F. & M. BANK.

The New Bank Elected Board of Directors Saturday Afternoon.

The stockholders of the Farmers & Merchants Bank met Saturday afternoon and elected the following board of directors: J. F. Waltrous, John Farrell, O. C. Burkhardt, Peter Merkel, Jas. H. Guthrie, John Kalmbach, Chris. Kalmbach, Lewis Geyer and Christian Grau. The directors immediately after elected the following officers:

President—J. F. Waltrous. First Vice President—Peter Merkel. Second Vice President—Christian Grau. Cashier—Paul G. Schaible. The bank expects to start business about June 1st in the building now occupied by A. W. Wilkinson.

ELECTION VOID.

Judge Kinne Decides Case Against School District.

Judge Kinne on Saturday handed down an opinion in the case of Harmon S. Holmes vs. School District No. 3, fractional, Sylvan and Lima. The contention made was that the election held June 11, 1907, to authorize the sale of $30,000 school bonds, for the erection of a new school house, there were fifty illegal voters. These voters claimed to be property owners because Glazier Stove company stock had been issued to them. Judge Kinne in few words disposes of the matter declaring the bonds illegal. He says in his opinion:

"I think that the complainant is entitled to a decree holding the election of June 11, 1907, void and restraining the defendants from issuing any bonds or making any disbursements by virtue of said election."

DEMURRERS FILED.

Surety Companies Object to Making Up State Losses.

Three surety companies on the bond of the Chelsea Savings Bank to secure the deposit of state funds in that institution, have filed demurrers to the declaration of the attorney-general, and will contest their liability. The bonds given originally amounted to $200,000. One company recently settled with the state by paying its bond of $50,000, but the others, failing to settle, were sued.

In the demurrers filed the United Fidelity & Guaranty Company, the Federal Union Surety Company and the Bankers Surety Company, contend that no liability exists against them for the reason that the contract between Glazier and the bank is void, because at the time it was entered into, Glazier, as surety, was interested in the bank as well as being the party to whom the bond was given.

It is contended that all deposits in the Chelsea Savings Bank were illegal and the contract void and all deposits are held in trust, and suit cannot be brought, if at all, until the plaintiffs have exhausted said trust fund, and that the declaration does not show that the assets of the bank are not sufficient to repay said deposits.

They Own The Stock.

$7,000,000 IN PERIL.

Warning Issued to Farmers Who Raise Beans.

G. F. Allmendinger, of Ann Arbor, secretary of the Michigan Bean Growers' Association, has issued the following warning to farmers against "bean rust": "The bean crop of the state is worth annually from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000. In recent years there has come into existence here a disease commonly known as 'bean rust,' which has played havoc with the crop in New York state. Beans showing rust spots should not be used for seed, as when they are used for seed the probability is that the resulting crop will be affected to a very large extent. This letter is therefore written to make the request that the matter be called to the attention of bean raisers in the state, that may be urged to use extreme care with regard to the seed planted this year.

"It may be said further that the crop of 1907 was one of the poorest in the history of the state. Many beans were soft and not thoroughly ripened. If such stock is used for seed the result must naturally be an inferior crop. Farmers are therefore urged to use the same care with regard to bean seed that they would use in planting corn. It is of the greatest importance that this crop, in which Michigan leads the world, shall not show deterioration through the use of poor seed."

Free Lecture

Judge William G. Ewing, C. S. B., of Chicago, will deliver a lecture on Christian Science, under the auspices of the local society, next Sunday afternoon, May 10, at 2:30 o'clock p. m., standard time, at the Chelsea opera house.

Mr. Ewing was for two years superintendent of public instruction at Quincy, Ill., and for eight years the prosecuting officer of the state for the judicial circuit in which Quincy is located. He was for four years U. S. attorney for the Northern District of Illinois, and for six years judge of the Superior Court of Illinois for Cook county.

Mr. Ewing became interested in Christian Science through the personal experience of healing, and has devoted his entire time since 1899 to service as a lecturer on that subject.

A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Ask Change of Venue.

Attorney James S. Gorman was in Lansing Wednesday to ask the supreme court to issue a mandamus requiring Judge Wiest to grant a change of venue to Jackson county of the cases against Frank P. Glazier. The supreme court issued an order requiring Judge Wiest to show cause May 10, why a change of venue should not be granted, and in the meantime all proceedings have been stayed so that an arraignment at Mason at the opening of court next Monday will not be necessary.

Miss Kempf is May Queen.

After two weeks of strenuous efforts on the part of the friends of the various college candidates, Miss Bessie Kempf, of this city was elected May Queen and will be crowned some night next week at the Junior festival on the college campus. The college juniors have been conducting the contest, which was open to the young ladies in the college and high school. A May pole will be wound and appropriate exercises carried out. Hillsdale Democrat.

SCHOOL MONEY, $4,829,162.

Auditor-General Fixes Apportionment at $6.50 Per Capita.

Auditor-General Bradley determined Friday to apportion the primary school money on the basis of $6.50 per capita. The apportionment will be made by the superintendent of public instructions on this basis May 10. The number of children included in the apportionment is 742,948 and the entire amount to be apportioned is $4,829,162. This will require a large share of the $6,565,651.13 reported to be in the state treasury at the close of business last Thursday night.

REFORESTRATION.

A Big Job to be Undertaken in Washtenaw County.

One of the first steps to be taken towards the reforestation of Michigan is the beginning made by the Eastern Michigan Edison Company at its Huron valley plant four miles west of Ypsilanti.

Work has already begun by the company to put the ground in condition preparatory to setting out the forest. Two hundred thousand red oak and white pine trees will be planted, many of which will be planted among the other trees in the woods.

It is estimated it will be fifteen years before returns will be had on the investment.

The company's farm upon which the trees are planted was long known as the Barnes stock farm.

NEWSPAPER CHANGE.

News-Argus and Times at Ann Arbor Consolidate.

The Ann Arbor News-Argus was sold at public auction Saturday, by order of the court. The property was bid in by R. L. Warren of the Ann Arbor Times, the amount of his bid being $6,275. There were four active bidders, R. L. Warren, D. W. Grandon, of Adrian, M. W. Whitaker, of Jackson and E. A. Tostevin, of Racine, Wis.

Monday the consolidated paper came out under the title of the Ann Arbor News. A new company has been formed, composed of the Times ownership, and D. W. Grandon, E. J. Ottoway and James Schermerhorn. R. L. Warren and D. W. Grandon will have active charge of the paper, while the other gentlemen, both well-known newspaper men, will be associated in an advisory connection.

POSTPONED HEARING.

Judge Knappen Sets Hearing For July Term.

When the hearing was begun Friday on the involuntary bankruptcy case of Frank P. Glazier, physicians presented statements that they had examined Mr. Glazier on April 21, in accordance with the order of the court and found him entirely unable to appear and testify at the hearing. They found Mr. Glazier in bed recovering from an attack of pneumonia, and suffering from diabetes. He was, they say, hysterical with his will power diminished and his attention nil. He breaks down and weeps at frequent intervals and suffers greatly from pain in the back of his head, they stated. They agreed that he is not hopelessly impaired, however, and believe that in three months he would probably be able to appear and give testimony. Judge Knappen, who was presiding in the case, accordingly extended the postponement of the hearing and set it for the July term of the court. Attorney Selling of Detroit, representing the creditors said that Mr. Glazier was a hopeless bankrupt and that it would make no difference whether or not he was present and asked that the hearing be proceeded with immediately. Judge Knappen, however, declared that Glazier was entitled to a hearing and ordered the further postponement.

Attorney Gorman, representing Mr. Glazier, presented to the receiver appointed by Judge Knappen, a statement of Mr. Glazier's assets which show they total $348,000. Attorney Selling for the creditors followed with a statement that of these assets $282,000 was incumbered, leaving but $66,000 to offset total liabilities outright and contingent amounting to $722,000.—Jackson Patriot English and American Abuses.

There is one form of the abuse of wealth in politics from which England at present is comparatively free. She does not suffer from the problems of corporations in politics. It is a rare thing for a statutory company, such, for instance, as a railway company, or for a joint stock company of any kind, to contribute from its funds to the campaign chests of political parties. The thing is not unknown—there was a case about a year ago in which the directors of one of the great railway companies were found to have subscribed to the moderate party in the London county council elections. But on the whole the practice is frowned upon both by public opinion and by the general sense of the commercial community. Nor does the political necessity for it exist in England. Three reasons, I believe, writes Sydney Brooks in Harper's Weekly, are usually given to explain the intimacy of the alliance between corporations and politics in the United States. The first is that in an expanding, half-developed country the number of good things to be picked up in the way of concessions is beyond comparison greater than in such a land as England. The second reason why the trusts cannot leave politics alone in America is that politics cannot leave the trusts alone, and their action and reaction seem to be enormously intensified and complicated by the American system of government in self-contained compartments.

