MAY GET ESTATE.

New Evidence Has Been Discovered in

There is some local interest in the ossibility of opening up the Reade estate in England, now being agitated by Sir Compton Reade of Howell, as Reade of North Lake, the son of Sir John Reade, one of the early settlers at the Lake.

Wakefield, the ex-butler who gained possession of the estate many years ago, and whose son now holds it under the name of Joseph Reade, is now dead. According to evidence recently discovered, this man can be called upon to surrender the titles of the estate despite the provisions of the statute of limitations, to Sir Compton Reade, who is now a resident of Howell, this state. This information is based on the fact that some time after the diswas effected, attaching the Shipton rendered the former's subsequent will in favor of Wakefield of no account. The dollar is a little light but it has the ring. In appearance it looks like a dollar that is ten or fifteen years old. It is well milled and has the stars, the head and all the designs necessary to make it look genuine. But it feels greasy and is apt to Every number, letter, and star on the piece is clear cut and distinct. These pieces are in circulation to a considerable extent and it is a good idea to watch every dollar you take.

TOWNSEND IN CHARGE.

Approved By Pres. Taft.

A Washington dispatch, dated December 4, says: "Congressman Townsend's three important amendments to the Hepburn law have been adopted as administration measures. This gratifying information reached Mr. Townsend as soon as he arrived in Washington today.

"His colleagues on the special committee created by President Taft to revise the Hepburn law had approved his views, and the amendments had been drafted by the attorney general.

One of these amendments provides that the interstate commerce commission may, upon complaint of a shipper, suspend the operation of a new tariff until its fairness has been established in formal hearing. Under the present law shippers must pay increased freight rates whenever railroads revise their tariffs upward, until they have satisfied the commission that the rates are too high.

"The second Townsend amendment to become an administration measure as that which permits a shipper to dictate the route over which his shipment is to go. Now the railroads route shipments to suit themselves and sometimes serious delays result. "The third amendment compels the railroads to stand behind any rate quoted to a shipper. If a freight agent quotes to a shipper a rate road must transport the freight of that shipper for the quoted rate.

"To prevent rebating, the amendment provides that the commission must satisfy itself by investigation that the lower rate was quoted in good faith. To this may later be added a provision penalizing the railroads for the mistake in quoting a

"President Taft this morning asked Mr. Townsend to come to the White Columbia has an enrollment of ing for the purpose of going over the whole subject of revising the interstate commerce law and the amendments necessary to make government regulation of common carriers better serve the interests of the public.

A communication of Prosecuting Attorney Carl Storm relative to the rolls of the Drain Commissioner was read and on motion placed on file.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 15, 1909. Hon, Charles L. Miller, County Clerk, Ann Arbor, Michigan.

My Dear Mr. Miller:-I have before me the resolution of Hon. John Dresselhouse made before the Board of lows: Supervisors yesterday and laid on the table until today, relating to the appointment of a committee of three to correct the rolls of the Drain Commissioner, so that they will compare correctly with the rolls of the different townships, which resolution you submitted to me for my opinion. In regard to this resolution I will say from January 1st to and including that I do not believe that the Board of September 30th, Supervisors can alter the rolls of the Drain Commissioner without his consent and co-operation, and that without this consent and co-operation the Board will be exceeding its authority. Of the estimated expenses for the ensuing year $4,371.14 are due from cities and townships for board and care of the poor. We have a balance of $50.92 cents in the hands of the County Treasurer after providing for orders outstanding and unpaid. This will leave a balance of $3,152.94 to be raised. We would therefore respectfully ask that the sum of three thousand dollars be appropriated for the ensuing year.

The Superintendents of the Poor for Washtenaw County, after due and diligent examination into the condition of the County Poor House, do hereby respectfully submit the following report: First. They find after due and rigid

Third. Your committee is further dvised that Washtenaw Con stands number seven on the list of wealth in the State of Michigan, and for these reasons your committee ommends as follows:

That inasmuch as Washtenaw Cour ty is considered to be a wealthy or ty, a county the name of which is known all over the broad land of ours through its great institutions of les ing and its wealth-producing farms, it would be nothing more than, befitting our position among the other counties in this state to be known also as a county that supports and maintains a home for the poor and needy of which it does not need to be ashamed but of which it can be justly proud, an institution modern in every particular, in which the poor and needy will be taken care of properly.

Inasmuch then considering the premises, and a great amount would be wasted for repairs on the old buildings, which would not improve the matter materially, we recommend to provide this county with a new and up-to-date Poor House.

We estimate the costs at about $75. 000 and further recommend and submit that this expenditure shall be submitted to the voters of Washtenaw County at the next spring election. All of which is respectfully submit-

TO DOOM FOR THE OUITTER Eusiness World Has No Place for the wian Who Is Unable to Hold On.

Many business men fail because they are quitters. It may be that more fail for this reason than any other. Whatever the proportion, the number is too large. Men can accomplish more than they ever dreamt of, in most cases. It is mainly a question of holding on when a man is engaged in a pursuit into which his physical and mental qualities fit. If plants succumbed to every whiff of biting air in the raw days of spring and shriveled up at every drought of summer, there would be no fruit. Nature points the and left alone the face of the earth is smothered in shrub and flower and

In the fields of industry Thomas A. Edison is a splendid illustration of these truths, declares a writer in the Bookkeeper. He says: "In scientific work, as in all other work, the chief factor of success is the power of sticking to a thing. I attribute all that I have accomplished to the fact that I hold on where most persons get discouraged." Grant won his battles by holding on, not by superior military tactics. Examples are as numerous as successful men.

Not all may succeed in the same degree, since men are differently constituted and labor under varying con-ditions, but a doubting, shifting, yielding course leads nowhere. No sensible man would make a mistake of traveling east to reach a western town; so none should pursue an object unpreparedly and without purpose. But it is not only necessary to

Lena M. McCauley

HO IS willing to play Santa Claus? What shall we do with the children?" This being the final to wait for an answer. St. Elizabeth's orphanage was facing a Christmarriage of the matron, and a disabled heating plant.

An interval of silence followed Mrs. history of man. We of the west are Blunt's appeal, though every one of onr religions and our philosophy, and present overflowed with sympathy for the 45 homeless boys and girls without prospect of Christmas cheer. They had come prepared with check books and the usual offerings of cake and confections for the holiday, but the personal entertainment of 45 shivering children was something they had not looked for.

Little Mrs. Thompson, confessing a brood of six boys and girls of her own, was the first to speak.

"Suppose we invite the orphans home with us; I know many townswill be a treat to them. I can take two."

"Bravo!" said the chairman, clapping her gloved hands. "I will take

"I'd rather have a child choose me. I'll go into the school room and ask those who would like to visit me to leave their names on the desk. If they choose me, I am sure they will like me. I can take four just as well as two. Our house is so large," said Mrs. Cliff, the Lady Bountiful of the

When the chorus had quieted, 20 children were provided for, and there was every reason to believe that all would be settled in homes before pitable villagers visited the orphanage, and it proved that there were more invitations than were needed. As the children were checked off from the monthly school room list, it happened that a group of five quarantined recovered, and said lessons and played games in the sun-parlor with John Bell, Jane Smith and little Mary Moore, who had been held on suspicion, and who remembered too late that they had had the mumps years before. They relieved the loneliness of the nurse, who had become attached to the happy group, and she was in no hurry to send them downstairs. The morning of Christmas eve came, and the five were permitted to take breakfast in the big dining question, the chairman hall. The nurse herself was going of the board of managers sat down home for Christmas. They heard the great news for the first time. The three girls and two boys realized that mas without festivities, owing to the they had nothing in view, but youth is hopeful, and they argued that the next

> "I wonder who is coming for us?" cried Tom Martin, in vexation. The five friends were gathered on the steps watching the others go. "Somebody must come before long. The kids said ladies picked them out, or they picked out ladies they liked. I wish I had a chance to choose." "Don't mind, Tom," said Alice, consolingly. "Mrs. Brown, the cook, promised to let us play in the kitchen, and folk would be glad to help us out. It have candles, and hang up stockingns to-night. We can live with her till the others come back." "I should like a truly home to-

'Alice said this was a really home." Then Miss Anne found her voice. She rose from her chair, and putting her arm around the shivering boy, said: "Of course I want you. I'm glad you came. Peter shall find you a Christmas tree.".

