Taft to Visit Jackson.

Secretary Charles E. Wheeler, of the Jackson chamber of commerce has returned from Washington with the assurance of President Taft that he will visit Jackson on the occasion of the dedication of the monument marking the place of organization of the republican party.

If Mr. Wheeler's plans work ont, Jackson will have one of the biggest days in its history. His idea is first to the exact spot of the "Under the Oaks" meeting. This spot has been ocated in the rear of property owned by John H. McQuillan, at 407 west Franklin. The place where the platform was erected is now covered by a barn. Mr. Wheeler has estimated that the property can be bought for

Did You See the Comet?

It has been present in the western sky for the past week, but has been visible but a few times on account of the clouds. The best view of it was to be had Saturday evening. Everything possible has been done at the observatory of the university of Michigan to determine data for the strange comet and Prof. Hussey has been figuring out the most intricate calculations. He has found the right ascension of the comet to be 24 hours 13 minutes, and its declination negative 4 degrees and 42 minutes. Owing to the brightness of the sky at the time of the comet's appearance it has been impossible as yet to determine the orbit accurately. It is moving in a parabola approximately 60,000,000 miles from the earth and 38,000,000 from the sun.

SURELY SHOULD HAVE KNOWN Senator Pettus, at the Age of 85, B lieved He Had Attained Years of Discretion.

Senator James B. Frazier of Tennessee tells a story of the delight which the late Senator Pettus of Alabama took in a card game. Senator Frazier, when governor of Tennessee, had gone to Hot Springs, Ark. There he met Senator Pettus, and, knowing him well, determined to warn him that three men with whom he had been playing cards were sharpers from Nashville. After hesitating some time he approached the aged senator, and after engaging him in conversation apologized for warning Senator. Pettus that his card partners were crooked.

"You don't say!" smiled Senator Pettus. "Do you know I suspected

"Well, I advise you not to play with them any more," said Senator Frazier. "But there's nobody else here to play with," querulously returned the aged senator.

Older senators repeat an anecdote of Senator Pettus in which he is represented as returning home after a night at cards just as the morning light was breaking. He was at the time of the story 85 years old, and Mrs. Pettus was but little younger. They never addressed each other except as "Mr. Pettus" and "Mrs. Pettus.

"Mr. Pettus," said Mrs. Pettus sternly, rising up in bed, "do you think it is good for your health to stay out as late as this at night?"

"Mrs. Pettus." returned her husband, "don't you think I am old enough to know what is good for me?"

Appeal to a Thief.

The other evening M. Alfred Edwards lost a pocketbook containing a sum of £444 as he was leaving the theater. This morning a letter from him appears in the Figaro addressed to the presumed thief, who must be a most ungentlemanly one indeed if he does not answer it at once. The letter says:

"In leaving the Antoine theater last night after the 'Papillon' had been given some very deft hand abstraced my pocketbook, containing ten bank notes of 1,000 francs each and 12 others of 100 francs, with some photographs and papers that are important to me. If the person who has appropriated my property is so well inspired as to read the Figaro I beg him to send me back the pocketbook and the papers, which are of no use to him. To hope that he would also and the charges paid by vessels for send back the bank notes in exchange for a good reward would be exceeding the limits of optimism, and I do not dare to expect it. But my papers-what use can they be to him?"-Paris Correspondence London Telegraph.

Homage to Noah.

In a lecture before the Royal Geographical society Capt. Bertram Dickson said there is a large sanctuary at the top of Jebel Judi, where every year in August is held a great fete attended by thousands of energetic Moslems, Christians and Yezidis, "who climb the steepest of trails for 7,000 feet, in the terrific summer heat, to do homage to Noah. This mountain seems to have been held sacred at all times, and certainly it has a wonderfully awesome fascination about it, with its huge precipices and jagged at Main and Gorham streets for two crags watching over the vast Mesopotamian plain. The local villagers can show one the exact spot where Noah descended, while in one village, Hassana, they showed his grave, and the vineyard where he is reputed to have indulged over-freely in the juice of the grape." The owner of this declared that the vines had been passed from father to son ever since.-London Evening Standard.

Origin of Life.

