Choral Union Concerts.

The concerts offered on the Choral Union and May Festival Series at Ann Arbor, this year have been announced and shows that an unusually interesting series has been arranged. During tendance and the number this year will undoubtedly be greater. Schuman-Heink, the general favorite, will start the series on October 25. The mediately called forth the enthusiastic approval of music lovers of this vicinity. November 12, an opportunity will be had to hear one of Hungary's greatest pianists in the personage of Yolanda Mero, who will make her American debut in New York, a few days previously. On December 3, Cecil Fanning, the baritone who has been causing so much enthusiasm in music circles during the the past few years, on account of his superb musicianship will give a song recital; On January 31, the old!favorates, the Kneisel String Quartet will appear, while the winter series will terminate on March I, by a violin recital by Kreisler, perhaps the greatest living master of this instrument.

The details of the Festival have not yet been definitely arranged, but many of the more general plans have been decided upon. The Thomas Orchestra will again take part during all of the five concerts. The Wednesday evening concert will be changed somewhat, in that the Choral Union will appear the role of several short popular works. On Thursday evening Wolf-Ferrani's popular work "The New Life" will be given, while the Saturday evening will probably be given over to Bruch's "Odysseus." Negotiations are pending with parties of distinction, and full details will be announced shortly. Chelsea patrons may purchase tickets of Miss Helene Steinbach at the usual price of $3,00.

CROPS AND COST OF LIVING.

Predictions of cheaper living, based upon ample crops, must be taken with some caution. We are not confronted by the problem of two-dollar wheat, which Mr. Patten probably did not expect when he was predicting it last spring. His prediction, served his purpose admirably. Instead of ships ping wheat into Chicago and breaking the May market—the sort of thing that has broken nearly every predecessor of Mr. Patten's "bull" operations-the farmers held on to their wheat and waited for that two-dollar quotation, says the Philadelphia Record. The harvest began less than a month after the May option closed, and we now have every assurance that the wheat crop will exceed 700,000,000 bushels, and may reach 735,000,000 bushels. Wheat is selling in Chicago for less than a dollar. Food ought to be, and probably will be, cheaper than it has been lately. But cotton and wool are high and textile prices show no disposition to recede. Most of the prices are rising. Structural steel is not a commodity that the average citizen purchases, but he is affected by its price; and all steel prices are up. Hides are on the free list, but the shoe stores and factories are stocked up with goods purchased before the repeal of the hide duty, and prices are not yet coming down. The most important item of expense is rent, and with the growth of population that tends upward, but the extensive building operations all over the country may keep abreast of the demand.

How much individual credit belongs to Maria Parloa for the improvement which has taken place in American home cooking within the last quarter of a century it is difficult to say. But that she was one of the foremost of the advocates of a saner diet and that she contributed materially to a cudinary reform of which the present generation is enjoying the benefit admits of no question. Miss Parloa was one of the first to apply scientific methods to cooking and to instill the principles of domestic economy in American homes. Through her books and lectures she carried on a propaganda for sound digestion which made her name a household word. has not been abolished. But it is undoubtedly not so prevalent. The frying pan is less and the broiler more in evidence. Breakfasts have grown simpler; they no longer burden the digestion with many kinds of hot breads and meats. More intelligence is put into the preparation of food for the table. The housewife's efforts are now concentrated on dinner, the postponement of which to the end of the day has been a gain for digestion.

A man 90 years of age, who had been sentenced for life, has been pardoned and released from the New Jersey state prison at Trenton. He was committed many years ago, and he comes forth to a world which bewilders him because it is so different from that which he knew. He had never seen a trolley car, the automobile was an undreamed-of machine for general use when he was incarcerated and in many other respects extraordinary changes have been wrought during the term of his imprisonment. Such an incident gives the world itself a little opportunity to note how fast it is going, though very likely the old globe will not take time to give the matter much heed, but will let out another speed notch and hustle on to still greater things.

Signs of progress: Railroads carrying more freight than ever before, although the great grain movement is just beginning. Demand for more roll ing stock. Iron and steel mills rushed with orders. Farmers asking for help to gather crops. Wholesale and retail trade improving daily. Money easy and payments prompt. That optimistic feeling all along the line. Get aboard!

The French minister of justice has sent orders to the district attorneys throughout France to prosecute vigorously the cases of cruelty to domestic animals. He adds that the prevalence of this evil is distressing and that it is largely caused by the indifference of the authorities. If officials would heartily co-operated with the anti-cruelty societies here our own streets might be saved some revolting revelations of brutality.

