State Gets $10,000 More.

Early Friday morning a representative of the Federal Union & Surety company, of Indianapolis, paid into the state treasury $10,000 as the initial payment in an indebtedness of $57,500 on the bond of ex-State Treasurer Frank P. Glazier, This amount added to what has been received by Treasurer Sleeper within the past two weeks leaves a deficit of $247,000. The outlook is favorable, it is said, for payment in full of the indebtedness incurred in the Glazier

Gives $500 to Church.

The will of the late Warren Cushman provides that the Chelsea Methodist church shall receive the sum of $500, the money to be paid to the trustees of the church within one year from the death of the widow, Mrs. Helen Cushman. It is estimated that the real estate left by Cushman is worth $6,000 and the personal property $1,000. Ora Wheelock, wife of Russell J. Wheelock of Lima, is a beneficiary under the provisions of the will, and is to receive the east half of the southwest quarter of section 9. The remainder of the property is to go to the widow, and at her death the property is to pass into the hands of the heirs. Mrs. Helen Cushman is named as the executrix.

Harrington Has Changed His Mind-Refuses to Enter Plea of Guilty.

Ann Arbor Times News: Indications now are that Carl Harrington, the lad arrested several weeks ago for the shooting of Baggage Agent Miner in Ypsiianti and the wounding of Morgan Emmett, will be given a hearing n the circuit court here.

Soon after his arrest, and the subsequent entry of a plea of guilty by his pal, Charles McCormick, Harrington maintained that he was willing to enter a plea of guilty to the charge against him in order that he might be sentenced. Several times he informed the deputies about the jail of his desires. Then his sister came was engaged to look after Harring nounced that present plans were to bring Harrington before Judge Kinne

Fair Dates Changed.

September 19-24 will be the Michigan state fair dates this year. The matter of changing to that time from Labor day was left to a vote of the directors and 18 out of 23 were in favor of it, formal announcement being made Monday at a meeting of the finance committee.

For a great many years the state fair was held the third week in September and the change was made with the expectation that the holi day early in the month would prove a great source of revenue. It did serve to bring out thousands of people, but Last Saturday was a legal holi- there were drawbacks. HY is it that Geo. H. Foster & Son have sold more windmills and more pumps than any two firms in Washtenw County? First-Because they are an old established firm. Second-Because they get the first chance for the agencies on Mills and Pumps, and they take the best every time. Then if there is any one else in their territory who wants to sell mills and pumps they have to take what is left. They are known far and near for drilling wells, and if anyone needs repairs for their wells or mills they can telephone to our store and there will be someone ready to attend to it at once. They are not in business one year and out the next, so you can depend on them. As they do nearly all the plumbing that is done in the village and surrounding country, you can depend on the work being done in a first-class manner. GEO. H. FOSTER & SON.

FIRST WATCHES AND CLOCKS Six Centuries Has Elapsed Since Great Convenience Was Given to the World. Since celebrations are the order of the day, why not observe the sixth century of the introduction of clocks? It was, we are told, in 1309 that the first clock known to the world was placed in the tower of San Eustorgio, in Milan. The greatest astonishment and admiration were manifested by crowds who came to see the timepiece. In 1344 a clock was installed in the palace of the nobles at Padua. This was a wonder of mechanism indeed, for besides indicating the hours it showed the course of the sun, the revolutions of the planets, the various phases of the sun, the months and the fetes of the year.

The period of the evolution from the clock to the watch was 71 years, not so very long all things considered, and the record of the first watch is 1380. A half century later an alarm clock made its appearance. This, we are told, was looked upon by the people of that age as "un instrument prodlgieux."

The fortunate possessor of this clock was Andrea Alciato, a councillor of Milan. The chroniclers have placed on record that this clock sounded a bell at a stated hour, and at the same time a little wax candle was lighted automatically. How this was done we are not told, but it must not be overlooked that until about 70 years ago we had no means of obtaining a light other than the tinderbox, so that the Milanese must have been centuries ahead of us in this respect.

Not much progress was made with the watch until 1740, when the second hand was added.

Old Italian Pantomime.

If we can believe a traveler's tale, the pantomimes in Italy of the seventeenth century exceeded even present day productions in strange stage effects. An anonymous writer quoted in "Broadbent's History of Pantomime" describes a piece called "Nerone Infante," produced in Rome at the Theater Capranio in 1698, in which was exhibited the interior of chronicler, "and discovered a scene gan 2,500 miles of interurban lines. underneath representing the river of Lethe full of infernal spirits spitting fire, while Charon's boat made its nearly covered the whole of the stage and emitted a number of monstrous snakes. The monster moved toward the audience, who shrieked with horror, but in a moment it was transformed into a multitude of broad white butterflies, which flew into the pit so low that some touched the spectators' heads. At the same time the scene changed into a beautiful gar-

Taft Slated to Greet Roosevelt. President Taft was given full de-

Stewart, president of the New York State League of Republican clubs and representative of the Republican club of New York city, discussed the matter with the president for half an hour or more, and told him that the committee which would be placed in charge of the celebration undoubtedly would extend an informal invitation to him to be present at New York as the guest of honor.

