HIS NINETIETH BIRTHDAY

DELIVERED A FINE ADDRESS.

Dr. Holmes Occupied the Pulpit of the Methodist Church Sunday Evening and Gave a History of His Life.

The Methodist, Congregational and Baptist church societies united in a union service at the M. E. church last Sunday evening in honor of the 90th anniversary of the birth of Rev. Thos. Holmes, D. D., who delivered an able address on the history of his life's work.

A large number were present and for over an hour listened to an interesting address, which Mr. Holmes delivered with all of the vigor of a public speaker many years his junior, and it contained many historical points which will be useful to the young people of today.

Dr. Holmes chose for his theme the first book of Corinthians, 15th chapter and the 10th verse, and his subject was well chosen for the occasion.

Dr. Holmes was the oldest of 12 children and was born at Roylton, Niagara county, New York, November 24, 1817. He became a resident of Michigan in 1836 and a resident of Washtenaw county in March 1837. During his early life he worked on his father's farm in Pittsfield and taught school. In 1841 he entered Oberlin college, Ohio, where he spent the greater part of the next nine years taking a classical and theological course. He received the degree of A. B. in 1847, and that of A. M. in 1850. In 1853 Mr. Holmes was chosen professor of Greek in Antioch College, Ohio. From April 1855 to August 1857 he spent in studying and traveling in Europe attending during this time lectures in universities of Bonn and Berlin.

From 1865 to 1875 he served as president of Union Christian College, Merom, Indiana. Mr. Holmes was ordained as a preacher of the Huron Christian conference in November 1844.

Dr. Holmes has during his long life of work filled pulpits in New Hampshire, New York, Massachusetts, Ohio, Indiana, and Michigan. Dr. Holmes was chosen pastor of the Chelsea Congregational church in 1877 and remained in charge of the work for a number of years.

Since retiring from the active work of the ministry Mr. Holmes has delivered many sermons in various parts of the county. His long residence in Chelsea has been one of usefulness and his many friends appreciate his untiring efforts and congratulate him upon his successful work. The remarkable energy he shows for a man of his advanced years is seldom met with and his friends hope that he will remain with them for many years to come.

Mr. Holmes has received about thirty letters of congratulation from various parts of the country and a purse of $31 was presented to him at the close of the service.

Wackenhut-Pfister.

The marriage of Miss Olla M. Wackenhut, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Wackenhut, of Summit street, to Mr. John Pfister, of Jackson, took place Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, Rev. A. A. Schoen, pastor of St. Paul's church performed the ceremony, in the presence of about 60 relatives and immediate friends.

The bride was gowned in white silk trimmed with lace, and a shower of white chrysanthemums formed the bridal bouquet. She was attended by her two cousins, Miss Edna Wackenhut and Miss Nada Hoffman, who wore white and carried pink carnations.

After the ceremony a wedding supper was served and a reception held from 5 to 9.

The house was handsomely decorated with smilax and cut flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Pfister received many beautiful presents, both useful and ornamental. The young couple will live in Jackson, where the groom has a home furnished. The young couple have the best wishes of a host of friends for their future happiness.

The Football Game.

The best game of football which has been played in Chelsea this season was played between the Stockbridge city team and the local high school Saturday. It was an ideal day for the game the only bad feature being the muddy condition of the ground, and a very large crowd gathered to witness the struggle. Stockbridge brought a mammoth delegation which cheered until they nearly brought on a cyclone. The visitors outweighed our team considerably, but lacked playing qualities. In the first half Stockbridge made the first touchdown in about ten minutes of play by a fumble and their kicked goal. When the half was nearly ended, Carpenter, of the locals, secured the ball on a fumble and made a brilliant run for a touchdown, but he failed to kick goal and the first half ended with the score 8 to 5 in favor of the visitors. In the second half Chelsea took a brace while Stockbridge weakened, and were pushed back for two touchdowns and goals in the locals favor. They soon recovered their equilibrium, however, and made a touchdown and goal which added six to their score, making it 14 to 17. After this neither side was able to score and the game ended with the ball in possession of the locals in the middle of the field. The officials for the game were: umpire, J. Edward Johnson of Stockbridge; referee (first half), Wirt S. McLaren, Chelsea; (second half) Clayton Schenk, Chelsea; and timekeeper, Geo. Staffan, Chelsea. The game was full of sensational plays and Carpenter, Kelly, McGuinness and C. Runciman of the locals were the stars. Stockbridge also made some good plays. This game, with the exception of the one with Dexter at Dexter, today, completes a series of victories for the local high school team. They have yet to be beaten with but one remaining game in the season.

Special Notice.

Tuesday evening, will occur the annual thank-offering of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the M. E. church. Mrs. Margaret Delight Moores superintendent of the Detroit Deaconess Home, will deliver the address. Mrs. Moores is one of the most pleasing and instructive speakers and should be greeted by a large audience.

WAS A DECIDED SUCCESS

THANKSGIVING BANQUET.

Held Tuesday Evening in St. Mary's Hall—A Large Audience Present and Fine Program Carried Out.

The Thanksgiving banquet held in St. Mary's hall, Tuesday evening, for the benefit of St. Mary's school was both a financial and social success. The menu was all that could be desired and enjoyed by fully five hundred, who partook of the bounteous feast spread before them. Guests were present from a number of the surrounding towns. The Rev. Fr. Considine and the ladies of the parish deserve much credit for the successful banquet and entertainment of the evening.

Rev. Fr. Comerford, of Pinckney, acted as toastmaster, and took charge of the well arranged program at the close of banquet. As the Rev. Father introduced those who had been assigned parts, he related an incident at their expense, that brought forth many hearty laughs. The genial chairman in returned, was the recipient of many stories that were applied to him.

The first number on the program was a vocal selection by the Misses Mary and Adeline Spinnagle, Edna Raftery and Margaret Eder. The next was a piano duet by Misses Mary Clark and Edna Raftery.

Hon. Wm. B. Thompson, mayor of Detroit was the first speaker introduced and gave a short address on the duties of a man as a public official. The next number was a piano duet by the Misses Spinnagle.

T. E. Wendock, of Detroit, was the next speaker and he gave a history of the National Thanksgiving Day, from its origin by the Puritans to the present day. At the close of the address vocal solos were rendered by Miss Mary Spinnagle and Louis Burg.

Hon. W. W. Wedemeyer, was next introduced and gave a talk on his travels in Europe. At the close of his remarks a piano solo was given by Miss Florence Heselchwerdt.

Rev. Fr. Comerford then delivered a short address, which was followed by a selection given by the Ladies' Quartet as the closing number of a very interesting and instructive program.

