BURGLARS IN TOWN.

Penn & Vogel's Store Robbed Thursday Night—Cigars Taken.

Last Thursday night, before the new marshal had time to get his star cut out, someone broke into Penn & Vogel's store and got away with about $50 worth of cigars. Inasmuch as the entire community had been thoroughly filled up on this commodity as the result of the recent township election, the sleuths connected with the sheriff's office deduced that the job was the work of foreign talent, and after taking measurements concluded that escape of the perpetrators had been made in an automobile, but that the auto broke down, and that the principal malefactor, after waiting for daylight, went into Detroit on an electric car.

The only course left after the principal had been swallowed up in the underworld of a great city, was to run down the accessory in the busted bubble buggy.

Deputy Sheriff Leach on Friday afternoon ran down the suspected auto stored in the barn of M. Mohrlock, two miles west of this village, and the license number thereon being one advertised as belonging to an auto stolen from Kalamazoo.

He located the gentlemanly owner on an electric crossing just west of town, waiting to take a car. It developed upon examination that the gentleman's name was Wilson—not "Tug" Wilson—but "Wilson that's all" and that he lived in Battle Creek, but had been down to Detroit and purchased an auto, and not having a license the dealer had issued him one from a blacksmith shop, and in playing the numbers had hit on the same combination for his fake number that had been created by the state for the Kalamazoo machine.

The suspected auto remained in cold storage at the Mohrlock garage, while
Mr. Wilson made a pilgrimage to Lansing to get a sure enough license to make the breakfast food city on.

In the meantime the cigars are getting farther away, and the only clue is explored. This is the second time within six months that this store has been robbed in this manner.

A PLEASANT OCCASION.

The Bay View Reading Circle Entertained
the Ladies' Research Club.

The banquet given by the Bay View
Reading Circle to the Ladies' Research
Club and a few invited guests at Maccabee hall on Monday evening, the 13th, was another enjoyable occasion which brings the members closer in thought, feeling and appreciation of each other.
Everything contributed to the happiness of the evening in spite of its being held on the dreaded "13th." Even the weather, as if to compensate for the tempest it furnished last year for a similar affair, was on its best behavior and brought its moon and stars and a spring-like atmosphere that put mirth and buoyancy to all hearts. The Lady Macabees catered in a very acceptable manner, during the process of which Misses Rena Roedel and Dorothy Bacon played piano duets in a very pleasing and admirable way.

The program consisted of music and toasts and every "toast" did herself pride. The vocal trio was indeed "a concord of sweet sounds" and the ladies graciously responded to the hearty encore with a humorous selection. A very pleasing feature was the charmingly rendered vocal solo by Miss Clara Slemmons, her rich, full voice filling the hall with sweet melody. The evening closed with a visit to the B. V. C. Art Club and the appreciation of the pictures (?) evidenced the artistic abilities of the ladies.

The souvenirs were the work of Mrs.
Mary Depew, and attest to her efficiency in her chosen art. The program was as follows:

Toastmistress, Mrs. C. E. Stimson.
Piano Duet, Misses E. Congdon, J.
Everett. "Listen to the charming sounds."

Greeting, Mrs. W. Bacon. "Ye are welcome, yes, thrice welcome."

Response, Mrs. E. E. Gallup. "I am glad to take thee by thy hand."

Vocal Trio—"Hail, Sweet Morning,"
Misses Slemmons, Everett, Mrs. E.
Koenan. "Who is not moved by a concord of sweet sounds."

Our Sister Club, Mrs. M. L. Grant.
"Friendship is the sweetest flower that blooms."

How to Choose a Partner, Miss Elizabeth Depew. "The proper study of mankind is man."

Petticoats, Miss Nellie C. Hall.
"Frailty thy name is woman."

Vocal Solo—"Night-time," Miss Clara
Slemmons. "Our lives are songs."

Women and her Possibilities, Mrs. T.
Denman. "Arise, thy opportunity is at hand."

Piano Duet, Misses E. Congdon, J.
Everett. "Their fingers do move in unison."

ATTEMPTED TO KILL HIMSELF

DAVID R. HILDEBRANDT INHALED
FUMES FROM COAL STOVE.

WHILE TEMPORARILY INSANE

Removed Pipe From Coal Stove and Was Nearly Dead When He Was Discovered.

David R. Hildebrandt, while temporarily insane, attempted to commit suicide Monday night. Mrs. Hildebrandt was visiting relatives in Howell, and the neighbors noticed that Mr. Hildebrandt was not around as usual Tuesday, and after a time Deputy Sheriff Leach was notified. The officer failed to get any response to his call at the door and decided to use force. He entered through a window, and found the house filled with gas from the coal stove, and in an upper room found the unconscious form of Mr. Hildebrandt. Upon further investigation it was found that he had disconnected the pipe leading from the coal stove and had left it pouring out its deadly fumes.

Dr. J. T. Woods was called and succeeded in reviving the nearly dead man.
Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Hildebrandt began proceeding in the probate court to determine her husband's sanity.

ASK CHANGE OF VENUE.

Want Glazier Case Tried in Jackson County
Circuit Court.

The following dispatch to the daily papers was sent out from Lansing Monday:

Attorneys for ex-State Treasurer
Glazier have filed application for a change of venue for Mr. Glazier's trial on indictments returned by the Ingham grand jury, charging fraud in office and converting state money to his own use.
He asked that the case be taken to Jackson.

With the application is filed a statement of reasons for the application.
These charge that Governor Warner has prejudiced the minds of the public in this county against Glazier to an extent preventing a fair trial of the cases here; also that newspapers have circulated inaccurate and prejudiced statements tending to prejudice people against him and preventing him from securing a fair trial. The motion will be heard April 20.

Accidently Stabbed.

Sunday afternoon, while playing with some friends, Peter Young, the son of Frank Young, who lives about three miles west of this village, met with an accident that nearly resulted fatally.
The boy was using a knife, and in the play started to run and bumped into a post, driving the blade into his abdomen.
Dr. J. T. Woods was called and made the sufferer as easy as possible, while he was hurried to the hospital at Ann Arbor.
Here the wound was enlarged so that it could be dressed properly and the internal bleeding stopped. It is now thought that the injured lad will get along nicely,
unless something unforeseen occurs.

Farmers' Club Meeting.

The Western Washtenaw Union Farmers' Club will meet with Mr. and Mrs.
S. A. Mapes, Friday, April 17. The following program will be carried out:

The Tennessee supreme court has upheld the segregation which confines saloons to certain city territory.

"The horse must go." Sure, assents the Toledo Blade; quite often he must go out and haul the automobile out of the mud.

A 1400-horsepower plant operated by tidal energy is to be established on the south bank of the Elbe, near Cuxhaven.

If anybody but a naval expert had said that the naval man's ship at Santiago was bad it would have been flat treason.

Floods along both the Pawpaw and the Maumee rivers make it seem probable that the whole family will be involved before the troubles are over.

Some American girls, says the Chicago News, may feel that they just have to take counts and dukes. There are not enough star baseball players to go around.

An Englishman says American men make ideal husbands. But, says the Chicago Record-Herald, ideal husbands are not what American heroines are looking for.

The New York jury which decided upon its verdict by flipping a coin has succeeded in strengthening the popular impression that a jury verdict is generally more or less of a gamble.

A gentleman cannot live on less than $50,000 a year, is the complaint of a New York bankrupt. There are several thousand gentlemen here in Zanesville, says the Zanesville (O.) Signal, who live on less than that.

Inspectors from Ellis Island are to go over the country to locate alien criminals. It seems to the average person that it would have been an easier proposition to have kept them in the first instance from locating at all.

A baby hippopotamus valued at $5,000 was born a few days ago at the Central park zoo in New York city. Babies, it may be remarked, are not rated according to their beauty, but according to the exclusiveness of their station in society.

A St. Louis preacher is quoted as asserting that kisses are "unpardonable under any circumstances before marriage." Unpardonable or not there can be more variety in them before marriage than is consistent with discretion after that ceremony.

A lady of social fame hired an agent to keep her name and doings out of the newspapers. The immediate result was a column article about the engagement, with a double-column picture of the retiring social light. Question: Was the "repress" agent's salary raised or lowered?

A town containing 10,000 inhabitants has sprung up in Nevada during the past three months. A few mornings ago its daily newspapers got out an extra to announce the fact that two respectable women had arrived. We extend hearty congratulations—not to the two ladies but to the town.

New York city has $102,834,326 due for back taxes. This statement is vouchered by City Comptroller Metz. Of this amount $25,816,153 is in taxes assessed on real estate, $47,348,499 on personal property, $11,118,662 taxes on real estate owned by corporations, and $24,521,012 in special tax on franchises.

The United States government has granted a permit for the erection of a $1,000,000 power plant on the South Platte watershed, a short distance from Denver, Co., and has also given a right-of-way for the necessary transmission lines. The plant will permit the production of 20,000 electrical horsepower.

"He never said 'Go, boys,' but always 'Come, boys,'" was the splendid eulogy that Bishop Potter pronounced over the body of a New York fireman who lost his life on duty. But such heroism as his is not unusual in the fire department, for it is true, as the chief of the brave man says, that every fireman knows that he risks his life at every big fire, and he does his duty in spite of it.

Texas by legislative act recently ceded to the United States a large territory in the Panhandle for a national park. If congress should accept the gift, the country will have another Yellowstone. The tract is 10 miles long and contains part of the Palo Duro canyon, a wild and mysterious gorge which has not been fully explored. Near the canyon is a private herd of buffalo, which it is said will be given to the government if it takes the park.

Fresh air seem to be good for monkeys as well as for human beings. In the autumn of 1906 the Chicago health commission suggested to the keeper of the Lincoln park zoo that he put a pair of monkeys in the outdoor cage for the winter. The keeper thought it was a rash experiment, as monkeys seldom survive a single winter in Chicago, even with all the care that can be given to them; but he prepared the cage for them. The monkeys not only survived the outdoor air, but were in better health in the spring than those kept indoors.

WARD DISCHARGED BY JUDGE IN THE EDITH PRESLEY CASE.

A BRUTAL VERDICT GIVEN

Remarkable Verdict Given by a Detroit Jury Severely Scored by Presiding Judge.