A little later when she looked at the circle of happy faces around her table and the passing plates of cake and marmalade, she said to herself: "I have visitors, after all, and I shall keep them always in a really home."

Little Mary Moore having finished her supper, slipped from her chair and climbed on Miss Anne's lap. That lady did not see the orphanage gingham and the clipped hair, she only saw the divine hope of childhood. She drew Mary into her arms and her feeling of loneliness vanished for-

"Tell me, little one, why you came to my house?" Mary looked up into the kind face and said: "I came because you were all alone, and your lamp shone like a guiding star." Peter, sawing at an evergreen in the yard, looked in at the window. He rubbed his eyes and shook his hoary head, saying: "They picked us out for themselves. Who would have thought it?"

A Soldier of Two Nations.

To be at once a soldier in the French and German armies is the unique position of a young man named Mans, whose parents are German subjects, who who were residing in Paris when he was born. He considered himself a German subject and served his two years in the German army at Metz. He then returned to Paris. where he was informed that he was a French subject and must serve two years in the French army. He did so, and remained with the division at Nancy for the full term. Since then Mans has first been called to the German and then to the French army to attend the annual training. When he was called on to serve in the great military maneuvers in the autumn in both France and Germany he was forced to state that he could not be present at both, and so the story came

The fire alarm Tuesday afternoon was caused by a slight blaze in the plumbing shop of Geo. H. Foster & Son. A few pails of water was sufficient to extinguish the flames. The fire was undoubtedly caused by rats carrying matches to their nests, as the fire was at a point where there is never any fire, and was in the wainscoting next to a brick wall. There coting next to a brick wall. There was plenty of evidence of the presence of the rodents. The fire alarm announced the fire as being in the fourth ward, and there was considerable scurrying around in the endeavor to locate it in that section.

College new faces new friends—study—success— And Emily would be-she would not know-or care. She would marry Edwards. She would not know whether he succeeded or failed. Was it worth while?

Something flashed upon him and startled him. If she had cared, he should not now be planning a new life. "I should have been as happy as Uncle Eben," he thought with a half ing the budded stems through his fin-

To-day he did not resent the implied disloyalty to his idol. He was not thinking of her so much as of Love, the power that holds all men in its grasp and bends them to its will, till each soul longs for nothing so much as that Love shall take human shape and dwell beside him. Dimly it flitted before him-luminous but indefinable -filling him with wonder. Uncle Eben married the woman he loved and his life had been dwarfed. Seth Kinney lost the woman he loved, and his life was warped, distorted, and spoiled. Was it fate? Life without love was hard and cold. He opened the grammar and began to read. across his chest. He struck into the wood-road with a song and hallooed to the stillness. The love-sick boy of yesterday was gone. Taking off his cap he called and sang till the bluejays forgot to be frightened and hovered, curious, in the trees overhead. He took off his cap to them, looking up through the tree-tops to the blue shimmer of sky. He swung the cap around his head and they darted away as blue and white clatter of sound. He replaced it, laughing softly.

The earth was alive. He reached out to the bushes as he passed, trailgers and brushing the purple-brown oak leaves with swiftest touch. When he came to the tree that he was to cut he ran his palm up and down its rough bark before he seized his ax and swung it clear from his shoulder. The blows rang even and hard, and with every blow he drove home the first declension of the Greek gram-

The fame of Richard's learning went abroad through the land. All went abroad through the land. All the world knew that Seth Kinney was "learning him Greek." The old man came often to the wood-lot to hear him recite. Sitting on a fallen log, he would repeat long, rolling lines of poetry that the choppers repeated after him, to the rhythm of the saw, till the still, cold light was alive with tumbling Greek. Perhaps the blue-jays, flitting among the treetops, heard the news and told it to the crows; and the crows of the open field called to the snowbirds lisped it to the chickadees; and the chickadees, turning unside down on the order treetops, ing unside down on the order treetops. the world knew that Seth Kinney was She rose from the table came often to the wood-lot to hear and began to clear away the dishes. him recite. ### MEN CAUSE TROUBLE.

Food and Coal Famine Sure to Follow Strike in Duluth.

Reports from Duluth are that a wild mob was pelting trains having nonunion crews with stones. The situation was imminently threatening. If the switchmen's strike is not settled within 48 hours, probably 5,000 men will be idle in Duluth, and the range cities, which get all their supplies from the head of the lakes, will be in imminent danger of a food and coal famine. Duluth will also suffer from shortage of food supplies. The jobbing houses are laying off men. With no possibility of shipping goods, as the railroads are refusing to receive freight, no orders are being filled by ocal concerns.

Passenger trains are running on time, with yardmasters and foremen doing the switching in the yards. No attempt has been made yet to bring in strike-breakers. With the importation of strike breakers from Chicago and other points and the pressing into service of other employes of the roads, the railroads of the northwest that were affected by the strike of the Switchmen's Union of North America, which went into effect Tuesday evening, began their first real work in trying to restore normal traffic between St. Paul and the Pacific coast.

Despite the efforts of the railroads there was no noticeable improvement in business conditions in St. Paul and Minneapolis. In Minneapolis all of the flour mills, with the exception of one of the smaller ones, were stopped and the cessation of this industry alone threw about 5,000 men out of employment.

AND DOING WELL. The Portland Oregonian, of Portland, Oregon, published a cartoon on the immigration of U.S. people to Canada, in its issue of October 1909. The picture was accompanied by the following article: "Losing American Citizens. The exodus of American farmers to Canada continues to be a phenomenon of the first importance. More of them are crossing the border this fall than ever before, and they are flocking from all parts of the country. Formerly it was the Middle West alone which thus lost the heart of its citizenship. Now all sections of the Union suffer alike. The regret which we cannot help feeling over the migration of has an economic side which causes some concern. The 70,000 farmers who will go to Canada to live this fall will take with them some $70,000,000 in cash and effects. This is by no means a negligible sum, and makes a very appreciable drain on our resources. But, of course, the most serious loss is the men themselves and their families, who have forsaken the Smart Set. land of the free and the home of the brave to dwell under the rule of a Why do they go? Naturally the Reasons like these sufficiently account for the exodus of a body of citizens, whom we can ill afford to lose, but they do not much assuage our regret that they cannot be retained in the United States."

Speaking of this, a Canadian Government representative says that the Americans who cross the border are most welcome. The splendid areas of virgin soil, a large quantity of which is given away as free homesteads, lie close to existing railways and to those under construction. The railway lines that are assisting in this development are the Canadian Pacific, the Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk Pacific. The latter is built entirely on Canadian soil, and has opened up a wonderful stretch of land. Along this line during the year about closed thousands of American settlers have made their homes. They have built the towns, and immediately began as factors in the building up of the great Canadian West.

Agents of the Government are located in various cities throughout the United States who will be pleased to give any information that may be desired to further the interest of the settler.

From Boston Post. Progress in medical co AMERICAN SETTLERS WELCOME never (ceases, and now it is stated by a prominent medical man that any deep-seated cough or cold on the lungs can be actually cured in five hours by the clock. Oplum or mor-phine have been resorted to in the past, as relief measures. But now it past, as relief measures. But now it is learned that the system must be treated to rid it of inflammation and congestion. A tonic laxative cough syrurp does the work so quickly and thoroughly as to be almost magical. What heretofore has taken weeks to cure can be accomplished in hours. Get this formula filled or mix it at home and always keep it on hand: One-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Shake the bottle and take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then take one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times many thousands of excellent citizens a day until the system is purified and toned up. Give children less according to age. One filling will usually cure a whole family, as the dose is small.

