It's In The Making

Whether Clothes Fit Well Or Not

That's Where We Excel

Poorly made clothes always look cheap, while those well made have an elegant appearance. The clothes we make are put together thoroughly. Let us make your new suit and it will look better at the end of the season than do the ready-made affairs the first time they are put on.

CALL AND EXAMINE OUR LINE OF GOODS

RAFTREY, - - The Tailor.

Announcement.

We have opened up in the basement of the Chelsea Store & Manufacturing Co.'s office building on Main street and we would be pleased to have you call on us. We have a new stock of goods which was not in the fire and we will sell the goods at money saving prices.

Thanking you for the many favors extended to us in the past, we would be pleased to have you continue your business with us.

HOLMES & WALKER
WE TREAT YOU RIGHT.

Fire Loss Adjustment.

The adjustments with the insurance companies on account of the fire of last Friday are progressing as rapidly as possible, and all the sufferers by the fire are reported as well pleased by the fair treatment received from the insurance corporations.

The three losses on the stores have already been adjusted, the owners receiving the full amounts of their policies.

The North British & Mercantile Insurance Co., through their special agent W. S. Abbott, have settled with James Taylor, trustee, and Wilkinson & Raftery, and the Royal with the John R. Gates estate.

Partial losses have also been adjusted with the Miller Sisters and Drs. Palmer and Avery to the satisfaction of all concerned, and adjudications with The Standard and Holmes & Walker will be adjusted as soon as the losses can be ascertained.

The amounts paid at the time of going to press are as follows:

John R. Gates estate, full amount of insurance $2,000.

Wilkinson & Raftery full amount of insurance $2,000.

James Taylor, trustee, full amount of insurance $1,500.

The entire amount of insurance paid will reach about twenty thousand dollars, and the entire loss will total the amount given out by The Standard last week, namely thirty thousand dollars.

May Be Built.

The Toledo, Ann Arbor and Detroit, a partly completed electric railway between Toledo and Ann Arbor, has passed from the control of ex-Gov. Andrew E. Lee, of South Dakota, William E. Niles and associates, to a syndicate of capitalists of Chicago and elsewhere. James A. Wallace, of Des Moines, Iowa, and others representing the new control are in Toledo for the purpose of refinancing the project with a view of completing it next summer.

The grading is done, and about 20 miles of track laid between Toledo and Petersburg, and all the right of way has been secured between Toledo and Ann Arbor. Several years ago the road became involved in the failure of the Patrick Hirsch Construction Co., of Toledo, and was thrown into the hands of a receiver. It was purchased at receiver's sale months ago by the Lee-Niles syndicate which has since been split by factional differences. Ex-Senator J. Foraker was one of the original promoters.

Cavanaugh Lake Grange.

The election of officers of Cavanaugh Lake Grange took place last Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mensing. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Master—R. M. Hoppe.

Overseer—J. Kern.

Lecturer—H. J. Kruse.

Steward—P. H. Riemen Schneider.

Assistant Steward—B. Whitaker.

Chaplain—Mrs. H. Gieske.

Treasurer—Fred Mensing.

Secretary—Mrs. P. H. Riemen Schneider.

Gate Keeper—P. Ortring.

Ceres—Mrs. B. Whitaker.

Pomona—Mrs. J. Kern.

Flora—Mrs. F. Notten.

Lady Assistant Steward—Mrs. H. J. Kruse.

The installation of the officers will take place in the day time on Tuesday the 4th of January, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chris. Kalmbach.

Trouble Makers Ousted

When a sufferer from stomach trouble takes Dr. King's New Life Pills he's mighty glad to see his dyspepsia and indigestion fly, but more he's tickled over his new, fine appetite, strong nerves, healthy vigor, all because stomach, liver and kidneys now work right. 25c at L. T. Freeman Co. and Henry H. Fenn Co.

They Have The Goods.

One holiday follows fast upon another's heels. A few days ago it was Thanksgiving, the day in the year when everyone hopes, at least, to treat the inner man (or woman) to the best the market affords. Now we must think of Christmas, the first holiday little folks take any interest in, and the habit of looking ahead to that day, when presents are exchanged, becomes so thoroughly a part of one's life that it clings to us as we advance in years.

Doubtless many careful and foresighted persons have for weeks been preparing for Christmas, but many will not heed the injunction to do their shopping early, but will wait the last hours and then make a frantic round of our stores buying articles, in all probability, that will please neither themselves nor the recipient. Prepare your list this week and avoid the late rush by making your selections while the clerks have time to wait on you, and while the large variety of holiday gifts in each store is complete and attractive. There is another reason why you should do your shopping early. You will thereby lessen the overcrowding of stores and overworking of the clerks, so common the last few days before Christmas. But if you simply can't go early then go when you can, for no one wants you to omit giving on Christmas. By no means fail to open your heart and your purse to their widest capacity. Give to those you love, if you will, because you love them, but especially give to children. There are always children to be found, if not in your own family, then elsewhere. They will all expect something and will be disappointed and hurt if it does not come.

To most people this has been a prosperous year, and their pocket-books, we hope, will help them to express to their relatives, friends and acquaintances, the true feeling of love and sentiment they bear for them. By reading the advertisements in The Standard you will be greatly assisted in making up your mind what to buy. Do it now.

L. O. T. M. M. Officers.

The ladies of the Modern Maccabees held their annual election of officers at the Maccabee hall Tuesday evening. The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows:

Lady Commander—Mrs. Alice Stiegelmaier.

Lieutenant Commander—Mrs. E. Leach.

Past Commander—Mrs. Ada Speer.

Chaplain—Mrs. Mary VanTyne.

Record Keeper—Mrs. Martha Shaver.

Finance Keeper—Mrs. Mildred Emmett.

Misses at Arms—Mrs. Amelia VanRiper.

Sergeant—Mrs. Inez Bagge.

Sentinel—Mrs. A. Mensing.

Picket—Mrs. May Gentner.

Pianist—Miss Mary Spinnagle.

Bows on Men's Hats.

Why is it that a man's hat has a bow, and why is it that this band has a bow invariably on the left side? The answer is that there was a time when a piece of cloth adjusted to the head and tied with a band of other material served for a headpiece. The reason the bow was always placed on the left side had its origin in the fact that, in wielding a sword—an accomplishment possessed by nearly every one of consequence at one period of the world's history—the bow or rosette, if placed on the right side would have been in the way. Its present-day utility is that it keeps most men from wearing their hats hind side before, and although with most hats that would not matter, with most heads it does.—The Sunday Magazine.

The British Navy.

The navy, who, according to Dr. Farrar's interesting report to the local government board, is fast dying out, dates back to the eighteenth century, when some hundreds of canals—or navigations, as they were called—were cut all over the country. Hence he was dubbed a navigator, or navy, a description preserved in the sign. The Navigators' Arms, of which there are many in the midlands. The "navigator" is usually depicted with one hand resting on a spade, while the other holds a foaming pot of ale.—London Chronicle.

World's Greatest Market.

The greatest market place in the world is not located in any of the world's great cities. It is found at the comparatively unknown point of Nijni Novgorod, in Russia, whose annual fair, bringing merchants from all over Asia and Europe, records a business of $150,000,000 in six weeks.—The Circle.

GARDEN CITIES FOR GERMANY

Certain Spots Are to Be Beautified in Elaborate Manner Regardless of Expense.

Germany has started to make garden cities, one Berlin society having acquired a large plot of land on the northern outskirts of the city for the construction, under the name of Frohan, of the first real garden city of the capital.

This city will be built in a picturesque hilly part of the state forest, will have its own railway station, and will be laid out regardless of cost as regards external adornment.

From all parts of Germany reports show that the idea has taken a firm hold on the people, the feature most insisted upon being the abandonment of the small house and villa on the English model.

In Bavaria, where there is always a shortage of houses, the government will transfer its garden purposes parts of the state forests in the vicinity of large towns. Garden cities are either built or projected at Dresden, Nuremberg, Mueburg and Karlsruhe. At Mueburg houses with large gardens for single families will soon be rentable for about $60 a year. American money. It is to be hoped that this country will soon undertake the same kind of development—Vogue.

Forestry in Italy.

National forestry operations in Italy have been carried on for 40 years, and a report just issued by the secretary of agriculture of that country shows that the government is conducting a vigorous policy of afforestation in order to remedy the ruinous conditions which followed the destruction of trees in the past. During the last 30 years 122,000 acres of government land have been planted in 25 provinces, of which area 60,000 acres were planted in 1907, and this work is being carried on so rapidly that only about 36,000 acres of government land now needs planting. The government has also distributed great numbers of young trees and seeds for planting private property. Work of such an extensive nature in a country where the demands for national funds are so numerous and pressing as in Italy is a significant commentary on the value set upon afforestation where the experience of many centuries furnishes considerable information of unquestioned value regarding matters of this nature.

"Swift"hand.

Sir Edward Clarke, K. C., who has invented a new system of rapid writing which he calls "swift"hand," is a splendid example of the self-made man. When quite a small boy he determined to become a barrister, but his father was poor and could not afford the education required. So the future K. C. set out to educate himself and began by winning an English literature prize offered by the Society of Arts. Soon after he gained a post in the India office, where he worked until he had saved enough money to pay for his education for the bar. Perhaps Sir Edward's chief weakness is his love for somewhat unconventional raiment. His yachting "get-up" is said to be fearful and wonderful, while the story is told of him being mistaken by an American for a royal duke as he emerged from the law courts one day in all the glory of a light gray frock suit, gray gloves, white hat, red tie and patent leather shoes.—Tit-Bits.

Lord Lansdowne's Bluff.

The great, quiet bluff of Lord Lansdowne seemed to justify the idea that the house of lords was the real article, the real, true blood that cooly fights to the death with the cold, blue steel—a great bluff, a great lie. Disraeli in substance said, and his statement still stands uncontradicted, that the great war nobles of England are no more, are long extinct, their remnant was utterly exterminated in the fierce, pitiless "War of the Roses."

The ancient lords were war lords, and these have no true survivors or successors in the nobility. The Anglo-Saxon war lord survives only in the yeomanry, in men like Washington, Pitt and Nelson. The English nobility today, said Disraeli, is a product partly of influential clergymen of the Tudor and Stuart times, but mostly descended from the mistresses of the Stuart kings—notably Charles II.—New York Press.

A Skilled Workman.

A raw Irishman applied to the manager of the Chester (Penn.) Foundry Company for a job.

"Can you do anything?" inquired the manager, willing enough to get a competent man.

"Can I do anything?" the applicant exploded. "Av course I can. Be jabbers, I made a whole clock wance, but the dam pindoodle wouldn't swing at all, at all."

A New Set of Them.

Two women were looking at some mural decorations, among which were about a dozen coats-of-arms or armorial bearings. One of the women gazed at these curiously.

"What are them things?" she inquired.

"Them?" Her companion eyed the decorations with scornful familiarity. "Them's the signs of the zodiac!"

MICHIGAN BANKS ARE PROSPERING

EXTRAORDINARY GROWTH IS SHOWN BY REPORT OF STATE BANKING DEPARTMENT.

BIG FIRE AT KALAMAZOO

Hotel Burdick and Other Business Places Destroyed—Night Telephone Operator the Heroine at the Hotel Burdick.

Figures showing the extraordinary stanchness and growth of the state banks of Michigan are given in an abstract issued by the state banking department, compiled from the report of condition of the 376 state banks and trust companies made on Nov. 16. The figures show the greatest growth in the aggregate business of state banks of any report issued since the organization of the department in 1889, Banking Commissioner H. M. Zimmerman states.

