MAKE REPORT BEFORE OCT. 15

Members of the Commission Will Receive Fifteen Dollars a Day for Time Actually Spent, Together With Necessary Expenses.

Lansing.-Governor Osborn appointed the following to constitute the commission of inquiry to review and investigate,into the entire system of taxation in the state:

P. H. Kelley, Lansing; Roger Wykes, Grand Rapids: Prof. Henry C. Adams. Ann Arbor.

The act authorizing the governor to make the appointments is the one passed by the last legislature. It has for its purpose a plan for obtaining for the people of the state "a full measure of revenues by way of taxation from every kind of property subject to taxation under the constitution for the benefit of the state or its municipalities, and the correction of inequalities in taxation wherever found."

The members of the commission will receive for their work $15 a day for time actually spent, together with their actual and necessary expenses in connection with their labors. The members are to make a report to the governor on or before October 15, unless in the opinion of the chief executive the time should be extended in order to gain additional information. If the governor so decides, he is empowered to extend the time to January 15, 1912. After the commission has made its report to the governor, its duty will cease as a commission. The act as passed was given immediate effect, and the members will begin work at once.

P. H. Kelley is the former Neutenant governor and a whilom political rival of Governor Osborn; Roger Wykes is an attorney and Professor Adams is the well known teacher and student of economics, until recently connected with the interstate commerce commission.

The supreme court of the United States ordered the dissolution of the American Tobacco company, that recording its judgment in the second of the big anti-trust cases. The dissolution, however, unlike that of the Standard Oil company, is to be carried on under the direction of the lower court-the circuit court of appeals for the southern district of New York. The supreme bench places on that court the burden of devising not only a plan of dissolving the combination, but of "recreating, out of the elements now composing it, a new concirculation in Marshall, and secret dition which shall be honestly in harmony with and not repugnant to the law.

To enter such a decree, it became necessary for the supreme court to reserve and remand the case to the federal court in New York. The decision of the supreme court goes much farther than that of the lower tribunal. It includes within its condemnation the 29 individuals named in the government's bill of complaint, the two English corporations, the British-American Tobacco company and the Imperial Tobacco company, and also the United Cigar Stores com pany. Chief Justice White, who read the opinion, held that the circuit court of appeals had erred in dismissincluding within the decree the United Cigar Stores company.

In brief the supreme court completely sustained all of the vital points contended for in the original bill of complaint filed by the government. Attorney General Wickersham in a formal statement expressed great pleasure over the decision.

SYNOPSIS.

James Wilson or Jimmy as he is called by his friends. Jimmy was rotund and looked shorter than he really was. His ambition in life was to be taken seriously, must be people steadily refused to do so, his art is considered a huge joke, except to himself, if he asked people to dinner everyone expected a frolic. Jimmy marries Bella Knowles: they live together a year and are divorced. Jimmy's friends arrange to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce. The party is in full swing when Jimmy receives a telegram from his Aunt Selina, who will arrive in four hours to visit him and his wife. He neglects to tall her of his divorce. Jimmy takes Kit into his confidence. He suggests that Kit play the hostess for one night, be Mrs. Wilson pro tem. Aunt Selina arrives and the deception works out as planned. Jimm's divorced wife, enters the house and asks Kit who is being taken away in the ambulance? Belle insists it is Jim. Kit tells her Jim is well and is in the house. Harbison steps out on the porch and discovers a man tacking a card on the door. He demands an explanation. The man points to the placard and Harbison sees the word "Smallpox" printed on it. He tells him the guests cannot leave the house until the quarantine is lifted. After the lifting of the quarantine is taken ill with la grippe. Betty acts as nurse. Harbison finds Kit sulking on the roof. She tells him that Jim has been reating her outrageously. Kit starts downstairs, when suddenly she is grasped in the arms of a man who kisses her several times. She believes that Harbison did it and is humiliated. Aunt Selina tells Jimmy that her cameo breastpin and did it and is humiliated. Aunt Selina tells Jimmy that her cameo breastpin and other articles of jewelry have been stolen. She accuses Betty of the theft, Jimmy tells Aunt Selina all about the strange tells Aunt Selina all about the strange happenings, but she persists in suspecting Betty of the theft of her valuables. Harbison demands an explanation from Kit as to her conduct towards him, she tells him of the incident on the roof, he does not deny nor confirm her accusation. One of the guests devises a way to escape from the house. They set fire to the reception room and attempt to leave the house from the rear. The guards discover the ruse and prevent them from escaping. Max finds Anne's pearl clasp