Judge Connolly, in the Detroit Recorder's court, following the reading of an opinion, ended the case against Rep. Charles E. Ward, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Edith Presley, who was a senate proofreader. In April, 1907, Miss Presley came to Detroit, under the name of Marie Hall, and entered Hope sanitarium. An operation was performed there and she died a week later. Mr. Ward's name was brought into the case, the couple having been intimate friends at Lansing. Ward's letters to the girl figured prominently in the case. It has been the claim of the prosecution that the operation performed was criminal and that Ward procured it. The defense has maintained that the operation was for the purpose of saving her life and put the blame for the original operation on the dead girl herself.

The jury in the recorder's court at Detroit declared that Percy Bowin is "not guilty" of the murder of "Mother" Cornelia Welch, although the boy confessed the crime on five separate occasions to police officials, newspaper men and to Judge Phelan, before whom the case was tried. In dismissing the jury the judge said: "Mr. Clerk, you may enter the verdict as registered by this jury. It being their right to find such a verdict under the law; but I want to say that it is one of the vilest miscarriages of justice that was ever heard of in this community. I do not understand upon what ground you brought in such a verdict as this. It is contrary to the evidence in the case from the very commencement. I am surprised. You have simply opened the gate for this man to go back to the life that he led and the probabilities are that he may commit another such act. You men ought to be ashamed of yourselves and I have no hesitancy in telling you about it."

"It is the most brutal verdict I ever heard."

Thomas Hart and John Egger, aged about 15 years each, started from their homes in Jamestown to hunt on the Tittabawassee. They did not return. Their flat boat was found capsized, and it is feared the boys were drowned.

A petition signed by 275 was presented to the Port Huron chamber of commerce asking the appointment of a committee to ask employers to give work to residents in preference to Canadians. Statistics show 300 cross the river daily to work there.

There was a collision of two Pere Marquette freight trains at Port Huron Thursday morning. The engine of the second train crashed into the caboose of the first train, demolishing three cars. The train crews of four men each saved their selves by jumping.

Party Lines Tossed to the Winds.

Mayors were elected in many Michigan cities. In nearly every contest strict party lines were tossed to the winds and the fitness of the candidate for the office was the only consideration.

The biggest contest in the state was the triangular affair at Grand Rapids, where George E. Ellis, the present mayor, was opposed by Charles R. Sligh, Democrat, and Sybrant Westsell, who ran independently. In this fight, more than in any other in Michigan, party lines were observed.

The returns showed Ellis well in the lead, with Sligh second and Westsell trailing far behind. A hard fight was waged at Kalamazoo, where Frank H. Milham, Democrat, was elected over Charles Clamage. Milham was given a majority of 836, overcoming the normal Republican majority of 700.

Primary Reform Wins State.

Attorney General Bird has been asked to give an opinion on the adoption of the primary election plan in Van Buren county. It appears that while the proposition received a majority of the vote, it did not receive a majority of the enrolled vote in the county. It is said that the new primary law provides for a majority only of those voting is required to return to the convention system. Reports from the seven senatorial districts in which the primary question was voted on show decided majorities in favor of it. Returns from the county indicate that the proposition to return to the convention system of nominating candidates for county officers, submitted to the Republican voters was carried by a small majority.

First Twine Is Shown.

A large ball of binder twine from the Michigan state prison is on exhibition at the governor's office. The twine is the first manufactured in the new plant which has been installed and it is of good quality and appearance. The prison factory will turn out 1,000,000 pounds of twine this year. This, it is expected, will take care of half the wheat crop of the state.

Will Close 200 Saloons.

In the ten counties which voted for the suppression of the saloons, nearly 200,000 persons are affected. Liquor taxes amounting to more than $100,000 are cut off and about 200 saloons will be closed.

End State Fair Pass Abuse.

About 20,000 people who attended the late state fair on passes either will miss the big show this season or settle at the gate. When James Slocum took hold of the business end of the institution he gaped once or twice as the free list was unfolded to him. At the last fair the total number of free admissions was 39,456, and as tickets were half a dollar apiece this was a little short of $20,000. "We have no intention of being stingy," remarked Mr. Slocum, "but the pass business was abused last year."

Roads Will Need 5,000 Men.

As soon as the weather settles sufficiently for the railroads centering at Detroit, including the Detroit United, there will be work for about 5,000 men. The Detroit United at the height of the busy season has upon its pay rolls about 7,000 men, at least 3,000 of these are unskilled laborers used in the shops and on the tracks. The men who will find outdoor work about May 1 on this system will number about 3,000.

The Law Is Valid.

In deciding the case of John M. Longyear versus William Toolan and Alexander McMillan against Longyear, the supreme court of the United States upheld the Michigan law authorizing the sale of property to pa delinquent taxes. Toolan and McMillan laid claim to a certain tract of land in Clinton county under such a sale and were antagonized by Longyear, who contended the sale was contrary to the fourteenth amendment of the federal constitution in that it authorized the taking of property without due process.

STATE BRIEFS.

Newaygo has raised $10,000 as an inducement to get the county seat.

Henry B. Dewey, formerly of Owosso, has been appointed superintendent of public instruction in Washington state.

John W. Thompson, aged 63, and Sophia E. Schultz, aged 40, until a few days ago inmates of the poorhouse, were married in Port Huron. They paid the only money they had for a license and are now seeking work.

Michigan miners agreed to give the operators full control of all the underground working forces except the skilled miners, but it was stipulated that the miners shall take place during the year except by mutual agreement.

During an attack of alleged insanity George Baker, aged 50, a Melita farmer, struck his wife over the head and she may not recover. Neighbors heard the cries of his children and captured and disarmed him after a fight.

A movement has been started in Saginaw to cut out politics from the mayoralty—at least for two or four years, in order to make Wellington R. Burt, who has given many gifts to the city and who is a good business man, mayor by acclamation.

The appropriation for jurors sitting in the circuit court at Port Huron has run out. For that reason there will be no cases in the St. Clair circuit court until after the first of May, and even after that date they will be forced to take warrants for which cash cannot be provided until next fall, when the new appropriation will be available.

SYNOPSIS.

Burton H. Barnes, a wealthy American, is rescued by the young Englishman, Edward Gerard Anstruther, from the hands of the Corsican bandits, who had captured him on his way to the coast of Sicily. Anstruther, who is a member of the British secret service, is on his way to the coast of Sicily to investigate the activities of the Corsican bandits. He is captured by the bandits and taken to their headquarters. Barnes, who is a member of the American secret service, is also captured by the bandits and taken to their headquarters. The two men are held captive by the bandits and are forced to work for them. They are both rescued by Anstruther and escape to the coast of Sicily. They are then taken to the coast of Sicily and are held captive by the bandits. They are both rescued by Anstruther and escape to the coast of Sicily. They are then taken to the coast of Sicily and are held captive by the bandits. They are both rescued by Anstruther and escape to the coast of Sicily.

Then as Anstruther lights another match, a shriek rises to him: "The husband of Marina, Madre di Dio!" "Tomasso!" exclaims Edwin, adding, "In God's name, where is my wife?" "Diavolo, of course, you have come here to find her. At the fork of the Bastia road, I thought the 'Lucchese' captured my mistress and myself and forced us to drive toward the east. Coming over the mountains, their language told me they were not 'Lucchese,' but Corsicans. I would have told Marina, but when I got out to water the horses at the little fountain near Pietra, two of them struck me insensible and I awoke and found myself here. But, Signore, I beg you to note one thing. Your true wife and my honored mistress believes she was rescued from the 'Lucchese' by Cipriano Danella, and she is grateful to him. Get me to the light that I may add you." The old Corsican has faintly staggered up; a moment later he is pulled from the vault by the strong hands of Anstruther and the detective.

"This is old Tomasso Monaldi," says Edwin shortly, "who was supposed to be killed."

"Holy smoke, the fellow who was believed dead and they vendettaed Barnes about!"

"Yes."

But Tomasso's words make them feel they have little time to lose. Besides, Emory is always whispering with white lips: "This tower is mined!" Together they go, up the stairs, carefully examining every orifice in the building, but find them all loopholes too small to permit the exit of a man, and the masonry too solid to be broken through in any ordinary time, as the building is bare of tools and weapons.

"There is nothing but to get out of the upper chamber," says Edwin. "I'm a sailor. With half a chance, a single vine, with even the assistance of our clothes torn into lengths, I can scramble down. Some way I'll do it."

They have reached the upper room. Anstruther has thrown off his coat and vest, kicked off his shoes and taken off his stockings. Toes will cling to the rough stonework better than boots. He picks up the letter and the concluding sentences seem to make him crazy. He springs to the window and a muttered oath parts his white lips, for he encounters a grillage of heavy iron so securely fastened on the outside that it is impossible for him to make exit.

But even as Edwin struggles with the grating, he utters a low cry, half of longing, half of despair.

Upon the portico of the modern portion of the farmhouse, pleasant with vines and flowers, almost reclining in a hammock is Marina. Robed in white, the young wife looks like a dream of love to her despairing husband. Her face is flushed, if not happily, at least excitedly. To her, speaking—the distance is too great for Edwin to understand the words, but apparently from the gestures they are those of amity—is Count Cipriano Danella, his eyes sparkling vivaciously, his costume the romantic one of Corsica.

CHAPTER XVII.
Whiffs in the Air.

Some time after midday, Mr. Barnes, in pursuit of Anstruther, reaches Ponte-alla-Lecchia, where the people are now crowding about the polling house. He doesn't stop here and continues rapidly on, notwithstanding the sun is very hot, the dust is very heavy. As he climbs the high hills toward Morosaglia, he commences to find cyclamen flowers, quite faded now and having but little perfume.

CHAPTER XVI.—Continued.

"Oh, hang it, what have they done to you, smarty?" growls the detective angrily. Then he cries: "Glory hallelujah! Bully for you!" for Edwin has run down the ladder and is busy trying to unloosen the irons from the American's legs.

"They've got keys somewhere," snarls Emory. "Hang it, think of their cheek, manhandling a detective."

Edwin is up the ladder again. He strikes another match and on the ground story finds, after some little delay, a bunch of keys hanging on the wall.

After some trouble with the locks, which are rusty, Elijah's legs are released and he ascends with Edwin, his jaws almost snapping with rage as he tells his wrongs.