There is some doubt as to whether or not President Taft will be able to participate, but it seems more than likely that he will. In the cablegram received in New York Mr. Roosevelt stated that he would be glad to accept a reception provided it was made a simple affair and was tendered on the day of his arrival.

15,000,000 Pounds of Butter Stored. Albert M. Read, secretary of the American Warehousemen's association at Washington, which includes 32 cold storage and refrigerating plants in various parts of the country, issued a statement endeavoring to show that foodstuffs were not being hoarded in the cold storage plants and that no attempts were being made by the warehousemen to conceal the quantities they had on hand.

Mr. Read declared that the butter and eggs stored in 20 of the cold storage plants in the association belonged to 2,446 different persons or firms, which, he says, indicates there would be great difficulty in cornering those products.

Mr. Read's statement of the products in storage in 30 of the houses shows 15,000,000 pounds of butter in storage on Feb. 1, 1910, as against 28,000,000 pounds on Feb. 1, 1909. There are, however, 134,000 more cases of eggs in storage this year than there were on Feb. 1, 1909. According to Mr. Read's figures there were more than 500,000 cases of eggs in storage Jan, 1, and there were but 183,000 there on Feb. 1, showing that more than 300,000 cases were taken out of storage during January.

Rebei Army is Victorious in Nicaragua.

State department officials are interested in the news from Managua that Matagalpa and Boaco have been captured by the revolutionists' army under Gen. Chamorro.

This interest especially attaches to the capture of Matagalpa, as in all probability any further cause for apprehension on the part of Americans in that important coffee growing section of Nicaragua has been removed. The capture of the steamer Managua by sympathizers with the revolutionists is regarded as a serious loss to the Madriz government, as it is believed he had depended upon this steamer and one other, the only two of any consequence on Lake Nicaragua, to transport his army, now on the east coast of the lake, back to Managua, in case of need.

The whole situation appears to be distinctly in favor of the revolutionary forces, and it is believed by the officials here that the end of the Nicaraguan government under Madriz is rapidly approaching.

London.-The year 1909 was the most active shipbuilding year experlenced since the introduction of the Dreadnought type. The seven principal naval powers completed altogether 22 armoured ships, exactly onehalf being of the Dreadnought type, or something very similar to it.

It will be seen by the first of the accompanying diagrams that six armoured ships were completed for the British navy. Two of these, however, the armoured cruiser Defence and the battleship Lord Nelson, were long overdue. They belong to the 1904-5 program, and should have been completed in 1907. The other ships completed are all Dreadnoughts. Three are battleships-Bellerophon, Temercreated in 1908 in commemoration of gram; while the forth was the Dreadnought-cruiser Invincible, of the 1903-6 program, five months overdue. It will be seen that if the various ships had been completed within contract time only the three battleships last mentioned would have appeared as completed in 1909.

This diagram shows the number of battleships and armoured crusiers completed, laid down and launched grams represents a ship, black indicating those completed, checkered those launched, and diagnoal shading those down, these being the battleships Heris made for them.

Towards the end of 1909 four more ships-the "contingent" ships-were ordered, but work has not yet been commenced or, them.

Germany made considerable progress during the year, completing the ships Ostfriesland, Helgoland and Thuringen and the armoured cruiser Von der Tann. Four ships are shown

Their names are Michigan, South Carolina and North Dakota. The Delaware and Utah were launched, while the Florida, Wyoming and Arkansas were laid down.

Japanese construction is proceeding slowly, owing to the inadequacy of the native armour, ordnance and gunmounting works. However, the battleship Satsuma and the armoured cruiser Ibuki were completed during 1909, and the powerful battleships Kakachi and Settsu commenced.

The second diagram shows the position of Great Britain and Germany in Dreadnoughts at the end of 1909, and also how many each will complete in 1910. The black lines show the ships in service; checkered, those launched; shaded, on the stocks.

ROCKY BOY INDIAN LANDS OPEN FOR SETTLEMENT

Secretary Ballinger has issued in structions to throw open 1,400,000 acres of land in Eastern Montana to white settlers.

This land was withdrawn about two years ago for the purpose of allotting to the Rocky Boy Indians. The tract contains the very choicest lands in Valley County and wherever farming has been carried on, it has produced yields of from 20 to 30 bushels of wheat per acre, 40 to 70 bushels of oats and large crops of hay, alfalfa and vegetables.

