Smashed the Glass.

Roger Murphy, who for the past few months has been employed at various places here, about 8:30 o'clock last Saturday night threw a stake through each of the plate glass windows in the front of the "BB" restaurant and also broke the glass in two show cases in the interior of the room.

B. B. Turnbull, who conducts the restaurant, refused to longer board Murphy as he was in the arrears for board amounting to $15.00. This seems to have enraged Murphy who after throwing a chair left. He came back again and held another seance and again left. About 8:30 he put in his third appearance and was told by the proprietor to get out and keep away. Murphy left and crossed the street to Farrell's store where he picked up two stakes that were used by the street paving gang and returned and threw one through each window, completely demolishing each of them.

He was arrested and taken to Ann Arbor jail Saturday night. He was brought here Tuesday and taken before Justice Witherell where he deposited over $50 to pay for the damages and costs. Wednesday morning he was taken before Judge Kinne in the circuit court where the prosecuting attorney recommended that he be released on suspended sentence. Murphy has been on a spree for the last three weeks and his act was undoubtedly caused by his intoxicated condition. The charge against him was for the malicious destruction of property and this act was one that might have landed him in prison.

State Teachers Association.

Prof. John P. Everett secretary of the State Teachers Association which meets at Detroit in November, has given out the following list of speakers for that occasion:

President W. T. Frost of Berea College, Ky.; Prof. Suzzalo of the department of teachers, College of Columbia University, New York.

Prof. Warren H. Wilson, of N. Y. Gov. Osborn and Pres. E. A. Lyman of the Association.

He also announces the engagement of Madame Bernice Pasquale who gave such satisfaction to music lovers last season, also the Croton Quartet, of New York City. It is estimated that fully 8,000 teachers will be present in Detroit.

Prof. Everett is a former Sharon resident and is well known to many of our citizens.

Grange Chose Delegates.

Delegates representing the granges of Washtenaw county met Tuesday afternoon at the court house and chose three sets of delegates to go to the state convention to be held in Kalamazoo in December, at which time a strong effort will be made to bring the next state grange to Ann Arbor.

The delegates chosen were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Warner, of Ypsilanti grange; Mr. and Mrs. P. Broesamle, of North Sylvan grange; Mr. and Mrs. Tudolph Hoppe of Cavanaugh Lake grange.

Considerable difficulty was experienced in choosing the delegates because many of the granges have been negligent about sending in their state dues and were not eligible to send delegates.

Pays Large Amount.

Washtenaw county will contribute over $130,000 to the support of the state of Michigan this year, and more than $23,000 of that will go to the university.

M. A. C. receives over $4,000 and the Normal over $3,800. The largest single tax is the general purpose tax which will amount to $41,866.26 in this county. The contribution to the university ranks next in size and that to the state hospitals next. The fourth largest contribution is to the state highway department which collects nearly $5,000 in Washtenaw county.

According to the statement of the auditor general the tax is apportioned according to the last returns of the aggregate valuation of taxable property in the state, and as equalized and determined by the state board of equalization at its session in August.

The opening concert will be given at the Congregational church Wednesday, October 18. The entertainments are as follows:

Chelsea High Wins.

Chelsea high school football team met Plymouth here Friday and defeated them by a score of 37 to 0. Plymouth never had a chance, and Chelsea was never held for downs.

The team this year looks to be the best team ever turned out of the local high school. They have some good heavy line men and a fast back field. Time after time the forward pass was used and every time with success.

George Belser at end played a star game as did Paul Belser, Wedemeyer and Dunn. The work of Dunn is especially worthy of comment, he making repeated runs around the end and starting most of the forward passes, where he handled the ball without a slip.

The Plymouth team showed lack of proper training as the Chelsea boys were able to break up their formations before they got into motion.

Herbert Schenk deserves great credit for the manner in which the boys handled themselves, Friday. This week he is being assisted by Clayton Schenk and together they hope to put the team into shape to give Jackson a hard game Saturday.

"Madame Sherry."

"Madame Sherry," the sensational musical production of a decade, is to return to the New Whitney, Ann Arbor, Saturday, October 7, matinee and night, this being one of the cities included in the second trans-continental tour of this greatest of all musical plays.

Each year in the theatrical world there are just so many successful plays—plays that immediately grip the public and cause them to go to the theatre night after night, and applaud and enjoy the work of the artists appearing. Out of these successes there is generally one that strikes a note so much higher that it stands practically alone. Such was the case of "Madame Sherry." Its success was immediate and lasting, as was verified by the hundreds of thousands who flocked to see it whenever produced. Local theatre-goers will remember with pleasure the former engagement in Ann Arbor, and few there are who will not avail themselves of the opportunity to see and hear it again.

Joseph M. Swarthout.

Joseph M. Swarthout died at his home in Jackson, Friday morning, September 29, 1911, aged 72 years. He leaves a widow and foster son, C. B. Deyo, of Chicago. The deceased was a brother of the late Theodore Swarthout and has a number of nephews and nieces who reside here.

Mr. Swarthout was resident at Chelsea for a number of years, but moved to Jackson about 25 years ago.

The funeral was held from the late home at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. The remains were brought to Chelsea for interment in Oak Grove cemetery.

Farmers Club.

The Lima and Vicinity Farmers Club will hold their first meeting of the year at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Easton, Wednesday, October 11. The following is the program:

Song—Club.
Call—Answered by Quotations.
Reading—Mrs. Mary Yager.
Music—A. J. Easton.
Recitation—Clayton Ward.
Reading—Mrs. Harvey Clements.
Question Box.
Music—Club.

MONROE—At a meeting of the Masonic lodge of this city it was resolved that immediate steps would be taken to arrange for the erection of a Masonic temple.

Series of Winter Concerts.

For the first time in the history of the pre-festival numbers of the Choral Union series in Ann Arbor, two of the foremost prima donna of the Metropolitan company will be heard in full song recital. Both are sopranos, but of widely contrasting types; Mme. Gadecki, who will open the series, October 20th stands as one of the greatest dramatic sopranos, and the announcement of her appearance with the Metropolitan Opera company is always a signal for a crowded house. Mme. de Paquali who made such a success at the last festival will be heard December 8th. She is a coloratura soprano of the foremost rank and in her line occupies a similar position to Mme. Gadecki. Maud Powell, violin virtuoso, who will be heard November 17th, is ranked by competent critics as the queen of women violinists. Of the Flonzaley String Quartet little need be said, they being old friends. Josef Lhevinne, the Russian pianist, who will be heard in February is ranked as one of the greatest pianists now before the public. In Europe he is considered the second Rubinstein.

A feature of the series this season will be the fact that for the first time it will be possible to secure reserved seat tickets for the five winter concerts. This plan will avoid the necessity on the part of those who purchase such reservations, reaching the hall so far in advance of the beginning of the concerts. In this connection patrons are reminded that the concerts will begin promptly at 8 o'clock, and that the doors will then be closed until the end of the first number, as no one will be admitted during the performance of a number.

Course tickets admitting to the entire ten concerts will be sold as usual at $3 each. These may be returned to the office of the University School of Music, on Saturday or Monday, October 14th and 16th, and by paying 75 cents extra, a choice of reserved seats may be had. On the next two days, since the choice will not be so good the price will be reduced to 50 cents, and after that the price will be further reduced to 25 cents. Such persons as do not reserve their tickets will be admitted to such seats as have not been reserved. This general plan of reservation will be a great convenience to such as avail themselves of it, and at the same time the larger income derived will make it possible to schedule more artists of stellar magnitude, as may be seen from the all star course announced for the winter series.

For the convenience of the public patrons may reserve seats by mail. All orders received with remittance to cover, will be filled on the evenings preceding the respective sales.