"I was playing the fisherman at St. Tropez," he says. "I had got onto them, all right. I knew the head devil, the elder man, Cipriano, when, like a fool, I went on board of that big, cursed fishing felucca to them, pretending to want to get a job, thinking I would find out what the devil they were driving at. That was the end of me. I hadn't more than got in the fore-castle than I was covered with two long knives, and that scar-faced fellow said to me: 'The first time you were warned to keep out of this affair. This is the second time.' They were savage enough to kill me, but they simply corded me up and threw me in the hold, and oh, what a time I had as their infernal vessel dashed about the Mediterranean after you. When they gave up chasing you they stopped here and put me away carefully in that hole down there."

Suddenly he cries: "What are you doing?" for Edwin has his hands in an iron ring and is trying to pull up another trap door in the flooring.

"I want tools by which we can break enough masonry from one of these embrasures to get out!" says the sailor.

But pulling up the trap door, both he and the American gaze astounded into the other vault.

Two red flaming eyes encounter theirs. "If you come to kill me, I'll die like a Corsican, my teeth in your throat!" cries a low, hoarse voice.

new vigor seem to enter each nerve, each limb.

It is now quite late in the afternoon. Burton soon passes the chestnut lands of La Castagniccia, still finding a few faded cyclamen blooms to guide him on his way. But now a little shock thrills him. He checks his horse abruptly, springs off and picks up a bunch of the wild flowers. As he rides along examining it he ejaculates: "This is very extraordinary. This branch, which I supposed Marina dropped out of the carriage yesterday, was certainly cut this very morning."

Suspicion flashes through him as he questions: "Can these flowers have been strewn in the road by Cipriano's agents to lead someone on?" and what had been no warning to the easy-going sailor becomes a danger signal to the man of the world.

Yet, twist it how he will, Barnes can see no reason why Danella should want anyone near him save Marina. If the Corsican's passion for the young lady is what he thinks it is, he will prefer a free hand to deal with her alone. "And yet it is evident somebody wanted somebody to follow this cyclamen trail, and whether somebody wants it or not, I am here anyway," thinks the American grimly. "And thanks to the divine Orezza water, I am rather fit for fighting." Then carefully examining his revolver, the pistol shot remarks: "And that's fit also, thank God."

With this, resolutely but more circumspectly, Mr. Barnes continues his way over the path marked by the cyclamen branches.

By the time he has come out on the hills looking down toward the Tuscan sea, it is very dark. There is no moon yet, but the light from the lone watch tower attracts him. The cyclamen flowers he occasionally picks up make him know this is the road Anstruther must have traveled.

Suddenly, but quietly, he turns his horse from the path, and in the seclusion of a thicket of wild grapes, lilies. Some dozen men are coming from the east; he hears one of them growl: "Why, there's no 'Lucchese' nearer than Pietra to fight, though the count ordered every man about the farm to go out and protect the vines from them."

"Well, there's some good reason for Maestro Cipriano's orders. Perchance the Italian laborers in the Green Orezza quarry have risen up," adds another.

"Perhaps with the lady he wishes not to be disturbed," giggles a third. "The count has musicians in a boat off the shore."

The men have no sooner passed than Barnes starts quickly down the road. The "lady," he guesses, means either Marina or his own bride, though of the last he has slight hope. A subdued light from the town guides him in the darkness.

But when he is within less than a hundred yards of the building, his horse, with a sudden snort of terror, draws up right in the path, crouching on his haunches, and Barnes peering over his steed's head, gazes into the deep chasm that descends sheer to the very sea. Springing from his trembling horse, the American finds that the bridge, which is a light, swinging one not over 35 feet in length, has been swung to the other side.

The scent of a fresh cyclamen bloom enters his nostrils. He looks at the removed bridge and remarks acutely: "It's evident Cipriano has got on the other side the person he wished to follow these flowers."

So Barnes gazes across the chasm he cannot pass. The night being very still, he hears over the soft murmur of the waves beneath him the sweet romantic music of Corsica rising from a boat. "Tis the playing of stringed instruments accompanying a sweet native love song, each stanza ending in that curious prolonged note peculiar to these island ditties."

"What the deuce is that bizarre, crafty devil's game?" wonders the American. Then he hears voices from the low Corsican house. Beyond the crevices he sees Marina in white robe amid the lights and flowers of the veranda. Her sweet tones are scarce audible. Then Danella's voice reaches him faintly in the soft night air.

He begins to understand and mutters: "Good God!"

After a little cry of love yet despair rends the heavens from the tower. It is Anstruther's. "Tis mingled with a woman's shriek for mercy. 'My husband!' in Marina's voice."

Next Barnes hears Cipriano's suave, triumphant laugh, and he mutters: "My God, for a pistol it's a fearfully long shot, but it's the only way!"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

This Glorious Orezza Water Will Make You a New Man.

"By Jove," he remarks, "I gave Edwin the right path. I should have turned back and followed him last night, not to-day."

This makes him hurry all the more, and his horse is quite exhausted when he descends the hill past the convent and pauses at the little inn near the famous water of Orezza.

The American has heard of their curious powers, and asks for some, as he gazes languidly on the communal of the little village, around which the men are still clustering.

The heat has been tremendous; his speed has been quite great; the hills have been precipitous. Barnes' face is again covered with lines of fatigue.

"This glorious Orezza water will make you a new man," chatters the landlady pleasantly; and never had the wondrous youth-giving chalybeate a better patient to work upon, for as the effervescent fluid, cold from the springs of the mountain, flies down the American's throat, new power,

Where Mark Twain Had Gone.

When Mark Twain was working hard on one of his earlier books that brought him fame he sailed for Europe with his family. He kept up his writing on shipboard, leaving it only for brief recreations. One day an approaching storm drove him to the cabin, and as he retired to work he left word with his daughter, then a very little girl, to explain his absence.

"If they ask for me," he said to her, "say that I won't be long; I have only gone to write an anecdote." A little later a passenger accosted the child: "Where has your father gone?" "He won't be gone long," lisped the child; "he's only going to ride a nanny-goat."

The Glow of Glory.

We are all influenced by a desire of praise, and the best men are the most especially attracted by glory. Those very philosophers, even in the books which they write about despising glory, put their own names on the title-page. In the very act of recording their content for renown and notoriety, they desire to have their own names known and talked of.—Cicero.

HEALTH EXERCISES

Home exercise is within the financial reach of all, and if only a few minutes each day are devoted to it, not only health, but a symmetrical form will be the result.

In the exercises given there is no special preparation to be made, except to remove all tight-fitting clothing; it would be practical if a skirt is worn to have it short.

The exercise should be indulged in after one has disrobed preparatory to retiring. If there is a tendency toward insomnia one will find the movements conducive to sound and refreshing sleep.

The position for beginning the first exercise pictured is, one leg kneeling, while the other leg is extended forward, with the foot resting flat upon the floor, the trunk to occupy the erect position, and the arms stretched upward.

Begin the action by bending the trunk slowly backward, carry the arms, which must be kept parallel with the head and trunk, as far backward as possible.

Hold this backward position a few seconds and then slowly resume the commencing one.

This action may be repeated four or six times, then reverse the position of the legs and repeat the above action.

The effect of this action is far-reaching, for the lower portion of the abdomen and the whole interior surface of the body are affected and the parts acted on are strengthened.

If you should desire a more vigorous exercise, weights held in the uplifted hands will give it.

The second action is one which should be faithfully practiced by every woman who has a tendency to stoutness about the waist. While this movement calls into powerful action all the muscles of the sides, it strengthens the chest and abdomen, and as a waist reducer there never was a better one.

The position is a standing one with one leg in advance of the other, in walking position; one arm is in "stretch" over head while the hand of the other arm rests at the side.

In the above position begin action by slowly twisting the trunk toward the right side as illustrated. After having twisted the trunk well around, bend sideways at right angles with the trunk—as far as possible, then slowly assume an upright and front position. Repeat this action four or five times to begin with, increasing it in later exercises.

After having exercised as above described, reverse position of arms and legs and repeat exercise.

If one is exceedingly stout or stiff, more energy may be given by placing the hand on the hip of the advanced leg—thus more force is given to the bending with the hand resting on the hip.

EXCELLENT FOR TIRED NERVES.

Vigorous Rubbing of Body After Bath Recommended.

There is no greater sedative to the nerves than to indulge in vigorous rubbing of the body daily.

Of course, it is luxurious to afford a masseuse, but it is almost as beneficial if one will rub oneself, either with the hand, with a Turkish towel, or with long strips of flannel.

The best time to do the rubbing is directly after the bath. Any part of the body that cannot be reached by the hand should be rubbed vigorously by the towel or flannel held at arm's length very taut.

Besides being good to get the skin in a glow and to improve the circulation, this is excellent exercise for all the muscles and if taken at night induces sleep.

One woman whose nerves had gone back on her badly cured herself in a short time by taking each night a warm bath, followed by a cold rinse and vigorous rubbing of herself with a rubber flesh brush and a crash towel. She followed her exercising with a glass of hot milk.

BORROWED FROM THE PAST.

Turban Effects Popular in Paris.

Turban effects are well considered in Paris. This was launched in mid-winter by a Russian grand duchess, but as the Russian turban looks best in fur, the Spanish turban is being launched as the spring favorite. This is of large size for a turban, and is lifted by a bandeau slightly at the left side. The turban will undoubtedly be accepted in this country this spring, but not to the extent the postillion and allied shapes will be.

A Tucked Sleeve.

One gets rather weary of the everlasting sleeve formed of big, careless tucks caught up one over the other from elbow to shoulder; but a newer idea is seen in the tucked sleeve that is treated perpendicularly, not horizontally—and the tucks are just as big and careless and loose, and taper off right up into the neckband, the rest of the blouse—the bodice part of it—overhanging a corselet skirt or one of the prevailing cummerbund belts.

Inexpensive Band.

A new hat for a child of ten is shown simply trimmed with a deep band of wide ribbon on which are appliqued several large roses cut from cretonne and fastened on with an outline of gold thread.

This is a very simple idea and one easily carried out, and if it can be worn by the children there is no reason why walking hats for women should not be adorned in the same way.

Embroidered Flouncies.