The last previous report was made Sept. 1, 1909, and when compared with this report the following increases are shown: Loans, discounts, stocks, bonds, mortgages, etc., $6,491,471.42; commercial deposits, $4,107,290.48; savings deposits, $2,694,604.41; total increase in deposits, $6,801,894.89. When compared with the corresponding report of a year ago, the statement shows the following increase: Loans, discounts, stocks, etc., $21,180,764.92; commercial deposits, $13,478,117.47; savings deposits, $13,478,120.01; a total increase in deposits of $7,855,237.48, or at the rate of better than $2,000,000 a month for the year.

This is the first report made under the amended banking law requiring the separation of commercial and savings deposits. Speaking of the operation of the law Commissioner Zimmerman says the banks have in nearly every instance met the requirements of the amendments.

Big Fire at Kalamazoo.

A million-dollar fire, the worst in the history of Kalamazoo, was brought under control at 6 o'clock Thursday, after burning for over six hours through a square in the heart of the city's business district.

One hundred and sixty guests of the Burdick hotel in the city were driven, scantily clad, into the streets, and as other hotels were crowded, many of them were obliged to remain in the icy streets. The hotel, with nearly a dozen other business establishments, was destroyed.

Miss Nina Harrigan, night telephone operator at the Burdick, was the heroine of the fire. When the flames broke through the arcade adjoining the hotel and the building caught fire, she stuck pluckily to her post and notified every guest in the hotel by telephone of the danger.

For nearly half an hour while the blaze was raging, with firemen rushing past her with lines of hose, engines puffing outside and a babel of confusion about her, the girl sat calmly at her exchange ringing one by one every room in the building, and telling the guests to make their escape. She did not leave until firemen told her she would lose her life if she remained longer.

Burt Raps Federation.

In a signed statement, W. R. Burt, Saginaw's philanthropist, takes a fall out of the Michigan Federation of Labor for the stand it has taken against prohibition and local option. He takes particular exception to the year-book of the organization, which, he says, is an "advertisement for the brewers and liquor interests." He uses strong terms in expressing his disapproval of the federation's stand and declares, "I am through with it so long as it continues to hold such ideas."

Hangs Self With Bible Before Him.

"May this always be your guide, my darling—Bible—Mother." With this injunction, written in the fly leaf of a Bible, before his eyes, William H. Carson, 35, a conductor of shoe store sales, hung himself in a room in Grand Rapids. Despondency over financial reverses is thought to be the cause. Carson leaves a widow and five children in Batavia, N. Y. He went to Grand Rapids last spring from Detroit, where he had conducted sales for several shoe firms. He was arrested for wife desertion and was taken back to New York, but vindicated.

State Fair to Taboo Liquor.

Sacrificing $7,000 for the privilege, the Michigan State Fair association will no longer allow the sale of liquor on the fair grounds. At L. Doherty, general superintendent of the fair, to the Grangers and Farmers' clubs in convention at Lansing that he would do everything in his power to abolish the privilege, and James Slocum, general manager of the association, stated in Detroit Friday morning that what Mr. Doherty told the meeting would be carried out beyond any question of a doubt.

One hundred boys and the general secretaries from most of the Y. M. C. A. organizations in Michigan, attended the seventh annual convention of the state organization of the boys' department at Cadillac.

The work of tearing down the old buildings on the site to be occupied by the new Michigan Central car shops was started this week. The new shops will take care of all the car repair work on the divisions of the Michigan Central centering in Bay City, which has heretofore been sent to Jackson and Detroit, and will furnish employment to from 250 to 300 workmen.

Hilton V. Richardson, of Vassar, has been appointed circuit court commissioner of Tuscola county, to fill the vacancy caused by the failure of quality of H. P. George, who was elected to the office last spring.

At the meeting of the board of control of the prison at Jackson, the members discussed a plan for leasing the Blake farm, near the city, on which to keep the convicts who are now idle, employed. Blake says he will lease the farm of 200 acres, well stocked, if he may act as overseer.

Clare county will, in a short time, be converted into one of the best fruit and dairying sections of the state, according to plans of several Iowa, Illinois, and New York capitalists. It is expected that 10,000 acres of land, to be planted to fruit trees and stocked with several hundred dairy cows, will soon be taken up.

Edward Harris, of Big Beaver, found a legacy of $1,100 in gold and currency buried under an old shed which he razed last week. It is believed that Harris's grandfather, who occupied the property until his death, 30 years ago, and who was known as a miser, buried the money. The remainder of the ground is being carefully gone over in a search for more treasure.

The state supreme court has handed down a decision affirming the recent finding of Judge Steere in circuit court in the so-called Munoskong club case. The decision means, as it is now interpreted, that St. Mary's river ends at the lower end of Neebish island, that waters below that point are a portion of Lake Huron and that hereafter the Munoskong Hunting and Fishing club cannot legally interfere with the public hunting or fishing in any of these waters.

It has been learned that Samuel Frisbie, who was acquitted at Port Huron of the charge of slaying Louis Rosenberg, at the flats, had determined to end his life if the verdict had been against him. After his release Frisbie showed Sheriff Wagoner 12 shiny tablets which he had concealed in his cell, and which he stated he would have swallowed in case of a conviction. It is believed he secreted the tablets while he was being treated for typhoid fever in the hospital several weeks ago.

Leo Lyons, the clever swindler and forger who is now serving a term in the Shiawassee county jail, is wanted at Baraga among other points in the state, where, it is alleged, during the past summer he got rid of several checks signed by the "Brownlee" company. The latter, it was afterwards proven, exists only on the checks or in Lyons's mind.

WIRE MERGER IS HIT BY COURT

Mandamus Against Secretary of State Refused.

WERE DENIED A CERTIFICATE

Secretary Martindale's Contention That It Would Be Violation of Law to Do Business Under One Head Upheld.

Lansing.—Michigan's supreme court dealt the first blow at the big wire merger in a decision denying the petition for a writ of mandamus in the case of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company of New York against Secretary of State Martindale.

When the companies applied to the secretary of state for a certificate to do business in this state under a single head their request was refused by Martindale, as he held such a procedure would be a violation of the laws of the state governing the admission of foreign corporations. The company refused to abide by his decision and applied to the supreme court for a writ of mandamus to compel him to issue the certificate.

In refusing the writ the court holds: "For more than a quarter of a century the legislature has seen fit to keep separate these two lines of activity. This course has been followed, too, during a period in which the telephone business of the state has grown from an insignificant enterprise to one of great magnitude. Wherever the telephone line is there, too, is the telephone. In the hands of the independent agencies it may well be that a healthy competition for the transmission of information by electricity will ensue.

"We are of the opinion that the legislative enactments touching the question indicate a policy on the part of the state to afford its people a choice of two agencies of independent ownership."

"The Michigan state board of health has been in existence longer than similar institutions of many other states," said Dr. Kiefer. "Then there are some states where it is not a practice to register deaths. Death registration is one of the greatest reasons for low mortality records, because health officers can work more effectively when deaths and their particulars are classified."

"The great lakes regions in general has a reputation for low death rates. This, with the other reasons mentioned, has given Detroit and Michigan an enviable standing."

Hold Reunion at Lansing. The members of the constitutional convention of 1908 met at Lansing in their second annual reunion.

Lawton T. Hemans was toastmaster at the banquet and responses were made by a number of the delegates.

E. C. Nichols of Battle Creek was elected the new president, and Richard C. Flannagan of Norway, vice-president, and James F. Barnett and Paul H. King were re-elected treasurer and secretary respectively. Resolutions of regret on the death of Lawrence C. Fyfe of St. Joseph, member of the convention, and Alex. H. Smith, journal clerk, were adopted. A beautiful spray of lilies was placed on the desk of Delegate Fyfe, who died but a few weeks ago.

Has $18,000 and Didn't Know It. The state treasurer's department has turned over to Michigan Agricultural college $18,000 in agricultural college land interest money. When the state went broke last June, the college, with other state institutions, was thrown on its own resources and was bothered to a considerable extent to secure funds on several occasions.

During all this stress the $18,000 has been lying idle in the treasury, the college authorities supposing the money had been expended and that reports showing it simply represented a "paper fund." When the college authorities learned that the real cash was in the vaults there was a lively scramble to draw it out.

Fewer Deer This Year. Game Warden Pierce gave out statistics as to the number of deer hunters have shipped south across the Straits of Mackinac, where his deputies have been keeping tabs on hunters. There were 3,402 deer shipped from the hunting grounds this year, as compared with 3,600 last year and 4,000 in 1907.

Canadians Must Buy License. Hereafter Canadian automobilists who visit Detroit will have to take out a Michigan license, which costs three dollars.

This license fee is much smaller than is charged by the Canadian government, and Secretary of State Martindale believes that it should be charged in the interests of fair play, as every American machine taken into Canada is heavily taxed.

Under the new law all automobile owners must take out licenses January 1 for a year.

Causes Stir Among Clerks.

In accordance with the act passed at the last session of the legislature, the salaries of the employees in the auditor general's department will be graded the first of the year, according to a statement made by the auditor general. He stated that a record of the efficiency of each clerk had been closely kept and he will endeavor to obey the provisions of the law, grading their pay from $800 to $1,200, as is prescribed. "That was certainly the intent of the legislature, and I think this law better than civil service, which may follow if the provisions of this act are not carried out," said Fuller.

The prospect of grading pay is creating considerable stir in the capitol and in some other departments a way has been found to obey the law without changing the pay of any present employees. The statute provides a grade C salary of $1,000 a year, the same as is now paid, and it is proposed to place all the clerks in that grade. New clerks, of course, will have to start in at a salary of $800 a year and cannot be raised for six months.

"All our clerks are worth at least $1,000 a year," said Deputy Land Commissioner Carlton, in speaking of the new law and that department, "and we shall not cut the salary of some to raise that of others."

Farmers' Clubs Flourish.

Some interesting figures were presented at the State Association of Farmers' Clubs convention at Lansing in regard to the membership of the association and the representation of the different counties. There are 7,000 members of the 116 clubs, in 31 counties.

The distribution of the clubs is somewhat surprising, as some of the counties, considered as being the best farming districts in the lower peninsula, are not represented at all, while others have but one or two clubs. Bay, Genesee, Huron, Kalamazoo, Lake, Mecosta, Montcalm, Newaygo, Oshtemo, Saginaw and Wayne have but one club each.

Jackson is first, with 14 clubs, while Livingston, Oakland and Shiawassee come second with ten each. St. Clair has six, and Calhoun, Clinton, Grafton, Isabella, VanBuren and Washtenaw have five each. In Hillsdale and Tuscola there are four clubs each, and Ionia, Lenawee and Macomb boast three. In each of the three following counties there are two clubs: Barry, Lapeer, Ingham and Monroe.

Bird Stands Pat on Flats Policy.

It is the intention of Attorney General Bird to stand by his statement that there must be a supreme court decision regarding the rights of the state to deed the St. Clair Flats lands before he will permit the commission to proceed in the matter.

"The legislature has fixed the policy," said he, "but the question is as to what title, if any, the state can convey, as these lands are simply in trust under a recent decision of the supreme court. I am looking after the interests of the state the same as I would those of a private client and I want the court to settle this question. If the other members of the commission will not take the short route to a decision we will have to take the long one. This matter involves the rights of more people than the claimants to the Flats."

State Marines Eager for War.

Saginaw's naval reserves are itching to go to Nicaragua and assist in putting a quietus on President Zelaya and anything else that happens to come within range. The lake marines here have never had any real war experience and they are hoping that events in Central America will require their services. Owing to the fact that only marines, and not troops, are wanted, they believe that if the situation grows more serious there will be a chance for some of the few state organizations to go and they will make application early if the opportunity is offered. There are 40 men in the local company.

Not Sure It's Leprosy.

"I am quoted as having stated that the man, Spzopa of Calumet, is a victim of leprosy," said Dr. A. S. Warth of the University of Michigan medical department. "This is a mistake. I am not certain of that fact as yet. I was called a little time ago by Dr. Yarrington of Calumet to investigate the case. The clinical appearances all point to a case of leprosy, but until I have had a chance to make a laboratory examination of the tissues I cannot give a positive assertion that the man is afflicted with the disease."