Somebody rather pertinently suggests that people should have telephone hours as well as hours when they receive callers. The telephone breaks in on everybody's time in a way that would not be tolerated if the people who use it came in person. This is true in the home, in business establishments and in offices. A patient is in a doctor's office, for example, keeping a special engagement and with his own time limited, or he is in a dentist's chair, when the telephone bell rings and the doctor or dentist leaves him and engages in a long conversation over the wire. Everyone, comments the Indianapolis Star, has been irritated by the tyranny of this instrument and the manner in which it penetrates privacy and trespasses on time. A system of telephone etiquette ought to be established.

Congressman Olmstead asked the agricultural committee of the house to tell him how much it costs to keep a hen a year. Whether he wants to keep a hen and does not wish to go at it blindly, or whether he desires to engage in a statistical calculation in regard to the poultry industry is not known, nor is it important. The significant thing is that not a member of the committee could tell him what he wanted to know. One ventured the opinion that the "keep" of a hen costs "next to nothing," while another fixed the expense at $1.75 a year. What is an agricultural committee for, asks the Indianapolis Star, if it is not primed on subjects like this, and what does it cost to keep a hen, anyway?

Is profanity on the streets and in other public places getting to be more prevalent in this community than elsewhere? asks the Boston Herald. An intelligent and observant visitor here says it is. He has traveled far and wide and he testifies that one hears the name of the Almighty taken in vain more frequently by men and boys in our eastern cities, and particularly in Boston, than in any of the less boasted or boasted centers of culture and civilization. This is a rather serious indictment of our manners and morals. If it is warranted by the facts it might be well to call for the more rigid and vigorous enforcement of the ancient law on the subject. It covers the offense.

By the retirement of Dr. Reginald Heber Fitz from the Hersey professorship of the theory and practice of physics at the Harvard medical school that institution loses the active services of one of the most distinguished members of its staff. He is generally recognized in his profession as standing at the head of it in this section of the country at least.

LATEST NEWS OF MICHIGAN

JUSTICE CARPENTER TO LEAVE THE SUPREME BENCH SOON.

TRAGIC DEATH OF A BOY.

Various Matters of Major and Minor Importance Gathered in Various Parts of the State.

From a most trustworthy source it is learned that Justice William L. Carpenter, of the supreme court of Michigan, will resign in the near future. He has already discussed the matter with close personal friends to whom his attitude is not a matter of surprise, as he has contemplated such action for a long time. Those in a position to know say it is probable Judge Carpenter will time his resignation so that his successor can be nominated and elected in the fall, but there is also the intimation that he may not wait, and that in such an event Attorney General John E. Bird will be appointed to fill the vacancy. It is no secret that Justice Carpenter has felt for some time that private practice would give him much larger returns than he enjoys in his judicial position. He will of course return to Detroit, and the rumor is that he will form a partnership with Elliott G. Stevenson.

Victim of Bottle Thrower.

LITTLE William Haverkamp's tragic death, the result of being struck on the head by a bottle hurled from the bleachers during the opening game at Grand Rapids, will mean that pop and other bottle liquids will not be sold at future ball games. Willie Haverkamp, 13 years old, was seated on the grass in front of the bleachers. At an interesting play he arose and cheered. A man behind him in his seat and hurled the bottle. Young Haverkamp fell, dazed. He recovered soon after and witnessed the remainder of the game. He did not appear at supper and a brother found him in the bed, unconscious. A physician found the boy suffering from concussion of the brain. He died Saturday morning. Edward Parks, a stereotyper, was arrested as a prosecutor. Powers says that the man will be charged with murder. Bert Lewis, a conductor, identified Parks as the man who threw the bottle.

Murder Was Deliberate.

Charged with the murder of his wife's parents, Joseph B. Blunt pleaded guilty when arraigned in circuit court at Battle Creek, but Judge North believing that he detected traces of insanity, reserved sentence. In all the criminal annals of western Michigan, no more deliberate murder was ever planned and committed than that of which Blunt confessed and perpetrated. Bursting a door in the little cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Homer S. Jones, Blunt shot down his father-in-law and then directed his fire at the wife. Mr. Jones fell dead as a bullet crashed through his skull and Mrs. Jones, dying from her wounds, threw herself across his form and clasped him in her last embrace.

Choked to Death.

While dining in a Bay City restaurant, Jos. Hines, aged 61, swallowed a large piece of beefsteak that lodged in his throat and within a few minutes the man choked to death. Attention was attracted to him by his frantic efforts to summon aid. Friends hurried him to the door of the restaurant and when they were unable to give him relief, a physician was called who with a pair of forceps attempted the removal of the steak. The meat was tender and broke off and Hines died in a choking spasm.

Threatened Wilson.

"Look out for Wilson, for he must die before he is killed," was the anonymous note received by Sheriff Davidson, which referred to William L. Wilson, defaulting secretary of the United Home Protective Society. Jail officers do not regard it seriously. William L. Kelley, of the law firm of Sellers, Kelley & Sellers, Detroit, said he had arranged for sureties for the $25,000 bond of Wilson and that the defaulter would be released when Judge Beach arrives from Sanilac county.

From the State Capital

Information and Gossip Furnished by Special Correspondent at Lansing.

Lansing.—The State Association of Republican Editors held its session in Lansing. The occasion was one of the regular business meetings. President J. N. McCall of Ithaca called the gathering together, and about 50 members were present when he rapped for order. The session was purely of a business nature, and all politics were on the blacklist. A hint was that Gov. Warner was in the city and that he might be invited to address the gathering met with a frigid reception. "We do not want to see any candidates," remarked President McCall. "They need not apply here." W. F. Knox of the Soo, who was in charge of the Warner publicity bureau, was present. At the deliberations, charging of candidates full advertising rates was considered, and a resolution was introduced providing that candidates must pay until after the nominations are made. The primary system came up for discussion, a resolution was adopted providing that the primary system should perpetuate party organizations. Edwin O. Shaw, who was a delegate to the constitutional convention and is an editor at Newaygo, read a paper showing why the revised constitution should receive the support of the Republican editors. A lot of questions were fired at him, but a resolution was introduced putting the mark of approval on the document.

Michigan Health Is Good. Michigan cities are worshipping more closely at the shrine of good health. A bulletin issued by the state board of health shows there were 31 per cent. less cases of pneumonia reported during March and nine per cent. less deaths than is the average for that month. The board complains that physicians in the state do not report deaths promptly and threatens to take action against them. A battle is being fought with tuberculosis, but 226 deaths from this cause were reported during the month. Typhoid fever is raging in 83 localities, 17 less than the preceding month. Diphtheria is less prevalent. This is true regarding meningitis, whooping cough, measles and smallpox. Fewer violent deaths were reported during the month than for several months.

Dislike Title of "Aggie."

"Don't call me 'Aggie!'" That is the cry of the engineers, the foresters, and the special course students of Michigan agricultural college. The request is to be made to the editors of all the newspapers in Michigan and some of the more prominent publications outside of the state, by the Engineering society of M. A. C., the society that a short time ago considered petitioning the legislature to change the name of the institution from Michigan State Agricultural college (which is its full name, although no one ever calls it that) to Michigan State college, so as to not create the impression that all graduates of the school have specialized in farming.

To Sell School for Taxes.

On account of the oversight of a Crawford county supervisor, Land Commissioner Rose and the attorney general's department have found a difficult tangle. A school site was taken from the corner of a quarter section and a building erected. In making the assessment, the supervisor neglected to except the school site and the taxes on the description of property not being paid the entire parcel, school house and all, was returned delinquent. It was finally bid in by the state and is now offered for sale by the land commissioner, at the public sale. The question to be straightened out is whether the school site can be excepted when the land is sold.

Report Less Earnings.

The telegraph business in Michigan is getting poorer, according to reports of the companies filed with the auditor general as a basis for taxation. The Western Union reports that last year its Michigan receipts were only $98,016.78, against $113,000 for the previous year. Its taxes will amount to $2,940.05. The Postal company reports receipts of $20,353.10, a slight decrease, and will pay a tax of $628.59. The American Express Company paid taxes of $10,161 to the auditor general.

Railroads Pay Taxes.

Several of the big railroad companies contributed about $1,000,000 to the primary school fund. The Pere Marquette, paid taxes to the auditor general of $496,951; the Lake Shore, $337,680; and the Grand Rapids & Indiana, $195,608.

"Bill" Lorimer Visits Soo.

Congressman "Bill" Lorimer of Illinois, member of the rivers and harbors committee, quietly dropped into Sault Ste. Marie recently, looked over both power plants and the locks and got out of town before Scotters were wise to what was going on. It is supposed he took some kind of message back to Washington with regard to the proposed canal improvements here but nobody knows what it is. It is believed some action will be taken soon. Why the Windy City politician should take the trip puzzles local people.

