed the effects of frequent use, established the fact, as well as the letters and relics that, in the division and rededication of household gods, had fallen to her branch of the family.

She proudly wore the badges of the Daughters of the American Revolution, of the Colonial Dames, and of the Mayflower Descendants, and sat in the councils of these orders. Her portrait had been painted in the fashion of the Puritan Hope Winslow, and she had a colonial room fitted up in her home.

"I think you are very provoking," she exclaimed, "and quite lacking in the right kind of pride. You know that your name was originally Alden, and that you could establish your line through the original Alden family."

"Of course," admitted the young man, good-naturedly; "but my father and grandfather were both John Elden, and their example is a good one for me to emulate in all things, since both left the world better for having lived in it."

"But you miss my meaning," persisted Hope, tapping the floor with her foot. "It would really be adding honor to their memory to establish such ancestry through them."

"How was John Alden any better than John Elden?" queried the young man a trifle indignantly. "What does history have to say of him more important than the fact that he was so thick-headed that poor little Priscilla had to propose to him? I don't think that the little crippled ones down at the Elden Home would revere my father's memory any more if I were to tell them that his ancestor came over in the Mayflower."

Hope coquettishly fenced his indignation. "Yes, but, John—I wish you would become eligible to attend the costume ball of our New England society, so that you might dance the minuett with me—and—oh! ever so many others!"

"Thank you," said John, still grinning. "You know I love to dance with you, Hope; but I only wear knee trousers when I golf, and since I left the football team I have given up long hair. I might as well tell you now, Hope, that your New England society seems a make-believe to me, when almost all your members were born in the Mississippi valley, and all of them live here. Your duty is to be doing something to build up the west, rather than—"

"That will do, Mr. Elden," glared Hope, rising to her feet. "Fortunately your opinion is a matter of indifference to me, so further enlargement upon the topic is unnecessary. And you will please excuse me now, as I have some committee work for the New England society this afternoon."

"I've done it," soliloquized the young man dejectedly, as he strode down street. "Made a fool of myself as usual, and now Hope is angry clear through. This will mean that Thurbly, with his Declaration of Independence record, will have a clear field. I wish the memory of the Puritan Fathers was in Halifax, or that I could keep my beastly temper!"

And because of these circumstances the business of the North Star Milling company, the presidency and management of which had fallen by inheritance into John Elden's hands, received redoubled attention from him; while the forthcoming costume ball of the New England society became the apparent aim of Hope Winslow's existence.

But as she viewed herself in the mirror on the night of the ball, arrayed as a gray-gowned, white-capped Puritan maiden, she gave a little sigh for the John Alden of her dream.

Then she ran downstairs where her aunt, in the finery of a Martha Washington dame, was beaming upon Thurbly, who, as a continental officer, was to act as her escort.

The ballroom was thronged with a picturesque crowd—Puritan and cavalier, quaker and courtier, straight locks and perfumed curls, homespun and brocade flashed back and forth as they marched and swung and courtesied in the old-time measures.

Hope's continental officer had excused himself during the evening, and only returned in time to put the two ladies into their carriage. He was breathless, rather disheveled and minus his sword and cocked hat. The situation plainly demanded an explanation.

"I cannot tell you how sorry I was to leave you, particularly without telling you the reason," he began, "but I did not want to spoil your evening."

"Has anything happened that concerns me?" queried Hope, leaning forward in alarm.

"Something that concerns one of your friends," returned the young man. "Fire started in the North Star elevators this evening, and when I heard of it I hurried across the city to see if I could help Elden—he and I were college chums, you know."

Hope had partly risen from her seat opposite, as she asked eagerly: "Oh, was it entirely destroyed?"

"Yes, Miss Winslow," was the reluctant answer. "Not only two of the elevators, but the mill, as well as three cars of flour. The buildings were so close together that with the high wind it was impossible to save anything but elevator No. 3, which was on the other side of the wind. About 15,000 bushels of grain were destroyed, too, and while there was a large insurance, the loss is likely to cripple the company. I stayed with John until it was over, and I had persuaded him to go home—"

"Take me to him at once!" Interrupted Hope, imperiously. Then, as the young man hesitated, and glanced at her aunt, she added pleadingly, "Please take me to him—you and Auntie—I am one of John's friends, too, and—oh, don't you see that I must go, just for a moment?"

Thurbly turned a searching glance upon her, received a gesture of assent from the colonial dame beside her, and then leaning forward, gave an order to the coachman.

There was dejection as well as exhaustion in John Elden's attitude, as he sat dejected in his study chair, with one arm thrown limply across his desk. Smoke and grime marked his face and dress, and his eyes, looking darkly into the future, saw years of toil ahead of him. The weight of sudden and awful misfortune was heavy upon him.

"What's the use of trying?" he was asking himself. "There's no one to care—no one to work for."

The door from the hall opened softly, and a figure advanced to the lamp-light's rim. He stared at one in a trance. Before him stood a demure and sweet Priscilla, her gray-gowned figure thrown into relief against the dark red lining of her cloak—a lovely, white-capped Puritan maiden with changing color and shining eyes. For a moment longer he looked. "Hope!" he whispered.

"Just Heard About It, John."

"I just heard about it, John," she said softly, "and I came right to you, to tell you how sorry I am."

He forgot his loss, forgot the black hours through which he had gone; a wonder seemed to fill him.

"And you came to me! You are not angry, you forgive my rudeness?" "Why, John," she said, in sweet exaltation, "how could I think of anything but your trouble?"

She stopped, and an agonized flush swept to her hair. A sense of all that was implied by her impulsive action overwhelmed her. Only for a moment did her confusion last, for the young man before her seemed to recall suddenly all that his trouble involved, and dropped his head upon his arm with a groan. In a moment Hope was at his side.

"You must not grieve," she said. "You are young, and have much ability, and can go on—"

"And I am practically ruined," he groaned. "I must not talk to you, nor think of you, nor belong to your world any more. I must go to the bottom of the ladder, and must put all sweetness and joy behind me."

"But indeed you must think of me," insisted Hope. "Now is when you need your friends more than ever in your life, and we will stand by you."

"But, Hope, you do not realize," he said, almost fiercely, "why I cannot, dare not think of you. I have had such thoughts, such longings—and now everything must be put behind me."

Hope was kneeling beside him now, her hands on his arm, as she answered, between laughing and crying:

"I verily believe, John, that you are a true descendant of John Alden. You called him thick-headed because poor little Priscilla had to propose to him, and you are every bit as bad!"

But if John Elden was as slow to realize his possible happiness as the Puritan lover, he had the twentieth century quickness of comprehension, and in the second's flash before he gathered his Priscilla into his arms he weighed the night's loss against the night's gain, and the burden rolled from his heart, leaving joy to reign there, along with a zest for the tasks ahead of him.

SILVER AND CRYSTAL WARE.

New Combination That Meets a Long Established Demand.

To combine silver and crystal in single pieces has long been the desire of the woman who likes exquisite and costly appointments for her table, but the idea has never before been a really practical one for anything except epergnes. This season, however, the combination has been effected and it is possible now to supply one's china and glass closet with whole sets of the most beautiful crystal mounted on silver.

The champagne glasses are particularly dainty and attractive. They have a rock crystal bowl showing some effective design of flowers or vines which can be adjusted into a silver stem and base. This stem is wrought of the metal and is so patterned that at the top, where it joins the crystal, there is a spring shaped like a half opened flower, into the heart of which the short crystal stem slips, while the leaves of the flower-like spring close up around the glass. The glass stem is quite short, not over half an inch or an inch. In the smaller glasses it is just long enough to allow the silver slip to slip up and fit close to the bowl of the tumbler or wine glass.

There is no difficulty whatever in washing these glasses. All one has to do is to loosen the crystal part and clean that, and when the silver needs rubbing up or polishing it is separated from the crystal. The silver stems are hand work of the most expensive kind. They are daintily embossed, carved or engraved, and usually they have the fashionable gray tint that so much of the new table silver shows.

Silver and crystal fare comes in all the wine sizes, liqueurs, some with short stems and others with very tall, slender ones, in grape fruit and sherbert glasses. Separate dishes for compotes, jellies and nuts are treated in the same way, combining silver and cut crystal. There is also a fad for lemon dishes and sauce dishes of crystal and silver. These have the bowl part made of glass and then there are pierced silver rims that suggest the style of silver in vogue about a century ago. The rims are easily removed for cleaning purposes. They afford a certain protection to the edge of the dish and give it a handsome finish. The sauce dishes intended to hold mayonnaise or creams are made on the same pattern, only the crystal part is very much deeper. The removable rim is also correspondingly heavy. Pierced silver is very fashionable at present, and among the novelties in this work are large and exquisitely wrought sandwich plates and cake dishes. In solid silver these are costly, on account of the delicacy of the work on them.

MYSTERY OF JOSS STICKS.

They are Used in All Countries Where Buddha is Worshiped.

