TYPE OF ARTISTIC BEAUTY

GRACE FILKINS.

(Sketch from life by Hugh Stuart Campbell with analysis by author.)

Our emotional lady; tense with the delicate fires of spirit-stirrings—the emotions are deeply expressed and radiate impressions of mystifying significance to the receptive beholder. The energy seems pent, but gives frequent bursts of different phases of nature's moods. A most attractive personality, not from outline of feature, but from the wonderful and spiritual gift of interpreting character by subtle attraction.

LARGE NUMBER OUT.

Republican Caucus Saturday Was a Warm One.

One of the most enthusiastic caucuses ever held in Sylvan was that of the republicans, Saturday afternoon. There were plenty of candidates for supervisor and highway commissioner, four for the former and five for the latter. According to the vote on supervisor there were 233 present, and as there were several ballots taken for the two offices named it took about two hours and a half to conclude the business of the convention.

The caucus was called to order by L. P. Vogel, who called William Bacon to the chair. O. T. Hoover was elected secretary, and John Farrell and D. H. Wurster were appointed tellers. The officers were sworn in by Geo. A. BeGole.

There were four candidates for supervisor, J. S. Cummings, Jacob Hummel, Hiram Lighthall and Chas. E. Foster. Three ballots were necessary to decide the matter, and on the last J. S. Cummings was declared the nominee.

The name of Hector Cooper was the only one presented for clerk.

For treasurer the names of C. Emil Kantlehner and Fred Brosamle were presented, and the ballot resulted in a victor for Mr. Kantlehner.

For highway commissioner the names of Frederick J. Sager, Christian Kalmbach and Fred Gilbert were presented, and five ballots were taken before Mr. Sager was declared the nominee.

The balance of the ticket was quickly nominated, and the entire ticket is as follows:

Supervisor—John S. Cummings.
Clerk—Hector Cooper.
Treasurer—C. Emil Kantlehner.
Highway Commissioner—Frederick J. Sager.
Overseer of Highways—Philip Brosamle.

Justice of the Peace—Stephen L. Gage.

Member Board of Review—Martin Merkel.

Constables—Frank Leach, Geo. A. Young, Charles Hepburn and Addison B. Shutes.

On motion the chairman appointed O. T. Hoover, Homer Boyd and Geo. A. BeGole as township committee.

"Ma's New Husband."

There is not a boy or a girl, nor an adult for that matter, who will fail to find in Professor Hooker, the tutor in "Ma's New Husband" one of the most amusing and pompous old humbugs known to farce comedy. He is quick of wit as a boy to get himself and pupil out of a scrap, and he is just as quick and as sly in resigning himself to circumstances, for the time being. He is only one of the many mirthful characters who will create merriment among the audience next Wednesday evening, April 7, at the Sylvan theatre, when "Ma's New Husband" will be seen here for the first time.

This musical farce, in 3 acts, comes well commended by the press of other cities as a highly successful funmaker. It is said to have quite a number of popular song-hits, solos, duets, etc. Among them are "Jokes," "I Love No Other But You," "A Kiss," etc.

WAS VERY QUIET.

Democrat Caucus Saturday Named Ticket in Record Time.

On account of the length of time taken in pulling off the republican caucus, the democrat caucus was held in the basement of the town hall, Saturday afternoon.

Geo. W. Beckwith called the meeting to order, and appointed Geo. P. Staffan chairman, C. W. Maroney elected secretary, and James Taylor and John Geddes tellers. They were sworn in by H. D. Witherell.

Everything went along as smoothly as a well oiled machine. There were no contests, and the following ticket was named in record time:

Supervisor—Geo. W. Beckwith.
Clerk—G. W. Maroney.
Treasurer—J. E. McKane.
Highway Commissioner—John Geddes.
Overseer of Highways—Manfred Hoppe.

Justice of the Peace—Herbert D. Witherell.

Member Board of Review—Charles Fish.

Constables—John F. Liebeck, Charles Young, Charles Hieber and John Merker.

Geo. W. Beckwith, F. H. Sweetland and James Taylor were appointed members of the township committee.

Lyndon Nominations.

Republican—Supervisor, Chas. Ellsworth; clerk, Charles Hartuff; treasurer, Willis B. Warner; highway commissioner, Harvey S. Barton; justice of the peace, Clarence Rowe; justice of the peace, (to fill vacancy) Harrison Hadley; member board of review, James Barton; constables, William Roepecke, Herbert Hudson; overseer of highways, George Boyce.

Democrat—Supervisor, Eugene Healey; clerk, James Clark; treasurer, Earl Beeman; highway commissioner, Henry Lecke; justice of the peace, Luke Rielly; justice of the peace, (to fill vacancy) George Beeman; member board of review, Charles Runciman; constables, Luke Gulnan, Louis Paine, Henry McKune and Bert Wallace; overseer of highways, Frank Lusty.

Lima Nominations.

Democrat—Supervisor, Fred Halst; township clerk, David E. Beach; township treasurer, Reuben Kaercher; highway commissioner, John Lucht; highway overseer, Michael Iobeldinger; justice of the peace, Adolph Schmidt; justice of the peace, (to fill vacancy) Adam Spiegelberg; member of the board of review, Jacob Gross; constables, Reuben Kaercher, Julius Niehaus, Chas. Streiter and Lewis Barth.

Republicans—Supervisor, Alvin J. Easton; treasurer, William Bahnmiller; highway commissioner, Walter Patterson; highway overseer, Charles Finkbeiner; justice of the peace, Alvin Baldwin; justice of the peace, (to fill vacancy) Mason Whipple; constables, Samuel Tucker, Otto Lulek, John Finkbeiner and John Edwards.

KILLED BY THE CARS ON MONDAY

JACOB SCHILLER MET DEATH ON MICHIGAN CENTRAL.

HE WAS GATHERING COAL

Struck By Train No. 23 While Crossing Track About Two Miles East of Chelsea—Monday Afternoon.

Last Monday afternoon about 3 o'clock, No. 23, a fast train on the M. C. R. R., going west, struck and instantly killed Jacob Schiller, about two miles east of town.

The inquest which was held by Justice Wood Wednesday morning, developed that Mr. Schiller was picking up coal on the north side of the north track. The train was coming on the north track, and Mr. Schiller thinking he would have more room on the south side of the track, and misjudging the time he had, attempted to cross and was hit and instantly killed when practically across the track. The facts were sworn to by the engineer and fireman, and verified by the location of wounds on the left side of Mr. Schiller's head, as sworn to by Dr. J. T. Woods.

Jacob Schiller was about fifty years old and leaves a widow and two children.

The funeral was held this morning at St. Paul's church, Rev. A. A. Schoen conducting the services.

Milo Hatt.

Milo Hatt, son of James and Polly Hatt (nee Palen) was born in Steuben county, New York, April 12, 1829. He removed with his parents to the state of Michigan in 1833, settling near Ann Arbor, but later coming to the vicinity of Franciscus. He was married to Miss Liza Main, but after some years this union was broken by the death of the wife. He was remarried on February 10, 1863, and was united in holy wedlock to Sarah A. Haven at Grass Lake, Mich. Two children were born to this union, one daughter, Alberta, now Mrs. Orthing, and one son, Alpine, who died May 27, 1878. Some years after the son's death he took into his home and heart, Leonard Loveland, then a child of 5 years to whom he was a kind and devoted foster-father. Having reared this child to manhood his kindness was returned by the filial attentions of him who was considered his son. Mr. Hatt was a kind, honest and upright gentleman and commanded the esteem of all who knew him. He was patient in all his sufferings from which he was relieved on March 25, 1906, attaining unto the age of 79 years, 11 months, and 13 days. Besides two children, three brothers, five sisters and four grandchildren a large number of relatives and friends mourn his death.

The funeral services took place on Sunday morning from the Salem German M. E. church, interment in Maple Grove cemetery, Sylvan Center.

"The Flower of the Ranch."

"The Flower of the Ranch," a stirring story of the rugged West, in three colorful acts and set to stirring music by Joseph E. Howard, will be at the new Whitney theatre on Monday night, April 5.

"The Flower of the Ranch" is easily the best thing Mr. Howard has ever given the public and there is a very good reason why, in that it has a story of plot and dramatic strength, a feature painfully missing in all his other efforts. In fact "The Flower of the Ranch" is, in reality, a melodrama, set to music, for there are scenes, during the action of play, strongly melodramatic and intense.

The play is in three brisk and picturesque settings and the action of the story proceeds under the smiling skies of California. It tells the story of life on a ranch settlement, and especially that of a child who is an orphan. The orphan is known as Flower, and is reared to womanhood by a kindhearted ranchman. Seventeen years later Flower has developed into happy and healthy young womanhood, and is loved by everyone with whom she comes in contact. Jack Farnum, whose possessions are coveted by a scheming sheriff, fall in love with Flower—that is her only name—and there are complications arise in which a thieving Mexican and a band of cattle branders aid the sheriff who is thwarted in his efforts by Flower of course, there is the usual satisfactory ending.

There are some twenty numbers, each and every one logically introduced and with a spirited chorus of handsome young women add to an entertainment really novel and interesting.

CHURCH CIRCLES

METHODIST EPISCOPAL
Rev. D. H. Glass, Pastor.
Special meetings every night this week and next, except Saturday night.
Evangelists Fleming and Webb of Detroit will conduct the meetings.
J. E. Fleming, the speaker, was a commercial traveler receiving a good salary when he was led into evangelistic work.
For twenty years he has been in this work and has unusual success. He just closed meetings in Canal Dover, Ohio, where many scores were added to the churches. Seventeen years ago he held meetings in Chelsea at which time more than two hundred were added to the

J. E. FLEMING.

local churches. His preaching is richly scriptural, clear, forceful and convincing. It is plain without vulgarity and pungent without personalities. Brother Fleming has impressed us already with the child-like faith which led him to accept the invitation to come to Chelsea, and to enter into the work so earnestly and acceptably.

G. S. Webb, the gospel singer, is also a "Drummer" representing one of the most exclusive concerns in the county.
He devotes six months of the year to the road and six to evangelistic singing.
Mr. Webb is greatly devoted to his work. He sings "with the spirit and with the understanding also." His solos are impressive and inspiring. The Alexander song books are used in the

G. S. WEBB.

meetings and contain the latest and greatest gospel songs in print. Every evening a song service is conducted from seven to half-past seven. This part of the service is very valuable to the young people who are taking much interest in cultivating singing. The boys' choir adds much to the power of song.

The meetings are in the closest cooperation with the temperance campaign now being pushed in our village.
The services close in time to allow the congregation to go to the temperance meeting when such a meeting has been arranged for. A cordial invitation is extended to the residents of the village and surrounding country to attend the meetings. Members of the churches who profess to be the followers of the Master should be as enthusiastic in trying to win their fellow men to a righteous life as the liquor element is in dragging men to utter ruin. The congregation will go in a body to-night to hear Mr. Cunneen at the town hall.
The speaker is a Catholic and one of the most popular speakers to working men in the country. He is himself a machinist and can talk to men as a practical man. We must not miss hearing him. Friday night Dr. Day, of Albion, one of the most eloquent and convincing speakers on the platform, will speak at the town hall. These two men afford a rich treat for our citizens.
Sunday night will be the great day of the feast. Union mass meeting will be held in the Methodist church. Mr.
Marsh, the state attorney for the Anti-Saloon League will be one of the speakers. Several short addresses will be made. Let us all rally to this last meeting before the election.