Max interrupted us just then, and sked if we knew where Mr. Harbison

"Can't find him," he said. "I've got the telephone together and have enough left over to make another. Where do you suppose Harbison hides the tools? I'm working with a corkscrew and two palette knives."

I heard nothing more of the trouble that night. Max went to Jim about it, and Jim said angrily that only a fool would interfere between a man and his wife-wives. Whereupon Max retorted that a fool and his wives were soon parted, and left him. The two principals were coldly civil to each other, and smaller issues were lost as the famine grew more and more insistent. For famine it was.

They worked the rest of the evening, but the telephone refused to revive and every one was starving. Individually our pride was at low ebb, but collectively it was still formidable. So we sat around and Jim played Grieg with the soft stops on, and Aunt Selina went to bed. The weather had changed, and it was sleeting, but anything was better than the drawing room. I was in a mood to battle with the elements or to cry -or both-so I slipped out, while Dal was reciting "Give me three grains of corn, mother," threw somebody's overcoat over my shoulders, put on a man's soft hat-Jim's I think-and went up to the roof.

It was dark in the third floor hall, and I had to feel my way to the foot of the stairs. I went up quietly and turned the knob of the door to the roof. At first it would not open, and I could hear the wind howling outside. Finally, however, I got the door open a little and wormed my way

"Good Lord!" he groaned. "To think that I might have killed you!" And then-he stooped and suddenly kissed me.

The next moment the door was open, and he was leading me down into the house. At the foot of the staircase he paused, still holding my hand, and faced me in the darkness. "I'm not sorry," he said steadily.

"I suppose I ought to be, but I'm not. Only-I wanted you to know that I was not guilty-before. I didn't intend to now. I am-almost as much surprised as you are." I was quite unable to speak, but wrenched my hand loose. He stepped

CHAPTER XVIII.

It's All My Fault.

I didn't go to the drawing room again. I went into my own room and sat in the dark, and tried to be furiously angry, and only succeeded in feeling queer and tingly. One thing was absolutely certain: Not the same man, but two different men had kissed me on the stairs to the roof. It sounds rather horrid and discriminating, but there was all the difference in the

But then-who had? And for whom had Mr. Harbison been waiting on the roof? "Did you know that I nearly choked you to death a few minutes ago?" Then he rather expected to finish somebody in that way! Who? Jim, probably. It was strange, too, but suddenly I realized that no matter how many suspicious things I mustered up against him-and there were plenty-down in my heart I didn't believe him guilty of anything, except this last and unforgivable offense. Whoever was trying to leave the house had taken the necklace, that seemed clear, unless Max was still foolishly trying to break quarantine and create one of the sensations he so dearly loves. This was a new idea, and some things upheld it, but Max had been playing bridge when I was kissed on the stairs, and there was still left that ridiculous incident of the comfort.

Bella came up after I had gone to bed, and turned on the light to brush

"If I don't leave this mausoleum soon, I'll be carried out," she declared. "You in bed, Lollie Mercer York, and John R. About 200 Buildings Destroyed and Loss May Reach $3,000,000.

Coney Island, the playground of New York, suffered the worst fire disaster of its history. Dreamland, Coney's largest amusement park, was wiped out and about four blocks adjoining, covered with booths, restaurants, hotels, moving picture theaters and resorts of various types, were de stroyed.

The fire broke out in the early morning and was not under control until three and a half hours later. The loss will be nearly $3,000,000, About 200 buildings were burned down and 2,000 concessionaires and employes were turned into the streets homeless and penniless. No lives were lost.