In all countries where Buddhist worship is celebrated there is a great consumption of "joss sticks." These ceremonial candles are lighted on occasions of festivity or mourning, prayer or thanksgiving to divinities, and the like. Joss sticks are at once candles and incense, since like the latter, they burn without apparent flame. Their preparation is shrouded in some mystery and the process is still practically unknown, those who carry it on being chosen from a special class and kept in rigorous seclusion.

A squared strip of bamboo, of varying length and thickness, according to the size of joss stick that is to be made, is skillfully rolled on an inclined surface, in a mixture of odoriferous powders agglutinated by resin, made viscous by slight elevation of temperature. One of the ends is left as it is, to serve as a handle. In some cases the bamboo is replaced with a flexible rod which enables the joss stick to be rolled in spiral form.

The composition of the odoriferous powders varies with the country; those used in Indo-China come generally from the province of Canton and include 14 different drugs, among which may be named camphor, sandalwood, aconite and clove. Aconite plays the part of a preservative and protects the joss sticks well against the attacks of rats and mice.

Across Africa by Motor.

Lieut. Graetz, the German officer who, with two companions, started from Dar es Salaam last week to cross Africa in a motor through British Central Africa and Rhodesia to Swakopmund, German Southwest Africa, has reached Mrogoro, which is about 100 miles from Dar es Salaam.

On arriving at Mrogoro he decided that the car was much too heavy for the rough country through which it had to travel. He therefore discarded the body of the car, leaving only the chassis, on which he rigged a seat.

The only luggage he is taking with him consists of his sleeping sack, a supply of petrol and a box containing a small stock of provisions and medicines.—Rhodesia Herald.

A Suit for Damages.

A Kansas farmer wanted a big suit for damages brought against a railroad company because his old bridge cow had been run over during the night. On questioning him his lawyer couldn't find a single peg upon which he could legitimately hang a case.

"Well," he said, "I kinder thought ye could fetch it on the sign bein' down. They want no sign, 'look out for the cars,' so I thought mebbe ye could git 'em on that."

ADVICE TO VICTIMS

TELLS READERS HOW TO CURE RHEUMATISM AT HOME.

Directions to Mix a Simple Preparation and the Dose to Take—Overcomes Kidney and Bladder Trouble Promptly.

There is so much Rheumatism everywhere that the following advice by an eminent authority, who writes for readers of a large Eastern daily paper, will be highly appreciated by those who suffer:

Get from any good pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces of Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime; also drink plenty of good water.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and torturous disease who will fail to find ready relief in this simple home-made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the kidneys so that they can filter and strain from the blood and system the poisons, acids and waste matter, which cause not only Rheumatism, but numerous other diseases. Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffers from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering after while.

A Wonderful Thing.

Mr. Brown had just had a telephone connection between his office and house and was very much pleased with it, says the Home Magazine.

"I tell you, Smith," he was saying, "this telephone business is a wonderful thing. I want you to dine with me this evening, and I will notify Mrs. Brown to expect you."

Brown (speaking through the telephone)—My friend Smith will dine with us this evening.

"Now listen and hear how plain her reply comes back."

Mrs. Brown's reply came back with startling distinctness: "Ask your friend Smith if he thinks we keep a hotel."

Not Discharged.

An old Antebellum negro in a small southern town was arrested and brought before the village magistrate for drunkenness. He asked for a lawyer who had helped him out of scrapes before, and the magistrate sent for the attorney.

The young man came into the little office, where the usual crowd of spectators had gathered, and asked the old negro: "Well, William, what are you charged with this time?"

Sadly the ancient druid replied: "Boss, I's charged wid whisky!"—Harper's Weekly.

Had Tried It.

"You ought to wear glasses. They'll save your eyes," said his friend.

"Nuttin' in it," contemptuously answered Bill de Bruiser. "I tought der would meself wunst, an' I put on a pair when I heard a big chap wuz layin' in fur me. It's agin de law, ye know, to fit a man wid glasses on 'im. Well, sir, de big chap happened along. He reached over, lifted dem glasses off me face, an' den he bunged me eyes up, good an' proper."

Turned Down.

Gobso Golde spoke anxiously.

"I understand," he said, "that my name was brought up last evening at the Knickerbocker club."

"Yes, that is true," said L'Oignon. "And would you mind telling me—what action was taken in the matter?"

"Not at all. The secretary was instructed to purchase six quarts of blackballs for the use of the members."

TAKE THEM OUT

Or Feed Them Food They Can Study On.

When a student begins to break down from lack of the right kind of food, there are only two things to do: either take him out of school or feed him properly on food that will rebuild the brain and nerve cells. That food is Grape-Nuts.

A boy writes from Jamestown, N. Y., saying: "A short time ago I got into a bad condition from overstudy, but Mother having heard about Grape-Nuts food began to feed me on it. It satisfied my hunger better than any other food, and the results were marvelous. I got fleshy like a good fellow. My usual morning headaches disappeared, and I found I could study for a long period without feeling the effects of it."

"My face was pale and thin, but is now round and has considerable color. After I had been using Grape-Nuts for about two months I felt like a new boy altogether. I have gained greatly in strength as well as flesh, and it is a pleasure to study now that I am not bothered with my head. I passed all of my examinations with a reasonably good percentage, extra good in some of them, and it is Grape-Nuts that has saved me from a year's delay in entering college."

"Father and mother have both been improved by the use of Grape-Nuts. Mother was troubled with sleepless nights and got very thin, and looked care worn. She has gained her normal strength and looks, and sleeps well nights." "There's a Reason." Read "The Road to Wellville" in pgs.

BACK GAVE OUT.

A Typical Case of Kidney Trouble and a Typical Cure.

Mrs. Chloe Page of 510 S. Pitt Street, Alexandria, Va., says: "My back hurt me terribly, I had sharp, shooting pains, changing to a dull, dragging ache. I could not stand for any length of time and my back hurt me when I sat down. My feet and ankles were badly swollen every evening, and my stomach was out of order. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of these troubles in 1902, and for five years I have had no return."

THE NUMBER OF ANIMALS. Recent Attempts to Tabulate the Beasts That Perish.

Every now and then some naturalist endeavors to make an approximate numerical count of known animal species. This kind of attempt is surely not without interest, but it must be acknowledged that its results are very uncertain. We are far from knowing all species, and there is yet a delightful prospect ahead for those who love systematic zoology and for zoologists who bestow mutual honors by giving each other's names to some animal hitherto unknown.

As Surmann remarked to a recent meeting of naturalists at the museum, to which he presented his "Catalogue Mammalum," the species of rodents known in 1880 were only 970 in number; now they are 1,900. The number has thus, at least, doubled in 27 years. The number of living species of this creature now known is about 1,500, divided among 160 genera. This family is the most numerous of the class of mammalia.—Wisner fur Alle.

BABY IN TERRIBLE STATE.

Awful Humor Eating Away Face—Body a Mass of Sores—Cure in Two Weeks.

"My little daughter broke out all over her body with a humor, and we used everything recommended, but without results. I called in three doctors, but she continued to grow worse. Her body was a mass of sores, and her little face was being eaten away. Her ears looked as if they would drop off. Neighbors advised me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and before I had used half of the cake of Soap and box of Ointment the sores had all healed, and my little one's face and body were as clear as a newborn babe's. I would not be without it again if it cost five dollars, instead of seventy-five cents. Mrs. George J. Steese, 701 Coburn St., Akron, O., Aug. 30, 1905."

Everything Bad.

A prominent planter recently had occasion to visit some of his holdings in southern Arkansas. The land was situated several miles from a railroad, and it was necessary to finish the journey in a buggy. So he took a friend with him and started out.

After traversing several miles of sparsely settled country, they came upon a farmer plowing corn on the side of a hill. The planter, wishing to appear civil to his neighbors, stopped his horse and yelled at the man, who came to the fence, mopping his face with a red bandana.

"Good morning."

"Mornin', mister!"

"You live here, I suppose?"

"Yep."

"How's crops?"

"Fair to middlin'."

"That's a bad hill you're plowing."

"I know it. Bad boss, pullin' th' plow, bad plow, bad everything."

"Why you talk like you were the poorest man in Arkansas," laughed the planter.

"I ain't, though," was the response, as the young fellow smiled good-naturedly. "Another feller owns half o' this crop."

Her Recipe.

A lady famed for her skill in cooking was entertaining a number of her friends at tea. Everything on the table was much admired, but the excellence of the sponge cake was especially the subject of remark.

"Oh!" exclaimed one of the guests, "it is so beautifully soft and light! Do tell me where you got the recipe?" "I am very glad," replied the hostess, "that you find it so soft and light. I made it out of my own head."—Illustrated Bits.

GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

ELLEN M. OLSON

CLARA E. DARMSTADTER

The responsibility for a daughter's future largely rests with the mother. The right influence and the information which is of vital interest to the daughter imparted at the proper time has not only saved the life but insured the success of many a beautiful girl.

