Don't Disfranchise.

Half of the voters of Michigan are not today enrolled as required by law. Unless they obey the law they will be unable to participate in the August primaries—and the primaries will be as important as any ever held in this state. Every voter should take the situation home to himself. He can enroll with his city or township clerk up to June 27. If he fails to enroll, he will have only himself to blame if refused a ballot at the polls in next fall's primary.

The Bass Law.

It may be hard to throw a bass back after one is foolish enough to get on your hook, but you don't want to be caught with a bass in your fish basket yet. Read the law:

Section 1.—It shall be unlawful to take, catch or kill in any manner or by any means whatever, in any of the waters of this state, any small-mouthed black bass or any big-mouthed black bass from and after the first day of February in each year, up to and including the fifteenth day of June thereafter.

Section 2.—It shall be unlawful at any time hereafter for any person or persons to sell or offer for sale, or ship for the purpose of sale, any small-mouthed black bass, big-mouthed black bass, black bass, silver or calico bass or white bass, within the borders of this state.

Vote The Taxes.

Important changes in the school law make the election of suitable officers at the annual school meeting to be held this year on Monday, July 8, in the various districts throughout the state of vital importance. Under the law, as amended by the 1911 legislature, the school boards have almost complete taxing power, the electors of a school district being able legally to vote money only for the erection of schoolhouses, buying of sites and the paying of tuition in excess of $20 per pupil. Taxes for all other purposes are voted by the school board. The board is to use its own judgment as to the amount of taxes necessary for repairs on school property, new school equipment, fuel, teachers' wages, water supply, heating plant, appurtenances such as out-houses, woodshed, fence, etc. The electors have no right to let contracts for fuel or anything else, nor to dictate as to the selection of the teachers or the amount of their wages. Such business is left entirely to the board.

Senior Reception.

The senior class and faculty of the high school were very pleasantly entertained at the home of Supt. and Mrs. Hendry on Monday evening. The first of the evening was spent in "guessing" games which gave opportunity for those skilled in intellectual feats to win honor; others were later given a chance to show their physical progress in an "indoor track meet" even breaking the record in "standing broad grin."

We often long for "Some pow'r the gift give us, to see ourselves as others see us!" This the guests were enabled to do when a baby picture of each was projected on a screen, much to the embarrassment of the individual and merriment of their companions.

Dainty refreshments were served, after which the crowd voiced their appreciation of the evening's pleasure by a hearty vote of thanks to the host and hostess.

Mrs. James Kellas.

Jane Ross was born in Strathdon, Aberdeenshire, Scotland, February 18, 1821, and died at her home in Sylvan May 28, 1912, aged 91 years, 3 months and 10 days.

In 1850 she was united in marriage with James Kellas and in 1854 they came to America. Soon after coming here they settled on the farm in Sylvan where they spent the remainder of their lives, her husband dying in 1899. Two children were born, one dying when a child, the other Mrs. Charles Hathaway, who resides in Sylvan.

Mrs. Kellas was brought up a strict Scotch Presbyterian, from which faith she never departed. A faithful wife, loving mother and a kind friend, she was greatly respected and loved by all with whom she came in contact.

The funeral services were held at her late home Friday, May 31. Interment at Vermont cemetery.

Decoration Day Exercises.

Decoration Day was an ideal one and proved to have been one of the best that has been observed by the members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. in Chelsea for the past forty years. The program which was carried out in the town hall, was an exceptionally good one and each number was well rendered. Rev. C. J. Dole delivered the address and it was well chosen for the occasion.

At the close of the exercises in the hall the audience adjourned to the street and a line was formed, headed by the Chelsea Cornet Band, G. A. R., W. R. C., Boy Scouts, school children and citizens and marched to the cemeteries where the graves of the departed soldiers and sailors were decorated and the exercises of the Post carried out.

The members of the Post and a portion of the W. R. C. were taken to and from the cemeteries in automobiles.

One hundred seven had 90 to 98 per cent, one hundred and five, received 75 to 89 per cent and 62 fell below 75 per cent.

The following received 100 per cent in arithmetic: Albert Schweinfurth, 2 Sylvan.

TRI-COUNTY TRACK MEET.

The Chelsea High School Third in the Track and Field Events Saturday.

In the Tri-County Meet held at Plymouth, Saturday, Chelsea high school finished in third place. The final score was as follows: Plymouth 54; Wayne 44; Chelsea 43. Dunn was injured just as he finished first in the 100 yard dash in the fast time of eleven seconds over a very slow course. He tripped at the tape and was stepped on by one of the Plymouth runners. The accident no doubt was Chelsea's Waterloo as everybody conceded that had he not been hurt Chelsea would have landed in first place.

The events in which Chelsea athletes were successful are as follows: 100 yards dash—Dunn 1st, time 11 seconds.

220 yards dash—R. Kalmbach 1st, time 25.3 seconds.

220 yards low hurdles—Dunn 1st; Roedel 4th.

440 yards dash—Kalmbach 4th.

Freshman relay—Chelsea 1st; Leo Martin, Clarence Rafferty, Everett Benton, Lloyd Kalmbach.

High School half mile relay—Chelsea 2d; W. Hammond, Max Roedel, Lloyd and Roland Kalmbach.

Shot put—Wedemeyer 2d; Kuhl 3d.

Hammer throw—Wedemeyer 3d.

Discus—Wedemeyer 2d, Kuhl 4th.

Pole vault—Kuhl 1st; Emmett 2d; L. Kalmbach 4th.

Those scoring first and second places are to be taken to Bob-Lo Saturday, June 8th. The team will consist of Dunn, R. Kalmbach, Wedemeyer, Emmett and Kuhl.

Dunn is still in Plymouth under the care of a physician, and in all probability will be unable to compete.

Can Not Legally Serve.

Members of township boards can not legally serve on school boards, according to an opinion of the attorney general who holds that the two offices are incompatible. This ruling affects quite a number of districts throughout the state. It is a rule of law that when a person accepts an office which is incompatible with the one he already holds, he automatically vacates his first office by the acceptance of the second.

Baseball Items.

The ball department baseball team of the Flanders Mfg. Co. will play at Dexter Saturday, June 8. The following players will report at Colman's livery at 1 p. m. to take the bus: Bockres, Meadmer, Barnes, Updike, Beisel, Sauer, Wackenhut, Gabriell, Seigfried, Lusty, Adams. All friends wishing to make trip can do so by paying 25 cents.

The ball department team of the Flanders Mfg. Co. did not play Thursday, May 30, owing to the failure of the Flanders Four team to show up at the grounds until time to call the game with Stockbridge.

Two Convicts Escaped.

Jackson Patriot: William Miley, the postoffice robber, and Chester Tibbetts, the burglar, who escaped from Jackson prison, Sunday are still at large. The prison authorities have no clue to work on, as, strange as it may seem, nobody has reported seeing anyone since Sunday afternoon that bore any likeness to the escaped convicts. These fellows seem to have made a clean get-away, and if they are as clever on the outside as they were in getting out their chances of crossing the border of the state are comparatively good. Miley is handicapped by wearing away a prison uniform. An effort to procure a change of clothing may lead to the disclosure of his identity and subsequent capture, but Tibbetts, wearing overalls and wampus, is not likely to attract Pictures and descriptions of Miley and Tibbetts have been mailed out by the hundreds. Officers in every city and town in southern Michigan and many of the northern towns and in other states have been informed of the escape of these prisoners. The only hope of catching these men now is through outside officers, who will be on the watch for them and to get the $50 reward offered for the arrest of each of them.

Notice.