NATURE TELLS YOU

As Many a Chelsea Reader Knows Too Well.

When the kidneys are sick,
Nature tells you all about it.
The urine is nature's calendar.
Infrequent or too frequent action;
Any urinary trouble tells of kidneys ills.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney
ills.
People in this vicinity testify to this.
John R. Burkholder, 15 W. Congress St., Ypsilanti, Mich., says: "I had more or less trouble from my back and kidneys and there was a constant dull ache across my loins that made it difficult for me to stoop. That my kidneys were disordered and probably the cause of my trouble, was shown by the unnatural condition and irregular passages of the secretions from these organs. When I chanced to hear of Doan's Kidney Pills,
I procured a box and upon using them as directed, received great benefit. This remedy acted as a tonic to my kidneys and made me feel stronger and better in every way. There is no question about Doan's Kidney Pills fulfilling the claim made for them."

CURES INDIGESTION.

All Distress from Stomach and Indigestion Vanishes in Five Minutes.
Take your sour stomach—or maybe you call it indigestion, dyspepsia, gas tritis or catarrh of stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Peppin's Diapain and let you eat one 22 grain triangular and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your stomach misery.
The correct name for your trouble is food fermentation—food souring; the digestive organs become weak; there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become afflicted with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms.
If your appetite is fickle, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.
Prove to yourself, after your next meal, that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong.
Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.
Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapain.

Won Through Force of Grit.
Louise M. Alcott fought poverty for 30 years, fighting it with splitting headaches, weary limbs and aching heart, but she made over $200,000 with er pen and cleared all the family debts, even those outlawed. Her grit alone sustained her against poor health.

"Generally debilitated for years. Had sick headaches, lacked ambition, was worn-out and all run-down. Burdock Blood Bitters made me a well woman."
—Mrs. Chas. Freitoy, Moosup, Conn.

To All Farmers and Horsemen

Who desire to improve the breed of horses raised in Washtenaw county, we wish to call attention to the two fine Stallions which we have purchased from J. Crouch & Son, of Lafayette, Ind., and which we will stand for service at Chelsea and vicinity this season.

We have secured these two Stallions for two reasons: First, to earn a fair rate of interest on the money invested, and second to enable farmers and horsemen to breed and raise better draft horses, that will attract city buyers and shippers, and bring the highest price.

Every farmer and stockbreeder knows and recognizes the fact that the only way to improve the grade and quality of any kind of live stock is to use a pure bred sire of the finest quality obtainable;
this we believe we have done in securing these grand Stallions.

The larger of the two, "Hercule de Lefenghe" is a pure bred Belgian of splendid proportions, excellent bone, strong muscles, and graceful carriage; color, dark dapple bay; weight, 2,200 pounds. He is recorded in Vol. 2, of the register of the American Association of Importers and Breeders of Belgian Draft Horses, as No. 2786; his Belgian Stud Book No. 41844, as shown by the proofs on file, and was foaled April 18, 1905. Good judges of draft horses have pronounced him the best Draft Stallion in Michigan.

The smaller horse, Alcazar, is a close made, compactly built, heavy boned, pure bred Percheron; color bay, with star; weight, 1,900 pounds; foaled April 28, 1906. Alcazar is recorded in the French Stud Book as No. 65617, and was imported from France in July, 1908, by J. Crouch & Son. Is recorded by the Percheron Society of America as No. 55917. This horse is sure to sire high-class colts, that will make excellent farm and general purpose horses.

We believe the time has arrived when farmers and stockmen generally, in Michigan, and especially in Washtenaw county, are awake to the fact that it is profitable to raise more and better horses, of the Heavy and Light Draft types, and that these Stallions will be appreciated by all progressive breeders.

On account of the scattered location and distance apart of a great many of the prominent breeders who have expressed a desire to use these horses, it is impossible to travel them from farm to farm, and the following stands have been arranged:

Mondays—At Dexter.
Tuesdays and Wednesdays—At Ann Arbor.
Thursdays—At Joseph Staebler's, Scio.
Fridays and Saturdays—At Weiss' barn, 1 1/2 miles southeast of Chelsea.

"Bossy's" Toilet.

Since the higher education of the cow has been taken up and our universities have been turning out a superior quality of young line, one is not surprised to hear that the up-to-date queen of the cattle barn and her college-bred companions should be made the objects of a fastidious solicitude undreamed of in the days of yore. A member of the Covington (Ky.) board of health has sprung into fame through a demand that cows have their teeth brushed with regularity. Health experts in other cities have treated the demand lightly, professing not to see how the innovation would tend to purify the milk supply. If the scheme ever does take hold, however, the dairymaid of romance is likely to become confused with the servitor who assists in the preparation of the aristocratic cow's toilet. It will not be difficult to picture the time when every "fashionable cow" will have a mirror in its boudoir, says the Chicago Record-Herald, and neatly arranged on the shelf below a toothbrush about the size of the shoe brush of human use; a jar about the size of a half barrel, containing the latest tooth powder advertised in the street cars; a two-gallon cut-glass bottle of eau de cologne, and a five-pound box of violet face powder, together with the creams and other things supplied by the beauty-shops.

After "Bossy" has had her morning shower, had her teeth brushed, and perhaps been massaged with an electric vibrator, she may then draw up a neat little glass-covered table for the manuring of her hoofs.

It will next be in order for somebody to interest the cows in a brand of cud flavored as is the chewing gum of commerce.

The Bureau of Entomology.

The work carried on by the bureau relates entirely to injurious insects, and the direct object of this work is to discover remedial measures and to make them known to the public. The object of the work, therefore, is of the most practical character and every effort is devoted to the practical end. It has been conservatively estimated that the United States suffers an annual economic loss from injurious insects of one kind or another of surely $700,000,000. This estimate, says L. O. Howard, Ph. D., in National Magazine, includes the damage done to agricultural crops, to orchard and horticultural industries, to live stock, to stored products, to forests and forest products, and to other property, but it does not include the economic loss to communities and to the nation through the lessening of the productive capacity of the population through the prevalence of diseases that are carried by insects, such as malaria, phoid fever, yellow fever, and possibly many others.

A Boston genius has invented a method of grabbing off the rays of the sun as they wander idly up and down the earth and storing them in an electric battery from which they may be released to light the house at night. This is calculated to make the oil trust sit up and take notice much more than any court proceedings, although the latter are accompanied by a $29,240,000 fine, says the Chicago Daily News. Every once in a while some calculating person who forgets how long the world survived without coal jumps into the limelight and has a fit through fear that we shall freeze to death on account of the failure of the coal supply. Now an inventor comes along and shows him that his fears are groundless. Human ingenuity still has years to work before the coal gives out and already the start toward a solution is promising. Will the coal trust also tremble and reduce prices?

Underground passages for pedestrians are to be built at various points beneath the Champs Elysees, which the constant stream of motor-cars now renders impassable from morning till evening. The congestion of other Paris streets also has grown to an alarming extent, and all thoroughfares around the Opera are blocked with traffic for hours, morning and afternoon. If the Champs Elysees tunnels prove a success, others will be excavated in the center of Paris, and foot passengers will in future cross not over streets, but under them. It had been hoped to build the approaches to the Champs Elysees underground passages in inclined planes, down which perambulators could have been rolled easily. But this has been found too costly, and only staircases will be provided.

A resolution passed by the United States senate provides for inviting France and Great Britain to participate in the tercentenary celebration of the discovery of Lake Champlain. As Canada is also to be represented, there will be present delegates from all the governments concerned and from all the countries for which those events of 300 years ago have direct interest.

HEADS WERE CUT OFF WITH AN AXE

INHUMAN BUTCHERY OF WOMAN AND HER INFANT BY HUSBAND.

IN BLOOD SOAKED BED.

The Brutal Atrocity Committed on a Farm Near Mancelona Discovered and Brute Arrested.

The headless bodies of Mrs. George Hopper and her infant were found Monday morning soaked in blood in bed at their home on a farm eight miles southwest of Mancelona. The neighbors who had made the discovery of the atrocious double murder hastily spread the alarm and a posse of angry farmers was organized. It was learned that Hopper was missing since the night before, when the dual crime must have been committed, and search for him, at once begun, was rewarded by finding him cowering in a patch of underbrush along a roadway where he had evidently fled. He was with difficulty placed under arrest by the sheriff of Antrim county and his deputies, as the crowd of pale-faced men seemed intent, at first, on stringing him to the nearest tree.

Monday morning, while passing a neighbor's house, Hopper seemed greatly agitated and told the members of the family who met him that he was going to kill himself.

"I can't stand it any longer," Hopper is reported to have said, "I'm going to make 'way with myself'."

Questioned as to why he wanted to die, Hopper had merely muttered something and hurried on down the road.

The man's dazed look and strange actions aroused the neighbors' suspicions. It had been rumored for some time that the domestic relations of the Hoppers were strained and a telephone message was sent to the sheriff's office at Bellaire, the county seat. Sheriff Little, Deputy Sherman and others immediately set out for the Hopper home. But before they arrived, the neighbors had found the bodies of the cruelly murdered wife and babe.

As soon as the sheriff's party had overtaken Hopper, in the bushes and he found he was caught, he was surrounded by angry farmers, who spoke of "stringing him up." Cooler heads prevailed and the sheriff asked the man why he committed the crime.

"I was crazy," he is said to have replied. He is also said to have asserted that he and his wife had quarreled over financial matters.

"I cut their heads off with an ax," the officers say Hopper declared.

He was taken to Bellaire and a charge of dual murder lodged against him.

It is understood from neighbors that there had been domestic trouble in the Hopper family for some time.

The body of both the woman and her child were hacked, probably after being decapitated, as though in maniacal fury. The bedroom of the farm house was in order save for the blood-soaked bedding. The clothing of the murdered woman hung on the foot of the bed undisturbed. She and her babe had been foully butchered in their sleep.

No one heard any outcries. There are no neighbors living close by, the nearest building being several rods away.

Hopper admitted that he killed his wife and baby by cutting their heads off with an ax. He said that a quarrel over financial troubles had driven him to commit the crime.

Shipped Ford Away.

The grand jury investigating the Armstrong wardenship of the Michigan state prison Friday morning divided its time among the doings in the warden's residence, the halt to which the state board of corrections and charities brought him in his punishment of prisoners and the workings of the state prison board.

Ex-Convict Peter Lamprin, convict who worked in the prison residence, testified that boxes were packed with chickens, eggs, extract of beef, canned goods, bottled delicacies and other fancy groceries bought from Carlton & Windt and shipped to Armstrong's daughter after she took up her residence in South Bend.