The Red Cross Christmas stamp crusade against tuberculosis promises this year to be broader in extent than ever before. While last year less than 20,000,000 stamps were sold, the present indications point to a sale of nearly 50,000,000 for this year.

The Red Cross stamps are issued by the American National Red Cross, and are sold for one cent each. They are designed to be placed upon letters and mail matter during the holiday season. The money derived from the sale of these stamps will be devoted to tuberculosis work in the localities in which the stamps are sold. In this manner it is expected that about $400,-000 will be realized for the campaign against tuberculos in all parts of the United States.

Cramton, of Lapeer, eader of the "dry" forces in the house during the last session of the Detroit. egislature, issued a statement in which he poked a number of holes in Detroit saloonkeepers who seem determined to find some way of breaking the Warner-Cramton liquor law. Whoever is advising the Detroit liquor dealers has evidently lost sight of the major proposition upon which the whole new portion of the liquor law is based, viz., that the old liquor law provided for a tax system, while the present liquor law provides for a license, to secure which the saloonkeeper must enter into an agreement

DESIRE FOR THE TWILIGHT

"Day None Too Short, Night None Too Long, But All Too Narrow the Edge Between."

There are only 24 hours to the day -to the day and the night! And how few are left to that quiet time between the light and the dark! Ours is a hurried twilight. We quit work to sleep; we wake up to work again. We measure the day by a clock; we measure the night by an alarm clock. Life is all ticked off. We are murdered by the second. What we need is a day and a night with wider margins-a dawn that comes more slowly, and a longer lingering twilight. Life has too little selvage; it is too often raw and raveled. Room and quiet and verge are what we want, not more dials for time, nor more figures for the dials. We have things enough, too, more than enough; it is space for the things, perspective, and the right measure for the things that we lack-a measure not one foot short of the distance between us and the stars.

If we get anything out of fields worth while, it will be this measure, this largeness and quiet. It may be only an owl or a tree-toad that we go forth to see, but how much more we find in things we cannot hear by day, things long, long forgotten, things we never thought or dreamed before.

The day is none too short, the night none too long, but all too narrow is the edge between.-Dallas Lore Sharp in the Atlantic.

The Real Test.

Here is is an observation by Emerson: "Let anyone beware of proposing to himself an end. I say to you there is no end so large, that pursued for itself, will not become carrion and an offense to the nostril." This means that the all-important things are how and now. One's destiny is the present moment. What is he doing and what is he thinking about? are questions that constitute one's fate, it makes no difference how high his purpose or

Somewhere Carlyle says: "To see an ideal, not sleeping in ether like a bird of paradise, but roosting like the common woodfowl do." It is the everyday level that determines the end, and not the dreams and ideals that are to materialize by and by. We are not living among the birds of paradise, but among the woodfowl, where stant irritation and complaint. This is we meet the common conditions of the first case involving such great inlife, which we must turn to good account now-do our best now, and say our best now, think our best now, and let the ends take care of them- of a commission to investigate the

An insurance man in a small town was giving a dinner to a friend particularly high up in insurance circles. Alas! he recalled at the last moment, his friend smoked. It was too late. Every cigar stand was closed. What could he do? An idea occurred to him and he went out into the hall. There hung his friend's overcoat. It might contain—he was now searching the pockets. In a moment he brought Nonchalantly he returned to the library. "Ah," he said, pausing on the threshold, "here is an unusually fine cigar. Will you not try it? I don't smoke, you know."

Hot Planets.

Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune—the four outer planets—are hotter than the earth. Recent observations at the Lowell observatory, secured in the form of photographs of planetary spectra, show that there is oxygen in the atmospheres of all four. and that in the cases of Uranus and Neptune, hydrogen and perhaps helium are atmospherically present. The outer planets have water vapor as the principal constituent of their atmospheres. They probably consist of a nucleus hot to its surface, veiled in dense, unbroken clouds, floating in an atmosphere largely composed of steam.

Europe.

Pursuant to the provisions of the general treaty of arbitration concluded be tween the United States and Great Britain, April 4, 1908, a special agreement was entered into between the two countries on January 27, 1909, for the submission of questions relating to the fisherles on the North Atlantic coast to a tribunal to be formed from members of the permanent court of arbitration at The

In accordance with the provisions of the special agreement the printed case of each government was, on October 4 last, submitted to the other and to the arbitral tribunal at The Hague, and the counter case of the United States is now in course of preparation.

The American rights under the fisherles article of the treaty of 1818 have been a cause of difference between the United States and Great Britain for nearly 70 years. The interests involved are of great importance to the American fishing industry, and the final settlement of the controversy will remove a source of contion at The Hague.

He also notes the invitation extended by the Norwegian government to take part in an international conference next year to devise means to remedy existing conditions in the Spitzbergen islands, and of its acceptance under certain reservations. The questions arising out of the Belgian annexation of the Congo Free State, he says, are in a more hopeful stage.

To-day, more than ever before, American capital is seeking investment in foreign countries and American products are more and more generally seeking foreign markets. As a consequence, in all countries there are American citizens and American interests to be protected, on occasion, by their government. These movements of men, of capital and of commodities bring peoples and governments closer together and so form bonds of peace and mutual dependency, as they must also naturally sometimes make passing points of friction. The resultant situation inevitably imposes upon this government vastly increased responsibilities. This administration, through the department of state and the foreign service, is lending all proper support to legitimate and beneficial American enterprises in foreign countries, the degree of such support being measured by the na tional advantages to be expected. A citizen himself cannot by contract or otherwise divest himself of the right, nor car this government escape the obligation of his protection in his personal and property rights when these are unjustly in fringed in a foreign country. To avoid ceaseless vexations it is proper that in considering whether American enterprise be encouraged or supported in a country, the government should give full weight not only to the national, as opposed to the individual benefits to accrue, but also to the fac whether or not the government of the country in question is in its administration and in its diplomacy faithful the principles of moderation, equity and justice upon which alone depend international credit, in diplomacy as well as in Many years ago diplomatic intervention became necessary to the protection of the interests in the American claim of Alsop & Co. against the government of Chile The government of Chile had frequently admitted obligation in the case and had promised this government to settle it. There had been two abortive attempts to do so through arbitral commissions, which failed through lack of jurisdiction. Now, happily, as the result of the recent diplomatic negotiations, the governments of the United States and of Chile, actuated by the sincere desire to free from any strain those cordial and friendly relations upon which both set such store, have agreed by a protocol to submit the controversy to definitive settlement by his Britannic majesty, Edward VII.

Since the Washington conventions of ment of the United States as a consulting and advisory party, this government has been almost continuously called upon by one or another, and in turn by all of the five Central American republics, to exert itself for the maintenance of conventions. Nearly every complaint has been against the Zelaya government of Nicaragua, which has kept Central Amerca in constant tension and turmoil. The responses made to the representations of Central American republics, as due from the United States on account of its relation to the Washington conventions, have been at all times conservative and have avoided, so far as possible, any semblance of interference, although it is very apparent that the considerations of geographic proximity to the Canal Zone and of the very substantial American interests in Central America give to the United States a special position in the zone of these republics and the Carib-

The Department of State.