Judge Phalen, of Detroit, was unable to be present on account of illness, and Hon. H. C. Smith, of Adrian, had an engagement that called him elsewhere.

The proceeds from the sale of the watch amounted to $125 and it was secured by Mrs. Louis Burg.

Thanks.

By unaccountable inadvertence I neglected, Sunday evening, at the close of the service, to express my thanks to different persons and parties who, by helpfulness in various ways, contributed to the interest and success of the occasion. I therefore take this method to let them know that I was neither oblivious to nor unthankful for their great kindness, and at the same time relieve my own consciousness of the mortification I have experienced ever since the unwelcome fact occurred to me.

First, I want to express most hearty thanks to my Methodist friends for the use of their house of worship for the occasion. I want also to express my gratitude for the consideration shown me by the Congregational and Baptist churches in omitting their services for the evening that they might attend mine. To that glorious men's choir I am unable to express the enjoyment I experienced while listening to the soulful rendition of the musical program they had prepared for the occasion. They seemed to "sing with the spirit and with the understanding also." I sincerely hope that each one of them may be an honored member of the heavenly choir in the life to come. To the congregation I am also indebted for their liberal birth-day present of thirty-one dollars handed me at the close of the service.

Though gratified in every reasonable measure before, the cup of my joy was made to overflow when the congregation responded so heartily to the suggestion of brother Glass, the M. E. pastor, in giving me the Chautauqua salute. That was the most beautiful sight I ever witnessed in a public congregation, and touched deeply the tenderest spot in my heart. The picture of those fluttering handkerchiefs will be a bright spot of pure white light in my memory, as long as I remember anything. May the richest blessings of heaven ever rest upon the people of Chelsea.

WESTERN CANADA A WINNER

THE CROP OF 1907 IS AN EXCEL-LENT ONE.

Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta
Farmers Doing Well.

The interest that Western Canada has aroused for some years past is growing in intensity. The conditions of the crop of 1907 are such that results can be spoken of with some degree of certainty. The yield of grain will be about 80,000,000 bushels and the price the farmers will realize for it will be upwards of seventy million dollars. The oat crop was good in most places, and the crop of barley will be very remunerative. Those who know of the generally unsatisfactory conditions during the seeding, growing and ripening period in the United States during the past season, will look with righteous distrust on any statement intended to give the impression that Western Canada conditions were so much different. Generally, they were not, but the conditions of a highly recuperative soil, long and continuous sunshine, are conditions possessed by Western Canada and not possessed by any other country on the Continent. This is why it is possible to record today a fairly successful crop, when in most other places the opposite is the case. The yield in all grains is less than last year, but the higher prices obtained more than offset any falling off in the yield. Take for instance the Province of Saskatchewan the wheat crop will be worth $21,135,000. Last year the same crop was 35 per cent. larger and the quality better. The yield was worth $24,000,000. Oats and barley are very important factors in all three central provinces. At Gladstone, Manitoba, returns from one farm were $27 per acre from the wheat land, $35 per acre from oats, and $30 per acre from barley. The yield of wheat at Dauphin, Manitoba, was 20 to 24 bushels to the acre but not of a very good grade, but the yield of barley in that section was good and so was the quality. At Meadow Lea, Manitoba, 15 to 20 bushels to the acre were thrashed, bringing a round dollar on the market. At Oak Lake, Manitoba, on some fields where 21 bushels were expected, twelve and fifteen was the result; others again where twenty was looked for gave twenty-two to twenty-five. One special patch south of town on J. M. McFarlane's farm went as high as thirty bushels to the acre. At Sheho, Saskatchewan, oats yielded from 60 to 65 bushels to the acre. Sam Wunder threshed 2,500 bushels from forty acres. The sample is good and weighs well. At Lloydminster, Saskatchewan, W. Bibby threshed 97 bushels of oats to the acre, and two others were but little behind. Wheat here reached 35 bushels. At Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, from a quarter section all in crop, Alex. McKinnon of Ingleside threshed an average of 33 bushels No. 1 Northern. J. J. Grant had 190 acres, yielding 6,000 bushels of the same grade. These illustrations taken from widely distant districts (and thousands of others could be produced) show that the year 1907 has not felt the serious effects from severe winter, late spring, or unfavorable conditions during the growing season that might have been anticipated. In order to learn more about this country write to the Canadian Government Agent whose address appears elsewhere, and get a copy of the new Last Best West, which he will be pleased to mail you free.

A Relief.

Smith started up into a sitting posture. "Who are you?" he cried. The masked figure with the dark lantern and sawed-off shotgun turned, nonplussed for the moment, from the bureau, and said, confusedly: "Why, I am a—er—burglar."

Smith settled back upon the pillow, drawing the warm coverlets about his shoulders. "Thank goodness," he murmured, sleepily; "I thought you were a blunder."

Word Derivatives.

"Petrel" and "petrol" both descend from "petra," a rock. "Petrol" comes directly enough, through "petroleum," rock oil, but "petrel" through St. Peter, after whom the bird was named, because it appeared to walk upon the waves.

Woman's Love

The only thing that's constant in the world,
The only peak that stands above all clouds,
The only window where the light o'er burns,
The only star that darkness cannot dim,
Is woman's love.

It rises to the greatest of all heights,
It sinks into the lowest of all depths,
Forgives the most and deepest wrongs,
Perennial in its life, it finds its home
In every clime.

Not coldness, cruelty, neglect nor wrong
Can alter, weaken or extinguish it.
A woman's love is perfume to the heart;
Her love has wrought all miracles of art,
And beauty's dream.

It gives as music all along the way,
From cradle to the last grand symphony
That bears the soul away on wings of fire;
This love is greater, sweeter than all power,
Outlasting death.

AUNT POLLY'S ADVICE

BY LAURA EMILY SCHUBERT

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Will Norton, editor of the "Queries and Answers" department of "The Woman's Helper," was busy at his desk.

Very few, not even all of the employees, were aware who was the author of the excellent advice given in the "Aunt Polly" column of the magazine. It was difficult to become reconciled to the fact that this man, with his round, jovial face, bore any relation whatever to the dainty little lady with the motherly features, whose picture graced the top of the query and answers department.

When the editor of the magazine first decided to establish this column he was unable to find anyone to take charge of it. Finally, when almost desperate, he overheard the office boy say to a friend:

"Why don't you ask Will Norton? He knows everything."

Just what was wanted. Some one who knew everything.

Norton was accordingly summoned to the office from his desk as proof-reader.