There are over 8,000 160-acre home steads in this tract, which is considerable more than the combined total in the Flathead, Spokane and Coeur d'Alene Reservations, which were opened to settlement last summer.

LEG A MASS OF HUMOR

"About seven years ago a small abrasion appeared on my right leg just above my ankle. It irritated me so that I began to scratch it and it began to spread until my leg from my ankle to the knee was one solid scale like a scab. The irritation was always worse at night and would not allow me to sleep, or my wife either, and it was completely undermining our health. I lost fifty pounds in weight and was almost out of my mind with pain and chagrin as no matter where the irritation came, at work, on the street or in the presence of company, I would have to scratch it until I had Before adjourning, at Atlantic City, cules, Colossus and Orion and the the blood running down into my shoe. to myself and wife is simply indescribable on paper and one has to experience it to know what it is.

"I have been so severely criticised by some for taking the risk of the descent that I wish to set myself right with such friends by stating my motives. For years I have been deeply interested in two different lines of scientific investigation-viz., psychology and geology. By the study of the latter in my student days I became a religious agnostic. As I went on with my scientifi studies I became interested it would not have been an exhibition lar and accomplished. in the former science. In the pursuit of these two so different lines of study. together with biology, I have reached moral and religious assurances which are more solid than archaean rock.

"My object in coming to Japan in the early part of this year was to work among students along moral and religious lines. Religion and morals are to me scientific studies. I had been in Japan hardly a week when a gentleman addressed me with this question: 'We in Japan are experiencing what you would call a scientific phenomenon. I knew what he meant, because in our preceding conversation reference had been made to this psychological phenomenon. On the spur of the moment, in the usual activity of the volcano. course of my talk I referred to the opportunities of exhibiting true bravery in facing life's daily problems as well as facing a Port Arthur. From the looks on the faces of those students I venture to affirm that not one of them seemed to have reached the conclusion will make that Asama solution of life's difficulties.

"Later when invited to visit Karuizawa and deliver the lectures referred to above, I determined to make the ascent of Asama. On the first opportunity I did so, but that ascent was not satisfactory on account of the storm which overtook our party. But it was sufficiently successful to arouse my geological interest. Now I desired it again for two reasons-both the psyhades of Asama. chological and the geological. I determined to make another ascent and then for the purpose of geological observation and scientific experiment descend into the crater in order to study its physical features. In the carrying out of this I was sure that a psychological effect would also be produced. When I made known my intentions and began to prepare for it many friends vigorously protested, while others, to use Shakespeare's expression, 'damned it with faint praise.' I told my friends that I was not going to be rash, that every scientific precaution against accident would be

After-Dinner Tricks.

It is now quite the thing to have a number of clever tricks "up one's sleeve," as it were, with which to beguile a few moments after dinner, or Here's to the wittiest, to work in at an opportune moment when there comes a lull in the conversation. Jugglery was the oldest of the sciences and every one, old or young, is interested in strange or seemingly wonderful feats.

A very simple trick is called "The Balanced Coin." Take a bottle, cork it, and in the cork place a needle. Cut a slit in another cork so that the edge of a silver dollar will fit into There is so much good in the worst of us it; then put two forks into the upper There is so much bad in the best of us; cork. Place the edge of the coin, which holds the upper cork and forks, revolve without falling. This will though it had a limit, revolve without falling. There's not a place in earth or heaven, amuse children, especially a child who may be a prisoner from illness, or on There's not a blessing or a woe, rainy day.

To make a revolving figure is interesting. Cut a wee man out of a thin bit of wood, make him end in one leg instead of two; make a pair of long arms shaped like oars or paddles. Then place him on top of your finger and blow hard. The little man will go round and round. Another clever feat is the Spanish dancer. Cut a figure from pasteboard; gum one foot on the inverted side of a watch crystal, then place it on a clean plate. Hold the plate slanting and it will slide down; but drop a little water on the plate; instead of the glass sliding, it will begin to revolve, and continue to revolve with increased velocity as the Here's to the friend that loves us person choses. This is in consequence of the cohesion of water to the two surfaces, by which a new force is

Breakfast Cakes.

These cold, crisp winter mornings awake the appetite to call for the hot griddle cake. If one takes a brisk walk in the open air after a breakfast of hot cakes any bad results may not must be used up by vigorous exercise later, or the system is clogged with waste products.

The buckwheat cake has lost none well as numerous other ills.