Question Puzzles Villages in State.

Some question has been raised by villages in Ingham and other counties as to the legality of assessing villages for work done on roads in the township. The attorney general gives the following opinion: "Our supreme court in the case of Ryerson vs. Lake-ton, 52 Michigan, page 509, held that it was 'perfectly competent for the legislature to provide that all of the taxable property in the township should be assessed for the repairs and improvements of highways in the township, although those highways should lie wholly outside of the village.' In regard to any part of the improvement fund being expended within the limits of the township (village) we have held, owing to the fact that section 10 of act 108 of 1907 provides that the improvement fund shall be expended by the township highway commissioner under the direction of the township board, that such fund cannot be expended upon the highways and bridges within the village, except upon such bridges as the village act places under the jurisdiction of the township."

Conference Is Wreck Aftermath.

States, Railway Commissioner Dickinson while discussing the collision on the Detroit, Jackson & Chicago railway in which ten men were killed and 30 persons injured declared that the car-dispatching system on all the interurban trolley roads in Michigan is defective. "There will have to be a reform," continued Mr. Dickinson, "and we shall have all the superintendents and chief dispatchers of the various roads in Lansing for a conference and insist upon something like a standard system of dispatching."

Flint Gets Convention.

Flint was chosen as the place of holding the next state convention of the Knights and Ladies of Security. At the annual convention here Dr. W. C. Brown of Detroit and P. A. Stone of Lansing were elected delegates to the national convention to be held in Philadelphia. The convention was presided over by Dr. J. Rosenthal of Sault Ste. Marie. E. W. Munn of Big Rapids was secretary. Twelve candidates were initiated by the Lansing lodge.

Campbell Has Speaker Aspirations.

"I'd rather be a member of the legislature than prosecutor of Kent county," said Representative Colin P. Campbell, who has just been appointed assistant prosecuting attorney. Campbell received a suggestion that he resign from the legislature and give some one else a chance. He refused, saying: "I am sent back for another term, too good to be passed up for anything like assistant prosecutor. Campbell will try to fill both jobs."

Hundreds Hurt in Factories.

According to figures given out by the state labor commissioner there were 227 accidents in Michigan factories during the year 1907. The figures show an increase of 216 accidents over the previous year. Fatal accidents numbered 60, an increase of 11 over the previous year. It is stated that 193 of the persons injured received wages during their disability and that nearly all the remainder carried accident insurance or received lodge benefits.

Smallpox Among Farmers.

Dr. Shimway, secretary of the state board of health, investigated three suspicious cases in among the farmers in Avonia township, about seven miles from Bellevue, and pronounced the disease as smallpox. The homes of the afflicted were quarantined and precautions taken against a spread of the disease.

Osborn for Lieutenant Governor.

The latest bid of political gossip here is that a movement is on foot to name Chase S. Osborn of Sault Ste. Marie for lieutenant governor. It is pointed out that Osborn is popular in the lower peninsula as well as above the straits, and that he would receive support. It is not known whether the movement has the sanction of the Soo man.

Plan State Theater Circuit.

Practically all the managers of the vaudeville in Michigan met in Grand Rapids. The plan was to form a circuit that will include Grand Rapids, Muskegon, Bay City, Flint, Lansing, Jackson, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo and Benton Harbor, making 11 weeks, with short jumps and low railroad fares.

Michigan Bills Shelved.

Representative Denby some time ago introduced a bill into the house providing for an additional United States judge for the eastern district of Michigan. The bill is still in committee, although Denby has attempted to get it reported. Senator Smith has introduced a bill with the same provisions, but it is understood he will not attempt to pass it through the senate unless action is taken on Denby's bill by the house. Representative Lord's bill providing for a third judicial district is slumbering.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The following statement was given out by the Taft bureau Saturday: Delegates selected, 744; instructed for Taft, 359; Knox, 68; Cannon, 44; Fairbanks, 30; La Follette, 25; Hughes, 56; uninstructed, 160.

It is claimed that the solid south will take a firm stand in Denver for prohibition. If Bryan will announce his attitude the movement will either be downed at the start or gain overwhelming strength.

Managers of John A. Johnson's campaign have issued a statement of his chances for nomination as the presidential candidate of the Democratic party. They declare the solid south is almost unanimous for Johnson.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the socialist national convention in Chicago, May 10, and which is to last about a week. A number of women delegates have been named. Two hundred and nineteen delegates, the same number of alternates and 600 persons will attend.

Without any contest the state convention of the New York Independence party, the new Hearst organization, named delegates-at-large, with alternates and electors for its national convention to be held in Chicago "late in July." The platform of the Chicago conference when the new party was formed was adopted. No instructions were given delegates, but the convention was for the nomination of Hearst for the presidency.

MAGAZINE EXPLODED.

Two Hundred Jap Cadets Lose Their Lives.

Admiral Yoshimatsu, commander of the training squadron, reports that an explosion occurred in the stern magazine of the cruiser Matsushima at 4:03 o'clock Thursday morning, while the cruiser was at anchor at Makung, a harbor of the Pescadore Islands.

The Matsushima immediately sank, until only the bridge was visible. Rescue work by boats from the cruisers Hashidate and Itsukushima continued until 9 a. m., and the lives of 141 men, including some officers, were saved.

The majority of the officers were not saved, and at the time of the admiral's report the cadets saved numbered 58 out of a complement of 300.

The sons of Baron Chinda, vice minister of the foreign office, and of Prince Oyama, field marshal of Japan, are among the cadets who it is feared are lost. Capt. Name, Yoshimori and Yashiro also were drowned.

The cause of the explosion is unknown.

WHAT SHALL BE DONE? WITH THE HIGHWAYS

BY HOWARD H. GROSS,

SPECIAL AGENT, U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

JUST now there is no more important question before the American public than the general improvement of the highways to the standard of twentieth century requirements. The volume of traffic over the public highways is equal to or exceeds that of all the railways. The food products of the world pass over these roads to reach the market. Bad roads interfere with the regular distribution of these products, resulting in an erratic and inconstant supply for a fixed and regular demand.

Bad roads have necessitated the practice of rushing the crops to market all in a heap, taking but two or three months instead of spreading this delivery over six to ten months. Scientifically, farm products should be moved from producer to consumer as they are needed for consumption, but the farmer will find the roads in the winter and spring bad and at times practically impassable, and for the very reason he hurries his grain to market as soon as harvested.

This causes congestion on the railroads and works havoc in business conditions. The "moving of the crops" requires an enormous amount of money, and a general upheaval in financial centers every fall is the result of this sudden drain.

The hurried disposition of the year's crop has necessitated the building of large storage houses in the grain centers to care for it. In Chicago the storage charge is nine cents per bushel per year; the carrying capacity of the elevators of that city alone is about 5,000,000 bushels, representing a storage charge of over $5,000,000 per year. The passing of the food supply into the control of the grain kings means a loss to the farmer and an additional and unnecessary cost to the consumer.

The general improvement of the highways of the country is vastly more important to the people as a whole than the building of the Panama canal, the improvement of the inland waterways, or the irrigation of the semi-arid lands of the west.

Those who have traveled know that the roads throughout Europe are good; the same is true of Australia and New Zealand, countries newer than our own, less populous, and with nothing like our aggregate wealth. The fact that the rest of the world has good roads while we have bad ones is significant; it shows that the plan we have been pursuing has not been successful. In three hundred years less than eight per cent of the highways of our country have been permanently improved and at the rate we are going it would require nearly four thousand years to complete the job. So as roadbuilders the people of the United States have been a failure.

This is all the more surprising when we consider that they are conspicuously successful in every other line of human endeavor. Millions upon millions of dollars have been wasted in every state in the union upon the public roads by ill-timed or misdirected effort and with really very little to show for the expenditure. It is only within the last ten or fifteen years that any real progress has been made along the line of permanently improving the conditions.

The trouble is we have been endeavoring to untangle the snarl by pulling the wrong string. Without any reason for doing so, the farmers of the country, from Maine to California, from the very first assumed that the country roads belonged to them and it was their business to improve them, and this misconception held away for nearly 300 years.

A few years ago a man in New Jersey made a discovery. It was that the highways are public property, as much so as the state house. This raised the question: "Why, if the highways are public property, should not the public take care of its own; why should not the state and all property therein contribute to building the roads?" Everybody is interested in them, everybody is affected through the markets by the road conditions; they are benefited by good roads and injured by bad ones. The new thought spread throughout the state and finally New Jersey led the way to better conditions by passing a law by which the state should contribute one-third the money required to improve the roads. Other states followed, increasing the proportion to one-half and in one case, Massachusetts, to three-fourths.

In many cases of the New England states farm property is only a very small portion of the total taxable property, in some cases not ten per cent, and when the cost of road improvement was distributed over all property of the state, the burden was hardly felt, and yet immense sums were raised for road purposes. Best of all, the roads were built under proper supervision. Instead of leaving it to the inexperienced hands of the local path master.