To-day the appeals for aid to the wisdom of Aunt Polly were exceptionally numerous and after he had advised one girl of sweet 16 to wait a few years before worrying about any lover's supposed faithlessness, had given a prospective bridegroom a description of correct wedding apparel for the happiest day of his life, counseled a distracted mother on the best method of inducing an abundant growth of hair instead of the scanty locks on her darling's head—it was right here that he became self-conscious, as he remembered how much he himself needed a prescription for this very trouble—he took up the next letter and his eyes casually fell upon the postmark.

"Canton," the home of his childhood, the scene of his happy boyhood days! Perfectly unmindful of everything, his memory wandered back to the days of long ago. He saw the grand, old swaying trees which lined the road on either side of the broad drive leading up to the low, comfortable farm house. He could almost hear the leaves rustle as the breeze swept through them, the long branches lacing and interlacing, now gently bending toward, then again away from each other. There stood the old well at one side, which according to the neighbors gave the best water for miles around. He actually became thirsty as he thought of the dripping bucket rising slowly out of its cool depths. In the rear of the house the orchard beckoned him to enjoy once more the luscious fruit whose flavor he had never found equaled. Memory had not blotted out one detail of the picture, and so vivid was his imagination that he even seemed to hear the bark of his favorite dog, who was tied to the kennel close to the gate of the vegetable garden.

How well he remembered the scene on the morning he left home more than ten years ago, when he turned back at the old gate for a last look. The apple trees were loaded with blossoms, the rose bushes full of buds, just showing a faint streak of color, a promise of the glories to come. He knew it because tucked away among a bundle of old letters he still had one of them, now faded and yellow. But he had no right to it now as he had then, when the dearest girl in the world had given it to him at parting, the girl for whom in former years he had many a time robbed the finest bush in the garden, and with his spoils secretly entered the school house and placed them on her desk. But she knew her giver! Even now he saw her busy her face in their rosy depths, and her shining eyes peering shyly above their beauty as she inhaled the fragrance, telegraphed him a look of thanks that brought a thrill of pleasure to his boyish heart and repaid him a thousand fold.

But it was wrong of him to think of that now; after he left he was forgotten. Just when he thought of returning home to claim her, after all her loving letters, too, he received the announcement of her marriage. Well, of course Nelson was rich; she chose a life of ease and luxury. But it took years before his faith in human nature returned, and even now his thoughts were almost bitter.

With a start he came back to the present. He examined the letter from all sides, wondering, meanwhile, who could have need of Aunt Polly's assistance in that far-away town. It almost fell from his hands when, upon opening it, he saw the signature, E. N.

Emily Nelson, could it be possible?

His eyes eagerly scanned the contents:

"Dear Aunt Polly: Have been a reader of your column for a long time. You have helped so many that I trust you will also aid me. Years ago I had a lover and my only thought was his happiness and welfare. About a year after he left to attain the success in life which he thought more probable in a flourishing city than in a small town, my father compelled me to marry a friend of his, who, unless I would consent to the marriage, threatened to disclose a fraud to which my father had been a party. My father told me all, and his grief was so terrible that I, who had always been his favorite child, was willing to sacrifice almost anything to his peace of mind. Of course my former lover thought me faithless and we have never heard of him since. My father and husband are both dead, and I have no rest until I clear up my apparent faithlessness to the man I wronged. I do not know whether he is still living. Would it be proper for me to place an inquiry regarding his present address in the newspapers?" Then followed the signature, E. N.

Norton was stunned; only one idea stood out clear and prominent. "I thought her faithless, where she was faithful to duty."

He censured himself for the very suspicion that she had married for wealth and position. Fool, that he was to judge her so harshly! Mechanically he folded and unfolded the letter, placed it on the desk, then eagerly took it up again. His mind was busy reviewing the life of sacrifice and heartache he read between the lines. Suddenly he seemed to remember that he must write his reply, and after a few moments' study, he wrote after the initials, E. N.:

"It would hardly be advisable, under the circumstances, to try to communicate with your former lover. Your motives might be misinterpreted. Since so many years have elapsed and your actions were prompted by your duty toward your father, it would be best to let the matter rest. You have the consolation that you did right."

He then calmly tore the letter into tiny shreds and, consigning them to the waste basket, proceeded to answer the remaining queries; but the following week a substitute occupied Norton's chair, much to the dissatisfaction of the many inquirers, who declared that either Aunt Polly's infinite supply of wisdom was exhausted or old age had impaired her mental powers.

The original "Aunt Polly," however, was far away in Canton, negotiating for the purchase of the home place, and, incidentally, renewing old acquaintances, which of course included the mistress of the Nelson farm, but even, when a few months later, she left her home to become the wife of her former lover, he never mentioned "Aunt Polly." That part of his life remained a closed book to her.

Fears Petrol Famine.

The London Times, referring to the report of the committee appointed for the Motor Union of Great Britain and Ireland, to inquire into the question of the alarming rise in price of petrol and to suggest what steps, if any, can be taken to protect the interests of the private consumer, says that the report represents a large number of sitings of the committee, examination of witnesses, experts, etc., and from information thus obtained the committee finds that a petrol famine is certain to occur sooner or later. It asserts that while this shortage of petrol is a certainty, the fact is not apparently appreciated by the manufacturers of motors. It sets out a list of fuels other than petrol, and of the six named, but one—"alcohol"—is unlimited in amount. Of the remaining five, those capable of easy handling, must all sooner or later come to an end. The committee believes that alcohol will necessarily be used for motor power in the future.

Eats Live Coals.

Andy McGee, who carries the mail from Magnetic to Bakerville, is a monstrosity. He can eat live coals of fire with impunity, and with a spoon. If you doubt this just bring him a live coal and a nickel and he will masticate coal and pocket the nickel. This is not all, for he told us for one dollar he would pour a spoonful of molten lead in his mouth and let it cool and then take it out and give us a solid piece. What can the devil do with such a man?—Bakerville (N. C.) Observer.

REAL CAUSE FOR GLADNESS.

How Young Lawyer Carried Comfort to Convicted Client.

An amusing story is told by Harper's Weekly at the expense of a prominent Baltimore lawyer, who, like most young attorneys, got his first case by assignment from the bench. His client had been indicted for murder, and his conviction was a foregone conclusion, as his guilt was unquestionable.

The result of the trial was a sentence to be hanged; but the man made an appeal to the governor for a pardon and was anxiously awaiting a reply thereto when his lawyer visited him in his cell.

"I got good news for you—very good news!" the young lawyer said, grasping the man's hand.

"Did the governor—is it a pardon?" the man exclaimed joyously.

"Well, no. The fact is the governor refuses to interfere. But an uncle of yours has died and left you $200, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing that your lawyer got paid, you know," was the comforting explanation.