When a girl's thoughts become sluggish, with headache, dizziness or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs, even dim, desire for solitude, when she is a mystery to herself and friends, her mother, should come to her aid, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, will at this time prepare the system for the coming change, and start this trying period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities. It has been thus depended upon for two generations.

Hundreds of letters from young girls and their mothers, expressing gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for them, are constantly being received.

Miss Ellen M. Olson, of 417 N. East St., Kewanee, Ill., writes:—

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I have had the best doctors in our town for my sickness and they all thought that an operation was necessary. I had headache, sideache, and my feet were so sore I could hardly stand. I took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when my periods were established and now I am perfectly well. My mother says she won't be without your medicine in the house. I have told one girl what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me and she is taking it now."

Miss Clara E. Darmstadter, of 453 Breckenridge St., Buffalo, N.Y., writes:—

"For about a year, except during the past few months, I suffered with severe pains every month, with backache and headaches. I had the blues so bad that I was in despair. It is a pleasure to tell you that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured me. The change in my appearance is wonderful and I desire that this good may come to every sufferer. Any one desiring to know further details may write to me and I shall be glad to give them."

If you know of any young girl who is sick and needs motherly advice, ask her to address Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell her every detail of her symptoms, and to keep nothing back. She will receive advice absolutely free, from a source that has no rival in the experience of woman's ills, and it will, if followed, put her on the right road to a strong, healthy and happy womanhood.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs cures where other fail.

No other remedy has such a record of actual cures of female ills. Thousands of women residing in every part of the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it has done for them. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; a Woman's Remedy for Woman's ills.

New and Liberal Homestead Regulations in

WESTERN CANADA

New Districts Now Opened for Settlement

Some of the choicest lands in the grain growing belts of Saskatchewan and Alberta have recently been opened for settlement under the revised Homestead Regulations of Canada. Thousands of homesteads of 160 acres each are now available. The new regulations make it possible for entry to be made by proxy, the opportunity that many in the United States have been waiting for. Any member of a family may make entry for any other member of the family, who may be entitled to make entry for himself or herself. Entry may now be made before the Agent or Sub-Agent of the District by proxy, on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

"Any one numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North West Province, excepting 'B' and 'C' not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person the sole head of a family, or male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less."

The fee in each case will be $10.00. Churches, schools and markets convenient. Healthy climate, splendid crops and good lands. Grain-growing and cattle raising principal industries.

RHEUMATISM

VILLE FARMER.

URIC-O QUICKLY CURED HIM

Treated Two Years with a High-Priced
Physician with No Success.

Mr. Frank Howe, a prominent farmer in the town of Van Buren, says: "I visited the best physician in this country, who treated me for about two years for rheumatism. I spent in that time several hundred dollars and seemed to grow worse instead of better each day. Being on crutches and forced to drive to the train and hobbling to the doctor's office became very discouraging, let alone the sleepless nights and fearful hours of pain. Being advised by a friend I purchased Smith's Uric-O prescription, took it home and used it that day as directed.
"Those fearful scatic pains left me, my blood seemed to let loose and flow freely
I felt different and knew the next morning I had found a cure, as I slept and rested well all that night, something I had not done before in two years. I used in all six bottles of Uric-O and have never felt a return of the disease, had no use for crutches or cane since the first day's treatment.

"I have since recommended Uric-O to hundreds of friends and acquaintances and in every instance it gave remarkable relief. To every person who suffers from rheumatism I say, take Uric-O at once and your suffering will soon end.
Frank Howe, Baldwinville, N. Y."

Anyone who doubts Mr. Howe's experience is invited to write him for further details.
The manufacturers have so much confidence in the remedy that they will gladly give a large bottle of Uric-O free to all rheumatics who have never used it and are looking for a permanent lasting cure for this most distressing disease. Address for free trial, Smith
Drug Co., 311 Smith Bldg., Syracuse, N. Y.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear.
There is only one way to cure deafness,
and that is by constitutional remedies.
Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars

WHY SO WEAK?

Kidney Troubles May be Sapping Your Life Away. Michigan People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Here is a Michigan testimony to prove it.

James Pountain, machinist, of 621
Park street, Kalamazoo, Mich., says "I had enjoyed good health up to three years ago when I began to suffer from my kidneys. My back ached a great deal and grew so weak that I was unable to lift even the slightest weight. At times, there would be sharp piercing pains through my loins and kidneys which would always be more severe if I attempted to stoop or straighten after stooping. My work, as machinist, causes me to bend over a great deal and consequently, I was very much handicapped. I consulted physicians but received very little relief from their medicines. I was telling a friend of my suffering, and he advised me to procure Doan's Kidney Pills, and I obtained a box. The relief I felt from the first was very great. I continued using them, and my back was soon as strong as ever. In fact, I was well in every way.
I do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

Vincenzo Lodovici was killed by falling rocks at the Ironstone mine.

M. J. Perry was killed by a gas tank explosion in the Evert Tool Co. plant.

Robert Allan, a farmer living near Port Austin, was killed in the stomach by a colt and died before a physician arrived.

Battle Creek Country club will buy 75 acres on which its club house is located, having raised $9,000 of the $15,000 needed at a smoker.

A. W. Burdick, driver for a creamery, was held up and robbed of 18 cents in Battle Creek, the highwayman overlooking a roll of bills.

"Cooley" the dog mascot of the Grand Rapids grand lodge of perfection of the Masons, was presented with a gold collar during initiation ceremonies.

Joseph W. Martin, representing Detroit capitalists, petitioned the council of Flint for a franchise to install a new telephone system and operate it for 30 years.

For saving the life of Henry Ellis, a would-be suicide, Sheriff Frank W. Aronson, of Delta, has a broken nose. Ellis tried to jump off the dock. He is temporarily insane.

Charles Burmeister fell down an elevator shaft in the Shelby cannery factory, breaking a leg. Fred Dorrance fell under a loaded wagon and received probable fatal wounds.

Thinking a cow he had struck with a sledge hammer was dead, J. R. Cooper, of Traverse City, leaned over to cut its throat and nearly lost his eyesight from a kick in the face.

Miss Etta Martin, postmistress, of Ceresco, eloped with and married George White, 19, of Chicago, who met her through calling for his mail, and her parents have forgiven them.

Despondent over ill health, Able Cross, aged 91, a civil war veteran of Ovid, hung himself in the barn of his daughter, Mrs. Nora Harmon, in Oakley and died shortly after being cut down.

Olaf Gonsberg, 40, who, after 20 years, planned to visit his mother in London, dropped dead of heart failure on the Manistee & Northwestern tracks, and the body was mangled by a train.

John Lentz, 27, a South Shore railroad brakeman and officer of the Neagawee fire department, was thrown under an ore car by the snapping of a rod brake and his head severed from the body.

On the grounds that the verdict of $18,250 awarded Frank Mason, of Bay City, in his suit against the Michigan Central railroad for injuries is excessive, the defendant has been granted a new trial.

After a prolonged illness, E. C. Elwell is dead at the age of 90 years. Deceased had been a resident of Romeo for sixty years. The widow and one son, Prof. M. D. Ewell, of Chicago, survive.

Mrs. Edward McCune, of Williamsburg, and daughter, Tessa, 14, encountered a black bear in their cow pasture and, after fleeing into the house, called aid by phone, and the bear was killed.

Abraham Freeman, a negro who killed Robert Pishowski, a Pole, in protecting the house of Mary Blacksmith in Cedar, was acquitted from the murder charge on the ground that he acted in self defense.

Sherman Freeman, colored, of Traverse City, charged with the murder of Charles Chesski, is being tried in the circuit court. The crime was committed at Cedar in a quarrel at a house of questionable repute.

Attorney General Bird has discontinued the suit commenced four years ago to compel the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee railroad to reduce its fare, the company having complied with the recent two-cent fare statute.

From the effects of injuries sustained three years ago when the rig in which he was riding was struck by a runaway team of horses, Stephen R. Hall, a pioneer resident, died at his home in Flint Thursday. He was 77 years of age. Four children survive.

So far this year there have been 49 drownings in the Detroit river, according to the "log book" of Harbor Master Robert Ellison. This is by far the largest number that have met death by the water route during any like period of time in the history of Detroit.

Mrs. A. J. Mills, of Kalamazoo, president of the Women's Civic Improvement league, announced in an address that a campaign against placarding buildings with advertising is soon to be on in full force. Speaking of plans she mentioned the idea used in some foreign cities of having advertising poles on street corners, as one that might be used there.

Cecil McLaughlin, of Detroit, traveling salesman, who moved to Vernon a few weeks ago to assume control of his father's business, the H. B. McLaughlin estate, one of the largest in the country, on the death of the latter, was Tuesday elected post commissioner of Shiawassee county, a position which H. B. McLaughlin had held for many years before his death.

The old Traphagen cemetery in Holy township is to be vacated. The old burial ground has not been used for nearly 30 years, and it is claimed it is an eyesore to surrounding property. There are but few tombstones to establish the identity of the dead, and when the bodies shall have been removed to the village cemetery it will be impossible to tell who is who.