Favorable action by congress on the estimates submitted by the department of state is urged, especially legislation for the development and reorganization of the department to make it efficient in furthering our foreign trade. Improvement in the consular service is noted. Mr. Taft then says: Under a provision of the act of August 5, 1909, I have appointed three officials to assist the officers of the government in collecting information necessary to a wise administration of the tariff act of August 5, 1909. As to questions of customs administration they are cooperating with the officials of the treasury department and as to matters of the needs and the exigencies of our manufacturers and exporters, with the department of commerce and labor, in its relation to the domes tic aspect of the subject of foreign commerce. In the study of foreign tariff treatment they will assist the bureau of trade relations of the deartment of state. It is hoped thus to cordinate and bring to bear upon this ost important subject all the agencies most important subject all the agencies of the government which can contribute anything to its efficient handling.

As a consequence of Section 2 of the tariff act of August 5, 1909, it becomes the duty of the secretary of state to conduct as diplomatic business all the negotiations necessary to place the in a position to advise me as to im in a position to advise me as to ether or not a particular country States in the sense of the statunter referred to. The great scope and complexity of this work, as well as the obligation to lend all proper aid to our expanding commerce, is met by o our expanding commerce, is met by he expansion of the bureau of trade lations as set forth in the estimates

overnment Expenditures and Reve-

Perhaps the most important question resented to this administration is that ny in expenditures and suffiy of revenue. The deficit of the fiscal year, and the certain deficit he current year, prompted congress to throw a greater responsibility en the executive and the secretary of the treasury than had heretofore been de-clared by statute. This declaration clared by statute. This declaration imposes upon the secretary of the treasury the duty of assembling all the estimates of the executive departments bureaus, and offices, of the expenditures necessary in the ensuing fiscal year, and of making an estimate of the revenues of the government for the same period; and if a probable deficit is thus shown, it is made the duty of the president to recommend the method by which such deficit can be met. The report of the secretary shows that the ordinary expenditures for the current fiscal year ending June 80, 1910, will exceed the estimated receipts by $34,075,620. If to this deficit is added the sum to be disbursed for the Panama Canal, amounting to $38,000,000. and $1,000,000 to be paid on the public debt, the deficit of ordinary receipts and expenditures will be increased to a total deficit of $73,075,620. This deficit the secretary proposes to meet by the proceeds of bonds issued to pay cost of constructing the Panama Canal. I approve this proposal.

The policy of paying for the construction of the Panama Canal, not out of current revenue, but by bond issues, was adopted in the Spooner act of 1899, and there seems to be no good reason for departing from the prin-ciple by which a part at least of the burden of the cost of the canal shall fall upon our posterity who are to enjoy it; and there is all the more reason for this view because the actual cost to date of the canal, which is now half done and which will be completed anuary 1, 1915, shows that the cost of engineering and construction will be $297.766.000, instead of $139,705,200, as originally estimated. In addition to engineering and construction, the other expenses, including sanitation and government, and the amount paid for the properties, the franchise, and the privilege of building the canal, increase the cost of $75,435,000, to a total of $375,-The increase in the cost of engineering and construction is due to a substantial enlargement of the plan of construction by widening the canal 100 feet in the Culebra cut and by increasing the dimensions of the locks, to the underestimate of the quantity of the work to be done under the orignal plan, and to an underestimate of the cost of labor and materials, both of which have greatly enhanced in price up to its present authorized strength. since the original estimmate was made. In order to avoid a deficit for the heads of departments in the preparation of their estimates to make as low as possible consistent with imperative governmental necessity. The esult has been, as I am advised by the secretary of the treasury, that the estimates for the expenses of the government for the next fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, are fess than the appropriations for this current fiscal year by $42,818,000. So far as the secretary of the treasury is able to form a judgment as to future income and compare it with the expenditures for next fiscal year ending June 30. 1911, and excluding payments on account of the Panama Canal, which will doubtless be taken up by bonds, there will be a surplus of $35,931,000. In the present estimates the needs of the departments and of the government have been cut to the quick, so to speak, and any assumption on the part of congress, so often made in times past, that the estimates have been prepared with the expectation that they may be reduced, will result in seriously hampering proper admin-

To reduce the cost of permanent administration, says the president, a thorough reorganization of bureaus, offices and departments would be necessary. An expert accountant has been making an investigation into this matter and the result of his work shows opportunity for both substantial reductions in cost and increase of efficiency.

Frauds in the Collection of Customs I regret to refer to the fact of the discovery of extensive frands in the collecf the customs revenue at New York city, in which a number of the subordinate employes in the weighing and departments were directly concerned, and in which the beneficiaries were the American Sugar Refining Comand others. The frauds consisted in the payment of duty on underweights from the American Sugar Refining Company all that it is shown to have been defrauded of. The sum was received in full of the amount due, which might have en recovered by civil suit against the beneficiary of the fraud, but there was an express reservation in the contract of settlement by which the settlement should not interfere with, or prevent the criminal prosecution of everyone who was found to be subject to the same.

Criminal prosecutions are now proceeding against a number of the government officers. The treasury department and the lepartment of justice are exerting every effort to discover all the wrongdoers, in cluding the officers and employes of the ompanies who may have been privy to the fraud. It would seem to me that ar investigation of the frauds by congress at resent, pending the probing by the treasury department and the department of justice, as proposed, might by giving immunity and otherwise prove an embarrassment in securing conviction of the guilty parties.

Maximum and Minimum Clause in Tariff Act. Two features of the new tariff act call or special reference. By virtue of the known as the "maximum and minmum" clause, it is the duty of the execative to consider the laws and practices of other countries with reference to the mportation into those countries of the products and merchandise of the United states, and if the executive finds such laws and practices not to be unduly dis criminatory against the United States, the ninimum duties provided in the bill are to go into force. Unless the president makes such a finding, then the maximum duties provided in the bill, that is, an increase of 25 per cent, ad valorem over minimum duties, are to be in force. Fear ferred and duty imposed on the execu tive is likely to lead to a tariff war. I beg to express the hope and belief that no such result need be anticipated. The discretion granted to the executive by the terms "unduly discriminatory" is wide. In order that the maximum duty shall be charged against the imports from a country, it is necessary that he shall and on the part of that country not only discriminations in its laws or the prac tice under them against the trade of the Inited States, but that the disc ions found shall be undue; that is, without good and fair reason. I conceive that this power was reposed in the presi ties might never be applied in any case but that the power to apply them would enable the president and the state depart-ment through friendly negotiation to se-cure the elimination from the laws and the practice under them of any foreign country of that which is unduly discrim-Inatory. No one is seeking a tariff war or a condition in which the spirit of re-taliation shall be aroused.

The new tariff law enables me to ap-point a tariff board to assist me in connection with the department of state in assist efficers of the government in the administration of the entire law. An examination of the law and an understandshould be considered in discharging the functions imposed upon the executive show that I have the power to direct the tariff board to make a comprehensive glossary and encyclopedia of the terms used and articles embraced in the tariff law, and to secure information as to the cost of production of such goods in this country and the cost of their production in foreign countries. I have therefore appointed a tariff board consisting of three members and have directed them to perform all the duties above described. This work will perhaps take two or three work will perhaps take two or three years, and I ask from congress a continuing annual appropriation equal to that already made for its prosecution. I believe that the work of this board will be of prime utility and importance whenever congress shall deem it wise again to readjust the customs duties. If the facts secured by the tariff board are of such a character as to show generally that the rates of duties imposed by the present tariff law are excessive under the prin-ciples of protection as described in the platform of the successful party at the late election, I shall not hesitate to invite the attention of congress to this fact and to the necessity for action predicated thereon. Nothing, however, halts business and interferes with the course prosperity so much as the threatened re-vision of the tariff, and until the facts are at hand, after careful and deliberate investigation, upon which such revision can properly be undertaken, it seems to me unwise to attempt it. The amount of misinformation that creeps into arguments pro and con in respect to tariff rates is such as to require the kind of investiga-tion that I have directed the tariff board to make, an investigation undertaken by it wholly without respect to the effect which the facts may have in calling for readjustment of the rates of duty.