The burned area represents nearly a third of the entire amusement city, all of which would undoubtedly have gone in the teeth of a strong wind but for the fact that Coney Island, with a high pressure water system and especially designed for fire protection, is better guarded against disasters of this kind than any other similar resort in the world.

When discovered the fire was a tiny blaze in the tarred scaffoldings of "Hell Gate," a scenic railway close to the entrance to Dreamland. Twenty minutes after a frightened watchman turned in three alarms, one after another, as fast as his thumb could press the key, all Dreamland-10 acres of gaudy, closely packed buildings-was one great blaze, and the flames, urged by a strong wind, were visible for 15 miles.

took definite action in the matter that there was halted a project to profane the historic precincts of Mount Vernon by the location of a reformatory in the vicinity and it is being argued that if congress has to bestow such fostering care upon the famous mansion and estate why not have the whole management of the institution (which really belongs to the whole people) vested in the elective body closest to the "dime museum" methods which obtain in the conduct of this tourist mecca. The procedure complained of is the charging of an admission fee for entrance to the grounds and the sale of postal cards, guide books and other commodities. Unfavorable sentiment is attributable especially to the circumstance that most of the money making enterprises conducted at Mount Vernon are on the monopolistic order. Only an approved brand of guide book can be purchased on the grounds and so on through the whole list of articles for sale, even to the circumstance that a single line of steamers on the Potomac river has the exclusive privilege of landing tourists at Mount Vernon However, whatever may have been the mistakes of the association of women who have control of Mount Vernon, or of the superintendent who for twenty-five years has had the authority of general manager of Mount Vernon, there is no denying that they have accomplished much in the restoration and maintenace of the manor house and the most interesting part of the famous Virginia plantation. Only recently has there been completed an important undertaking in landscape architecture which is especially notable because it supplies the final feature needed to restore the actual conditions of George Washington's day at the country seat which the Father of His Country loved so well and where he lived and died. This final restoration has been the replacing of the lawn and garden walls which in colonial times played an important part in the surroundings of Mount Vernon, as they did in the case of almost every mansion of its type.

The original walls on the Mount Vernon estate, most of which were constructed under the supervision of Washington himself, were in an excellent state of preservation when he died, but successive heirs to the estate allowed them to fall into decay until there was naught left but the foundations. These walls, which add so much to the appearance of the Mount Vernon estate, would have been restored years ago had it been merely a matter of expense, for the whole work cost only about $1.500. However, a more serious stumbling block delayed operations-namely, a desire t secure brick that would be duplicates of thos originally employed and which would consequently enable adherence to the policy of having everything historically correct to the most minute detail.

After a quest that had continued for more than a score of years the long-sought bricks were recently obtained when there was demolished an old colonial mansion known as Society Hill, located in King George county, Virginis. This structure, which was built by Colonel Thornton, a close friend of George Washington and which by coincidence later passed into the possession of a member of the Washington family—was constructed of bricks brought from England. The bricks in the Soclety Hill mansion, when cleaned, proved to be identical in size and color with the bricks found in the ruined foundations of the original garden walls at Mount Vernon. Accordingly the walls, were restored in accordance with the original drawings and enough of the origishington bricks were rescued from the old foundations to provide a coping for the walls, the bricks obtained from the King George county site furnishing the remainder

The most extensive of the restored walls are the "screen walls," the function of which was to hide from the sight of Washington's guests scated on the lawn the inevitable domestic activities that were carried on around such outbuildings as the kitchen, the smoke house, the spinning house, etc.-adjuncts of the mansion which it was not desired to have obtrude themselves upon the notice of visitors. Almost as interesting as the screen walls, however, are the "Ha Ha" walls, which are depressed below the level of the sloping lawn and are consequently unobservable from the portico of the mansion, but which in Washington's day performed an important function by preventing the stock from wandering on the lawn in front of the house. The name "Ha Ha" as applied to such walls originated in England and is attributed to crosscountry riders who were surprised into making the ejaculation when they suddenly and unexpectedly came upon such a hidden wall in their chase of a fox.