The following recipe does not leave its victims in quite the soggy, depressed state that the ordinary buckwheat cake does: Take one-half cupful of bread crumbs, pour over them two cupfuls of scalded milk and soak 30 minutes. Add one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth of a yeast cake dissolved in a half cup of warm water, and buckwheat to make a batter thin enough to pour. Let it rise over night. In the morning stir well; add one tablespoonful of molasses, one-fourth of a teaspoon of soda dissolved in one-fourth of a cup of warm water. Cook as any griddle cake, saving half a cup of the batter for the hext mixing. When buttermilk is obtainable a very good griddle cake may be madeof two cups of buttermilk, one teaspoonful each of soda and salt, and two cups of flour. Interest in the anti-tuberculosis campaign now being waged throughout the United States is evidenced by the fact that in the year 1909 163 new anti-tuberculosis associations were formed, 133 tuberculosis sanatoria and hospitals were established, and 91 tuberculosis dispensaries were opened. Compared with previous years, this is the best record thus far made in the fight against consumption in this country. During the year 1909, 43 more associations for the prevention of tuberculosis were formed than during the previous 12 months, and 62 more hospitals and sanatoria were established. On January 1, 1910, there were in the United States 394 anti-tuberculosis associations, 386 hospitals and tuberculosis sanatoria and 265 special tuberculosis dispensaries.

> CLEAR-HEADED Head Bookkeeper Must be Reliable.

The chief bookkeeper in a large business house in one of our great Western cities speaks of the harm coffee did for him:

"My wife and I drank our first cup of Postum a little over two years ago. and we have used it ever since, to the entire exclusion of tea and coffee. It happened in this way:

"About three and a half years ago had an attack of pneumonia, which left a memento in the shape of dyspepsia, or rather, to speak more correctly, neuralgia o' the stomach. My 'cup of cheer' had always been coffee or tea. but I became convinced, after a time. that they aggravated my stomach trouble. I happened to mention the matter to my grocer one day and he suggested that I give Postum a trial.

"Next day it came, but the cook made the mistake of not boiling it sufficiently, and we did not like it much. This was, however, soon remedied, and now we like it so much that we will never change back. Postum, being a food beverage instead of a drug, has been the means of curing my stomach trouble, I verily believe, for I am a well man today and have used no other remedy.

"My work as chief bookkeeper in our Co.'s branch house here is of a very confining nature. During my coffeedrinking days I was subject to nervousness and 'the blues' in addition to since I began using Postum and I can conscientiously recommend it to those whose work confines them to long hours of severe mental exertion."

Annual Tax Sale

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Washtenaw, ss. The Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw, in Chancery.

In the matter of the petition of Oramel B. Fuller, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

On reading and filing the petition of the Auditor General of the State of Michigan, praying for a decree in favor of the State of Michigan, against each parcel of land therein described, for the amounts therein specified, claimed to be due for taxes, interest and charges on each such parcel of land, and that such lands be sold for the amounts so claimed by the State of Michigan. It is ordered that said petition will be brought on for hearing and decree at the March term of this Court, to be held at the City of Ann Arbor, in the County of Washtenaw, State of Michigan, on the seventh day of March, A. D. 1910, at the opening of the Court on that day, and that all persons interested in such lands or any part thereof, desiring to contest the lien claimed thereon by the State of Michigan, for such taxes, interest and charges, or any part thereof, shall appear in said Court, and file with the clerk thereof, acting as register in chancery, their objections thereto on or before the first day of the term of this Court above mentioned, and that in default thereof the same will be taken as confessed and a decree will be taken and entered as prayed for in said petition. And it is further ordered that in pursuance of said decree the lands described in said petition for which a decree of sale shall be made, will be sold for the several taxes, interest and charges thereon as determined by such decree, on the first Tuesday in May thereafter, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m on said day, or on the day or days subsequent thereto as may be necessar; to complete the sale of said lands and of each and every parcel thereof, at the office of the County Treasurer, or at such convenient place as shall be selected by him at the county seat of the County of Washtenaw, State of Michigan; and that the sale then and there made will be a public sale, and each parcel described in the decree shall be separately exposed for sale for the total taxes interest and charges, and the sale shall be made to the person paying the full amount charged against such parcel, and accepting a conveyance of the smallest undivided fee simple interest therein; or, if no person will pay the taxes and charges and take a conveyance of less than the entire thereof, then the whole parcel shall be offered and sold. If any parcel of land cannot be sold for taxes, interest and charges, such parcel shall be passed over for the time being, and shall, on the succeeding day, or before the close of the sale, be reoffered, and if, on such second offer, or during such sale, the same cannot be sold for the amount aforesaid, the County Treasurer shall bid off the same in the name of the State.

Witness the Hon. E. D. Kinne, Circuit Judge, and the seal of said Circuit Court of Washtenaw County this sixth day of January, A. D. 1910. (Seal.) E. D. KINNE, Circuit Judge

Countersigned:

CHARLES L. MILLER, Register.