Nothing new is to be reported under this head. The status of the ancient problem remains the same. The whence and what of life remain the same impenetrable mystery. Where life comes from and what it is after it comes no man can tell. This much. however, seems to be generally accepted, that life can come only from life. Huxley declared, just before his departure, that the idea of creating life from nonvital matter was the dream of a fool, and nothing that has happened since Huxley's death has served to disprove the soundness of his state-

The Chelsea Standard HOUSE WRECKEP;

BRICK RESIDENCE DEMOLISHED BY EXPLOSION OF ACETY. LENE GAS PLANT.

MAN BURIED IN RUINS.

Wife, Two Bables and Sister Flee; All Injured and One Little One Dies; Other One is Not Expected to Live.

An explosion wrecked the brick residence of Scott Parker, one mile north of Moscow, a village on a Lake Shore branch in the extreme northern end of Hillsdale county, killing Parker and one of his children and injuring his wife and child, also an aunt of the children who lived with the family. Three other children of the family were out of the house. The dead body of Parker was dug out of the ruins. The second injured child is believed to be dying. From reports that are coming in from the excited farmers of that vicinity it appears that Parker went down ce'lar shortly after the three older children had left home for school

"He went down there to fill the tank of the acetylene gas plant," is what Mrs. Parker says:

The acetylene plant evidently exploded. Mrs. Parker, the children, Louise, aged 6, and Nellie, 3, and the aunt, Parker's sister, were in the living room when there was a loud report in the cellar, the house floor heaved up, and then the walls began to fall in on them. The two women grabbed each a child and scrambled across the caving floor to an outer door and escaped, just as the avalanche of bricks descended on them. It was their prompt flight that saved their lives. As it was, Mrs. Parker suffered a broken leg and cuts on the head, and both of the children had both arms and legs broken. Nellie died. The aunt received lesser infuries. Nearby neighbors heard the explosion and the news spread with the rapidity of a message conveyed by the wireless telegraph. In a brief interval there was a crowd at the scene of the wreck. It was a wreck, for the entire brick house had tumbled in ruins into the cellar.

Big Year in Iron and Steel.

The tremendous activity that is expected in the movement of Lake Superior iron ores is indicated by the announcement that the steel corporation has chartered vessels to move 15,000,000 tons, while it will move about 12,000,000 tons in its own vessels, this making the immense tonnage of 27,000,000 tons for the leading interest. It is confidently expected that independent interests 23,000,000 tons, making a grand total of 50,000,000 tons. Ore freight rates have been advanced five cents per ton. unloading have been reduced five cents per ton, so that on a basis of a er than under the schedule of last year of ore freights in unloading

Jackson "Black Hander."

That he was threatened on peril of his life to secure $10,000 and leave it parties in Chicago is the story told by Ray Horseman, the $8-a-week dry goods clerk, who has confessed that he tried to extort an equal sum from C C. Bloomfield, of Jackson, by means of a "black hand" letter.

Young Horseman admits everything in connection with the case, but he dec'ares that he was the victim of Chicago black-handers and that he concocted the extortion of Mr. Bloomfield as a method of procuring the money. The letters he received, he says, he has torn up. The police are inclined to doubt his story, inasmuch as other evidence in the case tends to show that he was alone in the plot. It is barely possible that Ray got mixed up with a gang of blackmailers during his visits to Chicago.

STATE BRIEFS.

The state industrial commission recently appointed by Gov. Warner will meet in Saginaw Feb. 5.

The criminal calendar at Marshall for February contains 40 cases, of which 29 are for violations of the local option law.

City Attorney McBride has served a notice on D. U. R. officials that all street cars passing through Flint must be heated.

The board of health is preparing to make an investigation of the milk supply in Port Huron. They claim that it is being watered.

Congressman Gardner has notified Charles O. Ball that he will be ap pointed postmaster at Marshall, to succeed S. R. Allen, who has held the office continuously for 12 years. Struck on the head with an ax and robbed of $146, aged Taylor Hunt, of

It is believed at Marquette that the explosion of dynamite which cost the life of one miner and seriously injured four others, and destroyed the "dry house" at the Carey mine recently, was the result of a plot, though the motive for such a crime is a mystery, as the men are working on a friendly agreement with the company Investigation shows that the explosive was placed at five different places under the building.

The Bellevue council, through President Brockett, has started suit against three of the aldermen to show cause why they have not attended recent council meetings. Some time ago a proposition concerning lighting came up and the council became divided. Since that time the men have never attended, although they have handed in their resignations, which could not be accepted without a full board.