ENLISTED MEN ARE WELCOME

General Grant Disproves Charge That Uncle Sam's Uniform Is a Subject for Prejudice.

From time to time complaints have been made that enlisted men in uniform were denied admission to theaters, restaurants, etc., and this has brought forth a certain amount of natural resentment. General Grant was anxious to get at the real facts of the case, and being located on the very borderland of the metropolis he was in a peculiarly happy situation for doing so.

He detailed three of the enlisted men stationed on the island, and sent them into New York in search of experiences. They were all clear-cut, manly young fellows, and their uniforms were above reproach. They walked boldly into the Waldorf-Astoria and asked the clerk to direct them to the main dining room. This he did with the greatest urbanity, and lest they should lose their way they were preceded by a bellboy, who seemed proud of his assignment. Their orders were taken and served without so much as an intimation that they were unwelcome. This was at breakfast.

When the hour of luncheon arrived they decided that Sherry's looked good, so they went in, were shown to the choicest seats in the house, overlooking Fifth avenue, and again were served, not only with every care, but as far as could be observed, without attracting any special attention.

The same thing was repeated when they went to Delmonico's for dinner at night, and when they went to the theater afterward they were given the best seats in the house. In the course of their travels many favorable remarks were made upon their manly figures, and nowhere did they meet with anything which could be regarded as prejudice against the uniform of the army.

General Grant was very much gratified with the result of his experience. In commenting on the matter he seems to have expressed the consensus of opinion when he said that "the clean, well-behaved soldier, even when in uniform, will be welcomed in any first-class place, so long as he behaves himself as a gentleman."

A Tax on Piety.

All the emergency gowns have an excuse for speeding. The courts will usually consider the plea of a doctor that he is answering an urgent call. Of course, police and fire apparatus, ambulances, etc., are allowed to rush. But piety has no show. In Malden, Mass., a man brought into court for speeding pleaded that he was late for church and was hurrying. The judge answered that humanity was not helped in any way by his effort, and that it would not have mattered to anybody but himself even if he had been late. At the best, therefore, his lawlessness was selfish and not pardonable. He fined the man $10. We think the judge was wrong. We think a prize might properly be given to a man hurrying to church in his automobile.

Formation of the Earth.

From his investigation of the varying velocity of the earth tremors as they pass through the interior, Professor Welchert has come to the conclusion that the earth consists of a central core of iron or steel about 6,500 miles in diameter, surrounded with a stony shell 930 miles in thickness. Between the outer solid rind and the inner layer of rock, covering the metallic core, he thinks there is a layer of liquid, or plastic material, lying a little less than 20 miles below the surface of the earth.

How to Pronounce "Steuben."

It is a singular thing that in this part of the country, where the name of Baron Von Steuben should be best known, it is most often mispronounced. In this city we have a street named for him, and not far to the north is the monument erected to his memory. The name here is commonly called "Stoo-ben," with the accent on the last syllable. The old soldier would never have recognized himself under that appellation. The correct pronunciation is not easy to express in English types, but as nearly as we may come at it, it was "Stoy-ben," with the accent on the first syllable.—Utica Observer.

Successful.

"Did you have a successful season at the seashore?"
"Very. I was rescued from drowning four times."

In Sunday School.

Teacher—Johnny, what do we call that awful region where there is so much fire and smoke?
Johnny—Pittsburgh.—Judge.

Emphatic.

Japanese English is always good. Frank Pixley, the librettist, is back from Japan, and brought with him some Japanese English. As a sample, he quotes the sign of a drycleaner: "We sell the true milk of the really cow."

Merely Dreams.

Hand—You'd never dream of the proposals I've had this summer.
Ride—No, dear. I'm not so good a dreamer as you are.—Boston Transcript.

GOV. OSBORN FREES MORE CONVICTS

PRESENT GOVERNOR HAS BEEN CLEANING UP MORE LEFT-OVER PRISON BUSINESS.

EIGHT "LIFERS" AMONG THE MEN WHO HAVE BEEN PAROLED.

A Total of Thirty-Five Convicts Let Go and Twenty-Six More Given Conditional Pardons.

According to the records Gov. Osborn has paroled 35 prisoners, who were confined in the various penal institutions of the state, and has granted pardons, many of them conditional, to 26 other prisoners.

The figures do not include any of the prisoners set free through action of the state board of pardons, but in a great many cases the chief executive, acting on recommendation of the pardon board, released certain prisoners.

The claim is made that many prisoners repent of their crimes and would make model citizens were they released an hour after being confined in prison. Gov. Osborn has, however, not made any releases of this nature, and of the number who have been given their freedom through executive clemency there apparently was a sufficient reason in every case.

NEW PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD.

Federation of Denominational Protestantism Leading Issue.

Close federation of denominational Protestantism will be the dominant note of the synod of the Presbyterian churches of the state of Michigan, which meets at Woodward Avenue Presbyterian church, next Tuesday, continuing through the following Thursday. On Thursday evening there will be a mass meeting in the interest of church federation at which Dr. William T. Jaques, pastor of the Trumbull Avenue Presbyterian church and the chairman of the church extension commission of synod, will preside.

Distinguished visitors to the synod this year will be Gov. Chase S. Osborn and Rev. Dr. John Fox, D. D., one of the most eloquent Presbyterian divines in the world, who will deliver part of his famous address on the tercentenary of the St. James version of the Bible.

Rain May Ruin Sugar Beet Output.

Favored by excellent growing weather all summer and with thousands of tons of beets in the fields and sheds ready for the machinery to start and commence slicing operations, the sugar beet industry has suffered one of the most severe setbacks that it has ever encountered because of excessive rains on beets in the field and near the weighing stations. It is reported at the stations that the loss will be great. Sunday the sugar beet men in eastern Michigan looked out and saw another drizzling rain that started early Saturday evening and kept it up thoroughly soaking and rotting the beets in several different counties. Steady rain on the freshly pulled and tender meat of the beets tends to produce a rot. The word had gone forth to open the Carrollton plant of the Michigan Sugar company, but the opening has been postponed.

Looking Into Mine Assessments.

State Tax Commissioner Shields was in Bessemer to review the local session. All the mines of Bessemer, Bessemer township and Wakefield were represented by their attorneys or superintendents. All of them attacked the figures given in the recent report of Prof. Finley, asserting that they were worthless, and claiming also that all other property in the county is undervalued.

State Teachers to Meet in Detroit.

Wayne Gardens and the Light Guard armory, the two largest assembly rooms in Detroit, have been selected for the great gathering of Michigan teachers, which will meet November 2 and 3, the occasion being the annual convention. Eight thousand teachers are expected to be in attendance. Similar programs will be given in both places, with double performances by musicians and speakers.

Norman Flowers, Jackson, formerly acting secretary of Detroit Board of Commerce, is placed on the LaPeer state hospital home by Gov. Osborn.

Judge Clarence W. Sessions began work as United States district judge in Grand Rapids Tuesday. Judge Arthur C. Denison, whose appointment to the circuit judgeship makes room for Judge Sessions, has left for Cincinnati.

All freight rates from Atlantic seaboard to Escanaba, Mich., on all eastern railroads, were attacked as excessive and discriminatory, and a 12 to 20 per cent reduction asked, by the Business Men's association of Escanaba.

Felix Gallagher, Kalamazoo cigar dealer, read in the paper of the death of John Gallagher, and thinking that it might be his father, went to the hospital, where he recognized the remains as those of his parent. He had not seen him in the last 14 years and when he heard from him five years ago he was in Chambersburg, Pa.

HUNDREDS KILLED WHEN DAM BREAKS

DAM OF BAYLESS PULP & PAPER CO. BURSTS ONE MILE NORTH OF AUSTIN, PA.