BABY ITCHED TERRIBLY.

Face and Neck Covered with Inflamed Skin—Doctors No Avail—Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

"My baby's face and neck were covered with itching skin similar to eczema, and she suffered terribly for over a year—I took her to a number of doctors, and also to different colleges, to no avail. Then Cuticura Remedies were recommended to me by Miss G.—I did not use it at first, as I had tried so many other remedies without any favorable results. At last I tried Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent Pills, and to my surprise noticed an improvement. After using three boxes of the Cuticura Ointment, together with the Soap and Pills, I am pleased to say she is altogether a different child and the picture of health. Mrs. A. C. Brestlin, 171 N. Lincoln St., Chicago, Ill., Oct. 20 and 30, 1906."

A Girl's Giggle.

Samuel Shadwell, a touchy old man living in an Indiana village, had a pane of glass broken in his house one night not long ago and next day he had a ten-year-old girl named Minnie Dayton arrested for it.

When the case was called in court he was asked how he knew it was Minnie. He admitted that he didn't see her, but heard her giggle. When asked if her giggle was different from that of any other girl he said it was, but he couldn't tell why. Neither could he imitate the giggle, and he lost his case.

We all know what a girl's giggle is, but if any of us were asked to give an imitation of it we'd probably fail. A boy may titter, but when it comes to giggling only a girl can do that.

Ambiguous.

A Washington correspondent who used to run a newspaper in Iowa tells how the heavy advertiser of the town once entered the editorial offices and, with anger and disgust depicted in every line of his face, exclaimed: "That's a fine break you people have made in my ad. this week!"

"What's the trouble?" asked the editor, in a tone calculated to mollify the indignant one.

"Read it and see!" commanded the advertiser, thrusting a copy of the paper in the editor's face.

The latter read: "If you want to have a fit wear 'Blank's shoes.'—Harper's Weekly."

French Police a Surprise.

"Well, how did you enjoy yourself in Paris?" they asked of Mrs. Maloney when she got home.

"Very well," she replied. "Very well, indeed; but there was one thing that surprised me more than anything else."

"And what was that?" they queried.

"There were a lot of policemen there and all avy them was French."

His Ear to the Ground.

"Do you expect people to believe all that you tell them?" "That is not the idea," answered the sagacious campaigner. "The way to win the hearts of the people is to tell them what they already believe."

WHAT WAS IT?

The Woman Feared?

What a comfort to find it is not "the awful thing" feared, but only chronic indigestion, which proper food can relieve.

A woman in Ohio says: "I was troubled for years with indigestion and chronic constipation. At times I would have such a gnawing in my stomach that I actually feared I had a—I dislike to write or even think of what I feared."

"Seeing an account of Grape-Nuts I decided to try it. After a short time I was satisfied the trouble was not the awful thing I feared but was still bad enough. However, I was relieved of a bad case of dyspepsia by changing from improper food to Grape-Nuts."

"Since that time my bowels have been as regular as a clock. I had also noticed before I began to eat Grape-Nuts that I was becoming forgetful of where I put little things about the house, which was very annoying."

"But since the digestive organs have become strong from eating Grape-Nuts, my memory is good and my mind as clear as when I was young, and I am thankful." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little booklet, "The Road to Wellville," in packages. "There's a reason."

WOMAN KNEW HUMAN NATURE.

Personal Experience Counted in Her Indorsement of New Pastor.

A Philadelphia congregation was called upon not long ago to choose a pastor. The last three ministers had been persona non grata with most of the parishioners, and before selecting another the congregation did some pretty hard thinking. There was one woman of experience whose voice carried particular weight. Preacher after preacher was invited to the pulpit for a trial sermon, and all, in the final analysis, were rejected by the female arbiters. At last there came along a possible incumbent who met with her approval.

"The reason I am sure he will give satisfaction," she said, "is because he has the right kind of a wife for a minister. She allows him to rant around all he wants at home and doesn't sass back. I found out a long while ago—shortly after I was married myself, in fact—that a man who hasn't that privilege at home works off his spleen elsewhere. A minister vents it on his congregation. That was why we couldn't stand the last preacher. This one will be all right. We won't hear a peep out of him."

And upon that unique recommendation the congregation really did give the man a call. According to last accounts both he and the congregation were doing well. The wife has not been heard from.

Young Man Bore No Grudge Against Proposed Father-in-Law.

That the young fellow had grit was evident from the fact that his business, from nothing, had in a few years begun to bring in a fairish income. He made up his mind to get married. The girl—although the daughter of a pompous country resident—agreed with him; but the father did not see things in the same light.

"What! You?" he yelled, angrily. "You want to marry my daughter! Why, it is only a few years since you were caddying for me."

"That's true!" interrupted the young man, "but I don't intend to let that stand in the way. The language you then used was certainly a trifle—say blue-tinted; but then you were under the influence of disappointment. After all, you know, a very bad golfer may make a very good father-in-law. Anyhow, I'm going to give you a chance."

TUMORS CONQUERED

Overwhelming Proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy Tumor.

The growth of a tumor is so insidious that frequently its presence is wholly unsuspected until it is well advanced.

So called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages or the presence of danger may be made manifest by excessive monthly periods accompanied by unusual pain from the abdomen through the groin and thigh.

If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation or displacements, secure a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, right away and begin its use.

The following letters should convince every suffering woman of its virtue, and that it actually does conquer tumors.

Mrs. May Fry, of 836 W. Colfax Ave., South Bend, Ind., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I take great pleasure in writing to thank you for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I also took the Blood Purifier in alternate doses with the Compound. Your medicine removed a cyst tumor of four years' growth, which three of the best physicians declared I had. They had said that only an operation could help me. I am very thankful that I followed a friend's advice and took your medicine. It has made me a strong and well woman and I shall recommend it as long as I live."

Alaska: the Great and Rich.
Alaska's extreme breadth from east to west is 2,200 miles in an air line. According to Prof. Guyot, a recognized authority on all geographic matters, the Island of Attu, in Alaska, is as far west of San Francisco as the coast of Maine is east of that city. In other words, San Francisco is the great middle city between the extreme east and west of the United States, says Jay Monroe Latimer in Metropolitan Magazine, a fact which is very difficult for the eastern minds to grasp. The breadth of Alaska from north to south is 1,400 miles. Now about the coast line! According to the United States coast survey the shore line of Alaska, up and down the "bays and around the islands, measures 25,000 miles, or two and one-half times that of the Atlantic and Pacific coast line of the remaining portion of the United States. The coast of Alaska, if extended in a straight line, would belt the globe. Nearly 40 years ago, when Secretary of State Seward proposed that the United States should purchase this vast tract of land, the people throughout the length and breadth of the union shouted: "Folly! folly! $7,200,000 for an iceberg!" Nevertheless, Secretary Seward was wiser than his day and generation. He introduced the bill before congress; and there after stormy and lengthy debates he secured its passage, and the United States received from Russia the greatest of all her possessions.