New Industrial Commission Visits Ionia Reformatory.

MANAGEMENT COMPLIMENTED

Commission Takes No Formal Action, but General Conditions and Especially the Ventilating System Were Found to be Satisfactory.

Gov. Warner and the members of the Michigan industrial commission created by the last legislature to investigate conditions of Michigan prisons and prisons of other states relative to submitting a report to the legislature of 1911, inspected the reform atory at Ionia, the plant of the Ypsilanti Reed Furniture Company and conditions generally at the institution. The members of the commission are Judge Adams, Kalamazoo, of the Jackson board; E. S. Anthony, Negaunee, of the Marquette board, and Leonard Freeman, Fenton, of the Ionis board of control

The commision took no formal action, but on its way through complimented the prison and Reed furniture management on the general conditions and the thorough ventilation.

The Reed factory blowing system, which clears the factory of dust, also came in for special commendation; and the Ionia prison plan of working the men from bell to bell seemed to give satisfaction as compared with the systems of some other prisons, where men are required to perform a stated task only, after which, if they have time left, they use is as they de

In 1857 he served in the legislature from that county and in 1862 he served one term as a representative from Ingham county. In 1865 he was elected by the Republicans of this city as mayor, and later represented the first ward as an alderman.

State Conscience Fund Gets $9.35. Auditor Gene al Fuller has found an honest man. He has received a check for $9.35 from a justice of the peace at Port Huron who acted as coroner and presented a bill for jury fees in a certain case in which it was afterward found that there was no jury.

His honesty prevented him from accepting the cash and he accordingly made out a check to the auditor general for the amount, but neglected to indorse it, and it will be necessary for the state to expend two cents in postage in order to collect the amount. Before the auditor general approves the bills they have to be signed by the circuit' judge, and the first requisition was properly signed and was paid without question by the auditor general.

Board Refuses Papers.

Through the action of the state vet erinary board in refusing A. P. Hart of Battle Creek registration papers, it is expected the Grand Rapids veterinary college and that state authorities will be precipitated into a legal controversy.

Hart graduated from the local school in March, 1909. All of those gradduating in this class filed applica tions for registration and Hart was the first member investigated by the board. Joes Not Apply in Michigan.

Officers in the secretary of state's partment are much interested in the pinion filed by the United States supreme court in the case of the Western Union Telegraph Company vs. the State of Kansas, in which the court held invalid the act passed by the Kansas legislature requiring foreign corporations to pay charter fees for doing business in that state. The department is at present endeavoring to collect a charter fee from the telegraph company and force it to file an annual report, but the company denies the state's rights to collect the fees, although about $300 has been deposited with the department as an evidence of good faith. In the opinion of the department, the Kansas case does not apply to the charter laws of Michigan, as Kansas was attempting to collect a fee based on the entire capital stock and business of the company, while Michigan only asked the fee on the business of such companies within the state, and at that, the amount is a nominal one, more in the sense of a regulatory fee than anything else, it is stated.

No More Bonds from Them.

Attorney General Bird, Auditor Gen eral Fuller and State Treasurer Sleeper announced that the state will not in the future accept any bonds furnished by the four surety companies against which the state has suits pending relative to their responsibility for the funds entrusted by the state to the Chelsea bank at the time of its becoming insolvent following the failure of ex-State Treasurer Glazier.

"We perhaps should not attempt to bar the companies from doing business in this state, but the question of accepting bonds from the companies with which the state is at war legally is a matter of official discrimination. Certainly in private business no one would take a bond from a company from which he was trying to collect on another bond, and the state is simply observing that practice."

Hard Winter Kills Quail.

When the last legislature enacted law prohibiting the killing of quail until 1914 the lawmakers evidently forgot to provide any protection against the elements, and as a result of the heavy snow and cold weather thousands of the birds have been killed in the past two months. Game Warden Pierce is receiving reports every day from various parts of the state showing that the birds are dying in large numbers. Partridges, being a hardier bird, and being able to secure enough to eat while the ground is covered with snow, manage to subsist. Pierce says that many farmers are scattering grain near their barns and the quail are being fed in this manner in some districts. A few winters like the present one and the quail in this state would be exterminated.

Deaf School Barn to be Rebuilt.