250 ARE DEAD AND 2,000 PERSONS ARE HOMELESS

Fire Sweeps the Ruins and Scores That Were Spared by the Rushing Torrents Are Buried Alive.

Austin, a town of 3,200 residents, in the northern part of Pennsylvania, was swept out of existence and more than 250 people were killed by a flood which followed the breaking of the Bayless Pulp & Paper company's dam, a mile and a half north of the town. Almost 500,000 gallons of water rushed over the place in a wall 10 feet high, wrecking every structure in its path.

The bursting of scores of natural gas mains, as the buildings were swept away, added fire to the general horror of the flood, and hundreds of those imprisoned in the wreckage were burned to death.

The catastrophe paralleled in many respects the destruction by flood of Johnston, Pa., in 1859, in which over 2,000 lives were lost. The extent of the loss of life and the destruction of property cannot be known for several days. The property loss will surely be several millions of dollars.

The food supplies of the town were destroyed and immediate aid to survivors was urgent. Hundreds of those who escaped were seriously injured in the collapse of their homes and the panic of the rush for safety.

Within an hour of the first general knowledge of the calamity, special trains bearing physicians, nurses and food supplies were on the way to the ground. Hundreds of automobiles bearing rescuers also toiled over the rough and tortuous mountain roads to lend aid.

Temporary hospitals were fitted up in nearby farm houses and improvised structures fashioned from the wreckage. The Red Cross also made preparations for immediate aid to survivors.

The intense heat of fire sweeping from the natural gas mains made it impossible for rescuers to visit the scene of destruction for many hours. Looters were among the first on the ground and Governor Tener dispatched a large force of state police to the town to protect the victims.

The dam held back a huge mass of water. It was 530 feet long, 49 feet high and 32 feet at the base and was of concrete. On January 21, 1909, a crack was noticed in the dam. Then followed a leak and portions of the dam moved 16 inches. Repairs were made, but the fears of many that the repairs were not stable were realized when the break came.

Women Finally Reject "Kimmel"

Mrs. Estella Kimmel, mother of the long-missing George A. Kimmel, who declares that "George A. Kimmel" who has just shown up in Illinois is not her son, left for Chicago in company with her daughter, Mrs. Edna M. Bonsett, to recuperate after the long ordeal over trying to either prove or disprove that the Man of Mystery, the Human Enigma, is her son.

If the man proves to be her son she will not get $25,000 life insurance until he "dies again." The long conference held Sunday between the man and the two women did not settle the mystery as to whether the man is what he claims; that is, did not settle the matter to all concerned. All incidents in the life of the real Kimmel mentioned by the women had no place in the memory of the man, and all supposed incidents related by "Kimmel" had no place in the memory of the women.

After the conference the women declared again that the man was not the real Kimmel, the banker who disappeared 13 years ago.

Kansas may properly be designated the Sunflower state, but it is believed that even it has been outdone this year by Michigan. It is at least questioned that the southwestern commonwealth has produced a sunflower plant three times the height of the grower. That is an upper Michigan record registered this season. Mrs. George Glosser has in blossom in her yard at Sault Ste. Marie a huge sunflower plant, the stalk of which towers 15 feet 3 inches.

There recently was advanced the claim that throughout the upper peninsula of Michigan only one chestnut tree existed. This one is in the yard of William Bacon, at Sault Ste. Marie, and the fact that it has borne heavily this year was held to demonstrate that raising chestnuts in the Lake Superior region was altogether feasible. It was developed that John Parker, an old-time great lakes navigator, has in his yard at Ontonagon, five trees of the same kind and that each season for several years past they have been heavily laden with nuts. The trees were raised from sprouts brought from the east.

EAST FREIGHTS TO U. P.

Detroit Merchants Will Be Able to Ship Goods to North Ahead of Chicago.

Arrangements are under way for a package car freight service into the principal points of the upper peninsula which in the future will make it possible for the merchants of Detroit and the upper peninsula to trade with each other without the delays of the past, which made it all but absolutely necessary for the Chicago market to get all of the upper peninsula business.

St. Ignace, Marquette and Calumet will be reached with a second morning delivery, and Houghton, Michigamme, Ishpeming and Negaunee the third day.

Under the new schedule to upper peninsula points the necessity to bill by way of Chicago, where from one to two days are always lost in shipping, will be done away with.

Gen. Reyes Makes Himself an Exile.

Gen. Bernardino Reyes, with several prominent Mexicans who have been active in the Reyes propaganda, sailed from Vera Cruz for New York on the steamship Monterey. This was a great surprise to Mexicans. Reyes had kept his moves secret for the past few days, and it was not even known generally that he had left Mexico City until he arrived in Vera Cruz in a special car.

He sent a telegram to President de la Barra, in which he said he was leaving Mexico for the good of the country, as he believed that there was much more chance of peace if he were absent. He added that he desired that his party continue its organization as he expected to return to Mexico in good time.

Warns Iowans of Business Perils.

President Taft faced the middle west with an appeal to check unjust prejudice against the business enterprise of the country. In an address in Waterloo on the relation of the government to the business of the country which he delivered here late this afternoon before an outdoor audience of several thousand people, the president said that the people of every section and class of this country were all in the same boat, and that to persist in sectional vindictiveness against the prosperity of another section of the country would enforce business prostration throughout the land as surely as night follows day. "We are all tossed by the same waves," he cautioned them.

ITALIANS BOMBARD TRIPOLI TUESDAY

TURKS RETIRE FROM THREATENED CITY, GATHERING ARAB ARMY IN INTERIOR.

GERMANY WITHHOLDS NEUTRALITY PROCLAMATION.

Conflicting Reports About Ottoman Navy, Italians Denying Porte's Statement Saying Fleet Is Safe.

The Italian fleet bombarded Tripoli, opening fire on the city at 11:30 a. m. Tuesday, when the three days of grace granted to the garrison on Saturday in which to haul down the Turkish flag had expired.

It was reported by wireless that ships passing at sea could easily distinguish the heavy roar of artillery fire from the battleships.

While no details were available it was a foregone conclusion that the Turks offered little or no resistance against the concentrated fire from the heavy guns of the steel armored battleships—the most powerful of the Italian navy. It was the plan of attack to concentrate the fire on the Turkish defenses, where the antique three-inch Krupp guns, mounted in the old Turkish fortresses, could make no adequate return to the fire of Italy's great modern cannon.

The Turks and Arab residents fled to the foothills lying south of the city, where intrenchments had previously been thrown up. An army of 50,000 Arabs was said to be in the interior, out of range of the warships, armed with Mauser rifles and ready to advance on the Italian land forces.

It was announced at Germany's foreign office that Germany probably would not proclaim her neutrality towards the Turco-Italian war. The reason ascribed for this decision was the probability that the conflict would be of brief duration.

No steps toward mediation were likely to be taken, it was said, before the Tripolitan coast has been occupied by the Italians.

If hostilities in the Turco-Italian war spread beyond the military occupation of Tripoli by Italy the American government will dispatch a flying squadron of cruisers to the Mediterranean to unite with the small naval force now there.

The Italian embassy has authorized the following statement: "Mediation by the powers between Italy and Turkey is mentioned by French and foreign newspapers. No declaration in this regard has been made by the royal government, which is resting upon the logic of events. It cannot speak of mediation or negotiations until after Turkey shall have recognized the occupation of Tripoli by Italy."

Madero Elected President.

Francisco I. Madero was elected president of Mexico by 95 per cent of votes cast, making the election practically unanimous. Madero claims that Pino Suarez has been elected vice-president over De La Barra by 30 per cent. De La Barra carried the city of Mexico by 15 per cent majority, but the absence of the Revistas from the polls defeated De La Barra in the country.