Robes and box-suits in cottons, batistes, linens and other such fabrics promise that skirts belonging to them are to have one embroidered bottom flounce, with a series of narrow edge embroidered ruffles, clustered in rows above, as a heading, while bodice and half-sleeves show the same ruffles or trimming.—Vogue.

NO ONE CAN ALWAYS AVOID

Catching Cold on the Street Car

Many people persist in riding on the street cars, insufficiently protected by clothing. They start out perhaps in the heat of the day and do not feel the need of wraps.

The rapid moving of the car cools the body unduly. When they board the car perhaps they are slightly perspiring. When the body is in this condition it is easily chilled. This is especially true when a person is sitting.

Beginning a street car ride in the middle of the day and ending it in the evening almost invariably requires extra wraps, but people do not observe these precautions, hence they catch cold.

Colds are very frequent in the Spring on this account, and as the Summer advances, they do not decrease. During the Spring months, no one should think of riding on the car without being provided with a wrap.

A cold caught in the Spring is liable to last through the entire Summer. Great caution should be observed at this season against exposure to cold. During the first few pleasant days of Spring, the liability of catching cold is great.

No wonder so many people acquire muscular rheumatism and catarrhal diseases during this season.

However, in spite of the greatest precautions, colds will be caught. At the appearance of the first symptom, Peruna should be taken according to directions on the bottle, and continued until every symptom disappears.

Do not put it off. Do not waste time by taking other remedies. Begin at once to take Peruna and continue taking it until you are positive that the cold has entirely disappeared. This may save you a long and perhaps serious illness later on.

Bad Effects From Cold.

Mr. M. J. Deutsch, Secretary Building Material Trades Council, 151 Washington St., Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I have found your medicine to be unusually efficacious in getting rid of bad effects from cold, and more especially in driving away all symptoms of catarrh, with which I am frequently troubled."

"The relief Peruna gives in catarrhal troubles alone is well worth the price per bottle. I have used the remedy for several years now."

Spells of Coughing.

Mrs. C. E. Long, writes from Atwood, Colorado, as follows:

"When I wrote you for advice my little three-year-old girl had a cough that had been troubling her for four months. She took cold easily, and would wheeze and have spells of coughing that would sometimes last for a half hour."

"Now we can never thank you enough for the change you have made in our little one's health. Before she began taking your Peruna she suffered everything in the way of cough, colds and croup, but now she has taken not quite a bottle of Peruna, and is well and strong as she has ever been in her life."

Peruna for Colds.

Mr. James Morrison, 68 East 10th St., Paterson, N. J., writes:

"I have given Peruna a fair trial, and I find it to be just what you claim it to be. I cannot praise it too highly. I have used two bottles in my family for colds, and everything imaginable. I can safely say that your medicine is the best I have ever used."

MADE HIS MEANING CLEAR.

Professor's Son Translated Father's Speech Into the Vernacular.

A college professor, in company with his son, was enjoying a walk in the country, when he met an old farmer. It had been a very wet season, and the professor, thinking to start the conversation in a way that would prove interesting to the farmer, remarked:

"There has been a rather abnormal precipitation of late."

The farmer seemed somewhat embarrassed, and the professor's son, who used a different vernacular, though he was a student in the college to which his father was attached, attempted to straighten out the matter. Drawing the farmer to one side, he said in a superior way:

"The governor means that we've been having a devil of a lot of rain."

GIRL WAS DELIRIOUS

With Fearful Eczema—Pain, Heat, and Itching Were Excruciating—Cuticura Acted Like Magic.

"An eruption broke out on my daughter's chest. I took her to a doctor, and he pronounced it to be eczema of a very bad form. He treated her, but the disease spread to her back, and then the whole of her head was affected, and all her hair had to be cut off. The pain she suffered was excruciating, and with that and the heat and tingling her life was almost unbearable. Occasionally she was delirious and she did not have a proper hour's sleep for many nights. The second doctor we tried afforded her just as little relief as the first. Then I purchased Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills, and before the Ointment was three-quarters finished every trace of the disease was gone. It really seemed like magic. Mrs. T. W. Hyde, Brentwood, Essex, England, Mar. 8, 1907."

No Visible Signals.

"Yessum," said Sandy Pikes, as he devoured the wedge of pumpkin pie. "I sternly object to the nefarious practice of clipping off de tails of dogs."

"Ah, I am glad you are so tender-hearted, my poor man," sympathized the good housewife.

"Well, it ain't exactly dat, mum, but when a dog hasn't any tail I can't tell by de wags if he is in a good humor or not and it makes me skeery about approaching de house."

Too Polite to Interrupt.

Police Justice—You saw that cock-fight? Why didn't you stop it and arrest the men?

Police Officer—I did, Y'r Anner—after th' fight was over.—Chicago Tribune.

GEN. B. M. CUTCHEON DEAD.

Prominent Civil War Veteran and Politician Dies After Long Illness.

Gen. Byron M. Cutcheon, former congressman from Michigan and well-known attorney in Grand Rapids, Manistee and Ypsilanti, died in Ypsilanti at noon Sunday. Death came after a lingering illness. He was 71 years old. He is survived by a widow and four sons, Frank M. Cutcheon, an attorney of New York city; Charles, of Washington; Fred R. and Max H., of Wisconsin.

Gen. Cutcheon was born May 11, 1836, at Pembroke, N. H. He graduated from the Pembroke academy, from the Ypsilanti high school and later from the University of Michigan.

When the civil war broke out he recruited Co. B, Twentieth Michigan Infantry, at Ypsilanti, and was commissioned a captain. He fought in over 30 battles and was commissioned successively major, lieutenant-colonel and brevet colonel. He became colonel of the Twenty-seventh Michigan Volunteers and was breveted brigadier-general for gallantry at the Battle of the Wilderness. After the war he received a congressional medal.

Gen. Cutcheon has been prominent in state and national politics for 40 years. He was four times member of congress and held various offices under President Harrison. He was a resident of Manistee for many years, and in 1900 went to Grand Rapids, where he resided until two years ago, when he retired from his profession and came to Ypsilanti.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment was made in Highland cemetery, Ypsilanti.

HUGGED HER MOTHER.

Little Detroit Girl Says That Chelsea Man Was Too Friendly.

Detroit Times: A sweet-faced girl of 13 years took the stand in Judge Mandell's court Monday morning, and testified to a shocking condition of affairs which she says she has witnessed in the boarding house kept by her mother at No. 125 Harper ave. The girl was Hazel Jewell, who is asking the court to take her from her mother and place her in the care of her mother's sister, Mrs. M. Jewell, a real estate dealer living at No. 263 Englewood ave. Her story was told with all the refreshing innocence of childhood, and the fact that her mother was sitting there had no apparent effect on the child.

Hazel testified that several months ago her mother flirted with a man named Jackson in a hotel in Chelsea. Jackson later came to Detroit and took up his residence in the Jewell boarding house. The little girl testified that she had frequently seen her mother sitting on Jackson's lap, and the two were hugging and kissing. She said that Jackson often brought beer into house, and sometimes urged her to drink. Once he did coax her 7-year-old sister to drink. Other portions of her testimony indicated Jackson and the witness' mother were too friendly. Hazel also told of being compelled to wash dishes for the boarders, many times working until 10 o'clock at night.

The father is making an effort to get possession of his daughters, and Hazel claimed to be anxious to get away from her mother. The Jewells were divorced three years ago, and the two daughters were awarded to the mother. The father was given the son.

Mrs. Jewell and her partner in the boarding house, Mrs. Kent, sneered while the girl was giving her testimony, and consulted frequently.

MORE THAN 5,000.

The University of Michigan Shows Large Gain For Year 1907.

Ann Arbor Times: The total enrollment of the University for 1906-7 was 4,746, showing a clear gain for the year 1907-8 of 267. The catalogue when printed will show a total enrollment of 5,019, but additions made after the form was printed brings the total to the number stated. The division of students in the various departments is as follows:

Literature, Science and the Arts, 1,735

Engineering, 1,332

Medicine and Surgery, 300

Law, 791

Pharmacy, 101

Homeopathic College, 82

Dental Surgery, 168

Total, 5,750

Deduct those twice enrolled, 740

Since enrolled, 5,010

Grand total, 5,013

An interesting feature is the attendance by states which is fully set forth in the University Calendar, which will be out in a few days. The summary as given shows naturally that Michigan leads with a total of 3,729, Ohio next with 419, New York with 312, Illinois with 329, Indiana 210, Pennsylvania 178.

Every state in the Union save Delaware is represented and the territories save Alaska. Our new possessions, the Philippines Islands, have 5 students here, the Hawaiian Islands 4 and Cuba 1. Of foreign countries, Ontario naturally leads, with 19, Mexico has 8, Japan 6, China 6, the Netherlands 4, Germany 3, Turkey 3, Russia 3, while a dozen or fifteen countries or possessions have one or two each.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

(UNOFFICIAL.)

The common council held a special meeting Monday evening. They held it till 12 o'clock.

Of Interest to Wool Growers.

There has been such an increase in the use of sisal or binder twine by the farmers in tying their wools that something must be done to stop it. The loose fiber from the twine clings to the wool through all the processes of manufacture and causes imperfect goods with loss in consequence. It is not sufficient to remove the binder twine, the damage has been done.

Another abuse is the excessive use of twine. Two moderate sized strings each way are enough for any fleece. In some sections farmers have lately been using a very heavy coarse twine which is practically rope and have been trying to make money by the amount put on the fleece. Wool from Australia and South America when tied at all, is bound with one strand of small twine each way. Our domestic fleeces done up with yards of rope or binder twine suffer in competition. So serious is this matter that all manufacturers complain of it and several refuse to use domestic fleeces.

It has set the whole world a-thinking upon it all doctors, as one, agree; The tonic all your friends are taking is Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea Freeman & Cummings Co.

Free from Alcohol

Since May, 1906, Ayer's Sarsaparilla has been entirely free from alcohol. If you are in poor health, weak, pale, nervous, ask your doctor about taking this non-alcoholic tonic and alternative. If he has a better medicine, take his. Get the best always. This is our advice.

We publish our formulae. We banish alcohol from our medicines. We urge you to consult your doctor.