THE SUICIDE OF DR. WEBSTER WAS CAUSED BY SHORT FINANCES.

WHERE DID MONEY GO?

The Association Which He Founded is Short Fourteen Thousand Dollars,

The certainty that Dr. Alfred M. Webster, of Grand Rapids, took his own life when confronting exposure of the fact that he was nearly $15,000 short in his accounts with the New Era association, the benefit society of which he was founder and general secretary, by no means dispels the mystery surrounding his death.

The figures of the alleged shortage are given by Examiner Englehart, whose audit of the association books began shortly after the body of the suicide was discovered in the New Era offices. State Insurance Commissioner Barry was summoned from Lansing, and his statement supports that of the examiner. PROF. HUTCHINS IS ACTING Angell Ends Thirty-Eight Years of Service as Head of Ann Arbor Institution and Plans What to Do with Time.

After presiding over the University of Michigan for 38 years President James B. Angell, "Grand Old Man of Michigan" gladly turned over the duties of the office to Prof. Harry E. Hutchins, dean of the law department, and appointed acting president of Michigan till such time as the regents shall appoint a permanent president

When asked what he should do with his time now, after all these years of work, he said:

"I wish you could tell me that, for really I am just beginning to-day to understand that that's a question that is likely to cause me serious trouble. I realize to-day that I shall have to begin at once to plan what to do with my time. I have never before had any time to waste. To-day, though I may be officially dead, I think I shall begin to manage to live, especially after I have had time to collect myself and look around to see what there is for a man of leisure to enjoy. I'm going to find out what life means when there is no weight of responsibility on a man's shoulders.'

Though Dr. Angell retires as the president of the university of Michigan, he does not sever all active connection with the university, for, besides being the president emeritus, he is still to meet classes in international at the University of Chicago, was ap-University Needs New Buildings. The pressing need for new buildings at the university is dwelt upon at considerable length by President Angell in his annual report, presented to the "We should have without delay," he says, "a building for the departments of botany, zoology and geology. They are now inadequately provided for in buildings never constructed for their special needs.

"No time should be lost in perfecting plans for a larger plant for heating and lighting. Since the present plant was installed we have completed, or are now erecting, several large buildings. With the development of the university other buildings will become necessary. A new heating plant adequate for our needs for 20 years to come and accessible to a railway track, and so placed as to admit of subsequent enlargement, must be provided before very long. It is probable it cannot be built for less than $250,-000. The present annual yield of the three-eighths mill tax will not suffice to furnish this sum after meeting our current expenses. We shall be called upon to submit to the legislature at an early day the question whether that body will either increase our tax or make a special appropriation to enable us to construct this new plant."

the station to meet Hubbard. After a hearty shake of the hand, the two men paced up and down the train shed in earnest conversation. At one of the pauses the explorer unbuttoned his navy blue sack coat and from the inside pocket pulled forth what appeared to be a bulky white envelope. Shortly after, he made several notes on a small piece of paper and handed it to Hubbard. The gen-

It is not what you were yesterday. It's what you are to-day, and the player who is a member of a championship club one year may be back in the minors before a year or so has passed. Of the Chicago White Sox who won the American league pennant in 1900 only one man, Frank Isbell, played with Chicago this year. The other champions of the first year of the league were: Denzer, Katoll, Fisher and Patterson, pitchers; Sugden, Buckley and Wood, catchers; Padden, Hartman, Shugart and Charley O'Leary, infielders; Hoy, Dillard, McFarland, Brodie and Shearon, outfielders. Of these, Charley O'Leary of the Tigers is the only one left in the American league. The following year the White Sox were made up as follows: Piatt, Griffith, Callahan, Patterson and Katoll, pitchers; Sugden and Sullivan, catchers; Isbell, Mertes, Shugart, Burke and Hartman, infielders; Hoy, Fielder Jones, McFarland and Foster, outfielders. Of the list Isbell and Sullivan are the only survivors eitner on the White Sox roster or in the American league. Clarke Griffith was let out at New York last summer and had charge of the Cincinnati team this season, while of the most exciting Jimmy Callahan is a semi-pro magnate in Chiraces for the championship pennants in The season of 1902 saw Philadelphia win the history of the great national pastime. in many leagues, the dyed-in-the-wool baseball fans must content themselves with recalling the exciting games of the past season until the ring of the gong next spring starts the race for the season of 1910. When the rooter who was wont to screech his opinions concerning the integrity of the umpire to the four winds seats himself quietly before the family hearthstone, gives yent to a long-drawn sigh and murmurs gently to himself, "Gee, it's all ever, but golly it was some hot fight," then it is that memories of some of the men who stood out most promimently during the thick of the fight fit through his mentality. The failings of the stars at critical moments, the successes of the "dubs," the rising of some new luminary in the base-ball firmament and the fall of idols of years past, all tend to sketch a most vivid and interesting picture. Feeding Farm Hands.