All Lady Maccabees will please meet at Maccabee hall Sunday, June 9th at 2:30, standard time, to march in a body to the cemetery to decorate the graves of our deceased sisters. All having flowers please send to the hall Saturday afternoon.

FULLER'S EARTH IN AMERICA

Industry Has Reached Greatest Production and Consumption in Its History.

Fuller's earth, the claylike material that is used principally as a filtering medium for oils, fats, and grease, is found in 15 states, as shown by a report of the United States geological survey. In 1911 fuller's earth was produced in but seven states, Arkansas, California, Florida, Georgia, Massachusetts, South Carolina, and Texas, and there were no unusual developments in the industry. New deposits are reported from time to time, but in many the high standard of efficiency required is not found and only a few of the deposits are worked. Of the large number of known deposits only 13 were worked in 1911. Some of the causes for the small number of workings, in addition to the high standard of quality required, are the inaccessibility of the deposits and lack of capital.

Notwithstanding the comparatively small number of producers, the output has almost steadily increased from the small beginning in 1895, when but 6,900 short tons were reported, valued at $41,400, or $6 a ton, to 1911, when 46,697 tons were reported, valued at $383,124, or $8.21 a ton.

Florida continues to be the leading state. In 1911 it reported 27,658 tons, valued at $265,541, or $9.60 a ton. This was 68 per cent. of the quantity and 69 per cent. of the value of the entire output and value. The other states in the order of their rank in output and value in 1911 were Georgia, Arkansas, Texas, Massachusetts, California and South Carolina.

It Puzzled Him.

Robert is a very young nephew of an attaché at the state house, and when he goes to visit his uncle, he makes the rounds of his offices where he has numerous friends. He was sitting in the office of the secretary to the governor a few days ago, when the governor and H. L. Conter, deputy secretary of state, came from the governor's private office.

"Robert come over and shake hands with the governor," said Mark Thistlethwaite, the governor's secretary. Without leaving his chair Robert looked the governor and Mr. Conter over critically.

"I will if you tell me which one it is," he replied.—Indianapolis News.

Platinum.

Platinum, one of the most useful of the metals in many ways, was named by the Spaniards on account of its silvery color, plata signifying silver. It was found in the auriferous sands of the river Pinto, in South America, and was unknown in Europe prior to 1741, when Don Antonio Ulloa announced its existence in his narrative of a voyage to Peru. It was not until 1830 that platinum was rendered malleable and ductile by a Dr. William Hyde of Wallaston. Platinum is largely employed in the manufacture of chemical utensils, owing to its immunity to the effects of heat, acid, etc.

Turk Makes Good Soldier.

Stupid, honest, kind to children, albeit somewhat callous to the sufferings of animals; brave, and, above all, silently enduring, the Turkish peasant soldier is a man for whom one cannot help feeling a strong sympathy in all his miseries. And see him in such a campaign as this, see how he responds to the smallest kindness (provided you can get him to accept it at all), see how cheerfully and with what simple humor he makes light of his hardships, and then your pity will become a stronger feeling still.—Alan Osler, in The London Daily Express.

Untwist It.

Fred and Jack, little brothers, hitched their goats to a new wagon, their father bought them. Fred, the younger, got in to drive off, but "Billie" stubbornly refused to budge; whereupon Jack stepped up and gave the goat's tail a vicious twist or two, at which "Billie" made off at a lively gait, to the great pleasure of Fred, the driver. When the goat got started, he did not slow down, but went faster and faster to the great dismay of Fred, who, much frightened, cried to his brother: "Jack, Jack, untwist it, untwist it!"—Norman E. Mack's National Monthly.

All From the Heart.

An heart, so is the life. The within is ceaselessly becoming the without. Nothing remains unrevealed, that which is hidden is but for a time; it ripens and comes forth at last. Seed, tree, blossom and fruit is the fourfold order of the universe. From the state of a man's heart proceed the conditions of his life; his thoughts blossom into deeds and his deeds bear the fruitage of character and destiny.—James Allen.

Astounded the Teacher.

The teacher in charge of one of the grades in a grammar school wrote on the board a number of words ending in the syllable "tion." After explaining the meaning of each to the class, she told them to use the words in sentences. Her pupils wrote busily for a few moments, and then one of them astonished her with the following: "Father's hair is a recollection, mother's is an acquisition, auntie's is a compilation, sister's is an aggregation, brother's is a congregation, and baby's is a mere promission."—Judge

STATE SENATOR WATKINS MAY ENTER RACE FOR GOVERNOR.

Michigan Democrats Will go to the Baltimore Convention in a Pullman Special Train of Eight Cars.

Ashley Will Not Be Freed by Osborn

"The Ashley parole matter was held up last November pending a determination of the question as to whether the governor had power to act at this time. I have been advised that Ashley will not be eligible for parole until March 13, 1913. My term expires Dec. 31, 1912; consequently the matter will not come up for decision during my term of office," said Gov. Osborn. He explained that the board of pardons had taken up the matter of investigation the last of the year as a part of its regular duty. Through the over-zealousness of a retiring clerk in the secretary of state department the parole for Ashley, the Detroit man who slew James Magee was sent to the governor's office for his signature, when it should have been held up until next March.

Sen. Watkins Likely to Enter Race.

State Senator Lucius Whitney Watkins, farmer of Manchester, will in all probability formally announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor within the next two weeks. Senator Watkins' boom is brand new. It started actively less than two weeks ago, although he has been mentioned very frequently in connection with the governorship as result of his fight for the presidential primary and other progressive measures in the legislature.

Father Shot By Daughter's Lover.

William H. McManus, 24, the young Lochinvar, who, with revolvers, held a posse at bay while he tried to elope with Alma Kindy, after shooting down the girl's irate father, has been lodged in the jail at Centerville, charged with attempted murder. The girl is at the home of M. S. Fowler, tenant on the McManus farm adjoining the Kindy plantation. She is denied permission to return home because of her attempt to elope. The girl's father, Andrew Kindy, who was shot in the jaw, and beaten up by McManus, is recovering at his home, two miles west of Motville. The bullet which lodged in his neck has been removed. He says his daughter shall never darken his doorway again.

May Combine Blind and Deaf Schools.

Several state officials are working on a plan to consolidate the Michigan School for Deaf with the Michigan School for Blind, located at Lansing. They point out that the consolidation would mean a great saving for the state and that other advantages would be realized. At the time of the burning of the Michigan School for Deaf at Flint a few weeks ago it was intimated that the city would lose the school, because of poor fire protection. The city, however, informed the board of control that with the new water system which is being completed it would be able to furnish protection.

Call State R. R. Tax Conference.

E. R. Schreiner Jr., secretary of the League of Michigan Municipalities, will confer with Mayor William Walz, of Ann Arbor, president of the league, within a few days relative to the conference of all the cities in the state to discuss means of revising Michigan's taxation laws so as to do away with the objection of the Pennsylvania railroad in the matter of extending its terminal facilities to Detroit. The conference probably will be held in Lansing.

Power Given Power Company.

The state railroad commission has finally authorized the incorporation of the Peninsula Power Co. in Michigan and at the same time allowed them a bond issue of $1,000,000, with the privilege of expending $300,000 at the present time for betterments and equipments to their water power plant located on the banks of the Menominee river in Michigan.

The most disastrous fire in the history of Adrian occurred early Monday morning when the plant of the Lion Motor company was badly destroyed, causing the death of one man, serious injuries to another, and a money loss estimated at $400,000, of which $180,000 is covered by insurance. Three hundred men were thrown out of employment and valuable models of 1912 cars destroyed.