Abolish Private Banks.

Banking Commissioner Zimmerman, speaking of the resolutions adopted by the State Association of Farmers' clubs favoring legislation placing private banks under state supervision, said that in his opinion the only satisfactory way to legislate for banks of this class would be to place them on the same basis as state banks, or in other words to abolish private banks in the state.

"Sausage with Cereals" Wins.

Under a decision of the supreme court Armour & Co. sausage, manufactured with cereals and water added, is admitted for sale in Michigan providing the company labels all packages. Some time ago the state dairy and food commission ruled that the addition of cereals and water to sausage constituted an adulteration prohibited by the state law. He was upheld in the lower courts, but the supreme court decision favors the manufacturers. The sausage must be labeled, however, "Sausage with cereals."

LAKE ERIE LIFE TOLL IS NOW 52

FRIGHTFUL LOSS OF LIFE AND FIVE BOATS DESTROYED IS THE RECORD FOR LAST WEEK.

9 FROZEN IN YAWLBOAT

Eight Bodies Sitting Over Prostrate Form of Companion, First to Succumb to Bitter Cold—One Man Had Probably Jumped From Boat.

The terrific storm which passed over Lake Erie Wednesday night and Thursday reaped a deadly harvest and laid waste more than $1,000,000 worth of vessel property.

Late reports show that 52 lives were lost, that 20 sailors were rescued, that five boats were destroyed, and that one is aground and sustained heavy damage.

The summary shows: Steamer Clarion—Burned; 15 lives lost, 6 saved. Steamer W. C. Richardson—Sunk; 4 drowned, 14 saved. Car ferry Marquette & Bessmer No. 2—Wrecked; 32 lives lost. Steamer Josiah G. Munro—Aground, attempting to rescue sailors from the Clarion. Tow barge—Sunk; no lives lost. Barge Charles Spademan—Sunk.

The last doubt concerning the fate of the car ferry Marquette & Bessmer No. 2 was removed Sunday when the state fish tug Commodore Perry towed the ferry's life boat No. 4, containing nine dead bodies, into the port of Erie. Eight were sitting on the seats, and one lay huddled up in the bottom of the craft. All were frozen stiff.

For 48 hours the Commodore Perry has been scouring the waters of eastern Lake Erie for traces of the car ferry, but until a tiny 10-man yawl was sighted 15 miles off Erie, the men on the little state fish craft had almost given up hope of being able ever to tell a portion of the story of the fate of the big ferry.

As the look out on the Perry sighted a tiny, half-sunken yawl, orders were given to stem down upon the object. The use of glasses discovered the boat to be loaded with nine men.

As the Perry came abreast of the drifting and half water-logged yawl, the men gathered at the side of the fish boat, saw that they had arrived too late.

Joseph Shenk, of Conneaut, the smallest man in the party, was left to succumb to exposure. Others of the shipwrecked crew, evidently with the intention of keeping the spark of life in the frail body huddled on top of and about Shenk and were found frozen in that position when the boat was first discovered.

$200,000 From Hill for U. of M.

A $200,000 gift for an auditorium for the University of Michigan is one of the bequests made by the late Arthur Hill. Mr. Hill was a regent at the time of his death. His will was deposited with Probate Judge Crane pending the hearing on the filing of a petition for its admission to probate. The amount of the estate has not been made public, but some interesting figures concerning certain large public bequests besides the one mentioned, are announced as follows:

For a manual training school for Saginaw, west side, public schools, $20,000; for the Saginaw General hospital, $50,000; Home for the Friendless, Saginaw, $25,000, and a like amount for perpetuating the Arthur Hill high school scholarship in the U. of M. Competition for the latter is open only to graduates of the Arthur Hill high school, in West Saginaw.

Supreme Court Bars Wire Trust.

A supreme court decision handed down denies the application of the American Telegraph & Telephone Co. for a writ of mandamus to compel the secretary of state to admit, the corporation to Michigan.

The court says it is the policy of the state to keep telephone and telegraph lines under separate control for the benefit of healthy competition and that the legislature in passing the anti-trust law, under which admission was refused, plainly intended that the two agencies of communication should be kept independent.

According to this decision, the company will not be allowed to enter Michigan unless they give up one branch of the business. They may operate either a telegraph or telephone business, but cannot conduct both. The action which the concern will take will be watched with interest, as this is the first case under the new law governing foreign corporations.

President to Hear Them.

Senator Smith, of Michigan, has arranged for President Taft to give a hearing some time in the future to fishermen of Saginaw bay and a part of Lake Huron who object to the report of Dr. Davis Starr Jordan on international fisheries.

The Michigan fishermen say that conditions in Saginaw bay and part of Lake Huron are unusual and should be handled in a different way from other fishing grounds along the Canadian borders.

Mrs. Charles Shookman, wife of a Kalamazoo teamster, was visiting friends in the country when she received the following telephone message from her husband, who had remained at home: "Come home; I am going to die." She hurried home and found Shookman dead in his chair, having evidently succumbed soon after telephoning her. He was 55 and for some time was a sufferer from heart trouble.

Saginaw county will spend $141,197.32 on its roads next year, more than half of which will go for state reward roads.

WIRELETS.

Fifteen lives lost and a million dollars in property lost on land and sea is the toll now known to have been taken by the storm which swept Newfoundland and its waters last week.

It is proposed by the war department to send the Wright aeroplane owned by the government to some southern city, probably San Antonio, Texas, for aeronautical experiments during the winter.

Another so-called trust inquiry was begun in New York by William Grant, a New York lawyer, designated by the attorney general of this state to decide whether a monopoly exists which controls the price of milk in the greater city.

Memories of the famous "Boston Tea Party" were recalled by the arrival at Boston of the largest cargo of tea ever landed in Boston, and valued at more than $400,000. The consignment came on the steamship Katentum from Colombo, Ceylon. More than 10,000 chests were required to hold the tea.

Rail Through Car Kills Two. Three immigrants were killed and two men and several women injured in a peculiar accident to a northbound Chicago & Northwestern passenger train.

The tracks had been elevated recently, and as the train passed a rail was torn loose. It ripped through the floor of the baggage car and through the smoking car.

In the smoking car the rail dangled over an immigrant and killed another who was sitting nearby.

Chief Red Cloud Dead.

Red Cloud, the famous old Sioux Indian chief, is dead.

This information was received at Washington by Superintendent Brennan, of the Pine Ridge Indian agency, who is in Washington attending the meeting of those interested in the education of the Indians.

Red Cloud belonged to the old type of Indian. He was 86 years old, and for the past 25 years had lived at the Pine Ridge agency.

CHRISTMAS PARTY OF PAN-AMERICAN YOUNG PEOPLE

sonland Dixon line. So it is that a Washington Christmas day idea has been made to serve the ends of science.

It has been said that in years past a great many of the senators and representatives in congress went home to spend the holidays, but that now the practice largely has passed. An exception should be made for the past, and the present, as well, in the cases of those senators and members who have in charge legislation which has been proposed in bill form at the opening of the session of congress. When bills are introduced they are at once referred to committees and if the measures are of importance the chairmen of the committees to which they have been sent, make were all busy erecting presepios in the homes of the quality, while the poorer folk were constructing their own. As the mainland grows more sophisticated and a quaint old devotion is fading away, but in conservative Sicily people still make the presepio every year as the dress Christmas trees in New York. All over the island families are busy from December 1 to 15 putting the old presepios in order, or making new ones; and there is much calling to and fro to compare results and admire new and elaborate specimens of the art. The presepio may be a little thing on a stand in one corner, or it may occupy the whole side of a room.

It may represent a whole mountain side, made of the rough, flexible bark or the cork tree. Peaks, crags and precipices abound, with winding trails, houses and castles of colored cardboard, forests of twigs and sometimes tin pipes to furnish brooks and lakes. In the center is the grotto, with the holy family within. A sky of blue paper is stretched above, with the Star of Bethlehem conspicuous, and over the hills come the shepherds bearing the gifts to the babe.

Spain, like Sicily, has never lost the presepio, and in both Spanish and Sicilian cities there are booths for the sale of miniature shepherds, magi and all the accessories of the art. In France the creche is not made at home, as in the southern countries, but it used to be a part of the Christmas decorations of every French church, and is still so in the rural districts. Many a polished cosmopolite of Paris can remember working busily for days before Christmas in his childhood to help freshen up and rejuvenate the creche of his parish church in some little village of France. In the villages close by Paris to-day children who go about the streets singing Christmas carols carry a little creche on a box upon their shoulders.

hanging up their stockings. Pierre and Babette, if they are very small indeed, believe that "le petit Jesus" or "le petit Noel"—"the little Jesus" or "the little Christmas"—have brought the gifts. But the average French child is as sophisticated as young America, and Pierre has to be a very little boy indeed, to believe in "le petit Jesus".

No French or Italian child ever hears of Santa Claus till he comes to America; by which it may be gathered that that good saint was strictly German, and when he emigrated, came to America like all the rest of the Germans.

The growth of the typical American Christmas, with its universal Christmas greens and present-giving, is a curious phenomenon. It has no roots in American history. The original settlers of New England never observed it. The Dutch of New Amsterdam scarcely noticed it, but made New Year's the great, joyous, popular festival. Within the memory of old people still living Christmas passed unobserved in New York, while all holiday merry-making centered in New Year's day. Modern America has built up a Christmas festival of its own, and has rejected definitely the religious feast in favor of the social and domestic one. In one way, however, the Ameri-

An occasional Jersey commuter, familiar with the religious section of Barclay street, is commonly the only sort of American in New York who knows a presepio by sight. Yet the presepio is the sign of the Latin Christmas, as the fir tree is of the northern. The manger of the Barclay street windows shows only the inside of the stable, with the figures and the cattle done in Italian terra cotta. But the real presepio in its native land may show the whole countryside as well, and if the pilgrims wending their way to the manger are good Sicilian peasants, bearing good Sicilian wine and cheese on their donkeys, they are only the more interesting.

St. Francis, born in the quaint little town of Assisi among the brown Umbrian hills, in 1182, invented the presepio to make the Christmas story plain to the simple, illiterate common people. During the 800 years since it has remained a favorite devotion in Latin Europe. The Italians and Spaniards call it the presepio; the manager, the French the crèche, the cradle; and the Hungarians and Belgians, Bethlehem, or Bethlehem.

Only a few years since not a carpenter could be hired in Rome or Naples for weeks before Christmas. They

In church feasts put together. One who has lived through a year's changing round of saints' days in Italy, in all of which no work is done and the people take holiday, will observe that the thought of the people never goes out to those in need. The abounding giving of an American Christmas; the uneasy, uncomfortable feeling that every child, at least, must have, if possible, a good dinner and a present on Christmas day, is quite unknown in the Latin countries.

The feeling that poor old bums and hoboes, even the criminals in their prisons, the paupers in their almshouses, the beggars, the unworthy—all ought to have something good to eat on that day, and a little Christmas cheer in some form—is part of the American Christmas.

The races that come to the melting pot of America keep their home Christmas for only a few years after they arrive. Then they drift off into a more or less Americanized Christmas.

For a few years after they come, also, they try to eat their traditional dishes at Christmas time. The Hungarian householder makes the Christmas cakes which a long line of ancestral cooks made before her across seas. They are round balls of dough, covered with honey and poppy seed, and then baked. The Bohemians and Poles also make poppy seed cakes, which in a different style. The Sicilian housewife, too, has a traditional Christmas cake. It is a ring of dough with a hole in the middle—the Italian doughnut, in fact—which is fried, wrinkled with sugar and eaten hot.

The Vacant Chair.