Every farmer's wife knows what tremendous appetites farm hands usually have; but while they eat well they, work well, too.

Here's a good suggestion about feeding farm hands. Give them plenty Quaker Oats. A big dish of Quaker Oats porridge with sugar and cream or milk is the greatest breakfast in the world for a man who needs vigor and strength for a long day's work. The man that eats Quaker Oats plentifully and often is the man who does good work without excessive fatigue. There is a sustaining quality in Quaker Oats not found in other foods, and for economy it is at the head of the list. Besides the regular size packages Quaker Oats is packed in large size family packages, with and without china.

HAVING FUN WITH A BANKER

Practical Joke That Doubtless Was More Appreciated by the Player Than the Victim.

Councilman F. A. Drew is fond of playing practical jokes on William H. Lee, president of the Merchants-Laclede National bank. Mr. Drew was for years a director in Mr. Lee's bank. While the bankers were waging their recent war upon prohibition, Mr. Drew late one night rang up Mr. Lee at his home and represented that he was a reporter assigned to get Mr. Lee's views on the situation.

Mr. Lee complained somewhat bitterly on being called out of bed at that hour of night to give an interview, but finally got warmed up to the subject and for 30 minutes pictured the desolation that would result in St. Louis if Missouri went dry.

"Let me see," said Mr. Drew at the conclusion of the interview, "you are Mr. William H. Lee, whisky man, aren't you?"

"No," snapped Mr. Lee, "I am Mr. William H. Lee, the banker."

"Oh," said Mr. Drew, apologetically, "I am very sorry, but I wanted to talk to Mr. Lee the whisky expert, and not Mr. Lee the financier."

Mr. Drew hung up the receiver before the explosion occurred on the other end of the wire.-St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Ours and Theirs.

"A play on names unconsciously perpetrated by my youngest son was very funny," said a Flatbush man the other day. "We live next door to a family named Feitenour, and the other night while my family was busy reading in the library we heard a racket on the back porch. My son went out to investigate, and on his return my wife, always inquisitive, asked what had caused the noise.

"'Nothin' but a couple of cats,' Jim told her, and then I heard her ask: 'Did you see whose they were?' "'Yes; one was ours and the other was Feitenour's.' "

The head of the house had been ill for many months, and had lost his appetite entirely.

enjoy drinking with the children.' "I was astonished that she would allow the children to drink any kind of coffee, but she said Postum was the most healthful drink in the world for children as well as for older ones, and that the condition of both the children and adults showed that to be a fact. "My first trial was a failure. The cook boiled it four or five minutes and it tasted so flat that I was in despair but determined to give it one more trial. This time we followed the directions and boiled it fifteen minutes after the boiling began. It was a decid success and I was completely won by time I noticed a decided improvement in my condition and kept growing bet-ter month after month, until now I am perfectly healthy, and do my work in the school room with ease and pleasure. There's notling surprising about that, for Hans is worth whatever he thinks is right.

But when he signed his first contract, a few months after he won his alekname of "Big Dutchman," he signed up for $35 a month. And that was after he had been restrained by violent laying on of hands from wearing his uniform to breakfast. George Moreland, a former player and manager, who now makes a business of supplying averages and other brands of dope to the hungry baseball in, declares that Hans Wagner had no thought of becoming anything but of the Steubenville club in the old Central association. At that time Al Wagner, Claude Hitchey and Frank Bowerman were on the team. During a slump the manager sent out field like sprinters do, but he was chased for spoiling the diamond and had to practice when and where he could. Finally he became fairly proficient. He could field all right, but was awkward as a hog on ice. He picked up in batting and soon attracted the attention of rival clubs, but had made such an unfavorable impression with Moreland that he was given to the Paterson club for nothing. There he signed a formal contract to play for $35 a month, his first regular salary as a player. There he made good with a vengeance and the following spring was old to Louisville for $2,500. He remained with the Colonels until the shift that took him to Pittsburg was made. And that's where he'll stay just as long as Barney Dreyfuss has money enough to cover the figures that Hans writes in the contract. Tyrus Raymond Cobb was again the bright star of the American league. He stole 39 bases in 1908, but last season he made a new record, nearly doubling his former mark. At the beginning of the season the Georgian said he would be fortunate If he got a total of 50 for this year. There is probably no runner in the history of baseball, and this list includes "King" Kelly and "Bill"