Poor water pressure, it is said, handicapped the firemen when they first reached the plant. By the time the first stream was turned on the fire had worked into the western end of the building and the whole structure was a roaring furnace. At this juncture several explosions shook the building. At intervals of a few seconds barrels or tanks of oil, varnish or other highly combustible materials, it is supposed, exploded from the intense heat, adding to the danger and uncertainty which confronted the firemen.

At 3 o'clock Capt. Christian Schoen, Fireman Leo Robb and several of the department were at the northeast corner of the factory making a last desperate attempt to stem the flood of fire. They had concentrated their efforts on the machine shop in an attempt to save at least a portion of the valuable machinery.

From the crowd went up a cry, "The wall's falling." Most of the men jumped at the first call, but Schoen and Robb hesitated just a second too long. The tottering wall swept over on them, burying them beneath a mass of mortar and bricks.

Unmindful of the danger from a section of the wall which remained upright, though dangerously weakened, their comrades rushed into the debris, while others played streams of water on the whitest wreckage.

Within a few minutes the body of Capt. Schoen was dug out. Tenderly he was lifted on an improvised stretcher and carried away, while men and women in the crowd who had known him for many years silently wept.

A few minutes later Robb was found, literally buried under what seemed tons of debris. He was unconscious, and not until after he had been taken to the hospital did he recover his senses.

Lansing Jails Are Overflowing.

Lansing is in a quandary to know what to do with its "drunks" now that the county is "wet" again. During the one month the saloons have been in operation there have been more than 175 arrests for drunkenness. There are more than 50 in jail at Mason. Justice Haught having inflicted heavy sentences in order to scare away the large number floating in from neighboring dry counties. Should the number increase very much, the county will have to seek a larger jail. Already there has been some talk of trying to fit up a portion of the courthouse at Mason. City officers met with the saloonkeepers of the city and told them that they must live up more closely to the law.

Reputed Attack of Prophet See.

Stephen Bridges, of Chicago, principal witness against Evelyn Arthur See, leader of the Absolute Life cult, in the latter's trial for contributing to the delinquency of a minor, has made an affidavit repudiating his testimony. He declares now that he did see an injustice in making statements against him. See is now a prisoner in the county jail awaiting the renewal of his case by the supreme court.

It is said to be the purpose of the cult leader's lawyers to attempt to bring the affidavit to the attention of the higher court in the hope of gaining a new trial for their client, who is now under sentence to the penitentiary. Bridges is a former resident of Ypsilanti, Mich. His wife and daughter were members of the cult and spent much time at See's house.

Blows Self Up With Dynamite.

Otto Tourmaline, aged 32, a farmer residing near Calumet, ended his life by blowing himself to pieces with a stick of dynamite. Tourmaline had been in poor health for several months, and during the past few days had apparently given up all hope of recovery.

His parents found the young man's body in the yard terribly mangled. Investigation showed that he had placed the stick of explosive under his body, lighted the fuse, and awaited the explosion.

NOTED AVIATOR DEAD.

Death Closes Wilbur Wright's Notable Career.

Wilbur Wright, the noted aviator, died at his home in Dayton, O., after a lingering illness and for approximately two weeks he had been unconscious.

The death of the inventor came suddenly, members of the family being hastily summoned from their rooms to which they had retired in the belief that the patient was making substantial improvement.

Dissolution came quietly, without a struggle, in the still hour of the early morning with the patient surrounded by his venerable father, Bishop Milton Wright, his equally famous brother, Orville, his devoted sister, Katherine, the other two brothers, Lorin and Roushlin, and Dr. Daniel Becket Conkild, who has been in constant attendance since he took to his bed on Saturday, May 1.

President Struck by Wave of Paper.

Chief Wilkie, of the secret service, has been conducting a quiet investigation into an attempted attack on President Taft which occurred while the president was speaking in the public square in Rutherford, N. J. Mr. Wilkie put through the third degree an Italian who is said to have thrown a package which hit the president in the face. Thus far no arrest has been made.

A statement given out by Frank M. Buckies, leader of the Taft organization, regarding the Italian's attack, says:

"The twelve hundred persons assembled in the public square were disappointed in not hearing the president speak because of the act of a vandal. As the package struck the president's face, or came down, scraping his face, he was about to speak but the secret service men pushed him back in his seat and took charge of affairs. They pushed the car ahead at full speed through the crowd, not knowing what was in the paper, and got away. Later they informed me that the paper had been soaked in water to make it heavy."

LORIMER ELECTION CASE UP TO SENATE

DEBATE WILL LAST AT LEAST TWO WEEKS; KEARNS LEADS ATTACK; MAY DELAY ADJOURNMENT.

INDICATIONS ARE THAT "BLIND BOSS" WILL BE OUSTED.

New Members Expected to Turn Vote of Acquittal Following Last Probe Into One of Guilty as Result of Second.

With Senator Lorimer holding conferences with his friends and organizing his defense, and Senator Kern, of Indiana, ready to open the fight against him with a speech in the senate, attention was focused upon the noted election case which is likely to be the principle topic of consideration in the senate for at least the next two weeks and possibly may prolong the session of congress.

Sensors Lee and Kenyon, who with Mr. Kern are the minority of the Lorimer investigating committee, holding that the Illinois senator's election was brought about by corruption, are ready to join in the fight against the majority report, which completely exonerates Mr. Lorimer.

In the two years that Senator Lorimer's election has been under fire it has furnished probably more sensational and sudden developments than any other case of its kind.

Cattle Shortage Denied by Bureau.

In a statement issued the department of commerce and labor takes direct issue with the dealers' association which holds that the advance in price of meats is due to a shortage of cattle. Not since 1907, according to the department, have receipts of cattle been so great as in April of this year. In their statement the dealers said: "The rise in prices is due to a shortage in shipments from the west. The production of native steers is said to be 25 per cent less than it was a year ago. The consumer is bearing the brunt of these conditions." As to the receipt of hogs the report states: "The receipts in April of this year for hogs show a considerable increase, and the number of sheep received is likewise greater than the number received in any April during the past decade."

The Ricksha Man

POST-OFFICE, COLOMBO

HE USED to appear at the bungalow at nine o'clock each morning, his cocoon-like ricksha shining like burnished metal, eyes aglow with readiness, hair done up behind like a woman's. He was a young coolie, lithe and strong. "Master ready?" "Yes, Jack." "Sir, no. John, Jack all same fakka" (imp). "Yes, John." "Sir, thank you. Master very good master."

Out we go on the long white road between sea and jungle, the flexible spine of my human steed bending with each giant stride, and a myriad silvery specks of damp starting out on his dusky skin. The stately palms are still as both sides vines, the sea is a sheet of glass, sun-embellished, a menace to the eye. I open out my big white umbrella, and my coolie at once adjusts his swinging step to the changed balance of the little man cart. Others rickshas, their heads up, are rolling ahead; we come up in their rear, and other naked-footed runners pad up behind us and join the human stream. John's back is soon a score of running rills; but except sometimes lift a hand from his shafts to wipe the dripping face with the fringe of his head cloth, he does not heed.

Suddenly, the leader of the long procession pulls up to brush his straggling hair from his eyes, and we are in danger of a series of collisions. But the alert following swerves rapidly, and in a second we are a newly led troop, and the delayed ricksha man, unless he make special efforts, must provoke rivalrous sprinting, which was not to our rear.