What sad memories linger around the old vacant chair. Sitting in the middle of the floor, with a plaintive look about its frayed and seemingly weary back, it brings back a tumultuous riot of sad recollections that time can never efface. Volumes of bitter anguish come to me when I arrive home in time to catch the milkman swiping the loose furniture around the place, and take off my shoes to avoid publicity, and strike my best toe against the rocker of the old vacant chair. Then, forgetting for the moment my unclad feet, I kick the chair on the other rocker. That is when the sadness and suffering that lingers around the old chair comes out with an extra edition and great chunks of gloom settle over me like a herd of ill-natured flies.—Oregon Journal.

AGONIZING ITCHING.
Eczema for a Year—Got No Relief
Even at Skin Hospital—In Despair
Until Cuticura Cured Him.

"I was troubled with a severe itching and dry, scurfy skin on my ankles, feet, arms and scalp. Scratching made it worse. Thousands of small red pimples formed and these caused intense itching. I was advised to go to the hospital for diseases of the skin. I did so, the chief surgeon saying: "I never saw such a bad case of eczema." But I got little or no relief. Then I tried many so-called remedies, but I became so bad that I almost gave up in despair. After suffering agonies for twelve months, I was relieved of the almost unbearable itching after two or three applications of Cuticura Ointment. I continued its use, combined with Cuticura Soap and Pills, and I was completely cured. Henry Searle, Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 8, 1907."

Fishing Extraordinary.
Representative Flood of Virginia tells a good story in which one of the characters was Gen. Reuben Lindsay Walker of the confederate army. On one occasion the general was waiting for his breakfast, and his faithful negro servant had gone to catch some fish for the feast. When the servant was away an unusually long time 'be general called to him impatiently.

"Why don't you come here with 'dat fish, Sam?"

Sam in the meantime had caught a fownder, which is white on one side, with a whiteness that looks like raw fish meat.

"All right, Massa Reuben!" called out Sam. "Tee comin' den ez soon ez I ketch de 'tver half o' dis here fish."

WASHINGTON not only has a United States Christmas celebration but it has the festivities that mark the Christmas season in all the civilized nations of the world. At the Russian embassy there is a Christmas fete after the manner of the people in the land of the czar; there are French doings at the great European republic's official residence, and there is the genuine old English Christmas at the home of the British ambassador, and so one may go on through the entire list of foreign representatives, not even barring the embassies of China and Japan, where in honor of the day, as Christian nations view it, the oriental officials have holiday dinners.

The South American people make much of Christmas. It is the great feast day in all Latin-American countries and the ambassadors and attaches and their families do not forget the customs of their native lands simply because for a few seasons they have been transplanted to new scenes. The "open house" is the order of the day in nearly every official residence in Washington after the family has had its own intimate celebration of the holiday. Large families are the rule rather than the exception among the ambassadors and ministers from the southern European and from the Central and South American countries. The children have a gala time of it at home and then the visiting begins. The presents that green and so are the wild honeysuckle and the laurel, trees and plants that are abundant along the Potomac.

President Roosevelt was, as everyone knows, a nature lover. He took every opportunity that offered to get away from the city. His daily walks and rides took him far into the country, and on Christmas day during the last four years of his term of office he went to Pine Knot, a wooded, mountain country place that belonged to his wife. Mr. Roosevelt stayed in Washington until are purchased and stored temporarily in the embassies are not all for the adults and children of the household. The probable visitors of the day are borne in mind and as a little Brazilian boy in Washington put it once: "I have had ten Christmases in ten hours."

Church-going on Christmas day is the rule in Washington. Some persons have been unkind enough to say that all the American officials go to church on Christmas because the fact is very apt to get into the newspapers and "it reads well at home." The majority of the Central American and South American diplomats temporarily resident in Washington, are nominally at least good churchmen, and they attend service as a matter of training and as a matter of course. Practically all the women from the Latin-American countries are religiously devout, and with them church going on Christmas is a matter of duty that is not to be neglected under any circumstances. No child is allowed to miss church and the fact is that all the capital city temples of worship are well filled.

the festivities of the day were over and the children had a chance to take account of their presents, and then he left for the log cabin in Virginia where he could sit in front of a huge open fire with a genuine "old Christmas" back log. On these Christmas outings Mr. Roosevelt did a little rabbit shooting

President Taft always has been a regular attendant at church and his service going since he became president establishes no precedent. Mrs. Taft and the children are Episcopalians, while the president is a Unitarian, and so it is that Sundays and other church days are the only days in the year that the family becomes in a sense divided. The president attends service at the Unitarian church of All Souls, of which the Rev. U. G. B. Pierce is the pastor. Mrs. Taft and the children are regular attendants at St. John's Episcopal church which in years past was attended by so many presidents of the United States that it came to be known semi-jocously as "the Church of State." Mrs. Roosevelt and her children also attended St. John's on Sundays and Christmas days, while Mr. Roosevelt went to the little German Reformed church on Fifteenth street, and rarely missed a service.

This Christmas season the majority of the members of both houses of congress are in the capital city. Time was, and not so long ago, that senators and representatives took their families and went home to spend the holiday season, but now, for financial reasons, the national legislators in the main elect to stay in Washington for their holiday making. Prior to the passage of the last railroad rate bill most of the members of congress had passes on the railroads. Now they have to pay their way when they travel and for those who live at a distance from Washington this means a considerable expenditure of money in case they desire to go home at Christmas.

Every employee of the White House is given a Christmas turkey by the president. This is a custom of many years standing, and only once or twice has it been broken. The clerks in the departments, and there are many thousands of them, not only get a Christmas holiday, but are allowed to leave their work at noon on the day previous in order that they may do their Christmas shopping. The lot of the department clerk in Washington is not a hard one, as far as the matter of holidays is concerned. Every employee is given a month's leave on full pay in each year, and is allowed another month "to be sick in." This last statement means, of course, only that if an employee is ill he or she receives full pay for one month on receipt of the physician's certificate that the illness has been real. The clerks get seven or eight holidays each year, and these, taken in connection with the month's leave, and with the fact that the hours of work number only seven and a half each day, make the laboring condition of the department clerk fairly comfortable.

Washington's Christmas is always a green Christmas, even if there is snow on the ground, for in this latitude there are many trees and shrubs that hold their leaves and their color all through the year. As a matter of fact there is rarely any snow in the capital city that is worthy of the name. All last winter, save for a few hours, the streets were bare of snow. Then came March 4th, inauguration day, and a record-making blizzard with a downfall of snow, hail and rain mixed. The holy is always

As a result of this, ornithologists have many valuable "song" birds. For instance, on a Christmas or two, the Mocking birds were seen in the fields near Boston, 1911. From other northern birds, the course of things ought

By the way, it DOES look as though this is headquarters for Christmas buyers. Many people tell us that our stocks of gift-things are the largest and best selected in town. But one thing we do know, and that is OUR PRICES ARE CERTAINLY LESS THAN MOST STORES. We do not say this just because this is an advertisement and because nearly every store says it, but simply because we have made comparisons and know that the statement is justified, "The proof of the pudding is in the eating," and when a store attracts so many thousands of people they must have some object in giving this store the preference. Therefore, we say--YOUR CHRISTMAS MONEY WILL GO FARTHER HERE

The Chelsea Standard

An independent local newspaper published every Thursday afternoon from its office in the building first door south of the Chelsea House, Main street, Chelsea, Michigan.

O. T. HOOVER.

Terms:--$1.00 per year; six months, fifty cents; three months, twenty-five cents. Advertising rates reasonable and made known on application.

Entered as second-class matter, March 5, 1908, at the postoffice at Chelsea, Michigan, under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

LAST week Thursday evening The Standard was a night-blooming cereus on the eve of issuing the biggest paper ever published in Chelsea, but on Friday morning the office was a cross between a lurid nightmare and a bad case of dyspepsia. However, as the married man said, we should not complain we still have our health. We have been treated very handsomely both by the press and those with whom we come in contact in trying to get settled, and in the two editions issued before Christmas we intend to try and take care of our merchants who have so well taken care of us in the matter of advertising during the past year. We don't propose to fall down on them just at the time we can do them the most good, no matter how good an excuse we might have. What they want is not excuses but results. In the matter of adjusting our insurance, the company carrying us, at our request, has deferred adjustment until we can get out this week's issue and we propose to reciprocate by conserving the wreck in the way of cleaning up and protecting the property in a manner to save the most for the company and ourselves.

THIS getting out a paper when your material is scattered all over town is not conducive to bringing out one's best efforts. This issue is lacking considerably in the amount of local news that we usually print, but we promise that as soon as we can get our second wind the paper will be up to its former standard, and a little better, if it can be done.

A GENTLEMAN living in Pontiac, not receiving his Standard last week after looking for it all of Friday and Saturday, could stand it no longer and Saturday night started for Chelsea. He got here Sunday morning and we so far broke our rule as to working on the Sabbath, as to open the office and get him a copy.

THIS Santa Claus business of coming down the chimney is all right, but coming down from the second story and bringing it and a lot of brass bedsteads along and dumping them on you is hardly carrying out the Christmas spirit.

BREVITIES.

DEXTER--A. S. Yost, dry goods and grocery merchant of this place, died at 9:30 Monday evening. He is survived by a widow and one son, Norman.

JACKSON--Wm. L. Seaton, aged 86, formerly postmaster of Jackson for 24 years, and warden of the state prison for six years, died Monday morning. During his administration as warden of the prison he put into effect many changes which worked for the betterment of prison discipline.

YPSILANTI--Roger James, aged 20, a student at the Ypsilanti Normal college, was struck by a D. U. R. car at 9 o'clock Monday night about two miles out of Ypsilanti, and sustained a serious injury to his scalp. His tongue was split and several teeth were knocked out. The young man was taken to the University hospital and attended. He is a son of Dr. L. James, of Ypsilanti.

ANN ARBOR--All efforts to arrange a trip to Seattle, Wash., for the local state high school championship football team were abandoned Monday when it was announced here that the Seattle school officials had taken a firm stand against the playing of any such games. A big banquet is now being arranged in honor of the local team for the fine showing it made this year. Paul Reule has been chosen captain of the 1910 eleven.

PLYMOUTH--The parents of Geo. and Elmer Sears died when the boys were young and they were taken by other families and brought up. Elmer now resides at Milan. Of their relatives they know but little, but George Sears reports that he received a letter from his brother the other day in which he states that he had been visited by an attorney from Pennsylvania who had informed him that an aunt of Sears' had died leaving a fortune of four million dollars, to which they were heirs. Mr. Sears has not been visited by the attorney and he gives but little credence to the story, though of course he hopes it may be true.--Mail.

DEXTER--Bert Curtis, aged 61 years, died at his home Sunday afternoon 2:30, after an illness of three months with bronchitis. He is survived by a widow and one son.

GRASS LAKE--A judgment of $144.00 in the Shaible-Houk buckthorn suit in the circuit court Friday. This is over twice as much as was given the plaintiff in the justice court. The defendants were given twenty days in which to ask for a new trial, and sixty days in which to prepare and settle for a bill of exceptions. Ed. Marrinane conducted the plaintiff's side of the case, while Attorney Waters of Manchester argued for the defendant.--Grass Lake News.

ANN ARBOR--Henry Martin, convicted of the charge of adultery in the Washtenaw circuit court last week and sentenced last Friday was taken to the reformatory institution at Iona Tuesday morning. Martin is a resident of Ypsilanti and was charged with committing the crime, which, it was alleged, led to the murder of Mrs. Anna Poole by her husband last spring. Martin was at first sentenced to the prison at Jackson, but because he expressed a fear of being confined in the same institution with the man who had killed his wife, the judge changed the sentence and sent him to the Iona prison.

Additional Limited Cars.

Superintendent W. J. Dawson of the D. J. & C. Railway announces a new schedule on the fast trolley line between Detroit and Jackson going into effect Thursday of this week. Under the new schedule there will be four limiteds a day each way leaving Chelsea east bound at 7:24 a. m. 1:24 p. m. 4:24 p. m. and 7:24 p. m. and west bound at 9:45 a. m. 2:45 p. m. 5:45 p. m. and 8:45 p. m. The last limited both east and west is the feature of the change.