A sluggish liver means a coated tongue, a bad breath, and constipated bowels. The question is "What is the best thing to do under such circumstances?" Ask your doctor if this is not a good answer: "Take laxative doses of Ayer's Pills."

The solemn way of the cross will be performed in the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart on Good Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The annual offering for the Holy Land will be taken up then.

The annual eighth grade examinations for pupils of the district schools will be held Thursday and Friday, May 7 and 8, at Ann Arbor, Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester, Milan, Whitmore Lake and Saline.

The banns of marriage were published last Sunday in the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart between William Otto and Miss Mary McKune, both of Lyndon. The wedding will take place after Easter.

The Ladies' Guild of the Congregational church is gathering old newspapers and magazines for shipment. If you have any you would like to dispose of, phone to Mrs. F. H. Sweetland and they will be called for.

The last number of the lecture course will be given at the M. E. church Tuesday evening, April 21. V. P. Randall, late of the U. S. navy, will give an illustrated lecture on "The American Navy." Single admissions will be 25 cents, children, 15 cents.

Mrs. Elizabeth Riddle, who has been a member of the Old Peoples' Home for some time, has been adjudged insane, and on Friday was taken to the asylum at Pontiac. She was accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Leach and Mrs. Seth Reed of the Home.

The old locomotive that hauled the work train during the construction of the Boland road, which has stood on the track in the east part of the village for several years, has been sold for junk, and workmen have been engaged in dismantling the old timer.

"His Honor the Mayor" has been billed for the New Whitney theater Friday evening, May 8. This will be the biggest attraction of the season. There will be 75 people in the cast. The company goes directly from here to Chicago for the summer.

Popular prices are to be charged for the musical comedy, "Yankee Doodle Boy," the attraction at the New Whitney theater Saturday, matinee and night. There will be no reserved seats in the afternoon and the general admission will be 10 and 25 cents. The night prices are 25, 35 and 50 cents.

Frank P. Glazier will have at once to turn over to the Security Trust company, trustee in bankruptcy, the assets in his hands, and either prove to the satisfaction of Detroit physicians that he is no fit condition to give his testimony, or appear in the United States circuit court at Detroit on April 30 to fight his case. Such was the decision of Judge Knapp Tuesday.

Mrs. Geo. V. Clark died at the home of son, Fred, on south Main street, Friday morning, April 10. Mrs. Clark was born April 10, 1834, at New Bedford, Mass. She was married to Geo. V. Clark in 1870, and was a resident of this village for more than forty years. Four children survive her. The funeral services were held from her late home Monday afternoon, and were conducted by Rev. M. L. Grant. Interment at Oak Grove cemetery.

W. W. Wedemeyer, receiver of the Chelsea Savings Bank, expects within the next two weeks to declare the first dividend, and that the same will be in the neighborhood of thirty per cent. It may be however that the savings depositors and commercial depositors will not come in for an equal per cent when the assets of the bank are divided. This is considered a rapid accumulation of the quick assets by the receiver, and is a good showing, as some of the more pessimistic of the depositors talked less than thirty per cent being realized on their entire claims.

Don Roedel, son of Mrs. Alice Roedel, is ill with typhoid fever.

The bean house of the J. P. Wood Bean Co. will open again Monday for a short time.

Geo. H. Foster & Son are putting down a drive well for Wm. H. Eschelbach, of Freedom.

The Young Men's Social Club is making arrangements for a banquet and dance next Monday evening.

Philip Schweinfurth and family have moved into Wm. Fahrner's residence, corner South and Grant streets.

Tommie Wilkinson has opened a tailor shop in the rooms over John Farrell's grocery. He is prepared to do cleaning, pressing and repairing on short notice. He also makes a specialty of ladies' work.

Edward L. Stauch of 751 Brooks street, a barber employed at Petrie's shop on William street, secured a license today to marry Miss Irene Clow of Ypsilanti. —Ann Arbor Times. Mr. Stauch was employed in the shop of Wm. Schatz at this place, for some time.

James Speer was a delegate from Chelsea Tent to the county convention of the Macabees at Ypsilanti Tuesday, and was elected one of the delegates to the Great Camp to be held at Toledo, June 9th. R. D. Walker of this place was elected an alternate delegate.

The county convention of the L. O. T. M. M. was held Tuesday in Ann Arbor. Mrs. Lila M. Campbell was elected county lieutenant commander, Mrs. Ada R. Speer delegate, and Mrs. Alice Stiegelmaier alternate to the biennial review to be held at Toledo in June.

The following concerning a former Chelsea boy was taken from the April issue of the Pacific Telephone Monthly: "B. A. Hagb, the engineering department arrived in Spokane on February 2nd, having been appointed regular inspecting engineer for the Inland Division, with headquarters at Spokane."

About 1,200 copies of the proposed state constitution have been delivered from the postoffice here this week. Every family getting mail here both in the village and on the rural routes received a copy. If anyone was missed a copy will be sent them upon notifying the postmaster.

W. J. Dancer, of Stockbridge, receiver for the private bank of Frank P. Glazier and G. H. Gay, has made application in circuit court of Ingham county for permission to dispose of the saleable bonds and other property of the bank. He has offers for the real estate of the banking concern and hopes soon to pay a dividend.

In the year 1907 the Michigan Central railroad carried 502,453 more passengers than in 1906. There was a computed minute loss in fractional mills per passenger carried, and in earnings per passenger mile, but the total passenger train earnings per mile, including mail and express, increased $540.94, from $4,286.11 in 1906 to $4,827.05.

Mrs. Lyman Peck of Chelsea and sons, Emory and Will of Ann Arbor were in town the last of last week and sold their house and lots here to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson. The Peck boys were employed in the Chelsea works at Chelsea until that institution closed down last winter and then they were immediately offered old positions at the hospitals at Ann Arbor with increased salary and of course they accepted.—Pinckney Dispatch.

The prison board of control held a meeting at the prison Wednesday, when routine business was transacted. Gov. Warner was present, and saw the binder twine plant in operation for the first time. "Not only is the plant running all right," said the governor, "but the orders already received insure the success of the 1908 season of this new industry. The orders already received will take all the output of the plant until July one, and no more orders will be accepted for August delivery for corn harvest. Over 10,000 farmers many of whom are not members of the Gleaners, have sent orders for twine, and there is every reason to believe that all the twine that can be manufactured by corn cutting time will be disposed of."—Jackson Patriot.

A prolific source of annoyance and frequent delays is the habit of imperfect or carelessly written abbreviations. The best plan is to always write the names of states in full, as almost any abbreviation is liable to be mistaken for some other as Cal. for Col.; La. for Pa.; Va. for Me.; Mo. for Md.; Ind. for Nev.; N. H. for N. Y.; N. J. for N. C.; D. C. for Miss.; Mass.; Penn.; Tenn.; and so on through the list. Never abbreviate names of postoffices, like Chic. for Ill. Cin. for Phila., Pa., and the like. A great many people do this, presumably to save time and then spend as much time in saving in finding fault with the mail service, and in wondering why one letter out of thirty-one thousand is temporarily mislaid.

Holy Week in Rome

Wonderful Easter Services Held in Old St. Peter's

By Dora Greenwell McChesney

Inexhaustible in its mystic significance, the Holy Week in Rome, however familiar to the memory or imagination, stirs always a renewed wonder in those who witness it.

Above all else Rome is a city of memories. The walls and arches of imperial days, the Renaissance palaces, and the churches which mark every step in the long march from primitive Christianity to papal supremacy—these stamp themselves on the mind. The incongruous modern elements are as transitory in their impression as is the whirling dust from a motor car blown past the tombs on the Appian Way.

The walls of Aurelian, the statue of Marcus Aurelius, benignant on the capitol, the august disarray of the Forum—these are actual and imperishable. So, too, is the spacious splendor of St. Peter's, with its solemn sequence of ritual, in which, as the Holy Week advances, so mystic and superb a drama of divinity is enacted.

There are many moods in which to approach the great Easter services in the great papal city, from that of the devote to whom the ever-burning lamps round the apostle's tomb mark a spot only less sacred than that of the holy sepulcher itself, to that of the casual sight-seer, who flutters his Baedeker unabashed through the awful mystery of the mass. Perhaps those do not see least of the significance who look on the magnificent ceremonies with a haunting consciousness of Rome's twofold greatness, and who never quite lose sight of the city of the Caesars in the city of the saints.

It is impossible even to approach St. Peter's, where most of us choose to see the services, in spite of the rival claims of the Lateran, mother of churches—it is impossible to reach the curving colonnades and mighty front without passing by memorials of an earlier, hostile life and creed. Perhaps in driving thither the wanderer may catch a glimpse of the immortal pair, the Great Twin Brethren, who guard in stone the stairs to the capitol. Or, it may be, the shattered, majestic columns of the temple of Mars Ultor have lifted for a moment their stern memorial of Caesar's death and Augustus' vengeance.

Once within St. Peter's, however, conflicting memories fall away, lost, as is all sense of minor faults in the building itself, in the impression of vastness, of an all-enfolding and all-reconciling hospitality. That hospitality is taxed by the crowds which gather for the services of Holy Week. Palm Sunday initiates the series of elaborate ceremonies with its beautiful rite of blessing the palms. A motley throng it is which streams up the wide steps and gathers about the altar above which glows in a golden halo the holy dove. There are the foreign sight-seers, of course made evident by their camp-stools and red guide-books, but there are also soldiers in picturesque variety of uniform, priests wearing their black draperies in the classic folds which recall the toga, shepherds from the Campagna, bearded and wild-eyed in their sheepskins, pilgrims from far countries with the fixed visionary gaze of those who look on their sacred places after long desire.

Sacred indeed is the spot to those who hold the faith of Rome. In front of the high altar with its baldachino—the twisted bronze columns towering up superbly, yet dwarfed by the firmament of the dome above—burn the golden, never-dying lamps which mark the resting place, so tradition says, of the apostle.

But on Palm Sunday the attention is fixed on the altar in the Cappella Giulia, and the pressure of the eager people increases cruelly as the baskets of palms are set down by the altar stairs and the canons slowly move to their places. The priests are in violet, the Lenten color. The deep hue brightened by wonderful interweaving of gold and silver, and the crucifix on the altar is also violet-veiled. There is no organ music, and the deep notes of the chanting swell with a strange solemnity through the echoing vaults.