Through Crowded Streets. Now we come to the Pettah, and my coolie breaks away from the main body and darts into that strange human and animal medley which throngs the native business quarter. "Mahata! Mahata!" (Master! master!) he cries, as if to say, "Give place there!" "Mahata! Mahata!" answering voices cry, and some of the lower caste coolies, almost naked, scurry from before us, scattering the baskets of freshly gathered hill-grown tea which they balance on their heads. But the bullock drivers are of a different temperament. Their guttural cries as they sit in the front of their tented carts and poke with naked foot and little stick and twist the tails of their giant horned, lumbering beasts, almost drown my coolie's voice. "Hyak! Hyak!" they bellow loudly, but the wayward bullocks scarcely respond, and from time to time the street is completely blocked. Poorly paid merchants, tall African money lenders and sellers of opium and other Indian spices crowd their way through the crowd, and sometimes my vehicle's shafts are seized by an insignificant Sinhalese policeman, and John is forcibly considered through a widening opening. Presently he is prancing unsteadily again through the outskirts of the locality and into the town, till, with his breast heaving like the sides of a blown animal, he sets me down at my office doorway.

Indefatigable John! He could run an hour beneath a zenith sun without changing his stride. Sometimes, when the ascent of a hill I might tell him not to hurry. Always he replies: "Yes, yes, I like quickly run." "Every day quick run, die," I would answer, for it is said that the average Indian coolie either runs himself to death or retires in ten years. "Sir, I am running quickly, making plenty money, brambly buying one, two, three coconut tree, marry one girl." "So?" "Yes sir. You thinking you strong, same bullock?" I asked. "Master, bullock no good, he lazy." "But why did white man making coolie run fast?" "Yes sir. Plenty bad white man, and he would spring along ahead and set me down at my destination, and sauntering, retire to his nearest municipal ricksha stand or shady spot to rest and chew betelnut, curling himself up on his shafts until some passing pedestrian called him or I might be ready for him again. Asks for Holiday. One evening, several days after I had freed him for two successive mornings from his obligation of taking me to business, without deducting anything from his week's salary, so that he could journey to a distant shrine and make his annual salaams to the Buddha, he asked for a further holiday to attend a Mohammedan festival. "But you are a Buddhist," said "Sir, please; Mahomet also very big Sinhaless feller, sir." "But you no give him salaam?" "No, sir. Other man give. I take him so can give. He one very big doctor, sir." John opened wide his arms to indicate a man of immense proportions. "Other coolies afraid, if taking, he breaking ricksha, also making coolie very tired. He asking: 'John, I come your ricksha?' I telling: 'if give one present—medicine—when I sick in a hurry,' he say, 'Yes.'"

"All right, you may go," I said, and he trotted away. When, two days later, he arrived as usual, I had a headache, my eyes swam, my limbs felt as if on the rack. I told him, my bungalow boy, to tell him I had a fever and he could take still another holiday. Presently Jim came into the room and stood by my bed. "Sir, that John coolie telling very sorry. He staying in compound all morning; will throw stone at crow in tree top." "All right," Jim departed to announce my approval, and a moment later there was the uproarious sound of a thousand crows rising in flight from the palm belt round the compound; then a shout of laughter, which died away and left the sultry air noiseless and still; and within the doorway Jim reappeared, in his hand a carrion bird. "That John coolie kill one crow, sir." "Bury it," I said wearily, "deep, deep, away from the ants and snakes." "Yes, sir." The boy paused a moment, then: "That John coolie liking bring one big Sinhaless doctor. His friend, sir, the give master very good medicine, no asking money." "No, no," I said, "bring me more quinine."

Potts, who has just returned from California, enjoys telling the following story on himself: "One day I dropped into an architect's office in San Diego to inquire about a building matter. The architect was reported out for a few minutes, but a very charming young woman who was his assistant engaged me in conversation while I waited. She was very vivacious and attractive. Finally she turned on me with a pleasant smile and said: "Mr. Potts, aren't you going to make San Diego your home?" "I'm afraid not," I replied. "I have so many ties and interests in Indianapolis, you know." "Oh, you ought to break away while you can," she said. "San Diego is the most wonderful place in the world for old people."—Indianapolis News.

GENIUS WAS WASTED

BRIGGS WOULD HAVE THRIVED IN WALL STREET.

Tired of Borrowing Mr. Dunham's Sled, He Makes a Proposition for Buying It—Did Dunham Grab It?

Mr. Dunham had just finished his morning chores at the barn and was going in to breakfast when Briggs, the hired man, who had bought the neighboring Alden farm, appeared. He was a congenial person, with a well-padded waistcoat and an engaging smile.

"Morning!" said the newcomer, briskly.

"Morning!" said Mr. Dunham. "I'm going to be neighborly right away," declared Briggs, with an air of simple frankness. "I want to borrow your wood sled for the day. I've had no time to get settled yet, and there's so much to do I do know which way to turn, hardly. But I've got to get some wood down and I want to do it while the hauling's good."

"That's all right," said Mr. Dunham. "Take it and welcome. It's out there under the shed."

A day or two later the new neighbor came again. This time he had the sled with him. He nodded cheerfully as he passed the house and remarking casually, "I s'pose it's all right to take the sled again?" hitched up. This time he kept it two days.

A week later he came when Mr. Dunham was away, and whistling merrily as he yoked his steers, drove off without question. Dunham waited four days, and then had to go after the sled himself.

On the next occasion when the new neighbor called, he found Mr. Dunham milking. Leaning against the stanchion with his hands in his pockets, he began:

"Dunham, I like that sled of yours. It's new, ain't it?"

"Why, yes. It was new this season."

"Want to sell it?"

"No, I do know as I do."

"What did it cost yet?"

"I paid Smith $25 for making it, and I furnished part of the stock."

"Well, it's worth it, and you ought to have some profit on it, too. Now, I tell you what, I don't feel right borrowing all the time, and I'd like to buy it. How would $35 look to you?"

Dunham milked silently for a moment. Then he said, "Well, I guess $35 would be all right."

"Good enough!" cried Briggs, heartily. "It's worth that to me. I ain't got the ready cash just now, but we can fix it up this way; I'll take the sled over to my place, and any time you want to use it, you come right over and get it, just the same as if 'twas yours. I'll keep track of it, and charge you a reasonable amount each time you take it—say maybe a dollar—and when it comes to $35, why, the sled'll be mine, and we'll be square. That'll save you buying a new one, and I'll feel better 'n if I was borrowing all the time. Is that all right?"—Youth's Companion.

The Paralytic Woman. The heaviest burden today on productive America, aside from the burden imposed by a vicious industrial system, is that of its non-productive women. They are the most demanding portion of our society. They spend more money than any other group for amusement, are more resentful of interruptions of their pleasures and excitements, go to greater extremes of indolence and uneasiness.

The really serious side to the existence of this parasitical group is that great numbers of other women, not free, forced to produce, accept their standards of life. We hear women, useful women, everywhere talking about the desirability of not being able to do anything, commiserating women who must work, commiserating those who have heavy household responsibilities, and by the whole gist of their words and acts influencing those younger and less experienced than themselves to believe that happiness lies in irresponsible living.—American Magazine.

Filipino Sorrow. When I went down to breakfast the other morning at my hotel I found the attentive and unusually intelligent Filipino waiter who has served me ever since I attached myself to the hostelry squad. His eyes were bleared with salty tears and he looked down at the floor to avoid my glance of inquiry.

"I am a few minutes late," I said to the waiter. And then: "You have been crying. What troubles you?" Again he burst into tears, and, leaning his head against the wall, sobbed as if his heart would break.

"What on earth ails you?" I asked, rather sympathetically. "Any of your relatives dead?"

"No, no, senor, not that," and the waiter boo-hooed again.

"Then out with it, boy!" I exclaimed, rather impatiently; "out with it!"

"Oh, senor," he stammered, "the pancakes are cold!"