Madero announced that at least one of the present cabinet would remain. This was Ernesto Madero, the minister of finance. The portfolio of foreign relations has been offered to De La Barra, but he expressed his unwillingness to accept.

The electoral college will have in it no fewer than 20,000 delegates and party leaders announced that if the vote indicates defeat they will not cease working to change this in the vote of the electors on Oct. 15. The estimated vote in the capital was 90,000.

Heart Disease Caused Death of the Famous Naval Hero.

Rear-Admiral Winfield Scott Schley dropped dead near the corner of Forty-fourth street and Fifth avenue, New York, while on his way downtown. The admiral died before medical aid could reach him.

Admiral Schley had been out of town over Sunday, and on his return had gone to the New York Yacht club, on West Forty-fourth street. After a short stay at the club, Admiral Schley left the club house and started to walk along Forty-fourth street towards Fifth avenue, when he was taken suddenly ill. A hurry call was sent for physicians, and an ambulance, but before aid could reach him the admiral was dead.

SERIAL
STORYThe Courtship
of Miles
StandishWith Illustrations
by Howard Chandler ChristySailing of the Mayflower

Just in the gray of the dawn, as the mists uprose from the meadows, there was a stir and a sound in the slumbering village of Plymouth; clanging and clinking of arms, and the order imperative, "Forward!" Given in tone suppressed, a tramp of feet, and then silence.

Figures ten, in the mist, marched slowly out of the village. Standish the stalwart it was, with eight of his valorous army, led by their Indian guide, by Hobomok, friend of the white men, Northward marching to quell the sudden revolt of the savage.

Giants they seemed in the mist, or the mighty men of King David; Giants in heart they were, who believed in God and the Bible, Aye, who believed in the smiting of Midianites and Philistines.

Take His Musket, and So Stride Out. Over them gleamed far off the crimson banners of morning; Under them loud on the sands, the serried billows, advancing, Fired along the line and in regular order retreated.

Many a mile had they marched, when at length the village of Plymouth Woke from its sleep, and arose, intent on its manifold labors.

Street was the air and soft; and slowly the smoke from the chimneys Rose over roofs of thatch, and pointed steadily eastward; came forth from the doors, and paused and talked of the weather, that the wind had changed, and was blowing fair for the Mayflower;

Spoken of their Captain's departure, and all the dangers that menaced, being gone, the town, and what should be done in his absence, erring among the birds, and the tender voices of women.

Consecrated with hymns the common cares of the household. Out of the sea rose the sun, and the billows rejoiced at his coming; Beautiful were his feet on the purple tops of the mountains; Beautiful on the sails of the Mayflower riding at anchor,

Battered and blackened and worn by all the storms of the winter. Lobsely against her masts was hanging and flapping her canvas, Rent by so many gales, and patched by the hands of the sailors. Suddenly from her side, as the sun rose over the ocean,

Darted a puff of smoke, and floated seaward; anon rang Loud over field and forest the cannon's roar, and the echoes Heard and repeated the sound, the signal-gun of departure!

Ah! but with louder echoes replied the hearts of the people! Meekly, in voices subdued, the chapter was read from the Bible, Meekly the prayer was begun, but ended in fervent entreaty!

Then from their houses in haste came forth the Pilgrims of Plymouth, Men and women and children, all hurrying down to the sea shore, eager, with tearful eyes, to say farewell to the Mayflower.

Homeward bound o'er the sea and leaving them here in the desert. Foremost among them was Alden. All night he had lain without slumber, Turning and tossing about in the heat and unrest of his fever. He had beheld Miles Standish, who came back late from the council, Stalking into the room, and heard him mutter and murmur, Sometimes it seemed a prayer, and sometimes it sounded like swearing.

Once he had come to the bed, and stood there a moment in silence; Then he had turned away, and said: "I will not wake him; Let him sleep on, it is best; for what is the use of more talking!"

Then he extinguished the light, and threw himself down on his pallet, Dressed as he was, and ready to start at the break of the morning. Covered himself with the cloak he had worn in his campaigns in Flanders.

Slept as a soldier sleeps in his bivouac, ready for action. But with the dawn he arose; in the twilight Alden beheld him Put on his corselet of steel, and all the rest of his armor, Buckle about his waist his trusty blade of Damascus,

Take from the corner his musket, and so stride out of the chamber. Often the heart of the youth had burned and yearned to embrace him.

Often his lips had essayed to speak, imploring for pardon; All the old friendship came back, with its tender and grateful emotions; But his pride overmastered the nobler nature within him.

Pride, and the sense of his wrong, and the burning fire of the insult. So he beheld his friend departing in anger, but spoke not; Saw him go forth to danger, perhaps to death, and he spoke not!

Then he arose from his bed, and heard what the people were saying. Joined in the talk at the door, with Stephen and Richard and Gilbert, Joined in the morning prayer, and in the reading of Scripture, And, with the others, in haste went hurrying down to the sea shore, Down to the Plymouth Rock, that had been to their feet as a doorstep Into a world unknown—the cornerstone of a nation!

There with his boat was the Master, already a little impatient. Lest he should lose the tide, or the wind might shift to the eastward, Square-built, hearty, and strong, with an odor of ocean about him, Speaking with this one and that, and cramming letters and parcels Into his pockets capacious, and messages mingled together.

Into his narrow brain, till at last he was wholly bewildered. Nearer the boat stood Alden, with one foot placed on the gunwale, One still firm on the rock, and talking at times with the sailors, Seated erect on the thwarts, all ready and eager for starting.

He, too, was eager to go, and thus put an end to his anguish, Thinking to fly from despair, that swifter than keels or canoes, Thinking to drown in the sea the ghost that would rise and pursue him.

But as he gazed on the crowd, he beheld the form of Priscilla Standing dejected among them, unconscious of all that was passing. Fixed were her eyes upon him, as if she divined his intention, Fixed with a look so sad, so reproachful, imploring and patient.

That with a sudden revulsion his heart recoiled from its purpose, As from the verge of a crag, where one step more is destruction. Strange is the heart of man, with its quick, mysterious instincts!

Standing Dejected, Unconscious of All. Strange is the life of man, and fatal or fated are moments, Whereupon turn, as on hinges, the gates of the wall adamantine!

"Here I remain!" he exclaimed, as he looked at the heavens above him, Thanking the Lord whose breath had scattered the mist and the madness, Wherein, blind and lost, to death he was staggering heading.

"Yonder snow-white cloud, that floats in the ether above me, Seems like a hand that is pointing and beckoning over the ocean. There is another hand, that is not so spectral and ghost-like, Holding me, drawing me back, and clasping mine for protection. Float, O hand of cloud, and vanish away in the ether!

Roll thyself up like a fist, to threaten and daunt me; I heed not Either your warning or menace, or any omen of evil! There is no land so sacred, no air so pure and so wholesome, As is the air she breathes, and the soil that is pressed by her foot-steps.

Here for her sake will I stay, and like an invisible presence Hover around her for ever, protecting, supporting her weakness; Yes! as my foot was the first that stepped on this rock at the landing, So, with the blessing of God, shall it be the last at the leaving!"

Meanwhile the Master alert, but with dignified air and important, Scanning with watchful eye the tide and the wind and the weather, Walked about on the sands; and the people crowded around him

How Good You Have Been to Me.

Saying a few last words, and enforcing his careful remembrance. Then, taking each by the hand, as if he were grasping a tiller, Into the boat he sprang, and in haste shoved off to his vessel, Glad in his heart to get rid of all this worry and flurry,

Glad to be gone from a land of sand and sickness and sorrow, Short allowance of victuals and plenty of nothing but Gospel! Lost in the sound of the oars was the last farewell of the Pilgrims, O strong hearts and true! not one went back in the Mayflower!