WORK WEAKENS THE KIDNEYS.

Doan's Kidney Pills Have Done Great Service for People Who Work in Chelsea.

Most Chelsea people work every day in some strained, unnatural position--bending constantly over a desk--riding on jolting wagons or cars--doing laborious housework; lifting, reaching or pulling, or trying the back in a hundred and one other ways. All these strains tend to wear weaken and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, put new strength in bad backs. Chelsea cures prove it.

Glenn Barbour, North Main street, Chelsea, Mich., says: "I suffered intensely from dull, nagging backaches which were no doubt brought on by standing so long at my work. The kidney secretions passed irregularly and caused me annoyance. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a box and soon after I commenced their use my aches and pains disappeared, together with the kidney difficulty. I now have no trouble from my kidneys whatever."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name--Doan's--and take no other.

Commissioners' Notice.

Dedication of Bethel Church.

The dedication of the new Bethel church, Freedom, will be held Sunday, December 19. The speakers in the morning will be two former pastors of the church, Rev. J. Neumann of Halfway, Mich., giving the farewell address in the old church, and Rev. Paul Irion of Michigan City, preaching the dedication sermon in the new church. The afternoon and evening speakers are Rev. E. Kuenzler, of New Albany, Indiana, Rev. W. H. Alber, of Detroit, Rev. E. Brénion, of Medaryville, Indiana, and Rev. A. A. Schoen, of Chelsea, the last three pastors named being born and brought up in Freedom.

The Reason Why.

The following letter from the fire commissioners of Ann Arbor, explains the reason why their department did not get here last Friday morning. There were many rumors floating about the streets about the Michigan Central not furnishing a train, and this gives the correct version of the affair:

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 14, 1909.

Mr. C. W. Maroney, clerk.

Dear Sir:
Your letter received and read to the boys and will say for all of us including the Fire Committees that we were very sorry we could not get out here last Friday morning. The Toledo & Ann Arbor Railroad always keep an engine and cars in the yards, if you can arrange with the T. & A. for engine and use of M. C. tracks we would be able to reach you in about thirty or forty minutes. We keep everything on hand ready to load apparatus.

Yours respectfully,

C. J. ANDREWS,

C. F. D.

STOCKBRIDGE.

All the Chelsea losers by the late fire have our sympathy at this trying time.

Mrs. B. Collings died Thursday and was buried Saturday. Deceased was sick only a short time.

The new skating rink in Stockbridge opened for business with free admission on Saturday, many trying the rollers for the first time.

The entertainment at the hall in Stockbridge Tuesday evening was well attended, eight matrons contesting for the medal, which was awarded to Mrs. Roy Mape, to the satisfaction of the large audience.

The speaking was interspersed with solos, quartets and marches by the school children. It was declared by many to be the best entertainment of the season.

NORTH LAKE NEWS.

F. A. Glenn brought a sleigh load to church last Sunday.

Herbert Hudson and Johanna Hankard were Pinckney visitors over Sunday.

The next regular meeting of North Lake Grange will be held on December 22 at the hall. Election of officers and other important business.

The teachers and pupils of Dexter township schools will have a spelling contest Friday, December 17th at the Smith school house. Five of the North Lake pupils will enter the contest. A Christmas program will be given.

The Lyndilla Telephone Co.'s annual meeting was held at Ann Arbor last Wednesday. All the old officers were re-elected. An assessment of $3 was made on each share of stock. The Ladies' Aid Society of the church served dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Watson.

SHARON NEWS.

George Wahr has returned from Adrian.

Rex Dorr spent Saturday and Sunday at home.

Several from here were Jackson visitors Saturday.

Delbert Preston has been here caring for G. Beutler.

Miss Olga Wolf is in Grass Lake caring for her sister, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Wyer and Mrs. O. Charlton visited at the home of Harry Middlebrook Saturday.

Harry Middlebrook is wearing a broad smile as the result of the advent of a small son, to his household.

T. Cooper, who has spent the past few weeks with his brother, A. Cooper, has returned to his home in Pennsylvania.

Godfrey Beutler died Monday evening after an illness of several weeks. The funeral will be held Thursday at the residence, Revs. Brown and Laubengayer officiating.

Mrs. Mary Kappler died December 7, from injuries sustained at the time she fractured her limb. She was born in Wuerzburg, Germany, in 1843, and came here in 1864. She leaves a husband, five sons, two daughters, twenty-seven grandchildren, one sister and a host of friends to mourn her loss.

George Wolf was called home by the sudden illness of his father.

Districts number 8 and 9 are planning for a Christmas entertainment. Mrs. C. Chadwick, of Jackson, spent last week with her sister, Mrs. G. Beutler.

Chas. Moser has returned after spending a few weeks with N. Frye and family.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Drake was made happy by the arrival of a daughter, last Saturday. There will be no services held at St. Paul's church, Sharon, Sunday, December 19. Services on Christmas Day at 3:30 p. m., at which time a Christmas program will be rendered. Communion service will be held Sunday morning, December 26.

An adjourned review of Chelsea Tent, K. O. T. M. M., will be held on Tuesday evening, December 21st, at which time officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

A Thrilling Rescue.

How Bert R. Lean, of Cheno, Wash., was saved from a frightful death is a story to thrill the world. "A hard cold," he writes, "brought on a desperate lung trouble that baffled an expert doctor here. Then I paid $10 to $15 a visit to a lung specialist in Spokane, who did not help me. Then I went to California, but without benefit. At last I used Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me and now I am as well as ever." For lung trouble, bronchitis, coughs and colds, asthma, croup and whooping cough its supreme. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by L. T. Freeman Co. and Henry H. Fenn Co.

Mortgage Sale.

WHEREAS, James B. Dean and Elvira Dean, his wife, of the village of Chelsea, county of Washtenaw and state of Michigan, made and executed a certain mortgage, to Emory D. Chipman, of the township of Lima, county and state aforesaid, bearing date the 26th day of August, A. D. 1907, which was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of the county of Washtenaw, on the 30th of August, A. D. 1907, at 3:25 o'clock in the afternoon, in Liber 109 of mortgages, on page 367.

And whereas the amount claimed to be due upon said mortgage is the sum of $425.00 and no part or portion has been paid at law to recover the debt now remaining secured thereby, or any part thereof.

And whereas default has been made in the payment of the money secured by said mortgage, whereby the power of sale contained therein has become operative.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that, by virtue of the power of sale, and in pursuance thereof, and of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the mortgaged premises, at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the south end of the court house, at the city of Ann Arbor, in said county of Washtenaw, that being the place of holding the circuit court within said county, on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1910, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon; the description of which said premises contained in said mortgage is as follows: All that certain piece or parcel of land situated in the Village of Chelsea, in the County of Washtenaw and State of Michigan, and described as follows, to-wit: Lot number three (3) in block number two (2), according to the recorded plat of James M. Congdon's Third Addition to the Village of Chelsea.

Dated, November 27th, 1909.

EMORY D. CHIPMAN, Mortgagee.

JOHN KALMBACH, Attorney for Mortgagee.

Chancery Order.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, in the circuit court for the county of Washtenaw—in Chancery.

Suit pending in the circuit court for the county of Washtenaw, in Chancery, at Ann Arbor, on the 8th day of December, A. D. 1909. In this cause it appearing from affidavits on file, that the defendant Roy Page, of the county of Washtenaw, and residing at Toledo in the state of Ohio, on motion of A. J. Waters complainant's solicitor, it is ordered that the said defendant, Roy Page, cause his appearance to be entered here in said court, within ten days from the date of this order, and in case of his appearance that he cause his answer to the complainant's bill of complaint to be filed, and a copy thereof to be served on said complainant's solicitor, within fifteen days after service on him of a copy of said bill, and notice of this order; and that in default thereof, said bill be taken as confessed by the said non-resident defendant.

And it is further ordered, that within twenty days the said complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in the Chelsea Standard, a newspaper printed, published and circulating in said county, and that such publication be continued therein at least once in each week, for six weeks in succession, or that complainant cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said non-resident defendant, at least twenty days before the time above prescribed for his appearance.

EDWARD D. KINNE, Circuit Judge.

A. J. WATERS, Complainant's Solicitor. 25

Probate Order

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Washtenaw, ss. As a session of the probate court for said county of Washtenaw, held at the probate office in the city of Ann Arbor, on the 30th day of November, in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

Present, Emory E. Leland, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Emma L. Mitchell, deceased.

On reading and filing the duly verified petition of George H. Mitchell, husband, praying that he be appointed executor thereof, and that said petition and commissioners be appointed.

It is ordered, that the 10th day of January next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said probate office be appointed for hearing said petition.

And it is further ordered, that a copy of this order be published three successive weeks previous to said time of hearing, in The Chelsea Standard, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Washtenaw.

EMORY E. LEELAND, Judge of Probate. (A true copy.) Dorcas C. DORRMAN, Register. 24

Mortgage Sale.

Default having been made in the payment of the principal, interest, taxes, and insurance due and payable under the terms and conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed by Edwin Clough and Glenn Clough of the city of Ypsilanti, Michigan, of the first part to Hattie M. Bonstedt of the second part; which said mortgage is dated July 27, 1907, and was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Washtenaw county, Michigan, on the 29th day of July, 1907, in Liber 110 of mortgages at page 108.

And which said mortgage was duly assigned by the said Hattie M. Bonstedt to James P. Clough on the 10th day of August, 1908, the deed of assignment thereof having been duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said county of Washtenaw on the 21 day of November 1909 in Liber 115 of Assignments of Mortgages at page 129.

That in and by the said mortgage it was expressly agreed: That should any default be made in payment of the said interest, taxes, assessments or insurance or any part thereof, on any day whereon the same is made payable and should the same remain unpaid and in arrears for the space of thirty days, then the principal sum insured thereon, and all taxes and insurance paid and unpaid shall at the option of said mortgagee or her assigns become due and be due and payable immediately thereafter notice of which option was hereby expressly waived.

That certain installments of principal, payments of interest, insurance and taxes due and payable upon said mortgage debt and upon the premises in said mortgage described having become due and payable and default has been made in the payment thereof on the day whereon the same were by the terms of said mortgage due and payable and the same have remained unpaid and in arrears for the space of thirty days and upwards; and the assignee of the said obligee in said mortgage named now and by the virtue of this proceeding elects by the virtue of the option, to have the full amount of the said principal sum now unpaid and all arrears of interest thereon and all taxes and insurance paid upon said mortgaged property to become due and be due and payable immediately.

By reason of which default, in the payment of the amount due upon the said mortgage the power of sale contained therein has become operative, and no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted to recover the debt secured by the said mortgage or any part thereof, and there is now claimed to be due and owing the sum of Seven Hundred, One and 63/100 Dollars ($701.63) and Fourteen and 7/100 Dollars ($14.70) for taxes and Four and 63/100 Dollars ($4.63) for insurance paid under the provisions of the said mortgage clause for and the further sum of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) attorney's fees as provided by law and stipulated in said mortgage.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in the said mortgage and in pursuance of the statute in such cases made and provided, such mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described therein at Public Auction to the highest bidder at the East front door of the Court House, at the City of Ann Arbor, in said County of Washtenaw (that being the place where the Circuit Court for the said County of Washtenaw is held) on Monday the 21st day of February, A. D. 1910 at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day. Which said premises are described in the said mortgage as follows: All of lot sixteen (16) in R. W. Hemmell's addition to the City of Ypsilanti, Washtenaw County, Michigan.

Dated, Nov. 23, 1909.

JAMES P. CLOUGH, Assignee of said Mortgage.

FRANK E. JONES, Attorney for Assignee.

Business address, Ann Arbor, Michigan. 23

MYSTERY ONLY SHORT TIME

Before Editor Had Chance to Write Up Story the Explanation Was Made to Him.