Health & Beauty Hints

By Katherine Morton

A toilet vinegar of any desired odor is made by digesting four ounces of any fragrant flowers or scented herbs in one pint of strong white-wine vinegar. Merely put the flowers in the cold vinegar and let it stand for a week, agitating three times daily; then strain several times, and repeat the process with more fresh flowers or herbs if the liquid is not sufficiently perfumed. Toilet vinegars made from dried herbs, such as lavender and rosemary or others, can be prepared in the same manner, only half the quantity of these being needed; but fresh materials are better, these exercising a more active result upon the skin.

Women used to the coquettish of the toilet understand the use of toilet waters and vinegars of all sorts. Where cold cream is much employed, they are indispensable for taking the shine off the skin, and since a liberal use of cream burns the flesh, making it at last darker and rougher than before—remember the point—the toilet vinegar is often required for a thorough cleansing. When using, about a tablespoonful of strong sort is put in a small bowl of water. For astrigent treatments of the neck the vinegar or water will be used full strength, after the throat has been washed, massaged and creamed. Sponging down with a solution of toilet vinegar and water is also very refreshing on a hot day and to sick persons, while if a hot plate is sprinkled with one or it is sprayed about the chamber the sick room will be gratefully purified.

When treating sagging muscles of the neck use the vinegar hot.

Where the herbs or flowers cannot be had, flower and herb oils achieve the next best thing in the way of a beneficial toilet water, and a vinegar of this sort is as easily managed. One of the simplest lavender waters made, and which always receives the name of "fine" in the drug stores, can be fabricated at home by digesting one ounce of micham oil of lavender in a half pint of strong rectified spirits. Other perfumed oils can be used in the same way.

A toilet water especially for resting the muscles of the body owes its invention, it is said, to Mrs. Bernhardt, who used it every day, particularly when coming in from her outdoor exercises. As this wonderful woman at sixty-eight or nine is younger than many women of forty, I would advise a little trial of her "calming" water, which is made in this manner:

Alcohol.....1/2 pint
Spirits of camphor.....1/2 pint
Spirits of ammonia.....2 ounces
Sea salt.....2 ounces
Boling water.....To make a quart

Put all ingredients in a large bottle, or in two, and agitate thoroughly. When using, shake the bottle always and rub the water into the skin with the hands.

Certainly it was perfectly correct for your boy friend to see you safely home, and equally proper for you to help your brother entertain his friends, that is, if he likes to have you with him, and he should.

Social Forms and Entertainments

From "An Orphan."

Have found your column of questions and answers very much help. A very good boy friend of mine has failed to write to me for a very long time and I have never done anything to stop him from corresponding. Would like to start corresponding with him again, as we have been great friends for four years, therefore I would like to continue being friends. I am now seventeen years old and would like to know if it is proper for me to wear ribbons on my hair? I don't care to do my hair upon my head. I want to look girlish as long as possible. I am an orphan and will take your advice any time.

EUGENIA.

Write a letter to your friend and ask him why there has been such a long time between letters. You know "Uncle Sam" occasionally lets mail go astray, and it is possible that "he" has written you and you have never received the letter. So give him the benefit of the doubt and write once again to him. This is all you can do. You are not a bit too old for hair ribbons.

From a School Girl. I have been helped very much by your valuable column. Many thanks.

Do you think a young lady should teach a young man to play cards? How often should a school girl let her beau call upon her, or do you think a girl of fifteen too young to receive company?

Do you believe in "leap year" affairs, where the girls go for the boys? Do you approve of going automobileing at night?

There is no harm that I can see in teaching a young man to play cards, for I do not object to cards any more than any other game. A girl of fifteen is entirely too young to have what you are pleased to call a "beau." Wait until you are out of school before you allow such thoughts. Leap year parties are lots of fun when properly chaperoned, as all parties should be. I am not much in favor of night automobileing without a chaperone.

From a "Young Girl." I am a young girl of fourteen years. Is it right when at a party a boy who is in my room at school escort me home? My brother is just my friend. When he has one or two boy friends at his home is it right for me to play games with them.

CUTICURA OINTMENT HEALED BAD SORE ON LIMB

"Some time ago I was coming up some steps when the board crushed under me like an egg shell, and my right limb went through to the knee, and scraped the flesh off the bone just inside and below the knee. I neglected it for a day or two, then it began to hurt me pretty badly. I put balsam fir on to draw out the poison, but when I had used it a week, it hurt so badly that I changed to ointment. That made it smart and burn so badly that I couldn't use it any more, and that was the fourth week after I was hurt.

"Then I began to use Cuticura Ointment for the sore. It stopped hurting immediately and began healing right away. It was a bad-looking sore before Cuticura Ointment healed it, and I suffered so I couldn't sleep from two days after I fell until I began using Cuticura Ointment.

"Cuticura Soap is the best soap I ever saw. I have used all kinds of soap for washing my face, and always it would leave my face smarting. I had to keep a lotion to stop the smart, no matter how expensive a soap I used. I find at last in Cuticura Soap a soap that will clean my face and leave no smarting, and I do not have to use any lotion or anything else to ease it. I believe Cuticura Soap is the best soap made." (Signed) Mrs. M. E. Fairchild, 805 Lafayette St., Wichita, Kan., May 8, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

satisfies to a T the call for something purely delicious and deliciously pure—and wholesome.

To Preserve Historic Building. A movement has been started in Frankfort, Ky., to preserve the "little red brick" building on the old State House square on account of its historic interest. The building now standing is 98 years old, and Daniel Boone, on the occasion of visits to Frankfort after it was erected, visited the offices on business. In two years the building will be 100 years old, if left standing, and is the oldest state building in existence.

No Novelty. "People are queer."

"I have heard rumors to that effect."

"Frequently they pay money to go to theaters for the purpose of seeing ballet dancers walk around on their toes when women are doing the same thing in the streets all the time."

The most powerful remedy against sudden starts of impatience is a sweet and amiable silence.—St. Francis de Sales.

CUTICURA OINTMENT HEALED BAD SORE ON LIMB

"Some time ago I was coming up some steps when the board crushed under me like an egg shell, and my right limb went through to the knee, and scraped the flesh off the bone just inside and below the knee. I neglected it for a day or two, then it began to hurt me pretty badly. I put balsam fir on to draw out the poison, but when I had used it a week, it hurt so badly that I changed to ointment. That made it smart and burn so badly that I couldn't use it any more, and that was the fourth week after I was hurt.

"Then I began to use Cuticura Ointment for the sore. It stopped hurting immediately and began healing right away. It was a bad-looking sore before Cuticura Ointment healed it, and I suffered so I couldn't sleep from two days after I fell until I began using Cuticura Ointment.

"Cuticura Soap is the best soap I ever saw. I have used all kinds of soap for washing my face, and always it would leave my face smarting. I had to keep a lotion to stop the smart, no matter how expensive a soap I used. I find at last in Cuticura Soap a soap that will clean my face and leave no smarting, and I do not have to use any lotion or anything else to ease it. I believe Cuticura Soap is the best soap made." (Signed) Mrs. M. E. Fairchild, 805 Lafayette St., Wichita, Kan., May 8, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

His Weakness. Howell—I see that Rowell has gone into bankruptcy again.

Powell—Yes, failing is his failing.

Hibernian. Knicker—What is a stepples car?

Bocker—A step in the right direction.

Water in bluing is adulteration. Glass and water makes liquid blue costly. Buy Red Cross Ball Blue, makes clothes whiter than snow.

Strikes Breakers of Old. Elijah was being fed by the ravens.

"I don't care if the waiters do strike," he boasted.

Discriminating persons should know that Gerfield Tea is a uniquely efficient remedy for liver troubles and constiveness.

A long oration goes lame on the stretch.

THE ONLY TIME.

Grace—Do you remember, Jack, the night you proposed to me I hung my head and said nothing?