The restored walls, although the most important of recent improvements at Mount Vernon, are by no means the only ones that may be noted by the sightseers and tourists who now visit this historic spot in throngs that aggregate 100,000 a year. A new roof has been placed on the mansion house and the public probably has little conception of how much time and labor was required to obtain the de-

THE OLD KITCHEN AT MOUNT VERNON SHOWING THE "SCREEN WALL" sired material for this roof, just as it was no end of trouble to find the bricks for the walls above referred to. About 50,000 cypress shingles were needed for the new-roof, but they must needs be "rived" shingles because Washington had that kind and it seemed impossible to find any rived shingles, because nowadays shingles are not made that way, sawing being much easier than splitting. Finally a lumber firm in South Carolina undertook to supply shingles that would duplicate those of Washington's day, but they charged almost a cent apiece for the singles, which made the roof a

There has been another notable undertaking at Mount Vernon in the form of the construction of drainage works which control forces of nature that threatened to play havoc on the famous estate. This new system of sanitary drainage has, first of all, served to reclaim the bogs and swamps which at one time gave the place a reputation for unhealthfulness. Equally serious in possible results were the threatened landslides near the mansion and in the vicinity of the old tomb of Washington, from which, however, the body of Washington was removed some years ago to the new tomb. These slides have been averted for all time by the construction at considerable cost of a tunnel which pierces the hill on which the mansion stands.

CO-OPERATION A BIG SUCCESS

Johnson County Association in Kansas Conducted by the Grange is Very Prosperous.

A stirring example of the success which the Grange in many communiles makes of co-operative business undertakings is furnished in Kansas, in the Johnson County Co-operative association, whose headquarters are at Olathe, a prosperous trading center for a large agricultural district. The association is controlled exclusively of the Grange and is run for the benefit of the patrons of that section, securing for them the lowest cash prices on all needed farm and home purchases. This business association was organized more than 25 years ago and has had a continued and prosperous existence, steadily increasing the volume of its business every year and maintaining a sound and well-established business basis. The association has a paid-up capital of $100,000, besides a surplus fund of nearly $30,000. The business of the past 12 months showed an increase of $20,000 in volume over the previous year and so successful had been the year's operations that a seven per cent, dividend was declared on the capital stock of the association, besides' a three per cent. dividend on the year's purchases of goods. A more complete example of successful co-operative effort in busines matters than this Kansas association furnishes is seldom found.

The association has recently reorganized for a new year's work by electing State Master George Black of the Kansas State Grange as president, to he married a female basefall player." succeed Mr. J. D. Hibner, who retires from the presidency after 20 years of continuous service.

STAND OF WISCONSIN GRANGE

Several Matters of Legislation That Have Enlisted the Efforts of the Patrons.

The Wisconsin State Grange has taken a strong stand this year on matforts of the patrons of that state are being exerted along the following

1. Federal co-operation in road improvement

2.-Establishment of parcels post,

3.—Postal savings banks. 4.-A national income tax.

5.—Direct election of United States enators.

6.-A nonpartisan tariff commission. 7.-Opposition to all ship subsidies. 8.—Opposition to a central United States bank. 9.—Opposition to the amendment of the oleomargarine laws, in the interests of imitation butter. In distinctly local Wisconsin matters the same State Grange is on record on the following definite propositions: 1.-Favoring the initiative, referendum and recall. 2.-Favoring state aid for highways.

3.-Favoring the operation of a binder twine plant at Waupun. 4.--Urging the improvement of the law for the eradication of tuberculosis in our herds of cattle. Under the present law the farmer stands the entire expense of testing, while it is contended that the government should stand part of the expense of testing, as in the case of other inspections.