Coal Industry in Montana.
The coal mining industry in Montana has, according to the records, just entered the second quarter century of its history. So far as known, the first coal produced in the state, or the territory, as it was then, was mined in 1880, in which year the production amounted to 224 tons. It was not until 1889, however, that the industry assumed any importance, the production increasing nearly 800 per cent., from 41,467 short tons in 1889 to 363,301 short tons the following year. During the next six years development advanced rapidly, until in 1895, it exceeded 1,500,000 tons. Comparatively little fluctuation was shown by statistics of production from 1895 to 1906, but in 1906 considerable improvement was evident, the production having increased from 1,443,832 short tons, valued at $2,823,350, in 1905, to 1,829,921 short tons, valued at $3,240,859, in 1906, a gain of 16,089 tons, or 11.3 per cent. in quantity, and $417,007, or 14.8 per cent., in value. The number of men employed in the coal mines of Montana increased from 2,181, in 1905 to 2,394 in 1906, the average number of working days being the same (243) in both years. The average production per man in 1906 was 764.4 short tons, against 753.7 in 1905, and the average daily production per man was 3.15 tons in 1906, against 3.10 tons in 1905.

Problem of Air Navigation.
Apropos of the prevailing acute interest in aeronautics abroad, a foreign critic intimates that the United States is far behind other countries, and speaks rather slurringly of our alleged nonprogressiveness. But there is no occasion for getting "hot under the collar" because of the insinuation, soothingly remarks the Troy (N. Y.) Times. That other countries are greatly in the lead of the United States in this matter really remains to be proved. And even if the allegation be true, what assurance does it furnish that this country will long remain in the rear of the procession? Americans have a knack of "catching on" which serves them excellently when necessary. The old world had a big lead on automobiles, for instance. But it has not taken long for the United States to work its way to first place in motor-car production. It would not be at all surprising if, after everybody else has done his best and fallen short of turning out a successful flying machine, some American should come along and perfect an airship which would surpass all others.

People who have been sneering at skimmed milk will be humiliated to learn that a German chemist has discovered a mode of manufacturing from it a substance having the qualities of celluloid and vulcanized rubber, but which is not inflammable. Hereafter skimmed milk will be used for making "galalith," the new material, and cream will be a mere by-product.

GOVERNOR WARNER SENDS ATTORNEY GENERAL BIRD AND DEPUTY TO ONTAGON COUNTY.

LAWLESSNESS RAMPANT.

Murderous Assaults Not Punished and Conditions Arouse Business Men—Governor's Action Pleases Better Element.

Lawlessness in Ontonagon county is being investigated by the state. Attorney General Bird and Deputy Attorney General George Law are to personally conduct the inquiry. Many complaints have been made to Gov. Warner. Representative business men of Ontonagon complained that the county is entirely disorganized. They declared that the officials are afraid to enforce the law and that the affairs of the county government are muddled. One of the causes of complaint is that about two months ago an Austrian at Mass City quarreled with a girl. He shot at the girl several times, but none of the bullets took effect. The Austrian was not arrested on a charge of attempted murder. Instead, he was sent to jail for 90 days on conviction on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Another shooting case that is under investigation by the state is that connected with the strike riots at the Michigan mine a year ago. Several Finns were wounded, but nothing was done in the way of prosecution. Since the strike riots the worst element in the county seems to have a general disregard for the law, although the allegation is made that disorder has been kept well in hand by the authorities. At the present time Ontonagon is overrun with woodsmen. Men in the lumber camps and at the mills have been laid off on account of the decreased demand for lumber brought on by the financial conditions. Paid off in checks, which are subject to heavy discounts if converted into cash, the men are dissatisfied and there is more or less trouble.

Brutal Murder of Child.

The mysterious and brutal murder of a 2-year-old child that lay sleeping in its cradle at the home of M. D. Morehouse at South Haven has aroused the countryside and is puzzling the police authorities. One arrest has been made, but it is believed the prisoner, Mr. Morehouse, had nothing to do with the crime. The child belonged to Mrs. William Fralick, who left it in care of Morehouse, her foster father, while she went to Grand Rapids. As soon as the shooting had been learned Morehouse was rushed to jail. He said the child occupied a cradle in the same room as he and that at 2:30 a. m. he was awakened by a revolver shot. Upon investigating he found the baby had been wounded in the head. He hurried to a neighbor's to telephone for assistance. He declared he saw no one and heard nothing but the shot. However, he was placed in custody to await an investigation. The police are now trying to locate Mrs. Fralick as a witness, believing that she may be able to think of some motive for the crime.

It is said Morehouse has been much trouble over property in which the child was interested, but no tangible motive for the crime has yet been brought to light.

Cigarmaking in Prison Abolished.
Through the efforts of organized labor, the manufacture of cigars in Marquette prison is to be abolished. Though many of those who have sampled the product have believed for a long time that the institution had outlived its usefulness, it was not until after several years' agitation, expensive law suits with, and petitions to the authorities, that the reform has been accomplished.

The cigar contract expires the first of the year, but the contractors have been given four months' grace to wind up business. The manufacture of cigars will continue until just before the expiration of that time, and then the convicts who have been making cigars will begin the manufacture of overalls. The board of control of the prison has let the contract covering the men now employed by the Franklin Cigar Co. to L. S. Shower, who for some years has been the principal contractor at the prison.

Charges Three Cent Fares.
Complaints have been made to the state railroad commission that the Chicago, Kalamazoo & Saginaw railroad has been charging a three cent fare since the two cent fare law took effect. Its earnings have been under $1,200 per mile, which would entitle it to the higher fare, but as its stock is owned by the Michigan Central and Lake Shore railroads, in equal proportion, it has been contended that the road should be considered a part of these systems and subject to the two cent regulation. The railroad commission has decided that such a construction cannot be placed on the law and the road will be permitted to collect the three cent fare.

The articles of incorporation for which the American Express Co. applied to the secretary of state, have been held up pending the decision as to the amount of franchise fees the company should pay.

Ackerman was arrested at Three Rivers for drunkenness and his drug was not discovered till he was taken to supper. He was then released. The company alleges that by reason of this threat it has suffered a loss of $100,000 in ten months.

From the State Capital

Information and Gossip Furnished by Special Correspondent at Lansing.