Jack—Do I remember it? Well, I should rather say I did. It was the last time I saw you act so.

SYNOPSIS.

Lieut. Harry Mallory is ordered to the Philippines. He and Marjorie Newton decide to elope, but wreck of taxicab prevents their seeing minister on the way to the train. Transcontinental train is taking on passengers. Porter has a lively time with an Englishman and Ira Lathrop, a Yankee business man.

CHAPTER II. (Continued.)

He resigned himself to the despot, and began to transfer his burdens to the seat. But he did nothing to the satisfaction of the Englishman. Everything must be placed otherwise; the catch-all here, the portmanteau there, the Gladstone there, the golfsticks there, the greatcoat there, the raincoat there. The porter was puffing like a donkey-engine, and mutiny was growing in his heart. His last commission was the hanging up of the bowler hat.

He stood on the arm of the seat to reach the high hook. From here he paused to glare down with an attempt at irony.

"Is anything else?"

"No. You may get down."

The magnificent patronage of this wilted porter completely. He returned to the lower level, and shuffled along the aisle in a trance. He was quickly recalled by a sharp:

"Pawtah!"

"Yassah!"

"What time does this bally train start?"

"Ten-thirty, sah."

"But it's only ten now."

"Yassah. It'll be ten-thirty a little later."

"Do you mean to tell me that I've got to sit hah for half an hour—just waitin'?"

The porter essayed another bit of irony.

"Well, he drawled, 'I might tell the conducta you're ready. And mebbe he'd start the train. But the timetable says ten-thirty.'"

He watched the effect of his satire, but it fell back unheeded from the granite dome of the Englishman, whose only comment was:

"Oh, never mind. I'll wait."

The porter cast his eyes up in despair, and turned away, once more to be recalled.

"Oh, pawtah!"

"Yassah!"

"I think we'll put on my slippahs."

"Will we?"

"You might hand me that large bag. No, stupid, the other one. You might open it. No, it's in the other one. Ah, that's it. You may set it down."

Mr. Wedgewood brought forth a soft cap and a pair of red slippers. The porter made another effort to escape, his thoughts as black as his face. Again the relentless recall:

"Oh, pawtah, I think we'll unbutton my boots."

He was too weak to murmur "Yassah." He simply fell on one knee and got to work.

There was a witness to his helpless rage—a newcomer, the American counterpart of the Englishman in all that makes travel difficult for the fellow travelers. Ira Lathrop was zealous to resent anything short of perfection, quick and loud of complaint, apparently impossible to please.

In everything else he was the opposite of the Englishman. He was burly, middle-aged, rough, careless in attire, careless of speech—as uncouth and savage as one can, well-behaved as a man of means.

It was not enough that a freeborn Afro-American should be caught kneeling to an Englishman. But when he had escaped this penance, and advanced hospitably to the newcomer, he must be greeted with a snarl.

"Say, are you the porter of this car, or that man's nurse?"

"I can't tell yet. What's yo' number, please?"

The answer was the ticket.

"Number seven. Hah, she is, boss."

"Right next to a lot of women, I'll bet. Couldn't you put me in the men's end of the car?"

"Not very well, sah. I reckon the cah is done sold out."

With a growl of rage, Ira Lathrop slammed into the seat his entire hand baggage, one ancient and rusty valise.

The porter gazed upon him with increased depression. The passenger list had opened inauspiciously with two of the worst types of travelers the Anglo-Saxon race has developed.

But their anger was not their worst trait in the porter's eyes. He was, in a limited way, an expert in human character.

When you meet a stranger you reveal your own character in what you ask about him. With some, the first question is, "Who are his people?"

With others, "What has he achieved?"

With others, "How much is he worth?"

Back comes his cordiality according to his estimate.

The porter was not curious on any of these points. He showed a democratic indifference to them. His one vital inquiry was:

"How much will he tip?"

His inspection of his first two charges promised small returns. He buttoned up his cordiality, and determined to waste upon them the irreducible minimum of attention.

It would take at least a bridal couple to restore the balance. But bridal couples in their first bloom rarely fell to the lot of that porter, for what bridal couple wants to lock itself in with a crowd of passengers for the first seventy-two hours of wedded bliss?

The porter banished the hope as a vanity. Little he knew how eagerly the young castaways from that wrecked taxicab desired to be a bridal couple, and to catch this train.

But the Englishman was restive again.

"Pawtah! I say, pawtah!"

"Yassah!"

"What time are we due in San Francisco?"

"San Francisco? San Francisco? We are due there the evenin' of the fourth day. This bein' Monday, that ought to bring us in abote Thursday evenin'."

The Yankee felt called upon to check the foreign usurper.

"Porter!"

"Yassah!"

"Don't let that fellow monopolize you. He probably won't tip you at all."

The porter grew confidential:

"Oh, I know his kind, sah. They don't tip you for what you do do, but they're ready letter writers to the Superintendent for what you don't do."

"Pawtah! I say, pawtah!"

"Here, porter!"

The porter tried to imitate the Irish bird, and be in two places at once. The American had a coin in his hand. The porter caught the gleam of it, and flitted thither. The Yankee growled:

"Don't forget that I'm on the train, and when we get to Frisco there may be something more."

The porter had the coin in his hand. Its heft was light. He sighed: "I hope so."

The Englishman was craning his head around owlishly to ask:

"I say, pawtah, does this train ever get wrecked?"

"Well, it hasn't yet," and he murmured to the Yankee, "but I has hopes."

The Englishman's voice was querulous again.

"I say, pawtah, open a window, will you? The air is ghastly, abso-ripplingly ghastly."

The Yankee growled:

"No wonder we had the Revolutionary war!"

Then he took from his pocket an envelope addressed to Ira Lathrop & Co., and from the envelope he took a contract, and studied it grimly. The envelope bore a Chinese stamp.

The porter, as he struggled with an obstinate window, wondered what sort of passenger fate would send him next.

CHAPTER III.

In Darkest Chicago.

The castaways from the wrecked taxicab hurried along the doleful street. Both of them knew their Chicago, but this part of it was not their Chicago.

They hailed a pedestrian, to ask where the nearest street car line might be, and whither it might run. He answered indistinctly from a discreet distance, as he hastened away. Perhaps he thought their question merely a footpad's introduction to a sandbagging episode. In Chicago at night one never knows.

"As near as I can make out what he said, Marjorie," the lieutenant pondered aloud, "we walk straight ahead till we come to Umptyump street, and there we find a Rarara car that will take us to Bloptiblop avenue. I never heard of any such streets, did you?"

"Never," she panted, as she jog-trotted alongside his military pace. "Let's take the first car we meet, and perhaps the conductor can put us off at the street where the minister lives."

"Perhaps." There was not much confidence in that "perhaps."

When they reached the street-car street, they found two tracks, but nothing occupying them, as far as they could peer either way. A small shopkeeper in a tiny shop proved to be a delicatessen merchant so busily selling foreign horrors to aliens, that they learned nothing from him.

At length, in the far-away, they made out a headlight, and heard the grind and squeal of a car. Lieutenant Mallory waited for it, watch in hand. He boosted Marjorie's elbow around and bombarded the conductor with questions. But the conductor had no more heard of their street than he had of his. Their agitation did not disturb his stolid calm, but he invited them to come along to the next crossing, where they could find another car and more learned conductors; or, what promised better, perhaps a cab.

He threw Marjorie into a panic by ordering her to jetison Snoozeiums, but the lieutenant bought his soul for a small price, and overlooked the fact that he did not ring up their fares.

The young couple squeezed into a seat and talked anxiously in sharp whispers.