State Treasurer Sleeper has sent word to Flint that the state board of auditors will immediately appropriate a sufficient sum of money for the reconstruction of the barn at the Michigan School for the Deaf, bur ed one night recently. The state carries no insurance on its buildings, but the board of auditors has the power to provide money for the immediate building of structures destroyed by fire or other means. The barn cost $60,000.

Insurance for Grangers.

The committee of the state grange directed to plan a life insurance system for that order has almost completed its work and will report to the executive committee this week. The scheme is for current assessment insurance, operated by the officers of the grange and furnishing not less than $250 insurance, nor more than $2,000, with all members between the ages of 14 and 55 years eligible.

From Coast to Coast Organizations of All Kinds Decide to Boycott Mest.

From the agitation started by The Detroit Free Press in regard to the greatly increased cost of living in America, the inquiry into the causes of this condition has spread through-out the United States and Canada. The resultant food strike, started in Cleveland, has assumed nation-wide proportions.

After a series of articles which attracted universal attention the people of the state awakened to the fact that a new economic problem confronted them, other newspapers in the United States took the matter up, setting on foot an agitation that has not been paralleled in recent newspaper history. The efforts of the several newspapers brought about the determination by the legislature of Ohio to investigate the cost of living in that state, which is shortly to be accomplished by a committee appointed especially for that purpose; and the simultaneous beginning of an inquiry by the associated boards of commerce of the state of New York.

There are also two federal investigations under way: Congress at Washington has undertaken a national probe of the momentous question, and in the Canadian parliament at Ottawa an act has been introduced proposing to expedite the prosecutions of combinations under suspicion of unduly enhancing the price of necessary foodstuffs

The strike against the eating of meat arose from a joking remark in the lunch-room of a large Cleveland factory. Now this meat strike has all Ohio in its grasp and is affecting chief cities in all parts of the country.

Dispatches from Baltimore, Kansas City, Omaha, Memphis, Pittsburg and other cities told of the rapid growth of the meat fast. Cleveland now has 100,000 names enrolled, while Kansas City reports 80,000

Why does Great Britain buy Its oatmeal of us?

Certainly it seems like carrying coals to Newcastle to speak of exporting oatmeal to Scotland and yet, every year the Quaker Oats Company sends hundreds of thousands of cases of Quaker Oats to Great Britain and Europe.

The reason is simple; while the English and Scotch have for centuries eaten oatmeal in quantities and with a regularity that has made them the most rugged physically, and active mentally of all people, the American has been eating oatmeal and trying all the time to improve the methods of manufacture so that he might get that desirable foreign trade.

How well he has succeeded would be seen at a glance at the export reports of Quaker Oats. This brand is recognized as without a rival in cleanliness and delicious flavor.

"Pull me in!" he shouted. The men who were bailing out the rope paid no heed to his demand. Higher and higher went the balloon. Wilder and wilder grew the colonel. Finally, almost standing on his head as he tried to keep a precarious balance, he gave a final cry of exasperated panic: "Pull me in, I tell you, or I'll cut the rope!"

Even his power, though he represents in theory an absolute monarchy, is yet in practice, limited by several advising boards, composed of the grand council, the government council, the board of censors and many viceroys, who all have a voice in the settlement of affairs The three-year-old emperor who holds in his hands the lives and fortunes of over tour hundred and fifty millions, is of course, yet in the nursery with his toys, but already a scheme of education upon broad western lines is being planned for him in order to fit him for his position on the throne. Progress is capable of doing strange things in China, and by the time he ascends to the throne, his country may be one for western nations to cope with in the field of industry, or of milltary supremacy in the east. Already China is making vast strides, and assimilating ideas in every branch of civilization, which cannot but threaten with the passage of years, to put her neighbor, Japan, in the shade. It is to be hoped that the emperor, when he does come to occupy that position, which has proved so often ill-fated to many of his ancestors of the Ja Ching or "Great Pure" dynasty, of which he is the sixteenth in the canonized series; may exert all the influence at his command in the interests of peace.