Deacons in the Fifth Avenue Christian Reformed church, of Grand Rapids, who signed their names to petitions for licenses for a pool room and a saloon, were charged with hypocrisy by church members and have asked to have their names removed from the petitions.

The Bay City factory of the Michigan Sugar Co. commenced operations Monday, being the last of the three local factories to start the season's campaign, and starting three weeks later than usual. The supply of beets is expected to be up to the usual amount and the three factories will probably run until after January 1.

From the State Capital

Information and Gossip Furnished by Special Correspondent at Lansing.

Lansing.—Three general bills were squelched by the special session.

The anti-lobbying bill, which was tabled in the house, after repeated efforts made to make it presentable had failed and which was not even taken up with consideration in the senate; the bill aimed to prevent stock watering on the part of corporations, which was embodied by the senate railroad committee, the majority of the members of which are administration senators, and the bill placing telephone and telegraph companies under the ad valorem system of taxation. The senate passed the last named bill, but it was defeated in the house after a most bitter fight which occupied more than half of the time of that body.

Attorney General Bird took an active part in trying to secure passage of the bill and he intimated very strongly that he was in the possession of facts which led him to believe that the measure was defeated by questionable methods. There was a very strong lobby present on both sides and the independent companies were strongly represented. In fact, the burden of the argument made against the passage of the bill was that the independent companies would be placed at great disadvantage over the large companies, which could better afford to stand an additional tax. The house committee had decided not to report the house bill out, so when the senate bill came over the motion was made to suspend the rules, requiring a two-thirds vote. This was defeated by 57 to 34, 62 votes being necessary. The bill was then tabled. Another effort was made to get it out in the afternoon, when a call of the house was ordered. This time 50 votes were necessary for the required two-thirds and the result stood 55 to 34.

Astrologer Sees Disaster.

Prof. H. H. Allen, the Michigan astrologer, has just issued his horoscope delineations for November. He says the present socialistic and radical feeling in the United States is solely due to the transit of the planets Uranus, Herschel and Neptune in close aspect to the sun, and before the full effect of this transit is over a commercial panic will occur, but will eventually prove to be beneficial to our industries and will be the means of placing those who survive the panic on a firmer basis. According to Prof. Allen the signs show a strong indication to severe and serious seismic disturbances, such as serious earthquakes and severe storms from the third to the fifteenth of the month. Indications show plenty of trouble before us, both as a people and as a nation. On November 5 the new moon for the month occurs, and the evil planet Mars will be in mid-heaven. This denotes danger to the executive department of the government, and great public excitement from some foreign complication will result during the month, he says.

Prof. Allen declares that in nearly every nation on the globe great excitement will prevail, and that a great crisis is near at hand; also that as the month advances a powerful opposition against the president will develop, endangering his life. The czar of Russia is in great danger from assassins, he says.

Needless Fear of Potato Famine.

Some of the restaurant keepers and grocers of Michigan seem to see a potato famine coming and are ordering in carload lots whenever they can. Produce dealers, however, do not seem to predict any shortage in the potato market, and claim that there will be enough potatoes grown in Michigan to more than supply the demand. Dealers are now paying 50 cents per bushel and the farmers are bringing in more than they can handle. The crop this year was large and of exceptional quality. Northern potatoes will not be as plentiful this year on account of the dry season in some parts of the north. It is not expected that "tubers" will go higher than 65 cents until late in the winter. Beans are still coming in in large quantities, and first-class beans are bringing $1.80 per bushel. The crop is far better than was expected. Late beans are picking from two to twelve pounds per bushel.

Gen. Duffield May Contest.

Detroit delegates to the constitutional convention are bringing the news that Gen. Henry M. Duffield is expected to file a petition for a recount of votes in the First District. Gen. Duffield ran two votes behind Thomas H. Brown, Republican, and 17 behind Louis E. Tossy, Democrat. Representative Joseph M. Weiss is said to be agitating for a recount.

Odd Fellows Choose Lansing.

Although Lansing did not even send an invitation to the Odd Fellows' grand lodge to meet in Lansing next year, this city was selected at the Jackson convention as the place for holding the annual meeting in 1908. It was one of the surprises of the grand lodge session, and Lansing is glad to have the Odd Fellows come back. It was the ladies who did it. When the voting began the contest was between Sault Ste. Marie, Houghton, Alpena and Bay City. But the ladies preferred a central location.

Arrest of U. of M. Regent.

Dr. W. H. Sawyer, regent of the state university and member of the state board of registration; Dr. F. M. Gier, president of an Abilene, Kan., company; George E. Walworth, dry goods merchant; E. A. Rueckman, shoe dealer, and Robert Sutton, owner of the Hillsdale Leader, were arrested by State Deputy Game Warden Kemp at Hillsdale for shooting fowl from gasolene launches on Baw Beese lake. Because of the prominence the arrests have caused a big stir.

Constitutional Convention Begins.

The constitutional convention provided for by the legislature convened here Tuesday and at once took up the work of making such changes in the constitution as seem necessary to meet existing conditions. Secretary of State Prescott called the convention to order and after delegates had been sworn the convention commenced to work out its own salvation. The first week is being devoted to organization, as this entails quite an elaborate plan. A committee was appointed to draft a plan, as groups have to be provided to consider the various sections of the constitution. John J. Carton, of Flint, former speaker of the house, was elected president of the convention. The convention is being deluged with petitions and necessarily a great many hearings are being held for the elucidation of the various propositions advanced. The foremost problem that will have to be solved will be the taxation question. An effort will be made to have the new constitution specifically provide that all corporate property be assessed under the ad valorem system, so as to take the matter out of the hands of the legislature. Heretofore any attempt to provide higher salaries of state officials has proved fatal, but this may be met by empowering the legislature to deal with the matter. However, one proposition that is to be dealt with fully will be to define the authority of the lieutenant governor, which has caused so much controversy, owing to the fact that the present constitution is not specific. No delegate has brought a complete new constitution with him, there being no disposition to tackle such a big task. In fact, very few delegates have anything definite prepared, the desire being to get together first and exchange ideas. The other officers elected were: Vice chairman, Charles H. Watson, Crystal Falls; secretary, Paul H. King, Lansing; sergeant-at-arms, Andrew J. Scott, Saginaw; stenographer, Joseph H. Brewer, Grand Rapids. Secretary King was elected over Hugo Gilmartin of Detroit. The convention decided to hold afternoon sessions only.

Monroe as House Speaker.

Representative J. S. Monroe, of Ironwood, now serving his fourth term as representative from Gogebic, will be a candidate for speaker of the house of 1909, according to the gossip of the capital. Mr. Monroe has served since 1901 as chairman of the committee on city corporations, and is the legislative expert on city charters and all

Capt. Robert S. Welsh, U. S. A., detailed to inspect the field battery at the state encampment, in his report calls the command "commendable as a whole" and the members "intelligent, eager and willing to learn."

He recommends three-inch guns for the battery and horses for the artillery's use at home stations.

THE WHITE PERIL

BABA BHARATI

Far east is east and west is west,
And never the twin shall meet.

It is not improbable that Rudyard Kipling saw the gulf dividing the two civilizations in his early acquaintance with Baba Bharati when both were journalists in India. It is certain that Bharati saw it, for he came to the Occident avowedly to study the possibilities of bridging it. Now, after years among us he has gone back to his own people, never, he says, to return. And with his perspective of time, old ideals of civilization and disinterestedness Baba Bharati, "citizen of the universe," ascetic, philosopher and apostle of the purely spiritual life, sees war impending between east and west; a war, not of the west against the "yellow peril," but of the east against what he calls the "white peril" of aggressiveness and materialism.

"The Orient will rise and drive the white man forth. This will happen in a very few years. By 1915, I believe, this conflict will be well under way. This is my own prophecy, but I find that Lafcadio Hearn made virtually the same forecast some years ago. It is the 'White Peril' from which we suffer in the Orient—Caucasian aggressiveness and soul-killing civilization."

Such was Bharati's parting message to the western world.

Baba (Father) Bharati is not to be confounded with the type of picturesque Hindu charlatans who, with appropriate scenery and costumes, have come to America from time to time to wheedle dollars from silly women and men who wear thumb rings. His sponsors were men of like standing with Rev. Dr. R. Heber Newton, Prof. Charles R. Lanman, of Harvard, and Dr. Felix Adler, of the Ethical Culture society. He is a Brahmin of the first order. His father was a magistrate and his uncle a judge of the high court of Calcutta. Twenty years ago he was editor of the Lahore Tribune when Kipling was a newspaper writer there. Later he became the editor and proprietor of a society paper in Calcutta. Then his religious instincts asserted themselves, and for 12 years he became an ascetic, a hermit, living a life of austere simplicity in Brindaban, most holy of India's holy lands. While here he met the great Jogee of Baroda, a giant in stature, and believed to be the most spiritual man in India. Under his teachings Baba Bharati came to believe that he had a message to carry to the Caucasian world. He did not wish to go, and for a time he struggled against what he deemed a command from on high. Then he went forth, and now he regards his work well done. He is happy in the thought of return, yet has learned to love the American people and feels pangs of regret at leaving them forever.