STATE OF MICHIGAN. To the Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw, in Chancery:

The petition of Oramel B. Fuller, Auditor General of the State of Michigan for and in behalf of said State respectfully shows that the list of lands hereinafter set forth and marked "Schedule A," contains a description of all the lands in said County of Washtenaw upon which taxes were assessed for the years mentioned therein, and which were returned as delinquent for nonpayment of taxes, and which taxes have not been paid; together with the total amount of such taxes, with interest computed thereon to the time fixed for sale, and collection fee and expenses, as provided by law, extended against each of said parcels of land.

Your petitioner further shows to the Court that said lands were returned to the Auditor General under the provisions of Act 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as delinquent for non-payment of said taxes for said years respectively and that said taxes remain unpaid; except that lands included in said "Schedule A" for taxes of 1890 or prior years were returned to the Auditor General as delinquent for said taxes under the provisions of the general tax laws in force prior to the passage of Act 200 of the Public Acts of 1891, and which taxes emain unpaid.

Your petitioner further shows that in all cases where lands are included in 'Schedule A" as aforesaid for taxes of 1890 or of any prior year, said land: have not been sold for said taxes or have been heretofore sold for said delinquent taxes and the sale or sales so made have been set aside by a court o competent jurisdiction, or have been cancelled as provided by law.

Your petitioner further shows and avers that the taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as set forth in said "Schedule A," are a valid lien on the several parcels of lands described in said schedule.

Your petitioner further shows that the said taxes on said described lands have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent; and the said taxes not having been paid, and the same being now due and remaining unpaid as above set forth, your petitioner prays a decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands, for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land contained therein, and in default of payment of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands, that each of said parcels of land may be sold for the amounts due thereon, as provided by law, to pay the lien aforesaid.

And your petitioner will ever pray, etc. Dated January 3rd, 1910. ORAMEL B. FULLER, Auditor General of the State of Michiga visit the house in which the mother of George Wash. ington lived and died in Fredericksburg, Va.

The Washingtons, or that branch of the large Washington family which played so great a role in American history, left the Popes creek farm, later called "Wakefield," in Westmoreland county, about three years after the birth of George Washington. The family removed to another Washington farm in Stafford county, or the north bank of the Rappahannock river, opposite Fredericksburg.

It was there that much of the boyhood of Washington was spent. There, too, the mythical exploits of chopping down the cherry tree, etc., were performed. After George Washington and his brothers had left this farm and after the marriage of Betty Washington to Major Fielding Lewis of Fredericksburg, Mrs. Mary Washington bought a cottage in Fredericksburg, close to "Kenmore," the home of her daughter, and resided there many years. She died in that cottage August 25, 1789.

The cottage is a plain two-story frame dwelling, standing at the corner of Charles and Lewis streets-two village streets deep in dust or mud. according to the weather. The house is heavily shaded by old sycamore trees and is furnished with Washington and other Virginia relics. It is owned and cared for by the Society for Preservation of Virginia Antiquities. The superintendent is R. C. Beale, who, with his wife, occupies the house.

The big living room on the ground floor and to the left of the entrance is that in which Mrs. Washington dled. As nearly as possible it is preserved as Mrs. Washington kept it. A rare old mahogany tester bed stands on that part of the floor where stood Mrs. Washington's bed.

The walls are lined with steel engravings which belonged to Mrs. Washington and some of these were her property when she was Mary Ball before her marriage to Augustine Washington, and came from her girlhood home, "Epping Forest," in Lancaster county, about 30 miles from Fredericksburg. The room in the rear of this living and sleeping room was the dining room and the same table around which the Washingtons ate stands in the middle of the floor. The dining room is hare of carnets or rugs and was in Mrs. Washington's time. The furnishings are plain and simple.

It was four months before the death of Mary Washington that George Washington took his final leave of his mother. This was directly before his departure for New York for inauguration as the first president. News of his mother's death came to him in a letter from Col. Burgess Ball. The president was at dinner with Baron von Steuben and Gov. St. Clair. The letter was handed the president by his nephew and private secretary, Robert Lewis. After slowly reading it, Washington retired to his private room and remained there for some time. He then wrote this letter to his sister, Betty Washington Lewis, at Fredericksburg:

"My Dear Sister: Col. Ball's letter gave me the first account of my mother's death. Since that I have received Mrs. Carter's letter, written at your request, and previous to both I was prepared for the event by advices of her illness coming from your son Robert.

"Awful and affecting as the death of a parent is, -there is consolation in knowing that heaven has spared ours to an age which few attain and favored her with the full enjoyment of her mental faculties and as much bodily strength as usually falls to fourscore. Under these circumstances and in the hope that she is translated to a happier place, it is the duty of her relatives to yield submission to the decree of the Creator. "When I was last in Fredericksburg I took final leave of my mother, never expecting to see her more. "Your affectionate brother,

"GEORGE WASHINGTON."