War Department.

In the interest of immediate econom and because of the prospect of a deficit, I have required a reduction in the estimates of the war department for oming fiscal year, which brings the total estimates down to an amount fortyfive millions less than the corresponding estimates for last year. This could only be accomplished by cutting off new projects and suspending for the period of one year all progress in military matters. For the same reason I have direct ed that the army shall not be recruited ese measures can hardly be more than temporary-to last until our revenues are in better condition and until the whole question of the expediency of adopting a definite military policy can be submitted to congress, for I am sure that the interests of the military establishment are seriously in need of careful consideration by congress. The laws regulating the organization of our armed forces in the event of war need to be revised in order that the organization can be modified so as to produce a force which would be more consistently apportioned throughout its numerous branches. To explain the circumstances upon which this opinion is pased would necessitate a lengthy discussion, and I postpone it until the first convenient opportunity shall arise to send to congress a special message upon this submerican Bar association and of many tate bar associations, as well as the co idered thought of judges and jurists. In ny judgment a change in judicial proedure, with a view to reducing its exbense to private litigants in civil cases and facilitating the dispatch of business and final decision in both civil and crimnal cases constitutes the greatest need n our American institutions. I do not loubt for one moment that much of the awless violence and cruelty exhibited n lynchings is directly due to the uncerainties and injustice growing out of the ielays in trials, judgments and the exeeutions thereof by our courts. Of course these remarks apply quite as well to the administration of justice in state courts as to that in federal courts, and without making invidious distinction it is perhaps not too much to say that, speaking generally, the defects are less in the federal courts than in the state courts. But they are very great in the federal courts. The expedition with which business is disposed of both on the civil and the criminal side of English courts under modern rules of procedure makes telays in our courts seem archaic and varbarous. The procedure in the federal ourts should furnish an example for the tate courts. I presume it is impossible. ithout an amendment to the constituon, to unite under one form of action t e proceedings at common law and proedings in equity in the federal courts, s atute to simplify and make short and d rect the procedure both at law and in aity in those courts. It is not impossil te to cut down still more than it is cut do n, the jurisdiction of the suprem sta utory and constitutional questi Un ler the present statutes the equity am admiralty procedure in the federal courts is under the control of the supre ae court, but in the pressure of busis to which that court is subjected it is in possible to hope that a radical and proper reform of the federal equity proedurs can be brought about. I there recommend legislation providing for the appoin ment by the president of a com with authority to examine the law and equity procedure of the federal courts of first instance, the law of apals from those courts to the courts of ppeals and to the supreme court, and the costs imposed in such procedure upon the private litigants and upon the public treas

Injunctions Without Notice The platform of the successful p the last election contained the for all times the authority and integrity of the courts, state and federal, and will ever insist that their powers to enforce their process and to pretect life, liberty and property shall be preserved inviolate. We believe, however, that the rules of procedure in the federal courts with re-spect to the issuance of the writ of in-tegration, should be more accounted. unction should be more accurately de-lined by statute and that no injunction or temporary restraining order should be issued without notice, except where ir-reparable injury would result from delay, in which are in which case a speedy hearing there after should be granted." I recommend that in compliance with the promise thus made appropriate legis-lation be adopted. The ends of justice will best be met and the chief cause of complaint against ill-considered injunccomplaint against incomplaint against the statute forbidding the enactment of a statute forbidding hereafter the issuing of any injunction or restraining order, whether temporary or permanent, by any federal court, without previous notice and a reasonable opportunity to be heard on behalf of the parties to be enjoined; unless it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court that the delay necessary to give such notice and hearing would result in irreparable injury to the complainant and unless also the court shall from the evidence make a written finding, which shall be spread upon the court minutes, that immediate and irreparable injury is likely to ensue to the complainant, and shall define the injury, state why it is irreparable and shall also indorse on the order issued the date and the hour of the issuance of the order. Moreover, every such injunction or restraining order issued without pre-vious notice and opportunity by the defendant to be hard should by force of the statute expire and be of no effect after seven days from the Issuance there of or within any time less than that period which the court may fix, unless within such seven days or such less period the injunction or order is extended or renewed after previous notice and opportunity to be heard.

My judgment is that the passage of such an act which really embodies the best practice in equity and is very like the rule now in force in some courts will prevent the issuing of illadvised orders of injunction without notice and will render such orders when issued much less objectionable by the short time in which they may remain effective.

New Laws Needed.

The jurisdiction of the general govrnment over interstate commerce has led to the passage of the so-called "Sherman anti-trust law" and the "interstate commerce law" and its amendments. The developments in the operation of those laws, as shown by in-dictments, trials, judicial decisions, and other sources of information, call for a discussion and some suggestions as to amendments. These I prefer to embody in a special message instead of including them in the present communication, and I shall avail myself of the first convenient opportunity to bring these subjects to the attention of congress. Second-Class Mall Matter.

The deficit every year in the postfice department is largely caused by the low rate of postage of 1 cent a pound charged on second-class mail matter, which includes not only newspapers but magazines and miscellaneous periodicals. The actual loss growing out of the transmission of pound amounts to about $63,000,000 year. The average cost of the transportation of this matter is more than cents a pound. It appears that the average distance over which newspapers are delivered to their customers is 291 miles, while the average haul of magazines is 1,049. and of miscellaneous periodicals 1,128 miles. Thus, the average haul of the magazine is three and one-half times and that of the miscellaneous periodical nearly four times the haul of the daily newspaper, yet all of them pay the same postage rate of 1 cent a pound. The statistics of 1907 show that second-class mail matter constituted 63 91 per cent of the weight of all the mail, and yielded only 5.19 per cent of the revenue. The figures given are startling, and show the payment by the government of an enormous subsidy to the newspapers, magazines and periodicals, an congress may well consider whether radical steps should not be taken to reduce the deficit in the post-office department caused by this discrepancy between the actual cost of transporta tion and the compensation exacted therefor.

A great saving might be made amounting to much more than half of the loss, by imposing upon magazines and periodicals a higher rate of postage. They are much heavier than newspapers, and contain a much higher proportion of advertising to reading matter, and the average distance of their transportation is three and a half

The total deficit for the last fiscal in the postoffice department amounted to $17,500,000. The branches of its business which it did at a loss were the second-class mail service, in which the loss, as already said, was $63,000,000, and the free rural delivery in which the loss was $28,000,000. These losses were in part offset by the profits of the letter postage and It would sources of income. to reduce the loss second-class mail matter, at to the extent of preventing a deficit in the total operations of the post-

I commend the whole subject to con cress, not unmindful of the spread of intelligence which a low charge for carrying newspapers and periodicals I very much doubt, however, assists. the wisdom of a policy which constitutes so large a subsidy and requires additional taxation to meet it.

Postal Savings Banks. The second subject worthy of mention in the postoffice department is the real necessity and entire practicability of establishing postal savings banks. The successful party at the last election declared in favor of postal savings banks, and although the proposition finds opponents in many parts of the country, I am convinced that the people desire such banks, and am that when the banks are furnished they will be productive of the utmost rood. The postal savings banks are not constituted for the purpose of cre-ating competition with other banks. The rate of interest upon deposits to which they would be limited would be o small as to prevent their drawing ieposits away from other banks.

I believe them to be necessary in order to offer a proper inducement to thrift and saving to a great many people of small means who do not now have banking facilities, and to whom such a system would offer an opportunity for the accumulation of They will furnish a satisfaccory substitute, based on sound principle and actual successful trial in the countries of the world, for the system of government guar-anty of deposits now being adopted in several western states, which with

A bill of this character has once passed the house as more than once passed the senate as I hope that at this session a hill framed on the same lines and with the same purposes may become a law.