Ten years ago New York state began in a small way to aid and appropriated $50,000 to start the work. The plan grew in favor so rapidly that within five years the state by an overwhelming vote passed a constitutional amendment providing for an issue of $50,000,000 in bonds to help build the highways. What a record! In five years from fifty thousand to fifty millions! The maximum necessary to pay the interest on this enormous sum and then finally pay off the bonds will hardly be felt by the property owners of the Empire state owing to their immense list of taxable property.

Ohio, after 40 years of building roads, by the old plan of local taxation and bond issues, in which the farmer had to pay practically the whole bill, has passed a state aid law which will enable it to build three miles of improved roads where it has been building one, without any increase whatever in taxation upon farm property.

Virginia is the first southern state to join the state aid column for good roads. Kentucky is alive to the situation and is taking steps to change its constitution in order to be in a position to spread the road tax over all the property in the state.

In certain parts of the country, notably in the Mississippi valley, there is an entire misconception as to what the state aid plan of road building means. Some imagine the state would take control of the highways, build expensive roads and tax the people to pay for them; others that it is a scheme to force road building against the wishes of the farmers. Nothing could be farther from the truth. The state does not in any manner, under a state aid law, interfere with the absolute local control of the highways. The voters of every township decide whether any roads shall be improved, what roads, to what extent, when it shall be done, if at all. The state has absolutely no voice in the matter. If, however, the township, by a majority vote, decides to build a road under the state aid plan, it makes application to the state for that purpose; the state engineer thereupon visits the locality, goes over the road proposed to be improved with the local authorities, and decides upon the character of the improvement best suited to the conditions. He then prepares plans and specifications and when these are approved by the highway commissioners or other properly constituted local authorities, the contract is let to the lowest responsible bidder and the work is then done under the supervision of the state engineer. This insures proper construction and that means durability and low cost to maintain the road afterward.

Under a state aid law not a rod of road could be built unless the residents of a township decided to do so. Not a dollar of state money could be expended unless the farmers who live in the rural township voted for improvements.

If it should be alleged that state aid was a plan to compel railroads, corporations, merchants and manufacturers to help build the roads, it would not be far from the truth. Under state aid the farmers control the situation; if they decide to improve the roads the other people are obliged to help pay the bill.

In order to build roads cheaply they should be built extensively. It costs a great deal more proportionately to build a half mile of road than it does to build ten half miles. No contractor cares for a small job but for a large one competition is keen. It takes just as much time and bother to get ready to build half a mile of road as it does to build ten miles. By building in the larger quantities from 20 to 25 per cent, in cost of construction can be saved.

As roads properly built will last for a great many years they should be built as school houses and court houses are built, viz: by a bond issue; thus a township under state aid could build 10, 15 or 20 miles of roads in one year, have the roads to use and spread the payment of the same over say 10 or 20 years. If this is done and the state aid plan prevails, there will be very little, if any, increase in taxation.

Few people have any idea to what extent bad roads interfere with travel and how they affect the business of the merchant in the country town. The Illinois highway commission has gathered some very valuable data upon the effect of road and weather conditions upon highway traffic. Observations were made at 72 well distributed points in the state and an actual count was made by the vehicles passing upon different days throughout each month of the year, covering all kinds of weather and road conditions.

The report shows that traffic over stone or gravel roads was fairly uniform throughout the year, while upon the earth roads it was subject to the widest variations. The following figures are significant and tell more forcibly how great is the burden of bad roads than anything else can possibly do.

The Clear Lake earth road leading into Springfield, Illinois, showed an average traffic for four days in March, 1906 of 65½ vehicles per day. Over the same road in June and July the average was 389 vehicles! On the same days in Peoria, 60 miles away, under the same weather conditions but over a hard road, the traffic for March was 196, and the average for June and July 153.

Observations at Champaign over an earth road showed the average for January, February and March to be 63, as against 200 for September and October. The count at Decatur over a gravel road was March and April, 240; July and August, 278. Over an earth road leading into Sullivan, the count for January, February and March was 54; August and September, 316.

While delivering an address upon good roads, the writer was once interrupted and asked if he would favor taxing the widow's cottage to help build the roads. He answered that he certainly would, as the annual tax would probably not exceed 10 or 15 cents, and he gave the following illustration of how bad roads burden the people: A woman goes into a grocery store for a dozen eggs and a pound of butter. When told the prices, she protests. The grocer in defense, says: "Well, you see, madam, the roads are so bad now, very few farmers are coming to town, so butter and eggs are scarce." She pays three cents more for the eggs and four cents more for the butter, and this seven cents represents her bad road tax paid that evening. This is repeated from time to time throughout the year, not only in her case but in hundreds of others in that town and in thousands of towns throughout the length and breadth of the land. There is no doubt that the woman in question would benefit through good roads by at least ten times the amount of the tax on her cottage.

It would be interesting to take a concrete example of state aid, apply it to a typical farm in one of the central western states and see exactly what state aid means so far as taxes upon that farm are concerned. For the purpose of illustration, let us take an average farm of 160 acres in the corn belt of Illinois, and see what the effect upon the taxes on that farm would be if the state should undertake a very vigorous campaign of road building under state aid, one that contemplates an expenditure of the enormous sum of $50,000,000 in ten years—enough money to improve all the main highways of the state, connect every community with the market town and county seat and give a complete network of good roads from Galena to Cairo; the plan being that the state should pay one-half the expense and the townships or road districts the other. If $50,000,000 were expended in ten years, the state would be required to raise $25,000,000 of it. There is in the state property to the total assessed valuation of $1,250,000,000. To raise $25,000,000 a year, or $250,000,000 in ten years, would require a two mill tax upon this property; so a two-mill tax applied to all the property of the state of Illinois at the present assessed valuation (and not taking into account the possible increase in value thereof) would produce the sum required.

The records show that the taxing value of an average 160 acre farm in the corn belt of Illinois is a little less than $2,000, the actual value being approximately $10,000. A two-mill state tax on this farm assessed on the value of $2,000 would be exactly $4 a year and no more, and in ten years the state tax would be $40, which would be the farm's proportion of the $25,000,000 total. Where this farm would pay $40, one single corporation in the city of Chicago would have to pay $570,000, another $190,000, and the railways of the state over two millions of dollars. Thus we see by a state levy of two mills for ten years, one-half of the $50,000,000 is provided for. The other half must be raised by local taxation or by a bond issue.

Let us assume that the township in which the farm in question is located votes bonds to the full constitutional limit, that is, goes into debt just as far as it can go and pays the highest interest that the law permits it to pay. The limit of the bond issue is five per cent of the assessed valuation, so the amount of bonds resting upon the farm would be five per cent of $2,000, or exactly $100, payable one-tenth each year, with interest at five per cent. The total interest on this bond issue, so far as this farm is concerned, for the ten years would be $27.50.

Thus, if we add the bonds..... $100.00
Interest on bonds..... 27.50
And the state tax of..... 40.00

We have a total tax on the farm of...$167.50 which is exactly the amount of the tax that would be levied and collected upon this farm for both state aid and to pay off the road bonds and interest. This amount is about 10½ cents per acre per year and the total charge against the farm for the whole ten years would be $1,675 per acre. This amount of money paid by the farm under the state aid plan would enable the state to expend $50,000,000 upon its highways, and the expenditure of that sum would add to the value of farm property at least five and probably ten times as much as the respective farms would be taxed in order to pay the bill.

SPAN OF CONCRETE

WILL BE THE LONGEST IN THE WORLD.

Proposed Henry Hudson Memorial Bridge to Have One Unique Feature—Still Another Triumph for American Engineers.

There is not in the world a bridge span in either stone or concrete which approaches the dimensions of the proposed Henry Hudson memorial bridge to cross Spuyten Duyvil creek, says the New York Sun.

The central span of that structure is to be 703 feet in the clear. In steel there already exists a longer arch, that of the upper Niagara span, which measures 840 feet. The design of the Hell Gate bridge calls for a thousand-foot arch of steel.

But in concrete there is nothing like the big span which is to link Manhattan to the mainland. The Engineering News declares that the largest completed concrete arch is that of the Grunwald bridge over the Isar, at Munich. It is only 230 feet wide.

The Walnut Lane concrete arch bridge, now being built, has a slightly longer span, 233 feet between faces of abutments. These spans become insignificant, even trivial, when compared with that now proposed for the Hudson memorial bridge.

A better idea of the boldness of the proposal is had from a comparison with the general field of masonry arch construction, since the problems of design and erection for arches of stone and concrete are in a measure the same. The Cabin John arch of the Washington aqueduct, 220 feet in span, built about half a century ago, was for a long time looked upon as an exceptional achievement, being the largest stone arch in the world.