Three days after her death Mrs. Washington was buried. The grave was dug in the grounds of her daughter Betty. The site of the grave was near a group of rocks jutting out of a hillside overlooking a tranquit little valley between Fredericksburg and Marye's Heights, one of the bloodiest battle ridges of the civil war. This little group of gray rocks was a favorite spot with Mrs. Washington.

She retired there in fair weather to knit, pray and read her Bible. Because of this association with Mrs. Washington these are now called the "Oratory rocks." They are shaded by heavy oak trees. It was a shady place in the days of Mrs. Washington and the trees that shielded her from the sun survived till 1862, when they were torn to death by the storm of shot that rolled over the grave of the mother of George Washington in the battle between the Army of Northern Virginia and the Army of the Potomac

Susan Reviere Hetzel, in a history of the Mary Washington association, writes of Mrs. Washington's funeral as follows:

"Business was suspended in the city of Fredericksburg; crape hung from the houses. The church was thronged with her friends and neighbors. Her body was followed by her loving daughter and grandchildren to a place chosen by herself to be her resting place near the granite bowlders now called the Oratory rocks, where she loved to retire and pray for her beloved son during the troublesome days of the American revolution. The coffin was carried from the church on men's shoulders; the knoll where the grave was dug was covered by the concourse of mourners and spectators, for they had lost not only the mother of the president but an old and beloved friend.

"The mourning was general all over the country. Press and pulpit made note of the event. Members of congress were crape for 30 days as for a distinguished official. Congress passed a resolution to erect a monument to the mother of Washington and to that resolution President Washington responded in a note of thanks, adding:

"'I attribute all my success in life to the moral, intellectual and physical education which I received from

The government never erected the monument called for in the resolution. could think of little put the second war with England. It took a long time for the country to settle down after that war and so it happened that nothing but a little headstone marked the grave when Lafayette revisited this country in 1825. Lafayette had known Mrs. Washington. To him is given the credit of calling her a Roman matron. Some of the prettiest observations on the character of this woman were written by Lafayette.

After the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown the citizens of Fredericksburg gave a great ball to Washington and a number of American and French officers. Lafavette was there. Mrs. Washington, though an old woman and not much interested in festive things, was after long persuasion induced to attend the ball, called then and noted long after as "the peace ball."

Agitation in behalf of a monument to Mary Washington crystallized in 1830, when the people of Fredericksburg raised $2,000 and were proceeding with the collection of the necessary sum when Silas E. Burroughs, a New York banker. wrote to Thomas Goodwin, mayor of Fredericksburg. and asked the honor of being allowed to build the monument. The design adopted was elaborate.

The cornerstone of this monument was laid on May 1, 1833, by President Andrew Jackson, who delivered perhaps the longest discourse of his career. Soon after this ceremony Mr. Burroughs sustained financial misfortunes and the work was suspended. The pedestal was in place and marble columns had been hauled by ox teams to the grave. It was found difficult to raise money to continue the building. The big pieces of marble lay scattered around the place and lay there till after the civil war. They were pock-marked by bullets and bits of shell in the battle of Fredericksburg.

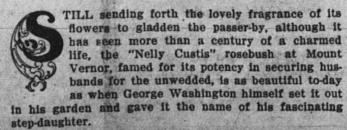

In 1878 Capt. George Washington Ball, a descendant of the Balls of Epping Forest, originated the Mary Washington association, but little progress was made toward the erection of a monument.

It was in 1889 that a strong impetus was given the monument movement. The country was wrought up over the approaching inauguration of President Harrison when there appeared in one of the Washington papers over the name of a local auctioneer this sensational advertise-

"The grave of Mary the mother of Gen. George Washington, to be sold at public auction. March 5, 1889, at 12 o'clock m., we will offer at public auction, at the capital of the United States of America, 12 acres of land, embracing the grave and material of the unfinished monument of Mary, the mother of Gen. George Washington."

This advertisement created the excitement it was designed to produce, the National Mary Washington Memorial association was organized and the present tall shaft, a small reproduction of the Washington monument at the capital, was reared above the grave and dedicated May 10, 1894.

The "Marrying Rosebush" At Mount Vernon

To the remotest hamlet that has ever furnished a unt Vernon tourist the fame of the magic rosebush has gone and the marriages attributed to its mysterious influence would make the reputation of any "Schadchen," or Jewish marriage broker, pale. Many a "marrying parson" who boasts of the number of ceremonies he has performed owes more to the humble little rosebush on the shores of the Potomac than he dreams of.