Lansing.—The constitutional convention still has the main part of its work ahead of it. Few of the questions over which differences of opinion are known to exist having been settled, there needs to be a general hustle if the revision is to be completed within the 100 days. There are a number of important problems that the various committees are wrestling with, but nothing like a tangible solution has been reached. The committee on finances and taxation have three propositions to decide, which may be classed under the following heads: What shall be done with the primary school fund? Shall the state and county finances be separated, or shall the present ad valorem system be allowed to stand? Shall the state be allowed to engage in the work of internal improvements? These will all be the subjects of extended discussion. Not a word has been said as yet on the liquor question, but sentiment seems to be pretty well settled as to what shall be done so that this problem promises very little trouble. High license and some measure of local option is generally favored, and it is doubtful that any effort will be made to urge prohibition except for villages under 500 population. The initiative and referendum has already been discussed to some extent, and as has been pointed out the advocates of this system will be content to secure the initiative for constitutional amendments. If such a compromise is effected the fight will come as to what percentage of the voters should be required to initiate an amendment. The constitution of the new state of Oklahoma requires a petition signed by eight per cent, but this is considered too low and the conservative element will insist on 25 per cent.

Brevity to Be Spice of Con-Con.
The committee on arrangements of the constitutional convention and phraseology is expected to take Bacon's essays as the rhetorical model of the new constitution. These essays are read in school, because no one would read them if he were not told he had to do so. They are remarkable for brevity of expression, and brevity is to be the language of the new constitution. Terseness and clearness, and not eloquence and prose rhythms, are to rule. The horrible example of the constitution of Oklahoma has proved an adequate warning.

Students Oppose Short Vacations.
Students of the University of Michigan are up in arms because, when the regents determined to shorten the college vacation on recommendation of the university senate, an organization of the faculty members, they did not take the students into consideration. Beginning next year, the Thanksgiving vacation will be a thing of the past, only the legal holiday itself being allowed students. Not only that, but the winter holiday period will be cut from 17 to 11 days. College will continue a week later in June.

Thinks Home Rule Is Likely.
"I am confident that the constitutional convention will give us home rule in some form, though perhaps not entirely satisfactory," said Delegate F. F. Ingram, in a talk to the business men's class of Martha Holmes Memorial Methodist Episcopal church. "This is due to the fact that the delegates are a different class from the average of legislators. The country districts as well as the city have suffered by having their interests traded for private bills elsewhere. Direct legislation, I think, will soon get a hearing."

Want Men for Woods.
On the whole the labor situation in Michigan is good, as compared with many other states. Some factories have let a few men go, but these have gone to other plants where more help was needed. At offices of the Michigan Free Employment bureau, inquiry developed the fact that the demand for labor about balances the supply. There is some demand from the north for the lumber woods, though not so great as a week or two ago. Lumbermen not finding enough men at Saginaw have picked up a considerable number at Detroit and elsewhere.

Many Bears in Lower Peninsula.
Hunters returning from the north with bags full of birds and small game, report that bears are becoming more numerous in the thinly settled counties of the lower peninsula. Particularly in the counties of Clare, Gladwin and Roscommon. They report that bear tracks are becoming almost as common as rabbit footprints. Though the animals themselves are seldom seen, destructive evidences of their presence are quite general. In some parts of Clare county they have committed wholesale depredations on sheep.

Cut Copper Miners' Wages.
Wage reductions affecting 3,000 men are announced by Lake Superior copper mining companies and additional cuts are expected. The Mass Consolidated company at Mass City has cut wages five per cent, and it is expected the three other principal companies in Ontonagon county will take the same action. The Quincy Mining company announced that beginning January 1 wages of surface men would be cut five per cent, and underground employees seven and one-half per cent, 1,500 men being involved. The Centennial and Allouez companies, controlled by the Calumet & Hecla, and employing 1,000 men, have cut wages five per cent, effective December 1.

Bill to Abolish Lobbies.
Clarence M. Burton has introduced into the constitutional convention a proposal governing the origin and limit of the appropriations of the state legislature, with the end in view of abolishing the lobby for special interests and placing the blame or credit for appropriations upon the state administration in power. The law, patterned after the English law, which became operative as far back as 1706, and which is in force in Detroit at present as to main principles in the board of estimates, would form the seven state officers into a board of estimates or auditors. This board would include the governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, attorney general, auditor general and land commissioner. This board would frame a bill at the opening of the legislature embodying the needs of the state for appropriations. The spokesman of the board would appear before the legislature and explain the items in the budget and also explain whence the money to meet the expenditures is coming. The old English law is followed in the bill in that it would be impossible to increase the appropriation for a single item in the budget or the whole budget. Neither could a fund appropriated for a specific purpose be diverted to use for another purpose. The budget could be cut as the legislators dispose. Mr. Burton is a member of the state officers' committee, and while there is a question as to whether this committee would have final charge of this bill, it is conceded that it has the right to originate it. Prof. Fairlie of the University of Michigan, another member of the committee, is advising himself on the history of the practice as it is used in the same or modified forms in European countries.

Shaving Barbers Now.
Harry J. Wiggle, of Detroit, secretary of the state barbers' examining board since October, is making matters move, according to a report made to the state board of auditors. He has succeeded in renewing the licenses of 2,120 barbers and issued new licenses to 36, the receipts of the office having been $1,240 for the last six weeks. Last year the board failed to pay expenses. The board has arranged a series of examinations for barbers as follows: At Detroit, December 2 and 3; Kalamazoo, December 4; Grand Rapids, December 5 and 6; Jackson, December 9; Lansing, December 10; Saginaw, December 11; Bay City, December 12, and Port Huron, December 13.

OKLAHOMA: THE FORTY-SIXTH STATE

OKLAHOMA, "the Land of the Now," (embracing Oklahoma and Indian Territories), entered the union as a state on November 15 with a population of about 1,500,000. The government is a republic, with a governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, and a legislature consisting of a senate and house of representatives. The state is divided into five districts, each electing a senator and two representatives. The state is known for its abundant natural resources, including oil, coal, and timber. It is also known for its progressive policies and its role in the development of the American West.

Metropolis of New State.
The largest city in the Oklahoma side is Oklahoma City, with a population of 30,000 and 40 miles of asphalt pavements. Muskogee, in the Indian Territory, has a population of 25,000, which represents a growth from 3,500 people in 1900. The new state will have 700 banks, of which 275 are national, the latter with deposits of $50,000,000; 23 cottonseed oil mills, more than a hundred flour mills, 50 daily papers and more than 400 issued weekly.