Smith is the colored cook of the prison household. He said:

"The old man came out to me after this affair had blown up and said: 'Well, Smith, they've got me falling. I'm going to fall hard. But I'm a—'

"If I drag anybody down with me."

"The Saturday night the old man was arrested and his wife walked floor all night. Mrs. Armstrong didn't mind cups of clear black coffee so fast that I began to think I'd need a bicycle to get 'em to her quick enough. One day a little while after that she came out into the kitchen and danced a regular barn dance, best hoodwink I've ever seen since I came from the south. She had heard some good of other."

The misis is the one with the brains in that family. She knows more in a minute than Armstrong will all his life."

Covered with mire and mud from having been routed around by hogs, the body of Jacob Cameron, 54, was found in the pigsty of his farm near Grand Rapids Tuesday afternoon. Heart disease is supposed to have been the cause of death.

Mark S. Simonton, a wealthy farmer of Leroy, Mich., who was reported to have committed suicide by drowning himself in the river at Leroy, was picked up by the Kalamazoo police in a confused condition, unable to give any account of his wanderings.

Judge Jesse Arthur, of Battle Creek, who was given a verdict of $250 against Mrs. Clara Salisbury, whom he had sued for slander, says he will not collect the money, as the fact that he was granted the verdict is balm enough for his injured feelings.

While working in the new Grand Trunk locomotive shops in Battle Creek, A. B. McCollum, a coppersmith, was killed, when a runaway car hit a locomotive, causing it to move ahead, and crush McCollum's head between the cowcatcher and a cement wall.

Ida Keith, the 12-year-old girl who has been held at the Detention hospital several days, will probably be sent to the Children's home. Officers have been unable to locate her parents, who came to Grand Rapids from Battle Creek last week and deserted the child.

Another death, alleged to have been caused by the impure water which was pumped from Dowagiac creek into Niles city mains, was that of Fred Kitterer, who succumbed to typhoid fever. The city is threatened with many lawsuits, it is said, as a result of the epidemic which has been going on here.

Plunging through a window in the third story of her home, the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Conover, of Bay City, fell headlong to the ground, a distance of 35 feet, then quickly picked herself up and reported in person, unharmed save for a few bruises, to her parents, who had rushed frantically out upon the porch expecting to find their child dead.

There is talk of a grand jury in Reed City in connection with the affairs of the Reed City Veneer & Panel Co., whose plant burned a short time ago. The company carried $25,000 insurance, while in the 15 months it operated it piled up an indebtedness aggregating nearly $88,000, it is said. The companies in which policies were carried have had an agent in this vicinity for a week or more doing some investigating.

Members of the state military board will go to Higgins Lake, Roscommon county, to look over the proposed site for the encampment of the state troops.

STATE LEGISLATURE; NEWS OF SOLONS

WHAT THE LAW-MAKERS AT LANSING ARE DOING—NEW BILLS UP.

LIQUOR BILL DEFEATED

House Turns Down Ormsbee Measure, 49 to 46, Winding Up a Talk-Fest That Lasted Seven Hours.

Lansing.—The Ormsbee bill revising the general liquor laws of the state was defeated in the house 49 to 46, winding up a discussion that lasted nearly seven hours.

The result was a great surprise, as the liquor interests felt certain of at least 60 votes and in addition counted on the backing of Gov. Warner as the result of the election agreement by which they supported him and elected him.

The action probably means no liquor legislation this season unless a bill comes from the senate or some amendments are made to the present laws, but as the liquor interests are now bitter, they can, with the support of the administration, block anything attempted by the prohibitionists.

Representative Crompton moved as a substitute that all after the enacting clause be stricken out which carried by the following vote:

Yeas—Balwin, Ball, Beeman, Boussem, Bryant, Chambers, Chandler, Cramton, Currie, Davis, Dunning, Dusenbury, Farmer, Field, Folks, Fouch, Gray, Green, Hale, Hatch, Heckert, Huntley, Jensen, Kemmerling, Lahuis, McNaughton, Miller, F. C., Milliken, Morrill, Morrison, Newkirk, Odell, Pearson, Perry, Reynolds, Rice, Sanders, Schantz, Speer, Stewart, Straight, Tubbs, Verrier, Walker, Wheeler, Wood, Woodworth, Yaple, Yeo—49.

Nays—Austin, Baker, Bled, Brown, Burnham, Burns, Clarke, Colby, Copley, Cummins, Curtiss, DeYoung, Edwards, Engel, Flowers, Gellinas, Giles, Harris, Haviland, Henry, Hoelt, Johnson, Kappler, Lodge, McCabe, McFadden, McKay, Maxey, Miller, G. A., Monroe, Morgan, Oates, Ogg, Sanborn, Sterling, Stevenson, Unsold, Vanderveen, VanRaalte, Warner, Waters, Watkins, Wheelan, Willoughby, Woodruff, Young—46.

Then the question came on concurring in the amended report, which carried, 46 to 45, Representative Monroe, who was presiding, switching his vote else the fight would have been on again as to the disposition of the measure. Representative Guy Miller then gave written notice that he would move to reconsider the vote by which the bill was killed.

Hides His Home Rule Bill.

Corporation Counsel Hally of Detroit consistently refused to let anyone look over the draft of his home rule bill on which he has been at work for several weeks. Representatives of various cities met in Detroit for a home rule conference, but Hally did not have his measure there.

"I had it in mind," he said, "to submit it to the common council, but the members of the legislature do not think I should do this, but should first bring it out here, which I will probably do."

In answer to the question as to whether it would be necessary for the cities of the state to hold charter conventions under the new constitution, he said: "I do not agree with others on that point. To me it is clear that existing charters need not necessarily be changed, and this point is specifically covered in my bill. Where cities so desire, provision is made for charter conventions."

Tax Companies on Property.

The senate passed a bill to tax telegraph and telephone companies on the value of their property instead of the present tax of three per cent. on their gross earnings. The house, 55 to 22, agreed to a bill giving the state railway commission board supervision over telephone companies requiring an interchange of messages between companies and allowing the commission to fix telegraph rates. One section prohibits the companies from securing injunctions against the commission. It is understood that the house committee on general taxation will recommend a bill to increase the specific tax on telephone and telegraph companies to four per cent.

Search and Seizure Bill.

The senate passed Senator Dickinson's search and seizure bill which would permit any person who can state that he has reason to believe that liquor is concealed in a local option county in some certain place to appear before a magistrate and secure a search warrant, the finding of the liquor being regarded as prima facie evidence of guilt. Private residences are exempted from the operation of the measure.

Position Done Away With.

In committee of the whole the house agreed to the bill limiting the salaries of members of the state board of mediation and arbitration to five dollars per day when they are actually engaged in official work and cutting out the $1,200 annual salary of the secretary by providing that the latter shall be chosen from among the members of the board and specifically providing that he shall be allowed no extra compensation.

National Guard Interested.

An interesting amendment to laws governing the service of citizens in the National Guard is proposed. Representative Stewart of Grand Rapids is studying a proposal to introduce a bill providing that the governor may in his discretion organize reserve companies, battalions and regiments for service in war, from which the troops in the field shall be kept supplied with recruits.

To Pay for Man's Death.

Representative Oates is drafting a bill that revives memories of an occurrence in the upper peninsula in 1907, which created a great sensation at the time. Elmer Loukola was a member of the Houghton light guard, the M. N. G. company at the copper town. In July of 1907 the troops of the north country were in encampment and were engaged in maneuvers. During a sham battle, Loukola was shot and almost instantly killed.

A rigid investigation was held to ascertain how a loaded shell came into the possession of any member of the troops, and the outgrowth of the investigation was the suspicion that the shot had not been fired by any member of the guard, but by some anarchist miner opposed to the troops. Weeks were spent in trying to find who had fired the shot, but it was finally given up. Loukola was the support of an aged father and mother who were left practically penniless.

Representative Oates will introduce a bill making an appropriation to recompense the family for the loss of the son, the amount not to exceed $5,000, the state board of auditors to pass upon the amount which shall be allowed.

Opticians Win a Victory.

The opticians of the state won the first round of their fight to obtain a separate registration commission of their own in the house, when the bill was agreed to in committee of the whole. This measure has always been fought by the physicians of the state, who insist that the opticians are trying to invade the realm of medicine without being properly qualified. On the other hand the opticians claim that in fitting glasses they use only mechanical means and want to be placed on an independent footing. It is hardly likely that the measure will have as easy sailing in the senate. The bill provides for a commission of five members to be selected by the governor from a list of 15 names to be submitted by the Michigan Society of Optometrists.

Against the protests of the physicians of the state the house committee on state affairs reported out the nurses' bill giving them a separate board of registration, to consist of three nurses, the secretary of the state board of health and one physician.

Senate Kills Important Bill.

Senator Shields' bill to make the state banking commissioner elective and independent of the executive office did not succeed. The bill as drafted increased the salary of the commissioner to $5,000, that of the deputy to $3,000 and graded the salaries of the examiners from $1,500 to $2,500. It failed of passage on third reading, the vote being 18 to 9, while all banking bills must receive two-thirds vote of each house. It was reconsidered and tabled to await a day until all the senators are present. The senate passed all of the bank bills except the one providing for the increases in salaries. Several other bills were also passed, including Representative Jensen's giving the state board of health control over corporations furnishing municipalities with water.

New Senate Bills Introduced.

Following were the bills introduced in the senate Tuesday night:

Senator Taylor—Making the taxes a lien on personal property after the same has been passed on by the board of review.

Senator Snell—Requiring dealers to keep matches in fireproof metal receptacles. Patterned after the Massachusetts law.

Senator McKay—Legalizing the methods of assigning jury now used in Wayne county. Only applies to circuit judge.

Senator McKay—Permitting Protestant Episcopal churches to use the name "cathedral" and permit the election of a dean on the advice and consent of the bishop of the diocese.

Senator Water—Prohibiting relatives of the court from acting as counsel in justice court cases.

Would Bar Wooden Cars.

Senator Shields planned to introduce an important railroad measure in the senate, which promises to stir up a big fight with the railroads. It will provide that the railroads of the state shall buy no more wooden passenger cars, but that as soon as its present cars wear out they are to be replaced by cars of steel construction. It will also fix what constitutes repairs.

Governor to Appoint Commissioners.

The senate judiciary committee agreed on the bill to provide a board of jury commissioners for each county in the state when the electors shall endorse the proposition. The bill, as drafted by the attorney general, provided for three commissioners, not more than two of one political party, to be appointed by the supervisors, but it was changed so as to give the governor the appointing power, he to select the three from the list of names, one from each township and ward, to be made up by the circuit judge.

CRAZY SNAKE SURRENDERS

SAYS HE NEVER DESIRED TO FIGHT—HAD BENN CORNERED.

ONE REDSKIN IS KILLED.

Latest Reports About the Boyle Woman and Her Connection With the Whittia Case.

Crazy Snake, or Chitto Harjo, chief of the Creek Indians, who are on the rampage in Oklahoma, offered to surrender. The proffer of the wild old chief was made to officers of the militia. He sent word that he desired to come in, but feared surrendering to the local authorities. He declared he never desired a fight.