At last the solemn final word and gesture of blessing have been given, and one by one the priests lift and bear away the palm branches. Then the olive, which is given in their stead to the people, is brought forward in great sheaves, and a priest in gold-embroidered violet robe holds out the silvery branches to the hands which reach and clutch for them, till all the nearest of the throng have received their portion and pass on twigs to those behind. Peace and blessing is that olive to bring to those who reverently receive the gleaming leaves.

The distribution completed, the cardinal and canons with their attendant train move in stately procession down the church, out into the portico, and so back to the altar. They bear aloft, with the tall taper and the shrouded crucifix, the golden palm branches; not simple boughs such as were cast before Christ by the people of Jerusalem. These are fantastically dipped and twisted till they look more like furled standards, a significant touch in that church which is so ready to turn the martyr symbol into the conquering banner.

THE CHRIST

By Charles Eugene Banks

Upon a circle of the sands
Chat from the round, desiring sea,
I sit alone with folded hands
Chinking on Him of Galilee.

How like a perfect lily grows
His love in this o'er-selfish world;
Its glory no distinction knows
But is for all alike untold.

Yon trustful gull that rocking sleeps
Upon the heaving ocean's breast,
As closely in his heart he keeps
As we who have His name confessed.

The tiger in the jungle weaves
A perfect rosette on his coat,
And clear among the budding leaves
The wild bird spheres his liquid note.

The curving mountain ranges grace
The arching azure's magic rim;
And in the dewdrop's form I trace
The same perfection born of Him.

Enwrapped within its seed the rose
Awaits the word unquestioning
Till everywhere the buds unclose
In resurrection of the spring.

In Him is all the joy we know,
The way, the life, the final goal,
The fount of Love whose onward flow
Is never-ending birth of soul.

SPRING KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Vividly Described by One Who Has Suffered from It.

Mrs. H. Mitzbaugh, of Duncannon, Pa., says: "I was sick and miserable all last Spring and as I did not know what was the matter I kept going down and down until I had a smothering spell, flashes of heat over the kidneys and pain in passing the kidney secretions, which contained sediment. My husband urged me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and at last I did so. They did me much good, and I used in all eight boxes which restored me to perfect health."

Suit the action to the word and the word to the action.—Shakespeare.

Somewhat Indefinite Promise.

Having been fined for neglect of duty, a postal subordinate in India addressed his chief in the following terms: "Your honor may be right, I may be wrong; I may be right and honor wrong, let honor give me back the fine, and then at day of resurrection, when all hearts will be open, if I am wrong, I will most gladly, sir, return your honor the money."

Be Your Own Roofer!

Write Today for Heppes Roofers' Book FREE

Ask for a free copy of Heppes Roofers' Book, worth dollars to any property owner or builder. This book is a practical handbook that teaches you how to lay a Heppes No-Tar Roof on any kind of a building—barn, shed, granary, residence, store, dairy barn, silo, poultry house, ice house, crib or outbuilding.

It tells How to Measure a Roof; How to Make "Valleys" and "Gutters"; How to Lay Heppes No-Tar Roofing Around Chimneys ("Chimney Flashing"), or over old Shingle Roofs, or up against the side of a building with a fire-wall ("Wall Flashing"), or how to apply No-Tar to the sides or interior of buildings, and a great many other practical points. The roofing knowledge you get out of this book is valuable—you can get it anywhere else. Best of all, the book explains the process of making Heppes No-Tar Roofing—the grandest substitute for shingles ever known, because it gives ten times the protection against time, water, sparks, heat and cold, at a mere fraction of the cost of shingles. Write us a postal for Free Roofers' Book.

HEPPES NO-TAR ROOFING

Grandest of All Materials to Take the Place of Shingles

The prohibitive price and poor quality of the shingles now on the market has created a widespread demand for a satisfactory material to take their place. HEPPES NO-TAR ROOFING is that material. Its price is so extraordinarily low that the combined cost of buying and laying Heppes No-Tar Roofing is much less than the mere cost of shingles. The cost of laying a shingle roof is one-fourth the cost of shingles themselves, and Heppes No-Tar Roofing meets modern requirements ten times better than shingles ever did. It makes a handsome, leak-proof, weatherproof, fire-resisting and time-defying roof. It withstands the snow and ice and storms of winter. It is proof against the hottest sun. It is so easy to apply that any man, with the aid of the HEPPES ROOFERS' BOOK can be his own roofer. Its value as a fire-resister is shown by the fact that Fire Insurance Companies charge 25 per cent less for insuring buildings protected by Heppes No-Tar Roofing than for buildings with shingle roofs.

Used on All Farm Buildings

Heppes No-Tar Roofing is used on Houses, Barns, Sheds, Granaries, Hog Houses, Cow Barns, Silos, Poultry Houses, Ice Houses, Carriage Houses, Wagon Sheds, Cribbs and all other farm buildings. Cover the sides of buildings as well as roofs with it. It will pay big returns on the investment.

Unlike shingles, it does not crack, curl or rot. Unlike tin or galvanized iron, it does not rust, blow off or deteriorate. It needs no repairs and lasts as long as the building.

Heppes No-Tar Roofing

Better Than Shingles—Costs 50% Less

The popularity of Heppes No-Tar Roofing extends from ocean to ocean. Ours is the fastest-growing roofing business in the world. Dealers everywhere sell our roofing.

It is made from the strongest wool felt, water-proofed, and made fire-resisting by being soaked with pure asphalt, and reinforced with coatings of Asphalt, Flint and Mica, under tremendous heat and pressure. Its cool, gray stone color is pleasing to the eye.

Heppes No-Tar Roofing is put up in compact rolls 36 inches wide, and in 1-ply, 2-ply and 3-ply weights. Each roll contains two "squares" or 216 square feet. Each "square" is guaranteed to cover 100 square feet of surface, including a 2-inch overlap. (It is also put up in 1-square rolls.)

Free Cement for Seams and Free Large-headed Nails, with Instructions, are packed in the hollow center of each roll. Easy to lay—no experience necessary.

Warning! Look out for certain brands of "imitation" roofing now on the market which are merely building paper soaked with tar and sprinkled with sand while hot.

HEPPES NO-TAR ROOFING is guaranteed to be free from Tar. Send today for Free Roofers' Book.

NEW ARRIVALS IN CANADA NEARLY 300,000 IN 1907.

ABOUT SIXTY THOUSAND FROM THE UNITED STATES.

Now that it is known that in the year just closed nearly sixty thousand from the United States declared their intention of making their homes in Canada, it might not be out of place to search for some reasons that would bring this about. These people are but following the example of the fifty-five or sixty thousand who did the same thing the year previous, and an almost equal number who the year before that followed the example of the thousands of the year preceding. An excellent climate, certain and positive crops of grain of all kinds, good markets for their produce, land and good land, too—at low prices, and terms of payment, (not forgetting the 160 acres of land given free by the Government, particulars of which the Canadian Government Agent whose name appears elsewhere will tell you about) and then the splendid social conditions. The situation is pretty well sized up by a writer in one of the magazines. Quoting from this article, we find this: "Those of us who made good in the States," interrupted another settler as if to continue the story of his neighbor, "have had it easy from the start; a little money is a mighty good thing on coming into a new country. But those who make an entry, or even buy lands at low rates, are able to square things in two or three seasons' crops. There are hardships in building shanties, and then with increasing prosperity getting things into shape for better homes. But affairs go much as in the States. We have the largest liberty to the world; there is more home rule in the provinces than in the several states of the Republic. Taxes are light and with only a few million people west of Winnipeg we don't get in each other's way. One's friends over the line probably thought we would not live through the winter; and while it is cold, real cold, it is free from the moisture experienced in the east. Schools are good as encouraged by the Government; the enterprising American promoter and Yankee drummer see to it that we take notice of the latest improvements and best agricultural machinery. Altogether we are as near to affairs as we would be on our own farms in the States. Winnipeg bears the same relation to us as Chicago did at home; and Edmonton with the surrounding region advances as Omaha did in the days when we were as young as the boys yonder. We get together much as they did in the granges over the border; the government has established experimental schools of agriculture, and progress in every line is stimulated. This is a great region for grazing," we hear the Calgary citizen continuing, "and then with building elevators of wheat at one dollar a bushel, many of us find time to go over to the live stock exhibition in Chicago or visit old friends during the course of the winter. Every man is taken for what he is worth or for what he can raise; and in this good air and on this fertile soil we intend to show our old friends that we are made of the right stuff—that we are chips of the old block who built up the American West."

ONE LESSON WHOLLY WASTED.

Little Surprise Planned by Billiger
McSwat Not a Success.

"Lobelia," asked Mr. McSwat, who was rummaging in one of the closets, "have you done anything with that old coat of mine that used to hang on the last hook in here?"
"Yes," answered Mrs. McSwat. "I gave it to the Volunteers."
"You did, did you?" Well, you'll be sorry to learn, perhaps, that there was a five-dollar bill in it which I was going to buy you if I found that coat undisturbed at the beginning of March."
"Oh, I think not, Billiger. I searched it thoroughly before I gave it away."
"You're a pretty smart woman, Lobelia, but it didn't occur to you to look inside the lining."
"Yes, it did, and I found the five-dollar bill. I spent it for the rubber plant in the front parlor that you have admired so much and wondered how I managed to buy out of my allowance. You're a pretty smart man, Billiger, but there are times when you don't look the part."

There being no further business before the house, Mr. McSwat adjourned without form.

REPARTÉE.

Younger—I wonder if I shall lose my looks, too, when I am your age?
Elder—You'll be lucky if you do.

Prompt Payment.
A village doctor, whose most troublesome patient was an elderly woman practically on the free list, received a sound rattling from her one day for not coming when summoned the night before.
"You can go to see your other patients at night," she said, "why can't you come when I send for you? Ain't my money as good as other people's?"
"I don't know, madam," was the reply. "I never saw any of it."

A TUB TEST

By FOREST BLAKE

(Copyright, 1908, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

I don't believe a girl ever done such a thing before.