State is Democratic.
Oklahoma will probably be Democratic in politics for some time to come. The governor-elect, C. M. Haskell, of Muskogee, received a majority of 27,000 votes. The state will cast approximately 250,000 votes, of which number from 10,000 to 15,000 are by negro voters. The majority for negro voters was about 20,000. Of the 13 Republicans in the constitutional convention six came from each side of the new state.

ulation is concerned any more than it is as far as its agricultural products are concerned. Northerners, southerners, easterners and westerners mingle harmoniously there, all growing prosperous together. Every state in the union is represented by at least 500 natives.

A substantial evidence of the intellectual worth of Oklahomans generally is the number of modern daily newspapers which they support. Furthermore, they have good schools, libraries and churches.

THE COURT HOUSE OKLAHOMA CITY

Color Line Drawn.
The supervision of instruction is vested in a board of education, of which the state superintendent of public instruction is president and the governor, secretary of state and attorney general are members ex-officio. A color line is drawn on negroes in Oklahoma, separate schools being provided for negro children, but with the same accommodations as the schools for white children. Education is compulsory.

Above Sea Level.
The mean height of land above sea level, according to the most scientific geographers, is 2,500 feet. The mean depth of the ocean is 12,480 feet.

FACTS ABOUT OKLAHOMA.
Oklahoma is larger in area than Indiana and Ohio combined. Oklahoma will be the twenty-third state in the union in point of population. Oklahoma has 5,500 miles of railroads, 700 banks and 50 daily newspapers. Oklahoma's metropolis, Oklahoma City, has forty miles of asphalt pavements.

ROOT-GRANT WEDDING IS A BRILLIANT AFFAIR

YOUNG SOLDIER WEDS DAUGHTER OF SECRETARY OF STATE
President, Vice President and Other Distinguished Guests Present—Union Is Purely a Love Match.

MRS. U. S. GRANT.

Washington.—In the presence of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, the Vice-President and Mrs. Fairbanks, the justices of the supreme court and their wives, several senators, representatives and other distinguished guests, Miss Edith Root on Wednesday became the wife of Ulysses Simpson Grant 3d, Lieutenant United States Engineer corps.

The wedding was generally recognized as the capital and official importance that has taken place during the Roosevelt administration, there being less interest in the marriage than in that which centered about the marriage of Miss Roosevelt to Mr. Longworth.

The bride is the only daughter of Secretary of State and Mrs. Elihu Root, while the groom, as everyone knows from his name, is the grandson of General Grant, his father being General Frederick Dent Grant of the army.

IN BEDTIME HOURS
SHORT DISCOURSE ON PROPER METHODS OF SLEEP.
Writer Declares the Human Race Does Not Know How Properly to Sleep—Nature's Sweet Restorer—Beware the Snorer.

Man is the only animal that sleeps on its back, says the New York Press. Many animals sleep on their sides, but most sleep prone—that is, face down. Dogs never dream when prone, but invariably do so when sleeping on their side. All of us from the country have seen Buns, the bound, chasing rabbits in his sleep. An animal would be perfectly helpless if it slept on its back. And so is man helpless in that position.

If some other fellow wants a fortune let him invent a pillow that will allow a man or woman or child to sleep face down without having to twist the neck nearly out of joint. We still style it the "back-up cure" and introduce it in all homes. There is no excuse for lying on the back and keeping the spine hot all night, while the front of the body—the abdomen, the stomach, the chest, the throat, etc.—is allowed to become chilled. A hot spine is a disease generator. And on the other hand, a cold spine is death.

Snoring is an infernal nuisance to every one except the snorer. People who sleep on their fronts never snore. Those who sleep on their backs invariably do. The palate as we know it is the roof of the mouth and the floor of the nose. Some style it the hard palate. Back near the throat is the soft palate. When you sleep on your back this gets down about the breathing apparatus and you snore.

Every man and woman in this country was brought up with the notion that if the feet were higher than the head in sleeping all the blood would rush to the head and cause strangulation. This is the veriest rot. Advanced physicians now advocate the elevated feet for the cure of insomnia. Hang your legs over the footboard, get rid of your pillow, and go to sleep like an infant. You are on your feet all day and half the night. Stand on your head the rest of the night and let the blood circulate the other way. Maybe your brain needs it.

The Prudent Piper.
Thomas F. Ryan, the noted financier, was talking about music in the smoke room of the Deutschland. "I like all music," he said, "except such native and special sorts as the tom-tom, the bagpipes, or the Indian hufaa give off."

Sympathy Leans to Legs.
"There is one appeal to charity that is pretty sure to be answered," said a philanthropist. "That is a request for an artificial leg. Legs, somehow, are warmly appreciated by the general public, and the fellow who has to scrape along without one is the object of sincere commiseration. During my 15 years' experience in philanthropic work I have issued appeals to the people at large on behalf of persons who wanted various parts of their anatomy replaced. Some wanted teeth, some an eye, others a hook like Captain Cuttle's. Physical deficiencies of that kind aroused but little interest, but just let a man advertise the fact that he was in need of a leg and enough money was quickly forthcoming to fit him out with three or four pairs of legs."

A Handy Grate.
A new grate has been invented by the prince of Wales and placed in the House of Commons. By a simple movement the housekeeper can transfer the fire in the kitchen grate to the sitting room grate. Having cooked the dinner, the housewife raises a slide at the back of the kitchen grate. The slide is of the kitchen grate. The slide is simply raising a lever the fire in the kitchen grate is tilted into the sitting room grate.

Hon. J. S. Gorman, of Chelsea, is his attorney.

Mrs. A. H. Schumacher, of south Main street, met with a severe accident Monday forenoon. She entered the wood house in the rear of the residence and in some manner ran into a frog spear, belonging to her son, and the time of the spear was run into her left eye. The handle of the spear was about eight feet in length and Mrs. Schumacher held on to it until aid came to her relief. It was found necessary to saw the handle off and place the injured lady under chloroform before the prong could be removed from the wound. The eye is badly injured but the physicians do not think the patient will lose the sight. Drs. Bush & Chase dressed the wound.

Don't think that piles can't be cured. Thousands of obstinate cases have been cured by Doan's Ointment. 50 cents at any drug store.

"Out of Sight, out of mind," is an old saying which applies with special force to a sore, burn or wound that's been treated with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's out of sight, out of mind and out of existence. Piles too and chilblains disappear under its healing influence. Guaranteed by Freeman & Cummings Co., Druggists, 25c.

INTERESTING FOR WOMEN

In The Gossy Glow Of The Cheery Reading Lamp.

FROM FASHIONDOM

What a Wealth of New Creations for Milady's Wardrobe.

The Bordeaux reds and a beautiful deep American beauty shade will be worn.