It is no wonder that with the example before him of his father, who was removed from the throne after a brief and troubled reign of two years, that he wept bitterly when the news of his succession was brought to him in the Russian legation, for he was extremely fond of his father, and could not understand why he was not allowed to go to him. It was only after his vizier had scolded him harshly that he dried his tears and prepared to accept the honor which had been done him. Now he is practically a prisoner in his own palace, in the enervating atmosphere of the women's apartments, where his education is being carried on in a way contrary to the wishes of the national reform party, who brought about his sudden change from the position of a spoiled child

The area over which he rules, including the islands of Azores, covers a total of 35,490 square miles and his people number five and a half millions. Though Manuel ascended the throne at a time when there was nothing but the murmur of anarchy in his ears and his thoughts were assailed by sad recollections, he has come through the events which succeeded his accession with an equanimity and diplomatic grasp of the situation which does infinite credit to him and his training.

As it is the duty of a king to his people to marry, he has lately been going a-wooing in England, but there has been a distinct hesitancy on the part of his princesses to share his fortunes, which may or may not, as time will show, be checkered with misfortune, if not with tragedy, and he left England with nothing decided. The dynasty of Uganda, of which Daudi Chua is the thirty-seventh representative, in its earlier origin was a king to the inhabitants of Egypt, though as intermarriage took place with the native race who have always inhabited the kingdom the present representative is in appearance negro with a slightly paler skin than the average and large, clear eyes. That there is good ground for the belief in Egyptian origin is proved by the fact that a certain portion of his people in feature (though with curly hair) and in their traditions have much in common with the Egyptians. The Kabaka lives in Mengo, a straggling city of about 80,000 inhabitants, built like Rome on seven hills, most of them of great steepness, round which are marshy tracts. The quarter inhabited by the king and his court and the people of higher degree is clean and picturesque, surrounded by trees and gardens, while a cathedral opened a few years ago helps to give it the appearance of a capital city, which it will probably resemble more and more as the improvements now in progress are carried out. The protectorate administration is carried on at Entebbe, which is renowned for its beauty, surrounded by lofty incense trees, which have always a load of chattery parrots and monkeys in search of the plums they bear at certain seasons of the year.

The boy Kabaka, though his kingdom is the smallest of the four, is probably most to be envied, for his position is free from the many cares which will assuredly beset the emperor of China and the shah of Persia in later years.

AND A NEW SCHOOL EVERY SCHOOL DAY.

The above caption about represents the growth of Central Canada. The statement was made not long since by a railroad man who claimed to have made the remarkable discovery that such was the case. There is not a district of a fair amount of settlement in any of the three Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, but has its school, and the railways have stations every seven or eight miles apart, around which group the towns, some large and some small, but each important to its own district. Schools are largely maintained by public funds and the expense of tuition is but a nominal sum.

The final returns of the grain production for Central Canada for 1909 is now in, and the figures show that the value of the crops to the farmers of that country is about 195 million dollars, as compared with 120 million last year. American farmers or those who have gone from the United States, will participate largely in these splendid returns, and these comprise those who have gone from nearly every State in

One of the many proofs that might be put forward showing the immense wealth that comes to the farmers of Central Canada is seen in the sum that has been spent during the past two or three months by the farmers who have for the time being ceased worrying over the reaper and the thresher, and are taking to enjoying themselves for two or three months. It is said that fifty thousand people of these Western Provinces spent the holiday season visiting their old homes. Most of these passengers paid forty and some forty-five dollars for the round trip. Some went to Great Britain, some to the Continent, others to their old homes in Eastern Canada, and many thousands went to visit their friends in the States. The amount paid alone in transportation would be upward of two million dollars. Some make the trip every years. Sleep is out of the question and you feel as if a million mosquitoes were German commercial invasion of Per. attacking you at the same time. I knew a dozen families that were so affected. "The doctors did their best, but their remedies were of no avail whatever. Then the families tried a druggist who was noted far and wide for his remarkable cures. People came to him from all parts of the country for treatment, but his medicine made matters still worse, as a last resort they were advised by a friend to use the Cuticura Remedies. I am glad to tell you that after a few days' treatment with Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent, the effect was wonderful and the result was a perfect cure in all cases.

CHELSEA ELEVATOR COMPANY

The Banker's Attitude.

The men who organize banks do not have selfish motives. Besides being a business proposition whereby a rate of interest is earned on the money invested in the banking business-a rate consistent with safety—the bank is a public institution.

The banker's aim is to help his customers financially, to give each better facilities with which he may carry on business, to furnish a system that insures safety for business transactions, to render assistance to men in giving them credit for doing business.

The experience and position of the banker enables him to judge a man's problems accurately and give him practical advice on financial matters.