Only in the last eight years has it been exceeded, and there are now three larger spans in stone, beside the 230-foot concrete arch at Grunwald—Adda, 230 feet; Luxembourg, 278 feet, and Plauen, 295 feet. In 50 years designers have ventured only one-third beyond the limits set by the Cabin John arch, and only in three cases have they found it necessary. Now in one leap the present limit is to be multiplied by two and a half.

The Henry Hudson arch carries a double deck. The upper or main deck is a highway floor, 80 feet wide between railings; it has a 50-foot roadway and two 15-foot sidewalks. The lower deck is to carry four tracks of a rapid transit railway, but as no such line is yet in prospect, the lower floor system is not to be put in place at first, but only the necessary connections provided for it.

The total length of the bridge, including the approaches, is 2,840 feet. Its cost, excluding special ornamental features, is estimated at $3,500,000. About one-half of this is chargeable to the large arch and its superstructure.

"Toeing the Mark."

The phrase "toeing the mark" is of fairly old and somewhat obscure origin. Several different opinions are held as to how it originated, but the derivation most generally accepted is that it comes from an old fashion among military men in drilling, to draw a line upon the ground and make the company "dress" by toeing this mark. The phrase thus acquired the meaning of "standing up" to something, and so became used in quarrels, when one of the parties would challenge the other to stand up to him. Even nowadays in some of the country districts of Great Britain it is customary for lads when quarreling to provoke their opponents finally to the encounter by drawing a line upon the ground and telling them to "toe the mark." The meaning of the phrase as now generally used is to come right forward and "stand up" to anything.

Sees Age of Aeroplanes.

Henry Farman, who has attracted notice because of his successful aeroplane experiments, believes that within 12 months aeroplanes will be flying from 50 to 100 miles quite easily. "I can fly now as long as the motor works," he says, "and distance is nothing to me." Farman is 30 years of age and is one of the three sons of a well-known English journalist. Before taking to aeronautics Mr. Farman had made a considerable name in the French sporting world. When cycle racing was the rage he and his brother were many champions. They formed a tandem team which proved invincible. Then he took to motoring, and won the Paris and Nice races in 1902. In the great Paris-Vienna race he gained first honors for heavy machines. His motor-racing career, however, came to a sudden termination after an accident which landed him high up in the branches of a tree.

What the Dogs Were For.

Observing several $5,000 bulldogs on the multi-millionaire's estate, the witty visitor remarked: "Are those dogs here to eat up subpoenas?" And the multi-millionaire chuckled craftily. "Ah, no, my friend," he whispered, "they are here to eat up subpoena servers."

The Chelsea Standard.

An independent local newspaper published every Thursday afternoon from its office in the Standard building, Chelsea, Michigan.

BY O. T. HOOVER.

Terms:—$1.00 per year; six months, fifty cents; three months, twenty-five cents.

Advertising rates reasonable and made known on application.

Entered as second-class matter, March 5, 1906, at the postoffice at Chelsea, Michigan, under 106 Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

WHILE a third term in the gubernatorial office is not a popular measure to the ordinary republican voter, Governor Warner has become the logical candidate for another term. The people can't stand for the gang that have and are opposing him and the reforms he advocates. As a public official he has made few mistakes and has been constant in constantly pushing for reforms demanded by the people and must have hurt something that needed battling, from the source of the opposition to him.

WHILE, as a usual thing, Chelsea's streets are models of neatness, there are a few things that could be done, which would add to their appearance. An ordinance should be passed forbidding the nailing or pasting of advertising matter to the telephone poles within the village limits. Another matter that needs attention, is that of forbidding spitting on the walks. Receptacles should also be provided at various places in which waste paper and other articles could be placed, instead of being allowed to blow around or lie on the streets.

CONGRESSMAN TOWNSEND has been very much before the public for the past week, and as usual was on the popular side. The leaders in congress have shown a disposition to ignore the wishes of President Roosevelt in some much needed legislation, and Mr. Townsend came forward and in short order had Speaker Cannon promising to be good. Those members of congress who wish to see something done by the present congress are looking to Mr. Townsend as a leader at this time, and not only the second congressional district but the entire state is mighty proud of its representative.

In all events of the past right has always prevailed. This is because the history of the events is written by the survivors. It is a good deal the same in electric railroad accidents. Its always the dead officials that are to blame. However those who have rode much on the Ypsilanti, by taking into consideration the position of the cars at time of the accident, well known practice of giving limited cars right of way, and general contradiction of dispatcher's orders with themselves, that have taken place for the past week, can make their own deductions as to where the fault lies for the terrible accident which occurred April 28, and will not blame efficient motor men and conductors dead or alive. The dispatching department of the road needs an overhauling and needs it bad.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL EVENTS.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. John's church, of Francisco, met with Mrs. Andrew Fry, Wednesday afternoon. Rev. A. A. Schoen attended the meeting.

Last year 11,600 persons visited the art gallery at the University of Michigan, although it was open only two hours each afternoon. The Regents have ordered that hereafter it be kept open to visitors for two additional hours in the morning.

If anyone took the figures in the time table of the electric line, as published in last week's issue of The Standard, and tried to catch a car and missed it, please do not charge it up against this paper. The copy for the change was furnished by the general passenger agent, and after the paper was printed the discovery was made that he had furnished the wrong figures.

Under a new law, county treasurers are required to insure county buildings. Some of the treasurers have been appointed agents of fire insurance companies and have written the necessary policies. In an opinion Friday the attorney-general's department holds that county treasurers have no right to act as insurance agents in insuring county property, as they are supposed to act for the county.

NEARLY PUT OUT OF BUSINESS.

Great Wreckage Sale

The entire north side of the rear part of our Store Building fell into the alley north of the store.

In order to rebuild the wall, and to have the building perfectly safe, we have had to vacate the most of that part of the building, and move the goods into other parts of the store, taking room where ever we could make it. This has badly over-crowded the entire store, and we cannot do business in this over-crowded condition at all.

We can see now that we will not be back in our regular quarters for some time, and in order to do business at all we have got to have room. In order to make room we've decided to have

A One Week's Sale

Commencing Friday morning of this week, that will relieve us and give us the needed space. To move goods quickly we shall make great sacrifices in prices. It is not a question of price, but we must have the room, and must have it now. In order to have room all departments must be reduced in size at least until all repairs are finished.

Shoes

For Men and Boys.

We are crippled the most in the Shoe Department and the Grocery Department. Our Men's and Boys' Shoes have been moved into our carpet room on the second floor, and are badly in the way there.

Rev. A. A. Schoen presided at the annual meeting of St. John's church in Francisco, Tuesday.

John Wise is having a large addition built to his residence, which is situated just east of this village.

M. A. Lowry now goes about in a Cadillac automobile, which he purchased in Detroit the first of the week.

Rev. Frank E. Arnold of Ypsilanti occupied the pulpit at the Baptist church last Sunday morning and evening.

Roy Williams, who was so seriously injured in the wreck on the electric road last week, is reported as improving.

Frank Leach has purchased a lot from Fred Wedemeyer at Cavanaugh Lake, and has let the contract for a cottage to M. J. Howe.

A number of the members of the Eastern Star are making arrangements to attend the county meeting of the order at Manchester tomorrow.

L. Emmer has purchased the Chelsea Steam Laundry of W. E. Snyder, who has conducted it for the past three years. Mr. Snyder will remain with Mr. Emmer for several months.

A good sized crowd gathered at the intersection of Main and Middle streets Friday afternoon to witness the flight of the automobiles that were entered in the endurance run from Detroit to Saginaw, Kalamazoo and return to Detroit.

Someone entered the cellar at the home of William Wheeler, on south Main street, Sunday night, and carried away a portion of his salt pork. They also entered the residence of John P. Foster and carried away some provisions.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's church will give a dinner at the town hall Saturday afternoon, from 5 o'clock until all are served. The ladies are renowned for the excellent dinners that they serve, and we predict that they will have a large number in attendance.

Last Wednesday night the Epworth League and friends tendered their president, Herman Benter, a reception, and presented him with a fine Bible and Hymnal, as token of their appreciation of his services in church circles during his stay in our village.—Stockbridge Brief.

Workmen are busy at work repairing the damage to the building of the H. S. Holmes Mercantile Co. In the meantime, in order to make room the firm is making some extremely attractive prices on goods in every department, as can be seen by their advertisements elsewhere in this issue.

Dr. Holmes reached home Monday evening from an absence of ten days during which time he delivered eight theological lectures to the students of the Christian Biblical Institute, located at Defiance, Ohio, and preached four sermons—two at Defiance, and two at Huntington, Indiana.