He has nine different methods of reaching a bag and he embles all the others who could complete the control of the could be supported by the could be s ys all of them. The Georgian can slide head first or feet first; he

SECOND SACKERS

The prime of Cobb's life still remains to be reached. He has sprinted against the fastest throwers in the American league and he has beaten them. In 1907 Johnny Kling's arm stopped Tyrus, but last year Cobb stole bases on Kling. Cobb is half way to a base before most runners get a start and the pitcher unwinds himself, and he is into a bag before the throw from an average catcher reaches the baseman's hands.

Tyrus Raymond Cobb is baseball's marvel. Lajoie is still the king of all second sackers, at least so says a prominent St. Louis baseball critic.

Recently a baseball fan of the Mound City wrote Billy Murphy of St. Louis, asking who was the greatest second baseman of the men now playing the bag. Following is the interesting answer:

"Lajoie, Johnnie Evers and Jimmy Williams are the three greatest second basemen in the major leagues.
"Williams was not at his best last season and Lajoie lacked a few points of traveling at his top speed at times, while Evers, coming slowly each year, showed more brilliancy than either during the race and lacked but-a small margin of reaching the high-water mark of the phenomenal performances by Napoleon Lajoie, who, without doubt, to my way of figuring, has a shade on all second basemen and should be given the paim, with putation insulted. "The most really brilliant player of the three is is a good throwing arm and has caught many good men, and get balls better than the others, while both Williams and Lajoie can outplay him on fast ground balls when playing in close. All three men are wonders at holding thrown balls to get a runner at second. Lajole takes a ball and gets it away a shade quicker than the others. "I believe that Williams can outplay either Lajoie and play just as well as ever, the true test of a ball player.

"Oh, tempora! O mores! O mama! "Ze Grande Napoleon La-wah!' He is the greatest second baseman of ... It time. The brightest jewel in the baseball diadem—gee! that sounds like diamond.

"Lajole has the best pair of hands I ever saw in baseball; right or left, high or low, the most difficult ball is taken with ease, making the play look simple and giving the impression of indifference; not a move wasted, and a perfect knowledge of time and distance; never and a perfect knowledge of time and attacher, into hurried, but ever working into a position to get the ball away; saving wild throws from short; and Lajole continues to make the most difficult plays look so dead easy that one sometimes feels that he has no love for the great game. A ball is hit like a shot out of a gun;

it is always well to look into the proposition. Before placing your saving with us, it will be well to investigate our management and methods. In fact we advise you to do so, and place every means at your disposal that will make it easy for you. We do not ask you to place your savings here because in 30 or 60 days you would suffer a loss by the delay. This is the case often with promoters. They advise confidentially to purchase now, as at a certain date the price will advance. The banking business is thoroughly established; there are safeguards placed around it which insure the depositor security for funds. Our published statements are for the benefit of the public. SYNOPSIS.

The story opens with a scene at a box party. Miss Henrietta Winstanley, sister of Bishop Winstanley overheard Banker Ankony propose to Barbara Hemingray, whose brother Dan was in his employ. Dan was one of the town's popular young men. He showed some nervousness when Attorney Tom Twining told him Barbara 'refused Ankony. Ankony the following day, summoning Twining, accused Dan of looting the bank. Twining refused to prosecute. Barbara persuaded Ankony to postpone starting prosecution. Twining learned of the engagement of Ankony and Barbara. He congratulated both. He visited Miss Hemingray and found her almost in tears. He told her he had loved her, but feared prematurely announcing his affection. By actions alone she told him she reciprocated, Mrs. Anson Dines, wealthy widow, proposed a marriage by proxy with Bishop Winstanley. The latter consulted with Twining. The bishop had been paying attentions to Miss Streeter. Dan consulted Twining, saying his sister was determined to marry Ankony, declaring she actually loved the terruption, I leaned to her quickly: something, Barbara; will you?" ing his sister was determined to marry Ankony, declaring she actually loved the banker, though he could not help believ-

What is it?" isn't easy to wait, but I believe it's better. Mrs. Ankony gives her dinner to-night. You'd have a chance to talk with her there, wouldn't you?" "You're right," I said; "I'll wait."