It wasn't a bit like novels—though I never had much of a chance to read them, for I've had to work out ever since I was 15. But in novels, you know, the girl is always beautiful, and always dressed in shimmering satin and lace; and the man generally meets her behind a bank of palms at a ball, and they wind the thing up in a garden of roses just as the sun goes down. And, as he clasps her slender, drooping form in his arms, and she lays her golden head on his manly bosom, I always wonder how much of that clasping business there'll be when he sees her with her golden hair done up in curl papers and a last week's calico dress on?

And, you know, that makes lots of difference. Now, I'm not a bit pretty, but when I'm dressed up you'd be surprised. My hair's dark, and it's naturally straight and oily and wants to lay right flat to my head. But when I've washed it good and curled it just the least bit and snatched it into a pompadour back and front there's not one person in a dozen but would say the whole thing is nature. Then my complexion is kind of dark, but I've found out how to use Princess cream and rice powder so it won't show. And I know just what kind of styles and colors to wear. So, when I'm dressed up in my brown, tight-fitting, tailor suit, with furs and hat all to match—the whole thing simple and elegant and not a bit like a hired girl—and I'm with a crowd of girls and we meet a man—well, he never looks at the others.

But, when I get home and change my tailored broadcloth for an old blue calico with a patch on the front, when the powder wears off and my hair begins to wilt and get stringy, then I guess a man wouldn't turn his head—unless it was to keep from looking at me.

Then why don't I just keep fixed up all the time? Because I don't have time. When a girl gets up at four, gets breakfast, milks five cows, puts out a big washing, gets dinner, churns, does the ironing, gets supper and then mows the yard while she's resting, there's not much time for pumping your hair. And when I saw I couldn't work and keep pretty, both, I chose to work. And I never worried anything about it—not till I met Isaac.

He's a school teacher, and an awful fine scholar, too. I graduated from common branches, and he's spent two whole terms in the county normal. He's been teaching district school for seven years now—every year in a different place.
He talks a whole lot about his "profession," and about "the child," and the "child's mental growth," and "intellectual processes," and a lot of other things I can't understand. He's told me, too, that it takes a great deal of courage for a man to recognize his affinity—whatever that means—among the lower classes, when his calling in life is to be a brain worker and a great leader among men.

And, besides being a school teacher, he's the most finicky fellow I ever went with. They say it takes him fifteen minutes to comb his hair, and he can't put on his hat without a looking-glass. When I get into a big stew of work I forget all about how I look, but Isaac never gets so deep in as that. Last summer, when help was so scarce here in the country, and the men just working their heads off to get harvesting done, and Isaac was sitting around at home studying intellectual processes, John Winters here, that's the woman's man I work for, he asked Isaac to help him. And Isaac helped one forenoon. And they said he wore gloves all the time and when he came into the field he was carrying an umbrella over him.

I went with him all the next winter, and by spring he was coming here twice a week regular. I used to spend nearly two hours beforehand getting ready for him, and he would just take spools over my—my—looks; but all the time I felt kind of uneasy.

At last one night when he was trying to make me promise him, sure, I just up and says:
"Isaac," says I, "you don't know me. You think I'm pretty, and I'm not."
"Why aren't you pretty, Matilda?" says he. (He always says "aren't" and "isn't.") "Haven't you the most beautiful hair that was ever on a woman's head? Isn't your skin like the petals of a lily? Aren't your teeth like pearls?"

"No, sir," says I, "they ain't! It takes me half an hour to do up my hair so it looks like it's naturally fluffy. These pearls you're talking about most of 'em cost three dollars apiece, and my lily skin comes out of a cold cream jar and a powder box. My eyes is the real thing, but if there was any way of changing 'em I'd be a doing it."

He seemed sort of dazed for a minute, but at last he says:
"Well, Matilda, even if your bodily charms are not all—er—real, those of your character are. And love, Matilda, is not dependent on the physical. Love is a spiritual thing. It is a communion of souls."

That all sounded nice, but still I didn't feel just right about it. But I told him I'd give him an answer the next afternoon when he was to come and take me out buggy-riding.

I didn't sleep much that night. It seemed to me I had come to the place where the path divided, and I couldn't tell which way I was going to travel. At last I made up my mind what I was going to do to decide the matter. It was pretty tough on me, but I felt it was my duty.

The next day I went to work cleaning house. After I had cleaned and scrubbed two rooms the forenoon was about gone, and I saw the floors wouldn't be dry enough for the carpets before night, so I put on the boiler and went to washing. Isaac was to be there at three. By half-past two I began to get panicky. Then, for the first time that day, I took time to go and look in the glass.

I was a sight. My hair wasn't like the heroine's in a story. You know, when their hair gets damp it always curls up into little, clinging tendrils. Well, mine don't. And, when I saw myself standing there in my wretched old wrapper, with my stringy hair, and face covered with what Isaac calls perspiration, I felt like fleeing as a bird to the mountain. But I didn't. I just went back to my washing.

Prompt at three o'clock Isaac drove up to the fence. I could see him from the window, with his gloves on and gold-rimmed glasses, and collar standing way up around his ears. When the children came racing through the house to tell me he had come I just said, calmly, "Bring him out here."

Pretty soon in came Isaac. I couldn't see him very plain for a minute through the steam, and for a minute he didn't speak. At last he says, in the funniest voice:

"What does this mean?"
"It just means I'm kind of busy this afternoon," says I, as I picked up a pile of dirty clothes off of a chair and offered him a seat. "How do you like my lily complexion to-day, Isaac?"

"I'm sure I don't understand," he says. "I feel kind of stunned."

"You'd better feel stunned before you're married than afterwards," says I. "I don't think any man ought to marry a girl till he's seen her in her everyday clothes. And so I want you to understand that this is the way I look about half of the time. If I was to take you I'm afraid that, judging from your present prospects, I wouldn't."

"How Do You Like My Lily Complexion To-Day, Isaac?"

have much time to stand before the glass, neither. And I'm afraid, too," says I, kind of cautious, "I'm afraid you'd have to find me in the kitchen over a wash-tub more than once a week."

Then he got mad. "Even if you should have to work at manual labor," says he, "you can maintain your personal appearance," says he.

"Oh, well," says I, as I started a sheet through the wringer, "what's the difference? Love does not depend on the physical. Love's a spiritual thing, Isaac. It's a communion of souls."

Well, sir, he just gave me one long, shuddering look, then he lit out of that kitchen and out to his buggy and went away. That was three weeks ago, and I ain't seen him since.

If ever a man comes along that'll tell me, over a wash-tub, that he loves me, I'll know he's got the real goods—and I'm ready for him.

Electric Treatment for Violins.
A noted violinist and violin maker believes he has discovered a method for giving, by the aid of an electrical machine, the same quality of tone to a violin that age has been credited with providing. The theory of the violinist, says Popular Mechanics, is that it is not the age of the violin which really gives it its superior tone, but the amount of "bowing" or vibration it has received. By the use of the electrical machine the violin is expected to get as much "bowing" in 30 days as the same instrument would receive in 50 years of ordinary use.

PRACTICAL QUESTIONS FOR LIVE STOCK OWNERS

A BOOK ABOUT COWS AND HORSES
Question—"Please tell me where to obtain a good book relating to Cows and Horses."
Reply—"J. T. B., Mich."
Reply—We learn that new books on both these subjects have been recently issued costing 25c each, but if you will mention this paper and write to Pratt Food Co., Department R, Phila., Pa., they will send you a copy free of charge.

WORMS
Question—"Please give a remedy for worms in horses."
Reply—"L. J. P., Mich."
Reply—A very good remedy for worms is Pratt's Specially Prepared Worm Powder which is on sale at your dealer's. We happen to know that this article will positively do the work.

INDIGESTION
Question—"My four-year-old mare is very thin in flesh, and have been unable to fatten her. She shows very little life and I am anxious to know what will improve her condition."
Reply—"G. T. C., Mich."

Reply—Your horse is troubled with indigestion and needs a good spring tonic. We can recommend Pratt's Animal Regulator mixed with the "Feed" twice daily as one of the very best remedies for the trouble you are experiencing. Would suggest that you feed well salted bran mash and do not limit her to only hay and oats.

HEAVES
Question—"Whenever we have warm and damp days, my horse seems to show signs of Heaves and will not work. What can be done?"
Reply—"E. A. B., Mich."

Reply—We have known Pratt's Heave Cure to be unusually successful in overcoming this disease, and can give it our unqualified endorsement.

BOG SPAVIN
Question—"I have a colt three years old that has a soft bunch or puff on the front of the hock joint. Please advise me how to cure this."
Reply—"H. A. M., Mich."

Reply—Your colt has bog spavin. If you will have your dealer supply you with a small box of Pratt's Spavin Paste you will find that a few weeks' application will quickly remove the Spavin.

An Undesirable Article.
When Mr. B. went to call upon some friends the other afternoon, he was on his way out of town and so had his traveling bag with him. This he placed in a corner, and when he rose to leave he overlooked it. His hostess happened to notice it before he had reached the door, and called to her little daughter:

"Marie, run after Mr. B. and tell him he has left his grip here!"
The little one gave her mother one swift glance of surprise, but flew dutifully to obey orders.

"Oh, Mr. B.," they heard her say, "mother says you have forgotten to take your grip with you." Then she added, quickly, in a tone of polite apology: "You see, most all of us have had this winter, and we'd rather not have any more!"

Hope.
Walter Damrosch tells of a matron in Chicago who, in company with her young nephew, was attending a musical entertainment.

The selections were apparently entirely unfamiliar to the youth; but when the "Wedding March" of Mendelssohn was begun he began to evince more interest.

"That sounds familiar," he said. "I'm not strong on these classical pieces, but that's a good one. What is it?"

"That," gravely explained the matron, "is 'The Maiden's Prayer.'"
Harper's Weekly.

A Gentle Request.
"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins. "I wish you wouldn't pay so much attention to the personal popularity of horses this year."

"What do you mean?"
"You have a dreadful habit of picking out animals who are favorites before the race and absolutely friendless after."

"De Gustibus—"
"Some men think that a good dinner is the only thing to be desired."
"Yes, and there are some other men who think of a dinner as merely something to have a good smoke after."

LOST $300.
Buying Medicine When Right Food Was Needed.

Money spent for "tonics" and "bracers" to relieve indigestion, while the poor old stomach is loaded with pastry and pork, is worse than losing a pocketbook containing the money.