The energetic editor of the Gungwamp Advocate was rudely awakened from his afternoon slumber in his office chair by a violent ringing of the telephone bell. At first he thought it was the jingling of silver coin and a smile played over his sunken features, but when he realized what it was he sprang to his feet.

"Hello!" shouted he, seizing a pad and pencil.

"Hello!" came the answer. "Is this the Advocate office?"

"Yes, and this is the office-er. What do you want?"

"Waal, say, they's be'n a murder committed out here on my farm an' I want hev you come right out an' write it up."

"A murder! What makes you think so?"

"Waal, I jest found a hat, a coat and a pair uv spectacles down in my south meadow, an' they ain't another blessed thing in sight nowhairs. Oh, it's murder, all right."

"Have you run down all the clues?"

"Yes, an' all the stock. Ain't even a footprint in the grass."

"All right, I'll be right out."

The editor had jumped into his shoes and coat, and was giving directions to his office boy, when the bell rang a second time.

"Hello!" he shouted nervously.

"Hello!" came the answer. "You needn't come out. An airship feller hez jest come in an' sez ez how he dropped 'em."

THEY INJURE CHILDREN

Ordinary Cathartics and Pills and Harsh Physics Cause Distressing Complaints.

You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given, except in emergency cases. Ordinary pills, cathartics and purgatives are apt to do more harm than good. They cause griping, nausea and other distressing after-effects that are frequently health-destroying and a life-lasting annoyance.

We personally recommend and guarantee Rexall Orderlies as the safest and most dependable remedy for constipation and associate bowel disorders. We have such absolute faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies contain an entirely new ingredient which is odorless, tasteless and colorless. As an active agent, it embraces the valuable qualities of the best known intestinal regulator tonics.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy. They are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness or other undesirable effects. They have a very natural action upon the glands and organs with which they come in contact, act as a positive and regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel and its dry mucous lining; remove irritation, overcome weakness, tone and strengthen the nerves and muscles, and restore the bowels and associate organs to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies completely relieve constipation, except when of a surgical character. They also tend to overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition.

There is really no medicine for this purpose so good as Rexall Orderlies, especially for children, aged and delicate persons. They are prepared in tablet form, in two sizes of packages: 12 tablets 10 cents, and 36 tablets 25 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Chelsea only at our store, The Rexall Store, L. T. Freeman Co.

Lima Taxpayers.

I will be at Lima town hall every Friday in December, at the Dexter Savings Bank December 18th, at the Kempf Commercial & Savings Bank, Chelsea, December 11, 1909, and January 8, 1910, to receive taxes.

A Merry Christmas.

What better wish can be sent forth to all the department readers than this one made by Charles Dickens so many years ago?

"Many merry Christmases, many happy New Years, unbroken friendships, great accumulations of cheerful recollections, affection on earth and heaven at last for all of us."

There it is all in a nutshell, just the wish Mrs. Merri extends to every one on the day of the Christchild's birth, when the joy bells are echoing their message of peace round this great world. But to insure "accumulations of cheerful recollections" we must begin this very minute to lay up our treasures by thinking of the next one who may need our ministrations, rich as well as poor.

I was especially touched last week when I saw a deeply veiled woman, whom sorrow has touched with a heavy hand, having lost every member of her own family within a very short time, leaving her absolutely alone, making purchases of dainty trifles for children, for servants and friends on both sides of the continent. It took a stout heart to join with the merry throng and it was to me true bravery to even attempt to get away from what I knew her true feelings to be. As I grow older I think the greatest art in the world is that of self-forgetfulness. We are so apt to think that we may be excused if we personally do not feel like rising to an occasion or entering into the spirit of this blessed holiday time. There is a college girl who has had heavy financial losses, making her usual gifts impossible, but to assure her friends that she does not forget she is writing the dearest notes on scarlet paper with gold ink, sealing the envelopes with a Christmas emblem. I think even the overburdened postman will smile when he delivers these bright missives. By the way, how many of us ever think of the postman or ask if he has children to whom we could at least send a Christmas postcard?

Gifts of home-made cakes, fine marmalades, mince pies and cookies are acceptable to young housekeepers, bachelors and college folk who may be unable to participate in the festivities at their own homes. Speaking of things to eat, as nearly every one dines sumptuously in the middle of the day on Christmas, this supper was planned to satisfy but not overwork the inner man, who is generally taxed to the uttermost on feast days. First, there was an appetizing combination of fruits served in orange cups resting on a dolly made of holly leaves. The mixture consisted of oranges, grape fruit, bananas, grated pineapple, lemon juice and sherry, with sugar to sweeten. It was chilled and seemed to be just the appetizer necessary. Then came fried oysters, old-fashioned cold slaw, hot biscuit, potato chips, individual molds of cranberry jelly, shrimp salad, toasted crackers, coffee, cheese, nuts and white grapes. The salted nuts were in little sled-shaped boxes and the name cards were tied to small Christmas tree boxes, which were filled with bonbons wrapped in gilt paper.

A Christmas Chimney.

A generous hostess is to ask 50 children from an institution for a Christmas party. There is to be a chimney built of candy boxes in exact imitation of red brick. Santa Claus will emerge from behind this pile and it will have the effect of coming out of the chimney. He will take down and distribute the bricks, which contain candy and nuts. Then they will play "Santa Claus," which consists of distributing bits of cardboard with pencils on which dots are drawn, from which there are to be lines connected so as to make a figure of Santa. He may be represented at full length, bust only, carrying his pack, or without it, or with his sleigh and reindeer. Twenty minutes may be allotted for the drawing and then all will be quiet and ready for the refreshments of ice cream and cake. A "Santa Claus" candy box may be given as a prize for the best "wiggle."

MADAME MERRI.

FANCIES OF FASHION.

Long sashes are being worn with coat suits.

Fur neckpieces are very wide and muffs are huge.

Some of the dainty new silk stockings have lace insets.

Red is a brilliant exception to the rule that makes for dull-hued colors.

Nursery Screens

Inexpensive White Elephant.

A Daisy Top.

NOWADAYS the nursery of each house is not an extra room into which the cast-off furniture from other rooms and the left-over rugs and draperies are thrown. Parents recognize the value of environment when their children's lives are in the impressionable stage of development, and playrooms are furnished with a view to giving beauty plus comfort for the little ones.

Screens are necessary to protect children from draughts, for they are on the floors, or very low down, in their play hours. These pieces of furniture are now decorated with pictures of animals, flowers and figures that bring back to us our story-book days, and are a joy to childish eyes. They are expensive if bought in the stores. Why not decorate your own nursery screens? You know the special liking of your children, and can buy plain forms, upon which pictures can be pasted or painted.

Denim is procurable in all staple shades. Screens in two or three sections and of different heights are easily bought, and the pictures you will supply yourself.

Animals are always interesting to little tots. A clever older person ought to be able to draw on white muslin an elephant. The lines must be simple, for children are pleased with drawings which seem almost crude to us. It is an easy matter to cut other elephants from the first pattern, and when you have supplied the eyes, ears and a few flesh wrinkles, paste the forms in a straight border at the top of your screen. They will never be anything but pleasure-giving white elephants to you and your children.

Then there is the daisy top. Huge white flowers with yellow centers and green leaves look very well on a blue background. Yellow petals are effective on brown denim or a wooden panel at the top. They should be arranged in a picturesque fashion, with the flowers grouped at one side.

The possibilities are legion. On plain screens which carry out the coloring of the nursery let pictures, made at home, shine out in inexpensive glory. You have no idea how well worth your efforts these simply decorated screens can be made. They are scrapbooks on a large scale and give correspondingly proportionate pleasure to little boys and girls.

FERTILITY AND MOISTURE NECESSARY FOR CELERY

May Be Grown On Any Soil from Sand to Clay. Provided Other Conditions Are Made Right—How to Raise.

Arranging Boards for Blanching Celery.

Celery may be grown on any soil from sand to clay, provided other conditions are made right. Success is largely a matter of fertility and moisture. Fertility is maintained by the use of cover crops, manure, and commercial fertilizers, writes Paul Work in Rural New Yorker. Crimson clover and rye are the standard humus-making crops, with the latter preferred. The clover is of value as a nitrogen gatherer, but unless it can be sown earlier than is possible on high-priced and intensively farmed land, the gain does not cover the extra cost of seed. Rye has the advantage of a greater bulk of humus and an assured stand.

Seed for the early crop should be sown in flats about March 1. Earlier sowings show a marked tendency to run to seed, and there is little advantage in marketing before August 1.

Typical Bunch Ready for Market.

Some trouble is experienced with damping off. Deep flats and careful watering are important factors in avoiding this difficulty. Of recent years the seed has been sown in beds, the soil of which has been sterilized. For this purpose a quart of formalin is mixed with a barrel of water, and a gallon of this liquid applied to each cubic foot of soil. After two weeks it is dug over, and seed may then be sown without danger from the chemical. The seedlings are transplanted to flats and then to cold frames, though they are not so rigorously hardened as cabbage plants. A full ton of a high grade fertilizer, running about six per cent of nitrogen, eight of phosphoric acid, and ten of potash, is applied to each acre. The fertilizer should be put on just before the plants are set, about the middle of May. The distances are 33 inches between rows, and seven inches in the row. Great care should be taken to avoid setting the plants too deep, as the crown is partly covered and the plant seriously stunted, usually ruined. A row planted by a careless worker is a conspicuous monument to his memory throughout the season.

The water problem is a very serious matter, and especially in growing celery. There is hardly a year when drought does not curtail the crop. Irrigation is the only remedy. Leaf spot or celery blight is the most serious pest. It can be held in check by faithful applications of Bordeaux mixture.

Blanching celery in hot weather is not so easily accomplished as in the fall. Soil at this season affords most favorable conditions for rust. Instead of this method, 12-inch boards are used. Only good lumber is purchased, cleats are nailed on to prevent splitting, and the boards are as well cleft for as hotbed sash, far better than many a gardener cares for them. Each board does service six to seven times in a season. When the plants are 12 inches high, the boards are set beside them and fastened in place with clamps made from a piece of heavy wire about 10 inches long, and bent to a little less than a right angle two inches from each end. Pairs of rows are selected at intervals over the field for the first blanching. In this way wagon-ways are opened and labor is saved in moving the boards from row to row. The process requires from 10 days to two weeks, according to weather conditions. When ready for market, the celery is dug with spades and stripped of outside leaves in the field. It is hauled to a shed, trimmed, washed with a hose, bunched, and scrubbed. The root is cut to a four-sided wedge and three or four stalks are tied at top and bottom into a flat bunch.

Educate Collie Pups.

The Collie pup, like the child, must be thoroughly educated. A child that is not educated is simply a back number and has no standing in the better society circles, so the Scotch Collie that is not educated up in the proper lines is little benefit to his master. The Scotch Collie is almost, if not altogether as susceptible to an education or training as the child.

GRASS RUNS FOR CHICKENS

I have had three years' experience with the system of green feeding here described and know what I am talking about. To the poultry keeper who is obliged to economize space, the green food problem is most vexatious, but Dr. George W. Little, the peasant farmer, solved the problem when he invented grass runs, writes Dr. A. H. Phelps in Orange Judd Farmer. These are frames four feet wide, 13 feet long, made with hemlock boards six inches wide, standing upon edge, the top being covered with one-inch-mesh chicken wire. Beneath this frame crimson clover, oats, wheat and rye are sown.

The wire, which is six inches above the ground, protects the young, growing plants until they pass through the wire, when the fowls begin picking off the ends of the top leaves. They cannot get at the roots or otherwise destroy the plants, which continue to grow with increasing vigor throughout the season. My experience with over 100 of these runs has proved that Lakelanders and Hamburgs ought to have four square feet of a bird, while Faverolles and other large breeds need six or seven feet each.