NE bright, sunny morning in the month of Adar, at the end of winter, shortly after the little town of Nazareth, in Judea, was astir, there trooped from the village a crowd of merry children, laughing for sheer happiness, as if their hearts sang with the song of dancing sunbeams. Running and skipping along the road they went, blithe and gay, until they came to a great tree by the roadside, where they stopped, and clustering about a child in their midst, proceeded to do a strange

They cast their mantles and tunics from them to the ground and prostrated /themselves before the one in their midst; then left him, and, running into a field, gathered flowers. He that sat alone, a pengive look upon his youthful face, had the appearance of an angel. Soon the little playmates, their arms laden with blossoms, returned, and weaving a wreath of glory flowers, crowned his head. Into his hands they placed a scep ter of burning gladiolus. And aboum they joyously scattered the resh, odorous blooms, and while smiled upon them they proclaimed the little playmate, Jesus, he son of the village carpenter, heir king.

While they delighted in their worhip of their little playmate, along he road in the distance could be een two men coming, with heads orrowfully bent, carrying between hem the dead body of a boy. "What has happened?" the chilren cried.

"Alas!" responded one of the men, he child was playing in the forests onder and methinks, like many oys, robbed the nests of some little "Presently, climbing a tree, he put his hand into the nest, and there was hidden a poisonous erpent, that sank its fangs into s flesh. He suffered terrible agony ad, sliding from the tree, lay until died. There we found him." "Come," the boys said, "and tell r king."

Before the crowned one they used and told the story. Rising, he said: "follow me." Silently they wended their way ick to the woods. "Lead us to the ," said the child king. And ere he paused. "Oh, treacherous serpent, I -comthee to come down," he called.

nd lo! above the nest appeared a nomous head, and soon the long, stening body of a deadly snake me writhing down the trunk. "Go, suck from that child's hand the poison thou didst place erein from thy fangs." To the amazement of the beholders, who sank on eir knees, the serpent obeyed. Then, drawing away, writhed in the agony of its own poison and shiveled "Arise," said the child, laying his soft hand on the e of the one who seemed dead. A moment passed. Those nearby looked on breathsly. Then the face of the dead boy broke into a ille, as though he were having pleasant dreams, and opened his eyes. It is related in the Arabic Gospel of the Infancy that erward the boy, Simon Zelotes, became one of the ciples of Jesus.

Of the days and doings of the boy Jesus in Nazareth four gospels tell us comparatively little. It was tural, therefore, that about this unknown existence the Adorable Child the Christians of the early church eply pondered and that the rich imaginations of me-val times should have woven a vesture of tradition-

The holy family returned from Egypt when Jesus was enough to walk. In many of the old pictures we the Divine Child leading a mule or clinging close his mother. Of that early life in the land of the Pyrids, too, early tradition has woven a pleasing fabric. egends.

Among the oldest of these is the ancient belief that enever the blessed Mary placed the clothing of the y babe upon trees to dry the barren limbs burst into Another is that when the child wandered into the forwhere lions and panthers and all manner of wild sts lived, they came forth to do him homage.

Still another, that, during the flight from Bethlehem, in Herod pursued them, mountains opened to receive ph and Mary and the holy babe into a secure refthat on hot days, as they reposed under trees, the she bent over to shield them from the sun, and that they passed along flowers sprang up in their path-from the arid sand, and that the barren desert ned where they passed it.

is told that when they journeyed through a forest he trees bowed low in worship of the Holy One that ed by, and that only one tree—the aspen—held proud and scornful. It is also related that the gazed upon the tree and that, overcome with tert began to tremble, and has trembled ever since.

Only the aspen stood erect and free, Scorning to join the voiceless worship pure; But see, he cast one look upon the tree, Struck to the heart, she trembled evermore.

s also told that when the holy family came in of the sphinx the great beast told the eternal seand as they passed the temples the old gods fell their thrones.

writers of old say that the holy child never to school. They love to write of his wandering into the forests and talking to the birds and in-And they tell how dumb beasts were endowed speech when he was with them.

ny old legends concern the early schooling of the rist. It is related that when a child he was taken eus, who began to try to teach him the alphabet. teacher," the marvelous boy is said to have "thou wouldst teach me, but I shall teach thee." then, while the old man listened, thunderstruck, eated an alphabet which the other had never learned. He told Zaccheus he had lived from all time and knew all things. Zac-cheus, amazed, declared he could teach the child nothing.

Some . the legends, as unworthy as the minds that created them, tell that the child struck his teacher dead. Others tell of his inflicting playmates with death and blindness. In the world of legendary lore, where one finds stories ingenuously simple and charming, it is to be expected, also, that there are crude and cruel fra-

According to some stories, the children of Nazareth must have found Jesus a wonderful playmate. There was hardly any wish of theirs which he did not fulfill. One day, it is told, some of the little ones wished for

"Oh, how I would like an apple!" said one. "And I some figs!" rejoined another.

"How I would love some citron and grapes!" quoth a third.

Jesus looked upon them and they all seemed so hungry and so anxious that he made a sign in the air and spoke a mystic word. And lo!

A green sprout curled from the ground. Pale green leaves burst forth. The plant rose up and up and up. "Oh!" gasped all the children with great wonder, as before their gaze the plant rose, higher and higher, spreading out limbs-growing larger and stronger, and blooming with flowers. Then the tree, as they looked, bore fruit-apples and citrons, and grapes and figs and whatever their hearts wished.

Here is another story of those childhood days: A house was being built near the small and modest home of the holy family. One day a great uproar arose and Joseph, stepping from his carpenter shop, saw that a man had wallen from the roof and had been killed. "Alas! Mary," he said, entering the shop, where Jesus was playing, "a man has fallen and broken his limbs: methinks he is dead." Springing from the floor, the child, with an expression of great solicitude on his face, rushed into the street.

The little crowd parted before him. He peered into the white face of the dead man. Then his voice rang clear and sweet: "I say unto thee, arise and do thy work."

The dead man's eyes opened, the blood disappeared from his face and his injuries healed. And he arose and went back to his task.

At another time Jesus was playing with some children on a roof-one of those simple, childish games like that of "tag" to-day. The children were very happy until one, falling at full length, went tumbling over the parapet. A cry arose. Peering over the stone wall, the face of Jesus turned white-his little playmate was dead.

Imagine his distress when the parents of the child appeared and accused Jesus of having pushed the little playmate over the wall! Imagine the anguish of Joseph and Mary at the grave accusation! Then Jesus, turning to the dead child, called:

"Zeno! Zeno! Arise! Arise, Zeno, and tell them if cast thee down." And Zeno arose, laughing, clasping and kissing the hand of Jesus, murmuring tenderly, gratefully: "No. no! Thou didst not cast me down."

Until his manhood, when he began his mission, it is believed he plied the trade of carpenter. Many, indeed, are the stories of his life in the carpenter shop of Naz-

THE CHILDHOOD OF SHRIS Many are the tales they tell of the wonderful things he made when he was but a little boy. Precocious he must have been, and early he became indispensable to his foster father, Joseph.

Joseph, we learn, from these legends, was none too good a carpenter—that is, judged by the modern standards of carpentering. Often he would cut pieces of wood that were too long or too short, for his means of measurement were faulty. What, then, did Jesus do but take the wood and stretch it or shorten it to the desired length.

People told
Strange tales of those hid days—now, at his toil, Touching a plank, it stretched to rightful length,
Or shortened at his will—the dead wood quick
To live again and serve him.

In those days, it is related, Joseph was awarded a commission to make a throne for a king at Jerusalem. It was to be an elaborate affair, as all thrones are, with great arms and twisted legs and grotesque carvings—one of those things only kings like to sit in.

Jesus spent much time watching Joseph hewing and carving the wood. Joseph worked patiently from morncarving the wood. Joseph worked patiently from mornare heard in the symphony the audience may be seen to ing until night and the work required two whole years. look anxiously over the shoulder and prepare to cut and when it was taken to lawred. when it was taken to Jerusalem and he discovered that it was too small for its place.