No, not one looked back, who had set his hand to this plowing! Soon were heard on board the shouts and songs of the sailors Heaving the windlass round, and hoisting the ponderous anchor. Then the yards were braced, and all sails set to the west wind, Blowing steady and strong; and the Mayflower sailed from the harbor, Rounded the point of the Gurnet, and leaving far to the southward Island and cape of sand, and the Field of the First Encounter.

Took the wind on her quarter, and stood for the open Atlantic, Borne on the send of the sea, and the swelling hearts of the Pilgrims.

Long in silence they watched the receding sail of the vessel, Much endeared to them all, as something living and human; Then, as if filled with the spirit, and rapt in a vision prophetic, Baring his hoary head, the excellent Elder of Plymouth

Said, "Let us pray!" and they prayed and thanked the Lord and took courage. Mournfully sobbed the waves at the base of the rock, and above them Bowed and whispered the wheat on the hill of death, and their kindred

Seemed to awake in their graves, and to join in the prayer that they uttered. Sun-illumed and white, on the eastern verge of the ocean, Glimed the departing sail, like a marble slab in a graveyard; Buried beneath it lay for ever all hope of escaping.

Lo! as they turned to depart, they saw the form of an Indian. Watching them from the hill; but while they spake with each other, Pointing with outstretched hands, and saying, "Look!" he had vanished. So they returned to their homes; but Alden lingered a little,

Musing alone on the shore, and watching the wash of the billows Round the base of the rock, and the sparkle and flash of the sunshine, Like the spirit of God, moving visibly over the waters.

(TO BE CONTINUED.) Height of Fame. "And how is your son Henry getting on in literature?" asked the visitor. "Oh, he's doing famously," said the proud mother. "His autograph brought $10 the other day."

TAX GO MISSION
COMPLETES REPORTMay Be Submitted to Special Session of Legislature.

PLAN NEW METHOD OF TAXING

Interurban Electric Lines to Be Put on the Same Basis as Steam Roads—Inheritance Levy Will Be Increased.

Lansing.—The special tax commission made up of Attorney Roger I. Wykes of Grand Rapids, Prof. Adams, University of Michigan, and Patrick H. Kelley, Lansing, have completed their report, which it is supposed Governor Osborn will submit to a special session of the legislature in January, with the exception of a recommendation as to the assessment of mining property, upon which point the members of the commission are at sea and looking for assistance.

Governor Osborn's object in securing a special tax commission was to have it devise a corporation tax and recommend such other changes in the existing tax laws that the moneys derived from them might be diverted to the general fund of the state and thus reduce the state tax. In a general way the recommendations of the committee will be as follows:

Taxation of corporations for state purposes on so-called "intangible values," which will be arrived at by capitalizing the net earnings and subtracting the assessed physical valuation upon which corporations now pay taxes.

Increasing the inheritance tax so that the state will realize $1,000,000 a year instead of $450,000 as at present and diverting this money from the primary school fund to the general fund.

Taxing interurban electric railway property by the same method as railroad property is now generally taxed and compelling such property to pay the average rate, instead of being taxed locally. The money thus derived to be also placed in the general fund of the state.

In dealing with the corporation tax proposition the commission has secured much data showing where numerous automobile companies and other corporations are assessed at only a fraction of their real value, while at the same time they are paying enormous dividends. Members of the commission admit that the report will advocate the adoption of the corporation tax system which has been in vogue in Massachusetts since 1885 and from which the state gets $9,000,000 a year, which is turned back to the various counties instead of being used to defray the expenses of the state as the Michigan commission will recommend.

To illustrate the working out of the corporation tax P. H. Kelley of Lansing worked out the following example: "Suppose a corporation is assessed on its physical property at $1,000 and that it pays $500 dividends a year. If the dividend were capitalized at 10 per cent, that would make the value of the corporation based on earnings $5,000. From the latter amount subtract the physical value and it would leave $4,000, the amount that would pay the average rate for state purposes."

Village of Mio May Go Thirsty. Officials of the state of Michigan have discovered that the state owns the site of a water station from which the village of Mio, Oscoda county, secures its water supply. No one knew of the state's ownership until one day last week, and no one knows now just what is included in its title or what the state can do with its property of this character.

The property consists of 40 acres of land in the center of which is a pumping station operated by a private corporation to pump water from several wells located on the tract for the benefit of residents of Mio. The property comes into the possession of the state through the failure of the owner, who is a stockholder in the water company, to pay his taxes. Under the provision of the law, after the state has waited for five years for the owner to redeem the land, the title passes to the state, and this period having passed the state land department sent an employee to look over the land.

New Corporations. New corporations filing articles with the secretary of state are: Smith & Baldridge Machine company, Detroit, increase from $50,000 to $90,000; Michigan & Indiana Traction company, Battle Creek, $500,000; Michigan Leather Packing company, Detroit, $5,000; stockholders, S. C. Leonard, R. G. Maloney, W. R. Leonard; Peninsula Land & Orchard company, Btely, $1,000.

Want to Know About Arizona's Bonds. State officers are wondering what is back of an attempt to secure a ruling from them as to whether the bonds of the former territory of Arizona are exempt from taxation in this state. Several officials have been asked to rule on the question, the attorney general's department in particular being besieged with inquiries, among them being one from the attorney general of another state and one from the banking commissioner of still another state.

Michigan Patents. Michigan patents were issued as follows: Nelson A. Austin, Spring Arbor, molding shingles; Lewis A. Aspinwall, Jackson, bee hive; Kolevi Bogale, Cedarville, hand wrench; Auguste A. Caille, Detroit, ticket vending machine; Albert Dudley, Menominee, wrench; David H. Evans, Detroit, lock device for controlling levers of motors; John Kerwin, Detroit, surface grinder; Luther V. Moulton and P. A. Jones, Grand Rapids, starter for internal combustion engines.

Allegrettes May Be Worn by Women. Michigan women who will, may continue to wear the beautiful allegrettes which are torn from the bodies of white heron and egret for the adornment of their hats. At the suggestion of State Game Warden Oates, the attorney general's department has been examining the law to ascertain if it were not possible to prohibit the sale, having in possession of the wonderful plumes, which are secured by killing the birds at breeding time when every nest is occupied by little birds, thus left to starve.

The law, however, will not cover, Attorney General Kuhn having furnished the warden with an opinion to that effect. "I understand," reads the opinion, "that an allegrette was at one time a part or portion of the plumage of a bird, and also that in its finished stage it is a distinct article of manufacture and trade and sold under a distinctive name. It is my opinion that as such distinct articles of manufacture and trade they have lost their identity as a part of a game or non-game bird within the meaning of the statute. There are a vast number of articles of trade which in whole or part represent a part of some animal or bird protected by the laws of this state in its wild state. I can direct your attention to no better illustration than knife handles made from the antlers of deer."

HOUSEKEEPING RUTS.
When are we to be emancipated from the old bugbear of Madam Grundy and the way mother used to do? Mothers ways were good ways, but conditions change. "The laws that in our fathers' days were good" are not the laws for us; so we must get out of the ruts and be able to swing along on high ground.

Is the old-fashioned Monday the best day for washing, or is it the day that has always been used and so we follow the procession? Tuesday is in every way a better day, for if the clothing must be picked up, looked over, mended or stains removed, Sunday is not the day for it. After the day of rest Monday comes full of the many things that were left from the week end. If the laundry work is added to all the rest, it makes too full a day. In homes where the day is used to get the clothing in condition to wash, the work is made much lighter.

Must we always serve potatoes with our dinner or every other meal? Can we not occasionally break away and get out of that rut? Serve hominy, fried bananas or boiled rice.

Do you have the same kind of dessert every week or two? There are simply millions of ways of preparing desserts. Have a variety, so that the family do not tire of the same one.