The banker welcomes new business, he appreciates the business from his patrons and seeks the opportunity to help those who come to him for advice. He can diagnose a financial case and administer relief as well as the doctor in his line. He is in touch with business conditions, he knows the causes and remedies for business ailments, he can tell you how to regulate your business pulse and bring it up to normal.

The banker's remedies and methods are not experiments, they have been administered to others and proven successful.

Bring your business case to this bank for relief.

BROKEN RAIL THROWS CANADIAN PACIFIC TRAIN INTO SPANISH RIVER NEAR SUDBURY, ONT.

PASSENGERS' DEATH TRAP

Three Loaded Coaches are Submerged in River-Conductor Reynold Heroically Rescues Eight Through Roof of Dining Car.

Death in all its most terrible forms blotted out the lives of at least two score people when four cars of a Canadian Pacific passenger train on the Soo branch leaped from the tracks near Sudbury, Ont., and went tearing down a steep embankment plunging through the ice-covered surface of the Spanish river. Some were drowned, others were crushed to death in grinding timbers. Most terrible of all, maimed and injured, caught in the wreckage of one of the cars, were burned to death. The exact number of dead and injured was still unknown, but according to stories told by injured passengers brought to Sudbury it was one of the worst catastrophes in the history of Canadian rai roads. The train wrecked was known as No. 7, en route from Montreal to Sault Ste. Marie and Minneapolis. An official statement given out says that it probably was due to a broken rail.

Front Cars Stay on Track.

The engine, baggage, express, mail and one second class car remained on the rails, while one second class, one first class, a dining car and a sleeper went down the embankment. The first class car and diner went into the river. The sleeper and second class car stopped on the embankment. the second c'ass car catching fire. The wreck occurred about 37 miles west of Sudbury, where the tracks cut into the side of a steep hill which is skirted by the river. The forward part of the train passed over the break, whatever it was, in safety. The the end of the train, was the first to eave the rails. The train was running at the rate of about 40 miles an hour and the momentum carried the car down the hill in a terrific plunge. About 25 passengers were in this car, and it is practically certain that none escaped. Only the Roof Above Water.

Two minutes after the first crash, only the roof of the day coach showed above the flowing ice in the river. The second class car, the next in the train, smashed against the end of a culvert and was crushed to splinters. Some of the passengers were killed outright, but others caught in the before they could be rescued.

Uninjured passengers and trainmen immediately turned their attention to the rescue of passengers imperiled by the fire. The telegraph lines were all torn down and it was evident that relief could not be summoned by wire. It was five miles to the village of Nairn, and a drenched survivor ran the distance to deliver a report of the wreck at the Canadian Pacific depot.

Meanwhile Conductor Thomas Reynolds was proving himself a hero in rescuing eight passengers from the sunken dining car. When the wreck occurred, Reynolds, with W. J. Bell and David Brodie, had just sat down for an early dinner, Bell and Brodie facing the engine and Reynolds sitting opposite them and riding backwards. The diner was the last car to enter the water and did not sink at once, but settled slowly, while the passengers climbed upon the tables to keep their heads above the rising waters. With several passengers standing in water to their chins, the situation was desperate. Then it was that Conductor Reynolds made a dive to reach a window. broke the glass and succeeded in rising to the surface of the river, outside the car. Happily, he reached the surface where a hole in the ice enabled him to gain a solid footing by resting one arm on the roof of the car and the other on the ice. Some Taken Through Roof.

Gaining the roof of the car, he broke fan light with his fist and rescued little Alfonso Rousel, of Sault Ste. Marie. After the little boy came D. M. Brodie, of Sudbury, who was small enough to pass through the fan light. Six more passengers who were too big to be rescued in this manner, were taken out through a hole broken in the roof of the car.

"I never heard such terrible cries as when those cars went over the bank: I shall never forget it as long as I live," said Conductor Reynolds. 'I put the ki'led at between 40 and 50. The first coach carried about 35 or 40 passengers, and of this number only

Gangs of wreckers to the number of 100 were immediately sent to the scene of the horrible disaster.

SYNOPSIS.