The Indians were in a timbered stronghold. On all sides ranged a dense growth of underbrush, flanked by great trees capable of affording protection against a legion of galling guns. Into this fortress, built by nature, the like of which has afforded protection to red man and pale face alike in many a fierce affray, Crazy Snake and a portion of his band crept when Col. Hoffman's pursuing soldiery got too near for comfort. Here they prepared to make their last stand.

Crazy Snake's band was well protected in his wooded retreat, the trees, though bare of leaves, forming a beautiful enough ambushade to suit almost any Indian. His followers were all heavily armed and desperate, and had sworn by their Indian rites to stay by him to the last. The white men had Crazy Snake in their grasp, but were not able to take him. He could not escape, but so great was the peril of the situation that none of the state's representatives cared to risk any engagement in the darkness and in a place where behind every tree there might lurk a redskin ready to fire, and where from the bushes might burst forth a murderous hail of bullets.

In a pitched battle at Hickory Ground, Oklahoma, Saturday night between a posse of five officers and twenty Creek Indians of the Snake clan, and Herman Odom, of Checotah, were killed and Frank Swift, of Muskogee, fatally wounded.

Frank Jones and William Carr, other members of the posse, escaped without injury and fled to the settlements where the news of the battle was telephoned to Sheriff Odom, of McIntosh county.

Swift dragged himself from the scene of the battle and was later picked up by William Carr, one of the escaping officers, and taken to Pierce, a station one mile away. Frank Jones, another of the posse who escaped, boarded a train at Pierce and went to Checotah, bearing some details of the battle.

The officers, having heard that the Indians and negroes were again peaceable after the battle of Thursday morning, approached the cabin of Harjo, near Hickory Ground, without fear. As they were entering the chief's yard 20 guns were leveled upon them by as many men in the house and around the corners.

KIDNAPERS IN PA. JAIL.

James H. Boyle and Helen Boyle, alias Faulkner, was indicted by the county grand jury in Cleveland Thursday, charged with blackmail. The charge is based on the payment of the $10,000 ransom by James P. Whittia for the recovery of his son, kidnapped by them.

Willie Whittia late Wednesday afternoon identified the two suspects as "Mr. and Mrs. Jones," who took him from school in Sharon a week ago and kept him a prisoner in the Granger house, a first-class rooming house in Cleveland, until ransomed.

Mrs. Boyle, who was the "nurse" in the Whittia kidnapping case, was formerly Miss Anna McDermott, aged 22, of Chicago. William McDermott, a retired member of the Chicago fire department, is her father.

When shown a full description of the woman he broke down and declared that it was his daughter. He and his family had been hoping against hope that there had been some mistake in the identification. Mr. McDermott's story of his daughter's life is that of a wayward girl.

Anna, according to her father, was, as a child, one of the prettiest, one of the brightest, in the neighborhood. She was given every possible advantage of education and careful moral training; but as she approached womanhood she fell into company of which the old fireman did not approve.

Quarrels were frequent, and about three years ago Anna eloped. Since that time her history has been a blank to her Chicago kin. Even the name of the man with whom she cast her fortunes was unknown to them. They carefully read from day to day the story of the kidnapping of Willie Whittia, of his return to his parents, and the arrest of the "Boyle," but they never dreamed of connecting "Mrs. Boyle" with winsome, headstrong Anna, who had deserted her home to follow unknown paths.

WIRELETS.

Lieut.-Gov. M. E. Hay was sworn in as governor of Washington to succeed Gov. Cosgrove, who died Sunday.

Resolutions opposing bills in the legislature which would permit Sunday performances in theaters in addition to those now allowed by law, were adopted at a meeting of 500 clergymen of Protestant denominations in the Marble Collegiate church in New York.

CREAM OF THE NEWS.

President Taft has ordered United States marines back on the warships from which they were removed.

George B. Cortelyou, former secretary of the treasury, took up his duties as president of the Consolidated Gas company, of New York.

Col. James Guffy, Pennsylvania Democratic national committee, was asked if it was to be Bryan in 1912. "Not much," was the decided answer. "Such reports are moonshine."

More than 10,000 aliens arrived in New York. Most of them by nightfall had passed the federal authorities and were on their way to the northwest where, many will make their future homes.

The New York Central & Hudson River R. R. company, through its attorneys, pleaded guilty to the charge of rebating in connection with transportation of coopers supplies in the United States circuit court.

A single steam shovel at work on the Panama canal recently removed 3,941 cubic yards of rock and earth in a working day of eight hours. The breaks all records. The shovel was actually at work six hours and 45 minutes.

Murmuring a prayer for her soul, Mrs. Mary Farmer was quietly led to the electric chair in Auburn, N. Y., prison shortly after 6 o'clock Monday morning and executed for the murder of Mrs. Sarah Brennan in Brownville last April.

One Three Oaks man is dead, another had to have his arm amputated, and another is slowly recovering from a strange ailment, consisting of a growth on the neck, resembling a tumor. Many people are of the opinion that a new contagious disease has appeared.

Will Not Be Strenuous.

In explanation and amplification of his recently quoted prediction that ex-President Theodore Roosevelt would not survive his trip to Africa, Prof. Frederick Starr, of the University of Chicago, says:

"If Mr. Roosevelt returns at all he will return a changed man. It is extremely dangerous for a man of 59 years of age to make his first trip into the jungle. If he survives he will be more sluggish by nature."

He would also prophesied that Mr. Roosevelt would fall a victim to the sleeping sickness or would be eaten by lions, tigers, or cannibals. To survive the dangers of the climate requires an entire re-making of the physical nature of the man who goes into the jungle.

"Mr. Roosevelt's vigor will be his worst enemy. His age, disposition and strength are all against him. It is the second stage of the journey, from the great lakes to the headwaters of the Nile, that is menacing."

QUEEN "LIL" IN WANT

MARIE EVERTON WOODRUFF

WASHINGTON last winter was presented the spectacle of an aged and broken queen, with the blood of many monarchs coursing through her veins, and once accustomed to the worshipful homage of hundreds of thousands of her fellow-countrymen, coming in suppliant appeal to this nation and seeking reparation in a measure for the taking away of her crown and for her reduction from the rank of the world's richest woman to pauper.

Liliuokalani, once queen of the Hawaiian islands, asked congress that she be given a sum of money that will suffice for her declining years. A woman of 70 years, weighed down with many sorrows, the remnant of a royal family that has almost disappeared, she is a link between the old forms of the world and the modern. The conditions of life that knew her kind are rapidly passing from even the distant Pacific. Her kingdom, where the motion of a monarch's finger in her youth meant life or death, has become a commercialized territory of the United States. Her consort is dead, she is childless and poor.

Queen Liliuokalani recently told her story to a Boston newspaper man in this manner:

"Sitting back of the city of Honolulu and watching over it like a grim guardian is a huge mountain that takes from the form of its extinct crater the name of the 'Punch Bowl.' At the foot of this mountain in one of the sequestered grass houses that made the abodes of the old-time chiefs, I was born in 1838.

"My father was of the direct branch of the royal family, though not at that time in the line of succession. His grandfather had founded the long line of the Kamehameha kings, and his aunt, the celebrated Queen Kapiolani, had plucked the sacred berries from the sides of the volcano, had descended to the boiling lava and thrown them into the molten mass, thereby forever breaking the power of the fire goddess, destroying at a stroke the old pagan beliefs and opening the way for her people to accept Christianity.

"My direct parents had little to do with my career after bringing me into the world, for I was immediately adopted into the family of another high chief in accordance with ancient custom and was brought up there. This was the custom in the olden days in Hawaii, for it was held as a great means of promoting peace and the best of feeling among the tribes that their children should be exchanged.

"So I grew up on the knee of my foster father, Paki, knowing little of my real parents, and played with my foster sister, Bernice, who was afterward Mrs. Charles R. Bishop.

"When I was of sufficient age I was sent to the royal school maintained especially for members of the families that were of regal blood. This school was kept by an American and his wife whose names were Cooke, and the education they gave us was not largely different from that which might have been obtained in America, and all the school sessions were conducted entirely in English, so that at that time I as well as the rest of the royal children learned to speak the tongue we now have adopted.

"From this it will be seen that people from the outside world were already getting something of a hold upon the far Pacific islands. Missionaries had introduced the Christian religion long before, and it had been quite generally adopted. The warm-hearted people of the islands had welcomed the foreigner with open arms, had extended to him bountiful hospitality, and had offered to him the plenty of the islands, for there was always an easy abundance for all. These outsiders had dropped in from all the maritime nations of Europe, from America, and from the far east. They had tarried awhile and had come to so love the sun-bathed islands that they had never cared to leave them.

"One event in the long years at the boarding school was coupled with my after life and stands out above everything else. A high board fence divided the royal school from a school for boys, right next door, and while we were all playing our Hawaiian games one day in our shaded yard, a lusty lad some years older than I and not of native blood climbed upon the fence and looked over and smiled direct down into my eyes, and I was greatly embarrassed and impressed. This same boy I came to know afterward as John O. Dominis.

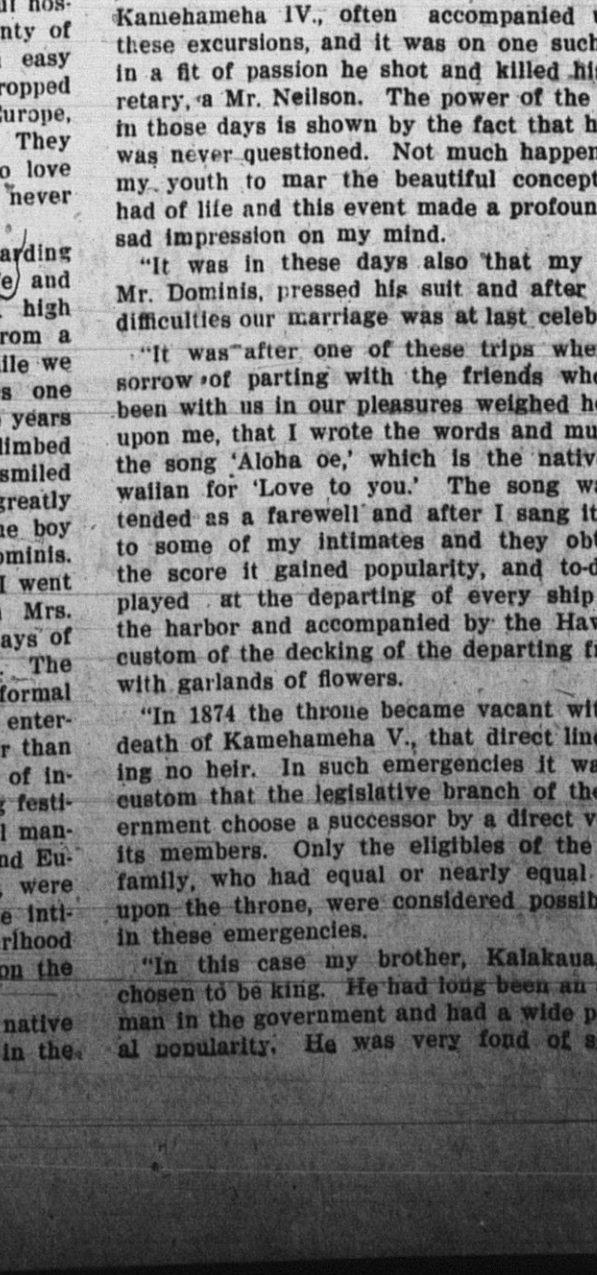

THE EXECUTIVE BUILDING, HONOLULU

GIRLS OF HAWAII

RESIDENCE OF HAWAII'S EX-QUEEN

MEMBERS OF THE HAWAII HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

interior excursions were frequently made. To these we went on horseback or by boat. There was always the welcome to remain weeks or months and the throwing open of all his possessions by the chief. His retainers would drag us about the country in the old carts of the plantations and often we were mired in a stream and had to be taken off by horsemen.