Of course, in estimating the surface required for a given number of fowls a great deal depends upon the luxuriance of growth of the plants. The soil must be well prepared and rich, the runs must be located so receive ample sunlight. In event of a protracted drought they must be watered with a hose, and lastly the seed must be sown thickly. The hens walk around on the top of the wire and keep the plants cut off as smoothly as would be done by a lawn mower.

Disadvantage of Gilt.

A gilt will usually farrow about as many pigs as an aged sow, but she is usually not more than half-grown and is not in proper condition to farrow, so her pigs come much smaller and she has developed no motherly instinct or milk flow; consequently it is about two weeks before her pigs get to where the aged sow's litter were when they were born.

Keep on Plowing.

While the weather is nice and the ground in good condition, get out with the team and plow and get some of the oats and corn ground broken. It will help matters along next spring.

The KITCHEN CABINET

ALL the myriad moods of mind that through our souls come thronging. Which one is so dear, so kind So beautiful as longing?

But would we reach life's greatest scope Which we are hourly wronging. Our lives must climb from hope to hope And realize our longings.

Table Don'ts.

Don't play with the silver during the meal.

Don't make a noise with the mouth while eating soup.

Don't fold the napkin when you are a guest for one meal, lay it at the left of the plate.

Don't talk about the good things you have had served you in other homes, "as comparisons are odious."

Don't talk with food in the mouth.

Don't (is it necessary to say it?) put the knife in your mouth.

Don't scrape a dish or tip it to get the last scrap.

Don't use a knife with fish; use the fork for carving it.

Don't spread large pieces of bread, laying them on the cloth. Break off a small piece, butter it and convey it to the mouth.

Do be polite and that will be kind, for the old couplet says:

Politeness is to do and say

The kindest things in the kindest way.

The really kind person will never annoy another even if the doing may be something in itself admissible.

Some people think by excusing themselves or begging pardon, gives them the latitude to do anything which in their selfishness they desire, no matter how rude it may be.

Train the children to eat all wholesome food, so that they need never embarrass you, themselves or their hosts.

This is the season when waffles send up their fragrance to the chilly air and here is the best recipe for them that cannot be equaled:

Waffles.

Take one and one-fourth cups of flour sifted with one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt. Beat two eggs, yolks and whites separately, add one-half teaspoonful of soda to one cupful of thick, sour milk, then add the beaten yolks and the flour, then three tablespoonfuls of melted butter and the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Have the waffle iron hot, grease with a buttered brush, and serve the waffles crisp and brown.

NE may live in a palace and yet not be a slave to the palace.

Our home should be as beautiful as our taste and means can make it; but, like the nest yonder, it should simply serve its purpose, leaving us the time and means to get all the good out of the world that we can.—E. P. Roe.

Meats Not Often Served.

There are several parts of the animal which few people serve that are entirely wholesome and may be prepared in a most attractive manner, viz: brains, kidneys, tripe and oxtails.

Soak in cold water, remove all the red membrane. Put them into a pint of cold water with a tablespoonful of lemon juice or vinegar. Boil ten minutes, then plunge into cold water. Serve in drawn butter sauce with lemon and parsley or chopped onion added to a rich white sauce.

Lamb's Kidneys.

Split the kidneys in halves lengthwise, trim off all the fat and sinews. Cut into small pieces. Fry one onion in two tablespoonfuls of butter, add the kidneys and cook three minutes, add one tablespoonful of flour, one gill of stock or water, a gill of currant jelly, salt and pepper to taste. Just before serving add enough powdered asafoetida to make the amount the size of a small pea. Serve at once.

Tripe is the first stomach of the ox and is considered easy of digestion. Cut it in strips two inches long by one-half inch in width, having three cupfuls. Put in a pan and set in the oven to draw out the water.

Cook one tablespoonful of finely chopped onion in two tablespoonfuls of butter until slightly browned. Add the tripe, drained, and cook five minutes. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and finely chopped parsley.

Oxtail soup is considered a great delicacy. Cut the oxtail in small pieces, wash, drain, sprinkle with salt, pepper, dredge with flour and fry in butter ten minutes. Add six cups of brown stock, one-half cupful each of carrot and turnip, cut in fancy shapes, one-half cup each of onion and celery, cut in small pieces, the vegetables are all parboiled before adding to the stock. Simmer the stock one hour before adding the vegetables, when they are soft add one-fourth of a cup of orange juice, one teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, and one teaspoonful of lemon juice.

ZELAYA TRICKS REBEL ESTRADA

UNDER TRUCE WILY PRESIDENT PLACES TROOPS ADVANTAGEOUSLY.

ESTRADA IS OUTWITTED

The Only Hope of the Insurgent General Estrada and His Followers Now Is Armed Intervention by the United States.

There has been a sudden and unpleasant realization at Bluefields of government strength and insurgent weakness. President Zelaya has outwitted Gen. Estrada, and the latter's chief hope is in American intervention.

It turns out that the conference sought by Gen. Vasquez, of the government troops, near Rama and which the insurgents had interpreted as a sign of yielding on the part of Zelaya's troops, was a blind intended to secure a delay of the expected battle until the loyal army had secured a decided advantage of position. It is also learned that while Zelaya had kept a scattered force before Rama, his real army of 3,000 men was hurrying by forced marches toward Bluefields.

The report that a descent on this city from Rama was possible only by river is now known to be untrue.

Estrada endeavored to cover his alarm by informing the correspondents at the front that all was tranquil with the prospect that Vasquez and Maj. Eva would surrender. Ten minutes after he had talked with the reporters the insurgent leader had his chief diplomatic aide, Adolfo Diaz, on the telephone, and was telling him what he believed to be the situation in truth.

To his aide he declared the Americans should send more marines ashore, as Vasquez apparently had outflanked him. Estrada also expressed the opinion that a request should be made of the United States government for protection to the 150 Diaz men in Bluefields.

Diaz rushed to United States Consul Moffat with the new intelligence, and the consul assured him that Commander Shipley's marines from the United States cruiser Des Moines, with their six rapid fire guns, would be able to control the situation here in the event that the loyal army suddenly surprised the city.

It was recalled today that Eva, one of the government envoys at yesterday's conference, was the man who surveyed the telegraph line across the country, and that none knew better the hidden places through the forests, swamps and hills.

If President Taft is determined that Zelaya shall be deposed, it is believed here that the United States forces will find active participation in the struggle necessary.

Zelaya Captives Suffer.

Five hundred persons are in prison in Nicaragua by order of President Zelaya and a reign of terror prevails. Prisoners are refused food and face starvation. The guards do not hesitate to inflict corporal punishment for slight offenses.

Zelaya caused the arrest of Emilio Estrada, brother of the rebel chief, because he would not start a demonstration against the United States. It is reported that Zelaya has entrenched 500 men in order to oppose the march of American marines into Corinto.

Geographers to Sift Cook Charges.

The National Geographical society has decided to investigate the claims of Capt. August W. Looze and George Dunkley, an insurance broker, that they furnished to Dr. Frederick A. Cook falsified observations and data to prove that he reached the North Pole. Prof. J. H. Gore, Rear Admiral Pillsbury and Dr. C. W. Hayes of the geological survey will go to New York today to begin their work. They expect to report to the society here Monday.

Holds Father While Foo Kills Him.

While his daughter Lucy held his arms behind him, so that he could not shoot, Oliver C. Ulmer was probably fatally stabbed by Benjamin Bruster at Butler, Ala.

The murder was the result of a feud. The body of Ulmer's son was found on Bruster's doorstep a week ago and he was said to have been killed because of a love affair with a daughter of the Bruster clan.

Negroes Guilty.

Conclusive evidence is said to have been secured by the military court of inquiry into the "shooting up" of Brownsville, Tex., that members of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, Negro, were within the fort, fired on the town at the time their companions were racing through the streets of the Texas town, shooting right and left.

President Taft has accepted an invitation to attend the conservation convention, to be held at Indianapolis in February.

Commander Robert E. Peary was elected president of the Explorers' club and afterward presided at the annual banquet of the club at the Hotel Astor, New York.

A reaction of the wave of prohibition which last year swept over Massachusetts, in the elections in 14 cities Tuesday, sent four of them, Fall River, New Bedford, Marlboro and Gloucester, back into the license column, while Haverhill alone, by a close vote, turned over to no license.

Influenced by the rapid growth of western business in the last few years, the Pullman company has determined to build near San Francisco a repair plant employing 800 men and capable of taking care of its entire western equipment, according to a statement made by Richmond Dean, general manager of the company.

SUFFERED TERRIBLY. How Relief from Distressing Kidney Trouble Was Found.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wolf, 388 W. Morgan St., Tipton, Mo., says: "Inflammation of the bladder reached its climax last spring and I suffered terribly. My back ached and I could hardly get around and the secretions were scanty, frequent and painful. I was tired all the time and very nervous. After taking a few boxes was cured and have been well ever since."

WANTED IT FOR HAIR WASH. No Trouble at All for Retired Singer to Account for the Carbolic Acid.

"I was on my way home one night," said the retired baritone, according to Illustrated Bits, "and the hour was late. As I turned a corner at a house spot a wild-eyed man stepped out in front of me. In his right hand he carried a pistol and in his left a gleaming knife. With a low, mocking laugh he thrust his burly form at my path, and said:

"At last I have you in my power. I have sworn to kill the first man I met after 3 a. m. You are he—shoot!" Would you rather be shot or stabbed?

"Immediately I saw I had to do with a madman. Quick thought was necessary. Right there and then my long training stood me well in hand. Taking a pint bottle of carbolic acid from my overcoat pocket, I remarked, joyfully:

"Old scout, I greet thee as a friend. Kill me if thou wilt, but first let me drink success to the crime."

"It made a hit with the bug. He grabbed the bottle and took a swallow like a stage hand. As he fell writing on the sidewalk I stepped over his body and continued on my way."

"How did you happen to have a bottle of carbolic acid with you?" asked the incredulous press agent.

"I was taking it home to put on my hair," answered the retired baritone, joyfully.

Duty Society Owes to Unfortunates. Consumption is primarily a poor man's disease. Dr. Woods Hutchison of New York City says: "Roughly speaking, the incipient tuberculosis patient can buy as many chances of fresh air and cure as he has money."

The percentage of deaths from consumption among the poor is 100 per cent, higher than among the well-to-do and the rich. Sixty-five per cent of the consumptives in the United States are too poor to provide proper means for treatment. They must either be placed in a sanitarium or a hospital where they can be cured of their disease and where they will be removed from the possibility of infecting other members of their families, or the loss resulting from neglect to care for these poor consumptives will be twice or three times as great as would be the case if they are properly housed in institutions."

The Exception. In a home where the mother is somewhat aggressive and the father good-natured and peace-loving, the child's estimate of home conditions was tersely expressed the other day. While dressing, the mother paused in the act of putting on her shoes and said: "I certainly am easy on shoes. I have worn these for four months. I don't know what you would do, John, if I were not. I am easy on everything." The little girl looked up from her dolls and remarked: "Except father."—Success.

HABITS CHAIN. Certain Habits Unconsciously Formed and Hard to Break.

An ingenious philosopher estimated that the amount of will power necessary to break a life-long habit would, if it could be transformed, lift a weight of many tons.

It sometimes requires a higher degree of heroism to break the chain of a pernicious habit than to lead a solemn hope in a bloody battle. A lady writes from an Indiana town:

"From my earliest childhood I was a lover of coffee. Before I was out of my teens I was a miserable dyspeptic, suffering terribly at times with my stomach."

"I was convinced that it was coffee that was causing the trouble and I could not deny myself a cup of breakfast. At the age of 36 I was a very poor health, indeed. My sister told me I was in danger of becoming a coffee drunkard."

"But I never could give up drinking coffee for breakfast, although it hurt me constantly ill, until I tried Postum. I learned to make it properly according to directions, and now we can hardly do without Postum for breakfast, and care nothing for coffee."