The coppery browns and the deep mahogany tones will be exceedingly modish.

The fabrics show indeterminate effects and beautiful minglings of soft, dull shades.

The regency wrap, ample and picturesque, and the somewhat modified empire shape prevail.

Sleeves of the tailor coats show a decided tendency to three-quarter length and more of the man's cut. One or two, however, are still above the elbow, and are decidedly smarter.

The natter shade is the blue so often found in old tapestries — the shade which resembles a bachelor-button blossom, but much softer.

Pink is much worn in all the delicate shades for evening. Sheer frocks of rose-petal pink mousseline de sole or chiffon, trimmed in lace and hand embroidery, are immensely modish.

Tiny brown button roses are a freak of the moment which has won the affections of the Frenchwoman and these are placed round the crowns of the hats in the midst of ruffles or brown net.

Redfern is responsible for a handsome evening frock in Wedgewood blue tussore silk. The material, though of exquisite quality, is very light in weight, almost sheer. The outline of the toilette describes a redingote effect, but the redingote is cut in one piece with the bretelle portion of the bodice. The silk is braided in the narrowest of Wedgewood blue soutache braid.

Short feather collars are disputing the palm of fashion with feather boas and stoles. Some of them are very dressy, indeed, made of short, flat ostrich feathers, similar in size and appearance to those usually associated with a large feather fan. These collars encircle the neck and shoulders and are finished off with ribbon ends in various colors, black velvet achieving the most popular effect. Neck ruffles of black and colored tulle and other dainty fabrics are also considered to give a last touch from fashion's fingers to gowns of the moment. Ruffles of white tulle are ornamented by numerous tiny silk knots in pale colors, dotted here and there amid the box plaits.

Often embroiderers are at a loss to know whether to use a single or double thread when working in silk silks. The advice received from sister workers is so varied that a few authoritative words on the subject may not come amiss.

The rules that govern the use of the single or double thread on any given material are formulated on the general principles that the finer and more delicate the figure or the material the finer should be the thread.

Thus, on a sheer handkerchief, linen or mull, or on a heavier fabric, use a single thread of silk throughout. Otherwise the work will look rough and coarse.

Sometimes, indeed, the thread is split for the shading in the centers to give a more delicate effect. This,

CAMEOS VERY FASHIONABLE

Notable among the new jewelry are the cameo effects. Those lovely white or tinted carved heads on pinkish backgrounds set in oval frames of gold are highly esteemed for fastening the lace collar or veil. Their quaintness perfectly fits the revival and fashions of other days betrayed in newest dressing.

Large single cameos form oval brooches of lace pins. Others of small size are set in rows of four or five to form bar pins. Pretty indeed are the stickpins with small cameo heads and the studs consisting of a pair of cameos.

The shawl wrap is, of course, deeply pointed in the back, while the loose and flowing sleeve is formed without cutting.

What is more pleasant than sitting or reading in the warm glow of a beautiful reading lamp during the cold evenings of winter time. Picture above you will find many of the latest and daintiest models of lamps, which will probably help you in a selection.

GIRLS SHOULD KNOW

That happiness is a matter of spirit, not "things."

That it is possible only when every member of the household is considered.

That to be in her own place, wherever that may be, a beautiful homemaker is the loftiest ambition any woman can have.

That it is better to be a beautiful homemaker than a fine housekeeper.

That the one indispensable quality in a home is happiness. Every home, no matter how beautiful, which misses that is a failure, but no home.

WORTH KNOWING.

Cream and acids do not curdle where milk and acids will.

If sponge cake is mixed with cold water it will be yellow, but if it is mixed with boiling water it will be white.

When broiling steak try brushing it over with butter and flour to keep the juice in.

When blowing out a candle hold it above you and blow. If this be done the wick will not smoulder.

Do not pile left-over cooked potatoes together, as they will sour quickly; spread them out on a large dish.

Let padesmentaria may be cleaned by rubbing it with a cloth dipped in equal parts of alcohol and water. Dry afterward with a clean cloth.

Think of Your Neighbors.

Heavy carpets may be beaten in city yards without annoyance to neighbors if placed face downwards on set of old bed-springs, which have been elevated about three feet from the ground. Put supports under each end of the springs and beat wrong side of carpet with bamboo or blunt carriage whip. This method of cleaning saves expense, as two boys easily can do the work, the dust falling to the ground, while the carpet will be absolutely clean.

Brown Paper Doctors Furniture.

Wet the bruised spot on furniture with warm water; soak a piece of brown paper of several thicknesses in warm water, and lay over the place. Then apply a warm flat iron until the moisture is gone. Repeat the process if needed, and the bruises will disappear.

Hygienic Cooking Pans.

If a bacteriologist should examine the seams of some dripping pans, or apparently clean bread pans, his report doubtless would cause their owners to discard them with a pair of tongs. A million or two of some kinds of bacteria are not deadly, but may affect slightly the health. Most cooks know that soap suds never should be put into a coffee pot. The same rule holds good for frying pans, bread and dripping pans. Ordinary soap does not act completely in the fat in the pans, especially in the seams, and a rancid, fatty accumulation or film coating results. This enters into food, afterwards cooked in the pans. If a little sal-soda or ammonia in a pint of water is put into the pan while over the fire thorough cleaning is accomplished.

competence. But he is not one of those whose thoughts will be treasured in the world long after he has left it. And quite often the so-called stupid child is one of the dreamers in whom are powers of the artist, poet or philosopher struggling for expression.

To Press Trousers.

After brushing the trousers thoroughly lay them to steam and dampen with a sponge or whisk broom dipped in water. Lay a paper over one leg at a time and press with a hot iron. When the paper is scorched take a fresh one. The result is a fine crease, with no lint and no ruined towels.

Cloth for Making Linings.

Pour kerosene on a flour sack and let them soak over night, the print will then come off and you will have cheap cloth for lining all kinds of garments, and they make nice undershirts, using one for the top of skirt and one for blouse.

Don't let your children be punished for stupidity. It would be as reasonable to punish them for being lame or blind. If a child be obstinate or lazy the matter is different. The worst effect of punishing a child for stupidity is that thereby it is robbed of self-respect. If possible it is best to educate him where he will be brought into daily companionship with smarter children.

Whatever other mistakes you may make, forbear impressing on him that he is a fool. This is the surest way of making him one. Children with splendid intellectual endowments sometimes are thought to be stupid. The sharp child who learns a lesson in the shortest possible time, who is first to answer in the mental arithmetic class, who can produce dates and geographical names on demand is the one the teacher likes, and most commonly he is the one in after life who goes on the safe road toward