Alas! he had made a grave error. Yes, they had Judge (sternly)—given him the right dimensions, but, as it often happened, make of this, sir? and carpenters do still, he made the mistake. Two enand carpenters do still, he made the mistake. Two entire years of labor wasted! The poor man was disconfellows up here seem to be de only ones dat get any 'cun ary profit out of hauling me up.—Puck.

"But why weepest thou?" asked Jesus, who was with him. "This is readily amended. Be at peace."

Then he directed Joseph to hold one end of the threne, while he took hold of the other. Both pulled, and behold! the throne assumed the proper size.

One Sabbath morning, with a half-dozen playmates, the child Jesus, one old legend runs, went to play by the banks of the River Jordan. There had been a heavy rain the night before, and the tall trees were still dripping and the sand was wet. Sitting on the sand, the little ones began to fashion, childrenwise, animals of various kinds. Jesus, fashioning dogs and cats and all manner of wild things, raised his hand and spoke-and, lo, the animals of sand lived and moved. The children shouted. Their

to the sand, the child said: "I'll make 12 sparrows." And he sat them in a row before him. By this time several Pharisees, who had seen the children playing happily on the Sabbath, returned with Joseph, whom they said should censure Jesus.

"Thou are breaking the Sabbath my child," said the old man. The child pondered, looked at the birds of his creation, then rising, Clapped His hands and lo! They chirruped, spread their wings and flew away.

In these old legends there is a great deal of the fanciful, the legend of the boy and the animals of the early Christians, who delighted | the time!" in miracles and whose imagination was excited by this unknown period of the Saviour's life.

One can well imagine him as a child wandering away from Nazareth, all alone, and sitting by the Jordan or forest streams and communing of the great things, that came to him.

He could not have been like other children, for he was wise beyond his years. One can see him, as fair as the lilies and roses themselves, caressing the flowers as he passed by in the meadows of Judea, and of his sitting crowned in an aureole of sunbeams, listening after service, deliberately taking a 50to the divine rapture of the birds singing their morning hymns.

He must often have been alone for with the petty quarrels of the other children of the town, with the little rivalries of his relatives, he could have had little sympathy. Doubtless as a child, his poet's soul soared into the skies, and his seer's vision saw the future in the cumu-lus clouds. All great souls live alone, and are lonely in pound fluid balmwort and one ounce the midst of men. About a beautiful life humanity loves compound syrup sarsaparilla. As an to hilld legends and the simple life which leads to spiritual greatness must to men be made unusual with a halo

Many stories are told of the child Jesus having raised people from the dead in the little known days of his childhood. It is related, too, that when his parents took him to Jerusalem-on the same journey when he had the famous discussion with the learned doctors in the temple—he paused at the sight of Jerusalem, and a spirit of prophecy revealed to him its doom.

HIS OFFER NOT APPRECIATED

Elderly Gentleman May Have Meant Well, But the Damsel Was Suspicious.

The plump waiter girl at the lunch counter, having nothing to do at the moment, was trying to reach with her fingernails a place on her back well up between the shoulders, but with her short and chubby arms she was unequal to the task. In vain she squirmed and struggled, and twisted her face. She failed to achieve the desired connection.

The elderly man on the outside of the counter, who had been fighting a piece of overdone steak/ leaned forward and spoke to her in a low tone, but with intense earnestness.

"My dear young woman," he said, "pardon the freedom of a man who has grandchildren almost as old as you are, but if you will come a little closer I shall take pleasure in scratching that spot for you, as I see that you can't quite-

SKIN ROUGH AS BARK.

Baby Boy Had Intense Itching Humos -Scratched Till Blood Ran.

Found a Cure in Cuticura.

"Our son, two years old, was afflicted with a rash. After he suffered with the trouble several weeks I took him to the doctor but it got worse. The rash ran together and made large blisters. The little fellow didn't want to do anything but scratch and we had to wrap his hands up to keep him from tearing the flesh open till the blood would run. The itching was intense. The skin on his back became hard and rough like the bark of a tree. He suffered intensely for about three months. But I found a remedy in Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. The result was almost magical. That was more than two years ago and there has not been the slightest symptom of it since he was cured. J. W. Lauck, Yukon, Okla., Aug. 28 and Sept. 17, 1908."

Jonathan Carver Belleved to Have Derived Word "Oregon" from Early Explorers.

We believe it most probable that the name of Oregon arose out of some circumstance connected with western explorations under direction of the French. Earlier than the English, the the Great Lakes to the Red river, to the Saskatchewan and to the foot of the Rocky mountains. They were ranging the country of the upper Mississippi in search of furs and for trade with the natives; they were quiry about the great distant west and the unknown western sea. Of this sea they possessed Spanish charts and probably used among the natives the word "Aragon" as a homonym of Spain. When Jonathan Carver of Connecticut, was on his expedition to the upper Mississippi ountry, in 1767-'68, he made all possible inquiries, he tells us, about the country toward the west, the western river and the sea and the word "Oregon," and the name was written for the first time, so far as we know, or possibly can ever know, in Carver's book, published in London in 1778. It is a book of little importance jokes.' or value, except for the fact that it eives to the world the name of Ore- get a new hat out of the brute."

natives in the country of the upper Mississippi. Recent writers have shown that much of Carver's book is made up of unacknowledged extracts from French explorers before him, particularly from Hennepin, Labontan and Charlevoix; and, as Carver had no scholarship, it is believed the book was compiled in London, partly from Carver's own story and partly from the records of French and English exploration. It is significant, further, that in Carver's book tribes of Indians and various objects are often designated by French names or terms -Portland Oregonian.

What Will the Doctors Do?

There are, it is estimated, 17,600,000 persons in the United States who, instead of calling in a physician when they are sick, resort to some one of the many forms of drugless healing. Of these systems at least two-thirds are "mind cures." Ten years from now judging from the rate of increase during the past ten years, there will be 55,000,000 persons relying on nonmedical methods .- Van Norden Mag-

ARE MICROBES IN YOUR SCALP?

It Has Been Proved That Microbe Cause Baldness.

Professor Unna of Hamburg; Gernany, and Dr. Sabourand, the leadng French dermatologist, discovered that a microbe causes baldness Their theory has time and again been amply verified through research experiments carried on under the observation of eminent scientists. This microbe lodges in the Sebun, which is the natural hair oil; and when permitted to flourish it destroys the hair follicles and in time the pores entirely close, and the scalp gradually takes on a shiny appearance. When this happens there is no hope of the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H growth of hair being revived.

FOUND AN EMIGRANT CACHE

Contained Articles Buried by Party of Gold Seekers When Attacked by Indians.

Investigating the truth of the legend of Ann Arbor. which told of the attacks of Indians on a party of emigrants bound in 1854 from Missouri to the Rogue River Valley, Ore., their flight through Nevada and their killing of oxen and their burial of all except necessary articles of travel, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Sill of this city unearthed a few days ago the remains of the emigrant encampment and discovered an oak barrel containing articles of food, knives, scissors, whisky, nails and hammers and other accessories of the trip across the plains in the prairie schooners.

The achievement of the Sills is looked upon as particularly creditable, as many searching parties have made attempts to discover the buried articles in canyon "49," on ranch "49," owned by J. T. Cummings of Wood-Cummings assisted the Sills in the search, and after several days the buried articles were found and unearthed. The unearthing of the barrel required picks and shovels and several hours work in a deep canyon.

According to legend the emigrants were pursued for several days by the Indians, who shot many of their oxen, and they were forced to make the trip on foot. In order that the journey could be made the more quickly from the hostile country of the redmen the barrel of articles which has just been unearthed was buried.—Berkeley correspondence San Francisco Call.