We are always glad of finding an old friend in a new dress. For those who are fond of trips, this recipe will be acceptable: Cut rounds of tripe with a pall cover in rounds four or five inches across. If it is pickled, add salt, pepper, olive oil and onion juice; and if it is not pickled, a little lemon juice. Let it stand an hour or longer in this marinade, turning often. Then broil delicately, lay on a plate and butter the rough sides generously. Garnish with chopped parsley or cress, and serve two rounds to each person.

When cooking lima beans, add a seasoning of onion and a teaspoonful of curry moistened with a little lemon juice.

HALLOWEEN CANDIES.

There is no candy that the younglings like so well as butter scotch. Take three cups of brown sugar, two three-fourths of a cup of water, two tablespoonsful of butter, an eighth of a teaspoonful of soda, a teaspoonful of molasses, and a few grains of salt. Boil all together except the butter until a thread is formed when dropped from a spoon. Pour into buttered pans, let stand until cool enough to mark off in squares.

Taffy—Cook together a cup of molasses, a cup of sugar, two-thirds of a cup of butter, an eighth of a teaspoon of salt, two-thirds of a cup of milk. When brittle flavor and pour into hot buttered pans.

Molasses Candy.—Boil together until brittle in water two cups of molasses, two tablespoonsful of butter, two cups of brown sugar, a cup of water and a third of a cup of vinegar. Four into greased pans and pull when cool enough. Cut in lengths with a pair of shears. Wrap in waxed paper.

Pralines.—Boil together one and seven-eighths cups of powdered sugar, a cup of maple sirup and a half cup of cream until a soft ball is formed when tried in water. Remove from the fire and beat until of a creamy consistency. Add two cups of hickory nuts and drop on waxed paper in small patties.

Chocolate Carmels.—Put two tablespoonsful of butter in a saucepan, and when melted add a half cup of milk and the same amount of sugar and a cup of molasses. When boiling hot stir in four squares of chocolate; cook until brittle when tried in cold water, stirring occasionally to prevent burning. Remove from the heat and beat three minutes. Add a cup of walnut meats and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Turn into buttered pan and mark in squares when cool enough. Wrap each in paraffin paper.

Failed to Scare Tim. A plan was formed to scare a certain Tim Casey, living in a village near Belfast, on his returning from market by night past the churchyard. As he went by, the usual turnip, white sheet, and lantern of the conventional ghost were submitted to his gaze, with the customary weird howls. Tim, however, simply looked fixedly at the apparition for a moment and remarked: "Arrah, now, and is it a general resurrection, or are ye just taking a walk by yourself?"

NEVER mind a change of scene—
Try a change of thinking.
What if things seem sordid, mean,
What if the use of thinking?
Life's not always storm and cloud,
Somewhere stars are shining,
Try to think your joys out loud,
Silence all repining.

HOUSEKEEPING RUTS.
When are we to be emancipated from the old bugbear of Madam Grundy and the way mother used to do? Mothers ways were good ways, but conditions change. "The laws that in our fathers' days were good" are not the laws for us; so we must get out of the ruts and be able to swing along on high ground.

Is the old-fashioned Monday the best day for washing, or is it the day that has always been used and so we follow the procession? Tuesday is in every way a better day, for if the clothing must be picked up, looked over, mended or stains removed, Sunday is not the day for it. After the day of rest Monday comes full of the many things that were left from the week end. If the laundry work is added to all the rest, it makes too full a day. In homes where the day is used to get the clothing in condition to wash, the work is made much lighter.

Must we always serve potatoes with our dinner or every other meal? Can we not occasionally break away and get out of that rut? Serve hominy, fried bananas or boiled rice.

Do you have the same kind of dessert every week or two? There are simply millions of ways of preparing desserts. Have a variety, so that the family do not tire of the same one.

We are always glad of finding an old friend in a new dress. For those who are fond of trips, this recipe will be acceptable: Cut rounds of tripe with a pall cover in rounds four or five inches across. If it is pickled, add salt, pepper, olive oil and onion juice; and if it is not pickled, a little lemon juice. Let it stand an hour or longer in this marinade, turning often. Then broil delicately, lay on a plate and butter the rough sides generously. Garnish with chopped parsley or cress, and serve two rounds to each person.

When cooking lima beans, add a seasoning of onion and a teaspoonful of curry moistened with a little lemon juice.

I CAN teach sugar to slip down your throat a million of ways.
A box where sweets compacted lie.
—Herbert.
Can one desire too much of a good thing?
The last taste of sweets is sweetest.

HALLOWEEN CANDIES.

There is no candy that the younglings like so well as butter scotch. Take three cups of brown sugar, two three-fourths of a cup of water, two tablespoonsful of butter, an eighth of a teaspoonful of soda, a teaspoonful of molasses, and a few grains of salt. Boil all together except the butter until a thread is formed when dropped from a spoon. Pour into buttered pans, let stand until cool enough to mark off in squares.

Taffy—Cook together a cup of molasses, a cup of sugar, two-thirds of a cup of butter, an eighth of a teaspoon of salt, two-thirds of a cup of milk. When brittle flavor and pour into hot buttered pans.

Molasses Candy.—Boil together until brittle in water two cups of molasses, two tablespoonsful of butter, two cups of brown sugar, a cup of water and a third of a cup of vinegar. Four into greased pans and pull when cool enough. Cut in lengths with a pair of shears. Wrap in waxed paper.

Pralines.—Boil together one and seven-eighths cups of powdered sugar, a cup of maple sirup and a half cup of cream until a soft ball is formed when tried in water. Remove from the fire and beat until of a creamy consistency. Add two cups of hickory nuts and drop on waxed paper in small patties.

Chocolate Carmels.—Put two tablespoonsful of butter in a saucepan, and when melted add a half cup of milk and the same amount of sugar and a cup of molasses. When boiling hot stir in four squares of chocolate; cook until brittle when tried in cold water, stirring occasionally to prevent burning. Remove from the heat and beat three minutes. Add a cup of walnut meats and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Turn into buttered pan and mark in squares when cool enough. Wrap each in paraffin paper.

A Preference. "Marriage is a lottery," said the ready-made philosopher.

"No, it isn't," replied Mr. Growcher. "In a lottery you can lose once and forget about it, instead of having to put up alimony."

About the Size of It. "Why is it?" queried the youth, "that so many people fail to mind their own business?"

"There may be one or two reasons, or both," answered the home-grown philosopher. "They may have no mind or no business."—Philadelphia Press.

SOUND SLEEP
Can Easily Be Secured.

"Up to 2 years ago," a woman writes, "I was in the habit of using both tea and coffee regularly."

"I found that my health was beginning to fail, strange nervous attacks would come suddenly upon me, making me tremble so excessively that I could not do my work while they lasted; my sleep left me and I passed long nights in restless discomfort. I was filled with a nervous dread as to the future."

"A friend suggested that possibly tea and coffee were to blame, and I decided to give them up, and in casting about for a hot table beverage, which I felt was an absolute necessity, I was led by good fortune to try Postum."

"For more than a year I have used it three times a day and expect, so much good has it done me, to continue its use during the rest of my life."

"Soon after beginning the use of Postum, I found, to my surprise, that instead of tossing on a sleepless bed through the long, dreary night, I dropped into a sound, dreamless sleep the moment my head touched the pillow."

"Then I suddenly realized that all my nervousness had left me, and my appetite, which had fallen off before, had all at once been restored so that I ate my food with a keen relish."

"All the nervous dread has gone. I walk a mile and a half each way to my work every day and enjoy it. I find an interest in everything that goes on about me that makes life a pleasure. All this I owe to leaving off tea and coffee and the use of Postum, for I have taken no medicine." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in plain.