The Detroit Trust Co., as receiver of the Glazier Stove Co., has filed a bill in the circuit court making Frank P. Glazier, Henrietta Glazier and the Glazier Stove Co., defendants, for the purpose of removing a cloud on the title of a portion of the real estate and personal property of the Glazier Stove Co. The property in contention is the old Chelsea Manufacturing Company's Plant located by Frank P. Glazier April 9, 1904, to the Glazier Stove Co., and it is claimed that the deed was not in proper form, etc., and the cloud can only be removed by a court in equity.

Last Friday Judge Kinnie ordered the receiver in the Chelsea Savings Bank matter to pay a thirty per cent. dividend, both to the savings and commercial depositors, and checks are now being drawn to pay the same. For the accommodation of the local depositors they will be paid by checks of the Kempf Commercial & Savings Bank. Receiver Wedemeyer has made a fine showing in the collection of quick assets, and the dividend declared exactly agrees with our estimate made the week after the failure that the quick assets would amount to $305,000. We have no reason to change our estimate made at that time, that the savings deposits will eventually realize in all 76 per cent. or better.

Regular meeting of Olive Chapter, O. E. S., Wednesday, May 13.

The Cytherian Club was entertained by Mrs. H. W. Schmidt, Friday.

Mrs. G. W. Irwin is having a new monument erected on her lot at Oak Grove cemetery.

There will be a regular meeting of the W. R. C. at their hall next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

C. W. Maroney has taken the contract to erect a cottage at Cavanaugh Lake for C. E. Whitaker.

There will be a musicale at the M. E. church Wednesday, May 13, for the benefit of the Epworth League.

The front to the building occupied by Frank Carringer has been brightened up by the application of a coat of paint.

The Modern Woodmen of Grass Lake gave a dancing party at that place Tuesday evening. A number of Chelsea people attended.

E. H. Doran, who was quite badly bruised up in the wreck on the D. J. & C. Ry. last week Tuesday, returned to Detroit Monday.

The young people's prayer circle will meet Tuesday evening, May 12, at 7 o'clock standard, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hieber.

George A. Lehman, cashier of the new bank, and family will move into the Humphrey house near the depot, next week.—Saline Observer.

Mrs. Wesley Canfield met with a curious accident recently. She was sewing and the scissors slipped from her lap and struck on her feet in such a manner as to sever an artery.

The Democrats of Lima township will meet in caucus, at the town hall, Wednesday, May 13, 1908, at 7:30 p. m., to elect five delegates to the county convention.

Peter Young, who has been in the hospital at Ann Arbor, for several weeks, where he was taken on account of stabbing himself while at play, has returned to his home.

"His Honor the Mayor" will stop at the New Whitney theater, Ann Arbor, Friday afternoon and evening, May 8. This is the only place that this company will stop between New York and Chicago.

Geo. A. Lehman has shipped his household goods to Saline, where the family will make their home. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Lehman regret their departure from this place, but wish them prosperity in their new home.

Our marshal has come out in a nice blue uniform with brass buttons. It is hoped that he will follow the example of our former marshal, who after looking at his new suit, looked up the tailor for the balance of the afternoon, in our cement bastille in the rear of the town hall.

As a means of greater safety to travelers, the state railroad commission will ask the next legislature for power to order double track system on interurban lines where the single track is fraught with danger to life. The commission will insist on a standard system of train dispatching.

Prof. F. E. Wilcox, who for the past year has been superintendent of schools and has made a fine record, has been tendered a position as instructor of mathematics in the Grand Rapids school, and will probably accept. During the summer vacation he expects to teach in the Central Normal at Mount Pleasant, Hudson Post.

The ministers of the Ann Arbor pastoral conference comprising Washtenaw, Jackson and beyond will meet at St. Paul's church next Tuesday and Wednesday. About fifteen ministers are expected. Tuesday evening there will be special services at 7:30 o'clock for the public. Rev. W. Breitenbach, of Jackson, will preach the sermon.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's church held their annual business meeting in the church last Friday afternoon. The report was read showing everything to be in a flourishing condition. Three new members were taken into the society, making a total membership of 88. The following officers were then elected: President, Mrs. F. Niehaus; vice president, Mrs. Hoffman; secretary, Mrs. Geo. Wackenhut; treasurer, Mrs. E. Feldkamp. At the close of the meeting a supper was given at the parsonage which was furnished by a committee.

The Fairy Prince's Visit

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

Did I ever tellin' ye about Mary Mahaney's chiny shower, which was held on a last St. Patrick's day, just a week before she was after gettin' married to Terence Mulhally?

Sure, if I was to live to be a thousand years old, I'll never forget that. 'Twas the mornin' before the shower, and I was doin' up me mistress's room, an' she sat on the sofy readin' her letters, I said, very respectful in-

"If it will not inconvenience you'm, like St. Patrick's eve off. Me best friend," I wipt on, "who is after mar- Terence Mulhally, is havin' a chiny shower. Oh, 'twill be grand! The other gurrils will all be takin' her a bit of chiny. Dhry yer eyes, an' come down to the chiny-closet with me. An' would ye believe it, before we end count tin, she had lepped up from the sofy, run down the stairs with me at her heels, throw open the chiny door at the chiny-closet, an' landed me out a fine, big pitcher! 'Twas a deep, dark blue, with pink flowers an' gilt all over wan side av it. 'Twas the handsomest thing ye ever see!"

So ye can imagine 'twas very set up for the night av the shower, when I had eleven gurrils, an' I started on me Sunday dress an' started with me grand pitcher all done up in tissue paper under me arm. Ye see, I was arranged that ye gurrils was to go out the supper an' get things all ready for the shower against the time the b'ys come in about tin o'clock. In while all was enjoyin' the ray- rishments we was to present the chiny with the chiny.

Well, we must all have started at the same time, fer by good luck we all got to Mary's kitchen dure at the same time.

While we were enjoyin' av ourselves, there come a knock on the dure, so I air an' sudden that it caused each av us to nigh jump out av our skins. Per a minute we all held back, an' then Mary stepped to the dure an' opened it, an' there, so close against that she jumped, stood a man.

"Isn't this Miss Bridget O'Reilly?" says very polite an' pleasant; an' before Mary could answer, he went on, "I'm sure it is," steppin' in an' closin' the dure behind him, "fer me sister in law wrote me that she lived in this house. She says, 'You will know her by her dark eyes an' her swate smile.' An' do ye know that, although she spoke to Mary, he give a sudden look past her an' smiled right at me; although Sheila, an' Biddy, an' Rosie, all contided afterward that it was sure at him he was lookin'."

Oh, but he was handsome!—It made my eyes glad to look at him! "Tall an' straight an' slim, with a laughin' mouth an' gray eyes, keen as a eagle's. 'I'm afraid I'm not the lady ye're lookin' fer," says Mary, in a soft voice. "Me name is Mahaney!"

"Mahaney?" he cried, fer all the while he had found a fortune. "Mahaney? Not av the Mahaneys?"

"County Galway," spake up Mary. "An' the next thing ye knew, before he had say another word, he had the hands av her an' was shakin' 'thim up an' down, his eyes shinin' an' the red gleamin' like snow in his dark eyes."

Well, the next thing ye knew, that he had got us all laughin' an' car- rin' on like we was kids agin. Och, there was nothin' that end be done at that didn't do it! He took the pitcher that Biddy Winn was knittin' from her an' knitt three rounds before he had say Jack Robinson—all the while tellin' some joke or a comic story that made our sides ache.

Each rompin' Oh, he was the great one! We shoved Mary, protestin' an' screamin' from the room, an' then he untied the presents for the chiny shower. Well, I'm tellin' ye, I had the surprise av me life. There wasn't a thing there, mind ye, that hadn't be av chiny as nice or better than the grand blue pitcher. Fer the life of me, I could not make it out just why fer why they had spent their money on Mary Mahaney, although I never light on the subject later.

"An' all the while, Mary poundin' on the dure an' beggin' to be let in, until she took pity on her, an' let her come in. After that we quieted down, an' around the stove again, with an- other cup av fresh tea apiece. An' he began to sing. An' oh! 'twas the mad voice he had, an' 'twas a pritty song as ye ever heard, with the gay av it.

All at once he stopped short, looked at the big, square clock tekin' away on the mantelpiece, an' then he air started, an' fer a minute a glow fell across his face.

"Did ye ever hear av Cinderella?" he air, "that had to have the ball at the stroke av 12?" I'm her brother, an' I must be lavin' before the stroke av 12."

In Walks Tim Hogan.

out the supper, but some way or other the hairt seemed to have gone out av all av us, an' although I will say fer myself, I kept me timper an' niver wance ferget I was a lady, the others became very cross an' disputatious. But we put what face on it we cud, an' before beginnin' to enjoy the rayfresh- ments, we all presented Mary with our pieces of chiny. Well, ye should have seen the face on her when she undid them packages. 'Twas proud an' pleased an' yet puzzled, an' it kept gettin' more so as she unrolled the paper from each grand ornyment.