Richard Derring, returning from a winter in the woods to his mother's farm home, is overtaken by his uncle, accompanied by his eccentric wife, coming to pay a visit at the farm. Aunt Jerusha's questions about Emily Hutton, supposed to be Derring's sweetheart, reveal the fact that she is to marry another. Disappointment stimulates Derring's ambition, and under the advice of Seth Kinney, a hermit of the woods, he resolves to fit himself for college. Kinney teaches him Greek and he passes his entrance examinations triumphantly, winning the approval of the professor. Four years in college obliterates the memory of Emily. Derring begins journalistic work in Chicago, where he meets Helen Gordon, an artist. Derring is promoted to art critic on his paper. Helen refuses to marry him and hamper both their careers, but they enter into a companionship compact. Helen suffers ill effects from sketching on the lake shore in January. Illness brings her into closer relationship with Richard. Derring is called home by the illness of Seth Kinney.

Throughout the journey the thought stayed with him; and when, once or twice, he felt the dread of danger near, he even rejoiced that distance could not mar the closeness of love. The longing for her safety that stole from his heart would, in another man, have been a prayer.

CHAPTER XV.

Derring found Seth watching for his coming, and saw at a glance that he was very ill. Even a less practiced eye could not have mistaken the signs. The hands that lay outside the faded patchwork cover were yellow and wrinkled; the veins stood out, a network of cords, across the backs. They were the hands of an old man. Richard noted their feebleness as they closed eagerly around his own strong, firm fingers. Seth seemed to him to have aged 20 years since he saw him

"I am glad you have come, Dick,. I when you come to die," he rambled on. "Yours won't be a failure, Dick. And I helped to make it. I thought perhaps I should die easier if I could look at you again and see something that I had helped to do in the world."

After this first greeting he said no more of the comfort of Richard's presence. But it was evident in the glance of his eyes as they followed the young man about the room and in his restlessness when Richard was absent for Richard saw that his place was here quietly made arrangements to stay for an indefinite time. He established himself as caretaker and nurse. Young as he was, his experience of life had been deep enough for him to underpresence did for Seth.

And Richard, understanding by a subtle sympathy what it meant to him, gave a minute account of the office and the men, the hurry and rush of by a subtle intuition, that a guest the city, and the haste and true hospitality of the social life.

A stranger looking into the room would not have guessed that it was soon to be the chamber of death. Laughter often interrupted the recital. Richard had often fancied that when he came to die he should not want the humor of life taken from him. And the account of his Chicago life was not dehumorized for a dying man. Seth, listening, seemed to gain a quiet strength of soul as his physical strength failed.

The story of Helen and his love for her was too closely interwoven with the life of the year to be omitted, even had Richard cared to do so. One day when they had been talking of her he asked Richard to open a leather trunk that stood at the foot of the bed and hand him a box that he would find there.

As he lifted the lid of the trunk the young man knew that he was looking into the grave of Seth's love. It was if illed with letters and old-fashioned trifles, evidently keep-sakes. A long-wristed glove and a riding whip lay t across the top of a small box. Careful-

Torst to a Bride. This is a charming sentiment to send to a bride on her wedding day, or may be given as a toast if the right opportunity offers. There have been numerous requests for a verse of this kind, and after careful rearching I think is the best of all the ones I have looked over lately:

TO A BRIDE. All earthly good I wish thee, All good for thee and thine; And still not only earthly But all that is divine.

May earth and heaven mingle, May earth and heaven be one, All through your earthly journey, Till sets your earthly sun.

In sighing and in song,
May heaven bless your union. Throughout your whole life long.

Pilocarpine, although not a coloring matter or dye, is an ingredient well established for its power to restore natural color to human hair. Borax, because of its well-defined softening and cleansing properties, is most useful in the treatment of scalp and hair diseases. Glycerine acts as a stimulant to the hair bulbs, and has a soothing, healing and nourishing influence. Alcohol is indispensable in medicine because of its antiseptic, stimulating and preservative qualities.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is chiefly composed of these ingredients, which are compounded in a peculiar form, and we believe it is the most effective remedy known to medical science for scalp and hair troubles generally. We personally guarantee it to eradicate dandruff and scalp irritation and to grow hair, even though the scalp in spots is bare of hair, providing of course there is life and vitality remaining in the hair roots.

We want every one troubled with scalp disease, dandruff or loss of hair to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. If it does not remove dandruff and promote a growth of hair to the satisfaction of the user, we will without question or quibble return every cent paid us for it. This guarantee is printed on every package. It has effected most satisfactory results in 93 out of 100 cases where put to a practical test.