The Orient for Orientals.

Large of frame, with the prayer cloth of his "Krishna," yellow and inscribed with wondrous words to the Hindu faith, wound around his turban, long raven black curls dropping down about his shoulders, with an eye as clear as Rhineish wine and a face of peculiarly benign mien, yet strongly chiseled, combining as it does a certain acquired western vigor with the placidity and calmness of the Orient—Baba Bharati is a striking figure. He has studied the Occident and its ways and declares that the aggression, the tremendous conceit and the blindness of the white race are going to bring about the uprising of all Asia—that Asia will be free at last from domination and oppression by foreign hands and that a new Monroe doctrine will be called into being and the Orient will be for the Orientals alone.

The western coast just now is aroused over the "Hindu Peril," as it is called. Hundreds, even thousands, of Hindus are coming across the Pacific, and the western states and western Canada fear a very deluge. So great has been the feeling in some places that the white laborers have driven the dusky invaders out, as the Chinese were sent forth from certain western cities in early days. But Baba Bharati declares there is no such thing as the "Hindu Peril." It is rather the "Japanese Peril" on this side of the Pacific, or the "White Peril" on the other side of the ocean.

"The Hindus that come to the American shore are really not Hindus in the common acceptance of the term; rather they are half Hindus, sikhs from Upper India, with a different religion and different ideas," said Baba Bharati in an interview I had with him at the Hotel Stander just before the Minnesota sailed. He continued: "There is no cause to fear an invasion, for only a few of the sikhs will come. And they are not an aggressive people. If they find they are not wanted they will not cross the Pacific. There is no cause to fear."

The Hindu philosopher and sage talked for an hour or more on this western world we know, his eastern world, religion, literature, and modern conditions, his own life and experiences, his hopes, ambitions, and made predictions of such amazing nature regarding the future readjustment of relations across the Pacific as to startle any person who thinks on the shadows that portend coming events. In this interview he summed up a message he wished to convey in farewell to the America he is leaving.

Spirituality Not for Sale.

"The New York Herald gave me and my mission most helpful publicity, and then followed my first success since leaving my own shores. I was to lecture. Thirty persons came to hear me, and when I had finished speaking they placed upon the table $30 in money. I almost wept. Then I explained that a Hindu cannot take coin for sustenance—he gives either to the body or the soul. One can travel all through my country without being taken by any food, and spiritual-ity is not for barter and sale, either. This was merely the mistake of commercialized America. These New Yorkers thought, in their simple way, that money could pay for anything. Yet I found them warm hearted and altogether lovable, just as all other Americans are. When they can be halted for a few moments in their mad pursuit of gold they have admirable natures. I find."

"The trouble with America is that it is building on a material plane. It is making tremendous progress in all things material, but we of the Orient understand the spiritual. We live not for today, but for all time, and when you forget the soul, as you do, you are making a sad mistake. Your modern 'Christianity' is spoiling your Christianity. Your ministers of the gospel want more spirituality. They do not want themselves above the level of the visible, material world. Your much vaunted progress counts for naught."

"You look at life on the surface; we of the Orient look at it in its depth, in the cool and quiet places, where there is no turbulence and no mad scramble. America is afflicted with national nervousness, as I call it. In certain directions you call it frenzied finance. I see it in every phase of life. I observe it where you do not suppose it exists."

"In India religion is the chief business of life. All else is subordinate. It is the true anchor of the Hindu. In the morning he arises, and after his bath he gives up two hours to spiritual thought and contemplation—at least two hours. Then he looks after the needs of his body. All else is subordinate to this reverence for the Creator and those things which typify and represent Him."

Christianity Sublime.

"Christianity, in its teachings, is sublime. I preach Christ as much as I do my Krishna, who represents to me the great incarnation of God. God is love, as Christ says, and that is all there is to any religion. The Bible, which I respect and love, is merely a page from the Vedas of India. They contain all its truths, and more."

"But you can see only your own religion. I can see the good of all. When I became an ascetic in India I lost my nationality and became a citizen of the Universe. I love all people. When I was in London, even, I felt a deep heart interest in the Briton, even though he is oppressing my people."

"I did not come to America to thrust my religion upon you. I came to advance spirituality in whatever form I find it. Yet you send your missionaries to 'convert' us. We cannot help but smile, when we are the very incarnation of religion ourselves. With your religion, which is constantly changing, altering with the currents of new thought, you seek to rejuvenate us, who are fastened inseparably to the great, deep truths of the universe; truths which know no mutation."

"We wonder how we ever got along without the helping hand of the New World missionaries."

"But the truth did come out not long ago, and now we know why your missionaries do come to visit us. Some one close to your richest man declared that missionaries are the best trade getters. There again your commercialism!"

"The wine maker calls out: 'I have the best wines!' The soap maker calls out: 'My soap is the best!' The minister: 'There is no religion like unto mine!' It is pitiful. Christianity is reduced to commercialism."

Concerning Mr. Rockefeller.

Curious to know what Baba Bharati would say of the richest man in America, I asked him for his opinion of the president of the Standard Oil company.

"It is envy more than anything else that makes the average American condemn Rockefeller," he answered. "He thinks that Rockefeller has some of the millions that he should have. 'Please do not think that I am severe with Americans. I do not mean to be, but I cannot help observing how they contrast with us of the far east."

Where the Dog Is Valued.

In northern France, and in Belgium especially the dog is indeed the friend of man. He is made to work. He gets little play except that small amount deemed sufficient to prevent canine dullness, yet he is so loved and so well cared for by his owner that he becomes a most important member of the family. The farmer, the tradesman, the householder, the guardsman of the frontier worships his dog—one of the first things he thinks of when good way of fastening the windows open, or part way open, so they will stay put in all kinds of weather. You don't want to climb the upper stair during a storm when the lightning is blinking at you to shut and fasten an obstreperous sash so it won't wiggle the glass all out of it. Such little excursions when taken in the middle of the night lead to more things than the attic; they lead to profanity, and that is wrong."

Being practically 30 feet wide, this house needs a 40-foot lot if it be on the corner, and the lot should be wider if there is a house on each side of it. Sometimes there are building restrictions which require all houses on a certain street to be inclined. Any one can break the agreement, if he wants to be so devilish mean, by transferring his title to some other member of the family or by some other snide trick, but you still have the privilege, on the authority of Judge Lynch, to tar and feather the white-livered spalpeen."

In building a house like this it is better to get a lot 50 feet wide if you can. That leaves room for a nice lawn together with suitable outside decorations without giving the property a crowded built-in effect. The final finishing up of the grounds and general surroundings of the house has not received as much attention at the hands of builders as it should. Ordinarily architects and builders are satisfied to design a good house, and see that it is properly built, while leaving the surrounding and final embellishments entirely with the owner.

Now the fact is houses are built, for the most part, by men who have spent the early years of their lives in business, and their attention has been taken up with matters entirely different, and they are not qualified to arrange the many details that properly go with a well arranged home. They may know what they want in a general way, but when it comes to fitting a house to a lot in a community in which they would like to live a little assistance from a man who understands such things is a great help and will be appreciated in after years. Many mistakes have been made by putting unsuitable houses in certain communities and a great many more mistakes have been made in neglecting to fit the house to the lot, or in not buying a lot to fit the house that the man wants to build.

One of the commonest mistakes in building is to place the house the wrong way. There are house plans that are perfectly satisfactory when fronted south which would badly fit a northern outlook. The direction in which a house fronts means a good deal to some people, while others care very little about it. North, south, east and west all have advantages, and they all have disadvantages. It very much depends on the likes and dislikes of the inmates, but a great deal also depends on the plan of the house.

Uses for Soda.

In mixing a cake a pinch of soda, when baking powder is used, improves the texture of cake. A pinch of soda added before the upper crust is placed on berry pies will prevent them from running over.

German apple cake makes a good dessert now. Without any sprinkling of currants it is quite as attractive. Serve best for cinnamon bun. Use either cream or hard sauce with it, or none at all. Cream cheese accords with it.

Junket may not be turned out in shape. It must be set in cups in which it is to be served, or else helped from one large dish with a spoon. It is nice plain, or with cream. If desired more elaborate, then make it in individual cups of pretty glass or china, and at the last place a little mound of whipped cream upon each, surmounted by a cherry or piece of jelly of a bright color.

Junket with ginger bread makes a good home dessert. Those who like nutmeg—and it is recommended for some invalids—use freshly grated nutmeg on it.

Sour cream may be used for pies—just sour cream, not thick clabber, is meant. The clove used for spicing it makes it unlike cheesecake pie. For a cupful of the sour cream allow the beaten yolks of four eggs, a cupful of sugar and one cupful of chopped seeded raisins and a half teaspoonful of ground cloves. Cook this like a custard over water until thickened. Have a freshly lower shell of crust baked to receive it, and make a meringue from the whites of four eggs and a little sugar. Brown in the oven very lightly as usual. Instead of trying to see how smooth the meringue can be made, leave it tossed into hills, or drawn around in swirling lines, more or less parallel with the crust edge. This crust should be indented and rather high, to support the filling and meringue.