An' while she was thyrin' to thank us the best she cud, in walks Tim Hogan, brushin' the snow off his uni- form—he is a policeman, ye know—an' although 'twas a very cold night, as I did be tellin' ye, his face was red an' hot, and the perspiration was tricklin' down his forehead under his helmet. Naturally, iverywan began to ask why he was so late.

"'Tis fer a good reason," he says, very important an' yet cross. "There has been a great robbery. Almost ivery house on Peticunia place has been entered this night. Yours, Sheila Mooney, an' yours, Nora Grady, an' yours, Biddy Winn. The police thought they had him sure; but he slipped right through their fingers and vanished like quicksilver. I did not see him meself, but 'twas the fine handsome crook he was, they told me. I'd give something nice to lay me hands on him."

Before he had finished, Rosie, she slipped through the dure into the laundry. Stoppin' only to whisper to Mary to kape the quiet tongue in her head—I cud tell by the way Sheila an' Biddy was lookin' at Tim that they had no intintion av helpin' him out with any information—I followed Rosie.

There she was, sittin' on a up- turned tub in that cold, damp laun- dry, lit only by a feeble taper, cryin' as if her hairt wud break.

"Oh, Nora," she sobs when she sees me, runnin' to me an' throwin' her arms around me, "do ye believe it?"

"Not I!" I says, very stout. "I'd stake me sowl's salvation that he niver stole anything but hairts."

"An' me, too," says Sheila, who had come in. "I don't know what he was, an' I don't care; but he was no thief."

"But I know now," says Rosie, liftin' her head up, with a light on her face an' a kind av glory an' wonder in her eyes. "'Tis the prince av the fairies he was, stepped in on a St. Patrick's eve to call on the few that's left be- lavin' in him."

WHY SHOULD THIS BE NECESSARY?

Five Thousand Crates Eggs Recently Imported Into This Country from England.

Somewhere in this country there are able bodied American hens that are shirking their duties. And they've done this for some time. Otherwise, why would America have to send to Eng- land for Eggs?

There are enough hens in this coun- try to keep us fully supplied with eggs if every hen simply attends to her business.

But doesn't it isn't the hen's fault that she doesn't and cannot lay. Only healthy hens lay eggs. This means that poultry raisers must learn what ails the hens that are not working, and then give them whatever will cure their ailment, build up their system, and help them to lay regularly.

The first thing to do is to get a re- liable book about poultry, and read it. There are plenty that are so full of big words that only the scientist can understand them.

But there's one book that tells every- thing anybody ever wanted to find out about poultry. A practical experience of 26 years is condensed into it, and everything is explained so simply that a child can understand it. Its title is "Pratts New Poultry Book," and it is generally sold for 25c. But if WITHIN ONE WEEK you cut out this notice and take it to your dealer, he will give you one copy FREE. If your dealer is out of it, mail the notice to the Pratt Food Company, Department R, Phila- delphia, and they will mail you a copy ABSOLUTELY FREE!

The Pratt Food Company, you know, are the manufacturers of the widely used "Pratts Poultry Regulator" and other Poultry and live-stock prepara- tions.

For 26 years their preparations have met with remarkable success, but this is not surprising because they are all based on practical experience.

"Pratts Poultry Regulator" helps hens to lay more eggs, and it also increases the size of the fowls, adds luster to their plumage, makes the eggs fertile, gives strength and quick growth to little chicks, makes the comb and wat- ties a bright red, prevents gapes and leg weakness, and positively cures the common poultry ailments—the latter, by the way, are interestingly de- scribed in the Pratt Book.

BUYING PAINT BLINDLY.

Many people look upon paint buy- ing as a lottery and so it is, the way they do it. It is not necessarily so, however. Pure White Lead and Lin- seed oil are the essential elements of good paint. Adulterants in white lead can be easily found by the use of a blowpipe. Adulterations in linseed oil can be detected with a fair degree of certainty. See that these two elements are pure and properly put on and the paint will stay put.

National Lead Company, Wood- bridge, Building, New York City, will send a blowpipe outfit and instruc- tions for testing both white lead and linseed oil, on request.

The Details.

"The particulars?"

"Well, Capt. Feebles was shot in the back, originally, and went around with his back bent a good deal like an interrogation mark, until he got a por- tly slab of back pension. Then he straightened up his back until it was decidedly concave instead of consid- erably convex, dyed his whiskers a fighting black and set out in pursuit of a buxom widow, who, being a widow, knew exactly how to be caught while maintaining all the symptoms of eluding capture to the very best of her ability."—Smart Set.

She Was Troubled.

Mary Ann had gone with her mother to spend the day at her grandmother's, and while there the little girl's mother had talked with Uncle Charles on the telephone. For the remainder of the visit Mary Ann wore a troubled look and when they were leaving the child pointed to the phone box and said: "Mamma, won't you please let Uncle Charles out of that box?"

When a man's wife goes away for a month's visit the chances are that he enjoys it as much as she does.

Perseverance Essential.

There is a certain point of pro- ficiency at which an acquisition begins to be of use, and unless we have the time and resolution necessary to reach that point, our labor is as completely thrown away as that of a mechanic who began to make an engine but never finished it.—P. G. Hamerton.

Be Your Own Roofer!

Write Today for Heppes Roofers' Book FREE

Ask for a free copy of Heppes Roofers' Book, worth dollars to any property owner or builder. This book is a practical handbook that teaches you how to lay a Heppes No-Tar Roof on any kind of a building—barn, shed, granary, residence, store, dairy barn, silo, poultry house, ice house, crib or outbuilding.

It tells How to Measure a Roof; How to Make "Valleys" and "Gutters"; How to Lay Heppes No-Tar Roofing Around Chimneys ("Chimney Flashing"), or over old Shingle Roofs, or up against the side of a build- ing with a fire-wall ("Wall Flashing"), or how to apply No-Tar to the sides or interior of buildings, and a great many other practical points. The roofing knowledge you get out of this book is valuable—you can't get it anywhere else. Best of all, the book explains the process of making Heppes No-Tar Roofing—the grandest substitute for shingles ever known, because it gives ten times the protection against time, water, sparks, heat and cold, at a mere fraction of the cost of shingles. Write us a postal for Free Roofers' Book.

HEPPES NO-TAR ROOFING

Grandest of All Materials to Take the Place of Shingles

The prohibitive price and poor quality of the shingles now on the market has created a widespread demand for a satisfactory material to take their place. HEPPES NO-TAR ROOFING is that material. Its price is so extraordinarily low that the combined cost of buying and laying Heppes No-Tar Roofing is much less than the mere cost of shingles. The cost of laying a shingle roof is one-fourth the cost of shingles them- selves, and Heppes No-Tar Roofing meets modern requirements ten times better than shingles ever did. It makes a handsome, leak-proof, weatherproof, fire-resisting and time-defying roof. It withstands the snow and ice and storms of winter. It is proof against the hottest sun. It is so easy to apply that any man, with the aid of the HEPPES ROOFERS' BOOK can be his own roofer. Its value as a fire- resister is shown by the fact that Fire Insurance Companies charge 25 per cent less for insuring buildings protected by Heppes No-Tar Roofing than for buildings with shingle roofs.

Used on All Farm Buildings

Heppes No-Tar Roofing is used on Houses, Barns, Sheds, Granaries, Hog Houses, Cow Barns, Silos, Poultry Houses, Ice Houses, Carriage Houses, Wagon Sheds, Cribbs and all other farm buildings. Cover the sides of buildings as well as roofs with it. It will pay big returns on the investment. Unlike shingles, it does not crack, curl or rot. Unlike tin or galvanized iron, it does not rust, blow off or deteriorate. It needs no repairs and lasts as long as the building.

Heppes No-Tar Roofing Better Than Shingles—Costs 50% Less

The popularity of Heppes No-Tar Roofing extends from ocean to ocean. Ours is the fastest-growing roofing business in the world. Dealers everywhere sell our roofing. It is made from the strongest wool felt, water-proofed, and made fire-resisting by being soaked with pure asphalt, and reinforced with coatings of Asphalt, Flint and Mica, under tremendous heat and pressure. Its coolgray stone color is pleasing to the eye. Heppes No-Tar Roofing is put up in compact rolls 36 inches wide, and in 1-ply, 2-ply and 3-ply weights. Each roll contains two "squares" or 216 square feet. Each "square" is guaranteed to cover 100 square feet of surface, including a 2-inch overlap. (It is also put up in 1-square rolls.) Free Cement for Seams and Free Large-headed Nails, with Instructions, are packed in the hollow center of each roll. Easy to lay—no experience necessary.

Warning!

Look out for certain brands of "imitation" roofing now on the market which are merely building paper soaked with tar and sprinkled with sand while hot. HEPPES NO-TAR ROOFING is guaranteed to be free from Tar. Send today for Free Roofers' Book.