Post Office Ruling.

Drastic legislation in the United States postal department against lotteries, guessing contests and endless chain enterprises have been called to the attention of postmasters, and hereafter all advertisements pertaining to such matters will be barred from the mails.

"The attention of postmasters and railway postal clerks is directed to section 490 of the postal laws and regulations of 1902 as amended (section 213, Act of March 4, 1909) by the provisions of which newspapers and other publications of any kind, circulars and pamphlets, containing advertisements of lotteries, gift contests or similar enterprises, for the distribution of prizes by lot or chance, or the list of the prizes awarded in pursuance of such schemes, and all other matter relating to them are declared to be unmailable. The terms lottery, so-called gift contests, or similar enterprises offering prizes depending upon lot or chance, as used in that section, include guessing or estimating contests for prizes, as well as drawing or raffles of any kind whether local or general, whether for private gain or in the aid of charitable, educational or religious objects, or whether the consideration for chances be money or otherwise.

Enterprises in which prizes are distributed among purchasers of merchandise in stated amounts, or among subscribers of corporate stock, through the medium of drawings or guessing contests, are lotteries within the meaning of that section. Publications, circulars, cards or any pamphlets containing advertisements of such enterprises, or notices or other information of any kind relating to them, should be withdrawn from the mails and treated in accordance with sections 573, 602 and 624 of postal laws and regulations."

GET TO THE CAUSE

Chelsea People Are Learning the Way.

There is but little peace or comfort for the man or woman with a bad back. The distress begins in early mornings—keeps up throughout the day. It's hard to get out of bed, it's torture to stoop or straighten. Plasters and liniments may relieve, but cannot cure. The cause is inside—the kidneys. When suffering so, use Doan's Kidney Pills, the tested and proven kidney remedy, used in kidney troubles for over 75 years. Doan's Kidney Pills have cured thousands of such cases. Proof in the testimony of a nearby resident:

John Lyons, Lincoln street, Chelsea, Mich., says: "From personal experience with Doan's Kidney Pills, I can say that they are a good kidney remedy. My kidneys troubled me for two or three years, the kidney secretions being highly colored and containing sediment. I had pains across the small of my back and was miserable in every way when I commenced taking Doan's Kidney Pills. They entirely relieved me and I have had no cause for complaint since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

LODI—While breaking a colt in Lodi Monday morning, Richard Burns, well known as a horseman, was stricken with apoplexy and died before a physician could reach him. He was found on the ground beside the horse which he was driving, and although he was still breathing he died in a short time. He had evidently fainted for he had stopped the horse and it had remained standing perfectly still beside him. The body was taken to a nearby farm house and later removed to Muchlig's undertaker's rooms in Ann Arbor. Coroner Burchfield decided that no inquest was necessary. Mr. Burns was 65 years old and had two sisters, Mrs. O'Brien and Mrs. Wade, both of Ann Arbor.

ONE MILLION DOLLARS FOR A GOOD STOMACH

This Offer Should be a Warning to Every Man and Woman.

The newspapers and medical journals recently have had much to say relative to a famous millionaire's offer of a million dollars for a new stomach.

This great multi-millionaire was too busy to worry about the condition of his stomach. He allowed his dyspepsia to run from bad to worse until in the end it became incurable.

His misfortune serves as a warning to others.

Every one who suffers with dyspepsia for a few years will give everything he owns for a new stomach.

Dyspepsia is commonly caused by an abnormal state of the gastric juices, or by lack of tone in the walls of the stomach. The result is that the stomach loses its power to digest food.

We are now able to supply certain missing elements—to help to restore to the gastric juices their digestive power, and to aid in making the stomach strong and well.

We know that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are a most dependable remedy for disordered stomachs, indigestion, and dyspepsia.

We want you to try them and will return your money if you are not more than satisfied with the result.

Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store. L. T. Freeman Co.

Of Interest to Maccabees.

The propositions adopted by the Modern Maccabees for their rate readjustment, as applied to the old members in Class 1, are as follows:

Any member may transfer to Plan B (sixty year term), Plan C (seventy year term), Plan D (whole life), Plan G (seventy year annuity), by paying the rate provided for in such plans, at three years less than his attained age.

He may transfer to plan D (whole life), or plan G (seventy year annuity) by paying the rate as provided for said plans at age of entry into the Society, by having the present value of the difference between his rate at entry age and attained age, charged against his certificate to be deducted at death without future interest on the amount of said lien.

If he does not elect before December 1st, 1921 to transfer to any of these plans, he may continue to pay his present rate, and the value of the difference between said present rate and the rate at his attained age, will be charged against his certificate and be deducted at death with compound interest at 4 per cent.

Tricks of the Trade

We sometimes hear the expression "tricks of the trade," but do not know just what is meant by it. In the banking business there can be no such thing. The banker in all his advertising must tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, and he must tell it today, tomorrow, the next day, every day. Without really thinking of it the public demand of the banker the same high grade of morals that they demand of the preacher. A liar is mighty poor material of which to make either a preacher or a banker. Absolute confidence is necessary before the public entrusts its money to the keeping of any man, and confidence is not inspired by questionable methods in business. The banker must not only tell the truth, but must be connected with an institution which will bear having the truth told about it. Right here is where this bank comes in strong. There is not a thing here which will not stand the search-light of truth any time—day or night. Nothing to cover up, nothing to lie about. The more we are inspected, examined and probed the better we are advertised. If such a bank appeals to you we should appreciate your account.

The "SEE AMERICA FIRST" Crusade

A GREAT national convention will be held in the city of Baltimore next January with a unique object in view. The purpose of the gathering is to promote the "See America First" movement and to devise means of arousing sentiment on the subject throughout the length and breadth of the United States. President Taft has already expressed his entire sympathy with the movement and promised to be present and speak at the convention.

It is likewise expected that the governor of every state in the Union will either be present in person or be officially represented by some spokesman of standing in the commonwealth from which he hails. In addition to the national and state officials there will be prominent men and women in all walks of life and many persons who are deeply interested in the project for unselfish reasons.

The "See America First" crusade has been gradually taking form and gaining supporters for several years past, but the forthcoming gathering in the Monumental City will be the first effort to supplement sentiment with practical "missionary work" among the people of the whole country. The character of this crusade is pretty well explained by its title. To put the matter in a nutshell, the object is to induce all Americans to see their own country before crossing the ocean to look at scenery that in no instance surpasses and in few instances equals what we have here at home. The people who are behind the movement want to not only impress their fellow citizens with the fact that we have the most wonderful scenery in the world here under the Stars and Stripes, but they want to also conduct a "campaign of education" that will inform every tourist and vacationist and pleasure seeker where he may see the particular class of scenery that most appeals to him.

To this end it is proposed to hold in connection with the Baltimore convention a pictorial exposition wherein will be shown paintings and photographs, etc., of the most attractive scenery on this continent. If a man likes grand and majestic mountain scenery he will be informed just where he may find this to the best advantage. Or, if on the other hand his preference is for the boiling, tumbling surf of a rocky sea coast, he will be given pictorial pointers as to where to seek it. In short, the exhibition and convention are designed to do away with all cause for the complaint so often made that we Americans do not devote the proper time and effort to seeing the scenic wonders of our country because we have not been sufficiently informed as to how much there is worth seeing.