Pumpkin Fruit Basket.

Cut a good sized pumpkin in the form of a basket, with a handle. Remove the contents and line with white tissue paper. Fill with yellow fruits—apples, bananas and grapes—letting the grapes fall gracefully over the side. Tie a huge bow of yellow tarlatan ribbon (the kind used by the florists) on the handle. Place on a dolly in the center of the table.

For each guest make a pumpkin blossom. Buy paper cases at the confectioners and cut petals from pumpkin colored tissue paper, crinkle with a sharp knife. Begin at the top, paste four rows around the outside and green at the bottom. Place beside each place, to be filled with salted nuts or ice cream.

Oyster Soup.

One-half gallon of water and one quart of oysters will make three quarts of soup. Put cold water in the soup kettle, season with salt and serve when the water comes to a boil. If desired rich add a pint of milk and as soon as boiling point is reached turn in the oysters. When it boils up once serve. Do not let boil after the oysters are in as it makes them tough, season with pepper. For an invalid, when but little nourishment can be taken at a time, use milk, a tiny bit of butter, salt and pepper to taste. Bring the milk quickly to boiling point, turn in the oysters, cover closely, place over a brisk fire and as soon as the oysters—se to the top serve at once with dry toast.

Sea Foam Fudge.

Two cups of light brown sugar, one cup of water, the white of one egg, cup of water, to taste. Boil the sugar and water until it will mold, but not until it is brittle and yet not as soft as for ordinary fudge. Have the white of an egg beaten stiff and pour in the syrup slowly, beating constantly with a patent egg beater. Drop on pans from the point of a spoon, giving a puffed appearance to the top of each of the candies.

Crotch Apple Tart.

Peel and core a half dozen tart apples and place in a crock in a slow oven, adding neither water nor sugar. When tender mix in Sultana raisins, allowing a quarter of a pound to each pound of apples. Turn into a deep baking dish, sprinkle with sugar and grated lemon; cover with a top crust, prickling well to allow for the escape of steam, and bake in a quick oven. Serve with milk.

Cleaning Brass.

To clean chased brass trays wash the tray with soap and hot water and dry it thoroughly. Cut a lemon in half and with it rub the brass till clean. Then rinse in warm water, dry and polish with a wash-leather. The same treatment is right for brass bowls and other ornaments which are now so popular with artistic folk.

Onion Souffle.

Chop two large onions into fine pieces and soak one-half cup bread crumbs in one-half cup milk. Mix the two and beat well, then stir in the yolk of an egg, beaten very light, and the whites of two eggs beaten to a stiff froth. Put this mixture into a deep dish, grate cheese over the top, and bake for twenty minutes.

Uses for Soda.

In mixing a cake a pinch of soda, when baking powder is used, improves the texture of cake. A pinch of soda added before the upper crust is placed on berry pies will prevent them from running over.

German apple cake makes a good dessert now. Without any sprinkling of currants it is quite as attractive. Serve best for cinnamon bun. Use either cream or hard sauce with it, or none at all. Cream cheese accords with it.

Junket may not be turned out in shape. It must be set in cups in which it is to be served, or else helped from one large dish with a spoon. It is nice plain, or with cream. If desired more elaborate, then make it in individual cups of pretty glass or china, and at the last place a little mound of whipped cream upon each, surmounted by a cherry or piece of jelly of a bright color.

Junket with ginger bread makes a good home dessert. Those who like nutmeg—and it is recommended for some invalids—use freshly grated nutmeg on it.

Sour cream may be used for pies—just sour cream, not thick clabber, is meant. The clove used for spicing it makes it unlike cheesecake pie. For a cupful of the sour cream allow the beaten yolks of four eggs, a cupful of sugar and one cupful of chopped seeded raisins and a half teaspoonful of ground cloves. Cook this like a custard over water until thickened. Have a freshly lower shell of crust baked to receive it, and make a meringue from the whites of four eggs and a little sugar. Brown in the oven very lightly as usual. Instead of trying to see how smooth the meringue can be made, leave it tossed into hills, or drawn around in swirling lines, more or less parallel with the crust edge. This crust should be indented and rather high, to support the filling and meringue.

Pumpkin Fruit Basket.

Cut a good sized pumpkin in the form of a basket, with a handle. Remove the contents and line with white tissue paper. Fill with yellow fruits—apples, bananas and grapes—letting the grapes fall gracefully over the side. Tie a huge bow of yellow tarlatan ribbon (the kind used by the florists) on the handle. Place on a dolly in the center of the table.

For each guest make a pumpkin blossom. Buy paper cases at the confectioners and cut petals from pumpkin colored tissue paper, crinkle with a sharp knife. Begin at the top, paste four rows around the outside and green at the bottom. Place beside each place, to be filled with salted nuts or ice cream.

Oyster Soup.

One-half gallon of water and one quart of oysters will make three quarts of soup. Put cold water in the soup kettle, season with salt and serve when the water comes to a boil. If desired rich add a pint of milk and as soon as boiling point is reached turn in the oysters. When it boils up once serve. Do not let boil after the oysters are in as it makes them tough, season with pepper. For an invalid, when but little nourishment can be taken at a time, use milk, a tiny bit of butter, salt and pepper to taste. Bring the milk quickly to boiling point, turn in the oysters, cover closely, place over a brisk fire and as soon as the oysters—se to the top serve at once with dry toast.

Sea Foam Fudge.

Two cups of light brown sugar, one cup of water, the white of one egg, cup of water, to taste. Boil the sugar and water until it will mold, but not until it is brittle and yet not as soft as for ordinary fudge. Have the white of an egg beaten stiff and pour in the syrup slowly, beating constantly with a patent egg beater. Drop on pans from the point of a spoon, giving a puffed appearance to the top of each of the candies.

CHURCH CIRCLES

BAPTIST CHURCH.

Rev. T. D. Denman, Pastor

P. W. Marsh the attorney for the anti-saloon league will deliver an address at the usual hour in the church next Sunday morning. Union services will be held in the Congregational church in the evening.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

The Christian Science Society will meet in the G. A. R. hall at the usual hour next Sunday, November 3. Subject: Adam and Fallen Man. Golden text: "And the Lord God called unto Adam, and said unto him, where art thou? Hast thou eaten of the tree, whereof I command thee that thou shouldst not eat?"

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Rev. A. A. Schoen, Pastor

Next Sunday is Reformation Day and appropriate services in commemoration of the event will be held at the usual hour in the morning. The offering will be for the colleges.

The annual meeting of the society will be held in the church at 7 o'clock, sun time, Wednesday evening, November 6th.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Fred Frey on South street Friday afternoon, November 1.

CONGREGATIONAL.

Rev. M. L. Grant, Pastor

On account of the rain last Sunday which prevented attendance from the country, a Harvest Home service, along similar lines to the one presented then, will be given next Sunday morning. Most of the decorations which consisted of farm products will be displayed again. Special music will be furnished by the choir and the minister will deliver a sermon appropriate to the occasion. Prof. Goodrich of Albion college representing the anti-saloon league will speak at the evening service. The Baptist church will unite in this service.

M. E. CHURCH.

Rev. D. H. Glass, Pastor.

Prof. Frederick S. Goodrich, of Albion college, will speak at the morning service on the subject of temperance. He comes by invitation of the pastor and official board, and is recognized as one of the strongest temperance advocates in the state.

Last Sunday the Men's Bible Class was organized with J. W. Schenk as president, Schuyler P. Foster, secretary, O. T. Hoover, treasurer, and D. H. Glass teacher. A cordial invitation is extended to men to attend the sessions of the class which are held after the morning service.

The union meeting for men is held in the church parlors at 2:30 o'clock. These meetings are interesting and helpful. It is a good place to spend an hour with the men. Speaker, Prof. Goodrich.

The Epworth League devotional meeting is held at 6 p. m. Henry Stimson will lead the meeting. Topic, "The Cities of Refuge."

At the evening service, the pastor will preach on "General Apathy, or Religious Indifference." The widespread indifference to personal religion makes this a timely theme and the public is invited to hear it discussed. Prayer meeting Thursday evening.

A Hard Debt to Pay.

"I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be paid off," writes G. S. Clark, of Westfield, Iowa, "for my rescue from death, by Dr. King's New Discovery. Both lungs were so seriously affected that death seemed imminent, when I commenced taking New Discovery. The ominous dry, hacking cough quite before the first bottle was used, and two more bottles made a complete cure." Nothing has ever equalled New Discovery for coughs, colds and all throat and lung complaints. Guaranteed by Freeman & Cummings Co., druggists, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Coughs of Children

Especially night coughs. Nature needs a little help to quiet the irritation, control the inflammation, check the progress of the disease. Our advice is—give the children Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Ask your doctor if this is his advice also. He knows best. Do as he says.