THE RESIDENCE OF THE PARTY OF T

CLAYMOUNT, DESIGNED FROM SUGGESTIONS BY GEORGE WASHINGTON

The present generation of Washingtonians have somewhat neglected the rosebush, leaving their sightseeing friends from afar to reap the rewards which are supposed to be the inevitable result of preserving a sprig plucked from it, and the census records show that there are 11,000 more unmarried women than unmarried men in the District of Columbia. Yet the efficacy of even one leaf from the bush named for one of the most beautiful of Virginia's daughters is vouched for by a number of Washington matrons, as well as by many women in other cities. As an aid to Hymen the bush has no rival in the minds of Virginians and among older Washingtonians there are many who still cherish for it a sentimental fondness, regarding it as the kindly fairy of their happiness.

Time was when no girl who visited Mount Vernon was content to depart without a leaf of the "Nelly Custis" safely stowed away in her pocketbook or wrapped in her handkerchief. Some of these willin' feminine Barkuses treated the leaves after the manner of fourleaved clover and bashfully tucked them into their shoe

Nothing but the roses themselves would satisfy exacting damsels, for their white-petaled sweetness was certain to have the effect of inspiring some Prince Charming with love for the possessor within the following year. Lucky indeed was the girl who could successfully elude the watchful eye of the gardener and carry off in triumph one of the flowers so soon to be followed by orange blossoms. The wiles used by some of these lovelorn little vandals would have done credit to a skilled second-story man.

In the last few years, however, the faith in the pretty old legend has somewhat died out among the younger generation. Whether it be that skepticism follows the trolley as the constitution does the flag, or that the bachelor maids of the present think too little of matrimony to cherish any sentimental stories of white roses and proposals, there is far less eagerness now to find the bush of fable.

There is nothing in the appearance of the bush which has created such havoc in romantic young hearts to awe the onlooker. It is set close to one of the main walks of the little old formal garden, which was considered one of the "snow" places of the estate in the days of the great American general's residence there. The bush is near the greenhouses and not far from the old slave quarters. It is not more than eight feet high and still bears its pretty, white clusters as freely as ever.

F. A. Whelan, the gardener at Mount Vernon, is authority for the old age of the tradition which ascribes such wonderful potency to this particular bush. "The rose," said Mr. Whelan, "is said to have been set out by George Washington himself. There were two bushes of this same variety, Noisettes, in the garden. One of these Gen. Thirty years of unparalleled success confirms the power of Lydia E. Pink-ham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases. opyright, 1906, by J. B. Lippin All rights reserved. SYNOPSIS.

Richard Derring, returning from a w.nter in the woods to his mother's farm home, is overtaken by his uncle, accompanied by his eccentric wife, coming to pay a visit at the farm. Aunt Jerusha's questions about Emily Hutton, supposed to be Derring's sweetheart, reveal the fact that she is to marry another. Disappointment stimulates Derring's ambition, and under the advice of Seth Kinney, a hermit of the woods, he resolves to "th himself for college. Kinney teaches him Greek and he passes his entrance examinaations triumphantly, winning the approval of the professor. Four years in college obliterates the memory of Emily, Derring begins journalistic work in Chicago, where he meets Helen Gordon, an artist.
Derring is promoted to art critic on his paper. Helen refuses to marry him and hamper both their careers, but they enter into a companionship compact. Helen suffers ill effects from sketching on the lake shore in January. Illness brings her into closer relationship with Richard.
Derring is called home by the illness of Seth Kinney. Seth-dies, leaving Derring a small fortune. Derring returns to Chicago. Helen starts on a visit to her home in the east, and is killed in a railroad accident. She leaves a message for Richard saving: "I shall come back to you if in the east, and is killed in a railroad accident. She leaves a message for Richard, saying: "I shall come back to you if I can. But if not—" Derring throws himself into his work to find forgetfulness. He finds peace in ministering to others with no hope of happiness for himself. For ten years Derring continues this work.

For the dilettante philanthropists who posed amid the picturesque squalor of the slums he had only the keenest shaft of ridicule. It was his insight that made those who were taking up the work in earnest seek his advice. While he had not gone into it in person, he was cognizant of shrewd counsel, balanced the sentimentality of over-enthusiasm.

The young men were waiting to consult him as to the best way of dealing with a pair of philanthropic ranks who persisted in thrusting themselves into the work and who, by their obtuseness, were undoing the best results of the past year. While waiting for Derring and discussing the situation, they had drifted into talking of his fitness for the work and of the strange delicacy that kept him

"He stands ready enough to help any of us fellows that come to him. But I suppose that's just it—these people don't get in his way and we do. Lucky for me, I did!". A laugh rippled the undercurrent of the speaker's words. He was seated in an office-chair, his hat thrust back. a shock of reddish-brown hair rising straight above the broad white forehead. He looked as if he might be the driver of an express cart or of any vehicle that rumbled and rattled. In reality, he was an artist of much omise. His sketches had in them pth of sentiment that gave even eater promise than their technique. ree years ago no one had believed that he would ever be anything more than a dabbler in art. He had had plenty of money and was leading a free, devil-may-care life, sowing to the wind and complacently looking forward to the whirlwind. Now his success was spoken of as a thing as-

They protested in one breath 'I know. You think that as soon as a movement has taken on organization it has lost its vitality. That is a mistaken view of the case, my young friends. Organizations were invented to give employment to cranks. You must make offices and put them in. They will have so much to do running the offices that they will let "the poor" alone for awhile. When a movement is well under way it must have an organization as a life-preserver."