"The king himself, Kamehameha IV., often accompanied us on these excursions, and it was on one such that in a fit of passion he shot and killed his secretary, a Mr. Neilson. The power of the kings in those days is shown by the fact that his act was never questioned. Not much happened in my youth to mar the beautiful conception I had of life and this event made a profound and sad impression on my mind.

"It was in these days also that my lover, Mr. Dominis, pressed his suit and after many difficulties our marriage was at last celebrated.

"It was after one of these trips when the sorrow of parting with the friends who had been with us in our pleasures weighed heavily upon me, that I wrote the words and music of the song 'Aloha oe,' which is the native Hawaiian for 'Love to you.' The song was intended as a farewell and after I sang it once to some of my intimates and they obtained the score it gained popularity, and to-day is played at the departing of every ship from the harbor and accompanied by the Hawaiian custom of the decking of the departing friends with garlands of flowers.

"In 1874 the throne became vacant with the death of Kamehameha V., that direct line having no heir. In such emergencies it was the custom that the legislative branch of the government choose a successor by a direct vote of its members. Only the eligibles of the royal family, who had equal or nearly equal claim upon the throne, were considered possibilities in these emergencies.

"In this case my brother, Kalakaua, was chosen to be king. He had long been an active man in the government and had a wide personal popularity. He was very fond of society and music was his younger brother, the prince regent, and in the years that followed there was great activity in Honolulu in social and musical circles.

"In this connection I may claim some credit, for the songs of the people up to this time had merely been folk songs made popular by the very singing of them. It fell to my lot to reduce many of these to writing, and they have since gone around the world and will be handed down to the generation that are to come as a type of music peculiar to these islands.

"The influence of the foreign element had long been felt in the islands, and it increased during my brother's reign. One after another Americans had been taken into the cabinet as advisers and these were usually men of ability, but in the end their own selfish ambitions overtopped their idea of duty and gratitude to the king and they gave over his interests for their own.

"The missionary party grew into a powerful organization that kept forcing itself forward until in the end it had practical control of the government. It finally forced upon the king and the Hawaiian people a constitution that was favorable to its own interests and under this constitution the king had virtually no power, but was forced to sign whatever measures the cabinet brought to him. It was known as the 'bayonet constitution' because of the absolute forcing of it upon the king.

"It was this nominal rulership that I succeeded to at the death of my brother, which event occurred in 1891 and which was the result of a broken heart. Although I succeeded in ridding myself of the old cabinet and getting a new one after my accession I was never able to gain absolute control of the government because of the limiting constitution and the activity of the missionary party. Then finally came my betrayal at the hands of Minister Stephens of the United States and my final overthrow. I can never come to see any excuse for the unkind treatment to which I was subjected by Minister Stephens, the accredited representative of a friendly power.

"I retired to my home at Washington place, where I spent the whole of my married life, but not to seclusion and peace. I was dragged from my retirement under arrest and taken to the palace in which as a member of the royal family I had always felt a proprietorship. In the very room which had been the throne room while I was queen I was tried before a provisional court upon a charge of treason and sentenced to a fine of $5,000 and imprisonment for eight years. I was actually made to serve a part of this term in a bare cell in the castle, and was released only after I had been forced to sign a release of all my rights under threats of executing me and a score of my loyal friends if I refused.

"It is at this point that the matter of my present visit to Washington comes in, for it was then and there that I lost all my lands. Long before, in the days of Kamehameha III., all the lands of the islands had been divided into three parts. One part went to the chiefs and the people, another part became general public lands and a third part became a trust fund or property for the personal benefit and use of the monarch and his successors to the throne.

"At the time I was overthrown through the influence of the United States government, I was enjoying the benefits of these lands. It is true that I had lost many of the powers of the old sovereigns, but I had not lost the financial benefits that accrued to them. These vast estates of crown lands were mine and the income from them was mine. The area of this estate was during my incumbency about 1,000,000 acres. The income from it amounted to $65,000 a year, which was mine in addition to the $20,000 a year that I had as an allowance for the support of my household.

"These lands are to-day worth $12,000,000 and are the property of the United States government. One tract adjoining the Honolulu harbor is occupied by the naval station, including coaling stations and wharves. Another is the site of Camp Shafter, a permanent military post, and a third is occupied by the post of Waiwae-uk on the island of Oahu.

"The armed forces of this government made the overthrowing of my government possible and deprived me of these lands.

"My relinquishment of authority stated that 'I yield to the superior force of the United States of America,' and not to the forces of revolutionists; and 'now to avoid any collision of armed forces and perhaps the loss of life, I do, under this protest and impelled by said force, yield my authority until such time as the government of the United States shall undo the action of its representatives, and reinstate me in the authority which I claim as the constitutional sovereign of the Hawaiian islands.' This I did in 1893, when I was induced to surrender my authority in order to avert bloodshed. That action was represented to me as a proper temporary step.

"I am now reconciled to the change of government in Hawaii, but I am too loyal to the United States to be willing to be the occasion of reproach to this great nation when future historians shall tell how the government was enriched by accepting, without compensation, land it had assisted in taking from a weaker sovereign. Hawaii has cost this nation nothing, but besides adding valuable lands to this nation by its acquisition, it has been a source of cash revenue amounting to over $10,000,000.

"I do not want to end my days knowing that my Hawaiian people will always feel that this nation respects only the right of armed force."

AS TO THE "SPOILED" CHILD:

He May Really Be Receiving the Best of Training.

Often, writes Woods Hutchinson, in the Success Magazine, the spoiled child is the one really best trained for life. Real life, that is, not the sham travesty upon it so carefully played in the nursery and the schoolroom and termed "education." The difference between a spoiled child and a well-behaved one is chiefly a matter of frankness of expression. The spoiled child says right out just what he happens to think and feel, and you hear and are pained by his expressions of skepticism, of resentment, even of rebellion. Nine times out of ten the "model" child feels exactly the same sentiments—but refrains from expressing them. When the spoiled child has expressed himself—it may be even impatiently or rebelliously—the matter is all out, the subject is fairly on the carpet, and you can argue the case with him on its merits, or if it be beyond his grasp, assert your authority and ask him to trust your superior experience, which he usually will, nine cases out of ten, if he is appealed to in this way. In any case, you know the worst that is in him and can govern yourself accordingly. Your model child may submit in silence, without discussion or remonstrance, but you may depend upon it that he will discuss the question on its merits with the nurse, or the cook, or the hired man, or the bad boy in the next street; and that, whatever feeling of resentment or injustice he may smother in his own little interior, so far as expressing them toward you is concerned, he will pass on with interest to his puppy, his kitten, or his younger brothers and sisters, or playmates.

Travel in Persia.

In great contrast to the extraordinary progress made in transportation in Africa is the backwardness of Persia, one of the oldest countries of the world. Its transportation facilities are much the same as they were in the days of Alexander the Great and Marco Polo. There are only six miles of railroad in the whole country and often these are not under operation. There are only three or four good dirt roads, and almost all transportation is done by pack trains. Camels, horses, mules, donkeys and men are used as beasts of burden. The traveler can usually ride the post horses, but these are rather poor animals and it is customary to buy or hire horses and pack animals. This costs a native about 20 cents a day, but no foreigner can hope to travel so cheaply. It would be prodigal, however, for anyone to pay more than five dollars a day for two servants, four or five animals and their feed.—Travel Magazine.

Advice to the Middle-Aged.

An English physician declares that persons of middle age or more should not assume an upright position immediately upon awakening from a night's sleep. The danger from jumping out of bed at once upon becoming conscious is a disturbance of the circulatory apparatus. At such a time, he says, there is undoubtedly a severe strain upon the heart and blood vessels. The blood pressure at such a time and under such circumstances is intense, and is calculated to further damage a weakened heart or arterial system. Lie quiescent for ten to twenty minutes upon awakening. By doing so, he says, persons will not suffer from vertigo, a sense of fullness in the head or a staggering gait—all evidences of a profoundly disturbed circulation.

Innocent by Deduction.

"Speaking of the coolness of the average Englishman," said he. "You know these little compartments they travel in over there? Well, an Englishman was smoking his cigarette in one alone with a young woman, who all at once sprang up with a shriek and pushed the button that stops the train in case of accidents and that sort of thing and bring everybody to the compartment that has done the stopping. "When they got there the young woman was tearing her hair and crying out that the Englishman had insulted her. What did he do? Why, nothing. Just quietly went on smoking his cigarette, which was enough. The ash on it was about an inch long, which showed conclusively that he had not moved out of one position for ten minutes at least, possibly 15."

Submarine Ball in Vienna.

A submarine ball is the latest attraction devised by the Princess Metternich. Every year the Princess opens the Vienna season with a ball at her palace. This year she sought the assistance of well-known scenic artists, and the result was a scene rivaling in splendor and ingenuity the most gorgeous scene at a pantomime. Every guest in devising their costumes had to borrow something from the flora and fauna of the sea. The salons represented a gigantic aquarium, or more correctly, the bottom of the sea. There were enchanted grottoes, strange rocks, peculiar plants and beds of coral. The dancers appeared in costumes decorated with sea roses, corals of the most delicate shades and all sorts of shellfish, including lobsters.

No Resentment.

"You modern women," said the professor sternly, "have in some form all the habits of the savage female."

"Oh, now, professor," responded a matronly individual, "surely you are mistaken. Why, if a jungle lady were so grossly insulted by a big, overbearing bully she would be certain to resent it, and see how calm we are."

A CONSTIPATION REMEDY FREE

There is no action of your daily life of greater importance than to see that your bowels move. They should move at least once a day naturally, and by that is meant without any help. If they do not move at least once a day you can consider yourself constipated and it is time you did something about it.

You will be glad to know there is a way out of the difficulty. Laxative Candy, an old soldier at Quincy, Ill., Elmer McMillan, of Speed, Mo., Mrs. Monahan, of Stoneville, Miss., and many others were as you are now. But one day they awoke to the fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin was curing their friends, so they bought it too and it cured them. Today, they are loud in praise of it.

What Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin did for them it should do for you. Surely your constipation is no worse than theirs, one of whom had it since '61. It only remains for you to realize that salts are of but temporary good, and what you want is a permanent cure; that purgative tablets, cathartic pills and such violent things make a great show of doing something, but do nothing that is lasting. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientific preparation, a laxative- tonic, a mild syrupy liquid that contains ingredients that not only cure the constipation, but tone the intestinal muscles so that they learn again to work without help. A bottle can be bought of any druggist for the small price of 50 cents, and there is a dollar size for families who have already found out its wonderful value in stomach, liver and bowel troubles, in old or young.

Send your name and address to the doctor and a free trial bottle will be sent you so that you can test it before buying.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. J. C. Caldwell, Caldwell, Ill. Caldwell, Ill. Caldwell, Ill.

"The Virginian."

"The Virginian" as dramatized by Owen Wister and Kirke La Shelle from Mr. Wister's stirring and widely read novel of the same name is to be the bill at the new Whitney theatre Saturday, matinee and night, April 3.

The book has been bought by more than half a million of people, and it is probable that each of these copies has been read at least five times. This is unusual popularity even in this day of big selling novels and it would probably be the almost unanimous verdict of this vast host of readers that there have been few modern American stories that have more richly merited success than this realistic romance of the ranches.

It is doubtful if the appearance of any dramatization since that of "The Prisoner of Zenda" has been awaited with more eagerness by local fiction-lovers than this play made from "The Virginian" and this fact is only one indication of the exceptional hold which the story has taken upon its readers.

BREVITIES

Thomas A. Dailey has been appointed postmaster at Adrian, in place of Frank E. Priddy, deceased.

A new mitten factory has been started in Stockbridge, and stock has been subscribed for a creamery, both of which will be valuable additions to the industries of Stockbridge.

Dog poisoners and window peepers are in about the same class. They seem to abound in Northville just now and if some of them get hurt by getting caught at it they will have themselves to blame.—Northville record.

The village has begun making tramps work for what they have. Marshal Maloney keeps them busy cleaning streets, etc. Don't feed tramps, let them earn their meals and lodging by working for the village.—Manchester Enterprise.

John Budd, better known as "Shadow," while on the marsh hunting for fish one day the fore part of the week, stepped on what he thought was a short rail. A commotion soon reminded him that he had another think coming, and he finally landed a grass pike which weighed 14½ pounds.—Stockbridge Brief-Sun.

Wednesday evening a banquet was tendered Dr. William F. Breakey, of Ann Arbor by the city and county medical societies, the occasion the completion of his fifty years of practice. One of the guests was Dr. James C. Wilson, of Flint, who has a record similar to Dr. Breakey's. Furthermore each of the two has practiced his half century in the city in which he now lives.

Robert Noy, son of Dr. Frederick Noy of the medical department of the U. of M., went duck hunting and shot a rare bird, a ringneck duck, the first one on record in this part of the country. When it was discovered that a valuable "find" had been made, the bird was presented to the university museum, where it will be mounted and added to the collection of rare birds.

"Loud Friday" was fittingly observed by the ginger-corn young men of the Jackson high school yesterday. This particular Friday is a part of the ceremony which ushers in the delightful spring time, and consists of the boys in concerted action going the full limit in the manner of dress. The gayest socks with the dreamy stripes or clockings the greenest of everything in clothing and haberdasher things were donned by the celebrators of "Loud Friday." Some of the clothing outfits were so loud that they interfered with the study hours, and about a dozen young men were sent home to change their clothing.—Jackson Patriot.

Boys as Glass Breakers.
"It's about time," declared the indignant citizen, "that something was done with boys who smash the glass around the street lights. Again and again I have seen them throwing rocks at it for ten or fifteen minutes until one was successful in smashing it. When they play ball, it seems to be for the purpose of hitting and breaking the glass of a lamp either on the curb or at the steps of an apartment house. If a house is vacant, you will notice that the basement windows are broken half the time. It is all done by boys, who apparently take great delight in the sound of a good, hard smash."

A Colorado Woman.
That women should display enterprise in Colorado is not to be wondered at, since they have been for many years fully qualified voters there. A good specimen of the advanced woman in the Centennial state is Mrs. Nellie Upham, who is the vice-president of a mining company, and who personally supervises the running of fifty gold and silver mines, bossing three hundred workmen. Mrs. Upham had studied mining and minerals for a long time, and some five years ago she drifted into her present business. It is stated that she manages affairs with great ability.—Leslie's Weekly.

To Read Thermometer.
To reduce the reading of a Centigrade scale thermometer to Fahrenheit, subtract ten degrees from the given temperature, from this remainder subtract one-tenth of itself, double the result and add 50 degrees to the answer. To reduce a Fahrenheit reading to Centigrade, subtract 50 degrees from the given temperature, divide the remainder by two, multiply this quotient by ten, divide the product by nine, and add ten degrees to the last quotient.

Our Earthquake Sufferers.

"I am sorry for the Italian sufferers," said the woman. "I am sorry for any sufferers, having suffered much myself, but we have had an earthquake ourselves, haven't we? That panic! And did any of the nations of the earth come to our rescue? I should think not. On the contrary, they deserted us, Italy particularly. I don't know how Ellis Island is now, but I do know that the panic rendered it for a time a deserted village. We were like a sinking ship forsaken by the rats. I don't say we shouldn't help Italy all we can, but I do say that we should think a little of our poor of the East side and elsewhere, of the pitiful spectacle of our breadlines, of our own dark nights and our hollow streets through which our own poor wander from twilight till dawn."—New York Press.

Teaching Girls to Ride Horses.

Almost all the little girls who are taught to ride horses these days are put on cross saddles. They may or may not ride astride when they get bigger, but they all learn that way. It is a safer position in the first place and it gives confidence never acquired by a youngster in a side saddle. As a rule the small equestrienne is clad in bloomers and the briefest of skirts. Often she discards the skirt when the lessons are given in the country. The instructor holds her pony by a leading strap and, of course, he rides a horse easily able to overtake her mount in the event of a bolt. Only for the first few lessons is the child's belt buckled to the pommel of her saddle. Until she acquires a firm seat she is kept close enough to the instructor to be caught by him if she starts to fall.

The Ameer's Grim Humor.

Although in every way milder than his father, Hibib Ullah occasionally manifests a humor no less grim, as was lately disclosed by his chief body servant, Ahmed Rashid. This worthy, whose duty it is to take care of the royal wardrobe, was becoming neglectful, when one morning Hibib Ullah noticed a black scorpion, whose sting is unusually agonizing, in a boot that he had been about to put on. Summoning Ahmed to his side, the Ameer complained that the boot pinched his foot, and ordered the servant to stretch it by drawing it on his foot. The pain of the bite was not the more readily forgotten from the fact that nothing of much consequence could be done to relieve it.

Electricity as a Carrier.

Does an electric current when passing through a metal conductor cause any transportation of particles? It is well known that it does so in the liquid conductors known as electrolytes; in fact, such a common operation as electroplating depends entirely upon this action. To test the matter a recent experimenter passed an electric current continuously for a whole year through a conductor composed partly of copper and partly of aluminum, the sections being pressed firmly together. At the end of the year they were taken apart and examined, but not the slightest trace of either metal was found in the other.

Telephone in the Alps.

The telephone has robbed the Alpine heights of some of their terrors. Two Alpestrians lately lost their way on the great St. Bernard mountain. Wandering for hours in a fierce snowstorm they at last reached one of the newly-built shelters erected by the monks. There they found not only food and a lamp but also a telephone connected with the hospice. They called up the monks and soon one of the brothers appeared accompanied by two St. Bernard dogs and conducted the men to the hospice where they received the proper care. Many huts have been built in exposed places and a number of lives have thus been saved.

Put New Blood into Your Business.

The up-to-date professional adviser or business doctor, when called to examine a shrinking, declining business, often finds the patient barely alive; the circulation being so sluggish that he can hardly find the pulse. In a desperate case like this he says to the proprietor: "You must put new blood into this business. There is no life in it. There is no energy, no push, no enterprise here. When a patient gets as low as this one, there are only two things to do, let him die, or infuse new blood into his veins and try to resuscitate him."—Success Magazine.

Electric Plant for Tokyo.

A large power station is being built in Japan to furnish current for Tokyo, Yokohama and adjacent cities and towns. The capacity of this station will be 60,000 horse-power. The power will be derived from a 600-foot head of water on the Oi river. Six generators directly coupled to vertical waterwheels will be installed. The generators will be of the three-phase, 25-cycle type. The waterwheels will develop 13,500 horse-power. The 6,000-volt transmission line will be carried on steel towers 50 feet high and spaced 450 feet apart, over a distance of 105 miles.

An IOU at Auction.

An IOU for 200,000 marks was put up to public auction a few days ago at Wiesbaden, and fetched the handsome sum of 700 marks. The signatory to the interesting document is a well-known German prince, and there was an idea, which proved to be ill-founded, that his relatives would honor the signature in order to avoid any publicity.

Catholic Clergy and the Saloon

Archbishop Ireland.

"The Catholic Church is absolutely and irrevocably opposed to drunkenness and to drunkard-making. In vain we profess to work for souls if we do not labor to drive out an evil which is daily begetting by the ten thousand and peopling hell. In vain we boast of civilization and liberty if we do not labor to exterminate intemperance. Education, the elevation of the masses, liberty—all that the age admires—is set at naught by this dreadful evil. The individual conscience is the first arm in opposing it, but the individual conscience has to be strengthened and supplemented by law. The claim of saloonkeepers to freedom in their traffic is the claim to spread disease, sin, pauperism."—Archbishop Ireland.

Cardinal Gibbons.

"I am heartily and absolutely in favor of Local Option with the county as a unit in elections."

Bishop Conaty.

"Where saloons are licensed, how many live up to the law? Not one. Vested rights! Has the community no rights? There is no reason for the existence of saloons. Blot them all out, and what harm?"—Bishop Conaty, Chalons, France.

Bishop Regis Canevin.

"Wherever the saloon flourishes, intemperance prevails, crime increases, manhood is debased, and the Church suffers loss."—Bishop Regis Canevin, of Pittsburgh.

Father McGuire.

"The modern American saloon, with its gambling den, wine room, and back parlors is nothing more or less than a living part of hell. It is the 'hang out' for all loafers, toughs, sapheads, and would-be sports in town. The policemen in every town will tell you that murders, suicides, robberies, thefts, and all crimes, originate at the saloon bar, and any lawyer can tell you that the bought perjurers who crowd courts and make justice impossible, can be secured from any nearby saloon. The up-to-date bar room, whether we like to admit it or not, saps the vitality of our manhood, steals the blood money from the laboring man, starves the innocent, drives women to despair, makes beasts out of men, and sends countless souls to eternal perdition."—Father McGuire, Joliet, Ill.

Rev. C. P. Baron.