We publish our formulas. We banish alcohol from our medicines. We urge you to consult your doctor.

If you think constipation is of trifling consequence, just ask your doctor. He will disabuse you of that notion in short order. "Correct it, at once!" he will say. Then ask him about Ayer's Pills. A mild liver pill, all vegetable.

OM FASHIONDOM

Charming bertha can be made in a twinkling chignon bordered with ribbon.

Tempe and jumper dresses of cham, plaid glingham, chambray wool mixtures continue popular school wear.

Afternoon gowns the daintily edged voiles in two-toned effects exceptionally attractive when edged with a garniture of silk gives them body.

Pretty sashes and bretelles for dresses are made of narrow ribbons, alternating with insertion of the same width. They are edged with tiny ruffles of lace.

Be fad for self-trimming continues, and the smartest of the newest gowns, not only in tailored but in more formal costumes, show as much of a preference as ever for this sort of trimming.

Two distinctive features may be about sleeves. They have much fullness at the top, some of it even being laid in deep plaits. They are very ornate, even to the point of fussiness.

Then one does not have a skirt with a paneled front, a plain gored skirt is often trimmed with buttons or loops. This adornment sometimes goes to the bottom of the skirt, both sides; at other times it extends a little below the hips.

There appears to be some controversy about the wearing of hatpins. Some say that none should be visible at all, but, on the other hand, the exquisite designs are seen in night gold and colors to harmonize with hat or gown.

The engagement bracelet is quite new fad, and, while not exactly the place of the engagement ring, it accompanies that gift and is a like pattern. Tiffany settings are handsome, and the bracelets are perfection of skilled workmanship.

Some of the new fall hats show signs of exaggerated length, which are the milliners' skill to outlive in nature in the length of certain hats. The feathers are mounted on poles or felt, sometimes heavy canes, and they are colored to match any kind of hat we see.

Two of the leading features of the fall modes are the development of the tailor-made and the Japanese effects, each of which draws upon the other to form an entirely new style, which, while it has the characteristics of both, is at once more practical and more artistic than either.

Here is a schedule of superstitions about finding the first flower of the season:

If found on Monday, good luck all the year.

If found on Tuesday, large undertakings which will be successful.

If found on Wednesday, a wedding in the family.

If found on Thursday, hard work with little profit.

If found on Friday, unexpected wealth.

If found on Saturday, misfortunes.

If found on Sunday, best luck of all.

Some of the numberless flower superstitions are:

If any one asks for the flower pinned on your dress and you refuse, you will have immediate ill-luck.

To burn faded flowers is a sign of coming sorrow.

To plant a flower hedge is to bring good luck.

If you point at buds they will light.

To hand a flower reversed to any one is to bring bad luck.

If a person wears flowers with the stems upward it is a sign that he or she is in love but does not know it.

If you pull a flower to pieces you will die of consumption.

If a person smells flowers gathered from the cemetery he will lose his nose of smell.

As have flowers will quickly in the hands denotes ill-health.

If some one gives you a yellow flower you are going to have money.

If some one gives you a purple flower you are going to have tears and troubles.

NOVEL IDEA.

A novel idea for score cards was seen at an afternoon party recently. The cards were cut in the shape of a face, but none of the features was indicated. A few wavy lines were drawn to represent the hair about the forehead and a collar was drawn in. The features were drawn separately, cut out and used as stickers on the score.

As the games progress the results obtained by the winners were ludicrous in the extreme, as the face takes a feature at a time, according to the number of games won.

THE KITCHEN

REFRESHING TEA DISH

On a fine gridiron, of one made of wire not used for broiling, place some slices of salt pork, cut thin as possible. On each slice lay two good sized oysters; broil and serve hot. This sized oyster, broil and serve hot. This sized oyster, broil and serve hot.

POOR MAN'S PIE

Bake the crust first; use one cup of water, one heaping tablespoon of cornstarch, two-thirds of a cup of sugar, spoonful of butter, three eggs; take the whites of two of them for frosting; use lemon or any kind of extract to suit the taste. Roll all together and put in the crust; put on the frosting and set in the oven till brown.

KEEP OMELET

One and one-half pounds of round steak ground; two slices of bread crumbed; salt and pepper to taste.

SPONGE CAKE

Use six eggs, leave out three whites; add two cups sugar, one cup boiling water, two and one-half cups of flour, and two teaspoons baking powder. Beat the eggs and sugar with any flavoring. Heat the cake and mix for fifteen minutes, then add boiling water, and bake one hour.

DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE

Two cups sugar, add four egg yolks, one-half cup of shortening, one-half pound, three tablespoons of melted chocolate, stirred up with five tablespoons of boiling water, one teaspoonful salt, one teaspoon vanilla, one and two-thirds cup flour, one rounding tablespoonful of baking powder, two-thirds cup tepid water, lastly the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Bake in a moderate oven, and when cool frost with either white or chocolate frosting.

MOCK CREAM FILLING

Wet one-quarter cup flour with a little milk; beat into it one egg and one-half cup sugar. Stir this into one-half pint boiling milk. Let boil until thick, stirring carefully. When cool, flavor with vanilla and spread on layers.

SICED LEMON PIE

Line a deep pie tin with good crust. Peel a lemon and slice one-half of it thin, laying it evenly over the crust. Sprinkle over it one cup of sugar, one cup of water and one tablespoonful of flour. Put on a top crust.

NUT BREAD

To one tablespoon of sugar add one cup of nuts or raisins, a little salt, two and a half cups sweet milk, four cups flour, and four teaspoons baking powder. Mix quickly into a loaf, let rise 15 minutes, and bake one hour.

TO COOK RICE

Wash the rice until the water no longer looks milky; cover well with cold water, and add salt. Cover the pan in which it is to be cooked, and when the rice begins to boil over set it back where it will not boil so hard. About one-half an hour will be long enough to cook it. Eat it with butter or gravy as a vegetable. Use the rice that is not polished, if possible.

PIN CASE.

Take a piece of fancy ribbon and line it with a strip of elderdown flannel bound by a narrow piece of ribbon. One end of the ribbon is turned over to form a little bag for rings and fastened with tiny buttons and buttonholes. The pins are stuck in neat little rows along the elderdown flannel, and the case may be rolled up and tied with flowered satin ribbons.

Craze for Cameo Jewelry. But it is not hairwork alone that has become the fad. The craze for cameo jewelry grows apace. Those possessed of heirlooms of this nature are congratulating themselves thereon, and the less fortunate are making great efforts to obtain old cameos at any price. The original cameos were not as expensive as in the present day, but the art of cutting these shells was one of the trades

Old Heirlooms Show Better Workmanship Than Later-Day Jewelry.

It is a safe wager that, if you are the fortunate heir of grandmother's jewel box, it has been ruthlessly rifled during the past year.

Curious old brooches, quaint bracelets, high combs, and in fact, all the jewelry of bygone days are now in high favor. Indeed, the older and the queerer the jewelry, the better. It has a charm quite its own, and then it affords the wearer such an excellent opportunity to remark: "Yes, isn't it curious, my great-grandmother's, you know."

Now is the time to get out the old hair work that was grandmother's pride, for word has come from the fashion-makers over the seas that smart women all over Europe are wearing the hair brooches with all the joy that went with them a century ago.

In those days, every "lady" learned the art of making hair brooches and it was the fashion to weave into the jewelry the tresses of the near and dear ones. The work was exceedingly intricate and difficult, requiring hours and hours and hours in the making, and naturally was lone only by the women of much leisure. So it gives a real "tone" to be able to say your brooch is the handiwork of an ancestor.

Craze for Cameo Jewelry. But it is not hairwork alone that has become the fad. The craze for cameo jewelry grows apace. Those possessed of heirlooms of this nature are congratulating themselves thereon, and the less fortunate are making great efforts to obtain old cameos at any price. The original cameos were not as expensive as in the present day, but the art of cutting these shells was one of the trades that was lost when the modern machines came to take the place of handwork. "Cameo" does not mean shell or stone, as is generally supposed now. It is a term that pertains to the cutting, and some very decorative effects were wrought in the inexpensive pink conch shell.

The large old-fashioned bracelets are fast out-rivaling the more modern ornaments. Many of these are several inches wide and fit tight about the wrist.

Some of the old combs now being revived are exceedingly bizarre, such as the one shown, which is of tortoise shell with an adjustable gold band holding tiny gold ball pendants. For some reason thus far unknown amethysts are considered the most correct stones in these old-fashioned brooches and pendants, and the woman who is fortunate enough to possess a pin or bracelet set with this stone has a much coveted heirloom.

IMPROVISED EASEL.

The candy tongs with which most dealers supply their boxes of confections can be easily converted into easels for small photographs and similar pictures. Separate the tongs to form an obtuse angle and at the bottom of the picture firmly clasp each side with an end of the tongs, so that the bottom edge of the picture and the edges of the tongs form a triangle.