NO PLACE FOR FATHER

Bathroom Nook Only Place in Which Famlly Head May Find Privacy

The English home with its lack of "proper" eating and also its sad lack of ventilation d bathtubs is no more a marvel to the American woman than the American home is to the English woman. The latter freely admits that the conveniences of the American home are beyond compare, but there is one serious defect that is always commented on. This is set forth by Mary Mortimer Maxwell in the National Review (London). There is no pace for father. Surely there must be some truth in this, for so many British women have called attention to the fact that we have no privacy in our homes, and have pointed to the shortcomings of pretty strands of beads serving as doors, and to the fact that the bathroom is the only sanctuary, the Indianapolis News remarks. This is borne out by observations in many cities. A former official in Indiana is well read in history. He also has a family. He freely admits that he absorbed his history lying with pillow in the bathtub, safe beyond the reach of the growing children. This is just what Mary Mortimer Maxwell is speaking about when she says:

"But the member of the American family. to whom my thoughts turn in greatest sympathy in regard to the lack of privacy and the denial of the opportunity for the cultivation of individuality is the father-he who pays for everything, buys the house with his own earnings or hires it, and yet generally has not so much as a corner that is his very own. It is called his house.' It has many rooms. There are the drawing room, the living room, the library. There are numerous bedrooms and dressing rooms, but if he really desires solitude, there would seem to be nothing for him but to lock himself up in the bathroom. Sometimes you hear the members of an American family speak of 'father's den,' to be sure. Why, just before I left America a New York friend, when she was showing me through her new house, said to me, 'This is my husband's den,' showing me into the sunniest and brightest room in the house. My eyes rested upon antimacassars and tea cosies, a' copy of 'Poems of Passion,' an embroidery frame, a train of 'choo-choo cars,' and a box of such American confections as my soul delights in and which no manly man could possibly be seen eating. I looked about for rows of curious pipes, for a horribly dusty and disordered writing table, a lounging jacket-out at elbows, but, oh, so comfortable after the workaday coat-a copy or two of a sporting paper; but not a sign of such mute witnesses to masculine ownerhip of that room did I ses.

'It's the sunniest room in the house,' went on that wickedly selfish little American woman, 'so the children and I spend a great deal of time here.'

"I have been shown through other American homes where the husbands had their 'own' dressing rooms, their 'own' hanging cupboards, and have noted with surprise the complexion balms, bodkins with pink bebe ribbon ready for running through lace, bonnet whisks and cut glass powder boxes lying upon the chiffonier along with military brushes and safety razors. 'I do believe in separating dressing rooms and separate dressing tables, the fond wife would gush, and then she would show me her husband's 'own hanging cupboard,' which, being fitted up with a new kind of patent trouser stretcher which she found exactly the thing for keeping her skirts in nicest order, she had taken possession of up to the farthest and darkest corner, where a pathetic and lonely greatcoat might hang on a solitary peg."

Does this thing, after all, make the patl to the divorce courts popular? Our Britis! ities sometimes think so. Men are brutisl olk at the best, and sometimes do like to

2. What did the soldier say when he bade his sweetheart good-bye? 3. The name of what flower is used every day in a slang expression? 4. The name of what flower did Johnny's mother use when she told him to rise. 5. What hotel in New York City bears the name of a flower? What flower is most popular in April? The name of what flower means comfort? 8. What is the saddest flower? The answers are: 1. Buttercup. 2. Forget-me-not. 3. Daisy. 4. Johny-jump-up. 6. Aster. 6. Easter lily. 7. Heartsease. 8.

To find partners for refreshments, baskets of sweet pea blossoms were passed, two of each kind, and the children matched colors. The table centerpiece was of sweet peas in a clear crystal vase with loose blossoms scattered over the cloth. The effect was lovely. A small bouquet of the same blossoms was laid on each napkin for the children to take home.

Bowl and Spoon Shower,

An inexpensive, yet very acceptable shower was given by a crowd of twenty girls who lived in the same neighborhood with the little bride-tobe. They wanted some kind of a jolly affair that would be somewhat different from the usual shower, as all were going to give rather costly wedding gifts, as the groom was a minister and going to take his wife to a far away western missionary field. Each girl brought a bowl and a spoon and of the girls to do the buying so as to have as few duplicates as possible. It was an afternoon thimble party and each brought one dish towel to hem, also for the bride-to-be. Then one by hostess. When tea was served the are now in fashion.

Then refreshments were served, each reporter and staff officer getting in their "stuff" by a certain appointed hour. Paper table cloths and napkins were used; paper dishes or light cardboard; the lamp shades were paper; the nut and bon-bon holders and the flowers. In fact, everything possible was of paper. Then a guessing contest was played with paper prizes, which were sets of paper doilies, rolls of shelf paper, box of letter paper, etc. It was a most unique affair and the costumes, hats, caps and neckties were wonderful creations. It is astonishing the number of attractive and useful things that an exclusive paper store will show; patterns for flowers and costumes are obtainable and nearly every design imaginable may be purchased in inex-

FRENCH POLICE ARE SHREWD

With But Slight Clue Detectives Run Down Murderous Gang in Slums of Paris.

A very clever stroke of business has just been accomplished by the criminal detective department, which has succeeded in capturing a masked band of four robbers, owing to the simple information that one of them was wearing a top hat when they tried to break into a house in the country in the middle of January. The house was inhabited by a woman in very comfortable circumstances. and her maid, says a Paris dispatch to the London Telegraph. They were aroused on that night from their slumbers by the barking of the dog, and the maid, peering out of a window, beheld several men in the garden, one of whom was trying to pick silence, he pointed a revolver at her; sented to the delighted guest of honor. but she rushed up to the roof and pulled vigorously at an alarm bell, which by previous arrangement with the spot if trouble came. Lights promptly flashed out at the windows of the houses near and men called out, "Don't be afraid; we are coming to your assistance."

The robbers took the hint and were soon speeding toward Paris in the motor car which had brought them. They were all wearing masks and the only clue that the maid could furnish was that one of them was a very big man and had a top hat.

The sub-chief of the criminal detective department argued that there were not many very tall men wearing top hats in Paris who went on such burglarious expeditions, so he set to work, and on learning that a person answering to the description given was often at a certain bar in Paris he set inspectors on the track, with the result that the man was captured there. He turns out to be an old offender, and he frankly stated that he and his friends had planned the murder of the old woman and her maid, and had on a previous occasion started for the place, but had had to give the enterprise up that night, as their motor car had broken down on the way. The three accomplices, all of whom are old offenders, too, are in custody.

It is whispered that sometimes dishes of the vegetarian menu are flavored with meat extract, which supplies a savory element not otherwise to be obtained. Something Ideal in All. Every man is idealistic; only it so often happens he has the wrong ideal. Every man is incurably sentimental, but unfortunately, it is so often a false sentiment. When we talk, for instance, of some unscrupulous commercial figure, and say that he would do anything for money, we slander him very much. He would not do anything for money. He would do some things for money; he would sell his soul for money, for instance; and, as Mirabeau humorously said he would be quite wise "to take money for muck." He would oppress humanity for money; but then it happens that humanity and the soul are not things that he believes in; they are not his ideals. But he has his own dim and delicate ideals; and he would not violate these for money. He would not drink out of a soup tureen, for money. He would not wear his coattails in front, for money. He would not spread a report that he had softening of the brain, for money .- Gil bert K. Chesterton.

SOUR CREAM AND ITS USES.

There are many cooks who will not take the trouble to save small quantitles of sour cream. It is really a valuable article of food and may be used in numberless ways in food combinations, saving butter, sweet cream and other shortening.

Sour cream makes a good salad dressing, a filling for pie together with raisins and eggs. Gingerbreads, cookies of all kinds and fried cakes are always to be depended upon for keeping qualities when sour cream is used in their composition. Here are a few ways of using sour cream in cakes:

Nut Cake.-Take three-fourths of a cup of sour cream, one cupful of sugar, one and a half cupfuls of flour, one cup of chopped English walnut meats, one egg, one-half teaspoonful each of sait and soda; flavor to taste. Bake in a loaf nearly an hour in a moderate

Feather Cake.-Take a cup of thick sour cream, one cupful of sugar, two cupfuls of flour sifted with a teaspoonful of soda and one of baking powder, a half teaspoon of salt, one egg, a teaspoonful of vanilla. Bake in a loaf.