"What about good saloons? I never heard of one. My honest opinion on that subject, and I don't think I miss the truth very much, is that the good saloon is the bad saloon, and the better saloon the worse saloon, and the best saloon the worst saloon. The good saloon sows the seed, the bad saloon cultivates the crop, and the devil reaps the harvest."—Rev. C. P. Baron.

Rev. Father P. A. McKenna.

"No license is a public gain, since it tends to directly diminish the poverty, misery, vice and drunken crimes of the community. For the sake of our common manhood, for the home and all that it means to the young, and aged, the wives, mothers, sons, daughters and fathers, let us rise in our strength and in our glorious manhood, and strangle this mighty serpent."—Rev. Father P. A. McKenna.

Rev. M. A. Lambing.

"The saloon and drink are pre-eminent among the agents that keep Catholics from Mass and the sacraments."—Rev. M. A. Lambing.

Father Mathew.

"The principle of prohibition seems to me the only safe and certain remedy for the evils of intemperance. This opinion has been strengthened by the hard labor of more than twenty years in the temperance cause."—Father Mathew.

Dressing Well Means Knowing How—This Tells How

Style is no good if the garment won't hold it. But the garment will hold style if it's pure wool. So the question is this: How to get style and pure wool combined without paying a fancy price? There is only one line of clothes in America that is made with the single purpose of solving this problem. That line is CLOTHCRAFT.

Clothcraft Clothes

Style and Wool—$10 to $25 CLOTHCRAFT has style, it's guaranteed pure wool and it sells at sensible prices.

It is the only guaranteed all wool line in the country that sells at $10 to $25. The makers of CLOTHCRAFT are the oldest firm of clothes makers in America.

They have developed processes of eliminating waste and of saving factory expenses that enable them to make good clothes cheaper than any house in the country.

These factory savings pay for the better woollens and better tailoring in CLOTHCRAFT CLOTHES.

Don't Judge by the Price

Please don't judge these remarkable clothes by their prices. You never saw any other clothes at these prices that are nearly as good as CLOTHCRAFT.

That's why the signed guarantee goes with each garment—to protect you against the faults common with other moderate priced clothes. You take no chance with CLOTHCRAFT.

Plain Talks On

When you realize the immense difference between cheap wire fencing and Peerless, and how little extra it costs to get the best, you will never let any dealer talk "cheap fence" to you again.

Before you buy that wire fencing you are thinking of, let us give you a few facts that will help you get the most for your money. No manufacturer of wire fencing makes very much money on his fence. Competition makes him sell it for but a few cents more per rod than the plain wire costs.

Cheapness in fence can be had by using cheap quality of wire, using cheap labor with resulting shoddy workmanship, using under-gauged wire, or stealing crossbars from standard make-ups.

And the poor farmer, who has bought cheap fence to economize, pays for his saving ten times over—in broken, sagging fence, and all that such trouble means—in worry and time—making it stand up to work and—in finally having to replace it before he has begun to get the worth of his money.

Contrast this with the wise way of paying only a little extra, and getting Peerless

Sold by C. E. PAUL, Chelsea.

Wire Fencing—a fence that is built with just one idea in mind—quality.

Peerless Wire Fence is made of hard steel, galvanized wire that will outlast cheap soft wire twice over.

Peerless Wire Fence won't rust—it won't sag—it's elastic, and no matter how hard stock pulled, it springs right back to its original position.

And the famous Peerless circular tie makes Peerless Fence the strongest fence made.

We know that Peerless Fence will suit you better than any other kind made—that's why we sell it in preference to others. Why not come in and ask us about it?

A MONUMENT

is imperative as a mark of respect and remembrance for the departed, and both are best conserved by the thoughtful care which secures not only beauty of design, but quality of material and workmanship.

While the impulse what leads to the erection of a monument is one of tender sentiment, there is no reason why business sense should not be used in its purchase.

The plan on which we operate is to give our customers the best in design, in quality, and in size, that the money available will secure.

We have two complete plants equipped with all modern machinery and we treat our work as a profession and as a business as well, one member of this firm has spent years in studying monumental design.

Our collection of designs and the finished work in our yards at Manchester and Plymouth, Mich., are open for your inspection, or if you will give us a slight idea of your desires in the matter of design and cost, one of our firm will call with designs and estimates.

We do not urge the purchase of a monument—we merely try to get the facts about our facilities before you—then when you are ready we are at your service.

FORTY-NINERS WERE YOUTHFUL.

According to One of Them They Were Just a Lot of Boys.

"It makes me laugh," says an old miner in Out West, "to see the sort of pictures that artists draw when they want to illustrate a story of early mining days here in California. They make the 'Forty-niners' old men, bearded and wrinkled and dressed like dime novel heroes.

"Why, we were just boys, most of us, and trousers patched with flour sacks were more common than red sashes and fancy buttoned coats. I remember we paid $30 a pair for heavy cowhide boots to wear in the ground sluices—that was before rubber boots came along.

"The oldest man in camp here in Weaverville was short of 30, but we called him 'the old man,' and one of my partners never had any name but 'Empire Mills,' because that was the brand on the flour sack he happened to reseat his breeches with.

"We were just a lot of rip-roaring young farmer boys turned loose in a country where we expected to shovel up gold like corn at home. We didn't come to California to stay—we didn't think it was a white man's country anyway. Every one of us expected to wash out a peck measure of nuggets and go back home. We used to say that the best thing Uncle Sam could do was to dig out all the gold and give the country back to the Mexicans.

"Some of us had seen lively times getting across the plains. I had walked most of the way myself and dodged Indians and Mormons; the Saints had it in for me and a lot more of the Gentiles, and they would have paid us off in lead if they could have got the chance. I got to California in time to be a 'Forty-niner,' and in May of '50 I was camped down below town on Weaver creek with three partners."

SWINBURNE HARD TO CORNER.

Great Writer's Ruse to Escape Reporter Who Wanted Interview.

Mr. Algernon Charles Swinburne, whose latest work, "The Age of Shakespeare," has just been published, has a great dislike to being interviewed, and he will go to almost any length to avoid being cornered by a reporter. Some time ago, however, an enterprising journalist determined to obtain some "copy" from him at all costs, and waited on Wimbledon common at a spot where he knew the poet would pass on his daily walk. Presently Mr. Swinburne made his appearance, and the exultant scribe approached him in his most persuasive manner. For a moment Mr. Swinburne was too dismayed to answer, and, feeling that at his age flight was impossible, he was nonplussed how to act. Suddenly an idea occurred to him, and he said: "My friend, I see by your lips that you are talking, but as I am stone deaf, I cannot hear what you say. I will, therefore, wish you good morning." The little ruse was entirely successful, and with a disappointed look the crestfallen interviewer departed to think out another article.

Simple Bunch of Violets.

The impractical attitude of many worthy persons who have an honest endeavor to help what they are pleased to call the "down-trodden working girl," is a matter that interests many others who sit by and watch. Not very long ago a woman who is old enough to know better gave a talk to girls, none of whose salaries exceed seven dollars a week, on "The Beauty of Life and How It Might Be Obtained." Cheap perfumes she found to be prevalent, she declared, and deprecated their use with reason. Then she spoke of one specific instance, where a room she entered was scented with josh sticks, which every girl knows costs about five cents a package.

"It was a most unpleasant odor, so cheap and crude," she declared. "Now, instead of that why not have one simple bunch of violets?"

Any violets 75 cents and one dollar a bunch!

Traffic by Dog Team.

Dog teams are plentiful in Sault Ste. Marie. The boys and girls drive them for pleasure and the older people use them to travel into town from the surrounding country. They are also used to draw loads of 400 to 500 pounds, and this they do with ease. They travel five or six miles an hour and seem to enjoy it.

Both Newfoundland and St. Bernard are used. The Indians of this section also drive dog teams, and still another interesting sight is the Indian children out playing in the snow, attired in real Indian costume and with toy tomahawks.—Sault Ste. Marie correspondence Kansas City Star.

Germs in Old Books.

The bookworm displayed a kind of muzzle—a contrivance of silk and wire to fit over the mouth and nostrils. "Reading mask," he said. "Latest thing from Paris. It is worn at the Bibliotheque Nationale by the students of old books and manuscripts to prevent the inhalation of disease germs.

"Those aged volumes are nests of germs. In the great French library masked readers are as common as masked motorists in the boulevards."

Astonished.

"Well, I am astonished, waiter." "But you ordered eggs, sir." "Yes, but they were so long coming I expected chickens."

WILL LIE ABOUT THE WEATHER.

Something About Which Honesty Seems to Cut Little Figure.

The thing most lied about in the world is the weather. The weather can't sue for libel, so it is a safe thing to lie about, although it does strike back now and then.

Most people see no harm in stretching meteorological truth; in fact, they look with mistrust on the person who insists upon handing the weather a square deal. If your neighbor says his thermometer registered 20 below, and you tell him that yours only showed ten below, he despises you for a person without imagination. In the summer, likewise, when your mercury stands at 86 in the shade and he says his stands at 98, you are the one on whom popular doubt will rest.

Honesty is not the best policy when the weather is under discussion, unless you like to appear at a disadvantage. There is a large and flourishing class of liars who everlastingly pretend to know what the weather is going to do, setting themselves up as intimate friends of the weather, when, as every one knows, their acquaintance is barely a speaking one. Once in a while a born liar, meaning to lie, will tell the truth in spite of himself, and it is thus with the weather professors; they can't miss the right guess always, because there are so few things for the weather man to do.

Call on half a dozen of your weather-wise friends and ask them what it is going to be to-morrow, and they will disagree as widely as the alienists in a murder trial, without any apparent harm to their professional reputations.

BROUGHT FORTUNE TO FAMILY.

The Refrigerator Car the Invention of a Cape Cod Yankee.

Gustavus Franklin Swift, the first of this commercial dynasty, was a Cape Cod Yankee who bought a steer now and then and peddled the meat from the back of a certain go-cart which has since become famous.

He moved to Albany and went deeper into meats, discarding one after another partners who had not the foresight and daring which he possessed. He located in Chicago at the beginning of those days of great possibilities in bringing into touch the new west and the older east.

It was he who invented the first refrigerator cars. This was one revolutionary act which put his sons and a few other sons in very fair control of half of the meat of America.

He saw the market for dressed beef extended only after the hardest of fights. All great revolutions are fought against. All the east, all England, all Europe, fought the idea of dressed beef and then accepted it. I doubt if we could do without it now.—Cosmopolitan.

Grief is an Illness.

Grief is an illness and must be treated as such. Sorrow, grief and the emotions caused by all great misfortunes should be regarded as akin to acute physical maladies. Recent medical observations show that the physical results of depressing emotions are similar to those caused by bodily accidents, fatigue, chills, partial starvation and loss of blood. Birds, moles and dogs, which apparently die in consequence of capture and from conditions that correspond in human beings to broken heart, were examined after death as to the conditions of their internal organs. It was found that the nutrition of the tissues had been interfered with, and the substance proper of various vital organs had undergone degeneration.—From the Osteopath.

Plant Savings Banks.

All bulb plants have savings banks—storehouses that in fat seasons they fill with substance which in the lean days may be drawn upon.