"Wouldn't it be terrible, Harry, if just as we got to the ministers' house, we should find papa there ahead of us, waiting to forbid the bands, or whatever it is? Wouldn't it be just terrible?"

"Yes, it would, honey, but it doesn't seem probable. There are thousands of ministers in Chicago he could never find ours. Fact is, I doubt if we will ever encounter it. Her clutch tightened till he would have winced, if he had not been a soldier.

"What do you mean, Harry?"

"Well, in the first place, honey, look what time it is. Hardly more than time to get the train, to say nothing of hunting for that preacher and standing up through a long rigmarole."

"Why, Harry Mallory, are you getting ready to jilt me?"

"Indeed I'm not—not for worlds, honey, but I've got to get that train, haven't I?"

"Couldn't you wait over one train—just one tiny little train?"

"My own, own honey love, you know it's impossible! You must remember that I've already waited over three trains while you tried to make up your mind."

"And you must remember, darling, that it's no easy matter for a girl to decide to sneak away from home and be married secretly, and go all the way out to that hideous Manila with no trousseau and no wedding presents and no anything."

"I know it isn't, and I waited patiently while you got up the courage. But now there are no more trains. I shudder to think of this train being late. We're not due in San Francisco till Thursday evening, and my transport sails at sunrise Friday morning. Oh, Lord, what if I should miss that transport! What if I should!"

"What if we should miss the minister?"

"It begins to look a great deal like it."

"But, Harry, you wouldn't desert me now—abandon me to my fate?"

"Well, it isn't exactly like abandonment, seeing that you could go home to your father and mother in a 'taxicab.'"

She stared at him in horror.

"So you don't want me for your wife! You've changed your mind! You're tired of me already! Only an hour together, and you're sick of your bargain! You're anxious to get rid of me! You—"

"Oh, honey, I want you more than anything else on earth, but I'm a soldier, dearie, a mere lieutenant in the regular army, and I'm the slave of the government. I've gone through West Point, and they won't let me resign respectably and if I did, we'd starve. They wouldn't accept my resignation, but they'd be willing to court-martial me and dismiss me from the service in disgrace. Then you wouldn't want to marry me—and I shouldn't have any way of supporting you if you did. I only know one trade, and that's soldiering."

"Don't call it a trade, beloved, it's the noblest profession in all the world, and you're the noblest soldier that ever was, and in a year or two you'll be the biggest general in the army."

He could not afford to shatter such a devout illusion or quench the light of faith in those beloved and loving eyes. He tacitly admitted his ability shallow notch in the upper edge of the cross-arms; this is sufficient, and being daubed with tar keeps out moisture. At best wood will rot and we have adopted the plan now of replacing the wooden post with one made of concrete. A rectangular box is made tapering from six inches at the base to four inches at the top and eight feet long, open along one side. This box is made with only two sides tapering, the others are straight. In the ends of the box we bore four holes, near the outer edge, for the admission of four strands of galvanized limbs. The bough catcher and the pipo braces raise and turn the limbs without breaking them. The operator can be on the saddle rail and the limbs will go over him. 4. It is strong. Built as shown in the cut, the tower will last for many years. The tower is best mounted on top of the tank, but it may be mounted over the engine if desired. Full details of construction are given by Prof. H. W. Riley in a circular which will be sent by the state college of agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y.

The special features of the improved Cornell spray tower are: 1. It folds down flat. The bough catcher is lowered and then by removing the loose hinge pin at the upper end of the main brace the whole tower may be let down backwards until it lies flat on the top of the spray rig. 2. It is easy to ride. The man using the tower, standing astride of the saddle rail, can grip this rail with his thighs and so hold his position with ease. It has no rail to interfere with a free movement of the pole. 3. It parts the

The special features of the improved Cornell spray tower are: 1. It folds down flat. The bough catcher is lowered and then by removing the loose hinge pin at the upper end of the main brace the whole tower may be let down backwards until it lies flat on the top of the spray rig. 2. It is easy to ride. The man using the tower, standing astride of the saddle rail, can grip this rail with his thighs and so hold his position with ease. It has no rail to interfere with a free movement of the pole. 3. It parts the limbs. The bough catcher and the pipo braces raise and turn the limbs without breaking them. The operator can be on the saddle rail and the limbs will go over him. 4. It is strong. Built as shown in the cut, the tower will last for many years. The tower is best mounted on top of the tank, but it may be mounted over the engine if desired. Full details of construction are given by Prof. H. W. Riley in a circular which will be sent by the state college of agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y.

Wind-Breaks for Farm Yards and Fields

By R. J. BALDWIN, Michigan Agricultural College

Shade is a Necessary Part of a Pasture Field.

Many farm places would be more attractive in appearance and more pleasant as homes if there were more trees to beautify in summer and protect in winter. The older settled sections of Michigan have long since learned the importance of tree planting and the homesteaders there are surrounded by the maples, hickories, elms and evergreens planted years ago. The lack of trees is painfully evident in the newer districts, especially in the regions covered by the great fires of 1871 and 1881.

A well grown, well placed wind-break possesses great ornamental and practical value and is one of the easiest and best methods of adding to the number of farm trees. The value of a wind-break about farm buildings is most evident, of course, in winter when it protects the stock and prevents drifts by causing the snow to fall evenly over the protected area. In fields the soil is kept more evenly covered, thus preventing winter killing of such crops as wheat, alfalfa and clover. In summer the soil in the protected area retains moisture better and the humidity of the air is greater in the shadow. The region in the lee of the wind-break is protected one rod in width for each foot of height of the trees. For example, a wind-break thirty feet high should protect a strip of land lying next to it, thirty rods wide. As a matter of fact this rule holds true for the wind-break on the College farm as may readily be seen on a windy day of either summer or winter. Not least in the list of benefits is the fact that an evergreen

PROFITS IN CORN GROWING

By Henry Homer Fletcher

For several years now boys' corn-growing associations have been in operation in various counties in the state. In every case the results obtained indicate that the boys are going at their work in a very practical manner, and that they are demonstrating that largely increased yields may be obtained, that profits may be increased and that the quality of the corn can be greatly improved.

In Ionia County the boys are doing unusually good work. Mr. Frederick Graff is the "chief engineer." The leading business men of Ionia are supporting the work and adding enthusiasm in a very generous way. The boys are working for large yields and for economy in production. The following report of a fourteen-year-old boy, who, by the way, is president of the Boys' Association, tells its own story:

How the Corn Was Grown.
May 1st disced the ground, as ground disced before it is plowed to the surface for the use of the plant roots and also leaves a mulch of fine dirt which fills up the air spaces left between the furrowed slices and the ground beneath. May 2nd plowed the ground about 9 inches deep, and from now on until the 16th I fitted the ground.

May 10th marked corn ground into hills 3 ft. and 10 inches apart and planted so it averaged 3 kernels in hill.
May 16th, corn was up.
May 19th, hoed corn.
May 22nd, cultivated; May 27th, cultivated; June 10th, cultivated; June 15th, cultivated; June 20th, cultivated; June 25th, cultivated; July 4th, corn Frederick Graff.

and if I were to sell at market price of 40c a bushel, I would have a net profit of $35.00 for corn besides having the corn stalks left.

Playing Chess

"What's in the box?" asked the girl in pink. The young man with the high forehead smiled at her. "I'm going to teach you chess," he announced. "I brought over the men."

"Why, how perfectly lovely!" cried the girl in pink, immediately pulling off the cover. "I know I'll be just crazy about it! Aren't they cunning?" "I'm glad you're pleased," said the young man in a gratified tone. "I was afraid you wouldn't want to learn or would be bored. Few women care about chess. It's really a great game!"