If the butter loses its flavor, put it in a bowl of water, salt and stir with a wooden spoon. Let it stand for about five minutes and change two or three times. You may also add a little baking soda.

ODDS AND ENDS

A cloth dipped in strong cider vinegar will clean mica.

Ordinary fine salt should be kept on every kitchen washstand since it is splendid in cleaning stains from the hands.

"Cheesecloth" towels for silver and glassware will be found more desirable than crash, as they are free from lint.

Remember that salt raises the temperature of boiling water, thereby making vegetables cook more quickly when it is used.

Serviceable yet handsome towels are made of buckram with one or two insets of heavy toweling face above the hemstitch, and two-inch hem.

Shoemakers' "sprigs," a variety of headless tacks, should be used to fasten down linoleum. They hold firmly, yet are invisible and do not damage the linoleum.

The Clothes Tree.

A number of furniture too seldom used in the clothes "tree," resembling the post of our grandmothers' four-post bedstead, it stands on three feet and has half a dozen floors or hooks. As it takes up so little floor space and holds so many garments it is an invaluable article. In a small hall or vestibule it takes the place of the hatrack, and in a large hall it complements the necessary array of one's clothes over the door. It is especially convenient in the bathroom it is especially convenient.

Keep Children's Heads Clean.

Roll a number of Irish potatoes without peeling. Cook as for the table, but when done drain the water off in a pan and let it cool. Just before putting the children to bed wash their heads in the water in which the potatoes have been boiled. Do not rinse the hair, but let it dry, and in the morning comb and brush thoroughly. Repeat if necessary in twenty-four hours.

Spice Poultice for Cholera Infantum.

Make a poultice of flaxseed meal and add one tablespoon allspice, one tablespoon cloves, one tablespoon cinnamon to the dry meal; pour on boiling water, stir, and pour till like a thick mush. Spread on cheesecloth and pour a little glycerin and alcohol over it. Cover with cheesecloth and put over the stomach and bowels. Cover with cloths to keep warm. Keep warm with hot water bags about the person.

Wash the Piano.

When your piano looks dull and dingy, don't daub on more polish, but simply wash it. Take a good pure soap, preferably white castile, and make a lather with tepid rainwater. Wash the piano carefully, thoroughly, using a piece of soft cheesecloth or clean chambray, and rub dry with clean cheesecloth. The piano will look like new. This is what is used in piano stores.

Make Furniture Harmonize.

Having a beautiful chair which spoiled the harmony of the room because of its yellow and green cover, I purchased a tin box of dye, olive green, the kind you mix with cold water, and, with a brush, quickly covered the obnoxious yellow. Another piece, in damask, was coated entirely, using a broader brush. It will not rub off, and the effect is beautiful.

STRIPED SERGES.

There is every safety in assuring readers that striped serges will be de rigueur and with self-colored coats they are sure to be extremely smart. There is an almost rigid conventionality about the coat of a costume designed by a Rue Royale couturier, for it follows with more faithful exactitude a man's cutaway than any of the modes thus far shown. The required feminine touch is added, however, in a dainty blouse of linen, hand-embroidered, but finished with a standing collar and fuzzy little bow clothes edging. The skirt is laid in wide plaits and quite covers the ankles. The costume is tremendously business-like and admirably suited to morning detours of the shops.

THE SEWING CIRCLE

Bath mats may be made of discarded bedspreads by cutting from the firm parts squares of desired size and hemming. These mats are nice to lay on the floor beside the bathtub when the latter is in use, but should be folded and hung in a convenient place, as they are not heavy enough to take the place of a rug.

If sewing in a carpeted room, be sure and place beneath the machine a square of table oilcloth to catch the small pieces of goods and ravelings. This is easily swept and saves a great amount of bother in cleaning the room. A sheet stretched below the machine is good, but not quite so handy as the oilcloth.

Among the novelty pin cushions lately seen are neat ones made of large colored cotton or silk chrysanthemums. The stems are cut from the flowers, the petals pasted to a small pasteboard disk, while a pin-hair or brain, fastened securely in the center of the floor. The artificial flowers are cheap, and these little ornaments would make profitable articles to sell at church bazaars.

If the place that is wearing thin is neatly darned before the fabric breaks apart the actual appearance of the hole will be appreciably delayed and the stockings' term of usefulness materially lengthened.

A clever way to make a bobbinet cushion is to work on the material yellow daisies and green ferns. The designs from which the idea was taken were covered with large daisies, the centers were cross-bars of brown silk, made as large as a spool end, while the daisy petals of yellow were at least an inch long. The design was irregular and filled in with long, graceful ferns worked in green silk. The cover was made over pale green satin and finished with a ruffled border of bobbinet over a satin ruffle.

A rather new yet showy way to work a large coin dot is to begin at the outside with an outlining stitch and follow the circle round and round into the center. This development of the dot has a better effect when colors are used instead of white. Another, though scarcely so good, a treatment is to use a very fine chain stitch on the circumference, filling the centers with solid French knots. Some people insist on outlining the satin stitch dot with finished. This gives the best result when the outline is in a darker shade.

DRAPERIES FROM CORKS.

Take some stout string, such as is used on window shades, cut it in lengths to fit the door. Then take a large darning needle and string an even number of corks on each string, having the corks about three inches apart. Make a loop on one end of each string, to slip the pole through; on the bottom tie knots and allow an extra cork on each string to slip down close to the knot to hold it. Then after you have finished bronze each cork gold or silver, or both.

PINKIE PRIM

"Possibly the feet are bad;
But still the legs seem good.
What's the use to throw away?
I'd darn them, if I could."

"Jinks! I believe they'll darnin' stand!"
When she looked the stockings over,
The chances seemed quite slim.

Still she sought her basket out,
And called in "quite few" friends.
Raveling and raveling!
It seemed there were no ends!

"Got to knit the feet, I guess,"
Said Pinkie, with a smile.
"Any time you save a thing,
It surely is worth while."

"STOCKING CIRCLE" it became.
As such it gained renown.
Minister and Priest, alike,
Said, "Best thing in the town!"

Stocking Circle's president,
Was Pinkie Prim, for sure!
What'd the Circle do with them?
They gave them to the poor.

The Chelsea football team who played a game with the Manchester team in that village last Friday was defeated by a score of 16 to 5.

The football in Ahnemiller's Park yesterday between the Chelsea high school and the team from Ann Arbor resulted in a score of 6 to 0 in favor of the Chelsea boys.

A teachers inspiration institute will be held in Milan, Friday and Saturday, November 8 and 9. Prof. N. A. Harvey of the Ypsilanti Normal College, will have charge of the work.

The many friends of Alfred Heatley will be pleased to learn that he is recovering after a serious operation for appendicitis at St. Vincent's hospital, Toledo, Ohio. Mr. Heatley's sister, Miss Mary Heatley, of Sandusky, Ohio, is with him during his illness.

The Otterbein Male Quartette Co., will be the second number of the People's Popular Lecture Course, under the auspices of the Epworth League. The date for their appearance is November 27th. This is said to be one of the best Male Quartettes on the road.

A good audience was present at the opening of the People's Popular Lecture Course in the M. E. church last Thursday evening. The attraction was the Ernest Gamble Concert Party, and the entertainment was a fine one. The next entertainment will be November 27th.

The next Choral Union Series concert will be held in University hall, Ann Arbor, Monday evening, November 11th. Madame Gadske one of the most noted soprano soloists of the day will be the attraction and those from Chelsea who attend this concert will be repaid for their time.

One of the farm teams of John R. Gates became frightened near the railroad crossing, on Main street, Wednesday forenoon and ran away. At the corner of Main and Park streets the team took to the side walk, barely missing Eppler's plate glass window, they then ran east to the corner of East street where one of the horses fell. They were stopped near the corner. A badly wrecked farm wagon was about the extent of the damage.

Married, Monday afternoon, October 28, 1907, Mr. Geo. E. Cana, of North Adams, Mass., and Miss Flossie Gustin, of Natural Bridge, New York. The ceremony was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. Hathaway and Mr. and Mrs. Gorman. All of the parties are members of the Gorman & Ford Co., who are filling an engagement in the Chelsea opera house this week. R. D. Walker was the officiating Justice of the Peace who united the couple in marriage.

Friday, November 1, will be the Feast of All Saints—a holy day of obligation in the Catholic church. Masses will be celebrated on that day in the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart at 6 and 9:30 a. m. Rosary and Benediction at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, November 2 will be the Commemoration of All Souls. Requiem High Mass will be celebrated at 8 a. m. for the deceased members of the parish of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart. The special offering next Sunday, November 3, will be for the parochial school.

Resolutions.

At a regular meeting of Chelsea Lodge No. 184 Knights of Pythias, the following resolutions were adopted.

Resolved, That we as brothers regret the loss of our brother and friend and extend his full sympathy of the lodge to the bereaved widow and children.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the record of our lodge and published in the Chelsea papers, also a copy presented to the family of the deceased.