The leaf-buds on the bare winter branches of plants are savings banks full of the plant currency called starch. This currency, accumulated in the easy summer, makes life through the hard winter endurable. Some plants—the beet, carrot and turnip—run particularly fine savings banks called tap roots. These plants have turned economy to parsimony. They are misers. Their banks, or tap roots, are bigger and finer than themselves.

Hence their destruction. Man eats them. Or rather he eats their savings, their best part.

Scraping Along on $50,000.

We have heard it laid down by a thoughtful man, and a Scotchman to boot, that the most impossible of all positions is that of a man who has a wife and a large family and but a thousand pounds a year to keep up an appearance on. . . . Why not, for variation's sake, discuss the question as to what a man can manage to cut anything of a figure on? It was laid down by a former member for Sheffield that it was absolutely impossible to make any real show in public life with an income under ten thousand ($50,000) a year.—London Saturday Review.

Woman's Rights.

"Madam, do you believe in woman's rights?" asked the man standing in the car.

"I do," she replied shortly. "Excuse me," he went on. "I am but an ignorant male seeking light. May I ask you if you construe these rights to include the privilege of spreading your really beaming skirts over three seats?"

Thereupon she condensed herself, she took a seat and conversation sagged.

Taxpayers of Chelsea

A vote in favor of local option is a vote to largely increase the tax rate for the taxpayers of Chelsea. In making up the village tax budget last year it was figured that the village would receive half the liquor tax collected by the county in May, and $1,000 village license collected in addition. If local option carries, the treasury will be short this $2,000 which must be made up in the next tax budget, in making up of which it must also be considered that the customary $2,000 liquor tax to be received in that year will be missing. Thus when the village taxes are collected next summer an extra sum of $4,000 must be raised by direct tax in Chelsea, which would not have to be done if local option is defeated. The village assessment is $1,043,200, so that local option means an increased village tax this summer of $3.84 on each $1,000 of assessment.

Nor is this all, the county tax will be increased next fall from $52,000 to $95,000 if local option carries. Last December the county tax rate, as your tax receipt will show, was $1.33. Next December, if you vote it so by passing local option, it will be $2.45, an increase of $1.12 on $1,000 assessment. Instead of Sylvan's paying $2,402.75 county tax as last year she will pay $4,389.66, an increase of $1,986.91.

It will be seen that local option this year would cost the over-burdened taxpayers of Chelsea an increase of $4.96 on each $1,000 of assessment. It is well known that your state taxes will be much higher next fall. If you so enormously increase your village and county taxes, what future lies before the over-burdened taxpayers of Chelsea. VOTE NO on local option and save your homes from the tax title sharks.

A writ of certiorari has been granted them in supreme court directed against Judge Wiest, to show cause why he should not reverse his decision.

It is said at Lansing on an excellent authority, that Senator Frank Newton of Washtenaw county can be the next warden of Jackson prison if he will accept the job. Senator Newton is very close to the governor and is a prominent business man of both Wayne and Washtenaw counties. Neither the governor nor the senator will discuss the matter, the governor contenting himself with a statement that there are a number of candidates for the place and that the board has not yet taken up the matter of selecting a successor to Warden Armstrong, nor will it until the grand jury finishes its deliberations.

Chicago Theater.

The program at this popular theatre for the opening date, Saturday, April 3d, promises to be a set of the finest pictures ever shown. The management have secured for this day only, the famous Damon and Pythias pictures. A historical drama of Sicily's loyal senator. These are pre-eminently the most popular and instructive pictures of years.

The pictures appeal to people of every social life as well as the Knights of Pythias and all other societies. The story is taken from the historical legend of Damon and Pythias, who lived in Syracuse in Sicily before the Christian era.

The theatre has just been fitted up with 150 opera chairs and elevated floor, making ample seating room for all.

CHAPTER I.

Amelia came running eagerly down the wide stairs, and though she was smiling with the joy of Vernon's coming, she stopped on the bottom step long enough to shake out the skirt of the new spring gown she wore, with a manner that told she had it on with a certain impression of relief in his words, "I have another session after this."

"When will that be?" Amelia asked. "Winter after next. The governor, though, may call a special session to deal with the revenue question. That would take us all back there again next winter."

"Next winter?" she cried, leaning over in alarm. "Do you mean you'll have to be away all next winter, too?" The significance of her tone was sweet to Vernon, and he raised himself to take her hands in his.

"You could be with me then, dear," he said, softly. "In Springfield?" she exclaimed. "Why not?" asked Vernon. "Other members have their wives with them—some of them," he qualified, thinking how few of the members cared to have their wives with them during the session.

"What could one do in Springfield, pray?" Amelia demanded. "Go to the legislative hops, I suppose? And dance reels with farmers and West side politicians!" She almost sniffed her disgust.

"Why, dearest," Vernon pleaded, "you do them a great injustice. Some of them are really of the best people; the society in Springfield is excellent. At the governor's reception at the mansion the other night—"

"Now, Morley," Amelia said, with a smile that was intended to reproach him mildly for this attempt to impose upon her credulity.

"And, besides," Vernon hurried on, suddenly taking a different course with her, "you could be a great help to me. I never address the senate that I don't think of you, and wish you were there to hear me."

"I should like to hear you," said Amelia, softening a little. "But of course I couldn't think of appearing in the senate."

"Why not? Ladies often appear there," he said, over-dressed, no doubt.

"Well, you wouldn't have to be over-dressed," Vernon retorted. He seemed to have the advantage, but he decided to forego it. He sank back on the cushions of his chair, folding his hands and plainly taking the rest a senator needs after his legislative labors.

"Of course," he said, "we needn't discuss it now. The governor may not call the special session. If the party—"

"but he paused, thinking how little interested she was in the party. "I wish you'd let politics alone," Amelia went on relentlessly. "It seems so—so common. I don't see what there is in it to attract you. And how am I ever going to explain your absence to those people to-morrow night? Tell them that politics detained you, I suppose?"

"She looked at him severely, and yet triumphantly, as if she had reduced the problem to an absurdity. "Why," said Vernon, "you can tell them that I was called suddenly to Springfield; that an important matter in the senate—"

"The senate?" Amelia sneered. "But, dearest," Vernon began, leaning over in an attitude of argument. She cut him short.

"Why, Morley, do you think I'd ever let on to those Eltons that I know any one in politics?"

"Don't they have politics in New York?" he asked.

"They won't even know where Springfield is!" she went on irrelevantly.

"What'll they say when they receive our cards next fall?" he asked with a smile.

"Well, you needn't think your name will be engraved on them as senator, I can assure you!" Her dark eyes flashed.

Vernon laughed again, and Amelia went on.

"You can laugh, but I really believe you would if I'd let you!"

"They were silent after that, and Amelia sat with her elbow on the arm of her chair, her chin in her hand, meditating gloomily on her ruined dinner."

"If you did any good by being in politics," she said, as if speaking to herself, "What I fail to see what good you do. What good do you do?" She lifted her head suddenly and challenged him with a high look.

"Dear Sir—I have your request for advice of a recent date, and beg leave to say that not having received any retainer from you I cannot act in the premises. Upon receipt of your check for $250 I shall be very glad to look the matter up for you and to acquaint you with the results of my investigations. I am, sir, with great respect, your most obedient servant, Barclay B. Coke."—Success Magazine.

"Well," he said, spreading his hands wide, "of course, if you don't care enough to look in the newspapers!"

"But how could I, Morley?" said Amelia. "How was I to know where to look?"

"Why, in the Springfield dispatches," "I began by reading the papers," Amelia said. "But, really now, Morley, you know I couldn't find anything in them about you."

"The most important work in the legislature isn't done in the newspapers," said Vernon, with a significance that was intended to hide his inconsistency. "There are committee meetings, and conferences and caucuses; it is there that policies are mapped out and legislation framed."

He spoke darkly, as of secret sessions held at night on the upper floors of hotels, attended only by those who had received whispered invitations.

"But if you must be in politics," she said, "why don't you do something big, something great, something to make a stir? Show your friends that you are really accomplishing something!"

Amelia sat erect and gave a strenuous gesture with one of her little fists clenched. Her dark eyes showed the excitement of ambition. But Vernon drooped and placed his hand wearily to his brow. Instantly Amelia started up from her chair.

"Does that light annoy you?" Her tone was altogether different from her ambitions one. She was stretching out a hand toward the lamp, and the white flesh glowed red between her fingers, held against the light.

"Never mind," said Vernon. "It doesn't bother me."

But Amelia rose and twisted the shade of the lamp about, and then, as she was taking her seat again, she went on:

"I suppose it'll be worse then ever after—after we're married!" She faltered, and blushed, and began making little plaits in her handkerchief, studying the effect with a sidewise turn of her head.

Vernon bent over and took both her hands in his.

"If it were only Washington!" There was a new regret in her tone, as there was in the inclination of her head.

"It shall be Washington, dear," he said. Amelia's eyelids fell and she blushed again, even in the glow the lamp shed upon her face. They were silent for a moment, and then suddenly she looked up.

"Washington would be ever so much better, Morley," she said. "I should feel as if that really amounted to something. We'd know all the diplomats, and I'm sure in that atmosphere you would become a great man."

"I will, dear; I will," he declared, "but it will be all for you."

Value of Trees in Towns.

"The planting of trees in streets and public places is a sure means of increasing the healthfulness of a town, as well as adding to its beauty. But," says a writer in Building World, "not all trees are suitable for town planting; and in order to insure success, a nursery in which to grow the selected trees should be established in the neighborhood. London appears to be well provided in this respect. The London county council maintains its own nurseries, and large tracts of ground at Avery Hill are reserved for rearing of young trees, whose ultimate destinations are the various parks and public gardens of the metropolis."

Reciprocity.

There is a little shop in Park place before the door of which is a small box. The top is fastened by a padlock. The key is kept in a hiding place known only to the man who keeps the shop, and to the postman. When the postman has a letter for that number he unlocks the little box, drops in the mail, finds a cigar, looks the box and proceeds on his way. This has been going on a long time. The man who keeps the shop lives over on Long island. He has no clerk and comes to business whenever the spirit moves him.—New York Times.

45 to 50 Bu. of Wheat Per Acre have been grown on farm lands in WESTERN CANADA

Much has been said recently about the general average in wheat twenty bushels.

"All are lost in their praise of the great crops and that wonderful country—" tract from correspondence National Association of August, 1908.

It is now possible to secure a homestead of 160 acres free and another 160 acres at $3.00 per acre. Hundreds have paid the cost of their farms ($1,000) and then had a balance of from $1,000 to $12,000 per acre from one crop. Wheat, barley, oats, flax—all do well. Mixed farming is a great success and dairying is highly profitable. Excellent climate, splendid schools and churches, railways bring most every district within easy reach of market. Railway and land companies have lands for sale at low prices and on easy terms.

"Last Best West" pamphlets and maps sent free. For these and information as to how to secure lowest railway rates, apply to Superintendent of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or the authorized Canadian Government Agent:
