The storied "balm of Gilead," then so common and now so rare that only the sultan can have all he wants, is distilled from the amyris, a bush that once upon a time covered the mountains of Gilead. The ancient Hebrews made wide use of perfumes first in their religious onials. Old Books and Values.

Such a sale as that of the Hoe collection, which attracts widespread notice by reason of its spectacularism, always has the unfortunate effect of producing exaggerated ideas among many people concerning the value of old books. It is hard to explain to such people when they submit a volume a couple of hundred years old, the market anywhere from nothing to one dollar how it is that some old books are valueless, while others are priceless. An ignorant imagination, stimulated to accounts of fabulous sums readily paid at auction sales for old books, is not easily convinced that though the rules of book prices are sometimes subtle, still there are rules. And thus, whether the price at the big book auctions are or are not absurd, they are certainly productive of absurd ideas with people who have in their possession a dogeared volume or two which belonged to great-great-grand-

CELL CONDITIONS

Board Member Declares Prison Air Purer, Than in Hospital.

DSBORN HAS COPY OF LETTER

Mr. Wernica States That the Matter la in the Charge of Warden Simpson and Should Have Careful Attention.

Lansing.-Governor Osborn has re ceived a copy of a letter from C. L. Wernicke, member of the board of control of Jackson prison, and the original of which was sent to Warden Simpson of the prison. In his letter Mr. Wernicke says:

"I was glad to note the report covering the examination of the air in the cell blocks, from which it appears that the east block is no worse than the west block, and that the conditions in both blocks can be improved by proper attention to ventilation by way of the windows. I am specially gratified to find that the average conditions in both blocks shows the air to be better than in certain university buildings, including the nurses' hospital.

"The bacteria in the air differ widely in different cells in both blocks, and are governed almost entirely by the degree of cleanliness maintained. This is a matter entirely within your control, and should have careful attention from time to time.

"On the whole, this report absolutely disproves, so far as hygienic conditions are concerned, the clamor and unfavorable publicity which has been going the rounds of the press and which has agitated the minds of good people all over the state, and reduces the matter of just criticism solely to the size of the cells themselves, which are admittedly small. If your calculations and experiments recently undertaken, whereby two cells are made into one, prove to be feasible, this last criticism can also be overcome."

Puts Restriction on Investment.

Banking Commissioner E. H. Doyle chairman of the state securities commission, which passes upon the bonds proposed as investment for savings deposits, announced an important ruling by the commission.

It is held that bonds of electric railroads, street railways, gas or electric light or power companies must provide for the payment and retirement of at least 20 per cent, of the total bond issue within the first five years of the period specified for the payment and retirement of all bonds, and an equal percentage of the balance of such bonds must be retired each year of such period thereafter. Also that such companies must furnish certified copies of their franchises and all proceedings in connection therewith. The ruling also says:

"In view of the present depression and the changes that have taken place in the last three years in the bulk freight business on the great lakes, and in the increase of vessel tonnage and the improved facilities for loading and unloading, resulting in greatly increased carrying capacity and excess of vessel tonnage over the commodities to be carried, it is a question whether the securities commission will approve any further issues of bonds on steamships."

The state securities commission, composed of Banking Commissioner Doyle, Attorney General Kuhn and State Treasurer Sleeper, at a meeting held in Lansing, ruled that the mortgage securing a bond issue executed by any corporation of any character mentioned in subdivision F and section 27 of the banking laws, which are electric roads, street railways and gas or electric light or power companies, must provide for the payment A sufferer from insomnia states on retirement of at least 20 per cent. first five years of the period specified a raw onion sandwich just before go for the payment and retirement of all ing to bed. Two More Postal Savings Banks.

Three northern Michigan towns now have branches of the United States postal savings bank-Calumet. Houghton and Iron Mountain. The plan has worked out so well at the Houghton post office that it was decided to extend it to Calumet. It is believed that thousands of the mining ular banks will avail themselves of the protection of Uncle Sam for their money in the postal banks. This has ten found true at Houghton.

Ante Capitol Changes Occur

Changes took place in the staffs of three state departments through the retirement of some officials and the promotions and ap-pointments to fill vacancies.

In the banking department, Chief Clerk A. E. Manning succeeds William Donovan as deputy commiss er. Max Socha of Menominee, a clerk in the department, is promoted to be chief clerk.

In the insurance department, Deputy M. O. Rowland severs his connection to become president of the National Fire Insurance company of Detroit; Herbert P. Orr, actuary in the department, has been promoted, and Walter Otto succeeds from chief clerk to position of actuary. U. of M. Alumni Organizes

A Gratiot County Alumni association of the University of Michigan was organized at the home of Judge Kelley S. Searle. President Hutchins of the state university was present, and in his address outlined the policy and purpose of the movement. He pointed out that Michigan must become an endowed institution if she hopes to maintain her present high rank among the great universities of the country. It is the hope of President Hutchins to organize every county in the state into organizations similar to the Gratiot county body. Anyone who has ever attended Michigan or who has children there is eligible.

A constitution and by-laws were drawn up and adopted and the following officers elected: President, Judge Searle, Ithaca; vice-president, Dr. A. W. Wheeler, Alma; secretary and treasurer, Prof. F. E. Ellsworth, Alma.

Tax Commission Pleases Osborn.

Governor Osborn is satisfied that a great deal is to be accomplished in nual State Fair and Exposition of making more satisfactory the tax system of the state. Of course, he still believes that the solution of the tax problem is the payment of the state taxes by a corporation income tax, but he is saying very little about that just now.

"I am sure the new commission for do effective work," said the governor. "It has a big opportunity and I think the men who comprise the commission will give the work the necessary thought and attention to as-

J. R. Finlay, to whom has been in trusted the important work of makins a revaluation of the mining properties of Michigan, has selected Houghton as his headquarters for the work. Mr. Finlay said that as 80 per cent of the nining properties of the state of Michigan are located in the upper peninsula and as Houghton is a co tral point in the peninsu cided that he can direct the work be

THREE KILLED IN STORM IN VILLAGES NEAR DETROIT SUNDAY NIGHT.

STORM VELOCITY IS 40 TO 60 MILES AN HOUR.

The Worst Wind and Electric Storm in Many Years Sweeps Over Eastern Section of the State.

Sweeping through the city and state at a velocity varying from 40 to 90 miles an hour, an electrical storm that assumed tornado features outexaminer in the department for four The storm area extended down into Ohio, and, according to reports to the Detroit weather office, it was the heaviest storm since the tornado that destroyed Ypsilanti 20 years ago.

Trees were uprooted or snapped off, houses were twisted on their foundations, barns were blown to pieces, while telephonic, telegraphic and rail communication was cut off annual meeting. Secretary of State F. or seriously impaired throughout C. Martindale was elected chairman of Michigan and Ohio. Heavy objects were lifted and, carried hundreds of feet by the wind, and many miraculous escapes from death were reported.

In Detroit the strength of the storm was not as severely felt as in the suburbs. The velocity of the wind in Detroit never exceeded 60 miles an hour while in the outside territory it attained a speed of 96 miles, and varied between that point and 60 miles for 30 minutes.

Thoroughfares within a radius of 15 miles of the city were littered with trees, limbs, boards, barrels, boxes, in fact, everywhere that was movable and that had been left outside. Trolley wires were snapped when trees or poles fell on them and electric service on different interurban lines was delayed sometimes for hours. GARY SAYS STEEL CORPOR-ATION WOULD WELCOME ANY CONDITION OF STABILITY.

ADMITS PLAN FOR INTERNA TIONAL AGREEMENT COVER-ING WORLD TRADE.

Declares Sherman Law Fails to Meet Modern Needs and Predicts Radical Change.

Elbert H. Gary, chief executive of ficer of the U.S. Steel corporation, resuming his testimony before the house "steel trust" investigating committee denounced the Sherman antitrust law as archaic and declared that governmental control of corporations eventully would come.

Mr. Gary asserted that the steel corporation would welcome such a change and would be glad if the gov ernment would go so far as to dictate he prices of steel products.

In explanation of the reported world-wide "trust" Mr. Gray said that a conference would be held in Brussels July 5 and 6 to organize an international steel institute similar to he American Iron & Steel institute. The latter, he asserted, was formed to prevent demoralization in trade that and to permit an exchange of ideas dustry. In no instance, Mr. Gary said, had there been any attempt at an unlawful combination or an expressed or implied agreement. Mr. Gary said he would do all he could, morally and legally, to further the proposed international institute.

Aunt Selina rose slowly and drew the folds of her dressing gown around her, away from the contamination of my touch.

I sat back in a chair and grew comfortably drowsy in the monotony of her voice. It was a name that brought me to myself with a jerk.

"Mr. Harbison!" Aunt Selina was saying. "Then bring him down at once, James. I want no more deception. There is no use cleaning a house and leaving a dirty corner."

"It will not be necessary for me to stay and see it swept," I said, mustering the rags she had left of my self-

"You can not stir up a dust like this, young woman, and leave other people to sneeze in it," she said grimly. And I stayed.

I sat, very small, on a chair in a corner. I felt like Jezebel, or whatever her name was, and now the Harbison man was coming, and he was going to see me stripped of my pretensions to domesticity and of a husband who neglected me. He was going to see me branded a living lie. and he would hate me because I had put him in a ridiculous position. He was just the sort to resent being ridiculous.

Jim brought him down in a dressing-gown and a state of bewilderment. It was plain that the memory of the afternoon still rankled, for he was very short with Jim and inclined to resent the whole thing. The clock in the hall chimed half after three as they came down the stairs, and I heard Mr. Harbison stumble over something in the darkness and say that if it was a joke, he wasn't in the humor for it. To which Jim retorted that it wasn't anything resembling a joke, and for heaven's sake not to walk on his feet: He couldn't get around the furniture any faster.

"Is that so?" he asked politely, trying to be interested and to understand at the same time. He had not seen me. He was gazing fixedly at Bella, languishing on the divan and watching him with lowered lids, and he had given Jim a side glance of contempt. But now he saw me and he colored under his tan. A head-on collision occurred in the Ann Arbor yards, between a through freight and a local freight. Sixty loaded cars, with an engine weighing 150 tons, rushed through an open switch at the rate of 20 miles an hour, smashing into a smaller engine and freight train of six cars. The crews on both trains saw their danger in time and jumped, all escaping injury. A dozen cars were thrown from the rails, four more were completely telescoped. The collision drove the smaller freight, which was standing still in the yards, backward, breaking the tender from the engine least to close the door before he she planted herself squarely before and driving two cars from the track and shooting the rear car, a box car, loaded with ties, across the street and into an oak tree. Five cars of the incoming train were heaved from the track. Three of them were completly telescoped. Fragments from these cars were picked up a block from the disaster. Both engines were badly wrecked. The loss is estimated at $100,000. Considerable valuable merchandise was destroyed. The switch was left open by the crew of the local freight.

THINGS DONE BY GRANGES

Instances of Community Service That Reveal One Practical Side of Order's Work.

Real community service is being rendered by many Granges throughout the country, in addition to what they do for their own members and within the inner circles of their own direct activities. Below are cited instances where Granges have "done things" for the good of their local communities. These are gathered from many states and they all combine to reveal a highly practical side of Grange work:

One Grange set going a movement for cleaner streets and to accomplish that end it purchased from its own funds a considerable number of rubbish boxes, which were placed at convenient intervals along the sidewalks throughout the center of the village. On the front was inscribed: "Help the Grange keep our town clean." The effect was very marked and the amount of rubbish, loose papers, etc., that had formerly been thrown carelessly about the streets was at once reduced to the minimum, while a general awakening of interest to keep the village neat and tidy has distinctly shown itself in that community.

A Fourth of July celebration held under Grange direction and by Grange effort netted a handsome sum in one community that was far removed from the large centers. At the next Grange meeting those entire proceeds were voted turned over to the little struggling village church, to help it close its year free from debt.

A fine stone watering trough is a much-appreciated convenience in one community because the Grange raised the money, had the stone cut, the trough set in place and connected with a fine spring of never-failing running water. On the front is plainly cut the name and the number of the Grange and many a thirsty traveler, and perchance perspiring animal, blesses the Grange that thus evidenced its community interest along thoughtful and practical lines

Telephone lines, without number, owe their existence, with all the convenience and comfort they bring to isolated country homes, because the Grange led the way in getting the line through, when it seemed doubtful whether it could be done. Movements to secure the erection of proper guide boards, the repair of dangerous bridges, straightening of bad road curves and a variety of other local improvements in rural communities can be traced to Grange agitation and leadership, often followed by actual work and even the ex Grange funds to accomplish the end desired.

One Grange assumed the care of the village cemetery for a year, kept the ready to cut for two or three weeks, Grange also set going several plans

The Grange "lecture hour" forms s in many respects resembles the once so popular old-time lyceum, that for years was a conspicuous phase of rural life. Discussions of timely topics, music, literary and dramatic features, with a large recognition of the social side all these make up the Grange offering of the present time in its mostings all over the country.

As it requires a vast amount of labor to secure this data the maps cannot be ready for delivery before some time this fall.

The experience in other counties justifies the publisher in believing that the subscription list will contain by far the greater majority of the residents of this county, as in other places the numbers sold have ranged from 1500 to 2500. Among the reasons for this is that the map has a directory which makes it but an instants work to locate any farm and the address of the land owner, because every part of the map is covered by a guarantee and again because the map can be bought on subscription at $2.85.

wondrous knowledge that comes to men after years of squatting in the grand-stand, has asked me the same thing in a modified form.

How much figure does brainwork cut? I don't quite know myself. I do know that no pitcher, however powerful or agile, can hope to become a great performer without being thoroughly equipped "from the shoulders up." The steel arm is desirable, the good eye is even more desirable, but, without the little filling of gray matter that is popularly supposed to inhabit the skull, a pitcher might just as well pack his suit-case and go back to the quaint little village where he was first discovered. It isn't can deceive him mentally. For inthe iron in the arm, because lots of longshoremen could snap a pitcher's arm in two with a single twist; it's the combination of brain and body, the perfect co-operation of mind and muscle, that makes a man a successful major league twirler.

Most pitchers who break into fast company and stay there by consistently demonstrating their ability, are men that went through a long course of sprouts before they got anywhere. They, like hundreds of successful men in other walks of life, were forced to look, listen, and learn before they had anything like an even chance to win.

Many things have een said and written about pitchers outguessing batters, and batters outguessing pitchers, and to tell the truth there has always been a outguessing proposition. I have seen so many instances where guesses went wrong-so many hundreds of instances-that I am about the last human being in the world to nose as an oracle on the subject of pitching psychology.

Nevertheless, there certainly is a

ARTHUR DEVLIN. lot of psychology about pitching a baseball. Granting that a pitcher needs something more than a clear head, it must be admitted that the successful pitcher is always a student. There are a hundred and one little things that every good twirler has in his repertoire, a hundred and one little things that the average baseball lover doesn't know anything about. I have always made it a practice, before going into a crucial series, to get some kind of authentic information about the strength or weakness of every batter slated to face me, and once I know positively that a batter doesn't like speed, I feed him oceans of it. If I find that his weakness is a low curve, he gets that for a steady diet.

When we met the Athletics in the season of 1905. after having won the National league championship, I realized that a good part of the pitching burden would be on my shoulders, and I began making inquiries about the weak and strong points of the American league champions.

Monte Gross, who played on Connie Mack's infield in 1905, was known by me to be a dangerous hitter, though his average was not high. He was the kind of a hitter who was always bobbing up with a hit at a time when a hit meant trouble, and just before the series started, I did a little quiet detective work through friends of mine who knew the game and knew Monte. I had been told that Monte's weakness was a high, fast ball, but when I talked to "Kid" Gleason of the Philadelphia Nationals, Gleason told me that Cross had fought against and overcome his weakness, and had developed into a murderer of the high, fast delivery. Keeping Gleason's advice in mind, I gave Cross nothing but low-curves during the series, and had him helpless from the start. Had it not been for Gleason's tip, Monte's always there were some very close games before it was all over.

The greatest strength of a pitcher, aside from his control, is less than what the word implies-his variety of fast and slow balls, his serving of this or that curve. What we call the "change of pace," the delivering of a fast and then a slow ball with the same preliminary motions, and the mixing of a high fast ball and a slow curve are the successful pitcher's best assets.

Lovers of baseball have often asked me how I deal with a batsman whom I have never faced and about whose batting ability I know nothing. Every seasoned pitcher has been called on often enough to meet batters he never saw before, and in such pinches he must rely largely on luck. When I am facing a new batsman for the first time. I pay particular attention to two things-the position he assumes at the plate and the way he holds his bat. If, for instance, he holds his bat well up toward the middle there isn't much use of sending him speed. Batters of this type are always ready for speed and they can meet the fastest ball a man ever threw. A low curve on the inside will do for a starter, and if such a batter goes after it and fails to connect, you have his "number The batter who stands back from the plate with a long bat and a grip near the end is the one who can send a low curve into the southeastern quarter of the adjoining section. While a batter may work hard and overcome a certain we s, that does not necessarily mean that he becomes a great for a high ball he may lose his strength on low balls because he has been continually fed high ones by opposing pitchers. In that case I would try him on a low ball and if it was found that he could still hit that the only thing left would be a curve ball or change of pace. It is often the case that a pitcher cannot deceive a batter's eyesight but he stance, most any batter can hit a slow ball if he knows it is coming. The same is true in regard to a fast ball, but if he is expecting a fast ball and gets a slow one. strike out or a weak grounder to the infield will be his best effort. Some batters, a few of the chosen,

have no weakness MATHEWSON. that the most studious pitcher can detect. Men like Hans Wagner and Lajoie don't care much what the opposing pitcher has to offer:

I have often been told by my friends that a pitcher is about 90 per cent, of the game, and have never failed to assure them that nothing could be further from the truth. A winning family plate. The thought of defeat pitcher helps a baseball team a whole lot, of course, but there are eight other boys on that team, and nobody knows it better than the winning pitcher. The recent series between the Giants and Yankees will prove my point.

In that series I got away with every game in which I participated, but I won because I received magnificent support, both in the field and at the bat. Had George Wiltse been right, or had McGraw sent in Ames or Crandall, the story would have been the same if the support had been of the same splendid caliber. The wonderful work of Devlin, Devoe and Doylethe wonderful work of the whole team, for the matter of thatmade defeat practically impossible. With that great machine working behind me and with the greatest manager of them all for poor Bowerman. He had to keep on living there, and I backing me up, I simply couldn't lose. That's how much a pitcher is 90 per cent. of the game.

As a matter of fact, it would be impossible to establish the mathematical relation of the pitcher to a ball club. Figures in while his freedom of pitching motion is restricted. He must baseball are often misleading. One pitcher may work brilliantly for 13 innings and have a 1 to 0 defeat marked up against his record, while on the following day another pitcher may luckily win a 10 to 8 game. It is a matter of record that in the season of 1909. Leon Ames of the Giants, in finishing a 17 inning game and participating in two extra inning ties, pitched 30 consecutive innings without allowing a run and yet did not win one of the games.

From this it can be seen that the winning power of a team must depend largely upon its run-getting ability. To reach an estimate of value we will say that offensive play is half the game. I think that conservative. That would leave but 50 per cent., and the pitcher could not be all of that. I would say that about 30 per cent, of the strength of a ball club lies in the pitcher's box. No matter how effective a pitcher may be in the box he cannot win unless the team bats in runs behind him. It is true, however, that the work of a pitcher can have a very strong influence upon the work of the rest of the team. Disgruntled fans frequently make the assertion that infielders and outfielders will not support certain pitchers. That idea is erroneous. Ball players always want to win, no

FRANK CHANCE. matter who is in the box. It is usually lack of control on the part of the pitcher that disconcerts or demoralizes the infield. Players lose confidence because they are uncertain as to what will happen next. The catcher may call for a "pitch-out"that is, a ball thrown wide of the batter, so that the catcher dangerous but might have caused trouble in that series, for can have a clear throw to second to catch a runner who is about to steak. The infielders all see this signal and both the shortstop and second baseman leave their positions to assist in what the players call his "mixture." That means no more nor making the play. If the pitcher does not pitch-out, as expected, the batter may hit the ball through the spot left vacant and upset the whole team. Once they lose confidence in a pitcher in a game, it is very difficult to regain it. It is not that they will not support the pitcher. On the contrary, it is the fault of the pitcher who will not give them chance. If the pitcher has control everything works smoothly.

If it were true that pitching is 90 per cent. of the strength of a ball club, it would be logical to assume that the team having the best staff of pitchers would always win the pen-nant. That is not true. The baseball reader records will notice that the teams which their respective \ departments. And this

Some of the best pitchers ever connected with professional baseball have received bumps from sources so humble that any false esteem they may have held for themselves has van- to produce all the small varieties of ished like the snows of last season. Cy Young the noblest old Roman of them all, has been beaten by village teams. The best | York Commercial article referred to pitchers of the world's champions, not long after they had trimmed the Cubs, were beaten by the unknown Cuban teams they faced during their late barn-storming trip. They pitched good ball, the kind of ball that would defeat any team if it came to a matter of whole season's record, but luck, the one thing above all others that makes baseball the thrilling and perfect game it is, decreed otherwise. There are times, you see, and the Canadian Pacific. The article when all the science and all the outguessing in the world will not avail

I shall never forget a trimming I got from a village team in Michigan. Just after we had defeated the Athletics for the world's championship in 1905, Frank Bowerman and I went on a hunting trip. As soon as the natives of Frank's home town, Romeo, Mich., knew that I was his guest, they came and begged us to do the battery work for the Romeo club in a game they were to play with the club representing the adjoining town We agreed, and I am afraid that our willingness cost a lot of honest Romeo villagers everything except their never entered their minds, any more han it entered ours but the little rival towns club came over to Romeo and gave Messrs Bowerman and Mathewson, fresh from their big league triumphs, a touch of high life that they never forgot. They beat us 5 to 0, and I guess they are celebrating it to this day. I don't know just how they managed tt, be- "HONUS" WAGNER travagant statement. In natural fercause I was in perfect trim at that time.

I had everything, as we say in professional circles, and they hit everything I had. I didn't mind it much myself, but I felt sorry ety of production they excel them, didn't.

The real test of a pitcher's ability arrives when the opposing team gets men on bases. His responsibility is increased watch the base runner constantly and at the same time must > other words, he can't "wind up." Some pitchers find it difficult to get as much speed, curve or accuracy with grow good crops of the cultivated the short arm motion as they do with grasses, timothy, brome grass and their usual swing. that the base runner is also watching him, in an effort to ascertain whether the ball is to be delivered to the plate or to the base. Therefore, no preliminary movement on the part of the pitcher must betray his intentions.

George Van Haltren, the famous base runner of his day, once told me that he could tell to a certainty when certain pitchers were going to deliver the ball to the batter. This enabled him to get a running start and many times the poor catcher was blamed for allowing a stolen base, when in fact the oftcher was unconsciously at fault. John McGraw, manager of the Glants, spends several weeks each season in teaching his young pitchers to overcome that kind of a weakness.

SHERWOOD MAGEE,

The tremendous popularity of the national game—its popularity is growing every year-means that in the years to come there will be hundreds of baseball stars where there are dozs now. ### THREE CURED OF ECZEMA

"When a child, I suffered eight years with eczema. I could not sleep at night, and had sores all over my chest. We had doctors and none could do any good, until my mother saw the advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies in the paper. We used the Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent, and they cured me of eczema. I also used them on my five children. Two of them had eczema very badly. When my children had eczema, I was not worried at all, as I knew the Cuticura Remedies would do their work. This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia. E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. ### Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most florious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. P.

her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R.V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and oured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for woman's allments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknessee and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No house dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

BEAN GROWERS!

WE WOULD CALL ATTENTION TO OUR

Isbell's Northern Grown Improved Pea Beans for Seed

Our Seed Beans are grown especially for seed purposes and are carefully selected for purity and yielding qualities. You cannot afford to plant common; ordinary beans, even if they were furnished you free of cost.

Mixed seed causes the elevator man to cut the price HE will pay for your crop.

Seeds of POOR GERMINATION will cause a heavy loss by reason of the poor stand it gives.

Seed that is not bred for yielding qualities is productive of a heavy loss by reason of the vines throwing few pods and few beans in a pod, and the uneveness of ripening often causes serious loss. Send for samples, or call at our store and examine our seed. We have a complete line of MILLET, RAPE, SAND VETCH, BUCKWHEAT and ALFALFA.