Spice Cake,-To three-fourths of a cup of sour milk add the same amount of sugar, one and a half cupfuls of flour, two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, a teaspoonful each of baking powder, cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg, sifted with flour, and a half teaspoon of salt and soda, one whole egg and the yolks of two. Bake in layers and put together with boiled frosting.

Cream Cakes .- Use the above recipe and bake the cakes, in gem irons, sprinkling over each a little granulated sugar and putting a raisin in the center before baking.

Clean Sanitary Floors.

Varnish, which is commonly regarded only as a beautifier, is an efficient sanitary agent. Varnished surfaces can be cleaned by wiping, and the microbeladen dust is thus kept out of the air. A varnished floor is therefore not only up to date, beautiful and easily cleaned, but is wholesome. The National Association of Varnish Manufacturers, 636 The Bourse, Philadelphia, Penn., are distributing free a booklet entitled 'Modern Floors," which tells how floors may be made and kept wholesome and attractive. Send for one. Varnish is cheaper than carpet and far more satisfactory.

GOOD WORK WELL SUPPORTED

People Are Liberal in Their Contributions to Young Men's Christian Associations.

This year Young Men's Christian asociations are likely, it is said, to break all records in amount of money raised for new buildings. The success at Philadelphia, when $1,030,000 was secured in twelve days, has given stimulus both to Young Men's and Young Women's associations. Added to it was the $2,000,000 campaign for buildings in foreign capitals. Brooklyn women, with the aid of a few men, have just secured $415,000; Atlanta men, $600,000; Reading, $217,000; Elyria, Ohio, $127,000, where the com mittee asked for but $100,000; Charleston, S. C., $150,000; Raleigh, N. C. $75,000: Walla Walla, Wash., $48,000, and Ishpeming, Mich., $22,500. Association leaders say three things help them in getting these large sums: Christian unity, a short and public appeal, and real results accomplished in buildings already erected.

The judge held a conversation with the clerk of arraigns on the subject, and then, turning to the man, at whom he looked intently, he asked in a whisper: "Are you very deaf?" "Very," was the unguarded reply. "So I perceive," was the rejoinder of the judge, "but not whisper deaf. You had better go into good hair. These blessings are often the box. STRANGE COURT TRIAL

CHIMPANZEE TO DEFENDANT IN WEST AFRICAN TRIBUNAL

John" Pleads Guilty to Having Stolen Sweets and is Sentenced to Three Months' Confinement in Prison.

The following strange incident is re lated by Capt. George A. Briggs and occurred during his stay on the west coast of Africa about ten years ago. A chimpanzee named John, who was owned by a high official, one day broke from his chain and, strolling unconcernedly down the main thoroughfare, scattered the crowds before him. A native woman who was vending dainties dropped her tray and even forgetting her small child fied with the

The chimpanzee soon spied the tray of dainties and devoured them in a most convincing manner. The child, seeing all the sweets disappear, attacked the chimpanzee by the tail, but a bite from the brute sent the child yelling at the top of his lung power.
This so infuriated the natives that they made a combined attack on John and his lease of life would have been cut short had not his owner appeared. He faced the crowd and assured them that every man would be tendered his due. For a similar offense he inquired whether a man would not have to stand his trial in court, "Yah! Yah!" was the shout.

"Then," said John's owner, "let the woman appear in court tomorrow with the child and all the witnesses and promise you John will be there like a man to stand trial and take whatever punishment may be doled out to

The next morning the court was crowded when John appeared, chained and carried by several policemen. He was placed in the dock and the charge of larceny and assault was read to

His master turned to him and, asking him if he had any defense to oftaken. Here comes Gladys now. fer, was answered by the usual grunts of delight that John indulged in whenever his master greeted him.

The master then informed the judge that John had pleaded guilty and had no defense to offer. The judge, after due deliberation, sentenced the brute to three months and he was led away to prison, where he served his sentence.