"I am no longer troubled with my peeps, do not have spells of suffering with my stomach that used to trouble me so when I drank coffee."

Look in pkgs. for the little book, "Road to Wellville." There's a Reason.

Ever read the above letter? A one appears from time to time. It is genuine, true, and full of interest.

SOUNDS LIKE A FAIRY TALE

THE FARMERS OF CENTRAL CANADA REAP WHEAT AND RICHES.

Up in the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the provinces that compose Central Canada have such a quantity of land suitable for the growth of small grains, which grow so abundantly, and yield so handsomely that no fear need be feared of a wheat famine on this Continent. The story reproduced below is only one of the hundreds of proofs that could be produced to show the results that may be obtained from cultivation of the lands in these provinces. Almost any section of the country will do as well.

With the country recently opened by the Grand Trunk Pacific, the latest of the great transcontinental lines to enter the field of the development of the Canadian West, there is afforded added ample opportunity to do as was done in the case cited below:

To buy a section of land, break it up and crop it, make $17,550 out of the yield and $10,880 out of the increase of value all within the short period of two years, was the record established by James Bailey, a well known farmer within a few miles of Regina. Mr. Bailey bought the 640 acres of land near Grand Coulee two years ago. He immediately prepared the whole section for wheat and this year has 600 acres of wheat and 40 acres of oats. The wheat yielded 19,875 bushels, and the oats yielded 4,750 bushels. The whole of the grain has been marketed and Mr. Bailey is now worth $17,550 from the grain alone. He bought the land at $18 an acre, and the other day refused an offer of $35 an acre, just a $17 advance for the time of his purchase. The land cost $11,320 in the first instance. Here are the figures of the case—Land cost, 640 acres, at $18, $11,320. Wheat yielded 19,875 bushels, at 84 cents a bushel, $16,695. Oats yielded 4,750 bushels at 28 cents a bushel, $555. Offered for land, 640 acres at $35 an acre, $22,400. Increase value of land, $10,880. Total earnings of crop, $17,550, together with increase in value of land a total of $28,540.

It is interesting to note the figures of the yield per acre. The wheat yielded 33 1/2 bushels to the acre, and oats 118 1/2 bushels to the acre. The figures are a fair indication of the average throughout the district. Agents of the Canadian Government in the different cities will be pleased to give you information as to rates, etc.

SYNOPSIS.

Richard Derring, returning from a winter in the woods to his mother's farm, is overtaken by his uncle, accompanied by his eccentric wife, coming to a visit at the farm. Aunt Jerusha, a question about Emily Hutton, supposed to be Richard's sweetheart, brings out the fact that she is to marry a merchant, Edward Derring's disappointment, and the story of his mother's hermit life, and he resolves to fit himself for college. Kinney promises to teach him Greek. Derring tells his mother his resolve, and in the study of Greek, Seth Kinney hears Richard's Greek recitation in the woods while he and Tom Bishop ply the cross-cut saw.

CHAPTER VI.

When the snow began melting from the partridge-berries the wood had been cut and hauled. Only scattered chips remained to tell the winter's work. And, although all the village knew that Richard was learning Greek, it did not know that in the woods he had learned something harder than Greek. No one but he and Seth knew that with every blow of the ax he had made a stroke at his trouble—and cut it, and sawed it, and split it, and piled it high, and sledged it to town, and sold it at so much a cord—till his heart was as sound as a drum.

And when one morning he passed Emily in her new spring array, tripping along the country road, he could lift his hat and smile at her proudly. And Emily, fingering the ribbons that fell from her throat, called him in her heart a fickle thing and rejoiced anew that she was to be Mrs. Edwards.

He was on his way to Uncle Eben's when he met her—carrying a message from his mother. He found the old man in the side garden, pottering about over the half-dried earth and warming his stiff back in the sun.

"Limp beans?" said Uncle Eben when he heard the request. "You'll have to go into the house and ask her. She hasn't given me mine yet. It's time for 'em, too. She keeps 'em locked up in the secretary—'chance as gold.'" He rose stiffly from his knees and led the way to the house.

"Aunt Jerusha was buried in the depths of the Dutch oven, a long feather duster in her hand, with which she whisked its sides. She emerged, shining and surprised.

"Well, I declare, Richard, is that you?" She readjusted her spectacles and looked at him kindly. Her skirt was pinned safely up out of harm's way and her sleeves were rolled above the elbow. A sunbonnet protected her head. She beamed out of its depths.

"Want some of the Limas, do you, for plantin'? Well, I don't know how many we'll have. I haven't got 'em down for pa yet." She glanced at him suspiciously.

He shifted from one foot to the other. It might have been hope or it might have been impatience.

Aunt Jerusha's look changed to affection. "He wants some, dreadful," she confided to Richard, "but it ain't time yet."

She crossed the room and took from a high nail by the shelf a key. "You can come right in," she said proudly. "Never mind your feet. Women were made to sweep up dirt. I've got to clean here next week anyway."

The room was speckled. Not a trace of dust rested on any object, thought Aunt Jerusha gave an ostentatious puff to the plush album as she lifted it. She opened it with a little gesture of pride. It was half filled with pictures, and in the hole left vacant in the other half reposed a key. "I keep it in here," she whispered. "He wouldn't ever think of looking in there." She chuckled softly as she drew it out. She snapped the heavy clasps safely and returned the album to the table.

"I thought I might well show you." She stood in the dim light, watching him mysteriously out of her sunbonnet. "If anything should happen to me, somebody'd have to know, and he wouldn't have no more care 'an a child." She directed her nod towards the kitchen.

Uncle Eben looked up hopefully as they returned, the key to the secretary borne in Aunt Jerusha's palm. Mounting a chair in front of the high secretary she inserted the key in the lock. The doors swung open. Uncle Eben feasted his eyes. There were packages of seeds and velvet bonnets and a string of gold beads and a high shell comb. She touched a package of papers that lay at the left. "That's my will," she said significantly to Richard. "I've left everything to him."

A glow of appreciation overspread Uncle Eben's face. "Why, Jerusha," his boot-heels came down with a clatter to the floor—"why, Jerusha—" "Not a word!" she said sternly, turning on him. "I don't want to hear a word."

She turned back to the open space and searched among the packages. "Here they be," she gave a fat sigh and descended from the chair, closing the mysterious doors. She emptied the package in her lap, Uncle Eben eyeing it enviously from afar.

"I shall divide even," she said with a calm air—"just even." She counted out the beans, one by one, each in its separate pile, and handed one of the piles to Richard. "There. Tell your mother I divided equal."

"I'll tell her," said Richard, stowing away the bag in his pocket. He knew better than to hurt Aunt Jerusha's feelings by refusing any proffered favor.

She sat leaning comfortably back in her chair, looking at him. "They say you're learning Greek, Richard," she said at last, rocking a little.

Uncle Eben tipped eagerly forward in his chair.

She ignored him. "Are ye?" "Yes, ma'am."

"And you're going to college?" "Yes, ma'am."

"How's Amanda Derring going to pay for it?" she asked severely.

"I'm going to pay my own way." She nodded slowly. "I thought like enough. But you can't do it."

"I'm going to."

"The Lord helps them that help themselves," she said solemnly, "and I and the Lord do the same."

She rose majestically and opened the secretary doors once more. She took down a broken-nosed teapot and extracted a roll of bills, holding it out to him. "There's $100," she said slowly.

Richard struggled to his feet. His face was red and his throat dry. The words came with rasping hoarseness. Then the swing of the rhythm caught him. His voice opened and deepened and he was off on the lines. The silence of the woods was about him, and the sound of the cross-cut saw rose upon it. He swayed to its tune, the words rolling out—rising and falling to a kind of heavy chant. The professor on the platform started a little. He pushed his spectacles high on his forehead and rubbed his great nose. The wrinkles smoothed from his brow and the peace of days settled upon his face. The boy on the back seat nudged his neighbor. "Farmer's getting there," he whispered.

"H-h-h!" growled the professor. Richard came to a stop, looking up blinking. He had forgotten the class and the professor. He and Tom had been swaying back and forth to the sound of the cross-cut saw, chanting the deep, monotonous sounds.

The professor beamed on him. A faint, half-scared cheer went up from the class. The spectacles descended and glared at them. "Time to cheer when you are out of the woods," he said. "Next."

The next youth rose and blundered on. The howl went away and the class escaped, but bruised and sore.

The professor detained Richard by a gesture. "Where did you fit?" he asked brusquely.

"At home."

"Where?"

"In Ashton."

"Massachusetts?"

"Yes."

"There's no school there."

"No, sir. I studied by myself and with an old man."

"Umph!" The spectacles regarded him.

"And did he read Greek the way you do?"

The boy's face reddened. "Not exactly. We did it that way, sawing logs—I got into the swing of it and forgot."

away from home that had upset him. She was not worth a thought. He gathered himself for a fresh start and wrote rapidly.

"Farmer's getting rattled," whispered the boy on the back seat.

Richard made another mental note and plunged on.

"Time." It was the voice of the assistant.

Richard dropped his pen and gathered up his scattered notes, running his eyes hastily over them. They were enough to flunk him. He could see that at a glance. He handed them in with sullen face.

"In half an hour the oral examination will be held in this room," announced the assistant in a stereotyped voice.

The boys plunged into the open. Richard sought out the boy of the back seat and saved his wounded feelings by hand-to-hand measures.

"You've got muscle," he said enviously.

Two upper-classesmen, passing, had stopped for a moment to watch the contest. "He'll have a try for the team," said one.

"It's the shoulders that count."

"Partly—and muscle."

"And grit. Did you see his face? Looked as if he was chewing iron."

Richard and the boy shook hands and went back to the classroom. The professor was on the platform. He had mild brown hair and a large nose, surmounted by spectacles. He glared through them at the hapless youth. He had a sensitive ear for Greek accents and the entrance examinations were on it. The assistant had been showing him the written work. It was very poor. His face was prepared for the worst. The oral examination would consist of reading in the original Greek.

The boys subsided beneath his glare and there was ominous silence.

"Next," growled the professor. He surveyed Richard—his heavy shoulders and big hands—and groaned inwardly. He resigned himself to his fate.

GOOD WORK IS LOVED WORK

And Therein One Should Find the Contentment That is Chief Part of Life.

If a man doesn't love his work, he had better get something else to do. But the trouble is that such people will hardly love any kind of work. The trouble is in them. They lack intelligence. If they knew enough to know good work, they would soon learn to love it. The manual-training scheme has this in view—to surround the job a man is doing with such intelligence and taste as will make it attractive to him.

The man who is in love with his job gets more contentment out of life than any other," says Brander Matthews; and he gets a great part of his contentment in doing his work right. No man can love his work who shirks. No man can be contented who is dishonest about his work. This is shirking or doing it negligently. So these things always go together—honest work, contentment and love of the job.

NOT HAVING ANY.

Safe Place for the Author. "In a small town where the audience calls for the author of the piece to come before the curtain, he always feels better if the curtain has a lot of local advertisements on it," said the manager.

"Why so?" asked his friend.

"Why, the people in the audience are not going to throw eggs and take a chance on spilling their own advertisements, are they?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Every Little Bit Helps. The lecturer raised his voice with emphatic confidence. "I venture to assert," he said, "that there isn't a man in this audience who has ever done anything to prevent the destruction of our forests."

A modest-looking man in the back of the hall stood up.

"I—er—I've shot woodpeckers," he said.—Everybody's Magazine.

Now and Then. He is a capitalist now in an Ohio town, but he was not always thus. He has progressed along various lines, and one mark of his progress is the open-back shirt, a comparatively modern invention. To this he is yet new, and recently commented upon it to a friend who was in his room while he was dressing.

"Look at me," he said, sticking his head through his shirt. "When I came to this town I hadn't a shirt to my back, and now—now, I haven't a back to my shirt."