A Youthful Admirer. has not affected her popularity. The proof of this lies in a pretty story:

Every night during an engagement in Boston a tiny bunch of violets was sent to her. She always left the violets in her dressing room, but one night she pinned the purple flowers to her belt, and the following day, when the usual fresh bouquet came to her, this scrawl came with it:

"Derè friend, Miss Barrymore: I seen you wear my vilets, so I kno you got them. To-night looke at me, I will be in top gallery first roe in my shirt sleeves and my legs hanging over the front of the galary."

Miss Barrymore looked. Her admirer, a bootblack of 8 or 9 years, was in the place and attitude he had promised, and she rewarded him with a smile and a nod of recognition.

Why Run Risks? A Canadian author wrote an anthem for a recent celebration in Toronto. Toward the end of the exercises, when the people were going out a few at a time, the author rushed to the conductor and said:

Spanish Bandit Has Record Would indeed Be Hard to

The boldest and most dangerous of Spanish bandits, Jose Tisaira, has been captured at Algeciras. The history of this criminal is remarkable. Twenty years ago he killed a priest at Palau and burnt the corpse. For this he was condemned to death, but was pardoned while on his way to execu-Hector Cooper was a Jackson tion. He was transported to the prison at Ceuta, but soon effected his escape. Then for some time he lived among the Moors, but so numerous were his depredations that he was forced to fly. Shortly after he fell into the hands of the Spanish authorities, but succeeded in escaping a second time, though in so doing he was severely wounded. His next step was to ingratiate himself with the Moorish bandit Valiente, but his desperate robberies and crimes eclipsed those of that bloodthirsty ruffian. Valiente became jealous of Tisaira, and sent him to Tangier, where he engaged himself to an agriculturist in a large way. Soon the bandit had plundered his employer to such an extent that the latter denounced him to the authorities, and he had to take refuge in flight. Tisaira's next scene of operations was Guadalajara, where he met a former dissolute companion. The two quarreled, and Tisaira killed his old friend with a couple of revolver shots. The police arrested him and were conveying him to Madrid by train when he jumped from the carriage, and badly injured himself in the fall. He managed, however, to break his chains and drag himself to Gerona. After this recovery he began a series of robberies-in one case raiding a tax office and getting away with $15,000—but he again fell into the hands of the police. He was taken to Ceuta, but last July he made his fourth escape.

Let It Be Understood, However, This Means the Machine, Not the Operator.

"My typewriter is acting something Mrs. W. P. Schenk and children awful this morning," said Miss Crossyoung face. The older stenographer smiled on her tranquilly. "Have you petted it enough?" she asked.

Miss Crossly looked blank, "I-Idon't know what you mean." "Let me show you. Typewriters are extremely responsive to a little petting. No, don't laugh. I don't mean the operators. They may be, too, but ed at the home of T. E. Wood the I am talking about the machines. These cool autumn mornings typewriters are often balky until they last week with relatives in Ann have been coaxed and warmed with a little kindly human attention."

She lifted the typebar gently and Emmett Dancer and family, return- brushed out the disfiguring ink with of oil here and there into the holes intended for such treatment; pushed James Harrington and daughter the carriage softly back and forth; ribbon; polished the nickel; inserted a sheet of paper in a caressing manner and whirled it lightly around the platen a few times; then coaxingly tapped half a dozen keys. They responded amiably. She struck a few more. Nothing wrong. "You'll find it all right," she assured the amazed miss. "Just be gentle with it at first and you'll have no trouble. Treat it Mrs. - Wm. Toppler and daughter, as you would like to have anybody treat you when you get up cross in the morning, and you never will have to send for the renair man."

To Legalize Tipping.

While praiseworthy attempts are Cahill in "The Boys and Betty" at being made in London to minimize the tipping system, a movement has been started in Berlin to make the custom compulsory. The cafe waiters in the tip the waiter to the tune of 12 per cent. If the order is over three shillings the "kellner" will be content with a tip of 10 per cent. In the larger restaurants the waiter will be satisfied with a modest 8 per cent. tip if the bill amounts to £5. The restaurant keepers protest against this tariff of tips, which they consider will interfere with their business, but the waiters refuse to give way.-The Throne.

A Spell of Bad Weather. A more depressing weather forecast than that offered by Prof. Bruckner of Vienna it is impossible to imagine. According to him we need hope for nothing much until 1920, so we might as well be prepared for the worst. His theory is that there is only s good spell of weather once in 16 years. That being over we get a corresponding period when low temperatures, cold winds, heavy rains and other meteorological horrors prevail. During the 16 years every year varies a lit-He (after the proposal)-My salary tle in character, but summing them up s $1,500 a year. Little Nita's Best Christmas

$100000 - $10000 - $10000 - $10000 - $10000 - $10000 - $10000 - $10000 (Copyright.)

Nita was just seven years old. She was born on a Christmas day, and this was a Christmas day, too. This was one reason why so much, so very much pains was taken to make every Christmas a delightful one for her. Never before had so much been done for her. To be sure, she was older than she was a year ago and could appre-

for her-almost a roomful she declared to herself, as they were taken down one by one and opened for her inspection and admiration.

Nita was an only child, and this was another reason why her parents made much of the day for her sake. There had been another, but it had died before Nita could remember. She had been told about her dead baby brother so often that it seemed to her that she could recall him and there were times when she felt he was looking at her and wanted to be at her side.

This Christmas day was so long, somehow. She had but just run to Nurse Amy to ask if it were not luncheon time. Not that she was hungry, but she had got so tired of playing by herself. Nursey had said it was only 11 o'clock, and she had thought it was almost night.

What were playthings, anyhow? She had always had them. They couldn't run around the big grounds and play with her at hide and seek as she had seen other children do-as she had done with her cousins, when, as she sometimes did, she visited them in their far away northern home. It was dreadful cold up there-much colder than in her own southland, where one might play outdoors all the year round, but she would be willing to live there, if only she had playmates like other children.

Of course everybody was good. Papa was good, and mamma was good, and nursey, too; but they were so often busy, and they were grown up. too, and couldn't be expected to play games with a little girl.

It would be nicer, she thought, if papa would remove from the country to the city. Then she might play with the neighbors' children. Nita yawned.

"I'd be willin' to let 'em play with everything I have, and wear my watch some, and ride my pony," she said, magnanimously.

"I do wonder why they don't let me see mamma?" she asked herself frequently. "Here its been about a week since I've seen her, and every time I start upstairs to her room, governess. or nurse, or the doctor push me back with a 'You musn't disturb mamma, for she's sick.' As if I'd disturb my dear, dear mamma for anything in all this world.

"I b'lieve I don't care for toys any more. I guess I'm gettin' too old for them. I b'lieve I'll tell papa to give mine away to some poor children that more before I'm a woman," she sighed, "but, anyway, I'm gettin' tired of Chrismases and birthdays and toys. If I just did have somethin' to amuse me-somebody to play with that isn't clean grown up."

And then this blase child of seven stretched herself out upon the floor and soon was fast asleep.

When she awoke Nurse Amy was standing beside her.

"I reckons yer marmer wants ter see yer, honey," she said, with a smile. Without questioning, without replying, the little girl sprang to her feet and fairly flew up the broad oaken

"O mamma," she cried, as she sought to throw herself into that parent's arms. But gentle hands restrained her and then she was shown something that thrilled her with delight. "A Christmas present, mamma, and a brother, too. It is my brother that went to heaven?" "Not that one, dear," but another sent from heaven.'

"Give him my presents, mother-all of them. He's worth all of them and more, too. May I hold him, mamma?" And Nita's heart overflowed with joy when this request was granted

"This is God's present, isn't it mamma-Jesus' present. You know you told me how he loved little children. He knows what little girls want better than their mothers and fathers Notice to Hunters.