Patriotic loyalty has inspired many of the prominent men who are taking up this "See America First" propaganda—a feeling that it is a shame to see Uncle Sam's citizens wandering off to the uttermost parts of the world to view scenery the equal of which they could find on this side of the Atlantic and which they might enjoy with none of the incidental discomforts that come to a stranger in a strange land, struggling with a language and a money system he does not understand. However, there is a yet more potent or at least more practical reason for the activity in the awakening of our brainy men to the menace to be found in the yearly drain of American gold into foreign coffers. Each succeeding season sees new and larger steamers added to the trans-Atlantic passenger-carrying fleet and millions upon millions of dollars of American money is taken to Europe by the tourists who rush eastward by the thousand. Were it not for the untold wealth that is thus handed over to European railroads and hotel proprietors, shopkeepers and all the other purveyors to the globe-trotters, the balance of trade would always be heavily in our favor. Great Britain and the various continental countries are compelled to buy heavily every year of our food stuffs and cotton and other commodities, but the sums get down, in consequence on the credit side of our ledger are usually counterbalanced by the total of the money spent abroad by Americans on pleasure bent.

The public-spirited citizens who have enrolled in the "See America First" crusade hope to influence some people by moral suasion to stay at home and enjoy our own scenic feast instead of seeking a foreign substitute. They realize, however, that for the most part they must use some other argument than patriotism. The man or woman with money saved up for a trip or a vacation is likely to go wherever he or she believes that they can get the most for their money without regard to the nationality of the people who make up the scenery. To convert such a person to the "See America First" doctrine it is necessary to prove to him that he can actually receive as much for his money in the way of travel, education, diversion and enjoyment here in the land of the free as he can across the big pond, where so large a portion of the people make their living out of the expenditures of American tourists.

This, then, is the aim of the crusaders who are singing the praises of the opportunities and the comforts of home. Nor do they lack for inspiration in debate if any person essays to question their claims. If a skeptic does not admit conversion when they point how superior are Niagara Falls, Yellowstone Park, the Yosemite and the Grand Canyon to any scenic masterpieces throughout the whole length and breadth of Europe, he can be depended upon to have to haul down his colors when they marshal facts and figures to prove how much more marvelous are the Rockies than are the famed Alps; how our beloved Mississippi outshines the storied Rhine in romance and how the thousand-mile inland water highway of the Great Lakes puts to shame the Mediterranean in the novelty of the experiences afforded the voyager who may, incidentally, experience more thrills when passing through the greatest locks in the world at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., than he could hope for in gazing at the rock at Gibraltar.

Many people in the east have gained the erroneous impression that the "See America First" crusade is solely a movement designed to induce the people of the east to visit the west and particularly the Pacific coast. That such an impression has gained credence may be attributed to two circumstances. For one thing many of the most notable scenic wonders of the world are located in western America, so that naturally there is sound logic in advising people to see them before risking seasickness to view something not half so impressive. Secondly, there is the circumstance that the people east of the Mississippi river are singing the praises of the opportunities and the comforts of home. Nor do they lack for inspiration in debate if any person essays to question their claims. If a skeptic does not admit conversion when they point how superior are Niagara Falls, Yellowstone Park, the Yosemite and the Grand Canyon to any scenic masterpieces throughout the whole length and breadth of Europe, he can be depended upon to have to haul down his colors when they marshal facts and figures to prove how much more marvelous are the Rockies than are the famed Alps; how our beloved Mississippi outshines the storied Rhine in romance and how the thousand-mile inland water highway of the Great Lakes puts to shame the Mediterranean in the novelty of the experiences afforded the voyager who may, incidentally, experience more thrills when passing through the greatest locks in the world at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., than he could hope for in gazing at the rock at Gibraltar.

He tells of scarlet red growing new skin at the rate of three millimeters in forty-eight hours on one of his patients. His report on its use in Johns Hopkins hospital, published in a medical journal, did much to bring the strange little aniline dye to surgical notice here and elsewhere.

It was taken up in the post graduate and the German hospitals here last spring. Then its use was experimental. Now it is uniformly used in every case where burns, wounds or ulcers have stripped the epidermis from any area of a human body.

"The results have been astonishing, even baffling," said Dr. F. William Steichmann of the post graduate, and also connected with the German hospital.

"There is just one thing about its use, however, that should be generally known," Dr. Steichmann said. "Where surgeons in the dispensary have used it and applied the dressings the results have been marvelous. Where patients have used it themselves the results have been unsatisfactory."

seem to be more prone than are those west of it to rush off to Europe without having traveled to any extent at home, so that the communities near the Atlantic seaboard are particularly in need of such missionary work.

But, for all that, the movement is neither local nor sectional, but is broadly national. To be sure, the champions of America for the Americans, in a scenic sense, do urge people to see the Big Trees of California before they go to the Black Forest, and to view the Golden Gate before they seek the Bay of Naples, but at the same time they are urging our fellow citizens who have time to devote to travel to awaken to the miracles of nature that may be found in every section. No globe-trotter can find in his wanderings anything more wonderful than the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky and the natural bridges of Virginia and Utah. No foreign watering place presents beach spectacles equal to those of Atlantic City and there is no lake district in the world more beautiful than the Adirondacks. For the American with any patriotism in his make-up no tour could be more inspiring than visits to the first landing place of the Pilgrims, Concord, Lexington, Bunker Hill and the other historic mecca of New England, and finally, the tourist should not forget Uncle Sam's seat of government, conceded by foreigners to be the most beautiful capital in the world.

One thing for which the "See America First" crusaders are working is to get the idea out of the minds of Americans that all sightseeing must needs be done in the summer vacation season. There are many classes of people, take, for instance, the farmers—who find it almost impossible to leave home in midsummer, but who could very readily take a trip in the autumn or winter. Efforts are being made to point out to these people that there is just as much which can be seen to the best advantage in winter as there is in the category of summer show places. Indeed, it is only at such times, when it is chilly or snowing in the north and west, that one may enjoy maximum comfort in quaint old New Orleans, in Florida or in southern California, all of them districts worthy to vie with anything in southern France and Italy.

The broad policy of the "See America First" movement calls upon its devotees to not only induce people to give New World scenery the preference (and Canada is, of course, included), but also to do everything in their power to make traveling in America comfortable and to reduce the cost. Indeed, the claim that one may travel more cheaply in Europe than in the United States is one of the arguments invariably advanced by people who argue for foreign travel. However, the greatest need of American tourist regions is more good hotels, not necessarily high-priced fashionable hotels, but good, clean, neatly-kept hostels where the traveler who is not a multimillionaire may obtain wholesome, well-cooked food and a comfortable bed at a price that is not two or three times what his earnings would be for the day's labor if he were back home. There has been great improvement in this direction in late years, but there is plenty of room for further betterment. Another need is lines of reasonable priced public coaches traversing regions not traversed by the railroads and which in many instances are now a closed book to people who cannot afford the luxury of an automobile. Coaches such as are operated in Yellowstone Park and on Gettysburg battlefield might well be introduced in other scenic or historic districts.

Unpopularity Demanded.

Red Cross Christmas Seals.

A statement denying the recent reports about the abandonment of the Red Cross Christmas seal sale has been issued by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. The statement declares that not only will the sale be held this year, as in the past three years, but that it will be conducted on broader lines than ever before. The only order issued by the postoffice department which bears on the sale of Red Cross seals was sent out on July 1, and prohibits the use of the mails to letters and packages bearing non-postage stamps on the face, and also to any mail bearing seals which resemble postage stamps, if used either on the face or back. The Red Cross seal to be used this year has been submitted to the postoffice department and approved, and thus may be used, but only on the back of letters and packages. The design to be used this year depicts a pretty winter scene enclosed with a heavy red circle. The corners are white, thus giving the effect when affixed to a letter or a package of a round seal.

Learned From Nature.

An enthusiastic friend was dilating to the woman landscape gardener on the obvious advantages she must derive from actually superintending the workmen who executed her designs.

"Being right out with nature that way you must learn so many interesting things," said the friend.

"I do," said the gardener. "I can tell the different kinds of whisky, the different kinds of tobacco and the different kinds of profanity a rod away."