Mrs. Ankony was in high and becoming teather that evening. She managed to veil her complacency until it missed being objectionable. This, however, was one of the few occasions which had come her way upon which she could distinctly congratulate herself: a dinner in compliment to "my dear Barbara;" a perfectly appointed dinner, too, and one I think most of her guests enjoyed. For myself, I thought it would never end.

Most of Barbara's friends were there, and but few of Ankony's. The Forlorn Hope was there to a man, seeking to present an unbattered front. I had a kindred feeling for them. Dan was not there. He simply would not go. Bishop Winstanley sat on the left of the hostess, beside Miss Streeter. He was delightfully fluent, clared. and she sympathetically attendant. CHAPTER VII.

It was a wretched night two weeks later, gloomy and winterish, although spring was old enough to have done much better. I was dining alone and rather forlornly when I heard Kimmen's open the outer door of my apartment and admit some one. There was the click of brisk heels along the hall, and Miss Winstanley beckoning me "Dear me, am I ever anything else through the glass doors of the dining room to go on with my dinner.

We were all brought up under the old adage: "A stitch in time saves nine," but how heedless have we become. The girl or woman who finds the hook loose, the button gone or the braid ripped and immediately puts in the needed stitch, thankfully puts on the garment feeling well dressed.

On ironing day it is a good plan to put all garments needing mending on one side of the rack so that nothing may be put away overlooked. A still better plan is to make all repairs before sending to the laundry, as they usually become worse after passing through the washing. Hosiery, of course, is preferably darned after washing.

Shoe heers may be the means of much destruction to fine petticoats of lace and embroidery. A handy little convenience that may save many a disturbed moment is a cushion containing a few needles threaded, of different kinds of thread. and silk, hung where one may reach it easily when dressing. These threaded needles are real temper savers. Try them. ..

One of the valuable talks given us as college girls was one which has proved invaluable in ordinary daily life; it is this: Decide the night before what you are to wear the following day (if you are a business woman this is invaluable advice), lay out the garments, see that there is nothing to repair, and in the morning you will be ready for a busy day with the "It's quite time I got here, I'm sure. satisfied feeling of a well dressed we man, unhurried and happy.

WHERE THEY LEARN ECONOMY Matron Knew What She Was About

When She Went to Engage Maid.

The manager of the employment agency was used to hearing women in search of maids ask applicants all sorts of queer questions, says the New York Tribune, but this matron made him mildly curious. Of 14 girls in turn she had inquired: "Have you worked in a minister's family?" None of them had. "Too bad," said the matron to the manager. "None of these girls will do."

Cuticura Thus Proven Pure and Sweet. A New York friend of Cuticura

writes: "My three year old son and heir, after being put to bed on a trip across the Atlantic, investigated the stateroom and located a box of graham crackers and a box of Cuticura Ointment. When a search was made for the box, it was found empty and the kid admitted that he had eaten the contents of the entire box spread on the crackers. It cured him of a bad cold and I don't know what else."

No more conclusive evidence could be offered that every ingredient of Cuticura Ointment is absolutely pure, sweet and harmless. If it may be safely eaten by a young child, none but the most beneficial results can be expected to attend its application to even the tenderest skin or youngest infant. Potter Drug & Chem. is imperative as a mark of respect and remembrance for the departed, and both are best conserved by the thoughtful care which secures not only beauty of design, but quality of material and workmanship.

While the impulse what leads to the erection of a monument is one of tender sentiment, there is no reason why business sense should not be used

The plan on which we operate is to give our customers the best in design, in quality, and in size, that the money available w.ll secure.

We have two complete plants equipped with all modern machinery and we treat our work as a profession and as a business as well, one member of this firm has spent years in studying monumental designing.

Our collection of designs and the finished work in our yards at Manchester and Plymouth, Mich., are open for your inspection, or if you will give us a slight idea of your desires in the matter of design and cost, one of our firm will call with designs and estimates.

We do not urge the purchase of a monument—we merely try to get the facts about our facilities before you—then when you are ready we are at your service.