If the money only is lost it's bad enough, but with lost health from wrong eating, it is hard to make the money back.

A Mich. young lady lost money on drugs but is thankful she found a way to get back her health by proper food. She writes:

"I had been a victim of nervous dyspepsia for six years and spent three hundred dollars for treatment in the attempt to get well. None of it did me any good."

"Finally I tried Grape-Nuts food, and the results were such that, if it cost a dollar a package, I would not be without it. My trouble had been caused by eating rich food such as pastry and pork."

"The most wonderful thing that ever happened to me, I am sure, was the change in my condition after I began to eat Grape-Nuts. I began to improve at once and the first week gained four pounds."

MACHINE-GROUND PAINT.

Occasionally one hears the "hand-mixed" paint of the painter slightly spoken of as "unscientific" and "not thoroughly mixed." The facts are all on the side of the painter and his hand-prepared paint.

It is the most "scientific" paint there is, because it is made on the spot to suit the particular purpose for which it is to be used. It is as scientific as a good doctor's prescription. If the painter did not mix it thus it would be as unscientific as a patent medicine.

Moreover, the paint which a good painter turns out is made of genuine white lead and pure linseed oil. If he does not mix it himself he is not sure what is in it, and consequently his client cannot be sure.

As for not being thoroughly mixed by machinery, that is simply a misstatement. White Lead as made by National Lead Company is thoroughly incorporated with 7 or 8 per cent. of pure linseed oil in the factory, making a paste. This paste need only be thinned with additional linseed oil to make it ready for the brush.

The thorough incorporation of pigment and oil has already been accomplished before the painter gets it. To know how to tell pure white lead is a great advantage to both painter and house-owner. National Lead Company will send a tester free to anyone interested. Address the company at Woodbridge Building, New York, N. Y.

Putting It Concretely
Although Mr. Lawton was wont to indulge in a sort of language which left his hearers in some doubt as to his exact meaning, yet when he was "put to it" he never failed to make himself understood.

"No, I shouldn't want to live in a house like Philander's," he announced to Mrs. Lawton on the evening of his return from a visit to a nephew. "His cellar, now—it's most desperately overgrown whenever the weather is any days damp."

"Just what do you mean by desperately overgrown?" asked Mrs. Lawton.

"I mean," said her husband, mildly, "that all they had to do was to open the door that led from the kitchen down cellar, and the apples come floating right in on to the kitchen floor. Is that plain to ye?"—Youth's Companion.

A Rustic Sarcasm.
"Did your husband ketch chills an' fever?" asked the woman who was standing in front of the cabin.

"No," answered the woman who was driving a spring wagon. "He wouldn't have that much pit-up-an'-git. He jes' sot around an' let 'em overtake him."

This woman says she was saved from an operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lena V. Henry, of Norristown, Ga., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I suffered untold misery from female troubles. My doctor said an operation was the only chance I had, and I dreaded it almost as much as death. One day I read how other women had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I decided to try it. Before I had taken the first bottle I was better, and now I am entirely cured."

"Every woman suffering with any female trouble should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.
For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

STUDY NOT A NECESSITY.

End and Aim of Woman's Life, as Understood by Rosie's Mother.

In one of the Philadelphia public schools is a little girl pupil whose ancestors and coreligionists have ever held that the principal end and aim of the life of a woman is marriage. This little girl is well up in most of her studies, but she has an inveterate dislike of geography and it seems impossible to teach the study to her.

The other day her teacher, made impatient by her seeming unwillingness to learn her geography lesson, sent to Rosie's mother a note requesting her to see that the girl studied her lesson. The next day showed no improvement, however, and the teacher asked Rosie whether she had delivered the note.

"Yes, ma'am," was the reply.
"And did your mother read the note, Rosie," said the teacher.
"Yes, ma'am."

"What did she say?"
"My mother said that she didn't know geography, an' she got married, an' my aunt didn't know geography, an' she got married, an' you know geography, an' you didn't get married."

"I believe," his wife angrily declared, "that if I were dead you would be married again inside of a year."

"Oh, no," the mean man replied, "you are mistaken. Try me and I'll prove it."

I Am REYNOLDS, the Roofing Man

I have been in the roofing business for 40 years and they call me the "Pioneer." I have been in no other business.

I know the roofing business; have made a scientific, practical study of it. I am at the head of my company, of which I am proud. I have also made a success of my business. The result has been our two brands—Torpedo and Wolverine, The "red granite kind," which are the very best brands of roofing on the market today at any price.

This roofing will last longer, is cheaper to lay and cheaper in the long run than any other you can buy.

If we could make a better roofing, we would, but we can't. You will make no mistake in using it.

It only costs about half what shingles would cost laid on the roof.

We will give you an absolute guarantee that our roofing will last you five years. We know it will last for 12 or 15 years, but five years' guarantee is enough to make and we say five years simply to show faith in our own roofing.

It cost us $10,000.00 to find out that our kind of roofing was better than the other man's. The difference is this: Our roofing is made of crushed, irregular shaped granite particles put on two heavy sheets of asphalt felt cemented together. These particles of quarry granite have sharp points and sharp edges and this roofing is put up in one square roll, all ready to lay and securely packed inside of the roll are the trimmings consisting of galvanized iron nails and cement in a can with directions how to lay the roll.

Give us all the information you can about the roof, and we will tell you something that will interest you. WRITE US TODAY.

BREVITIES

Stockbridge's common council has passed an ordinance prohibiting saloons in that village.

Samuel Alexander, of Ann Arbor, has discovered fifty new varieties of sunflowers and twenty-five varieties of new asters.

Some students' rooms were entered this week and though evidences were seen of rummaging, no money was taken, but nearly $50 worth of books are said to have been taken instead, and there is no clue as to who took them.—Ann Arbor Times.

An attempt to put through a meat ordinance providing for licensing and inspection failed before the common council at Ann Arbor. The reason for the defeat was the fact that butchers would be under regulations while farmers could kill their "critters" and bring them in without any investigation.

About fifty engineering students of the U. of M. are on the annual spring vacation trip to the factories and plants of Toledo, Pittsburg, Washington, Philadelphia, New York and Niagara Falls. They left Friday and will return April 21. The spring trips were originally instituted fifteen years ago.

J. D. Hand is the inventor of a continuous railroad rail crossing that will avoid collisions. The device is simple in idea and it is a wonder that it was not brought out before. By an operator in a tower levers are worked so that there is a continuous rail on a used road and disconnected rails on an unused road.—News-Argus.

Mrs. Mary Williams quietly celebrated her ninetieth birthday Tuesday, April 7. Mrs. Williams is remarkably active for her years. She has possession of all her faculties, reads the newspapers and is interested in modern happenings as well as an authority on the events of pioneer days, as she came to Detroit when Michigan was still a territory.—Ypsilanti.

The Telephone Co. has been bothered for several days prior to Wednesday night of last week by the actions of an electric light wire among the telephone wires and had been unable to find where the trouble was. It was located about 11 o'clock that night when a fire started in the switchboard and before it was put out had destroyed one section of the board.—Tecomseh News.

Bibbins lake, Hanover, has suffered the loss of a large quantity of fish. It is estimated that 500 pounds would not make the loss good. They were smothered. The thick ice and then the deep snow came, and all chance for air was cut off. Many carp, some weighing fifteen pounds, many bluegills, some very large perch and pike were raked out and buried by the health officer.—Jackson Patriot.

John Roller has decided to move the cigar factory from Manchester to Jackson, as the greatest amount of sales are in that city. "The White Eagle" cigar has been manufactured there the past two years, and the change will be much regretted by many, as it will take several families away from there. Mr. Roller has been his own salesman, and has decided that his expenses will be less by doing this.

Devlin's Zouaves have been working overtime for the last thirty days and this week they have been drilling seven hours a day. It is an inspiring sight to see 36 men scale that 12 foot wall in 28 seconds, and has attracted many visitors to the armory. They leave Sunday for Bridgeport, Conn., where they will join "Buffalo Bill's" Wild West Show for the third season and which will soon open at the Madison Square Garden, New York.—Jackson Star.

It cost two young men who live north of the city $10.00 for jostling women on Main street Saturday night. They were observed by Chief of Police Apfel to deliberately run into and jostle several parties of women who were going up the street after the show at the Whitney was out. The chief grabbed the youths and this morning they were fined the costs, amounting to $5.30 each by Justice Doty and will probably be more careful when on a Saturday night trip to town in the future.—Ann Arbor Times.

An accurate way of determining industrial conditions is by the demand for railway shipping equipment. A railroad man stated that judging from that basis times are improving in the northern part of the state. The demand for railway cars for shipping bulk freight is increasing and during the past few days the Michigan Central has taken over 400 empty cars, distributing them in the district northward, where they are to be used for shipping. During the past week business has been better than it has been for some time, and the prospects are good for increased business.—Jackson Patriot.

Was Stung Again.

Detroit Journal: A missing "roll" of $150, held by his "lady friend," an appeal to an attorney, who commenced action for its recovery via a police court warrant, a "making up" with the woman friend and a forgetfulness on his part to pay the attorney who has started on the trail of the missing currency, are the component parts in the little comedy which resulted in Levi Lee, a farmer from near Dexter, being ordered by Justice Tegan to pay over $40 to Attorney W. W. Ferguson last Monday morning.

Lee became estranged from one Margaret Larkins, who conducts a rooming-house at 91 east Columbia street, but before the farewells were said Margaret is alleged to have got Lee's spare currency. Ferguson was asked to recover it. Meantime, while the latter was on the high road to success, Lee and his woman friend become reconciled and Lee says he got his money back. He failed to give Attorney Ferguson more than $10, although the contract price was $50. Justice Tegan's decision was that the remainder of the fee be paid.

Mrs. Larkins is 25 years old and pretty, while Lee is 72, but he wants to marry her. He is staying at the Columbia street address.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO.

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

Mrs. Fred Mosher, of 202 Oak Hill avenue, Jackson, Mich., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and think very highly of them. I was troubled by a lame and aching back for a long time, and there was a constant, dull pain and weakness through that region. Nothing I did seemed to do any good. And when I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so. They soon cured me and I have not been troubled by backache since. It gives me great pleasure to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as they are worthy of all the praise I can give them."