"The idea of not caring about it!" exclaimed the girl in pink, spreading out the board. "I know it's so different. Why, the other girls will simply die of envy when I tell them I can play chess! It sounds so intellectual!"

"Now, we'll set up the men," announced the young man with the high forehead.

"Oh, they're not all alike, are they?" she continued in surprise. "How funny! I should think that would mix you up dreadfully! Don't you think it would be lots easier to play if they were all alike? I heard of a man who could play six games of chess at once—let's try it!"

The young man coughed. Well, I have men for only one game," he said. "Maybe it would be better just at first not to try any more!"

"All right," agreed the girl in pink, cheerfully. "Only I think it would be loads of fun to have six games at the same time. Then we could walk around among them. I get awfully tired sitting still—do you? I guess it's because I have nerves. My mother's sister—"

"Now I'll move this one," said the young man. Then he explained the moves to her and finally said: "It's your turn."

"I think it is perfectly absurd not to let them all move alike!" she cried. "It just mixes you up! Is that really the way you have to play or are you just trying to fool me?"

"I'm not smart enough to make it up," said the young man. "Men more brilliant than I invented the moves hundreds and hundreds of years ago."

"Well," said the girl in pink indignantly, "if they've been playing it so long I should think they would have straightened it out and simplified it before now. You move 'em all alike when you play checkers and you know what you are doing! If this thing's a queen why isn't there a crown or something on it, and for these horses that turn corners—how perfectly ridiculous!"

"You'll understand it after you have played it a while," said the young man. "I'd move that one to start with if I were you."

"All right," said the girl in pink. "I'd rather shoot this one down the black squares, though. It's so funny to see it go crisscross instead of straight ahead—"

"But you can't," said the young man. "Your bishop can't move because that pawn is in the way!"

"I don't think a little pawn ought to count when it's a bishop that wants to get by," said the girl in pink, argumentatively.

"Now I'll move this," said the young man, firmly. "You see, it threatens your queen."

"I don't see why that is so awful," said the other. "Oh, you say the queen is the most valuable of all because it moves farther and in every direction? Oh, Arthur! I saw Marie downtown today and what do you suppose she told me? You'll be surprised! You'd never guess."

"You can't move that way," said the young man. "This isn't dominoes or checkers—the idea isn't to take all your opponent's men!"

"Well, what is the idea?" demanded the young woman. "In checkers you try to take 'em and—oh, to checkmate the king, you say? Well, I'd like to know how I can get anywhere near your king when you've got him on the back line with all those other things stacked up in front of him—you ought to move 'em out. What's that thing? A castle? How silly! It doesn't look any more like a castle than I do! If it's a castle, why doesn't it look like one?"

"I'm afraid," suggested the young man, "that chess doesn't appeal to you! Perhaps we'd better stop playing!"

"Why, I'm perfectly crazy about it!" insisted the girl in pink. "I think it is terribly interesting and I'm so glad I've learned how! And I don't see anything so awfully hard about it either! But it makes my head ache a little, so let's play authors for a change!"

FEARED AN OPERATION.

Found a Wonderful Cure Without It. James Greenman, 142 East Adams St., Ionia, Mich., says: "What I suffered with kidney trouble I can never express. It was nothing short of torture. In bed for three months with terrific pain in my back, an awful urinary weakness, dizziness, nervousness and depression, I rapidly lost 45 pounds. My doctor advised an operation but I would not submit."

Gravel was forming and the urine had almost stopped. I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and after using one box, I passed a stone half an inch long. I continued passing smaller stones until forty had been ejected. I recovered then and was soon as well as ever."

Being a Baseball Star.
A star's job is a hard one. The mental strain is even greater than the physical. For what he undergoes the fabulous salaries are not fabulous.

Before going into details let us define a star—the ball player's definition:

"A star is any player who, through individual excellence, achieves a reputation for brilliant work, thus attracting fans to the park to see him play."

He is a star only so long as his performances stand out. He is paid the salary of a star as long as his reputation brings fans to the stands and money to the box office. The day that sees the waning of his sensationalism also sees the waning of his salary.—Edward Lyell Fox in Outing.

Reprieve Off the Stage.
In the big Weber-Fields dressing room Joe Weber and George Beban sat tense over a game of checkers. "I'm working him up to his part," murmured Mr. Weber, in a kind voice. "He must go on the stage in a tantrum in a few minutes. Every night I beat him a game of checkers in here before his entrance. It has just the right effect on him." "Every night you don't beat me!" cried his opponent. "I owe you $1.00 in 12 weeks. Is that much?" "Not so much, but I'd be glad to get it," suggested the sweet-voiced Weber.

Powerful Plea.
A man in North Carolina, who was saved from conviction for horse stealing by the powerful plea of his lawyer, after his acquittal by the jury, was asked by the lawyer:

"Honor bright, now, Bill, you did steal that horse, didn't you?" "Now, look a-here, Judge," was the reply. "I allers did think I stole that boss, but since I hear your speech to that 'ere jury, I'll be doggoned if I ain't got my doubts about it."—National Monthly.

In an Epigram.
Mrs. J. G. Phelps Stokes (Rose Pastor) stated epigrammatically at a dinner in New York the value of an education.

"Many poor people, she said, 'are spending their second childhood in the almshouse because they spent their first in earning instead of learning.'"

Consoling Thought.
"Do you believe, doctor," asked Mrs. Wumpus, "that men become what they eat?"

"Yes, madam, I do," said the bishop. "What a comfort that must have been to those early missionaries when they were eaten by the cannibals!" sighed Mrs. Wumpus.—Harper's Weekly.

Dolls Always Known.
History fails to tell us the inventor of the doll, which has been such a boon to mankind, not only in quieting the rowdy youngster, but in stimulating a healthy imagination and affection. Five hundred years before Christ little girls had dolls; there is sure evidence of it, and Edward Lovett, an enthusiastic collector, has a doll from those dim ages. It is little more than a battered stick now, but is unmistakably a doll. No one could name a fair value for such a prize, which stands out as a proof that the child of today is singularly like her little sister some twenty-five hundred years ago.—Dundee Advertiser.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless; Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food; Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Wm. J. McCann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

and when last seen headed toward are supposed to have been bitten, some of which were killed at once by their owners while a number of own-men around town have been busy the past two days manufacturing excuses not shoot the dog.—Dispatch.

COMES QUICKLY.

Don't Have to Wait For Weeks. A
Chelsea Illustration.Waiting is discouraging.
Prompt action pleases everybody.
A burden on the back is a heavy weight.Hard to bear day after day.
Lifting weight, removing the burden.Brings appreciating responses.
Chelsea people tell of it.Tell of relief that's quick and sure.
Here is a case of it:F. A. Hammond, Madison street,
Chelsea, Mich., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills with the best of results. My back was very lame and every cold I caught made my trouble worse. When Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention I commenced their use and they quickly gave relief from the pains and regulated the passages of the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills certainly deserve my endorsement in return for their good work."For sale by all dealers. Price 50 tom of my heart" wrote C. B. Rader, of Lewisburg, W. Va., "for the wonderful double benefit I got from Electric Bitters, in curing me of both a severe case of stomach trouble and of rheumatism, from which I had been an almost helpless sufferer for ten years. It suited my case as though made for me." For dyspepsia

Everyone Must Agree that vitrified clay silos are practically weather-proof, storm-proof, fire-proof, acid-proof, moisture-proof, require no tar coating, and are warranted not to crack as a result of silage pressure. These are some of the reasons why THE IM-PERISHABLE SILOS are in demand.

They are ideal and perfect, preserve the silage perfectly right up to the walls.
When erected they are there to stay.
They save the buyer money every year.