"I suppose it must," said the artist with a sigh. "Can you help us about the constitution if we come around to-morrow?"

"Come to my room at ten. I'll be free then." They rose to go. But the poet lighted-that sense of other forms giving way to his, retreating, gliding past, with noiseless being. Always for a minute they jostled him, as if unable to escape. Then, in a breath, his presence filled the room-to the furthest living corner. There was no one there.

He found the droplight and reached for a match. The breeze stirred again and blew against the hand that held the match to the droplight. He shaded it with his other hand, and the light flared up into his tired face. His eyes smiled absently. He was thinking of the poet and his troubles.

Derring had more than half guessed them. He had been revolving in his mind all day what he should say to him. The woman was a strange creature. Derring had studied her face the night before at the play. It was heavy, with deep lines, but there was something fine in the eyes. He recalled them now-wistful and mag-

He pushed back the papers on his desk with a little sigh. Why should they come to him with their troubles? He was strangely tired. But with it all, underneath, beat a sense of coming release. He took up the book again. But the poems had lost their hold. His eye was on the page, but about him, around him, something stirred. He raised his eyes slowly, looking towards the window. Against the screen, faint against the moonlight, he saw it-her face-smiling to him, the eyes shining mistily. He half rose, stretching out his hands to her. He sank back. The face was gone. But her voice, softly, was speaking to him through the distance:

"You are coming-coming-coming-" With a quick exclamation he turned. The light at his side had gone out. The room lay in darkness. He stared before him. She was not there. No one was there. It was the common prosaic darkness of a June night.

CHAPTER XXI.

Derring had found Conway waiting for him at the breakwater. They paced up and down, watching the path of light across the water. The poet broke the silence. "You don't know her." The tone was defensive. Derring smiled a little. "Tell me." The poet waited. He threw out his hand with a quick gesture. "She is everything! When I am with her, I can think-feel-be. I am fluid. She makes me free."

The poet turned to him eagerly. You have seen her?" "The other night-at the play."

"She is glorious!" His eyes questioned Derring's face. "Perhaps. She reminded

With one accord they turned to watch the lake. A summer storm was gathering. Lightning played here | lounging jacket that he got for Chri and there, in open flashes, on the dark water. Deep mutters of thunder fol lowed it challengingly. The wind had lulled. A silence held the air, fluttering with light. Upon it, in the distance, sounded the faint purr of the crimson-eyed vehicle. It resolved itself into the puffing approach of an automobile. For a moment the moon strove to reassert itself. A silver shimmer came in the darkness. The striking of the clock boomed through

it. They counted the strokes. "Ten o'clock," said Derring. "They will be waiting for us."

"Just a minute," pleaded the poet. The hush of darkness gathered it self. Through it sounded swift, whirring puffs of the automobile-louder and nearer-with hurrying, clanging

"GOODNESS"

T'S the best word we know of to describe the quality of Sherwin-Williams Paints and Varnishes. We can use the word honestly because every Sherwin-Williams product is made of carefully selected and tested materials on exact scientific formula. The different ingredients are thoroughly combined with the help of special machinery and mechanical equipment, supervised by experts of long experience.

Every product is made for some particular purpose. We don't make one paint for floors and barns, but we make a particular kind of paint that is very good for floors and another kind of paint that is very good for barns. So when you buy a Sherwin-Williams Paint or Varnish you can be sure it is made especially for the purpose you have in mind and will give you good satisfaction. Ask your dealer for

More Free Homesteads

Secretary Ballinger has ordered 1,400,000 acres of choice land thrown open to settlers under the homestead laws, on and after March 1, 1910. This land is mostly level or rolling prairie and is covered with a heavy growth of wild grass. The soil is a brown clay loam. This land lies in Valley County,

Eastern Montana

It is known to be very fertile and wherever farming has been carried on, good yields of wheat, oats, rye, barley, flax, alfalfa, hay, potatoes and even corn have been obtained. The land is free under the homestead laws. No registration-no drawing. No long waits and disappointments as is the case with the lottery system. No expense except the few dollars for filing fee.

The Great Northern Railway is now building a branch line through the very heart of the tract. Low one way and round trip rates during March and April. Send for map folder giving full details. Ask for "Rocky Boy" Indian Lands Circular.