Elsie Janis.

Elsie Janis in "The Hoyden," coming to the New Whitney Theatre, Ann Arbor, Wednesday, May 13, has proven one of the great musical comedies of the season. This dainty little comedienne has never been seen to such advantage as in the bright, clean musical comedy which Cosmo Hamilton has fitted her, and the supporting company headed by Joseph Cawthorn, the well-known Gorman comedian, is reported from New York, Chicago, Boston, Washington and Philadelphia to be completely competent and satisfactory. Mr. Dillingham has outdone even his own record in the matter of opulent investiture, for the little Janis star is even more gorgeously enviromed than were either Fritz Scheff or Lulu Glaser on their appearance under his direction.

Miss Janis deserves all she has in the way of decorative, if adventitious accessories, for surely no more charming picture of careless girlhood was ever set upon any stage than her Joan Talbot,
"The Hoyden." Miss Janis has developed wonderfully since last seen in "The Vanderbilt Cup"—not only physically, for the slim demoiselle of last year is a very splendid young mademoiselle this year—but along the lines of her art.
Of course, she still gives her "imitations" and they are delightful.

There are hordes of pretty girls, some excellent music and a lot of clever people in "The Hoyden." Besides Joseph Cawthorn, other well-known artists in the cast supporting Miss Janis are Arthur Stanford, Jessie Richmond,
Lionel Walsh, Nellie Beaumont, Sydney
Jarvis, barytone; Annie Esmond and Edgar Halstead.

ACT QUICKLY.

Delay Has Been Dangerous In Chelsea.

Do the right thing at the right time.
Act quickly in time of danger.
Backache is kidney danger.
Doan's Kidney Pills act quickly.
Cure all distressing, dangerous kidney ills.
Plenty of evidence to prove this.
J. J. Peachey, of 106 East Pine street, Albion, Mich., says: "I was a constant sufferer from kidney trouble brought on I think by the exposure while serving in the army. I suffered from dull, heavy pains across my loins and back which were so severe at night as to greatly break my rest. My back was very weak and lame, and I was unable to lift anything. The secretions from my kidneys were much disordered, containing a heavy sediment, and being dark in color. I consulted physicians who told me that I was suffering from kidney trouble, but their medicines did not help me at all. Finally, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, and began their use. I felt great relief from the first, and continued taking them, soon being free from all signs of kidney trouble." (From a statement given November 23, 1901.)

A PERMANENT CURE.
In November, 1906, Mr. Peachey said:
"I think even more highly of Doan's Kidney Pills at this time than when I gave a statement recommending them in 1901. They cured me then and the cure has been a permanent one."

FAIR ELLEN SOLD.

Tommy McNamara of Chelsea the New Owner.

George H. Lancaster has sold Fair
Ellen to Tommy McNamara, of Chelsea, the deal being completed Tuesday afternoon whereby the noted little chestnut pacer will shine in Chelsea society.

Mr. McNamara had been here several times but always lacked a little cash, that is, he would not pay quite the price asked, but when he drove over Tuesday and rode after the little mare it did not take him long to count out $262.50 which made him owner of the little treasure.

Fair Ellen is six years old, is perfectly sound and gentle, making her a perfect family driver, and when it comes to roading Mr. McNamara will not have to take anyone's dust in Chelsea.

Fair Ellen has raised one colt, now 22 months old, which Mr. Lancaster calls Eureka. He is already well broken and can show a good clip, in fact has the ear marks of a fast one.

Nothing suits "Jumbo" better than to hitch the little sorrel wonder up on a cart and take a lively spin about town.
There has been a vacant place over at the Lancaster barn since Wednesday morning when Mr. McNamara led away the little chestnut mare but George con-soles himself with the thought that she will have an excellent home and be well cared for.—Clinton Local.

Tommy informs the Standard that he purchased Fair Ellen for a family horse, and says that when he gets her in shape,
if anyone thinks they can lead her down the road they will have to "go some."
She won the 3-year-old race at the Detroit state three years ago and open to Michigan bred 3-year-olds and got a record of 2:21. She went in Adrian half mile heats at a matinee and won her race in the following time: 1:07, 1:07 and 1:08.

Notice.

The democrats of the township of Sylvan will meet in caucus at the town hall on Saturday, May 9, 1908, at two o'clock p. m. of said day, for the purpose of nominating 14 delegates to the county convention to be held in the city of Ann Arbor on Thursday the 14th day of May, 1908, called for the purpose of electing 19 delegates to the state democratic convention to be held in Lansing May 20, 1908, and for the purpose of transacting such other business as may properly come before said caucus.

Dated at Chelsea, Michigan, May 4, 1908.

By Order of Committee.

Scientific Loafing.
"Chess, checkers and whist are marvelous inventions," says the philosopher of folly. "They enable a man to waste his time and still have the feeling that he is accomplishing something intellectual."

Don't let the baby suffer from eczema

BREVITIES

There are a number of cases of scarlet fever reported at Manchester.

Judge H. Wirt Newkirk and Geo.
B. Rhead have formed a partnership in the real estate and insurance business at Ann Arbor.

The ladies of the Eastern Star at Ypsilanti are planning to collect a mile of pennies to aid the Masonic Temple fund of that city.

Two saloons at Ann Arbor were put out of business Friday on account of their not having furnished bonds. They are Edward Zachman and William Kobeneck.

The public opening of the new Masonic Temple at Jackson was held Monday evening. The building is one of the handsomest devoted to Masonic uses in Michigan.

Cary Heydlauff, a Munith farmer, was bitten by a farm dog Thursday.
On investigation the animal was found to have been mad and Heyd-lauff has gone to Ann Arbor to take the Pasteur treatment.

After a hard struggle lasting several years, it has been voted to bond the village of Plymouth to pave Main street. This is a much needed improvement, for the town has spent thousands of dollars for gravel, but never succeeded in making a hard road.

For selling cigarettes to a boy under 17 years of age, Albert Baso, a tobacconist and confectioner at Ann Arbor has paid a court fine and costs aggregating $8.45. The complaint was made by the boy's mother and is the first instance of the enforcement of the new anti-cigarette law in that city.

The supreme court has decided in favor of Albert Mayer of Ann Arbor in his suit against the D. Y. A. A.
& J. railway company, which was appealed from the Washtenaw county circuit court. Mr. Mayer received a verdict of $5,000 for personal injuries when his car ran into the M. C. depot at Ann Arbor several weeks ago.

Many farmers of Jackson county, it is said, find themselves with a big surplus of hay on hand, are chagrined at the situation, because the price has fallen, and hay will probably fade another drop soon, as the prospects for early pasturage is exceptionally good, and cattle and sheep are already beginning to pick up a pretty fair living in the meadows.

E. S. Hagaman aged 64 years, a justice of the peace at Manchester for several years, and a prominent Mason, was almost instantly killed
Tuesday morning by a falling rafter.
There was no fracture beyond a red scratch on his skull. Mr. Hagaman was an enterprising citizen and will be greatly missed by the whole community. He leaves a wife and two daughters to mourn his loss.

With no little difficulty the break in the Brooklyn mill dam was closed last Thursday and the water forced through the new waste weir. At the first unsuccessful attempt about two weeks ago the cofferdam timbers were not carried away but a much deeper channel was cut. When the plank spiles of the cofferdam were again driven quite a quantity of water found its way through the blockade, and as the pond raised about an inch each five minutes it made lively work for the shovels and scrapers. About 200 sacks of sand were placed before anything like satisfactory progress was made in holding back the water. It was a sweating gruelling game against an untiring adversary and the laborers dared not stop for dinner. A number of soft handed spectators lent timely aid when it appeared that the water was likely to get the best of the shovels.—Brooklyn-Exponent.

Checker Challenge.

The checker team of the University of Michigan hereby challenges any three Chelsea checker players to a match, to be played before the close of the present term, according to arrangements which may be made by those interested,

Arbor, Mich.

Island's Abnormal Climate.

Of the abnormal climate of Kodiak Island, Alaska, a writer says: "In spite of its situation in such high latitudes we find here what may well be described as 'the parting of the ways' between the arctic and more temperate regions. For, thanks to the moderating influence of the Japanese current which flows along its southern coasts, Kodiak is favored with climatic conditions such as are unknown even in places a few miles north or east of it on the mainland of Alaska. So pronounced is the demarcation line that even on the island itself a traveler, in summer will suddenly emerge from a land of forests and vegetation of almost tropical luxuriance into a bar-ren, desolate land of silence, where lofty snow-capped mountains tower aloft, brooding, as it were, over the past terrors of an arctic winter, which will soon descend once more, enveloping them in its icy grip."

A Power Has Risen.

A power has risen up in the government greater than the people themselves, consisting of many and various and powerful interests, combined into one mass, and held together by the cohesive power of the vast surplus in the banks.—John C. Calhoun.
